Bush heads off to campaign wars

HOUSTON (AP) - President Bush sets out today to sell his vision for the next four years after accepting the Republican presidential nomination and promising to cut taxes if given a second term. Rival Bill Clinton countered Bush's convention finale with a promise of jobs to the hurting heartland.

"The question is: who do you trust to make change work for you?" Bush said in an acceptance speech that framed the fall debate.

With fresh evidence that Bush was getting a convention bounce to tighten an increasingly hostile White House race, Clinton tried to persuade voters that 12 years of Republican rule - and economics - were enough.

"In 1980, when we began our romance with trickle-down economics, we had the highest wages in the world, now we're 13th," the Democratic nominee said in Michigan. "We've tried it their way, it's time to change."

With the nominating conventions over, the Bush-Clinton battle begins in earnest today. Each candidate targeted voters critical to his hopes of victory come Election Day - just 74 days away.

"Join me in our new crusade, to reap the rewards of our global victory - to win the peace," Bush said in a speech punctuated at its conclusion with a mammoth drop of balloons, confetti and indoor fireworks.

"We are the true voice for change," Vice President Dan Quayle said in a defiant acceptance speech of his own, delivered with a confident, combative tone missing four years ago.

Bush, with Quayle in tow, was heading to Mississippi, the first stop of his effort to reclaim the South from the Democrats' Dixie tandem of Arkansas Gov. Clinton and Tennessee Sen. Al Gore.

Bush hit the South loaded with the ammunition of his proposal to cut taxes and his disdain for Congress.

"It was a mistake," Bush said of his decision to break his promise four years ago and approve a tax increase.

Bush said spending reductions of $300 billion would finance the tax cuts, but he did not say which programs he would roll back. A top aide said he saw no evidence that Americans wanted this kind of detail.

"Our policies haven't failed; they haven't been tried," Bush said. He called Congress the true obstacle to change.

For those who criticized his first term for its focus on foreign policy, Bush had no apologies. "I saw the chance to rid our children's dreams of the nuclear nightmare - and I did," he said.

New polls showed Bush closing to within single digits of Clinton. The conservative themes of the four-day convention appeared to boost his standing in the South, traditionally the base of Republican presidential victories.

Clinton was starting the day in Detroit campaigning in Detroit, before heading to the Rust Belt on a bus trip with Gore. "Clinton is going to make this a great debate on the economy," said Clinton strategist Paul Begala.

The Clinton campaign labeled a broad-based tax cut irresponsible at a time of record deficits. "It's nothing but a blatant attempt to buy this election," said Clinton communications director George Stephanopoulos.

In an acceptance speech that lasted nearly an hour, Bush pounded away at Clinton and the Democrats.

"Hit him again! Hit him again. Harder harder," the delegates chanted.

"I'm fixin' to," Bush said, and he tested many of his attack lines before the supportive crowd.

Bush described Clinton as big spender, bigger taxer, a product of the Democratic Party's McGovern wing who waffled on whether to support use of force to oust Saddam Hussein from Kuwait. Or, to hear Bush tell it, even worse:

"We tried this once before, combining the Democratic governor of a small Southern state, with a very liberal vice president and a Democratic Congress. America doesn't need Carter II."

Like Bush, Quayle called for "Congress to get out of the way" and on voters to force them out, borrowing a line from Gore's acceptance speech to make his point. "There is only one thing to say about the spend-everything, block-everything, know-nothing Democratic Congress: It is time for them to go," Quayle said.

Around Houston, the final day of the convention meant a final day of protests, with three dozen anti-abortion protesters arrested at clinic blockades.

There were parties to the end, too, and as they readied to head home, delegates had kind words for their host city, if a few headaches and hangovers as well.

"It's been a Texas-sized party and Texas-sized fun," said California's Mary Jean Duran.

Man killed in Turkey family feud

TURKEY, Texas (AP) - A 62-year-old man has been charged with the murder of his brother-in-law, with whom he had been feuding over boundary lines, water rights and rights-of-way on adjacent property.

Weldon Paul Cruse, of Turkey, was freed on $20,000 bond Thursday. He was charged earlier that day with the murder of Eddie Dale Timmons, 49, of Northfield.

Timmons was found dead Thursday morning of a gunshot wound to the head, Hall County Sheriff Kenny Schull said. Timmons' body had been burned and placed in a trash can in an alley in Turkey, Schull said.

District Attorney David McCoy told the Amarillo Globe-News that Timmons had been shot in the head from point-blank range with a 12-gauge shotgun in a field east of Turkey.

Cruse and Timmons had inherited adjacent parcels of land from the estate of Timmons' late father, Pete Timmons, said Motley County Sheriff Alton Marshall. Cruse is married to Eddie Dale Timmons' sister.

McCoy said Timmons had him write at least two letters to Cruse about six months ago in an effort to settle the feud over the land rights.

McCoy said Cruse consented to have his property searched when law enforcement officials went to his home in Turkey on Thursday morning. Officials found blood in an old ambulance parked on Cruse's property, then discovered Timmons' body in the alley, McCoy said.

Janice Timmons reported her husband missing late Wednesday night when he failed to return home from a trip to Turkey, said Texas Ranger Leo Hickman of Childress.

She drove to the leased land and found her husband's cap, which had been penetrated by buckshot and had blood on it, Schull said.

The case will be presented to a Hall County grand jury on Sept. 8, McCoy said.

City begins seal coating

Seal-coating is being applied to nine miles of Hereford streets at a cost of $107,638.

