Three rescued from near-disaster in pit

A Hereford man fell 10 feet to the bottom of a pit and was overcome by fumes in the pit on Monday morning at Park and U.S. Highway 385 in Hereford.

Two firefighters attempting to retrieve Johnny Brownlow were also overcome by fumes when a hose pumping oxygen into the 50-foot hole was accidentally turned off.

Brownlow was doing work for Brownlow Brothers at the old service station on the southwest corner of the intersection. The property is being cleaned and renovated for a Little Caesar's Pizza store in the near future.

Brownlow was riding a cable to the bottom of a pit where gasoline-contaminated dirt had been excavated. Brownlow had gone about 40 feet when the cable snapped, sending him to the bottom of the hole.

Rescue personnel from Hereford Emergency Medical Service and Hereford Volunteer Fire Department were called to the scene. Firefighters lowered an air hose into the pit, and volunteer firefighters Paul Hamilton and Blaine Provence were lowered to help Brownlow.

While the firemen were trying to help Brownlow, a valve on the air hose was turned off.

"It was supposed to have been turned higher, and it got turned the wrong way," explained Fire Marshall Jay Spain. Hamilton and Provence were quickly overcome by fumes and were pulled from the pit.

Brownlow's brother, James, agreed to ride the cable into the pit to help his brother. He was fitted with an air pack from the fire department.

"He knew exactly what it looked like down there, what the situation was," Spain said. "Plus, we needed to get him (Johnny) out of there. We didn't think he was badly injured, but we felt the first priority was to get him out of there, then worry about injuries."

James Brownlow, wearing air equipment, rode the cable to the bottom of the pit and affixed a harness to his brother. After giving his brother fresh oxygen, they rode back to the surface. James Brownlow came up holding onto the cable with both hands while his legs were wrapped around his brother.

Johnny Brownlow, Provence and Hamilton were taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital. Provence and Hamilton were checked over and released. Brownlow was kept overnight for observations.

Former resident brutally killed in S. Amarillo home

A former Hereford woman was found brutally murdered at her southwest Amarillo mobile home on early Sunday morning.

Christine Marie Sossaman, 26, is believed to have been murdered sometime Thursday. Timothy Tyler Titsworth, 20, was charged with capital murder. Bond was set at $1 million by Justice of the Peace Phil Woodall.

The bond was set high because of the charge and because Titsworth is currently on probation in Gray county for unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Mrs. Sossaman was killed by at least 16 blows with an ax, according to Amarillo-area authorities. Titsworth gave an oral, taped confession to a Potter County deputy admitting he struck Sossaman repeatedly with an ax while she was sleeping Thursday.

Titsworth was charged with capital murder because he is charged with taking several items from Sossaman's home, including her credit cards, billfold and coin purse. Titsworth is also alleged to have stolen her 1991 Chevrolet. He was arrested in the car, parked on an Amarillo street Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Sossaman's body was discovered by her mother, Inez Bussey, about 12:40 a.m. Sunday. Mrs. Bussey, who lives in Hereford, had gone to the trailer because she had not been able to contact Mrs. Sossaman.

Mrs. Sossaman's survivors include her daughter, Megan. Megan was visiting in Hereford when Mrs. Sossaman was murdered. Mrs. Sossaman's husband, Shayne, was killed in a truck accident in 1988 near Guymon, Okla. They had married in 1987 in Paducah.

Services were to be held today.

Commissioners working through $4.1 million plan

County commissioners worked to balance a $4.1 million budget during a long workshop session Monday.

Commissioners also agreed to a plan for handicap accessibility to the courthouse and county library; accepted a plat for a new subdivision, Progressive Place, northeast of Hereford; and other, routine, matters.

Herb Vogel, who lives north of Hereford, said he was "very opposed" to the Progressive Place plan. Charlie Bell and Joe Davis have submitted a plat that calls for 28 lots to be sold in an area at the intersection of North Progressive and County Road 8, about 1.5 miles northeast of Hereford.

"This is just like the deal south of town," Vogel said. He was referring to Coronado Acres, which was sold by Bell in 5 acre lots several years ago.

County Judge Tom Simons said the county had no authority other than to approve the plat submitted for the subdivision. Simons told Vogel the city of Hereford would have zoning jurisdiction over the development because it falls within the city's five-mile extra-territorial jurisdiction.

City Manager Chester Nolen said the subdivision is on the city's agenda for Monday.

Bell said this morning that Progressive Place would have "better deed restrictions" than did Coronado Acres. The 28 lots for Progressive Place will be 2.5 acres, half the size of parcels at Coronado Acres.

The budget for the 1992-93 fiscal year, which begins Oct. 1, is basically the same as the budget for the current fiscal year.

Commissioners wrangled with whether or not the budget should be "balanced." County governors last year developed a budget that did not rely on surpluses built in years past, and continue that trend with a balanced budget for the coming fiscal year.

The county will finish the year Sept. 30 with a surplus of about $800,000. That provides for a two-month cushion for the county. The cushion is usually used during the fall before property taxes are paid.

The original proposal from County Auditor Alex Schroeter had a deficit of $27,000. Commissioners, with the help of County Clerk David Ruland, were able to pare the shortfall.

Commissioners will probably have a budget hearing next month after a final workshop on August 10.

Commissioners approved a plan for an electronic door on the east side of the courthouse and at the library entrance to improve handicap access to the buildings.

Leaders still don't know what to do about the county museum. Creating access to the two-story building will probably cost much more than the work needed at the courthouse and the library to comply with the American Disabilities Act.

The county will have to spend a total of $2,500 for automatic doors at the courthouse and library, and about $12,000 on the courthouse elevator. The elevator at the courthouse still would not totally comply with the law, but would be as close as the county could get without having to spend at least $50,000 for a new elevator.

In other business, commissioners: --Set a hearing for August 10 for a Community Development Block Grant for the Campbell St. area just outside the city. The area needs water and sewer improvements.

