Fire destroys two tractors

Hereford volunteer firefighters extinguish a fire in one semi-truck tractor as others fight a blaze in a similar tractor on Monday afternoon at Burns Trucking, southeast of Hereford on Progressive Road. Employees were burning trash when winds whipped the fire out of control. The fire also reached a pile of old tires, which kept firefighters at the scene for almost an hour.

Group calling for new vote on liquor sale

A group calling itself "HELP" plans a petition drive beginning Sunday to force a new wet-dry liquor election in Deaf Smith County.

HELP is an acronym for "Help Eliminate Liquor Problems."

The county currently is wet in Justice of the Peace Precinct 1, but that takes in all but three sections in the northwest corner of the county. The county was voted "wet" in a special 1984 election.

"We have a great cross section of people supporting this," said the Rev. Ted Taylor, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Hereford. "We have a real good base of support. This is not a minister-led thing. It is community led."

The group plans a rally at 7 p.m. on Nov. 2 at the Hereford Community Center. The next day, the group plans to have petitions near most polling places in the county. HELP must have at least 1,400 signatures on petitions to call for the election; Taylor said Monday, "We should get 2,000 without any problems."

Once the petitions are signed, and signatures are verified by County Clerk David Ruland, it will be up to county officials to call the election. Ruland will present the petitions to the commissioner's court, which may set the election for any date within a specified time, within about two months of the time the petitions are presented.

A wet-dry election was called in 1984 by a group led by Art Reinauer. Reinauer was attempting to establish XIT La Escarbada Winery here, but the area had to be wet for Reinauer's operation to be legal. After a spirited campaign on both sides, the county went wet, 2,659-2,441.

Reinauer has since moved his operations to Randall County between Amarillo and Canyon, but liquor, beer and wine stores are still here.

Taylor said the group's aim is not to combat drinking as much as to cut down on the availability of alcohol to youngsters. He pointed out the number of "beer runs" made on a semi-regular basis on convenience stores here, mostly by under-age juveniles.

"We don't have unrealistic expectations," Taylor said. "There was alcohol here before, and there will be alcohol here if we vote the county dry. Limited accessibility, especially to our youth, is our top goal."

"We are not approaching this as a moral issue. We are approaching this as a community problem."

City gives extension on renovation

By GEORGIA TYLER Staff Writer

Condemnation of a building at the rear of 130 N. Main was approved by the Hereford City Commission Monday night, but with a soft touch.

In other business, the commission received and approved an audit for the city's fiscal year ending April 30, appointed citizens to boards, granted a variance in subdivision development ordinances and approved a continuation of the employee health plan.

After hearing the owner of the structure proposed for condemnation, Bill Allen, report that he had made the building "secure" by boarding up windows, the commission voted condemnation but backed off from the 10-day notice for tearing down the building and gave Allen until June 30, 1993, to clean up his property.

Allen claimed he could not comply with the city ordinance on "dangerous" buildings when first approached by the city building inspector, Marvin Gaddy, about his property.

"I was leaving town and told him I didn't have time, but after I left, the city came like a thief in the night," Allen said. He said he deserved more "consideration" than was given in the matter.

Mayor Tom LeGate told Allen that the commission "has been criticized for not doing something about these old buildings. We don't want to work a hardship on anyone but we need a timetable on these things."

Allen asked for a year to do the work, saying that he hoped to remodel the main building which he called "structurally sound."

LeGate suggested that condemnation be continued, saying, "we've given Marvin Gaddy a job to do," but also agreed on extending the time allowed to more than the prescribed 10 days.

On motion of Commissioner Roger Eades and second by Commissioner

Irene Cantu, the extension to June 30 was approved unanimously.

Donna West of Brown, Graham and Company reviewed the annual audit. In a year when the city's budget was expected to eat reserve funds of some $890,000, the auditor observed that the amount of reserves expended was $580,000, resulting in an unencumbered general fund balance of approximately $310,000.

"The budget originally projected a balance of only $15,000 when the year ended," said the auditor.

General fund revenues for the year amounted to $3,041,647, or $119,220 more than expected.

Expenditures were $3,622,638, a reduction of $190,549 from budgeted expenses.

The water and sewer department recorded operating revenues of $1,294,903 and expenditures of $1,063,376.

Teens detained after shootings Officials say no connection with threatened gang action

Two Amarillo juveniles are facing a detention hearing today after they were caught Monday and charged in a drive-by shooting in west Hereford.

Michael Herrera, 18, was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital for treatment, then was transferred to Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo. He was listed in critical condition with a shotgun wound to his lower torso and his legs.

Demasio Banda, 17, was treated for a slight wound to his left hand and released from DSGH.

Herrera and Banda were standing in a front yard in the 200 block of Kibbe when a car stopped in front of the yard. Someone in the car fired a shotgun at the two men. The car then drove away.

The car was later discovered abandoned in the 200 block of Ave.

F. The person living in the house where the car was left said he did not know the owner of the car and wanted it taken away. Police towed the car away for processing for fingerprints and other evidence.

Police caught the two juveniles on Monday and questioned them. They were in custody Monday night and were scheduled to be ordered to juvenile detention facilities today. Police are also questioning the driver, who lives in Hereford.

There was some speculation the shooting was supposed to have happened Friday night. Gang-type violence had been threatened in the city on Friday. Lou Serrano, head of the juvenile probation office in Hereford, said Monday evening the shooting was not connected with the threatened gang-style violence.

Recession drives up number of kids eating school breakfast

WASHINGTON (AP) - Record numbers of low-income children eat breakfast at school, but millions more may start the day hungry because schools fail to offer federally subsidized breakfasts, a research group said today.

"At a time of severe financial difficulties in states and households across the country, it makes no sense at all to ignore federal money that is readily available," said Robert J. Fersh, executive director of the Food Research and Action Center, or FRAC.

