AMAYSing Art Smart owner, Luther Mays, "brings it to life" with his remarkable air brush paint talent.

Mays, a Hereford native, recently returned to Hereford after a 17-year absence to open his Art Smart painting store that also serves as a mail order outlet.

"My motto is 'bring it to life' and that's what I do with my art, bring it to life," Mays said. "I've always had a love for cars. I have been drawing cars for as long as I can remember."

Mays' creations are truly amazing. His specialty is painting custom cars on T-shirts with an air brush. Mays guarantees his creations will look just like the requested car. His order form requests information on the year, make, model, color, level, type of wheels, size of tires, paint and other options such as sun roof to make the air brush and have been at it ever car perfect.

"When I graduated from high school, I earned a track scholarship now create a customed designed Tat Texas Tech University where I studied art," he said. "When my track eligibility ran out, I got a job to earn enough money to go to California."

While in California, Mays returned to college at San Jose State University where he studied illustration and design. He was offered a job designing cars for General Motors, but refused the offer to start his own business.

"When I was at San Jose State, I asked a professor of mine what would be the best way to paint my creations bring their own movies to watch. on T-shirts and he said, air brush,"

"I have a four-part plan of what I want to do," said the ambitious Mays. "One of the things I would like to accomplish is to build a skating rink in Hereford."

Phase two of his plan is building the skating rink, but unlike most rinks, his idea would include a trampoline in the middle of the rink and a big screen where kids could

Mays believes kids need a direction and goals early in life.

"I see kids dropping out of school and not getting an education," said a concerned Mays. "I don't think they know what they can do or what types of occupations are available to them. I want to send a message that anything is possible.'

Part of Mays' overall plan is to record a song of inspiration he wrote encouraging kids to stay in school and to become contributing citizens. The song stems from a poem Mays authored while he was at Texas Tech.

CSF can help in many ways

Many of those applying for help from the Christmas Stocking Fund with medical bills. In fact, medical needs are among the major concerns expressed to the charity organization each holiday season.

One case in point involves a family of six. The mother requires so much health care that her husband must devote all of his time to the need, so he is unemployed. While the family has been getting by, they face huge medical bills and there is nothing left for extras, like celebrating the holiday season.

This family is requesting assistance with some of their medication bills, and food assistance.

Hereford's holiday charity CSF is in place to address such concerns this season, when the needs of the community's less-fortunate seem particularly poignant. An anonymous committee of volunteers administer CSF, screening applications for assistance and matching needs with available help.

CSF provides food baskets and helps with clothing, medication, utility assistance, and also coordinates efforts with local churches and civic groups to extend assistance to Gene & Velta King as many of the community's needy as possible.

AUSTIN (AP) - Wiliiam P. Clements Jr., who has served longer than any governor in Texas history, will leave the office for the last time next month with no regrets and no plans to return to public life.

"Being governor of Texas is a great honor," says the only Republican to hold the post in nearly 120 years.

But after two four-year terms over a 12-year span, he adds: "There comes a time when you're ready to leave. And the time is now."

The 73-year-old governor, who etires Jan. 15, first was elected in 1978. Ousted in 1982, voters returned him to the Governor's Mansion in 1986.

C. Ramirez and Sons will be sending a little Christmas cheer and holiday munchies to the soldiers in Saudi Arabia.

Ramirez announced the company will be sending $10,000 worth of Ramirez chips to the soldiers.

"We have been working on this for three months," said Joe Soliz Jr., public relations director for C. Ramirez and Sons. "We finally cut through the red tape and will be sending the truck off Dec. 16."

Because of government security regulations, the final destination of the truck will not be known until the day of departure.

"The government has strict regulations," said Soliz.

Students bring their pen pals up to date on ball games involving teams from the Hereford Whitefaces to the Dallas Cowboys, other news of home and news about themselves.

The students' letters are very personal: the students tell about themselves, their families, about their interests and lives, and ask the soldiers about themselves.

"We haven't received any letters back, but I told the students not to expect any," said Montes. "We know they are very busy over there and probably do not have much free time to write. We do know they enjoy getting the letters and we plan to write to them for as long as they are there."

The third rung of Mays' success ladder is to start marketing his creations nationally.

"I want to start an assembly line operation here in Hereford," he said. "I tried to go national while I was in Dallas, but I couldn't keep up with the demand. Now I want to start advertising in magazines like 'Hot Rod' and 'Motorcraft' and start a catalog business."

The Hereford operation would eventually consist of three shifts operating 24 hours a day to keep up with the demand.

"I would like to see my company have five groups of workers," said Mays. "I want artists, one group to transfer the outlines (Mays has outlines of basic car shapes which he uses to speed up the process of customizing.) one to paint the details, one to iron and a mail room.

"I want to give artists an environment where they are free to create and do art 24 hours a day," he said. "I'm excited about everything that is going on.'

Before Mays reaches the top of his ladder of life, he wants to actually build one of the cars he has designed. "Slash" will be one of Mays' ultimate creations. "I have the blueprint and someone to help build it, all I need is time." To watch Mays create is amazing.

What starts out as a plain white T-shirt is magically transformed, within minutes, into a masterpiece. After briefly examining a car, Mays transforms the image in exact detail onto the shirt. Add color and a background scene and Mays has created another work of art.

NASA enduring tough year

By MARCIA DUNN AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - NASA, the can-do agency that could do no wrong during the early, heady days of space exploration, is now middle-aged and suffering the consequences of having so stellar a past.

"When we stub our toes, that gets noticed and we get held against this except their motivation is not the very high standard," says NASA Administrator Richard Truly.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has done more than stub its toes this year, according to many observers. It's shot itself in the foot.

Austin university in disarray over problems

EDITOR'S NOTE - The University of Texas at Austin is the flagship of the state's largest higher education system, with a national reputation in academic as well as athletic circles. But within the last year, the school's campus has at times resembled the 60s, with students marching against racism and sexism and a dispute over curriculum. AP Staff Writer Darryl Ewing looks at the school and the unrest and what's happening in Austin now.

By DARRYL EWING Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - University of Texas loyalists have long considered their alma mater "a university of the first class," a phrase used by delegates to the 1875 state constitutional convention that led to the school's creation.

But brewing racial tension, fraternity hazing, gay and lesbian student demonstrations, and unrest over multicultural studies now have many people on the 357-acre Austin campus wondering if their university is second rate.

Shirley Binder, admissions director, said some black parents called the school before the fall semester wanting to know if it was safe to send their children to Austin in light of the spring racial turmoil.

The number of black students enrolled this fall dropped from 1,866 in 1989 to 1,830. Hispanic enrollment, however, increased to 5,355 from 5,152.

