Decisive victory

Cease-fire could lead to permanent peace

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Allied forces today suspended attacks on Saddam Hussein's broken armies after President Bush declared a "quick, decisive and just" victory. Bowing to allied terms, Iraq pledged to accept all U.N. resolutions on Kuwait and ordered its forces to stop fighting.

World leaders and ordinary Americans alike hailed the cease-fire that appeared to herald the end of the Persian Gulf War - and turned to the sober task of reckoning its costs in blood, money and hatred.

At least 126 allied troops were killed in the fighting. Listed as killed in action were 79 Americans - including 28 in the ground war, while 52 were listed as non-combat deaths.

Iraqi casualties were far, far higher, with one estimate ranging up to 100,000. Allied commanders have refused to provide any count of Iraqi war dead, and Iraq has issued none recently.

Continuation of the cease-fire was contingent on no Iraqi attacks - in the war zone or with missiles - and other conditions including the immediate release of prisoners of war and any captured civilians.

The war's final combat lived up to predictions: nasty, brutish and short. Iraq's army - the world's fourth-largest on the eve of war - was in shambles today, decimated by the allies' lightning four-day ground offensive and the withering 5 1/2-week air assault that preceded it.

The fighting reached its peak Wednesday, as allied armies recaptured Kuwait City, devastated Iraq's best forces in the biggest tank battle since World War II, and lanced to within 150 miles of the Iraqi capital.

"There was nothing between us and Baghdad," said Desert Storm commander Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf. Asked to assess Iraqi battle tactics, he gave a one-word answer: "Hah!"

Kuwaitis, in the chilly dawn of their first full day of freedom, tempered their rejoicing as they surveyed the ruins of their reclaimed country.

"It's a catastrophe. It's indescribable," said Fahd el-Muhammed as he gazed at Kuwait City's once-elegant waterfront, disfigured by twisted barbed wire and Iraqi fortifications.

In the Iraqi capital, Baghdad radio signed on this morning with patriotic songs and its standard denunciation of the allies as "criminal invaders."

At first, it did not mention the halt in hostilities. But later, a military communique was read, announcing the suspension of allied attacks and telling Iraqi troops to respond in kind.

"We are happy for the halt in fighting, which will save a lot of our sons and grant the safety of our people," it said. "Therefore, orders were issued to all our units in the battlefield not to open fire."

With word of the cease-fire, volleys of celebratory rifle and anti-aircraft fire split the smoke-filled skies over Baghdad. The Iraqi capital, a constant target during the allied air war, came under a final blast of bombardment only hours before the truce took hold.

World financial markets surged in response to the cease-fire. Tokyo share prices jumped in heavy trading today.

On ships in the Persian Gulf, on sprawling air bases and in desert camps, more than half-million U.S. troops - the biggest U.S. deployment since Vietnam - heard word of the halt to fighting.

The soldiers, many of them reservists who had never expected to see combat, expressed elation - and voiced a common wish. "I'm anxious to get back to ... my life," said Staff Sgt. Jesse Cruz, 24, of Detroit, a reservist working in Air Force medical supply in Saudi Arabia.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the first withdrawal of American troops could conceivably begin within a matter of days. But Bush said a permanent cease-fire depends upon the actions of Iraq.

"This war is now behind us," Bush said in a nationwide address on Wednesday night. "Ahead of us is the difficult task of securing a potentially historic peace."

Diplomats at the United Nations were setting about that task today. The Security Council was meeting this morning, after the late-night drama of Iraq's agreement to abide by the council's resolutions on Kuwait.

Bush: peace is left to Hussein

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon said today that the Persian Gulf cease-fire "does appear to be holding" despite small skirmishes between allied and Iraqi forces. Hostilities came to an end with President Bush's declaration: "This war is now behind us."

Iraq responded to Bush's statement by notifying the United Nations that it would accept all Security Council resolutions adopted in response to its invasion of Kuwait.

Among the other conditions set by Bush for an end to the war were immediate return of all prisoners and Kuwaiti detainees.

"It is up to Iraq whether the suspension on the part of the coalition becomes a permanent cease-fire," the president said in a broadcast speech Wednesday night in which he declared that Kuwait had been freed of its Iraqi invaders.

Even as the shooting stopped, a senior Pentagon military official warned that "while enjoying a little bit of a sigh of relief, we still have to keep our guard up."

He said U.S. troops were holding defensive positions "so that if they counterattack we wouldn't be out there with our rear end up in the air."

The official also said it would "take us longer to bring the troops home than to get them over there."

Bush said U.S. troops soon would be able to return home, and White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the withdrawal would begin within days.

In his dramatic speech, Bush announced he had ordered a cessation of combat by U.S. and allied forces as of midnight Wednesday EST.

He invited Iraqi military commanders to meet within 48 hours with U.S. and allied commanders "to arrange for military aspects of the cease-fire."

"This suspension of offensive combat operations is contingent upon Iraq's not firing upon any coalition forces and not launching Scud missiles against any other country," Bush said. "If Iraq violates these terms, coalition forces will be free to resume military operations."

The president said U.S. troops soon would be able to return home. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the withdrawal would begin within days.

The administration ordered its ambassador to Kuwait, Edward Gnehm, to take up his post in the newly liberated Kuwait City, where Bush said the American flag was already flying. He was expected to arrive today.

In the Democratic-run Congress, where Bush only narrowly won a vote in January authorizing the use of force in the Persian Gulf, praise for his conduct in the swift victory flowed from all quarters.

House Speaker Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., said Bush had "conducted this operation brilliantly." But he said restoring peace and security to the Middle East "is going to be a much larger and longer task."

Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, called the allied victory "a credit to President Bush" and his military advisers.

The end of the fighting, if it holds, came exactly 100 hours after allied forces launched their ground attack and six weeks after allies began their relentless bombardment that left the Iraqi army unable and unwilling to fight.

On Wednesday, a conclusive tank battle in southern Iraq ended any serious threat from Iraq's Republican Guard, once considered the cream of the world's fourth-largest army.

"Kuwait is liberated. Iraq's army is defeated," Bush declared. "Our military objectives are met. Kuwait is once more in the hands of Kuwaitis, in control of their own destiny."

Nursing home use will rise

BOSTON (AP) - Nearly 1 million Americans who turned 65 last year are likely to live in nursing homes before they die, and almost 200,000 will spend more than five years there, according to a study released today.

"Over a lifetime, the risk of entering a nursing home and spending a long time there is substantial," researchers wrote.

The study projects that of 2.2 million Americans who turned 65 last year, more than 900,000 of them - or 43 percent - are expected to enter a nursing home at least once before they die.

In their analysis of the findings, the researchers questioned whether nursing homes, which now cost an average of about $25,000 a year, should remain the mainstay of care for the elderly.

"When one in seven men and one in three women who reached the age of 65 in 1990 are projected to spend at least one year in a nursing home, society needs to undertake a fundamental reassessment of long-term care, rather than simply paying for what has been done in the past," they wrote.

The study was based on a survey of 16,587 adults who died in 1986. It was written by economist Peter Kemper and epidemiologist Christopher M. Murtaugh of the U.S. Agency for Health Care Policy Research in Rockville, Md. and published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Among the findings:

- Nearly two-thirds of the people using nursing homes will be women. This is because women live longer than men, and since they outlive their spouses, there is no one at home to care for them.

- Nearly one-third of all people who reached 65 in 1990 will spend at least three months in a nursing home; 25 percent at least a year, and 9 percent at least five years.

- Thirteen percent of all women will spend at least five years in a nursing home, compared with 4 percent of men.

- In 1986, whites used nursing homes more than blacks.

Boy dies in San Benito fire

The three-year-old son of a Hereford man was killed and a former Hereford resident was badly injured in a fire Feb. 19 in San Benito.

Arturo Salazar Jr., 3, the son of Arturo Salazar of Hereford and Margarita Salazar of San Benito, died in the early morning fire at their home.