The summer street work began Thursday. Contractor is Lipham Construction of Aspermont.

Work on the streets was delayed by rainy weather and cool temperatures, said City Manager Chester Nolen.

The street repair is not localized in any particular area of Hereford. Streets in all parts of the city are getting attention.

Yeltsin: no second coup

MOSCOW (AP) - President Boris Yeltsin predicted today that life will get harder for Russians in the autumn and he said his political opponents would try to take advantage of the discontent.

But Yeltsin, speaking at a news conference on the first anniversary of the failure of the coup by hard-line Communists, also said he believed there would be no second attempt to stage a putsch.

"I am personally convinced that there will be a normal August and September, but then a hard October," he told reporters in the Kremlin.

"That's when the political games will begin."

While Yeltsin said there was no guarantee there would not be "mass dissatisfaction" among the Russian people, he said he was convinced "deep inside" that there would be no attempt to overthrow him. "There will be no Putsch-2."

"There is no base for it as far as leadership and power structures are concerned," the Russian president said.

Clinton's camp assails speech

DETROIT (AP) - Bill Clinton today opens the struggle for crucial battleground states, itching to tar President Bush as a betrayer of the middle-class. His campaign ridiculed Bush's tax plan as "a blatant attempt to buy the election."

While Bush delivered his convention acceptance speech, Clinton worked into the night Thursday crafting his own message on the economy, to be delivered today to the Detroit Economic Club. He had an early morning appearance before the National Association of Black Journalists.

Clinton and running mate Al Gore planned to showcase jobs and the economy during a weekend bus trip through Ohio and Pennsylvania.

"Clinton wants to make this a great debate on the economy," said strategist Paul Begala. "The Republicans cut taxes on the rich and put the burden on the middle class. Clinton wants to raise taxes on the rich and help the middle class."

The Clinton campaign issued a blistering preview of the Democrat's counter-argument to Bush's promise to offer an across-the-board tax cut if re-elected.

"This proposal is one of the most cynical ploys ever attempted by a presidential candidate - it's nothing but a blatant attempt to buy this election," said Clinton communications director George Stephanopoulos.

Bush's convention-night promise "makes 'read my lips' look truthful and responsible," Stephanopoulos said in a statement.

The Clinton campaign said Bush distorted Clinton's stand on taxes by saying the Arkansas governor would pay through the biggest tax hike in history.

"The president lied," Stephanopoulos said.

While Clinton's message today was expected to be driven largely by Bush's speech, aides said the Democratic nominee would keep drumming on the "people first" economic strategy he's used all year.

In addition, the Arkansas governor is likely to keep up his attack on Bush as someone who reneges on promises, such as his "no new taxes" pledge in 1988.

"George Bush has betrayed the middle class," Begala said. "Bush said read my lips, then he picked our pockets."

The economic plan Clinton issued in June calls for, among other things, a $20 billion a year investment in roads, bridges and technology, a tax increase on Americans making more than $200,000 a year and a middle-class tax cut.

Clinton picked Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania for the first full-fledged weekend of the fall presidential race. They're states that went to Bush in 1988 but are viewed as battlegrounds this year, said Clinton spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers.

She said Clinton would pay particular attention to towns like Erie, Pa., and Youngstown, Ohio, because the region has been especially hard-hit by the struggling economy.

New round of shelling rocks Sarajevo

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) - Shells hit the capital's main hospital and set government headquarters ablaze overnight in one of the fiercest bombardments in weeks, as Sarajevo awaited aid promised by Serb-dominated Yugoslavia.

This morning, hospital officials reported at least 11 people were injured overnight.

The barracks came a day after the Serbs, Muslims and Croats who are battling around Sarajevo agreed to put all their heavy weapons under U.N. control. There was no word on when the accord would take effect.

The Belgrade-based Tanjug news agency reported that forces of the Muslim-dominated Bosnian government shelled the Serb headquarters at Pale, east of Sarajevo, late Thursday.

In the capital, one mortar hit a U.N. barracks and set it ablaze Thursday night, U.N. officials said they had no reports of casualties. Earlier Thursday, a Ukrainian peacekeeper was shot and killed by sniper fire. He was the second U.N. soldier to die in Bosnia.

Mortars and rockets also hit the parliament and presidency buildings, setting both ablaze. The grounds of Kosevo Hospital were hit twice.

Late Thursday, the sky in downtown Sarajevo turned red as the presidency building, the central government installation, burned. Two shells blasted into the building, blowing a hole in the first floor and knocking a chunk out of the top floor of the massive building.

Smoke snaked skyward over the southwestern suburb of Dobrinja near the airport, and small fires burned there.

In all, the Ministry of Health reported that in the city, 11 people were killed and 55 wounded in a total of 41 people were killed and 202 wounded across Bosnia since late Wednesday, the ministry reported Thursday.

Sarajevo's airport was reopened for the first time following a two-day closure ordered after militiamen locked radar onto a British Hercules transport plane and fired anti-aircraft machine guns.

The first plane to touch down with vital aid for the hungry city of 300,000 was the same British Hercules targeted Tuesday, manned with the same crew.

The U.N. commander in Bosnia, Gen. Satish Nambiar, had announced Wednesday that the airport would reopen after he received assurances from "all sides in the conflict" that relief flights would not be harmed.

Despite the pledge, mortar shells landed near the hills surrounding Sarajevo's airport Thursday, kicking up huge plumes of smoke.

The war in Bosnia has claimed at least 8,000 lives - U.S. Senate investigators say 35,000 - since Muslims and Croats voted on Feb. 29 for independence.

