City turns down Progressive Place plat

By GEORGIA TYLER
 Staff Writer
 Approval of a plat for a subdivision within a mile of the Hereford city limits was denied by the city commission Monday night, by a unanimous vote.
 The commission heard from the developer, Charlie Bell, as well as several residents who opposed the subdivision.
 Commissioners also accepted the low bid from a Hereford contractor for an office building at the waste water treatment plant, approved a proposal to apply for a grant for airport improvements and appointed Wayne Winget to the Hereford Beautification Alliance.
 In turning down the plat for Progressive Place, the commission upheld the city ordinance that sets requirements for subdivision development.
 State law allows cities to regulate development within a specified distance of boundaries. For a city with the population of Hereford, the extraterritorial authority extends one mile.

 Among requirements for subdivision development are provision of streets, curb and gutter, water service and waste disposal. Consensus of the commissioners was that these requirements had not been met by the developer.
 Bell, in speaking to the commission and approximately 30 spectators in attendance, complained that "it seems impossible to talk about Progressive Place without talking about Coronado Acres."
 He said, "I thought I'd do this quietly and you wouldn't know, but it didn't happen."
 Referring to the area south of Hereford that has drawn criticism, Bell said, "The people at Coronado Acres are not bad people... the people at Progressive will not be bad people. I'm tired of slurs against Coronado Acres because they aren't bad people."

He claimed that deed restrictions in the Progressive Place development would keep out eyesores.
 Mayor Tom LeGate observed that "we have nothing against the people," and drew a retort from Bell, "It sounds like you do."
 After LeGate opened the meeting to comments from spectators, Herb Vogel and Bell had a brief exchange about the development proposal. LeGate asked them to withhold their remarks between each other.
 Vogel, who lives in northeast Hereford, brought a number of photographs taken in the Coronado Acres area.
 Pointing to the display on poster board taped to the commission room walls, Vogel asked, "Do we need another north of town, with places abandoned, pig operations and junkyards?"
 Another speaker, Margaret Del Toro, Deaf Smith County tax assessor-collector, defended the right of individuals and families to own property.

 She acknowledged that the city has the right, and duty, to protect "the health and safety" of citizens.
 A resident in northeast Hereford, J.L. "Jigger" Rowland, said, "I had not planned to speak but I think we need to find a common ground... people have a right to their homes. Herb Vogel has a right to protect his home from shacks. All we ask is some protection."
 An Avenue K resident, Ron Hathaway said he is opposed to the development, noting that Bell "can't enforce the deed restrictions."
 A preliminary approval of the 80-acre plat was given in March. At the time, a letter from City Manager Chester Nolen advised the developer that certain requirements should be met for final approval.
 In denying the approval Monday night, the commission maintained the authority to require some basic improvements.

"Water availability must be proven for at least 20 years, septic or sewer facilities must be provided before a lot is sold," said the mayor. "Streets, curbs and gutters also are required."
 Commissioner Roger Eades said he fears a situation would arise similar to the Campbell Street development where there are water and sanitation problems. That development is located outside the city limits of West Hereford.
 A motion was made by Commissioner James McDowell, seconded by Eades, to deny approval of the plat. The vote was unanimous.
 A plat for the development with necessary improvements may be brought to the city commission for reconsideration. By law, the developer has a year from the date the preliminary approval was given, March 30.
 A low bid of $5,520 from LTD Portable Storage Buildings of Hereford was accepted by the commission for a 12 by 20 office building at the waste water treatment plant.

Other bidders were Amarillo Portable Shelters, $5,592; Morgan Buildings and Spas of Amarillo, $5,783, and Cen-Tex Portable Buildings of Amarillo, $6,086.
 Nolen reported that no bids were received for sale of a fire truck no longer needed. He was asked to check further to dispose of the equipment.
 Although unbudgeted for the current fiscal year, an expenditure of $6,700 was approved for improvements at the city-owned airport. Nolen reported that the amount is the city's share of the $67,000 cost of replacing runway lighting. A grant from the Texas Department of Transportation will pay 90 percent of the expense.
 Nolen said a lightning strike two years ago seriously damaged the lighting system. The problem became obvious when the system was exposed during work on the runway.
 Commissioners agreed that there should be no delay in replacing the system. The funds may be available in the airport maintenance budget, Nolen said.

UWDSC calls on agencies for help

Representatives from most agencies who receive funds from United Way of Deaf Smith County are on hand Monday for their quarterly allocation checks.
 The checks, for the third quarter of 1992, are paid on or near the first day of the second month of each quarter.
 Agency representatives were called on to be ready to help out during the 1992 campaign, which will begin Sept. 9 with a noon kickoff luncheon at the Hereford Community Center.
 "We are going to need volunteers from all of our member agencies if we are going to be successful," said Ron Rives, campaign chairman.
 Rives, UWDSC President John Sherrod and UWDSC Executive Director Donna Brooks have been busy over the last week finding chairpersons for the new divisions of the local campaign. The campaign has been restructured from years past.
 "We have new directions and new needs," explains Sherrod. Part of the revamping is also being done as the UWDSC disassociates itself from the stigma United Way may have had locally and with the national scandal which still plagues United Way of America.

 The local board has still not made a decision on whether to pay dues to United Way of America for 1992. The local effort had been a member of United Way of America for three years. It had paid $1,200 to United Way of America, one percent of the money raised and pledged last year.
 Sherrod, Rives and Brooks hope to have chairpersons in place before August 15. They, along with other board members, will also be working on new campaign material to help explain the agencies and how United Way funds are used in the community.
 Member agencies include Family Services, Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence Center, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire, Senior Citizens (Meals On Wheels), Red Cross, Salvation Army, High Plains Epilepsy, Childrens Rehabilitation Center, Hereford YMCA, Big Brothers/Big Sisters and United Way. Almost all of the funds raised and pledged in Deaf Smith County stay in the county.

