Price for school meals going up as giveaway ends

WASHINGTON (AP) - Schools will charge students more for a hot lunch this fall, when the Agriculture Department ends the flour giveaways that have helped cafeterias nationwide stretch their budgets, officials say.

They say the department can no longer give surplus flour to school cafeterias, nursing homes, Indian reservations and feeding programs for the poor because the government's grain bins are bare.

One reason for the dwindling reserves, officials say, is the aggressive use of export subsidies that have helped U.S. farmers sell wheat, flour and other goods at bargain prices around the world.

"The victims of the new policy are the school lunches, the elderly nutrition programs and the charities - those without powerful lobbies to defend their cause," said Rep. Bob Wise, D-W.Va., who chairs the House Government Operations subcommittee on agriculture.

Advocates of the Export Enhancement Program argue that it has little effect on the school situation because the cafeterias get government flour and foreign countries are buying privately owned wheat. Also, they note, the bonus flour amounts to just a fraction of the wheat being exported.

"To that I simply say: sell it to the American taxpayers. Ask them if they would prefer to spend their money on helping foreign consumers or American school children," Wise said Thursday at a hearing by his panel.

The Agriculture Department is spending $1.2 billion this year on the Export Enhancement Program, much of it to subsidize wheat sales abroad. "Bonus" flour donations, on the other hand, will total $22 million.

Schools and other feeding programs also receive wheat and other commodities as "entitlements," based on how many meals or individuals are served.

Although flour will still be available as an entitlement next year, school officials argue that their budgets will be stretched thin by the loss of the bonus flour.

"The loss of bonus commodity flour will have a disastrous economic impact on the child nutrition programs within the state of West Virginia," Wade R. Leech, director of food service for Wood County Schools in Parkersburg, W.Va., said at the hearing.

Leech said it would result in "a necessary raise in prices charged to students for school breakfast and lunch."

He said that with every 10-cent increase in price, participation falls by 10 percent, "therefore depriving more students from partaking in a nutritious lunch."

Rep. William H. Zeff Jr., R-N.H., agreed that schools cannot suddenly absorb the entire cost of replacing the bonus flour.

"They will necessarily pass on the increased costs to the parents - some of whom may not be able to afford the increase," he said.

Fewer smokers found in survey

ATLANTA (AP) - Americans are extinguishing their cigarettes in record numbers, leading federal health officials to predict the nation will meet its health objective on smoking by the year 2000.

The Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that 25.5 percent of Americans smoked in 1990, the lowest level in 37 years. 1990 is the latest year for which figures are available.

If smoking continues to fall at a rate of 1.1 percentage points a year - as it has since 1987 - the country will reach its goal of 15 percent within eight years, the CDC said.

"This tells us that Americans are responding perhaps in even greater numbers to the public health education campaign that's occurring," said Gary Giovino, the CDC's chief smoking epidemiologist. "An awareness of the health consequences, the increased cost of cigarettes and the declining social acceptance all contributed to this."

The Atlanta-based CDC surveyed 40,666 people in 1990.

Smoking was most prevalent among American Indians (38.1 percent); high school dropouts (31.8 percent); and people ages 25 to 64 (29.7 percent).

It was least common among people over 75 (6.5 percent) and college graduates (13.5 percent).

"We have reason to believe that this innovation of not smoking will diffuse throughout society," Giovino said.

Some of the sharpest declines occurred among blacks and women.

For the first time, blacks and whites smoked at about the same rate - 26.2 percent for blacks and 25.8 percent for whites.

Blacks have smoked at higher rates - up to 8 percentage points higher - since the CDC began measuring smoking in 1955. In 1965, 43 percent of blacks smoked.

From 1965 through 1985, 39 percent to 45 percent of women ages 20 to 24 with high school educations or less smoked. In 1990, the percentage dropped to 33.4.

The average cost of cigarettes jumped from 23 cents a pack in 1955, when 42 percent of all Americans smoked, to $1.74 last year. The average smoker puffs 19.1 cigarettes a day.

Stanford congressman forces vote

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas Congressman Charles Stenholm has successfully taken advantage of a little-used parliamentary procedure to ensure that the constitutional balanced budget amendment didn't die in a House committee.

Stenholm, the chief sponsor of a balanced budget amendment that has picked up steam in recent weeks, lined up enough congressional support Wednesday to force a House vote in June.

The discharge petition was necessary because Rep. Jack Brooks, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, opposes the amendment and wasn't going to let it out of committee.

The Beaumont Democrat's press secretary did not return a telephone call Thursday from The Associated Press.

"A majority of my colleagues have begun to sense the urgency of gaining some control of a federal debt which is reaching frightening proportions," Stenholm said at a news conference Thursday.

The Stamford Democrat broke all modern House records for speed in obtaining the petition. It took him eight hours and 37 minutes to line up the necessary signatures from 217 House members to bring his measure to the floor.

The last time a discharge petition was obtained in less than a day was in 1938, when a labor bill was discharged in 2 1/2 hours, according to the Congressional Research Service.

The most recent instance in which a discharge petition was necessary came in 1990, when Brooks also declined to let a balanced budget amendment out of committee.

Congress thwarts effort to eliminate cactus research

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Congress has killed an attempt by the Bush administration to end federal funding for research on the prickly pear cactus.

Backers of the research were pleased Thursday to learn of the action to continue the $100,000 annual grant.

"I'm greatly relieved. The program would have been shut down, and it's taken us 15 years to get going," said Peter Felker, who heads the cactus and mesquite research programs at Texas A&I University at Kingsville.

"I think they went after it because the name sounds silly," Felker told the San Antonio Express-News. "It just demonstrates that the people in Washington don't understand what's going on in Texas."

The good news came just as about 100 South Texas ranchers were preparing to attend the state's first Nopalito Field Day to inspect a fledgling commercial cactus operation.

"I get 4 cents a pound for grain sorghum and a dollar a pound for cactus," said Robert Mick, whose family has about 10 acres in cactus near Sinton. "I don't see any reason why this shouldn't take off. We've been down to Mexico and, conservatively speaking, they have at least 500,000 acres in cactus production."

