East Germany apologizes for Nazi atrocities

EAST BERLIN (AP) - The young East Germany democracy's Parliament named Lothar de Maiziere as prime minister today, backed a plan for swift unification with West Germany and apologized to Jews for the atrocities of the Nazis.

East Germany's first freely elected Parliament also recognized the legitimacy of Poland's post-war borders and apologized for taking part in the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 that crushed a reform movement.

The hard-line Communist government that was toppled last November had never formally apologized for the Holocaust.

Just before the second session of East Germany's first freely elected Parliament began, the Cabinet members chosen by de Maiziere formally signed their coalition agreement.

The prime minister is a Christian Democrat who was strongly backed Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany and his conservative alliance won 48 percent of the vote in March 18 elections.

That gave de Maiziere a clear mandate to negotiate with West Germany.

The coalition agreement on the makeup of his government was reached Wednesday after nearly a week of intense negotiations and cleared the way for parliamentary approval.

The Cabinet pledged to secure prosperity, social justice and freedom for all East German citizens, according to excerpts carried by the East German news agency ADN.

The agreement also paved the way for rapid reunification by stating the merging of the two countries should be based on the article of the West German constitution that permits direct incorporation of East German territory into West Germany.

An increasingly restive workforce worried about rampant unemployment associated with reunification planned demonstrations today.

A farmers organization said it would drive tractors and farm implements through East Berlin to demand an orderly transition to private ownership of property. But telephone and other electronics workers fearing unemployment did not follow through with their call for a three-hour strike in the capital.

Approval of the de Maiziere government clears the way for the start of talks with West Germany on merging their divergent economic and political systems after four decades of separation.

Students at Northwest Primary School in Hereford celebrated a good spring day recently on the school's playground. The extended forecast is calling for a great Easter weekend and almost-hot weather by Monday.

Sales tax increase could pass House

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements' chief of staff warned that lawmakers should "quit playing games" and heed the governor's vow to veto new state taxes for court-ordered school finance reform.

"The governor is going to veto a tax bill, so if they want to go play chicken with him, they can do it, but that is senseless," Mike Toomey said Wednesday, after outlining for the Senate Finance Committee Clements' plan to fund school finance reform by transferring money from other programs and increasing the state fee for obtaining driving records.

Clements favors a $234 million school finance plan for 1990-91, although he has said he would allow a bill with a higher price tag if it didn't require new taxes.

Speaker Gib Lewis said the House will consider ways to fund school finance reform next week. Lawmakers are considering cuts in other state budget areas; a state lottery; and fee and tax increases.

Rep. James Hury, chairman of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, said all options will be considered in funding the school finance plan that emerges from a legislative conference committee, which is trying to work out differences between a $450 million House bill and a $1.2 billion Senate measure.

But he said if non-tax revenue measures aren't enough, the difference will be made up in taxes.

"I don't call it a game at all. I call it just as serious as you can be. We've passed a bill, and we're going to fund it," said Hury, D-Galveston.

"And one of his hatchet men, Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur, added, while commenting on the plan to take power from the elected board: "...the Legislature wants a little better handle on getting state policy implemented."

"Read that: 'We want to run the educational system. And we are going to run the educational system—the public be d—ed.'

"Indeed, last week they declared that the educational system is lousy because the elected board (in Hobby's words) 'has been a shame to the state.' In a rare open display of megalomania, Hobby told reporters: 'I would much rather go back to an appointed board, but I guess it doesn't make much difference whether it is made appointed or elective, just as long as the board is rendered harmless.'

"And one of his hatchet men, Sen. Carl Parker of Port Arthur, added, while commenting on the plan to take power from the elected board: "...the Legislature wants a little better handle on getting state policy implemented."

"Read that: 'We want to run the educational system. And we are going to run the educational system—the public be d—ed.'

"Never mind that Hobby, Parker, Lewis and their legislative cronies are responsible for the current educational muddle. Never mind that in 1987 Texas voters sent them a clear message to leave the state board alone so it could clean up their mess."

"These self-appointed Texas gods will not be satisfied until they and the failed political/educational coalition they represent are in charge of everything again."

"And when that happens, mammas and papas, boys and girls, you can kiss any chance of improved schools goodbye."

HHS bands win honors

Hereford High School bands earned honors in the University Interscholastic League District I band competition on Wednesday at Pampa.

The varsity band, conducted by James Maciaskey, earned a first division (superior) rating in sightreading and a second division (excellent) rating in concert.

In non-varsity competition, the freshman band received second division ratings in sightreading and concert, and a third band received a II in sight reading and a III in concert.

There are enough votes in the 150-member House, where tax bills must originate, to pass a sales tax increase, said Hury and Rep. Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, chairman of the budget-writing Appropriations Committee. But they don't see the two-thirds margin needed to override a gubernatorial veto.

"It seems like everybody's coming down on that - everybody except Governor Clements - is coming down in favor of that (a sales tax increase)," said Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, Finance Committee chairman.

If lawmakers pass a tax bill and Clements carries through on his veto threat, Hury said, "then we're going to do whatever we can, but he's going to take responsibility for it."

Rudd said the state sales tax increase being considered is one-half cent, to 6.5 cents on the dollar. Hury said lawmakers also could look at such alternatives as broadening the sales tax.

The Legislature adjourned until Monday for the Easter holiday, but the school finance conference committee planned to meet Thursday.

The committee includes, from the House, Reps. Ernestine Grossbrenner, D-Alice; Paul Calvert, D-Houston; Kent Grusendorf, R-Arlington; Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, and Rudd.

The Senate conferees are Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur; John Montford, D-Lubbock; Cyndi Taylor Krier, R-San Antonio; Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin; and Caperton.

Experts unsure about lotteries

AUSTIN (AP) - A House committee has begun taking testimony on the feasibility of using a state lottery - touted by Democratic gubernatorial nominee Ann Richards and other officials - as a means of funding public education.

Lawmakers are considering the lottery and a number of other tax and fee increases to finance court-ordered school finance reform.

State Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, has filed two lottery bills during the present special session.

One proposes a non-binding referendum on the lottery issue; the other outlines a constitutional amendment to create a lottery. All constitutional amendments must be approved by state voters.

Both measures mandate lottery profits be used to fund public education.

