3 jailers acquitted

Three former Deaf Smith County jailers have been found not guilty of official oppression in connection with an incident at the Deaf Smith County Jail last June.

Lyle Vanbuskirk, Tommy Gallagher and Ralph Gallegos were found not guilty Friday by a jury in 242nd District Court in Hereford after hearing testimony in the case.

"I was a little surprised by the verdict, but I expected it," said District Attorney Roland Saul. "But this was something we had to try." Saul said he felt the jury decided the jailers may have acted improperly, but their actions were not strong enough to warrant finding them guilty of the Class A misdemeanor. If the three men had been found guilty, they could have been sentenced to up to a year in jail and fined up to $2,000.

Literacy council seeks millions

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Literacy Council cited some "horror stories" in announcing its effort to get more state funding.

There was the 23-year-old insurance company employee who paid a policyholder $2,200 rather than $22 because she did not understand decimals.

And the 19-year-old feedlot laborer who killed a herd of cattle by giving them poison rather than food. I wasn't real sure what the package said," he explained.

"We've got a very serious problem here," council Chairman H.L. Emanuel of San Antonio said Monday. The council is asking Texas lawmakers to spend $5.3 million more over the next two years to combat illiteracy. It wants to provide family literacy programs to help break the cycle of illiteracy; enhance programs at the workplace; and work with the criminal justice system to attack the link between illiteracy and crime. State Sen. Cyndi Taylor Krier, R-San Antonio, and state Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, appeared with Emanuel at a news conference to support the literacy effort's funding boost.

The council's current two-year budget is $2 million, with the money coming from federal funds with restricted use.

"There is a human and economic cost to illiteracy," Colbert said. Emanuel promoted literacy efforts as an investment rather than an expense.

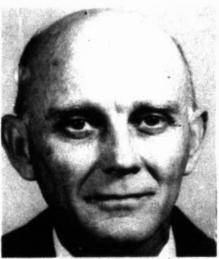

The cost related to illiteracy in Texas is estimated at more than $17 billion a year, including lost income, missed tax revenue, welfare costs, unemployment insurance and adult training expenses.

Texas ranks 47th among the states in adult literacy. Thirty-three percent of Texans are functionally illiterate, and only 14 percent of future jobs are projected to require less than a high school education.

Montford said the state comptroller had estimated that the bill would save $50 million in the fiscal year ending Aug. 31 and an additional $90

January has always seemed to me to be a serious time of year. Maybe it's the winter landscape or the long hours of darkness that put me in a serious mood. Probably, it's just thinking about my income taxes that does it.

Certainly W-2 forms deserve some sober thinking. All those tax entries--Federal taxes, State taxes, and, what's this one -- Social Security taxes? Enough already!

Well, I won't try to explain any ofyour other taxes, but I can help you understand what your Social Security taxes do for you.

Today, you're working and paying Social Security taxes. But tomorrow may be a different story. Some people plan for their retirement, but not very many of us give enough thought to what would happen if we become disabled. Or what would happen to our family if we should die.

That's why it's important for you to know that your Social Security taxes are paying for a lot more than just retirement benefits. In fact, you could think of your Social Security taxes as a premium on a potentially valuable insurance plan. Besides retirement, Social Security also pays Medicare, survivors benefits, and disability benefits.

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR

It must be our aim to continue to live while we are alive. This will be easier some days than it is other days but it must be done, done in the best way we can. This means that we are aware of the problems, the difficulties, the uncertainties, etc., but we nevertheless try to maintain a constancy of energetic devotion to all that constitutes effective and satisfactory living. There are good times and bad times, there are days of sunshine and there are days of shadows, but life must continue.

We must not stop living just because troubles and problems become intensified. In such times, we have a greater challenge which must be met and dealt with. This means that our load is heavier for the time being, but let us remember that we have reserve strength; we have the capacity to cope. We must not be discouraged by the fact that, for the time being, we cannot have our situation just as we wish it were. We do not give up, but we "brace up". We keep trying, we continue to live.