Mick, host of the field day, offering a primer to anyone who visits Saturday.

"I'll show them the cactus I'm raising," he said. "They can taste it. I'll show them how to cook. I'll fill them in on how to sell it."

Mick sees tremendous economic potential for cactus, particularly in Texas, which has 60 million acres of native prickly pear.

He says the most promising variety is known as "1308" and brings $1 a pound wholesale and is being served at fancy restaurants around the state.

The cactus research program was among dozens of programs denounced as "items of pork" in April by President Bush as he attempted to cut almost $4 billion from the federal budget.

"The executive office was looking for projects that they could get publicity out of by eliminating," Felker said.

"I can feel which way the winds are blowing among some South Texas ranchers," Felker said. "Some of them may have communicated with Austin and Washington that this prickly pear research is not to be treated as a frivolous manner."

Farmers' markets gearing up for busy summer

About 80 of the 90 farmers' markets statewide are open for business, selling fresh local produce and helping producers supplement their incomes. Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry said today.

The markets opened one month late in some locations because heavy rains delayed some crops. However all stalls are operating now, except for about 10 markets in some far West Texas locations.

Produce on hand in various areas includes strawberries from Poteet, turnip greens from the Winter Garden area, sweet 1015 onions from the Rio Grand Valley and blackberries from Central and East Texas.

"The widespread rains in Texas ruined a lot of crops this year," Perry said. "that's why some prices may be high. Mexico lost a lot of its tomatoes, for example. Now our farmers are taking their locally grown and vine-ripened tomatoes to farmers' markets."

Many farmer have discovered that the markets are nice income boosters.

Texas farmer shave found that an acre of two of fresh corn, squash, green onions and new potatoes can earn as much as $1,000 each growing season" Perry said. "Farmers' markets have earned an average of $30 million each year during the last three years. That's not bad for what began as a niche market."

The average acreage of land worked to supply a farmers' market stand is 15 to 20 acres.

"Many farmers use fresh vegetables to supplement their incomes during the months of June and July while they are waiting for their main crops such as cotton wheat to mature," Perry said.

Now's time to buy your first house

How good a time is this for buying your first home?

The statistics say that it's a very good time indeed. They show, for example, that mortgage interest rates are at their lowest levels in a good many years. They show also that the recession has put a damper on house price inflation in many communities across the country, bringing the market within reach of increasing numbers of prospective owners.

Thousands of Americans who until now have never owned their own homes are saying that it's a good time to buy, too. And they're putting their money where their mouths are, using the exceptional affordability of housing today as an opportunity to buy.

Extensive data compiled by researchers at Century 21 Real Estate Corporation show that first-time buyers were remarkably active all across the country in 1991. In fact, such buyers accounted for 40.8 percent of sales of existing homes last year.

The comparable figure was 38.4 percent in 1990, 38.0 in 1989. Last year was the first since 1986 in which nationwide statistics collected by the Century 21 system-the largest residential real estate sales organization in the world-showed the first-time-buyer percentage to be above the 40 percent mark.

First-time buyers were involved in 55 percent of 1991 homes purchased in the 11 northeastern states of the U.S., an increase of five percent since 1990. In three states-Rhode Island, New Jersey and Massachusetts-they were involved in an unprecedented 60 percent of last year's transactions.

Records maintained by the Century 21 system's research experts over the years show clearly that the percentage of first-time buyers purchasing non-new homes tends to move upward when markets are comparatively soft, affordability is high, and there is much incentive for people who haven't previously owned homes to take action.

Such records show with equal clarity that the first-time buyers who do take action reap substantial benefits, on average, when the economy improves and housing markets firm up.

Those who fail to act, by contrast, often find themselves wishing that they'd not waited.

For too often, in fact, they find themselves looking back regretfully at markets like today's and seeing them-correctly but too late-as among the biggest missed opportunity of their lives.

THE DISAPPEARING ARMY

DURING THE TIME DAVID AND HIS FOLLOWERS WERE BEING HOUNDED BY SAUL'S ARMY THEY DEVELOPED A STYLE OF SUDDEN RETREAT IN THE WILDERNESS WHENEVER THEY WERE THREATENED BY SAUL'S SUPERIOR FORCES. THIS IS THE SAME METHOD WE READ ABOUT IN THE MYTHICAL ROBIN HOOD AND HEAR ABOUT IN MODERN DAY GUERRILLA TACTICS IN VIETNAM AND AFGHANISTAN. NO MATTER HOW SET UP THEIR CAMP WAS, IF A SCOUT WARNED OF SAUL'S APPROACH, IN NO TIME AT ALL NOT A TRACE OF THE CAMP REMAINED, NOT EVEN THE SMALLEST OF JUGS WAS LEFT BEHIND. THEY WOULD DISAPPEAR INTO THE WILDERNESS TO LEAVE SAUL PUZZLED AS TO THEIR WHEREABOUTS. THIS MANUEVER IS WHAT GAVE DAVID THE APPELLATION OF "THE DESERT FOX"

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In our little town recently there was a mock bank robbery. Three law enforcement officers from another city carried out the fake holdup for the purpose of keeping the bank's employees on their toes.

These "robbers" put ski masks over their faces, pulled empty guns on bank employees and ordered them to lie on the floor. They then took money out of the bank vault and fled with a bank teller "hostage."

As you can well imagine, the people who worked in the bank were terrified. They responded to the situation by pushing the alarm and calling the police, as they had been instructed to do. Three policemen caught the "robbers" a few blocks from the scene.

The problem with the zany piece of theater is that only four employees knew the mock robbery was going to happen. The others thought it was the real thing and were frightened out of their wits. As a result, many employees became physically ill and emotionally upset and had to go home.

I am appalled that the employees were subjected to this trauma. What is your opinion of such a drill?—No Name, Please, I Live Here (McPherson, Kan.)

DEAR MAC: When I read about that mock holdup, I too, was appalled. How lucky that no one in the bank had a gun. Those out-of-town police officers masquerading as bandits could have ended up dead, not to mention the hapless customers whose bad luck it was to be in the bank at that time.