--Hear a report on the county museum and Black House from director Donna Brockman. The museum recorded 6,046 visitors from 41 states and 11 countries.

--Accepted a non-negotiable check for $47,000 from the Retired Senior Volunteer Program reflecting the hours served by volunteers.

--Agreed to accept bids for health insurance.

--Agreed to participate in buying a new computer for the Extension Service, but put off a decision on a PC network for the courthouse.

--Approved a water line across County Road 16, requested by Roy Carlson.

Cablevision will move to new quarters

Hereford Cablevision will move into new quarters at 119 E. Fourth in Hereford this weekend after the merger of the local branch of Bluebonnet Savings with AmWest Savings Association.

Bluebonnet's assets in Hereford will be assumed by AmWest at the close of business Friday. Hereford Cablevision will move from its present location, 126 E. Third, over the weekend and will be open at the new location Monday.

Lloyd Ames, general manager of the cable company, said Hereford Travel Center and Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association will still occupy their offices in the building.

Ames said the new location would give Cablevision customers considerably more parking space and a drive-up window. He also said external and internal cosmetic appearance changes for the building are planned immediately.

The building was built by Hi Plains Savings and Loan Association. It takes up almost a half-block of space and has parking for about 60 vehicles.

Police arrest robbery suspects

Hereford police have arrested two persons in connection with an assault that turned out to be an aggravated robbery last Friday morning.

Rigoverto "Rigo" Mendoza, 21, of Hereford, is in Deaf Smith County Jail in lieu of bond. A juvenile, 15, was also arrested. Juvenile authorities have detained him at a youth facility in Lubbock.

Police say Romero Ruiz, 44, was chased for three blocks by several men before he was caught and beaten in the parking lot of San Jose Catholic Church. Ruiz was beaten in the head with a club, and was kicked several times.

Ruiz was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital for treatment of his injuries.

Police initially investigated the incident as an assault until Ruiz discovered his wallet was taken during the assault. Police had already arrested a person for evading arrest in the case. That person told police that Ruiz's wallet and money were taken during the assault.

Three juveniles, 14, 15 and 16, have confessed to a pair of burglaries in the 500 block of E. Park.

The three boys have confessed to breaking into the businesses on June 3; they broke into the businesses again on Sunday, taking about $1,500 worth of goods.

Juvenile crimes investigator Richard Bachus said the youths will have their cases heard by juvenile authorities.

City approves grant application

Hereford's city commissioners voted Monday to go after a grant for an Olympic-size pool in north Hereford.

The council met in a special session Monday afternoon for a public hearing on a grant application to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. The grant must be submitted by Friday, and the city should know whether it will receive up to $500,000 within two months. The decision to apply for the grant doesn't obligate the city to build a pool.

The state funds will come from "sin taxes" on alcoholic beverages, tobacco products and other sources.

City officials earlier proposed a smaller pool, but opposition in the last week made the city look at pools the same size or larger than the current pool at Dameron Park.

An Olympic-size pool, 45x165 feet, would be 75 percent larger than the current pool. A Junior Olympic pool, 82x75 feet, would be 49 percent larger. Another popular size, 45x82 feet, would be 4.5 percent less than the existing pool.

Each of the pools would come with an extension or separate pool for children. Each would also be accessible for differently-abled persons. That's one of the big reasons the city is considering a new pool.

Another reason: the 47-year-old pool at Dameron Park has fallen into disrepair. If the city were to consider refurbishing the current pool, it would cost at least $300,000. The city couldn't get a grant for refurbishing the current pool.

With any of the three pools, the city will have to pay another $500,000 if it decides to build a new pool. The Olympic pool, with parking area, playground equipment, a half-mile walking path, bath house, overhead lighting and fencing, would cost $1.057 million. The Junior Olympic pool would run $1.003 million. The smaller pool would cost $826,754.

If the city can't build the pool next to the Y, it may have to again look at the park at 15th and Ave. H. Several persons spoke out against that site.

EASTRUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Bruce Springsteen returned to his native New Jersey for the start of his first U.S. tour in four years - and was briefly booed when he referred to his adopted home of Los Angeles.

The crowd was on its feet during much of Thursday's four-hour concert at Brendan Byrne Arena. But when the Boss introduced "My Home Town" by saying he wrote it in Los Angeles, the audience's familiar shouts of "Brrruuce" turned to boos.

"Get the hostility out now, I can take it," said Springsteen, who rose to fame playing in bars along the New Jersey shore with the E Street Band.

Springsteen, 42, now lives in Southern California and - except for keyboardist Roy Bittan - has replaced the band named for an Asbury Park, N.J., street.

He ran through decades worth of music, from "Born to Run" to "Glory Days" and "Lucky Town."

Springsteen performs in five other cities over the next five weeks. More concerts are expected to be added.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband, "Andy," and I both have children from previous marriages. My teen-age son lives with us and gets along well with my husband. The problem is Andy's 25-year-old son, "Robert."

Not long ago, some jewelry disappeared from our bedroom. The jewelry wasn't worth a great deal of money, but it had a lot of sentimental value. I strongly suspect that Robert took it, but I have no proof.

Robert spends a lot of time in our home. He doesn't get along with his mother because she "picks on him too much." He is still in school, doesn't have a job and always seems to need money. He comes and goes as he pleases and is generally sullen and unpleasant. Whenever he is around, I feel as if I must lock up everything and watch the house. This is not a healthy situation and I know it.

My husband is very defensive where Robert is concerned. Verbalizing my suspicions about the missing jewelry would surely cause trouble between us, but I find that it is eating away at me. Should I talk to him about the jewelry or just tell him that Robert mooches too much and is unpleasant? Or should I keep my mouth shut for the sake of family harmony?

