Inspector Points Out County Jail Violations

By BOB NIGH

Managing Editor Deaf Smith County Commissioners, County Judge Glen Nelson, Sheriff Travis McPherson and jailer Herman Villegas were notified of 14 areas of noncompliance within the county jail Tuesday by Texas Commission on Jail Standards Supervising Inspector Joe Slater.

Slater visited the local detention center as part of the yearly inspection process as requires by law. Slater's report will be mailed to the jail standards commission in Austin, and the county will be mailed a notice of noncompliance on the violations.

Slater told the commissioners and jail officials that the local jail census is on the rise, with an average population of 44. That compares to an average census of 32 a year ago. The county jail had had as many as 55 prisoners, with a low of 38.

The inspector said the local increase reflects the general rise in prisoner population as felt across the rest of the state and the nation.

But, some of the violations

The report pointed out that facilities to separate different classifications of prisoners, such as women, juveniles, and "trouble makers", is "becoming inadequate."

The increasing population is putting the jail in the upper half of capacity limits for the housing of prisoners for longer than a 72-hour period. The jail has 60 bunks for such confinement, and the 44 average census is almost 75 percent capacity Slater pointed out.

Other noncompliance areas pointed out by Slater includ-

- Inadequate storage for drugs and medical supplies. - A shower in the misdemeanor tank does not work.

- The misdemeanor tank is overcrowded with 24 prisoners held there with a normal capacity of 18. Also, five work release prisoners are held there, mixed with general population prisoners, which violates the separation

- The separation cell does not have a mirror

- Lighting in the jail is inadequate, due to disabled fixtures and exposed bulbs within the reach of inmates in corridors and safety vestibules.

- Door stops are not provided for swinging detention Maintaining functioning plumbing continues to be a problem.

- Jail records system does not show adequate classifications given to prisoners per classification plan.

- The jail frequently contains over 45 prisoners, and two corrections officers are not always present (one jailer is recommended for every 44 prisoners housed) and jailers are used in court proceedings, reducing supervision as well.

- Inmates housed for more than 30 days are not allowed access to sunlight no less than once weekly.

Jail written plan for physical exercise is not implemented.

Slater also reported that the general level of cleanliness in jail corridors, cell areas, and plumbing chases needs improving, and excess items stored in the trustee area need to be removed.

The county has 30 days after receiving the notice of noncompliance from the standards commission to show that measures are being taken to correct the violations

Four Dead, 71 Injured In Airborne Exercise head or neck injuries," and paratroopers were reported

By BRIAN R. BLAND Associated Press Writer

FORT IRWIN, Calif. (AP) A paratrooper whose pelvis was broken in a huge airborne military exercise that left four dead and 71 injured says a gust of wind hit him about 50 feet above the California desert, snarling the straps of his parachute.

"I hit the ground, rolled about three times and started to pass out," said Army Sqac. 4 Danile Maynard, 24, of New York City, one of 2,300 soldiers who took part Tuesday in the first exercise of units of the Rapid Deployment Force from all four military services.

The jump was one of the largest ever in peacetime U.S. military history. Three of the injured in critical condition with head injuries at Loma Linda University Medical Center, 60 miles from the jump site. Three other soldiers were hospitalized there and five were at other hospitals.

Lt. Gen. Robert C. Kingston, commander of the Rapid Deployment Joint Task Force, said the exercise was conducted in winds varying from 6 to 10 knots. He said 13 knots, about 15 mph, is considered the maximum allowable wind velocity in peacetime training exercises such as Gallant Eagle 82.

Deputy San Bernardino County Coroner Marshall Franey said Tuesday that an external examination of the four bodies showed the men "appeared to have died of Kingston said, "One soldier apparently was dragged." Two paratroopers were killed after their parachutes malfunctioned and the fourth landed on a piece of heavy equipment, officials said.

The 2,300 paratroopers, members of the 82nd Airborne Division from Fort Bragg, N.C., jumped from C-141 jets 800 feet above the Mojave Desert just after dawn Tuesday.

Late Tuesday, two C-130 cargo planes took 60 injured paratroopers to Norton Air Force Base in San Bernardino, where they were loaded onto a C-141 Starlifter for a flight back to Fort Bragg.

Maynard, speaking from his bed at Loma Linda hospital, said the jump had been called off once as the planes approached the drop zones after authorities estimated winds were gusting to 45 mph on the ground. But

Except for some missing tiles on its skin and a few scars and scratches, Columbia was in good shape. WASHINGTON (AP) - Nancy Reagan was nervous. Her speechwriter was worried. Her press secretary's head was throbbing. And her social secretary nearly burst into

All of the White House staff members seemed to feel a personal stake in Mrs. Reagan's self-effacing performance at the annual Gridiron Club dinner Saturday night.

It was a rare chance for the first lady to disarm her critics by poking fun at herself. Mrs. Reagan's staff members, who have stood by helplessly for the past year while their boss was criticized for accepting free clothes and ordering new china, seemed to want her to succeed as much as she did herself.

After two standing ovations, they were elated.

"I had terrible throbbing pains in the back of my head and they were gone as soon as she was finished," said Mrs. Reagan's press secretary, Sheila Tate. "Everybody was so excited."

Even Mrs. Reagan, a former actress, said she did get nervous," said Mrs. Tate.

White House speechwriter Landon Parvin fussed about whether the lyrics he had written with Mrs. Reagan's help

At the end of the act, the first lady's chief of staff, James S. Rosebush, bounded backstage. "And I said, 'Oh, Mrs.

Reagan! That was so terrific!" he recalled. Mrs. Tate said social secretary Muffie Brandon "almost burst into tears" when she heard the applause.

To Mrs. Reagan's delight, her appearance surprised President Reagan as well as the Gridiron's 600 guests at the white-tie affair.

