For the first time since Lake J. B. Thomas has impounded water, directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District met at the lake Thursday and inspected facilities. Here they are disembarking from the district's 75-foot barge on which they made the trip from the dam to the Big Spring-Odessa intake, some 3 1/2 miles up the lake. In all they made a 10-mile tour on the barge. (See story on Page 8).

Big Four Face Last Blocks To Austria Treaty

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Big Four ambassadors faced up today to the last two major obstacles to agreement on an independence treaty for Austria.

The envoys of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union were expected to settle one issue—the Western demand for return of pre-war oil properties to American, British and Dutch oil interests.

They likely will leave the other problem—a Big Four declaration guaranteeing Austrian neutrality—to be worked out finally by their foreign minister bosses.

The envoys may conclude their work on the treaty draft tomorrow. In that case, the foreign ministers are expected to meet at Vienna late next week to iron out the neutrality declaration and sign the treaty.

The treaty provides for withdrawal of the 70,000 occupation troops within three months after ratification of the pact.

Austria already has announced she will keep to stay out of military pacts or blocs in exchange for recent Soviet concessions on treaty provisions. But she wants a public declaration by the Big Four that they will respect her neutrality, even if they won't guarantee it.

For that protection she expects to depend on the United Nations, since both Russia and the West reportedly have said they will back her claim for U.N. membership.

The oil issue continued to divide not only the West and the Russians, but even more the West and the Austrians.

Consolidation Vote Asked For Lomax

Petition for an election to determine whether the Lomax School District of Howard County shall be consolidated with the Stanton Independent School District was presented to Judge R. H. Weaver this morning.

Jimmy Stallings, a member of the Lomax school board, delivered the petition. He said it contained the signatures of 24 of the 40 qualified voters in the district.

No action had been taken on the petition today, but it probably will be submitted to county commissioners at their Monday meeting. Ten days notice is required for the holding of such an election.

The Stanton district also must hold an election to determine if consolidation would be acceptable.

Jim McCoy, Martin County judge, was in Big Spring today for talks with Judge Weaver and County Supt. Walker Halley concerning the matter. No petition has been circulated in Stanton.

Stallings said it was decided to circulate the Lomax petition following a meeting of school patrons Tuesday night. A poll of the 29 persons attending the meeting showed that 19 favored consolidation with Stanton. 10 wanted to consolidate with the Big Spring Independent School District, one preferred to join the Elbow School District and one favored no action.

The school board member said the Lomax district had messages of welcome from Stanton, Big Spring and Elbow prior to the meeting.

Fate of the dormant Lomax district must be decided this year under terms of the Gilmer Aiken school laws. No school has been conducted for the past two years and the law provides that if an election isn't called the county school board shall determine what will be done with the district.

All of the Lomax students now transfer out of the district, most of them going to Stanton schools on a bus provided by that system.

Mansfield, Fort To Test Roping Skill Here Tonight

Two men with a lightning touch on a lariat and tie rope will pit their skill against each other this evening.

They are Boots Mansfield, Big Spring, seven times world champion calf roper, and Troy Fort, Lovington, N. M., who sacked up the world's title three times himself and breathing hard down Mansfield's back for several seasons.

Time for the event in the Rodeo Bowl west of town is 8 p.m.

Each of the contestants will rope and tie 10 calves. Members of the sponsoring Howard County Roping Club will finish touches on ground preparation Thursday evening. They also ran the 39 calves on hand out of the chute for the first time. Although the large animals, the calves are in good flesh and are considered on the salty side.

Besides the matched event for the two past-masters and their high-priced roping mounts, there will be a jackpot roping in which an estimated 25 or more ropers will try for a share of the fund raised by $10 entry fees. The jackpot is a "sudden death" affair with only one calf to the contestant.

Hindenberg Fire Tragedy Recalled

RIDGEWOOD, N.J. (AP)—"It doesn't seem like 18 years ago today. The awful memory of it seems like only yesterday."

So said Charles Barnes today, recalling that dark, smoky May 31, 1937, when the dirigible Hindenberg, Nazi Germany's queen of the skies, blew up and burned with the loss of 36 lives at Lakehurst, N.J.

But for the grace of God, he said, he would have been among the dead at the Lakeshore Naval Air Station, Barnes, 28 at the time, was a machinist first class attached to the station's airship training school.

The red and black swastika-embellished ship was due to arrive on her first transatlantic flight of 1937 early in the morning.

"There were squalls during the day," Barnes said. "It was risky to try to set down on the Hindenberg cruised around north Jersey waiting out the storm."

"Wording it up, they decided to try to bring her in," he said.

"The main engine, the 800-foot 'flying hotel' was soaked and weighted down by the rain, now coming down in steady torrents.

"Free of us were directly under her huge horizontal rudders," said Barnes. "No lines had been dropped as yet when there was a brilliant light. I felt an intense heat across the back of my neck.

Man Critically Hurt In Fall In Elevator Shaft

Bob Wilson, employee of the Baker Claim Service, was critically injured about 8 p.m. Thursday in a fall down the elevator shaft of the Petroleum Building.

He was carried to Malone and Hogan hospital in a Red Ambulance where attendants said he had an injury to his mouth, a fractured breast bone, and a fractured pelvis.

His injuries are painful, attendants said, but Wilson had a good night and was resting well this morning. His condition is considered satisfactory.

Wilson was working late at the time of the accident. The elevator in the building is usually kept on the first floor of the building at night. Wilson opened the door and stepped into the empty shaft, as the elevator was in use on another floor. He fell 27 feet.

Fire Damages In Business Block Over $25,000

A pre-dawn fire raged for three hours this morning in a Gregg Street business building, inflicting damage in excess of $25,000.

The building, located in the 1700 block, contains five business firms. Most of the damage, however, was confined to City Plumbing Company, where flames broke out.

The fire started in the roof above the plumbing company, firemen said, and it had eaten through the ceiling by the time trucks arrived on the scene. Smoke had spread through the attic over all five establishments.

Firms receiving smoke damage were J. & H. Drug, Jones Super Market, Adair Music, and Good Housekeeping warehouse.

Flames cut through the ceiling and burned fixtures, furniture and equipment in the plumbing company. Top of the building was burned out over the firm.

Firemen got the alarm about 3 a.m. and arrived in time to keep the flames from spreading to the other establishments. There was no way to keep the smoke from spreading, however, as the attic had no fire walls.

Cause of the fire was faulty wiring, according to the fire department report.

Viet Nam Set To Proclaim Itself Republic

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam will proclaim herself a republic if assured recognition by the Western Big Three, a source close to Premier Ngo Dinh Diem said today.

The informant said Diem's government is confident of quick recognition from such non-Communist Asian nations as Japan, the Philippines, Nationalist China, South Korea, Cambodia and Thailand.

At present, this source continued, the only stumbling block to the South's move to throw out chief of state Bao Dai is the attitude of the great powers.

"There is no question of creating a constitutional monarchy as suggested on the United States," said Diem's associate. "The idea is outmoded, unacceptable to the aroused Vietnamese people, and absurd."

Bao Dai would be the logical contender for the throne of a constitutional monarchy. He was the figurehead emperor of the central Indochina kingdom of Annam—a now part of South Viet Nam—until his abdication in 1945. The United States reportedly considered even a figurehead monarch would have a stabilizing influence on the politically fragmented country.

Two Vietnamese assemblies—a 4,000-man national political congress and another congress of 600 local and provincial councilors—met yesterday for removal of the powers of the chief of state. The political congress demanded outright that he be deposed.

The other group called for him to give his powers to Diem until a national assembly could be elected as the supreme authority.

Diem was scheduled to forward the two assemblies' decisions to Bao Dai today or tomorrow.

The former ruler, who has been kidnapping the Vietnamese crisis from his villa on the French Riviera, hurried by car to Paris today to appeal the Western Powers to save his job. French Premier Edgar Faure and his top ministers will meet with Secretary of State Dulles on the Indochina situation tomorrow.

Diem, meanwhile, moved to further reduce Bao Dai's hold on the military. The Premier relieved Col. Nguyen Tuynh Linh as head of the imperial guard and replaced him with Col. Linh Quang Vien, a Diem man.

House Votes To Restore Rigid Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House voted yesterday to restore high rigid farm price supports in a second display of the Democratic leadership's ability to flex its political muscles in defiance of the Eisenhower administration.

As proved to be the case earlier when it voted to cut everybody's taxes by $20, nothing seemed likely to come of this new move—at least this year.

The vote was 206-201 to scrap the flexible system of price supports which Congress approved last year at the urging of the administration. Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) and other Democratic leaders mustered 185 Democrats and 21 Republicans for the bill; voting for the administration were 29 Democrats and 172 Republicans.

At the tense windup, several members switched their votes to provide the winning margin.

Aside from Rayburn's supporters, there were other parallels to the Feb. 25 vote to cut income taxes. In both cases, there was obvious Senate reluctance to go along. It scuttled the tax cut. And in both cases there was the likelihood of a veto, which probably could not be overridden, by President Eisenhower.

The farm bill will carry over into next year's session of Congress, and the Senate may act on it then. It seemed likely to the pigeonhole for 1955.

Basic farm law sets up a standard, called parity, for measuring farm prices. Parity, which fluctuates with general price levels, is designed to give farmers a fair return for their products in relation to their costs.

The law also describes six crops as basic: wheat, corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and peanuts. Under the administration program now in effect, the government is required to support the prices of five basic crops at levels between 82 1/2 and 90 per cent of parity.

Pavlov Really Rang The Bell

BALTIMORE (AP)—Scientists gathered here today to celebrate the founding 25 years ago of an unusual Johns Hopkins University laboratory. You might say it started with the ringing of a bell in Russia.

The bell ringing caused a dog's mouth to water, confirming the now famous conditioned-reflex theory of Ivan Petrovitch Pavlov and thereby opening a vast new field in the realm of human psychiatry.

Today's meeting marked the silver anniversary of the Pavlovian laboratory at the Hopkins School of Medicine. Doctors from as far off as Los Angeles and Mexico City accepted invitations.

One of the only two of three of its kind in this country, the laboratory was founded and is directed by Dr. Horley Gantt, the first American who worked with Pavlov on his bell-and-dog experiments.

On the eve of the two-day meeting, Gantt reviewed in an interview some of the progress made by Pavlov followers since the Russian's discovery.

Essentially, this was that mental and nervous impulses could be detected by bodily reactions.

Pavlov found that if you ring a bell when you offer food to a dog, the dog's mouth later will begin to water in anticipation of a meal even when the bell is rung and no food is offered. The salivary glands have become conditioned to a special reflex.

"Pavlov began with the salivary gland," said Gantt. "We have extended this to the heart and other organs."

In eight books and nearly 200 other pieces of medical literature, Gantt has linked such cases as heart disease, high blood pressure, blindness and sexual impotence to psychogenic, or "mental," cause.

One study, with Doctors Ross A. Dykman and Lester H. Gileman, "has shown that the heart can be conditioned, can learn like any voluntary muscle can, and that cardiac malfunction, like palpitation and high blood pressure, can be produced in the laboratory as a result of stress situations," said Gantt.

In another it was found that conflict and stress situations that have no relation to sex produced such sexual abnormalities as impotence.

Agreement To Arbitrate Is Withdrawn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Striking unions in the Louisville & Nashville Railroad walkout announced in Washington today they are withdrawing their offer to arbitrate the 54-day dispute as a result of the shooting of strikers.

George Leighty, union negotiating chairman, said on an 80-station radio broadcast to the 14-state strike area, the union will insist on a negotiated settlement. He added that prospects for any early settlement appeared dim.