Whoever thought up that no brainer "to keep the bank employees on their toes" gets the Strudel-in-the-Noodle Award of the year.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just finished reading the letter from "The Big Q" who complained that her husband was a workaholic. She asked, "When does the fun begin?" You replied, "The fun started for your husband a long time ago. Workaholics would rather work than play, which is why they do it. Mates of workaholics must make their own fun."

OK. So that takes care of the spouses. Now what about the children? My father was a workaholic. When I think about my own childhood, all I can remember is a ghost for a dad. He figured if he brought home the bacon and put it on the table, that's all there was to being a father. It's hard to get it through your head when you're growing up that your father would rather work than spend a little time with you, but after a while you get the message.

Suddenly you're grown up and the picture changes. You're an adult and if your father happens to be around for more than 20 minutes, you don't know what to say to him because you realize the man is really a stranger.

Please, Ann, tell those workaholics who are putting in 12 and 14-hour days that they should ask themselves what they are giving up—and if it is worth it.—A Casualty of the Job in Providence

DEAR CASUALTY: Your message is one that all up and coming overachievers ought to memorize and tape in their handbags. There are no free lunches in this life. We all pay a price for whatever we get. Sometimes the price is too high, but we don't see the bill until it's too late. And, unfortunately, all sales are final.

Gem of the Day: After all is said and done, no matter how famous or important a man may be, the size of his funeral is going to depend a lot on the weather.

His daughter, Bria, 2 1/2, lives with her mother, model Nicole R. Mitchell. Murphy lives elsewhere, but feels "total, total commitment" to his family, the magazine said.

Ryan stakes Texas to lead, bullpen blows it

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Three times is no longer a charm. For Nolan Ryan, it's a curse.

Ryan left his relievers a lead once again Thursday night, and for the third straight time, his bullpen blew it.

Mike Macfarlane hit a three-run homer off Jeff Russell in the ninth as the Royals ruined Ryan's bid for his first victory of the season with a 7-5 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Ryan gave up just one hit and left the game with a 5-1 lead after seven innings. He had retired the final 18 batters.

Ryan, who has never gone this deep into a season without winning a game, is stuck on career victory No. 314. His last victory was Sept. 25 against Seattle.

"It's a heck of a shame that Nolan's still stuck on that number," Russell said. "Somebody's got a hex on him. We've got to work extra hard to get him the win."

Ryan said he didn't second-guess manager Bobby Valentine for pulling him after he had thrown 111 pitches.

"I feel like I've been throwing well," he said. "But things just didn't work out. Under the circumstances, he did the right thing."

Valentine didn't have any excuses for his bullpen.

"You just don't know what to expect from some of the guys," he said.

Ryan's bullpen also blew leads in each of his previous two starts, both against Milwaukee.

Lance McCullers started the eighth for Texas, and most of the 23,363 started for the gates, their man done for the night.

McCullers walked one batter, and Kenny Rogers came on. He gave up a single to Curtis Wilkerson and a three-run homer to Terry Shumpert, his first, making it 5-4, before retiring the next three hitters.

"I was glad to see Ryan go," Shumpert said. "I guess he had his good stuff, and although we were starting to hit him hard, I don't think we could have gotten five runs off him."

With one out in the ninth, Kevin McReynolds reached on a fielding error by shortstop Dickie Thon. Jim Eisenreich doubled and Russell replaced Rogers. Russell gave up Macfarlane's home run to left field on an 0-2 pitch.

Rogers (0-2) gave up four runs, three earned, in 1 1-3 innings. Rusty Meacham (2-0) pitched one inning of hitless relief for the victory, and Jeff Montgomery worked a scoreless ninth inning for his eighth save.

Ryan walked two and struck out eight in his longest outing of his 26th major league season. The only hit he gave up was Gregg Jefferies' bloop double in the first that fell in thanks to a rain-soaked outfield.

The game began after a 1-hour, 20-minute rain delay. Ryan, who has 12 one-hitters in addition to his record seven no-hitters, struck out the game's first two batters before Jefferies blooped a ball about three feet inside the line that left fielder Kevin Reimer couldn't reach because of the soaked grass.

Reimer raced about 150 feet and slid toward the chalk line, but he missed the ball by a couple of feet.

The Royals went up 1-0 in the second without getting a hit. Wilkerson's soft fly to right drove home Eisenreich, who walked, stole second and advanced on a groundout. That was the final batter to reach base off Ryan.

The Rangers responded in the bottom of the inning with their biggest outburst since April 11 - five runs on five hits - all off Tom Gordon, including a two-run homer by Kevin Reimer. Gordon didn't return for the third inning.

Despite the Rangers' shaky bullpen, Royals manager Hal McRae said he didn't think a comeback was possible.

"How many times can you feel good when your starter throws two innings, you're down by four runs and the one hit you've got in seven innings is a bloop double?" he asked. "It was a strange night."

A&M captures NCAA opener in baseball

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Travis Williams drove in four runs for Texas A&M, which set season highs for hits and runs in a 15-6 victory over California in the first round of the NCAA East Regional.

Texas A&M (39-18) advanced to a 6:30 p.m. CDT matchup today against Georgia Tech, which beat George Mason 5-4. California (31-26) meets top-seeded Florida, which beat Rider 6-1 Thursday night.

The third-seeded Aggies bombed Cal starter Mike Cather (5-6) for nine runs in 2 2-3 innings Thursday.

Texas A&M's final two batters in the lineup, Williams and Tim Holt, combined for five hits in eight at-bats with seven RBIs. Williams was 3 of 4 with a two-run homer and Holt drove in three runs with a bases-loaded triple.

Jeff Granger (7-3) struck out five in eight innings to increase his season total to 122, one more than his school record set last season.

Matt Luke drove in three runs for Cal.

In the second game, a fielding error by George Mason shortstop Ken Munoz in the bottom of the eighth inning allowed two runners to score for Georgia Tech (44-17).