The idea for the first lady's skit took form about 10 days ago when Mrs. Tate contacted Gridiron representatives to see if there would be room for Mrs. Reagan in the show that traditionally lampoons politicians.

Betty Ford and Rosalynn Carter, two former first ladies, were both well received when they appeared in Gridiron skits in past years.

Gridiron representatives suggested Mrs. Reagan sing a number mocking reporters, but the first lady declined, saying she wanted to make fun of herself, her staff said. In the middle of the elegant dinner, Mrs. Reagan left her seat at the head table to change into her costume backstage. Her husband was unaware of where she had

Her aides helped her assemble her outfit - a pair of yellow rubber boots borrowed from Mrs. Brandon's daughter, and a blue-flowered Hawaiian skirt loaned by her secretary's daughter. She added a red print blouse, long fake pearls, a white feather boa and a plumed hat that her staff had made for her last birthday as a joke.

Following a skit that accused her of paying too much attention to clothes, the first lady peeked out of a rack of clothes at an unsuspecting audience and burst into song to the tune of "Secondhand Rose."

Vance and Abie Crume of Hereford were among the disappointed folks who went to White Sands Monday to see the landing of the space shuttle. Abie reports they considered staying over, but due to the question of changing the site they came on home.

Abie said the blowing sand was a little different than the sandstorms on West Texas. "It was a real fine sand, and the visibility would come and go with the gusts of wind." She said the armed forces were much in evidence at the site. "The people who went to watch were very orderly, however, and all the motorists were very careful driving with the poor visibility." Even though the Crumes watched the landing on television, she reported that "having been at the site, we felt a little more aware of what was going on when Columbia

Zapata Posts $2.5 Million Bond for Rig

HOUSTON (AP) - The Zapata Corp. has posted a $2.5 million bond to free a drilling rig that broke loose from its moorings and was seized under salvage laws, company officials say.

A Halifax, Nova Scotia, attorney was authorized Tuesday to post bond to the Canadian government and a harbor master. However, company officials said they were uncertain when the rig would be released.

The 10-story rig, worth $57.2 million, broke loose from its moorings during a March 5 storm in a Halifax harbor. Eight tugboats, five of them property of the Canadian government, captured the rig before it smashed into a

The rig was to be moved to a site about 50 miles south of Halifax on Friday, but lawyers for the Canadian Department of Natural Defense stopped it under a salvage claim.

Donald Kerr, attorney for Zapata, argued the Canadian's expense for retrieving the barge could not have amounted to more than $40,000.

The tugboats' captain and crews had sought an additional $2.5 million bond from Zapata, but they agreed to drop the claim, said Zapata spokesman Barney White.

Fourth Amarillo Man Faces Sentencing In Krugerrand Scheme

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - A fourth Amarillo man still faces sentencing after pleading guilty to participating in a conspiracy to manufacture and sell counterfeit South African Kruge

Former bank president Robert Finis Ringo, 46, was sentenced Tuesday to three concurrent one-year federal prison terms for failing to report loans of more than $10,000 by making the payments in cashier's checks under that amount. David Patrick Merchant, 45, a former Amarillo building contractor now living in the Denver area, has yet to be sentenced. Merchant has pleaded guilty to aiding and abetting Ringo and faces a $500,000 fine, five years in jail or both.

Ringo admitted approving $270,000 worth of loans using the leadcentered, gold-plated South African coins as collateral while he was president of Tascosa National Bank.

U.S. District Judge Mary Lou Robinson could have sentenced Ringo to a maximum of three years in jail and fined him $3,000.

Sidney James Heard, 39, was sentenced Monday to seven years in prison for conspiracy and fraud in the same case. He was accused of scheming to defraud two Houston men by selling them bogus Krugerrands.

Last week, William Lester Lankford, 42, was sentenced to four years in prison for his part in the conspiracy.

The indictments followed a 15-month investigation of organized crime in Amarillo.

NEW YORK (AP) - Worried by the thrift industry's anemic financial condition, which he fears could undermine the economy and confidence in the entire banking system, Harry Keefe has come up with a plan.

It is a plan, he says, that might avert savings bank mergers, panic among savers, the spread of housing's depression, and social chaos. It would seek to do so by channeling savings to the thrifts, making mortgages available, putting builders and appliance suppliers back

The brokerage house of Keefe, Bruyette & Woods Inc., of which he is founder and chairman, specializes in stocks of major commercial banks, analyzing far more than any other securities firm.

youths' anger by making tax-free into a "Homebuyer Account," modeled on an Individual Retirement Account except that the the money would be used for a house instead.

"It would be a unique instrument to suppliers of mortgage money," said Keefe. It could not be offered by money market funds, whose high high interest rates have siphoned money from the thrifts.

In Keefe's view, this would give the thrifts a flow of money to work with and enable them to make mortgages. It would permit people to buy homes.-It would save housing and related industries from collapse - a collapse he fears might spread like cancer. HBAs could be offered only by lenders with a certain percentage of assets in housing, perhaps 30 percent. Interest charges could be administered, maybe pegged to 75 percent of one-year

Treasury Bills Such securities early this week had a bond equivalent yield of a bit more than 14 percent, a rate that would make the cost of money to the thrifts roughly 10.75 percent. Since they need a 2 percent to 2.5 percent spread to make home profitab y, the mortgage rate would be around 13 percent, close percentage points lower than now, said Keefe.

If a couple saved $2,000 each or $4,000 for four years at 9 percent, a rate arbitrarily chosen by Keefe for illustration, they would have $20,000, based on quarterly compounding (many banks compound daily), and might be able to qualify for a house worth $80,000 or even more. Some of the nation's 14,000 commercial banks, many only lightly involved in home mortgages, probably won't like his idea, but others might approve. In effect, between 6,000 and 7,000 commercial banks are part of the thrift system, with 30 percent to 50 percent of assets in mortgages. They would stand to gain deposits and business.