"This is the saddest day of the strike," Leighty said, referring to the fatal shooting last night near Mount Pleasant, Tenn., of 35-year-old Charles Wright, one of the strikers.

Government mediators have been trying for weeks to obtain an agreement to submit the main issues of the case to arbitration for the binding decision of a neutral. Such an agreement was only hours away last night when the fatal shooting in Tennessee occurred.

Another striker was seriously wounded in Kentucky.

Wright, 32, a Louisville & Nashville Railroad worker, was killed last night in an altercation. State and county officers said a Nashville man employed by the railroad signed a statement admitting the shot Wright in self defense.

At Louisville, Ky., police said John Kenneth Nichols Jr., 26, was shot while he and another man were throwing chunks of bricks at the home of a nonstriking L&N worker, Verli Braswell.

The Tennessee Bureau of Investigation said Roy Van Brindley, an employee of the L&N, signed a statement today that he shot Wright near the middle Tennessee community of Mt. Pleasant. Three other men with Brindley were arrested for questioning but no formal charge was placed immediately.

Tennessee Commissioner of Safety W. W. Luttrell said Brindley told officers he and three other men were riding in an L&N truck last night when they were overtaken by a man in an automobile. The automobile rammed into the truck, Brindley said, causing both vehicles to crash. Luttrell said only one shot apparently was fired and it struck Wright.

Wright's death was the first fatality reported in the strike-born railroad strike and the Southern Bell Telephone Co. strike, both of which started March 14.

At Louisville, police said John Braswell, 55, father of Verli Braswell, admitted shooting Nichols. Detectives said they placed no charge against Braswell.

Wright was found dead about 20 feet from his wrecked automobile. A bullet had gone through his head from back to front. The four arrested men were removed to nearby Nashville for questioning by FBI officers.

James Herndon Case Is Set Tentatively

STANTON, (SC)—The case of James Herndon, one of the persons indicted following an investigation of Martin County financial affairs last year, is tentatively set for trial in 32nd District Court at Sweetwater the week of May 26.

Guilford Jones, 11th district attorney, and Ralph Caton, Martin County attorney, made the announcement today. The two prosecutors will be assisted in the case by 32nd district attorney E. D. Mahon of Colorado City.

Herndon, operator of the Rocket Service Company, is under an indictment charging the theft of more than $500 of Martin County funds.

Part of the indictment is alleged charges for services purportedly performed for Martin County, but which the state alleges were not rendered. Jones said the charges were for road work on or about July 13, 1953, which the state alleges was never performed.

Several persons were indicted last year after investigations of Martin County and Grady School District financial affairs. James McMorris, former judge of Martin County, is the only one who has been brought to trial in any of the cases. He was convicted on one charge and pleaded guilty to two others and is now serving a penitentiary sentence.

Indictments still are pending against County Commissioner Joe Froman, former commissioners Oliver Vaughn and Stanley Lewis, and against M. H. and Whit McMorris, brothers of the former judge.

State Education Chief Holds Decision In Irving Squabble

AUSTIN (AP)—Decision on the complicated and controversial case of Dr. John L. Beard, deposed superintendent of Irving schools, persisted today in the hands of State Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar.

Edgar took Beard's appeal under consideration yesterday after 21 hours of hearing over a three-day period on the pros and cons of Beard's firing.

The commissioner said his decision might be delayed until several other legal questions are answered. His basic problem will be to decide whether the board was justified in dismissing Beard.

Edgar said he wants to find out the legal effect of the abolition of the Irving School District had on Beard's firing of a appeal. Irving voters did away with the district in protest against the Feb. 16 firing.

A new district was created by a later election, and a majority of the present board is considered sympathetic to Beard although it is maintaining an official position of neutrality.

The situation may be further complicated tomorrow when another election is held, this one to name the board for the next school year. Two plates of candidates, one pro-Beard and the other anti-Beard, are fighting for control.

Edgar reserved the right to direct Beard to make a claim to a board in power, something Beard has not done since he was discharged. Edgar also said he might require that the board act on such a claim before he would consider Beard's appeal.

In the event, the board recognized Beard's claim, a decision by Edgar might become unnecessary.

Before terminating the hearing, Edgar called on Beard's attorney, Bascom Thomas, to state the exact nature of the relief sought by the 33-year-old school administrator.

"That the board be directed to restore Dr. Beard as superintendent or to pay him to the end of his contract," replied Thomas.

Beard was drawing $9,000 a year and his contract still had about two years to run at the time of dismissal.

Edgar did not say how long it

Soviets Pushing For Family Life

MOSCOW (AP)—Men who divorce their wives for having girl babies are being denounced these days in the Soviet press.

So-called men who obligate their wives to sign such rules of behavior as: "Don't insult your husband and, if he insults you, don't answer."

The denunciations show up in such varied publications as Krokodil, a satirical magazine, and the provincial newspaper Pravda of the East, published in the Central Asian republic of Uzbekistan.

This appears to be part of a growing moral drive and at the same-time an attack on what are called "feudal customs"—especially the attitude of Soviet Moslems in some of the remote republics toward their women.

On the moral front, the Soviet press is demanding a tightening of family life; even Communist party leaders are being called publicly to account if they stray.

Krokodil tells about two scientist brothers named Gaik and Mnatsakan and the physician wife to Gaik, the younger.

The wife gave birth to a girl baby.

Gaik was angry about this and told his brother:

"How could she do this to me? After all she herself is a baby doctor and she should have been able to bear a son."

The brothers would not accept the wife's hopeful expression that perhaps her second child would be a boy.

So they wrote out a set of rules for the wife. They included "Obey not only your husband, but also all other members of his family" and "Don't have any more children in the next four years (because of fear that these also would be girls)."

Even though the wife signed, Gaik divorced her.

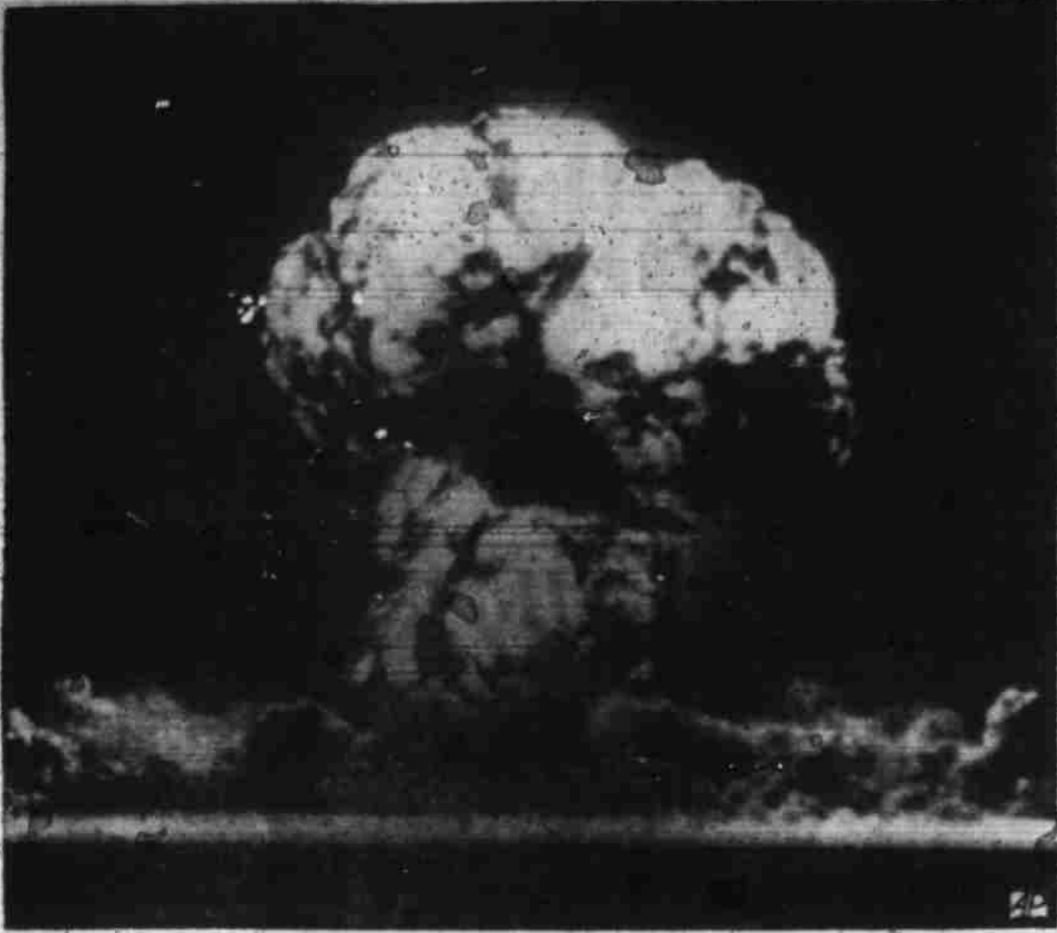

Pravda of the East denounced a Communist official named Ismailov for writing what it called a feudal code of behavior for his wife to sign. This document included such demands as:

1. Respect the relatives of the husband (that is, be their servant also).
2. Do not dare approach him because of the size of his income.
3. Do not reveal secrets.
4. Do not complain.
5. Bring up the children yourself.

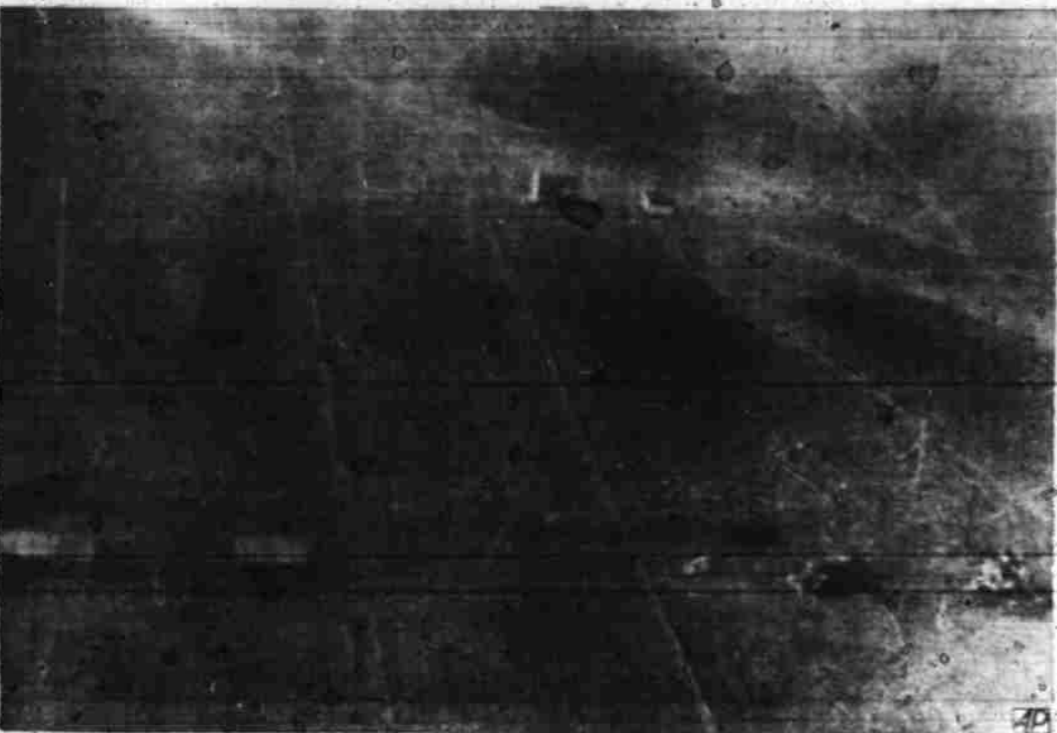

Ismailov tried to get his first wife to comply with these rules, the newspaper said. Then he left her and tried another. With the two wives, he had three children. Then he abandoned all of them.

