Clinton begins sales job on health care

By NANCY BENAC
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton's call for a drastic overhaul of the nation's health care system reverberated across the nation today igniting a debate over how much can be done at what cost. With talk shows and pep rallies, the administration's sales pitch began in earnest.

Vice President Al Gore was on television before breakfast to argue that the plan would create a simpler, more efficient system. The Republican leader of the Senate countered that it was "a little overgenerous and underfunded."

Clinton laid out the broad outlines of his program in an impassioned hour-long speech Wednesday night and challenged Congress to act by the end of next year to revamp the current system and assure that every American has "health care that is always there."

Members of Congress - at once eager and wary - pledged a bipartisan search for common ground.

Today, Gore sought to dispel some of the principal public concerns about any wholesale change in the current system - that it would create a vast new government bureaucracy, would cost too much, and would place a particularly harsh burden on small business.

"The fed government is not taking it over," Gore told CBS. "It is stimulating competition."

The vice president said the proposal would "preserve the freedom of choice, both for patients and for doctors" and eliminate burdensome and expensive paperwork.

Senate GOP leader Bob Dole said Republicans agree on the need for universal coverage.

"The bottom line is, who's going to pay for it," he said on Fox TV. "The big winners were big government, big labor and big business. They seemed to come out in pretty good shape."

Clinton was welcoming more than 1,000 health-care allies to the White House today for a kickoff pep rally before heading to Tampa, Fla., for a nationally televised town hall meeting tonight.

Sixty radio talk-show hosts accepted the invitation to broadcast live from the White House lawn. Vice President Al Gore was hitting the morning talk shows, and Cabinet members were fanning out across the country.

In his address to Congress, which was sprinkled with health care horror stories, Clinton warned of "scare tactics by those who are motivated by the self-interest" and sought to keep the focus on the potential benefits for ordinary Americans, some of whom would pay more for health care under his proposal than they do now.

He exhorted members to "look into the eyes of a sick child who needs care" in weighing the course of health reform.

"We must make this our most urgent priority, giving every American health security - health care that can never be taken away, health care that is always there," he declared.

Throwing down a challenge with a time limit, Clinton added: "Let us agree on this: Whatever else we disagree on, before this Congress

At least 44 dead in bayou

Barge crash may have led to fatal derailment

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
SARALAND, Ala. (AP) - Investigators suspect a barge struck and weakened a railroad trestle shortly before an Amtrak train hurtled off the bridge into a murky bayou in the middle of the night. At least 44 people were killed.

The FBI and the National Transportation Safety Board said they found a dented barge near the wreck, along with damage that appeared to match that on a concrete piling supporting the bridge, which is just 7 feet above Bayou Canot.

Amtrak's Sunset Limited, traveling from Los Angeles to Miami with 206 people aboard, plunged into the fog-shrouded waterway on the outskirts of Mobile about 3 a.m. Wednesday. Some of the dead were trapped in a submerged, silver passenger car, others in a burned engine.

At least 159 people survived the wreck, the deadliest in Amtrak's 23-year history, said John Hammerschmidt of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Three people remained missing Wednesday night. Divers were to resume the search at daybreak.

About half the 500-foot-long bridge collapsed; investigators were trying to determine whether that happened before the wreck or because of it. Asked how the barge might have struck the bridge, which crosses a bayou that isn't navigable by barges, FBI agent Charles W. Archer said, "I understand it was very foggy." The barge was one of six lashed together.

The barge owner, Warrior & Gulf Navigation Co., confirmed in a statement early today that its barges were near the bridge at the time of the crash.

The towboat pushing the barges was traveling on the Mobile River when it got lost in the fog and found itself in the bayou, the company said. It was trying to return to the river when the train went off the bridge, said Andy Harris, Warrior & Gulf general manager of terminals.

"We don't yet know accurately what happened in this incident, but we have been, are, and will continue to participate with all of the agencies seeking to resolve the questions," company president Nicholas J. Barchie said.

The train's data recorder and the bodies of the three crew members who had been operating the train remained in the lead locomotive, which was buried nose-down in 15 feet of mud and 25 feet of water, investigators said.

The train's speed was not immediately known, but the limit on that stretch of track was 70 mph.

"We were asleep, and the next thing I knew we were in the water. It sounded like a big blast," said Dennis Stevens, 33, of Orange City, Fla. "I pushed out a window and got us out. Fuel was burning on top of the water. Smoke was everywhere. Then a tugboat came and threw some ropes to fish us out. You could hear screams."

Bill Crossover of Tallahassee, Fla., escaped with his wife, Vivian, from the submerged passenger car. He said they clung to debris for perhaps 45 minutes until someone spotted them in the darkness.

The train's three locomotives and four of its eight cars, including two passenger cars, went into the swamp, which is crawling with alligators and snakes. Another passenger car dangled from what was left of the bridge.

One wrecked engine erupted in flame, setting the night sky aglow as survivors, joined by rescuers in helicopters and local people who arrived in boats, worked frantically to pull passengers from the water.

A CSX freight train had crossed the trestle without incident an hour before the crash, said Richard Bussard, communications director for CSX Transportation Inc., the Jacksonville, Fla.-based railroad that owns the track.

McCown throws out plea for private school vouchers

By PEGGY FIKAC
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - The Legislature,

not the court system, is the best place for parents to try to get state money to pay private school tuition for their children, a state judge has suggested.

State District Judge F. Scott McCown of Travis County on Wednesday rejected arguments by low-income parents who want a version of such a so-called voucher system.

"The courts of the state of Texas have no authority" to order the Legislature to put in place the system outlined by the parents' attorney, McCown said.

Lawyer Allan Parker of San Antonio - representing parents from San Antonio, Laredo and El Paso - said they have a right under the Texas Constitution to school choice.

The parents want to be able to get state funds to send their children to private school, or if they opt to stay in the public school system, to pick any school they want, he said.

That would create "millions of parents as watchdogs over the system, with the opportunity to say to their school districts, 'If you don't give me the education my children need, I'm going to take them somewhere else where I can get that education,'" Parker said.

But McCown said that requiring equitable school funding - which the Texas Supreme Court already has done - is "about as much as a court can do."

"It seems to me that the beautiful thing about equity ... is that once everybody has equal resources, once they're all in the same boat, then they can make these decisions about what they want to do with their educational system," McCown said.

The parents had wanted to present their voucher argument in a trial scheduled to begin Oct. 4 on Texas' new school funding law. That law is being challenged by numerous school districts in a long-running school finance case overseen by McCown.

The Texas Supreme Court has ordered the state to even out funding available to school districts of differing property wealth, since schools rely on state aid and local property taxes. The new law is an effort to meet the order.

McCown told Parker that he could appeal his decision against the voucher argument to the Supreme Court. Parker said he hasn't decided what to do, but his options could include filing a separate lawsuit before another judge.

Deaf Smith County ranked 85th in the state in total gross sales for 1992, according to information from the state comptroller's office. The county's total gross sales amounted to $327 million.