Reagan's Optimistic Forecast forecast for the economy. Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., was the lone dissenter, urging his Republican colleagues not to begin their work by rejecting Reagan's own.

But the committee adopted a forecast that said the economy will rebound more slowly from recession this year and show less growth in the following two years than the White House predicts. The panel also assumes that inflation, unemployment and interest rates will generally be higher than the president forecasts.

It said the actual deficits will climb from $121.8 billion in fiscal 1983 to $136.4 billion in 1985 - even if Congress enacts all the spending cuts the president is proposing. In contrast, Reagan says the deficits will be $96.4 billion in 1983, declining to $71.2 billion in 1985.

Despite the break with Reagan, Domenici said the vote could represent the first step in producing a "credible" plan to reduce budget deficits.

In addition to Domenici and Hollings, there are five or six other committee members who have drafted alternatives to Reagan's budget. All are based on the less optimistic economic forecast.

Members of both political parties are concerned that the large deficits in Reagan's plan will keep interest rates high and choke off an economic recovery later this

Reagan has shown little inclination to make concessions in his budget in recent weeks, although White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III has begun a series of private meetings with House Democrats on a possible bipartisan compromise.

House Republicans were added to the group Tuesday, and Baker later met separately with top Senate Republicans and two Democrats, Hollings and Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La..

Hollings said afterwards that Baker indicated he was making progress in his talks with House Democrats.

That gave them 285 points in the last two games, improving their already gaudy perset a record if the Nuggets can maintain it in their last 11 games. The record team average was 125.4 by the 1961-62 Philadelphia Warriors, who had Wilt Chamberlain averaging 50.4 points per game.

George Steinbrenner "invited" the New York Yankees to spring training nearly two months ago. On Tuesday, he welcomed Doyle Alexander back into the fold. That left a few of his new - and welltanned — teammates shaking their hads in dismay.

Alexander, you see, hasn't been to spring training since last year. He sat out this year's, holding out for a better contract from the San Francisco Giants. He and the National League club couldn't agree on an extension of his six-year contract, which expired at the end of the 1982 season.

So the 31-year-old right hander, a Yankee during the second half of the 1976 season and their World Series opening pitcher that year, was dealt back to them in exchange for two minor leaguers, pitcher Andy McGaffigan and infielderoutfielder Ted Wilborn.

Alexander's new contract with the Yankees reportedly is worth $2.2 million over four years.

Alexander wasn't the only Giants pitcher changing uniforms. San Francisco also traded former Cy Young Award winner Vida Blue and another left-hander, Bob Tufts, to the Kansas City Royals in exchange for pitchers Renie Martin, Atlee Hammaker and Craig Chamberlain and a player to named later. Martin is the only one assured of making the Giants' roster.

If Tuesday's game was any indication, Alexander will be a welcome addition to the Yankees' rotation. Dave Righetti, their starter against the Dodgers, allowed five runs in 51-3 innings. The Yanks, however, came out on top, beating Los Angeles 9-7.

The Giants' pitching staff, likewise, wasn't all that impressive Tuesday. Rich Gale, Jim Barr and Gary Lavelle were tagged for 15 hits by Seattle, three by newcomer Al Cowens, as the Mariners won 7-6. Cowens doubled in the ninth and scored the winning run on Bud Bulling's single. Jim Palmer, once the ace of the Baltimore staff, was battered by Philadelphia for 12 hits and four runs in six innings as the Phillies downed the Orioles 6-3. St.Louis received bad news when third baseman Ken Oberkfell suffered a fractured thumb diving for Lee Lacy's double down the line during Pittsburgh's 7-1 victory. Oberkfell will miss bout a month. Jason Thompon drove in three runs for the

"The last two games have been super," said Kiki Vandeweghe, who led all scorers with 35 points. "We've come out and had a lot of confidence and it's helped us out."

In other NBA games, Washington bombed Detroit 127-98, Milwaukee edged Philadelphia 116-114 in overtime, Golden State tripped San Antonio 113-107, Atlanta clubbed Chicago 107-92, Houston nipped Dallas 99-95, Diego 143-120, Portland beat Kansas City 109-99 and New York defeated Indiana 108-104.

The 10-game string tied the Nuggets' longest streak since they joined the NBA in 1976, set in December 1977 and January 1978.

Gus Williams paced Seattle with 32 points and Jack Sikma had 29, while Dan Issel had 29 for the Nuggets.

Reds 'Better,' But Dodgers NL West Favorite

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Once upon a time, you could find the team with the best record in the World Series. In recent years, the best record at least got you a spot in the championship series of the league you happened to be in.

Such will be the case this year if the Cincinnati Reds win the National League West, but all the best record in baseball - 66-42 - got them last season was a lot of heartache. Any resemblance between last year's Reds and this year's edition is purely coincidental.

The 1981 outfield of George Foster, Ken Griffey and Dave Collins calls New York home (Foster with the Mets, the others with the Yankees), third baseman Ray Knight works for the Houston Astros and Johnny Bench, once the best catcher, dropped the tools of ignorance to put his chest in front of ground balls at the hot corner.

Nevertheless, Manager John McNamara insists "we're a better team right now. ... The big improvement is going to be in our pitching. Tom Seaver, in my opinion, was the best pitcher in the National League last year and we will build the staff around him."

The others include Mario Soto, Frank Pastore and Bruce Berenyi, with Tom Hume, Jim Kern and Joe Price in the bullpen. McNamara also loves the strong arms behind the plate (Alex Trevino, who came from the Mets in the Foster trade) and in the outfield, where Clint Hurdle, Cesar Paul Cedeno and Householder are the names from left to right.

