ER nurses ready to handle problems

Emergency room crucial to hospital's functions

An emergency room sees every type of patient imaginable, and Deaf Smith General Hospital's emergency room sees a lot of every type.

Usage of the department is up, but that isn't necessarily good news. While the modern, well-equipped center sees many critical cases, it is also used as a quick-fix clinic. DSGH Administrator Gary Moore said that, unfortunately, many of those patients using the emergency room won't be able to pay. Moore said that despite aggressive collection procedures, only 58 percent of the actual charges will be collected.

"We're here to serve the community, but we need people to understand that we are an emergency service," said Moore. "Regular services, such as OB screenings, are available through the Texas Department of Health." The ER also gets its share of common colds and many other ailments for which the emergency room is too big for the job.

Persons at DSGH under emergency circumstances will find a well-trained staff and a number of services not available at many smaller hospitals. The ER has six beds: two in the trauma room, one in the exam room and three in observation.

The emergency room's "crash cart" as it is called in the industry, is state-of-the-art with everything the staff needs to go through Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) procedures, including medication, a defibrillator and other supplies.

The area is equipped to immediately put chest tubes in place for collapsed lungs and is able to install temporary pacemakers which stabilize patients until permanent pacemakers can be put in place.

One of the ER's major advancements is the addition of thrombolytic therapy. That is the use of a medication that will dissolve clots which are plugging the heart's arteries. This therapy is very new; it been in use worldwide for less than two years.

The emergency room is open 24 hours a day, every day. A full-time physician is designated for the ER Monday through Friday from 7 p.m.

to 7 a.m., and all day on Saturdays and Sundays. Patients may request their own physician, if they have one. A registered nurse is on duty at all times, and all RN's who work in the emergency room are ACLS certified.

Rosa Marquez, RN, is the ER supervisor, and has been with DSGH for nine years. Others in the emergency room include Mary Ann Warren, RN, a 12-year DSGH employee; Jan Watts, RN, for six years; De'Aun Spain, RN, for five years; Nancy Griego, RN, 13 years; and Sharon Johnson, RN, four years.

Approximately 30 percent of the patients at DSGH are admitted through the emergency room, and many outpatient services like lab work and X-rays are ordered through the ER.

"The emergency room is vital to our operation, but it is expensive," said Moore. "We have a contract with on-call physicians which costs $19,500 each month. The losses we take add to the expense of running the emergency room. In keeping with our overall look at operations and expenses, we are making sure that every cent here is well spent and that there is no waste, but that we are fully equipped and staffed to fulfill our obligations to the community."

Iraqi leaders were targeted by bombs

WASHINGTON (AP) - An Air Force general says Iraqi military leaders were the target of a powerful new U.S. bomb dropped on a fortified Iraqi bunker at the close of the Persian Gulf War.

Gen. Ronald Yates, commander of Air Force Systems Command, told reporters on Wednesday that the bomb, called the GBU-28, was dropped on a single target, which he described as a command and control complex containing "senior staff" of the Iraqi military.

Yates, whose command was in charge of building the bomb, did not describe the extent of damage nor did he say whether the Air Force knew exactly which Iraqi military officials were in the bunker.

The existence of the bomb and its use against Iraqi command shelters near Baghdad was disclosed May 6 by the magazine Aviation Week & Space Technology, which said the Air Force denied it was targeting Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

A presidential executive order forbids U.S. agents or forces from killing foreign leaders. During the Gulf War, U.S. military leaders said they were targeting Iraq's military command structure but not Saddam himself.

Last September during the U.S. military buildup in the gulf, the Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Michael Dugan, was fired by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney for telling reporters that the Air Force would target the Iraqi leadership, including Saddam, in an air war.

Yates, speaking at a breakfast meeting with defense reporters, declined to elaborate further on the use of the GBU-28 bomb. He said "a classified number" of the bombs were built in the final days of the war, but he would not be more specific. The general would not say whether more of the bombs will be built.

At 4,700 pounds, the laser-guided bomb is more than twice as heavy and several feet longer than the BLU-109, a 2,000-pound bomb that had been the Air Force's most effective weapon against reinforced bunkers.

About two weeks before two GBU-28s were sent to the gulf, U.S. planes destroyed a bunker in a residential neighborhood of Baghdad, killing more than 200 people. Iraqi officials said the bunker was a civilian bomb shelter; U.S. officials insisted it was a command post for the Iraqi military.

Senate passes redistrict plan

AUSTIN (AP) - A plan approved by the state Senate to redraw senatorial district boundaries will probably be challenged in court, the sponsor of the bill said.

But Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, defended the plan Wednesday, saying it complied with federal law.

Sen. Rodney Ellis, D-Houston, said the proposal was "well-intentioned," but added that since Texas must pass U.S. Justice Department clearance for compliance with the Voting Rights Act, "a well-intentioned plan is not enough."

The redistricting measure was attacked on several fronts, but passed on a voice vote and was forwarded to the House.

Lawmakers are charged with redrawing state legislative, congressional and State Board of Education boundaries once every 10 years to adjust for population changes under the new census count.

Texas has about 17 million people, of which 25 percent are Hispanic and 12 percent are black. If the 31-member Senate reflected the population, there would be at least seven Hispanics and three blacks, but there currently are five Hispanics and two blacks.

Glasgow said his proposal would increase the chance for Hispanics to get elected from districts in Bexar and Harris counties, which currently are represented by Anglos.

"It gives Hispanics the opportunity to elect one of their own. Some Hispanics say we want a guarantee; I can't guarantee anything. We can create Hispanic districts but we can't force folks to vote," he said.

The Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund, however, says the plan doesn't go far enough.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said the measure dilutes Hispanic voting strength in a larger number of districts in South Texas by "packing" them into a smaller number of districts.

Truan also questioned why a higher percentage Hispanic district could not be established in Harris County. Glasgow has said Harris County would have one district with 56 percent Hispanics.

Republicans have voiced disapproval of the plan because it would drop the boundary of the current Texas Panhandle district to include Midland.

Head wants no change in rule

AUSTIN (AP) - House Public Education Committee Head Ernestine Glossbrenner says if lawmakers want to ease the state's no-pass, no-play rule, they can do it in a measure separate from the education bill.

Glossbrenner supports changing the rule's suspension from six to three weeks, but she doesn't want it to weigh down the education bill that the no-pass, no-play rule is attached to.

The bill is meant to improve education quality through such provisions as SWAT teams of educators to help schools improve performance.

"I think it will cause trouble with this bill that the bill doesn't need," Glossbrenner said, adding that she would work to take the no-pass measure out of the bill.

A bill to shorten the suspension period to three weeks has passed Ms. Glossbrenner's panel.

