Hundreds killed in Iraq shelter blast

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) - Missiles slammed into a Baghdad bomb shelter early today and witnesses said about 400 people were killed. It would be the single biggest loss of civilian life reported so far in the allied air war.

As the war turned four weeks old, the White House responded coolly to an indication from Iraq that it might be willing to talk peace, saying there could be no retreat from the demand that Iraq get out of Kuwait.

Meanwhile, U.S. military officials in the Saudi capital of Riyadh said Iraq has managed to rig makeshift military communications and supply links despite allied bombing aimed at smashing them. They said the Iraqis were drawing on long battlefield experience in the 1980-88 war with Iran.

The bomb shelter hit today - during 12 hours of intense air raids on Baghdad - was also a legacy of the Iran-Iraq war, one of five massive shelters built in the capital during that conflict.

Witnesses said the entrance to the shelter in the middle-class residential al-Amirich district took direct hits from at least two missiles fired by allied warplanes before dawn. The missiles pierced nine feet of concrete.

Reporters taken to the scene several hours afterward by government officials counted more than 40 charred bodies laid out on the ground.

At a Baghdad hospital where the injured were taken, 17-year-old Omar Adnan, badly burned, said he was the only survivor of his family of six.

"I was sleeping and suddenly I felt heat and the blanket was burning," he said. "I turned to try and touch my mother who was next to me but grabbed nothing but a piece of flesh."

Hours after the attack, the shelter was still ablaze, and firemen struggled to extinguish the flames. A senior civil defense official said scores of people remained buried in the rubble, but there was no hope of finding anyone alive.

Health Minister Abdel-Salam Mohammed Saeed told reporters that there were 1,000 people inside the shelter, but rescuers and residents of the district said 400 and 500 people had been inside.

Even before today's report, Iraq had claimed thousands of civilian casualties in the allied air raids. U.S. officials have said the Iraqi figures were probably inflated.

President Bush, speaking with reporters in Washington on Tuesday, described Iraqi statements as a "one-sided propaganda mission cranking out myths and falsehoods" about civilian casualties.

However, the U.S. command has said civilian casualties are an inevitable byproduct of the strikes aimed at military and strategic targets.

With the war thundering ahead, Baghdad radio reported early today that Saddam Hussein had told a Kremlin envoy he is prepared to cooperate with the Soviet Union and other nations in a peace effort.

But there was no sign Saddam is willing to relinquish Kuwait - the demand President Bush has unflinchingly stood by.

"The deciding factor for us is: What does he say about getting out of Kuwait?" White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Tuesday.

On Tuesday, Iraq warned that any ground war would be costly and bloody for the United States and its coalition partners.

"If the Americans want to spare their sons from certain death, all they have to do is pull their losing forces out of the holy land of the Arabs and leave the Arabs to iron out their differences by themselves," Iraq's news agency quoted its parliament speaker, Saadi Mehdi Saleh, as saying.

But the allies signaled that it would be some time before they would be ready to wage all-out war on the ground.

British Defense Secretary Tom King, who met with Bush in Washington on Tuesday, said there was "a need to see some significant reduction in Iraq's military capability" before any land assault.

"I think there's some work to be done," he said.

In large measure, that work is the air war. In eastern Saudi Arabia, skies were clear today as waves of warplanes roared off on bombing runs.

In Kuwait, the hunt for targets has been complicated by big pits of burning oil that have been spewing smoke, obscuring about a third of the occupied emirate, said Maj. Vince Wisniewski, an F-16 pilot.

At the Pentagon, Rear Adm. Mike McConnell said Tuesday that there may be more than 50 oil field fires. He said Iraqis are suspected of placing charges on many wells, but that allied bombing may be responsible for some blazes.

"There is an advantage from their point of view of starting a fire. It creates smoke ... and make it difficult for us to find targets," McConnell said.

But new tactics are evolving in the air war. One allied strategy is the formation of "killing boxes" - rectangles of several square miles each in Kuwait and southern Iraq. When allied planes have destroyed the artillery, tanks and radar sites in one box, they move on to another.

A key element in the new approach is the use of F-16s as forward air controllers to circle over a sector and direct the other planes to targets.

Allied forces, meanwhile, were getting some on-the-job training in the teamwork that will be needed if and when the land war begins.

U.S. military officials said Tuesday that American and Saudi forces used air strikes, artillery and naval gunfire to attack an Iraqi force in Kuwait.

Marine Brig. Gen. Richard Neal, a U.S. command spokesman, said the Iraqi force included tanks, artillery, armored vehicles and trucks.

The allied "combined arms" operation involved Saudi and U.S. Marine artillery and multiple rocket launchers, Marine aircraft and 18 rounds from the 16-inch guns of the USS Missouri, he said.

"It was a good test for the command-and-control system for the whole joint forces, taking into consideration the different languages and training background," said a Saudi spokesman, Col. Ahmed al-Robayan.

One senior military official called it the biggest battlefield action yet initiated by the allied forces.

Allied strategists, meanwhile, are somewhat puzzled by the near-silence of Iraqi artillery deployed along the front. There have been no reports of U.S. or other coalition troops killed by Iraqi artillery since the war broke out.

The Iraqis have an estimated 3,100 artillery pieces in the Kuwait area, including formidable South African-made 155mm howitzers. But so far, few have been fired at allied positions.

While Marines and other units have peppered enemy positions with artillery and rocket fire, Iraq's response has been light and poorly aimed, U.S. officials say.

Although there have been relatively few firefights along the front, the forward troops need little reminder that the Iraqis are near. Some can peer through thermal sights at night and see Iraqi soldiers at distances of up to 7,000 yards.

Rally planned at courthouse Sunday for local soldiers

A citywide rally to show support for troops in the Persian Gulf and around the world will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Deaf Smith County Courthouse in Hereford.

A special sign, being prepared this week by Elaine McNutt, will be unveiled at the rally. The rally will include the names of local soldiers currently serving in the armed forces and will remain at the courthouse.

The rally will include a color guard from Cannon Air Force Base in Clovis, N.M., the home of the nation's F-111 fleet that has many planes flying sorties into Iraq and Kuwait.

Also to be featured will be songs by Vanessa Gonzalez and Mary Varner, the Hereford High School band; short speeches by local dignitaries; and presentation of special certificates to members of the families of soldiers from Deaf Smith County.

The rally is being put together by persons interested in showing support of American soldiers, and is not being sponsored by a particular group or organizations. Rally organizers said the event is simply being held to allow local persons to show their support for soldiers.

Over 60 persons from Hereford or who have local connections are serving in the armed forces. Many of them are in Saudi Arabia or elsewhere in the Persian Gulf or Middle East.

Sunday will also be proclaimed "Red, White and Blue Day" in Hereford, and residents are encouraged to wear the colors to the rally. Flags will also be put out across the city by members of the Hereford Key Club and the Hereford Noon Kiwanis.

Governor says lottery a tossup

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards said she still is pushing for passage of a state lottery, but she doesn't know if lawmakers will heed her message.

"I've always said it's going to be real hard to pass, and I think it's a tossup at this point," Richards said Tuesday.

The governor has designated the lottery as emergency legislation, touting it as a way to meet part of an estimated $4.6 billion budget shortfall through fiscal year 1993.

Hearings have been set for Wednesday in the Senate, and Monday in the House, on the measure.

To put the proposed constitutional amendment establishing a lottery before voters, a two-thirds vote is needed in the 150-member House and 31-member Senate.

"I don't know whether we can win this or not," Richards said. "The important thing for me ... is to be able to tell the people of this state that I have done every single thing I know to do to save money, to consolidate government and to raise revenue from sources other than taxes.

"And if the Legislature chooses otherwise, I will have done my part," she said.

Rep. Glenn Repp, a leading lottery opponent, maintains that he's counted enough votes in the House to keep the measure off a statewide ballot. He said he agrees with Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock that a lottery is a "sleazy" way for state government to raise money.

"It takes 51 (votes in the House) to defeat it. We've always had more than that," said Repp, R-Duncanville. "If anything, I'm confident that we're becoming stronger."

The Senate has passed lottery legislation in a previous session, but the measure never has found sufficient support in the more conservative House.