Workers praised for efforts at plant

Firefighters hampered by lack of water supply

ODESSA (AP) - Champion Technologies Inc. officials praised workers who responded to a chemical explosion despite a four-hour delay in getting water to the scene.

Seven people suffered minor skin irritation and breathing problems while extinguishing the lightning-sparked fire at the plant Thursday. About 4,000 residents northwest of the plant were evacuated from their homes and businesses for several hours Thursday.

Firefighters set up to begin battling the blaze, but "there was no water supply. We had plenty of personnel and plenty of equipment," Battalion Chief J.C. Decker said.

The delay in obtaining water was caused by tanks which did not match fire department equipment, according to Richard Finley, general manager of technical operations for the company.

Water was ultimately pumped in from across U.S. Highway 80.

"Sometimes it looks like the response is slow and may be haphazard but in the midst of all the confusion it appears there is an organized effort going about," said Don Smith, senior on-scene coordinator for the Environmental Protection Agency.

"You engineer your systems as best you can. It gets to a point where you've done the best you can ...," Smith said. "But when God does act, obviously we don't have a whole lot of control over that."

A methanol-based corrosion inhibitor called RU189, along with 400 blends of chemicals which were contained in 2,800 55-gallon drums were involved in the explosion, said Pam Reed, Texas Water Commissioner.

The small amounts of water that could be transported by tanker trucks were used to hose down nearby chemical tanks, primarily to keep those filled with toxic anhydrous ammonia from erupting.

"Some runoff from firefighters' hoses drained into a nearby lake and gullies near the adjacent railroad tracks," Ms. Reed said.

"The fire department built a dam, burned the area, and vacuumed water and soil from the lake," she said.

Environmental officials testing soil, water and air near the sight of the chemical fire are downplaying the possibilities of contamination.

But results of samples taken Thursday aren't due until next week.

"Much of the material in a wafting haze trapped by low clouds just dissipated," said Charlie Sims, regional director of the Texas Air Control Board.

"Get the material off you, off your car, as quickly as possible. But it is not something that people should get exceedingly worried about," Ms. Reed said.

Ms. Reed advised people in the area to take 15-minute soapy showers, not use their swimming pools, and see doctors for eye or breathing problems.

"Most of the chemicals possibly involved should not hurt humans or the environment," Ms. Reed said.

Deaf Smith County Judge Tom Simons recently received a non-negotiable check for $47,800 from the RSVP program in Deaf Smith County. The check signifies over 9,000 hours of volunteer service given by members of the program in Hereford and Deaf Smith County.

Major breakthrough in testing may speed cystic fibrosis cure

WASHINGTON (AP) - Experimental cystic fibrosis drugs that require a year of human testing may be tested in only 15 days with a new gene-altered mouse that researchers hope ultimately will point them toward a cure.

Scientists at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill reported in the journal Science today they have manipulated the genetic structure in a strain of mice to create the first animal model of cystic fibrosis.

Leaders of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation called development of the CF mouse "a major victory" in the battle against one of the most common inherited lethal maladies.

"This model provides scientists with a critical new tool to develop treatments for CF," said Robert K. Dresing, president of the foundation, which paid for some of the work. "It should also significantly speed our progress toward the ultimate cure."

Dr. Richard Boucher, co-author of the study, said the new mouse "will allow us to answer questions in a safe manner" and arrive at an understanding of CF not possible now.

It also should speed development of new drugs, he said.

"CF is a chronic disease and most kids live until age 26 or so. To really answer whether a drug is useful takes six to 12 months," Boucher said in an interview. "In mice you can answer that question in perhaps 15 days."

Cystic fibrosis is a genetic disorder passed from parents to children. About 30,000 Americans have the disease and about 1,400 new cases are diagnosed annually in the United States. But specialists estimate that more than 12 million Americans - about one in 20 - carry the CF gene.

The disorder causes a breakdown in the system that removes salt from cells lining the lungs, the intestines and some other organs. A thick, sticky mucus forms that can block the enzymes or prevent the secretion of enzymes from the pancreas. Most CF deaths occur when the mucus clogs the lungs and leads to infection and progressive lung damage.

The gene for CF was first cloned by researchers at the University of Michigan three years ago. Labs around the world then scrambled to use that discovery to manipulate genes in mice.

To make the CF mouse, North Carolina researcher John N. Snouwaert inserted into the cells of mouse embryos a mutated gene that displaces the normal genes in some of the cells.

"The result is that you disrupt the normal function of the (displaced) gene," said Snouwaert. "It no longer makes the protein that in normal people would prevent them from having cystic fibrosis."

The embryonic cells with the altered genes were put into other mouse embryos, which were then implanted into a foster mother mouse.

When the mouse mother gives birth, some of the pups are what scientists call "mosaic mice." These are mice whose cells are a mosaic of genetic patterns, with some cells containing the normal pattern and others having the altered version.

These mice are then selectively bred to produce offspring with symptoms of cystic fibrosis.

"When the offspring of mosaic mice are bred together, about one in four will carry the altered gene and have the mouse version of cystic fibrosis," said Snouwaert.

Royal family held up to ridicule by photos of Duchess of York

LONDON (AP) - Photos of a topless Duchess of York cavorting with and kissing an American millionaire have bruised the royals' dignity - and prompted calls for cutting off their taxpayer-provided allowance.

The Daily Mirror printed a first batch of surreptitiously taken pictures Thursday, and followed up today with more scenes of the duchess, who is separated from Prince Andrew, vacationing with John Bryan on the French Riviera.

