Hurricane hits Louisiana coast

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — Hurricane Danny bore down on the central Louisiana coast today with torrential rain and wind gusts of 85 mph, and authorities said more than 30,000 people were evacuated from offshore drilling rigs and towns as far south as Galveston, Texas.

But as the leading edge of the sprawling, wet storm lashed the coast with thunderstorms, the path shifted slightly to the north, prompting forecasters to adjust predictions for landfall, expected in the marshes south of New Iberia.

Gale winds and flash floods were expected all along the Louisiana coast, including in New Orleans, about 125 miles east. Gale warnings and a hurricane watch were posted from the mouth of the Mississippi to Pensacola, Fla.

"Danny has the potential for further strengthening before landfall," the National Hurricane Center said Wednesday.

At 8 a.m. CDT, the hurricane was centered near latitude 29.0 north, longitude 92.6 west, or just off the Louisiana coast south-southeast of Lake Charles. It was moving north-northwest at 10 to 15 mph. Forecasters said Danny was expected to cross the Louisiana coast south of Lake Charles by late morning.

Although classified a minimal hurricane, the storm was so potentially dangerous that hurricane warnings remained in effect from Freeport, Texas, to the mouth of the Mississippi River, about 100 miles south of New Orleans.

Ernest LaFont, police chief of Grand Isle, La., said at least one tornado ripped the roof of a cement building early today and knocked out electricity to up to 90 percent of the island. "We have live wires all over the place," he said.

In a massive airlift, oil and gas companies evacuated an estimated 20,000 workers from platforms scattered throughout the Gulf of Mexico. "We've got everything flying every minute," said Byron Stone, operations officer for Petroleum Helicopters Inc. in Lafayette.

The latest advisories warned that gale-force winds that began lashing Louisiana's shoreline late Wednesday would be followed closely by hurricane-force winds of at least 75 mph.

The hurricane warning said there would likely be 10 or more inches of rain and tides 5 to 8 feet above normal. It said tornadoes probably would spin off as Danny passes.

Towns directly in Danny's path — Cameron, La., and Sabine Pass, Texas — were ordered evacuated at 5 p.m. Wednesday. Cameron has about 9,300 residents; Sabine Pass about 650.

But the late advisory pinpointing New Iberia came when many people had already gone to bed, officials said.

"We've had no problems at all," said Iberia Parish sheriff's Deputy (See DANNY, Page 2)

Reagan aides take spotlight

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — White House officials went to extraordinary lengths this week to focus the media spotlight on their own activities, while President Reagan remained in seclusion at his mountaintop ranch.

Waves of television cameramen, still photographers and reporters from the 100-plus White House press corps were ushered into a plush cottage at the elegant, seaside Biltmore Hotel to catch a glimpse of Tuesday's unusual telephone-conference among top-level presidential aides here and in Washington.

Not in recent memory, according to longtime White House correspondents, had such attention been focused on a staff meeting. At the White House, such "photo opportunities" are reserved for events attended by the president, and his top aides usually remain out of the cameras' range.

But this week on the West Coast, Reagan stuck to his plans for a tranquil vacation on his 688-acre spread about 25 miles outside this Southern California resort town. Before the president's vacation began, White House spokesman Larry Speakes had said Reagan's aim during his three-week holiday was to complete the recuperation from his July 13 colon cancer surgery.

Long-range network television cameras, poised on a nearby mountaintop, stood ready to capture the president's activities at his ranch — perhaps even his first horseback ride since surgery.

But the cameras came away only with hazy images of several unidentifiable people walking about the ranch, leaving correspondents confessing that they could not be positive the cameras had caught the president strolling or piloting his red pickup truck about his lands.

Therefore, more interesting, and much more accessible thanks to the White House public relations machine, were Reagan's top aides doing what they are supposed to be doing — their jobs.

With Reagan absent, Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan ordered up the transcontinental staff session, saying it was time for the new team he had assembled since coming to the White House six months ago to work out a detailed plan for the remainder of the president's term.

Decoration thefts cause loss to club

Pranksters taking the patriotic Town and Country Jubilee bunting off buildings could be getting into more trouble than they realize.

Mike Carr, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, said that if over two of the striped bunting pieces are taken it is a felony. Carr said the incidents are being considered thefts and not vandalism or mischief.

"My main concern is that the Key Club is responsible. They have to pay for the decorations, plus the renters won't pay if the banners are missing — so the Key Club is losing twice," Carr explained.

"We need the whole town's cooperation to stop this," he added.

Carr said if the banners are returned to the Chamber office, there will be no questions asked.

To be in parade

Bullwhacker doesn't whack 'em

He calls himself a bullwhacker, but promises he never whacks them. Bruce Parr will be leading a line of 10 oxen in the Town and Country Jubilee parade on Saturday by using only voice command.

"You'll pick up your skirts and stop back when you see them coming," he says - but guarantees that those oxen are harmless.

According to Parr, who has been training the animals full time for about two years, the disciplined oxen doesn't have "a bunch of personal

Storms hit around city

Thunderstorms rolled around Deaf Smith County and Hereford Wednesday afternoon with precipitation reports ranging from a shower to .89 of an inch around Dawn.

Most of the showers apparently fell west, south and east of Hereford. KPAN Radio reported an official reading of .09 of an inch with a high of 88 degrees yesterday and a low last night of 64.

Reports of .20 to .30 of an inch of rainfall was reported in the Bootleg, Walcott and Easter areas, but Summerfield recorded only a shower. Hereford Municipal Airport had .20 of an inch, and Frankie Bezner Jr., four miles south of town, had .25 of an inch. There were no reports of moisture north of town around Milo Center or Simms.

A number of farmers are getting ready to plant winter wheat, and some are busy preparing for the early beet harvest in September. Most of the rains have been highly beneficial to crops. A light hail was reported east and north of Dawn. The pea-sized hail may have caused some slight damage to crops.

Art show starts here Friday

The Jubilee of Arts opens Friday at 10 a.m. in the Hereford Community Center for its two-day show in conjunction with the Town and Country Jubilee.

A change in hours will provide working patrons a chance to view the show. On Friday the exhibit will be open until 7 p.m. On Saturday the show opens at 9 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m.

The Senior Citizens also will have the annual quilt show during the Jubilee of Arts.

King's Manor, the Women's Division of the Chamber of Commerce and the Genealogy Society will have displays of their club activities. The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame will have "Bearford, Texas" on display for silent auction.

Nine local artists and three local groups will have booths at the art show. Local individuals exhibiting include Mary Aguirre, ceramics and dolls; Jean and Charles Lyles, paintings; Mary Dean, quilts; Kimberly Moore, cutwork; Cindy Walker, paintings and folk art; Michele Harder, corn husk dolls; Bill Lyles, stained glass; and Jolene Bledsoe, paintings and folded stars.

The Golden Spread Foster Parents will have a variety booth and Bud to Blossom Garden Club will sell applique items, basket stitchery, stuffed dolls and ceramics. The Order of Rainbow will have a "Christmas in August" selection.

Twenty-nine other artists and craftsmen from out of town will be at the show also.

Hirohito observes war anniversary

TOKYO (AP) — Emperor Hirohito of Japan observed the 40th anniversary of the end of World War II today by telling more than 7,000 relatives of war dead that he still grieves for the war's victims, and prays for peace.

"Even now my heart grieves when I think of the many people who fell in the ravages of war and are scattered on the battlefields of the last world war," said the 84-year-old emperor, who announced Japan's surrender on Aug. 15, 1945.

He spoke at Tokyo's Budokan Martial Arts Hall, facing a memorial dedicated to the "souls of the nation's war dead." A large Japanese flag fluttered behind tiers of 25,000 yellow and white chrysanthemums.

The ceremony began with a speech by Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, who said the government "would make endless efforts in the name of world peace and international cooperation, using the lessons we learned from the war, so that the deaths of those who never came back would not be in vain."

An estimated 2.5 to 3.1 million Japanese died in the war, including about 200,000 who perished in the atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Nakasone is to make an official visit this afternoon to the Yasukuni Shrine, where 2.46 million war dead are honored. The visit is the first by a post-war prime minister.

Many religious and pacifist groups oppose the official visit to the shrine, (See HIROHITO, Page 2)

Back seats on plane very popular

DALLAS (AP) — Travel agents are reporting that seats at the back of airplanes are getting a sudden surge in popularity after the Delta Air Lines crash in which almost all survivors were at the plane's rear.

