Lottery tickets
being delivered
across the state

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A Texas rancher rode horseback to deliver the initial batch of lottery tickets to three Austin dealers, setting the pace for a week of festivities marking Friday's lottery kickoff.

In a scene reminiscent of the Pony Express of the Old West, rancher Buddy Webb of Canadian on Monday rode his steed to Kevin's Cookies and Cream, the Congress Avenue Book-sellers and the Downtown Pit Bar-B-Que to unload tickets from leather saddlebags for the "Lone Star Millions" game.

Webb, the star of the Texas Lottery's first TV commercial advertising the new scratch-and-win ticket game, also posted proclamations from Gov. Ann Richards at each site declaring Friday "Texas Lottery Day."

"Within spittin' distance of the Capitol, just like the rest of the state, there's plenty of places for Texans to buy their lottery tickets," Webb said. "Everything from a bakery to a barbecue."

A fleet of United Parcel Service trucks will deliver the rest of the first game's 300 million tickets to 15,000 licensed lottery retailers across the state on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Retailers officially can begin selling the $1 scratch-off tickets at 6 a.m. Friday. The tickets offer instant prizes ranging from $2 to $10,000 and give Texans a chance to win a weekly drawing for $1 million in cash.

But Webb and 13 other "Lottery Express Riders" and their horses will be delivering thousands of red-white-blue-and-silver tickets on Thursday at 14 cities around the state which will celebrate early lottery parties.

"This party will be just like the lottery. It'll be fun and open to everyone. Admission will be free and so will the thousands of Texas Lottery tickets we'll give away," said Texas Comptroller John Sharp, who oversees the lottery.

"The first day of ticket sales should be like the first day of Christmas shopping season. We expect that over the first three months, at least 60% of all adult Texans will buy at least one ticket."--Lottery spokesman Steve Levine, who said first-day sales will range from $17 million to $25 million.

Lottery parties are scheduled for 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Amarillo (at the Discovery Center), Austin, Beaumont, Corpus Christi, El Paso, Laredo, Lubbock, Midland, McAllen, San Antonio, Tyler and Waco.

Entertainers and musicians will perform at each of the sites. There will be lottery giveaways, including T-shirts, caps, ticket scratchers and one free lottery ticket for everyone over age 18, the comptroller said.

Texans are expected to spend more than $2 million a day as the state becomes the 35th in the nation to begin playing the gambling game, which was approved by voters last November.

"The first day of ticket sales should be like the first day of Christmas shopping season," said lottery spokesman Steve Levine. The lottery is estimating opening-day sales of $17 million to $25 million.

"We expect that over the first three months, at least 60 percent of all adult Texans will buy at least one ticket," Levine said.

Sharp estimated the lottery will clear $1 million a day, $461 million profit for the state during the rest of the current budget cycle.

Players will scratch off six latex-covered stars revealing a prize, either dollar amounts ranging from $2 to $10,000 or the word "entry." A player must get three of any of these to be a winner.

If the card is an entry, it will be considered in one of 12 weekly drawings conducted from June 18 through Sept. 3 for the $1 million prize.

Of the first 300 million tickets, 37.45 million are winners. But of those, officials say, 29.9 million will pay just a $2 prize.

Another 6 million will pay $5. Only 800,000 will pay $10, while 500 tickets will pay holders $10,000.

Of the first 300 million first game tickets, 500,000 will qualify for the million dollar drawings.

Milburn is Pioneer of the Year

Jack Denver Dennison, right, of KPAN presents the Pioneer of the Year Award to Emmett Milburn of Hereford. Milburn was honored for his many years of service to the community at the 69th Mid-Plains Pioneer Reunion at the Bull Barn on Saturday. Over 200 persons braved rainy weather to attend.

Milburn earns
Pioneer honor

Emmett Milburn, a long-time Hereford car dealer, was named the Pioneer of the Year at the 69th Mid-Plains Pioneer Celebration on Saturday at the Bull Barn.

Rainy weather kept the crowd to just over 200 persons. The Hereford High School Class of 1942 held its 50th reunion over the weekend; several other classes also met, including four members of the Class of 1923.

Milburn was the 26th person honored by KPAN with the award. Jack Denver Dennison, in the presentation, pointed out how Milburn was still active in the car business. He pointed out Milburn's work in support of many local organizations and behind-the-scenes work in the community.

Milburn was also the oldest man present who had not previously won the oldest man present award. The oldest woman present was Donnie Owen.

The crowd was welcomed by Mayor Tom LeGate. The Rev. Leo Rudd of Tyler, a native of the Westway area, gave the response. He recalled his days as a youngster in Hereford and Deaf Smith County, and how he began his preaching career at Baptist churches throughout the county. He paid special tribute to his teachers, some of whom were at the reunion.

L.J. Clark was elected 1992-93 president, succeeding Marjorie Thomas. Lola Faye Veazey is the new vice president, and Betty Stephan was elected secretary-treasurer.

The crowd enjoyed a covered dish meal with assistance from the Deaf Smith 4-H, and music by Steve and Susie Paul.

Debate roars over gene altering

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal regulators believe that genetically engineered foods don't pose new safety problems and in most cases need not face extra testing before going on the market, industry and government sources say.

The government today was expected to announce guidelines that will allow gene-altered foods to reach consumers without special testing unless they contain ingredients from other products, the officials said.

Foods such as a "super tomato" that its makers claim tastes like it just came off the vine are waiting in the wings for approval and could be in supermarkets by next year.

