Secession—
Watch very closely all activities of American Federation of Labor leaders during the next three days. A crisis has developed within the organized labor movement which threatens to shake its very foundation.
Are the Carpenters, the Bricklayers and the Electrical Workers to be accepted as members of the Building Trades Department? On Monday next, a convention of the Building Trades assembles here at the call of A. F. of L. President William Green to settle the question once and for all.
It is a shock full of dynamite. Only some highly masterful compromise on Green's part in 72 hours remaining will avert a split of major proportions in labor ranks, regardless of which way the convention votes.

Delegation Asks Why Japan Needs Naval Equality

LONDON, (AP)—British and American delegations to preliminary naval conference agreed between themselves Friday to insist on a continuance of principles of the 1922 Washington naval treaty.
Representatives of the two countries decided to ask the Japan delegation for further explanation why the Asiatic island empire thinks it should have a navy large as America or England. Both made clear they had no intention of granting Japan tonnage equality as demanded.
Under the Washington treaty, England, United States and Japan agreed that American and English navies be equally large, with Japan's 60 per cent as big.
Japan claims the need of a fleet as large as the others.

GIANT PASSENGER FLYING BOAT SOON READY

This giant "flying clipper" ship intended for transoceanic service is nearing completion at Baltimore after being carefully guarded from the public for two years. Ordered built by the Pan-American Airways, the plane is claimed to be capable of carrying 50 passengers across either the Atlantic or the Pacific at a speed of three miles a minute. It will be the largest air liner in service when it spreads its wings in December. (Associated Press Photo)

Insult Described As Victim Of 1929 Wild Speculation

CHICAGO (UP)—Samuel Insull was described as victim of the public's wild speculation in 1929 in the Insull mail fraud jurors Friday as Attorney Floyd E. Thompson resumed a final defense plea for the utility executive.
Thompson explained formation of Insull's Corporation Securities Company as an attempt to put the utility man's own stock into a strong box to protect the key to his $2,000,000,000 public utility system.

FRANCE ADOPTS BIG WAR BUDGET

PARIS, (AP)—The Chamber of Deputies Thursday voted the French war budget of $374,336,200, after discussion of German rearmament.
A tense session was featured by outspoken warnings of Germany's war strength.
General Louis Naurin, war minister said: "Don't say if you wish peace, prepare for war. I say we must be on guard."

Thieves Revel For 24 Hours

PARIS, (UP)—The Eighth Commandment will be repealed for 24 hours, beginning Dec. 8 at day-break.
This is the annual date set for the Thieves' Fair at St. Denis, in the Vendee, and the Eighth Commandment. "Thou shalt not steal," is void for 24 hours.
At this picturesque fair, which dates back hundreds of years, stealing is authorized—provided the thief is not caught in the act. If caught, his penalty is buying—and paying for—the object which he has tried unsuccessfully to steal.
In olden days this fair was a serious contest of dexterity and wit between merchants who seldom trusted each other. Today, however, it usually is done in a spirit of fun rather than skill, and often with the connivance of the "victim." They agree on exchanges and promise not to "see" the other one while the "theft" is being made.

George and Marina will pen their signatures right underneath the record of the birth and christening of Princess Margaret Rose, George's baby niece.

Several large taxpayers, accustomed to paying on the split payment plan, will probably come in during the next week.

Broncos Take Colorado 7-6

Bass' Team Sweeps From Behind To Take Decision
The junior high Broncos Wednesday afternoon managed to repeat their performance of a week before by defeating the Colorado juniors, 7 to 6. The game was played in the Mitchell county metropolis.
Colorado tallied first after the Broncos had fumbled deep in their own territory, and the half ended 6 to 0 in their favor.
In the third quarter the Broncos came to life and after running a series of double reverses, suddenly changed to a single reverse and Johnnie McGee scampered about thirty-five yards to score. McGee kicked goal to put the Big Spring team into the lead.
The fourth quarter was about even terms, with Colorado throwing a lot of wild passes.
A. G. Jones played a stellar game at end, especially on defense when he broke through time after time to stop the Colorado backs.
Albert Bueger turned in a fine game at the other end post. Pat Kelly and Howard Hart also starred.
The game was featured by the accurate kicking and passing of Co-captain Bostick.

More cheering than financial returns, according to those in charge, was the unified spirit of community cooperation displayed by the citizenship in supporting the move.

Two Local Men Are Hijacked

Hijackers Thursday evening held up Jesse F. Hall, Southern Ice assistant manager, and later Mr. Caldwell, car salesman, on a road near here.

No description of the men could be given other than one was tall and the other short in stature.
Stephens' car was stolen from its parking place near the Ritz theatre.
Only a small amount of money and jewels was taken from the hijacking victims.

Congressman Thomason Believes Home Owners To Get Additional Help

Belief that some provision will be made by HOLC to care for home owners in distress was expressed by Congressman R. E. Thomason in a letter received here by C. T. Wadson.
"I think surely that some provision will be made to take care of home owners who are still in distress," said Thomason. "I have already taken up the matter with all proper officials and will do what I can to help."
HOLC recently announced that no more applications for home loans would be considered due to a scarcity of remaining funds.

EXPERTS STILL BELIEVE IN THE BATTLESHIP

Decision on America's ship-building policy at the coming disarmament conference is complicated by the fact that there is still a good deal of uncertainty about the type of ship the American navy ought to have.

Naval authorities in the main stand firm for a fleet built about a strong nucleus of capital ships, or battleships, seasoned by a considerable number of heavy cruisers. Yet there is a wide belief that the battleship has outlived its usefulness, and that the terrific expense of maintaining these costly vessels is one the navy might well avoid.

Add to this the growing feeling that airplanes and submarines are revolutionizing naval warfare, and you have a situation in which decision on a naval program would be difficult enough, even if it were not necessary to adjust our program to the programs of foreign powers.