We must accept some things, the things we cannot change immediately and there will be some things we must accept, some for the time being, and some for all time. This will not always be easy; but it can be done and it must be done. To help with this difficult phase of life, we must be thinking about and appreciating what is right with the world and with us signed in Paris in 1928, outlawing and our situation. This is how we war and providing for the peaceful continue to live while we are alive. settlement of disputes.

Perseverance may be the word which best expresses the personal spirit and insight and resolution essential to moving on with life. It means that we persist, to continue, to go on resolutely in spite of opposition, difficulties, problems, etc. Of course, we use the most helpful information available to us, we must apply the greatest wisdom of which we are capable and we move ahead with the full understanding of the realities of life. We must not give up. We must do our best to protect our material investments, our homes, our houses, our communities, our land, and, of course, ourselves. We cannot afford to stop living until life is completed.

The real aim of life is life itself, the very best life of which we are capable.

Pistons win with sub leading way

When the Detroit Pistons lost Isiah Thomas, they did not need to look long for a replacement. Because John Long was in the neighborhood, again.

In his third stint with the Pistons, Long is doing what he's always done for Detroit - leading the way to victory. On Monday night, it was 87-81 over Washington. Long was signed to a 10-day contract last week after it was learned Thomas would miss at least 12 weeks because of wrist surgery. Long was sitting by the phone in the Detroit suburb of Romulus when the Pistons came calling.

"When I got the call from Detroit I felt fortunate because I would rather be at home than waiting on Philadelphia to call," said Long, who also drew interest from the 76ers.

Long began his career with the Pistons in 1978 after being drafted in the second round from the University of Detroit. He was traded to Indiana in 1986 but returned to the Pistons on Feb. 23, 1989, and helped them win their first NBA title.

"We looked at one other guy (as . a replacement for Thomas), but we quickly settled on Long because he fits right in," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said.

In other games, Portland downed Atlanta 116-111, Boston beat Minnesota 108-87, San Antonio stopped Seattle 119-107, Sacramento defeated New Jersey 101-83 and Golden State beat New York 115-106.

Long made four foul shots in the final 16 seconds, helping Detroit hold on. Long set the Pistons' record of 51 straight free throws in 1984 and is a career 86 percent foul shooter.

"Being a member of this team before helped, and I'm really glad Chuck believed in me enough to keep me in there at the end," said Long, who played the entire fourth quarter. Long finished with 10 points. Joe

AFC getting close to Super Bowl win

AFC is getting closer. Who knows, maybe the conference might even win another Super Bowl someday.

That day actually might be close at hand. Despite their 20-19 loss to the New York Giants on Sunday, the Buffalo Bills seem ready to join the NFL power brigade, something the Denver Broncos, Cincinnati Bengals and Miami Dolphins - recent Super Bowl losers from the AFC - could not

"We're already talking about coming back," linebacker Ray Bentley said. "We know what it takes to get here. We've already got our sights set on Minnesota."

If the Bills are to make the next Super Bowl at the Metrodome, they'll need to upgrade their defensive line and secondary.

Bruce Smith certainly is a star, the best defensive player in the league this season. But he wore down against the Giants, unable to overcome the double-teaming and sometimes triple-teaming.

Of course, Smith would benefit from more consistent play by nose tackle Jeff Wright and Leon Seals at the other end.

Still, Buffalo's defense is physical, has excellent linebackers, particularly the underrated Darryl Talley, and has been designed to deal nicely with bruising NFC offenses.

"I don't think there's a big difference," Wright said. "They're just two teams out on the field. I think the way the media looks at it, they'd like to make a big deal out of it. The players don't. When they go out on the field, it's just one team against another. We don't think about AFC and NFC."

The Bills have such a versatile, well-conceived attack that they usually can overcome a few defensive shortcomings. Most of the key components - namely Jim Kelly, Thurman Thomas, Andre Reed, Keith McKeller and Kent Hull - are in their prime. The no-huddle, given the right personnel - and Buffalo definitely has that - can be unstoppable.

So how crushed can the Bills be, with their chances of returning to the Super Bowl next year seemingly so

> They didn't miss by much. But they did miss, so the NFC had its seventh straight super victory. And the Giants had their second title in five years.