The market comparisons were released by the Texas Press Association and the gross sales were broken down into 18 categories and ranked from 1 to 254. Harris County was tops in 15 of the categories, and Dallas claimed first in the other three.

As might be expected, Deaf Smith had its best showing in the agriculture/forestry category, ranking 30th in the state. Deaf Smith had a $10.25 million dollar volume in this listing. Other counties in the area and their ranking included Lubbock(8th), Hale(25), Floyd(26), Randall(36), Swisher(43), and Potter(46).

The agriculture/forestry listing includes crop and livestock production, agricultural services, forestry, fishing, hunting and trapping. The most populace counties were at the top: Harris, Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, and Travis. Hidalgo, in the valley, ranked seventh.

Deaf Smith ranked 52nd in wholesale trade with $95,525,177. Ahead of Deaf Smith in the Panhandle were Potter(17th) and Randall-(20th). Hale County was 57th; Moore was 62nd, and Gray and 79th.

In the manufacturing category, Deaf Smith was 76th with a dollar volume of $63,998,074. Area rankings included Hale(14), Potter(33), Parmer(42), Lamb(64), and Gray(80).

Deaf Smith's retail trade amounted to $104,928,912, which ranked 115th in the state. Area rankings included Hale(13), Potter(19), Randall(39), Gray(52), Hockley(106) and Moore(111).

The sales were also broken down into nine other categories: Building materials, general merchandise, food stores, automotive, clothing, home furnishings, restaurants, drug stores, and liquor stores.

The county's highest ranking in these categories was a 66th place in liquor store sales, which showed a total of $2,090,388. Potter County was 17th; Randall 31st, and Castro County 48th in liquor sales.

Deaf Smith was 81st in building material sales($16.4 million); 89th in automotive sales($31.1 million); 93rd in home furnishings($3.8 million); 101st in clothing($2.4 million); 119th in restaurant sales($7.8 million); 128th in food stores($8.2 million), and 144th in drug store sales($739,351).

$1.6 billion sought to pay jobless benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration is hurriedly searching for ways to pay for a new $1.6 billion extension of unemployment benefits for people who have been out of work more than half a year.

Labor Secretary Robert Reich proposed for a six-month renewal of the program to a House panel on Wednesday, less than two weeks before the current system of extended coverage expires. The plan allows people who use up the standard 26 weeks of unemployment coverage to receive up to 13 weeks of additional benefits.

"Extending the ... program for six months will provide those jobless workers breathing room while they seek new employment," Reich told the House Ways and Means human resources subcommittee.

But the labor secretary conceded the administration has yet to figure out how to pay for the program.

"We'll be examining all ideas," he told the lawmakers.

President Clinton is reluctant to seek yet another tax increase in the wake of the higher levies he has championed to pay for his deficit-reduction and health-care plans. Finding the money by cutting spending is also unpalatable for most Democrats.

Because of the continuing search for money, congressional committees are unlikely to begin voting on the extension until next week. That will give them a one-week deadline to approve the new benefits, or face headlines about jobless workers with no coverage.

Every month, about 250,000 Americans use up the basic 26 weeks of coverage. Until Oct. 2, such people can apply for up to 15 weeks of additional coverage.

But unless a new extension is enacted, jobless workers depleting the regular benefits beginning Oct. 3 will be unable to seek extra coverage. People already receiving extended benefits by that date would continue getting the weekly checks. Extended benefits have existed since November 1991.

Student accused of having knife, marijuana at school

Information regarding an incident at Hereford Junior High School on Wednesday will be turned over to juvenile authorities, Police Chief David Wagner said today.

Wagner said the school's assistant principal was told at lunch Wednesday that a female student had a plastic bag of marijuana in her possession.

Based on the information, Wagner said, the student's locker was searched and a black butterfly knife was allegedly found.

Although the alleged marijuana was not found, he continued, the student admitted having a quantity of the drug in her possession.

Yeltsin countering attacks by foes

Opponents threaten leader with death penalty

By BARRY RENFREW
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) - Boris Yeltsin's opponents threatened him with the death penalty for dissolving parliament and ordering elections as they frantically hunted for ways to counter growing support for the president.

Yeltsin dismissed the angry stream of accusations and threats, saying he would press ahead with introducing a new parliament and promising there would be no bloodshed.

"We would not like and do not intend to use any force," Yeltsin said. "We want everything to go peacefully, without blood."

Anti-Yeltsin leaders remained holed up today in the barricaded parliament building with a few hundred supporters standing guard outside.

About 150 lawmakers from the Supreme Soviet, Russia's smaller standing legislature, have been barricaded inside parliament since Yeltsin's Tuesday announcement that they were to be stripped of power and replaced in new elections in December.

Legislators were having trouble today finding a quorum so that the Congress of People's Deputies, Russia's main legislative body, could vote on ousting Yeltsin - an action he would ignore. Lawmakers said 600 of the Congress' 1,041 members had signed up to attend a congressional session today; 689 are needed for a quorum.

Yeltsin ordered lawmakers stripped of the right to get free plane tickets, making it harder for deputies to get to Moscow for the vote.

Hard-liners in parliament approved amending the criminal code to impose the death sentence for "violent alteration of the constitutional system." The text of the new law was published today in Rossiyskaya Gazeta, a newspaper that supports parliament.

"They in fact have confirmed their readiness to unleash political terror in Russia," a Yeltsin aide said after the vote Wednesday.

Despite the flurry of orders and threats from parliament, the security forces pledged support for Yeltsin, who was cheered by crowds when he made a brief appearance Wednesday in central Moscow.

Life again appeared normal today in Moscow and other major cities, with people going about their routines despite the political crisis. Apart from an anti-Yeltsin protest overnight at the parliament building, called the White House, there were no reports of demonstrations.

Many Russians indicated support for Yeltsin or dismissed the political battle as meaningless.

A public opinion poll in Moscow showed 51 percent of respondents supported Yeltsin and 25 percent opposed him. Nearly one-quarter of those polled either had not heard about Yeltsin's decree or had no opinion. The poll by the All-Russia Center of Public Opinion Research had a 3 percent margin of error.

"Everybody is pretty calm, preoccupied with their own problems," said Tatiana Kulikova, a 30-year-old bookkeeper. "I think good sense will prevail. But most of all, I hope they don't start shooting - especially at me."

Parliament said it was receiving support from many Russian regions and local governments. Yeltsin aides countered by saying they had strong regional support as the two sides duelled over TV and radio.

Yeltsin's protracted power struggle with Russia's hard-line parliament has paralyzed the government and slowed his free-market reforms. Yeltsin has long sought new parliamentary elections and a post-Soviet constitution; the opposition has demanded presidential elections.

Defense Minister Pavel Grachev said the military "unequivocally supports the president as commander-in-chief." In an apparent show of force, the army held large troop exercises in several cities.

Governor maintains dismissals not based on political affiliation

By SCOTT ROTHSCHILD
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Political party affiliation did not "make one whit of difference" in changes at the Texas Department of Commerce, Gov. Ann Richards says.