On Wednesday, a joint meeting of the House State Affairs and Ways and Means committees heard conflicting testimony from two out-of-state experts.

"There's certainly no adverse effect that's been felt because of the lottery in the state of Massachusetts," said James Hosker, executive director of the Massachusetts State Lottery. "Everyone's happy with it."

Hosker said Massachusetts, which has a population of more than 5 million, netted $485 million for the government in lottery revenues during 1989.

He said that since lotteries started in 1964, only California has lost a slight amount of money in its second year of operation due to a delay in implementing its lottery.

Fights loom in November elections

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Republicans and Democrats both are boasting about their chances in the general election, with each party touting its ballot top-to-bottom.

With Democrat Ann Richards and Republican Clayton Williams battling for governor, leaders of both parties said Wednesday that the November election will be a crucial test of strength for the 1990s.

"It's terrific. We've got the strongest ticket we've ever had. It's up and down the ticket. We've got a Phil Gramm running for U.S. Senate and other real high points," said Texas GOP Chairman Fred Meyer.

"We've got the extraordinary ticket. The Republicans, below the big-dollar camouflage that coats Phil Gramm and Clayton Williams' deficiencies, they've got nothing on their ticket," countered Ed Martin, executive director of the Texas Democratic Party.

Williams, the oilman-rancher nicknamed "Claytie," won the Republican primary without a runoff last month in an $8 million campaign. He says he'll bring to government the same management style that made him a multimillionaire in business.

Ms. Richards, who became an overnight celebrity after her no-holds-barred oratory at the 1988 Democratic National Convention, had a tougher fight but retains her "star" status and brings voters an eight-year record of managing the state Treasury.

"She's somebody who can make state government work. She's not the guy who has an $8 million mask and wants to take us back to the thrilling days of yesteryear," the Democrats' Martin said.

"I think we've got a clear choice between a national liberal Democrat and a moderate-to-conservative Republican, Claytie Williams ... that's exactly the kind of matchup we like in Texas," GOP boss Meyer said.

The gubernatorial faceoff immediately makes abortion a hot issue.

Ms. Richards is strongly pro-choice, while Williams has said he opposes abortion except in cases of rape, incest or danger to a mother's life.

That's going to be the case in the U.S. Senate race, too, where Democratic nominee Hugh Parmer already is airing television commercials attacking incumbent Republican Sen. Gramm.

The pro-choice Parmer has been sharply critical of legislation Gramm introduced in Congress to restrict abortions.

A former Fort Worth mayor and current state senator, Parmer won the nomination last month, as did Gramm.

Gramm, who overpowered Democrat Lloyd Doggett in 1984, has said he is prepared to spend up to $20 million to hold onto his seat.

Republicans also are challenging down the ballot, a fact that makes GOP chairman Meyer feel good about his party's chances.

"We've got 15 statewide candidates. We've got an excellent chance of picking up state representative seats. We're going to continue to march forward and elect local officials, too. We're feeling very good," Meyer said.

Democratic National Chairman Ron Brown countered by saying his party's going to pull together to hold power in the nation's third-largest state.

"Ann Richards is ready to lead modern Texas into a new decade and a new century. The Texas of tomorrow can ill-afford the prehistoric notions of Clayton Williams," Brown said.

"Together, we can make 1990 the stepping stone to a Democratic White House in 1992."

The race for the No. 2 state job - lieutenant governor - pits Democratic state Comptroller Bob Bullock, who has held that office since the mid-1970s, against Houston oilman Rob Mosbacher, son of U.S. Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher.

Today in History

By The Associated Press

Today is Thursday, April 12, the 102nd day of 1990. There are 263 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On April 12, 1945, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, the 32nd president of the United States, died of a cerebral hemorrhage in Warm Springs, Ga., at age 63. Vice President Harry S. Truman became the nation's 33rd chief executive.

On this date:

In 1606, England adopted as its flag the original version of the Union Jack.

In 1861, the Civil War began as Confederate forces fired on Fort Sumter in South Carolina.

In 1862, Union volunteers led by James J. Andrews stole a Confederate train near Marietta, Ga., but were later caught. This episode inspired the Buster Keaton comedy "The General."

In 1955, the Salk vaccine against polio was declared safe and effective.

In 1961, Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin became the first man to fly in space, orbiting the earth once before making a safe landing.

In 1975, the U.S. embassy in Phnom Penh was closed, and the last of the American personnel, including Ambassador John Gunther Dean, evacuated in the face of advancing Khmer Rouge forces.

In 1983, Chicagoans went to the polls to elect Harold Washington the city's first black mayor.

In 1988, the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office issued a patent to Harvard for a genetically engineered mouse, the first time a patent was granted for an animal life form.

One year ago: Radical activist Abbie Hoffman was found dead at his home in New Hope, Pa., at age 52; former middleweight boxing champion Sugar Ray Robinson died in Culver City, Calif., at age 67.

Thought for today: "Eternal truths will be neither true nor eternal unless they have fresh meaning for every new social situation." - President Franklin D. Roosevelt (1882-1945).

Doctors cash in by ordering extra tests

BOSTON (AP) - Doctors' decisions to give tests or take X-rays depend in part on how much money they make on them, a study today says.

The research supports the widely held but hard to document idea that doctors' own financial interests play a role in determining the kind and amount of care they give their patients.

The report, in today's New England Journal of Medicine, measured what happened when a chain of walk-in clinics changed the way it paid its doctors. Instead of a flat hourly wage, doctors could earn a percentage of all the fees they generated.

With this financial incentive, they boosted the number of tests and X-rays they performed by about 20 percent.

The study was conducted in 1984 and 1985 at Boston-area offices of Health Stop, the nation's biggest chain of walk-in clinics with 80 centers in six states.

Nationwide, about 4,000 of these clinics have opened in the past decade. They specialize in quick care for routine health complaints, such as sprains and colds.

Dr. Mark Shankman, Health Stop's chief executive officer, contended that the study was too small and flawed to draw conclusions. But he agreed that financial incentives can influence the way doctors work.

Patients' needs differ, and doctors honestly disagree over how much - or how little - care is enough, especially when an extra test or two may rule out some remotely possible problem.