Family gets $400,000 in settlement

A $400,000 judgment has been awarded eight persons as a result of an automobile accident south of Hereford last October.
 The judgment was entered in 222nd District Court Friday. An out-of-court settlement was reached in the lawsuit.
 Plaintiffs were a Hereford couple, Carlos and Anna Maria Chavez; their children, Gregory, Noelia and Erica Chavez, all minors; the husband's parents, Francisco and Eljija Chavez of Chihuahua, Mexico, and his brother, Robert Chavez of Brazoria County.
 Defendants in the lawsuit were Roger and Judy Williams and Samuel Robert Sheffield.
 In the accident on Oct. 4, 1991, a 1985 Lincoln, driven by Carlos Chavez, collided with a 1984 Jeep Wagoneer, driven by Samuel Sheffield, then 15, who was alone in the vehicle. The Wagoneer belonged to Roger and Judy Williams.
 The Chavez vehicle was traveling south on U.S. 385 when Sheffield allegedly pulled in front of the Lincoln, striking the right front.
 Persons injured in the accident were treated at Deaf Smith General Hospital and Sheffield and three of the Chavez family were transferred to High Plains Baptist Hospital for further treatment.
 Anna Maria Chavez required extensive treatment in the Amarillo hospital. The judgment specifies an award of $144,000 for her.
 Francisco Chavez and Eljija Chavez receive $69,802.39 each; Robert Chavez, $29,291.86; Carlos Chavez, $21,103.36, and the three minor children of Carlos and Anna Maria Chavez, Gregory, Noelia and Erica Chavez, $22,000 each.

Board denies fund investment opportunity

By JOHN BROOKS
 Managing Editor
 School officials did not receive the right to invest funds in a state financial group when the Hereford school board tied, 2-2, on a decision Monday night.
 The board considered a resolution that would allow administrators to invest funds in the TexPool program. The program, started two years ago, allows governments to pool their funds for investment in government-backed securities.
 Board member Steve Wright, an officer at First National Bank, said

TexPool was not a bad idea, but the district had investment opportunities through FNB. First National is the official depository of school funds.
 Wright explained that banks must have offsetting deposits or bonds for the school accounts. Sometimes, he said, the school district has over $4 million in the bank; the usual average is over $3 million.
 School funds have been placed in NOW accounts lately because school administrators and bank officials were unaware that the district could have placed those funds in certificates of deposit at the posted CD rate. In the past, school district CDs have earned the treasury bill rate.

 "Before this year, the school district was going with the T-bill rate and hitting home runs," Wright said.
 The T-bill rate, however, has dropped to only a few points above the three per cent paid to NOW accounts.
 A clause in the district's agreement with FNB, discovered Monday by Wright, allows the school district to use the T-bill rate or the going rate for CDs. Instead of the 3.11 percent to 3.22 percent at the T-bill rate, the district could have been earning 3.6 percent on CDs.

 Rough estimates by school board members showed the district had lost around $40,000 this year. School officials were not aware of the clause in the agreement.
 If the board had approved a resolution to join the TexPool consortium, the district could have earned 4.04 percent on Monday.
 "The only thing you get from TexPool is income," Wright said. "...We provide services we don't charge for, provide bags and keys and coin wrappers and we provide bonds the school district needs at no charge."

 "I question this because, yeah, you get more cash for the bottom line, but you forego other things we provide."
 Later, Wright said the bank will "service the people of Hereford."
 "We'll continue this whether you put your money here or with TexPool."
 Board member Ron Weishaar said the board should pass the TexPool authorizing resolution "to give administrators a channel to make a decision that would generate the most cash. ...There may be times when

Bush distances self from staff over statement

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Bush reined in a top campaign aide who recycled rumors about Bill Clinton's private life, then came out storming against the Democrats and their "tearing down the United States."
 The uproar over Mary Matalin's bare-knuckled rhetoric overshadowed a boisterous Bush riverfront rally Tuesday in Jacksonville, Fla., that the president said was "good for the soul" after his last tumultuous campaign week.
 Bush was in Washington today, but heads back out on the campaign trail Wednesday on a two-day swing to New York, Reno, Nev., and Colorado Springs, Colo.

School considers air conditioning, roofing

Hereford High School students may be shuffled around a little this fall if an air conditioning system is installed at HHS.
 Hereford school board members authorized architects from Green Harvey Associates in Lubbock to pursue plans to install new air conditioning/heating systems in the older sections of the high school.
 Board members and Larry Harvey discussed air conditioning and re-roofing sections of HHS and the Stanton Special Programs Center at Monday's board meeting. Harvey was also authorized to pursue plans for re-roofing.

 The board will pay for the air conditioning/heating work from funds budgeted during the current school year. School officials have set aside $300,000 a year the last two years for work projects, and plan to put another $300,000 for the roof projects, in a budget for the fiscal year which begins Sept. 1.

 The older section of the high school, built in the 1950s, is not air conditioned. Harvey said during one visit to the high school last week, classrooms were at 92 degrees at 10 a.m.
 In addition to installing air conditioning units, new, lower, ceilings and lights will be installed. The work could begin in less than 60 days, forcing the school to juggle classes to the auditorium, cafeteria and Stanton.

 Harvey showed pictures and slides of roofs at Stanton and HHS that showed deteriorating patches in some sections and dangerous conditions on other roofs. Harvey said one portion of the roof deck at Stanton has rotted away; he said it is unsafe to walk on that part of the roof. In other sections, planks are evident through the thin, separating, deteriorating felt.

At Stanton, the school board would like to cover most of the old roof with a metal roof; at the high school, officials may go with either a metal roof or a mineral cap material. Some sections of the roof already have the mineral surface instead of the traditional felt-and-asphalt covering.
 "The cost of the metal roof is higher at first, but the savings are astronomical," said board member Steve Wright.

Senate endorsement gives new life Super collider recovers from action by House

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate's strong endorsement of the superconducting super collider is giving new momentum to the controversial project that just six weeks ago was imperiled following a surprising House vote to kill it.

On a 62-32 vote Monday night, the Senate declined to emulate the House and halt the $8.25 billion giant atom smasher. Had the Senate followed course, it almost certainly would have sounded the death knell for the super collider, which would be the world's largest scientific instrument.

Backers say the Senate vote gives them the upper hand going into conference, when House and Senate negotiators meet to reconcile differences in their respective bills. The conference committee could come as early as this week.

The Senate, as part of a $22 billion energy and water projects appropriations bill approved Monday, has earmarked $550 million for the super collider. The House has included no money.

Monday's vote "positions us to keep $550 million and maybe even go up a little bit, although that would be unlikely," said Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, whose district includes the collider.

Energy Secretary James Watkins said that he and President Bush, "will fight for the Senate position on funding for the super collider."

But Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, reined in his optimism.

"It's been a hard-fought battle over the past several weeks and we can't yet declare a final victory, not with a House-Senate conference standing in our way," he said.

But, he added, "I'm more confident than ever before that we will prevail this time around."

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, pronounced himself "delighted" with the outcome. "It was a very strong win," he said. "Our first objective was to win. Our second objective was to try to pile up a strong margin to help us when we go to conference."