George Mason's Chris Burr paced the Patriots (38-17) to an early 4-2 lead with a solo homer, his 17th of the year, and an RBI single.

Marc Valdes (10-3) allowed two hits in six innings in leading Florida (44-18) into the second round.

Cleveland tops Bulls, 107-81

CHICAGO (AP) - Unlike the Chicago Bulls, the Cleveland Cavaliers were true to form.

"If we play a poor game, we come back strong the next time," Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkens said Thursday night after the Cavaliers silenced their critics and the defending champion Bulls 107-81 to even the best-of-7 playoff at one game each.

"I never sat through an exhibition of basketball like that in my life," said Bulls coach Phil Jackson, somewhat unable to fathom the devastation brought upon his team.

"It was 8-2 and then 10-2 and we thought we could come back and play through it," said Scottie Pippen. "But it never happened."

Actually, the Bulls fell behind 11-2, and that was as close as they would come all night.

Led by Brad Daugherty with 28 points and Mark Price with 23, the Cavaliers, who lost the opener 103-89 Tuesday night, were ahead 20-4 before Pippen scored the Bulls first field goal with 3:46 left in the quarter.

A 10-0 run to open the second quarter, with Price hitting two 3-pointers, gave the Cavaliers a 40-14 lead. At that point, Price had as many points as the Bulls.

In the first two periods, the defending NBA champion Bulls were 12 of 43 from the field, 27.9 percent, and the Cavaliers 21 of 33 for 63.6 percent.

"The first half was the best half we played all year," Price said.

The Bulls, missing their first 13 shots of the game, could never get closer than 19 points and once trailed by 35 points.

"It was a lackluster effort on our part and a stellar effort on their part," said Jackson. "My congratulations to the Cleveland coaching staff for the job they did in getting their players ready for the game."

Wilkins had no doubts about his team coming back.

"I was confident we'd come out and play harder and better and with a lot more intensity than we did in the first game," said Wilkins. "We were all unhappy with that performance."

The series shifts to Cleveland for games Saturday and Monday afternoons, with the fifth game scheduled in Chicago next Wednesday night.

"We will regroup and be ready for the next game," said Jackson.

Michael Jordan led the Bulls with 20 points, with reserves B.J. Armstrong scoring 16 and Stacey King 13. Pippen had 11. King was one of the replacements for center Bill Cartwright, who left the game in the first quarter with a strained back.

Jordan, who missed his first six shots and was 7 of 22 from the field, had a sore throat and left immediately after the game, instead issuing a statement.

"We have confidence in ourselves and we'll be ready for them," the statement said. "We've had confidence all year long and no doubt in our mind that we will regroup."

"It was frustrating and embarrassing, but there's no reason to feel sorry for ourselves," said Pippen. "Now we have to go on the road and win."

That might be tough against the Cavaliers, who have won nine of their last 10 games at home and are 5-1 there in the playoffs.

"We took care of the ball and took advantage of all our opportunities," said Daugherty.

Price, who had five field goals, including four 3-pointers, also took a shot at Cleveland's critics.

"They can call you names and say what they want," said Price, "but they can all eat crow now. We realize this is just one game and we need to win three more to make it mean something."

Giants, Mets take NL triumphs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Things have been great for the San Francisco Giants, pitiful for the Pittsburgh Pirates lately. Their three-game series proved it.

The Giants scored the only run on Bob Walk's wild pitch with two outs in the seventh inning and held on for a 1-0 victory Thursday for a sweep of the series.

"We caught a couple of breaks today," manager Roger Craig said after the Giants won for the eighth time in 10 games to tie the Pirates for the best record (.23-16) in the National League.

The Pirates, losing their sixth in a row, were swept by the Giants for the first time since July 25-28, 1985, and escaped Candlestick Park after mustering merely 12 hits and three runs in the series.

"To be honest, I'm not that discouraged," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "We got three good starts from our pitchers, but we're just not hitting."

Andy Van Slyke is the exception. His singles in the first and fourth innings were the only hits off John Burkett (4-1) and Mike Jackson, who combined to retire the last 16 batters.

The Pirates, losing their sixth in a row, were swept by the Giants for the first time since July 25-28, 1985, and escaped Candlestick Park after mustering merely 12 hits and three runs in the series.

"To be honest, I'm not that discouraged," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "We got three good starts from our pitchers, but we're just not hitting."

Andy Van Slyke is the exception. His singles in the first and fourth innings were the only hits off John Burkett (4-1) and Mike Jackson, who combined to retire the last 16 batters.

The only other NL game saw New York take San Diego 8-3.

The percentages finally caught up with Walk (1-3), who hadn't lost at Candlestick since July 21, 1987, and to anyone on the road in 24 games since June 8, 1990, at New York.

Kevin Bass, who snapped an 0-for-19 slump with a second-inning triple, led off the winning rally with a seventh-inning double and went to third on rookie catcher Jim McNamara's bunt single.

After rookie Royce Clayton lined into a double play, Mike Felder batted for Burkett and Walk bounced a 1-2 pitch past catcher Mike LaValliere, scoring Bass.

"I got a little greedy and tried to strike him out," said Walk, who yielded four hits in seven innings. "I bounced a curve in front of Spanky (LaValliere)."

Burkett, who had received 48 runs of support in his previous eight starts, faced 22 batters, one over the minimum, in seven innings while posting his fourth straight victory. He struck out four and walked none.

Mets 8, Padres 3

At San Diego, Bobby Bonilla and Eddie Murray homered to lead a 14-hit attack that backed Sid Fernandez, who struck out 10 in seven innings.

Murray had four hits, including a three-run homer. Bonilla, who had two homers on Opening Day and then none until Tuesday and again Thursday, doubled his total and drove in seven runs in the four-game series.

Fernandez moved to second in the National League with 62 strikeouts, behind only teammate David Cone, who has 69.

Benito Santiago, Gary Sheffield and Darrin Jackson hit solo homers for San Diego.

Oiler receiving corps seeks leader

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oilers' receiving corps is looking for a new spiritual leader and a new nickname.