The committee heard public testimony on the education bill, but recessed late Wednesday night without taking any action. Debate on the proposal was scheduled to begin Thursday evening.

The measure was amended last week by senators to ease the rule, which prohibits students who fail a class from participating in extracurricular activities.

The current law keeps students from such activities, including sports, for a six-week grading period.

The proposed change would cut the suspension to three weeks, if the student met performance standards set by the state education commissioner.

The change was backed by Gov. Ann Richards. Rep. Glossbrenner also said she thinks a three-week suspension could better serve the rule's purpose.

Kurdish refugees flock to tent town

ZAKHO, Iraq (AP) - Allied commanders in northern Iraq said today that they can't pitch tents fast enough to accommodate the waves of Kurdish refugees returning from Turkey and Iran.

It had been hoped the Kurds would use the allied camps mainly as way stations, but many refugees appear ready to stay for some time because Iraqi troops continue to control their hometown - Dohuk.

The provincial capital is just south of the 3,600-square-mile allied security zone.

"If we don't go down there (to Dohuk), we could wind up with a quarter million people here, which would be crazy," said Army Maj. Gen. Jay Garner, commander of the U.S., British, French and Dutch forces in northern Iraq.

Iraq's army has refused to withdraw its troops from the Dohuk area, frustrating allied repatriation efforts.

U.S. and allied officials fear getting bogged down in northern Iraq and balk at moving into the provincial capital, home to 350,000 people before the failed uprising that prompted the Kurdish exodus.

Already, the U.S.-built refugee camps in the northern city of Zakho, eight miles south of the Turkish border, are overflowing with about 55,000 Iraqis.

Some of the refugees were returning from Iran, where about 1 million Iraqis sought shelter when the Iraqi army crashed the Kurdish rebellion in late March.

Almost all of Dohuk's residents took refuge in the barren border areas with Turkey after the failed March rebellion. They make up most of the 450,000 Kurds who fled to Turkey. More than half of them have returned to Iraq.

Kurdish leaders argue that Kurds feel too vulnerable to return to Dohuk without allied military protection or an overall political solution with Baghdad that would guarantee Kurdish autonomy.

Western officials have said from the beginning they did not plan a long-term presence in northern Iraq, and have started turning refugee assistance efforts over to the United Nations.

On Wednesday, the U.S. commander of the coalition forces repatriating Iraqi Kurdish refugees asked Baghdad to reduce its military presence in northern Iraq so more Kurds will go home.

Iraqi and U.N. officials have been discussing the deployment of a U.N. police force to replace allied soldiers guarding the Kurdish camps.

Officials have said they hope talks in Baghdad between Kurdish leaders and the government will yield a solution allowing refugees to return to Dohuk without the allies being drawn into it.

Noriega claims CIA connection

MIAMI (AP) - Acting at the behest of the CIA, Manuel Noriega sent Exocet missiles to Argentina to sink British ships in the 1982 Falklands War, the former dictator's lawyers contend.

Noriega also slipped CIA cash to the Contras, passed on secrets about Mikhail Gorbachev and Fidel Castro and presided over an $11 million CIA "slush fund," according to a narrative of classified issues the defense intends to raise at Noriega's drug trial.

The narrative was released Wednesday. Many pages of details of Noriega's meetings and connections with President Bush, Oliver North, the late CIA Director William Casey and Army intelligence were censored from the 107-page document by the Justice Department security office.

Defense attorney Frank Rubino said the United States and Noriega finally fell out - but not over his alleged drug dealing. The real issue was Noriega's refusal, despite threats from then-national security adviser

John Poindexter, to help the CIA-backed Contras invade Nicaragua in the mid-1980s, Rubino said.

"General Noriega is finally threatened that if he did not, certain things would occur to him," Rubino said. "One of those things that ultimately did occur was, in fact, was that he was indicted, his country was invaded - that threat came true."

CIA spokesman Mark Mansfield said the agency does not comment on matters under litigation.

More than a page on connections between Noriega, the Contras and Argentina's former military government were deleted. But one section says that in the Falklands War, despite the official U.S. tilt toward England, the CIA "was concerned that Argentina's forces ... would be crushed."

"General Noriega shared their concern and arranged for the purchase of Exocet missiles which the Argentines later used with great effect," the defense documents said.

Argentina used the French-built Exocets to sink several British ships, including the frigate Sheffield, which was hit in an attack that killed 20 crew members.

"Directly, the CIA had Noriega purchase the missiles to sink the British ships," said Rubino. "The British can thank the United States for having their ships sunk."

Rubino emphasized that during court proceedings, prosecutors had not denied the Exocet account.

The defense says the United States made Noriega "the CIA's man in Panama" well before he came to power in 1983 because the agency feared his left-leaning populist boss, Gen. Omar Torrijos.

With Noriega heading Torrijos' intelligence network, the CIA gave him "contingency funds" that over the years amounted to $11 million and were not listed on the agency's books, the attorneys said.

"It was officially justified as support for 'institutional cooperation,' but in fact it was a slush fund turned over to the head of the 'cooperating' agency to do with as he desired," said the defense. The CIA and the Army have acknowledged direct payments to Noriega of only about $300,000 during his career.

Noriega also passed hundreds of thousands of dollars from the CIA, at Casey's direction, to Contra leader Eden Pastora until Pastora fell out of favor with the United States, the documents say.

Many of the documents deal with alleged U.S. support for the Contras' guns-for-drugs flights to Costa Rica, but many sections are censored and none of those made public directly involve Noriega.

By law, the attorneys cannot discuss censored material publicly.

The defense narrative says Noriega faithfully reported to the CIA about Torrijos' meetings with Fidel Castro in Cuba and offered information about more distant communist countries.

Noriega goes on trial July 22 on charges he took $4.6 million in bribes from Colombia's Medellin drug cartel to protect the cocaine trade.

Greyhound clears hurdle

DALLAS (AP) - Greyhound Lines Inc. cleared a major hurdle in its bankruptcy reorganization with a judge's decision limiting the amount of back pay striking drivers can claim.

The nation's only intercity bus line has said since November that its reorganization could proceed only if the drivers' claim was limited to $40 million.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Richard Schmidt in Corpus Christi on Tuesday limited the claim to $31.5 million.

"His finding of an amount less than $40 million ... doesn't stand in our way toward pushing toward confirmation," said George W. Hanthorn, senior vice president and general counsel for Greyhound.

But it is a setback for the 6,300 drivers who went on strike in March 1990 and the National Labor Relations Board, which filed a back-pay claim of more than $120 million and is seeking a ruling from a Milwaukee administrative law judge that Greyhound illegally forced the strike.