Travel agents said that since the Delta crash Aug. 2 at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport, requests for smoking-section seating in the rear of planes have jumped as much as 50 percent.

"Some people ... are changing to the smoking" section, said Linda Harrison, manager of Gardner Travel Service in Fort Worth. She said smoking section requests are up 10 percent to 20 percent.

"Most of them make a joke of it at first," she said. Only one of the 30 survivors of the Delta crash was seated outside the tail section. The plane struck the ground short of the runway, killing 133 people on the plane and one man on the ground.

On Monday, four passengers in the rear of a Japan Air Lines jet that crashed into a mountainside in Japan survived while 520 died.

But some agents predict the rear-seat requests may be shortlived. At D-FW Travel Service, for example, the initial increase of 35 percent to 50 percent by non-smokers for smoking section seats has already tapered off, said travel consultant Wendy Oldham.

Experts differ on whether seats in the rear are safer in a crash. The Federal Aviation Administration keeps no statistics on safe seat locations.

"Superficially, the rear of the airplane is probably safer because when the airplane crashes into something, the front end gets the most damage," said Paul Packman, a Dallas engineering professor who has investigated several aircraft crashes.

But "the honest truth is in a jet air crash, there is no single safest spot."

Pinkerton gets stay last 26 minutes

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Five Supreme Court justices granted a stay of execution for Jay Kelly Pinkerton, 26 minutes before he was to be put to death for the 1979 rape and mutilation of a mother of three.

Pinkerton, a 23-year-old meat cutter from Amarillo, was waiting in a holding cell only a few feet from the death chamber when Warden Jack Pursley told him that the execution had been blocked. "Thank you," Pinkerton said and then shook Pursley's hand. He was taken back to his death row cell at the Texas Department of Corrections' Ellis Unit, 13 miles away.

He would have been the youngest inmate to be executed since the Supreme Court restored the death penalty in 1976.

"We were of the opinion that a stay probably wouldn't be granted," Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox said in announcing the high court's decision.

"We looked at the issues and didn't see any meritorious issues. He said, however, that his office was surprised initially was moving through the appellate process "as rapidly as it was."

Pinkerton, a convicted burglar with a history of juvenile crime, was sentenced to die by a poison injection shortly after midnight Wednesday for the Oct. 26, 1979 rape and mutilation of Sarah Donn Lawrence, 30. He also has a death sentence for a similar mutilation five months later of Sherry Welch, 25, a former beauty queen.

"It figures," Mrs. Lawrence's mother, Virginia Royer, of Lubbock, said after learning of the stay. "I was afraid this would happen. But maybe it was God's will."

The Supreme Court's decision came two days after the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals refused to block the execution.

U.S. District Judge Hayden Head also denied an appeal typed by Pinkerton only hours before he was transferred to the Walls Unit in downtown Huntsville. The appeal was carried by the inmate's parents, Margie and Gene Pinkerton, to Houston federal court and electronically sent to Head.

"We were not surprised," Mrs. Pinkerton said after a prison official told the family about the stay. "We felt he would get it all along."

Combat phone system to be built

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the midst of a military buildup that has emphasized high-priced missiles, planes and ships, the Army is about to break new ground with a huge contract for a combat telephone system — to be built overseas.

The contract, worth $4.3 billion over the next five years, is expected to be awarded within the month. And it already is guaranteed to become one of the single largest U.S. military orders ever placed with a foreign company.

Two teams of contractors have been formally competing for the contract since last year, when the Army decided to equip 25 divisions with a high-capacity communications system that would offer much more than simple two-way radio channels.

While both of the competing teams are headed by American firms, they are competing on behalf of systems already developed and fielded in Europe.

One team consists of the Plessey Co., a leading British electronics concern, which is offering a system known as Plarmigan in partnership with the Rockwell International Corp. and the ITT Corp.

The other consists of Thomson-CSF, France's nationalized electronics giant, which is offering a system known as RITA in partnership with the GTE Corp.

Plarmigan, named for an Alpine grouse, has been deployed with Britain's First Army. RITA, an acronym for Reseau Integree des Transmissions Automatique, is being used by units of the French and Belgian armies.

Both teams have spent millions to conduct major demonstration exercises in Europe over the past year, allowing Army brass and congressional staffers to scrutinize their systems. Army officials at the Pentagon refuse to discuss the results of those tests, beyond saying both systems are "strong" and a final selection will be difficult.

The Army contract envisions a huge network of Mobile Subscriber Equipment — or MSE for short — that would be rugged, portable and secure yet built with technology that would guarantee huge amounts of capacity.

Home of mixed-race leader attacked

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Attackers hurled a hand grenade early today into the Cape Town home of a leader of the mixed-race Labor Party, killing a 16-year-old family friend and injured the politician's three sons, party officials said.

Meanwhile, Winnie Mandela said in Cape Town after a special visit Wednesday to her jailed husband Nelson Mandela, the country's top black leader, that he wanted President P.W. Botha to visit him in Pollsmoor Prison "and get his direct views."

Mandela, a leader of the outlawed African National Congress, has been in prison since 1964, after being convicted of plotting sabotage. Mrs. Mandela's visit followed the burning of her home Tuesday in an attack that she has blamed on security forces. Police have denied the accusation.

The attack on the home of mixed-race politician Stanley Fisher was the third attack in recent months against leaders of the party which has joined the white-led government in a three-tier Parliament that includes Indians, but excludes the black majority.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

With all of the tremendous volume of news media attacks trying to lay guilt on the people of this nation for the deaths of the people of Hiroshima and Nagasaki and what a terrible thing it was. Somehow we loose sight of the fact that our people were victims far before this happened.

WE DID WHAT WE HAD TO DO. In so doing we brought a close to the death and destruction that was taking place at that time, saving an unknown number of lives, not to mention the terrible destruction that was taking place, bringing a time of peace and prosperity not only to our nation, but to all countries that were involved in World War II. Just stop and think what might have happened had the atomic bomb not have been discovered or if some of the enemy nations had come up with the bomb instead of us.

Where would it have ended? Would you and I and our offspring be alive today, if so, would we be the free people to enjoy the way of life that our ancestors fought and died to preserve for us?

So, we created a monster that could destroy the world. Now other nations have this capability. It has never been the desire of this nation to conquer the world. Had that been so we could have done so at that time. Now other nations that have the desire to conquer and rule the world have developed nuclear weapons to the extent that they could conquer the world, but we, as a nation, stand in their way. My thinking is that no one should have that capability. However, since we, as a nation, have not taken over other countries and have not forced them to accept our form of government, why should we be the one that should lead the way in the arms reduction race. Why shouldn't Russia be the one to lead the way?

They know that we have had this capability of taking over and we didn't, so why are they continuing to seek to gain superiority over us? They have said they would bury us, but the only way they can do that is for you and I to let them. By not being alert and succumb to their propaganda that is trying to undermine our government we will be buried by them.

The great nations of the past have not been destroyed by other nations. Their downfall has come from within their own nation.

To sum up what I have tried to say, let us stop this business of trying to lay a guilt trip on our leaders and scientist that brought about the introduction of the nuclear age.

Let us strive for peace, but not at the cost of freedom of this nation and other free nations of the world. Let's get behind our elected leaders and support our Government. It is not perfect, but I don't know of a better government in this world.

Sincerely yours,
W. Glen Nelson

Ann Landers

Keep them at home

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are the children of elderly parents who are physically and mentally in good condition. They are financially comfortable, as well.

They are tireless in their complaints. No matter how much time and attention they receive, it's not enough. While they do not ask directly, the hints are obvious. They want to move in with us.

We know where they stand on entering a home for the elderly. It would be no go, regardless of our efforts to find suitable surroundings. We can't take them into our homes because they would insist on running our lives. They have always been domineering, intrusive and difficult to get along with. Also, Ann, we are in our 60s and have our own health problems.

Although we don't hang out the family linen for all to see, we feel guilty and see criticism in their faces and in the questions they ask. This situation is very difficult to live with and we don't know what to do. Can you help us?—NO EASY SOLUTIONS IN TAMPA

DEAR TAMPA: You will be damned if you do and damned if you don't. Keep the old folks in their own home as long as possible. Hire help if they can no longer care for themselves. This is the best solution under the circumstances you describe.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old high school guy writing in response to "Sick at Heart in Michigan."

I was a reckless driver. I received four tickets and had two minor accidents. I was headed for trouble. A few of my Dad's friends started telling him whenever they saw me tearing around town.