They boy's grandfather, Antonio Sanchez, 67, a former Hereford resident, was badly burned in the blaze while rescuing other family members and attempting to rescue his grandson. Sanchez received burns to 50 percent of his body, mostly on his arms and legs. He is hospitalized at the Shrine Burn Center in Galveston.

Because the family has no insurance, the family is accepting donations to help defray hospital bills. Persons wishing to make donations may take them by the Mickey Rodriguez residence at 701 Knight St. in Hereford.

San Benito officials said six persons were inside the three-bedroom frame home when the fire was reported at 4:26 a.m. Sanchez's wife, Olga, who is confined to a wheelchair, also received minor burns, but other family members were able to escape uninjured.

House considers school vote

AUSTIN (AP) - The House was scheduled to vote today on a "Robin Hood" school finance reform plan that would shift local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts.

"We're building a life raft to get us past April 1," the Texas Supreme Court's deadline for a new plan, said House Public Education Committee Chairwoman Ernestine Glossbrenner.

The court ruled unconstitutional the current $14 billion-a-year school finance system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money. Disparities in property wealth cause wide swings in education funding.

Justices ordered lawmakers to devise a way to equitably fund poor school districts by April 1 or face an order to halt state spending on education.

Ms. Glossbrenner, D-Alice, said her school finance reform plan would redistribute about $300 million in local property tax revenue. About $1.2 billion in new state spending would be required over the next two years.

It would create about 200 education taxing regions, drawn largely along county lines. Local tax money would be redistributed among school districts within those regions.

Her bill would impose a minimum local property tax rate of 60 cents per $100 valuation, climbing to 80 cents in four years.

School districts could tax up to another 50 cents to enrich programs and for facilities, with each district guaranteed the same amount of money for each penny of tax effort. At $1.30 tax effort, each school district could raise about $5,000 per student.

The districts could tax up to another 20 cents to further supplement programs, a provision following Monday's Supreme Court opinion that perfect equity may not be required for a constitutional system.

Such unequalized enrichment spending may require a local election, said Ms. Glossbrenner, who takes exception to her plan being called "Robin Hood."

Exxon makes tentative deal

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) - Exxon Corp. tentatively has agreed to pay about $1.2 billion to settle state and federal government civil claims stemming from the Exxon Valdez oil spill, a state official says.

Attorney General Charles Cole said Wednesday the settlement would be "in the ballpark" of $1.2 billion to restore natural resources in Prince William Sound and to pay for further scientific studies and cleanup.

Nearly 11 million gallons of crude oil spilled when the tanker ran aground in March 1989. The nation's largest oil spill soiled 1,200 miles of coastline and killed thousands of birds, mammals and fish.

Cole said state, federal and Exxon officials agreed on the amount and terms, but he declined to discuss specifics pending a final settlement. Cole said the money would be paid over several years; published reports have said the payments would be paid over 10 to 12 years.

"There comes a time when the stars for settlement are in alignment, and that's where they are now," Cole said. "You'd better either do it now or not plan on doing it soon."

The attorney general described agreement on a broad plan, but said "a number of basic issues" must be resolved.

Cole, who planned to return to Washington on Monday to meet with principals in the talks, said a final settlement should be signed within a month.

The agreement would settle the state's civil lawsuit and potential civil claims by the federal government. Cole declined to say if it would address the federal criminal case against Exxon.

"That is a matter between Exxon and the United States Department of Justice, to which the state has not been a party and will not be a party," he said.

The criminal case, which charges Exxon with violating federal pollution laws, is scheduled to go to trial in Anchorage April 10.

Cole said the plan included a provision for the state to reopen its case if spill damages undocumented today are discovered in the future, but he declined to discuss specifics.

"That has been the subject of intense negotiation," he said.

Spelling bee scheduled here

The annual Deaf Smith County Spelling Bee will be conducted March 7-8 by The Hereford Brand, with $200 in prizes contributed by local businesses, it was announced by Bee director Speedy Nieman.

County schools will complete bees this week to determine entrants in the county competition. A junior bee (grades 4-5) is set March 7, and the senior bee (grades 6-7-8) follows on March 8. Both contests begin at 3 p.m. in the basement of the Deaf Smith County Library. The public is invited.

The county bee is sponsored by The Hereford Brand, with Speedy Nieman as county director. The regional bee is co-sponsored by The Amarillo Globe-News and WTSU.

The county bee champion will receive a $75 prize—a $50 bond from

First National Bank and a $25 gift certificate from Gibson's. The runnerup will receive a $50 prize—a $25 share account at Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union and $25 cash from Deaf Smith Electric Co-op.

The junior bee champ earns a $50 bond from Hereford State Bank, while the runnerup receives a $25 bond from West Texas Rural Telephone. The junior champ is also eligible to compete for the county title.

Bera Boyd will serve as the pronouncer again this year, with Eloise McDubgal and Nieman as judges.

The county champion advances to the Regional Bee to be held on the WTSU campus April 13. The region winner earns a trip to Washington, D.C., for the national finals.

News Digest

World, National

PERSIAN GULF - At the stroke of midnight, allied military forces suspend attacks on the broken armies of Saddam Hussein, heeding President Bush's declaration that "this war is now behind us." Iraq is said to accept the coalition's terms, agreeing at last to obey U.N. resolutions. With the soldiers' work all but done, diplomats turn to the hard task of making the peace - and Kuwaitis to rebuilding their ruined homeland.

WASHINGTON - President Bush, declaring the Iraqi army defeated and Kuwait freed, orders a cease-fire beginning today. He says it's up to Saddam Hussein to make it permanent.

WASHINGTON - With military victory declared, the Bush administration is launching a four-point diplomatic campaign to secure the postwar Persian Gulf. Already a decision is taking shape to deny arms to Iraq at least if Saddam Hussein survives.

WASHINGTON - He slapped his pointer on the map, and you had to pay attention. There stood Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf in his baggy desert camouflage outfit, spinning a story of how the outnumbered allies duped Saddam Hussein, blasted through his deadly lines and left the Iraqi army in tatters. It was a performance with much to offer.

KUWAIT CITY - Kuwaitis wander the streets of their capital, taking in the full horror of Iraqi-wrought devastation and recounting tales of torture and murder. But the nightmare is indeed over and nothing could restrain the elation of Kuwaitis enjoying their regained freedom.

ACROSS THE USA - After 42 days and 42 nights of the Persian Gulf War, Americans rejoiced at the news it was coming to an end. Tears and standing ovations and prayers for the Iraqi people greeted the announcement from President Bush. Some Americans reserved a touch of skepticism, just in case.

WASHINGTON - The Senate Ethics Committee says Alan Cranston may have committed major ethics violations but no other action is needed against the four other members of the Keating Five. Cranston is fighting the allegations, while his colleagues are trumpeting the conclusion of their cases.

BOSTON - Nearly 1 million Americans who turned 65 last year are likely to live in nursing homes before they die, and almost 200,000 will spend more than five years there, according to a study released today.

Texas

AUSTIN - The House was scheduled to vote today on a "Robin Hood" school finance reform plan that would shift local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts.

AUSTIN - Texas senators, stirred by demands from the public and top elected officials for stronger ethical standards in state government, have approved two proposals to restrict the influence of the lobby.

WASHINGTON - Lawmakers say they intend to challenge the Bush administration's plans to negotiate a free trade agreement with Mexico, while a business-sponsored study concludes the pact is a "win-win" proposition.

CULIACAN, Mexico - An unlimited free trade agreement with the U.S. and Canada could devastate Mexican farmers since they lack the money and technology to compete with their American counterparts, an expert here says.

WASHINGTON - Commercial lenders say credit-worthy farmers should have no trouble getting loans, but an Oklahoma banker says that with the recession and falling government subsidies, there may be few who qualify.

AUSTIN - The Legislature has an obligation to begin redistricting itself based on the current federal census numbers, although that tally may be changed later, Attorney General Dan Morales says.