> New York, however, faces a tougher road to retain the glory. Remember, the Giants barely beat the San Francisco 49ers for the NFC crown, and the Washhington Redskins, Philadelphia Eagles and rapidly improving Dallas Cowboys are in their division. Just winning the NFC East is a worthy achievement.

> To win the Super Bowl after dominating the best division in football is a monstrous achievement.

"I'll tell you," coach Bill Parcells said, "it doesn't get any better than this. Winning is better than anything. I guess you have to be one of those narrow-minded guys like me to feel that way, but I genuinely do.'

The Giants could have a full-fledged quarterback controversy. ahead, although Parcells seems too smart to let that happen. Still, it's unimaginable that Jeff Hostetler will be back on the bench in September.

But it's equally unfair to punish Phil Simms, who was 11-2 when he was healthy, for getting hurt.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

horrified by the letter from the woman in Kitchener, Ontario, who said young children should not be brought to museums and art galleries because their screaming and crying disturbs the adults.

Tell me, please, when are you supposed to bring children to cultural events? Should we wait until they are video games? Maybe we should also

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was keep children out of churches and synagogues.

I am a working mother who wants to spend as much time with my children as possible. On weekends I love to take them to art galleries. It's a wonderful, inexpensive way to enjoy something together and teach them about the beautiful things in 13 and all they are interested in is life. There is so much ugliness in the world today.

Early Childhood STEP classes set Feb. 7

One of the nation's most popular and build self-esteem, communicaparent education programs is now available in a new format especially for parents of young children. Early Childhood STEP, a systematic training for effective parenting of children under six, is now being offered beginning Thursday, Feb. 7, from noon to 1 p.m. at Stanton Special Programs Building.

"The program is being sponsored by Special Education Department of Hereford Independent School District," said Pat Hickman, special education counselor.

All six meetings will be on Thursdays at noon. Each participant is invited to bring a "brown bag" lunch if they wish. There is no cost and a certificate will be presented to those completing the course.

The program is designed especially for parents whose children are newborn through age five. According to the program's authors, its objective is to help parents gain parenting skills, understand children's behavior, tion, and healthy family relationships Among the topics to be explored during the program's six sessions are: * How a child's personality, social skills, belief systems, and lifestyle develop as the child grows from baby to toddler to preschooler.

Misbehavior--what it is, and * How to recognize the purpose of a child's misbehavior and deal with

* How to encourage cooperation, communication, social skills, and self-esteem. * Ways to handle crying, temper tantrums, toilet training, lying, jealousy, and public misbehavior.

Early Childhood STEP is based on the popular parenting program STEP which America Guidance Service of Circle Pines, Minn. first introduced young children be left home with a sitter. How are they going to learn to behave in public if they are never taken anywhere? I was disappointed that you didn't clobber that woman. She needed to be put in her place and you didn't do it. -- Myrtle Beach, S.C.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Kitch" complained about children crying and being disruptive in art galleries and museums. She also said their hard shoes and the squeaky pram wheels annoyed her. The real problem is not the children, Ann, it's the parents. They should be alert to their children's limits.

I take my baby to galleries

Your correspondent suggested that whenever I can. He enjoys looking protective of me and has never liked at the paintings and the sculpture, and I do believe he is absorbing a great deal. I am aware that his attention him out before he gets fidgety and noisy. As for the squeaky pram wheels, I carry a can of oil in case I run into someone like Kitch. --V.H.S. from D.C.

> DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am an avid fan of yours and I look to you for advice as if you were my mom. Here's my problem and I need an answer:

> I have a cousin I love a lot. "Josh" and I have always been extremely close, especially so because I have no brothers or sisters. He is very any of my boyfriends. Josh is over critical of the one I'm seeing now. He says if I marry this man, when the span is limited, so after an hour I take minister asks, "If anyone knows why these two should not be joined together, speak now or forever hold your peace," he will stand up and say, 'He's not good enough for her."

Josh has given me a list of guys he approves of and says he'll arrange dates with them. I love my cousin dearly but I don't think he should be running my life. I'm 20 and he is 22. Sign me -- Between a Rock and a Hard Place in Oklahoma City

DEAR ROCK: I think you're old enough to decide who you want to Tell Josh that you appreciate his concern but to please butt out of your social life. Explain that unless one of the guys you go with has a criminal record or something in his background that is pretty bad, you don't want to hear about it.