According to the research and advocacy group, more than 41,000 schools do not serve breakfast although they are eligible to participate in an Agriculture Department program that would reimburse them for a share of each meal.

Nationwide, 88,986 schools participated in the National School Lunch Program during fiscal year 1992, but just 53.5 percent - 47,627 schools - offered breakfast.

The school lunch program reached nearly 12.6 million low-income children with free or reduced-price meals, while the breakfast program served a record 4.16 million poor children.

During fiscal 1991, the breakfast program was available in 43,717 schools and reached nearly 3.7 million low-income students, the group said.

FRAC said the increased participation resulted from wider availability of breakfast programs and a rise in the number of families that have fallen on hard times during the recession.

"There is good reason to believe that more children than at any time since the start of the School Breakfast Program come from families too financially strapped to provide them with a nutritionally adequate breakfast every day," FRAC's report said.

Based on 1991 Census Bureau data, 21.8 percent of all U.S. children - 14.3 million - are poor, the highest number of children in poverty since 1965.

FRAC said low-income students are more likely than other students to arrive at school without an adequate breakfast.

"Hunger in the morning leaves children cranky and lethargic. It causes sickness and absenteeism. And, most significantly, hunger deprives children of important opportunities to be creative and learn," FRAC said.

Ed Cooney, deputy director of FRAC, said the study does not address the content of the subsidized breakfasts, although the group believes most breakfasts meet dietary guidelines.

"But there are probably exceptions - schools that serve doughnuts instead of fruit, cheeses or yogurt," he said.

To help states offer more breakfasts, Congress established a five-year program of start-up money. The program awarded $3 million in 1990 and will give away $5 million a year through fiscal 1994. In addition, states are reimbursed for each meal served, said Betty Jo Nelsen, administrator of USDA's Food and Nutrition Service.

FRAC said schools sometimes think the barriers to offering breakfast - rearranging bus or class schedules or paying morning cafeteria workers - are insurmountable.

But Nelsen said schools have shown that breakfast can be quick and inexpensive.

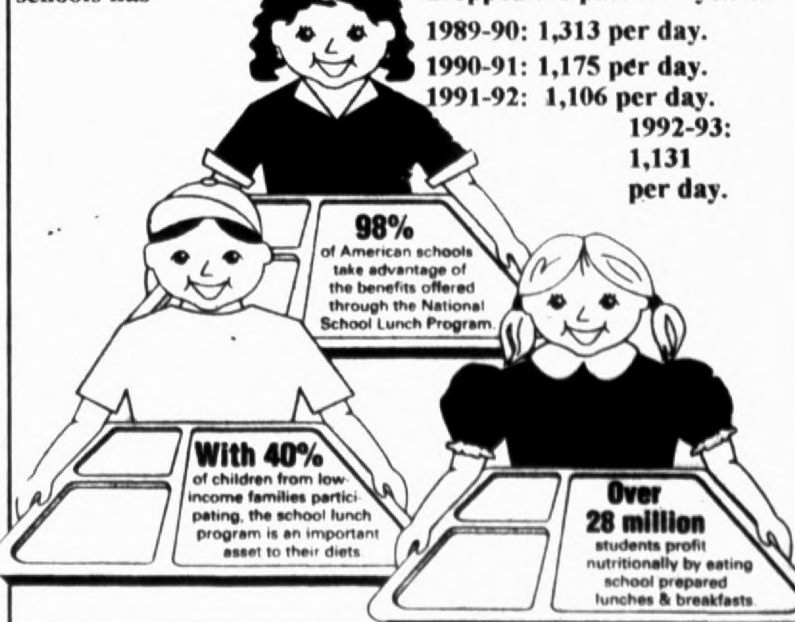

"Schools have demonstrated that it's possible and desirable to have a breakfast program. Schools have worked in a very determined fashion to meet this need," she said.

Nelsen said USDA will continue to target schools with low-income students for the breakfast program.

"I don't think we will ever have a breakfast program as universal as the school lunch program," she said, "but I do anticipate reaching more low-income students."

Breakfasts served drops in HISD

While the number of breakfasts served has increased across the country, the number of breakfasts served in Hereford's public schools has

Sweet Bee topic of discussion by club

The Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers' Sweet Bee was discussed when members of Wyche Extension Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Louise Axe with Clara Trowbridge serving as co-hostess.

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) - Even Madonna has her limits, you know. The often outrageous pop star says Irish singer Sinéad O'Connor went too far in tearing up a picture of the pope on television.

"I think there's a better way to present her ideas rather than ripping up an image that means a lot to other people," she in an interview with Irish state RTE radio. "If she's against the Roman Catholic Church and she has a problem with them, I think she should talk about it."

Madonna, raised in a Roman Catholic home, said in the interview broadcast Wednesday that she may agree with O'Connor but "I think you have to do more than denigrate a symbol."

On the Oct. 3 episode of NBC's "Saturday Night Live," O'Connor sang the protest song "War," then held up a photo of Pope John Paul II and slowly ripped it to pieces. She exhorted the audience to "fight the real enemy."

She has railed against the church in Ireland, including its prohibitions on divorce and abortion.

Madonna has stirred controversy of her own with her sexually suggestive treatment of religious subject matter in her music videos and concerts.

Proceeds from the event will go into a scholarship fund to assist a deserving Hereford High School graduating senior.

President Jo Lee called the meeting to order and pledges to the United States and Texas' flags were recited. Also, the T.E.H.A. prayer was repeated by members. The opening exercise was given by Louise Axe when she read a poem, "Ode to a Pill" and by Trowbridge reading a poem entitled "It Works This Way."

Ruby Carmichael, Margaret Brorman, Vada Batterman and Frances Crume, were welcomed as guests.