Though summer break quelled some of last spring's unrest, gay and lesbian students kept controversy simmering by blocking traffic along the university's main road in late July and rattling the walls of Old Main with demonstrations complaining that administrators had been slow to adopt policy banning job discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation.

While school officials don't excuse the events, many say the roots of controversy develop long before students get to Austin.

"What's going on here is just a reflection of what's going on in the world." said Glenn Malonev. assistant dean of students. "Our students are not any different from the people out there. They come here with ingrained values and beliefs."

Those realities prompted school officials to:

The student-faculty ratio this fall was about 20-to-1, said Marsha Moss of the Office of Institutional Studies. National figures for selected major research universities over the last three years reflect about a 17-to-1 average, she said.

No EMS district

The idea of a separate entity to administer the amublance service was proposed this week in a guest editorial by L.V. Watts, Hereford EMS director. We respect his assessment of the situation but, without further evidence, we disagree with that solution.

The problem appears to lie only in that fact that some people are not able, or refuse, to pay for the service and taxpayers must subsidize the program. If collections can't be improved, then taxpayers must decide how much they are willing to pay to keep the emergency medical system.

Setting up another taxing entity does nothing for the taxpayer. We might "save" the hospital district $75,000 to $100,000 on its budget, but it is simply transferred to the new taxing district. And, there is the possibility it could cost taxpayers more to have another governing body.

The program has worked well under the umbrella of Deaf Smith General Hospital, and there's no reason to think it can't continue to do so. We believe the hospital district, county and city governments should put their heads together on the problem and decide how best to subsidize our emergency medical system. After all, it is a community problem.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

My son, Billy Hubbard, and Sam Allison were critically burned in an explosion at Farr Better Feeds on Sept. 5. We believe Billy is gradually improving each day, although there have been no major changes since this letter below was written.

This letter, written by Bill's wife, Bonnie, will answer many questions for his friends and all who have called here and are concerned about him. The letter was printed in the Nazarene Church bulletin.

Dear President Thompson:

We want to welcome you to WTSU and hope and pray that you have a long lasting, successful relationship with the university and the area.

I must express my concern about the "off the cuff" statement that you favored non-scholarship athletics before you even arrive on the campus. They were finally able to relax and enjoy the championship that they brought to our area. A week prior, they played the regional playoffs in Amarillo with 2,400 fans attending and some 400 had to be turned away. That's probably more support than Bakersfield drew in the final eight; therefore, we feel the National Championship should be held here next year and we'll win it again!

With a little luck and the good Lord's help, the Lady Buffs basketball team -- now ranked No. 1 -could also enjoy the fruits of a national championship. What other university in the USA has a true shot of winning two national titles in a single year? The Lady Buffs have a 168-21 won-lost record over six years, an average of 28-3 per season. But it is also true that there are some organizations which ask for charitable donations when very little of the money actually gets used for the stated purpose.

Syndicated columnist Walter Williams cited statistics in his column recently to show that much of the money solicited by the nation's largest health charities does not go for research and treatment of various diseases. Instead, the majority of some of these budgets goes to support fat salaries and direct mail costs for fundraising.

Williams reports that the American Lung Association spends only 4 percent of its budget for research. The American Cancer Society spends 26 percent and the American Heart as well as the annual Christmas Card Association 30 percent, according to Project page. Deadline for ads in the Williams' report. seeing the light all of a sudden." He said it wasn't a partisan matter, but term limits would do a lot more for the Republican than for the Democrats, who have held control of the House for 36 years and have just extended it to 38. Forced retirements would open House seats and enhance GOP chances in future congressional elections.

A term limit amendment was proposed in the last Congress and will be introduced again next year, but it won't get anywhere. Approval would take two-thirds votes in each house. Advocates could get only 15 senators to sign on last time, and two of them have since limited their own terms by retiring.

The group, which calls itself a grass-roots movement with more than 70,000 members nation wide, held its own conference this week to push its

But first, some of the limitation measures imposed this year will face challenges in the courts. That's a sure thing in the case of the Colorado limits, which reach beyond state legislators and officeholders to cover senators and House members as well.

There also have been threats of court action against the state measure imposed in California and the city limits voted in Kansas City.

President Bush has endorsed congressional term limits, but he hasn't pushed the issue. Quayle has, as vice president and when he was in Congress, learned first-hand, he says, about the abuses that can go with seniority.

"The longer one is in Congress, the more staff, the more subcommit- he said.

the current system. It's comfortable. They know the people."

He said the turnover produced by limiting terms would attract talent to Congress, lead people to vote with an eye on issues rather than on reelection and campaign fundraising, strengthen party discipline, encourage competition for committee chairmanships.

Point by point, critical questioners told him the result could as easily be the reverse, arguing that those objectives can better be attained with election reform that would limit spending, staffs, free mailings and other advantages that make incumbents almost impossible to dislodge.

Quayle said he doesn't look for real reform because incumbents would have to approve it, adding that the prospect of term limits might give reformers the leverage to force "Certainly, I am well pleased with what we've been able to accomplish within that eight years," he said during an interview. "You never get everything done that you would like to do. I think that's true in any endeavor."

Asked if he is leaving anything unfinished, he said no. "I never think in those terms. You do what you can do, you do the best that you can do, and then you move on.

Clements' 1978 victory over John Hill stunned Texas Democrats. After Hill stunned Texas Democrats. After all, no Republican had been governor since Reconstruction. Clements changed that. And this year, Republicans won several statewide offices, including chief justice of the Supreme Court, agriculture commissioner and treasurer.

"We have, indeed, become a two-party state," Clements said.

That political shift is one of the key changes to occur during the tenure of a governor who had held no elective office before winning the state's top job. Born in Dallas in 1917, Clements went to work in the oil fields as a roughneck and driller in 1937. Ten years later, he founded SEDCO Inc., the oil drilling company that made him a multimillionaire. A Republican activist, he served as deputy U.S. secretary of defense from 1973 to 1977.

The outspokenness that marked his business style got him into trouble during that first term. Critics called it "shooting from the lip."

When surveying oil-fouled beaches along the Texas coast after the 1979 blowout of an offshore Mexican well, he said, "There's no use crying over spilled milk." When told that women who deep-sea dive during pregnancy risk serious harm to their babies, he said, "They're always looking for birth control. We might say, 'Go deep-water diving and exercise birth control."

Texas Democratic Party Chairman Bob Slagle claimed in 1983 that Clements' partisanship had caused House and Senate Democrats to finally organize. "The House and think that the rest of the state was compensation insurance system. particularly concerned with it one way media."

As he leaves, Clements says he owls" by Clements - are one aspect of the job he says he won't miss. Asked during a recent news conference if he would miss such sessions, he replied, "Oh, like a hole in the head.

for a checkup, Clements penned a note to the "Wise Owls" that explained what was happening and said, "Don't call me; I'll call you."