Richards testified Wednesday in a federal lawsuit in which three former Commerce workers said they were fired in early 1991 because they are Republicans. Richards is a Democrat.

She said that when she took office in January 1991, the Commerce Department was under a cloud of allegations of mismanagement and improper spending. "It was a good-time partying machine," she said.

Richards said she directed one of her top lieutenants, Richard Moya, to analyze the department, and told Cathy Bonner, who was made agency chief, to reorganize it.

"To me, our job was to go over there and clean the mess up," Richards said.

Under questioning from Derek Howard, an attorney representing the ex-workers, Richards identified several of her campaign workers who were given jobs at the Commerce Department after the reorganization.

But Richards said she had no influence over who was hired or fired, and that politics had nothing to do with the agency shakeup.

Later Howard told reporters that the evidence suggests the opposite. "He (Moya) fires Republicans. Creates new jobs and puts Democrats in, and the governor says, 'Oh no, political patronage didn't have a thing to do with it.'"

Earlier, in emotional testimony, one of the former workers pointed at Richards and Moya and told them they were wrong to have fired him.

"It just is simply wrong," said Eddie Aurispa, 44. "Mrs. Richards doesn't know me. Mrs. Richards and those that work for her never gave me an opportunity."

Richards said the trial, in its third day, was a waste of time.

finishes its work next year, you will pass and I will sign, legislation to guarantee this security to every citizen of this country."

The speech was long on passion and short on details, but a House chamber packed with lawmakers and dignitaries interrupted him 32 times with applause.

It was all designed to make people more comfortable with a plan that would overhaul the way virtually everyone obtains medical services by the end of 1997.

Legislators from both parties praised Clinton for putting health-care reform atop the national agenda, but Republicans questioned whether his proposal was too bureaucratic and would put too heavy a burden on businesses.

Reflecting both hope and caution, Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., said: "I've always felt this thing could be compromised. There are similarities, but there are differences too, dramatic ones."

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., predicted that "if Congress meets its responsibility as well as the president has done, next year will see the most far-reaching improvement in social policy in this country since Social Security in the days of FDR."

Under Clinton's proposal, employers would pay 80 percent of their workers' average health-care premiums and workers would pay the

Meetings set by UWSA-T on Sunday

DALLAS--United We Stand America-Texas(UWSA-T) will hold statewide membership meetings Sunday in each of the 30 U.S. Congressional Districts in Texas.

Bill Walker, UWSA-T state director, said all meetings will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday. The 19th Congressional District meeting will be at the Lubbock Civic Center banquet hall.

The purpose of the meetings is to formally organize UWSA-T by electing four officers for each district. In November, these officers will meet to draft by-laws and articles of incorporation.

Following the opening ceremonies, all participants will view a special video-taped message from Ross Perot, UWSA national spokesman, outlining the purpose for organizing at the congressional district level and the importance of selecting "dedicated, unselfish leaders to move Texas into the important '94 election year."

Walker said the general public is "invited to attend and will be given an opportunity to join the organization and then participate in the election process."

At the meetings, all candidates will address the audience, giving their qualifications and reasons for seeking office. The four positions will be congressional district coordinator, deputy coordinator, secretary, and treasurer. Each will serve a one-year term.

As part of the meetings, members will be introduced to their area or county coordinators.

Small businesses and low-wage workers would get subsidies to help them pay their share.

The plan would cost the federal government an extra $350 billion over five years, and Clinton hopes to get most of that money from holding down spending on Medicaid and Medicare, boosting cigarette taxes by about 80 cents a pack and imposing a special levy on corporations that set up their own health plans.

The success or failure of Clinton's bold initiative could well be the defining measure of his presidency.

With 37 million Americans lacking any medical insurance and 22 million more underinsured, there was broad agreement that reforms were needed but no unanimity on how best to achieve them.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I help run an ongoing support group for women who were sexually molested. I recently asked participants to write their own responses to a letter that appeared in your column.

The letter to which I refer was from "Silent So Far In Massachusetts," a woman whose brother sexually molested her as a child and then tried again when she was an adult. She slapped her brother's face, went for counseling and eventually gained control of the situation.

The woman wanted to know if she should tell her husband about the past molestation. (He and her brother were good friends). She said she was afraid her husband might kill him if he found out. You advised her to keep quiet—that telling him now would serve no useful purpose.

The members of our group felt that your response was inadequate. It is their hope that you will print a better response. One is enclosed.—Rev. Libbie Stoddard, Lafayette, Ind.

DEAR REV. STODDARD: You are right. My response wasn't anything to brag about. Here's a better one—supplied by a member of your group:

DEAR SILENT: Tell the world! Tell your husband! Tell the family! Your silence protects the molester, not you. Chances are, if your brother molested you, he has also tried to molest others.

You don't say if you have nieces, cousins or grandchildren—or whether your brother has children of his own. If he does, he has probably tried to molest them, too. No child should ever be left with this man.

If your family believes your brother and turns away from you, start searching for a new family. Slapping your brother was exactly what he deserved. Whether or not you see him again is up to you. If you choose not to, that's perfectly OK. The decision should be yours.—Another Survivor

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister is pregnant with twins, and my macho brother-in-law thinks he is some sort of super stud. He is bragging all over town about how potent he is.

I told him his sperm had nothing to do with the fact that my sister is having twins instead of a single baby. I told him that a woman's egg will accept only one sperm and that twins develop when a woman produces two eggs that are fertilized by two sperm or when one egg divides after being fertilized by one sperm.

He says I am wrong. Would you please contact an expert and put an end to this argument?—Yorktown, Va.

DEAR YORK: Sorry to rain on your brother-in-law's parade, but you win this one.

According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, identical twins result when a single egg is fertilized by a single sperm and the egg divides into two separate masses. Fraternal twins result when two eggs are simultaneously fertilized by two sperm. (This is why fraternal twins don't look alike).

The man's sperm has nothing to do with producing twins. With identical twins, doctors don't know why the egg splits in two. In the case of fraternal twins, the woman is releasing two eggs in the same month.

Gem of the Day: To keep your teeth in good condition, see your dentist twice a year and mind your own business.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Fall is all about boots

Boots may be made for walking, but they're also right in step with fall's Edwardian styles.

They're laced-up, made of tapestry and velvet, and, in a word, are romantic. Dandy-inspired riding boots are riding high. Ditto old-time granny boots and skater's styles. Whether they stop at the ankle or scale the leg, they've got you covered.

On a more down-to-earth level, hiking boots and sturdy work boots are also stomping into the footlight.

"Fall is definitely all about boots," says Vivian Infantino, fashion director of Footwear News, a New York trade publication.

At Donna Karan's fall show, black antique velvet gowns matched high-heeled lace-up granny boots.

"Boots were the story on the runway," says Karan. "They're the answer to everything."

Karan revisits the turn of the century with granny boots in suede or velvet, in black, plum, taupe or dark brown. They're about $550 at Barneys, Saks Fifth Avenue and Neiman Marcus.