Roll call was answered by eleven members with "oh, my aching head."

Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Coreen Odom, secretary. Carol Odom reported on the Sweet Bee plans and the nominating committee was elected. Serving on the committee will be Louise Axe, Mary Lou Aven and Camelia Jones.

Frances Crume presented a program entitled "Take Two and Call Me in the Morning." She asked, "Do you know what they say about that little white pill?" She continued, "Aspirins can be used when we consult our physicians to see if we can benefit from taking them. Not everyone can take aspirins. Since 1985, aspirins have been given for heart attacks and can be helpful if given within 24 hours of an attack. Over 29 billion aspirins or pills containing aspirin are taken each year. Over 80 million aspirin tablets are taken each day and 40 percent are taken for headache pain."

Members present were Mary Lou Aven, Louise Axe, Shirley Brown, Argen Draper, Camelia Jones, Jo Lee, Carol Odom, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Laverne Worley and Clara Trowbridge.

The next meeting is planned for 2:30 p.m. Nov. 5 in the home of Pet Ott.

It sure smells good!

Tonie Vaughn is cooking up a storm for the Sweet Bee planned from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. Wednesday in the ballroom of the Hereford Community Center. The public is invited to eat lunch and sample sweets prepared by members of the Deaf Smith Extension Homemakers clubs. Paying guests (tickets are priced at $5 per person) will receive cookbooks of the recipes that are sampled and a potpourri of other favorite recipes. Proceeds from the event will benefit a Hereford High School graduating senior.

Special candles easy to make

Decorating candles with pressed leaves and flowers is a rewarding activity for school-age kids and adults to enjoy together. The results are so stunning, you'll be tempted to decorate several candles to tuck away and use for gift-giving. If someone in your family will be away this holiday season, a candle decorated with specially chosen flowers and leaves will be a treasured reminder of home. Here's how to decorate candles:

You will need a white pillar candle, a variety of small pressed leaves or flowers, a block of clear paraffin wax (available where canning supplies are found in your supermarket), a small paintbrush, an empty tin soup can with the label removed, and a medium size saucepan.

Place the paraffin wax in the tin can. An adult should set the can in water in the saucepan and boil the water until the paraffin melts, keeping an eye on it at all times. (Always melt wax using this method. Never place the can on the burner or over an open flame because it is flammable).

Remove the saucepan from the stove and place it on a trivet on a newspaper-covered counter or table. Carefully dip the brush into the melted wax and paint the back of a pressed leaf or flower. Gently press the item on the candle with your fingers and then paint a coat of wax over the leaf or flower. Arrange more nature finds around the candle, painting a layer of wax on them as you go.

When the desired design is complete, coat the entire candle with wax using quick, long strokes. If the wax in the can begins to harden before the project is complete, an adult should return the saucepan to the stove and re-heat the wax.

Etruscans of the so-called Villanovan period, about 900 B.C. often kept ashes of their dead in urns shaped like their thatched huts.

Mozart compositions heard by study club

from Sonata in A, K-331, Linda Gilbert, pianist.

President Manning led the club in the Federation Collect and members sang the hymn of the month, "Come Thou Almighty King."

During the business meeting, it was announced that the delegates to the District I Convention planned Nov. 14 in Amarillo are Linda Gilbert, Susan Shaw and Cheryl Betzen.

Mary Thomas served as co-hostess.

Others present were Donna Ruland, Margaret Schroeter, Ruby Carmichael, Mary Carter and Charlotte Close.

Singer Burl Ives was born in 1909.

The Hereford High School tennis team completed a sweep of District 1-4A with a sweep of Dumas Saturday in Dumas.

The Herd completed round-robin play in district with a 5-0 record. They did it in high style, winning all 18 matches against the Demons in straight sets. Dumas won 32 games; Hereford won 216.

"The kids knew they had a job to finish and they just went out and did it," assistant coach Kristin Cassels said. "It was an excellent way to end the season. We are really proud of our kids."

Next for the tennis team is the Region 1-4A Tournament to be held Oct. 30 and 31 in Wichita Falls. Hereford will tune up for regionals with a match against Canyon today in Canyon.

Here are the complete results of the match at Dumas:

Girls' singles: Bri Reinauer def. Heather Williamson, 6-0, 6-0; Sherry Fuston def. Tammy Greer, 6-2, 6-3; Michelle Berend def. Peggy Ford, 6-0, 6-1; Emily Fuston def. Dawn Morris, 6-0, 6-0; Brooke Weishaar def. Dawn Daniels, 6-0, 6-1; and Gabriela Gamez def. January Medina, 6-1, 6-0.

Spikers come back, defeat Lady Raiders

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team survived a first-game challenge by Randall for a 8-15, 15-8, 15-10 win Saturday at Randall.

In the first game, Hereford held a 4-0 lead when the Lady Raiders ran off nine straight points, mostly on Hereford errors.

"Within that run, we shanked four serves off to give them aces," coach Brenda Reeh said. "Three or four other points were off our bad attacks, our hitting errors."

Reeh said Randall played better than it had in the teams' two previous meetings.

"Just from watching Randall in tournaments and from talking to other coaches, I knew they were capable of playing well, but our kids hadn't seen that until Saturday," she said.

The Raiders' success carried over into the first part of the second game, but then Hereford got going.

"They got up on us 4-0 in the second game, then had a 6-4 lead, then we just started scoring on every rotation," Reeh said. "We started playing with a little more emotion than we did in the first one."

Randall led 7-6 in the third game when Jessica Evers stepped to the

Harriers run in Stratford

Hereford's boys' and girls' cross country teams finished ninth and twelfth, respectively, at the Stratford Cross Country Meet Saturday.

The boys were led by Pedro Dominguez, who finished 19th with a time of 17:42 over the three-mile course. Coach Martha Emerson said it was Dominguez' best race of the year.