Cranston found guilty in Keating five affair

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Ethics Committee says Sen. Alan Cranston may have committed major ethics violations, but no action is needed against the four other members of the Keating Five.

Cranston, D-Calif., is fighting the allegations, while his colleagues are trumpeting the conclusion of their cases.

The six-member committee's unanimous report Wednesday set the stage for possible censure of Cranston by the full Senate.

The panel said it found "substantial credible evidence" that "Senator Cranston engaged in an impermissible pattern of conduct in which fund-raising and official activities were substantially linked."

The committee, even while ending the four other cases, said Sens. Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., and Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., "gave the appearance of being improper" in their actions on behalf of former savings and loan owner Charles H. Keating Jr.

Sens. John Glenn, D-Ohio, and John McCain, R-Ariz., "exercised poor judgment," the committee concluded. But it said the two "violated no law ... or specific rule" of the Senate.

The panel did not repeat such a statement for Riegle and DeConcini, concluding instead that "no further action is warranted."

Senate approves lobby restrictions

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas senators, stirred by demands from the public and top elected officials for stronger ethical standards in state government, have approved two proposals to restrict the influence of the lobby.

Some hailed passage of the proposals Wednesday, others said the measures represented just so much paper.

Legislative ethics has been a concern of Texans for well over a century, and was elevated in recent months by news reports of extravagant lobbyist spending and the indictment of House Speaker Gib Lewis on two misdemeanor counts of alleged ethics violations.

A proposed constitutional amendment providing for a bipartisan state ethics commission, with broad powers, was sent to the House on a 26-3 vote.

The measure is subject to voter approval at a Nov. 5 statewide election, if it passes the Legislature.

A bill, which only needs legislative approval, was approved by the Senate 28-0. Lewis said he thinks it is a "pretty good bill."

The constitutional amendment, a relatively short document, is needed to establish the commission. The other legislation, quite lengthy, spells out the duties of the commission, its membership, its powers, and other details.

Both proposals were sponsored by Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

The bill would create the ethics commission to enforce rules, limit lobbyists' expenditures on legislators, ban local governments from hiring independent lobbyists to sway the Legislature, limit campaign contributions and ban honoraria for legislators and statewide elected officials.

State agency officials, as well as legislators and staff personnel, would be covered by the proposal.

Senate debate stressed the commission's ability to stay clear of political partisanship as a key to regulating ethical behavior in state government.

The commission would include two members each appointed by the governor, lieutenant governor and House speaker. Each official would appoint one person from each of the major political parties. The secretary of state would serve as an ex-officio member.

The controversial issue of legislative pay, which has remained at $600 per month since 1975, would be delegated to the commission, which could recommend higher salaries that would have to be approved by the voters.

"I think this is just a starting place, but I think it's a good place to start. This is a great place to start," Glasgow said.

Sen. Bill Ratliff, R-Mount Pleasant, said any hint that the commission is not objective or bipartisan would be a "serious mistake." He said had serious reservations about the commission.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, said he did not think the proposals could bring about ethics reform.

"I think it is absolutely silly for anybody to think that putting words on paper is going to make somebody ethical. Ethical has to do with what you believe and the self-imposed rules that you abide by," Parker said.

"Passage of this bill is not going to make unethical ethical," he said.

The ethics bill would:

- Ban pleasure trips paid for by lobbyists.
- Limit lobby entertainment expenditures on lawmakers to $500 a year, with certain exceptions.
- Require more disclosure of lobby entertainment.
- Limit campaign contributions made by individuals and political action committees, or PACs, to $2,500 for House races, $10,000 for Senate races and $20,000 for statewide offices.
- Ban gifts to regulatory officials from anyone they regulate.
- Prohibit former top agency officials from contacting or appearing before their former agencies on behalf of someone else for two years.
- Prohibit campaign contributions from exchanging hands in government buildings. Poultry processor Lonnie "Bo" Pilgrim created a controversy during a 1989 special legislative session by handing out $10,000 checks on the Senate floor.
- Prohibit campaign finance contributions during a regular legislative session, even if it was promised before the session.
- Require more officials, including state party political chairmen, to file personal financial reports.

Secretary of State John Hannah, who was named by Gov. Ann Richards to head her efforts at ethics reform, said, "We need to know where every penny goes from someone trying to influence legislation being spent on a legislator or any public servant."

"I think this is going to reduce the influence of the lobby on the Legislature," Hannah said.

Monty Smith, second from left, was presented this week with a plaque of appreciation for his volunteer work with the Deaf Smith County Centennial Committee. Earnest Langley made the presentation for Smith's work in setting up the sound system for the ceremony held last October. Ruth McBride, committee co-chairman, and County Judge Tom Simons participated in the presentation.

Elementary substance abuse rising

AUSTIN (AP) - The large number of Texas students who try drugs and alcohol in sixth grade shows that school officials and parents need to pay extra attention to pre-teenagers, drug officials say.

Fifty-seven percent of sixth graders have drunk alcohol, compared to only 39 percent of fifth graders, the Texas Commission on Alcohol and Drug Abuse said. A similar increase also was found in the use of other drugs.

The group released Tuesday the results of the first survey of elementary school drug use in the state.

According to the survey, the rise in substance use between fifth and sixth grade levels is greater than at any other level and marks the beginning of drug experimentation for many Texas children.

"If we're not dealing with the issues in our homes before junior or senior high school, we're probably waiting too late," said TCADA spokesman Bill Britcher.

"Prevention is the ultimate, long-term answer to the drug problem," said Bob Dickson, TCADA executive director. "These results from fourth through sixth graders in Texas clearly show the need for prevention services beginning at the earliest grades in our schools."

Reasons for the jump may include the move of sixth graders into secondary school campuses in many districts and the increasing independence of sixth-grade aged students, TCADA said.

The survey also indicated that sixth-grade girls are particularly prone to try drugs or alcohol. Girls in sixth grade, unlike those in fourth or fifth grade, are as likely to have used substances as are boys.

More than 108,000 fourth through sixth grade students across the state completed the three-page questionnaire. The survey was an addition to the commission's 1990 canvass of Texas students in grades seven through twelve, which showed a decline in the use of illicit drugs. The survey had a margin of error of 2 percent.

No trend information is available on the fourth through sixth grade results because it is the first such survey in Texas and no national studies have surveyed this age group,

TCADA said.

- Other study findings include:
- 31 percent of fourth graders, 39 percent of fifth graders and 57 percent of sixth graders have drunk alcohol.
 - 13 percent of fourth graders, 20 percent of fifth graders and 31 percent of sixth graders have used tobacco.
 - 13 percent of fourth graders, 10 percent of fifth graders and 24 percent of sixth graders have sniffed inhalants.
 - 1 percent of fourth graders, 2 percent of fifth graders and 5 percent of sixth graders have used marijuana.
 - Like secondary students, those in elementary school who make A's and B's are less likely to use alcohol and other drugs than those students who make lower grades.

Dietitians on call during observance

Consumers face a barrage of conflicting nutrition information. For many, the task of deciding which foods to eat results in frustration and confusion.

This March, consumers can get straight answers to their questions from registered dietitians (RDs) during a four-day hot line sponsored by the National Center for Nutrition and Dietetics, the public education initiative of the American Dietetic Association (ADA) and its Foundation. The hot line will be held March 12-15 in recognition of National Nutrition Month.

The public can call 800-366-1655 with nutrition related questions between 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time). A free Nutrition InfoKit, containing information on healthy eating and a recommended reading list will be available on request.

Registered dietitians are skilled in separating nutritional facts from fads and translating the latest scientific data into practical food choices. RD hot line volunteers will be on hand to answer questions about healthful choices when eating out, reading food labels, diet and exercise, and other topics of concern.

National Nutrition Month is an annual observance to heighten public awareness of diet and exercise and other topics of concern.

"One of the most common public misconceptions is that specific foods are either good or bad," says ADA President Mary Abbott Hess, MS, RD. "The whole diet for the day is more important than any single food choice, and virtually any foods can fit into a healthful diet—just not all in the same day!"