The NLRB argued the company bargained unfairly by declaring an impasse in negotiations and thereby forcing the union to strike.

"I did discount the claim on the basis of the merits of the case and the likelihood of success (of the NLRB's case in Milwaukee)," Schmidt said.

Hearing of Schmidt's ruling, the NLRB postponed the Milwaukee hearing until June 3. Attorneys for Greyhound, the union and the NLRB said bargaining was likely for an out-of-court settlement on the claim.

The postponement will "give the parties time to reflect over their positions," NLRB lawyer Phil Bloedorn said. "It's possible the settlement could resolve our charges."

Edward Strait, president of the Amalgamated Council of Local Driver's Unions, said terms of any possible settlement would be discussed with the 16 local union presidents.

Hanthorn said the company is "very interested" in settlement.

The size of a settlement will affect how much money can be distributed to Greyhound's other creditors. The company filed for bankruptcy protection last June, three months after drivers went on strike over wages and benefits.

In November, Greyhound proposed a reorganization that would wipe $171 million from its $631 million debt and give unsecured creditors 95 percent of the value in the restructured company.

Schmidt Wednesday gave the company and creditors an extra two weeks to settle the disclosure statement to be sent with approval ballots for the reorganization plan.

Greyhound and several large creditors have agreed on the statement but differences with other creditors remain, he said.

The company is now projecting emergence from Chapter 11 by late July or early August.

After the strike, Greyhound hired 3,000 permanent replacement drivers, ditched its charter business and streamlined its management and passenger route system.

Land taken for peace

ARTAS, Occupied West Bank (AP) - Mohammed Ayesch unfolds an old cloth and lifts out a precious family possession - the yellowing deed on which his father transferred 100 acres of land to him more than 50 years ago.

"It was my father's legacy to me," Ayesch, 72, a retired hospital worker, says of the garden plot high on a stony hillside above this Palestinian village. "And it will be my legacy to my sons and their sons."

Or maybe it won't. Last month, the Israeli government declared his property and an adjacent 250 acres "state land."

It is one of dozens of such orders this year that Palestinians say are meant to undercut U.S. calls for Israel to trade occupied land for peace.

In Artas, a village south of Jerusalem, the land is being taken to enlarge the nearby Jewish settlement of Efrat. U.S. officials have urged Israel to stop building settlements, but Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir insists Jews have the right to settle anywhere in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip.

Shaiki al-Assa, a lawyer for a Palestinian legal aid group, says oral and written seizure notices were issued on nearly 20,000 acres of Palestinian land in March and April alone.

He describes it as "is the biggest land grab in a decade" and adds: "They want as much land as possible to avoid being forced to give back the territories, even for peace."

The territories were captured by Israel from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war, and Palestinians have waged a 41-month-old uprising to try to end Israeli rule.

Housing Minister Ariel Sharon has pledged to build 13,000 homes in the territories over the next two years. That could add 50,000 Jewish settlers to the 100,000 already living among the West Bank and Gaza's 1.7 million Palestinians.

Human rights activists contend Israel's land seizures and settlements are illegal because the Geneva Conventions prohibit an occupying power from transferring its own population into captured territory.

Housing Ministry officials, who discussed the issue on condition of anonymity, say the land is being legally acquired - without compensation - under Israeli military orders.

They noted that Palestinians can appeal land seizures to the Military Objections Committee or Israel's Supreme Court.

Palestinians complain that few land confiscations are overturned on appeal. Most families have deeds that date to Turkish or British rule, but few were registered to avoid heavy taxation and many are not recognized by Israel.

Returning firefighters are tested

HOUSTON (AP) - Firefighters returns from the burning oil fields of Kuwait are being tested amid concerns that toxins from the oil-well fires may jeopardize their health, officials say.

The firefighters are getting chest X-rays and blood tests and a team of experts organized by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency will begin a second round of blood tests next week to see if toxins from the oil-well fires have found their way into the workers' bloodstreams.

Health investigators say they fear the firefighters may be exposed to potentially cancer-causing compounds often associated with smoke from oil-well fires but not yet linked to the Kuwaiti blazes.

The firefighters are somewhat alarmed because of working beneath the thick blanket of smoke now tagged as one of the worst environmental disasters in modern history.

Unlikely swimmers

Even a rabbit swims like a duck in water-if his life depends on it.

Naturalists have found that the most unlikely animals, ranging from giraffes to hens, can swim in an emergency.

Sloths of Central and South America, which drag themselves along the ground with hooked claws, can swim the back stroke. Lizards, mice, rats, emus and ostriches, which don't normally swim, have survived when trapped in floods.

Chinese revolutionary leader Sun Yat-sen died in 1925.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I recently heard about a man who was trapped in his apartment for quite some time when there was a fire in his apartment building. The firemen could hardly see his apartment number because the smoke was thick and the numbers were up high on the door.

I have an idea that I hope will someday save some lives. People who live in these types of building should also put the apartment numbers on the bottom of their door in case this tragedy ever happens to them. Smoke goes up.

Many people who live in these buildings are elderly, children and/or handicapped. Many people say, "This will never happen to me," but it does happen.

We can never be too careful. — Barb Churchill, Scranton, Pa.

Your idea is a good one, and if it saves one life it's worth the effort. Thank you so much for writing. — Heloise

TYPEWRITER CORRECTION FLUID

Q. Help! I can't remove white typewriter correction fluid that spilled on my slacks. It's only a few drops but washing it with soap and water didn't work. Do you know what will do the job? — Barbara Lewis, San Diego, Calif.

A. I checked with the manufacturer and was told that the only way the stain can be removed is by a dry cleaner.

Soap and water will not remove paint-based correction fluid. It should be treated as a paint stain, and most dry cleaners can successfully remove it.

Be sure to point out the stain and tell them what it is. — Heloise

STRAIGHT LINE

Dear Heloise: I've found the perfect way to draw a straight line on a wall for shelves.

I used to measure from the floor up to the height I wanted the shelf and mark the two ends. If the floor wasn't perfectly level, the shelf came out the same way.

Now I use a level. All I do is hold it where I want a shelf and move it until the bubble is in the center. I know then that the shelf will be perfect. — Alan Burns, Omaha, Neb.

MARK CALENDAR

Dear Heloise: I used to forget birthdays and anniversaries of friends and relatives. Now I'm up-to-date with everyone and haven't forgotten their important days anymore.

Every January I write the names and occasion down. I highlight it with marker pens, one orange and one blue. Blue is for birthdays and orange for anniversaries.

On the first of each month I can see at a glance what cards I need to buy. — Chris Dunlap, Baltimore, Md.