Special issue will salute local soldiers

A special issue of the Hereford Brand on Sunday, Feb. 24, will be dedicated to local soldiers serving in the Persian Gulf and elsewhere in the Armed Forces.

The special issue will be mailed by the Brand to service personnel from Hereford and promises to be a special keepsake edition for everyone.

The issue will include a special feature on how some wives of soldiers in the gulf are dealing with their husbands' absence; and the Brand will include as many short biographical sketches of the soldiers as are provided by family members.

The special biographical sketches should be brought to the Brand as soon as possible, and no later than Tuesday. They should be less than 100 words and include pertinent information about the soldier, including name of parents or spouse, names of children if any, when the soldier graduated from high school and/or college, and a few personal highlights.

Pictures should also be provided. The pictures will be available to be picked up by family members after the issue is published.

The Brand asks that the biographical information be brought into the paper's office at 313 N. Lee; the information will not be taken over the phone.

The special issue will also include a full-color United States flag that may be posted in windows or other places by persons wishing to show their patriotic spirit.

The special issue will also be designed so that advertisers may show their support for the service personnel stationed in the Gulf and elsewhere. Special rates will be offered to allow as many businesses and individual persons as possible to show their spirit.

'Love potion' could be real

NEW YORK (AP) - When I kissed a cop down on 34th and Vine, he broke my little bottle of... Saffron? Ginger? Even potato juice could have been the secret elixir in Love Potion No. 9.

An expert says nutrients that cured scurvy gave New World dwellers a high they confused with love. And the love lives on.

"Some of the 'spring tonics' and early herbs promoted a euphoria that increased the ability to do everything, including sex," says Jeannie Fernsworth, an instructor at the New York Botanical Garden.

Explorers who came to the New World centuries ago were often suffering from malnutrition, Fernsworth said. When they started eating avocados, limes, oranges and other healthy foods, they may have mistaken the subsequent energy boost for lust.

Consequently, even the most unlikely plants became known as aphrodisiacs. While researching an article on New World plants, Fernsworth ran across an observation from the 1500s that credited potatoes with promoting lust.

But love potions long existed outside the New World.

In "A Midsummer-Night's Dream," Shakespeare mentions a white and purple flower whose juice, placed on "sleeping eyelids," will make a "man or woman madly dote upon the next live creature that it sees."

Lothian Lynas, head reference librarian at the Botanical Garden, says Shakespeare was referring to a wild pansy known in this country as the Johnny jump-up.

In Woody Allen's new movie "Alice," a venerable Chinatown herbalist offers a New York City matron an unidentified potion with similar properties.

Allen's spokeswoman, Lisa Hintelmann, said that particular potion was purely imaginary.

"I wish it existed," she said. Mary Forsell, author of "Heirloom Herbs" (Villard Books, $29.95), speculated on what it might have been were it real.

"Chinese herbs are not only composed of plants but often contain mysterious powdered ingredients they don't like to divulge," she said. "It could have been a musk ox for all we know."

In her research, Forsell has uncovered numerous herbal concoctions that purportedly induce romance.

"A lot of these herbs have such sweet scents that they're supposed to be soothing to the nerves, putting you in some kind of receptive state," she said. "There's no question that beautifully scented things inspire romance, which is why we have perfumes with names like 'Seduction.'"

The author has also discovered a number of plant rituals that believers swear will make a person more irresistible. Among them:

-Hide a rose, "the herb of Venus," in your pocket and think about your beloved.

-Mix black tea with rosemary, thyme, mint, rose petals and lemon leaves. Drink it under a waxing moon.

-Ginseng, an Oriental tonic, simultaneously sedative and stimulating, supposedly offers improved concentration and endurance.

-Lemon verbena is an herb used in wine, stuffings, preserves and desserts. In addition to making people feel sexy, it's supposed to cure nausea, flatulence and indigestion.

-Saffron, which comes from a crocus, stimulates the appetite - or appetites.

-Ginger, warming and stimulating, is common in Far Eastern cuisines and in soft drinks, sweets and tea. It also is supposed to cure a possible consequence of sexiness: morning sickness.

Forsell isn't sure whether these methods actually work.

But she and Fernsworth caution novices to do research or consult an expert before ingesting anything. And in all manner of activity, they urge moderation.

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards has kept her sights on the State Board of Insurance, which she claims has failed to do a good enough job at protecting consumers. On Tuesday, Richards demoted the current chairman and continued her push to place the agency under the control of a special panel.

AUSTIN - Judges and lawyers can make some improvements in the judicial system, but major reforms are needed that only can be initiated by the Legislature, Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas Phillips said.

Richards takes more jobs at insurance board

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Ann Richards has kept her sights on the State Board of Insurance, which she has claimed has failed to do a good enough job at protecting consumers.

On Tuesday, Richards demoted the current chairman and continued her push to place the agency under the control of a special panel.

Richards named her lone appointee to the Insurance Board, Austin lawyer Claire Korioth, as chair to replace James Saxton.

In her State of the State address to the Legislature last week, Richards called on Saxton and the third board member, Richard Reynolds, to resign by Friday.

Both Saxton and Reynolds, who are holdover appointees of former Gov. Bill Clements, have defended their performance and refuse to step down. Although no longer chairman, Saxton said he will continue to serve on the board.

"Two of the members of the board have been there for a while and we

Rains refused after grilling

AUSTIN (AP) - Former Secretary of State Jack Rains was already feeling lousy, with a bad cold. A Senate committee may have made him feel worse.

After grilling Rains for an hour, the Senate Nominations Committee refused on a 2-2 vote Tuesday to endorse his appointment to the Texas Department of Commerce Board of Directors.

Any vote but a tie would have sent Rains' nomination to the full Senate for confirmation, the committee clerk said.

Rains said he was unsure whether he could continue to serve on the six-member board. But Senate dean

Chet Brooks said he could remain on the board until the full Senate acts.

Brooks, D-Pasadena, said another vote would be taken in an effort to advance Rains' appointment to the full Senate. Three committee members were absent and did not vote.

Brooks was joined by Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, in voting for Rains. Committee chairman Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, and Sen. Temple Dickson, D-Sweetwater, voted against Rains.

Dickson questioned Rains about a $5,500 election night reception when Rains was secretary of state. Dickson asked if a Texas Supreme Court justice had been turned away at the door because he didn't have a ticket.

"I did not operate the front door, and I certainly would never have turned away a Supreme Court justice," Rains said.

"Just about everybody came down there ... it certainly was not an exclusive thing," he said.

"But you had to have a ticket and had to be invited by you," Dickson said. "My wife didn't get in."

"I don't ever recall any tickets being printed," Rains said. "There was obviously a misunderstanding, and to the extent that you and your wife, or anyone else was offended, accept my public apology."

Dickson also questioned Rains about the Commerce Department's expenditures and possible conflicts of interest between Rains' law firm and his role with the department.

He also asked about a published statement in which Rains purportedly referred to certain judges as "clowns," including Harley Clark, who wrote the original decision in the current school finance case.

"I think he (Clark) overreached," Rains said.

Rains was appointed by then-Gov. Bill Clements to the board in August to fill the unexpired term of John Roach of Fort Worth, who resigned. The term ends Feb. 1, 1993. Rains had lost a race for governor in the Republican Party primary in March.

Rains, who served as secretary of state from 1987 through 1989, is in private law practice in Houston.

A former chairman of 3D-International, Rains also has served as director of the Houston Chamber of Commerce and the Greater Houston Convention and Visitors Council. More recently, Rains served on the host committee of the Economic Summit of Industrialized Nations.

In other action Tuesday, the Nominations Committee approved the following nominees, by county:

Texas Board of Mental Health and Mental Retardation - Virginia Eernisse, Brazoria; Ann Utley, Dallas; Edward Weyman, Midland.

Texas Board of Health - Dr. Ron Anderson, Dallas; Dr. Susan Place, Collin.

State Conservatorship Board - Georgina Gonzalez, Harris; William Kilgarlin, Travis; Joseph Phillips, Hidalgo.

BY BOB WEAR

All of us, whatever the age, need better examples and we need to be better examples. This seems to be a special need among younger people, and therefore, a special responsibility among older people. When we are sincerely interested in the young and when we desire the best for them, we will do well to remember that there is one very important thing we can do for them. We may not be able to do all that we would like to do to help the young, our own and others, but we can do the one thing that they need the most, and will probably be most helpful to them; we can be good examples in human behavior.