"Unfortunately," said Pravda of the East, "the Communist party committee gave Ismailov only a reprimand."

9 Men Die As Fire Destroys Skid Row Flop House In Chicago

CHICAGO — A flash fire tore through a West Madison Street Skid Row flop house early today, killing nine men. Twelve others were injured seriously. It was the third disastrous fire in the same neighborhood in nine days. On April 28 eight persons were killed in a walkup hotel fire and four others in a blaze in a nearby rooming house.

Today's extra-alarm blaze in the Comfort Hotel at 219 W. Madison St. was brought under control within an hour.

The bodies were found on the upper floors of the five-story brick building. Seven of the nine dead were tentatively identified by James G. Casey, hotel clerk at the Cook County morgue.

Firemen searched the ruins for several hours but no additional bodies were found.

Firemen said the hotel contains about 300 cubic feet, about 8 by 7 feet, separated by corrugated iron with chicken wire tops, over its residents.

The blaze was confined to the second and third floors of the building. The first floor is occupied by a restaurant.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined. Fire Marshal Arthur Peterson estimated damage at $5,000.

Peterson said most of the dead and injured suffered smoke inhalation and most of them were asleep in their tiny, 50-cent-a-night cubicles.

The injured were taken to Cook County Hospital.

Al Reese, 50, a clerk at the hotel, said there were 77 men in the building when the fire broke out about 1 a.m. He said the first saw smoke pouring from a second-floor room behind his office. He said he pounded on the door of the room but got no response. Then he pulled the fire alarm and started banging on doors until someone got out. He said he called the telephone operator but he couldn't finish telling her about the fire because the smoke was choking him.

Fast action by policemen Eugene Reynolds and Robert Becker was credited with saving the lives of several men. The policemen, said they ran into the building when they saw smoke. They said they reached the third floor shouting "Fire." Heavy smoke drove them back. Reynolds said they aroused about 25 men.

About 20 men were carried down ladders by firemen. Two others jumped from windows and were injured.

One man perched on a fourth-floor ledge for several minutes before firemen reached him.

Solon Urges Salk Distribution Law

WASHINGTON — Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking Committee said today some legislation is needed to make sure the Salk polio vaccine is distributed properly.

He said the federal government should have the power to channel the vaccine first to the children who need it most, including those who can't afford to buy it.

Ex-Presidents' Bill

WASHINGTON — The Senate passed unanimously yesterday a bill to give former presidents an annual $22,500 pension as well as free office space, a staff of assistants and free mailing privileges. The measure, which now goes to the House, would also provide $10,000 a year pensions for widows of presidents.

Correct House Haven Against Nuclear Fury

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE and BILL BECKER
SURVIVAL CITY, Nev. — The Darlings of Doomsday Drive are no more, but a preliminary survey of the atomic-battered test town indicates today that YOU can survive nuclear attack if you have the right kind of home.

The Darling family — smashed mannequins, fortunately — were buried in the explosion of their two-story brick and cinder block house in yesterday's huge blast.

A neighboring one-story frame rambler home on Doomsday Drive also was a pitiful shambles.

But the powerful nuclear electromagnetic net with stubborn defiance from two masonry homes on the same street, only seven eighths of a mile 4,700 feet away. They stood today, hurt but fairly sound, as harbingers of survival in atomic war.

High behind Doomsday Drive, one high communications tower was slashed down and some power line poles were toppled. Trailers were hurled like matchboxes, but a few suffered only broken windows.

Spit-second sequence pictures told the story of scorching heat and blast that doomed the Darlings' brick home and the adjacent frame rambler. They simply blew apart from the terrible pressure.

So did a pumping station standing near a huge tank of propane or bottled gas. But the gas somehow failed to catch fire.

The walls of the brick and cinder block house just blew out and the top floor came shattering down. Two girl mannequins in an upstairs room were crushed under the debris, and the bedroom floor was tilted down at a 45-degree angle to the lower floor. Dummies downstairs were buried.

While the frame rambler burst apart, a special $500 concrete bathroom shelter came through all right. People in it would have been okay. Harold L. Goodwin, test director of the Federal Civil Defense Administration, thinks.

While Survival City's radio station was knocked off the air its transmitter appeared to be intact. Besides the 150-foot tower that toppled, another 200-footer was bent, however.

Goodwin's summary indicated that within a mile and a quarter your chances of survival depend largely on what type of structure you're in. Outside 1 1/2 miles, your chances are good in even a large atomic blast if you take modest shelter precautions. But blast effects were noticeable on structures as far away as three miles.

Solons Surrender Week-End Recess

AUSTIN — The customary long weekend recess was forgotten today by lawmakers pressing to solve the state's tough tax problems and bring this session of the Legislature to a close.

More tax hearings are set for both today and tomorrow, with prospects for still more next week.

The Senate's State Affairs Committee has set this afternoon as the deadline for proposing new levies on which committee policy requires public hearings.

One new proposal — a levy on manufacturers — was presented yesterday. Hearing was not immediately set but was expected to be slated for Monday. It would levy a tax of four mills per dollar on the "value added" to raw material through the manufacturing process of turning it into a finished product. It taxes and charges expenses.

Slated for public hearing this afternoon were proposed taxes on department stores, liquors and metals, chain stores, hotels, motels, and rooming houses.

Tomorrow's hearings are on levies proposed on storage and parking of vehicles; storage of goods, wares and merchandise; jewelry, clothing and fur sales over $100; airline business and real estate sales.

The committee completed hearings yesterday on all proposed taxes already in the omnibus tax bill as it passed the House.

Protesting the tax on premium stamps yesterday were grocers, housewives, filling station operators and a premium stamp company executive.

Among their arguments were claims the stamps are the only effective way small merchants have found to compete with big chains. They claimed, too, the tax would be passed on to the merchant or the consumer because the margin of profit in the trade stamp business could not absorb it.

Taking issue with those points of view were spokesmen for the Texas State Stationery Assn. and Rep. W. R. Chambers of May.

Seeding Gets Less Rain Than Nature, Canadians Claim

TORONTO — Canada's government weather service concluded today that commercial rainmaking experiments in parts of the prairie wheat belt caused less — not more — rain to fall.

The report, written by government meteorologist Warren L. Gordon, confirmed its conclusion on the conditions that prevailed in the tests but it estimated that one seventh less rain fell in areas where clouds were seeded than could have been expected if man hadn't prodded nature.

Gordon Griffin of Brownwood, speaking for the association, claimed the profit margin in the stamp business was "tremendous" and the companies should pay and absorb the proposed tax as their "fair share of the state's tax burden."

Brownwood Accountant Walter Leach presented figures to show stations spent $36,325,906 last year for the stamps they give away with purchases of merchandise to consumers who redeem them for premiums.

In other actions, the House rejected the Senate-passed proposal for a constitutional change to allow the state to advertise. The proposal could possibly be revived, but the 74-58 vote was 26 votes short of the necessary support to pass a proposed change in the Constitution.

A plan to replace the State Board of Water Engineers with a Texas Water Commission won tentative House approval.

The new commission would have six appointive members in place of the present three. An effort to make the commission elective was defeated 66-64. Another House vote was necessary to complete final action.

Convertiplane Test Success

WASHINGTON (AP)—A St. Louis aircraft firm has tested successfully a new military airplane which takes off vertically, moves forward like a conventional craft and then lands like a helicopter.

The Defense Department yesterday disclosed this aeronautical "first" achieved by the McDonnell Aircraft Corp.'s XV-1 convertiplane.

Flown by test pilot John R. Noll, the convertiplane's overhead rotor lifted it off the ground in the same fashion as a helicopter. After climbing to a safe altitude, Noll shifted power from the rotor to a pusher-type propeller behind the cabin and the plane moved forward. In landing, Noll reversed the procedure and the machine settled vertically to earth.

McDonnell thus became the first company to put a convertiplane through a successful air test of the helicopter-plane-helicopter cycle.

The XV-1 is designed to carry three passengers, or two litter patients and a medical attendant, in addition to its pilot.

Aleutian Waters Yield 45 Bodies

TOKYO (AP)—Aleutian waters have yielded the remains of two missing Japanese vessels which disappeared a week ago with 45 men.

The oil-covered bodies of nine crewmen of a missing Japanese research ship were found adrift yesterday. Life jackets identified them with the 15-ton fishery research ship Hatusshio Maru. It had been running around Agattu Island.

Other Japanese fishing boats reported finding debris from the fishing craft Hoko Maru with 21 aboard, it is heard from April 30 when it radioed it was in trouble in Aleutian waters. The Coast Guard said it was "presumed lost with all aboard."

Nun's Flight Told On Video Program

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A nun who in 1952 was "bought" by the Communists made her television debut last night with Claudette Colbert.

Miss Colbert played the role of the nun who survived one of the more harrowing ordeals of all refugees from the Iron Curtain in the CBS-TV Climax series "The Deliverance of St. Cecilia."

As a dramatic surprise, Sister Cecilia appeared on the program with Miss Colbert and preached on American freedom.

Sister Cecilia is now assigned to Holy Redeemer College near Oakland, Calif. Her dramatic flight from the Communists, while dressed as a peasant woman, was the subject of a magazine article a year ago. She is a native of Czechoslovakia.

Neiman-Marcus Libel Suit Settled

DALLAS (AP)—Neiman-Marcus Co. of Dallas has announced settlement of its 7½-million-dollar libel suit that grew out of the publication of "USA Confidential" by Jack L. and Leah L. Spokesmen for the company said yesterday the settlement involved a sum of money, retraction of the libelous matter and a public apology.

The retraction is to be published in both Dallas daily newspapers. The company said the retraction also would be filed in the New York Times.

CRITIQUE

By Glenn Coates

Larry Evans was warmly and enthusiastically received in the Cosden Concert Thursday evening at the City Auditorium. The audience of approximately 500 persons demanded by their applause two different encores.

A reception honoring the Big Spring pianist and his bride-to-be, Miss Mary Georges, was given in the home of Mrs. Neil Frazier after the concert. About 25 persons attended the reception.

Larry Evans' program was varied and studied. He began with Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor." Next was Mozart and the "Sonata in C Major." These composers were probably readily recognized by the audience.

But next came Prokofiev's "Five Sarcasms." Certainly a new one on most of the entertainment-wise, Evans' interpretation of the "Sarcasms" was very good. The third "Sarcasme" is written in two keys. Evans played a different key with each hand. The result rivaled his best performance of the evening.

After the intermission, Evans returned with "Pictures at an Exhibition" by Mussorgsky. The composer was inspired by a memorial exhibition of his friend, Victor Hartmann. The music has a recurring theme, titled "Promenade," which represents the composer strolling from picture to picture. Then each of the works is represented by his impression of what he saw.

The music is now frivolous, then serious as he sees children at play, women haggling at the market-place, and many others. But the climax of the piece is the "Heroes' Gate at Kiev." The music is, at once, masterful and hymn-like with bell effects reminiscent of the early church.

The pace of Mussorgsky requires genius of the caliber of the composer. Evans gave the concertgoers an exciting experience in probably exactly what Mussorgsky had in mind when he composed "Pictures at an Exhibition."