A page 1 picture today shows the duchess sitting on Bryan's shoulders as they play in a swimming pool at a private villa in St. Tropez.

"This sort of thing does undermine the royal family," said Conservative legislator John Townsend on Thursday.

"The impression of the royal family as an international laughing-stock is hard to resist," The Independent said today.

The newspaper predicted the scandal will revive demands for taxpayers' handouts of nearly $19 million a year to royals be limited to Queen Elizabeth II and immediate family members.

Andrew, fourth in line to the throne, and his wife, the former Sarah Ferguson also known as Fergie, share a $480,570 annual stipend.

Harold Brooks-Baker, publisher of Burke's Peerage, a guide to the aristocracy, said: "One does not like to see an admired institution dragged through the mud like this. This is not just a nail in the coffin, it's a whole handful of nails."

The royals, once depicted as an ideal family, have been shaken several times over the years.

The queen's sister Princess Margaret and husband Lord Snowdon divorced in 1978.

The queen's only daughter, Princess Anne, and husband Mark Phillips divorced in April.

In March, Andrew and the duchess, who married in 1986, separated.

In June, a book on Princess Diana claimed she made several halfhearted suicide bids because of the indifference of her husband, heir-to-the throne Prince Charles.

Bryan, a Wilmington, Del., native who grew up in Houston, is an executive for Oceanics Deutschland in Frankfurt, Germany. He had unsuccessfully sought a court injunction to keep the Mirror from publishing the photos.

The photographs were snapped last week by a free-lance paparazzo.

Queso dip recalled by maker

AUSTIN (AP) - Some batches of chile con queso sold under the brand names of Jimenez, Calidad and Old San Antonio have been recalled by the company that made the cheese dip, state health officials have said.

R.G. Mexican Foods Inc. of San Antonio voluntarily ordered a recall of the product because it could allow the growth of dangerous bacteria, the Texas Department of Health said.

The company notified the state Thursday that most, if not all, of the recalled cheese dip has been replaced with safe products bearing the same brand names, the department said.

People are advised to return containers bearing certain codes to the store where they purchased them, said Dan Sowards, chief of the food branch of the department's division of food and drugs.

He said those are codes starting with the letters A through F, codes beginning with the letter M, and the codes G693 or G893.

The department said the batches could pose a potential danger of botulism, a severe form of food poisoning.

Botulism results from toxins produced by a particular bacteria, the department said. People who consume the toxins may suffer paralysis and, in extreme cases, cardiac arrest, it said.

Sowards said the bacteria had not been found in the product. But health officials in an inspection found that the batches in question were made using a process that could allow the bacteria's growth, he said.

Life!

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have let behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet you've never received a letter from a dog before. Well, there's always a first. This is a message from an adorable mutt who lives next door to me. I understand dog language and wrote this down for him and promised to mail it to his master. I made an extra copy for you, Ann. I hope you will print it.

"DEAR FOLKS" Well, you're off again and it's only 7 a.m. Will it be 10:00 or 11:00 tonight when you return? Thanks for leaving me some food, but it's too cold to eat out here. Well, I guess now that I've knocked over my water I'll chew on the porch for a while.

"That nice man next door will be over here pretty soon to give me some fresh water. I'm always glad to see him because he talks to me. Gee, I'm lonesome.

"I can't figure out why you people got me. I have never seen what the house looks like--except the kitchen, late at night for a few hours. Please, will you let me eat a meal inside once in a while?"

"I'm only 6 months old. I know I've grown a lot since I was a puppy and I'm not as cute as I used to be, but please don't greet me with, 'Bad dog,' just because I chew open the plastic garbage bags. I have to do SOMETHING while I'm tied up here for 12 or 14 hours.

"Here comes that nice lady walking her dog. Boy, is HE a lucky hound. I wish someone would take ME for a walk. Well--I guess I'll chew on the porch for a while."--Sad Mutt

DEAR MUTT: Write again when you get to eat inside and see what the rest of the house looks like. Your letter would melt a heart of stone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please--a word of advice to those of us who are victims of octopus people.

What are they? Well, they are individuals who grab hold of you when they talk. They get a grip on your hand (or BOTH hands) and won't let go. Or they'll put an arm around your waist--very chummy--or put their hands on your shoulders in a death grip. Get the idea?

Sometimes, upon greeting, they give you a rib-crushing hug or grab you around the neck and knock your hat off or bend your eyeglasses.

I've had it with these physical types and if you don't tell me how to protect myself, I'm going to get rude.--Over 50 and Hands Off, Please

DEAR OVER 50: Your best defense is a strong offense. You know by this time who the bone-crushers are. When you see one coming, give him the stiff arm. With a warm smile and some fancy footwork you can protect yourself without being rude to someone who means well but lacks sensitivity.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm usually not at a loss for words, but I need help with this one. Please tell me--and countless others--how one tells a gentleman that his zipper is unzipped. Sign me--Blushing But Tongue-Tied in Trenton

DEAR B.BUT T.T.: You tell the gentleman promptly and in simple language. Here's a sample sentence: "You've forgotten to zip your zipper." Confidential to Friend or Phony: The best way to judge an individual is by observing how he treats people who can do him absolutely no good.

DEAR READERS: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them.--Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday I looked out of my kitchen window and could have sworn I saw an old cow across the way, munching grass between two houses. I was just about to shout to my husband and tell him a cow had wandered out of the pasture and to go put her back in. Thank heavens I was interrupted by a phone call.