Besides Bench, the infield consists of Dave Concepcion at short, Ron Oester at second and Dan Driessen at first. McNamara says he will stake it up against anyone's defensively. He concedes that some people have doubts about our power, and I'll agree that we won't have any one player who will hit as Instead, he hopes everyone contributes to what he calls 'collective power.'

In Los Angeles, Manager Tom Lasorda says the world champion Dodgers "have neither the cause nor the time to be pomplacent ... we have every reason to believe we will be stronger this year."

The big change takes place in the infield, where the old gang which played together for a record nine seasons was broken up when second baseman Davey Lopes was shipped to Oakland. His replacement will be rookie Steve Sax, a .346 bat champ in the Texas League. The rest of the quartet still finds Steve Garvey at first, Bill Russell at short and Ron Cey at third. If Russell has any more erratic tendencies. Mark Belanger and his Hall of Fame glove have signed on Dusty Baker and Pedro Guerrero will man two outfield spots, with Ken Landreaux or rookie Ron Roenicke in center, Mike Scioscia and Steve Yeager again will share the catching. Fernando Valenzuela, Jerry Reuss, Burt Hooton and Bob Welch are the top four starters and Steve Howe heads a young bullpen.

The last two seasons have been close but no cigar for the Houston Astros. The experts say their only weakness is power, but the Astros have outhomered the opposition in each of the last three years.

Manager Bill Virdon feels he will have a stronger club than last year's. His long suit is pitching - Nolan Ryan, Bob Knepper, Joe Niekro, Vern Ruhle, Don Sutton, Joe Sambito, etc.

The catching is handled by Alan Ashby and Luis Pujols. In the infield Art Howe is at first, Phil Garner at second, Craig Reynolds at short and Ray Knight at third. The outfield of Jose Cruz, Tony Scott and Terry Puhl "is equal to any in the league," says Virdon. He's looking for a spot for power-hitting Alan Knicely, a catcher.

The San Francisco Giants posted their first winning season since 1978. Manager Frank Robinson says they have "strong starting pitchers, a deep bullpen from both sides, aggressive young players at every position, power from both sides of the plate.

Robinson may overstating it. The Giants got pitchers Rich Gale and Dan right fielder Jack Clark, third baseman Darrell Evans and shortstop Johnnie LeMaster.

The Atlanta Braves have a new manager in Joe Torre, but the team will bear a strong resemblance toprevious Atlanta clubs. The nucleus consists of third baseman Bob Horner, center fielder Dale Murphy, first baseman Chris Chambliss, right fielder Claudell

Washington, knuckleballer Phil Niekro, plus relief ace Rick Camp. Torre has high hopes that rookie Steve Bedrosian can join the rotation. The Braves should improve up the middle as catcher Bruce Benedict, second baseman Glenn Hubbard and shortstop Rafael Ramirez mature.

coming off a last-place finish when Dick Williams became manager in 1977. Two years later, they were legitimate contenders. He says he sees "no reason why the Padres can't do the same thing." For 1982, San Diego's new chief only says they will "be a fundamentally sound team that will run a lot." New shortstop Garry The Montreal Expos were Templeton will get most of baseman Luis Salazar and second baseman Juan Bonilla had solid seasons in 1981. Terry Kennedy is a fine young catcher and Gene Richards has a lock on left field. The rest of the outfield probably will consist of Sixto Lezcano, acquired from St. Louis, and Ruppert Jones, who was among the league leaders in doubles. The pit-

MIAMI (AP) - U.S. Associate Attorney General Rudolph Giuliani is scheduled to take the witness stand today to defend the government's actions in a suit seeking freedom for some 2,000 Haitians now detained in tederal centers around the country

The suit, filed by the Haitian Refugee Center, Inc., of Miami, charges that the federal government is discriminating against the Haitians because of their nationality and race, and that there is no precedent for detaining them while their applications for political asylum are processed.

On Tuesday, U.S. Immigration Commissioner Alan C. Nelson told the federal judge hearing the case that the number of aliens claiming political asylum in the United States has risen in the past five years from 5,000 to 106,000.

The testimony and crossexamination of Nelson, the first government witness in the case, brought frequent acrimonious exchanges between Ira Kurzban, chief counsel for the HRC, and Robert Bombaugh, a justice department attorney from Washington, and an occasional sharp reply from the witness.

At one point, Kurzban asked Nelson whether or not it was the administration's intent to keep the Haitians in detention "indefinitely."

"That is not correct," Nelson answered heatedly. "We took the initiative in attempting to get the Haitians pro bono attorneys (lawyers working without fees) to represent them."

Cancers Linked To Homosexuals DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Doctors alerted to

Dr. John L. Ziegler of the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco said Tuesday that doctors at a clinic dealing with homosexuals have uncovered four cases of rare Burkitt's lymphoma and three incidences of squamous carcinoma of the tongue since August.

Ziegler told an American Cancer Society seminar the reason for the unusual outbreaks is unknown. But he said scientists suspect it is related to low diseaseresistance among homosexuals and possibly multi-viral infections.

The federal Centers for Disease Control last year identified unusual cancer clusters among homosexuals in San Francisco and New York, and started a study of the frequency and causes.

Ziegler said the San Francisco clinic, which opened last August, also had seen 17 cases of Kaposi's sarcoma, a rare form of skin cancer normally seen mostly in Africa. The CDC had previously spotted the disease in gay popula-

"There are a lot of theories, but we really don't know what's going on with these cancers," Ziegler said.

Marketing Orders Benefit To Farmers

COLLEGE STATION --Marketing orders may be understood by only a few but they benefit many, particularly farmers and consumers.

"Simply put, marketing orders are initiated by farmers to deal with marketing problems of certain seasonal commodities," points out Dr. William E. Blac, economist in marketing and policy with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "They stabilize the producers in business and at the same time allow a steady flow of high quality produce to consumers."