Evans' encores added a delightful "Glopping" to a pleasant evening. The first was Gerahwin's "Prelude No. 3" and after a wildly applauding audience demanded another, Evans returned with a Chopin waltz to conclude a memorable concert evening.

Larry Evans is returning to Big Spring in June after receiving his Bachelor of Music degree at North Texas State College in Denton. When he moves back here, we hope we can look forward to more enjoyable evenings.

Hundreds Riot In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Hundreds of people celebrating Mexico's national holiday — Cinco de Mayo — rioted last night when a policeman arrested three of the celebrants for disturbing the peace. Police wielded night sticks and drew pistols to quell the riot in Cassiano Park. A total of 100 were arrested for drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

A dozen officers were bruised by thrown rocks. However, no one apparently was hurt badly enough to be hospitalized.

Police said the riot started when Patrolman Mike Tijerina put his three prisoners in his squad car and started to drive off. The prisoner in the front seat began kicking him and Tijerina was forced to stop.

The crowd then surged toward the car, throwing rocks, and began shaking it. Tijerina radioed for help and headquarters issued a riot call, sending all available officers to the scene.

Cinco de Mayo commemorates Mexico's victory over the French in 1852.

Rain Creates Farm Jobs

Approximately 35 new job openings have come into the Texas Employment Commission office this week, according to Leon Kinney, manager.

The rain Wednesday night apparently decided many farmers to begin on their crops, because many asked the TEC office for workers Thursday.

Farm families and workers are in demand now, Kinney said. Several of the farm employers requested that the farm hands be able to operate a tractor.

The office has an opening for a young man interested in a permanent retail merchandising position. The applicant should be a high school graduate and preferably have some college training, Kinney added.

Also needed by Big Spring employers are stenographers, bookkeepers, salespersons, an accounting clerk, a practical nurse, full-time care for a child, an experienced drug store cashier, waitresses, cashiers, soda jerks, and kitchen helpers.

The office has more new openings now than at any other time this year, Kinney said. However, there is still quite a few construction workers, guards, and all field workers looking for positions.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A tennis racket used 275 years ago.

The game of tennis was a contest of kings and nobles during early times in Europe. Old records tell of various monarchs who played. One was King Henry VII of England who joined Emperor Charles V of Spain in a doubles match against the Prince of Orange and the Marquis of Brandenburg. That match ended in a tie.

The first Queen Elizabeth enjoyed watching tennis, and her successor, King James I, is known to have urged the game on his children. King Charles I liked to play, and so did King James II.

The game was blamed for the death of two French kings. One of these (Louis XI) caught cold after playing and died. The other (Charles VIII of France) went to watch a match and accidentally struck the lintel of a doorway with his forehead; the old record declares that this brought about his death.

Tennis was known for a time as the "royal game" or "game of kings." To this day the name of "court" in "tennis court" reminds us that it was popular in the royal courts.

In addition, the word still has the old-fashioned game of "court tennis." This makes use of a court 110 feet long, divided in the middle by a net and surrounded by a 30-foot wall. The rules allow the ball to be kept in play after striking the wall.

There are a few dozen places, on both sides of the Atlantic, where court tennis can be played, but many thousands of courts exist for the popular form of the game—lawn tennis. Usually we speak of lawn tennis simply as tennis. It is played indoors here and there, but the vast majority of courts are outdoors.

In closing let me remark that a love match in tennis seldom, if ever, has anything to do with love. The word "love" as used in tennis, grew out of the French word for egg. A person with love as his tennis score has earned nothing, just a goose egg.

Tomorrow: A Pet Lizard.

BARBECUE TONIGHT

DO Students To Entertain Bosses

Diversified Occupations students will put on the feed bag Friday evening in honor of their bosses. In keeping with a practice followed for several years, the event will be an outdoors one with a big barbecue set for 6-80 p.m. at the City Park. W. A. Burdett, the D-O coordinator, said that Nath Allen, who enjoys a wide reputation for his special touches doing the barbecuing.

There will be 33 members of the class together with their employers in attendance, and members of the advisory council, the school board, Supt. W. C. Blankenship, Principal Roy Worley, and Assistant Principal J. B. Whiteley, and instructors in the vocational department will boost the total guest list to around 100.

The vocational department guests include Mary S. Herring, Distributive Education coordinator; Louis Maneely, industrial arts; Truett Vines, vocational agriculture.

The program is informal and will be brief, according to Burdett. There will be introduction of bosses by the students, some short talks, a welcome address, response by an employer, and the invocation by Bobby McCarty before the meal. Robert Broughton, president of the Vocational Industrial Club, will preside.

Other officers will help serve and welcome guests. They are Truman Mason, vice president, Gary Brown, second vice president, Albur Sunday, treasurer, Don Martin, secretary, and Bob Rogers, reporter.

Freighter Released

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The 3,500-ton British freighter, Ingharran, seized Wednesday by guerrillas off the Matsu Islands, was released today, official reports said. The local British consul, Alexander Hermann, will protest the seizure to the Formosa provincial government tomorrow.

City Has State's Oldest Continuous DO Program

Big Spring has the oldest continuous Diversified Occupations course operative in Texas. Next year will mark the 20th season for the vocational program in the Big Spring High School, and during that interval several hundred young men and women have participated.

There were less than half a dozen other D-O programs operating in the state when Big Spring started its course as the answer to need for vocational instruction. All these dropped or had a lapse in the intervening years, but the Big Spring program has continued without interruption.

Numbers of young businessmen, operators of shops and key personnel here got their training in the D-O program over the years. Another thing about the program here is that it has produced several district supervisors, including the late P. A. Seal Buckner, who brought the D-O course here from Georgetown, one of the first such training points in the state, and Joe B. Neely, presently the district head.

The D-O program is based upon half a day in actual classrooms, carrying on part of the regular school work as well as doing special study in related job material.

The afternoon then is spent on the job, mastering the practical application of things learned in class and getting practical instruction from an understanding boss.

Queen Closes Parliament

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II sent Parliament home today to campaign for the May-26 general elections. In a farewell speech she said Britain hopes to "enter into fruitful negotiations" with the Soviet Union now that West Germany is once again a free and sovereign nation.

Britain now will be without a legislature until June 7, when the new House of Commons will sit for the first time. Prime Minister Eden and his Cabinet will continue to run their various departments. They do not resign until after the election—either for Eden to form a new Cabinet if the Conservatives win, or for the Laborites to take over the government if they are victorious.

Saturday Parade To Set Stage For Jaycee-Sponsored Circus

A Saturday morning parade will set the stage for two performances of the combined Bailey Brothers and Cristiani circus here.

The three-ring circus will be presented at 2:30 and 8 p.m. in the Big Spring rodeo bowl. It is being sponsored here by the Jaycees.

The parade will start from the Tarbox Motor Company, at West Fourth and Bell, at 11 a.m. Saturday. It will include several elephants and other animals, clowns and two or more of the Cristiani girls, famed bareback riders.

Prior to the parade — from 10:30 to 11 a.m. — five elephants, the clowns and riders will be on hand at the Tarbox Motor Company. The youngsters of the Tarbox Motor Company will give away 100 circus tickets, to the first 100 children who visit the lot.

The parade will go east on Fourth Street from the car lot to Fourth and Main, then north on Main to Third, back westward to Bell and then return to the car lot. The cannon from which one of the circus performers will be shot during the show, also will be drawn in the parade.

Flora Zucchini is the performer who is shot from the big gun. The 20-year-old performer is shot 65 feet into the air, for a distance of 200 feet. She lands in a net, of course.

Although her day's work is accomplished in a matter of seconds, behind it are months and years of acrobatic experience and a realization of the ever-present danger of broken bones or death which would result from a miscue on landing. Miss Zucchini's father did the act before her.

Half Billion Is Wage Goal

DETROIT (AP)—A half-billion dollars in "reserve funds" to finance a guaranteed annual wage at Ford and General Motors, is proposed by the CIO's auto workers.

Each fund—an unofficially estimated 125 million dollars for Ford and 335 million for GM—would be created by company contributions of 4 per cent of the base payroll over a period of five years.

CIO President Walter Reuther's auto union made its proposal public for the first time yesterday. It was the first indication of what the union's guaranteed annual wage fight cost.

Neither Ford nor GM commented. The union, through a spokesman, said the proposal already has been made to the two companies.

Royal Family Of Circusdom

Several members of the Cristiani family of world famous bareback riders are shown as they will appear at the performance of the combined Bailey Brothers and Cristiani circus here Saturday. Five generations of the Cristianis have starred in European and American circus rings.

Crop-Saving Rains Reported

By The Associated Press
Scattered overnight rains, some of them of the "million-dollar," crop saving variety, were reported in Texas Friday.

Electra, in North Central Texas, reported 1.13 inches which fell from midnight to 5 a.m.

The Weather Bureau said that in the 24 hours ending at 6:30 a.m. Friday, Lubbock had .92 inch of rain, Childress .34, Abilene .15 and Wichita Falls .05.

Menacing thunderheads and a warning from the Weather Bureau of possible widely scattered severe thunderstorms had kept residents of a wide Panhandle-Oklahoma area on the alert Wednesday night. No major disturbances were reported. Temperatures at dawn were balmy, ranging from 73 at Corpus Christi to 50 at Dalhart. Little change in the weather was foreseen for the weekend.

Peron-Church Battle Grows

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Peron's dispute with the Roman Catholic Church neared a head today as the Peronista-dominated Congress studied two measures to break the ties between the state and the church.

The House yesterday received a proposal backed by Peron's party to terminate the Catholic Church as the official state religion.

At the same time a bill was introduced in the Senate to outlaw Catholic religious teaching in public schools. The measure is expected to clear both houses quickly and be signed into law by Peron.

Peron began his running battle with the church six months ago by accusing some members of the clergy of seeking to undermine his regime. The church vigorously denied the charge, both in statements locally and in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano. Eighteen priests have been arrested in Argentina since last November.

Argentine prelates have protested against Peron's efforts to break the ties linking church and state. They contend the church does not oppose division of powers between church and state, but strongly opposes the "moral" separation of the two.

Speedy Colts Set For Race

By ORLO ROBERTSON
 LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The first running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby tomorrow will go to the horse able to carry his speed over the mile and one-quarter of Churchill Downs' oval in close to 2 minutes and 2 seconds.

That was the consensus of the trainers of the hand-picked field of 3-year-old colts as the names of the horses were dropped into the entry box this morning. A field of 10 was expected for this richest of all derbies.

Although it'll be the smallest field since Citation beat five rivals in 1948, the value will gross $132,500, with the winner earning a net of $100,000 if as many as 10 parade to the post for the start at 3:30 p.m. Big Spring time.

Moore, Olson Meet June 22

NEW YORK — If Archie Moore expects to fight Rocky Marciano for the heavyweight title in September, he's doing it the hard way.

After polishing off Nino Valdes, the recognized No. 1 heavy contender, at Las Vegas Monday, Archie signed yesterday to defend his light heavy crown against Bob Olson, the middleweight champ. They will meet Wednesday, June 22, at the Polo Grounds in New York.

Moore, weighed 166½ for the Valdes fight. He'll have to pare down to 175, the light heavy class limit, for Olson in something less than seven weeks.

It could be that Moore eventually will get Marciano in September, barring the unlikely possibility that Rocky might lose to Don Cockell May 16. However, there are stories that Bob Baker, of Pittsburgh, may get the September shot.

Moore has won his last 20. He'll be making a fourth defense of the championship he lifted from Joey Maxim in 1952. Olson has a 21-fight winning streak.