The fight is far from over for Sen. Dale Bumpers. The Arkansas

Democrat, who introduced the amendment to kill the collider, expressed disappointment with the vote but said if he's re-elected in November he will try again.

"If not this year, next year. If not next year, the following year," he said, predicting that Congress eventually will kill the collider.

Following defeat of his amendment, Bumpers also was shut out in his bid to cap overall federal collider spending and mandate timeliness on foreign contributions.

In the last several days, Bumpers had told reporters he would gain more support to kill the particle accelerator than he had a year ago on a similar amendment. That measure failed 62-37. Supporters also had predicted some erosion in support, but credited their showing Monday to intensive lobbying by key senators, the White House, and the scientific and industrial communities.

Bentsen worked the phones lobbying his colleagues until moments before the evening vote, and Gramm noted that he and Bentsen together spoke with each senator at least once.

Gov. Ann Richards said the vote was gratifying.

"The superconducting super collider project ensures that the United States will be preeminent in science into the next century," said Richards, who also lobbied many senators.

Other new positions announced Monday were:

--Terri Souther, from assistant director at Hereford Junior High to director of special education.

--Appointed Weishaar to the Hereford Beautification Alliance.

Ten reasons not to smoke

Over a quarter of all American women smoke. They begin smoking for a variety of reasons—to be like their peers, to imitate a certain role model, or to create a particular image. Once a person starts smoking, she often becomes hooked, putting her at risk for a number of serious health and hygiene problems. Here are ten important reasons not to smoke:

1) Lung cancer is 24 times more likely to develop in people who smoke. Lung cancer is the number one cancer killer for women. Other cancers, including those affecting the mouth, esophagus, pancreas, and bladder are so linked to smoking.

2) The risk of heart disease is increased for smokers. Smoking causes about 170,000 premature heart attacks in this country every year.

3) People who smoke often experience shortness of breath. This problem may be the symptom of a chronic, life threatening lung disease.

4) Cigarette smoke poses risks to the unborn baby. Miscarriage, stillbirth, premature birth, and low birth weight are all linked to maternal smoking.

5) Smoking promotes osteoporosis (bone loss) among postmenopausal women and significantly increases the risk of heart disease among oral contraceptive users over age 35.

6) Smokes constantly have bad breath and smoke stains on their hands and teeth. The odor of stale cigarette smoke clings to clothes, cars, and homes.

7) Despite the glamorous images of smokers depicted in advertisements, smoking is not viewed by most Americans as a glamorous habit. Many people will not date, live with, or sit near a person who smokes.

8) If you smoke, you may encourage your children and others who look to you as a role model to smoke.

9) Cigarette smoking is a costly habit. A one pack a day smoker spends over $800 a year on cigarettes. 10) Smoking is now prohibited in many places. You may find yourself spending your breaks and lunch hour in a stuffy lounge or out on the loading dock.

Although quitting may well be one of the toughest things you've ever done, in the end, the benefits will be enormous. You not only will look, smell, and feel better, but your risk of disease gradually will return to that of a nonsmoker. If you don't smoke now, don't start!

LONDON (AP) - Mick Jagger and his second wife, Jerry Hall, have separated because of the rock star's infatuation with Italian model Carla Bruni, a newspaper reported today.

Ms. Hall, 34, an American model, was quoted in the Daily Mail tabloid as saying: "I'm in too much pain for this to go on any longer. I'm hoping for a quieter life."

The paper said Ms. Hall blamed their estrangement on the 49-year-old Jagger's "infatuation" with Ms. Bruni, 25 years his junior.

Jagger and Ms. Hall have been together for 15 years and have three children, ages 8, 6, and 7 months. They married in 1990.

Jagger and his first wife, Bianca, were married from 1971 to 1979. They have a daughter. He and singer-actress Marsha Hunt also have a daughter.

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) - Oprah Winfrey sent a note to a women's shelter in this Lake Michigan city - accompanied by a $30,000 donation.

Every Woman's Place received a $30,000 check from Winfrey on Tuesday, said its director, Mary McDonald.

An accompanying note said: "I hope this money helps. Have a nice day," McDonald said.

Military Muster

Seaman Michael S. Drumm, son of Marcy A. Varner of 512 Ave. J, assigned aboard the amphibious command ship USS Blue Ridge, forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, the flag ship for Commander, Seventh Fleet, recently participate in the 50th Anniversary Commemoration ceremonies of the Battle of the Coral Sea.

Drumm visited Sydney and Townsville, Australia, and Noumea, New Caledonia, as part of the celebration. Blue Ridge sailors and Marines participated in numerous events, including a 2,500-man parade through downtown Sydney, as well as remembrance services and memorial dedications. They also watched fly-bys of historic allied aircraft.

The Battle of Coral Sea occurred May 4-9, 1942. Two U.S. aircraft carriers, supported by U.S. and Australian task forces and U.S. Army Air Corps aircraft, repelled a larger Imperial Japanese invasion force attacking Port Moresby, New Guinea. This strategic victory ended the Japanese thrust southward toward Australia and was the first allied victory in the Pacific War, though not without great loss of life on both sides. Commemoration events recalled the memories of all who lost their lives in this historic battle.

The 1990 graduate of Randall High School, Amarillo, joined the Navy in August 1990.

1991 is the 30th anniversary of the first manned orbital space flight: Yuri Gagarin in April, 1961.

Sabres slash through state tournament field

Merrick Pet Food Sabres went undefeated (8-0) through the field to win the 1992 USSSA Texas State Class D tournament in Amarillo last weekend.

The Sabres topped a 110-team field from all over the state. They defeated Garland Night Hawks, 8-4; Fort Worth Merchants, 7-3; Mesquite ASI, 18-14; Dallas A, 13-10; Fort Worth Insurance, 22-6; Waxahachie Circus, 9-8; and swept the Fort Worth Metroplex Softball Club, 12-10, 10-4, in the championship games.

"The Metroplex teams are a step above the teams from around the Panhandle, so it's really nice to be a part of winning this state championship," said Sabres pitcher Dan Odell.

The Sabres are the first team from the Panhandle to win the state Class D title.

"Winning the championship is that much sweeter because we defeated seven Metroplex teams and the big city teams don't believe that the Panhandle teams can play," said shortstop Jackie Mercer, the tournament MVP. "We know we can compete with teams from anywhere."

Also named to the all-tournament team were Odell, second baseman Robert Caballero and outfielder Randy Grant.

Other team members are Richard Moya, Erasmo Gonzales, Kent Killion, Jimmy Ramirez, Roy Martinez, Edward Villarreal, Brian Taylor, James Hernandez, Ernest Villarreal, Mike Maynard, J.D. High, Ray Coronado and Juan Fuentes.