After my second accident, Dad got tough. Although I'm too old to be spanked I caught it pretty good. I got my license taken away for two months and my curfew lowered by one hour. We had some heart-to-heart talks and each time my parents' love came through loud and clear. I straightened up.

I have my license back now and haven't had to be disciplined since. Tell parents their kids need them just as much when they're teens. Getting tough works; I know. Thanks, Mom and Dad. I love you.—SAFER IN GRAND RAPIDS for writing such an up-front letter. And congratulations to your parents for hanging tough. We need more parental involvement and no-nonsense discipline.

DEAR GRAND: And I love YOU

DEAR ANN LANDERS: "Happy as a Lark in Hamilton, Ontario" advises after 35 years of marriage that if you treat your husband like a king he will treat you like a queen.

I, took have been married 35 years and treated my husband like a king. In return, he has given me the red carpet treatment—walked all over me.—FINALLY CALLED IT QUITS IN LITTLE ROCK

DEAR ROCK: What took you so long? Forgive me for sounding like a broken record, but nobody can walk all over you without your permission.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been needing to go to the dentist but have procrastinated for months because I am a gagger. It's very embarrassing. Any suggestions on how to overcome this problem?—ALL CHOKED UP IN SAGINAW

DEAR SAG: Try singing "AH" in a high key when the dentist puts an instrument in your mouth. You may feel foolish but who cares, if you overcome the problem?

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting - What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Homecoming successful

Approximately 60 people attended the Bippus Homecoming Sunday.

Registration began that morning and was followed by gospel singing. The morning worship service was led by James Hutson who spoke on "Happiness."

Mrs. Charles Higgins gave the memorial service honoring Eliza Hetzler, Zerrell Thomas, Edward Thomas, Robert Boyd, Lizzie Seay, Gertrude Barlow, baby Freeman, Weldon Gregory, Edwin (Bud) Morrison, Homer Thomas, Mrs. Jerome Miles, Vena Guseman and Frank Byrd.

Melvin Henderson offered the memorial prayer.

Mrs. Jimmie Bradley recognized several people including those traveling the farthest, Chloe Dowd and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Dowd and son of Laurel, Ind.; oldest man, Inman Larson; oldest woman, Mrs. Artie Frost; youngest person, Trevor Baird; and largest family represented, Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Fortenberry.

Several specials were sung and dedications made.

Minutes were read and approved by Mrs. Jerry Homfeld.

Officers elected for the next homecoming scheduled Aug. 9, 1986 included Mrs. Charles Higgins, president; Mrs. Ernie Baird, vice-president; Mrs. Jimmie Bradley, assistant vice-president; and Mrs. Jerry Homfeld, secretary.

The meeting adjourned for a luncheon and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in fellowship.

It was announced that Birdie Dodson of Waco, sent a message of regret.

Those in attendance represented Hereford, Red Oak, El Paso, Laurel, Ind., Evanston, Wy., Clovis, N.M., and Fort Worth.

YOLANDA GAVINA

Reception planned Saturday

Yolanda Urias Gavina will be honored with a reception at St. Joseph Hall at 1 p.m. Saturday, following her graduation from West Texas State University.

The wife of Manuel Gavina and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elia Urias Sr. of Hereford, Mrs. Gavina will receive a BA degree in elementary education with a bilingual and kindergarten endorsement. She is employed at Aikman primary school.

Friends and relatives are welcome to the reception.

Most people clean the floors when they send their carpets out for cleaning. It's wise to wait at least three days before putting the rugs back down after cleaning so as to be absolutely sure the floors are completely dry. Even the slightest dampness will cause mildewing of the underside of the carpet.

VIP congressional travel called excessive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Toby Roth was on a congressional trip to South America in January when word reached him in Argentina that John Byrnes, a predecessor in his Wisconsin seat, had died.

The Republican, who had gone south on a military plane, caught a cheaper commercial flight back home for the funeral — saving U.S.

taxpayers $969 on transportation costs and several hundred more for food and lodging he didn't need because he skipped a planned stopover.

The trip demonstrates how congressional delegations taking advantage of using military planes for their foreign travel often end up costing the taxpayers many times more than the bills would have been for flights on commercial airliners.

Senators and representatives such as Roth, accompanied by aides and frequently by spouses, often jet overseas on military planes for what they bill as fact-finding missions to help them make better decisions back home. Spouses are supposed to pay their own ways.

Critics of such traveling, like Sen. Don Nickles, R-Okla., think some of the trips aren't necessary at all — that they simply are first-class, no-cost vacations.

"There's a lot that's not justified," Nickles said by telephone this week while traveling between Washington and Oklahoma. "Not all travel is junketeering, but a lot is junketeering. Part of the ripoff is what I call the self-generated trip — 'It's August, let's go somewhere, let's con up a trip.'"

Roth's trip, under the auspices of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, was one of several dozen listed in travel reports filed by congressional panels for the first quarter of 1985.

Roth is back home during the current August congressional recess, but dozens of his colleagues are off to Europe, Asia, Africa and South America at taxpayers' expense.

The total pricetag of congressional travel is a big questionmark. The latest available trip reports put the cost at $1,152,162 for the first three months of this year. Most of it, $1,071,162, was spent by the House, with Foreign Affairs alone accounting for $339,432.

Nickles, for one, doesn't believe the reports. "I think they grossly underestimate it," he says.

The Congressional Research Service, a branch of the Library of Congress, agrees.

"While the cost of most military transport is reported to Congress, some military flights and other services are not consistently reported," CRS said in a study done last year.

Nickles, on the theory that public scrutiny might prevent some of the more questionable trips, has introduced legislation that would require the budgets of Congress and the State and Defense departments to specify clearly what amounts are allotted for travel.

The latest travel reports show that while military transportation is the favored mode, members of Congress trying to deal with huge budget deficits could have saved money by flying commercial, as Roth did.

At White House request, a 13-person House delegation headed by Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, was flown by the Pentagon to Switzerland on March 11 to observe the opening of the latest round of U.S.-Soviet arms control talks.

The reports put the cost of the aircraft at $69,645 — or $5,357 for each person aboard, including aides. Another spending report shows that two days later, Rep. Thomas Coleman, R-Mo., took a round-trip commercial flight to Switzerland for $921.

In January, House Rules Committee Chairman Claude Pepper, D-Fla., led a trip to Israel, Egypt, Greece and Spain that cost $8,817 per seat on a military plane.

The following month, House Armed Services Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., flew commercial on a longer trip that took him to the United Kingdom, Egypt and Kenya and back. His report put the travel cost at $2,393.

Accused phony KGB agent was international con man

AUSTIN (AP) — Before bilking an Austin man by posing as a KGB agent, Bratislav Lilic used his Yugoslavian accent to swindle governments in the world's most troubled regions, according to FBI testimony in a federal fraud trial.

Federal indictments say Lilic, 33, lied to Douglas Pierce of Austin and persuaded the wealthy businessman to give him $46,000. Lilic allegedly promised he could win the release of Pierce's son John, missing since the Glomar Java Sea sank Oct. 25, 1983, in the South China Sea.

Pierce's body was never found. His father is convinced his son drifted in a lifeboat to Vietnam and is still being held prisoner there. Pierce testified he has spent $400,000 searching for his son.

The Glomar Java Sea was a drilling ship, but Pierce said he suspects the CIA had agents on board.

FBI agent Sikes Houston of Austin, who arrested Lilic in San Antonio on Jan. 11, testified that Lilic told him he made a living by selling phony information to foreign governments.

U.S. District Judge James Nowlin previewed testimony about earlier schemes that may have involved Lilic. The judge later ruled jurors could hear the testimony, but could not hear about Lilic's prison record.

Lilic has served two prison terms, according to defense lawyer Joe Turner.

Byron Eden, a Chicago FBI agent, testified about his interview with Lilic after Lilic was arrested in connection with dealings with the B'nai B'rith Anti-Defamation League in New York.

"He described himself as a con man and burglar, indicating he had been in contact with representatives of foreign governments for the purpose of using his foreign accent for the purpose of pulling off cons," Eden said Lilic told him.

Eden said Lilic claimed to have attempted scams on the governments of Bulgaria, Romania, Libya and the Soviet Union. Lilic liked the plans because he felt he could not be prosecuted unless those foreign governments admitted to engaging in espionage in the United States, according to Eden.

Eden testified that Lilic was arrested but never charged in 1983 after meeting with the Anti-Defamation League's security director.

In that case, Lilic told the Jewish organization that he discovered weapons in packages he had delivered, Eden said, adding that Lilic had been told the packages contained drugs.