The U.S. currently boasts 48 federal marketing order and agreement programs. Five of these are in Texas and apply to oranges, grapefruit, tomatoes, onions, lettuce and melons grown in South Texas, notes Black. Last year these products had a farm value of about $150 million.

"Marketing orders first were authorized by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933 to help growers with depressed incomes," points out Black. "They have helped keep many producers in business and have provided a stable, orderly supply of graded produce.'

Growers initiate and design marketing orders in corporation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Provisions of the particular marketing order are based on evidence as provided at a public hearing at which growers, handlers and consumers can all express their views, explains Black. Orders are limited to the smallest regional production area practicable.

Once the proposed marketing order meets all legal requirements, it must be approved by two-thirds of the growers voting in referendum or by growers who produce at least two-thirds of the volume in the particular production area.

'Fruit and vegetable marketing orders do not automatically regulate marketing," notes the economist. "An administrative committee must recommend each regulation to the Secretary of Agjriculture who, upon evaluation of the merits of the request, issues the order which is applicable to all growers in Marketing of various commodities can be regulated by grade, size, quality and maturity, explains the economist. Federal laws require any competing imports to meet comparable requirements for the same purpose of the domestic program - to see that poor quality produce does not drive customers away from the marketplace.

"Some marketing orders help keep supplies at generally even levels for consumers," adds Black. "This is done by allotting the amounts of the commodity that can be marketed in any week, month or season. With the supply stabilized, produce flows to market more evenly and over a longer period. This reduces market gluts and shortages and sharp price fluctuations."

All in all, marketing orders provide an incentive for farmers to grow sufficient levels of high quality produce to meet market demands the year round, says the

Western Areas Remain Dry

Texas (AP) - Scattered spring rains early this week should help farmers in central areas of Texas get their crops up and should help conditions in coastal areas and parts of East Texas.

However, most western areas remain dry.

Spring planting continues to increase over the eastern. half of the state, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A&M University System.

Corn and grain sorghum planting is complete over most of Southwest Texas and the Central Texas Blacklands and ranges from 70 to 80 percent complete in South Texas and the Coastal Bend, he said.

Cotton planting is about 50 percent complete in the Coastal Bend and 60 percent complete in the Rio Grande Valley and is also active along the Upper Coast and in South Central Texas Pfann-

Rice planting continues in coastal areas.

Warmer soil temperatures that are vital for good seed germination and good crop stands have prompted increased planting, said Pfann-

Preplant irrigation is under way in the High Plains and continues in the Trans-Pecos area. Farmers are also irrigating wheat in western areas along with alfalfa. Most wheat looks good but needs moisture, Pfannstiel said.

Warmer weather is boosting pasture and range conditions but lack of moisture is still a problem in many areas, said Pfannstiel. Livestock is in fair to good shape, with supplemental feeding decreasing as green grazing becomes available.

Reports from district extension directors showed these conditions: PANHANDLE - Wheat is making good progress but needs moisture. Some irrigation is under way along with preplant irrigation for corn. Most onions and sugar beets have been planted in Deaf Smith County. Land preparation continues for other crops. Most cattle look good, with stockers moving off wheat to allow a grain crop.

SOUTH PLAINS - Some southern counties got a good rain the past week but the rest of the area remains dry. Land preparation continues in full swing, with preplant irrigation under way. Most early onions have been planted, and planting of potatoes and sugar beets continues.

About half the counties have good moisture due to recent rains. Wheat is making good growth where rains fell; however, hail damaged the crop in Wichita County. Greenbugs continue to infest some wheat. Livestock look good, with supplemental feeding decreasing.

Topics for the course were suggested by producers, Ex-

Vegetable Oil Used As Chemical Carrier

ST. LOUIS -- Soybean farmers can now have their oil and use it too.

Employing vegetable oil as a carrier of chemicals for spraying crops such as soybeans and cotton can potentially make a considerable dent in the vegetable oil market. Farmers are excited about the idea, and so are agrichemical companies, aerial applicators and crop consultants.

About two years ago several private companies began conducting research on using carriers other than water for the application of insecticides to cotton and soybeans. Last year at least three chemical companies field tested their products using vegetable oil carriers and discovered several advan-

More research is necessary to demonstrate the effectiveness of vegetable oil before recommendations for its use can be made. ASA is now accepting proposals for basic engineering and agronomic research.

The market potential is great, according to soybean farmer Pat Quinn, chairman of ASA's Research Commit-

"Chemicals are sprayed on western forest lands, as well as on cotton and soybean fields in the south," says

Quinn who farms in Monterey, Louisiana. "In addition to insecticides, many new herbicides could be made suitable for vegetable oil carriers. We recognize that any vegetable oil could be used. But, if only soybean oil was used, we could consume up to one-fifth of the current 1.7 billion pound soybean oil surplus. This could be a great way for farmers to use their crops and increase their prices.'

One of the advantages oil has over water is that oil allows aerial application of an insecticide in one quart of

than two to five gallons of water. This will reduce the cost of aerial spraying. Vegetable oil is not subject to evaporation like water, and this results in better residual activity and a possible extension of intervals between insecticide applications. Oil also sprays more uniformly-size droplets. One chemical firm reported an increase in cotton vields during one year's testing due to improved pest control with an oil carrier as compared to water.

Quality entertaining drama

"Q.E.D." is-by far the best new series CBS has offered to its viewers during the 1981-82 season. It combines the anachronistic science-fiction of "Wild, Wild West" with the sophisticated mysteries of Agatha Christie.

'Q.E.D." is also the first series to be made entirely in England with a British production staff for American prime-time TV. Most of the credit for this upbeat adventure show goes to producer John Hawkesworth, whose previous work include "Upstairs, Downstairs" and "The Duchess of Duke Street."