The Sabres will represent Hereford in the Southwestern Division tournament in Fort Worth on Labor Day weekend. The tournament features the top teams from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana.

Skah wins controversial 10,000

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) - Where U.S. boxer Eric Griffin couldn't prevail, Moroccan distance runner Khalid Skah did.

Skah, the winner in the men's 10,000 meters, was stripped of his medal Monday night when a teammate allegedly bumped his main competition, Richard Chelimo of Kenya. Chelimo was instead given the gold.

A protest was filed, and Skah won for a second time. The International Amateur Athletic Federation returned the gold to Skah today after repeatedly viewing videotape and concluding they couldn't prove the accusation. Chelimo will get the silver.

The United States is 0-for-2 in its protests. After Griffin lost a controversial decision, an appeal failed to reverse it; after the volleyball team was stripped of a win against Japan, an unsuccessful appeal was filed.

with an aggravated hamstring," said his agent, Brad Huft.

Back at the Games, the Cubans returned to the Olympics after 12 years as a political casualty - and the Americans are wishing their Caribbean neighbors had waited four years for the Atlanta Games.

The imposing Cubans are threatening U.S. supremacy in the boxing ring and on the baseball diamond, with heavyweight Felix Savon whipping Chicago's Danell Nicholson in a spectacular fight and the Cuban baseball team eagerly awaiting the United States today.

How tough are Cuban fighters? Eleven of 12 boxers are still in the run for medals. Only six Americans are left.

How rough is the Cuban baseball team? Let U.S. coach Ron Fraser handle that one. A victory over the 7-0 Cubans, he said, "would be the biggest upset of the 1992 Olympics."

This Cuban team has outscored its opponents 78-14, hit 12 home runs, and has two players batting over .500 (yes, that was .500).

But stranger things have already happened.

Mike Conley, who didn't even qualify for the Seoul Olympics, unleashed a triple jump that ... took ... this ... long ... to ... end, the second-longest leap of all time.

"I won a gold medal and jumped over 18 meters (59 feet, 3-4 inches). Asking for anything more than that is just being greedy," Conley, of Fayetteville, Ark., said after his wind-aided leap of 59 feet, 7 1/2 inches. Earlier, he set an Olympic record of 57-10 1/4.

The record jump had the 29-year-old partying in the sand pit, thrusting his arms skyward and shouting, "Boom! Boom! Boom!" That's something he wasn't able to do four years ago when, after a silver in 1984, he failed to make the team.

Conley's spectacular skyride capped an impressive day for the United States. Two boxers and two tennis stars are assured of medals. Two hurdlers collected silver and gold. The women's basketball team rolled to a record-setting win over Spain. And the men's volleyball team, its confidence growing back like its hair, knocked off world champion Italy.

All the excitement did little to change the medals chart. The Unified Team remained on top with 78 medals (32 gold, 27 silver, 19 bronze). The United States followed with 66 medals (20, 24 and 22), while Germany was third with 48 (16, 11 and 21).

In the women's 10-kilometer walk, the Unified Team's Alina Ivanova had too much shimmy in her step and was DQed for "walking violations." The medal went to Chen Yueling of China.

The distaff Dream Team did it again, this time against Spain: It set a team record for most points scored, smashing the home team 114-59. And Medina Dixon's 28 points were the most ever for a U.S. woman in the Olympics.

As usual, the women attracted a star-studded crowd: Magic Johnson and son Ervin III, Dream teammates John Stockton, David Robinson, Christian Laettner, Chris Mullin and Michael Jordan, moviemaker Spike Lee, and ex-NBA star Julius Erving.

The undefeated women play the Unified Team in Wednesday's semifinals. Their most likely gold medal opponent? Cuba, 3-0, which faces China in the other semifinal game.

The women's tennis semifinal is set as well, and it has a distinctly American look. No. 3-seeded Jennifer

Kelso, Scott win Campfire Scramble

N.D. Kelso and Sinky Scott carded a 74 to capture the championship of the Hereford Council Camp Fire Golf Tournament Saturday.

The scramble tournament, played at Pitman Municipal Golf Course Saturday morning, drew only five 2-man teams. The tourney was sponsored by the council to benefit Camp Fire boys and girls.

Hereford EMS will hold its second annual golf tournament Aug. 8-9, with proceeds to benefit the Hereford Emergency Medical Services. There will actually be two tournaments this year. A four-person scramble is scheduled Saturday, with entrants being assigned to a team on the basis of handicaps.

Couples will play alternate shots in a Sunday tourney, and no more than one "A" player will be allowed per team. Entry fee is $30 a person for both tournaments.

The Barcelona Games also had their first drug casualty today - one day after it was announced everyone had tested clean though one week of competition.

Wu Dan of China, a striker on the women's volleyball team, tested positive for the stimulant strychnine, said Michele Verdier, International Olympic Committee spokeswoman.

The other big news was off-field as well - world record holder Mike Powell of the United States woke up with a sore right hamstring and is undergoing therapy to compete in Wednesday's long jump.

"He's here to compete. He's thinking about winning a gold medal. He has competed three times this year

Hart leads South to all-star win

DALLAS (AP) - Princeton coach Pete Carrill may not like Ben Hart. He's a good player - but he scores too quick!

Princeton-bound Hart scored eight points in the final two minutes of Monday's McDonald's All-Star game, helping the South preserve a 9-101 victory over the North squad.

"They were pressing us and that enabled me to get free for the layups. Then I was lucky to get the rebounds and get fouled," said Hart, a San Antonio Alamo Heights grad.

He may not score in such flourishes this fall for Carrill, whose squads are known for their 50-point games.

The game was close for the first time in the final minutes, when the North's Koy Smith sank consecutive free throws with 1:33 remaining. That cut the South lead to 101-99 and capped a 15-4 run.

Then Hart took over, sinking four free throws, a jumper and a layup over the final 2:11 to thwart the comeback.

"It's a good feeling to be up by two late and win by eight," he said.

Chris Doyal of San Antonio McArthur, who will be joining Hart at Princeton, hauled in a game-high 15 rebounds.

The South's most valuable player was Joseph Blair of C.E. King, an Arizona recruit, who scored 17 points.

Dayo Holloway scored a game-high 26 points for the North. The Fort Worth Dunbar grad, a Western Wyoming signee, was his squad's most valuable player.

The game featured graduated Texas high school seniors in their final prep matchup at Moody Coliseum as part of the Texas High School Coaches Association's annual coaching school.