Ron Butler, the ADL's security director, said Lilic told him the weapons were going to people who were "going to cause problems for Jews and blacks in this country."

"He said he was not a killer. He was just a thief, that's what he had always been," Butler testified.

Butler said he met with Lilic in a Chicago apartment, and Lilic carried a gun and was suspicious of Butler.

"I think he was looking for a rabbi with a yarmulke. It was hard for him to believe I was the director of security for a Jewish organization," said Butler, who is black.

"He wanted me to name all the Jewish holidays. After we got past Yom Kippur, it was basically useless because he didn't know," Butler added.

Lilic asked for $500 and expenses in return for the information, according to Butler. The FBI was called in and Lilic was arrested in January 1983. Eden said Lilic told him the story about the weapons was false.

"His entire reason for making up the outlandish story was exclusively so Mr. Butler would arrange for contact with the FBI," said Eden, adding that he could not figure out why Lilic wanted to contact the FBI.

No charges were filed because no money had changed hands, Houston testified.

Lilic faces up to 35 years in prison if convicted of the four federal charges.

Industry preparing for storm

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas insurance industry said it is prepared to take quick action if Tropical Storm Danny becomes a hurricane and hits the Texas coast with destructive winds, heavy rains and high tides.

"Depending on the damage and the number of claims, insurance companies and adjusting organizations are ready to move the necessary number of additional insurance adjusters from other parts of the country into the stricken area," the Texas Insurance Information Institute said Wednesday.

"If necessary, temporary catastrophe offices will be opened to provide local facilities with prompt adjustment and payment of losses," the notice said.

The first military drill manual in the U.S. was published in 1779—three years after the Revolutionary War.

Michelangelo had a cook who couldn't read. So when he ordered her to buy fish, wine, fruit, bread and spaghetti, he drew pictures of the items.

Evaporated milk

DEAR POLLY — Do you know how to make a whipped cream substitute using evaporated milk? My mother used to make this and it was lower in calories than regular cream. — MRS. V.K.

DEAR MRS. V.K. — Undiluted evaporated milk will whip if it is very cold chilled to at least 32 degrees Fahrenheit. You can stabilize the whipped evaporated milk by folding in two tablespoons of lemon juice for each cup of milk after it has been whipped.

Gelatin also will help stabilize the whipped milk. Here's a recipe for making a sweetened whipped topping using evaporated milk and gelatin: Soften one-half teaspoon unflavored gelatin in two teaspoons cold water. Scald one cup of evaporated milk and dissolve the softened gelatin in it. Chill the milk and gelatin mixture until it reaches a temperature of 32 degrees. Then whip, preferably with chilled beaters, until light and two to three times its original volume. Sprinkle one-fourth cup confectioners' sugar over the whipped topping, then continue whipping only until the sugar is blended into the topping. Store in the refrigerator until served, within one hour. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When I have a number of trash-producing chores to do such as opening packets and canned goods, I open a grocery bag, tear down each for about 5 inches making a flap on one side, then tuck this flap into a closed drawer so the bag hangs down in front of the counter. All my refuse can be dumped into this bag right where I'm working. When I'm finished, I just have one trip to make to the trash can. — V.I.P.

DEAR POLLY — In recipes calling for corn flour, can regular corn meal be substituted? Can white and yellow corn meal be used interchangeably? — T.M.

DEAR T.M. — Corn flour has a finer texture than corn meal. You could substitute corn meal, but the results would be quite different. The item would be more gritty with a different texture, since the corn meal does not absorb water in the same way corn flour does. For the best results, use the product specified: corn flour or corn meal.

While some purists will insist that yellow and white corn meal tastes should never be substituted one for the other, the differences are so subtle (other than color, of course) that the two may be used interchangeably with no loss of quality in the finished product. Color is the major difference. If you don't mind the color change, there's no reason not to use the type you have on hand. — POLLY

Crack shows up in pattern of economic strength

NEW YORK (AP) — A clear break in a long pattern of strength has shown up in a small-business survey of the economy, indicating the first signs of a slowdown to come.

"It's only a crack," said Prof. William Dunkelberg of Purdue University, but he said economists will be watching the fissure to determine if it might seal itself or worsen.

Right now, he said, "the level of things appears to be good, and the economy seems safe for the rest of the year." But he said small downturns in the survey indicate uncertainty about the economy's future strength.

The departure from trends appeared in spending areas of a quarterly study that Dunkelberg supervises for the National Federation of Independent Business, which claims membership of more than 500,000 small and medium-size firms.

The declines appeared in plans for future capital expenditures, such as for plant and equipment, as well as for amounts actually spent on such items. In addition, inventory investments declined, and borrowing activity also fell.

Because of these declines, the federation's "optimism index" dropped in July to 101.8, based on 1978 equalling 100. Earlier this year it had remained static at 104.8, after reaching a 10-year high of 110.3 early in 1984.

The slowing of economic expectations has developed in the absence of any great fears about inflation, Dunkelberg said, referring to a table of planned price increases that showed only 20 percent contemplating such action, the lowest percentage since January 1983. Last January, the percentage was 28.

However, Dunkelberg said "inflation is not dead — only resting from the bing of the late 1970s." Preventing its resurgence, he said, will be difficult, "made tougher by our large deficits and our growing federal debt."

As he sees it, much of the good news about inflation is due to the intense competition from imports, although they damage domestic industries and contribute to unemployment.

Second-quarter employment growth, however, was the second-strongest in the 12-year history of the survey of small and medium companies, which range from proprietorships to firms with sales into the hundreds of millions of dollars.

In that quarter, 22 percent of 2,089 respondents reported increases. However, plans to add workers, as opposed to those actually added, fell to only 15 percent of companies, suggesting a strong but weakening job market.

Dunkelberg attributed some of the caution shown in the survey to what he says is the failure of the White House and Congress to come to grips with the deficit issue, either through spending cuts or tax increases.

He said "The impact of the accumulating debt remains a major uncertainty for the economy, halting the decline in interest rates — unless the economy weakens further — and adding caution to spending plans."

The "temporary" $1.8 billion debt ceiling will not last the year, the professor said, "and soon the federal debt will amount to a staggering $2 trillion, up from less than $1 trillion in 1979."

At an average interest of 10 percent, he said, the debt will cost taxpayers about $200 billion a year just in interest payments, up from $120 billion this year.

Just consider: If tires were made of crabgrass, they'd never wear out, and you'd have three sets extra to sell each season.

What this country needs is a ball-park hot-dog mustard that goes with anything you happen to be wearing.

Today in History

Today is Thursday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 1985. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

Fifty years ago, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed when their airplane crashed near Point Barrow, Alaska.

On this date:

In 1057, Macbeth, King of Scotland, was slain by the son of King Duncan.

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1914, the Panama Canal opened to traffic.

In 1918, the United States and Russia severed diplomatic ties.

In 1948, the Republic of Korea was proclaimed.

In 1961, East German workers began building the Berlin Wall.

In 1969, the Woodstock Music and Art Fair opened in New York state.

In 1974, South Korean President Park Chung-Hee escaped an assassination attempt that killed his wife.

Ten years ago: A jury in Raleigh, N.C., found Joan Little innocent of the 1974 icepick killing of a white jailer in Beaufort County. Ms. Little, a black woman, maintained she had stabbed the jailer as he was forcing her to perform a sexual act.

Five years ago: In a speech to the Democratic National Committee, President Jimmy Carter described the difference between himself and Republican nominee Ronald Reagan as a difference "between progress and retrogression."

One year ago: The Reagan administration released a mid-year budget review that predicted the federal deficit would hold steady over the next three years and slip to $161.7 billion at the end of the decade. Democratic presidential candidate Walter Mondale charged that the administration had "cooked" the figures.

Today's birthdays: Cooking expert Julia Child is 73. Actress Wendy Hiller is 73. Eagle Forum president Phyllis Schlafly is 61. Playwright Robert Bolt is 61. Comedian Rose Marie is 60. Actor Mike Connors is 60. Actress Janice Rule is 54. Civil rights activist Vernon Jordan is 50. Actor Jim Dale is 50. NBC News correspondent Linda Ellerbee is 41. Britain's Princess Anne is 35.

Thought for today: "We are all here for a spell; get all the good laughs you can." — Will Rogers (1879-1935).

DR. GOTT

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My very active mother, 71, recently had what the doctor called a TIA. She has no recollection of what went on for several hours, but her mind skipped back about a year and she kept asking the same question over and over. What is a TIA? My mother has high blood pressure and is 25 pounds overweight. Does that have any bearing on the case? Are there any preventive measures she could take?