Pistons fight off Celtics for 3-2 lead Scramble goes to sudden death

BOSTON (AP) - The Detroit Pistons knew the Boston Celtics, winners of an NBA record 16 titles, had the will and the skill to rally from an 18-point deficit.

The Pistons also knew, having won the last two championships, that they wouldn't come unraveled when the Celtics came back.

A 79-61 cushion shriveled to nothing when Larry Bird's 18-footer tied the score at 100 with 3:40 left.

But Bill Laimbeer's long-range bombing carried the Pistons to a 116-111 victory Wednesday night, giving them a 3-2 lead in the best-of-7 Eastern Conference semifinal. Detroit is a win away from a third straight conference final matchup with the Chicago Bulls, who defeated Philadelphia in five games.

Portland plays host to the Los Angeles Lakers in the opener of the Western Conference finals on Saturday.

In a series in which the homecourt hasn't been an advantage, Detroit clinched at home Friday night. Boston, 1-1 on the road and 1-2 at home in the series, would be home for a seventh game on Sunday, if necessary.

"It's not grim in here," guard Dee Brown said in Boston's locker room. "We just have to go back there and (win) again."

"I like Boston, but I sure don't want to come back here for Game 7," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said. "Only on vacation."

Wednesday night's game was hardly that for the Pistons, who couldn't relax until the final seconds even though they never trailed in the last period.

"They made a tremendous run in the fourth quarter," Detroit's James Edwards said. "I knew they would."

And the Pistons, with all their big-game experience, were ready for it.

"A few years ago, we probably would have lost our poise in a situation like that," Detroit's Vinnie Johnson said, "but we kept executing offensively and defensively."

The deadliest executioner was Laimbeer.

He had made just 16 of 47 shots, a 34 percent average, in the first four games. But on Wednesday night, he was 8-for-14 and made his last three shots.

In the first four games, Joe Dumars made 37 percent of his shots and Johnson only 31.6.

But in Game 5, Dumars was 9-for-17 from the field and 13-for-13 from the foul line for a game-high 32 points. Johnson was 11-for-19 for 24 points. Laimbeer also had 24.

"We knew, sooner or later, their guards would get hot," Boston coach Chris Ford said. "Detroit shot the ball real well."

The Celtics did get 30 points from Reggie Lewis and 19 from Brown. They also shook off their rebounding woes in the series, beating Detroit 43-33 off the boards.

And they overcome numerous adversities to fight back.

Bird, hampered by a bad back, was ineffective for the first three quarters. Center Robert Parish turned his ankle three times in the first half and sat out the second. His status for Game 6 was unknown.

And Detroit used a 12-2 run at the end of the first half to go ahead 65-55 and a 10-2 spurt at the start of the second to take a 75-57 lead with 8:48 left in the third quarter.

The Pistons still led 98-88 before a 12-2 Boston run tied the game.

"We played ourselves into a big hole," Boston's Kevin McHale said. "We battled hard, but it's not any good unless you win."

Bird had 10 of his 16 points in the final period but missed his only two shots after he tied the score 100-100.

Dumars sealed the win with six free throws in the last 12 seconds.

The outcome had seemed settled long before.

"Our backs were to the wall and we responded," Boston's Joe Kleine said. "We got it down to where they had to make the big shots, and they did."

Two teams carded 31 in the Wednesday Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course yesterday, requiring a "sudden-death" chipping contest to determine the winner.

Team captain Max Goforth lofted a pitch shot across the putting green to within eight inches of the hole to clinch the win for his team. Other members of the team were Wade Boren, Mary Shelton and Carlos Mendez.

Scoring the other 31 in the nine-hole scramble was the team of Albert Valdez, Teresa Albracht, Ronnie Lance and David Arrellano.

One team had a 32 and four teams posted 33s. The scramble is held each Wednesday for interested golfers.

North Stars win NHL finals opener

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The first game of the Stanley Cup finals went according to form.

The Minnesota North Stars won and the Pittsburgh Penguins lost. And Bobby Smith isn't quite sure if it's a good omen or not for the North Stars.

"Maybe they think they have us where they want us," the North Stars center said following Wednesday night's series-opening 5-4 victory over the Penguins.

Smith referred to the rigid pattern the playoffs have taken so far. In their earlier series against Chicago, St. Louis and Edmonton, the North Stars have won every opening game. Their jump-starts have been a big reason why they're in the finals.

The Penguins, on the other hand, have been doing things the hard way. In their series against New Jersey, Washington and Boston, they lost all three opening games before coming back to win.

If earlier series are any indication of a trend, the North Stars now must guard against overconfidence in Game 2 on Friday night. They lost all three of the second games in their earlier series, outscored by a whopping 17-6.

Minnesota forward Brian Propp said it hasn't been as much a letdown by the North Stars in second games as it has been the desperate state of the other team.

"After you win the first game in someone else's building, they have to come out desperate in the second game," Propp said.

As for the way the opening-game patterns have developed for both teams, few of the players could explain it. But Minnesota's Brian Bellows perhaps came as close as any one.

"Our team's got an advantage," he said. "We always feel our team has to come up with a big effort. If we're not ready to play in Game 1, we're in trouble."

By now, everyone knows the North Stars' story: An underdog all through the playoffs, they have continually knocked off supposedly superior teams.

Against the Penguins, they're still playing the same underdog role - but aren't surprising people any more.

"The North Stars showed us that they play a good game of hockey," said Pittsburgh's Ulf Samuelsson. "The forwards are very tough in our end. We were frustrated."

Small wonder. On Wednesday night the Penguins had eight power-play chances, including a couple with two-man advantages. The North Stars' penalty-killers took care of all but one.

"That one-for-eight doesn't do justice to the fact that they had two five-on-threes, but we did a good job of killing them," Smith said. "We got the saves we needed and we got the defense. All the guys who are out there are doing a good job."

Pittsburgh coach Bob Johnson looked like he had lost his best friend when he appeared at the post-game news conference.

"I am very disappointed," he said. "We had some great power-play opportunities, but we didn't execute. It was a combination of the North Stars' penalty killing and our performance. I think it was half and half."

The North Stars continued their playoff trend of outscoring their opponents in the first period, leading 2-1 on goals by Neal Broten and Ulf Dahlen after Samuelsson scored first for Pittsburgh. In the opening periods this playoff season, the North Stars have outscored their opponents 32-16.

Wednesday night, Minnesota held the early advantage despite being outshot 17-9 in the first 20 minutes. The Minnesota penalty-killers and goaltender Jon Casey had a lot to do with that because Pittsburgh had five power plays in the first period alone.

So it's back to the drawing board for the Penguins.

"We're not panicking, we've done this before," Lemieux said. "Tomorrow will be a good day. We'll have a meeting and talk about the things we have to improve."