The new study suggests that when such uncertainty exists, doctors may pile on the tests if they also profit from running up the bill.

During the period studied, doctors were still guaranteed payments of $28 to $32 per hour, depending on their age and experience. But if their patients' bills were high enough, they received part of the gross receipts instead of their hourly pay. They had the opportunity to keep 24 percent of the first $24,000 of their patients' monthly charges and 15 percent after that.

The researchers compared the behavior of 15 doctors during three-month periods before and after the bonus system. Overall, they performed 23 percent more X-rays and 16 percent more tests after they became eligible for bonuses.

Their total charges per month, adjusted for inflation, grew 20 percent. Seven of the 15 doctors regularly earned bonuses, and their pay rose 19 percent.

The study did not attempt to learn whether patients benefited or suffered from the extra medical care.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Something is wrong with the divorce laws in Massachusetts and probably in a great many other states as well.

Something is wrong when a woman tells the judge that her spouse was "a good husband and an excellent father," admits her own infidelity and still gets custody of the child, ownership of the house and a generous portion of her husband's salary.

Something is wrong when the husband is forced to give up 25 percent of a $200 a week take-home pay, with no regard for his basic expenses including rent, food and transportation. Something is wrong when the "excellent father" is forced to become nothing more than a visitor in his child's life.

I'm sure that part of the problem is that divorced fathers aren't as well organized as divorced women, nor do they have the political clout. No one is happy about the high divorce rate, and everyone agrees that the children are the big losers, but existing laws make it so easy and so profitable to women and their lawyers that divorce has become a most attractive alternative. No wonder so many men abandon their responsibilities and disappear.

I am, as you probably suspected - A Victim of the System, Worcester, Mass.

DEAR VICTIM: It is a matter of record that the vast majority of women end up much poorer after divorce, while their ex-husbands' standard of living improves.

I am printing your letter, because it represents a point of view that deserves to be heard. I must say, however, when a man comes out as poorly as you did, I'm inclined to suspect that he had an incompetent lawyer, or the judge was bonkers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been meaning to write to you ever since I read that letter from the emergency room nurse. She was shocked to discover that a prominent attorney who had been brought in was wearing ladies undies under his trousers.

I am a 55-year-old man, happily married with five children. I am not a cross-dresser, and there is nothing the least bit kinky about me. I have had several back surgeries and spent a fortune on custom-made braces. They were all terrible uncomfortable, and I quit wearing them. One day I asked my wife to let me try one of her girdles. It turned out to be exactly what I needed.

The only problem was that the girdle rolled and slid a bit, so now I wear a pair of my wife's panties under the girdle. If I should end up in an emergency room, I'm sure a lot of eyebrows would go up. Frankly, I couldn't care less. -- Comfortable in Long Beach

DEAR COMFY: Your letter is another example of what can happen when people jump to conclusions before getting all the facts. Thanks for writing.

March of Dimes Walk-a-thon set April 28

The March of Dimes will have their "Walk America" walk-a-thon on Saturday, April 28. The 6.2 mile walk will start at 10 a.m. at the Discovery Center in the Harrington Regional Medical Center and will end at 1 p.m. at the Discovery Center.

The goal of the March of Dimes and the walk is to raise money for the prevention of birth defects. The funds raised will be used to support grants in the community for medical research, public and professional health education and community services. Individuals interested in participating can contact the March of Dimes office at 806-355-5321.

Birth defects affect one of every 14 babies born in the United States. A baby with a birth defect is born every two minutes. One million Americans require hospital care every year because of it, and 60,000 infants, children and adults die each year as a result of a birth defect. It is the leading cause of infant death in the United States.

For 31 years, the March of Dimes has led the fight against birth defects and prematurity. Funds provided by the March of Dimes allowed researchers to find the vaccine for polio. After being assured of their conquest over polio, the organization broadened its concern to cover all birth defects and prematurity.

The core strength of the March of Dimes is the volunteers. Birth defects have so many potential causes that the March of Dimes volunteers are committed to acquiring and acting upon a remarkable range of knowledge and concern about the needs of the community.

The radio quiz show "Information Please!" made its debut in 1938 on the NBC Blue Network.

Herd teams to take on 1-4A rivals

By SAM W. WALLER
Sports Editor

Hereford Whiteface spring sports enter the home stretch this weekend as teams in three sports conclude District 1-4A competition.

The boys' and girls' golf squads were scheduled to get the district championship weekend underway at 9 a.m. today at Borger with the third district round. The golfers will play the final round of district competition Friday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The Herd tennis and track and field teams will spend Friday and Saturday taking on district foes in their respective meets. The 1-4A tennis tournament will begin at 9 a.m. Friday at South Plains College in Levelland with play-in matches and most of the quarterfinals. The district track meet will get underway at 2:30 p.m. Friday with the finals of the 3,200-meter run.

Not to be left out, the Herd baseball team will host Dunbar at 1 p.m. Saturday for a district contest at Whiteface Field.