"Several runners improved, but we're just not consistent enough nor running fast enough to be district contenders," coach Martha Emerson said. "We have one more meet before district and I'd certainly like to see the runners really dig down and compete. We do have two varsity girls (Nora Herrera and Melissa Lucio) with nagging injuries, and we may rest them this week to get them ready for district."

The other boys were Jack Borden, who finished 35th in 18:26; Aurelio San Miguel, 46th in 18:55; Josh Pena, 48th in 18:58; and Ismael Arroyos, 54th in 19:24. Pena also ran his best race of the year, Emerson said.

The girls were led by Renee Banner, who was 45th in 14:17 over the two-mile course. She was followed by Linda Martinez, 50th in 14:25; Herrera, 52nd in 14:30; Belinda Murillo, 53rd in 14:34; Lucio, 69th in 14:59; and Cady Auckerman, 81st in 15:21.

Hereford runners won both junior varsity races. Bethany Townsend won the girls' JV race in 13:14, while Miguel Carillo won the boys' JV race in 18:45. In addition, Adolfo San Miguel had his best time of the year (19:56) in finishing 12th in the boys' JV race. All three are eighth-graders, who by rule can run only in the JV races.

Lee Mungia finished 14th in the boys' JV race with a time of 20:01, and Joe Borden was 34th in 26:17. In the girls' JV race, Michelle Garza was 17th in 14:43; Karon Harder was 35th in 15:15; and Vanessa Garcia was 67th in 16:41.

The teams run at a meet in Levelland Saturday. The week after that is the district meet in Amarillo.

Golfers host fall tourney

Hereford's boys' golf team hosted a fall tournament at Pitman Municipal Golf Tournament Saturday.

Hereford's A team played in a triangular match with Borger and Pampa and ended up in the middle. Borger totaled 301; Hereford shot 313; and Pampa had 319.

Jayson Mines led the A team with a 73. He was followed by Cory Newton, 77; Clay Cantrell, 79; Sabino Grijalva, 84; and Tim Burkhalter, 90.

Hereford's B team also finished second in a triangular match. They shot 390--behind Tascosa at 358 but ahead of Caprock at 466.

Scott Burkhalter led the B team with a 87. He was followed by David Farr, 99; D.J. Wagner, 100; Tom Munoz, 104; and Clint Robison, 108.

In the third triangular match, Amarillo High totaled 306 to beat Plainview at 317 and Palo Duro at 377.

The girls were off this week. They'll play Saturday in Borger, and the boys will be in Plainview.

Frosh spikers win tourney

Hereford's ninth grade A volleyball team won the Pampa Tournament Saturday, beating three teams, including Dumas in the finals.

On Monday, both Hereford's A and B teams beat teams from Palo Duro. The A team got seven points and four aces from Krista Beville to win 15-3, 15-11, while the B team got eight points and six aces from Lauren McNutt to win 15-10, 15-4.

In Pampa, the A team had no trouble in the first two rounds, putting away Dalhart 15-4, 15-1, and Pampa 15-1, 15-1. Dumas was able to give the A team a challenge, but Hereford prevailed 15-13, 15-5.

Beville starred from the service line with 15 points in the championship match. Against Pampa, she served for 14 of the 15 points in the second game. Heather Hodges led the team against Dalhart with 10 points in the match.

"I was really proud of the way the girls played Saturday," coach Kristi Lytal said. "Our hitters played very aggressively, and we had good digs and sets, also. Everyone took care of her job, and they really played like a team. The match we had the most fun with was beating Dumas for first place, because we're such rivals."

The B team also played in the tournament, but they lost their first two matches. They had Dumas' A team down 8-3 in the first game, but the Demonettes rallied for a 15-8, 15-8 win. Hereford then fell to Caprock 5-15, 15-13, 15-10.

The B team was coming off a fine performance against Amarillo High's Gold B team, which they beat 15-12, 9-15, 15-3 Oct. 12 in Amarillo. Amy Andrews and Paige Robbins each served for five points in the crucial third game, and Robbins totaled 12 points for the match.

On the same day, the A team lost to the Amarillo High Gold A team 10-15, 16-14, 15-13.

The winner

Jaime Ruiz of Hereford gets help from cornerman Joe Paredes in celebrating Ruiz win in his professional boxing debut Saturday in Amarillo.

Ruiz wins pro boxing debut

Hereford's Jaime Ruiz got his professional boxing career off to a good start with a unanimous decision over Mario Luera of Dallas Saturday in the Amarillo Civic Center.

One judge had Ruiz winning all four rounds, while the other two saw a tie in one round, probably the third when both fighters got tired.

"I felt pretty good in the first and second round," Ruiz said. "I tried to box with him, but he was brawling with me. I tried to stay inside, because he was popping me from the outside."

Both fighters threw plenty of punches in the first two rounds, and Ruiz seemed to get the better of Luera. In the third round, they slowed down.

"I got a little tired in the third," Ruiz said. "I wanted a little breather, but he kept coming. I tried to hold him a little. I think he felt he had to knock me out to win, so he kept coming."

Ruiz kept up the pressure in the fourth round, even opening a cut above Luera's eye.

"He threw a wild hook," Ruiz said. "I ducked and hit him with a left hook, and when I hit him I saw blood."

The crowd was mostly on Ruiz' side. A large part of the crowd was from Hereford, but even the Amarillo fans cheered for Ruiz, shouting, "Come on, Hereford, hit 'im, Hereford."

"There was a lot of Hereford people, from what I understand," Ruiz said. "That's what got me going in the first round: I could hear them roaring."

Ruiz is now 1-0 as a professional super bantamweight. He's already got an offer to fight again Oct. 30 in Dallas.

Ruiz' fight was one of the more exciting of the evening's seven bouts.