Much is being written and said; and all kinds of advice is being given daily, and, so far as I know, all of it is justified. The question is, concerning those of us who give the advice, how many of us are demonstrating how it works. Do we live what we preach? Are we still trying to support and justify the statement, "Don't do as I do, but do as I say"? You and I know that this is ineffective.

Many of the serious problems about which our society seems to be concerned will never be solved, and the situation will never be any better, until the older people, adults, begin providing the right role models. This might not solve everything that seems to be out of shape, but it would most certainly make a difference, and would make life better for the young. We must realize that there is no sure or approved way to avoid suffering the consequences for the wrongs being done. We must continue to reap as we sow.

Better examples in every unit of human society will do for us what all of the good advice is not accomplishing.

Council meeting held and Georgina Nell Bishop. Serving as groomsmen were Mike and Bill Harrell.

The couple resides in Georgetown. The bride is a graduate of Georgetown High School where she was active in FHA. While attending Hereford High School where he graduated, the bridegroom was active in band and was a member of the varsity track team.

Public invited to workshop

Those interested in pursuing their family history are extended a special invitation to attend a workshop set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 18, in the Hereford Community Center game room. The event is sponsored by members of the Deaf Smith County Genealogical Society.

Sylvia Murray of Amarillo will speak during the second of a continuing series of workshops to assist beginners as well as advanced researchers.

Indiana and Illinois will be the topics for discussion but what applies there basically applies in other states as well. Murray is well qualified and will answer questions on problems of all kinds.

Those planning to attend the workshop are asked to bring pencil and paper. A donation of $2 is recommended to cover the cost of handouts.

If you like puzzles, mysteries, brain-teasers, finding answers, then you should enjoy genealogy. If you have ever wondered why you came to be born, where you were born or why your parents or grandparents left their native soil, you should enjoy genealogy. If you have wondered what part your forbearers played in making history, then genealogy should be of interest.

The fun part of family history is the chase, putting the puzzle together, solving the mystery and expanding knowledge of your origins. If your family has passed down traditions or family tales about some relative in by-gone days, haven't you ever wanted to know more about that person and exactly what your relationships is to him?

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A Texas Ranger who says he was promised $70,000 to teach actor Nick Nolte how to act like one of the fabled lawmen has dropped his lawsuit against the companies that made the 1987 film "Extreme Prejudice."

But Ranger Joaquin Jackson said in a motion filed Monday in federal court that he will continue to press his civil lawsuit against Nolte.

Dropped as defendants were Tri-Star Pictures, Inc., Extreme Prejudice Productions, Inc., and Carolco Pictures, Inc.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been reading your column for well over 20 years, first in the Philadelphia Inquirer, then the Toledo Blade and now in the Sacramento Bee.

The best column you ever wrote was the Twelve rules for a Happy Marriage. I cut it out and sent copies to each of my six married grandchildren. I then made extra copies for the three grandchildren who aren't married yet but will be one day.

I wish you would run it again, Ann. Your audience changes every few years and if some folks remember it, so what? Sometimes people have to see something a few times before it soaks in.

Thanks for all the arguments you've settled and the fights you've prevented. Sign me--Your No. 1 Fan in California

DEAR NO. 1: What a day brightener. Here are the Twelve Rules for a Happy Marriage.

TWELVE RULES FOR A HAPPY MARRIAGE

1. Never both be angry at once.
2. Never yell at each other unless the house is on fire.
3. Yield to the wishes of the other as an exercise in self-discipline, if you can't think of a better reason.
4. If you have a choice between making yourself or your mate look good--choose your mate.
5. If you feel you must criticize, do so lovingly.
6. Never bring up a mistake of the past.
7. Neglect the whole world rather than each other.
8. Never let the day end without saying at least one complimentary thing to your life partner.
9. Never meet without an affectionate greeting.
10. When you've made a mistake, talk it out and ask for forgiveness.
11. Remember, it takes two to make an argument. The one who is wrong is the one who will be doing most of the talking.
12. Never go to bed mad.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Three years ago our son was born with flaming red hair. His older sister's hair is dark brown, like my husband's and mine, but several members on both sides of the family are redheads. We are aware the gene that produces red hair color is a recessive one, which means it can skip a generation or two. When Billy arrived with that flaming crown of glory, we were not surprised.

So what's the problem? I can't go anywhere with this kid without attracting a lot of attention and being asked the same dumb questions: "Where did he get that hair?" "Is your husband a redhead?" "Does he have a temper?" I've considered having a T-shirt made for him with the message, "Yes, I know my hair is red. Now please leave me alone."

Any suggestions on how to deal with this?--Seeing Red in Tennessee

DEAR SEEING RED: You are not going to change the public's reaction to Billy's red hair so you'd better change your attitude, because Billy is sure to attract attention for a long time. Of course it's boring and bothersome but please try to be pleasant and patient. When you respond in an angry and combative way, you teach your child to do the same, and this will not help him in life.

Retirement topic of program

"Retirement What I Thought It Would Be-Retirement What It Is" was the program presented by Margaret Bell when members of the Hereford Retired School Employees Association held their regular monthly meeting Monday in the Hereford Senior Citizens Center. Music lovers and opera supporters in Hereford may telephone the Clint Formbys at 364-3589 for invitations to the ball, for information on Bravo membership and/or the March 15-17 performances of Fledermaus.

Performance dates are Friday, March 15, and Saturday, March 16, at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday, March 17, at 2:30 p.m. at the Amarillo Little Theatre. The opera is performed in English and the cost is $7.50 per person. Bravo members are entitled to tickets as part of their membership but must make reservations.

Herd bows to Borger in last game

The Hereford High School boys' basketball team closed the season with a 64-49 loss in Borger.

The varsity ended up with an overall record of 9-19.

The game was a little closer than the score looks. The Bulldogs did not break out on top until very late in the third quarter, when a pair of three-point shots allowed them to go to the break with a 44-37 lead.

Borger scored the first nine points of the game, but led only 14-7 after one quarter. Hereford answered the Bulldogs streak by scoring the first eight points of the second quarter, but Hereford led only briefly. Borger came back to lead 26-24 at the half.

Richard Sanderson took high-scoring honors for the Whitefaces with 21. Leo Brown followed with 14 and Andrew Tijerina had 10 in his last high school game.

Borger JV 53, Hereford JV 45

The Herd had its chances to win this game but couldn't.

In the end, the shots wouldn't fall for Hereford and, despite Borger hitting only four out of eight free throws in the final minute, the Whitefaces couldn't catch up.

The two teams combined for 41 points in a frantic first quarter in which Hereford's press forced quick turnovers early in the period but allowed easy lay-ups late. The first quarter ended with Borger up 21-20. The second quarter was the complete opposite, with both teams seemingly walking everywhere. Hereford scored eight to Borger's four and led 28-25 at the half.

After three periods, the Herd still led 37-36, but Borger scored the first seven points of the fourth quarter to take the lead for good. Hereford pulled within two points with under three minutes but couldn't get over that hump.

Kyle Hansen had 18 points for the Whitefaces and Mark Kreighshauer added 10.

Hereford sophomores 59, Borger 56

This one was close all the way. The teams tied at 14 after one quarter, and Hereford led 31-29 and 42-37 after the second and third periods, respectively.

Borger took the lead early in the fourth, but the Herd took it back with six minutes left.

The two teams were tied as late as with 2:30 left in the game, but Whitefaces hit two consecutive lay-ups to take the lead and 3 of 5 free throws to stay ahead.

Borger had the ball at the end with a chance to tie with a three-point shot, but they didn't get one off.

Greg Coplen led the Whitefaces with 22 points, Reuben Gutierrez had 16 and Jason Tatarovich had 10.

Almost a clean block

Hereford's Derek Mason (34) blocks a Borger player's shot, but was called for the foul. Watching for the rebound are Chris Steward (22) and Andrew Tijerina (50). Hereford lost its last game of the year to Borger 64-49.

Bromlow to SFA

Hereford High School senior Matt Bromlow, the Whitefaces' career leader in rushing yardage, signed a letter of intent to play football at Stephen F. Austin State University in Nacogdoches.