After a second look out the window, I discovered the "cow" was my mother-in-law wearing saddle pants. Three weeks ago, I was frightened by the sight of a tramp hanging around the machine shed. It was dusk, and I quickly locked all the doors. A few minutes later, I saw my husband walking toward the tramp. When they embraced, I nearly fainted. The "tramp" was his mother.

To put it bluntly, Ann, the woman looks so down at the heels that it makes me sick. She also scares the daylight out of me. My mother-in-law is 74 years old, has plenty of money and is in good health. What can I do about this revolting situation?--Fargo, N.D.

DEAR FARGO: Nothing. At her age, she is not likely to change. So grin and bear it, honey. I hope your eyesight remains good. And thank heavens you aren't trigger-happy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl whose 15-year-old brother is driving not only ME nuts, but the whole family as well. All he thinks about is his hair.

There is only one full bathroom in this house. We all have to wait to get in because "Eric" is either shampooing his golden locks or using the blow dryer. Would you believe he goes through this routine every morning and every evening, and on weekends, he does it three times a day!!!!

Eric helps himself to all my hair spray, rollers, pins, shampoo, conditioner--whatever he can lay his hands on. This kid is in front of the mirror about 80 percent of the time. Last summer, he wouldn't go swimming because he was afraid of getting his hair wet and not having a blow dryer handy. When it rains, he puts on a plastic hood and looks like a dunce.

Any suggestions on how to cure this loon of what appears to be an obsession with his hair?--Sis

DEAR SIS: He's 15? Time is your best ally. In the meantime, the family should insist he blow-dry elsewhere and free up the bathroom. And you should make him buy his own beauty supplies, Sis.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Just one question: Why do people who would never dream of asking a fat woman how much she weighs consider it perfectly OK to ask a well-proportioned woman who is 6 feet 1 inch tall, "How tall are you?"

I'm a fairly good-natured person but you would not believe the astonishment on some faces when I circumvent the question.

I ought to tell them, "The weather is just fine up here, you creeps."--Tall Enough, Thanks

DEAR T.E.T.: In answer to your question, in case you forgot you asked: They are insensitive clods. There is no other explanation.

Is that Ann Landers column you clipped years ago yellow with age? Herd fresh, sophs scrimmage Herd freshmen and sophomores scrimmaged against their Plainview counterparts in two separate scrimmages Thursday in Hereford. The freshmen didn't allow a touchdown while scoring three themselves. Ronald Torres and Kyle Goldsmith scored for the A team: Torres on a 55-yard pass from Wade McPherson and Goldsmith on a 45-yard interception return. For the B team, Duane Thomas had a 60-yard touchdown run.

The sophomores scored twice while allowing two scores. Cody Curtis ran for both of Hereford's touchdowns.

"The things we've worked on during spring--attitude, working hard--those things we achieved," said coach Danny Haney, who spent time at both scrimmages. "We got to look at lots and lots of players: four different groups with 22 players to a team. The things I liked is they played hard, they got after it. We made lots of mistakes, but both those classes--that freshman and sophomore class--have lots of potential."

There has been some movement of coaches which has affected the ninth grade and junior high. James Salinas, Chris Christopher and Henry Perez will coach ninth grade athletics. All three coached at HJH last year, and Salinas will remain the coordinator there. They replace Curtis Cotten, who is now the head baseball coach in Friona, and Robert Gamboa, who is coaching at a middle school in Amarillo.

There are now six men coaching HJH athletics. John Nino, Key

Scrimmage will be at 6

Tonight's scrimmage between Hereford's juniors and seniors and Plainview's has been moved to 6 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium. It was originally scheduled for 7 p.m.

Harrison and Rodney Allen return. Charlie Garza was a teacher at HHS and a volunteer track assistant last year. Bobby Nino comes from Dimmitt by way of Seminole, where he coached for a year. Finally, Grant Davis comes from Jal, N.M., where he coached last year.

Hereford freshman David Hicks nails the Plainview quarterback in the backfield and forces a fumble during Thursday's scrimmage.

Hadnot claims he passed

DALLAS (AP) - Suspended Texas running back Butch Hadnot says he has passed two summer school classes necessary to retain academic eligibility and hopes it will be the first step in his return to the team.

Hadnot told The Dallas Morning News he passed, but Texas athletics director DeLoss Dodds said the scores must be officially returned to the athletic department before an announcement is made.

Should Hadnot be eligible, he then must be reinstated by coach John Mackovic. Mackovic suspended the junior running back last week after it was reported he sought a transfer to rival Texas A&M.

"The suspension has helped me adapt. I'm going to stay at Texas and tough it out there," he said.

Mackovic has said that Hadnot's improved schoolwork would only be one step toward his reinstatement.

Hadnot, the 1990 Southwest Conference newcomer of the year, has had trouble adjusting to the new offensive scheme Mackovic has installed.

That's Simple

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - There have been many descriptions of the game of golf over the years including the classic explanation that it's a "humbling game."

The veteran professional, Lon Hinkle, perhaps reduces it to the simplest common denominator.

"Golf is golf," Hinkle said. "You hit the ball, you go find it. Then you hit it again."

Athletics come back to bash Yankees, 8-6

By The Associated Press
The Oakland Athletics' swagger is back. So is their domination of the American League West.

"Last year is behind us," said Carney Lansford, whose three-run homer in the ninth inning gave Oakland an 8-6 victory over the New York Yankees Thursday night. "That wasn't, in my opinion, the real Oakland A's. There were so many injuries."