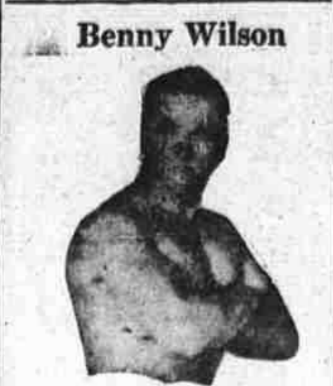

A good exposition of the theory that the battleship is still the backbone of the fleet came recently in a public address by Rear Admiral Joseph W. Taussig, acting chief of naval operations.

America, says Admiral Taussig, needs the battleship because of its lack of naval bases—the battleship, with its wealth of heavy guns, serving as a kind of floating base which can protect lighter ships against superior forces.

Furthermore, says Admiral Taussig, the improvement of the submarine and aerial branches of the navy have made the battleship even more indispensable than before. It is the only warship which can be armored and protected sufficiently to withstand the shock of bombs and torpedoes.

Here we have a brief and understandable outline of the majority

King Kong Kodrick To Wrestle Chrane

Benny Wilson, former middleweight champion, will wrestle Jimmie Murphy, the wild Irishman from Detroit, at the Big Spring Athletic Club tonight.

King Kong Kodrick will tangle with the popular Blondy Chrane tonight in the main event of the Big Spring Athletic club's wrestling show. The match will be for the best two out of three falls.

Kodrick has not lost a match since he has been here, and says Chrane will be just another of his victims, but Blondy has a different slant on the idea. Chrane is a very speedy and scientific wrestler.

Kodrick has been winning much favor with fans in the past few weeks. All four grapplers on tonight's mat program are leading contenders for the chance to meet Jack Reynolds, the welter champion, when he comes to Big Spring in the near future.

In the semi-final, which promises to be as good as the main event, will be Benny Wilson, former junior middleweight champion, and Jimmie Murphy, who was disqualified last week in a match with Lew Kodrick. Wilson, who can get plenty rough himself, should be able to handle the "wild man" from Detroit.

Seventeen-Year-Old Gets Deer On First Hunt

Young Bobby Asbury, aged 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Asbury of the Fisher ranch south of town, was among the lucky deer hunters this year who got his buck.

This is Bobby's first hunt and his first buck.

viewpoint in the navy; and it is worth reading, as an antidote to the free and easy talk one constantly hears about the obsolescence of the battleship.

We are often assured that submarines and airplanes are the all-important units of a fleet in modern times; but the experts charged with maintenance of our navy still believe—and seem to have reason for their belief—that a fighting fleet, in the last analysis, is only as strong as its capital ships.

NO USE FOR INEFFICIENCY

The supreme court's decision upholding price-fixing measures by the New York Milk Control Board may well stand as a landmark in the development of our attitude toward the inter-relationship of private profit and state supervision.

The essential part of the decision would seem to be these words: "The 14th amendment does not protect a business against the hazards of competition." In other words, a legislature has a right to use the operating costs of an industry's more efficient members as a yardstick, in reaching a fair price level, and the less efficient members must make the best of it.

TRADITIONAL INTERSECTIONAL FOES MEET AGAIN

Memories of the epic 13-12 upset which an oft-beaten Notre Dame team perpetrated on Army a year ago attend preparations as these rivals, principals in football's oldest continuous intersectional series, prepare for their November 24 meeting in Yankee stadium, New York. Jack Buckler and Joe Stancock are the Cadets' stellar backs. Captain Dom Vairo is a Notre Dame mainstay at end and Fullback Don Elser is one of Coach Elmer Layden's hardest-hitting ball carriers.

Ponies In Good Shape For Bobcats

SWEETWATER—The Mustangs out at Newman Field have just about finished the heavy drilling in preparation for the strong Bobcat team of San Angelo, which they take on here next Thursday—Thanksgiving day—in the last football game of the season for the local Corral. The order of the day now will be less strenuous workouts next week, with more attention being given to running signals and brushing up on the passing offense.

The Mustangs came out of the Colorado fracas and the last two weeks hard scrimmaging practices without any injuries, and are expected to be in first class physical condition for the clash with the Cats.

Approximately the same starting lineup will be used against the Bobcats as was sent against Colorado. Scales, who has been doing outstanding work in the Mustang line this year will in all probability start at tackle, with Bruner holding down the other tackle. Bennett and Taylor will perform at the guard positions, while Rosebrough will hover the ball. Mondy and Parsons will take the terminal positions, while Captain Barnett, quarterback, Raymond Billings, Coleman Sullivan, and A. J. Roy will make up the backfield combination. Bruner may be called on to help with the backfield duties, with Wood or Roberts taking his place at tackle. Browning will also see considerable service at guard, as will Boswell at end.

Colorado is already making big plans for an invitational basketball tournament to be staged early in January. Hamlin, winner of the sectional ball last year, was the first school to accept. Appropriate trophies, made possible through cooperation of Colorado business and professional men and the chamber of commerce, are to be offered.

Only one letterman, Joe Cooper, will be out for the Colorado squad.

D. H. (Knutie Rockne) Reed's Portales N. M. Greyhounds will clash with the strong Silver City Mustangs Saturday. Reed's team is undefeated. The Greyhound's string of victories include the New Mexico Aggie Frosh and State University frosh and a tie with the Normal University "Cowboys."

Lt. T. H. Weston, located at the CCC camp here, has quite a coaching record. He was frosh coach at A. & M., was mentor or Schreiner Institute, Peacock Military Academy, Lutheran college. Weston is also interested in polo, hunting and fishing.

Some of the local grid fans balk at the idea of the Steers playing at El Paso on Saturday. They say a much larger number of rooters can accompany the team on Friday.