"When we regroup tomorrow, we'll think about the next game."

Parcells resigns

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) - Just because Bill Parcells walked away from his dream job with the New York Giants for a rest doesn't mean his NFL coaching career is over. Not by a long shot.

Parcells 49, resigned as coach of the Super Bowl champions after eight seasons Wednesday, but he left the door wide open for a possible return to the sidelines.

"Let me get out, walk around and act stupid for a while," Parcells said when asked whether his future plans might include coaching. "I don't have a crystal ball. I'm not ruling it out, but I'm not out there looking for a job."

Leaving the Giants was not an easy decision for Parcells. He mulled it over for months after New York's 20-19 victory over the Buffalo Bills in the Super Bowl in January before coming to a decision this past weekend.

"It's time," Parcells told a jam-packed news conference that had all the appearances of one being held for the Super Bowl instead of a coach resigning.

"It's time to move on," he added.

Ray Handley, the Giants' soft-spoken offensive coordinator, was immediately named the team's head coach.

Hereford hoop camp scheduled for July

The 1991 Herd Pride Basketball Camp, to be held July 8-12, is open to boys who are entering third grade through the ninth grade.

Each day, the camp will start at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m., except for Friday when it will end at noon. The boys will get an hour off each day for lunch and rest, but lunch will not be provided.

According to a camp flier, the objectives of the camp are to teach each camper fundamentals of individual and team play. These goals will be achieved by participation in closely supervised drills and scrimmage situations. The daily format is based on developing the total basketball player from the basics to the aspects of team offense and defense.

The camp, which will be held at LaPlata Junior High, will feature lectures and videos on subjects such as pride, desire, dedication, composure, academics, execution and team basketball. Boys will be grouped by ability for all drills and games, and each boy will be videotaped for personal analysis.

The $60 fee includes tuition, insurance, a T-shirt, award certificates and a camp basketball. Entries must be received no later than May 31. Entry forms are available in the office of any school, said Jimmy Thomas, camp director.

Whiteface golf camp scheduled for June

The Hereford Whiteface Summer Golf Camp has been planned for June 17-21. The camp is open to boys and girls who are going into fourth through ninth grades.

The camp will be held at Pitman Municipal Golf Course from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. each day, with an hour-long break for lunch at noon. Lunches will not be provided.

A camp flier describes the camp's objectives: "Each camper will be taught basic fundamentals and rules of the game of golf. Campers will be grouped by ability level to ensure that each camper receives the most benefit possible during instruction. Morning sessions will be used to give individual instruction on grip, stance, alignment and swing mechanics for chipping, putting, all irons and woods. Afternoon sessions will be used for competition in chipping, putting and scoring irons as well as woods."

Instructors for the camp include Brent Warner, golf pro at Pitman, and Hereford High School golf coaches and Stacey Bixler and Donnie O'Rand.

The fee for the camp is $60, which includes tuition, a T-shirt, three golf balls, range balls, course usage and certificates and other special awards. The entry deadline is June 1. Entry forms will be available at Pitman and in the offices of Hereford Junior High and all upper elementaries.

Astros' 18 hits not enough to hold off Bucs

By The Associated Press

The light-hitting Houston Astros may not get 18 hits in a game the rest of the season. They may not want to.

The Astros, who have already been shut out three times, put together 18 hits against visiting Pittsburgh, but lost 8-7 Wednesday night.

"We had four hits in one inning and didn't score, we had two balls that would have been homers last year fall for doubles and we have a three-run lead with one out in the eighth and give up six runs," Astros manager Art Howe said. "Those kind of things just don't happen very often."

Craig Biggio, the National League's second-leading hitter at .360, singled in each of his first three at-bats and the Astros beat out four bunts for singles.

But Don Slaught's pinch three-run triple snapped an eighth-inning tie as the Pirates rallied.

"It was just one of those nights," Biggio said. "Slaught hit one to a spot where we weren't playing him."

The Pirates, trailing 5-2, scored six runs in the eighth inning off three relievers. Andy Van Slyke sparked the comeback with a two-run homer off Jim Corsi. The Pirates loaded the bases off Al Osuna and Curt Schilling (0-3), who walked Curtis Wilkerson to force in the tying run. Slaught followed with his bases-clearing triple.

Bob Patterson relieved Bob Kipper (2-1) to start the eighth and was charged with a run. Bill Landrum finished for his fifth save, despite making a wild pitch with the bases loaded for a run before getting pinch-hitter Ken Oberkfell to end the game on a popout.

"These are what you call growing pains," Howe said. "Still, I thought we might pull it out there in the bottom of the ninth. That would have really been something."

Dodgers 4, Expos 3
Brett Butler singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning off reliever Barry Jones to lift Los Angeles over Montreal at Dodger Stadium.

In the top of the seventh, Darryl Strawberry hurt his left shoulder when he hit the right-field fence while catching a fly ball. He was taken to a hospital for precautionary X-rays. The injury wasn't considered serious and described as a bruise.

The win, the Dodgers' third straight and sixth in their last seven, gave them undisputed possession of first place in the NL West.

Cubs 6, Braves 1
Luis Salazar broke a seventh-inning tie with a two-run homer as Chicago beat Atlanta at Wrigley Field.

Juan Berenguer (0-1) hit Andre Dawson with a pitch with two outs in the seventh. Words were exchanged and both benches emptied, but order was restored without incident. Salazar hit the next pitch into the left-field bleachers for his second home run.

Paul Assenmacher (2-0), the second Cubs pitcher, allowed one hit and struck out four in two innings.

Giants 4, Phillies 2
Bud Black came within an out of his third straight shutout as San Francisco beat Philadelphia at Candlestick Park.

Black (4-3) allowed five hits in 8 2-3 innings, struck out six and walked four. He walked the bases loaded in the ninth and gave up a two-run double to Charlie Hayes on an 0-2 pitch. It extended Hayes' hitting streak to 12 games.

Jason Grimsley (1-4) allowed three runs and six hits in five innings.

San Francisco's only victories in 15 games since April 27 have been in starts by Black. His 26 consecutive scoreless innings matched a career high.

Cardinals 8, Reds 2
Bernard Gilkey broke a tie with a home run and Rex Hudler hit a two-run double later in the sixth inning, leading St. Louis past visiting Cincinnati.

Felix Jose had the second four-hit game of his career and Bob Tewksbury (3-1) allowed nine hits in his first complete game of the season. Todd Zeile drove in three runs for the Cardinals, who had 14 hits.

Tom Browning (4-3) was tagged for five runs and eight hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Mets 7, Padres 1
At San Diego, Dwight Gooden pitched a seven-hitter and New York got home runs from Dave Magadan and Kevin McReynolds. The Padres have lost seven of eight.