Throughout his second term, Clements emphasized economic growth. It's at the top of his list of this term's accomplishments.

He also boasts of an unemployment rate 4 percentage points lower than when he took office; a record number of Texans at work; expanded trade ties with Mexico; a 30,000-bed prison expansion; and the merging of nine state agencies into a single Texas Department of Commerce.

> It's all part of a transition that has taken place over the past 12 years, as the state shifted from its old petroleum base to a modern, diversified economy.

"I'm old enough that I can remember when the base of Texas was primarily agriculture. Then, I was part of the transformation into a petroleum-based economy ... and we have moved now from that to a more modern base of diversification that primarily has to do with industry of various kinds," he said.

'We're a different state. We have made a real transformation. We have become industrialized. We've become more technologically oriented. And this is reflected in our people.'

Those changes weren't accidental, he says, returning to his favored theme.

"There has to be a reason why we attract people. People are moving to Texas because of job opportunities, Clements pushed for and got they're moving here because they see Senate Democratic Caucuses are a monument to Bill Clements," he said.

At the end of that first term, Clements listed accomplishments that included planning for Texas in the year 2000, programs for better management, slower bureaucratic growth, a new property tax system, better relations with Mexico and "quality appointees."

But voters turned on him, choosing Democratic Attorney General Mark White in 1982. The bitterness lingered, and Clements returned the favor in 1986, sending White back to Houston.

He favored short-sleeve shirts and plaid sport coats. He shunned such trappings of power as the $3 million Mitsubishi jet and dark blue Lincoln limousine that carried White. He preferred a tan Mercury station wagon.

At home in Dallas last year, Clements even ditched his bodyguard to head to his favorite hamburger joint, Goff's. While Clements was there, a holdup man opened fire. "He said he just continued eating his hamburger," an aide reported. "He's been around a long time, and this didn't seem to startle him at all."

Clements' 1986 campaign refrain - "jobs, jobs, jobs" - found favor with Texans suffering in the economic collapse that followed the 1986 drop in oil prices.

But there was no second term honeymoon, and Clements' public relations were rocky at times.

After pledging "no new taxes" in the campaign, he wound up signing a $5.7 billion tax increase in 1987 and a $628 million tax hike for public schools and welfare this year. Critics blasted him for breaking his promise.

Today, he says, incoming governors deserve a bigger role in drafting their first budgets. "There are certain people in the Legislature ... that have been working on this budget for the last six months. We're going to have a new governor who, for any practical purpose, has had no input at all."

Two months after taking office, Clements was embroiled in the Southern Methodist University football scandal. He acknowledged that while he was its chairman, the SMU Board of Governors allowed boosters to make payments to players. SMU got the "death penalty" and didn't play for two seasons. Clements got the heat and apologized. "In hindsight, it is clear we were wrong. SMU is the victim of a system we should have stopped immediately. It is a tragedy what has happened SMU is a great institution and Lam SMU is a great institution, and I am distressed that it is going through such agony," he said then. Today, Clements says it wasn't all that big a deal.

NEW YORK (AP) - Ralph Hawkins, the new defensive coordinator of the New York Jets, believes that setting up a pro football defense is something like pitching in the major leagues.

Hawkins has taken over for Bud Carson, who moved to the Cleveland Browns as head coach. Hawkins came cross-country from Seattle, where he had been an assistant to Chuck Knox.

"I think a good defense has to present different looks," Hawkins said. "It's like a pitcher in baseball, if you keep throwing a fast ball, eventually they'll hit it hard. You need changeups in baseball and also in planning your defenses in the NFL."

It's been a wacky season in SWC

An AP Sports Analysis By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) - Southwest Conference football seasons don't get much daffier than the recently concluded burnt orange-branded affair.

How many times have you seen: -A coach who didn't win a game carried off the field in triumph?

-The time of a game changed because of a Japanese rocket launch in Russia?

-A coach on the dismissal bubble get a five-year contract?

-A player throw seven touchdown passes in a game and catch media heat?

-A 5,000 yard gainer finish ninth in the Heisman balloting?

-A season with so many quarterback injuries?

-A team plunge from defending champion to next-to-last?

The 1990 football season was wild and wonderful, even though the Texas Longhorns erased any doubt about who should wear the crown by marching unscathed through all eight league opponents.

Of course, the coach given the ride off the field without a league scalp was Southern Methodist's Forrest Gregg, who will now concentrate on being athletic director at the school on Mockingbird Lane.

He coached and lost his final game against Arkansas. Although he won only three games in two years, his appreciative team gave him a ride usually reserved for winners.

Rough, tough Gregg, called by the late Vince Lombardi "the best football player I ever coached," broke down and cried.

Then there was the Houston-Arizona State game in Tokyo.

It's old hat for kickoff times being manipulated by television, but this was the record breaker: the Japanese television sponsor moved the game from Russia.

John Drew of Atlanta had 14 turnovers in an NBA game in 1978

Oh yeah, the astronaut is also a newsman with the station and the launch conflicted with the original kickoff time. The conference office wasn't even told about it until two days before the game. Can we keep SWC games in this country from now on?

Texas Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds' faith in David McWilliams paid dividends as the Longhorns won the league title after back-to-back losing seasons.

McWilliams got a new five-year deal in the dressing room after the Baylor victory that clinched the Longhorns' first outright title since 1983.

Houston's David Klingler made the NCAA record book obsolete with his incredible barrage of touchdown passes, but he would have been better off if he had passed on the Eastern Washington game.

Klingler threw seven touchdown passes against the NCAA Division II school and you would have thought he had done it against Buckner Orphan's Home.

"When you win, you get noticed for these kind of things," said coach David McWilliams, named the AP's Coach of the Year by his peers.

"It's a honor to be selected, particularly when it's the conference coaches doing it," he said.

McWilliams guided the thirdranked Longhorns to a 10-1 record and their first SWC title since 1983, and highest ranking since 1984. Texas still has a chance at the top ranking if it can defeat fourth-ranked Miami on New Year's Day, and No. 1 Colorado and No. 2 Georgia Tech fail in their bowl games.

Scientists say grandlure is highly effective as a sex attractant for weevils. And for some reason lime green seems to be their favorite color. But when the critters pay a visit to the cap they get a nasty dose of insecticide and fall dead into the pan.

Since the insecticide is on the cap, It is made by thrusting the it stays out of the soil and ground water.

A lime-green compound that kills weevils has also been painted on the side of the stick. A patent has been filed for both the coating and the cap.

Before he was through last year, McKibben was finding 200 to 300 dead weevils a day in his pans, agriculture officials say.

BY BEVERLY HARDER County Extension Agent Preservatives and fragrances are major concern when using cosmetics. Be sure to read the list of ingredients for those you want to avoid.