Veteran Drew Hill, who helped guide Haywood Jeffries and Ernest Givins through their early NFL years, has signed with the Atlanta Falcons.

Hill, Givins, Jeffries and Curtis Duncan, known as the "Fab Four" in the Oilers' run-and-shoot offense, want a new moniker.

"Yeah, there's a lot of new faces," Givins said following Thursday's mini-camp workout. "My good buddy (Hill) is gone, Tony Jones is gone (to Falcons). But we still have a lot of good receivers. I think we can handle it."

Jeffries caught 100 passes to lead the AFC last season, becoming the fifth NFL receiver to reach 100 catches in a season. Plan B losses have hurt the receiving corps in Jeffries' view.

"I don't think it's as talented without Tony and Drew so the responsibility will be on me and Ernest," Jeffries said. "I can't throw up the numbers like I did last year because defenses will have more of a responsibility to control me."

The Oilers are working out daily at the team's practice facility through May 29.

"When you lose a guy like Drew Hill you lose a lot of leadership," Givins said. "You lose a person who taught you the correct way to do this and that. Now, the guys will be looking at myself and Haywood."

Hill, the Oilers' all-time leading receiver, was left unprotected on the Oilers' Plan B list and signed with the Falcons, led by former Oilers coach Jerry Glanville.

"Drew was the one that made the difference in my career," Jeffries said.

"He helped with making changes. It feels strange around here without him. But it will give me more of a chance to prove myself."

"He helped me but he didn't run my routes and catch the ball for me."

Hill, 35, caught 90 passes last season and was second in the AFC to Jeffries. He is the only player in NFL history to have four 1,000-yard seasons after the age of 30.

Leonard Harris is the leading candidate to replace Hill at the inside receiver position. Receivers coach Chris Palmer says Harris, Pat Coleman and Gary Wellmon are competing for the position.

"I think there's an attitude that there's a position open and let's give it our best shot," Palmer said. "The guys see that and say 'I will be the one.' There's definitely an opportunity and all the players know it."

Mallon faces vets in 'Skins'

FRISCO, Texas (AP) - Meg Mallon, considered one of the forerunners of the LPGA's new generation, will challenge the tour's establishment Saturday and Sunday in the $450,000 LPGA Skins Game.

"I just hope I don't get shut out. I hope I can represent them (the new generation) well," said Mallon, who will face defending champion Jan Stephenson, an 18-year tour veteran, and two LPGA Hall of Fame members, Nancy Lopez and Pat Bradley.

The quartet will play nine holes Saturday and nine holes Sunday at Stonebriar Country Club, the same course north of Dallas that the Senior PGA Tour stopped at earlier this month.

Under the Skins Game format, a player with the low score on a hole will win a "skin." A player who wins a skin on one of the first six holes will earn $15,000. The next six will be worth $25,000 each, and each of the last six holes will be worth $35,000.

When a hole is tied, the money is carried over until there is a winner.

In 1990, Stephenson sank an 18-inch putt on the 17th hole for her only skin, but because of carry-overs, it was worth $200,000. Competitors in that inaugural year were JoAnne Carner ($110,000), Lopez ($95,000) and Besty King ($45,000). The tournament wasn't held last year.

Despite her worries, Mallon is considered the favorite. Last year, only her fourth on the Ladies Professional Golf Association Tour, she won two majors, the LPGA Championship and the U.S. Open, within a span of three weeks. This season, she has placed in the top 10 six times.

Bradley, the LPGA's career leading money winner with more than $4 million in 18 years, acknowledges that Mallon is part of the new generation that soon will dominate the tour.

However, in Skins Game competition, Bradley said luck is as much a factor as anything.

"Look at the Seniors Skins Game. Jack Nicklaus played great golf, but didn't get a skin," she said.

"It's just a matter of being in the right place at the right time," she said. "And it should be exciting. Every hole is a tournament within a tournament."

Mallon's strategy is to fire at all the flags and try to card as many birdies as possible. That could, she concedes, result in "bad golf or good golf."

Lopez, who limited her play to 11 tournaments last season because of her third pregnancy, said she is playing some of her best golf.

"I'm hitting the ball great," she said. "But my putting has been poor."

However, she recently reverted to her old short backswing while putting and is seeing results.

"I'm at least starting to hit the hole now," she said.

Stephenson, saying she is working harder than ever on her game, has revamped her swing since suffering a broken left ring finger in 1990 when she was mugged.

The finger, which is permanently bent, forced her to miss 11 tournaments in '90. She also had to alter her grip and swing. Before she won the $200,000 in 1991, she was depressed about the state of her game, she concedes.

"Making that putt was like turning the light on at the end of the tunnel," she said. "I have more desire now than ever. I'm working harder. I don't want to just get back in the top 20. I want to win majors. I look at this as my second career."

As far as defending her Skins Game crown, she plans a more conservative attack.

"I think I was too aggressive the first time. I got too anxious," she said.

Two Hereford youths lead WBU yells

Andy Lucero and Rudy Barrientez of Hereford were among eight students selected recently as cheerleaders at Wayland Baptist University.

Others selected were Jenni Gast of Cotton Center, William Carson of Clovis, Jill Brown of Skellytown, Christy Marez of Abernathy, Cassie Oats of Slaton and Philip Rhodes of Gooding, Idaho.

"Overall, this is probably the most talented group of cheerleaders ever assembled at Wayland," said Joe Provence, sponsor. "All members are gymnasts and, when you consider the fact that two high-school All Americans did not make the squad, you realize the quality of the group."

Hot-putting Love takes lead in Colonial golf

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Professional golfer's great American snake hunter, Davis Love III, is suddenly sinking snakes instead of killing them.

It's less exciting but much more profitable.

Love, a triple winner this year, holed putts of 35, 30 and 25 feet en route to a 5-under-par 65 and a share of the lead entering today's second round of the rain-disrupted $1.3 million Colonial golf tournament.

"If I'd made a couple of little ones, it would have been a perfect putting day," he said.

Counting three 15-footers, Love knocked in six "snakes" on Colonial's rolling, rain-soaked greens Thursday and joined Billy Mayfair as the front-runner in the chase for the $234,000 top prize.