Bromlow chose SFA because the coaches said he would have an opportunity to play as a freshman, because the Lumberjacks played in Division I-A and because they have a good program, he said. He will play running back, he said. "We're proud he'll get an opportunity to play (at SFA)," Hereford football coach Don Cumpston said.

"He's been a great running back for us the last two years," Cumpston said. "He set the single-season and the career rushing records here so I think he'll be a great college player."

Younger Ryan just like father

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Was there any doubt?

Reid Ryan, son of baseball's all-time strikeout leader, made his collegiate debut Tuesday for No. 6 Texas. Naturally, Nolan's kid struck out the first batter he faced.

"It was exciting," the 19-year-old freshman said. "I've been itching, waiting to get in. It was neat."

Ryan's first victim was a friend, Shayne Curran of Texas-Arlington. In the summer, Curran is a bullpen catcher for the Texas Rangers, the team Nolan pitches for.

"I was kind of nervous, but it wasn't the kind of scared nervous, it was just being excited," Reid said. "It had been a while since I had pitched to a batter. Getting that first strike over was the most important thing."

Ryan, using a fastball clocked at 85 mph and a good, overhand curveball, pitched two innings in relief as Texas won the second game of a doubleheader 10-3. He gave up one run and two singles and struck out two. Texas-Arlington won the opener 5-3.

Ryan's father, who has attended a couple of the Longhorns' games, did not make the 150-mile drive from the family home in Alvin to Austin for the debut, even though Texas coach Cliff Gustafson told him his son might pitch.

"He just has so many demands on his time, it's hard for him to get here on short notice," Gustafson said.

The two Ryans will see each other April 2. They will be the starting pitchers when the Longhorns play the Rangers in an exhibition game.

Ryan and Gustafson each have been careful not to put too much pressure on the young right-hander, who has a motion similar to his dad. Besides, there's enough already.

With Texas leading by a lot in the second game, Reid began warming up in the bullpen far down the left-field line. When Gustafson signaled for No. 15 - Reid did not copy his father's famous No. 34 - a hush fell over the crowd of about 750.

The public-address announcer at Disch-Falk Stadium didn't even introduce the new pitcher. Then, again, most everyone left at the ballpark knew who it was, anyway.

Gustafson, who coached Roger Clemens and other future major leaguers like Greg Swindell, Calvin Schiraldi, Spike Owen and Billy Bates at Texas, has no plans to put Ryan in the rotation right away. Rather, he wants to give him a chance to develop without demanding too much.

Gustafson liked what he saw in Ryan's debut. The coach plans to put him on the traveling squad for a series at Arizona State this weekend.

"It was a good one for the first time out," Gustafson said. "Our plan has always been to bring Reid along slowly. His fastball has some spark to it."

UTEP charges detailed

EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Texas-El Paso basketball coaches tutored a recruit, provided free lodging and transportation to players and made illegal recruiting visits, the NCAA alleges.

UTEP officials pledged in a Tuesday news conference that they would investigate the accusations themselves before responding to the allegations.

"We do want to find out if these are indeed true and that takes an investigation on our part," said Athletic Director Brad Hovious.

The school appointed attorney Ricardo Aduato III to look into the allegations. UTEP President Diana Natalicio said Aduato, her assistant, was present at many of the interviews conducted by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

"The real point here is that there has been 14 months of speculation about various incidents, some of which may not have occurred or may have been exaggerated. I think our job now is to sort out all of these facts," Ms. Natalicio said.

UTEP has until May 7 to respond to the list of 13 allegations.

Don Haskins, Miners coach for 30 years, was not at the news conference. He also was not at his office just prior to a 2 p.m. basketball practice. His secretary said he and other coaches were referring media questions to Aduato.

"We didn't invite him," Ms. Natalicio said when asked why Haskins was absent.

Hovious and Ms. Natalicio said they take very seriously all of the infractions, which would have occurred from 1986-1989. Some of the more serious allegations are:

- An assistant coach is accused of tutoring recruit John Staggers to prepare him for three separate General Equivalency Diploma exams. The coach also is accused of arranging for the athlete to retake the test when Staggers was unqualified and enrolling him in a federally-funded GED preparation class for migrant workers and their families.

- The men's basketball staff allegedly arranged for a booster to pay a prospective player for work done at the booster's home. The booster, identified by a former player as restaurateur Mike Dacuble, is accused of paying $300 in cash for 10 hours work. The NCAA said the scholarship athlete received 10 more payments totaling between $900 and $1,300 during 1988. Dacuble was not at his restaurant when called Tuesday for comment.

- A coach twice lied to the NCAA enforcement staff about providing transportation numerous times to prospective and enrolled players and a prospective player's mother.

- A university athletic department official gave a player a round-trip airline ticket home. Former player Rodney McKoy has said he was given a free airline ticket.

- Basketball coaches made in-person, off-campus recruiting visits to two prospective players.

- Boosters provided use of cars without cost to players.

- The NCAA said the university poorly monitors and controls the program and has failed to educate athletics department staff members, students, athletes and boosters on NCAA rules.

- Ms. Natalicio said a more detailed list of the allegations will be released after it is reviewed by UT System attorneys for privacy matters.

- Ms. Natalicio would not say what action would be taken against Haskins or assistant coaches if the allegations prove true.

- The NCAA investigation began in December 1989 after former Miner players told newspapers in New York and Los Angeles about the alleged violations.

- The reports were denied by Haskins and Hovious, who earlier said they conducted their own investigation and found no wrongdoing.

- Hovious, athletic director since July 1987, and Ms. Natalicio, UTEP president since 1988, emphasized that they have a program to educate staff, players and boosters about NCAA rules.

The NCAA Infractions Committee will review UTEP's response at its June 27-30 meeting in Monterrey, Calif.

UTEP cannot be hit with the "death penalty," even though its track and field program was found guilty of major NCAA violations in 1986. A school can be given the death penalty if found guilty of two major violations within five years. That time period runs out for UTEP on June 13.

PUB NAMES

LONDON (AP) - The British love great racehorses and they don't like to forget them.

A number of English pubs are named for star runners of the past. The Red Rum in Grimethorpe is named for a two-time winner of the Grand National. The Brigadier Gerard has branches in York and Southampton. It is named for 1972 runner who lost only one race in 18 tries.

The Flying Dutchman recalls the 1849 Epsom Derby winner and the Brown Jack has a motif entirely devoted to racing.

Lakers' streak ends at 16

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Lakers' winning streak was so long that even the Portland Trail Blazers started looking over their shoulders.

Blazers coach Rick Adelman found his team watching the Lakers-Phoenix Suns game on television Tuesday night and told his players, "Let's worry about Portland. Let's not worry about Phoenix and the Lakers."

The Lakers, who made up 5 1/2 games in the Pacific Division standings during their 16-game winning streak, took a step backward against the Suns, losing 99-95 at Phoenix while Portland defeated Philadelphia 121-106.

Kevin Johnson scored 10 of his 35 points in the final 8:13 and Tom Chambers hit a tie-breaking hook shot with 28 seconds left.

"I guess you can call us 'streak busters' now," said Phoenix center Mark West, who had 13 rebounds.

Jeff Hornacek added 23 points for the Suns while Chambers finished with 18.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Charlotte 100, Dallas 92; New York 114, Indiana 110; Cleveland 94, Miami 78; Orlando 129, Denver 122; Chicago 122, Atlanta 113; San Antonio 102, Washington 92; Utah 113, Houston 92; Boston 114, Seattle 111; Golden State 126, Minnesota 105; and Sacramento 103, the Los Angeles Clippers 101.

Sam Perkins scored 26 points and James Worthy 21 for the Lakers.

Perkins' turnaround jumper tied the game for the 10th time, 95-95 with 36 seconds remaining. Chambers then sank a 10-foot, left-handed hook to put Phoenix ahead to stay.

Trail Blazers 121, 76ers 106
Buck Williams scored 11 points and Terry Portland nine of his 22 for Portland in the decisive third quarter, which ended with a 31-9 surge.

Charles Barkley scored 27 points and Hersey Hawkins had 24 for Philadelphia. Clyde Drexler had 21 points for the Blazers.

Celtics 114, SuperSonics 111
Reggie Lewis scored 24 of his 30 points in the second half, including the go-ahead basket with 3:32 left.