If I remain silent, I fear there will never be an end to this. I hate to be so gutless, but what are my alternatives? -Bottled-Up in Maryland

DEAR BOTTLED: Remaining silent will only build an ulcer and make you more miserable. Silence will also have an unfavorable impact on your marriage because you will become increasingly resentful that you must put up with Robert's unacceptable behavior in order to keep from riling your husband.

Do not accuse his son of stealing. But do insist on family counseling. There are some serious roadblocks in the relationship and an unbiased third party could point out what needs to be done for the benefit of all. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read that amazing letter from the 30-year-old man who is still a virgin. Please give him my congratulations. I didn't think there were any left.

This "one-in-a-million" man will probably make an excellent husband because he was reared with good moral values. If you ask me, he deserves a woman who is also a virgin, not only because they would start out as truly "equal partners," but he would stand a better chance of not getting a venereal disease.

Please, Ann, tell this guy not to worry, he will figure out what to do when the time comes. After all, Adam and Eve didn't have any instructions and they figured it out just fine.

There are some women who do appreciate being a man's first. I wish

I had been, but that's another letter. Tell him a lot of women envy the woman he marries. I just hope he will instill in his children the values his parents instilled in him. --An Admirer in Connecticut

DEAR AD: Let's hear it for the male virgins! May their tribe increase - but is this possible???

DEAR READERS: This Gem came from J.M. Washauer in Baton Rouge. It appeared in the McKinley High School paper in St. Louis in 1914:

I hate the guys that criticize And minimize the other guys Whose enterprise has made them rise

Don't let kids get bored during extended road trips

NEW YORK (AP) - "Are we there yet?" It's a question as timeless as travel when children are along for the ride.

Yet with a little planning, parents can help make the time pass quickly and happily for everyone - including the kids.

"The first mistake parents make is to assume children will be entertained by the journey," says Geoff Sundstrom of the American Automobile Association. "Children's attention spans are shorter than that of adults. Even if scenery is constantly changing, they still lose interest quickly."

Sundstrom says the second mistake parents make is to assume that children will be able to entertain themselves, or find something to do when they get bored in the car.

"The confinement of a car is difficult for children, even more so when they are secured by safety or seat belts," he said. "They don't have the freedom to clamber upstairs or run outdoors when their high-energy bodies get bored and restless so naturally, frustration follows."

Sundstrom offers the following tips:

- Make sure children are dressed comfortably. Choose comfortable, casual clothes that are cool or warm enough for the ride. Don't pick clothes that will "send you over the edge" if food spills on them.

- Keep a variety of special snacks on hand - raw fruit and vegetables, low-fat crackers and cookies.

- Pack a favorite toy or two. Familiar playthings are reassuring and calming for children away from home.

- Even if it's not music to your ears, let the kids pick a radio station they like.

Late-night game ends with pinch-umpires

By JAY PEDED
Sports Editor

Rain on Sunday threw the West Texas 13-year-old Babe Ruth State Tournament off its schedule, and some drastic measures were taken to get the Hereford tournament back on track.

The rains came during the first of two games scheduled for Sunday at the Kids Inc. Complex. In an attempt to get the tournament to wind up on Thursday, two games plus the conclusion of Sunday's game were planned for Monday.

The field wasn't ready until 7 p.m. Sunday's game concluded with Plainview beating Andrews 7-5 on Matt Roberson's three-run homer in the top of the seventh inning. Graham held off several late Pampa challenges to win the first full game 6-5.

The late game started at 10:30, pitting Pampa against Tri-City. Pampa was facing elimination in the double-elimination tournament, while Tri-City had beaten Hereford 7-1 Saturday in its only game.

Tri-City started the game by scoring 13 runs on two hits in the top of the first. Pampa scored four while batting around in the bottom of the second. The game was not on a pace to finish early. At the end of three innings Tri-City led 18-11.

At 1 a.m., Tri-City loaded the bases with no outs in the top of the fourth inning. The three umpires, all from Amarillo, discussed the situation and decided to leave, citing the long drive back to Amarillo. The Pampa fans and players, who were faced with the prospect of elimination in a few innings, were angry because they had even longer drives and little reason to come back today--a two-hour drive for what could be only two innings. Most Tri-City fans and players also wanted to finish, so three pinch-umpires were recruited from the sparse crowd. Ron Cagle, who is certified, went behind the plate, and Pete Vargas Jr. and Ismael Urias handled the bases.

Tri-City led 27-13 going into the bottom of the fifth, needing to limit Pampa to four runs to end the game on the 10-run rule. Pampa got three runs, but Pampa's final batter grounded out with the bases loaded, and Tri-City escaped 27-16. The game ended at 2:45 a.m.

The five-inning game featured 32 walks. Tri-City's star player was lead-off hitter Colby Lee, who went 5-for-5 plus a walk. He drove in six runs on three doubles and scored four runs.

Today's first game will be an elimination game between Hereford and Andrews. Andrews had beaten Tri-City 7-2 Saturday in the first game of the tournament, but then lost to Plainview Monday.

The second game today will pit Tri-City against the winner of the first game.

Because the next level of playoffs starts soon, this tournament will conclude this week--with or without rain or umpires. Two games will be played Wednesday, and the championship game will be Thursday at 6 p.m. A second championship game will be played afterwards if necessary.

Hereford's 7-1 loss to Graham

Saturday was a pitching duel with the exception of Graham's half of the fourth inning. Hereford's John Marty Galan struck out 13 batters in seven innings, while Graham's Zach Steele had a no-hitter through 4 1/3 innings.

Wes Blackwell's blooper to left field broke up the no-hitter, and Galan's sixth-inning infield single was Hereford's only other hit. Steele had good defense behind him--he committed his team's only errors. Centerfielder Michael Jacoba contributed a spectacular flying catch to rob Galan of extra bases in the fourth.

The top of the fourth inning was Hereford's undoing. Graham led off with a double, then after one out, they smashed three singles in a row, the first of which knocked in a run. After the second out and an error, Steele's double drove in one run and Michael Jacoba's single drove in two more for a 7-0 lead. Graham had scored once in the third inning.