It was almost anticlimactic.

Armed only with his trusty 1-iron, Love added to Colonial lore in Wednesday's pro-am when he dispatched a poisonous 5-foot cottonmouth at the No. 13 lake hole. He claimed a "snake-in-one" but actually whiffed him on his first swing.

"I got him on the next try," he grinned.

Whatever, Love modestly took credit for saving countless lives.

"They've gone into hiding," he announced Thursday when asked about any new snake capers. "The word's out."

Unless he gets eaten by a reptile, Love most likely will overtake Fred Couples atop the money winning list come Sunday. His $1,011,032 in official earnings is a scant $10,000 behind Couples, the Masters champion who is resting up for next month's U.S. Open.

"You can't start thinking about Sunday this early," Love said. "But it's nice to be off to a good start."

Likewise, Mayfair said it was great to "get a good solid round under your belt." After a bogey at the easy par-5 first hole, the former U.S. Amateur champion played flawlessly, collecting six birdies from no more than 15 feet.

Sunday's Indy 500 race features lots of favorites

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - It's a race with a lot of favorites. And that makes Sunday's Indianapolis 500 a race with no favorites but a lot of possibilities.

It's a lineup that includes the fastest qualifier in the history of the Speedway in Roberto Guerrero, driving a still-unproven car with an engine that has never won a race. It's a lineup that includes the most consistent driver this season, Bobby Rahal, starting from the fourth row.

It's a lineup that has a record 10 former winners, including the first trio of four-time winners, none of whom was within 8 mph of Guerrero.

It's a lineup in which the winningest team in Indy history, Penske Racing, was shut out of the first two rows.

It's a lineup with seven rookies, including four who have never driven an Indy car race. And there's Lyn St. James, the second woman starter.

"It makes a very interesting field," said former winner Emerson Fittipaldi, one of the trio of Penske drivers.

"It will be I'm sure the quickest Indy 500 in history, and it will be very competitive. But I can see a lot of track problems happening," he said after Thursday's final two-hour practice.

Guerrero qualified at a record 232.482 mph, breaking the record of 225.301 set by Fittipaldi two years ago. But Guerrero and teammate Jim Crawford, who had the fastest unofficial lap in Indy history at 233.433 mph during practice, are using the unproven Buick, whose reliability is still in question.

The most popular engine still is the Chevrolet, which has won 39 consecutive Indy car races over the past three seasons. But Fittipaldi and his Penske teammates Rick Mears and rookie Paul Tracy are using the new Chevy-B engine, and their speeds have been nowhere near as competitive.

Mears, last year's winner, qualified on the outside of the third row, only the second time since 1981 he hasn't been on the front row.

Fittipaldi will start on the fourth row, and Tracy will be on the seventh row.

"It's difficult to know who had how much fuel on board by the lap times today, but looking for the race, I think if we run very strong from the beginning of the race to the end of the race, very consistent, possibly we don't have to hope the others break down," Fittipaldi said of the 15 Chevrolet-A, 12 Buick and four Ford-Cosworth engines in the race.

Car owner Roger Penske has fielded a record eight Indy winners, but Fittipaldi said the Penske entries this year have to be considered underdogs.

"But the race situation could be very different," he said. "Just qualifying, yes, we're running a little slower than we should. But the race situation could change."

"The beginning of the race, I'm sure, where I'm starting, I'm going to be striving to be in the leading group. But I would say from the experience at Indianapolis, the track conditions change, the weather changes. The key is to be consistent for 500 miles."

Bobby Rahal, another former winner who leads the IndyCar season standings with one victory, one second and one third, will start from the fourth row next to Fittipaldi.

Four of the five fastest qualifiers behind Guerrero - Eddie Cheever, former winners Mario Andretti and Arie Luyendyk, and last year's IndyCar series champion Michael Andretti - all have the Ford Cosworths. The fastest qualifier with a Chevrolet is former winner Danny Sullivan, who will start from the middle of the third row.

He nearly aced the par-3 13th and birdied the tough par-4 15th, "which was like stealing."

Keith Clearwater, the 1987 Colonial champion, toured the soggy, windswept Trinity River course in 66 and was a shot ahead of Kirk Triplett, Dillard Pruitt, Mike Standly and Brian Clair.

"I actually hit 18 greens today, which I haven't done in a long time," Clearwater said. "... It was a pretty boring day."

He added quickly that it was boring only in the sense that "I didn't do anything spectacular, but I didn't do anything bad, either ... And I did make a few putts."

Lightning interrupted play at 4:30 p.m. Thursday with 25 players still on the course. They included Craig Stadler, who was 4 under par through 17 holes and flirting with a share of the lead.

They were to complete their round this morning, then move almost immediately into the second round.

When not battling storms or snakes, Love has been pretty much half the story of the 1992 tour, matching shots and victories with Couples, also a three-time winner. Their friendly rivalry resumes in earnest June 18-21 at Pebble Beach, site of the U.S. Open.

Walker leads classic

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) - Sometimes you can't see the course for the trees. And that's when experience makes a difference, say the players leading the field in the LPGA Corning Classic.

The 6,064-yard Corning Country Club course, with its tight, tree-crowded fairways and small greens, favors golfers who have played there before, said Colleen Walker, the leader by two shots going into today's second round.

Walker, who has played at Corning for 11 years, shot a 7-under-par 65.

"This is the kind of golf course you get to know," she said.

Golfers who play Corning year after year gain important "local knowledge," said Alice Miller, who was three strokes behind Walker after the first round. For example, "they have golf-ball eating Christmas trees here," she said.

"I know every one of these trees by name after all these years," Miller added. "I've been under every one of them."

Kim Williams, who requalified for the tour this year after losing her card in 1989, was tied for second with Kay Cockerill at 67. Miller and Michelle Estill were at 68.

Walker, who tied for third at Corning last year, collected eight birdies and only one bogey in her round, which matched a first-round course record set by Kathy Young in 1987.