Holloway kept the game close in the third quarter, scoring the North's first seven points. But the South came out of the period with a 75-68 lead behind a spread out offense in which only no one scored more than five points.

The South had an explosive first quarter, helping the squad build a 19-point lead. But the North countered in the second period, to pull within 50-42 at halftime.

Midway through the first quarter, the South took off. It broke a tie at 14 with a 16-0 run. The first quarter ended with the North facing a 32-16 deficit.

Hart opened the second quarter with three free throws, giving the South its biggest lead of the game, 35-16.

Then Holloway and the North began to catch fire, outscoring the South 26-15 the rest of the quarter.

Morenz to QB North in all-star game

DALLAS (AP) - Star schoolboy quarterback Shea Morenz has had to stare down oncoming pressure while making tough decisions for the last seven months.

Tonight, he'll finally do it on the football field.

Since his awe-inspiring football season last fall, the San Angelo

Central graduate has chosen a college to attend and been drafted by a major league baseball team, forcing him to decide between a professional and an amateur career.

But he's chosen to keep his commitment to play both sports at the University of Texas. Morenz moves to Austin on Friday and begins classes Aug. 26.

Morenz takes his first snap since leading San Angelo to last season's state semifinals tonight in the McDonald's All-Star game at Texas Stadium. The North vs. South battle features many of last season's top seniors from across the state.

Guzman falters in duel with Clemens; Sox win

By The Associated Press

Is Cito Gaston upset with Juan Guzman?

Neither the Toronto manager nor his pitcher was saying much about their mound chats after Monday night's 7-1 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

Last year, Gaston and pitcher David Wells had a confrontation on the mound. This one wasn't as big a blowup, but it still was in front of all to see.

The manager first came to the mound in the third inning, just after Billy Hatcher stole home when Guzman froze on a pitch. Gaston and Guzman had another on-field discussion in the fifth, when Gaston removed the pitcher from the game.

Guzman, who missed his previous turn in the rotation with a tender shoulder, refused to talk about what he and Gaston said on the field. Gaston, asked if there was any confrontation on the mound about Guzman's pitch selection or shoulder, leaned back in his chair and said, "No."

While that was going on, Roger Clemens pitched a six-hitter for his American League-leading eighth complete game.

"His record speaks for itself," Toronto first baseman Pat Tabler said. "When he's on, he's almost impossible to hit. You have to try to catch him on an off night."

Guzman (12-3) was less impressive, especially in the third inning when he delayed on a pitch and allowed Hatcher to steal home. Guzman, who has one win since July 6, said he was hurting a bit.

"I started feeling the pain after the third inning or when I was in a tight situation," he said.

Hatcher had reached on a double, driving in Boston's first run, and then advanced to third as Phil Plantier grounded out. He broke for the plate on Guzman's 1-1 pitch to Tom Brunansky, sliding past Pat Borders.

Hatcher said he noticed Guzman's motion was slow when he reached third in the first inning. The next time, he and third-base coach Rick Burleson decided to go if the chance came.

"Rooster said, 'He's not looking at you.' He asked if I wanted to try and I said, 'Yes,'" Hatcher said. "As soon as he got his hands up, I took off."

In other games, Oakland beat Texas 4-1, Baltimore beat Detroit 6-3 and Cleveland beat New York 8-6 in 12 innings.

Clemens (12-7) fanned five at Fenway Park to regain the AL lead in strikeouts with 143, moving one past New York's Melido Perez. Clemens, who walked one, increased his record against Toronto to 14-5.

Jose Guzman (8-9) gave up three runs and seven hits in seven innings, struck out seven and walked one.

Indians 8, Yankees 6

Kenny Lofton followed his home run and a triple with a go-ahead RBI double in the 12th.

After Steve Olin (6-3) escaped a bases-loaded jam in the 11th by getting Bernie Williams to ground into a double play, John Habyan (3-6) walked Mark Lewis opening the 12th at Yankee Stadium.

Sandy Alomar sacrificed, Lofton doubled over Williams' head in right field and Thomas Howard singled him home.

Cleveland got a scare at the end when Kevin Maas fled to the warning track with two on and two outs in the 12th.

Orioles 6, Tigers 3

Bill Ripken drove in three runs. Glenn Davis homered and rookie Arthur Rhodes (4-0) allowed three runs on eight hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Buddy Groom (0-5) gave up five runs and six hits in 4 2-3 innings for the visiting Tigers.

Storm Davis pitched 2 1-3 innings of hitless relief for his fourth save.

McGriff gains revenge on Wilson with 2 HR's

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Fred McGriff got even with Trevor Wilson by striking out pitches, not at the pitcher.

McGriff connected against Wilson for a three-run homer in the first inning and a two-run shot in the third Monday night, sending the San Diego Padres over the San Francisco Giants 6-5.

The last time they faced each other was June 18 at Candlestick Park, when McGriff was hit by a pitch after Wilson gave up a grand slam to Gary Sheffield. McGriff charged the mound and he and Wilson were both ejected, suspended for four games and fined $1,000. McGriff missed three additional games with a rib cage injury sustained when he swung at Wilson and missed.

"That's about the best way he could answer all the things that happened up there," San Diego's Tony Gwynn said.

McGriff, leading the NL with 23 home runs, enjoyed the 16th multi-homer game of his career. He said hitting the ball over the fence at Jack Murphy Stadium was not his objective.

"I've been struggling at the plate. I needed some hits, bad. That was about it," McGriff said.

Shortly after the June 18 brawl, Wilson said he wanted to speak with McGriff.

"I don't want to talk to him anymore. He's proved his point," Wilson said.

"I didn't want to hit him again. That's all I thought about that. I was trying to get ahead in the count. Only threw him two strikes and both out of the ballpark," he said.

Trailing 5-0, the Giants rallied and eventually tied it in the fifth on Chris James' RBI single.

In the eighth, the Padres loaded the bases against Mike Jackson (5-4) and Benito Santiago drove in the go-ahead run with a groundout.

Tim Scott (3-1) pitched one inning for the victory. Randy Myers worked the ninth for his 21st save, getting help when left fielder Jerald Clark reached above the fence to grab Will Clark's fly ball for the first out in the ninth inning.

Reds 4, Astros 0

At Riverfront Stadium, Chris Hammond (6-6) shut out Houston on five hits for 6 1-3 innings.

Scott Ruskin and Rob Dibble closed with hitless relief for Cincinnati.