Hereford rallied in the bottom of the seventh, when Graham's relief pitchers gave up five walks, but all Hereford could get out of it was a steal of home by Blackwell.

Hereford's 14-15-year-old all-stars, who are playing in a similar tournament in Andrews lost 7-6 to Graham on Saturday, but no details are available. They were to play Monday, but results to that game were unavailable.

Summer leaguers split

Hereford's team in the West Texas Summer Baseball League gained a split of its two games in a tripleheader Saturday at Whiteface Field.

Hereford's win was a 15-7 drubbing of Tulia in the final game of the day. In the first game, Monterey got past Hereford 8-2, and the middle game saw Monterey whipping Tulia 12-3.

Hereford scored early and often against Tulia for the win. Against Monterey, Hereford didn't. Shama Hernandez and Richard Sanderson scored in the sixth inning, aided by two Monterey errors. Monterey scored three runs in the first and one in the second for the early lead, then three more in the seventh to make up for Hereford's runs.

Hereford's summer season is over. A game scheduled for today at Randall has been canceled.

Teens, retirees win Olympic gold

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) - It's in the spinning, twisting, elegant dives of a 13-year-old Chinese girl and the flailing speed of a 14-year-old Japanese swimmer.

It's in the resolute strength of an American who retired, then came back to collect a gold when everyone thought he was too old.

It's in a Unified Team that knows it will be splitting up soon, and stands wistfully before a flag that is not its own.

It's in an Olympic Village encounter between former track teammates from Yugoslavia - Mirsada Buric, who braved sniper fire to train in the besieged Bosnian capital of Sarajevo, and Suzana Ciric, a Serbian whose government is held responsible for the siege.

"She was very glad to see me," Buric said. "But I had to tell her that her country is the aggressor against mine. It's killing our people."

The new age of the Olympics is taking shape in every event at these Summer Games, revealing the future in the diverse nationalities of champions, the widening age span among them, and the headlong surge toward professionalism.

In sports as in politics, nations are coming together even as they are splitting apart. And nowhere is it clearer than in this seaside city of so many mingled cultures that is host now to 171 countries.

As Day 4 began today, China and the United States led the medals list with 10 apiece, followed by the Unified Team's seven, and five each for Germany and France.

China surely won't stay in that lofty position, but its performance so far is a sign of its progress since its re-entry in the Summer Games in 1984 after an absence of four decades. Four years ago in Seoul, China was 11th in golds with five, and had 28 overall.

Two golden oldies, Matt Biondi and Janet Evans, make their entrance at the pool today, while 16-year-old gymnast Kim Zmeskal tries to recover the form that made her world champion.

Pablo Morales showed in the 100-meter butterfly Monday that he could still win at 27, a year older than

Rangers' Harris signs contract with 'Pokes

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Dallas Cowboys rookie Donald Harris has a fresh contract today along with the baggage he packed for the team's trip to Japan and his switch from baseball to football.

"At this point, I just would like to try to pursue football as a career," said Harris, the former Texas Tech safety who agreed to terms Monday night with the Cowboys. "I definitely miss it and it's something I plan on doing."

Harris was scheduled to board a plane today to Tokyo with the Cowboys. They play the Houston Oilers Saturday in Japan.

But the two-year Cowboys' contract for an undisclosed amount doesn't mean Harris is turning his back forever on professional baseball. The speedy center fielder, who has played for the Texas Rangers, was assigned to the team's Class AA

Cubs nip Bucs on Sosa's homer

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

The fans felt it at Wrigley Field, and the feeling was everywhere else in the National League, too.

The races are on!
In Chicago, Sammy Sosa homered on Doug Drabek's first pitch and Greg Maddux and the Cubs went on to beat Pittsburgh 3-2 Monday night. The Pirates' lead in the East is down to just one game over Montreal, only five over New York and 5 1/2 over Chicago and St. Louis.

"You could feel the enthusiasm from the fans," Cubs manager Jim Lefebvre said.

Montreal moved up with a 6-4 victory in St. Louis. The Expos have not been so close to first place after the All-Star break since Aug. 7, 1989.

"Part of the fun is to look at the standings," Montreal manager Felipe Alou said. "This is a club that was 26 games out of first place last year. You've got to enjoy it while it lasts."

In the West, Atlanta lost 5-1 in 11 innings to Houston, while San Diego held on to beat Cincinnati 2-1. That left the Braves one game ahead of the Reds, while the Padres pulled within five games.

"It was a good all-around game for us," San Diego's Andy Benes said. "There were so many important plays."

Sosa, out since June 14 because of a broken finger, sparked the Cubs by homering in his first at-bat since being activated from the disabled list. He later singled home the tying run in the fifth inning, then singled and scored the go-ahead run in the eighth on Kal Daniels' sacrifice fly.

"It was time for me to get back. The club really needs me. I know that," he said. "But, what is more important, I think we have a chance to win the pennant. You can feel it with the crowd."

Maddux (13-8) gave up a home run in the first inning to Andy Van Slyke, but gave up only one more run before leaving after eight innings. He escaped a bases-loaded, one-out jam in the eighth by fanning Mike LaValliere for his 10th strikeout and retiring Jose Lind on a popup.

Jeff Robinson pitched the ninth for his first save.

Drabek (8-8) allowed nine hits in fifth complete game.

Astros 5, Braves 1

Houston began the longest road trip in team history with a long game, winning in the 11th inning on Eric Anthony's grand slam.

Anthony homered twice Sunday in the Astros' final home game until Aug. 25. The Astros are taking a 26-game, 28-day trip so the Astrodome can hold the Republican convention.

Anthony's first career slam and 12th homer of the season came against Alejandro Pena (1-5).

Doug Jones (8-7) won with three scoreless innings. Xavier Hernandez went one inning for his fifth save.