"Q.E.D." stars American actor Sam Waterston as scientist-sleuth Quentin E. Deverill, whose outlandish scientific theories make him an outcast in 1912 England.

In the premiere episode, Waterston quits his university post and becomes embroiled in a bizarre missing persons case with an attractive woman. She turns out to be the sister of the missing person, who was working on a secret

Holly Approves Corporation

Reimbursement

COLORADO SPRINGS. Colo. - Holly Sugar Corporation has announced that its stockholders approved the reimbursement by the Corporation of $915,125 of proxy solicitation and litigation expenses of the Arcanum Committee incurred in connection with the 1981 meeting of stockholders.

Stockholder approval was given at a Special Meeting of Stockholders held last Friday in Colorado Springs. The Arcanum Committee's slate of directors was elected in December 1981 after a long proxy contest with prior management.

than last year," the report dredweight, a record.

That would be more than triple the 16.5 million hundredweight in the year-end carryover last Aug. 1.

Arkansas is the leading rice producer, but the crop also is grown commercially in Califorria, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri and Texas.

Because it is important in world trade, rice production and demand has an impact on virtually all grains in the international market. And that, in turn, affects prices received by American farmers.

Last year's U.S. rice harvest was a record of 185.4 million hundredweight. Added to the carryover of oldcrop rice last Aug. 1, that made a total supply in 1981-82 of about 202 million hundredweight.

Domestic use is expected to require about 56.5 million hundredweight this season, including 39.5 million to be used as food, 5 million as seed for the next crop, and 12 million for beer.

Alberta Smith, a statistician in the agency, said Monday that the projected use of 12 million hundredweight of rice by brewers would be a record for that purpose. In 1980-81, brewers used about 11 million hundredweight, and in 1979-80 they used 11.2 million, the previous high.

Corn and barley are the other grains that are used by American brewers.

Rice is one of the world's leading food grains. Most of it is eaten in the countries where the crop is produced. The United States, although a relatively minor rice producer, uses only a small portion of its crop and thus has most of it available for exas did some major importers - particularly Indonesia and South Korea. World rice trade is projected at 12 million tons in calendar 1982, about 1 million below last year's record."

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and, in the case of rice, is equal to approximately 22 hundredweight.

For 1981-82, the report showed, exports may be about 91 million hundredweight, down slightly from last year's record of 91.4 million.

"Following two years of record sales to South Korea, U.S. medium-grain exports will drop dramatically this season," it said. Even so, other markets appear to be taking up the slack.

"Sales of long-grain rice to Iraq, Iran and Nigeria, and enlarged purchases by Italy pushed U.S. exports above early expectations."

Rice prices at the farm are expected to average $9.25 to $10.25 per hundredweight this marketing year, down from $12.80 in 1980-81, the report recover nutrients for feed."

Ethyl Alcohol Use Depends On 'Stillage'

COLLEGE STATION --Ethyl alcohol production from grain has been hailed by many as the solution to many energy problems. But its feasibility hinges on what happens to the "stillage."

Stillage is the liquid residue that is recovered at the base of the distillation column after ethyl alcohol is separated from fermented grain.

"Stillage contains all the original protein in the corn or grain sorghum feedstock used in the fermentation process," points out Dr. John Sweeten, associate professor of agricultural engineering with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and waste management engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Unfortunately, much of this protein is in a liquid slurry form, and it's not economically feasible for small to middle-sized plants to dehydrate it to

Sweeten has been working with the stillage problem since Texas A&M's experimental alcohol production plant began operation in the fall of 1980.

The overall research and demonstration program is being sponsored by the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council and by several components of the Texas A&M University System, including the Center for Energy and Mineral Resources, Agricultural Experiment Station and Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Stillage from alcohol production is a problem on several counts," says the engineer. "Its volume is potentially huge - 10 to 14 gallons per gallon of ethyl alcohol produced. Stillage also presents a potential water pollution problem because it has a very high oxygen demand and is acidic. Removing all solid matter, which makes up to 5 to 10 percent of the stillage, still leaves ash and sugars in the wastewater."

Whole stillage can be fed to cattle, but it spoils rapidly and has a limited economic range for transportation. It offers more potential as an animal fed when passed through a solids separator such as a dewatering press. The result is a "wet pressed solids" product similar to wet brewers grains, notes Sweeten. This product contains 31-32 percent dry matter and 32-34 percent crude pro-

These wet solids have been used in feeding trials with beef cattle at Texas A&M University. Dr. Gerald Schelling, associate professor of animal science, reports that these solids have a high disgestibility - almost 77 percent. However, the material spoils rapidly when exposed to air for two or three days.

After the wet solids from stillage go to livestock feed, there's still the problem of what to do with the liquid effluent that remains after the dewatering process, explains Sweeten. This contains from 3.5 to 6 percent solids, about 45 percent of the original protein, 40 percent of the starch and 90 percent of the total sugars. Thus it's a product that still has a high oxygen demand - about 100 times higher than for average raw domestic sewage.

Food Processor Fight Keeps

Manufacturers

Churning

NEW YORK (AP) - A year after Cuisinarts and Robot-Coupe crossed blades in a fight for dominance in the high-priced food processor market, the dispute is churning again in a battle that may turn on the shape of a tomato.

Cuisinarts has won a following with its expanded feed tube, a processor bowl with a large oval-shaped opening that accepts larger foods whole.

But, asks Robot-Coupe International President Al ·Finesman, who ever heard of an oval tomato? Robot-Coupe is countering this spring with its own "Le Grand Opening," which Finesman says is big enough for four whole tomatoes or 10 lemons.

The feud erupted more than a year ago when Robot-Coupe - a worldwide maker of foodprocessing appliances under different brand names stopped making machines in France for Cuisinarts, ending a seven-year relationship.

Robot-Coupe entered the U.S. consumer market with its own product. And it went after Cuisinarts' lock on the high end of the food-processor market - above $100 a machine - with feisty advertising attacking Cuisinarts.