"The major boot," says Wilmer Weiss of San Francisco's I. Magnin, "is the granny or suffragette. It's the most stylish-looking, because it's the kind of boot worn in the Victorian period."

"It pulls together the white poet shirt, frock coat and velvet beret," he says. "It works with the quasi-cos-tume look."

Pick one that rises just short of the calf, says Weiss. For a bit more rise, there are knee-high riding boots, and "cavalier" boots that cover the knee. Tuck your jodphurs inside, and add a frock coat, Weiss says. At I. Magnin, a black suede cavalier boot by Yves Saint Laurent is $348.

Boots provide a little weight beneath your foot to offset today's longer lengths.

"This collection is about how to answer the question of hemlines," says Karan. "I've always found that if you're wearing a pair of boots, any proportion works."

If you count among the well-shod women who teamed tough Doc Martens this summer with tender floral tea dresses, you're on the right track. Many of today's boots rest on thick soles.

"Doc Marten shoes inspired the new look in many ways," says Kalman Ruttenstein, vice president for fashion direction at Bloomingdale's in New York. "They gave a heaviness to the sole and let all those kids walk with conviction."

Designers have made the boot more sophisticated, so it's not quite so clunky, but it certainly could have a lug sole, says Infantino. The styles that carry the most weight—literally and figuratively—are rugged hiking boots, construction boots and their progeny.

You know outdoorsy boots can do no wrong when you see Eskimo-style mukluks walk down Chanel's fall runway, L.L. Bean duck boots at Oscar de la Renta, galoshes at Liz Claiborne, and platform-soled hiking boots at Byron Lars.

To remove chewing gum from clothes, press ice cubes against the gum until it becomes brittle and breaks off. Then use a spot remover to vanish the last traces.

Whitefaces must shut down Frenship's powerful offense

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

After being overpowered last week by Monterey's defense, Hereford will have to look for its first win of the season against Frenship's powerhouse offense.

The Herd meets the Tigers at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Frenship's new stadium.

Player of the week
Hereford defensive tackle Eric Ross was named the player of the week along with wide receiver Hayden Andrews.

Hereford has three losses in three games. Officially the Herd is 1-2, because Tascosa had to forfeit its season-opening win. Last week Hereford was held to negative-five yards rushing in a 27-13 loss to Monterey.

Frenship has a spotless 3-0 record and its usual high-powered offense. The Tigers have rolled up 382 yards per game. They scored at will in a 58-7 win over Lubbock High. Last week they got some help as Randall turned the ball over seven times in Frenship's 28-7 win.

"Frenship is a great offensive football team," Herd coach Danny Haney said, beginning to list Frenship's weapons.

"They've got a big back by the name of (Chris) Quigley who's 6-foot-3, 191, and they'll pound him in there."

Quigley has 298 yards rushing and two touchdowns.

"They do a good job faking, of hiding the ball, and they run the play-action (passes). The last three games, they've fooled lots of people and got (receivers) off scot-free. And they've got a great receiver in Kendrick Hollie."

Hollie, who started at quarterback two years ago, has 11 catches for 232 yards and five touchdowns this year. His quarterback is Shane Stewart: 26-of-52, 146 yards per game, eight touchdowns against only three interceptions.

Cowboys continually make changes on D

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Playing for the NFL's No. 1 defense last season earned Super Bowl rings for several key members of the Dallas Cowboys, but not necessarily job security.

Head coach Jimmy Johnson has made wholesale changes and says he will continue to do so.

"What we did a year ago is history," Johnson said Wednesday. "You're evaluated weekly and even daily. How an individual performed in the past is in the past. You have to produce. If you don't produce, we'll make a change."

Rookie linebacker Darrin Smith was elevated to the first team on Wednesday because of a demotion for middle linebacker Robert Jones. Ken Norton has shifted to the middle to replace Jones.

In other moves James Washington has been replaced by Darren Woodson at safety. Vinson Smith was traded to Chicago and replaced by Dixon Edwards. And the season's just three weeks old.

Jimmie Jones and Leon Lett were moved ahead of Russell Maryland and Tony Casillas at tackle. Since, Maryland has come back in for Jones, and Casillas has replaced an injured Lett.

It was the inconsistent play of Jones that triggered his drop from the first team. Smith, the rookie second-round pick, said he has two weeks to show he deserves to be a starter. Godfrey Myles is expected to return from off-season knee surgery in two weeks.

"You have to constantly look for improvement. Things don't stay the same," Johnson said. "Players get older and players get injured. The other thing is that with free agency, change is going to be even more constant in the future."

Johnson and first-year defensive coordinator Butch Davis continue to search for the right combination. After three games, the Cowboys rank 10th on defense. The unit that last season ranked No. 1 in stopping opponents on third down, now ranks 18th. The Cowboys are averaging only one takeaway per game, ahead of only the Bears.

"So much is being made of who the starters are. I don't think enough is being made of when they're on the field, how do they perform," said Davis, who took over as defensive coordinator when Dave Wannstedt moved to become head coach of the Chicago Bears.

"Whether a guy is getting 25 plays as a starter or 25 as a role-player, the bottom line is what they are doing with those 25 plays," Davis said.

Norton says he would like to stay at outside linebacker, but there's a bright side: he won't have to worry about getting sacks in order to make it to the Pro Bowl.

"After looking at it, I think I can get there easier now. I just have to make plays, go sideline to sideline and use my leadership," Norton said.

Sox stretch lead; Jays don't give up ground

By The Associated Press
 The Chicago White Sox picked a good night to win, the Toronto Blue Jays a good night to lose.
 Despite a 7-5, 10-inning loss to Boston on Wednesday night that stopped their nine-game winning streak, the Blue Jays didn't hurt themselves in the AL East race. In fact, they reduced their magic number to six for clinching the division when the New York Yankees lost 5-2 to Minnesota.
 The Yankees remained five games back, while third-place Baltimore also lost and stayed 5 1/2 behind the Blue Jays. The Orioles were beaten 4-2 in Cleveland.
 "We didn't expect to win the last 20 games," Toronto's Paul Molitor said. "But I guess if you're going to lose, you might as well do it on a night when your competition loses, too."
 The White Sox, meanwhile, didn't waste an opportunity to add onto their lead in the AL West. They beat the California Angels 1-0 and reduced their magic number for winning the AL West to six when Texas lost 7-4 in Seattle.