Gem of the Day: Before you retire, stay home for a week and watch daytime TV shows.

PAT HICKMAN

According to health officials, improper thawing of turkeys and for ensuring against salmonella careless food storage are two of the most dangerous mistakes cooks can made during the holiday season.

During the recent Thanksgiving outbreaks occurred in Texas, particularly in Austin and El Paso.

Barbara Keir, director of the Public Health Nutrition program at the Texas Department of Health (TDH), said that turkey should be thawed in the refrigerator, or under running water (at 70 degrees or below).

"Some people make the mistake of thawing the turkey at room temperature, allowing the surface to warm before the inside meat can thaw. That allows dangerous bacteria to reproduce and cause food poisoning," Keir said.

She added that thawing in a microwave oven is safe only when the food will be immediately cooked. When thawed, the turkey should be rinsed thoroughly and dried, inside and out.

Leftover meat should be cut off the bone and refrigerated. A safety rule is to freeze any portions to be kept beyond two days of refrigeration.

Cosmetology exam set Feb. 5

Feb. 5 is the last date to take a preentrance cosmetology exam at South Plains College prior to the start of cosmetology classes on March 1.

The exam will be given from 9-11 a.m. in the SPC Student Assistance Center on the third floor of the library. Fee is $10.

Persons enrolling in SPC's oneyear program will be exposed to the theory and skills of shampooing, hair and scalp treatment, hair cutting, chemical hair relaxing, hair styling and shaping, manicuring, cold waving, hair coloring and facials, said Carolyn Newkirk, instructor. Students successfully completing the program will receive a certificate of proficiency and be eligible to take the state board exam qualifying them as licensed cosmetologists in Texas.

For information on additional testing dates and classes, contact the SPC counseling office at 894-9611, ext.368.

Keir suggested the following hints poisoning, perhaps the most common form of food poisoning in the home.

Prepare turkey stuffing immediately before cooking. Dry holidays, several food poisoning ingredients can be mixed in advance, but eggs, oysters, butter or other moist ingredients should be added at cooking time.

* Cook the stuffing separately. Stuffing cooked in the turkey cavity may prevent thorough cooking.

When fully cooked, dense portions of the turkey, such as the thighs, should have reached at least 180 degrees Fahrenheit, measured with a meat thermometer. Never leave a turkey, the stuffing, or gravy unrefrigerated for more than two hours. * If the cook uses a microwave oven, the turkey should be rotated to ensure uniform cooking. * Cooks should wash hands, cooking surfaces, utensils and all foods thoroughly.

Foul weather auto tips

There's a fair amount you can do to prepare your car for foul weather. Experts at GNB, Incorporated, manufacturers of batteries, offer these -Have your engine tuned up and be sure fluid levels (antifreeze, coolant and window washer) are

-Check that the electrical system, including the alternator, is in good working order so the car will start.

-Be sure battery connections are "tight and bright." If they're not, clean corrosion from the posts with a wire brush and protect them with petroleum jelly or other lubricant. Check for frayed battery cables and fan belts and replaces them.

-Pack a safety bag in the trunk of your car. Include flares, a flashlight and extra batteries, paper towels or rag, an aerosol can of tire inflator, and writing paper and pencil.

-Keep a blanket, jumper cables and a 20-pound bag of sand in the trunk. The sand adds weight and traction which may help get you out of icy

-Finally, if you don't want to be stranded by a dead battery, you may want to buy a battery with a spare. If the battery has gone dead, just lift the yellow switch to the reserve unit and start the car. Once the car starts, press the switch back into the original position. Thirty minutes of continuous daylight driving automatically recharges the battery.

According to the AAA, 24 percent of roadside problems result from loose, worn or frayed belts and another 15 percent from battery failure. If you apply preventative maintenance now, you may keep a little safer and warmer this winter.