GOLF

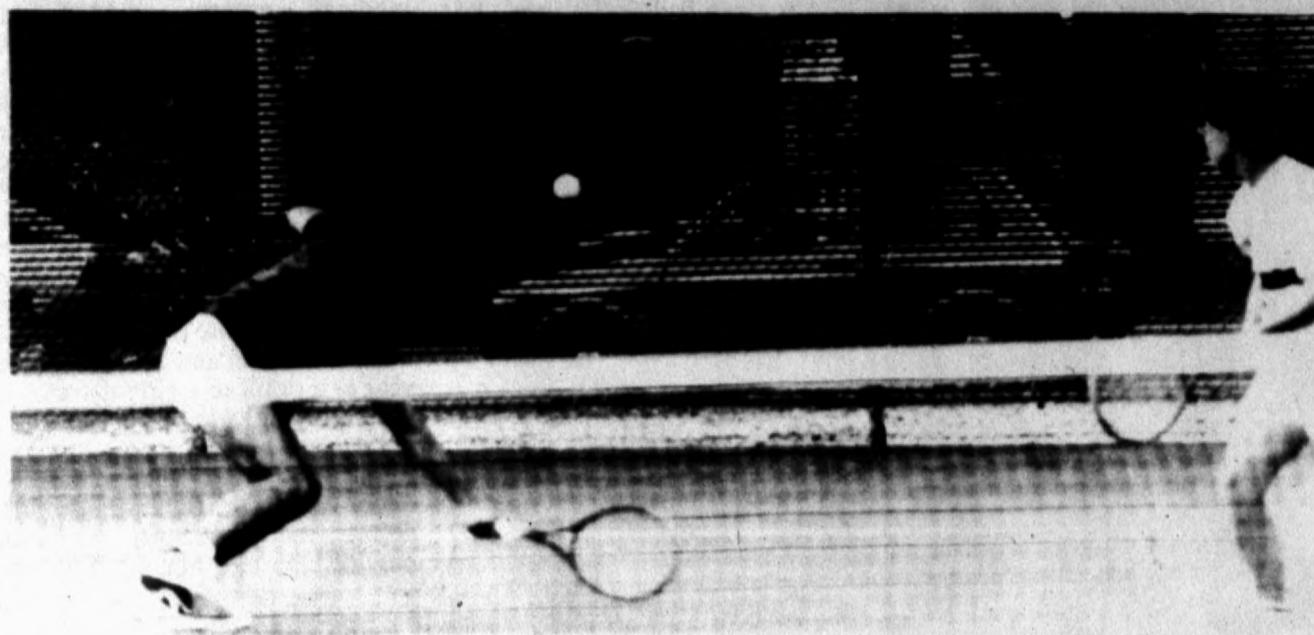

Defending girls' medalist Naomi Grijalva holds a nine-stroke lead entering the final two rounds and has the Lady Whitefaces in second place in the team standings 50 strokes behind Pampa A and 20 up on Borger A.

Coach Stacy Bixler said the prospect of playing Borger home-and-home for the final regional berth should make for some tough competition.

"We've talked about it and I think they understand what it's going to take to beat Borger," Bixler said. "If we don't lose anymore than the 20 strokes we have on them, I think we'll be in good shape for Friday. If we come into the last round on our home course even or ahead a few strokes, we shouldn't have any problem."

As for Grijalva's chances of repeating as district medalist, Bixler said her experience would be a big advantage.

"Of course, anything can happen in a game like golf, but Naomi's been

Top district seeds

Eric Cortez (left) and Torey Sellers will be the No. 1 seeds in boys' doubles at the District 1-4A tennis tournament being held Friday and Saturday at South Plains College in Levelland. Herd teams will determine district champions and regional berths in tennis, golf and track and field over the weekend.

through all this before," he said. "She's been to regional twice and to state once, so she's played under that type of pressure before. And golf is such a mental game anyway that it will come down to her being able to shake off any problems she might have and not let affect the rest of her play."

In the boys' competition, both Hereford teams managed to move up two places from the first to the second round. Bixler said the same type of improvement today would give his young players a shot in the arm.

"As young as we are and as many as we'll have back next year (the boys lose only two seniors), picking up a couple of more spots would really give us a boost for next year," he said.

"Most of these other teams are all seniors and we could have some of the top returning players next year."

Bixler added that Herd's B team stood a good chance of being among the top second units in the district.

"Right now, there are two other B teams ahead of us, Borger and Pampa, and Pampa's only six stroke ahead of us."

Friday's final round will begin with a 9 a.m. shotgun start at Pitman. The boys will start on the front nine with the girls playing the back side first.

Pitman Head Pro Brent Warner said the course will not be open for local golfers until the end of the round, about 3 p.m.

TENNIS

The Herd netters could prove to be the class of the field with two entries seeded No. 1 and a third seeded second for the district tournament.

Kristie Allison drew the top spot in the girls' singles field with the boys' doubles team of Eric Cortez and Torey Sellers also being seeded first. The girls' doubles team of Misty Reed and Gina Alley will be seeded No. 2 in their division. Only two seeds were assigned in each division.

Coach Luis Zavala said Herd entries have a chance to win big at the two-day competition.

"With the exception of boys' singles, I think we could win all of the top two places," Zavala said. "We should be taking 10 players to regional."

Allison will be defending her 1989 district championship when she takes the court against Levelland's Renee Watts in the quarterfinals. Brenna Reinauer will face Julie McMahan of Frenship in her quarterfinal match.

Zavala said Reinauer had the tougher draw to reach the finals.

Brenna will probably have to play Dianne Jordan of Borger in the second," he said, "and that will be a tough match. It would go three sets. And she could wind up playing the second seed, Gracie Lara (of Dunbar).

"Kristie shouldn't have any problems," Zavala added. "It will just be a matter of her playing as well as she is capable."

Zavala also expects Reed and Alley to have no trouble in reaching the championship match and said they could well be playing the Herd's other entry, sophomores Teresa Baker and Lori Sanders.

"Teresa and Lori will have to play Serenil and Moss from Levelland (the No. 1 seeds) in the first round," he said. "If they can win that one, I think they will be in the finals."

Misty and Gina could have some trouble because they will probably play Heather Gikas and Allison Thompson (of Pampa) in the second round. They're 1-1 against them this year, but if they play well, it shouldn't be that close."

Reed and Alley will open the tourney against Levelland's Simpson and Gable.

The boys' doubles team of Randy Robbins and Jeff Eades will have the toughest road to the finals, Zavala said, while Cortez and Sellers should make it easily.

"Randy and Jeff will have to play some very good teams," he said. "If we were having more than two seeds, at least two of their opponents could have been seeded."

Cortez and Sellers will open against Fletcher and Thompson of Frenship while Cortez and Sellers meet Estacado's Blakes and Cortez. Robbins and Eades would have to beat second seeds Joe Wellborn and Semeer Mohan of Pampa to reach the finals.

The Herd will enter a pair of freshmen in the boys' singles draw with both having to wait out a play-in before the quarterfinals.

Jamie Kapka will face Danny Schroer of Dumas to see who will play Randall's Phillip Thomas. Greg Coplen will take on the winner of a play-in between Borger's Barry Thrutchley and Levelland's Lee Slaughter.

Estacado's James Gibson will be the top seed with Borger's Fitz Moles being seeded No. 2.

TRACK & FIELD

The Lady Whitefaces could find themselves in a race down to the wire for the team championship, according to coach Martha Emerson.