The guidelines were being announced by Vice President Dan Quayle, Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan and Food and Drug Commissioner David Kessler.

Industry and FDA sources, speaking last week on condition of anonymity, said the new policy will update food rules to include bioengineered products and will inform the industry what it will be expected to take into account when it develops new foods.

The industry has been pressing the government for some time to set down the rules it should follow.

The creator of the genetically engineered tomato, Calgene Inc. of Davis, Calif., announced last August it could start marketing its product by 1993 if the FDA gave its approval.

Consumer and environmental groups want the rules to be more stringent than they are expected to be. Labeling should be mandatory and new genetic material in the food should be investigated as food additives, said Jeremy Rifkin, president of Foundation on Economic Trends, which opposes genetic engineering.

"A great deal is at stake," said Dr. Rebecca Goldburg of the Environmental Defense Fund. "Industry has asked FDA to open an easy regulatory path that would put genetically engineered foods on grocery shelves without any notice to consumers when they are buying genetically engineered foods."

But Dan Wagster of Calgene said his company has "every intention of labeling" the tomatoes as genetically engineered.

"It is both important to do for consumers and it's a real marketing advantage," he said. "These tomatoes are going to be a superior product because of the technology we've been able to apply."

The new product is designed to be as fresh, tender and juicy as any tomato ripened on the vine - and available to consumers all year around.

Calgene scientists have found a way to allow the tomato to ripen on the vine - picking up the desirable natural flavor - and still remain hard enough to be packaged and then shipped long distances.

Some activist groups want very strict labels
on "altered" products.

Genetic engineering shortcuts the traditional crossbreeding methods that led to foods like nectarines, tangelos or broccoflower. It also enables scientists to cross specie boundaries to find plants that could enhance productivity for important food crops.

Leno jumps on Quayle 'bandwagon'

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) - Jay Leno picked up where Johnny Carson left off - skewering Vice President Dan Quayle - but added his own distinctive touches on his first night as host of "The Tonight Show."

Leno, 42, stepped from behind a purple curtain - not the Technicolor one favored by Carson - smiled his trademark goofy grin and was met by thunderous applause from the studio audience Monday night.

Raising his hand for quiet, he quipped, "Let's see how you all feel in 30 years" - a reference to Johnny Carson's retirement Friday after 30 years as host of the late-night talk show.

New band leader Branford Marsalis unveiled a high-octane jazz-and-funk theme song to replace the blasting, big band sound of Doc Severinsen's NBC Orchestra.

In his opening monologue, Leno milked a theme that Carson got lots of mileage from last week - Quayle's criticism of the CBS television show "Murphy Brown" for portraying single motherhood as an acceptable lifestyle.

"This is 'The Tonight Show,'" Leno said. "The one TV show that Dan Quayle hates even more than 'Murphy Brown.'"

His first guests were comedian Billy Crystal, singer Shania and CBS economic correspondent Robert Krulwich.

Crystal sang a song called "Dear Mr. Leno," a parody of Bette Midler's ode to Carson on his next-to-last show.

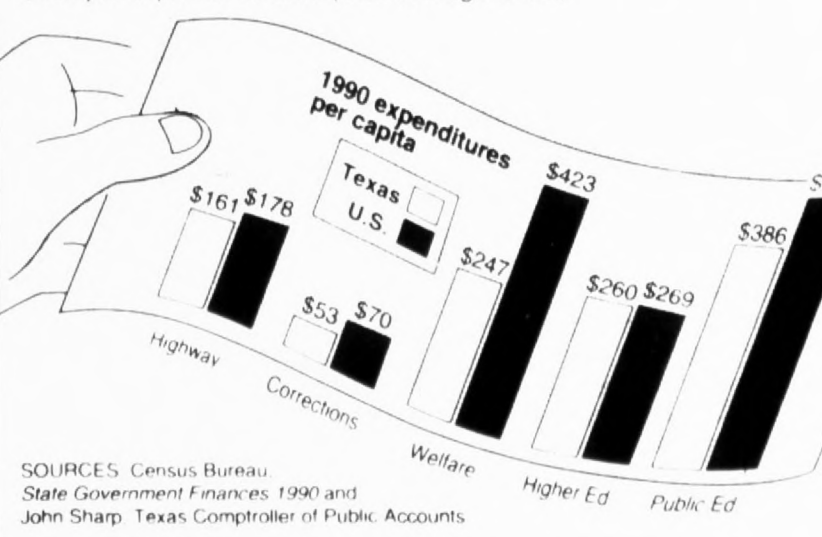

"You made me first guest, I didn't want to do it, my agent really blew it," he sang.

Soviets aided Palestinian terrorists

Communist involvement revealed in secret papers

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union supplied arms to Palestinian terrorists for attacks on American and Israeli targets in the 1970s, according to secret documents newly released by the government of Russian President Boris Yeltsin.

On the eve of a court hearing on the legality of his ban on the Communist Party, Yeltsin began to release the contents of a top secret "special dossier."

Among the first documents released are papers detailing the promotion of terrorism by the Communist rulers of the former Soviet Union during the waning decades of the Cold War.

Western governments often accused the Soviet Union of backing international terrorism in the 1970s and '80s, but internal documents proving high-level involvement by the Communist Party had not previously been made public.