Texas Planning Huge Campaign To End Floods

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP)—With Uncle Sam's help, Texas will continue a fight on depression with a campaign to halt river floods and save water for arid lands.

Forty games in the past forty years have been played by the Aggies and Longhorns, who first met on the gridiron in 1894. Although the grid relationship was broken from 1894 until 1898 and from 1911

The state authorized use of $6,000,000 on the Brazos River if a PWA loan of not less than $30,000,000 is obtained. For a $15,000,000 preliminary expenditure by the state on the Neches River, the federal government is expected to provide a $7,000,000 dam. On the Colorado River the state merely created a public authority. Under it PWA financing will provide $4,500,000 to complete a dam left unfinished in the fiscal collapse.

Other projects for which the Texas legislature smoothed the path to federal participation are: A $2,500,000 bridge over the Neches River with a vessel clearance 4 feet higher than the Brooklyn Bridge; flood prevention on the Rio Grande, and gulf storm protection at Palacios, site of a National Guard infantry camp.

Longhorn Tracksters To Vie With Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, (Sp.)—Almost overlooked in the hullabaloo anent the football season, Texas Aggie and University of Texas Longhorn cross country teams will meet here Saturday in what is labeled as the Southwest Conference harrier meet but what in reality will be a dual meet between the two.

The Rice Owls will enter two men in the competition but cannot be considered for the championship which is awarded on a five man team basis. Neither can the Owls, under the rules, affect the scores of the Aggies and Longhorns, although their runners can race for individual medals.

An interesting feature of the meet will be the entry of three Wildons, each representing a different team. George (Mule) Wilson, of the Longhorns, won first place in the past year's conference race and is out to repeat again this year. Wearing the Owl colors again will be Vernon Wilson who placed second the past year. "Hub" Wilson, a sophomore, will represent the Wilson name for the Aggies.

The coming meet, the fifteenth in conference history, finds the Aggies and Longhorns with five championships each to their credit with a tie between the two having resulted in 1933. The Aggies have a slight edge in the championship picture, however, as they tied with the Owls in 1928 and won the trophy on a coin flip.

Record of conference harrier meets is as follows: 1920, Oklahoma Aggies (no longer in conference); 1921, Texas Aggies; 1922, Texas; 1923, Texas; 1924, Texas; 1925, Texas Aggies; 1926, Rice; 1927, Texas Aggies; 1928, Texas Aggies and Rice Owls (tie); 1929, Texas Aggies; 1930, Texas Aggies; 1931, Texas; 1932, Texas; 1933, Texas Aggies and Texas (tie).

Entries for the meet probably will be as follows: University of Texas Longhorns—George (Mule) Wilson, Capt. Joe Storm, Buren Edwards, Woodrow Finely, Remus Thomas, Tolbot Field, Mitchell Stark.

Texas Aggies—Capt. Roy Langley, Hunter Parks, "Hub" Wilson, Jess Hlevins, Van Davis, Jack Crickton, and Val Forsyth. Rice Owls—Vernon Wilson and Bevis Frazier.

Crow Indians Want Buffalo

HARDIN, Mont. (UP)—Inspired, perhaps, by success of its famous experiment with importing reindeer herds for the American Eskimo, the government intends to launch a similar program on the Crow Indian Reservations.

Superintendent Robert Yellowtail, full-blooded Crow leader, believes a similar experiment with buffalo may work out beneficially for the Crows.

Yellowtail said he had been promised by the government 50 head of buffalo cows and two buffalo bulls from the Yellowstone Park herd.

The park bison would be transported to the Big Horn Canyon range on the reservation, and in time, Yellowtail hopes, the bison will multiply sufficiently to take care of a large portion of the Crows' food and clothing problems, just as the reindeer have for the Eskimos.

Paradoxically, before the white man invaded their domain, the Crows subsisted almost entirely on buffalo meat, wild herbs and used the bison skins for clothing. If the scheme works, history again will "repeat" itself.

BUYING ON MARGIN, LIKE CREDIT, ESSENTIAL—PECOIRA

TOLEDO, (UP)—"Radio, automobiles, real estate—all are bought on margin—why not stocks and securities?" So inquired Ferdinand Pecora, attorney and firebrand on the late senate banking committee investigation, now a member of the new securities and exchange commission, in an address here.

Pecora indicated speculation and trading on margin would still be permitted, but that regulation would be exacted. Buying securities on "margin" he views as buying on "credit," and "credit" is so thoroughly a part of modern economics that he sees no reason why it should not be used on the stock exchange.

"But the federal reserve board has power to regulate minimum margins, and this power, if wisely exercised, should operate to keep out the small speculator, the 'piker,' who has no business there anyway," Pecora said.

BULLETS HALT GARAGEMAN'S PERFECT SOLITAIRE GAME

CLEVELAND, (UP)—Bullets interrupted Frank Patton's perfect game of solitaire.

Police, answering a call early one morning from Patton, found him at his garage and service station, slumped by the telephone, with a wound in his abdomen. Police found on his desk an unfinished solitaire game which could easily have been won.

Before he lost consciousness, Patton murmured, "I was slow in putting them up—they drilled me." From other incoherent mumblings they gather it was two young, swarty men. Twenty dollars was missing from the cash register. He was wounded seriously.

Texan's Hobby Runs To Clocks

AUSTIN, (UP)—Clocks—old clocks, new clocks, grandfather clocks, imported clocks, a calendar clock and the clock the mouse runs up—all are contained in the collection of 21-year-old Marvin Wright here, whose lifetime hobby has been to collect rare timepieces and see what makes them tick.

Wright has 13 clocks in all, five in the living room, three in the dining room, one in a bedroom, and four noisy models in the garage. He began at three and has continued experimentation with clocks until his collection is worth more than $1,200, although its net cost was less than $50.