Reports

There was a touching moment on the opening day of the legislative session when, in the Senate Chamber, crowded with friends and family members of the newly-elected members of the Senate, there was unveiled a bust of Lt. Governor William P. Hobby. As Governor Hobby and his wife Diana look on, Lt. Governor Elect Bob Bullock, his wife Jan and Secretary of the Senate Betty King unveiled the large bust of Hobby. The uncanny likeness left both Hobby and Diana momentarily speechless.

The presentation of the commemorative statue was the high point of the opening day of the 72nd Legislature. The presence of this bust in the Senate Chamber is a fitting tribute to a man who has had enormous influence on the public policy of this State for the last 18 years. Hopefully, its presence in the Senate Chamber will keep members mindful of the calm, cool, deliberative problem-solving approach taken by Hobby over the years. The Senate will certainly need this type of approach to problem solving to effectively deal with the major issues facing the State of Texas today.

Those issues were the subject of a prelegislative conference held at the LBJ School of Public Affairs in mid December. Max Sherman, former President of WT and my predecessor in office, and now the Dean of the LBJ School, did an excellent job of bringing together literally all of the legislative leadership for this conference. Every major player in the Legislature had a role in this conference. Senator Carl Parker, Chairman of the Education Committee, talked of ducation. Representative Jim Rudd, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, talked about the budget. Senator Bob Glasgow addressed ethics is-this conference was the negative language that virtually every participant used to describe their outlook for the 72nd legislative session. Most everyone predicted gloom and doom and a terribly contentious session. Many of the members addressing their remarks to the newly-elected members of the Legislature suggested that they may wish to reconsider their election and return to their previous endeavors.

I have a different attitude about the outlook for the 72nd legislative session. Sure, we're going to be asked to tackle some of the toughest issues that have ever faced the Legislature. Sure, we're going to have to come up with a budget that will likely entail cuts and possibly even new revenues. And sure, we may have to once again deal with workers' compensation insurance reform. But the reason I ran for this office was to get involved in the system and, as a citizen member of the Legislature, give my best shot at attempting to solve these tough Confederates at the Second Battle of problems. All the easy problems have Bull Run on Aug. 30, 1862.

been solved. It is only the tough ones that remain. The great challenge, as I see it, in representing my constituents in the Texas Senate is to focus my efforts on those issues that most directly affect my constituents and then put all of my time, energy, and effort into devising new approaches to difficult problems. It is a challenge that I welcome. I am the first to admit that we are likely not to devise perfect solutions. But the very process of citizens partaking in representative democracy as a means to deal with these problems is what makes this state and this country such a marvelous place to live.

So bring on the big, tough issues and I will give it my best shot.

The good and bad facts

Most U.S. physicians believe HDL ("good" cholesterol) levels are better predictors of heart disease than total cholesterol, according to finds from a recent Louis Harris survey.

The survey also shows Americans are far more aware of HDL and LDL cholesterol than they were three years ago in a similar Harris poll, but many are still not taking steps to prevent heart disease.

The nationwide random survey of 300 primary care physicians and 100 cardiologists shows between 80 and 90 percent of doctors believe there is "overwhelming" or "very conclusive" evidence of the link between cholesterol and heart disease. About 75 percent of both physician groups believe LDL and HDL are better predictors of the disease

Among the 1,254 consumers surveyed, 64 percent say the have heard about "good" and "bad" cholesterol-twice the level of awareness just three years ago. However, the survey shows there has been little improvement during that time in heart-healthy behavior. For example, while slightly more Americans say they avoid high cholesterol foods (from 42 percent to 50 percent), those who say they exercise regularly dropped slightly (from 79 percent to 77 percent).

The survey was conducted for the American Lipid Information Bureau (ALIB) and was sponsored by an educational grant from Warner-Lambert company's Parke-Davis division. ALIB serves as an information clearinghouse for professionals and the public on cholesterol issues.

A Pentagon official said the Iraqi planes include top-line fighters and represent "the flower of their air force." Officials said the planes were clearly being moved to avoid destruction by allied bombers, but they puzzled over whether the pilots were deserting or following orders.

"It could be a plan to save those Persian Gulf war reached the aircraft for another time, to include during this conflict or after this conflict," Lt. Gen. Thomas Kelly, director of operations for the joint military staff, said Monday.