Two Amarillo fighters made their professional debut, and both lost by technical knockout in the first round: Heron Garcia was pummeled by Tracy Sneed, and John Walker was knocked through the ropes by Clifford Davis.

The headliner was an upset and a disappointment, as Louis Howard, a World Boxing Council junior champion, didn't seem interested in the non-title fight. He lost a unanimous decision to Wilberforce Kigganou.

In the other undercard fights, Francois Botha improved to 21-0 with a eight-round unanimous decision over Jimmy Bills; Jaime Olvera took a six-round majority decision over Chris Hamilton; and Ahnied Allaajiy beat Mike Williams in a unanimous decision.

Cothrin wins grid contest

Larry Cothrin of Hereford missed just two games and easily won last week's Hereford Brand Football Contest.

Cothrin will receive $25 in Hereford Bucks for his first place effort.

Debbie Lewis came out on top of four persons who missed just four games to take second place and $15 in Hereford Bucks. Taking third, and $10 in Hereford Bucks, was Bartley Dowell. Also missed four games, but farther away on the Randall-Hereford tiebreaker, were Kristi Hollingsworth and Dorothy Berend.

This week's games appear in today's issue of the Brand. There are 25 high school, college and pro games on the contest, plus the Hereford vs. Pampa tiebreaker. Besides the regular prizes, the Brand and the contest sponsors are offering a $500 award to anyone who picks the winner on the 25 games and the winner on the tiebreaker game.

All persons placing first, second and third are eligible for the grand prize game, coming up in November. First place in the grand prize game earns $100 in Hereford Bucks. Hereford Bucks, provided by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, may be spent like cash at any business in the county.

The only Super Bowl team unable to score a touchdown was Miami, a 24-3 loser to Dallas in 1972.

World Series takes off for Great White North

TORONTO (AP) - Baseball is big in Toronto, but never bigger than tonight when the first World Series game outside the United States will be played here.

"Everyone talks about Toronto being a hockey town," John Olerud said. "Now I think the city belongs to us."

"Believe me," Dave Winfield said, "this is Canada's team at the moment."

The Blue Jays have been around for 16 years. They've had winning records for the last 10. They went to the AL playoffs in 1985, 1989 and 1991. But they never went to the World Series until now.

Tonight, they play the Atlanta Braves before a packed house under the SkyDome's familiar gray ceiling and surrounded by more than 60 Canadian flags, all hung right-side up.

The series is all tied up, 1-1, after Toronto's dramatic 5-4 win Sunday night on little-known Ed Sprague's two-run pinch homer in the ninth.

But Sprague's hit wasn't as popular a topic of discussion on Monday's off day as a Canadian flag held upside down by a color guard during the Canadian national anthem before Game 2 in Atlanta.

"I hope it's an honest mistake, but mistake or no mistake, there's no excuse for it," Toronto's Kelly Gruber said. "The crowd might be a little more into (tonight's game), which is a benefit to us."

The flag was held by a U.S. Marine color guard from Atlanta.

An apology was issued, but "you shouldn't let that happen," Winfield said. "It's like having dignitaries coming to your home and putting out your old silverware."

"I imagine they're probably still doing pushups at their base after something like that," Atlanta shortstop Jeff Blauser said.

The Braves showed up at the SkyDome for another kind of workout. Most of them had never been in the cavernous building before and wanted to get used to it.

Blauser cared more about the color of the ceiling and whether it would cause popups to disappear than about whether the Canadian flags were hung properly. They were. So was the lone American flag in center field.

"I don't think it would be very smart for us not to have a workout," Blauser said.

It wasn't as urgent for the Blue Jays, who played in the SkyDome all season and didn't land in Toronto until 7:30 a.m. Monday. They were delayed four hours as a part in their airplane was replaced.

The Braves like the SkyDome a lot more than the Metrodome, where they lost all four games last year as Minnesota won the Series in seven. Unlike the white ceiling of the Metrodome, Toronto's darker top is a good background for the white baseball.

"Spectacular," Atlanta general manager John Schuerholz raved. "This place makes baseball less of an unnatural act inside."

"I don't see why" the Blue Jays should have an extra advantage in the SkyDome, Blauser said. "The only disadvantage (we have) is just like any other park you go into. They have the home field advantage. You would have that anywhere with fans on your side."

Gruber said he sometimes has trouble fielding high bouncers at third base that may get lost in the lights.

"It's pretty cold outside," Braves catcher Damon Berryhill said. "It's comfortable in here." And after looking at the field, Atlanta manager Bobby Cox gave his approval and said, "This won't faze us at all."

Juan Guzman might. The right-hander got two of Toronto's four victories in the AL playoffs against Oakland and will face Steve Avery in a matchup of young aces.

"We know what (Guzman) throws," Blauser said. "He throws hard and he has a good slider, and if there's any advantage, it's probably going to be in his hands."

"I only know about Avery from what I've seen on TV," Olerud said. "He seems like he has a great arm."

But he had a lousy outing in his last playoff game, allowing four runs and five hits in one-third of an inning as Pittsburgh won the fifth game 7-1.

"If you present someone with a big enough challenge and they're a competitive person, they should be able to handle it," Avery said.

Series breeds unlikely heroes

TORONTO (AP) - It happens almost every fall, a mystery man slips out of the shadows and into the brilliant light of the World Series, capturing not only the moment but recreating an enduring legend that is the essence of baseball.

In the World Series, baseball at its highest level, we are reminded by the likes of Toronto's Ed Sprague and Atlanta's Damon Berryhill that the game thrives on extraordinary efforts by ordinary men as much as it does on the heroics of its stars.

There is a rich tradition of such happenings, and true baseball fans savor the details of all of them as if they were personal triumphs. And in a way they are - affirmations that normal-sized mortals can achieve a degree of immortality in baseball that is denied them in sports like football and basketball.