The perpendicular mouse clock is numbered from bottom to top, with a tiny white mouse pointing the correct time. The piece is about 25 years old. Wright owns a hand-made French clock, imported to Texas while the territory was a Mexican possession. Five others accompanied it. One burned in the old Texas state capitol. One has disappeared, and the others are in private collections here.

Negroes Make Hospital Plans

CLEVELAND, (UP)—A plan for hospitalization of the Negro race in America is being launched here by the Rev. Amos H. Carnegie, New York, who proposes to raise $150,000,000 in the course of 20 years through private taxation of colored people.

The program would take care of a hospital here to take care of Cleveland's 90,000 Negroes and offer facilities for training nurses, internes and promoting of social work. The Rev. Carnegie is highly pleased with his visit here, in which he sounded out public sentiment on the plan among both whites and colored.

Tong Dedicates New Quarters

PORTLAND, Ore. (UP)—To the music of cymbals and drums, the deafening roar of 65,000 firecrackers and the ancient symbolism of the loon dance, Portland's Chinatown dedicated its new Gee How Oak Tan Association headquarters. Chinese came from all over Oregon, Washington and California for the celebration, one of the most elaborate held here in 50 years.

The association numbers about 400 Portland Chinese, both American and foreign-born, who are members of the Chin Woo Yuen family tong. Heading the list of Chin dignitaries who came for the dedication was Chin Doon Puk, San Francisco, president of the Chin Woo Yuens in America.

More than 3,000 years ago the family came into being when three men knelt before their great god, Di Soon, and swore they would be brothers. Today their descendants make the Chin Woo Yuen family one of the largest. The Portland branch is one of the three largest in the United States, and the biggest in the city.

Di Soon, so legend says, started in life as a farmer and lived so righteously and was so kind that even the birds and beasts aided him in tilling the soil. Di Soon's reputation reached the mighty Emperor of China, Do Yew, and on investigation he stepped aside and made Di Soon ruler of the kingdom, the tale goes.

To enclose the field, which is 510 by 330 feet, with a seven and a half foot wall, CWA workers made 75,000 adobe bricks. They are slabs much larger than the usual commercial brick.

Selecting and Preparing Bird
The bird you select should be plump, with a full broad breast. For a family of six or eight, a 10-pound bird is the ideal size.

Chop off the tips of the wings, feet, and all but a few inches of the neck. Singe and pull out all of the pin feathers, wash carefully, and dry thoroughly. Clean gizzard and remove gall bladder from liver. Rub inside of the turkey with one tablespoon of salt, and stuff.

Stuffing and Trussing
Begin by placing stuffing in the neck end, using enough to fill the skin. Fold the wings close to the body and hold them by inserting a skewer through each wing and body and wing on opposite side. Do this the same way with one

DON'T LET COMMON CONSTIPATION DULL THE JOY OF LIVING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation takes the sunshine out of your days. It may bring headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, sallow skins, pimples.

Fortunately, you can avoid this condition by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to help overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than dosing yourself with patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

skewer. Cross the drumsticks and tie with a cord fastened to the tail. Draw the skin over the neck and fasten to the back with a skewer. Mix together 1-2 clove crushed garlic, 1-2 tablespoons salt, 5 tablespoons melted butter or drippings, and 2 tablespoons of flour. Rub this over outside of turkey.

Cooking
Lay the turkey, breast down, in an open baking pan. Place in moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit). When brown, turn on its back, basting every few minutes with 1 cup hot water or stock and 1-4 cup melted butter. If turkey is browning too fast, cover with white greased butcher paper to prevent burning. Cook 25 minutes to the pound. If the oven is electric, place the turkey in cold oven and turn the switch to baking temperature. Cook 25 minutes to the pound. Do not baste.

Oyster Stuffing
18 oysters and juice, 3 cups bread crumbs, wet and squeezed, 4 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon parsley, 1 sprig thyme, 1 bay leaf, 3 tablespoons sage. Salt and pepper to taste.

Drain the oysters; wet the stale bread with hot water, squeezing thoroughly. Put butter in frying pan, heat and add onions. As it begins to brown, put in the chopped parsley and bay leaf, and then add the bread, which has been mixed well and seasoned with the chopped sage. Mix well. Stir, blending all thoroughly. Now add the cup of oyster juice as it is reduced. Add oysters.

Plum Pudding
1-2 lb. bread crumbs, 1 lb. raisins, 1-2 cup molasses, 1-2 pound currants, 3 eggs, 1-4 pound orange peel, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 1-2 lb. suet, 1-4 lb. citron, 1-2 oz mixed spices, 1-2 pound Imperial sugar, 1-4 lb. lemon peel, Pinch of soda, a little salt.

Mix the dry ingredients and add the liquids. Add a little more milk if the mixture should go too firm. Steam in molds, or boil in cloths (steaming is much preferable to boiling). Divide into four puddings and steam or boil for 3-1-2 hours. Plum pudding should be served with a good brandy sauce. But as this can not be bought in some states, a hard sauce may be substituted.

Meat Specialties Easy To Prepare

High in food value, low in price, and yet the meat specialties are slighted so often when it comes to planning meals simply because many housewives are not familiar with them and know little about their preparation. "There is nothing hard about the preparation of meat specialties," says Inez S. Willson, home economist. "It is all in knowing how." Here are directions for preparing some of the most common meat specialties.

Liver
Calf, beef, pork and lamb livers are all used. These are all especially valuable in the diet, because of their protein, mineral and vitamin content.

Liver may be broiled, fried, braised in casserole, or made into loaf or patties.

Sweetbreads
Sweetbreads are considered a great delicacy in most sections of the country. As soon as received, plunge them into cold water and let them soak for an hour. Cook them slowly for twenty minutes in water to which 1 teaspoon salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar have been added for each quart. Drain and again plunge into cold water to make them firm. Remove any little strings or membranes. These are easily detached after parboiling. The sweetbreads are then ready to be prepared in any one of the many ways in which they are served.