Labels are only required to list the word fragrance, not the specific compound used. Even unscented products contain a fragrance to mask chemical odors. For people who are allergy-sensitive, this could present a problem.

Always test a new product on your inner arm. Should a rash, swelling, redness or itching develop with 24 hours, you are probably allergic to the product.

The way a cosmetic is used can help keep the product bacteria free. Even preservatives lose effectiveness over time. Mascara should be discarded after six months. Discard oil-based make-up, cream or liquid after six months, and lipstick and pressed powders after 8 to 12 months. Any product that has changed appearance or odor should also be discarded.

Q. Does margarine or butter substitute for shortening in pie crust recipes? J.D., Porterville, CA

A. We don't recommend this substitution. Both butter and margarine have added water. The added water replaces fat and fat is what makes the crust tender.

Q. What causes the top of my fruitcake to be crusty and crumble. S.M., Jackson, MI

A. If a recipe has a high proportion of sugar to flour, the excess sugar may separate and rise to the tip, leaving a crystalize layer. Fruitcake may become crumbly if it's baked in unlined pans or in too hot an oven. We recommend lining pans with aluminum foil and baking in a 300 degree oven. Finally, a too fresh fruitcake is more likely to crumble. For best flavor and easiest slicing store well-wrapped fruitcake for three to four weeks in refrigerator before serving. Cut chilled fruitcake with a thin, non-serrated knife.

Send holiday cards postmarked North Pole to your holiday cards this year? Why not get your Christmas cards specially postmarked from North Pole, Alaska? This year, like every year, the North Pole, Alaska post office is postmarking thousands of cards and holiday letters with their special town cancellation. Cards are already starting to arrive from around the world.

To get your North Pole postmark. insert your holiday envelope or envelopes, addressed and stamped, inside another envelope or container. Include a note to have the mail inside be either machine or handcancelled with the North Pole postmark. Then send it to Mark Lamoureaux, United States Postal Service, North Pole

Want to add some Christmas cheer Pole, Alaska, 99705-9998. Cards and letters must be received at the North Pole by Dec. 10 for delivery before Christmas.

> If you want a container of cards postmarked and returned to you, and not entered into the mailstream, include sufficient return postage and your return mailing label. Indicate this with a note and make sure each envelope inside is stamped and addressed. Because of the North Pole's high volume of Christmas mail and the distance involved, it's best to send your box of cards there by priority or express mail to ensure ultimate delivery before Christmas.

Valdez, Nix vows exchanged Dec. 1

Rita Valdez of Hereford became the bride of Mitchel Nix of Borger during a mid-afterncon wedding ceremony Saturday, Dec. 1, in St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Officiating was Monsignor O. Blum. The bridle is the daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Azael Valdez Sr. of 228 Kibbe and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Terry Nix of Borger and Mitchel D. Nix of Fritch.

Decorating the church altar were arrangements of white gladioli and greenery.

Mari Valdez served her sister as maid of honor and Philip Gunn was best man.

Bridesmaids included the bride's sisters, Edna Valdez and Terry Valdez; the bride's cousins, Elena Trevizo and Argelia Valdez; and the bridegroom's sister, Julie Nix. Serving as groomsmen were the bride's brother, Azael Valdez Jr., and David Perez, David LaForce, Steven Ace and John Campbell.

The bride's niece, Erica Lopez Valdez, daughter of Terrie Brice, was flower girl. Candles were lit by the bridal couple's mothers.

Raul Guerrero, guitarist, sang an original song composed by the bride's father entitled "I Will Give You In Marriage." Also, playing the guitar was Sister Anita DeLuna who, along with the Missionary Catesistas of Divine Providence, vocalized several musical selections.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin gown styled in a fitted, long line design. The Sabrina neckline was edged in embroidered lace with pearls and crystal sequins. The upper part of the bodice was of sheer imported illusion and the lower part of the bodice was of satin, overlaid in embroidered lace and studded with bodice was cut in a low V-shape which was outlined in pearls and crystal sequins and overlaid in embroidered lace. A wide satin candybox bow, overlaid in lace and pearls, marked the back's low waistline.

The leg-o-mutton sleeves were styled with the customary fullness at the top then fell fitted to the wrists. Embroidered lace encrusted with pearls and sequins enhanced the entire length of the sleeves and covered buttons were at the wrists. The fitted skirt was overlaid in appliques of lace and pearls and the trumpet skirt at the bottom of the dress was edged in imported lace. The full cathedral train featured large appliques of imported illusion cutouts and had clusters of pearls across the illusion.

The bride's fingertip-length veil of illusion was gathered to a headpiece designed in a circlet which was covered in pearls and crystals and came to a point on her forehead. A cluster of silk flowers was arranged at the side of the circlet and a pouf bow marked the back of the headpiece. The two-tiered veil was filament edged with a pencil stitch around the edges.

The bride carried a white floral arrangement accented with pearls, lace and green leaves.

Her jewelry consisted gold earrings that belonged to her grandmother and a cross that belonged to her mother.

Attendants wore emerald green crystalline dresses fashioned with drop waistlines, puffed sleeves and red bows at the sides. Edna Solis invited guests to

BRANDed Women

By Sandy Stagner

A friend called me the other night and informed me of her new status of being a single mother. She was very apprenhensive and for good reason. Poor thing, I thought, she is in for a few surprises and a whole lot of headaches.

I guess she thought that since I had survived eight years of raising two children alone I could give her words of wisdom. The first thing that came out of my mouth was, "I extend my sympathies because you are about to enter the twilight zone. The secret to your survival is to always have a sense of humor. I guarantee you are going to need it!

Following a lengthy conversation with "Sally", I began to reflect on those single motherhood years. It u, a bou handyman, gardener, counselor and vehicle maintenance person. The one thing I didn't have to learn was how to become a full-blown loony bird. My first major undertaking was attempting to learn to balance my stupid checkbook. That was a catastrophe. I finally devised a plan never to look at my monthly bank Gods were kind; I never was overdrawn. I also learned how to survive on six hours of sleep at night instead of six-and-a-half days a week tended to cut into my housekeeping and laundry schedule. Consequently, there were flooded. I panicked. Besides not having time to clean up the mess before I went to work, I knew the plumber's bill was going to cost me my next three years' salary. It did.

I have always hated working in the yard but after I became single I had no choice but to drag out the lawn mower, the edger, the weedeater, the hose and sprinklers. I had never used the weedeater before and wasn't aware of its power. After I got it started, it kicked back cutting my leg. The rest of that Sunday afternoon was spent in the hospital emergency room getting 10 stitches in my knee.