"It's going to be a matter of 10 points or less," Emerson said. "What it's going to come down to is who gets the most fourth, fifth and sixth places and who can steal some points."

The Lady Whitefaces own the best time in the district in the 800- and 1,600-meter relays with Pampa close behind.

Hereford will also be looking to pick up points in the field events. Cande Robbins and Shantel Cornelius have both thrown the discus more than 110 feet while Cornelius and Robin White have both cleared five feet in the high jump.

Jill West, in addition to the 200-meter dash and two relays, will try for points in the triple jump and long jump.

On the track, Emerson said sprinter Daphne Roddy and distance runner Teresa Castillo appear to be recovering from leg problems that forced them to take most of the past week off.

"They're both doing real well after resting up," Emerson said. "We'll need them at full strength if we're going to have a chance."

In the boys' division, Coach Ron Young is counting on history repeating itself.

"Hereford has a history of peaking at the district meet," Young said, "and that's what we're looking for this time. We've got some individuals that have really come along in the last week and we expect them to compete out there. We expect our mile relay to do something this week."

The Herd will be depending on a strong showing in the field events in the team race. Shot putter Benny Gonzales leads the district with a toss of 56-6 1/2 and discus thrower Phillip Betzen owns a throw of 151-11. Pole vaulter Brad Mason has gone 13-0 the last two weeks and high jumpers Tate Smith and Sean Smith have both cleared 6-4.

Tate Smith will also challenge in the 110-meter hurdles, where he ran a wind-aided 14.85 last week.

Langston, Witt pair to nohit Seattle

ANAHEIM (AP) - Mark Langston wanted five good innings in his debut with the California Angels.

He got seven no-hit innings. When Mike Witt contributed two more, the pair got a rare gem - a combined no-hitter.

The California pitchers teamed up Wednesday night for only the fifth combined, nine-inning no-hitter ever in the majors and the first since 1976, as the Angels beat the Seattle Mariners 1-0.

Langston, the Angels' $16 million left-handed free agent signee, was amazed at what happened in his first appearance for the Angels - and against his former team, no less.

"It was stunning," he said. "I tried to imagine what my first game would be like, against Seattle and all. Believe me, I didn't imagine anything close to this."

"I couldn't have written it any better. You want to start off on the right foot and I feel very grateful for what it turned out."

Langston, who worked just 16 innings in the lockout-abbreviated spring training, said he made the decision to leave after seven innings.

"The last two innings, I was just pitching on adrenalin," he said. "I gave up the ball after the seventh. My arm speed just wasn't there."

Langston struck out three and walked four. He had control problems early and often fell behind the hitters, but still never allowed a runner past first base. He threw 98 pitches.

Witt, bumped from the starting rotation to the bullpen by Langston's arrival this year, pitched a perfect final two innings, getting the Mariners each time on a pair of grounders to second, then a strikeout.

Ken Griffey Jr. struck out to end the game.

The Angels scored in the seventh against Gary Eave on a walk to Johnny Ray, Wally Joyner's double, an intentional walk to Chili Davis and a one-out walk to Dante Bichette on a full count.

Mariners manager Jim Lefebvre said the fact that Langston's control wasn't at its best actually made it harder to him.

"He had a good hard slider and he was just inconsistent enough so you couldn't look for a pitch in any certain zone," Lefebvre said.

Asked if being no-hit was harder to take because it was Langston, Lefebvre shot back: "What's the difference if you have a no-hitter thrown against you? A no-hitter isn't hard to swallow. Losing 1-0, when we had good pitching and should have won, is hard to swallow."

"It's a weird feeling to combine on it," Witt said after earning his first save since Sept. 20, 1983. "I understood the job I had to do, to keep the 1-0 lead. But secondary in the back of mind, I knew I didn't want to give up a hit."

Witt pitched California's last previous no-hitter, a season-ending perfect game against Texas on Sept. 30, 1984.

The Langston-Witt effort was the eighth no-hitter in Angels history and the first against the Mariners in their 14-year history.

It also was baseball's first nine-inning no-hitter since Cincinnati's Tom Browning pitched a perfect game against Los Angeles on Sept. 16, 1988. The last American League no-hitter was by Milwaukee's Juan Nieves against Baltimore on April 15, 1987.

The last previous combined no-hitter was by Chicago's John Odom and Francisco Barrios against Oakland on July 28 of 1976.

There was only one hard-hit ball, a drive to the warning track by Edgar Martinez in the second inning. An official scorer's decision on a play in the fifth, ruling an error on a grounder by Pete O'Brien, kept the no-hitter intact.

O'Brien led off the fifth with a grounder that first baseman Wally Joyner fielded to his right. Joyner's off-balance throw went over Langston's head and O'Brien was safe, but he was thrown out after taking a wide turn.

Ed Munson, the official scorer at Anaheim Stadium for 10 years, watched a replay and ruled it an error. Munson worked in the publicity department for the Angels and Oakland Athletics before becoming an official scorer.

"It was a playable ball," Munson said. "The first baseman should've made a better throw. Had he thrown it chest high, the guy is out."

Langston got a $1.5 million signing bonus with his five-year contract, but will not receive his first regular paycheck until Monday. He'll get $125,000 then as part of his $1.5 million salary this season.

Langston, 29, began his career with Seattle in 1984. He was traded to Montreal last May 25 and signed with the Angels on Dec. 1, ending a high-priced bidding war.

Elsewhere, Chicago's game at Milwaukee and New York's opener at Cleveland were snowed out. Also, Kansas City beat Baltimore 2-1, Minnesota stopped Oakland 3-0, Texas defeated Toronto 11-5 and Boston beat Detroit 3-2.

Royals 2, Orioles 1

Mark Davis, last year's National League Cy Young winner with San Diego, got his first American League save, pitching a perfect ninth inning and preserving Kansas City's 2-1 victory over Baltimore.

"It feels good to get that first save out of the way," Davis said. "More than anything, it feels good to make a positive contribution."

Davis, who signed a four-year contract for $13 million, recorded the Royals' first save by a left-hander since Israel Sanchez did it on Sept. 21, 1988.

Mark Gubicza (1-0) gave up an RBI single to Randy Milligan in the first inning, but no more runs before leaving after the fifth. Jeff Ballard, who led AL left-handers with 18 victories last season, left after allowing run-scoring singles by Gerald Perry and Kevin Seitzer in the fifth.