Gooden (4-3) struck out eight to increase his National League-leading total to 54.

Ed Whitson (2-4) gave up seven earned runs and 10 hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Fisk's mistake gives Red Sox win

By DICK BRINSTER

AP Sports Writer

It was another long night, and Carlton Fisk sent the Fenway faithful home happy one more time.

His 12th-inning home run that hit the foul pole - winning Game 6 of the 1975 World Series for the Boston Red Sox - ended the longest World Series night game.

His sixth-inning passed ball Wednesday helped the Red Sox win the longest nine-inning night game ever played.

"I'll take credit for the record," said Fisk, who left Boston for Chicago via free agency in 1981. "If I had caught that ball, the game would have been over an hour sooner."

Instead, the teams beat the record by nine minutes as the Red Sox beat the White Sox 9-6 in 4 hours, 11 minutes.

The passed ball - on what should have ended the inning - tied the game.

Scott Radinsky replaced Donn Pall (0-1) and Mike Greenwell hit a two-run double.

Joe Hesketh (1-0) the third Boston pitcher, worked the sixth for his first victory since April 16, 1990, when he was with Montreal. Jeff Reardon, the fifth Boston pitcher, worked the ninth for his 12th save.

The game eclipsed the record of 4:02 set June 22, 1962, when San Francisco played at Milwaukee.

Rangers 5, Tigers 4

Juan Gonzalez hit a two-run homer in the 12th inning to rally Texas over Detroit, handing the Tigers their sixth straight defeat.

Julio Franco led off the inning with a single and, one out later, Gonzalez hit a 2-0 pitch from Steve Searcy (1-2) into the left field stands. Rich Gossage (4-0) pitched two innings as the Rangers won their fourth straight game.

Athletics 6, Orioles 3

Queen Elizabeth departed after two innings at Memorial Stadium, so she missed all the good stuff - 12 of Oakland's 13 hits and three Baltimore homers.

The Queen and Prince Philip, perhaps bored by watching five walks, headed for the exit with Oakland holding a 1-0 lead.

Bob Welch (4-2) allowed three runs and five hits in 5 1-3 innings. Dennis Eckersley got his ninth save as the A's snapped a three-game losing streak.

Jeff Ballard (2-5) allowed seven hits and four runs in 5 2-3 innings.

Mariners 6, Indians 4

Rookie Rich DeLucia won his third straight decision as Seattle beat slump-ridden Cleveland for its ninth victory in 10 games.

DeLucia (4-2) allowed two runs and six hits in seven innings, striking out seven. Rob Murphy pitched one inning, giving up a two-run homer to Albert Belle, his seventh. Bill Swift got three outs for his fourth save.

Eric King (3-4) gave up six runs in 6 1-3 innings.

Angels 10, Yankees 2

Wally Joyner's three-run homer at Yankee Stadium highlighted a six-run third inning and Mark Langston had a complete game for California.

Langston (4-1) allowed eight hits, struck out six and walked five. Jesse Barfield's two-run third-inning homer accounted for the Yankee scoring.

Brewers 4, Twins 2

Paul Molitor became the fourth Brewer to hit for the cycle as Milwaukee snapped an eight-game losing streak.

Molitor tripled in the first inning, singled in the third, doubled in the fifth and led off the seventh with a home run at the Metrodome off loser Kevin Tapani (2-3). Molitor grounded out to third in the ninth to finish 4-for-5.

Chris Bosio (4-4) gave up six hits and two runs in 7 1-3 innings. Chuck Crim worked one inning and Dan Plesac got the last two outs for his first save.

Royals 6, Blue Jays 4

Bret Saberhagen pitched a strong game as Kansas City stopped Toronto's four-game winning streak.

Saberhagen (4-3) allowed eight hits and struck out eight while walking none in eight innings.

Bill Pecota hit a two-run double off rookie left-hander Dennis Boucher (0-3) in the second inning. It scored Carmelo Martinez, aboard on a fielder's choice, and Kurt Stillwell, who had singled.

SWC baseball tourney follows wildest season

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP)

The 15th and final Southwest Conference Tournament follows the wildest regular season in league history.

Texas took the title with seven losses - most ever for a first-place team - and Texas Tech didn't qualify for the tourney despite a school record 42 victories.

Next year, the conference will switch to a 36-game, round-robin schedule. The league's seven schools that compete in baseball will play three-game series home and away, representing the longest campaign in the 76-year history of intraconference SWC baseball.

While Texas and A&M are making their 14th and 11th trips to the post-season tournament starting today, Baylor is playing for the eighth time and Texas Christian is making its first appearance.

"That would have been a tough thing for me to live with for the rest of my life - being the only team to have never made it after all these years and then not make the last one," said TCU coach Lance Brown.

TCU gained the berth after being tied with Houston and Arkansas for fourth place and then winning the tie-breaking procedure. TCU is also the only team in the tournament that is not ranked or has never been ranked among the nation's top 25 teams.

The first round pits the Horned Frogs (32-23) against SWC regular season champion and sixth-ranked Texas (43-16) while the 10th-ranked Aggies (41-19) face the 24th-ranked Bears (40-16).

"This team is very different," said Brown, a TCU All-American in 1963. "I thought that if we could get a break here or there we could beat Texas. I feel more confident this year. Before it was just a prayer."

TCU comes in with plenty of firepower in All-SWC performers Chris Thomsen and Scott Malone. Thomsen hit 20 home runs, which is currently second on the Frogs' all-time list and is third in the nation. The junior first baseman also brought home 63 runs.

Rule changes made for high school hoops

In a move to improve sportsmanship in high school basketball, technical fouls will be combined with personal fouls for player disqualification, the National Federation of State High School Association announced last month.

The University Interscholastic League, the governing body of Texas high school athletics, is a member of the NFSHA.

The National Federation Rules Committee made the change based on positive experience from two states this past season. Beginning with the 1991-92 season, any combination of five personal or technical fouls will disqualify a player from a game.

"The rules committee has a big concern about improving sportsmanship and behavior in high school basketball," said Dick Schindler, assistant director of the National Federation and editor of the high school basketball rules.

In concert with this change, the committee voted to add all technical fouls to personal fouls to reach the bonus situation. Since all fouls will be counted, the bonus situation will start now on the seventh team foul in each half instead of the fifth personal foul. All fouls—personal and technical—on a team, including the coach, will count toward the seven in each half.

"This change was made for two purposes—from a sportsmanship perspective and to reduce the number of trips to the free throw line," said Schindler. "We won't be shooting free throws on the fifth and sixth foul of a half anymore, which means fewer free throws and more action."