DEAR READER — A transient ischemic attack, or TIA, is fundamentally a short-lived stroke. A small blood clot momentarily blocks one of the arteries that supply oxygen to brain tissue. The event is transient (temporary), ischemic (causing lack of oxygen) and certainly an attack, as it occurs without warning. If the clot is small — and it usually is, with TIAs — the body immediately mobilizes anti-clotting factors to dissolve it. Within hours, the patient ordinarily returns to normal and suffers no adverse consequences except, perhaps, for some confusion and amnesia.

TIAs are warnings of bigger and more serious things to come. Therefore, they should not be lightly. In your mother's case, there are clearly two actions she could take.

First, her blood pressure must be brought under control. For a number of technical reasons, chronic hypertension is associated with a wide variety of cardiovascular diseases, stroke and TIAs included.

Second, patients with TIAs are often helped by medicine that reduces the blood's tendency to form small clots. One aspirin a day, two or three times a week, is probably the safest and least expensive medication.

Sales of existing homes up in Northeast

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a role reversal, sales of existing homes, along with prices, spurted in many Northeastern states from April to June while sales in many Sun Belt states plummeted, according to a new housing survey.

Officials at the National Association of Realtors said their survey provided further evidence that the boom in population growth and housing sales in the Sun Belt is leveling off.

Other housing analysts said the data for existing home sales mirrored a pattern developing in the construction and sale of new homes.

"There is no question that sales are down in many Southern and Western states, primarily the big energy states such as Texas," said Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders.

"At the same time the Northeast is starting to come back, after doing terribly for about 10 years, because of the growth of high-tech industries and an increase in defense contracts," Sumichrast said.

The latest survey, released Wednesday, showed that Hawaii registered the biggest gain in sales of existing homes during the second quarter this year, a 27.1 percent jump from the same period a year ago.

Hawaii was followed by Delaware, which had a 22.9 percent increase in sales, and Pennsylvania, with a 17.3 percent gain. Other Northern states doing well were Wisconsin, up 15.1 percent; Rhode Island, 15 percent; New York, 14.7 percent, and New Jersey, up 14.5 percent.

Other big gainers in the top 10 were Mississippi, up 15.1 percent, Tennessee with a 13.2 percent increase and South Dakota, up 12.9 percent.

Five of the six metropolitan areas which recorded the sharpest increase in prices during this period were in the Northeast, according to the report.

Boston led the country with a 37 percent jump, which left the median price of a home at $131,000 in the April-June period, followed by increases of 23.2 percent in the New York metropolitan area and 13.8 percent in Hartford, Conn.

Nationwide, the median sales price of an existing home rose 3.6 percent in the April-June quarter. The $2,600 increase put the median price at $75,300 in the second quarter. The median means that half the homes sold for more and half for less.

Nationally, sales of homes rose 3.1 percent from April through June, compared to the same period last year, with the association crediting a fall in interest rates for the pickup in sales.

Fixed-rate mortgages averaged 12.98 percent during the second quarter this year compared to 14.85 percent during the second quarter of 1984.

The sales increase was held back by sharp declines in some areas. North Dakota suffered the biggest drop in housing sales, a 36.9 percent decline, followed by Utah, down 24.1 percent, and Texas with a 20.4 percent drop.

Attorney General sees 'milestone' in U.S.-Mexican relations

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Justice officials in Mexico and the United States have reached a "milestone" in relations between the two nations in their joint anti-narcotics campaign, Attorney General Edwin Meese III said Wednesday.

Meese, in Mexico to review progress in the campaign since March, also said he was grateful to Mexican investigators for their progress in solving the kidnap-slitting of U.S. narcotics agent Enrique Camarena Salazar.

Meese and Sergio Garcia Ramirez,

Mexico's attorney general, refused at a news conference to disclose details of their Tuesday meeting, an eight-hour followup to their March meeting in Washington.

However, they said in a joint statement that they had discussed ways of eradicating marijuana and opium poppy fields, Mexico's new program to fight drug abuse, cooperation between law enforcement agencies, and tourist safety.

Relations between the two countries were strained after the Feb. 7 abduction in Guadalajara of Camarena and a Mexican pilot who worked with him in the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration.

Mexican officials expressed annoyance when President Reagan's administration closed nine border crossings, causing lengthy traffic jams while cars were searched for clues to the killings.

Meese said future decisions affecting Mexico would be guided by "the friendship and cooperation that has characterized" this week's meeting and the recent movement toward sharing information.

"This meeting marks a new milestone in achieving that degree of cooperation," Meese said.

In the Camarena case, nearly 40 people have been ordered to stand trial in Mexico, including two reputed drug kingpins and ranking police officers in Jalisco state.

"We feel that great progress has been made," Meese said. He added that Justice Department officials "have committed ourselves to providing information that we might be able to obtain" about the case.

Thon hits game-winning homer

Astros defeat Giants, 7-5

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Houston Astros' Manager Bob Lillis is so impressed by the progress Dickie Thon is making on his comeback that he's on the verge of naming him the regular shortstop again.

"We'll be playing Dickie on an everyday basis before the season's end," Lillis said Wednesday after Thon's three-run pinch homer in the seventh inning powered a 7-5 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

"Dickie's progress since the first of the year has been tremendous, so I'm very optimistic. He's more aggressive and more consistent at the plate and his confidence is constantly improving," he said.

Thon, out of action most of 1984 after being struck above the left eye by a pitch on April 8, has his situation in perspective.

"I can't dwell on this because tomorrow is another day," he said. "But I'm feeling a lot better gradually and there are no more headaches. A home run like this builds your confidence, but for me, everything is important. I'm just trying to see the ball and hit it somewhere."

Thon also had a run-scoring single in the ninth and finished with 4 RBI. The two hits lifted his average to .261 and the pinch hit was his first of the year. Thon is batting .415 in his last 16 games and .417 in his last dozen starts.

Lillis, however, has been reluctant to rush Thon because veteran shortstop Craig Reynolds, who doubled and scored in the victory, is batting .282 and is equally dependable afield.

The game was tied 3-3 entering the seventh and reliever Mark Davis, 3-7, replaced starter Jim Gott, who had retired ten in a row. Mark Bailey walked with one out and went to second on Phil Garner's single.

With two outs, Thon batted for Reynolds and lined a 3-2 curve over the screen in left for his third home run of the season.

"I figured a curve was the best pitch to get him out on," Davis recalled. "But that curve wasn't a good pitch. It didn't break sharply and it was up and over the plate more than I wanted."

Jeff Heathcock, 1-1, was the winner in relief of starter Nolan Ryan, who failed to earn a victory for his 11th straight start. Dave Smith retired one batter for his 19th save.

Dan Driessen, recently acquired from Montreal, contributed to a three-run second off Ryan with his first home run in a San Francisco uniform. He hadn't homered since June 15, two days before Ryan's last victory.

Dodgers 5, Braves 0

Bob Welch used to worry that his arm wasn't strong enough to withstand the strain of pitching complete games.

Now the rest of the National League seems unable to take the strain of facing Welch or anyone else on the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Welch, 9-1, pitched a five-hitter Wednesday night, beating the Atlanta Braves 5-0. The Dodgers have now won six straight games and haven't given up an earned run in 52 innings.

The Dodgers lead the NL West by eight games.

On Wednesday, Welch struck out eight and walked only one in blanking the Braves.

Phillies 2, Mets 1

Kevin Gross pitched a six-hitter for eight innings and singled in a run, and reliever Don Carman got out of a bases-loaded, no-outs jam in the ninth as Philadelphia broke New York's nine-game winning streak.

The loss cut New York's lead in the East Division to one-half game over St. Louis.

Padres 4, Reds 1

San Diego got a five-hitter from Dave Dravecky and scored all of its runs with two outs in the third inning after an error by Cincinnati shortstop Dave Concepcion.

Dravecky, 10-7, pitched his sixth complete game of the season.

Expos 8, Cubs 7

Chicago built a 5-1 lead with the help of Ron Cey's grand-slam homer, but Montreal rallied with four runs in the fourth inning, then won the game

The bleachers in the old Polo Grounds in New York were more than 450 feet from home plate but three batters succeeded in hitting home runs that reached them. The batters were Joe Adcock, Lou Brock and Hank Aaron.

Tech football practice to start

Football practice starts Monday at Texas Tech University, with the players putting on pads for the first time in practice on Thursday, Aug. 22.