As if I didn't have enough problems coping with this new lifestyle, my used car was always giving me problems. For some silly was quite an ordeal. Within a matter reason it refused to start just because of days, I had to learn to be a I'd forget to fill the tank. It also wouldn't run when the temperature was below zero. This created problems when I had to find alternate means of transportation to my son's school, my daughter's babysitter and my office. Thank goodness for good old Dad. He never failed to come to my rescue day or night even though he had a 20 minute drive to my house. Any home repairs caused me to go statement, it only confused me. The into a tailspin. Like most single moms, my funds were limited and I had to adhere to a strict budget. Once I had to replace a bedroom window. I was trying to kill a "flying thing" my customary eight to 10. Working with the nearest available weapon (my sons's baseball bat) and kind of "bumped into" the glass pane. I also went nuts when I was told many nights I was still up at 1 or 2 it would cost me $200 to have the a.m. washing jeans or ironing. One house sprayed for bugs. Now 12 evening I was so tired that I shoved years ago that was a lot of money for three loads of clothes into the me. I couldn't decide if I could learn machine and went to bed. During the to live awhile longer with the night, I awoke to find that the laundry uninvited creatures or not. My mind room, kitchen and dining room were was made up for me one night when I found a spider sharing my pillow. I stayed awake the remainder of the night fearing that my new bed partner's family would also take refuge in my sleeping quarters.

It seemed as though the minute I became a divorcee, I was recruited as a bonafide marriage counselor by my friends. I'm sure my advise was lousy but it gave us all an opportunity to "cuss and discuss."

As I told Sally, her plight wasn't unique nor was it going to be easy, but she would muddle through like so many of us women have. Hey, I came out of it alright with no permanent mental scars. (Well, I do have a nervous facial tic. Oh, yes, I get a little hysterical when I see someone use a weedeater!!!!)

Christmas tree tips suggested

One of the most charming traditions of the holiday season is the real Christmas tree. Knowing a few facts can help make yours even more delightful.

A few simple care tips can enhance your enjoyment of your Christmas tree and keep it fresh and fragrant throughout the holiday season.

When you bring it home, cut a quarter inch off the base of the trunk. Keep the tree outdoors in a container of water protected from wind and sun until you're ready to decorate.

Before bringing it into the house take another quarter inch off the base so the stem can take up water. Immediately place the tree in the stand and fill it with fresh water. Keep the water level above the fresh cut. The tree may need as much as a gallon of water a day, so check the stand daily.

For safety's sake, check all electric lights and connections before decorating your tree and home. Use lights with cords that are not worn or frayed and never use lighted candles on the tree. Do ensure that electrical circuits are not overloaded. Place the tree away from fireplaces, radiators, television sets and other heat sources. Turn off all decorations before retiring at night or leaving the house.

Since your tree is biodegradable, you'll find it can have it uses after the holiday,too. Place it in the garden for use as a bird feeder. Orange slices, bread and suet will attract birds. Its branches and trunk may be removed and used as mulch in your garden. Branch tips and needles can provide aromatic stuffing for sachets.

Keep these suggestions in mind as you join the 35 million American families who'll bring real Christmas trees home and you can be on your way to a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

NEW YORK (AP) - Arnold Schwarzenegger says Hollywood's in-the-know were sure his Austrian accent and 14-letter surname would keep him from stardom.

They were right when they said no one with an accent has made it, or made it with a name like that," Schwarzenegger said in an interview scheduled for broadcast today on the Fox program "Personalities." "But I didn't feel that ought to be an obstacle, and I went ahead and did it anyway, thinking I could use all those things to my advantage."

to curb the distribution by mail of unlawful adult and child pornography. Working with other concerned federal, state, and local agencies, new and innovative ways of dealing with this problem are being developed.

One of the efforts is a campaign designed to increase individual customer awareness of how you can protect yourself from receiving unsolicited and unwanted sexually oriented advertisements (SOA) by mail. SOA Consumer Kit has been created. It provides a single source of information to assist you in taking advantage of the provisions available to everyone under the law. There are two postal forms you can use to stop delivery of unsolicited provocative ads to your home. They help enforce federal laws aimed at safeguarding you and your family from undesirable mail.

The first form authorizes the Postal Service to issue an order prohibiting a specific mailer from sending you ads that you think are provocative.

The second form authorizes the Postal Service to add your name to a list of people who do not want to receive explicit ads from any mailer. The Postal Service supports this consumer protection effort and urges you to consider these protective measures should you or your family receive such mail.

ARE YOU DUE FOR AN EYE EXAM?

To guard your vision and the health of your eyes, it's smart to schedule regular optometric examinations. How often your eyes need to be examined usually depends on your age and your health.

For those between 20 and 35 years of age, in good general health and no history of eye problems, it's generally sufficient to have an examination every two years. Children and teenagers need yearly exams because their visual acuity may change rapidly during those growing years, especially if school makes heavy reading demands. It's advisable to bring a youngster in for the first examination by age three. After 35, eyes should be checked every year. Visual changes accelerate at this time. Regular examinations will also include tests for glaucoma and other eye diseases; early detection may be vital to save your sight.

Of course, any time you note a change in vision or your eyes feel strained, it's wise to call for an appointment right away. Brought to you as a community service by you for printing that letter from the woman in Sarasota who had chemotherapy following a mastectomy. It was godsend. I recently had a radical mastectomy and learned that I must start chemotherapy. The day your column ran, a friend phoned to a great deal of encouragement at a time when I really needed it. I hope I will be as fortunate as the woman who wrote. -- Ann G., Palos Verdes, Calif.

DEAR CALIF: Thanks for those warm words. I'm keeping my fingers crossed for you. Not everyone was thrilled with that column. Read on: FROM VANCOUVER: I am furious with that woman in Sarasota who had chemotherapy after a radical mastectomy. She made it sound like a day at the county fair. I had a mastectomy 12 years ago and the doctor ordered chemo, the whole load. I was exhausted and depressed, sick as a dog, and I couldn't keep food down. Maybe I shouldn't complain because I'm here today, and I wouldn't be had I not gone through that hell. But to hear someone say, "Those horrible stories about chemo side effects ain't necessarily so" burned me up.

SAN DIEGO: Those comments from your correspondent in Sarasota who said chemotherapy was a "breeze" needs clarification. There are several regimens of chemo. Treatment under some can go on for easy to get, easy to use and even a year or more, resulting in total hair loss, vomiting and loss of appetite. That debilitating routine is essential, however, when fighting certain types of cancer. After my mastectomy, I was put on a regimen recommended by both American Cancer Society and the National Cancer Institute. It lasted six months; there was very little hair loss and no nausea or vomiting. I felt quite well the entire time. I hope you will explain to your readers that all cancers are not the same nor are all treatment modalities.

ISANTI, MINN.: My husband was diagnosed with Hodgkin's disease in July of 1989. He went through 12 chemotherapy treatments and 20 radiation procedures. He went through hell. That letter from the woman in Sarasota made him hopping She made it sound as if mad. chemotherapy were a cinch and anyone who complained was a

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank feeling terrific and that's what counts.