The usual methods of preparing sweetbreads after parboiling are: Broiling, creaming, rolling in cracker or bread crumbs and frying, baking, braising with or without vegetables, heating in tomato sauce, or combining with vegetables in a salad.

Brains
Brains are cooked in acidulated water, just as described for sweetbreads. Then any membranes should be removed.

After parboiling, brains may be broiled or panbroiled, fried in deep fat, creamed, scrambled, or heated and served in tomato sauce.

Hearts
Beef, veal, pork and lamb hearts are all used. They should be soaked in cold salted water for an hour. Then they may be sliced and fried, stuffed with savory bread dressing and baked, or braised in a casserole dish. When baked, a few slices of salt pork or bacon may be laid across the top to keep the heart moist.

Tongue
Tongue, either fresh, corned, smoked or pickled, offers great resources for different dishes. It may be fried, baked, or braised, but whatever the method, it must first be prepared by cooking in water.

Wash the tongue in cold water, cover with hot water and cook slowly until it is tender. Remove the skin. This comes off most easily when it is hot. If the skin does not come off easily, the tongue is not done, so return it to the water and cook it longer.

Tongue may be served either hot or cold, and is especially good when served with spicy sauces.

Kidneys
Kidneys should be soaked from two to three hours in cold salted water. Then they may be fried, broiled or combined with vegetables in a stew.

Kidneys are often served with a highly seasoned sauce.

PURITAN PREACHER SUCCEUMBS TO COLD OF COLONIAL WINTER BECAUSE OF BUNDLING HATE!

The first member of the New England clergy who attempted to put a stop to that "pernicious practice," known to our forefathers as "bundling," was mobbed by irate mothers and met his death because an outraged father objected to the vitriolic attacks on the tradition! The clergyman was the Reverend Seth Pethwick of Rockingham county, New Hampshire, and he is the prototype of Squibb Banker the puritanical blue-nose in Paramount's new comedy of the Revolutionary War, "The Pursuit of Happiness," in which Francis Lederer is starred. The picture, adapted from last year's sensational Broadway "bundling" play by Lawrence Langner and Armina Marshall, comes Saturday midnight matinee to the Ritz Theater.

The Reverend Seth Pethwick was a voice crying in the wilderness back in 1770. A Congregationalist preacher, he gave up his pulpit to roar down sin over the entire New England countryside. Bundling was his personal devil and he waged a long, hard fight to oust the practice from the homes of the colonists.

But, in those days, bundling was almost the cornerstone of the social structure. Since the settlement of the colonies in the 1600s, bundling had been resorted to by each generation as a means of courtship during the long, hard, cold New England winters. Its protagonists claimed that without it there would be too many spinners, too many roving men and that love would have died of exposure. Incidentally, of course, bundling saved firewood!

As a result of Mr. Pethwick's tirades, he was mobbed at least once, was hooted out of town by women who were not reluctant to beat him with clubs or to shy clods and stones at him, not all of them missing their mark.

It was natural that the mothers of New England should resent Mr. Pethwick's campaign against their pet tradition. It was thus that they themselves had won their husbands. Any declaration of the evils of bundling necessarily must insinuate evil intent on the part of the women concerned. No wonder they were up in arms!

Women Stoned Him In Newton, New Hampshire, Mr. Pethwick learned that he must not tittle with the women of the countryside, for because of his insinuations against the morals of their daughters, the clergyman was driven out of town and stoned.

In the winter of 1778, Mr. Pethwick made his last stand, before the farmer folk of Essex, in the midst of the coldest winter in years. On his travels he arrived one evening at the home of a farmer whose name escaped the historians. He was a wealthy farmer with three daughters and much worldly goods.

On this night the daughters' suitors were all present. Early in the evening tied in their "bundling bags", the younger daughters went to their rooms with their suitors. But the eldest daughter retired to her room alone, leaving her suitor to make his bed by the fireside in the main room. Then the father, not realizing the calibre of his ministerial guest, told Mr. Pethwick that he might bundle with the eldest daughter, Charity.

He'd Rather Stand! Mr. Pethwick, as might have been expected, went into a rage. He attacked bundling, the morals of the community and even called down the wrath of God upon his host and daughter.

THE RED & WHITE STORES

Marian Gordon

by JEANNE BOWMAN

Chapter 42
DISTURBED RENDEZ-VOUS
 The Steele apartment was dark. Marian hadn't expected that. At a moment she called the manager. "Of course, you can go in, Miss Marian," he said. "I know Mrs. Steele would want you to."

That was even better, Marian decided, and as soon as they had finished gossiping about tenants she had known when she lived there she hurried to the telephone and called the Oakmers.

"Mr. Hamlin!" Marian felt a sense of relief from her nervous tension in the calm, easy tone of his voice.

"I'll be right over," he assured her.

While Marian waited for him, she went into the little mirrored cubicle, and assumed the privileges of an old friend.

She brushed her hair vigorously, then pulled it into smooth waves, powdered her nose, dabbed at her lips, straightened the frock she wore, looked down in surprise to find the lilac angora she had worn the night she flew to Reno. She had grabbed at the first warm dress in her wardrobe, scarcely realizing what she chose. And then she heard the buzzer.

"She waited at the door for Hamlin to come up, saw him step from the elevator and walk down the hall towards her and for the first time realized what a handsome man he was.

Some of the wonder of it was in her eyes as she greeted him. She had been so blinded by her love of Lon, in Reno, that she had scarcely seen Hamlin.

"It's nice to see you again," he said in greeting, gripping her hand in a firm clasp. "Aren't you glad to have seen you before but—"

"I know," he said, "your husband sensed the admiration I had for you, and didn't want to put me to a test."