Hal Morris hit a solo home run and an RBI single. Hammond had a sacrifice fly and, after an 84-minute rain delay in the seventh inning, Bill Doran singled home a run.

Expos 3, Cubs 2

At Olympic Stadium, Tim Wallach kept his spot in the starting lineup for a little longer, going 3 for 3 with his 200th career home run.

Wallach, who began the day batting .228 with only four home runs, was told by manager Felipe Alou that he might be benched if his slump continued. Wallach responded with a two-run homer in the fourth inning.

Dennis Martinez (11-10) gave up one run on five hits in seven innings. John Wetteland retired Ryne Sandberg on a grounder with runners on first and second for his 24th save. Frank Castillo (6-8) was the loser.

Cardinals 2, Phillies 1

At Busch Stadium, Bob Tewksbury lowered his major league-leading ERA to 1.92 with eight effective innings.

Tewksbury (11-4) tied his career high for victories. He gave up four hits, struck out three and walked none. The only run he allowed came in the seventh on Darren Daulton's 19th home run.

Lee Smith worked the ninth for his 25th save. Philadelphia rookie Kyle Abbott (1-12) was the loser.

Ray Lankford had run-scoring singles in the first and fifth innings.

Lions' Moore draws comparison to Rice

By The Associated Press

Herman Moore is no Jerry Rice, at least not yet.

Right now, though, the Detroit Lions are perfectly happy with the second-year wideout from Virginia - because he's in camp and the San Francisco 49ers star isn't.

Moore, the Lions' first-round pick in 1991, struggled for most of the regular season. He caught just 11 passes but blossomed in the playoffs.

He caught six passes for 87 yards and a touchdown in Detroit's 38-6 win over the Dallas Cowboys, then added four catches for 69 yards in the Lions' 41-10 loss to Washington in the NFC Championship game.

"I really learned a lot last season," said Moore, an All-America choice at Virginia.

Now his coaches are comparing him to Rice, the benchmark by which NFL receivers are measured these days.

"He's got everything," receiver coach Charlie Sanders said.

The 49ers know how good Rice is. What they don't know is when he'll come to terms on a new contract.

Rice, who has asked for $4 million a year, is one of four holdouts on the 49ers, though team president Carmen Policy said there has been some progress - sort of.

"Jerry Rice is at the game tonight," Policy said shortly before Monday night's 13-7 exhibition victory over Denver at Candlestick Park. "We gave him the tickets, so I'd say that's some progress, and he didn't pay for them."

The 49ers did come to terms with two veterans, tight end Brent Jones and linebacker Mike Walter, and announced that quarterback Joe Montana's comeback from major elbow surgery has been put on hold for at least two weeks. Montana, who has been plagued by soreness in his throwing elbow for the past two weeks, will rest his ailing arm for at least two more weeks.

Raiders

Elvis Patterson, a special teams standout, was suspended for his involvement in an altercation with assistant coach Jack Stanton during a joint practice with the Phoenix Cardinals at Flagstaff, Ariz., last Friday. Coach Art Shell said no decision has been made regarding Patterson's future with the team.

Eagles

Backup quarterback Jim McMahon's negotiations have stalled - at least partly because his agent, Steve Zucker, is at the Olympics until next week.

Cardinals

Quarterback Chris Chandler only bruised his right shoulder during the Cardinals' scrimmage with the Raiders on Saturday.

Chandler underwent a MRI examination in Phoenix that showed no structural damage and was throwing during Monday afternoon's practice.

Steelers

Top draft pick Leon Searcy, a 6-foot-3, 295-pound lineman chosen 11th overall in this year's draft, agreed to terms and reported to camp, leaving the Steelers with four unsigned veterans.

Bengals

Eddie Brown, Cincinnati's leading receiver in four of the last five years, underwent surgery on a ruptured cervical disk at Christ Hospital in Cincinnati on Monday. He was resting and in fair condition after the operation, hospital spokeswoman Lauren Green-Caldwell said.

Jets

New York welcomed back holdout offensive guard Dave Cadigan, but found out that wide receiver Rob Moore will miss at least two weeks.

Moore re-sprained his left ankle in Saturday's 41-17 Hall of Fame game out of Philadelphia.

Once you've decided on lenses for your glasses they're thinner and lighter than ever before, you may want to consider tints. The best tint complements your skin tone. Here are some tips from the experts at the Better Vision Institute (BVI)

*Pink or peach tinted glasses conceal fine lines around the eyes.

*Multi-colored tints, especially pink and blue, add color to the face.

*For the most flattering effect your lens tint should match or complement your frame color.

*Keep the center of the lens untinted to keep the whites of eyes clear looking.

*Complement the tint with the appropriate eye shadow. The color of your makeup will appear to change as it filter through tinted lenses.

*Rose or lavender tints reduce glare from green computer screens by neutralizing the screen color.

*Gray tints cut glare from black and white screens.

*Yellow lenses are best for enhancing contrast in outdoor sports; rose, amber and yellow lenses enhance contrast for sports with reflected light, such as skiing.

Lens coatings, which can improve the looks of eyewear and offer protection, are another item to consider.

Anti-reflective AR coatings, which reduce glare and eliminate reflections, enhance appearance and help with night driving. Also consider adding scratch-resistant, silicone resin coatings to your eyewear, to help protect your investment.

Your eyecare professional can help you make the proper choice.

WARWICK, R.I. (AP) - Patti LaBelle says she cut short a concert because she was thrown out - not because she was unhappy with the food served to her crew.

"I had two more songs to do when my musical director informed me that theater staff were removing my costumes and clothes from the dressing room and putting us out," the singer said Thursday.

"They told us to get ... out if we didn't like their hospitality," she said. "So I left the stage because I was ... id the situation would get ugly ... didn't want any of my staff or fans to suffer for it."

Larry Bonoff, business manager of the Warwick Musical Theatre, said Wednesday that LaBelle abruptly left the stage about 90 minutes into Tuesday's concert after complaining about the food served to her and her crew.

LaBelle's current hit is "When You've Been Blessed."

Leah Green honored with bridal shower

Leah Green, Aug. 22 bride-elect of Fidencio Cantu, was honored with a bridal shower Sunday, July 19, at Primera Iglesia Bautista.

Greeting guests with the honoree were her mother, Janice Arellano, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mary Cantu.

Delme Arellano, Irene Amaro and Carol Morales served refreshments of fresh fruit dishes, assorted cookies, cake, nuts and mints. The table, accented in black and white, was centered with a large black, white and red balloon arrangement. Further enhancing the table setting were a ceramic swan punch bowl and crystal appointments.