Russia's Constitutional Court today announced it would consider the legality of Yeltsin's 1991 decrees liquidating the Communist Party and nationalizing its property. The court also said it would examine whether the party was ever legal to begin with.

If the court rules the party was invalid from the start, it would in effect validate Yeltsin's decrees and quickly derail the Communists' challenge of them.

Yeltsin issued the decrees after hard-liners in the party, military and KGB tried to seize power in last August's coup.

"The Communist Party that seized power and dissolved the parliament by force in 1918 is now trying to return to power using democratic institutions and procedures," Yeltsin's top legal adviser, Sergei Shakhrai, said at a news conference Monday.

Shakhrai clearly was trying to remind the Russian people of the party's bloody history and head off any public support for its revival.

He read a May 16, 1975 document describing the decision by the party's guiding Central Committee to supply arms to the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"In accordance with the Communist Party Central Committee's decision, the KGB has handed over to the head of the foreign operations service of the PLO a shipment of foreign weapons and ammunition," it read.

It added that the weapons were intended "to continue 'the oil war' by special means, accomplishing actions against U.S. and Israeli personnel in third countries and conducting terrorist activities."

Shakhrai said the document came from the so-called "special dossier" passed to Yeltsin by former Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

The dossier contains top-secret papers on the party's clandestine activities from the 1917 Bolshevik Revolution through the 1980s, Shakhrai said.

Study sheds light on rural justices

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) - Many rural justices are often denigrated because of their lack of formal education, but the criticism may be unwarranted, a study has found.

"There is no doubt that many rural non-attorney judges remain isolated and cling to the traditional ways," said John Domino, a Sam Houston State University political science professor.

"But evidence also suggests that many are better educated, more innovative, and more mindful of their shortcomings than might be expected," he said.

Domino recently conducted a survey of 133 judges in Arizona, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Utah and Texas.

The average respondent to the mailed questionnaires was a white male, with neither a college nor law degree.

That has many attorneys, members of the State Bar of Texas, urging that non-attorneys be barred from judicial positions.

And it has many peace justices complaining of the lack of respect they receive from lawyers and others, Domino found.

"One had gone so far as to don a judicial robe while administering justice at his mobile home," said Domino. That was after a lawyer complained of the "homespun" atmosphere in his "court," Domino said.

Of attorney-judges in the study serving in positions traditionally held by non-attorneys, 92 percent said there were cases in which lack of formal training was likely to cause problems.

Only 47 percent of the non-attorney judges agreed.

"Attorney-respondents charged their non-attorney counterparts with being insensitive to constitutional rights, easily influenced by personal biases, less willing to use innovative or non-traditional sentences and ignorant of basic questions of jurisdiction," said Domino.

However, Domino's research shows that many judges without a law degree seek legal help. Sixty percent said they "occasionally" confer with a local attorney on legal questions, while 24 percent said they do so "often."

A majority of rural judges also say they confer with a judge on a higher court.

Domino also found many non-attorney judges are open to innovations in sentencing, despite their critics' claims. Forty-seven percent said they used sentences such as house arrest and community service "often" and 29 percent have adopted new practices for their offices.

Domino conducted his research under a $5,000 grant from the state through SHSU's Research Enhancement Fund and the university's Center for Rural Political Studies.

It's all in the plan

For those on a weight-loss plan, sometimes even the most innocent event such as a birthday party or picnic can turn into a hazardous situation full of temptations.

Even though you may not be in control of the menu, with a little planning you can still enjoy fun activities with friends and family! All it takes is a little advance planning. After all, we never take test or conduct business meetings without preparation; our weight-loss plans deserve the same kind of planning.

The next time you think you may be faced with a challenge, try these tips:

Never arrive hungry -- snack on some fruit or vegetable crisps before you leave home. You'll be much less likely to succumb to temptations;

Bring your own snacks -- offer to help you host or hostess by preparing low-calorie hors d'oeuvres for everyone to enjoy;

Before a dinner party, call ahead and ask about the menu.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. How long can I freeze shrimp? How long can I store fresh shrimp in the refrigerator? P.W., Hutchinson, MN

A. Shrimp sealed and frozen in an airtight container will keep for three months. Store fresh, raw shrimp in the refrigerator for one to two days. However, it is best if fresh raw shrimp is cooled and served right after purchasing.

Q. What do eggs add in a recipe for yeast rolls? I don't notice a difference when I leave them out of a recipe. B.R., Walker, MN

A. Rolls made with eggs will have a slight golden color and, due to egg protein, will have more tender texture. If you leave out the eggs, the ingredient proportions of the recipe may become imbalanced. If you do not want eggs in your baked product, we recommend starting with a recipe that doesn't include them.

Do you have a cooking question? Write Dear Betty Crocker, Box 1113, Dept. Betty, Minneapolis, MN 55440

Burke 2nd in division in bike race

Rex Burke of the Hereford Wheelfolk bicycling team placed second in the public (non-licensed) division of the Winds Time Trial in Amarillo over the weekend.

Harold Brigrance and Jake Northcutt also competed for the Wheelfolk.

Burke's time of 11 minutes and 22 seconds over the four-mile course was bested only by Ray Baca of Amarillo, whose time was 10:37. Burke finished 26th overall out of 38 cyclists. Brigrance (12:45) was 32nd and Northcutt (13:56) was 34th.

"We've only been training two weeks or so," Burke said, "while those licensed (cyclists) have been training for months to years. Our times are going to improve drastically while most of the others are already in midseason form."