Among the freshman players who reported this week were nine recruits who played in the Texas High School Coaches All-Star Game in Dallas. Texas Tech had more recruits in that game than any other college.

Also, eleven Texas Tech recruits played in the Oil Bowl Game in Wichita Falls. Altogether, The Red Raiders have about 60 freshmen out for football, including 29 scholarship recruits.

Head Coach Jerry Moore expects another 175 players to report on Saturday when the varsity reports.

Another player, quarterback Keith Cunningham of Arlington, suffered an injury to his right wrist that could sideline him into September.

Cunningham injured his wrist while moving furniture in his parents' home.

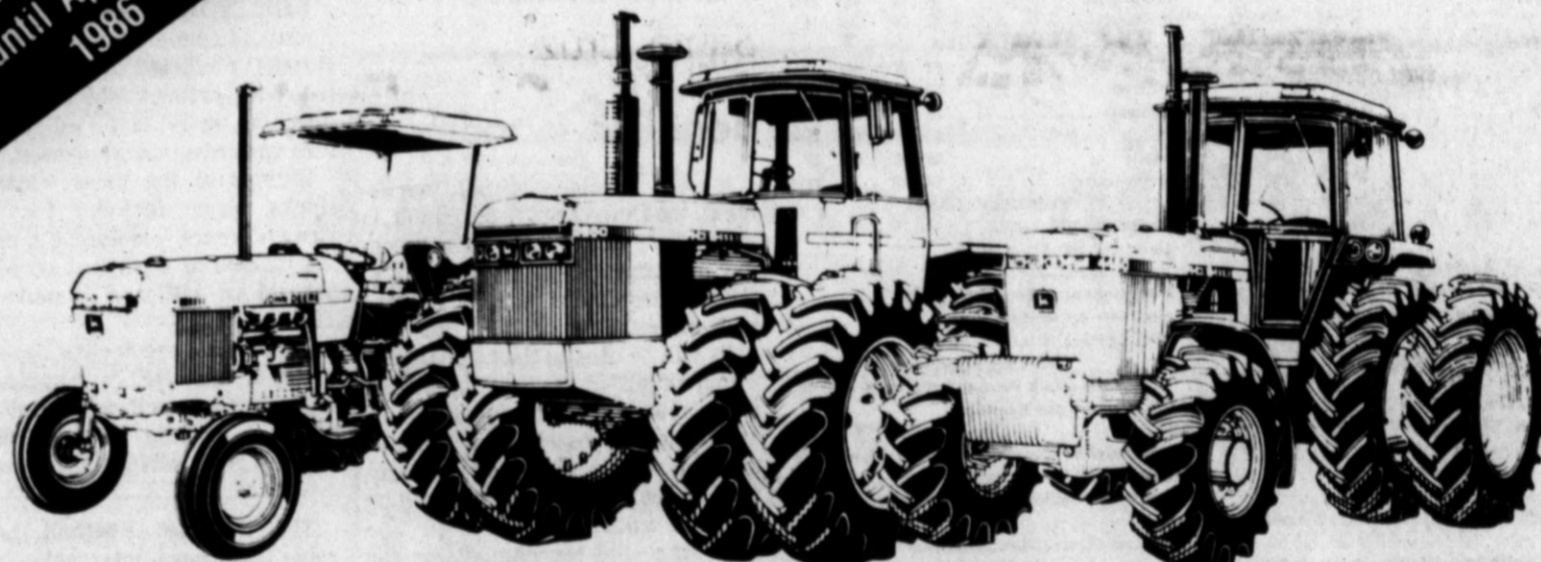

Only three NFL players have scored six touchdowns in one game. They are: Ernie Nevers (Cardinals), William "Dub" Jones (Cleveland), and Gale Sayers (Chicago). Nevers holds the record for most points in a single game, 40, with his six touchdowns and four extra points in a game against the Bears in 1929.

Prepare for series with Royals

Blue Jays beat Rangers, 4-1

By BOB GREENE AP Sports Writer

After the Toronto Blue Jays ended a six-game road trip with a 4-1 victory over the Texas Rangers, the East Division leaders' thoughts turned toward returning home to play the Kansas City Royals in a three-game series.

"That's gonna be a tough series, no doubt," Toronto's Jesse Barfield, who led the Blue Jays over Texas with a home run, a double and two runs scored, said after Wednesday night's game.

"At this point in time, we have to win as many as we can."

The Blue Jays won behind the four-hit, complete-game pitching performance of ace Dave Stieb, now 11-8.

"I threw all right," Stieb said. "Whenever you win, it's good."

"If they stay healthy," Ranger Manager Bobby Valentine said, "they're going to be tough to catch. That's one of the toughest lineups in baseball from start to finish."

The Royals took two of three games from Toronto at the beginning of the Blue Jays' just-ended road trip.

"They're a good ballclub," Barfield said of the Royals. "We get fired up. It's just great to be going home now."

Stieb walked four Rangers and struck out four as he lowered his league-leading earned run average to 2.23.

Charlie Hough, 11-12, pitched seven innings for the Rangers and took the loss. He gave up five hits, walked two and struck out three. Dwayne Henry, the third Texas pitcher, got the last out in the top of the ninth to finish the game.

The Blue Jays got on the board with a run in the third. With one out, Barfield walked, stole second and advanced to third on a passed ball by Geno Petralli. He scored on a sacrifice fly by Garth Iorg.

The Rangers tied it in the fourth. Pete O'Brien singled and advanced to second when Duane Walker walked. George Wright followed with a run-scoring single.

Toronto took a 2-1 lead in the fifth on Barfield's leadoff home run, his 19th of the year.

The Blue Jays added two insurance runs in the top of the ninth on singles by George Bell and Willie Upshaw, a sacrifice fly by Ernie Whitt and Barfield's double.

Stieb finished the game by striking out two of the last three Rangers.

Orioles 8, Indians 4

Mike Young has made believers out of the Cleveland Indians.

"They're just throwing the ball where I'm swinging," Baltimore's designated hitter said after slugging a two-run homer Wednesday night in the Orioles' 8-4 victory over Cleveland. "That's basically it. ... what more can I say?"

Well, for one thing, the switch-hitting Young slammed a home run from each side of the plate the night before and now has 12 homers in his last 28 games.

Red Sox 16, Royals 3

Boston, having scored just 17 runs in five consecutive losses, burst loose against Kansas City with a 21-hit attack, tops in the American League this season.

"It was inevitable," said third baseman Wade Boggs, who went 4-for-6 and regained the league batting lead from Kansas City's George Brett, .360 to .357. "We weren't hitting very well for a week or so. Then everything we hit tonight seemed to fall in."

Bill Buckner belted the fifth grand-slam homer of his career and Steve Lyons added a two-run blast as eight Red Sox starters had at least two hits and the other had a single in Boston's biggest scoring binge of the season.

Yankees 10, White Sox 7

Ron Hassey, who homered earlier, stroked a two-run single in the top of the ninth to lift New York to a wild victory over Chicago.

Chicago rookie shortstop Ozzie Guillen went 4-for-4, including his first major-league homer. Carlton Fisk had his 32nd home run, tops in the major leagues.

A's 5-7, Twins 0-4

Don Sutton posted his 292nd career victory in the opener and Mike Davis hit a two-run, seventh-inning home run in the nightcap as Oakland swept a doubleheader from Minnesota.

Bruce Bochte hit a two-run homer, his ninth of the season, in the sixth inning of the opener to break open a 1-0 game.

Angels 3-1, Mariners 1-6

Al Cowens' two-run homer backed the six-hit pitching of Jim Beattie and Jack Lazorko as Seattle stopped California in the second game and gained a split of their doubleheader.

In the opener, Rod Carew's RBI double in the 12th inning gave the American League West Division-leading Angels the victory, while Donnie Moore notched his 22nd save.

Carew collected three hits in the two games to increase his career hit total to 3,012 and move within 11 of Lou Brock, who is 13th on the all-time list.

Blue Jays 4, Rangers 1

Dave Stieb pitched a four-hitter and Jesse Barfield scored twice and drove in two runs to lift Toronto over Texas. Stieb, 11-8, walked four and struck out four in going the distance.

With the score tied 1-1, Barfield led off the fifth with his 19th homer of the year.

Tigers 4, Brewers 3

Nelson Simmons slammed a two-run homer in the first inning, and Detroit got help in the third on an error by right fielder Ben Oglivie when they snapped a 3-3 tie to down Milwaukee.