The registry table was decorated with a forest green and black silk flower arrangement made by the honoree's aunt, Melissa Celeya who presided at the table. The centerpiece was presented to Miss Green following the shower.

The hostesses gave the honoree a comforter, and matching sheets and pillow shams. Hosting the event were Irene Amaro, Bertha Celeya, Carol Morales, Delme Arellano, Linda Arellano, Joyce Ward, Rhonda Gallardo, Bobbie Bodayo, Virginia Bodayo, Anna Belle Cepeda and Valarie Campbell.

Annual Cal Farley's Boys Ranch Rodeo Sept. 6-7

Youths of all ages are ready for one of the Texas Panhandle's most exciting labor Day weekend events - the annual Cal Farley's Boys Ranch Rodeo, September 6 and 7.

This 48th annual event will feature more than 100 boys riding calves, steers, bulls and bareback broncos. Area riding clubs and girls from Girlstown, U.S.A. will join the boys for the Grand Entries. The girls will compete in a flag race and barrel race. Also participating for the first time as rodeo contestants will be youths from the Cal Farley Family Program campus at Borger.

While the girls compete for trophies, the boys will bi for belt buckles and titles of Junior and Senior All-Around Cowboys. Numerous specialty acts include clown skits, a calf scramble and stick horse rides featuring the Ranch's youngest boys and girls.

Along with the excitement, many of the Ranch's former boys will enjoy numerous activities during the two-day event. Since 1939, more than 4,000 boys have called the Ranch "home," and many look forward to attending the annual Alumni Association Reunion.

The performances begin at 2:30 each day. Tickets are available at $3.50 for reserved bleacher seats; $2.50 for general admission; and $1 for children ages six to 12. Barbecue beef plates will be sold at noon each day for $3.50.

The Boys Ranch Rodeo is the only one of its kind in the nation that features only boys and girls of all ages as contestants. Much of the reward is seeing thousands of fans in attendance, and hearing their appreciative applause.

Reservations and further information are available by calling (806) 372-2341, or writing to P.O. Box 1890, Amarillo, Texas 79174.

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) - Ray Sharkey was fired from the new television show "The Hat Squad" after being arrested on a drug charge, the director said.

Sharkey, who played a mobster on the TV show "Wiseguy," was arrested Wednesday by Royal Canadian Mounted Police for allegedly possessing narcotics.

Director Robert Bowman said he fired Sharkey when he learned of his arrest.

Sharkey was playing the lead villain in a guest role on the first episode of the CBS detective series.

NEW YORK (AP) - Ivana Trump is getting some money out of her trademark hairdo with a TV commercial for Clairol hair coloring.

In the commercial, which aired for the first time Wednesday, Donald Trump's former wife tosses her blond, upswept hair and assures viewers, "Gorgeous hair is the best revenge."

It is normal for newborns to have flat feet. Arches develop slowly over the first six years.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This problem is universal and has destroyed many relationships. I'm talking about children going into the family business.

My brother, "Bart" has taken over a store owned by my father, who is old enough to retire but wants to remain involved. He complains about Bart to family members and belittles him in front of customers and employees. Dad's theory is that since the business has been successful for several years under HIS stewardship, Bart should leave things as they are.

Granted, some of Dad's criticism is warranted. Bart is often late in paying bills, and the creditors are constantly calling. He places orders for clients and frequently the items are not there on the date promised. He plans vacations and fails to notify others until the day before he leaves that they may need to work extra hours. To Bart's credit, he has good people skills and has come up with many great ideas even though Dad considers most of them "too risky."

I know Bart is disturbed by all the criticism, and I'd like to help him. Any suggestions?--Concerned in Fort Lauderdale

DEAR F.L.: The friction you describe is typical when members of a younger generation move into the family business. The old man wants to keep doing it his way because "it worked for him," and the young man says, "Times have changed." Both could be right. Bart sounds like a terrific idea man but he comes up short on detail. He would be wise to delegate the nuts and bolts.

Compromise is the watchword. I hope Bart has something in writing about his succession to the throne. Assumptions can be hazardous to the health.

Most men would rather be charged with malice than with making a blunder.

English sprinter shows courage in finishing race

By JIM LI'KE
AP Sports Writer

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) - He came to the end and buried his face deep in his father's chest seeking comfort, then cupped his right hand over his eyes to hide overflowing tears.

The official score sheet handed out a few minutes later would list the word "abandoned" in the column where Derek Redmond's time in the 400-meter semifinal should have been. But few Olympians ever displayed so much commitment or courage simply by finishing a race.

"I don't know where it came from," Redmond said after a few minutes spent collecting his thoughts and tending a pulled hamstring muscle.

"There have been so many times when I wanted to give up the sport. ... I just wasn't going to let an injury keep me from finishing the race."

In many ways, the scene played out in Estadi Olimpic on Monday night recalled marathoner Gabriele Andersen-Scheiss' heroic stagger to the finish line of the Los Angeles Coliseum eight years earlier.

The biggest difference was that the 26-year-old Englishman needed the support of his father's wide shoulders to complete the race. But just as it had in 1984, an Olympic crowd slowly came to the realization that the first runner to hit the tape would not be the only winner this night.

The scattered applause that began the moment Redmond picked himself up off the oval - almost magically, in the shadow of the Olympic torch - grew steadily as his determination became evident with each painful step.

And it became one dense, continuous roar when his father, Jim, climbed down out of those same stands, brushed past the security guards and gathered up his son coming out of the final turn to walk the last 100 or so meters.

"I was surprised to see him," Redmond joked. "He doesn't have any accreditation. I couldn't figure out how he got on the track."

From that point, the Redmonds made their way up the track arm in arm, worried about nothing so much as one of the blue-jacketed officials swarming on both sides getting in their way. Jim Redmond's size dissuaded any serious arguing.

"The officials weren't a problem. First of all, I don't understand Spanish. And second of all," Jim Redmond said, "I wasn't going to be stopped by anything."

Fighting off the pain that had caused him at one point to black out, the younger Redmond recalled being almost oblivious to the din.

"Maybe because I wasn't doing it for the crowd," he said. "I was doing it for myself."

That being the case, he certainly had earned it.

Jim Redmond left Trinidad 33 years ago and opened a machine shop in Northampton, England, able to squeeze out enough money to let his son train and chase a much more whimsical career.

In 1986, Derek Redmond finished fourth in the European championships and won gold as part of the 1,600-meter relay team. The following year, he set the British standard of 44.50 seconds at 400 meters in the world championships in Rome. Four years ago in Seoul, he arrived as one of the most promising of a crop of emerging British sprinters.