 Elsewhere, it was Kansas City 3, Oakland 2 in 10 innings, and Detroit 8, Milwaukee 4.
Red Sox 7, Blue Jays 5, 10 innings
 Rob Deer hit a two-run homer in the 10th inning to lead visiting Boston over Toronto.
 Mo Vaughn reached on first baseman John Olerud's error before Deer hit loser Mike Timlin's 1-2 pitch for his 19th homer of the season.
 Ken Ryan (6-2), who gave up a game-tying double to Roberto Alomar in the ninth, got the win.
Twins 5, Yankees 2
 Pedro Munoz hit a three-run homer during Minnesota's four-run second inning, and the Twins beat fading New York

Munoz, who homered twice and drove in five runs in Tuesday night's 5-4 victory, homered off Scott Kamieniecki (9-7).
 Kevin Tapani (10-15) won for the eighth time in 11 career decisions against the Yankees.
Indians 4, Orioles 2
 Pinch-hitter Candy Maldonado hit a two-run, tie-breaking single in the seventh inning as Cleveland beat Baltimore.
 The Orioles loss wrapped up a 3-6 road trip.
 Ben McDonald (12-13) limited the Indians to two runs and four hits until the seventh, when Mark Lewis singled and stole second and Sandy Alomar walked. A groundout advanced the runners, and Maldonado drove them both in with a single off Jim Poole. The Orioles tied it 2-2 on Brady Anderson's run-scoring double off Jeremy Hernandez (5-3) in the seventh.
White Sox 1, Angels 0
 Wilson Alvarez pitched a five-hitter for eight innings, extending his scoreless streak to a career-high 24 innings, and Robin Ventura drove in the only run with a sacrifice fly for visiting Chicago.
 Alvarez (14-8) struck out five and walked four in winning his sixth straight start. Alvarez outdueling fellow left-hander Chuck Finley (15-13), who gave up four hits and four walks.
 Roberto Hernandez pitched the ninth for his 36th save.
Mariners 7, Rangers 4
 In Seattle, Nolan Ryan's 27-year career appeared to end - two scheduled starts short of his retirement - when he had to leave in the first inning of Texas' loss at Seattle with an injured right elbow.
 The Mariners scored five runs against Ryan, including a grand slam by Dann Howitt, and won the game behind the pitching of Dave Fleming (11-4).

 Dr. Larry Pedegana, a Mariners' team physician, examined Ryan (5-5) after his 28-pitch performance and said he suspected the future Hall of Famer has a torn ulnar collateral ligament.
 Ryan, 46, has been on the disabled list three times this season, a total of 114 days.
Royals 3, Athletics 2
 Kevin Koslofski, who entered the game as a defensive replacement, homered to lead off the 10th, giving Kansas City a victory at Oakland.
 Koslofski's first homer of the season off Roger Smithberg (1-2) finally ended a game that featured blown saves by two of baseball's best relievers.
Tigers 8, Brewers 4
 Chad Kreuter, Alan Trammell and Eric Davis all homered in a seven-run fifth inning as Detroit beat visiting Milwaukee.
 David Wells (11-9) allowed three runs in the first two innings, then settled down for his first win in four September starts. He allowed three runs on eight hits and one walk in seven innings.
 Cal Eldred (16-15) gave up seven earned runs on seven hits in 4 2-3 innings.

Phillies defeat Fish in extra innings

By The Associated Press
 Philadelphia had to go a little longer to make its magic number a little smaller.
 The Phillies beat Florida 2-1 in 12 innings Wednesday night, maintaining their 5 1/2-game lead over second-place Montreal in the NL East. But Philadelphia's magic number for winning the division was reduced to six.
 Montreal rebounded from Tuesday night's 18-5 drubbing to beat Atlanta 6-1. The Braves saw their lead in the NL West trimmed to 2 1/2 games as second-place San Francisco beat Houston 1-0.
 "Any wins we can get right now puts more pressure on Montreal," said Phillies reliever Roger Mason (5-11), the winner with 1 1-3 innings of two-hit relief. "We want to get as much momentum as possible going into the postseason."

 There wasn't a whole lot of momentum against the Marlins as the Phillies scored in the first and Florida tied it in the eighth. Both teams missed scoring opportunities in the 10th and 11th before the Phillies finally won on Dave Hollins' bases-loaded single in the 12th.
 In other NL games on Wednesday it was Chicago 11, St. Louis 9; New York 6, Pittsburgh 5 in 10 innings; Los Angeles 3, Cincinnati 1; and Colorado 11, San Diego 4.
 The Phillies, who last won the division in 1983, swept the three-game series from the Marlins. Now the Phillies await Atlanta to come into Philadelphia for three this weekend. Last weekend, the Phillies lost two of three in Montreal.

Pinch-hitter Pete Incaviglia walked to open Philadelphia's 12th inning and went to third on a single by Lenny Dykstra. After Mickey Morandini was hit by a pitch, loading the bases, John Kruk struck out.
 Then Hollins lined a single to right to score pinch-runner Tony Longmire.
Expos 6, Braves 1
 Jeff Fassero (12-4) struck out a career-high 11 as the Expos bounced back from the crushing defeat on Tuesday.
 The Braves were held to four hits in eight innings by Fassero.
 The Expos stole four bases and each led to a run, starting with the first inning when Marquis Grissom led off with a single, advanced on a groundout and stole third. Rondell White bloomed a single over a drawn-in infield for the first run and he scored the second when Wil

Cordero beat a double-play relay.
 Steve Avery (16-6) was the loser.
Giants 1, Astros 0
 Billy Swift allowed four hits in eight innings and struck out a career-high 10.
 The only run came in the seventh on Kirt Manwaring's RBI double, his first hit in 12 at-bats against Pete Harnisch (15-9), who struck out 10 and allowed seven hits in eight innings.
Cubs 11, Cardinals 9
 The Cubs closed their season at Wrigley Field with a 13-3 record as Glenallen Hill hit his eighth homer since joining Chicago in the trade with Cleveland on Aug. 20. Hill's three-run shot came in the sixth with the score tied 7-7. Randy Myers pitched the ninth for his NL-record 49th save.

HERD

"He's not very big, but he handles the ball well," Haney said of Stewart. "I guess you'd call him a scooter; he's hard to contain. He throws the ball well. He throws it where they can catch it."
 The Tigers have been fairly stingy on defense, too, giving up only .212 yards per game. Their main wrinkle is multiple formations up front.
 "They've got great linebackers and a good secondary," Haney said. "They try to confuse you up front with all the things they do."
 Haney said the keys to a Herd win would be containing the Fresno State offense and reviving the Hereford rushing attack.
 "They gamble a lot offensively. Sometimes it's feast or famine for them. We've got to take advantage of them when we can."
 "The main thing we have to do is establish the ground game, rush successfully, then keep them off-balance with the pass."

Injury report--Defensive end Russ Watts bruised his knee in practice Tuesday, but he should be ready to play Friday.
 Other than that, the Herd is healthy.
Players of the week--Wide receiver Hayden Andrews was chosen as the offensive player of the week, while defensive tackle Eric Ross got honors on the other side of the ball. Ross had 13 tackles Thursday against Monterey, and Andrews caught two passes for 59 yards.
 Junior varsity quarterback Todd Dudley threw two touchdown passes in the JV's 14-14 tie with Monterey's JV, earning him player of the week honors.
 Tailback Anthony Cervantez helped the sophomores to a 15-6 win over Coronado. For the freshmen team, the players of the week were receiver/defensive back Ruben Flores for the A team and fullback Jason White for the B team.