Marian's cheeks flushed scarlet. "I—I really didn't know... I think you're being kind..."

"Don't feel badly about it, I don't. But you see, Miss Marian, or Mrs. Casad, I should say, one rarely meets a girl nowadays with such a fine sense of honor."

"That's just it," Marian interposed eagerly. "I've lost that sense of honor. I intend to be thoroughly dishonorable, and I want you to help me. I have to convince Cliff Hamlin that it was my lie that saved his life, and not Silver."

"And I suppose you're doing that just to throw a little glory on yourself," he suggested whimsically.

"No, oh no," and then realizing he was laughing kindly, she added, "it's for someone else. It seems to be for many people, but to be honest it is for my husband."

"Has Silver carried out her threat to win him away from you?" he asked, interested.

"Did you know about that?" she asked in surprise.

"Oh yes, she confided in me. Told me he was the only man she could ever love. I told her that because he was probably the only man she'd ever wanted and couldn't have."

"But it isn't that," Marian insisted. "I wouldn't fight to try to hold a man's love. It's more serious, oh so much more serious."

"Mr. Hamlin, did you realize there was one page of the letter that I believe you slipped into my pocket, that we didn't read, that evening?"

"No I didn't, what did it contain?"

"Evidence that would have put Silver's father, Mr. McSwain, in the penitentiary."

"You say, 'would have.' Did you lose the letter?"

"It was stolen from me, and the only way I can replace the evidence is through Cliff Hamlin and until he knows he doesn't owe his life to Silver, he won't talk."

"That should be easy to do. I mean convince Mr. Hamlin that he is wrong. Can we call him here?"

"No, he is in the Islands and my time is limited."

"McSwain is trying to strike at me through my husband, Wait... there's the buzzer," Marian lifted a hand for silence, and listened. The buzzer gave the code signal the Casads and Steeles had adopted, three short and one long ring.

Anne must have noticed the light, perhaps she had forgotten the key. She released the hall door, then stood at the apartment door waiting for the elevator. She would have to explain Hamlin's presence.

The elevator changed to a stop and from it stepped Lon Casad. In two strides he had reached her, drawn her into his arms. "Had me worried," he was saying, "thought you might be sick, coming here to see Doc." He stopped. He was looking over her shoulder, into the room where Hamlin stood waiting.

"Oh," he dropped his arms, then said to Marian, "I see you didn't need the address."

"Lon," Marian looked with pleading at her husband, "don't jump to conclusions."

"I asked Mrs. Casad to meet me in some convenient place to discuss a business matter," Hamlin said in an easy manner. "I hope you don't object."

"It probably wouldn't matter if I did," Lon returned ungraciously, then to Marian, "I thought you didn't want to come into town."

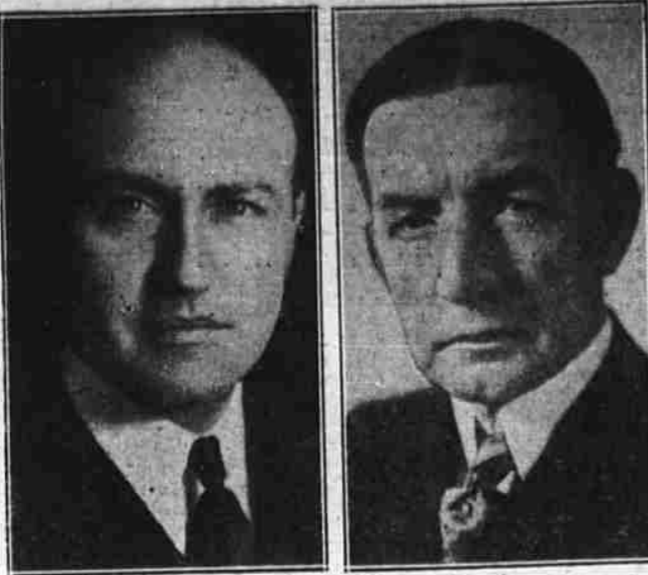

"I didn't when you asked me, but I learned later that Mr. Hamlin was here and I wanted to talk to him."

"At least it seems to be mutual," Lon said, then laughing, "been playing the tables lately, Mr. Hamlin?"

"No," answered Hamlin bewildered.

"I didn't imagine you were, you'd be losing, you know. You

RFC SUES FOR 'DAWES LOAN'

Attorneys for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation filed suit in federal court in Chicago against the 4,000 stockholders of the Central Republic Trust company of Chicago to determine their liability in connection with nearly $60,000,000 allegedly unpaid in connection with an $80,000,000 loan, known as the "Dawes loan," made by the RFC to the bank in 1932. Among stockholders named was Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president in active charge of the institution, said the suit did not necessarily mean a receivership for the bank. (Associated Press Photos) said in Reno you only won when you were unlucky in love."

"Lionel Casad," Marian's temper had flashed into action, "you act like a silly school boy. Mr. Hamlin is ready to do us both a great service and you're trying to insult him."

She closed the hall door and turned to face the two men.

"Now sit down and let's talk this over. No," to Mr. Hamlin, "haven't been able to discuss it with Lon. Wait" as she heard a noise in the hall.

She went to the door, opened it and stepped back. Silver had been there.

"I didn't know you intended spending the evening," she began, then, seeing Marian, she added,

Hamlin sensed the situation and the sardonic gleam in his dark eyes deepened.

"Run along, children," he said; "and, by the way, Silver, as I said to you in Reno, you can't have that man no matter how much you want him, while he has a wife like this one."

"Is that so," flashed Silver, and flounced from the room in anger, linking her arm in Lon's and dragging him with her.

Hamlin took this opportunity of speaking to Marian. "I'll get in touch with you," he promised, and added, "don't worry."

Lon and Silver waited for Marian in the hall, and when she joined them the three went silently down to the car.