Kent Bostic of Shalee had the day's fastest time at 8:26. Carol Bostic, Kent's wife won the women's division in 10:08. Mark Dome won Category 4 in 10:00.

Trail Blazers return home

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) - Now it's a best-of-3 series and Portland has the homecourt advantage. And so far in the Western Conference finals, the homecourt has meant everything.

With the best-of-7 series squared at 2-2, the teams return to Portland for Game 5 tonight.

While Utah pulled even with a pair of victories over the Trail Blazers in Salt Lake City, the Jazz is just 1-5 on the road in the playoffs and has lost 11 straight in Portland.

"You could say they have the momentum coming back because they won those two games," the Blazers' Terry Porter said. "But we're still very positive. We played two games over there and almost won both of them. They haven't even come close to winning a ball game in the playoffs in this arena."

Cavs win as Ehlo holds Jordan to 35

RICHFIELD, Ohio (AP) - Craig Ehlo still has to pinch himself when he sets up opposite Michael Jordan.

"I'm still in awe sometimes," Ehlo said Monday after his 21 points and hard-nosed defense helped the Cleveland Cavaliers beat Jordan and the Chicago Bulls 99-85, tying the best-of-7 Eastern Conference finals 2-2.

Game 5 will be played Wednesday night in Chicago, where the teams split the first two games of the series. Game 6 will be in Richfield on Friday, and Game 7, if needed, would be in Chicago on Sunday.

Born in Lubbock (he graduated from Lubbock Monterey High School), and schooled at Washington State, Ehlo has never had any trouble with his ego. Since the Cavaliers signed him after the Houston Rockets cut him in 1986, they've worked to build his confidence so he'll be more willing to shoot when he's open.

"That's always been a big question mark - do I believe in myself? This is my ninth year, and I still get in awe, especially when I play against guys like Michael Jordan, Larry Bird, Magic Johnson," Ehlo said.

Jordan, of course, gets the best of most of the matchups. He scored his career high, 69 points, in a game against Ehlo and the Cavs in 1990, and he's averaged 39 in 14 playoff games against Cleveland.

But on Monday, Jordan had to scrap for his 35 points, which came on 15-of-33 shooting from the field. Ehlo, meanwhile, sank four 3-pointers and supplied some of the offense the Cavaliers were missing because of the weakened condition of Mark Price, who played despite a stomach virus.

"I think Mark usually shoots 15 or 16 times a game," Ehlo said. "That wasn't there today. I took some of those shots."

Jordan got little offensive help from his teammates Monday. Scottie Pippen scored 13 points, none of them in the second half, and John Paxson had 11. The Bulls' only significant contribution off the bench was from Cliff Levingston, who scored four quick baskets early in the fourth quarter to reduce Cleveland's lead to single digits. The rest of Chicago's bench went 3 for 18.

"I don't know why Scottie took so few shots," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said.

"Phil just didn't allow me to push the ball the way I did in the last game," Pippen said. "I basically didn't have that many opportunities offensively."

Cleveland led by as many as eight in the first quarter and maintained a double-figure lead for much of the second and third periods. Ehlo started the fourth quarter with a 3-pointer that made it 74-60.

Levingston's flurry, however, got Chicago back in it, and a 3-pointer by Paxson made it 82-78 with 4:44 left. A rebound basket by Jordan kept the deficit at four points with four minutes to play before Mike Sanders stunned the Bulls with a rare 3-pointer with 3:40 left.

It was Sanders' second 3-pointer of the season, his first of the playoffs. He took it only because the 24-second clock was winding down.

The Bulls got within six on Jordan's basket with 1:30 to play, but Cleveland clinched it when Larry Nance finished off a crisp three-pass play with a dunk for a 92-84 lead with 1:18 left.

Nance led Cleveland with 22 points and four blocked shots. Brad Daugherty, grabbed nearly every time he tried to shoot, scored 10 of his 14 points on foul shots and also collected 14 rebounds. John Williams scored 18 and Price scored 13 despite spending part of the second half in the locker room trying to get his stomach to settle down. He spent Sunday night in the Cleveland Clinic.

Drexler learned to shoot from brother

By RAY BUCK
The Houston Post

HOUSTON (AP) - There is a story behind Clyde Drexler's line-drive jumper.

It goes back to before he was Clyde The Glide. Before Phi Slama Jama. Before the Rockets passed him up in the 1983 NBA draft and took Rodney McCray instead.

And it was long, long before Drexler got on this current collision course for NBA superstardom with Michael Jordan and a possible Drexler-Jordan showdown in the NBA Finals, which will occur if Portland and Chicago can just T.C.O.B. in the semis.

Growing up in Houston's South Park as the middle child of seven, Drexler learned how to shoot a basketball by standing on the front porch with his older brother, James, and drilling the ball off the edge of the roof. To get the ball to return to the shooter just right required a direct hit.

"That's how he shoots the ball now - flat," said James Drexler, who co-owns (with Clyde) and operates Drexler's Barbecue in Houston.

Flat and true. "Clyde didn't care about shooting," said his mother, Eunice Drexler Scott. "All he wanted to do is dunk."

Drexler, a nine-year NBA veteran at age 29, is headed for Barcelona when this NBA season is finally over. He gives the United States Olympic team yet another ring.

He finished the 1991-92 regular-season as the league's third-highest scorer behind Jordan and Karl Malone and runner-up to Jordan in the Most Valuable Player balloting.