LATE NIGHT OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK!

Ryan injured again; career may be finished

By JIM COUR
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) - For baseball's career strikeout king and the pitcher of seven no-hitters, there were no regrets. Nolan Ryan said after an elbow injury that almost certainly ended his career that he has never been sorry he came back for 1993, a frustration-filled season that saw him go on the disabled list for a total of 114 days. After all, the 46-year-old right-hander with a 324-292 career record is headed for the Hall of Fame. "I'm not a believer in regrets," Ryan said. "But certainly at times, you'd have liked things to turn out a little different."

Ryan's career was supposed to end the final day of the 1993 season - against Kansas City on Sunday, Oct. 3 - when the Rangers bid good-bye to old Arlington Stadium.

Instead, his career probably ended Wednesday night in the Kingdome in the first inning against the Seattle Mariners when Ryan faced six batters and was unable to get an out for only the third time in his 807-game career. The Mariners took a 5-0 lead against Ryan, including a grand slam by Dan Howitt, and won 7-4.

"Evidently I tore a ligament in my right elbow," Ryan said. "I did it on the next-to-last pitch I threw. After I warmed up, I came back out and my elbow was stiff."

"It never got any looser. I kept thinking that it might loosen up, but it just got worse. Then on that pitch to Dave Magadan, I felt it pop. I had a real bad burning sensation in my elbow. I threw one pitch after that, but I wasn't able to."

Dr. Larry Pedegana, a Mariners' team physician, confirmed Ryan's worst fears: a suspected torn ulnar collateral ligament in his right elbow.

So two scheduled starts short of his retirement, Ryan's great career finally is over. Ryan said he didn't expect to ever pitch again.

Ryan said he would ask for a second opinion from Dr. John Conway, an orthopedic consultant for the Rangers. He said he would be examined by Conway on Friday in Arlington.

"But I don't really expect his diagnosis to be any different," he said.

The Rangers gave Ryan $3.7 million to come back this year after he was 5-9 in 27 starts last season. He disappointed them, but he disappointed himself more. In 13 starts and 66 1-3 innings this year, he had a 5-5 record with a 4.88 earned run average.

The Mariners, fighting to finish in third place in the division ahead of Kansas City, took a 5-0 lead before Ryan was replaced by Steve Dreyer.

The stoic Ryan kept his emotions in check at the postgame news conference. There were no tears, no sobs. In fact, he was philosophical.

"Everyone has visions of things turning out different than they really do," he said. "But I can't really say I ever sat around and fantasized about how I would have liked to have ended my career. But I think if I had, it certainly would have been with a strong performance in a pennant race. I guess by striking out the last hitter."

Ryan finished his career holding or sharing 53 major league records.

His record with the New York Mets, California Angels, Houston Astros and Rangers should get him in the Hall of Fame. He is tied for No. 11 with Don Sutton in career victories.

But if that doesn't get him a ticket to Cooperstown, N.Y., his seven no-hitters and 5,714 strikeouts - both major league records - will.

Dave Fleming (11-4) broke a personal two-game losing streak, giving up three runs and seven hits in 7-plus innings. Ted Power worked the final 1 2-3 innings to get his 12th save.

Nolan by the numbers

By The Associated Press

- Some interesting numbers associated with Nolan Ryan:
 - 0 - Number of Cy Young Awards Nolan Ryan has won. He is the only pitcher to lead the league in both strikeouts and earned run average and not win the Cy Young. (1987 - 2.76 ERA, 270 strikeouts).
 - 1 - World Series games in which he pitched (1969 New York Mets, as a reliever).
 - 2 - Home runs Ryan has hit (off Don Sutton and Charlie Puleo).
 - 3 - Times he struck out Pat Jarvis, who on Sept. 11, 1966, was Ryan's first strikeout victim.
 - 4 - The number of players the California Angels received from the New York Mets for Jim Fregosi (Ryan, Don Rose, Leroy Stanton and Francisco Estrada).
 - 5 - No-hitters Ryan has lost in ninth inning (all with one out).
 - 6 - Seasons leading the majors in wild pitches (Ryan has 277 in his career; it is one of 53 records he holds or shares). Also the number of times he struck out 300 batters. He struck out 200 or more 14 times.
 - 7 - Ballparks no longer in use in which Ryan has won games.
 - 8 - His longest consecutive win streak, 1983.
 - 9 - Minimum numbers of pitches needed to strike out the side. Ryan did it twice.
 - 10 - Most walks allowed in a game, April 5, 1974 against the Chicago White Sox. Won the game 8-2.
 - 11 - Number of complete-game, 1-0 victories. On Aug. 2, 1972, beat Cleveland 1-0 in 12 innings.
 - 12 - Sets of brothers struck out. Also fanned 8 father-son combinations and 47 Most Valuable Player award winners.
 - 16 - Number of consecutive seasons Ryan won 10 or more games (1971-86).
 - 17 - Most strikeouts in a no-hitter, against Detroit, July 15, 1973. Tigers first baseman Norm Cash walked to plate in ninth inning with a tiger leg, saying Ryan was unhittable.
 - 18 - Most losses in one season, 1976 (17-18).
 - 19 - Most strikeouts in one game, four times. (3 times in 1974, once in 1977).
 - 20 - Number of games won in the minor leagues.
 - 27 - Number of seasons played. Gordie Howe, who played hockey for 32 years, is the only pro athlete to play more seasons than Ryan.

Beef topic of program given to Cattlewomen

Robin Richards of the Texas Beef Industry Counsel of Austin gave a program on the outcome of the advertising campaign for beef when members of the Hereford Cattlewomen met Tuesday at the Hereford Country Club.

The speaker said that the recent television commercials promoting beef and the advertizing in magazines has been a huge success.

Nancy Josserrand gave the invocation and Charlene Sanders, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved.

During the business meeting with President Lisa Klett presiding, a thank you card was read from the Friends of the Library for the Cattlewomen's recent donation which will be used to help purchase library video equipment.

Klett advised the group that a $50 memorial was placed in the scholarship fund in memory of Peaches Reinauer, a longtime Cattlewomen member.

Jackie Murphey and Brenda Johnson gave a report on the fajata cookoff which was held in conjunction this summer the annual Town 'n' Country Jubilee Festivities. They reported that the crowd was not as large as the previous year. It was suggested that the group might consider having the cookoff next year the Saturday before the week of the jubilee in order for more people to participate. Larry Malamen suggested having a traveling trophy for the winner which would feature the winners' name on the trophy each year. These suggestions will be taken into consideration.

Sandy Josserrand gave a report on the "Taste of the Southwest" held Saturday by the Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society. The Cattlewomen's booth was very successful and guests enjoyed the beef furnished by the organization. Josserrand thanked her committee for their support and participation.

President Klett stated that the organization's 4-H ambassador for this year is Mirah Olson of Hereford. Mirah will be asked to give the Cattlewomen's program next month.