The committee also voted to reduce from three to two the number of technical fouls for disqualification of a player or bench personnel. Three technical fouls still are necessary to disqualify a head coach.

Two changes were made relative to the three-point field goal. Beginning next season, three free throws will be awarded a player who is fouled in the act of shooting an unsuccessful three-point field goal. In the same scenario with an intentional personal foul, the fouled player would receive three free throws and the team would also get the ball out of bounds for a throw-in at the spot nearest the foul.

"This was discussed when the three-point field goal was first used experimentally nine years ago, but we elected to stay with two free throws," Schindler said. "Now that the three-point basket has become so much a part of the game and defended so aggressively, the committee felt it was time to make the change."

In another major change, the "lack of action" rule has been deleted from high school basketball. Schindler said that many coaches and players, and even some officials, did not really understand lack of action and that the game will not change by deleting the rule.

"High school basketball is a game of action, so this change will not affect the game," Schindler said. "We are starting the next 100 years with an action game. We don't have a shot clock, and we shouldn't dictate that teams may not hold the ball—that's a part of game strategy. We don't want to force kids to shoot within a specified time; that's a part of strategy. The change will simply not affect the game that much because teams could stall even within the lack of action restrictions. High school basketball has great appeal at this time because there is very little lack of action."

A rule adopted for high school football this past season also was approved by the basketball rules committee. For safety reasons, an unconscious or apparently unconscious athlete will not be allowed to re-enter the game without written authorization by a physician. The game officials are responsible for determining if a player has been rendered unconscious or is apparently unconscious.

3 teams in all 5A playoffs

Two proposals, including one that allows three teams in all team sports in Conference 5A to advance to the playoffs, were approved by a vote of school superintendents, University Interscholastic League officials announced last month.

The other proposal receiving a favorable vote was a change in the maximum enrollment of six-man football schools—allowing only those schools with an enrollment of 75 or fewer to participate in six-man football.

Both proposals must now go before the State Board of Education for final approval.

The expansion of 5A playoffs now allows three teams in football, volleyball, basketball, soccer and baseball to advance to post-district competition. That proposal passed by a 142-60 margin of 5A superintendents.

In volleyball, basketball, soccer and baseball, teams from the same district will be bracketed to meet at or prior to the regional finals, advancing one team out of each region to a final 5A state championship tournament and determining one 5A champion at the state tournament.

In 5A football, districts already send three teams to the state playoffs under a format adopted this past season. But under this new proposal, the format will change for next season.

The new format would call for the school with the largest enrollment of the three district representatives to enter a 32-team bracket, preliminarily labeled "Division I," to play for one state title. The remaining teams would play for another championship in a 64-team "Division II" bracket.

By a 55-25 vote, Conference A superintendents passed the proposal to limit six-man football to schools with an enrollment of 75 or below (any Conference A school, regardless of enrollment, may choose to play eleven-man football).

Cotton Bowl may get facelift

DALLAS (AP) — The aging Cotton Bowl may get almost $31 million from Dallas County for renovations if city officials can prove that modifications to the stadium would benefit the entire county.

"If the Cotton Bowl improvements are not made, the facility will continue to deteriorate," Assistant City Manager Levi Davis said Wednesday. "It and Fair Park are a tremendous benefit to the entire area."

Dallas County commissioners have said they could underwrite the money for renovations to the city-owned, 72,500-seat stadium, which was built in the 1930s.

City officials said improvements are needed both to attract the 1994 World Cup soccer championships as well as to retain other lucrative events.

A $250 million county bond election is tentatively scheduled Sept. 7. The city is asking commissioners to include the renovation in the proposal.

County commissioners, while agreeing that the Cotton Bowl and its surrounding area need renovating, are reluctant to include the city's $30.8 million request in the proposed bond program.

"As we put it together, I'm not sure how much room there's going to be for good things," Commissioner Jim Jackson said. "I'm not saying

'no,' but I'm (being) very cautious."

A county memo shows that no major improvements have been made to the 61-year-old stadium since 1979. Last year, a consultant's report said the Cotton Bowl "shows signs of serious deterioration due to aging and limited maintenance."

The city is seeking to enlarge and elevate the playing field to accommodate the World Cup.

Other planned improvements include repairing the stadium's base structure, restrooms and concession stands and replacing mechanical, electrical, plumbing and sound systems.

Purple potatoes palatable

Purple potatoes appear peculiar, but they are perfectly palatable. Spud-wise, purples are in the pink.

People have been seeing unusually colorful potatoes in supermarkets this spring, the flesh immediately beneath the golden skin is purple. But not to worry; this condition occurs naturally and poses no threat, said a vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"I've received an unusually large number of phone calls from throughout the state about it," said Dr. Frank Dainello of College Station. "There's nothing wrong with the potato, and the purple color makes no difference in cooking quality or taste."

Usually the purple potato is a variety called Russet Nugget, although other varieties may show the same discoloration. Many of these potatoes are coming into Texas from Colorado, where abrupt weather changes in temperature and moisture during fall harvesting contributed to the purple coloration.

"The color is a naturally occurring plant pigment similar to that found in many fruits and vegetables such as radishes, beets or red apples," said Dr. Creighton Miller, a potato breeder from Texas A&M who helped develop the Russet Nugget variety.

The pigment is more pronounced when the potato has been under stress, such as extremely cold temperatures at harvest or in storage. It's also aggravated by poor ventilation.

Purples are peachy, but greens are grim. Prolonged exposure to light can turn potatoes green giving them a bitter taste. The potato can be salvaged simply by paring off the green part.

To maintain the quality of potatoes at home, Miller suggested, tubers should be stored in a cool, dark, well-ventilated area. The ideal temperature for potato storage is 45 to 50 degrees.

Senator Teel Bivins Reports.

AUSTIN - Anyone who has ever given thoughts to the State budget has asked themselves the question, "Why is it that State spending seems to always increase at a rate faster than almost any other index?" Recently the rate of spending increase in Texas has easily outdistanced the cost of living index, inflation and population growth. There are both legitimate and illegitimate answers to this fundamental question.

On the legitimate side, the State of Texas spends a vast majority of its revenue on prisons, health and human services, education and highways. Most people agree that these are legitimate government functions, but that is where the agreement ends. There is substantial disagreement over how these programs are administered and how funds to support them are allocated.

A common thread that runs through all four of these major expenditure items is that they are people driven. Because the State of Texas is growing, we will have more students to educate, more people who qualify for health and human services benefits, more prisoners to incarcerate and more traffic on our highways necessitating more and improved roadways. Again, most folks agree that this population growth is a legitimate reason for an increase in State spending. But again, there is substantial disagreement over the complex formulas that have been devised to fund these programs. These "legitimate" reasons for increases in State spending tend to get most of the media attention.