Lewis gave the Celtics a 103-101 lead with a 10-footer. Larry Bird's two free throws with 11.5 seconds to go made it 114-111, and Seattle rookie Gary Payton missed a 3-point attempt with four seconds left.

Warriors 126, Timberwolves 105

Chris Mullin scored 30 points and Tim Hardaway 29, and Golden State opened a 27-point third-quarter lead.

Tyrone Corbin had a season-high 31 points and Tony Campbell 23 points, but they were the only Timberwolves in double figures.

Bulls 122, Hawks 113
Michael Jordan scored 32 points and Horace Grant 23.

Dominique Wilkins scored 37 points and Spud Webb a career-high 30 for the Hawks, who rallied from an 11-point deficit midway through the fourth quarter to trail 107-105 with 4:35 left.

The Bulls responded with consecutive baskets by Bill Cartwright, Grant and B.J. Armstrong.

Spurs 102, Bullets 92
Willie Anderson scored 22 points and David Robinson 20.

The Spurs outscored the Bullets 13-4 at the start of the fourth quarter for a 20-point lead.

Ledell Eckles led all scorers with 24 points for the Bullets.

Jazz 113, Rockets 92
John Stockton had 19 points, 11 assists and a career-high nine steals.

Seven of Thurl Bailey's nine fourth-quarter points came during a 21-6 spurt at the start of the period.

Kings 103, Clippers 101
Travis Mays scored on a 15-foot jumper as time expired.

Rookie Lionel Simmons scored a career-high 33 points for the Kings, while Antoine Carr scored 26 points and blocked a career-high seven shots.

Magic 129, Nuggets 122
Scott Skiles scored 12 of his 33 points in the fourth quarter, while Jerry Reynolds had 14 of his 26 in the period, which started with the Nuggets ahead 92-87.

The Nuggets, who got 35 points from Chris Jackson, led 110-106 with 6:18 remaining, but the Magic outscored Denver 23-12 the rest of the way.

The Cavaliers opened the second half with a 10-2 run that featured two baskets and two assists by Daugherty.

With Owens back, Syracuse's treys down Providence

By The Associated Press
As soon as Syracuse's beleaguered basketball team got back inside the Carrier Dome, the Orangemen took it right back outside.

Seventh-ranked Syracuse, this time showing no ill effects from its recent off-the-court turmoil, switched strategy Tuesday night and beat Providence 101-83.

In their first home game since seven players were briefly suspended, the Orangemen disdained their usual power game. Rather than relying on the front line of Billy Owens, LeRon Ellis and Dave Johnson, Syracuse matched its best-ever 3-point effort by making 10 shots from long range.

"We just came out to play and we started hitting 3s. Then it was just one after another," Syracuse guard Michael Edwards said.

In other games, No. 11 Kansas beat Missouri 74-70, Seton Hall stung No. 22 Pittsburgh 83-73 and No. 24 Texas held off Rice 65-64.

Last Saturday, a day after Owens and six others were suspended and then reinstated, Syracuse struggled for a one-point victory over an overmatched Notre Dame.

Against Providence, Syracuse appeared to have blocked out the problems that resulted in a university investigation into the men's basketball program. The Orangemen scored more than 100 points in a Big East game for the first time this season and looked like league leaders, which they are.

The Orangemen made 7 of 9 3-pointers in building a 13-point first-half lead. They finished 10 of 16, tying their all-time high of 10 set against U.S. International in 1988.

"It hurt us a lot," Providence's Eric Murdock said. "We came into the game worried about their three big men - LeRon, DJ and Billy Owens."

"We wanted to concentrate on stopping those guys," he said. "Then when we'd double down, they'd kick it out and hit some big shots."

For the second time this season, the Orangemen held Murdock below his league-leading average of 28.7, limiting the senior to just 16 points.

Owens finished with 25 points and Johnson and Edwards each added 19. Marques Bragg led the Friars with 20 points.

No. 24 Texas 65, Rice 64
Texas, back in the national rankings this week for the first time since December, survived a last-second scramble to win its 10th straight game.

Benford Williams' basket with 1:15 left accounted for Texas' final points. The Longhorns and Rice each committed two turnovers after that, with Texas' Dexter Campbell missing a layup with seven seconds to go and Rice's Sam Cambell missing a short shot at the buzzer.

Joey Wright led the Longhorns with 19 points. Brent Scott scored 24 for Rice.

No. 11 Kansas 74, Missouri 70
After both teams spent most of the game missing foul shots, Terry Brown made three free throws in the final 45 seconds to lift Kansas to its ninth straight victory.

Kansas shot just 27 of 44 from the foul line. Missouri made only 21 of 36.

Doug Smith's layup with 45 seconds left pulled Missouri within 69-67. Brown, who led the Jayhawks with 18 points, followed with one foul shot and added two more with 28 seconds to go.

Smith scored 23 points for the Tigers.

Seton Hall 83, No. 22 Pittsburgh 73
Terry Dehere scored 25 points, Anthony Avent had 21 and Seton Hall shut down Pitt's Brian Shorter.

Shorter, averaging 14 points per game, was held to two points on 1-for-5 shooting.

NAC EXPANDS
ORONO, Maine (AP) - The North Atlantic Conference will expand with the start of the 1991-92 sports season. The league members have approved the addition of the University of Delaware and Drexel University.

Current members include Boston University, the University of Hartford, the University of Maine, the University of New Hampshire, the University of Vermont and Northeastern University. League members also voted to establish championships in six sports effective with the 1991-92 academic year. The NAC already has eight title sports for men and six for women.

Penske back in Winston Cup

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - For Roger Penske, NASCAR Winston Cup racing is unfinished business.

Penske, the winningest car owner in the Indianapolis 500 and in Indy-car racing, left the premier stock car series in 1980 after a relatively brief fling that saw his team come up with five victories in 103 races.

Now he is back, with driver Rusty Wallace and longtime friend and business colleague Don Miller as partners.

"The right combination is there," Penske said while Wallace practiced for Sunday's Daytona 500 on the 2.5-mile, high-banked Daytona International Speedway oval in the team's Pontiac Grand Prix. "You have to have a quarterback and Rusty is one of a handful of drivers in the garage area that if you have them on a long-term basis, you can really form something."

Penske's diversified business empire, keyed by the privately owned, Penske Corporation, which has truck, leasing and diesel motor companies and auto dealerships as its mainstays, was the reason he left stock car racing as well as the reason he has come back.

"We were just starting our business (in 1980)," Penske explained. "We were running at one point IROC, Formula One, NASCAR and Indy. When you think about all that, it was quite an undertaking. It was a business decision (to leave NASCAR), other than the fact that I had high regard for Rusty and Don, there was a business reason that I decided to come back."

"One of our strongest markets for our truck leasing business is the Southeast. We probably have 15,000 trucks running in the NASCAR market area."

Penske, whose Indy-car team has won eight national championships, 64 races - including seven Indy 500s - and 89 poles, said the experience Penske Racing brings from that arena should help the new team considerably.

"I think technically we're going to be able to take some of the things we've learned from the Indy-car side, and that will help. The aerodynamic things we learn from our Indy program may also help.

"I don't understand the stock cars as well. When you can put two cents worth of tape across the grill and go 2 miles an hour (in qualifying), that's something. We may work for months in a wind tunnel on an Indy car to go 2 miles an hour quicker. There must be something else you can do to the (stock) car to gain 2 miles an hour.

Peace-lovers win game

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) - Illinois State coach Bob Bender was proud of the way his reserves defeated Chicago State by staying on the bench.

Eleven Cougars were ejected from Tuesday night's game after a fight, forcing them to forfeit to the Redbirds halfway through their contest.

"The first thing we tried to do was to make sure our bench didn't come out. We tried to separate our kids that were on the court," Bender said after his team came away with a 39-23 victory Tuesday.

The fight broke out with one second remaining in the first half. And when all but two Chicago State players were tossed out of the game, Chicago State was declared the loser. No injuries were reported.

One player for Illinois State (5-18) was ejected after the fray, which ended a first half that had seen two technical fouls against Chicago State

We need to find out how." Wallace has won 18 races and the 1989 Winston Cup title but is coming off a disappointing season in which he won only two races and finished sixth in the standings.