He is - without much argument - the NBA's best player who keeps his tongue in his mouth.

"My honest opinion?" said James Drexler, when asked who's the better all-around player, Clyde or Michael? "They're tit for tat. They both do the same things for their teams - score, rebound, pass the ball, make steals, block shots, dominate. How can you say one's better than the other?"

Drexler is used to the backseat. He occupied it in the Western Conference all those years Magic Johnson was king of the backcourt.

Now Magic is retired and Clyde still has to play second-fiddle - now to Jordan.

"The gap is not as great as a lot of people think," said one NBA personnel man.

John Lucas, former Rockets guard, has watched Drexler emerge from a raw talent who showed flashes of style and grace to a polished player who makes it look so easy.

"Nobody understands how good Clyde really is because he doesn't have all the drama behind him that Michael does. When Michael goes to the basket, you sit there and say, 'Ooooh,'" Lucas said.

"When Clyde goes to the basket, you say, 'Boy, that's nice.' He just has a more reserved air about him. He makes it look simple."

Drexler has heard that before ("I've even been compared to Baryshnikov") and each time, Clyde has had a good laugh inside.

"But coming from Luke, that's a real compliment," he said. "Anytime you can simplify what you're doing, I think it's a real tribute to the hard work you put into it."

"But from my perspective, I'm scuffling out there. I'm struggling. I'm barely making it. So when somebody says I make it look easy, that's funny."

Drexler, who has added an effective 3-point shot at 34 percent to his daring drives, may have won the Slam Dunk contest a couple of times if he hadn't done his dunks so quickly, so routinely. He finished second to Kenny Walker in 1989.

"I've never been one to showboat," said Drexler, who led Ross Sterling High School to the Jaycees holiday tournament finals as an undersized, 6-foot-1 center, then helped the University of Houston to back-to-back Final Fours before turning pro after his junior year.

Portland drafted Drexler in the first round - 14th overall. Please, don't remind Houston fans.

The Rockets had the first and third picks in the draft that year, when they chose Ralph Sampson and then Rodney McCray.

"I was upset. I came out a year early with the idea that the Rockets would grab me," Drexler said. "When they didn't, I was disappointed."

And then came more rounds. "I could've stayed in school another year and gone higher in the next year's draft," Drexler said. But when Portland finally took him, "I've never looked back."

Of those selected before him, only Dallas' Derek Harper and Drexler are with the teams that drafted them. Sampson, Steve Stipanovich and Russell Cross already are out of the NBA.

That's nice. But The Glide doesn't gloat.

He gets that from his mom, who doesn't look back on the '83 draft with any emotion other than acceptance.

"I'm a firm believer that whatever happens, happens for the better," Mrs. Scott said.

"Yeah," James interjected, "but Clyde could've been MVP two or three times by now with the Rockets."

"What I'm saying is that Clyde was young. This is a fast city. I think he had a chance to mature more in a small town," she said.

Mature, he did. Drexler's 6-7, 222-pound body is a product of good genes and hard work. As a skinny, long-armed kid, he took up karate for coordination and weightlifting for muscle. He was a gym rat.

He now just asks to be given the same respect that goes to the Jordans and the Hakeem Olajuwons, world-class athletes of the league.

"My one regret is that I didn't get an opportunity when I was younger to play two sports at the pro level. I was decent in both baseball and football," Drexler said.

The NFL? "Wide receiver," Drexler said. The major leagues? "First base or left field ... but that's basically my ego talking."

While James Drexler takes pride

Belle blasts Tribe past Athletics

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Just imagine how well Albert Belle would do if he swung at good pitches.

Belle struck for two home runs Monday night, connecting on balls that were not strikes, in leading the Cleveland Indians over the Oakland Athletics 10-6.

"He hit one over his head and the other nearly on the ground for home runs," Oakland catcher Terry Steinbach said.

Belle homered for the third straight game. He hit a solo shot in the third inning off Joe Slusarski (4-2) and added a three-run shot off Vince Horsman in the fourth that made it 8-1.

"I threw him ball four," Horsman said. "But I guess it's like poetic justice because he was the first big leaguer I ever faced in the exact same situation, and I struck him out on a curve ball."

Belle finished with three hits and scored three runs. His two long drives gave him eight home runs this season and four in a span of 10 at-bats, a streak that followed a drought in which he went 82 at-bats without homering.

Even with Cleveland's big lead early in the game, Charles Nagy (5-3) struggled. He gave up 10 hits and left in the eighth inning as the A's closed to 8-6.

Yankees 13, Brewers 10

Danny Tartabull's grand slam highlighted a nine-run rally in the eighth inning that sent New York over visiting Milwaukee.

Roberto Kelly hit a two-run single that put the Yankees ahead in the eighth and Tartabull hit his eighth career slam. Ten straight batters reached base, including Matt Nokes, who doubled and singled.

Lee Guetterman (1-1) was the winner and James Austin (1-2) was the loser. The Brewers and Yankees each won twice in a four-game series that featured two extra-inning games and a pair of six-run comebacks.

Mariners 7, Orioles 3

Dave Fleming won his sixth straight decision and Pete O'Brien hit his 11th homer and drove in three runs as Seattle won at the Kingdome.

Fleming (6-1) leads all rookies in victories. He gave up two runs on seven hits and five walks in seven innings, and Mike Schooler got his 10th save.

Jose Mesa (1-5) lost his fourth straight game. He started for Baltimore in place of Mike Mussina, whose next game was pushed back to Friday because of the flu.