JACKSONVILLE: I had a bilateral mastectomy two years ago at M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston. (God bless those doctors. They are the greatest.) I was told there would be debilitating side make sure I had seen it. It gave me effects and there were. But when you're fighting for your life, you are willing to go through anything. Anyone who has questions about cancer treatment should call 1-800-4-CANCER, and if it's busy, keep trying. This line is provided by the National Cancer Institute. Cancer is no longer a death sentence. Thanks to medical research -- mostly government-funded -- lives are being saved every day.

> So, dear readers, there you have it, from the best authorities of all -the people who have lived through it. And now I would like to recommend the "Look Good ... Feel Better" program for women who are taking chemotherapy or soon will be. Write the C.T.F.A. Foundation, 1100 Vermont Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005, or call 1-800-395-LOOK or your local American Cancer Society office. The free brochure on this program has dozens of excellent suggestions on how to improve your appearance, lift your spirits and hasten your return to a normal life. Every woman knows that looking better helps you to feel better.

To everyone who helped make our 60th Anniversary party so special for us. It was so much fun and such a joy to see our many friends. We have been nicely blessed by having many years together and live in the best place on earth surrounded by wonderful friends and family. Not only have you been with us in joy, you have supported us in our sorrow in the loss of our sister. We thank you for the many cards, calls, flowers, food and most of all your prayers. May God bless each of you in our prayer.

Deadline nears

Local residents making donations to Project Christmas Card by Friday, Dec. 14, will have their names printed in a full-page yuletide greeting in The Hereford Brand's special Christmas edition, Sunday, Dec. 23. In lieu of using the money normally spent on mailing local Christmas cards and postage, citizens may make contributions by using the canisters which have been placed at various local businesses. Donations may also be made at both Hereford State and First National Banks. This year's proceeds will be used to purchase a fetal monitor with intra-uterine pressure monitoring for Deaf Smith General Hospital. Discussing the project, which is sponsored by L'Allegra Study Club, are club members, Hilda Perales, at left, and Judy Detten.

Occupational therapy career of the future

today's top 20 growth careers in the nation. Its practitioners help restore the independence that illness and injury sometime take away.

The growing demand for occupational therapist-there's currently a 25 percent shortage-and growing salaries make this a very opportune time to enter this challenging and rewarding field.

Minorities, the physically challenged and men are in especially great demand. For free information about occupational therapy careers, cal the toll-free CareerLine: 1-800-366-9799 sponsored by The American Occupational Therapy Association.

Over nine million people receive occupational therapy each year, a number that's expected to increase as our population grows older.

Occupational therapist helps people whose disabilities-physical, mental, emotional or social-interfere with their living productive and satisfying lives. They develop personalized treatment programs which help patients learn skills to maintain as independent a lifestyle as possible, often allowing them to live at home, return to work and be part of their communities.

PLANNING

GUARD AGAINST:

Occupational therapy is one of children, adolescents, young adults and the elderly. Their patients have a wide range of problems, which include arthritis, cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, mental illness, developmental disabilities and hand or head injuries. The may be suffering from the effects of a stroke, aging or > burns. These therapists also work with individuals who are returning to the work place following an illness or injury.

Occupational therapists work in many different settings, including schools, home health care, private practice, hand and head trauma rehabilitation centers, mental health facilities, senior care centers and burn centers.

Because all patients are different and their abilities vary, occupational therapy calls for creativity and flexibility. The therapist independently designs a program that best benefits each patient, but often works in concert with physical and speech therapists, as well as other healthcare professionals to develop a comprehensive treatment programs.

Occupational therapists complete four-year baccalaureate program and a six-to-nine month supervised clinical experience. An occupational therapy assistant has completed an approved certificate or two-year associate degree program and at least two months of clinical experience.

Questions, answers about home

Q. - With a large variety of walkway de-icers on the market, could you tell me the major differences between them, and which would be the safest for concrete?

A. - According to the Portland Cement Association, the safest de-icers for concrete are also the most common; sodium chloride (rock salt) and calcium chloride. Both of these de-icers rust metal, and sodium chloride damages vegetation while calcium chloride does not.

The association recommends against using on concrete those de-icers that contain ammonium nitrate or ammonium sulfates.

Q. - I have a home with finished aluminum soffits, fascias, gutters and window trim. I would like to paint these a different color. Is this possible? And, if so, will I be repainting every four years and lose out on the benefits of aluminum trim? A. - Not to worry. PPG Industries has a latex paint specifically formulated for repainting prefinished aluminum siding and trim. It's called Metal Siding Refinish, and comes in a variety of colors to match current popular siding colors. If the surface is prepared correctly and the paint properly applied, it will last for about 10 years. This compares favorably with many older types of prefinished aluminum siding which required painting after about 10 years. The product can also be used on unfinished aluminum after applying a primer.

Co-star says 'Rosie O'Neill' like good jam session

Dorian Harewood likes character's conflicts By Mary Ann Townsend Dorian Harewood thrives on bringcharacters he plays, and he does just that in his co-starring role on CBS' The Trials of Rosie O'Neill, which airs Mondays.

Harewood plays public defender

Sharon Gless stars as Rosie, a divorced woman who, in her quest to start her life anew, has given up corporate law to serve as a public defender.

The role of Hank Mitchell is a good with his office-mate Rosie O'Neill. one, Harewood said, because the character has a lot of conflicts.

"There are several faults that he has, but the conflicting thing is the fact that he's got a lot of integrity; he's a real good person, and he's just trying to be the best public defender that he can be. But in his passion to be a public defender, he becomes kind of limited in his thinking about other people, narrow-minded and impatient with people that aren't as committed as he is," Harewood explained.

The Trials of Rosie O'Neill marks Harewood's fourth regular series role.

He enjoys working with Gless on the new series, not only because she has a good balance of comedy and drama, but also because she has a way of bringing out the best performances in her co-stars, he said.

"She's the kind of person who challenges people to be better. It's like loved my singing, but she also felt that a good jam session when I'm acting my dramatic instincts were similar to with Sharon, like when good musicians hers and that I should at least explore get together and they make great dramatic acting," the actor explained. music. Sharon and I and the rest of the He took her advice and won a Theatre cast are getting together and we've got World Award for his first dramatic role great words to say and we make great in Don't Call Back. acting," he said.

Harewood ought to know about jam sessions. He started his professional career in 1972 as a singer. While The Next Generations and The Jesse attending the University of Cincinnati's Conservatory of Music, Harewood saw an ad in the paper for the national touring company production of Jesus Christ Superstar and was cast in the role of Judas. He moved on to New York where he performed in several Broadway musicals. Although a co-starring performance with Bette Davis in Philadelphia ended abruptly when the legendary actress injured her back, that appearance changed the course of Harewood's career.