Twins 3, Athletics 0

Rookie Kevin Tapani pitched six strong innings and Kent Hirbek hit a three-run homer in the first inning.

Tapani gave up six hits, walked none and struck out two. Rick Aguilera went one inning for a save.

Mike Moore gave up four hits in seven innings. He hit Dan Gladden with a pitch to start the game, walked Kirby Puckett with one out and gave up Hirbek's home run.

Mike Norris, returning from a series of drug and alcohol problems, pitched the last two innings for the Athletics in his first major league appearance since Aug. 6, 1983. Norris, 35, allowed one hit, walked one and struck out one.

Rangers 11, Blue Jays 5

Pete Incaviglia homered and tied a career high with five RBIs as Texas built a 10-0 lead in the second inning.

Incaviglia hit a two-run single and Steve Buechele hit a two-run homer as Texas scored five times in the first inning against John Cerutti. Incaviglia hit a three-run homer in the second off Paul Kilgus.

George Bell hit his seventh career grand slam for Toronto in the third and Junior Felix homered in the seventh.

Kevin Brown gave up seven hits in six innings. Mike Jeffcoat finished for his first save since June 10, 1984.

Red Sox 3, Tigers 2

Dwight Evans hit his 367th career home run in the fifth inning and singled home the winning run in the bottom of the 10th. Mike Greenwell went 4-for-4.

Wade Boggs opened the 10th with a single off Jerry Don Gleaton. Marty Barrett sacrificed, Greenwell was hit by a pitch and Ellis Burks popped up before Evans grounded a single between third baseman Tony Phillips and the bag.

Greg Harris pitched one inning for the victory.

Jockey appeals sentence

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) - Jockey Sylvester Carmouche will appeal a 10-year suspension for allegedly taking advantage of heavy fog to give his longshot mount an unfair advantage in a race at Delta Downs in January.

"It ain't right. I leave it up to my lawyers what to do," Carmouche said after the Louisiana State Racing Commission voted 7-1 on Wednesday to suspend him for 10 years. The lone dissenting vote was cast by James Bradford, who felt a five-year suspension was warranted.

Race stewards at the Vinton, La., track, accused Carmouche of reining in 23-1 longshot Landing Officer in thick evening fog soon after the start of a one-mile race. They said Carmouche, shielded by the fog, waited for the eight other horses to pass. A minute or so later, after the field had looped the track, Landing Officer came home 24 lengths ahead.

"As my mother use to say, I don't know how you spilled the milk, I just know you spilled it," Jeffrey Kallenberg said in asking fellow members of the racing commission to suspend Carmouche.

Mile races at Delta Downs begin on the straightaway in front of the grandstand, then go two turns before finishing in front of the grandstand.

Stewards disqualified Landing Officer soon after the race and declared the second-place horse the winner. No bets on Landing Officer were paid.

Carmouche's lawyer, Kent Schaffer, said he would appeal the suspension to a state district judge in New Orleans, and would seek a stay that would allow Carmouche to keep racing pending a decision.

In testimony before the vote, Carmouche insisted that he completed the race.

Commissioners who questioned him on Wednesday - a continuation of a hearing held more than a month ago - noted inconsistencies in the rider's testimony.

At one point, Carmouche said the fog was so thick that he noticed no other horses. He later testified that, he saw the track's grandstand the first time, he knew he was in fifth place.

Commission chairman Harold Thomas said two jockeys in the race told the board in February that no horse passed them at any time.

"They never noticed me," Carmouche replied.

Kallenberg said the commission saw a videotape of the race and, although fog obscured details, at no time were Carmouche's colors or the No. 8 on his horse seen.

"How can that be that we did not see you?" Kallenberg asked.

"I don't know, but I know I rode the whole race. The camera must have missed my horse," Carmouche said.

Other witnesses said Landing Officer finished too fast, 1 2-5 seconds off the track record for a mile, and too far ahead, 24 lengths, to have won the race legitimately.

Sunrise Service

The regular location of the Fellowship of Believers Worship Service at the Senior Citizen's Center has been moved for ONE SUNDAY ONLY, April 15th.

We invite you to join us for an Easter Sunrise Service at Veteran's Park at 7:30 a.m. Worship leader, Doug Manning will be leading the service. Breakfast will be served following the service.

Bring your own chair or blanket and join us for a truly meaningful service!

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My doctor has recommended a hysterectomy and other doctors have concurred. They do not all agree that I need my ovaries removed. If my ovaries are healthy at the time of surgery, I think they should be preserved. I'm 43 and do not expect to have an early menopause. If my ovaries became diseased, I don't want to have to go through another operation. I am also unsure about having to take hormones if they are removed as I don't know how safe they are.

DEAR READER: The big question is what is the risk of developing cancer of the ovaries. This is one of the most difficult cancers to diagnose early enough for effective treatment. Cancer of the ovaries is the fifth most common cause of cancer deaths in women between the ages of 35 and 54 and the fourth most common cause of cancer deaths in women between age 55 and 74. In 1986 ovarian cancer caused 11,761 deaths in women in the United States. But since the big three diseases are lung, breast and colorectal cancer, only five percent of all cancer deaths in women were from ovarian cancer. That is still far more than the 4,000 deaths for cancer of the lining of the uterus (endometrial cancer) projected for 1990.

The risk of ovarian cancer and the difficulty in early detection and treatment are why many doctors feel that if a woman is near or past the menopause at the time of surgery, it is better to eliminate the risk by eliminating the ovaries.

If the ovaries are healthy, as may occur in a younger woman, then retaining them provides normal hormone functions until the natural menopause occurs. That can eliminate the need for hormone replacement therapy until ovarian failure occurs.

Even after the menopause the ovaries may still produce a hormone that can be converted to a weak estrogen by the body's fat tissue.

As these points suggest, there is good reason for a difference of opinion, and after the facts are presented, a woman has to make her own decision, keeping in mind that when the surgeon sees the ovaries, their condition may be important in deciding what should be done.