Registered dietitians recommend choosing from the major food groups, including eating more fruits, vegetables and grains, limiting calories and dietary fat, and selecting a diet that meets individual requirements and lifestyles.

"Some tips can help," according to ADA's president. "Buy lean cuts of meat and trim the visible fat. Choose from the wide selection of low and nonfat dairy products, including milk, yogurt and cheese. Nibble on pretzels or plain popcorn instead of chips, or a small box of raisins instead of cookies. When you decide to eat a high fat food, simply eat less of it, or balance your choices the next day."

ROSEMARY THOMAS
...gives details of shower

Benefit 'shower' set at Sugarland Mall

BY KAY CRISMON
Staff Writer

"Being a volunteer can be the most rewarding work of all, especially when the end results can bring happiness to so many," Rosemary Thomas said.

Thomas, who serves as president of Pioneer Study Club, was referring to a community-wide shower which will benefit the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston. Pioneer Study Club members have volunteered to help with this shower which is planned locally from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. March 2 and March 16 at Sugarland Mall. The event is being held in conjunction with the cancer center's Golden Jubilee Anniversary Celebration.

"So many local residents owe their lives or the lives of a loved one to the wonderful treatment that was received at M.D.A. The shower is one way to give something back to the center by helping other patients that are in treatment," Thomas explained.

The Pioneer Study Club has joined the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs in support of the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center for many years. In 1941, at the state convention of Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, a resolution was passed during the Texas Legislature to create a cancer hospital and research center for Texas. Study club members, Mrs. Rex Lynes and Mrs. Ray Johnson, were present at the convention.

Club women, including those from Deaf Smith County, mounted an intense letter writing campaign urging legislators to approve a bill creating the Texas research center.

Efforts of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs' members were successful. M.D.A. admitted its first patients in March of 1944. In 1977, construction projects, costing more than $70 million, made the center among the world's largest center devoted exclusively to cancer research, patient care and education.

"We hope that the Hereford community will get involved and bring items, which are tax deductible, to donate to the center during the shower," Thomas said.

"Committee members from our club will be present to accept gifts and register donors. Patients and their families are in need of cash donations, wigs, all types of head coverings, slippers, robes, pajamas, beauty and barber shop articles, plastic kitchen supplies, sheets of paper and envelopes, stamps, calendars, children's games, playing cards, soap dishes, wind chimes, stylish teen socks, decorative T-shirts, cosmetic bags, craft kits, all-occasion cards, crochet and knitting needles, yarn, paperback books for all ages and languages, sewing notions, non-prescription magnifying glasses. The list is almost endless.

"This is the perfect opportunity for residents to do some spring cleaning to get rid of unused or unwanted items and to also help others," Thomas added.

"M.D. Anderson Cancer Center trains doctors and scientists and caters to all people of the world in order to find a cure for cancer, a disease that touches almost everyone in some way during their lifetime.

"Members of Pioneer Study Club are looking forward to the shower and, with the help of the community, it will be very successful," Thomas said.

Club members who are assisting with the shower include Mary Jane Burrus, Jeanie Caison, Gladys Miller, Mary Panciera, Nell Culpepper, Fannie Rudd, Lonidene Edmonson, Mildred Sheffy, Maria Escamilla, Fern Sigle, Catherine Gripp, Oleta Hoffman, Willie Wimberley, Billee Johnson, Mrs. P.H. Gilliland, Helen Langley, Mrs. O.G. Hill Sr. and Mrs. R.L. Wilson.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Actor Kirk Douglas, sporting a black eye and painful bruises, says he can't remember much about a helicopter crash two weeks ago, but surviving it changed his life.

"I have a whole different outlook," Douglas said in Tuesday's Daily Variety.

The 74-year-old actor was aboard a helicopter that collided Feb. 13 with a single-engine plane at Santa Paula Airport, 50 miles northwest of Los Angeles. Both men aboard the plane died, but all three men in the helicopter - including cartoon voice artist Noël Blanc - survived.

Douglas, star of such films as "Lust for Life" and "The Detective Story," says he doesn't remember much about the crash.

Dinosaur Day planned at historical museum

The Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will host its third Dinosaur Day from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday. Activities are planned for children ages three through 10 years.

Public invited to service

The public is invited to attend the World Day of Prayer service scheduled at 9:30 a.m. Friday in the Lamar Room of King's Manor Methodist Home.

Guest speaker will be Aruna Lewis, a native of India. Reared in a Christian home, Lewis' father is the director of Training Evangelistic Leadership in India. She attended the University of Osmania in India and received her masters degree in English.

In conjunction with the World Day of Prayer's theme, "On the Journey Together," Lewis will be speaking on the Christian aspect of women in India compared to women here.

The business session will be led by Eloise McDougal, president of Church Women United in Texas.

Child care will be available at $2 per hour during the special observance Friday.

World Day of Prayer is an international worship event that bonds Christian women of all major denominations and faiths into a simultaneous day of prayer for peace and justice. The official sponsor of the event in the United States is Church Women United.

Dr. Petersen speaks at study club meeting recently

During the recent meeting of the Bay View Study Club, Dr. Peter Petersen of the West Texas State University speakers' staff spoke on "A Park for the Panhandle." Petersen traced the history of the Palo Duro State Park, located east of Canyon, from the first plans for creating a park in the Texas Panhandle to the present.

"A concerted effort was made to secure federal funding for a national park in the early 1920s, he said, and when these efforts failed, continued requests were made to the Texas legislature until the area was approved as a state park in the mid-1940s.

"Bonds were issued to pay for purchase of the land and for initial improvements to attract tourists to the scenic beauty of the canyon. Continual improvements are now being made to the part area, spurred in particular by the spectacular success of the musical "TEXAS" which has drawn hundreds of thousands of people to Palo Duro," Peterson concluded.

Hostess for the meeting held in the Halbert Room of the Hereford Country Club was Nancy Hays.

The next meeting will be a guest day tea with Carlee Burdett presenting a concert of her own musical compositions and arrangements. Featured will be a women's trio singing selections from "A Child's Garden of Verses" arranged by Mrs.

Keyes gives program on Texas

Hereford Senior Citizens Center was the setting of the Feb. 23 meeting of Cultural Extension Homemakers Club.

"Texas Statistics" was the topic of the program presented by Perry Keyes. She stated that March 5 is the 150th anniversary of Texas. She noted that in the early years of Texas it had 152 blacksmith shops and 41 barber shops. Texas was a major cornboom state until the invention of plastic. She presented each member with a Desert Storm band. The band is a witnessing tool with Bible scriptures.

President Jewell Hargrave opened the business meeting and Edna Marnell voiced a prayer and led members in the T.E.H.A. prayer. Naomi Hare led members in the pledge to the United States and Texas flags.

Nell Pope presented the opening exercise titled "Johnny Can't Read." Edith Higgins read a poem on "How To Cook A Husband." Roll call was answered with "How many years have you lived in Texas?"

The minutes were read and Byrdie Fellers gave the finance report, noting that two birthday cards to nursing homes were sent. Members voted to support Johnnie Messer for district director and Keyes will attend leader training on March 4.

The next meeting will be March 8 and the program topic will be "The New Texas Crop."

Others attending were Carrie Mae Doak, Vernis Parsons, Jewel Rogers, S.T. Walton, Winnie Wiseman, Bertha Dettmann, and Fannie Townsend.

NEW YORK (AP) - Expect to see a homosexual character soon on the hit television series "Roseanne," but don't expect a stereotypical presentation of gay life, says star Roseanne Barr.

"When I do it on my show - and I will very soon - I want it to be a natural thing. I want to show that gay characters aren't freaky, aren't weird, and aren't all dying of AIDS," Barr says in the March 12 issue of The Advocate, a national magazine for homosexuals.

Barr says she's thinking about a show in which her character's husband, played by John Goodman, discovers that one of his beer-drinking buddies - a plumber - is homosexual.

The idea did not come from ABC. "Once the network gives you their ideas, forget it, because the characters end up being so stereotypical," she said.