"And a good time was had by all," laughed Silver, as Lon helped her into the car first.

Marian said nothing. She sat on the outside, her mind a chaotic whirlwind of worry, jealousy and anger. She turned once to wave at Hamlin, who had followed her from the apartment, then turning back, was conscious that Silver was snuggling close to Lon.

When word was flashed from a fishing boat that bodies of two persons, victims of thirst and starvation had been found on a lonely and waterless island in the Galapagos group in the mid-Pacific near the equator, attempts were made to learn their identity. That one of the bodies might have been that of Mrs. Arthur Wittman (third from left at right), who with eight other persons lived on the old convict island of Charles, was indicated by the finding of a packet of letters signed by her. Others living on the island included the Baroness Elzise Bonquet de Wagner of Vienna (left), who disappeared last June, and the group with Mrs. Wittman at right, left to right: Dr. Frederick Ritter; Capt. G. Allan Hancock, and Mrs. Wittman's son. (Associated Press Photos) lora, too many milk sheds wholly within states. Milk magnates are more afraid of Dan Tobin than they are of NRA. Tobin, head of the Truckmen's Union, is out for organizing milk drivers on a national scale. A conflict between labor and agriculture develops in the milk code controversy. Milk workers have had a raise of 8 per cent while farmers selling milk have seen no such raise. They accuse labor of hogging the benefits of the AAA marketing and licensing system. Milk is under a double-gear federal system. As a farm product it comes under AAA and as an industry it comes under NRA. The proposed NRA milk code relates only to labor and leaves the farmer holding the can.

Choice—

Europe doesn't like the joker in our latest proposal for an international agreement controlling munitions of war. The joker is that Uncle Sam suggests manufacturers be licensed and regulated along with those who sell, import or export. But from the American viewpoint it is no joker. It's a very serious proposition because— If the major world powers agree it would mean definite limitation of the number of guns any nation could manufacture and hold in reserve. It would bring about international disarmament far more effectively than all of the proposals made to date for limiting naval strength and land forces combined.

As suggested to the League of Nations steering committee at Geneva by American Minister Hugh Wilson, an international regulatory commission would be set up. Such a commission would have the right to send investigating committees into any country under diplomatic immunity and determine whether war materials were being secretly manufactured and stored. All the thinly concealed military training activities of Europe would be of little avail if the men and boys thus trained weren't backed up by an adequate reserve of powder and shells.

Word comes from deep inside the State Department that Minister Wilson has been instructed to adopt a take-it-or-leave-it attitude. If they leave it the inference is that Washington is pretty well fed up with efforts to negotiate world disarmament.

Lords—

On the other side of the fence Europe can present a fair alibi for shying away. Back in 1925 the League put forward a proposal for licensing of sales, exports and imports. The major powers indicated they would sign up if we did, and for seven long years they tried to sell the idea to Uncle Sam. Until 1932 our statesmen contended such regulation would violate the Constitutional rights of our shot-and-shell industry. Then former Secretary of State Stimson discovered one day that Supreme Court decisions regarding the slaughter of migratory birds—and this is serious—made it possible for the government to control commerce in munitions.

Former President Hoover failed to sell the idea to Congress but Mr. Roosevelt did last May. Now, having adopted the 1925 convention, FDR proposes world control of domestic consumption as well. If he catches Hitler, Mussolini and a few other potential war lords asleep he may get away with it.

Solomon—

As predicted here some time ago would happen, the book worm has taken a big bite out of Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes. His maiden effort, "The New Democracy," has run into several editions so you may as well widen out your 50-foot New Deal bookshelf. He's working on a new book, this time about public works.

NEW YORK By James McMullen

Test—New York insiders say there was more to the suspension of Home Owners' Loan applications than a mere shortage of funds to take care of them. Congress would gladly have appropriated more at a nudge from the White House—and may do so anyhow. The move is primarily significant because it provides the first major test for the sincerity of financial cooperation to promote recovery. A top-flight banker puts it this way: "We've been yelling all along for the government to do less spending and lending. Now FDR has called our bluff. He has put it squarely up to us to take up the slack caused by government withdrawal from the home loan field.

He's making it as easy as he can. We even get the break of a government guarantee on mortgages. If we can't do a good job on those terms we won't have much of a kick coming if Uncle Sam has to step back into the picture." Realization that they're being tested has spurred financial leaders to unusual backstage activity. Real estate credit channels are still pretty well clogged up but some of New York's best minds are busily figuring the way to dredge them out without sacrificing sound credit principles.

Mortgages—

Several specific plans are being worked out. One calls for the establishment of one or more federal mortgage corporations—with capital contributed partly by the government and partly by the banks—which would take over large groups of mortgages, either for new housing or rehabilitation, and issue debentures against them. The point is that large banks don't want to be bothered with servicing a large number of small mortgages. It costs about as much to check up on tax payments and maintenance on a two by four house as it does for the Empire State Building. The returns from such mortgages fall to make it worthwhile for the big fellows. But they'd be tickled pink to buy debentures based on a collective group of small mortgages with a government guarantee behind the major portion of the principal. The projected mortgage corporations would take care of annoying details, and financing for the benefit of home owners would be available. Another development you can look for is the establishment of a species of investment trust whose funds are placed exclusively in mortgages. Chances for capital appreciation would be small but income should be steady if proper precautions are observed. If such trusts are launched they will be accompanied by a barrage of recovery publicity.

Utilities—

Some potent utility interests have reconciled to the idea that holding companies are in for a lot of legislative grief. They are even prepared to accept without protest restrictions which would eliminate management rights and reduce the holding groups to the status of mere investment trusts. Their only squawk is that they can't see why it's necessary to rip operating companies down the middle in order to crack down on holding companies.