But all of 90 seconds before the starting gun went off, Redmond pulled up lame with a hamstring injury. It turned out to be more of an omen than a freak injury. Over the next four years, Derek needed five operations on both legs just to keep running.

"If there's such a thing as a before-life, I must have been a rotten bastard in that one," Redmond said, "because I've had to go through so much crap in this life."

He said all this without apparent bitterness, if only because at the moment he felt the pop in his right leg Monday night, Redmond knew that staying down was an admission that he was beaten, perhaps for good.

"It all happened so quick. I heard the pop, felt the tug," he recalled, "and went down."

He was placed in the middle of the pack and heading into the first turn when his stride suddenly shortened. At first he stumbled, then lowered his head and finally dropped to one knee. For a few delirious seconds, he remained that way, as if in prayer.

Slowly, he drew himself up, then gingerly tested the right leg. What he found wanting in strength he made up in will. Step by step, he hobbled through the turn. When father finally reached son, Derek nearly collapsed in his arms.

"I was just thinking I had to get him there, so he could say he finished the semifinal," Jim said. "This is possibly his last Olympics."

If it turns out that way, we should remember Derek Redmond with a medal - a badge of courage not for finishing last, but for finishing at all.

Daly doesn't need to call timeouts

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) - Chuck Daly has solved his problem of not having anything to say during timeouts. He doesn't call them.

As coach of the U.S. Olympic basketball team, Daly is allotted two timeouts per half, giving him 10 opportunities in five games to discuss strategy, slow down an opponent's momentum or chew out a lackadaisical defender.

But Daly, dubbed the "Prince of Pessimism," has used none of his 10 timeouts.

"One of my main goals is not to call any timeouts at the Olympics," Daly said Tuesday.

He was amazed when television arranged to have timeouts at the Tournament of the Americas in Portland increased from a minute to 90 seconds.

So rather than having huddles of silence in Barcelona, Daly decided to try and kick the timeout habit.

"I nearly did it against Brazil and Spain because of a lack of defensive intensity," Daly said. "Then I realized it probably wouldn't have any effect, so I didn't."

But Daly ordered a practice Monday, to the chagrin of most of the players, who have spent their days off playing golf or attending other Olympic events.

"I'd rather be sleeping," Charles Barkley said. "Everybody got out of bed wanting to get this over with as quickly as possible."

Monday notwithstanding, Daly has kept a light rein on the team. During the pre-Olympic training camp at Monte Carlo, he joked that if he enforced a curfew, he would have to live by it, too.

"The coaching staff decided early on that we needed to give them some structure, but nothing complicated, and to give them the opportunity to use their talents," Daly said. "I have coached at All-Star games before, and we felt this was the same situation."

"They all want to play and they all want to start, but the staff just keeps dangling the gold medal at them to keep them going."

The Dream Team takes another step toward the gold medal tonight against Puerto Rico, which trailed Team USA by 27 points at halftime before losing by 38 last month in Portland.

Unlike some coaches who have faced the U.S. team, Puerto Rico's Raymond Dalmau does not fully concede defeat to the Americans.

Puerto Rico finished fourth in Group B with a 3-2 record, including an 82-70 victory over the previously undefeated Unified Team on Sunday.

"My expectations were that we could win an Olympic medal and now our chances are not good because of who we play in the quarterfinals," Dalmau said.

"We can win if they play absolutely their worst game and we play absolutely our best. We felt we should have finished better than fourth in our group, but we didn't start playing well until it was too late to improve our position," he said.

OLYMPICS

Capriati will play No. 2 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario of Spain, and No. 4 Mary Joe Fernandez will battle top-seeded Steffi Graf.

"Nah, I'm not excited," the 16-year-old Capriati said, a grin betraying her. "No, of course I am. It's what I'm here for - to win a medal. I don't want to stop here, though."

The worst the United States can do here is two bronze medals. The best, with two upsets - a gold and silver.

Two of the men's semifinalists also were decided Monday: Goran Ivanisevic, who guaranteed Croatia its first-ever medal with a five-set win over Frenchman Fabrice Santoro, and Marc Rosset of Switzerland, who defeated Emilio Sanchez of Spain 4-6, 7-6 (7-2), 3-6, 7-6 (11-9).

A pair of U.S. boxers are in the same boat, destined for bronze or better. Chris Byrd and Oscar De La Hoya made the semis with victories Monday; four of their teammates fight today for a medal. No matter what, it will be the U.S.

boxers' worst medal showing since 1972.

Of course, they have to get past the Cubans, whose record in these Games is 27-1. Five are already guaranteed bronze medals.

The frightening Savon went toe-to-toe with Nicholson, outslugging the American in the third round to win the brawl.

"It's too bad I wanted to go home with a medal," Nicholson said after dropping a 13-11 decision. "I thought I pulled it out. I'm not a judge, but I thought I won."

Joining Conley at the medal stand in Olympic Stadium were teammates Tony Dees and Jack Pierce, who finished 2-3 behind Canadian gold medalist Mark McKoy in the 110-meter hurdles.

McKoy, a Ben Johnson teammate who once admitted steroid use, finished in 13.12 seconds. Dees, of Tampa, Fla., was .12 seconds behind and .02 seconds ahead of Pierce, of Marlton, N.J.

The eccentric Canadian also once threatened to create his own nation, the country of McKoy, for Olympic competition.

After his victory, McKoy said Canada was good enough.

"This is the second-best day of my life. The best was having my daughter," said the 30-year-old, the oldest Olympic champion in the 110 hurdles.

The best thing U.S. volleyball players did was shave their head. Since then, they've gone 4-0, and they beat medal favorite Italy by scores of 9-15, 16-14, 15-11, 15-13.

Both teams made the medal round. The United States will play the Unified Team in Wednesday's quarterfinals. Italy, 4-1, will face the Netherlands, while Spain will meet Cuba and Brazil will play Holland.

defeating France 11-7 for its third straight victory.

But U.S. women divers were shut out for the first time ever in the springboard, where the Chinese completed a sweep of events. Gao Min, 21, successfully defended her gold medal, joining platform diver 13-year-old Fu Mingxia in the winner's circle.

The best U.S. showing was Julie Ovenhouse's fifth; teammate Karen LaFace of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., finished ninth.

"It just didn't happen," said Ovenhouse, of Howell, Mich. "Not very many people can say that they are Olympians, and that's something I have that no one can take away from me."

There was good news and bad news for the United States at the pool. The U.S. water polo team continued its move toward a gold medal,