Despite the weight-making problem, Moore undoubtedly will be the favorite.

Corpus Builds League Lead

By The Associated Press
 The reason Corpus Christi keeps leading the Big State League is that its competitors knock each other off. Take Thursday night for instance. Corpus Christi squared off against Tyler with second-place Port Arthur just one game behind.

What happened? Waco beat Port Arthur 6-5. That, with Corpus Christi's 8-3 triumph over Tyler, stretched the Clippers' lead to two games.

Third-place Galveston, plagued by errors, lost 6-4 to Austin and dropped five games behind. Texas City blanked Harlingen 6-0.

Bill Tosheff pitched all the game for Corpus Christi at Tyler, scattering nine hits. Chet Morgan starred yet, but for the Clippers, driving in four runs.

At Waco, the Pirates' nicked Port Arthur with an unearned run in the eighth inning. Roy Sander dropped Herman Cortes' fly-ball in right centerfield after a near-collision with centerfielder Jim Kirby. This let winning pitcher Fred Waters scamper home with the deciding run.

Austin staked over four unearned runs in the ninth inning in downing Galveston in the island city.

At Harlingen, Texas City right-hander, Neil Roberts pitched a 3-hitter at the Capitals. For all practical purposes, the Texans won in the first inning when Bob Faucett singled in Juppit Griffith, who had walked and stolen second.

Friday night, it's Corpus Christi at Fort Arthur, Austin at Texas City, Waco at Tyler and Harlingen at Galveston.

Johnson Opposes Mederos Tonight

PHILADELPHIA — Harold Johnson meets Cuban heavyweight Julio Mederos in one of those "show must go on" television bouts at the Arena tonight.

Johnson, 36, perennial contender for the light-heavyweight title, was slated for a 10-round bout with Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, but the latter was forced to withdraw because of a training injury. Mederos was brought in as a substitute.

There was a time when fights were canceled or postponed when one of the combatants was injured in training. But in the modern fight world, the show must go on. The promoter has a TV commitment.

Harper Pacing Colonial Golf Field With 69

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Chandler Harper, the golf course builder from Chattanooga, led the "Old-Timers" parade into the second round of the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament today.

The halting veteran who's building his own course at Portsmouth, Va., and is making his 21st tour along the tournament trail, posted a one-under-par 69 for the youngsters to shoot at in the opening round of this rich tournament. And he was joined around the top by such long-timers as Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C.; Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill.; Tommy Bolt of Houston and the famed Texas of the links, Byron Nelson and Ben Hogan.

Only Jack Fleck of Davenport, Iowa, a newcomer to the golf wars at 32, and Leo Blaggett of Sandusky, Ohio, around only four years, could uphold the so-called "Youth Movement."

Gene Litter of Palm Springs, Calif., the real standard-bearer of the young army, had a miserable 77.

Harper's iron play was the feature as the man who has done such things as 259 for 72 holes, 189 for 54 and 126 for 36 came in with a stroke lead and then wondered why, with such perfect playing conditions, more hadn't managed to better par over the 7,055-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Chandler shot his fine round despite a 2-stroke penalty suffered when he lost the ball on a tee shot. He used just 30 puts to get around the sub-baked course. One of his puts was for 20 feet and it pulled him out of trouble that had come on the 10th hole where he lost his ball on that tee shot.

Army Of Track Stars In Meet

AUSTIN — The giant Texas Schoolboy Track and Field Meet opened today with a glittering duel between Dallas Sunset and Baytown for the Class AA championship and the possibility of four national records furnishing the major interest.

An army of 800 tracksters had moved into Austin for the 3-day event, with preliminaries starting this morning.

Sunset hung its hopes on the great Eddie Southern, one of the most versatile athletes ever to appear here and who is expected to win three first places.

Baytown has the state's top relay teams—440-yard and mile—and by winning those can make more points than Southern's three possible first places. Thus the championship appears to hinge on what the few other entries the two schools have can do toward winning a point here and there. Relays counted points for first place whereas individual events are worth only 10.

Southern may endanger two national scholastic records. He has run the 120-yard hurdles in 14.1, which is just one-tenth of a second over the national mark set in 1933 by E. L. Bush of Sunset and is just four-tenths over the national record. Southern still will run the 220-yard dash.

Bobby Moshart, Ablete, is accorded an excellent chance of bettering the national 880-yard record. Moshart has sped the half-mile in 1:56.3. That's more than a second faster than the state record set in 1933 by E. L. Bush of Sunset and is just four-tenths of a second over the national mark.

Baytown's mile relay team already holds the national record of 3:19.8 and the state mark of 3:21.0. It did 3:20.1 last week.

A dozen division records are likely with the Sunset-Baytown duel in Class AA, Bowling favored to top the field in Class A and Three Rivers picked to win the Class B title.

Bolling is the choice in Class A.

Rockets Increase Lead In Longhorn

By The Associated Press
 The Rockets increased their hold on first place in the Longhorn League Thursday night to one and a half games as George Payte came up with a solid pitching show.

Two teams tied for second place last.

Roswell beat San Angelo 8-2 behind Payte's 7-hit hurting. Big Spring came from behind in whipping Midland 9-6. Midland and San Angelo had entered the night's play tied for second just a half game back of Roswell.

Rain interfered with the other games. Hobbs beat Carlsbad 5-0 in a match that was called at the end of seven. Artesia was leading Odessa 10-1 at the end of four innings when rain washed it off the books as an official postponement.

Coahoma Drills Come To End

COAHOMA, (SC) — The Coahoma Junior High School football team recently completed 16 days of workouts under Coach Jimmy Smith.

The only returning letterman from last year's team are Randall Reid, Max Kinnerman, David Burris and Doyle Warren. All are linemen.

Other linemen singled out by Smith for progress they showed in camp include Robert Clearly, Jackie Gaines, Paul Ray Graves, Charles Lenderman, Jimmy Watts, Eldon Krause, George Turner, Jr., Carl Reid and Royce Albert.

Among the backs, those showing to advantage included Eddie Allen, Ronnie Mitchell, Harold Albert, Marco Westmoreland, Wesley Honeycutt, Tom Hodnett, Aubrey and Gorman Finley.

Named co-captains for the 1955 season were Randall Reid and Eddie Allen.

The Bullpup schedule: Sept. 8—Sweetwater here. Sept. 15—Open. Sept. 22—Lorraine here. Sept. 29—At Colorado City. Oct. 6—At Sweetwater. Oct. 13—Open. Oct. 20—Colorado City here. Oct. 27—At Lorraine.

Buc First Sacker Lauded By Rickey

PITTSBURGH — Dale Long, Pittsburgh Pirate first baseman, started a triple play, hit three doubles and drove in six runs yesterday but Pirate General Manager Branch Rickey says fans didn't note "the really important thing that stamps him as a team player."

After the Pirates had won their fifth in a row by routing the Milwaukee Braves 9-4, Rickey had this to say:

"Didn't you notice what Long did when Felipe Montemayor, our left fielder, went out to play the sixth inning? Well, I did, and it's mighty important. Long saw Montemayor didn't have his sunglasses. He told Felipe to get them. But Montemayor said, 'Phooey, I don't need them.' Well, sir, Mr. Long held up the game and ran to the dugout to get Montemayor's glasses.

"You can win pennants the long way. But you can't win pennants the Montemayor way. There's a difference, let me tell you."

"His spirit is that of a real ball player. I believe the boy is to stick."

Long, a southpaw hitter, not only had three doubles but hit the ball solidly on his other two tries. One went for a sacrifice fly. Bill Bruton made a diving catch to keep the other from behind an extra base blow.

In the seventh inning, with the bases loaded, Long leaped high into the air to catch a sizzling liner off the bat of Ed Mathews. In a flash, he threw to shortstop Dick Groat, who retired Bill Bruton at second base. Groat then whipped the ball back to first, where Long was waiting, retiring Johnny Logan before he could return to the bag. It was the first triple play of the year in the major leagues.

The 29-year-old Long has been one of the sparkplugs carrying the Pirates to their five-game winning streak. He's currently hitting .364. Of his 16 hits, half have been for extra bases—five doubles and three triples.

He comes from North Adams, Mass.

DATE DATA

By Beverly Brandow

If You Try Hard

Is your life full and happy? Is it bubbling to the brim with your heart's desires? Perhaps. Like many of us, your life is composed of the date that isn't asked for the telephone call that doesn't come, and the after-school job that has always just "been filled."

When now's the time for a change! Success belongs to anyone holding the right claim check. Talent is an asset, but a happy, smiling countenance, self-assurance, and tenacious determination are the main factors.

You've heard that "there's plenty of room at the top." Why? Because so few people have taken the time to develop these important qualities.

Success in any field is not a gift to be given, but a prize to be earned. It is a reward for that. "If at first I don't succeed, I'll try, try again," spirit.

An old-quoted proverb says, "God give me the knowledge to understand that there are some things

I can do and some I cannot, and the wisdom to know the difference between the two."

A yearning desire to do something is a very good indication of your potential ability, actually to do it. An attitude "waiting to" gives us all extra power, self-assurance and undaunted determination. Always yield results. The person who knows he can do what he sets out to do radiates that enthusiasm. His attitude is catching and wherever he goes he infects the crowd with positive thinking in epidemic proportions.

"Genius," said Edison, "is only one per cent talent and ninety-nine per cent determination."

When you want the phone to ring with a prom invitation, or the announcement that you've got your after-school job, don't be licker before you start. Quit thinking and start doing.

Remember the little engine that chugged his heavy cargo up the hill while puffing, "I think I can, I think I can," only to stand victorious on top announcing to the world his secret. "I-knew-I-could, I-knew-I-could."

Prescription for popularity is a free booklet. For yours, write Miss Brandow in care of The Herald enclosing a 3 cent stamp for its mailing.

Graham Movie Is Set For Tonight

"London Crusade," the movie about Billy Graham's evangelistic campaign in England, will be shown at the City Auditorium, starting at 7:30 p.m. today.

The picture was actually filmed in England while Graham was on a three-month tour there. The Bishop of Barking narrates the picture, which is a portrayal of the events as they transpired.

Our scene is of the White City and Wembley Stadium meetings where a total of 200,000 gathered for the closing rallies of the crusade. The campaign is pictured in its entirety.

The picture, which is free to the public, is about an hour long. In addition to Graham, personalities such as Cliff Barrow and the 3,000-voice choir and vocalist George Beverly Shea will be shown.

"The Long Gray Line"

Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara star in "The Long Gray Line" starting Sunday at the Ritz. The film is in Technicolor and CinemaScope. Power plays Sgt. Marty Maher, athletic trainer at West Point, who was friend and "father" to thousands of cadets. The picture has many memorable scenes, the classic graduation of 1815 when Ike Eisenhower finished and the memorable 1913 Army-Notre Dame game when the latter introduced a new mystery play into football, the forward pass.

Austria Medics Fight Addiction

VIENNA (AP)—Top doctors, psychiatrists and social workers are trying to halt a growing addiction to medicines in Austria. Health insurance statistics published recently show that Austria's seven million population consumed more than 320 million pills during 1954. The number of prescriptions for medicines climbed from 5,600,000 in 1950 to nine million last year.

A publicity campaign pointing to too much medicine as an evil is to be started soon. Dr. Hans Hoff, head of the city's psychiatric clinic, says: "Millions of city dwellers are becoming medicine addicts and are worse off than those taking narcotics. A narcotic addict is quite normal when he has taken his drug, but the health of a medicine addict is soon completely undermined and he becomes incapable of leading a normal life."