Clock—

Richard Whitney's observation that the stock market reflects but does not guide economic trends caused quite a stir in Wall Street. It's the first time anyone in authority has admitted publicly that the Stock Exchange is only the hands of the clock—not the works. Wall Street is so accustomed to thinking of itself as the hub of the universe it was quite a shock to have one of its own big-timers testify to the contrary. Keen observers remark it would have helped a lot if the country had realized five years ago that the stock market is a mirror of econ-

TIPS on Contract

Puzzle In Leading By TOM O'NEIL One of the most discussed hands at the opening of the new Algonquin Club in New York involved a risky three no trump contract at which the declarer succeeded by keeping an adversary with a long suit out of the lead. After subsection of the hand to analysis it was decided that the only way to beat it was an opening lead from a tripleton headed by a queen. Here was the hand:

Mrs. Maud Zontlein, North, opened the auction with one heart. East bid two diamonds. South and West passed. North said two no trump suit, South counted on a bit of a fit in hearts and the possible assistance of three diamonds to the jack as a stopper in diamonds in addition to one shown by North's no trump bid. He could find no bid but three no trump. East had no certain re-entry and thought it best to lead his fourth best diamond, hoping that West could help force out the enemy's stopper. The first trick was taken in the North hand with the eight-spot.

North led the ace, jack and deuce of spades. Since he had no more diamonds, West laid off until the deuce of clubs. This was a tactical move—nomie events—and not their cause.

Rivals—

New York gets a kick out of the rivalry between the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers for the administration's favor.

Comment runs that NAMUSA has at least a 5 to 1 edge on its competitor in the matter of conspicuous converts. Five members of the committee which has invited manufacturers to assemble at the Congress of American Industry next month to evolve a cooperative program—E. T. Weir of National Steel, Tom Girdler of Republic Steel, Lamont DuPont of DuPont de Nemours, George Houston of Baldwin Locomotive and E. F. Hutten of General Foods—were vehemently anti-New Deal until recently. They still are so far as labor gains are concerned.

The only Chamber of Commerce director whose conversion is as notable is Silas Strawn. But some folks insist that Mr. Strawn is equivalent to a couple of army corps all by himself.

Sets Race Record

Capt. Fred C. Nelson of St. Paul came in first among nine hand-picked army air corp aviators, all of whom broke the previous record, in a race for the Mitchell trophy at Selfridge field, Mt. Clemens, Mich. He averaged 218.8 miles per hour over the 50-mile course. (Associated Press Photo)

North led the ace of clubs and then finessed the ten spot. After taking with the jack west had to lead to South's king of clubs and the seven of spades took the game-going trick. The contracting partnership made three spades, three hearts, a diamond and two clubs. Had the ace, king and a small diamond been led, North would have thrown the queen on the king so as to create an entry South for a heart finesse. The defense would have taken two diamonds, a heart and a spade. It would have taken the same strikes had there been an opening spade lead by East.

The lead that would have set the contract was the deuce of clubs, West's club nine would have forced the ace. The declarer could not have avoided losing two diamonds, a spade, a club and a heart.

"The Party's Over", Based On Uproarious Broadway Stage Hit;
Midnight Matinee At Ritz Friday

The screen version of Daniel Knefel's delightful Broadway comedy hit, "The Party's Over," will make its local bow at the Ritz theatre Friday night matinee with a prominent cast of featured players headed by the comic Stuart Erwin and Ann Southern of "Let's Fall in Love" fame.

The new film is written in the hilarious vein of "Three Corners Moon," one of the last season's sprightliest comedy-dramas, and depicts the uproarious goings-on in the domestic relations of the Blakely household.

When Brother Bruce, eldest of the Blakely progeny, walks in with his weekly stipend, the family gathers round to divide the spoils—while Bruce holds the bag. It's an ideal arrangement for the rest of the family—the philandering father, the genealogically-minded mother whose one interest in life is keeping up with the ancestors of the Joneses; the frivolous sister in love with her would-be crooner and the young collegiate with a skeleton in the closet of every dormitory. But it's Bruce who pays—and pays!

All goes moderately well until Bruce falls in love with his comely secretary. She reads the riot act to him for playing fall guy for the rest of the family, and he walks out on them. "The Party's Over"—and the fun begins!

Stuart Erwin, as might be surmised in the exploited Bruce while Ann Southern portrays the level-headed, determined secretary who pens the Declaration of Independence for him. In the remainder of the long list of important roles are seen such screen favorites as Arline Judge, William Bakewell, Esther Muir, Chick Chandler and Patry Kelly.

The stage play was adapted to the screen by S. K. Lauren under the direction of Walter Lang. It was produced by Columbia Pictures.

Entertainment at Foran
Tickets are now being sold for "Clubbing a Husband," the play that is to be given at Foran, Friday evening, November 23 at 8 o'clock. The number of merchants from Big Spring, Chalk and Foran have donated things to be given away after the play. The merchandise to be given away has been on display at Dunn's Hardware store, Foran for the past week. In glancing over them I noticed a set of dishes, silk hose, baskets of groceries, clocks, a bedspread, a lumber jacket and many other things. It might be wise to buy a ticket and get your chance on these things. The ladies auxiliary of the Oil Workers Union is giving the entertainment to raise money to help the poor.

Wholesale Beer Dealers Warned

Local wholesale beer distributors who violate provisions of the federal alcohol code after midnight Wednesday will be prosecuted under federal law, Ira L. Cain, Jr., deputy alcohol administrator in Texas, warned wholesalers in Big Spring, after a recent visit in this city. Cain told distributors that numerous violations have been reported and that in the future if they continued he would use his office to prosecute all violators.

Some practices forbidden by the code are cleaning of retail establishments' beer cooling coils by wholesalers; failure to obtain deposits on kegs and bottles, and selling beer on consignment. The code aims at a complete separation as possible of wholesaler and retailer, Cain said.