I have discussed this question and others related to a hysterectomy in Special Report 56, Hysterectomy, Cystocele and Rectocele, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/56, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a divorced 35-year-old female and very embarrassed. I don't date very much and am very particular about whom I sleep with. I've somehow contracted what's commonly known as "crabs." I'm too embarrassed to ask anyone about it. Please tell me what I can do to get rid of them. I'm not even sure what it is or what it does. I'm really scared.

DEAR READER: If you are correct, you have contracted the "crab louse." That term tells you it is a small insect of the louse family. It is commonly transmitted by close contact as with sexual intercourse. But you can get it from bedding, as the louse is in the bedding. It is usually confined to the genital and below the navel area, but it can involve the hair and the eyelashes.

You are certainly not the first person to get crabs. But you will need to see your doctor for a prescription for Kwell or Gamene (lindane) cream, lotion or shampoo. You may need two treatments to rid yourself of the eggs that are still viable after the first treatment. All bedding and clothing must be automatically washed and dried or laundered and ironed.

WTSU to host job fair

The West Texas State University office of career planning and placement will host a Teacher Job Fair Monday, April 23, in the Activities Center ballroom. Representatives from more than 100 school districts and three states will be available from 2-6 p.m. with information and applications.

"Anyone looking for a teaching position, whether it be entry level or because of relocation or a layoff, should mark this event on their calendars," Gene Parker, director of career planning and placement, said. "It is the largest teacher job fair in the southwest United States and the most effective and inexpensive way to find out about local and regional employment opportunities."

According to Parker, individuals seeking employment at the job fair should bring multiple copies of their resumes and should dress as if attending an interview.

The Teacher Job Fair is free and open to the public.

For more information, contact the office of career planning and placement at 806-656-2345.

Tech inks two junior college guards

By The Associated Press

Texas Tech head basketball coach Gerald Myers says he's signed a pair of junior college guards that could step right in and help the Red Raiders turn their program around next season.

The Red Raiders, who finished last in the Southwest Conference basketball race this season, opened the first day of the national signing period by inking junior college transfer guards Stacy Bailey of Western Wyoming College and Lamont Dale of Hagerstown, Md.

The signing period ends May 25.

Dale is a 6-3 guard who averaged 12 points, five rebounds and four assists while helping Hagerstown compile a 29-9 last season.

Bailey is a 6-2 guard who averaged 25 points last season. He led the Spartans to a 19-12 record. Bailey also grabbed four rebounds a game and averaged three steals.

"I really liked Texas Tech on my visit here," said Bailey. "I think I'll fit into the program and be able to help get them back into the conference race."

"We feel like both of these players are two good junior college guards, who have played well in good programs," Myers said.

Texas Christian started replenishing its depleted basketball squad by signing two junior college players to letters of intent.

The Horned Frogs, which lost seven players since the 1989-90 school year began, signed Dan Dore, a 6-3 guard who helped lead Central Florida Community College to the Mid-Florida Conference championship last season.

Dore averaged 13.5 points, 2.7 rebounds and two assists. The two-year starter from Fajardo, Puerto Rico will be a junior at TCU next season.

TCU also signed Jody Bentley, a 6-6 forward from Aquinas Junior College in Nashville, Tenn. Bentley averaged 19 points and 8 rebounds a game last season.

"This is a good start for our 1990 recruiting class," said Moe Iba, TCU head coach. "Both of our incoming juniors have the ability to step in and contribute immediately."

Arkansas, the Southwest Conference champs, signed three more recruits. The Razorbacks signed Isaiah "Butch" Morris of San Jacinto Junior College, Pine Bluff's Ken Biley and Corey Beck of Memphis Fairley.

So far, 17 players have committed to Arkansas, and Yugoslavia native Davor Rimac of Fayetteville was expected to sign Thursday.

Biley, a 6-6 forward, averaged 23.1 points and 15.1 rebounds a game last season in leading the Zebras to the Class 4-A and overall state championships. Arkansas coach Nolan Richardson compared Biley to Lenzie Howell, a San Jacinto product and one of three seniors on this year's Razorback team.

Beck, a 6-2 guard, averaged 19.5 points, eight rebounds and six assists as a high school senior.

The Baylor Bears signed a trio of players, including Willie Sublett, a 6-4 forward from Martin High School in Arlington.

Sublett averaged 16.9 points and 10.5 rebounds to help lead his team to an impressive 30-5 record and a trip to the region semifinals this season.

"Going into spring recruiting our main objective was to look for two or three solid small forwards and adding Willie today puts us right on track to achieve that," said Gene Iba, the Bears' head coach.

Baylor also signed 6-6 forward Herb Baker from Sam Houston High School in Houston and 6-7 forward

Morris, 6-9, 230-pounder from Richmond, Va., averaged 13.7 points and 7.4 rebounds while averaging 22 minutes a game for San Jacinto last season.

Hamilton averaged 20 points and 11 rebounds during his final prep season.

Texas A&M added one player, signing Gabe Ramirez, a 5-10 point guard from San Jacinto Junior College. Ramirez averaged 9.2 points and 7.1 assists a game last season.

Southern Methodist did not announce any basketball signings because SMU coach John Shumate wants to announce all his recruits at the same time. The University of Houston also did not announce any signings.

Although the Texas Longhorns, which made it to the final eight in this year's NCAA tournament, did not announce any signings, a starting guard for the University of Maryland has made inquiries about playing for Texas in the 1990-91 season.

Teyon McCoy is apparently waiting for the outcome of the Terps' appeal of their two-year NCAA probation before making a final decision.

Because of the probation, McCoy would be eligible to play immediately if he transfers.

The Rice Owls signed three high school players during the early signing period and have one scholarship left.

Owls signees were 6-3 guard Sam Campbell of Austin Reagan; Torrey Andrews, 6-5, of New Orleans St. Augustine; and Robert Glaze, a 6-8 power forward from Detroit Cass Tech.

Andrews was rated Louisiana's top player by one Louisiana-based basketball scout and was first-team All-City by the New Orleans Times Picayune. Glaze was one of three four-star players in the Midwest, as rated by a North Carolina-based recruiting service.

Other signings reported Wednesday include:

ANGEL STATE: Cedric Mason, 6-2 guard, Snyder (Western Texas College).

CENTENARY: Nate Taylor, Longview (Longview HS).

MISSISSIPPI STATE: Derrick Daniel, 6-7 forward, Tyler (Tyler JC).