Starting on the back nine, Walker shot six birdies before reaching the turn, including "one of the hardest chips I ever got" on No. 15, she said.

Walker carded her only bogey on No. 8 after failing to make the green, then chipping to about 10 feet and two-putting.

"I played really well," she said. "I hit the ball really close and gave myself a lot of opportunities."

Walker is ninth on the LPGA money list this year. She won the Oldsmobile Classic in Lake Worth, Fla., in February.

Jody Anschutz had a round of 69 highlighted by a hole-in-one on No. 7 and was tied with JoAnne Carner, Lynn Adams and Nancy Ramsbottom.

The $450,000, 72-hole Corning tournament has had a different winner in each of its 13 years.

Angels thankful for trees after team bus accident

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

Fifty of the best big bass anglers from twelve towns across the Texas Panhandle converged on little BAYLOR LAKE for a Saturday morning competition to decide who could "catch and release" the biggest bass. Each angler (including two ladies) paid a $50 entry fee and joined the high pressure world of tournament bass fishing, where losing a big bass could preclude winning the $1,000 prize money for biggest bass of the day. Even losing a small "keeper bass" could cost an unlucky angler the hourly prize money of $50.

The pressure is self imposed, but even grown men start saying their prayers when a big bass starts jumping during these tournaments.

After hour two of this seven hour event, Childress angler Paul Jones was in the lead with a bass that was officially certified at 5.19 lbs. Now a five pound bass is a good fish, but the lake record is 14.44 lbs., and bass over 10 pounds are common. Surely a bigger bass would be hooked today, BUT would she be landed?

After 1-1/2 long hours of waiting the results were announced: first place and $1050 to Paul Jones, who used a tequila-sunrise Culprit jerkworm as his secret weapon. "I want to thank all the area fishermen who have caught bass over five pounds for NOT coming to this tournament. I hope they will be busy on June 13th when the next Big Bass Tournament is scheduled for Lake Baylor," grinned a sly but richer Mr. Jones.

Second place winnings of $550 went to Amarillo angler Jackie Ivy for catching a 4.40 lb. largemouth bass. Third place money of $250 was earned by Plainview angler Keith Frost, February's Big Bass winner. Other hourly $50 winners included Amarillo's Bob "Bubble Gum" Gregg and John "SaltCraw" Smith of Dumon, Texas. The $50 luck-of-the-draw was won by Childress angler Frank Ackerman, and the Pizza Hut bonus was won by Celia Tuz of Lake Tanglewood.

Quote of the Week: "Golf would be as easy as fishing if you could not see the ball and then didn't know where the cup was located!" Many fishermen secretly think that golf is a little too easy because the ball doesn't move when the golfer tries to hit it.

Lake Greenbelt Tournaments—May 21, a Thursday evening Fun Tournament, and on Saturday, June 6th, a Team Tournament with proceeds benefiting the Texas Panhandle Recreation Association.

Lake Meredith Tournaments—June 4, a Thursday evening Fun Tournament. Tip-of-the-Week—Post-spawn bass can be caught on 3/8 oz. white spinnerbaits with a slow bump-the-bottom retrieve.

DEPTFORD TOWNSHIP, N.J.

(AP) - Members of the California Angels credit a tree-lined highway for sparing them serious injury when their chartered bus careened out of control on the New Jersey Turnpike.

The bus slid off the roadway toward a 15-foot embankment, eventually landing on its side. It rested precariously against trees after snapping branches.

"What was holding it up was one or two trees," said third base coach John Wathan, who was not seriously hurt. "Otherwise, it would have careened down about 15 or 20 more feet and rolled over once or twice."

Twelve team members, including manager Buck Rodgers, were injured. Rodgers, who broke a rib, his left knee and elbow, and three others remained hospitalized today.

The accident early Thursday jolted the team, which was traveling from a loss to the New York Yankees to a weekend series with the Baltimore Orioles.

Rodgers, 53, was expected to be transferred from a Philadelphia hospital today to Centinela Hospital in Englewood, Calif., for surgery on his elbow. Meanwhile, Wathan will manage the team, said Angels spokesman Tim Mead.

Three other members of the Angels organization - first baseman Alvin Davis, traveling secretary Frank Sims and trainer Ned Berget - were to be released from the hospital today and reunited with the team in Baltimore.

Mead said the others injured were second baseman Bobby Rose, 25; outfielder Junior Felix, 24; shortstop Gary DiSarcina, 25; bullpen coach Rick Turner, 32; Wathan, 42; bullpen coach Ken Macha, 41; and radio announcer Allan Conin, 41.

Reese Air Force Base schedules open house

Colonel William C. Henny, commander of Reese Air Force Base's 64th Flying Training Wing, announced that the U.S. Air Force's Thunderbirds and the U.S. Army's Golden Knights will perform at Reese during the base's annual open house on Sunday.

"The two demonstration teams will have to share top billing with the Air Force's newest training aircraft, Reese's own T-1A Jayhawk," Colonel Henny said. He noted that: "The T-1A will be on public display and make a flyover above Reese for the first time during an open house. Our personnel are really looking forward to giving our open house visitors their first look at our T-1As."

The Thunderbirds are the Air Force's renowned Air Demonstration Squadron from Nellis AFB, Nevada. The Golden Knights are the Army's famed Parachute Demonstration Team based at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. They both will be helping the personnel of Reese AFB celebrate "fifty years of training the world's best military pilots," said Colonel Henny. "This year's Open House is a tribute to over fifty years of cooperation and support between the base and its personnel, and the citizens of the Lubbock area community," said Colonel Henny. "I invite all residents of the West Texas-Eastern New Mexico area to come out on May 24th to help us celebrate the start of our fifty-second year and to see up close how the Armed Services perform their mission."

Although the Thunderbirds and the Golden Knights will be the featured flying and parachuting attractions, there will be numerous aircraft performing flyovers and flying capability demonstrations. The remainder of the aircraft will be on static (ground) display on the flightline parking ramp.