"She's the one who turned me toward acting. I did a musical with her called dividual and they're all different," he Miss Moffat, and she said that she said.

Dorian Harewood plays Hank Mit-chell, a colleague who is not keen on sharing his office with Rosie.

His dramatic acting career has also kept him busy with miniseries and made-for-TV movies including Roots: Owens Story, and more recently Polly and Polly - One More Time. In addition, the talented performer is pursuing a recording career. His pop and rhythm and blues album, Love Will Stop Calling, was released to good reviews a year and a half ago, and he's working on another album. In the meantime, he's concentrating on his Hank Mitchell character.

"I just want to show many levels to Hank's character and show that you can never really generalize about people because everyone is an in-4) TV Listing In-

Academy Award-winning actress Marlee Matlin has entered into an exclusive development arrangement with Lorimar Television and executive producer Robert Singer to star in an hour-long pilot written and produced by Singer, for the fall of 1991 on NBC.

Although Frances Fisher and Maurice Benard, cast in the title roles in the upcoming CBS film Lucy & Desi Before the Laughter, were not "discovered" in the open talent calls held in New York, Miami and Los Angeles, producer Larry Thompson did discover one actor he liked enough to hire. Mauricio Rivera, one of the aspiring Desis who auditioned, has been signed to play a member of Desi Arnaz' band in the film.

ABC Television has made a midseason series commitment to Dinosaurs, the first series to be produced by Jim Henson Productions and the Walt Disney Company since Henson's death. The half-hour, live-action comedy series focusing on the last days of the dinosaur, features a humansized family of dinosaurs and their blowhard, bombastic dad. The series will utilize state-of-the-art technology, taking puppetry and audio animatronics to a new level.

Dixie Carter stays close to stage work

By Candace Havens

Dixie Carter plays the delightful Julia Sugarbaker on the popular CBS series Designing Women. Her character is quick-witted and always gets what she wants, yet always remembers her perfect Southern manners.

Carter grew up in the South in McLemorsville, Tenn., and from the beginning she wanted to be an opera star. After receiving a bachelor's degree in English from Memphis State University, Carter headed for New York to study her music more intensely. Then, she recalls, "came the rude awakening. My voice simply wasn't big enough for opera."

With the encouragement of a friend, Carter decided to audition for a part in a Shakespearean production by Joseph Papp. Her acting career began in The Winter's Tale. Then what seemed to be a promising career ended when she married her first husband, Arthur Carter. Two children and eight years later, she returned to acting with hopes of working in musical theater.

She later headed for Hollywood to star opposite Richard Chamberlain in a West Coast production of Fathers and Sons. She starred in a few feature films and was a regular on several series including On Our Own, Filthy Rich, Out of the Blue, Diff rent Strokes and The Edge of Night.

Carter recently reprised her singing career with a cabaret act at the popular Carlyle, for which she received rave reviews. C TV Listing Inc

'Lou Grant' star plays 'Cops and Robbers'

Ed Asner's gonna 'shake 'em up' By Amy Schmidt

Here's a bit of TV trivia for you: What actor has won more Emmy Awards than any other? If you didn't guess Ed Asner, you guessed wrong. But that's OK. In a recent interview promoting his upcoming NBC movie Cops and Robbers, Asner said he, himself, never would have guessed how successful he would become.

Asner's award list includes seven Emmys and five Golden Globes. "Oh, and there's a couple of comedy critics circle awards. I don't know. I have to look around and see what the hell I've got here," said the actor offhandedly.

But there was a time when Asner's career looked pretty glum. Between 1966 and 1968 he didn't work at all. He and his former wife Nancy had just had their third child. They had moved into a bigger house, and they thought they were going to lose it.

"I've been there for so long it's old hat bring their colleagues to justice. now," said Asner of his success. I always resented the fact that I wasn't Chicago detective in a new lawmaking it big. But when it finally enforcement pilot for NBC. The actor happened, I couldn't believe it." Three says he hopes it will lead to a series and of his Emmys came after his big break yet another Emmy. in 1969 on The Mary Tyler Moore Show, and two more for his spin-off drama, Lou Grant.

In Cops and Robbers, airing Sunday, Dec. 9, Asner will play a cop. This isn't a typical role for the actor, who frequently plays the part of the intellectual. "I'm not often seen that way, so I'm gonna shake 'em up," he said.

An interesting twist to Cops and Robbers is that the cops get to play the robbers. Ray Sharkey, George Kennedy and James Keach co-star in this drama which is based on a true story. On Memorial Day weekend 1980, a group of policemen carried out a plot to rob a Boston bank. It was one of the biggest heists in history. Sharkey and Keach play the bad guys. Asner and Kennedy play the good guys who try to

'Days' actor related to 'M*A*S*H' star

By Candace Havens

Dear Candace: Is Antony Alda (Johnny Correlli) on Days of Our Lives any relation to Alan Alda? There seems to be a resemblance. -D. in Arkansas

Dear D .: Aldà is the son of the late actor Robert Alda and is the brother of Alan Aida.

Dear Candace: I enjoy reading your column very much. You said to write if we wanted to sound-off about our favorite soaps. My favorite is Falcon Crest.

I want it back! Since they kept Knots Landing and Dallas, why did they have to dump mine? Especially with a star as great as Jane Wyman.

Whatever happened to the cast of actors? My favorites were Lance (Lorenzo Lamas) and Melissa (Ana Alicia). They made a terrific team. I also miss Maggie (Susan Sullivan), Richard (David Selby), Chase (Robert Foxworth), Julia (Abby Dalton), Emma (Margaret Ladd) and Angela (Jane Wyman). I never hear anything about any of them. -Betty Wasmuth, Montclair, Calif.

Dear Betty: I want to let you know you're not the only one upset over the demise of Falcon Crest. Several readers have written in about that very subject.

As for the actors you mentioned, Lorenzo Lamas is devoting time to auto racing, and Susan Sullivan can be seen in commercials for Tylenol. She is currently in production on a TV movie. Robert Foxworth and Ana Alicia also have been keeping busy with TV movies. Little has been heard from David Selby, Abby Dalton and Margaret Ladd. Jane Wyman has earned the prerogative to take on only selected projects.

Dear Candace: I like The Bold and the Beautiful; it is the best of any soap. I would like to know why it is only 30 minutes long. Thanks. -Just wondering, Nacogdoches, Texas

Dear Reader: B&B is a fairly new soap; it's been on the air four years. As the show becomes more established and moves up in the ratings, it could then go to one hour.

I want to hear from you! If you have a favorite soap scenario you would like to sound off about, or a question about the soaps, write to Candace Havens, Soap Talk, P.O. Box 17748, Fort Worth, TX 76102-0748. 1) TV Listing Inc.