Expos 6, Cardinals 4

Darren Reed and Delino DeShields homered in the second inning and Marquis Grissom later connected.

Ken Hill (12-4) won. John Wetteland got his 22nd save, striking out Gerald Perry with runners on second and third to end the game.

Reed hit a three-run homer.

DeShields hit a solo shot off Omar Olivares (6-6) and hit an RBI triple in the fourth.

Padres 2, Reds 1

Reliever Randy Myers got pinch-hitter Chris Sabo to ground into a game-ending double play with runners on first and third as San Diego held on at home.

Andy Benes (8-9) left after Bip Roberts led off the ninth inning with a double. Myers took over and a groundout moved Roberts to third.

Barry Larkin walked and Sabo batted for Hal Morris and bounced into a close double play. Myers earned his 19th save.

Greg Swindell (9-4) lost.

Phillies 5, Mets 0

At Veterans Stadium, Curt Schilling pitched a six-hitter.

Schilling (9-6) struck out five and walked none.

Bret Saberhagen (3-3) gave up four runs on four hits in four innings. He struck out four and walked four, and threw 44 strikes.

Saberhagen walked three of the first four batters and Darren Daulton made him pay with a bases-loaded triple. Daulton then scored on Mackey Sasser's passed ball.

Giants 5, Dodgers 1

At Candlestick Park, Cory Snyder hit a three-run homer off Tom Candiotti in the first inning.

Snyder, who played with Candiotti (8-9) for five seasons in Cleveland, hit his 10th home run in his first at-bat against his good friend.

Black (9-3) struck out three and walked three.

A's blow out Twins

By The Associated Press

The first game of the battle between the AL West leaders wasn't a battle for long.

Terry Steinbach hit a three-run homer and Bob Welch pitched no-hit ball for 6-2-3 innings as Oakland beat the Minnesota Twins 9-1 Monday night. That pulled the Athletics within two games of the AL West leaders.

"Let's not jump the gun," Steinbach said cautiously. "We don't have anything mastered here. We still have two games in this series. We just got some breaks this time."

Welch (8-5) had a no-hitter until Brian Harper dribbled a single just past diving shortstop Walt Weiss with two outs in the seventh. Gene Larkin followed with a ground single off the glove of second baseman Mike Bordick, scoring Kent Hrbek, who had walked. Those were the only hits Welch allowed in seven-plus innings.

"I thought, 'Yeah, we got a grounder. Oh, no, it got through,'" said Steinbach, who also doubled twice and drove in four runs. "Then with Larkin, it was, 'OK, another grounder. Oh, no, that got through, too.'"

Oakland has won four straight and is 17 games over .500 for the first time this season. Dennis Eckersley followed Welch and pitched the eighth, then came out in favor of Jim Corsi after Randy Ready's grand slam in the top of the ninth gave Oakland an insurmountable lead.

John Smiley (10-5) struck out the first two batters but gave up Carney Lansford's single, walked Mark McGwire and allowed Steinbach's ninth homer.

Smiley gave up five runs and seven hits in six innings, struck out a season-high nine and walked two.

Brewers 4, Indians 0

Jaime Navarro (11-6) extended his streak of hitless innings to 10 with a three-hitter as visiting Milwaukee won.

Charles Nagy (11-6) allowed four runs and 12 hits in 6-2-3 innings.

Milwaukee got third-inning runs on Kevin Seitzer's RBI infield single and Paul Molitor's squeeze bunt. John Jaha singled home a run in the fifth and Robin Yount hit a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Red Sox 7, Rangers 5

Tom Brunansky hit a first-inning grand slam at Fenway Park and Herm Winningham added a two-run homer off Kevin Brown (14-7).

Frank Viola (9-6) allowed four runs - one earned - and 10 hits in six innings. Jeff Reardon pitched the ninth for his 20th save in 25 chances.

Angels 3, Mariners 0

Chuck Finley won for the first time in eight starts since June 13.

Museum to host summer ceremony

The ancient past will come alive once again when the Adobe Walls Indian Dancers take to the stage at the Fritch Fortress amphitheater for their sixth annual Summer Ceremonial. The shows are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 30-31, and August 1 at 8 p.m.

The program is a two hour celebration of Plains and Pueblo dance, art and culture. The shows are an educational outreach program of the Hutchinson County Museum.

Assorted size feet will dance the rain and hoop dances of the Plains Indians under the Panhandle skies just as the authentic Indians did hundreds of years ago.

The Adobe Walls Dancers are local kids who have an interest in Indian lore and are led by Ed Benz, Seth Cunningham and Paxton Farbro who first started the group in 1983. Benz is also the museum director. They meet weekly at the Hutchinson County Museum to practice and work on their costumes. The group is actually Boy Scout Explorer Post 565, and includes about 20 girls and boys aged 12 to 18.

Various dances include the Hopi rain dance which requires the dancers to dance with live bull snakes in their mouths to put them in touch with the earth and rain. Although the Hopi Indians also used rattlesnakes, Ed Benz says, "that's a little too authentic for these guys and gals." The group is seeking additional bull snakes.

Another dance is the Pueblo Comanche dance based on a historical event where the Zuni and Comanche Indians battled. It is said the Comanches beat the Zunis who then created a dance to imitate their opponents.

Dancers have learned the basic dance steps, rhythm, words and music of each dance. Most are taken from authentic Indian vocables -- syllable sounds that are not full Indian words. During the dances, Ed Benz calls out the vocables and realistic medley of Indian song and rhythm. Through the age old medium of storytelling, Benz relates the story of each dance in narration and tells much area history in the process.

This year a new dance will be added. The flaming hoop dance will be performed in heart stopping precision by seasoned hoop dance brothers Chris and Shawn Holcomb. The amphitheater will go black and only the light from the burning hoops will light the stage in this dramatic dance.