Winning pitcher Jack Morris, 13-6, struck out six and walked four before reliever Willie Hernandez came on in the ninth to post his 24th save of the season.

The Brewers' Danny Darwin, 6-14, lost his 10th straight.

CHICAGO (AP) — Harriet Irsay is trying to wrest control of the Indianapolis Colts from team owner Robert Irsay as part of her divorce settlement.

The court will decide whether the Colts are marital property, according to Peter Lovato, Mr. Irsay's attorney in the divorce proceedings. Irsay is sole owner of the National Football League franchise, which he acquired in a 1972 trade for the Los Angeles Rams.

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle predicted that the NFL's television ratings, which have been declining since 1981, will begin to turn upward again this season.

Ratings on the three major networks have declined for three straight years — including a dropoff last season of 4 percent on NBC, 6 percent on ABC and 14 percent on CBS.

Rozelle said the decline has ended some of the NFL's complacency about selling itself and resulted in better marketing in most of the league's cities during the off-season.

The National Football League record for most interceptions in a season is 14 by Dick "Night Train" Lane of the Los Angeles Rams in 1952.

Do players really gear up for pennant drive?

An AP Sports Analysis
By JOHN NELSON AP Sports Writer

Never was the old axiom, "You go with what got you there," more important than during baseball's pennant stretch. So, here are some myths about that late-season drive that can be dispelled right now:

— Pull out all the stops when August rolls around.

— Drop that No. 5 starter and go to a four-man pitching rotation.

— Players gear themselves up for the last part of the season, much the way NBA players rally in the final four minutes of a game.

— The team that wants it most usually is the team that wins it all.

"The funny thing about this game," says Chicago Cubs Manager Jim Frey, "is that with 57 or 58 games to go, there are going to be some hot streaks and some cold streaks left. All teams go through them, and they'll go through them yet."

Last season, Frey led the Cubs to their first National League East Division title. This year, the Cubs are struggling to stay in fourth place, while Dave Johnson's New York Mets and Whitey Herzog's St. Louis Cardinals fight for the title.

"Look at the Mets, for example," Frey says. "Three weeks ago, they were crying the blues. Keith Hernandez was hitting .250. Gary Carter was all banged up. He might need surgery. Mookie (Wilson) was out and (Darryl) Strawberry wasn't playing — and the Cardinals were going to run away with it. Now, you'd think the Mets had already won it."

Johnson sees some managers changing the way they use players too early in the stretch.

"August is a month when some managers quit going to their benches and go into a four-man rotation," Johnson says. "That's too early. ... Sometimes you can go to a four-man rotation, but if you change the work habits of an individual, they feel different, their stuff is different."

"St. Louis has a four-man rotation with veterans, and I think some of them are getting tired. What you really need to do down the stretch is become consistent with your run production."

Johnson says managers can make Babe Ruth was sold by the Boston Red Sox in January 1920 to the New York Yankees for what was then a whopping $100,000. As part of the deal, he received a $300,000 loan. Before Babe Ruth played for them, the Yankees had never won a pennant, and finished higher than fourth place only four times. They won six pennants in the first nine years with Babe Ruth.

some "fine tuning" changes in the last week of the season, but to make changes any earlier can be counterproductive.

"You can go to the whip the last week. That's OK. But when you start changing your philosophy, panic sets in on everyone," Johnson says. "If you make a decision out of panic, it affects the whole ballclub."

"The last week you can make some changes, but even then it's sometimes not necessary. ... You try not to make any major changes."

To say that players gear up for a pennant stretch also is just so much bunk. Ballplayers on winning teams have automatic transmissions.

"All the motivation that you need is there, the incentive is there," says Hernandez, who was on the Cardinals' 1982 World Series champions. "It's easy to get in gear for a pennant stretch. It's a lot tougher to just play the season out."

The attitude of a club is dependant on whether it's winning or losing — not the other way around, Frey says.

"You can't have a frame of mind when you're 0-8," Frey says. "You've got to win some games to be in a good frame of mind."

There is another old saying in baseball — in all sports, as a matter of fact — that goes something like this: "The team that wants it most will win." With professional players, throw this one out, too.

"It comes down to who beats who," Hernandez says. "Both sides are going to want to win. No side is going to want it any less. After all, that's what we're here for."

Oilers' cornerback says defense will improve

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer
SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oilers cornerback Steve Brown says the memory of seasons past will help the Oilers defense improve this season.

"We took a lot of heat and some of it deservedly so last season, but you remember those things in the off season and it adds incentive to your workouts," Brown said. "You use it for a fire in your mind so you can develop as a team and as an individual player."

The Oilers, 3-13 last season, are 0-2 in the exhibition season. But Brown anticipates better teamwork among the defensive players and more pressure from the defensive line, a glaring weakness last season.

"The guys on the line are playing real well," Brown said. "I'm excited because at cornerback, you can be the greatest athlete in the world and still if you don't get any help, have anyone to apply pressure, you are going to be on the hotseat."

Pressure by San Francisco's defensive front led to Miami quarterback Dan Marino's downfall in the most recent Super Bowl.

"When the 49ers applied pressure to Marino, he didn't look like the world-class player that he really is," Brown said.

"And pressure, Brown says, can make a good cornerback into a great player."

"You have defensive backs who are good but not great and because of pressure, they become great," Brown said. "All of a sudden they have confidence that the line is going to get there so they can gamble or take a chance and still come up with the ball or make a knockdown."

A third-round draft choice in 1983, Brown started 10 games his rookie season and was a starter all 16 games last season. Unlike the college game, pro football allows for a 15-minute sudden-death overtime period in case of tie games.

Brown says he and his teammates have more confidence in each other for the upcoming season.

"It's a little more confidence in knowing that they (teammates) are going to get their job done and you are going to do your job," Brown said. "You know that when you are in the position that you're supposed to be in and a free safety or strong safety is supposed to be there to help, he'll be there."

Too often last season, Brown said, there wasn't always someone there to help out and the Oilers finished with a 3-13 record and one of the worst defensive teams in the NFL.

Brown said he's overcome the tendency to try to compensate.

"Sometimes it's hard and you want to go with your instincts," Brown said.

"I've got to get it in my head that I'm doing what I'm supposed to do and my 10 other teammates are going to do what they are supposed to do."

Pro football began on Aug. 31, 1895, when a play-for-pay team from Latrobe, Pa., made its debut by trouncing the neighboring team of Jeannette by the score of 12-0.

Take the number of professional fights won by Larry Holmes, divide by the points awarded for recovering a fumble in the opposition's end zone, multiply by the number of pins in duckpin bowling, and add the number of teams which qualify for the NFL playoffs.

PAYOFF: The above answer is also the number of regular-season games played by each team in a professional league. Which one?

BROKEN CORKS
If the cork breaks in the process of removal, insert the worm end of the corkscrew into the cork at a different angle and spot. Then, try again. Should the one cork go into the bottle, a helpful gadget to have is a "broken cork extractor". Insert the extractor into the bottle, maneuver it around the cork, squeeze the wires together, and pull the cork out. If the problem is not severe, a snail fork can be used to dig out the broken cork or to remove small bits. When opening a very old bottle of wine or port, if it is obvious that the cork cannot be extracted, the bottle's neck must be broken away and the wine decanted.
Whether you make a hobby out of wines... their corks or their labels or simply like to relax with a bottle of your favorite vintage wine, make THE STORE your headquarters. We feature one of the most complete selections of domestic and imported wines available in this area. Depending on your personal taste and budget we can help make sure you choose just the right wine. We invite you to stop into 400 N. 25 Mile Ave. and to browse around through our shelves fully stocked with liquor, cordials, brandies, beer and wine. Call 364-7002. Open Mon. thru Sat. 10-9, use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12.
Never penetrate the bottom of a cork with a corkscrew. Otherwise, there will be cork in the wine.

Terms of Tony Dorsett's new contract are revealed

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Holdout running back Tony Dorsett, who only a week ago called the Dallas Cowboys "double-crossers," planned to return to training camp today to sign a new five-year contract.

Dorsett's agent, Whit Stewart, negotiated the contract with Cowboys' President Tex Schramm on Wednesday after another agent, Howard Slusher, had encouraged Dorsett to stay away from camp at least another two weeks.

Dorsett, a nine-year veteran who is the sixth most prolific rusher in National Football League history, was to hold an afternoon press conference after checking into camp.

Schramm would release no details of the deal but a source told The Associated Press that it included deferred dollars that Dorsett can't touch until his career is over. Also, the contract took care of a $500,000 loan the Cowboys had given Dorsett.