By Polly Vonetes Q: Recently a story came out concerning the movie Three Men and a Baby. The rumor was that a little boy had been killed in a fall from a balcony in the apartment where they did the filming. In the scene where Ted Danson's mother comes to visit, there is a dark haired boy looking in the window. The story I've heard is that this is the ghost of the little boy. I watched the movie and saw the little boy and he didn't seem to fit into the scene. Can you tell me what the true story is behind it? -Jorja Maxwell, East Palestine, Ohio

A: I am aware of the rumor; in fact one other rumor has it that the boy killed himself with a rifle some say is visible in the movie. (I didn't see the rifle.) I watched the movie, and yes, there is a boy in the window. In checking with my sources, I am told the image is of a prop. There are many such props on a soundstage. They are used in place of the stars to focus the cameras between scenes. Many have written in about this rumor, so hopefully this will put that "ghost" to rest.

Q: I live in rural Madelia, and for a long time I have enjoyed watching the program Discovery. It has now been replaced with a travel program. It is mostly commercials and lots of talking. Is there a possibility that Discovery will come back on station 26? -M.A., Madelia, Minn.

A: There may be several reasons your local channel chose to drop Discovery. One way to have them bring it back is for viewers, such as yourself, to write the programming director at Channel 26 and request the program be rescheduled on their channel. Enough letters from the viewing audience just may cause him to reconsider the program.

Q: Some four months ago a friend told me about an article you printed about a Joni James Fan Club. I missed that article and would surely love to acquire one of those addresses you printed. Joni James is one of my favorite artists and I would love to have some of her music again. —Wilda Hanson, Interlachen, Fla.

A: I know how you feel. She is one of my favorites too. There are two addresses I have for you. Write to: Joni James Fan Club, c/o Fred J. Mann, 15 Maryanne Ave., Pt. Jefferson Station, NY 11776; or Joni James Fan Club, c/o Wayne Brasler, P.O. Box 7207, Westchester, IL 60153.

Q: Could you please tell me an address that I can write to for The Young Riders on ABC? I have tried everywhere and I have not been able to get it. Please answer me. -Mary Wallace, Hays, Va.

A: Your letter sounded so desperate, I had to answer. Write to: The Young Riders, MGM/UA Television, 10000 W. Washington Blvd., Culver City, CA 90232.

Q: Please name the movie starring FIRYN i Jeff Ci Chandler is leading a Basque wagon train to California to plant the grapevines they are carrying to Napa Valley. During an Indian attack, the Basque men don colorful fighting clothing and leap from rocks, emitting their blood-curdling battle cry. Video stores are unable to come up with the movie name. Please help. -Norma Bonecher, Mountain Home, Idaho and Kathy Bates. Whoa, Stephen barely controllable destructiveness King fans! Have we got a holiday gift for you. A good, a really good Stephen King film. You'll scream with terror and you'll howl with laughter. This film's got everything - including admirable direction and strong acting.

A: Does the name Thunder in the Sun ring a bell? Released in 1958 by Seven Arts, the film also starred Jacques Bergerac.

Misery, as the millions who read the book know, is a story that deals with obsessive love. The movie script treats this love in such a way that it guarantees to counteract the sugary Hollywood overdose usually given each December. Plus, this film is skillfully crafted by director Rob Reiner in such a wonderfully suspenseful, darkly humorous way that it guarantees to be a great deal of fun.

James Caan is Paul Sheldon, a successful writer. of romance novels. Misery is the heroine of these novels and Annie Wilkes, a former nurse, is Paul's "number one fan." After an automobile accident, Paul is rescued by Annie, and ultimately held captive in her remote, snow-bound Colorado mountain home. The plot depends a lot upon this tranquil-looking MISERY: Starring James Caan wintery surface to convey the lurking underneath.

SATURDAY

Gradually, the terrifying truths about Annie emerge - one being that she never intends to free Paul. Rob Reiner deftly manipulates every chill, jolt and laugh from an excellent screen adaptation by William Goodman. James Caan, with a terrifically ravaged face that only a character actor would want, is superb. He draws the audience right into the mayhem with him as he begins to understand Annie's monstrous acts of love. Kathy Bates, as one of the many unloved women who find romance through the escapades of Paul's fictional leading lady, Misery, becomes the perfect monster; proving that real monsters need no masks or makeup. Every drop of Stephen King gore is squeezed out of this holiday collision-filled film -- with obvious gusto and fun.

Misery is rated R for excessive, explicit violence. If you want something different this season, take a friend to the "gore and blood" party of the year.

For a continued antidote to the season's usual "sweetness and light", try these hidden, horror gems.

SEANCE ON A WET AFTERNOON: (1964/Black & White) Starring Kim Stanley and Richard Attenborough. This is a brilliantly acted, gripping drama. The story is about an unbalanced medium (Kim Stanley) who involves her meek husband (Richard Attenborough) in a kidnapping scheme. That's all that understated and effective you need to know, except that this must-see production is an absolutely fabulous movie. The outstanding direction is by Bryan Forbes, who also adapted the script from the Mark McShane novel of the same name There is no rating. but there are some very intense sequences which should rated it a SILENT PARTNER: (1978) PG-13.

TO THE DEVIL, A DAUGHTER: (1976) Starring Richard Widmark and Christopher Lee. There are two things that raise this film above the average thriller: the script, based on an excellent Dennis Wheatly book on the occult, and Richard Widmark's performance.

Lee plays the founder of a satanic Pamel cult who earmarks a young girl, on queen her 18th birthday, as the devil's daughter. Her father enlists the aid of occult expert Widmark, and the Three Boxes horror begins.

New Kids learn meaning of Christmas

By Anne Wheeler

The New Kids on the Block have a Christmas they'll remember forever when a little boy teaches them the true meaning of the Yuletide on the New Kids on the Block Christmas Special, a prime-time special airing Friday, Dec. 14, on ABC.

In the animated special, the New Kids are caught up in plans to spend Christmas with their own families. But their plans are interrupted by an 8-year-old boy named Albert.

Albert takes the Kids to New York's Spanish Harlem, where they meet Rosa, a woman who provides food, blankets and toys for the neighborhood needy each Christmas. However, this year she won't have enough to go around unless there is a miracle.

The New Kids take it upon themselves to make that miracle happen. Before the animated adventure of the New Kids, the real New Kids on the Block reminisce about past holidays. After the animated special, another live-action segment features the New Kids' concert performance of "This One's for the Children."

Other Christmas specials kids may enjoy this week are The I Love Lucy Christmas Show, Monday, Dec. 10, on CBS, and the holiday classic Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, tentatively rescheduled for Friday, Dec. 14, on CBS. In Monday's special, the Mertzes and the Ricardos trim the tree and reminisce about Christmases past. + TV1.isting In