Brown lets Rangers' shocked bullpen rest

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Kevin Brown has taken his mind off his mechanics and a load off the Texas Rangers' beleaguered bullpen.

Manager Bobby Valentine is relishing the occasional opportunity to forget about his relievers, who had allowed 24 runs in 21 1-3 innings before holding Kansas City to one run in 6 2-3 innings Sunday.

Brown (7-3) gave Texas' struggling bullpen a rare night off in his last start Saturday by scattering eight hits in a 4-2 complete game victory over the Royals.

With his seventh victory, Brown tied Jack McDowell of the Chicago White Sox for the major league lead. Brown's team-high third complete game was Texas' first since April 29 when Jose Guzman went the distance against New York.

Brown tied an AL record last year by going 33 starts without a complete game. He consulted a sports psychologist to stop himself from over-thinking on the mound and fading late in the game.

The results are dramatic. He's pitched at least seven innings in eight of 10 starts and leads the AL with 75 1-3 innings. Last year, Brown barely had more strikeouts (96) than walks (90). This year, he has 19 walks and 50 strikeouts.

"The big thing is I'm facing batters and not facing myself," Brown said recently.

Against the Royals, Brown struggled early with his timing and control, giving up runs in the second and third when he was unable to keep his fastball down.

But, unlike last year, when early troubles left him agitated and prone to losing his cool in the late innings, Brown adjusted. He got 14 groundball outs and threw just 65 pitches over the final six innings.

"I guess the big thing was not to give in ... to be able to come back and find it," Brown said. "I don't have to have my best stuff to win."

Nobody has been hurt more by the wobbly Texas bullpen than Nolan Ryan. Rangers relievers have blown three straight Ryan leads, of 4-3, 4-1, and 5-1. Since 1990, they have blown nine Ryan leads.

Ryan (0-1) has never gone this deep into a season without a victory. He spent most of April on the disabled list, but now that he's healthy, his bullpen is making him sick.

Valentine and general manager Tom Grieve haven't been able to find an answer. Nineteen pitchers have spent time on the roster so far this year, six shy of the AL record set in 1969 by the expansion Seattle Pilots.

The Rangers lead the league with 107 relief appearances and have given up a major league-leading 22 homers, including three grand slams.

Brown has done the best job of any starter in keeping the bullpen out of harm's way. The Rangers are 7-3 when Brown starts and 18-18 in all other games.

Brown's 7-3 record after 10 starts is the best on the team since 1988 when Jeff Russell, now the Rangers' closer, started 7-2.

In keeping with his new philosophy of not thinking too much on the mound, Brown also isn't giving a second thought to his bullpen.

"A complete game is nice, but the win is what counts," Brown said. "If someone fresh is better, that's who to go with."

That should be a no-brainer, but not with this bullpen.

Sheffield gets revenge on Smith

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Go ahead, knock down Gary Sheffield. Then watch him knock 'em in.

Pittsburgh's Zane Smith did it Monday night, brushing back Sheffield with a high-and-inside pitch after Tony Gwynn's three-run homer gave the Padres a 6-1 lead in the fifth inning.

Smith, who had the best control in baseball last season, drew a warning from home plate umpire Larry Poncino. Sheffield drew himself together and hammered Smith's next pitch into the second deck in left field to extend the longest hitting streak in the major leagues this season to 18 games as the Padres held off the Pirates 7-6.

"It's a great feeling to hit a ball like that," said Sheffield, who's only the eighth batter to reach the second deck at Jack Murphy Stadium.

In other NL games, Philadelphia beat Atlanta 4-1, Cincinnati defeated New York 3-0, St. Louis stopped Los Angeles 6-5 and Houston held off Montreal 10-8.

Glavine and San Francisco's Bill Swift as the top winners in the National League. Lefters allowed 11 hits and three runs, two earned, in seven innings and won his fifth straight decision.

Smith (5-3) failed in his third try for his sixth win, allowing eight hits, including the three homers, in 4 1-3 innings.

Phillies 4, Braves 1

Terry Mulholland won his fifth straight decision and Lenny Dykstra helped produce all four Philadelphia runs at Veterans Stadium.

Mulholland (5-3) shut out Atlanta on one hit through seven innings. He gave up one run on three hits in the eighth and Mitch Williams got the last out of the game for his seventh save.

Dykstra hit a three-run homer in the seventh inning against Steve Avery (2-5). Dykstra led off the first with a double and scored on a wild pitch.

Reds 3, Mets 0

Chris Hammond and two relievers shut out New York on five hits as Cincinnati won for the fifth time in seven games on their road trip.

Hammond (4-2) defeated the Mets for the second time this season. He allowed five singles in six innings before Scott Bankhead and Norm Charlton finished, with Charlton getting his 10th save.

Pete Schourek (0-1), recalled from the minors to pitch in place of injured Bret Saberhagen, gave up one run in six innings.

Cardinals 6, Dodgers 5

Felix Jose singled off second baseman Lenny Harris' glove with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning, driving home the winning run.

Luis Alicea opened the ninth with a single that bounced out of first baseman Eric Karros' glove. Alicea advanced on a fly out, took third on Jay Howell's wild pitch and scored on Jose's scratch single.

Todd Worrell (2-1) was the winner and Roger McDowell (3-5) took the loss.