Lansford was one of those injuries - he missed virtually the entire season with knee problems after a snowmobiling accident. The injuries reduced the mighty A's to lowly also-rans - partly because they were 0-68 when trailing after eight innings.

On Thursday, though, they looked like the old A's.

Held to one run through 6 2-3 innings by rookie Sam Miltello, they cut a 6-1 deficit to 6-5 when Jose Canseco greeted reliever John Habyan with a grand slam. Lansford connected in the ninth off Steve Farr (1-2).

Jeff Parrett (8-1) pitched two perfect innings for the victory and Dennis Eckersley got three outs for his major league-leading 38th save in 39 chances.

The victory, combined with Cleveland's 2-1, 10-inning victory over Minnesota, increased the margin to six games.

Rangers 6, White Sox 1

Rookie Roger Pavlik lost his shutout with only one strike to go, but won the game in Chicago for his first major league victory.

Pavlik (1-1), who gave up six runs and retired only one batter in his last start against Detroit, pitched a six-hitter for his first complete game. The only run he allowed came on George Bell's 20th homer on an 0-2 pitch with two outs in the ninth inning.

Juan Gonzalez hit his 31st home run for Texas and Brian Downing had a three-run shot, his 15th. Both blows came against Charlie Hough (5-10).

Indians 2, Twins 1

Paul Sorrento, traded from Minnesota to Cleveland earlier this year, doubled home the winning run with one out in the 10th inning. The Indians completed a three-game sweep at home and sent the Twins to their season-worst fifth straight loss.

The Indians got only three hits, including two by Sorrento and a solo homer by Mark Whiten in the seventh inning. Kevin Tapani (13-8) pitched the whole way, his longest effort in the majors.

Albert Belle walked with one out in the 10th and Sorrento doubled into the left-field corner. Belle barely beat the relay home.

Orioles 2, Mariners 1

Mike Devereaux tripled home the tying run in the eighth inning, then hit a sacrifice fly in the 10th to win it at Camden Yards.

Brady Anderson led off the 10th with a triple into the right-field corner against Mike Schooler (1-6). Devereaux fled to medium-deep left and Anderson scored easily as the throw bounced back through the infield.

Storm Davis pitched 2 1-3 scoreless innings. He escaped a bases-loaded jam in the ninth by getting Tino Martinez to ground into a pitcher-to-home-to-first double play.

Brewers 16, Blue Jays 3

A traffic jam on the highway leading to County Stadium prompted officials to delay the game's start for 20 minutes. Once it began, the 34,702 fans saw Robin Yount and the Brewers clog the bases in their highest-scoring game of the season.

Yount, whose drive toward 3,000 hits had been stalled by a 1-for-33 slump, drove in three runs with a triple, double and single. He now has 2,977 career hits.

Darryl Hamilton and Paul Molitor also drove in three runs each.

The Brewers got 18 hits, including eight doubles and John Jaha's home run.

David Wells (7-7) was pounded for 13 runs on 11 hits and four walks in 4 1-3 innings. He left during a five-run fifth that made it 13-2.

Bill Wegman (11-10) pitched seven innings for the easy victory. He gave up Pat Borders' home run.

Angels 2, Red Sox 0

Bert Blyleven earned his 286th career victory as four California pitchers blanked Boston on six hits at Fenway Park.

Blyleven (7-5) gave up three hits in 6 1-3 innings. Relievers Scott Bailes and Chuck Crim set up Joe Grahe's 16th save.

The Angels scored twice in the second inning against Danny Darwin (6-6). Chad Curtis drew a leadoff walk, Lee Stevens followed with an RBI double and Gary DiSarcina hit a run-scoring single. Darwin struck out nine in seven innings.

Wallach's heroics spoil Braves' day

By The Associated Press

The Atlanta Braves were three outs away from their 21st shutout of the season and a seven-game lead in the National League West when everything went wrong.

Slow-footed Tim Wallach hit a game-tying double in the ninth and then scored from second base on a ground ball to third as the Montreal Expos rallied to defeat the Braves 3-2 Thursday night at Olympic Stadium.

Despite the loss, Atlanta has a six-game lead over Cincinnati in the West. The second-place Expos stayed four games in back of Pittsburgh in the NL East.

Marquis Grissom and Larry Walker opened the Expos' ninth with singles. Alejandro Pena (1-6) then relieved Steve Avery and Moises Alou's sacrifice moved the runners to second and third. Wallach's double over the head of speedy center fielder Deion Sanders scored two runs, tying the game.

"I wasn't surprised he was playing shallow because he has the speed and wanted to be able to throw a runner out at the plate," Wallach said.

Pena then walked John Vander Wal intentionally and struck out pinch-hitter Darren Fletcher. Wil Cordero hit a slow grounder to third and beat third baseman Mark Lemke's throw to first. Wallach, shocking everyone, scored all the way from second when he just beat Brian Hunter's throw to the plate.

"That's the first time I've ever done that," Wallach said. "I don't think anyone expected me to do it, including me. I just saw the situation and went for it. I knew there was a left-handed first baseman and that the play would be close."

Pirates 7, Padres 1

At Three Rivers Stadium, Danny

Jackson (6-11) gave up five hits in seven innings and Lloyd McClendon homered.

McClendon hit a solo homer in the second inning. He added a run-scoring single after Andy Van Slyke's RBI triple in the Pirates' two-run sixth against Craig Lefferts (12-8).