But now, after winning court rulings blocking some of Robot-Coupe's most controversial ads, Cuisinarts is on the offensive.

Greenwich, The Conn.-based company is launching an aggressive new marketing campaign this spring to introduce its DLC-7 Pro, a larger processor than ones currently on the market and expected to retail initially at about $275. The advertising will promote professional qualities of the machines, even though it will be geared to the consumer.

"It's approved for restaurant use, but it's a consumer model," says Dick Tarlow, president of Kurtz & Tarlow, Cuisinarts' New York advertising agency.

Like all of the new Cuisinarts' models; the DLC-7 Pro is made in Japan. Cuisinarts started having machines built to its specifications in Japan in mid-1978 when it first ran into problems with Robot-Coupe over delivering defective machines - about two years before Robot-Coupe canceled its manufacturing agreement with Cuisinarts.

Tarlow said ads with the tagline "This year, turn pro," will run beginning in early April in national and regional magazines, and television commercials will air shortly before Mother's Day. Tarlow declined to say how much Cuisinarts, a private company, is spending to promote the new product, but he said the advertising budget is a "multimillion-dollar" one.

Robot-Coupe's Finesman, however, is readying his own spring advertising blitz to chip away further at Cuisinarts' market share.

Industry sources, who declined to be quoted by name, put Cuisinarts' share at "more than 50 percent" of the approximately halfmillion high-priced food processors sold last year, with Robot-Coupe, Waring and Sunbeam taking the rest. In all, about 3 million food processors were sold, but the other 2.5 million were priced below $100.

But some retailers say Robot-Coupe is gaining acceptance, especially among cooks with gourmet tastes who want a French-made machine, such as Robot-Coupe's, over one made in Japan, such as the new Cuisinarts. Finesman says he doesn't think Cuisinarts' DLC-7 Pro "is of any consequence" and says his new ad campaign will be "keyed to our accessories."

Getting A Celebrity To Come To Town

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) - I see where after two frustrating years, the mayor of Kingston, Ga., (Pop. 729), finally settled for "Famous Amos," the chocolate chip cookie mogul, as the genuine celebrity needed to enhance the town's annual Historical Festival.

Mayor C. Vernon Ayers had been previously turned down by Jimmy Carter, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., former Georgia Sen. Herman Talmadge and actors Burt Reynolds and Sorrell Booke, among others, before Famous Amos was deemed famous enough.

The festival kicks off April 17, but as of late this week no luminaries loomed in sight, which is a shame, seeing how Kingston, according to the mayor is "the most historic town in all northwest Georgia," with 12 historic markers, 18 buildings in the National Register of Historic Places and an official historic section taking in the whole two block downtown business district to prove it.

Then along came Famous Amos, or at least his press agent.

His honor may have jumped too soon. I wonder if he knew I was available.

My celebrity credentials are impeccable, if obscure. I have been in my present job longer than Jimmy Carter kept his last one. Got better grades at Harvard than Teddy Kennedy (although I did not score the winning touchdown against Yale in a snowstorm), and my Who's Who, by actual count, is a centimeter and a half longer than Sen. Talmadge's.

I never heard of actor Sorrell Booke. But then he probably never heard of me, so we're even. I never heard of Famous Amos either. Nor had the mayor as it turns out. I know Burt Reynolds just won some kind of TV poll as the most macho man since Jon Hall or George Brent or somebody, but I once won a gold medal from the American Newspaper Publishers Association as a most promising prospect and even earlier in my career was voted "Carrier of the Month."

As a matter of fact, I have never been interviewed on TV by Geraldo Rivera or asked to appear on "Real People," but I was once locked in a bathroom at the press center during the Shah of Iran's 2,500th anniversary celebration of the Persian Empire and Barbara Walters, bless her heart and ratings, set me free. Honest.

If Mayor Ayers tries to reach me and the office switchboard says "who?" or "never heard of him," let His Honor not be discouraged. Just a little disagreement with the girls over who paid for the last coffee from the cart. You know how people try to take advantage of celebrities.

In the meantime, I'll keep next year's festival on hold. Unless the beer commercial people get in their bid first.

FEDERAL RED INK

Budgets and Deficits 1973-83

The projected deficits in President Reagan's budget proposals continue the trend of more than a decade. The last budget surplus -- $3.24 billion -- was registered in fiscal 1969. Bars above years indicate comparative actual federal expenditures during budget years. Larger-scale bars below years compare actual deficits 1973-81 and those estimated for 1982-83.

HEALTH

Glomerulonephritis

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - My 3-year-old granddaughter started running a fever and the next day we took her to our doctor. He said she had a sore throat and some nasal congestion. Then her urine turned very dark and she was admitted to the hospital with glomerulonephritis. She responded very well to her treatment of fl tion, low sodium diet, antibiotics and prednisone.

She is home now but we have some questions. The prednisone makes her hungry all the time. The pediatrician said to let her eat because they don't want her getting upset and causing her blood pressure to go up. The other concern is a kidney biopsy. The two kidney specialists and the pediatrician say they may have to do a biopsy to determine if her case is chronic.

The swelling from her eyes and legs and feet is gone and her chest is completely clear. We would appreciate any information you have on this disease.

DEAR READER - It is not a common disease anymore. It often follows a streptococcal throat infection, just as rheumatic fever does. That is probably why your granddaughter got

The inflammation in the kidney is a complication and allows albumin to leak out of the filtered blood. Sometimes it also allows blood cells to leak, causing bloody or dark urine. The loss of albumin is why the swelling

Normally the blood proteins, particularly albumin, helps to draw fluid back out of the tissues into the circulation. When the albumin is too low the fluid stays in the tissues. That caused the swelling of the entire body including the face around the eyes.