The dancers make their own Indian costumes complete with bead and feather work which includes fancy dance costume along with traditional and old style dress. Some wear headbands, leg bands, knee ties, leg drapes, beaded vests or breast plates and brightly colored bustles. The girls wear fringed dresses and shawls. The costumes are very intricate and detailed. Many items used are Indian made.

The shows are sponsored by the Magic Plains Arts Council and are part of the annual Summer Lyceum Series of four events scheduled at the amphitheater this summer.

Tickets in advance are $2.25 for adults and 75 cents for students. Tickets at the door are $3 for adults and $1 for students. Scouting groups of six or more are $1 each in uniform. Youth under 6 are free. Tickets are available at the Hutchinson County Museum in Borger, the Lake Meredith Aquatic Museum in Fritch or from any of the Adobe walls Dancers. For more information contact the Museums at 273-6121 or 857-2458.

Student notified of honor

A Hereford High School student, Christina Flores, has been notified that she has qualified for Who's Who Among American High School Students for the third consecutive year.

The latest nomination was for the 1991-1992 school year. The student is eligible to apply for a $1,000.

In notification of her selection, the student was informed that fewer than half of one percent of the nation's high school students are nominated two or more years.

The 17-year-old daughter of Rebeca Flores, she will be senior at HHS this fall. She is an honor roll student and employed at The Brand.

The senators play themselves. D'Amato is a New York Republican, Bentsen a Texas Democrat and Simpson a Wyoming Republican.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - A video technician was fired for superimposing an obscenity over the image of jockey Julie Krone during a racetrack telecast, said the president of the broadcast company.

As Krone rode onto the Atlantic City Race Course on July 15, her first name was replaced with an obscenity in the caption. The race was broadcast to tracks and casinos around the country.

"We're very sorry that it happened," said Harold Snyder, president of International Sound Corp. of Baltimore. Snyder said the technician was fired "on the spot" and the obscenity was on the screen for less than two seconds.

Dennis Drazin, Krone's lawyer, said she plans to sue. He said Krone was humiliated and has received calls from people who saw the caption.

| 2 Tbsp. | light soy sauce | 16 | fresh mushrooms |
| 5 Tbsp. | firmly packed brown sugar | 2 | medium zucchini, |
| 1 1/4 Tbsp. | acceptable vegetable oil* | 16 | sliced |
| 1 tsp. | ground ginger | 4 | cherry tomatoes |
| 1/2 cup | sherry | 16 | medium onions, |
| 1 tsp. | hot pepper oil | 16 | cut into 8 wedges |
| 6 | boneless chicken breast | | each |
| | fillets (approximately | | wooden or metal |
| | 4 ounces each), skinned, | | skewers |
| | all visible fat removed | | |

Combine first six ingredients in a shallow glass bowl.

Rinse chicken and pat dry. Slice lengthwise.

Wipe mushrooms with a clean, damp cloth.

Place chicken, mushrooms, zucchini, tomatoes and onion in prepared mixture. Stir to coat evenly. Cover and refrigerate approximately 1 hour, turning occasionally.

Meanwhile, if using wooden skewers, soak them in water for at least 30 minutes before using.

Preheat broiler.

Remove chicken and vegetables from marinade. Alternate chicken and vegetable pieces on skewers. Lay on broiler pan and broil 4 inches away from heat for 3 minutes. Turn over and broil an additional 3 minutes.

Makes 8 servings.

* Canola, corn, olive, safflower, soybean or sunflower oils.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. When I freeze gravy at home, it's never as smooth as the gravy in a turkey T.V. dinner. DO you know what the trick is? Or is it a manufacturer's secret? B.J.K., Harrison valley, PA

A. Texture of thawed gravy depends on both the texture of the original dish and stirring thoroughly after thawing. While frozen dinner processors have commercial ingredients available only to them, there are ways to minimize separation and thinning.

After thawing, gravy may separate. Whisk it thoroughly to recombine. Gravy will tend to be lumpy if there are not enough juices from meat drippings. Four-based gravy is more likely to thin upon reheating. Be sure to heat uncovered over low heat, stirring constantly, and don't add additional liquid until mixture is bubbly and then only if necessary.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: THE MAN WHO WON'T LEND MONEY ISN'T GOING TO HAVE MANY FRIENDS — OR NEED THEM. — WILSON MIZNER

To make a bed with someone in it, move the person to the edge of the bed, making sure he or she is in a stable position. Roll half the old sheet lengthwise up against the bedridden person, then roll half the clean one lengthwise and put it on the bed with the rolled up half in the center. Roll the person onto the clean half and take off the old sheet. Unroll the rest of the clean sheet, stretch it tight and tuck it in.

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information. Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent. An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to. Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing. So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent. Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examines the latest market trends and housing opportunities. With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: For Valentine's Day this year I received several bottles of perfume, but some are splashes and some are cologne.
What is the difference between these? Also, how long will a bottle of perfume last? — Angie Gooding, Hondo, Texas
You're right—the different terms can be confusing. All of these products have alcohol and aromatic oils in them. The amount of alcohol added is what makes the difference. The more alcohol content, the less expensive and less potent it is. Listed below are the products from the least amount of alcohol to the most, and the price varies accordingly.