Add to that the fact that new teams generally take at least half a season to get it all together and it could be a somewhat frustrating season for Penske, who is used to success.

"What I really want to do is just try and make a good showing," Penske said. "I want to be as professional as we can and try to be a good addition to the sport. We need to gain the respect of our peers. ... But we're not in this for just one season. We're in it for a long period of time."

Wallace, whose best efforts in eight Daytona 500 starts have been a pair of seventh-place finishes, was 17th overall during the three days of time trials that ended Tuesday, setting the 29-car lineup for Thursday's Twin 125-mile qualifying races.

A video replay showed Van grabbing Taylor around the neck, instigating the fisticuffs.

Referee Dan Chrisman said Van "committed a flagrant foul ... then two other Chicago State players who were in the game got involved and were subsequently ejected for fighting."

"The bench personnel from Chicago State left the bench area, which immediately disqualified them from further participation. As a result, only two Chicago State players remained eligible, and the game was suspended," Chrisman said.

Just before the halftime buzzer sounded, Illinois State's Scott Taylor and Chicago State's Derrick Van dived for a rebound at the corner of the court near the Redbirds' bench. The pair went down with Van on top of Taylor and the fight erupted.

Exotic game roam range on Blankenship spread

Sidney Blankenship trying to return and preserve animals to native land

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

Sidney Blankenship is putting back what others took away--remnants of the West long before the Big Fifties, the lariat or plows.

These relics of the past are not in the form of molded lead or hammered steel but living specimens of wildlife which once roamed the Plains of North America, from the Arctic to the Panama.

Drive through the cattleguard on the Blankenship spread and you drive back in time a hundred years and more, perhaps a millennium and more. Caliche replaces the ribbon of asphalt as a narrow ranch road drops from the summit of Deaf Smith County into a grass-covered bowl formed by Nature during the last Ice Age.

A second gateway opens to the Blankenship headquarters which is guarded by a snow-white gazebo and a family of watch-dogs that's nothing less than a living security system--a maximum living security system.

Other than modest renovations and an addition or two, not much has changed in the exterior of the old ranch house since it was put together back at the turn of the century. But beyond the sidewalks and concrete drives the songs of the prairie meadowlarks blend with real purrs of real lions. A black bear cuts little capers for attention while off to the west a giant white ram stands his ground with a jealous eye on two white ewes.

A dainty fawn frolicked in the morning sun, not knowing that her ancestors once roamed this very sod in massive herds. And right in the middle of it all came a set of javelina (wild hogs) squealing for tidbits from their owner. Though still quite common in South Texas and parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas, wild hogs are a rare sight in the Texas Panhandle. As result of their skinny profile in the wild, these hogs are commonly referred to as "razorbacks" and have gained national recognition as mascot on the gridiron for Arkansas.

But the big surprise is down at the bottom of the Blankenship Bowl where a herd of massive buffalo revel in a pampered animal lifestyle equal to that of household pets. A giant roundtop barn nearly the size of a football field provide year-around shelter for this family of buffalo whose ancestors were counted in steel fencing to allow adequate ventilation during inclement weather.

So-called exotic game farming and ranching is the fastest growing segment of the livestock industry in Texas. Some are used for hunting preserves, while others are being set up as something close to privately-owned zoos in natural habitats. As budget-minded leaders of many Texas cities continue to squeeze metro park funds, country landowner are taking advantage of the asphalt situation and offering a breath of fresh air to their city cousins...for a handsome fee, no less.

Being true descendants from prehistoric times is first and foremost in Blankenships wildlife program. And he sees the buffalo as a potential dollar return on part of his wildlife investment. But monetary return at this point in the program has been secondary. He underwrites his love for big cats, big bears and big bulls with an 800-acre farm which he and his brother, Morris Lee Blankenship, own in partnership.

"When they were little, they didn't cost very much to feed but then they grew up and it became a different story," said Blankenship, while recalling how he nursed several of the animals on the bottle and trained them all to eat from his hand. "In addition to the buffalo, about all of my animals are now about ready to start bearing their first off-spring. I can see where there would be a potential income out in the future as my animal families grow. But I didn't start all of this to make money...I started it as a small effort to return and help preserve some of the animals to their native land."

Blankenship is a true conservationist. Just a hint of hunting preserves brings a negative response. Blankenship's desire has been to return a portion of the primitive West to the Space Age West.

"Basically, I'm trying to keep my animal families to those native of the Great Plains," said Blankenship. "But some will include animal families of North America which probably never made it to the Plains."

Blankenship was referring to the "North American" category as such animals as the Dahl Sheep, snow-white animals native of Alaska, and the Alaskan Snow Fox, a white furry animal closely resembling the modern-day American Eskimo (Spitz) dogs. Contrary to earlier prehistoric studies, it is now believed that even the so-called African Lion may have been a dominant force in North America. The new theories are results of archeological digs in California.

The sons of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weldon Blankenship, Sidney Duane and his older brother, Morris Lee, grew up on this Deaf Smith County stock farm headquartered only about 5 minutes south of the Oldham County line some 40 miles northwest of Hereford. While Morris Lee elected to sort of follow his father's footsteps of raising cattle, grain sorghum and wheat, Sidney moved into international circles of Theology.

After graduating from Adrian High School in 1962, Sidney attended Abilene Christian College at Abilene, Tx., and at that point in time he stood at the crossroads of life, trying to decide whether to pursue a career in law or advanced studies in Theology--academically, he qualified for both. He chose Theology and the following fall he enrolled at the University of Edinburgh at Edinburgh, Scotland, where the Texas farm boy launched a search for knowledge in the doctrines of religions of the world.

After Edinburgh came Oxford, one of the world's greatest centers of learning about 60 miles out of London. At Oxford, Blankenship moved even further into the depths of theology...studying one-on-one under tutorage instruction common to Oxford--mind-boggling sessions that bring new questions on old subjects, informative but needless in man's search for the Beginning.

After finishing his studies at Oxford, Blankenship returned to his Deaf Smith County home in 1970. The decade of the 1970s found Blankenship between Texas and the West Coast where at one point in time he conducted advanced research for Ivy League universities of the East.

In 1980, Blankenship returned to Texas to stay, to get another toehold on a family heritage that was as rich as the soil they farmed. And three years later, he bought his first buffalo calf...the beginning of a new lifestyle on an old farmstead.

Though the Blankenships didn't dig the first posthole or nail the first plank on this Deaf Smith County homestead, they have a Texas heritage that dates back more than 100 years. According to family records, the Blankenships migrated from Alabama to Hill County, Texas, in the late 1800s following the Civil War.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Blankenship, Morris Weldon "Webb" Blankenship was born near Hillsboro, but a few years later his parents moved to a farm near Abilene. As the family grew, the Blankenships decided to move to Denton where the children would have easier access to a state teacher's college.

"Dad told us that he could give each of us children two years of college and that would be it--take it or leave it," Blankenship recalled. "So, I took it and went two years to North Texas State Teacher's College, as it was called back then, and got my teacher's certificate."

But by this point in time it was 1932 and the Great Depression was in full swing across America. Instead of teaching school Blankenship decided to head for New Mexico where a brother-in-law had wrote and offered him a job helping on his sheep ranch south of Clayton--"One dollar a day and my room and board."

With $15 in his pocket, Blankenship headed on foot toward Clayton. But by the time he got to Iowa Park, the role of a hobo had got pretty tiring so he bought a $6 bus ticket to Amarillo. But the chips weren't falling too well for Blankenship. A few miles out of Iowa Park, the bus dropped a tie-rod, crashed into a ditch and stalled out. Blankenship was back on the road looking for a ride.

Once in Amarillo, he teamed up with another hitchhiker who said free lodging could be found down at City Hall. The free room turned out to be a locked jail cell packed with some 40 other hungry hikers. The next sunrise found Blankenship being escorted to the city limits by a deputy. But Blankenship sneaked back into town and bought a one-way train ticket to Clayton with his last few bucks.

In Clayton, Blankenship found that his brother-in-law, Jim Bledsoe, had lost his ranch and sheep to foreclosure, but in the meantime, Bledsoe had come up with an oil reclaiming outfit that would clean used crankcase oil.