On the other hand, there are countless measures passed by the Legislature that I view as illegitimate reasons for increasing State spending that seem to get little, if any, media attention. Everyone of these bills is well intentioned, is viewed to be economical and when considered by themselves, seem not worth making a big stink about. But we all know where a road paved with good intentions leads. This is especially true in the Legislature. Adding a bureaucrat here and a mandate there seems harmless enough but when you consider this in the context of some 6,000 bills that will be considered by the Legislature this year, you begin to realize the enormous potential we have to increase government spending under the guise of good intentions.

A good case in point is a bill that recently passed the Texas Senate. The bill would require the Department of Public Safety driver license division to provide voter registration materials for persons seeking to renew their drivers licenses. No one can oppose attempts to register as many people as possible to vote. However, when you examine the bill closely, it becomes apparent that DPS will be required to come up with all new forms for driver license applications. The staff time required for development of the new forms and the printing expense combined with the waste generated by discarding the old forms creates a real cost to the State.

As you read further in the bill, you find that the employees of the DPS driver license division are given new duties. They will now be required to assist people in filling out the voter registration forms. Moreover the DPS is required to create a training program to train its employees in the proper methods of assistance for those who seek help. That training will clearly cost money. But the bill sponsor convinced a majority of the Senate that the costs associated with this bill were insignificant. I disagree.

It is frustrating when Texas is facing a major financial crunch that a majority of my colleagues continue to pass legislation that will make that financial problem even worse. If the Legislature continues to pass literally hundreds of these type of bills, we will never get control of our purse strings.

SOFT DRINKS ARE AUTOMATIC IN JAPAN

NEW YORK (AP) - Some 2 million automatic vending machines account for more than 40 percent of all soft drinks sold in Japan, according to a report by an international beverage publication.

Besides vending machines, says Beverages Magazine, which tracks the worldwide beverage field, major sales outlets include Japan's 3,000 national and regional supermarkets, and 35,000 convenience stores. Japan's 160,000 liquor stores, traditionally tied in with breweries, are also soft-drink outlets.

New technique developed to treat cancers

A technique that could help physicians evaluate and treat many frequently occurring human cancers has been developed by researchers at Baylor College of Medicine's Center for Biotechnology.

Dr. William Benedict and colleagues, Dr. Hong-Ji Xu and Dr. Shi-Xue Hu, have developed an antibody that detects the presence or absence of the retinoblastoma (RB) protein in tumor tissue.

In a paper published in the May 15 issue of Cancer Research, Benedict's group showed for the first time that this antibody allows for the detection of the presence or absence of the RB protein in paraffin-embedded tumor sections, including those that have been kept in paraffin for more than 10 years.

Paraffin sections are the most common way in which tumor tissue is stored by pathologists.

The ability to examine the RB status in paraffin samples will allow such studies to be undertaken on a much larger scale, both for newly diagnosed cancer and for those which occurred years ago.

Benedict said the study, done in collaboration with Dr. Philip Cagle of Baylor's pathology department, showed that a significant number of the most common types of lung cancers are missing the RB protein or have lost the RB protein as the tumor has spread.

The study also showed that people with more advanced tumors were more likely to have lost the RB protein in their tumor cells.

"Initial studies strongly suggest that the loss of RB protein can be used as an important tool in predicting the survival of a patient with specific cancers," Benedict said, "although more study is needed to prove this is the case."

The absence of the RB protein also affects the development and progress of cancers of the breast, prostate, bladder, bone, ovaries and soft tissues.

"There is ample information now that the loss of RB function is a major player in whether or not people get these kinds of cancers. It is certainly not the only factor, but if RB function is lost it may also signal the likelihood of specific tumor types being more deadly," Benedict said.

Benedict and his colleagues have named the antibody WL-1 in honor of The Woodlands, the Houston suburb that is home to Baylor's Center for Biotechnology.

These findings were also presented today at a Houston meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research.

The lee, or sheltered side of a ship, comes from an Anglo-Saxon word referring to the side of a shed that was out of the wind, where a laborer would take his lunch.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter about the husband who lovingly cared for his wife who has Alzheimer's prompted me to tell you about another beautiful love affair.

Recently, my 74-year-old mother was hospitalized for surgery in Hudson, Wis. On the morning she was admitted, I was present when my father asked the attending nurse if he could stay with Mother at the hospital. Reluctantly, the nurse told him that he would have to stay down the hall since there was only one bed in Mother's room. Dad wondered out loud if perhaps another bed might be moved into her room. The look on the nurse's face was not very encouraging. Then my father said, "You know, for 53 years mine has been the first face she's seen every morning. I'd like to keep it that way as long as possible." The nurse patted him on his shoulder and replied, "If you two have been together for 53 years, we're not going to separate you now."

Within minutes another hospital bed was brought into Mother's room. Dad has slept there every night. While the nursing staff attends to her daily morning bath, Dad goes home, fixes himself breakfast, showers and shaves, and returns to be with his "best girl" until the next morning.

These days when so many marriages are in trouble, I thought you might like to hear about one that has endured for more than half a century and is still going strong. -- J.W., Burnsville, Minn.

DEAR J.W.: What a touching love story. It seems they don't make marriages like they used to. But that's another column. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please say something about biological fathers who come around several years after the child is born and cause problems for everyone. I wonder if they know how much damage they do.

My 5-year-old granddaughter has not seen her biological father since she was 1 year old. The parents did not get married. Her father never visited, never phoned and never sent her a birthday card, a Christmas card or a gift. Not once did he offer to care for this child while her mother worked full-time and went to college, even though he lives in the same city. Only recently did he start to pay $10 a week in child support after he was ordered to do so by the court.

Two years ago, my daughter married a wonderful man and they now have another beautiful child. This man loves and supports my granddaughter as if she were his own. So now all of a sudden, the biological father calls up and tells my daughter he wants visitation rights. He never showed any interest in the child before. This sounds like a clear case of jealousy to me.

The Vatican issued a 40-page document in 1987 on scientific techniques involving procreation, condemning such practices as surrogate motherhood, test-tube births and cloning.

What is your opinion of this, Ann? Should my daughter tell her little girl that she has a father in the same city who has never shown any interest in her and now he suddenly wants to be friends? Or should she just wait until this stranger shows up on her doorstep? -- Grandma in Kalamazoo

DEAR KAL: If your grandchild has not been told about her biological father, her mother should tell her at once. If she doesn't, the child could be in for a terrible shock should her father show up, and chances are very good that he will.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to add a new optional service called MaxiMizer 800 Service™ Common Line 800 Service.