According to the Dallas Morning News, the new contract provides Dorsett with a $6 million annuity and a lucrative real estate deal.

The News said Dorsett's annuity will pay $300,000 a year from 1993 through 2012. The Cowboys also will put $850,000 into Dallas real estate, with Dorsett having the option of taking the money or the land after five years, the newspaper reported.

Dorsett will also be paid $450,000 between the time he retires and the time the annuity begins, the News said.

Under the new contract, Dorsett's salary will be $450,000 a year in 1985, 1986 and 1987, and $500,000 a year in 1988 and 1989. The News said Dorsett's old contract paid $450,000 this year, $500,000 in 1986 and $550,000 in 1987.

"I wanted to structure an agreement that he can walk away with pride and financial stability," said Schramm. "Right now he is very relieved. His years after football have been helped (financially)."

Dorsett got into financial trouble

The World Football League was established in 1974, but it ended the season with an estimated collective debt of $20 million. The league went out of business in October 1975 as it prepared to play the 12th round of games in its 20-week schedule.

with the Internal Revenue Service and made some bad investments that ate into deferred money he had taken up front. He was on the fourth year of a seven-year contract that would have paid him $450,000 this year.

Dorsett hasn't received a paycheck since the Internal Revenue Service began attaching his $21,000-a-month salary last October.

The IRS claimed Dorsett owed $412,000 in back taxes, and Dorsett has reached a settlement in which he has already paid $200,000 and will pay the rest later this year.

Dorsett's woes stemmed from investments in business deals that turned sour and consumed most of the $1.5 million in deferred payments he had asked the club to give him up front.

The financially frustrated Dorsett then turned to agent Howard Slusher July 18 to negotiate with Schramm.

Schramm said he called Dorsett on Tuesday to get the contract negotiations underway.

"I was supposed to hear from him Sunday or Monday and so Tuesday I decided to call myself to see what was going," Schramm said. "He wanted to get it resolved and I wanted to get it resolved."

Schramm added, "I'm very pleased with the way things turned out.

I've never depreciated his value to our football team and I've never depreciated his value as an individual. He's an important member of our team."

Schramm said he can forgive and forget Dorsett's harsh words about the Cowboys which included a threat to retire or be traded.

"People say things when they are upset that they don't mean," said Schramm. "I don't think there will be any bad feelings. His attitude to me has been upbeat."

Schramm said the $1,000 a day fine against Dorsett "was not a topic of conversation."

Schramm told Dorsett he needed to get to camp. Schramm said Dorsett replied, "He was a football player and he didn't feel right not playing football."

TCLU asks probe of San Antonio police

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas attorney general's office is looking at allegations of brutality and coverup made by the Texas Civil Liberties Union against the San Antonio police department, a spokeswoman in Jim Mattox's office says.

James Harrington, TCLU legal director, also asked Mattox on Wednesday to look into allegations that San Antonio police officials failed to report "a serious claim of sexual abuse of a minor by a police officer" to state officials, as required by law.

"The confidence that people have in the police and in the rule of law and order cannot long survive if any of the issues that we have raised, which involve misconduct at least or a cover-up at worst, go unpunished," Harrington wrote.

Paul Buske, spokesman for the San Antonio police, said the department would have no comment on the charges until police officials reviewed the letter.

Elna Christopher, spokeswoman for Mattox, said the attorney general's office had received the letter and, "We're looking at it."

In his letter, Harrington said the state TCLU office and the San Antonio chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union had received complaints over the conduct of San Antonio police.

Harrington listed five areas where he said an independent investigation is needed.

Specifically, he asked Mattox to investigate whether:

- There is "a significant, widespread pattern and practice of official misconduct with respect to the use of excessive force" by San Antonio officers.
- The San Antonio police have "a pattern and practice" of "hiding from public and legal scrutiny claims of misconduct."

— The San Antonio Police Officers Association has used "threats of intimidation to deflect and prevent claims of misconduct from being heard by the police department and the city..."

— The department uses "the filing of criminal charges against the victims of police misconduct as a way of undermining the charge of misconduct and discouraging people" from bringing complaints.

— The police chief and other high department officials "have deliberately and intentionally refused to report incidents of sexual abuse of minors by officers in the police department to the Texas Department of Human Resources, as required by law."

Harrington said the last allegation follows reports that a police internal affairs committee determined that an officer "committed homosexual conduct with a minor over a period of time" and recommended the officer be dismissed.

Police Chief Charles Rodriguez rejected the recommendation, Harrington said.

In his letter to Mattox, Harrington noted the attorney general ruled Monday that not even clergymen are exempt from the child abuse reporting law.

San Antonio City Manager Lou Fox earlier defended the police chief, saying allegations that Rodriguez may be guilty of misconduct are ridiculous.

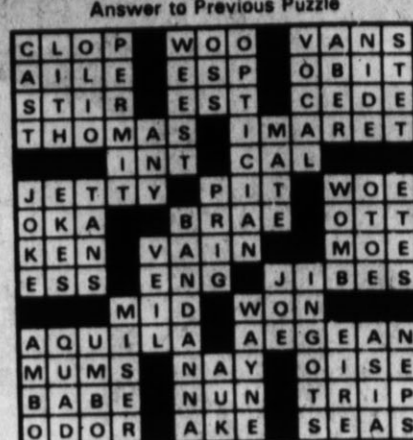

"He is not guilty of any misconduct. That is absurd," Fox said.

In his letter, Harrington told Mattox that the questions "have been an ongoing source of concern in the San Antonio community and of our office."

Harrington has been involved in lawsuits against police departments in Corpus Christi, McAllen, Mission, Weslaco and Mercedes and against Hidalgo County sheriff's deputies.

There's a new MASH unit in west suburban Chicago: "Mobile Animal Surgical Hospital."

Veterinary Dr. James Hall makes house calls in a vehicle equipped for treating most small animal injuries, illnesses and minor surgery. The veterinary doctor author, James Herriot, in his book "All Things Bright and Beautiful" and its sequels, wrote with shirt-sleeve eloquence of his experiences treating farm and home animals in the Midlands of England mostly from his car. Much in the same image, young Dr. Hal is responding to calls of pet owners within a 20-mile radius of his clinical base in suburban Chicago.

Can house calls by people-doctors be far behind? Jim Hall graduated a doctor of veterinary medicine from the University of Chicago in 1977.

Soon established on the staff of an animal hospital in Chicago, he noted that 60 percent of his suburban patients were cats, more adaptable to apartment living.

But he also noted the difficulty - sometimes great difficulty - encountered by elderly pet owner - in getting their ailing pets to and from the clinic.

Nor was it easy for the young mother of children to absent herself from the house.

Over his seven years in this practice, Dr. Hall saved for and dreamed of the day when he might make house calls in a vehicle especially designed for that purpose.

He started last August. His first MASH unit was his own small passenger car. Quickly his practice expanded to justify a better equipped station wagon.

Ninety percent of veterinary medicine is routine: Upset stomach or in-oculations. Yet the most routine remedies, if they require a trip and perhaps confinement in an animal hospital, can be a hardship for the owner and traumatic for the pets.

For such treatments Dr. Hall makes his house call for a standard fee of $20.

Where shots are required by village code, he charge only for the shots, nothing for the house call.

"Shots are expensive enough," he says, without any add-on fees.

Nor will Dr. Hall make any charge at all for telephone consultation.

Dr. Hall's phone calls are relayed by Mrs. Hall from their home where the "family" includes two dogs and three cats.

For more major surgery Dr. Hall transports patients to his clinical connection but his next ambition is a van large enough and sufficiently equipped, as are wartime MASH facilities, for any emergency

Texans sue over store closings

AUSTIN (AP) - Montgomery Ward & Co. officials won't comment on a Texas lawsuit alleging that operators of several of Ward's catalog sales outlets were misled before the company announced it would close the stores.

The small-town stores have been "a mainstay of the rural American way of life for 113 years" but now appear doomed, the $8.5 million lawsuit says.

The plaintiffs allege that Montgomery Ward officials - through statements, sales meetings and other actions - led catalog agents to believe their independent stores would stay open even though Montgomery Ward announced the closing of company-owned stores.

"All of these actions were intended by Wards to and did lull the agents and rural America into a false sense of security" that the company was "dedicated to the future of the catalog sales agencies," the lawsuit says.

However, the suit charges, Montgomery Ward "effectively closed the agencies and ended its relationship with rural America by its announcement on Aug. 1, 1985, that it would close the catalog stores forever."