Ryan visits White House

By JIM REEVES
FORT WORTH Star-Telegram
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - It wasn't your everyday lineup - the president of the United States, Queen Margrethe II of Denmark and Nolan Ryan.

Who's your cleanup hitter in that group? Ryan, official Texas hero, and his wife, Ruth, received an up-close and personal look inside the White House last week when they were guests of President and Barbara Bush for a state dinner honoring the queen. Afterward, the Ryans spent the night in the Lincoln Room.

Ryan liked it so much he said he wouldn't mind going back someday. Enough, perhaps, to stay a few years?

"Well, I don't know if I'd go that far," said Ryan. "I don't think that's in the works. Maybe that first stop (the governor's mansion) in Texas would be all right. But I really don't have political aspirations."

The Ryans joined a group of about 130 guests for the black-tie dinner last Wednesday.

Their stay included a personal tour of the White House with the president, who showed them the Oval Office, his private office, his television room, the White House horseshoe pits - "I didn't pick one up because I didn't want to embarrass myself," Ryan said - the tennis courts, weight room and private living quarters.

"The president took about an hour out of his day just to show us around," Ryan said. "That's one of the nicer things we've ever done. They were gracious hosts and really made us feel at home."

The Ryans joined the president and Barbara Bush for another short visit before the dinner, then went in for the official reception. The guest list also included comedian Don Knotts and actress Melanie Griffith, who, Ruth Ryan said, was the hit of the evening in a dress that was "short, tight and very revealing."

"I was nervous when I found out Nolan and I were going to be sitting at separate tables," Ruth said. "But I was sitting between Walter Cronkite and Secretary of State James Baker, and they both have Texas backgrounds, so it was really nice."

Ryan found himself at the head table with the president and the queen.

"It was boy-girl, boy-girl," Ryan said. "The queen, the president, Colin Powell's wife, Alma, me and Katherine Couric of 'The Today Show.'"

Ryan said he and the queen didn't talk much baseball.

"She probably knew less about me than I did her, and I didn't know a whole lot about her," Ryan said. "I don't think she was interested in any free agents."

Later in the evening, the Ryans were invited to join the Bushes and some of their family in the sitting room adjacent to the president's living quarters.

"We just shot the breeze for about an hour," Ryan said, "and then we walked the dogs. Mrs. Bush's (springer spaniel) is named Millie. The president's is named Ranger."

The Ryans were extremely impressed with the White House. "It's a living museum," Ryan said.

That includes the Lincoln Room, where the Ryans didn't get much sleep.

"We were too excited," Ruth said. "The Lincoln Room is beautiful. It's huge, all done in green and yellow with tall windows."

The walls, she said, are filled with portraits of Lincoln and his wife, Mary Todd Lincoln. The bed, purchased by Mary Todd Lincoln, featured a large ornately carved rosewood headboard. A Bible on an antique stand was dated 1799.

"We were afraid to touch it," Ruth said.

Later that evening, the first lady made sure the Ryans had filled out their breakfast card. The next morning, promptly at 8, breakfast was served on a silver tray.

"I told Mrs. Bush that Nolan was going to get spoiled," Ruth said. "She said she had told George the same thing. She said she told him, 'Remember, we're not going to live here forever.'"

Off-road racers successful, looking for new members

Two local racing groups competed last weekend in the Eighteenth Annual Tejano Sand-Drags, and several Hereford residents brought home plaques for high finishes.

The races were held on the banks of the Canadian River near Dumas Bridge. A "sand-drag" is simply a drag race on sand instead of on a hard surface. A sand-drag course is straight and 100 yards long.

Jim Zetsche of the Great Plains 4-by-4 club was the only local to bring home a first-place trophy. He also earned a second-place plaque. His wife, Mary, won two third places, and Jim's brother, Joe Don got one for second place.

The Hastings Racing team was the other group from Hereford to go. Donna Richardson brought home two second-place plaques, Sammy Hastings got one for second place and Tom Jones got one for third place. Ray Hastings Jr. narrowly missed a plaque by finishing fourth in his race.

Jim Hastings said that the Tejano Sand-Drags draws contestants from all over the country--including some from Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas and North Carolina--as well as from Texas.

Many of the vehicles at the drags are the kinds you see featured in off-road magazines, Hastings said. In fact, two of his pick-ups were recently pictured in Peterson's 4-Wheel and Off Road magazine.

Mary Zetsche would like to see more people enjoying off-road racing. So she is seeking new members for the Great Plains club.

"We're wanting to get a few more members from Hereford," Zetsche said. "We've got six members, but we want more. We want to make it a big club instead of a small group of family."

The club would be a way of not only getting together for races, but for family outings as well, Zetsche said.

"We need our own club in Hereford so we can sponsor a sand-drag," Jim Hastings said.

Having only one sand-drag a year, Hastings said, leaves too long to wait between races.

"If you mess up there, you have to wait all year," he said.

Hastings and Mary Zetsche both said that anyone interested in joining the club should contact one of them. Mary's telephone number at Bar Z sales is 364-4886. The only requirement is that you own a four-wheel drive vehicle.

Besides doing well in the competition, the Hastings team spread a little patriotic spirit.

"We participated in a dedication to our boys overseas," Jim Hastings, said. "We have one over there ourselves."

Walter Joslin, Hastings' nephew and a member of the racing team, is serving in the Army in the Persian Gulf area.

Rangers gain arms

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Pitchers Scott Chiamparino and Jim Poole were among three players signed to one-year contracts by the Texas Rangers, the team said Wednesday.

Also agreeing to a contract was outfielder Kevin Belcher, said Sandy Johnson, Rangers' assistant general manager for player personnel and scouting.

The team did not disclose further terms.

The three, all rookies, played in the major leagues for part of 1990. Belcher and Chiamparino were with Texas, while Poole played for Los Angeles.

With the agreements, the Rangers now have 30 of the 40 players on their major league roster under contract for this year.

Amateur free agent pitcher David Chavarria also signed a contract with the Rangers' Gulf Coast Rookie League team.

Chavarria, 17, of Burnaby, British Columbia, is in his senior year at Burnaby Central High School. The 6-8, 195-pound Chavarria is the son of former major leaguer Ossie Chavarria.

Pokes sign ex-Hog

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys have signed former University of Arkansas offensive lineman Freddie Childress.

The 6-4, 361-pound Childress was a second round draft pick for the Cincinnati Bengals in 1989, but he was released before the regular season began. He was signed by the Cowboys Wednesday.

Childress started at right guard for 3½ seasons for the Razorbacks. He earned second-team All-America and first-team All-Southwest Conference honors in 1988.

Hershiser ready

By RONALD BLUM
AP Sports Writer
Orel Hershiser's is ready to pitch in exhibition games, anyway.

That's what the doctor for the 1988 National League Cy Young Award winner said Wednesday after Hershiser threw for the second time in spring training.

"He felt no pain in his shoulder and the ball was moving very well," said Dr. Frank Jobe, who operated on Hershiser's shoulder 10 months ago. "If he's excited, I'm excited."

Jobe said he didn't know if Hershiser would be ready for opening day, but that exhibition games were probable.

"I felt good," Hershiser said. "This outing was progress, compared to the last outing. I hope they all feel this good."

Frogs use home cooking to pay back Horns

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Christian Horned Frogs made a 49-point turnaround to beat the Texas Longhorns for the first time in four years on Wednesday night. TCU, which had lost 90-49 to Texas in Austin, stunned the 'Horns in Fort Worth with a 78-70 victory behind Allen Tolley's career-tying high 20 points.

In other Southwest Conference games, Houston whipped Southern Methodist 85-58 and Rice defeated Texas A&M 72-55.

Texas, seeking a 20-victory season for the third straight year, is 19-7 overall and 12-3 in the SWC. TCU is 17-9 and 8-7.

"Texas really humiliated us down there in Austin and this makes us really happy," said Tolley, who had 14 of his points in the first half.