Cardinals 3, Astros 1

At Busch Memorial Stadium, Bob Tewksbury (13-5) allowed four hits in eight innings and Bernard Gilkey snapped a tie with a home run to lead off the sixth inning.

Gilkey hit a 3-2 pitch from Butch Henry (4-9) over the left-field wall for his fourth home run, breaking a 1-1 tie. Rex Hudler added his second pinch home run of the season in the eighth to chase Henry.

Mets 11, Dodgers 4

At Dodger Stadium, Bobby Bonilla and Mackey Sasser helped pull New York out of a scoring drought with consecutive homers in a four-run fourth.

The Mets won for only the second time in 14 games and ended a five-game losing streak, as Sid Fernandez (10-9) won for the first time in five starts since July 24.

Cubs 6, Giants 5

At Candlestick Park, Andre Dawson drove in four runs with a pair of two-out hits and Jose Vizcaino tripled twice and drove in Chicago's other two runs.

San Francisco scored twice in the ninth before pinch-hitter Mike Felder popped up with runners on first and third to end the game. Felder was batting in Will Clark's spot after Clark was ejected in the eighth inning for arguing a play at first base.

Sierra may be traded

DALLAS (AP) - All-Star slugger Ruben Sierra might soon be a former Texas Rangers outfielder.

The club has put itself in a position to trade Sierra, obtaining the waivers needed to trade him earlier this month, The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The newspaper also quoted two unidentified major league officials saying the Rangers had indicated a willingness to trade their right-fielder.

Sierra, who can become a free agent after this season, has just one home run and 7 RBIs since the All-Star break. He has been booed regularly by Arlington Stadium fans and recently reacted by sarcastically tipping his batting helmet to the crowd after a pop out.

Expectations for Sierra were high entering the season after he won a $5 million salary in arbitration last February. Sierra's representatives have held no substantive contract talks since the arbitration hearing.

Rangers general manager Tom Grieve said the probability of keeping Sierra are "about 50-50."

"Anytime you have a player who can become a free agent and your chances of signing him are less than 50-50, you have to look at your alternatives," Grieve said. "I'd say our chances are about 50-50, maybe a little less."

If Sierra becomes a free agent, Texas would get either a first- or second-round draft pick from the team that signs him. The Rangers also would get an extra pick between the first and second rounds.

Grieve said any trade would depend on topping those returns.

"I can't see anything happening. For us to do a deal, the return would have to be significantly better than the draft choices we would get," he said.

In order for Sierra to be eligible for post-season play, a contending team would have to trade for him by Aug. 31.

Sierra, who batted .298 and averaged 23 homers and 110 RBIs from 1989-91, is hitting .276 with 12 homers and 62 RBIs.

Hurray! It's almost football time, and dove season opens on Sept. 1. A quick trip to the gun club and a few rounds of trap or skeet will greatly improve your hunting success on the first trip. The eye-hand coordination required to chase down the speedy mourning dove requires practice. You can either practice at the skeet range or in front of your buddies during that first hunt.

Most gun clubs will permit non-members to use their facilities for slightly higher use fees. Gun clubs are great fun, and don't be surprised if you suddenly decide to join one. The members enjoy all kinds of hunting and they are a great source of information on the availability of some great hunting leases.

Just returned from Fort Worth, where my father and I attended the 1992 edition of Hunter's Extravaganza. The entire Will Rogers Coliseum was packed with the newest and best hunting products. The hit of the show was a new camouflage pattern called Diamondback. Most commercial camouflage is patterned after plants, but the best camouflage is worn by nature's creators. This unique scale design was developed by Ben Johnson of Rowlett. Diamondback is good-looking and is the perfect gift for any hunter, because Ben maintains excellent quality at reasonable prices. This new pattern is not yet available in stores, but a catalog can be obtained by calling (214) 475-5958. A complete selection of Diamondback clothing is definitely on my birthday and Christmas lists.

Hunters, please be careful!--Thirteen hunting fatalities and a total of 81 accidents were reported in Texas during 1991. Rifles were involved in 32 of the accidents, shotguns in 42 and handguns in seven, according to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department figures. Terry Erwin, recreation programs director, recommends that everyone take hunter education regardless of age. A course is required for all hunters born after Sept. 2, 1971. For more information on hunter education courses, call 1-800-792-1112, extension 4999.

$65,000 crappie!--If the Alabama-based Crappieathon people can sell enough local sponsorships, they definitely want to come to Lake Meredith in the spring of 1993. Crappieathon USA is a 60-day family-oriented fishing derby that allows any angler who has pre-purchased a $10 entry ticket to catch a tagged crappie worth from $25 up to possibly $65,000. For more sponsor information, call Jim Climer at (205) 353-8447.

After getting some local sponsors, Jim's next problem will be catching the 1,000 crappie that must be tagged and released. Good thing he is not trying to put on a Bassthus.

Warning!--All Texas hunting and fishing licenses expire on Aug. 31.

Mel Phillips is an award-winning member of the Texas Outdoor Writers Association. He is an avid hunter, tournament fisherman and host of a Wednesday evening talk show on KGNC TalkRadio 71.

COWBOYS

They both missed practice time during the week as the Cowboys prepared for the 8 p.m. exhibition game against the Broncos in Texas Stadium. Both teams are 1-2 in preseason.

Johnson has said he is more likely to play the lineup that will start against the Redskins than he will Friday night Aug. 28, when the Cowboys wrap their preseason with a Texas Stadium game against Mike Ditka's Chicago Bears.

Aikman had muscle problems in his back while Beuerlein got a back bruise in last week's game against the Houston Oilers.