The base will be open to the public from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. During that time, there will be a variety of continuing activities. Static display aircraft will be open for public inspection on the flightline aircraft parking ramp. A number of other operational and support exhibits and displays will be available for viewing either on the flightline or in adjacent hangars. There will be continuous demonstrations by personnel from Reese units and units from other bases.

There will be as many as 40 military and civilian aircraft on static (ground) display on the flightline parking ramp when the gates open. The display will include fighters like the Air Force's F-15 Eagle, an F-15E version of the Eagle, the F-16 Fighting Falcon, and the F-111. Attack aircraft like the Air Force's A-10 Thunderbolt II and AT-38 Talon will have cockpit viewing stands available.

The C-5 Galaxy will be open for walk through inspection by visitors. The C-141 Starlifter and the KC-135 Stratotanker will also be on display representing the tanker-transport forces.

The Tactical Air Command will send an F-15 Eagle that will put on a fighter aircraft capability demonstration.

Some of the historical events that are being marked by Reese AFB personnel as part of the base's 50th anniversary years are:

June 13, 1941, the War Department in Washington, D.C. made the official announcement that a site offered by the city of Lubbock had been selected as an advanced flying school. (This event occasioned last year's June 15-16, 1991 open house.)

On June 26, 1941, the War

Department announced that the school would be named the Air Corps Advanced Flying School, Lubbock, Texas.

The contract for construction of the base was awarded on August 22, 1941, and construction began immediately under the supervision of the U.S. Engineer.

In August 1941, the first cadre of five enlisted men arrived from Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas to begin work on the base.

In January 1942, organizations which had been activated at Brooks Field arrived to begin preparing the field for the first class of cadets.

The first class of Aviation Cadets reported to the field on February 25, 1942, and formed class number 42-E. The flying training program began immediately.

On April 29, 1942, Class 42-E completed the single engine training program and became the base's first graduating class during exercises on base.

On June 21, 1942, the base was officially dedicated and the name changed to Lubbock Army Air Field.

On September 6, 1942, class 42-H graduated and became the first group of students to complete the twin engine flying training program.

There has been no change in the primary mission of the base "to train pilots" since its establishment. "With the arrival of the T-1A Jayhawk last January, Reese is now the Air Force's premier pilot training base," said Colonel Henny. "We have received the Air Force's first new training aircraft to be delivered in more than 30 years. Now, we are laying the foundation for Specialized Undergraduate Pilot Training (SUPT) that will carry Air Force pilot training through at least the first three decades of the 21st century. Reese's legacy will carry the Air Force through the next 50 years of its history," Colonel Henny concluded.

Lt. Colonel Bob Grosvenor, Reese Open House Project Officer, recommends that persons interested in visiting the base during Open House "Arrive early! Come for the Thunderbirds 9 a.m. arrival show and you can see two Thunderbird shows. We know that traditionally many visitors travel 100 to 400 miles to see a Reese Open House Since Sunday is the second day of the federal government's Memorial Day Holiday Weekend, there may be even more visitors to the Lubbock area than usual, so make your plans early. Make room reservations now if you need them! Also, bring along plenty of lotion to protect you from the sun. The Reese weatherman has been told to get us a sunny day with no clouds and unlimited visibility, so that should be the weather forecast for May 24th," the colonel says with a smile.

Colonel Grosvenor assures visitors that: "We promise to take good care of you while you are on base. There is no charge to attend any of the activities on base. There will be plenty of food, drink, parking, and rest rooms available. There will be a reasonable charge for food and beverages. We will have additional shuttle buses running from the farthest parking areas, and we will have rest stations with cold drinks and a first aid station in both the north and south parking areas," he states.

The adding machine was invented by the Frenchman Pascal in 1642.

Open house May 24

The United States Air Force Thunderbirds maneuver close to the ground with their gear down and flying at low speed in what is known as their diamond formation. The Thunderbirds will perform many spectacular maneuvers during Reese Air Force Base's open house planned Sunday.

Consumers should beware of phony travel promotions

Consumers who receive promotions that offer "travel agent perks and discounts" and charge a sizable fee, should be wary of fraud. According to the American Society of Travel Agents (ASTA), the promise of a travel agent ID card and status as an outside sales agent may not turn out to be as lucrative as it sounds.

"While the promotions are slick and attractive, unsuspecting consumers should be aware that they may come away empty-handed when they go to cash in on the so-called travel perks that these operations deceptively advertise," explains local travel expert, Joan Coupe, of Hereford Travel Center. "The suppliers of travel--airlines, hotels, tour operators, cruise lines and car rental firms--are taking a closer look at travel agent identification."

"Consumers are paying hundreds of dollars for phony ID cards in the belief that they will be eligible for travel discounts. Any consumer looking to do this is taking the risk of being turned down by these suppliers. She cautions, pointing out that legitimate travel agencies typically do not require outside sales agents to pay for such an "opportunity." A demand for payment should alert the consumer to evaluate the proposal very carefully.

The presence of "instant agents" also gives authentic, working travel agents a bad name. "Instant agents have limited knowledge of travel business that is often only supplemented by promotional mailings and perhaps an initial alleged training session of a few hours that goes along with receipt of the travel agent ID and a business card," Coupe stated.

ASTA recommends that when considering travel agency or when considering an employment offer, consumers ask if the agency is an ASTA member. The Society emphasizes the importance of professionalism, training and education, and its members agree to adhere to a Code of Ethics. ASTA also has a Consumer Affairs Department that receives and mediates complaints. In addition, ASTA has endorsed identification cards for the International Airlines Travel Agent Network, a group that sets financial and personnel standards for travel agencies.

"We want to establish the ASTA logo as the Good Housekeeping seal of the travel industry," said Coupe. "The trend of using travel agent ID's to anyone willing to pay the price is a deceptive practice. We hope consumers who receive misleading promotional offers will think twice before jumping in to something that can be harmful both to the industry and to the unwitting participant. Consumers who have fallen prey to this scam should contact their state attorney general's offices as well as their local consumer affairs offices. Without notification, government and consumer protection agencies have difficulties in snaring the perpetrators."

October 6 is a national holiday in Ireland. It's Ivy Day.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues. No copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.