The president will be appointing a nominating committee for the new officers this month.

The next regular meeting is set for Oct. 19.

Shirley McCullough, Joan Poarch and Diana Griffin were welcomed as guests.

Members present were Charlene Sanders, Lisa Klett, Jackie Murphey, Pam Wagner, Kay Hall, Rachel Hunter, Lori Hall, Karen Keeling, Karen Sherrod, Pat Green, Brenda Johnson, Linda Fitzgerald, Julia Laing, Christy Gestes, Linda Gilbert, Christie Josserrand, Nancy Josserrand, Jody Skiles, Cathy Guseman, Leslie Easley, Shelly Moss and Sandy Josserrand.

Beauty tips for frequent traveler

Many frequent flyers practice beauty techniques to make long-distance traveling pleasant and to arrive looking refreshed.

It's as simple as carrying a purse-sized tube of rehydration cream, for example, to protect the skin from dry, cabin air and maintain subtle skin texture; or spraying a light fragrance at the wrist or a mist of spring water on the face and throat to quickly revive the travel-weary face.

The most practical advice frequent travelers give is to wear a minimum of makeup while in transit. A sheer lipstick and blush in a pale, gentle color is recommended. More than that will require major repairs before you land.

Arrive fresh, looking pretty and ready to hit the ground running by following another valuable travel tip. Instead of wearing eyeliner, mascara and shadows, which always need first-aid treatment before landing, simply don a pair of eyeglasses with a flattering lens tint in a shade that complements your eyes and skin. Eyewear adds a blush of lovely color to the face without cosmetics.

Glasses perk up your looks and give a color lift to your face--without messy eye makeup. Even if you don't need vision correction, wearing colorful eyeglasses in flight adds freshness to the travel-weary face, even after a long trip.

The Eastman Dry Plate and Film Co. of Rochester, N.Y., manufactured the first commercial motion picture film in 1885.

Families gather for block party

A block party was held in the 100 block of Kingwood St. Saturday evening, Sept. 18. There were 17 families present to feast on hot dogs, baked beans, chips, cake, cookies and homemade ice cream. The Ray family furnished watermelon and fresh fruit.

Fellowship was enjoyed and new neighbors become old friends before the evening ended. It was decided to make the cookout an annual affair and two families, the Conways and the Rogers, volunteered to host the event next year.

Serving as this year's hosts were the Bartletts, Hendons and Sue Inmon.

One of the evening's highlights was a birthday cake made in the shape of a 1958 Chevrolet Corvette car with a singing candle. It was presented to Fred Rivera from his wife, Joy. The group sang "Happy Birthday" to the honoree. Rivera took video pictures of the evening for future showing.

In 1889, French engineer Alexandre Gustave Eiffel unfurled the French tricolor from the top of the Eiffel Tower in Paris, officially marking its completion. Eiffel's work, however, was denounced by artists, composers and authors who signed a petition condemning the tower as a "horrid nightmare" that resembled a "huge black factory smokestack."

Dogs help sniff out arson

Here's good news for dog lovers and bad news for arsonists. Dogs are now helping investigators sniff out arson.

State Farm Insurance Companies have agreed to underwrite the cost of training up to 36 accelerant detection canines for law enforcement agencies responsible for criminal arson investigations.

The canines--commonly known as "arson dogs"--will be trained officials of the Maine Criminal Justice Academy in a program nationally recognized for its effectiveness. State Farm agreed to back the program financially because arson is a serious problem for everyone in this society. Consider these facts:

-Last year there were 98,000 fires in which arson was strongly suspected.

-Those fires killed at least 490 people--and caused $1.5 billion in damage.

The insurance company's initial agreement with the Maine State Police is that they will train 36 dogs and handlers at their training facility in Gray, Maine. The dogs and handlers will go through a five-week course, at the end of which the dog will be certified as being able to "scent discriminate" substances commonly used to start fires.

Thanks to this new tool available to law enforcement agencies, man's best friend is quickly becoming an arsonist's worst nightmare.

The state of Arizona would fit inside the boundaries of China's Chang Tang Reserve in Tibet, the world's largest nature reserve after Greenland National Park, reports National Geographic.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I have several latch-hook rugs. I would like to wash them but wonder if putting them in the washing machine will harm them.

— A reader, Abilene, Texas
 Most yarn used to make latch-hook rugs is washable. Make sure the rugs are finished before washing them. They should have a binding around the edges that helps prevent unraveling.

We spoke with several companies that manufacture latch-hook rug kits, and here's what they had to say. Either hand wash them in fine-washable laundry detergent, then hang them to dry, or wash them in the washing machine in cold water on the gentle cycle. Either hang to dry or put in the dryer on low heat. CAUTION: If the yarn contains wool, it could shrink in the dryer.

If the rugs are hung to dry and the yarn looks matted down, place them in the dryer on low heat for a minute or two to fluff them up. — Heloise

FAST FACTS

Dear Heloise: Next time your child begs for one of those 25-cent trinkets from the machines near the grocery-store entrances, get one and keep the container.

• Carry a dab of butter, sour cream, salad dressing or spices in them in your lunch for work. (Make sure to wash them well before using — Heloise)

- Use to carry aspirin.
- Store safety pins.
- Keep spare change in one.

— Elizabeth Parks, Kenner, La.

HIDDEN MATTRESS

Dear Heloise: When we went from a full-size to a queen-size bed, we slipped the old full-size mattress under the queen-size bed. It fit easily between the four legs, and we pulled it out when we had extra overnight company. It would comfortably sleep two of our children and they thought it was neat.

Another advantage to having it under the bed was that it fit so snugly from the top of the mattress to the floor that I didn't need to vacuum under the bed often — no dust.

I would guess that this could be done with any mattress that is a size smaller than the one that it's been tucked under. — Marcy Boswell, Yorba Linda, Calif.

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: It is annoying not being able to find a small package of meat. Most of the packages of meats are for large families. Meat cutters seem to forget about servings for one or two people these days. — Wilma A. Mize, Vienna, Ill.

Usually the larger family packs are less expensive per pound.

If you can't find the smaller packages, buy the economy size and portion it into single servings. Put each serving in a freezer-safe self-sealing bag and when you're ready to use it, just take the meat out of the freezer and defrost. — Heloise

ROLLED TOOTH PASTE

Dear Heloise: I read the Houston Chronicle today about the plastic tube on toothpaste.

I roll it and fold it and fold it again, then put an office binder clip on it. It's a great fit — does the job and stays on. — Betty Bryant, Tomball, Texas

PLASTIC FOAM PEANUTS

Dear Heloise: Reuse plastic packing peanuts to perk up pooped-out beanbag chairs. — Hoonoz, Tempe, Ariz.

Amtrak passengers jolted as train plunged into water

By ROBERT DVORCHAK
AP National Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) - In the deepest hour of the dreamy night, 3-year-old Carol Ann Newton slept protected in her grandfather's arms. Dennis Stevens and his mother, returning from an Arizona vacation, dozed in their reclined seats. Australian Bob Bell peered out at the blackness of the Alabama bayou.