But the oil deal soon fizzled--plenty of oil but few buyers. So, the Bledsoes and Blankenship packed up and moved to Albuquerque. But almost the same situation was found in Albuquerque--no sellers and no buyers.

Bledsoe headed back to Texas to join relatives near Lubbock in the livestock business. And a few days later, Blankenship left his sister in Albuquerque and headed back to Texas, once again bumming, but this time with only 90 cents to his name.

Here, on the Plains of Eastern New Mexico in the middle of winter, he learned the true value of vacant gas stations and the tasty goodness of boiled wheat--the proven fact that 15 cents would buy supper for three...snow-melt blended with canned milk goes a long way with baloney and bread when it's zero at Moriarty.

Within a year, Bledsoe had regrouped his finances in the sheep business, but this time he was headquartered out of Petersburg on the South Plains. With Blankenship as his foreman Bledsoe expanded his grazing north into Parmer, Castro and Deaf Smith counties. His flocks numbered several thousand.

Taking 100 head of ewes as partial pay for back-wages, Blankenship followed the Bledsoe flocks for the next five years and while on a sheep-grazing run southeast into Ponder, in 1937, he met his future wife--Audrey Jewel Brooks. Bledsoe and Blankenship also dissolved their partnership that same winter and in the fall of 1938 Morris and Audrey Blankenship set up housekeeping in a rented one-room of a ranch house about 2 miles east of their present-day headquarters.

With 250 ewes, a pickup and a line of credit, Blankenship went into the sheep business on his own in 1939. In August 1940, the Blankenships moved into their present home under a lease agreement with Maude and Jessie Malone of Hereford for 1132 acres of grass and farmland.

For the next 22 years, the Blankenships leased the Malone land and in 1962 they purchased the original acreage. By this point in time, the farm couple were also operating a general mercantile store in the old Simms Community which is now located on the southeast edge of their land. Following 20 years in the mercantile business, they closed up shop and now use the old store for storage. They wrapped up the sheep business in 1949.

Through the years, the Blankenships expanded their holdings in almost all directions with the original headquarters unit which now totalling 2700 acres. A rise in the landscape about a half mile north of the Blankenship home is believed to be the highest point in Deaf Smith County. Sydney and Morris Lee's partnership farm lies to the west and Morris owns seven quarters of his own in addition to the family homeplace.

While Sydney makes his home with his parents, Morris Lee and his wife, Sandra make their home in a rambling brick ranchhouse a half-mile to the east, accented on the south by an airplane hanger. They have four children--Jerrod, Jetta, Jason and Janice.

In addition to landscaping handsome habitats for his animal families, Sydney has also planted hundreds of trees through the years. Rows of Junipers are trimmed into delicate designs while a tulip bed forms a subtle partition between the hogs and the bears. All of the animal families have their own habitat, with only the sheep and the deer allowed to run together.

"The only tree around when we moved here was that scrubby looking thing out there in the back yard," said Morris, as he pointed to a scrubby looking thing that looked like tamarack. "Sydney planted every tree and every flower out there. He also built the gazebo."

"I'll betcha there's 15 miles of underground sprinkler works right here in our backyard."

When Sydney is not working on his animal habitats on the outside, he's on the inside catching up on bookwork that goes with keeping wild animal in captivity.

"Anyone wanting to get into this kind of work should check into it before they acquire any animals," said Sydney, as he thumbed through pages upon pages of meticulous records on each and every animal. "There are many laws that dictate what you can and can't do. I didn't know about this in the beginning and it created a lot of headaches. But I think I'm now over the hurdles on about everything."

In addition to such things as permit fees and various state and federal licenses, one must also have the animals checked by a qualified veterinarian at designated intervals. Dr. Aaron Hutto of Hereford handles this specialty work for Sydney. All books and records must be available to game and wildlife officials at all times.

Sydney also finds time to write on his philosophies of life and spends much of his spare time in a rambling study that stretches the full length of the house. He also has a complete darkroom with much high-tech photo equipment required for the processing of color film.

In casual conversations, Sydney frequently refers to his various species of animals as "families"--telling of their likes and dislikes...their good points and bad points.

"I guess one of the main things that one should always remember about wild animals is that they're totally unpredictable," said Sydney. "I guess you could say my desire to understand animals perhaps goes back to my studies on Hinduism at Oxford."

Woman's Health

By George D. Malkasian, M.D.
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

It can come as a jolt to parents—the first signs that your child is growing up. Before you know it, once-girlish and boyish bodies start to change into young women and young men, and interest shifts from bikes and slumber parties to clothes and cars and the opposite sex.

From the adult perspective, puberty seems to be a natural stage of growing up. But it is important to remember that for youths, these transition years can be awkward and confusing. During this period, young people need support and reassurance about their changing bodies and feelings.

Mothers play a special role in helping their daughters understand and prepare for the physical and emotional changes of puberty. By sharing your first-hand knowledge about female development, you can make the transition to womanhood easier for your daughter.

Most girls begin adolescent physical development between the ages of 9 and 14. Because the onset of puberty varies, some girls wonder whether they are normal if their development is ahead of or behind that of their friends. You can reassure your daughter that each person's body is unique and will change and grow whenever it is ready.

To help your daughter be more at ease with her changing self, discuss with her the series of developments that she can expect as she enters her teen years. Explain that physically, her breasts will develop, her hips will get broader, and she might have a sudden spurt in growth.

You can tell her that hair will start to grow under her arms and in the pubic area, and she will probably begin to seat more and her hair and skin may feel oilier. She may also have unexplained mood swings.

You will also want to prepare your daughter for her first menstrual period. You might begin by helping her understand the roles that various parts of a woman's body play in reproduction.

Your daughter may already know something about menstruation, but she may have misconceptions and anxieties about the experience. You can help her become more comfortable about menstruation by carefully explaining what to expect, and assuring her that this is a natural monthly occurrence for all women. If your daughter asks questions you can't answer or are uncomfortable with, you can help her find answers in books or through professionals who work with adolescents. The important thing to remember is to be as helpful as you can. Your daughter will appreciate your openness and encouragement as she goes through these awkward years.

Single, free copies of "Growing Up" (AP041) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 409 12th Street, SW, Washington, DC 20024.

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation. The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

VFW Auxiliary Day

President Frances Booth, honored by VFW Auxiliary

On Wednesday, Feb. 27, Frances Booth, national president of VFW Auxiliary, will be in Austin for an official visit. Mayor Wes Fisher has signed a proclamation in honor of Booth declaring Feb. 27 as VFW Auxiliary Day.

On Aug. 24, 1990, Booth became the first person from Maine to serve in the high office of national president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. A resident of Cape Elizabeth, Booth accepted her new duties at the 77th National Convention held in Baltimore, Md.

At the convention she also introduced her 1990-91 theme, "Accepting The Challenge For God And Country." Based on President John F. Kennedy's famous challenge, "Ask not what your country can do for you--ask what you can do for your country," the theme will serve as an inspiration to the 759,388 members around the country as they attempt to surpass all previous program records.

Last year, members raised $3,143,265 for cancer aid and research, served 4,222,145 hours volunteering in hospitals, and presented $52,873 in awards to high school students participating in the Young American Creative Patriotic Art Contest. In all, members donated 30,000,000 and volunteered 21 million hours promoting patriotism, protecting veterans' benefits and serving the community.

Booth has initiated a new award program for the 1990-91 year which will honor two outstanding young people, aged 12-15, who have provided valuable volunteer services in their communities.

She brings extensive leadership experience to her new role, having served in the five national offices leading to the presidency. Last year she represented the national organization on a three-week tour of Europe, visiting NATO, SHAPE, several military bases and the European auxiliaries.

Currently a life member of South Portland Auxiliary #832, she originally joined Auxiliary #7997 where she served two years as auxiliary president. She also served two years as district president and on the state level she was secretary, chief of staff, convention chairman and president. She has served on the National Council of Administration, as National Americanism/Loyalty Day director, as VFW national home director, and as national chairman for the Eastern Conference for the Membership, Buddy Poppy, cancer aid and research and community activities programs.