STEPHEN F. AUSTIN: Trent McClain, 6-6 guard, Tyler (Robert E. Lee HS); Chris Foreman, 6-4 guard, Tyler (John Tyler HS).

TEXAS-ARLINGTON: Leonard Wilson, 6-5 forward, Caper (Wyo.) JC; Daniel Baker, 6-4 guard, Paris JC; Keylian Williams, 6-2 guard, Seminole JC.

TEXAS-PAN AMERICAN: Desi Howard, 6-1 guard, Kountze (Kountze HS); Ruben Fathere, 6-4 guard, Smiley (Nixon HS).

WASHINGTON STATE: Neil Derick, 6-2, Trinity Valley Community College.

WEST TEXAS STATE: Kevin White, 6-8 forward, Marlin (TSTI) Waco Junior College.

SMU names Gregg AD

DALLAS (AP) - Southern Methodist football coach Forrest Gregg will find himself charged with the unique task of picking his own successor after the 1990 season.

Gregg became the school's athletic director Wednesday after Doug Single resigned to become president of Special Olympics International.

The 56-year-old Gregg will hold both jobs for only a year. He will resign as football coach after the 1990 season and hire a coach to take his place.

"This could possibly be the happiest day of my life other than when I married my wife Barbara," Gregg said. "I love this school and I want to see it back on top."

Gregg said he has no successor in mind.

"I have time on my side," he said. "I'm not ready to fire the coach yet. Right now, I don't have to make that decision."

Gregg was 2-9 last year, playing mostly with freshmen on the Mustangs' first team since the NCAA imposed a "death penalty" in February 1987 for an alumni slush fund scandal.

SMU president Kenneth A. Pye praised Single "for restoring progress to SMU athletics and bringing football back to the campus."

"I told him in February he should interview for the Olympics job. We'll miss him, but it's a prestigious position," he said.

Single called his new job an "opportunity of a lifetime," and said one of his biggest achievements at SMU was "public creditability in which his future was unlimited."

"It was a very emotional decision for me," Single said by telephone from Washington, D.C. "I didn't want to leave unless I felt good about what I could achieve at SMU. I felt we got the situation turned around and made an impact with NCAA compliance."

Single came to SMU on Oct. 2, 1987 to face the challenge of rejuvenating the Mustangs' athletic program, which was battered by the "play-for-pay" scandal that included the current Texas governor, Bill Clements, who was on the SMU board of regents.

His fund-raising abilities were demonstrated when he successfully lead a drive to return football to the nation.

venerable Ownby Stadium on the SMU campus, which hadn't been host to a game in more than four decades.

Single, 48, came to SMU from Northwestern University, where he was the youngest athletic director in the nation when he took over at age 29.

Dick Schultz, executive director of the NCAA, said Single's assignment "is a great loss for college athletics in which his future was unlimited."

"But it's a tremendous gain for Special Olympics. In Single, they get a young triple-threat executive with a wealth of experience in sports, athletic management and fund-raising," he said.

The school wasted no time replacing Single; even Gregg was surprised at the quick switchover.

"I thought I'd be coaching the rest of my career," he said. "That's the toughest part of it. But I look forward to the challenge of athletic director."

Gregg said there could be some procedural changes in the way SMU admits athletes that could make his new job easier. SMU has one of the toughest admission policies in the nation.

Library specialists attend conference

Hereford library media specialists recently attended the Texas Library Association 1990 Conference at the Dallas Convention Center.

Representing the Deaf Smith County Library was librarian Rebecca Walls and from the Hereford public schools were Gay Maclaskey, Aikman; Rose Mary Shook, Shirley; Janis Bell, Tierra Blanca; Bera Boyd, West Central; and Lois Mitchell and Carol McGilvary, Hereford High School.

The theme for the conference was "Libraries: the Heart of the Matter." The event featured visiting noted authors, workshops for professional growth and library promotion, business sessions of the organization, and exhibits of recent technology and printed materials.

Patricia L. Doyle, president of Texas Library Association, presided over the general sessions. Featured speakers were Richard Lederer (aka "Atilla the Pun"), author of Crazy English: The Ultimate Joy Ride Through Our Language, and Karen Anderson, an Emmy-award winning expert on leadership skills. Other well-known authors and illustrators of children's books who were featured were Newbery award winners, Betsy Byars and Walter Dean Myers; Susan Jeffers, illustrator; and Lois Sachar, recent Texas Bluebonnet award-winning author.

The newly elected president of TLA is Cyndi Gray, an Irving ISD media specialist. The new chairperson for the Texas Association of School Librarians is Mary Beth Green, librarian from Margaret Wills Elementary School in Amarillo.

Free Enterprise Day slated

Don Taylor, director of the Small Business Development Center at West Texas State University, will be the featured speaker on Free Enterprise Day. The Canyon Rotary Club will be sponsoring the event scheduled for April 17 at the Randall High School at 8:30 a.m. and at Canyon High School at 10 a.m.

The purpose of the program is to inform high school students about the free enterprise principles as they apply to everyday business.

Taylor has spoken to corporate, service, and student groups throughout the U.S. He authors the weekly column "Minding Your Own Business" which is carried by the "Amarillo Globe-News" and other newspapers. He also writes a monthly small business column for the Lubbock and

"Grease" to play in Amarillo

The smash Broadway musical "Grease" will play at the Amarillo Little Theatre May 4-6 and May 11-13.

The lively and funny musical, which captures the rock 'n' roll era of late 1950s, has great songs and may be one of the "dancingest" shows ever.

The production is being partially under written by Mervyn's and K.L.S. Radio.

Hints from Heloise

BIRTHDAY-CARD CENTER-PIECE

Dear Heloise: When my children have birthdays, they quickly look over the cards they receive and then put them aside.

I wanted them to learn to appreciate the cards so I came up with this idea. I lay the cards face down, side by side on a flat surface and tape them together. Then I tape the last and first card together to form a circle. This becomes our centerpiece at the dinner table for the next week.

The children enjoy the birthday greetings with each meal and by the end of the week they can all tell us who each card is from. — Pat Lindeman, Fishtail, Mont.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, TX 78279 or fax it to 512-HELOISE. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.