"On feeling a slight headache, mild indigestion, or sleeplessness, more and more people reach to the medicine cabinet for quick relief. They try to cure themselves by following the advice of advertisements instead of consulting a doctor. That is nearly always a grave mistake, for although the pain disappears, its cause—maladjustment—remains and after some time the symptoms return. This causes people to take more medicine and, in time, they become medicine addicts."

Merchant Readies Mothers Day Party For 350 Elderly Women

LANSFORD, Pa. (AP)—To many, a small merchant in Anytown, U.S.A., Mother's Day could be just another date on the calendar.

But to R. D. Edwards, of Lansford, Pa., (pop. 7,500), it's time for a date with 350 women—and there's no romance involved. Their ages start at 70.

Edwards, a stocky Welshman fondly known as Dick by the townspeople in this little eastern Pennsylvania coal mining community, had an idea 17 years ago to do something personal about Mother's Day.

"My mother died in 1934," he said. "For a few years, I really had no Mother's Day. Then I recalled my mother once saying, 'When you're giving flowers, Dick, give them when a person is still living.'"

For Mother's Day in 1939, he invited 15 mothers to a party. They were dined, entertained and decked out in corsages. There was only one stipulation; each guest had to be at least 70.

Edwards felt that the old folks, many of them widows with children long since grown, see little gaiety. He wanted to give them one big day each year.

Dick, a local merchant, is a twinkling 64.

So many requests for invitations came in the next few years that Edwards needed a staff of helpers. Ages of the 348 mothers who turned out for last year's party ranged to 94. The party was held in Leighton, 60 miles north of here. As in 1939, it was dinner, entertainment and flowers for the mothers.

"They filled Leighton's American Legion hall, the biggest place we can find around here for a party," says Dick, the host and master of ceremonies. "Thin and stout, spry and feeble . . . but they came decked out in their best spring finery."

In 1954, he informed his happy, singing "gang" that their ages totaled 26,127 years; their children numbered 1,309; they had 2,450 children and five great-grandchildren.

There's always one big surprise. Last year he brought together a mother and daughter who had not seen each other for 30 years.

The mother first spoke over a telephone to her daughter, believing she was at home in Tacoma, Wash. Actually, Dick had brought the daughter East by airplane and she was in an adjoining room during the telephone conversation.

Zoo Show Star To Trade Armadillos For Aardvarks

NEW YORK (AP)—Marlon Perkins of NBC's Zoo Parade flies to Africa in a few weeks to search for new TV talent and also to swap armadillos for aardvarks.

He and producer Don Meyer will spend the summer on the Dark Continent filming six or more programs for the coming season.

The armadillos for aardvarks deal will be part of Perkins' function as director of Chicago's Lincoln Park Zoo, where the weekly show is telecast. He will take about some animal life specimens fairly common in this country, including armadillos from Texas, to offer zoos in Africa, where they are rarities. In return he'll seek animals common there but novelties in the United States, such as the ant-eating badger.

When the films are completed and the specimens collected, Perkins and Meyer will fly back via Copenhagen and the Arctic route to Los Angeles, and thence to Chicago.

African episodes now planned for next year's shows include the annual migration of wild life across the continent's great Rift, underwater scenes at Mizimi Springs, the Port Elizabeth snake farm, Kruger National Park, elephant training stations in the Congo, and assorted African oddities.

Although a number of programs will be missing when the new TV season starts next fall, many familiar ones are being renewed. Among those signed up again in the past few days are life of Riley, Rin Tin Tin, Ford Theater and Captain Midnight. Father Knows Best, dropped by the old sponsor several weeks ago, will be back with a new one starting Aug. 31.

Spy Bill Urged

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The National Executive Committee of the American Legion has endorsed a bill that would give the government more time to prosecute attempted treason, spying and sabotage. The bill, by Sen. Butler (R-Md.), would increase from 5 to 15 years the statute of limitations in subversive activities cases.

Atom Sub Due Shakedown Cruise

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nautilus, the world's first atomic-powered submarine, will start on her six-week shakedown cruise in the next few days.

Announcing this today, the Navy in a brief statement also disclosed belatedly that the Nautilus was officially delivered April 22. The history-making submarine previously had logged more than 4,000 miles on her nuclear power plant, steamed both surfaced and submerged and made more than 80 dives during builder's trials which started Jan. 17.

The Navy said that during the shakedown cruise the Nautilus will carry no passengers other than a few technical observers, will be closed to the public at any ports of call and will return sometime in June to New London, Conn.

The Navy gave only one hint as to where the Nautilus might go on her first long cruise, saying the submarine would be at San Juan, P.R., May 13 or 14.

Jean Cocteau Stirs New Row

ROME—Jean Cocteau has stirred up many a row in French literature. Now he has started a lively dispute in Rome over whether he should have turned to painting.

Cocteau held his first showing of 118 canvases here last week in a stab at fame in a new field. The 66-year-old poet is one of the 40 "immortals" of the French Academy, most of them men of letters.

"I have been painting for 50 years but I never before attempted to exhibit," he said.

Forgotten in his new enthusiasm are his scores of novels, his fantasy light screen production, "Beauty and the Beast," and the poetry he wrote until he said, "I'm tired of it."

Cheers he has received from many hardened Roman critics probably will send him on to a hoped-for showings in London, Berlin, New York and Buenos Aires. A writer for Rome's big newspaper, "Il Tempo" commented, "Here are droppings of beautiful spirit. An amazingly good performance of a brilliant mind."

But the critic from Milan, in "L'Espresso" magazine, said Sera brandy Cocteau's paintings "epic and mechanical." He said, "All Cocteau's art suffers and dies for a far too mechanical style."

Cocteau himself was pleased by the reception of his paintings, which he has hidden in a little Paris studio all these years, and showed only to close friends.

Returns To Jail

PITTSBURGH—Edward Guntton, 59, sentenced in federal court to four years for passing a bad $3,500 check, explained that he did it to get back in prison. "I can't make a living outside of jail," he said.

Joash Repairs the Temple

A REVIVAL IS INSPIRED BY THE PRIEST JEHOIADA

Scripture—II Chronicles 21-24

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
THERE are so many characters in today's lesson, that we will have to treat most of them briefly and concentrate on Joash and the events of his reign, as his name heads the lesson. The period covered was approximately 50 years, from the reign of Jehoram to the death of Joash.

Jehoram was the oldest son of Jehoshaphat and, according to Chapter 21 of II Chronicles, his first act after becoming king was to slay all his brothers. His wife was a wicked woman, daughter of Ahab and Jezebel. He died of an incurable disease after reigning eight years.

His son, Athaliah, succeeded Jehoram and reigned less than a year, having joined the king of Israel to fight the Syrians. He was wounded in battle and died soon after. He, like his father and mother, was evil. His mother, the wicked Athaliah, succeeded him and reigned from 842 to 837 B.C. and we know little about her reign except that she tried to destroy every male member of the royal house of Judah. She almost succeeded. The little baby, Joash, was spared only because of his aunt, Jehoshabeath, who hid him in a chamber of the palace, and cared for him until he was seven years old.

Now there was in Judah a faithful priest named Jehoiada, whose wife was this same Jehoshabeath, who rescued Joash from death. Thus he was the uncle of Joash. He was able to get the allegiance of the stronger members of the country, the Levites and princes, and all came together and planned how they could raise the descendant of David to the throne.

They were divided into three groups, one placed at the doors of the temple (we imagine), one at the king's palace, and one at a certain gate of the palace. Jehoiada warned his followers that go, one was to be allowed to enter the house of the Lord except the priests. Weapons from David's time were issued, and then they brought out the little boy, Joash, put a crown upon his head, anointed him and all cried, "God save the king."

Queen Athaliah must have been amazed and alarmed when she saw this child alive when she thought she had eliminated all the line of David. She cried, "Treason!" an odd thing for her to cry who was capable of unspeakable treachery. She was promptly killed by a band of soldiers.

As he grew older, Joash, probably under the guidance of his priestly uncle, Jehoiada, was minded to repair the temple which had been despoiled by enemies. He gathered the Levites and priests and told them to go out throughout the country and gather money. They were slow about starting the work and Joash chided them after his uncle Jehoiada asked him why the money was not forthcoming.

At the king's command they made a chest, set it without the gate of the house of the Lord, and sent a proclamation throughout all Judah, sometimes also called "Israel," to "bring in to the Lord the collection that Moses the servant of God laid upon Israel in the wilderness."

All the princes and the people were glad and brought their contributions to the chest. When they took it to the king, he and Jehoiada hired workmen—masons and carpenters—to repair the damage that had been done. Workers in iron and brass were also brought and with the money left over vessels of gold and silver were fashioned to minister in the temple. Then they offered burnt offerings in the house of the Lord.

The good priest grew old and died at the age of 130 years, and was buried in Jerusalem among the kings, because he "had done good in Israel, both toward God, and toward his house."

Sad to relate, after the death of Jehoiada, Joash was persuaded to depart from the faith of his fathers and to serve idols. Zechariah, son of the saintly Jehoiada, came to the king asking him why he had thus transgressed the Lord's commandments? warning him that he could not prosper if he forsook the Lord. Joash, forgetting all the kindness of his uncle, father of Zechariah, commanded his court to stone the priest.

The Syrians came up against Judah and the Lord delivered a very great host into their hand. Joash was ill. His own servants conspired against him and killed him on his sick bed.

Such was the tragic end of a man who, had he been true to his God, might have been a happy, successful king beloved by all his people.

Such was the tragic end of a man who, had he been true to his God, might have been a happy, successful king beloved by all his people.

Morrow Still Unyielding On 'Left' Battle

AUSTIN 6A—If Gov. Allan Shivers is making or has made peace with the Democratic Party leadership in Washington, National Committeeman Wright Morrow of Houston apparently isn't with him anymore.

Morrow told this reporter yesterday he has not given an inch on his unyielding opposition to the "leftwing" group which he says has firm control on national party affairs.

Morrow, after reading news stories from Washington indicating the much-talked peace move may have made some progress, said he could see very little basis for any sound agreement between conservative Texas Democrats and the national leaders.

He said the principles advocated by the two were not the same. The beliefs of Democrats who would support Adlai Stevenson or Averill Harriman for the presidency are not compatible with his idea of Democratic Party fundamentals, Morrow said.

Shivers was in Washington conferring with National Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler. Butler said the party would take back those who bolted to Eisenhower in 1952 if they want to come back.

Shivers said he might, but that he wouldn't if the Democrats nominate Stevenson in 1956.

Morrow went further than that. He said he couldn't take Harriman, either, and that he still thought President Eisenhower was doing a fine job as President. He indicated he thought Eisenhower should continue.

In 1952, Shivers and Morrow were among top-flight Texas Democratic leaders who turned their backs on Stevenson to support Eisenhower.

When he took that position, Morrow resigned as national committeeman from Texas. The State Executive Committee refused to accept the resignation.

But Stephen Mitchell, then national Democratic chairman, said he accepted it. Subsequently he refused to recognize Morrow as a member of the committee. Morrow said Mitchell had no right to refuse him recognition.

So far, Butler has given no sign that he has any different view, Morrow said.

Eight Plead Guilty To Felony Charges

Eight persons pleaded guilty to felony charges in 118th District Court Thursday.

Five were assessed penitentiary sentences, two were placed on probation for two-year periods and one received a jail sentence and fine.

Trials for three other persons were continued because of unavailability of a witness.

Paul Washington, A. J. Moore and James Smith had been scheduled for trial this week on charges that they burglarized the Zale's Jewelry on April 1. District Attorney Guilford Jones said one of the state's witnesses was not available, however, and asked for the continuance.