She is retired from Sears Roebuck where she received the "Outstanding Citizen Award" for her volunteer and community service activities. She volunteers for the Heart Fund, March of Dimes, Multiple Sclerosis, and makes regular visits to the local nursing homes and Noyes Home for the Retarded. She is past nobel of Rebekah Lodge and past chaplain of the Amvets Auxiliary. Active in the Episcopal Church, she has served as guild president, church school superintendent and teacher, and is an associate sister of the Sisters of Holy Nativity.

The Rudolf Friml operetta "Rose Marie" opened on Broadway in 1924.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. What is potato flour? N.M.B., Roachdale, Ind.

A. Potato flour is made from cooked potatoes. Also called potato starch, it's used most often to thicken soups and gravies. As a thickener, use one tablespoon potato flour in place of two tablespoons all-purpose flour.

Potato flour can be blended with wheat flour for breads and cakes, as well. The potato activates fermentation, causing the bread to rise quicker than with a straight wheat bread. Baking time is also significantly less. It can be used for up to 20 percent of the flour in bread. If used in quantities over 20 percent, the dough will be more difficult to shape.

Q. I know that brown sugar can be softened with a piece of apple or a slice of bread. How can I soften granulated white sugar that has hardened? E.M.H., Superior, Wis.

A. Once granulated sugar had hardened, there isn't an easy way to make it flow again. The lumps can be broken up, but if that doesn't work, you may need to discard the sugar.

Q. No matter what kind of pie I make--one crust or two crust--the crust always browns too much before the pie is done. What will prevent this? N.L.B., Paincourtville, La.

A. To avoid the crust browning, mold a strip of aluminum foil to the crust before baking. Bake the pie as directed, removing foil 15 minutes

Tip: Before grating peel from fresh lemons, limes or oranges, scrub the fruit lightly with dish soap and warm water to remove the thin coating of wax. Rinse thoroughly. The wax, similar to the wax on apples or cucumbers, isn't harmful. It's just more appetizing to remove it.

Terri Johnson graduates from certification program

Terri Jan Johnson, secretary for the City of Hereford, was one of 14 people who graduated Jan. 31 from the Texas Municipal Clerks Certification Program conducted at the University of North Texas.

Each graduate spends approximately 200 hours of individual home study on a four-course curriculum and must, in addition, attend eight two-day seminars, accounting for 130 more hours of classroom study. The curriculum, which includes carefully selected texts on a variety of subjects and a number of special readings, offers instruction on such topics as public administration, election law, budgeting and finance, municipal law and personnel management.

The certification program offered at the university, the only university-level professional education program for city clerks and secretaries in Texas, is the third oldest of 33 such programs in the country. The program was also selected in 1984 by the College Board as one of 64 exemplary professional development programs in the United States.

The 69th Texas Legislature adopted H.B. 2092 which gives state sanction to the program and provides that a certificate shall be issued to each person "who successfully completes the program."

The response of city governments to the training offered by the certification program is positive; the cities continue to commit a great deal of released time and travel expense, which attests strongly to the timeliness and quality of the program. Further, the achievements of city secretaries who have graduated from the program are recognized by the city council, the citizens of the communities, and by those who evaluate municipalities for industry location, bond rating agencies, etc.

ROBERT H. LINDSEY, JR. ORTHODONTIST

DR. ROBERT H. LINDSEY, JR. is recognized throughout the area as performing a valuable service for the health and well-being of our citizens. Most of us are born with less than a perfect set of teeth. Aside from a better looking smile - orthodontic treatment has many benefits.

Crowded teeth are hard to clean and may contribute to tooth decay, gum disease and eventual tooth loss. A poor bite can result in abnormal wear of the tooth surface, difficulty in chewing and damage to supporting bone and gum tissue. Jaw joint pain (TMJ) and associated headaches can sometimes be attributed to crooked teeth and uncorrected bites. Orthodontics has progressed a great deal in the past few years and braces are less obvious as a correctional service due to new materials. DR. ROBERT H. LINDSEY, JR. has successfully fitted braces on both adults and children that are designed to be less conspicuous. They specialize ONLY in orthodontics and can completely restructure your smile with little discomfort.

We are pleased to recommend DR. ROBERT H. LINDSEY, JR. Appointments can be made by calling 293-9491, located at 2801 W. 24th St. in Plainview. DR. ROBERT H. LINDSEY, JR. also visits his Tulia and Dimmit offices twice monthly to better serve you.

DOCTOR'S CLINIC

Oklahoma doctor endorses

chelation therapy's benefits

Dr. W.A. Miller, who practices in Woodward, Oklahoma, believes chelation therapy saved his life.

"I have seen numerous people whose lives have been saved," he related in a letter recently. "This treatment is called chelation therapy and is used to treat all kinds of medical problems. It is especially useful in people with poor circulation. ALL HEART PATIENTS, DIABETICS, STROKE PATIENTS AND PEOPLE WITH HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE SHOULD CONSIDER THIS."

He continued that anyone who wants to "just feel better and live longer" should be receiving this therapy and consider himself fortunate to find doctors that give this treatment.

The treatment, according to Miller, has allowed thousands of heart patients to avoid by-pass surgery. It has helped thousands of heart patients that were a "poor" surgical risk to lead normal lives. Numerous patients were sent home to die because surgery was not possible. Yet through chelation they have been able to extend their lives comfortably. Stroke patients have recovered without major disability. Diabetics have been able to lower their insulin requirements or stop it altogether. Chelation can prevent many of the problems diabetics have in life such as leg amputations, heart attacks, kidney problems, etc.

Miller writes that this treatment is so remarkable that the Food and Drug Administration once put it on its list of frauds. It seemed hard to believe something was that good. Thanks to studies at Walter Reed Army Hospital and the American College of Advancement of Medicine, the FDA took it off its list of frauds and apologized.

According to Miller, his problems actually began in 1975 when he found out he had diabetes. It was soon necessary for him to begin insulin therapy. His feet began to feel tingley and he felt he was walking on two-inch cushions. He also began having a lot of pain and itching in his legs. Before long, he started having a lot of chest pain and abnormalities in his EKGs.

Dr. W.A. Miller

In January, 1982, he noticed his second toe on his left foot was dark and that he had some red streaks going up his ankle. It was at this same time that he and his wife saw a program on television about Dr.'s Parker and Taylor in Amarillo on the treatments they were giving a lady from Kansas who was about to lose her leg. The results were tremendous.

"We immediately got in our car and headed for Amarillo and got a motel room there," he related.

"My wife and I both went to the DOCTOR'S CLINIC and had the tests run to see if either of us were candidates for chelation or hyperbaric oxygen treatments. I began both treatments on that day and my wife began chelation. The doctors didn't guarantee results, but we both felt we had nothing to lose and everything to gain.

Both Miller and his wife are elated by the results and believe that if they had begun these treatments sooner, they would never have needed bypass surgery.

"I am sure that I would not be here today if it had not been for the treatments I had taken," he told us. "Chelation and hyperbaric oxygen have helped lengthen my life and make it a more quality life to live."

He writes that the treatments will eventually pay for themselves because it only costs a fraction of what by-pass surgery costs. The bad news is that only about 500 physicians are specially trained in this techniques in the United States, including Dr. Gerald Parker and Dr. John Taylor at the DOCTOR'S CLINIC in Amarillo, Texas. For more information of chelation call the American College of Advancement in Medicine at 1-714-583-7666 or the DOCTOR'S CLINIC at 1-806-355-8263.

Chelation is not the answer for everyone, sometimes surgery is indicated. It can prove beneficial in some cases, however. It is well worth considering.

If you find a lower price we'll match it!

If you find a lower price within 30 days on an identical item, just bring us the proof and we'll match the price! And if we advertise it for less within 30 days, we'll refund the difference. The BEST Low Price Guarantee cannot apply to clearance prices, manufacturer's rebates, going-out-of-business sales, floor samples, one-of-a-kind items or limited quantities, nor can it apply if the local retailer does not have the merchandise on the premises and available for sale at the advertised price. We will match the competitor's advertised price for up to 30 days after you purchase an item from BEST. Simply bring us your receipt. Because quality and workmanship vary so greatly in jewelry, no two items are ever truly identical and our standard guarantee cannot apply. However, we offer you this Jewelry Satisfaction Guarantee: After you buy your jewelry from us, take up to 90 days to consider your purchase. If you're not completely satisfied, just return the item to us and we'll offer you an exchange or refund.