A kidney biopsy is often necessary to establish exactly the nature of the kidney damage and plan future treatment. Prednisone is commonly used in the acute stage and helps to cool down the inflammation in the kidney. It sounds like your granddaughter has done well and is in good hands.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have heard so much against sugar from health fanatics that I would like to hear your views. What are the effects of sugar on digestion? Does it interfere with tion? Does it interfere with the digestion and absorption of protein, vitamins and minerals when taken with foods that contain these nutrients? Can you become addicted to sugar? Besides obesity from too many calories will it cause other prob-lems (excluding dental caries)?

DEAR READER — Carbohydrate foods are an essential part of a balanced diet and include fresh fruits and vegetables and cereals. The energy part of all these basic foods comes from their content of glucose and fructose. These are the same two single sugars, combined together, that make up ordinary sugar. Table sugar is simple digested carbohydrate foods. The process, however, strips the food source of vitamins, minerals and, of course, bulk. It is what sugar doesn't have that is harmful.

Sugar is rapidly absorbed because it is predigested carbohydrate. That is often harmful in diabetics and those with reactive hypoglycemia. That plus being a high-calorie food is the main problem. It is not addictive.

POLLY'S POINTERS Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - When I brought my favorite dress back from the cleaner's, I noticed there were a couple of brownish stains on the skirt. I'm sure they were not there when I left the dress there. The cleaner insists that these are old stains that only surfaced during the cleaning process, and that there is nothing he can do about them. Can this be so? I'm absolutely furious about this. Is there anything that will

Beverage stains

remove these stains? — MAGGIE

DEAR MAGGIE — I'm afraid that your cleaning man may be right. According to the International Fabricare Institute, brownish or yellowish stains that show up on a garment after dry cleaning, or sometimes even just after a prolonged period of storage, are usually caused by old beverage stains (fruit juice, soft drinks, beer, wine) that may not be visible

The sugar in the spilled liquid stays in the garment unless flushed out by water. Then, over a period of time or when activated by the dry cleaning fluid, the sugar carmelizes, leaving a brown or yellow stain in the fabric. That's why it's extremely important to immediately flush with water any spot on which you've spilled any kind of liquid, even if it doesn't seem to leave a stain. Or take the garment immediately to your dry cleaner, explaining exactly what was spilled where, so that he can flush it with water before

Once you have these stains, they are very difficult to remove. They usually cannot be removed at all from silk, wool and sometimes nylon. For cottons and some synthetics that can be treated safely with chlorine bleach, the spots can frequently be bleached enough to lighten them so they are less noticeable. I'm sorry I can't give you better news, but I hope you'll be able to bleach out the stains on your dress satisfactorily. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Can you tell me how to get a coconut out of its shell? I've tried hacking it apart with a hammer, but it's still almost impossible to pry the meat out of the shell without breaking it into tiny bits. Help! — JAN

DEAR JAN - Cracking that coconut is easy once you know the trick. Using a large nail and a hammer, drive a hole through each of the "eyes" at the top of the coconut and shake out the liquid inside, You can save this or discard it as you wish. Then put the coconut in a 400-degree oven for 15 minutes. Don't leave it in any longer or the meat will have a cooked flavor and tend to dry out. Using hot pads or oven mitts to protect your hands, remove the hot coconut from the oven.

The shell may or may not have cracked while it was baking. In any case, tap the shell smartly with the hammer. You don't have to smash the nut, but don't be afraid to give it a sharp blow. You're not trying to break up the nut at this point, just find the fault line. When you hit the right place on the shell, the hammer blow will sound rather hollow and the shell will begin to crack. Then continue hammering along the line where the shell is cracking to encourage it. In most cases, the entire shell will fall off the nut in two or three pieces. Any remaining pieces can be gently pried out

To remove the brown skin from the meat, just peel with a swivel bladed vegetable peeler. Once you get the knack of this cracking technique, you'll never shy away from fresh coconut again! — POLLY

AUSTIN - State Treasurer Warren G. Harding may be describing the recent indictment returned against him for official misconduct as "ridiculous" and "unwarranted." but his challengers in the treasurer's race can be expected to play the matter for all it's worth.

In fact, the Travis County grand jury had hardly handed down the charges when at least one candidate was calling for Harding to drop his re-election bid.

challenger Democratic John Cutright of Austin said that, "in view of the indictment," Harding has become "an unsuitable candidate for public office."

Former Travis County Commissioner Ann Richards said she was "stunned and shocked" at the seriousness of the charges levelled against Harding, and former Waco Rep. Lane Denton, Harding's third Democratic opponent, said the incumbent now probably can do no better than third in the

Meanwhile, several of the firms charged in the bid rigging case have pleaded guilty in federal district court, including some of those that already have agreed to pay civil damages.

C. H. Allison Paving Co. of San Antonio, Brannan Contractors of Victoria, Jagoe Public of Denton and Jagoe's president Gerald G. Ricks are among those who have pleaded guilty to conspiracy to restrain trade in exchange for agreements from U.S. attorneys to drop further prosecution.

Fire Ants

House Speaker Bill Clay ton, who has been keeping a low profile since dropping out of the land commission er's race, has called on Gov Clements to provide $2 million in emergency funding to combat imported fire ants.

Clayton announced his plans to seek the funds from Clements at a joint press conference with Rockdale Rep. Dan Kubiak, who he has endorsed for the Democratic nomination for land commissioner.

Clayton, who said the fire ant problem has reached epidemic proportions, also said he will ask the Legislative Budget Board to include additional funds for fire ant research in the 1983 state budget. Meanwhile, a San Antonio physician told participants at a Texas Department of Agriculture conference on fire ants that at least two Texans have died from the insects' stings during the past five years.

Some 50 deaths nationwide were attributed to the ants in 1981, Dr. Frank James said.