The pinch-hit, ninth-inning homer by Sprague, a third-string catcher, that won Game 2 for the Blue Jays shocked more than the homer by Berryhill that carried the Braves to victory in Game 1.

Both, though, became linked in World Series history with men who rose from obscurity to fame in dramatic fashion and are still remembered mainly for those brief moments of glory.

A year ago such a man was Mark Lemke, a 5-foot-9 backup second baseman for Atlanta who hit .226 his first season and .234 his second. Suddenly in the World Series, he hit .417 in six games, including a 12th-inning single to win Game 3 and a triple that led to the winning run in Game 4.

"I play better under pressure situations because I like being in them; I want to be in them," said Lemke, who has two hits so far this series after returning to mediocrity during the season. "Sometimes you can prove things to yourself, like, 'Hey, you're able to come through in those situations.'"

Long before Lemke was born, there was Dusty Rhodes doing the same kind of thing for the 1954 New York Giants against Cleveland. He played only 82 games that year, but was a master of pinch-hitting as he went 15-for-45. In the World Series, he batted 3-for-3 as a pinch-hitter, 4-for-6 overall, with two homers and seven RBIs.

In the first game of that Series, Willie Mays made his most memorable catch, back to the plate and sprinting out to center field to haul in Vic Wertz's shot with two on in the eighth. That preserved a 2-2 tie. Rhodes won the game in the 10th with a pinch-hit, three-run homer.

In Game 2, Rhodes hit a pinch-single in the fifth to tie the game and homered in the seventh in a 3-1 Giants victory. In Game 3, Rhodes pinch-hit in the third inning, with the bases loaded, driving in two runs for a 3-0 lead en route to a 6-2 win. Rhodes rested in Game 4, but Cleveland had seen enough and collapsed anyway.

Two years later, a New York Yankees pitcher who had gone 11-5 with a 3.26 ERA during a rather undistinguished season suddenly became the most celebrated man in baseball.

Don Larsen, knocked out of Game 2 of the World Series after giving up a hit and four walks in 1 2-3 innings, took the mound in Game 5 and pitched the only perfect game in Series history. No hits, no walks, no errors, nothing but Brooklyn Dodgers going to the plate and returning to the dugout, and Larsen looking like a combination of Cy Young and Bob Feller for one glorious day.

Canadians miffed at flag gaffe

TORONTO (AP) - Canadians suffering through a mind-numbing constitutional referendum campaign were looking forward to a pleasant, non-political change of pace - the World Series.

So what happens? It turned political in Game 2.

It was not intentional, of course.

A U.S. Marine honor guard paraded across Atlanta-Fulton County stadium carrying the Canadian flag, upside down on its staff. The Marine Corps' apology was abject. Major League Baseball likewise wrung its hands.

Still, a lot of Canadians were miffed, a few seriously. Most viewed it as a dumb mistake and another example of American lack of knowledge - or interest - in Canada.

It's only mildly irritating that the Canadian champions competing in the best-of-seven World Series - the Toronto Blue Jays - are a bunch of Americans and Dominicans anyway. The lack of Canadian players has never been a real issue in the "Canada vs. U.S." series.

"The team is from Toronto," said Al Parsons, bar manager at the Sports Cafe, one of those wall-to-wall television places frequented by fanatics who like to watch three games at once.

"It's the same as with hockey teams that win Stanley Cups down south. Most of the players are Canadian, even when they play in the U.S. The press builds up this thing of two nations. I don't think they (fans) think about it for one moment."

Nonetheless, it's a historic moment, the World Series coming to Canada for the first time, the championship of the American national pastime being fought out on foreign soil.

Canadians do have a tendency to appropriate talent shamelessly.

As the Toronto Globe and Mail pointed out recently, Canadians still lay claim to Alexander Graham Bell, citing his early residence in Ontario and his summer home in Nova Scotia.

"There is at the best of times in our country a prevailing anti-American sentiment that runs surprisingly deep, even if it doesn't often surface," the Toronto Sun wrote of the flag flap.

"It is evidence of a timid country, of a people who doth protest too much, who know they suffer by comparison with their counterparts to the south, where every American, whatever his skin color or native language, is proud, first, to call himself an American."

Another blow to Canadian pride was delivered by one of Canada's own, singer Tom Cochrane. He muffed the words of "O Canada," the national anthem, before 50,000 people in Atlanta and millions on television.

SPIKERS

service line. Randall couldn't return her first serve, then she served two flat-out aces to give Hereford the lead for good.

"She sparked us a little bit," Reeh said.

Evers totaled four aces on 10 good serves. Kara Sandoval scored eight points serving, also on 10 good serves.

Robyn Watts even had three aces. She normally doesn't serve--she normally plays the front row and Evers substitutes for her and plays the back row--but they had used their maximum three substitutions.

Watts also led the team in kills with 10 and added three stuffs. Kathy Hernandez contributed eight kills, and Erin Bullard added five.

Hereford is now 15-9 overall and 5-2 in district with three matches to go: Caprock here tonight; Borger here Saturday; and at Pampa Oct. 27.

Hereford and Borger are tied for second behind Dumas. The undefeated Demonettes can clinch the district championship with a win over Borger tonight.

Hereford, which lost both district matches to Dumas but beat Borger in the first meeting in Borger, still needs to win out to clinch postseason play. If Borger loses to Dumas tonight and Hereford wins tonight and Saturday, then that would clinch the runner-up spot for Hereford. The Lady Whitefaces would probably meet Lamesa in bi-district.

Volleyball action starts at 6:30 tonight with the junior varsity match. The varsity match follows 20 minutes after the JV finishes.

Hereford's JV won Saturday, 15-8, 15-2.