Astros 10, Expos 8

Pete Incaviglia homered and drove in four runs as Houston built a 10-0 lead after four innings, then held on as Montreal rallied for six runs in the bottom of the ninth.

Butch Henry (1-4) won despite being charged with seven runs on 11 hits in eight-plus innings. Chris Hancey (2-3) gave up six runs in 2 1-3 innings.

The New York Yankees were known as the Highlanders when John Ganzel hit the first home run in the club's history in 1903.

Lou Gehrig, one of baseball's greatest sluggers, stole home 15 times.

Mickey Mantle set a World Series home run record with 18 in the 12 renewals he played in.

Ted Williams was the first manager of the Texas Rangers when they began play in 1972.

Eight American League clubs have the home dugout on the third base side and six on the first base side.

A squad in a regulation volleyball game consists of 12 players with only six in action at one time.

Rangers trade for Nunez

NEW YORK (AP) - Right-hander Edwin Nunez was traded by the Milwaukee Brewers to the Texas Rangers for a minor-league player to be named later.

Nunez, who will be 29 Wednesday, was 1-1 this season with a 2.63 ERA and no saves in 10 relief appearances covering 132 2/3 innings.

He signed with the Brewers as a free agent in December 1990 and is 25-28 with 50 saves in parts of 11 seasons with Seattle, the New York Mets, Detroit and Milwaukee.

Nunez signed a two-year, $1.9 million contract, but underwent back surgery in May 1991 and missed most of last season.

In 23 games in 1991, he was 2-1 with one save and a 6.04 ERA.

Nunez said he had mixed feelings about the trade.

"I wanted to play for Milwaukee," said Nunez, whose wife is from Wausau, Wis. "These people believed in me and gave me good money."

"My back surgery really set me back. I didn't start off on the right foot. I'm starting to pitch well, but I didn't have time to show them how I can pitch."

"We have a lot of people in the bullpen here and Texas needs relievers. I know they're counting on me to pitch. I just want to continue to pitch like I have recently."

Nunez was listed as unavailable for Sunday's game due to a tender elbow, but he said he was fine Monday and could have pitched.

DREXLER

in having taught his kid brother how to stick the J from the porch, he takes no credit for the other parts of Clyde's basketball arsenal.

"Not the moves, the dunks," James Drexler said. "He has done that on his own."

That's why so much fun has been had at Drexler's Barbecue since the May 11 issue of "Sports Illustrated" hit the stands. On the cover is Clyde Drexler driving on Jordan. Inside is a story that includes an ode to James' famous jump shot.

"The funny thing is that James had one of these picture-perfect jump shots: high, high arc, perfect form, the whole thing," Clyde Drexler told SI. "Exactly what my jumper doesn't look like."

This week, James received a fan letter with a Portland postmark and addressed to "Sweet-Shootin' James Drexler."

James laughed. "I may have to open a clinic," he said.

This is a fun family, a close family. Clyde already has sent one sister, Denise, through college and is currently paying the bills at UH for younger sister, Virginia, a criminal justice major with aspirations for law school.

His mother is still grateful that Clyde "retired" her as a checker with the Rice food markets.

"What makes me most proud of Clyde is his appreciation of other people," said Mrs. Scott, who now oversees the barbecue operation.

It's a small place with red curtains and ceiling fans. There are eight tables ... and 10 Clyde The Glide posters on the walls.

The clientele is trained to cheer for the Blazers over the Jazz.

As far as an Eastern Conference preference - Chicago or Cleveland? It doesn't matter to Eunice Scott.

"I'm just glad it's not New York. I'd be scared to pieces," she said. "Pat Riley should've been Coach of the Year."

Draper to be honored in Denver by AHEA

During the recent Wyche Extension Homemakers Club meeting at the Community Center, it was announced that Argen Draper will be honored by the American Home Economics Association (AHEA).

Draper, who is a retired extension service agent, will be acknowledged as a Pacesetter for her 50 years of service as a member of AHEA. The association meeting will be held June 29-30 and July 1 in Denver, Colo. Also, in recognition of her award, members of the Wyche Club will be hosting a reception in July in her honor.

President Jo Lee conducted the business meeting and Marcie Ginn, hostess, read the opening exercise, "Life After 40." Pledges to the flag and TEHA prayer were recited by members and the roll call was answered by members telling of their favorite craft.

Bill and Gene Patton gave the program on how to make stained glass items from various colored glass and copper foil. It was noted that the speakers had visited the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood. Bill had classes in his stained glass and Gene conducted a class making baskets of paper sacks with twist paper.

There are programs each spring and fall at the center for adults and youth. Each five-week session is conducted by a different extension agent.

The door prize, a stained glass piece, was won by Draper.

Members present were Mary Lou Aven, Helen Bell, Shirley Brown, Draper, Virgie Duncan, Ginn, Camelia Jones, Lee, Marie Maxwell, Coreen Odom, Pet Ott, Mary Stubblefield, Barbara Sterne and Clara Trowbridge.

Shirley Brown will serve as hostess at the next meeting scheduled Sept. 3.

Rev. Rudd gives response

The Rev. Leo Rudd of Tyler, a native of the Westway Community, gave the response at the 69th Mid-Plains Pioneer Celebration on Saturday at the Bull Barn. Rudd recalled his days growing up in the county and his beginnings as a young Baptist preacher.

Clovis Music Festival scheduled July 30-Aug. 2

The Sixth Annual Clovis Music Festival is planned July 30 through Aug. 2 and will feature a special Petty Tribute Night July 30.