Then screeching wheels, mangled metal and desperate cries for help punctured the serenity aboard the Sunset Limited, an Amtrak train that became a death trap on its coast-to-coast run.

"There was a horrible noise and things started flying through the car. All the luggage was on the floor," said Dirk Capel, 60, a Dutch tourist making the trip from Los Angeles to Miami.

"I looked out the window and all I could see was water. I thought we were sinking. People were screaming, 'Oh, my God! Help us! Help us!'" Capel said hours after he was rescued from a passenger car stranded on a bridge to nowhere.

Capel, who had slipped off his shoes to get comfortable for the overnight leg, lost his luggage, money, passport and tickets in the wreckage. By day's end, he was wearing Red Cross-donated sneakers.

The nightmarish wreck occurred about 3 a.m. Wednesday, just minutes after the train's three diesel engines and eight cars had groaned out of the Mobile station.

About 10 miles north of Mobile, at a desolate stretch of backwater named Bayou Canot that is home to water moccasins and alligators, the train started across a 500-foot-long bridge built in 1909 of steel and timbers. Just an hour earlier, a 132-car CSX freight train with three locomotives had negotiated the span without incident.

But the passenger train's locomotives plunged off the bridge and exploded, sending flaming diesel fuel across the already horrific scene. Half the bridge was gone, and 16 feet of murky water had quickly swallowed a luggage car, a crew dormitory car and a passenger coach. A second passenger car also tumbled in and was half-submerged, its back end high in the air.

A third coach teetered on the ragged edge of the collapsed bridge but held. Behind it were a lounge car, a dining car and, at the end and still on land, a sleeper.

When the search was suspended because of darkness Wednesday night, 41 bodies had been pulled from the water and three crewmen who had been in the lead locomotive were counted among the dead. Three passengers were missing.

Dennis Stevens, 33, and his mother, Elvi, 69, were flipped from their seats and her leg was broken when their coach landed on its nose in the water. They had expected to be home in Orange City, Fla., by evening.

"We were asleep, and the next thing I knew we were in the water. It sounded like a big blast," Stevens said. "I pushed out a window and got us out. Fuel was burning on top of the water. Smoke was everywhere. Then a tugboat came and threw some ropes to fish us out. You could hear screams."

In the same car were young Carol Ann Newton of Osyka, Miss., and her grandfather, James Augustus Jones. He smashed a window and pushed the tot to safety. Freeing others from the wreckage, Jones, 39, injured his neck and was hospitalized.

At the University of South Alabama Hospital in Mobile, nurses gave the child a Little Mermaid dress, pink slippers and a baby doll.

"Her first train trip and her last train trip," said her mother, Heather Newton. "No more trips away from Momma."

Bell, the 52-year-old Australian, chose Amtrak to see the United States for the first time. He boarded in Los Angeles on Sunday night for the 3,000-mile, eight-state trip.

Late Wednesday, the exhausted Bell could barely react to a reporter's questions. "There was just lots of noise - banging, crashing," he said.

Simon Grant of Reading, England, was also touring the United States, with a small group of countrymen. He had just nodded off to sleep.

"I heard this tremendous screech," Grant said. "The train stopped like a car hitting a brick wall. There was a lot of screaming and panic."

In the sleeping car at the rear of the train, Mary O'Donovan of Pensacola, Fla., was too far from the wreckage to realize at first what had happened.

"I thought we had hit another train. There was all this crunching, crunching, crunching noise," said Mrs. O'Donovan, whose knee was bruised when the wreck tossed her out of her berth.

Military Muster

Coby Kilpatrick, son of Marta Kilpatrick of Hereford, enlisted in the United States Air Force this month, according to Sgt. Carol Perry, Air Force recruiter.

Upon successfully completing the Air Force's six-week Basic Military Training at Lackland Air Force near San Antonio, Texas, he is scheduled to receive technical training in the Electrical career field.

Navy Seaman Michael S. Drumm, son of March A. Varner of 512 Avenue J, recently participated in exercise Ulchi Focus Lens aboard the amphibious command ship USS Blue Ridge, flagship for the U.S. Seventh Fleet, forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, while off the coast of South Korea.

USS Blue Ridge, the flagship for the U.S. Seventh Fleet, and its crew of 720 trained with more than 12,000 U.S. armed forces in this, the largest computer simulated military exercise in the world. The objective of the simulation was to allow military units to evaluate and improve the coordination, procedures, plans and communication systems necessary for combined and joint contingency operations in defense of the Republic of Korea.

Ulchi Focus Lens gave Drumm the opportunity to visit Chinhae, South Korea.

The Navy and Marine Corps operate from the sea to project a positive American image, build foundations for international partnerships, strengthen diplomacy, reassure friends and demonstrate U.S. power and resolve. Naval forces are prepared to fight promptly and effectively, but they serve in an equally valuable way by operating day-to-day as peacekeepers. They are unique in offering this form of international cooperation.

Teacher rights come before pupil privacy in termination hearing

AUSTIN (AP) - A school board can't meet privately for a teacher's termination hearing if that teacher requests a public hearing, despite concerns about students who might have to testify about alleged sexual harassment, the attorney general said in an opinion released Wednesday.

Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, had requested the legal opinion from Attorney General Dan Morales.

The opinion concerns a termination hearing involving alleged sexual harassment of students.

Harris was concerned that students who may be required to testify against the teacher might be "subject to public scrutiny, embarrassment and ridicule," according to the opinion.

Harris contended that to protect the children's best interest, a school district shouldn't require their public testimony, according to the opinion.

But Morales said the Texas Education Code provides for a teacher to request a public hearing on the proposed termination of his or her teaching contract.

"We do not believe a school board may conduct a termination hearing in executive session over the teacher's objection," he said.

In other opinions related to freedom of information released Wednesday, Morales ruled:

- The Texas Department of Public Safety isn't authorized to release a list of people ticketed for traffic violations in specific cities, including their name, address, age, sex and race.

A state law against the department providing "class-type listings" from driver's license records "effectively precludes access to this information although it is not deemed confidential by law," Morales said.

Information in a worker's compensation claim file is confidential only if it somehow discloses the identity of the employee filing the claim. Morales' opinion was requested by general counsel Susan Cory of the Texas Workers' Compensation Commission, which was asked for all information on violations of workers' comp laws by a particular school district.

Ms. Cory said all documents in investigative files are exempt from public disclosure, according to the opinion. But Morales said information revealing the employer's identity and the nature of the violation may not generally be withheld.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Dean Martin checked into a hospital because of kidney problems, but a spokesman says it's nothing serious.

The 76-year-old performer walked into Cedars-Sinai Medical Center without assistance Thursday for several days of tests and treatment for a longtime kidney ailment, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise.

"He was talking with hospital staff and seemed alert and in good spirits," Wise said.

In 1988, Martin was forced to drop out of the "Rat Pack" tour with old friends Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr. because of a kidney problem.