- perfume
- eau de toilette
- cologne
- fragrant splashes

Usually perfume lasts about a year stored under good conditions, away from heat and light. Most people save their favorite perfume for special occasions, when in fact it should be used more frequently. — Heloise

IN-A-PINCH APRON
Dear Heloise: When in a pinch for an apron, I use a plastic trash bag with handle ties.
I just slip the handles over my head and use an old belt or even a piece of string around the middle. Voila, an apron! — Betty Snyder, El Paso, Texas

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEARDR LAMB: My mother, age 74, had a stroke six months ago. The doctors said it was a cerebellar infarct. She has recovered very well from a physical standpoint. However, there is a change emotionally. She denies she is depressed, but she seems to need much encouragement and pushing from her family to resume her life like she was before her stroke. She does say that she has an emptiness inside. She has been started on Imipramine a few weeks ago, but it has not had any effect. Is this a common reaction after a stroke?
DEAR READER: Any major illness may cause a person to be depressed. Depression is a common complication of a stroke. Your mood is affected by brain chemicals. It is not surprising when part of the cells involved in the formation or use of these chemicals are damaged that a person's mood is altered. A person's personality may be profoundly altered. A previously gentle personality may become irascible and difficult with a foul mouth. It is quite a shock to family members to suddenly be cussed out by grandma or grandpa. Still others have extreme emotional lability. The sudden onset of crying spells often occur. Emotional expression, personality and character are all parts of the brain's function. You don't have to have a stroke to have such changes either. Disease of the arteries to the brain may cause such changes. Fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries to the brain is one of the more common causes of what we call senility. I cannot say if your mother's apparent change is really a depression caused by her stroke or not. People lose so many things that gave them energy and drive as they grow older—such as goals they once strived for and, unfortunately in too many instances, sufficient love and companionship. I am sending you a free copy of my new Special Report 202, "Strokes: Prevention and Recovery. It is important to take measures to help prevent a second stroke. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/202, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. A frequently overlooked factor that can sap a person's energy is medicine. Some of these, particularly those used to control high blood pressure, may result in significant fatigue. DEARDR LAMB: Can you tell me anything about psoriatic arthritis? Our 45-year-old son has been diagnosed as having it. Even though he is taking medication, it doesn't seem to help. His doctor told him there is one last alternative, but the medication could affect his immune system and he is very reluctant to try it. DEAR READER: As the name implies, it is one feature that can occur with psoriasis. It occurs in about 20 percent of people who have psoriasis. It resembles rheumatoid arthritis, but is distinctly different. The severity of the arthritis is independent of the skin lesions that characterize psoriasis. Basically, it is treated separately in a manner similar to rheumatoid arthritis with such anti-inflammatory medications as Indocin. Your son's doctor was probably referring to using Methotrexate, also used in rheumatoid arthritis. It is used in certain malignancies to prevent cell growth. Because of this effect it is called an antimetabolite. It is a difficult medicine, but when used carefully, it is beneficial both in some cases of rheumatoid arthritis and psoriatic arthritis.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Montana to start vs. Broncos

By The Associated Press

Joe Montana is still scheduled to start for the San Francisco 49ers in their exhibition opener against the Denver Broncos next week.

Montana, who had two days of rest, limited his Monday morning passing drills to just 30 throws, and afterwards said his arm felt just about the same.

"It (right arm) still feels tired," said Montana, who missed the entire 1991 season following right elbow surgery. "It felt pretty good the early part, then it just got a little tired."

Meanwhile, Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon walked out of training camp and may not make the team's trip to Tokyo for Saturday's exhibition game, ESPN reported Monday night.

Moon's agent, Leigh Steinberg, told the network Moon left camp because of a contract dispute that has lingered for more than a year.

General Manager Mike Holovak declined comment and Moon was unavailable late Tuesday night. Oilers owner Bud Adams told KRIV-TV said he was unaware of any walkout.

"That's news to me," Adams said. "I really don't want to comment on it. When you're negotiating, you expect anything. I expect to see Warren making the trip."

Chiefs

Deron Cherry, who showed up at the Kansas City Chiefs training camp 11 seasons ago as a free agent punter, said good-bye Monday as a six-time All-Pro free safety and one of the best defensive backs of his time.

Flanked by family and friends, Cherry wiped away tears as he announced his retirement during an emotional news conference. He said a severe knee injury that required surgery two years ago and the fear of a possible debilitating injury helped him decide it was time to move on.

Oilers

Houston, which leaves today for Japan and its appearance in the American Bowl at Tokyo Dome, ran through a short, no-contact practice in preparation for the showdown with the Texas rival Dallas Cowboys.

Eagles

Veteran cornerback Izel Jenkins was close to agreeing to contract terms, Philadelphia president Harry Gamble said. Jenkins, a free agent, is one of 12 players still missing from the Eagles training camp.

Browns

Tommy Vardell sweated through his first practice, getting pounded and scratched, and Cleveland's first-round draft choice couldn't have been happier.

The 230-pound fullback signed a reported $4.3 million, four-year contract late Sunday, almost 10 days after he was first expected to report.

Colts

Owner Robert Irsay visited training camp and said the team is "trying like hell" to sign backup quarterback Jack Trudeau and defensive back Ashley Ambrose, a second-round draft choice.

On the day coach Ted Marchibroda put the squad through the first of six scheduled two-a-day workouts, first-round draft choice Quentin Coryatt sat out with an ankle sprain, wideout Sammy Martin reinjured a finger and tight end Kerry Cash continued making strides toward earning a starting spot.

Chargers

Running back Rod Bernstine, penciled in as the H-back in new coach Bobby Ross' offense, signed a one-year contract on Monday, while quarterback John Friesz also seemed ready to end his holdout.

General manager Bobby Beathard said he reached a verbal agreement on the phone with Friesz's agent, Leigh Steinberg.

OLYMPICS

Biondi, even after a 3 1/2-year layoff. Nicole Haislett, 19, a year younger than Evans, proved that the women's events are not all going to kids like Japan's Kyoko Iwasaki, winner of the 200-meter breaststroke, or Fu Mingxia, winner of 10-meter platform diving.

The changes in the Olympics were evident in a relatively small but fiery Japanese volleyball team that refused to be intimidated by the two-time champion U.S. squad.

The Americans have something to prove today - to themselves and the rest of the world - when they take the court against Canada. They can't afford another goof-up like the one that cost them an apparent victory over Japan.

Officials turned a five-set U.S. win on the scoreboard Sunday into a four-set Japanese win Monday, saying the referee erred by not giving Japan match point in the fourth set when America's Bob Samuelson received a second yellow card for yelling at the ref.