Backup tailback Curvin Richards has a lacerated kidney which could keep him out of action for a week.

Dallas receivers Alvin Harper and Alexander Wright were nursing injuries during the week. Wright had slight knee problem and Harper also has a back problem. Both were listed as doubtful for the game.

The Cowboys were also counting on getting a look at placekicker Lin Elliott. He's still nursing a groin injury.

Johnson said "the injuries are nothing to be concerned about. It would be a concern if we were playing the Redskins this week."

Dallas fans won't be seeing former Cowboys quarterback Steve Pelluer, who was signed as a Plan B free agent from Kansas City as a Broncos backup to John Elway. The Broncos cut him early in the week, leaving second-year Shawn Moore and rookie Tommy Maddox as the only backup quarterbacks.

The Cowboys and Denver will play again in the regular season on Dec. 6 at Mile High Stadium.

Dallas and Denver are 2-2 in preseason games and haven't met since the Broncos won an overtime game 24-21 in 1989.

Odds makers installed the Cowboys as four-point favorites.

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Bruce Springsteen says it wasn't his idea to start his U.S. tour in the state whose roads and beaches pervade his songs.

The Boss told reporters before a show Monday that it was his manager's idea for homecoming concerts in New Jersey following the European leg of the tour.

"I wouldn't have come up with it myself. I'd have said, 'Gee, maybe we can start somewhere out of the way,'" said Springsteen, who grew up in Freehold and got his start playing clubs along the shore. He now lives in Los Angeles.

The tour kicked off after the dual release of his first albums since 1988, "Human Touch" and "Lucky Town."

It is his first tour without his backup group, the E Street Band, named for a road in Belmar.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Glenn Ford has returned home after spending weeks in the hospital for treatment of blood clots and other ailments.

The 76-year-old star of "Cimarron" and "The Blackboard Jungle" was released on Tuesday from Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

He underwent surgery for blood clots in his lower extremities and to repair an ulcer at the base of the esophagus, hospital spokesman Ron Wise said.

Supplement vitamins not necessary for kids

Children will get the vitamins and minerals they need if parents sidestep the supplements and focus on the four major food groups, says Dr. Kathleen J. Motil at the USDA's Children's Nutrition Research Center in Houston.

"Even the most finicky eater will get enough vitamins and minerals with a varied diet including meat, dairy products, grains and fruits and vegetables," says Motil, assistant professor of pediatrics at Baylor College of Medicine.

"Children's vitamin and mineral preparations really treat the parent rather than the child. They provide parental peace of mind," she said.

Motil urges parents to exercise caution if they insist on over-the-counter supplements.

Vitamins can be potentially toxic, she warns. More is not always better, a megadoses of vitamins can be harmful.

"Too much iron can be fatal, and there are cases where excess vitamin A and D can damage the kidneys, heart, and brain," she said.

Motil believes supplements should only be given under the care of a physician for specific medical reasons such as a chronic illness, teen pregnancy, or eating disorders.

However, she points out that a pediatrician may decide to recommend a fluoride supplement, available alone and in combination with vitamins, if there is insufficient fluoride in the drinking water.

Why are supplements so popular?

"We are only two generations removed from the era where vitamin deficiencies were real. Vitamins were even identified as required nutrients in the 1930s," Motil said.

"People began taking vitamins because they thought they were the cure-all for a number of ills. Like all things it takes two or three generations to see a change in attitude."

For parents who want to leave supplements behind, Motil provides the following dietary refresher:

To make sure your child gets adequate iron, serve red meat and liver, poultry and fish, legumes, fortified cereals, enriched whole-grain breads, dark-leafy vegetables and dried fruits.

Calcium is found in milk, cheese, yogurt, salmon and broccoli.

For vitamin C, try citrus fruits, green peppers, tomatoes, broccoli and strawberries. Cantaloupe and apricots are rich in Vitamin A.

The B vitamins can be found in meats, fish, poultry, grains and cereals, sweet potatoes, bananas and eggs.

If parents are concerned about their child's eating habits, Motil encourages them to consult their pediatrician or a registered dietitian who specializes in children's nutrition.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.
 This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE HARD LIFE OF THE MESSENGER

MESSENGERS IN BIBLICAL TIMES WERE IMPORTANT PERSONAGES. THEY CARRIED DICATES OF KINGS, GENERALS, AND STATESMEN, WITH GREAT DISPATCH ALTHOUGH THEIRS WAS NOT A JOB TO BE SOUGHT AFTER. THEIR TRAVELS WERE HAZARDOUS, THEIR HOURS WERE LONG, AND VERY OFTEN THEIR WORK WENT UNAPPRECIATED. IN FACT, IF THEY HAPPEDED TO BE BEARERS OF EVIL TIDINGS THEIR OWN LIVES COULD BE ENDANGERED DUE TO THE FACT THAT OFTEN THE RECIPIENTS OF THE BAD NEWS WOULD ORDER THE DEATH OF THE MESSENGER WHO BROUGHT SUCH UNPLEASANT TIDINGS. ALSO, IT WAS NOT UNCOMMON FOR GROUPS OF MEN TO IMPEDE THE PROGRESS OF A MESSENGER TO KEEP THE COMMUNICATIONS FROM BEING DELIVERED FOR POLITICAL REASONS. MORE THAN ONE HAPLESS COURIER FELL VICTIM TO A ROADSIDE AMBUSH RESULTING IN CONFIDENTIAL MISSIVES FALLING INTO THE WRONG HANDS.