It was TCU's first victory over Texas since 1987 and the losing streak was snapped at eight games.

Texas coach Tom Penders had never lost to the Frogs in seven games.

TCU, shooting only 57 per cent from the line, hit 29 of 38 for 76 per cent.

The last 18 points by the Frogs were from the free throw line.

TCU hit 29 of 38 free throws to only 12 of 17 for Texas.

TCU coach Moe Iba, who beat Penders for the first time, said "We were awfully tired but we did a good job of hitting our free throws. Tolley played a great game."

Tolley said "Collie was playing off of me and leaving me open so I just decided to try two or three shots and if they were falling I'd keep trying them. They kept falling."

Penders said "it was a tough loss. The momentum swung to TCU when Joey (Wright) got his technical."

Wright's technical foul at 14:57 and Mark Moton's two free throws gave the Frogs a 47-44 lead. Texas never got ahead again in the game.

"Joey was angry because he had been getting killed when he drove down the lane," Penders said. "He just kept getting hammered."

Wright said about the technical: "I didn't say one word. The officials hurt the conference tonight. We might not go to the national tournament because of it. I've been playing too long to have the ball slip out of my hands seven times."

Penders said "TCU held up well down the stretch. They hit a lot of free throws. Fouling was the only thing we could do in that situation. TCU was a better team than we saw in Austin."

Penders said he didn't know if the loss hurt Texas' NCAA chances.

"I'm not going to worry about it," he said.

Texas made it to the NCAA Midwest regional finals last year.

Wright scored 25 points to pass Jim Krivacs for third place on the all-time Texas scoring list. Wright has 1,680 career points.

Houston senior forward Darrell Mickens scored 14 points and had eight rebounds as the Cougars used a 39-8 run late in the first half and early in the second half to defeat Southern Methodist 85-58.

Derrick Smith led Houston with 15 points and Byron Smith followed with 11 more as Houston set a team conference record with 10 three-point shots.

The Cougars are now 17-9 overall and 9-6 in conference play. SMU, which fell to 11-16, and 6-10, has lost seven of its last nine games.

During that stretch, Mickens had seven points, four rebounds and two steals, while Derrick Smith contributed six more points.

SMU had no one in double figures. Mike Wilson, Troy Valentino and David Shivers each scored nine points.

Brent Scott scored a game-high 21 points and grabbed 11 rebounds to lead the Rice Owls to a 72-55 victory over Texas A&M.

The Owls (14-12, 8-7) ensured their first winning season since 1971 with the victory. Other Rice scorers in double figures were Chase Maag with 13 points and Torrey Andrews with 12.

The Aggies (7-19, 2-13) were paced by Shedrick Anderson's 13 points and Freddie Ricks' 12. It was the first season since 1955 that the Aggies lost all of their home conference games.

Shaq leads LSU past Florida

By The Associated Press

Bruised and bumped, Shaquille O'Neal still did a bang-up job.

O'Neal, playing most of the second half with his left knee wrapped tight, had 19 points and 19 rebounds Wednesday night as No. 18 Louisiana State won at Florida 79-66 and clinched a tie for the Southeastern Conference championship.

LSU (20-7, 13-4 SEC) plays at second-place Mississippi State on Saturday. The winner gets the top seed in the league's postseason tournament.

O'Neal limped to the bench early in the second half after getting hit in the knee. The 7-foot-1 star center came back two minutes later and got eight more points and six rebounds.

"I really didn't know how hard he could play. He could barely jump," LSU coach Dale Brown said. "I told Shaquille I didn't want to push him. He sucked it up. There's nothing serious about it. It wasn't knee cartilage or a ligament - just a bad bruise."

O'Neal took only one shot and was scoreless in the game's first seven minutes. He then scored 11 straight LSU points as the Tigers took over.

Florida (11-15, 7-10) made a late run, cutting a 15-point deficit to 66-59 with an 8-0 burst. O'Neal ruined the rally with a three-point play, and LSU added four foul shots and two breakaway dunks.

Dwayne Davis had 18 points and 12 rebounds for the Gators, but at 6-7 had trouble stopping O'Neal. Stacey Poole scored 21 points for Florida.

LSU can win the SEC outright with a win this weekend at Mississippi State.

No. 8 Duke 79, Clemson 62
Christian Laettner scored 17 points and Duke completed its first-ever 16-0 home season.

Grant Hill scored 15 points and Thomas Hill added 14 as the Blue

Deviils (24-6, 10-3) moved into the ACC lead pending Sunday's matchup with No. 4 North Carolina.

No. 12 Oklahoma State 80, No. 15 Nebraska 69
Oklahoma State finished its first perfect home season since 1955 and moved into a tie for first place in the Big Eight.

The Cowboys (21-5, 10-3 Big Eight) went 14-0 at home. They are even with Kansas for the conference title with one game left against Iowa State. Nebraska (23-6, 8-5) finishes against Kansas.

Byron Houston, Oklahoma State's leading scorer, was held to just 13 points, 10 below his average, and fouled out with four minutes left. Johnny Pittman, at 7-foot-2, had 12 points, eight rebounds and five blocks.

Connecticut 62, No. 20 Seton Hall 60
Chris Smith missed with three seconds left in overtime, got his own rebound and scored at the buzzer to lift the host Huskies.

Smith shot just 3 of 17 from the field, but won it with a 15-footer from the right corner. Connecticut (17-9) is 8-7 in the Big East; no Big East team with at least eight conference victories has ever failed to earn an NCAA berth.

Rod Sellers had 21 points and 12 rebounds for Connecticut.

No. 23 Mississippi State 94, Auburn 76
Cameron Burns scored 15 points and the Bulldogs broke away early to beat visiting Auburn.

Mississippi State (19-7, 12-5) led 15-4 after seven minutes and increased its edge to 37 points later in the second half.

Magic stuns Suns for 4th straight win

By The Associated Press

With a 5-22 record on the road, the Orlando Magic isn't throwing fear into many NBA teams.

But lately they've been up to some new tricks.

"They played a super game," Phoenix coach Cotton Fitzsimmons said after the Magic stopped the Suns' home winning streak of 13 with a 124-116 decision. "They did what they had to do. They outplayed us and they're playing good basketball. We made a valiant run at them, but it wasn't good enough."

The victory was Orlando's fourth straight, three of them on the road. The Suns last lost at home on Dec. 21 - a 132-128 overtime defeat against San Antonio.

"A lot of guys contributed. That's very important for us," Magic coach Matt Koukas said. "We made just enough free throws to hang on down the stretch. We've been playing pretty well on the road even though we don't have a lot of wins to show for it."

Scott Skiles scored 22 points and Jerry Reynolds had nine of his 15 in the fourth quarter for the Magic.

Phoenix, which trailed 59-57 at halftime and 93-88 after the third period, took a 96-95 lead on Kevin Johnson's free throws with 8:57 remaining.

Reynolds put Orlando ahead to stay at 97-96 on a running right-hander in the lane with 8:36 to play.

Jazz 118, Golden State 103
Karl Malone scored 38 points, 15 in the decisive fourth quarter, as Utah turned a one-point game into a rout.

John Stockton scored 21 points and dished out 16 assists and Thurl Bailey added 18 points for the Jazz.

Mavericks 108, Pacers 104
Alex English and Rolando Blackman scored 21 points apiece to lead Dallas.

Chuck Person scored 24 points and grabbed seven rebounds for Indiana, and Detlef Schrempf added 20 points and eight rebounds.

Randy White hit a pair of free throws with 44 seconds left for a 104-100 Dallas lead. White was immediately returned to the line, where he connected on two more to extend the lead to 106-100 with 34 seconds left.

Schrempf hit two foul shots to pull Indiana within four points, but Dallas' Derek Harper clinched the victory with another pair of free throws.

76ers 107, Hawks 103
Armon Gilliam had 26 points and 12 rebounds in leading Philadelphia to its sixth straight victory.