Pleading guilty Thursday to various charges were R. J. Bolt, David Sutherland (alias Bob Cliff), Opal Strother (known also as Opal Ecks), Manuel Vega, Andrew Garcia Perez, Richard Dudley, B. D. Stewart and Robert Kiker. All waived jury trials and testimony was heard by Judge Charlie Sullivan.

Bolt pleaded guilty to forgery and received a three-year penitentiary sentence.

Sutherland entered a guilty plea to charges of theft by bailee and was placed on probation for two years.

Mrs. Strother pleaded guilty to second offense driving while intoxicated. Judge Sullivan assessed a $500 fine and a three-day jail sentence.

Vega was sentenced to two to three years in the penitentiary after he pleaded guilty to burglary charges.

Perez also pleaded guilty to burglary and was assessed a two-year prison sentence.

Richard Dudley was placed on probation for two years when he pleaded guilty to charges of forgery.

Stewart entered his guilty plea to charges of defrauding with worthless check. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Kiker was given a two-year penitentiary sentence after he pleaded guilty to charges of forgery. He was given credit for approximately three months spent in the Howard County jail.

Courthouse Grounds Landscaping Paid For

Landscaper Naud Burnett has been paid the last installment on his $8,500 contract for landscaping the Howard County courthouse grounds.

Peter Michel recommended the final payment following an inspection of the square. Michel, representing Lambert Landscape Company which planned the work, said he was pleased with the results.

Burnett is to be responsible for three trees which Michel said may not live. If the trees die, they will be replaced by Burnett.

A Bible Thought For Today

Blessed be the LORD, that hath given rest unto his people Israel, according to all that he promised: there hath not failed one word of all his good promise, which he promised by the hand of Moses his servant. (1 Kings 8:56)

Mother Of The Year

In New York Friday night Mrs. Lavina Christensen Pugh, a farm widow from Pleasant Grove, Utah, will receive the award of Mother of the Year from the American Mothers Committee.

This 75-year-old mother of four boys and four girls, and grandmother of 34, had a bit of advice for all parents in an interview with the press on her arrival in New York. Gist of it:

"Love your children with all your hearts; love them enough to discipline them before it is too late."

She explained: "A child should know discipline by the age of 3. Forget the little things they do wrong that are not important. Praise them for important things, even if you have to stretch them a bit."

Many grownups understand and appreciate the discipline they received at the hands of their parents—quite literally—as children. Only then can they look back over their past and recount the number of times a bit of discipline received at an impressionable age actually pulled them through many tight places as adults.

By the same token, many an adult who finds himself in trouble comes to a realization that a lack of parental discipline at the right kind at the right time left him ill-prepared for the battles and the problems of life, and if he does not exactly blame his parents for that, he does have a feeling of having been let down.

Most of us, as we grow older, are able to trace the ability to weather a personal storm to the guidance, the discipline and the love of our parents. Habit patterns are fixed in childhood and endure into old age. The cult that is spoiled in the breaking never quite gets over it. Too much discipline, unwisely administered, can be a handicap; but the child who grows up without any discipline at all faces a difficult life.

The Mother of the Year spoke words of profound understanding when she said: "Love them enough to discipline them before it is too late." There is a lot of meaning in that quiet phrase.

Demos Can Easily Defeat Selves

Efforts to heal the breach in Democratic ranks in the 1952 general election have been handicapped by the activities of the immediate past national chairman, Stephen Mitchell of Illinois, and the sometimes unskillful operations of the present chairman, Paul Butler of Indiana. Mitchell can't seem to get it out of his head that those who bolted to Eisenhower in 1952 should be driven from the Democratic Party, which doesn't make much sense from a hard-headed political viewpoint, since banishment from the Democratic Party would mean permanent enrollment in the Republican Party. It is true that Mitchell's frequent outbursts against bolters is aimed at Democratic leaders who voted GOP in the general election after participating in the Democratic convention, but several million party rank-and-file voters also bolted to Eisenhower and are not an implied enemy of the bolting leaders.

In Birmingham, Ala., this week Mitchell declared that Southern Democratic leaders who refused to support the party's national candidates should quit, and if any of them should show up in the 1952 convention they should be thrown out. This is an attitude hardly calculated to pull the millions of Southern Democrats who did a bit of bolting themselves in 1952. Chairman Butler, on his part, angered some Democratic leaders by calling a meeting of the 27 Democratic governors who attended President Eisenhower's governors' conference in Washington this week. Democratic Governor Lausche of Ohio refused to accept, declaring he did not intend to help figure out "ways and means of defeating the man (Eisenhower) who had just been his boss." Others, including Harriman of New York, could not see it that way; it was just a way to save the governors' time by having one meeting follow the other.

After the Democratic debacle of 1928 over the Al Smith issue, the Democratic hosts rallied for a great victory in 1932—did not by making the 1928 bolters feel like outsiders. Facing the difficult ember of the 1952 bolterist is no way to gather strength for 1956.

Perhaps the Republicans could not defeat the Democrats in 1952, but the Democrats can easily defeat themselves.

Crying Need Of Our Senators—More Time

WASHINGTON — One of the few things this Congress had done in the four months it has been in session is to raise the salaries of senators and representatives from $25,000, which included a $2,500 tax-free expense allowance, to $22,500 with no such expense allowance.

Are they crying "high pay raise"? Do they work harder and longer? There are questions troubling the more conscientious members of Congress, as the whole pace of Washington is stepped up to a faster and faster tempo.

The problem for those who do take their jobs seriously is not so much money as time. Among senators particularly, the feeling is growing that most of their effort goes into the details of representing the folks back home, of keeping the political fences mended, of running errands that seem trivial in comparison to the great issues confronting the nation and the world.

The conscientious senator feels that his days are nibbled away and he is left with a sense of futility. Here is a typical day of a typical senator.

8:05 a.m. He arrives at the office. Three visitors from back home are waiting in the outer office. Two of them are important and he must see them before he goes to a meeting of his subcommittee. They tell him it looks as though the vote would not get that air base unless there is more pressure brought to bear. He gets the secretary of the Air Force on the telephone as he sits beside his desk.

10:10 to 12 noon. In subcommittee, hearings on a Navy appropriation bill with New England shipyard owners demanding to know why they are not getting defense contracts.

12:10 P.M. Back at the office with four long-distance calls from the state waiting to be put through. Mail to be signed. His appointment secretary stands by to remind him of his afternoon engagements. Senator Y has tried three times in the past 24 hours to get him to find out how he stands on the airline route allocation bill.

12:30 P.M. He rushes out to speak for 20 minutes to two busloads of Future Farmers of America from the home state on the reciprocal trade program and its relation to agriculture.

12:35 P.M. He hurries back to the Senate restaurant where a delegation from the State Federation of Women's Clubs is waiting to lunch with him. They want him to explain his position on the military reserve training bill.

2:30 P.M. On the Senate floor he makes an effort to catch up with pending legislation. But twice he is called off the floor by home-state visitors and once by newspaper reporters. A call from his office; he hasn't forgotten that he has to make his weekly tape recording for broadcast over the weekend on leading radio stations in the state.

3:40 P.M. He ad lib from scrawled notes for a 12-minute recording in the Congressional radio-TV studio.

4:10 P.M. Back in his office a whole sheaf of telephone calls, including seven from the state, are waiting. So are a half-dozen visitors. The secretary of the Air Force on the phone to say that the final decision on the air base has not been taken.

5:20 P.M. Until just before 7 P.M. all that correspondence which has to be answered. More telephone calls. A delegation is getting in at 7:30 in the morning and they want to talk with him at breakfast about the Deer River dam project. Senator Y, who is so long-winded, finally gets him on the phone. He must dash home to change for an embassy dinner. As he pauses in the doorway his administrative assistant says they are going to have to know a definite time on his forthcoming three-day trip back to the state. Other wise, they can't plan a speaking schedule.

And so it goes day after day with the pressure doubling and redoubling at this time of the year. When does a senator have time to reflect on the grave decisions that, theoretically at least, he should have some part in shaping? Was this the kind of life that Daniel Webster lived and Henry Clay and Calhoun?

Our senator does not know the answer. He just knows that he feels constantly harassed and often frustrated by a squirrel-cage kind of existence. He even has a haunting suspicion that he had time to do a better job when he was in the House.

As dean of the Senate, Senator Walter F. George has achieved the rank of elder statesman and his speeches are listened to with respect. This, his colleagues like to think, is at least an echo of the giants of the past. Senator, Clay and Calhoun. Most of them are too busy even to prepare proper speeches. There is that delegation demanding to know why the appropriation for their dam was knocked out

Viet Nam: Convulsion Before Chaos?

WASHINGTON — The frantic efforts of the free South Vietnamese to create their own government may be the last convulsion before chaos. Efforts now to save them from eventual absorption by communism may be too late.

Soon there is a chance the United States and France can agree on a policy which will reach South Viet Nam and Indochina from the Communists. Last year in battle forced the French to let them have North Viet Nam.

If there is such agreement, and it succeeds, it must come under the head of better late than never. Secretary of State Dulles flies to Paris today for high-level talks with American allies. Officials say he will talk with the French in search of a unified policy toward South Viet Nam.

Ever since the Communist-led civil war against the French began in Indochina nine years ago, the United States and France had time to look out such a unified policy. There still seems to be none.

In recent years, while the country pumped in supplies costing many millions of dollars, the French not only the friendship of millions of Vietnamese but eventually lost their war with the Communists. Up until a comparatively short time before the French went down, the United States and France had time to look out such a unified policy. There still seems to be none.

Yet to realistic readers of American newspapers in this country it must have seemed apparent the road was going to lead all down hill unless the French let the Vietnamese have a truly strong and independent government of their own.

This was not done. It still hasn't been done although the Vietnamese, after the French defeat at Dien Bien Phu, put more independence than any time since the French took Indochina as a colony in the 19th century.

South Viet Nam finally descends into chaos and communism there will probably be congressional investigations to learn just what American policy makers in the State Department under Presidents Truman and Eisenhower did to try to keep the French from doing this.

The colonial-minded French undoubtedly were the stumbling block and seem still to be.

One of this government's main goals for years. But yesterday the West Germans, with the approval of the French and others, regained their sovereignty, with the door open to Rearmament. Now that that problem has been settled, perhaps a concentrated effort will be made by both this country and France to help the South Vietnamese not only establish their own government but set Rearmament of Germany has up their own army to defend it.

Yes, But Where's The Buckskin?

NEW YORK — The Davy Crockett of this generation are the suburbanites.

They are the kings of a new frontier—the housing developments strutting up like madden handkerchiefs around the rim of every major city.

These suburban settlers face more perils than ever confronted Davy Crockett. All he had to worry about were Indians, bears and hobgoblins. He had a trusty rifle as a weapon.

Four new suburbanites on the other hand, are confronted by all kinds of open and hidden enemies. He has no rifle, and he is well-armed with such rising taxes, spreading computer fares, spreading and espionage, and that greatest danger of all, the fix-it-yourself mania.

Let me explain the fix-it point. One of these modern-day Davy Crocketts, a friend whom we'll call Ronald Halfacre, moved to the suburbs several years ago and ever since he has been asking me:

"Why don't you get wise, pull out of the city and buy a house out my way?"

"Frankly, I don't have the right age. I keep telling you. Every civilization has its form of cowardice, and I'm a machine-age coward. Life is too risky in the suburbs."