"We kind of hung in there until we won," coach Royce Spies said. "We didn't start out to good, but we got better as we went along."

Katie Young served for nine points in the second game.

Steelers freeze out Boomer, Bengals, 20-0

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The calendar said October, the weather felt like December. Pittsburgh got its earliest snowfall in 20 years, the temperature dipped into the 20s and the Three Rivers Stadium playing field turned icy slick.

Maybe that's why the Cincinnati Bengals' offense went into the deep freeze.

Boomer Esiason has had four 300-yard games and a 409-yard game in his career against the Steelers, but he couldn't manage even 100 yards on a miserably cold Monday night. And miserably described Cincinnati's offense in a 20-0 loss to the tied-for-first place Steelers.

The Steelers had just enough offense and plenty of defense. The Bengals had nothing - no points, no momentum, no big plays, no offense, no defense, no rushing, no passing. No mas.

"We were pathetic," Esiason said after throwing for 86 yards, or about a normal quarter's worth of work against Pittsburgh. "We were inept."

Cincinnati's David Shula is the NFL's youngest head coach, but he probably feels about as old as papa Don. The Bengals are 2-4 after a 2-0 start and, what's even more discouraging, they must be wondering if any NFL team can play as badly as they did in this one.

The Bengals (2-4) entered the game with the NFL's lowest-ranked defense, but their offense was even worse. They managed only 118 yards - or only 10 more than Pittsburgh's Barry Foster ran for - and totaled only 14 yards in the second half.

Esiason played with a bruised right arm, but his ego was even more bruised.

"To get as few yards as we did is pathetic," he said. "I can't remember playing in a game where we had so few yards. I don't have any answers. ... If you stop believing you can win, you can't."

For a while, the Steelers (4-2) acted like they had stopped believing they could score. After a 3-0 start, they were held without a touchdown in losses to Green Bay (17-3) and Cleveland (17-9), two teams that will never be compared to the NFL's great defenses of all time.

The Steelers' nine-quarter streak without a touchdown finally ended on Dwight Stone's 24-yard touchdown catch late in the first half, two plays after his own 30-yard run on a reverse. He scored again in the fourth quarter on a 5-yard throw from Neil O'Donnell, following Jerrol Williams' recovery of an Esiason fumble at the Steelers' 20.

"Finally getting into the end zone gave us a lot of confidence," Stone said. "You keep wondering how long it's going to go on."

Gary Anderson added field goals of 21 and 27 yards as O'Donnell finished 23 of 37 for 287 yards and no interceptions.

The NFL's leading rusher also emerged from the game, and while his first name is Barry, it's not Sanders. Foster's fourth 100-yard game of the season gave him 642 yards for the season and moved him past Emmitt Smith of Dallas (581) and Ricky Watters (576) of San Francisco into the NFL rushing lead.

Even more surprisingly, the Steelers' 4-2 record tied them with Houston for the AFC Central Division lead. They'll get a better idea of exactly how good they are in the next month, when they play

Kansas City, Houston, Buffalo and Detroit.

"It was a great feeling (scoring a touchdown)," Greg Lloyd said. "Something like that should have happened three weeks ago. We should be sitting on a 6-0 right now."

Cowboys are alone in first

IRVING (AP) - First place. All alone. Rarefied atmosphere for a Dallas Cowboys program in shambles just three short years ago.

"It's too early to get excited by the standings but I like where we are," said Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson. "When I was at (the University of) Miami we were always in first place."

Not since Tom Landry was coach, Tony Dorsett the running back and Danny White the quarterback have the Cowboys been alone in first place in the NFC East.

Until Sunday. The Cowboys beat the New York Giants 28-21 on Dec. 15, 1985, at Texas Stadium to capture a 13th NFC East division championship.

The next year Dallas' streak of 20 consecutive winning seasons ended with a 7-9 record and the Tex Schram-Landry regime began its slowfall.

Dallas used a late interception from Ray Horton Sunday to nip Kansas City 17-10 and move ahead of Philadelphia alone into first place in the NFC East for the first time in seven years with a 5-1 record.

"Our division will probably be decided on the 14th, 15th or 16th week of the season," Johnson said. Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman, still remembering a 31-7 Monday night loss to Philadelphia earlier in the season, said, "We're happy but it's too early in the season to get caught up about who's in first."

Philadelphia and Washington each have two losses and trail Dallas by a game.

Dallas plays at the Los Angeles Raiders on Sunday then returns to Texas Stadium for a rematch with Philadelphia on Nov. 1.

The Eagles lost to Washington 16-12 Sunday and some of the Cowboys were scoreboard watchers.

Johnson said, "We really don't look at the other teams that much. The more you do the more apt you are to be upset yourself."

"It was terrific," guard John Gesek said of the Washington victory. "Hopefully, we can stay up there on top for awhile now."

It was the 10th consecutive home victory for the Cowboys and Emmitt Smith at 23 became the youngest player in NFL history to reach the 3,000-yard plateau.

Aikman said he believes the Cowboys will be in the race to the end because of a balanced offense. "We pride ourselves on the fact we can run and throw the ball," Aikman said. "But if we are going to stay atop the NFC East we've got to quit killing ourselves with penalties. We had too many against the Chiefs that's for sure."

Tackle Tony Casillas said the Cowboys are a threat to go all the way because the defense has started to jell. "It's really coming around," Casillas said. "We shut them down to 10 points. When we needed to make a big play we made one. When we needed to be physical, we did it."

The oddsmakers were impressed. The Cowboys were field goal favorites on the road against the Raiders.

Elway stings Oilers again

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers had the lead with less than two minutes to play against Denver but they already had failed to execute their game plan.

"We wanted to be so far ahead that it wouldn't matter what (John) Elway did," receiver Curtis Duncan said.