Norman Petty of Clovis, N.M. helped the late Buddy Holly write and record "Every Day," "Peggy Sue," "Rave On" and "That'll Be the Day." Clovis remembers Petty's contributions and celebrates his memory annually at the festival.

Friday night performers will be Tommy Roe of "Sheila" and "Dizzy" fame and Hot Rod Chevy-Kevy, a 1950s-60s show band.

The Classic Car Show is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. More than 150 classic cars will be on display in Clovis and a 1923 Ford T-Bucket Roadster will be given away in a drawing Sunday. The car, newly painted and restored, will have an estimated value of $12,000.

The Saturday night Street Dance will kick-off at 7 p.m. (MST) on Main St. in front of the Norman Petty Main Street Studio/Theatre.

Capitol recording stars Wild Rose, an all-female country band, will open for Atlantic records' Billy Jo Royal, famous for his hits "Down in the Boon Docks" and "Tell It Like It Is."

To wind up the four-day festival, Christian stars Michele Pillar and Bob Bennett will perform Sunday. More than 10,000 people from around the world are expected to attend the 1992 Clovis Music Festival.

Free tours of Petty's Seventh Street Studio, where he recorded Holly and Roy Orbison, are available during the festival.

For additional information, call Clovis, Curry County Chamber of Commerce at 505-763-3435.

NEWPORT, N.H. (AP) - The ex-wife of Aerosmith lead singer Steve Tyler is demanding higher alimony and child support, saying their earlier agreement was made before the band's comeback success.

Now, she claims, Tyler's income is far higher - as much as $2 million in 1990.

Last week, Tyler's lawyer argued the case should be closed to protect Tyler's children by another wife and to ensure the secrecy of his and Aerosmith's finances. A judge denied the request.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: With summer just around the corner, scams will be on the increase. Last year my wife and I were the victims of a con man.

A man in a truck, along with several pieces of equipment and a crew of five or six men, drives around looking for unpaved driveways. In the past two years, he has stopped at our house several times to ask if we would be interested in having our driveway blacktopped. We told him repeatedly that we could not afford the $2,000 price he quoted.

This past year, thinking about the coming muddy season, we told the man to go ahead and do the job. Three months down the road when weeds started to grow through the blacktop, we realized that we had been ripped off.

The man promised to come back at a later date to "make it right." We never saw him again. We later learned that other families in the neighborhood had been swindled by this same character. One elderly man was taken for $7,000.

I am sure this guy is a professional con artist. He came across as very sincere and won our confidence. He even asked if he could cash our check right away or if we wanted him to hold it for a while. The contract he gave us was illegible and we saw it AFTER the job had been finished.

I hope you will find room in your column to print this letter, Ann. I will feel less like a fool if I can save someone else from being taken.-- Hornswoggled in Michigan

SO what's the message? Get involved in things other than your job search. I became active in a political campaign, church activities and my alumni association. I met various groups of wonderful people who encouraged me to hang in there. If you stay visible, chances are that an old classmate will suddenly remember that one of his friends is hiring, or a person at church will need some help with a small project that will lead to a job. Who knows?

My period of unemployment was demeaning, depressing and anxiety-filled. But it was also an excellent lesson in determination. Keep your chin up. Tell yourself it CAN happen and that you deserve a break, and you'll get it.--The Little Engine That Could

DEAR LITTLE ENGINE: Thanks for an upbeat can-do letter with some excellent ideas. I, too, am a great believer in the power of positive thinking. It has worked for me for a good many years. Welcome to the club.

Gem of the Day: Only the good die young.

Watch for allergic salute

Parents may want to look for the "allergic salute" this spring and summer. It is a sure sign a child has allergic rhinitis or hayfever and not just a common cold.

The "salute," a rapid rubbing of the nose and eyes, is one sign parents can watch for as trees begin spreading pollen this allergy season.

Early detection of such allergies can pay off because untreated conditions can lead to severe illnesses, said Dr. Stuart Abramson, a pediatrician at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

Allergies are often confused with colds, he said, because they have similar symptoms.

The average American household uses 107,000 gallons of water a year. The average person uses 168 gallons of water a day.

Big trees provoke the pride of winds.

Registration set Wednesday

Amarillo College will conduct registration for Hereford classes from 7 to 8 p.m. Wednesday, May 27, at Hereford High School. For more information, contact John Matthews at 364-6591.

The covered wagon was first built by the German farmers of Pennsylvania.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

- All 172 pages in full color
- Each page measures a large 15 x 11 inches
- Presents the entire state in stunning detail
- Appendices and specialty maps of many different features

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

What they're saying about "The Roads of Texas"

"When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS... you'll wonder how you ever travelled the state without it." Texas Highways Magazine October, 1988

"For details of Texas terrain, oil company maps and the State's Official Highway Map can't match THE ROADS OF TEXAS."

IRISH NOVENA to St. Jude.

Holy St. Jude apostle and martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near kinsman of Jesus Christ, faithful intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need. I pray to you now. Holy Saint, that will help me in my time of need, please pray for all who invoke your aid, and help me in my present and urgent petition. In return I promise to make your name known, to help others to pray to you also. Say 3
Our Fathers, 3 Hail Marys and 3 Glory Bes. This Novena has never been known to fail. Say this Novena for 9 consecutive days.
Publication must be promised.
Thank You St. Jude for prayers answered.