The United States is still likely to reach the medal round despite the loss, and the reversal by officials after a Japanese protest could provide a psychological boost.

"The decision will be used to fire our team up for the rest of the Olympics," Samuelson said.

"I feel like someone has come into my home, stolen my property and violated me," Scott Fortune, the team captain, said. "But the war of the Olympic volleyball competition is not over, and we are prepared for a long battle."

The movement to professionalism in the new world order of sports couldn't have been clearer than on the basketball court, where America's NBA-imported Dream Team easily subdued its toughest threat, Croatia, 103-70.

That despite a strained knee suffered by Magic Johnson that left the Americans without a true point guard in the second half. Johnson's status is uncertain, while the team's other point guard, John Stockton, is still recovering from a broken leg.

Charles Barkley didn't give a hoot about criticism that the U.S. pros are unfairly showing up the rest of the world.

"I don't think the guys want the games to be close," he said. "We want people to realize that we are the best in the world at something. The Japanese make great cars and they think they make the best. And other than the armed services, this may be the only thing we're dominant at in the world. I think it's great."

Maybe someday the rest of the world will catch up. For the moment, the pros have the advantage in every sport, and they're happy to be at the Olympics even if it rewards them with medals instead of money. They all know that endorsements surely follow gold, but there's something else that intrigues them about the Games.

"You wake up in the morning and look out your window and you see all the best athletes in the world going for a jog," said Jim Courier, the top-ranked player who begins play today. "Very few people get to experience something like that, and I certainly wouldn't want to miss it."

Tennis players have a reputation as being spoiled and mercenary, but Courier and his six U.S. teammates made their Olympic zeal sound real. "If the richest person in the world had athletic ability, you could ask them if they'd like to compete in the Olympics, and they'd say yes," doubles entrant Gigi Fernandez said. "It's a huge honor."

Zmeskal is going for more than honor today.

The 80-pound sprite, the only American to win the all-around at a World Championships, has to be virtually perfect in the optional part of the women's program if she is to have any chance at competing for all-around gold. She fell off the balance beam Sunday night 10 seconds into her quest, and can't afford another mistake.

For Shannon Miller, a whispy 71-pounder who is timid off the floor and bold on it, the key is just to keep doing what she did Sunday and hope she can lead the Americans to an upset of the Unified Team.

That would mark one more sign of change in the Games.

affiliate in Tulsa, Okla.

"Donald played very hard for us. He was the kind of guy who gave it maximum effort all the time. He's a very aggressive player," Rangers general manager Tom Grieve said, "and I have nothing but the very best wishes for Donald. If it doesn't work out with the Cowboys, maybe he'll give baseball a second try."

Harris' agent, Jordan Woy, resolved questions regarding the dual football-baseball career before the signing.

"That was really the main issue we needed to resolve," Woy said, adding that Harris wanted to be one of the select few to play both sports.

"His goal is to get in the Dallas football club. But when the season is over with the Cowboys at the playoffs, he would be allowed to go to spring training and return to the Rangers, if he wanted to," he said.

Cowboys spokesman David Pelletier, who made the announcement for the team Monday, said there was no objection to that plan.

While Woy began negotiations, Harris flew to Houston to pick up documents necessary for the Japan trip, then returned to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport Monday night.

Harris and his agent then talked briefly before they met with Cowboys owner Jerry Jones and Stephen Jones, the team's chief contract negotiator.

Harris still had two years left at Texas Tech when he was a fifth-round pick in the 1989 June free-agent draft. The Cowboys made him a 12th round pick in the April NFL draft.

Last week, Harris was unhappy when the Rangers sent him to Tulsa. In 12 games with Texas, Harris played stellar defense but was 3-for-21 at the plate with one RBI.

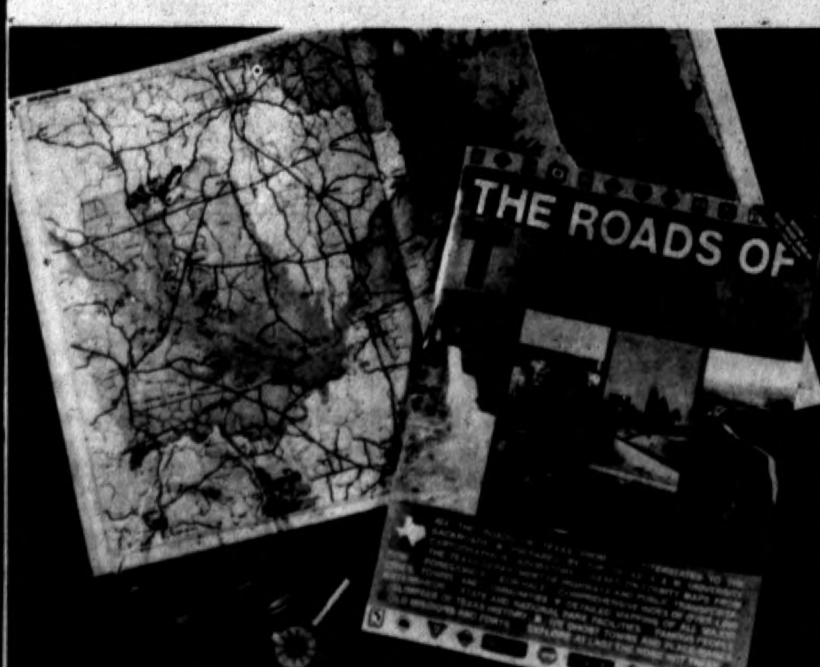

The Cowboys' owner couldn't be happier after terms were reached with the 6-0, 190-pound Harris, who at Tech was named Southwest Conference Defensive Newcomer of the Year by The Associated Press in 1987.

"We're doing a little more paperwork back here and getting Donald ready to get his bags on the plane and head for Tokyo," he said.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.