Hersey Hawkins added 22 points and Charles Barkley 20 for Philadelphia. Dominique Wilkins had 26 points for visiting Atlanta.

An 8-2 surge gave Philadelphia a 103-101 lead, but John Battle's two free throws with 53 seconds left tied the score at 103. Hawkins made an 18-footer with 33 seconds left and Rickey Green's two foul shots with 8.4 seconds remaining secured the victory.

Celtics 116, Timberwolves 111
Larry Bird broke out of his shooting slump with 35 points.

Bird, who hit 32.9 percent of his shots and scored 51 points in his previous four games, sank 12 of 21 shots, including four of six 3-pointers.

The victory came one day after the Celtics were replaced as the Eastern Conference leaders by Chicago, which crushed them 129-99.

Hornets 96, Kings 90
J.R. Reid and Johnny Newman scored 18 points each as Charlotte rallied to beat Sacramento.

Kelly Tripucka added 16 points and Dell Curry contributed 15 points for Charlotte.

Lionel Simmons scored a game-high 30 points and grabbed a team-high 12 rebounds for Sacramento.

Spurs on road

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - The San Antonio Spurs get to find out for sure whether they've overcome a mid-season slump when they begin a three-game road trip tonight in New York.

The Spurs, 35-17, broke a four-game losing streak with two consecutive victories over the Portland Trail Blazers. And several Spurs players said they've acquired a new attitude as the final stretch of the regular season approaches.

"We're more aggressive. We're more confident. That's the team I'm used to," said forward Terry Cummings. "Playing in these last two games has really upped our momentum. We've been more emotional than we've been in a long time."

San Antonio, plagued by injuries, in February recorded its first losing month of the past two seasons.

Cummings, who had started at forward, is playing a limited number of minutes as he recovers from a fractured bone in his left hand. Starting point guard Rod Strickland is out with a fractured bone in his right hand, injured in a fight outside a nightclub.

But the Spurs have managed to hang on to first place in the Midwest Division.

They beat Portland 102-101 in overtime Tuesday in San Antonio, following a 95-88 victory over the Blazers on Sunday in Portland.

The dramatic, physical contests came on the heels of a four-game losing streak capped by a loss to the Los Angeles Clippers.

"What can I say? We beat the team with the best record, back-to-back," Spurs coach Larry Brown said.

Spurs players called the victories a turning point for the team and the start of jockeying for playoff position.

How to build your money up without tying it down.

Our Money Market Freedom Account gives you access to your money and higher market rates.

What good is high interest on money you can't touch? We couldn't tell you. Because an AmWest Money Market Freedom Account doesn't work that way. We don't tie your hands or your money. With our Money Market Freedom Account you get a high rate of interest plus liquidity of assets. You can write three checks a month and three pre-authorized transfers can be established. You can even get a Freedom Checking Account that requires no minimum balance, no service charges, and is non-interest bearing. Opening a Money Market Freedom Account is easy. All you need is a minimum deposit of $2,500. The more you deposit, the higher the rate of interest. And with $25,000 and above you'll receive a bonus rate on a new CD for one year terms or more. So if you have high cash flow, don't settle for a high interest rate account you can't get your hands on. Put your money in an AmWest Money Market Freedom Account.

Balance	Yield	Rate
$2,500 to $24,999	6.18%	6.00%
$25,000 to $49,999	6.72%	6.50%
$50,000 and above	7.00%	6.77%

Interest is compounded continuously and set daily on prevailing money market yields. A $15.00 service charge will be assessed monthly and interest will be substantially reduced if the balance falls below the required minimum daily balance.

Schwarzkopf gives virtuoso performance

WASHINGTON (AP) - He slapped his pointer on the map, and you had to pay attention.

There stood Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf in his baggy desert camouflage outfit, spinning a story of how the outnumbered allies duped Saddam Hussein, blasted through his deadly mine fields and barbed wire and left the Iraqi army in tatters.

Far from the routine monotone presentations of his underlings, the burly commander of Operation Desert Storm put on a spellbinding show in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

For the Iraqi soldiers dead in their trenches, he had pity.

For their commander, Saddam, he had scorn.

For the allies, he had a four-star salute.

For the Iraqi soldiers guilty, he said, of committing unspeakable atrocities upon the captive people of Kuwait he had contempt.

Those who did that, he spat, were "not part of the same human race, the people who did that, that the rest of us are."

And even for the Marines, this Army general had praise.

Their achievement in breaching a "very tough mine field-with-barbed wire fire trenches-type barrier," he said, was "absolutely superb," a military classic likely to be studied for years.

What, he was asked, did he think of Saddam's talents as a military strategist?

"Hah!" Schwarzkopf cried. He leaned on his lectern. He grinned.

"As far as Saddam Hussein being a great military strategist," he said, "he is neither a strategist, nor is he schooling in the operational arts, nor is he a tactician, nor is he a general, nor is he a soldier."

"Other than that he's a great military man. I want you to know that."

With the skill of a politician, Schwarzkopf saluted every element of the U.S.-led coalition in the Persian Gulf War.

He hailed the fighting spirit of the French and the "Brits" who performed "absolutely magnificently" and all the Arab partners - "it was the Saudis, it was the Kuwaitis, it was the Egyptians, it was the Syrians, it was the Emiris from the United Arab Emirates, it was the Bahrainis, it was the Qataris, and it was the Omanis, and I apologize if I've left anybody out.

"It was a great coalition of people, all of whom did a fine job."

To keep the Iraqis forces on the defensive along the Kuwait coast, he admitted to a ploy. He said he let the word go out that the allies intended to mount an amphibious landing while all the time he planned instead a powerful northward drive to attack from the west.

He wasn't modest about that strategy. It was, he said, "an absolutely, an extraordinary move... a gigantic accomplishment."

Schwarzkopf's tone changed with the questions.

When a reporter suggested that the Iraqis' battlefield obstacles were not as troublesome as commanders had expected, he cut the questioner off: "Have you ever been in a mine field?"

Schwarzkopf said the number of Americans killed - 79, just 28 in the ground battle - was "almost miraculous," then thought better of that.

His voice seemed to catch, and he added: "It will never be miraculous to the families of those people, but it is miraculous."

He could not say, he told another questioner, why the Iraqis had not used chemical or biological weapons. "I don't know the answer, I just thank God that they didn't."

Nor could he guess, he said, how many Iraqi troops had perished in battle.

"The people who will know best, unfortunately, are the families that won't see their loved ones come home."

Schwarzkopf clearly had history on his mind. He made several references to the unprecedented scale of the military moves and to the way a force numerically outnumbered 3-2 foiled conventional wisdom that an attacking force should have at least a 3-1 advantage.

History came up again when Schwarzkopf was asked about his disdain for body counts.

"I don't think there has ever been in the history of warfare a successful count of dead," he said.

And, playfully, the general could not keep from tweaking the press.

To a reporter who asked if he had been allowed to select the timing for the start of the ground campaign, Schwarzkopf raised an eyebrow and wondered, "Why, do you think we did it at the wrong time?"

As usual, the press had the last word. It was this: "Thank you. Congratulations, general."

Iraqis scramble for food

NORTHWEST OF NASIRIYAH, Iraq (AP) - Skittish sheep sprinted in all directions as Army attack helicopters buzzed the fertile Euphrates River plain beside the two-lane highway where the 101st Airborne did most of its fighting.

Baghdad was less than 150 miles away.

Burned-out shells of civilian and military vehicles dotted the road and Bedouin tents filled the horizon.

Along the highway, dozens of ragged-looking Iraqi civilians looted a burned-out truck that had been carting flour.

Women turned from the looting to expose a single breast to American soldiers and point to their mouths in a sign troops interpreted to mean they had babies to feed. Iraqi men also pointed to their mouths and cursed Saddam Hussein in broken English.

More than 8,000 U.S. infantrymen had been ferried deep into Iraq by helicopter in what commanders described as the biggest such airborne operation - and encountered little resistance.

No American casualties were reported in the lightning strike, which began early Monday.