"I don't get you," says Ronald. "Well, I got the official figures on the accident toll among home repair fans for 1954 (compiled by an insurance company engineer) and read them to Ronald."

"Last year," I informed him, "600 thousand fix-it-yourself boys suffered disabling injuries. Here's how they were hurt: 115,000 performing home carpentry, 38,728 making their own furniture, 85,000 repairing broken windows, 16,000 painting the outside of their house, 57,000 repairing gutters and troughs, 32,000 putting up or taking down storm windows, 33,000 pruning trees, 32,000 repairing roofs, 31,000 doing fire-painting, 21,000 fixing chimneys, 16,000 putting up TV antennas."

"But in the suburbs you get the fresh air," said Ronald, defensively. As he turned away, I noticed he was limping.

"What's the matter, Ronald?" I asked.

"Caught my foot in my new power lawnmower," he said. "But a neighbor helped me get it out in time. That's another thing about the suburbs—out there you find real friends."

See what I mean? It takes more than a heap of living to make a house a home in the suburbs. It takes the old Davy Crockett spirit.

"Laughable Lore"

CHICAGO — Laughing at the boss' jokes makes for a clever secretary says Wilbert E. Scherer, who helps operate a secretarial school.

"It's just as important to her career as her ability to run a typewriter, take dictation and file letters. It makes the boss feel good, he says, to have his help appreciate his 'funnies.' Besides, it makes his job easier."

"After all, that's the reason for a secretary, he says."

News Was Good 10 Years Ago

Today marks the tenth anniversary of Germany's defeat during World War II. Gen. Gustav-Loth, chief of staff for the German armies during the closing weeks of the war, signed a treaty of unconditional surrender for his nation at 8:41 p.m. on May 8, 1945.

The treaty, signed at Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters in Reims, France, marked the end of a five-year, eight-month and six-day struggle involving the major countries of the world.

News that the once mighty Wehrmacht had surrendered was not received in the United States until May 7, and then it was only by press accounts. There was no official announcement from the President.

People in Big Spring, according to The Herald of May 7, received the news eagerly.

There was some celebration across the country, but the jubilant atmosphere was dulled by the knowledge that the menace of the South Pacific-Japan—still had to be beaten at the cost of many American lives.

The news was happy, however, and church bells sounded in Rome and throughout the world.

People in the United States had been expecting Germany to surrender, as rumors had been circulating for a week or more that contacts were being made with the Allies by high German officials.

German armies in Holland, Northwest Germany, Denmark and all parts of West Europe had laid down their arms the day before, leaving only those troops in Austria and Czechoslovakia resisting.

An hour before the actual surrender was effected, Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz ordered the capitulation of all German fighting forces and called off the dreaded U-boats. Apparently the admiral's order was effective as two German armies in Austria consisting of more than 400,000 men surrendered that evening.

Russian troops captured the last German naval base of Swinemunde on the Baltic Sea, and the Red armies started moving on Czechoslovakia, last remaining German stronghold. General Patton also headed his forces toward the German Seventh Army in Czechoslovakia, and resistance was crushed.

Practically all the news on May 6 and 7, 1945, was good. It was even announced that a score of Japanese warships had been sunk in the South Pacific.

There was one sour note sounded at the time, however, and Russia was tooting the horn.

The Red forces arrested 16 important Polish Democratic leaders, apparently without cause. This move brought protest from the United States and British officials, but with no result. It was the first discord in a three-part harmony, but it was by no means the last.

The ten years since VE day have been spent with international bickering among the victorious Allies. With the end of the war came the Iron Curtain, and later the Berlin blockade, Korean War and other intrigues.

Today quite possibly marks the tenth anniversary of an active cold war.

Diplomatic Decisions Must Be Made At Top

When, as in the affair of the two differing replies to Chou's statement about Formosa, a mistake has been made, has been admitted, and has been corrected, the ordinary and sporting thing to do is to forget it. But both in Europe and in Asia we are being drawn into vast and intricate diplomatic activity. The mistake made in the State Department a week ago last Saturday—when the President was away on his farm and the secretary was away on his island—was very disturbing indeed. For it showed that on a matter of great consequence the Department had not been instructed and did not know what was in the secretary's mind. Needless to say, diplomats cannot be efficient if the State Department and the foreign service have to act on clear instructions but on their own assumptions, as they did last Saturday morning.

Mr. Dulles conceives the office of Secretary of State, such a lack of understanding is almost unavoidable. He treats himself not as the top executive of our foreign affairs but as the operator. His relations with the President, his relations with Congress and his meetings with foreign ministers, take up so much of his time and energy that he cannot pay any attention to the administration of our foreign affairs.

Secretary's airplane, had never been invented.

Our trouble, in my view, is that we have never adopted the great conceptions of our foreign policy to the revolutionary consequences which have followed from the Soviet Union's achievement of nuclear weapons. One basic conception of our foreign policy—in that it envisages a containing military ring of anti-Communist states—goes out of date. The conception was worked out under Truman and Acheson before 1949, that is to say before we knew that the Soviet Union was breaking our monopoly of the atomic bomb.

Since that time, it has been the inexorable logic of atomic armaments that the borderland nations must, and that they will, seek security and survival in policies to prevent war, and to avoid being involved if war cannot be prevented.

The reason that Moscow and Peking have the initiative in propaganda and in diplomacy is that they have adapted their policy to the facts of life in the age of nuclear weapons. In this age there are only two nuclear powers, only two which have nuclear weapons for the offense and have also the distance, the depth, and the space, to survive a nuclear offensive.

Since 1949, despite all the grandiose pacts floating on the surface of events, there has been a deep and steady undercurrent which has been dragging the non-atomic powers—which include Japan and Germany, all the little border states and others too—into some kind of middle position where they have a hope, a chance, of not becoming involved in an atomic war.

Since 1949, despite all the grandiose pacts floating on the surface of events, there has been a deep and steady undercurrent which has been dragging the non-atomic powers—which include Japan and Germany, all the little border states and others too—into some kind of middle position where they have a hope, a chance, of not becoming involved in an atomic war.

Moscow and Peking now have the initiative in propaganda and in diplomacy is that they have adapted their policy to the facts of life in the age of nuclear weapons. In this age there are only two nuclear powers, only two which have nuclear weapons for the offense and have also the distance, the depth, and the space, to survive a nuclear offensive.

Women Mum On Murder

CLEVELAND (AP)—Says Capt. David Kerr, head of the homicide bureau, women can keep secrets at least about murders.

Giving a talk yesterday on his experiences, the detective said women involved in murder cases will "talk about everything under the sun, from favorite band leaders to movie stars, but not about their men suspected of crimes."

Pick up the wife or girl friend of a male suspect, he continued, and she'll "flash big blue eyes and claim she doesn't even know the guy."

12 Persons Die In Chemical Fire

MEXICO CITY (AP)—At least 12 persons, including six bus passengers, perished last night in a blazing shower of chemical solvent from a plastics factory. Authorities feared the death toll would go higher.

Touched off by sparks from an electric circuit breaker, the flaming liquid erupted from a 2,000-gallon tank of thinning fluid. Within minutes the fiery shower had enveloped a bus stopping at the factory gates, killing six passengers instantly and burning 20 others.

Set the factory afire, burning to death five or more persons inside.

Indirectly caused the death of a bus passenger who was struck by a falling power line as he fled from the vehicle.

UNION MERGER

Business Seeking Curbs On Labor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Business leaders are seeking to tighten federal and state controls on labor unions and further curb the power of organized labor.

These moves point to no "era of peace" between labor and management.

The National Assn. of Manufacturers is encouraging local business groups to press for "right-to-work laws" in the 30 states which do not have them. These laws would ban the union shop, in which a worker must join a union after accepting a job. The Taft-Hartley law already forbids the closed shop, in which only union members can be hired by an employer.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce has lined up with the NAM. And there is considerable sentiment among businessmen for amending federal law to outlaw the union shop.

The unions are fighting back, not only to prevent new curbs but also to wipe out present restrictive legislation.

Thus the battle lines are being drawn as the AFL and CIO work toward a merger which would give labor almost a solid front in the fight.

In its simplest terms, one of the big business-labor arguments goes like this:

Business: "The AFL-CIO merger is heading in the direction of a labor monopoly and it must be curbed. The American workers shouldn't be compelled to join a union—and he should have the guarantee under law that he has a free choice to join or not to join a union."

Labor: "The right-to-work laws are actually right-to-wreck laws. They are nothing more than a move to destroy union security and destroy the trade union movement. The bulk of a labor monopoly is business because a minority of workers belongs to unions."

Henry G. Riter III, president of the NAM, said he has found a good deal of concern among businessmen around the country over the planned merger of the AFL and the CIO. Riter is president of Thomas A. Edison, Inc., West Orange, N. J., and as NAM president, comes as closely as any man to representing the voice of business.

Riter said: "Businessmen are not concerned over the merger as such. But they are concerned because it seems to them this move points to a speedup of tendencies toward monopolistic labor practices. Many of us are concerned over the fact that the antitrust laws affect businessmen—and we have no quarrel with these laws—but the laws exempt labor unions."

"I have found that businessmen believe labor unions, even without a merger, have become a potent force politically and economically. The belief is that merger will increase the monopolistic potential."

Riter said the big question on the labor-management front has to do with "voluntary versus compulsory unionism."

"I think," he said, "that where a man must join a union in order to work, where he can't hold a job unless he is a member of a union and pays dues, then that is an extension of monopolistic power."

"Unions are offering workers a service—and without any compulsion a worker should be able to decide whether he wants that service. But the union shop restricts the worker's freedom of choice in the job he pursues."

What is business' reaction to the announced intention of the AFL and CIO leaders to engage in increased political activity?

Riter: "The workers up to the present have shown a high degree of individuality in thinking and in the way they vote. I would hope they would continue to think and vote for themselves. Labor leaders never have been able to deliver the labor vote as a bloc—and I seriously doubt that it can be done."

Could an AFL-CIO merger mean a greater stabilization of labor-management relations?

Riter: "There very well could be greater stabilization—but it would be an enforced stabilization without any choice."

Riter said he thought the Taft-Hartley law had brought about a "reasonable balance of power between labor and management."

"I think it's healthy all the way around for the law to stand as it is," he said. "It leaves the way open for states to act against the union shop if they choose. And I think if the right-to-work law were explained to the people properly, there would be more states ready to vote for it."

As for government intervention in labor-management disputes, however, he thinks businessmen prefer less rather than more intervention.

And so goes the dispute between labor and management—with the stove of peace nowhere in sight yet.

Evidence Covers Cop

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—There has been no action in the case, but policeman Johnny Perez said he had "enough evidence."

A San Antonio woman complained to police that a neighbor was harboring 36 cats in a one-room house. Perez found all the doors locked when he got to the house, he said, but could hear considerable movement inside. He returned to the police station—covered with fleas.

Judge Gets Charge From Woman's Excuse

DETROIT (AP)—Mrs. Espynoa Fuller, 23, testified in Traffic Court she was doing 80 miles an hour but only to charge her car battery. The excuse wasn't good enough for Traffic Referee John M. Wise.

She was fined $7 and told not to drive for two months.

The 1934 Pittsburgh Pirates lost 101 games and finished in last place in 1909, however, they won 110 games and came in first. They also won the World Series.

Arresting Situation

MIAMI (AP)—A young woman ran across busy Flagler Street waving toward a bus. Midway across the intersection she stopped suddenly and grabbed her wrist with both hands. It appeared she had suffered a stroke until, agilely, she stepped out of her panties, grabbed them up and ran for the bus. She made it.