Unfortunately for the Oilers, they led only 21-20 when Elway and the offense trotted onto the field with 1:56 left in the game. They needed only 22 seconds for another miracle at Mile High and a 27-21 victory.

Elway took the Broncos 80 yards in just three plays with Reggie Rivers running the final 20 yards for the winning touchdown and another smack on the Oilers' road confidence.

Elway took the Broncos 87 yards in their January playoff game, with the Oilers trying to play out the clock in a prevent defense. That strategy led to a 23-21 loss.

Coach Jack Pardee decided on an equally unsatisfactory course on Sunday.

"We were going to be aggressive this time," Pardee said. "We've seen the other side of playing soft and letting him make 15 yards a clip. So we went after him."

It all turned out to be just another case of the Oilers scoring too soon. They would have preferred to score with only seconds remaining, but Duncan's 72-yard catch ate up yards and saved time for Elway.

"When you are behind, you have to take you touchdowns when you can get them," Pardee said. "I wish we could have scored with two seconds left."

There was predictable frustration among the Oilers on Monday.

"We were given an opportunity to gain some of our self-respect back for what happened up there in January and we didn't get it," defensive end William Fuller said. "I feel better today than I did yesterday. We still have all of our goals in front of us. We played well most of the time but we allowed some big plays. We didn't play a complete ball game."

Warren Moon did an Elway imitation in the closing minutes. He directed the Oilers 94 yards in eight plays, highlighted by a 72-yard pass to Curtis Duncan on third down and a nine-yard touchdown pass to Ernest Givins with 1:56 left in the game.

That left more than enough time for Elway's act.

"I've been in the game eight years and I've seen it happen before," cornerback Jerry Gray said. "You can't can the season and say the defense is no good. We're 4-2 and could be 6-0. The leaders have to talk to the team now and get us going."

"When Elway is in the pocket, he's a normal quarterback, when you let him scramble, that puts him in an elite class."

Elway hit Mark Jackson with a 39-yard pass completion on the first play. On the second, Elway threw 20 more yards to Vance Johnson and on the third play Reggie Rivers ran straight through Houston's defense 20 yards for the touchdown.

"We had a couple of opportunities to sack him but he got away both times," Pardee said. "One the touchdown we had a straight ahead shot at him and missed the tackle."

The Oilers return to the Astrodome Sunday to play host to the Cincinnati Bengals, whom they defeated 38-24 on Oct. 11.

NFL owners seek labor agreement

CHICAGO (AP) - It seems to come up every few years - a problem that NFL owners can't solve.

Three years ago, it was picking a commissioner.

This year, it's getting some sort of labor agreement that will allow the league to go on with expansion, the draft and the rest of its future.

And it starts again today as the owners come together for their annual fall meeting, one that was expected a year ago to perhaps produce the names of the two new cities to which the league will expand.

But the September jury verdict which invalidated the league's limited free agent system - Plan B - has made expansion a lower priority than labor.

Judge David Doty, who heard the lawsuit that invalidated Plan B, has set Nov. 12 for motions on that verdict, and the NFL would like to have in place some sort of free agency plan of its own by then - assuming there will be no agreement with the players.

"I think we're moving toward a consensus on our plan," Jerry Jones, owner of the Dallas Cowboys, said Tuesday.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 46-year-old, single, heterosexual woman who, because of loneliness and the desire to be useful, volunteered at an AIDS hospice.

I met a charming 35-year-old gay man the day he checked in. "Jed" and I became instant, inseparable friends.

After a few weeks, he told me he did not like living in the hospice because the food was terrible, his quarters were too cramped and not as clean as he was used to, and there were too many severely ill people there. Jed was well-educated, extremely friendly, interesting and fun to be with. I'm afraid my compassion got the better of my good sense.

He told me that he expected to receive a considerable sum of money in a few weeks and had been looking for a place of his own. He suggested that we share an apartment when he got his money. I thought it was a good idea and agreed to let him move into my place in the interim. He was delighted, even though it meant sleeping on the couch. Jed then explained that he was penniless and needed a little financial help to tide him over until his money came in. I loaned him $1,500, which I had to borrow from the bank. Then came the nightmare of him waiting for his money and me waiting for repayment. It has been five months now, and I have not seen a dime so far.

After a few unpleasant words, Jed moved out of my place and into the home of a gay hairdresser who, I'm sure, is being bamboozled the same way I was. I don't know whether to tell his new benefactor of my unhappy experience or to keep my mouth shut. After being so foolish, I don't trust my judgment. Will you please advise me? -Hurting in Carlsbad, Calif.

DEAR CARLSBAD: I believe in the old adage, "Do unto others..." You would have been grateful had someone warned you about that con artist, wouldn't you? Well, do the current sucker a favor and tell him how you were hornswoggled.

If you think Jed has any money, you might consider taking him to small claims court. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am sickened by a news article I read in The Boston Globe concerning a woman accused of shooting the wife of her married lover. Apparently, a movie production company paid $60,000 of her $100,000 bail money in order to get the rights to her story.

Too bad the entertainment industry has sunk to this level. If the woman is found guilty, will she be allowed to keep the money? If so, to whom can we write to express our outrage? -Disgusted in Boston

DEAR BOSTON: I share your feelings about the entertainment industry cashing in on tragedy and misery, but human nature being what it is, I see no hope for change.

Bail money is returned to the donor when the accused shows up for trial. In some cases, bail money is assigned to the lawyer to cover fees, but the accused would not get it unless the movie company paid it to her directly.

In some states, victims or their families can sue to recover profits derived from a crime. The woman you read about was sentenced in New York, where a recently enacted law gives victims priority in collecting ANY assets from the defendant.

Ann Landers' latest booklet, "Nuggets and Doozies," has everything from the outrageously funny to the poignantly insightful. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Nuggets, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.