On Wednesday, the soldiers cut the highway, which is just south of the Euphrates and northwest of the provincial capital of Nasiriyah - a major route for Iraqi soldiers fleeing the Kuwait theater of battle. They troops blew craters in the roadway, burned the surface off in places and destroyed at least 17 Iraqi trucks, leaving them blocking the road.

Since Tuesday, the American soldiers had been attacking fleeing enemy troops along the highway. In more than two days, two Iraqi soldiers were killed and 22 wounded. At least 40 were captured.

The Americans frequently encountered Iraqi civilians and most contact was relatively relaxed.

On several occasions, however, civilians would scream, "Don't eat us, please!" said Capt. Paul Floyd.

Dinner theater set

David Fanning (Samson) and Keith Ann Gearn (Delilah) are rehearsing for the skit "Take a Little Off the Sides" which will be performed during the Nazarene Christian Academy Dinner Theater at 7 p.m. March 1-2 in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center auditorium. Tickets are priced at $12 per person and are available at the academy office, First Church of the Nazarene office, Federal Land Bank, Farm Bureau and Senior Citizens Center.

Kearns wins play writing contest-recently

Caroline Kearns, daughter of Marvin and LaVerne Kearns of Hereford, recently won a prize-winning play write with "Pounding on the Door" at the Alpha Psi Omega play writing contest held at Methodist College.

Three original plays written by Methodist College students will be staged Saturday, March 23, in Reeves Auditorium in Fayetteville, N.C. The plays were judged by the best of 10 entries. "The Vanity" and "The Crumbs of Self", written by Brian Smallwood were also selected as prize winners.

Kearns is a junior communications/mass media and English major from Fayetteville, N.C. and Smallwood is a business administration with a concentration in professional tennis management major from Geneva, Ohio.

The three original plays will be presented as part of Methodist College Theater department's day-long "Hail, Dionysus" celebration. The plays will be judged in performance and given awards for excellence.

Tulsa Ballet Theater to perform in Amarillo March 10

The Lone Star Ballet will present the Tulsa Ballet Theater in performance at 8 p.m. Sunday, March 10, in the Amarillo Civic Center auditorium.

Tickets are priced at $6, $12 and $18 and can be purchased during regular business hours at the Lone Star Ballet office in Amarillo at 1000 Polk, or by calling 1-372-2363 with a major credit card.

The Tulsa Ballet will be presenting its critically acclaimed "Mozart Violin Concerto" and "The Merry Widow." The concerto, a setting of Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 5 is regarded as a George Balanchine masterpiece, and its revival, staged by Esmeralda Agoglia in collaboration with Tulsa Ballet's Roman Jasinski and Moscelyne Larkin, has been hailed universally by dance critics ranging from The New York Times to DanceMagazine.

Health hints suggested

Don't ignore these symptoms: frequent heartburn; chest pains that could be mistaken for angina; difficulty swallowing; belching; regurgitation of acid fluid into your mouth. These symptoms could mean nothing but they could be signs of a serious digestive problem.

Gastroesophageal reflux disease is the most common malady of the esophagus. Symptoms occur in an estimated seven percent of the adult population daily and 20 percent of the adult population monthly, reports the Center for Healthcare Communications. Left untreated, reflux disease can lead to ulcers on the esophagus and to digestive disorders.

If you think you have reflux disease, see your doctor. If the symptoms are mild, you'll probably be told to take antacids, lose weight if you're overweight, avoid smoking and alcohol, eat smaller but more frequent meals, and elevate the head of your bed, reflux problems are more common during the night. If our symptoms are more serious, your doctor can prescribe an H2 receptor antagonist, a drug that increases the speed with which food passes through the stomach and into the intestines. Only your doctor can tell you which treatment is best for you.

Wall gives program to study club

Suzie Wall with Texas Galleries gave a program on ceramics when members of Toujours Amis Study Club met recently in the home of Melinda Bridge.

Wall exhibited her products designed in her studio and told the members how they could sign up for lessons or purchase finished products at the gallery.

During the business meeting, members viewed a video made at their winter social and Valentine party.

Donna West was welcomed as a new member and communications were read from Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Hereford High School counseling office concerning scholarships and Friends of the Library.

Hostesses, Nena Veazey, Janet Brigance, Bridge and Cindy Simons, served desserts to those present. They included Judy Barrett, Kim Bigham, Cindy Black, Patti Brown, Kim Buckley, Kathy Carthel, Tami Charest, Lisa Formby, Shannon Hagar, Brenda Koenig, Marilyn Leasure, Kyla McDowell, Elaine McNutt, Kim Porter, Becky Reinart, Marsha Winget and West.

Watch for the spread

Middle-age spread isn't inevitable, health experts say. Watching food intake and exercising are keys to avoiding buildup of excess fat.

Losing weight really is pretty simple: It involves using up more calories than are consumed, reports the 1.3 million member United Food and Commercial Workers Union (UFCW).

Dieting alone isn't a good way to lose weight, nutritionists emphasize, because when people eat less, fewer calories are burned. Exercise, on the other hand, burns fat because it consumes calories.

Muscle-building exercises are especially good for reducing fat, because muscles use up more calories than fat tissue. Charging them up through exercise uses more calories, which helps get rid of stored fat.

That's why some fitness experts recommend exercise before meals. If the body is geared up to top speed, the calories being consumed will be burned up faster.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your advice on a family matter. My sister thinks I owe her $700 for back rent and bills.

The story goes back three years when "Susan" was pregnant with twins and having a hard time doing her housework and laundry. My husband had to go to Florida on a job, so I decided to move to Wyoming to help Susan out. For 63 days I cooked, cleaned her house, ran errands and even sewed a Halloween costume for her son and took him trick-or-treating.

Two years later we both ended up on Oklahoma. Her husband went to Arizona to work, so I baby-sat for Susan while she attended school at night. We agreed that she would pay me $25 a week. After six weeks she had paid me only $10. I told her I couldn't continue to work for nothing because I had to provide for my 4-year-old and I was going to school during the day. That is when Susan informed me that I owed her $700 for "rent" in Wyoming, plus the cost of the plane ticket she bought me so I could visit our parents in California.

My question is this: Should I send Susan a bill for my services for the 63 days I worked in her house in Wyoming? I checked with three people in an employment agency and was told that in 1987, the going rate for the services I performed was $35 a day. This comes to $2,205.

I helped my sister out of friendship and had no intention of charging her, but now she wants to charge ME. We live seven blocks apart, and I'm afraid our children are going to grow up strangers because their mother and I will not be speaking to each other. Please reply -- Unappreciated in Oklahoma

DEAR OKLAHOMA: I would not attempt to make a judgement without listening to your sister's side of the story. You stated that you went to Wyoming to help Susan out, but her interpretation of the move was that you came to live with her. Then there's a trip to California which she provided -- no small item.

I suggest that the two of you take this mess to an impartial person, a priest, minister, rabbi or therapist, and get it settled. It would be a shame to spend the rest of your lives on the outs over a money fight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a foreign student studying in America.

I enjoy reading your articles not only because they help me improve my English, but I am learning a lot about solving the problems that life presents. It is apparent that people have much the same kind of trouble no matter where they live.

Now it is my turn to ask you for advice. My problem is that I stammer, and it is interfering with my ability to make friends. Because of this handicap, I am reluctant to speak up. I'm sure people think I am stupid because I say so little.

Sometimes I think stammering is a kind of sickness, but that doesn't seem logical because it comes and goes. If I could get rid of stammering, Miss Landers, I'm sure I could have a much better life.

Thank you for your attention to my problem. -- R.J., Philadelphia

DEAR FRIEND IN PHILLY: Stammering is not a sickness. It is a speech problem often caused by an unresolved emotional problem. Ask you English professor to recommend a speech therapist. With competent instruction and a lot of effort you should be able to overcome this handicap completely. Good luck.

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information. Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent. An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to. Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing. So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent. Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examine the latest market trends and housing opportunities. With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.
