Bush issues ultimatum to Saddam

Iraq must withdraw by noon Saturday or ground war starts

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

President Bush told Saddam Hussein today to begin withdrawing his forces from Kuwait by noon Saturday if he wants to avoid a devastating ground war.

The president made his demand less than 24 hours after the Soviets announced they had reached agreement with Iraq on an eight-point peace plan. Bush said he appreciated the Soviet effort, but that the proposal attached too many conditions to an Iraqi pullout.

Bush also said he had evidence that while the Iraqis were talking peace in Moscow, Saddam had launched a "scorched earth" policy against Kuwait, setting fire to oil wells, tanks, export terminals and other installations.

Bush said Saddam must tell the allies immediately whether he will agree to begin the withdrawal in the time period set by the White House. Bush didn't say whether he meant noon Saturday EST or Iraqi time.

"We must hear publicly and authoritatively his acceptance of these terms," Bush said in a brief statement in the Rose Garden at the White House.

The Bush ultimatum came as a mighty allied army paused on the brink of an all-out ground battle with Iraq, and as Soviet and Iraqi negotiators worked on the Soviet peace plan that Bush said he found unacceptable.

Before Bush spoke, a Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Moscow that there had been progress in new Soviet-Iraqi talks aimed at making the proposal more acceptable to all sides.

The spokesman, Vitaly Churkin, declined to give details of the talks today, but said: "We have reason to believe that our efforts have not been in vain."

The Soviet news agency Tass said the plan had been finalized for presentation to the U.N. Security Council, but Soviet officials said contacts with Iraq about the plan were still going on.

Other partners in the allied coalition expressed reservations about the offer, but nonetheless welcomed Iraq's acceptance of it as a positive step.

The fierce 5-week-old allied air war thundered on, and allied artillery batteries blasted away at front-line Iraqi fortifications. American forces kept up armed forays into Iraq and Kuwait, the final steps to a ground offensive.

The degree of tension was illustrated by tremors set off when Baghdad radio reported at midday today that "the enemy has started the ground battle." The Pentagon and the U.S. military command in Saudi Arabia quickly denied it.

"If the Iraqis are leaping to the conclusion that the ground battle has begun on the basis of a single division shooting artillery fire," one Pentagon official said, "then they really don't comprehend the strength of the firepower of the coalition."

One U.S. military source in Saudi Arabia said today that there was no sign Iraqi forces were preparing to withdraw from Kuwait. "We see no difference" in the Iraqi battlefield stance, he said.

In Baghdad, air-raid sirens wailed and anti-aircraft fire crackled as bomb blasts echoed across the city into the early-morning hours, AP correspondent Salah Nasrawi reported from the Iraqi capital.

Baghdad radio today railed at the allies and their "bestial crimes." But it also spoke of Iraq's "honest desire to establish security and stability in the region."

That was similar to the mixed messages sent in a speech the day before by President Saddam Hussein, who defiantly declared his country "ready for the showdown" - but also said Iraq wanted peace.

That Soviet plan calls for an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait to begin two days after a cease-fire; an end to U.N. sanctions when the withdrawal is two-thirds complete; and the lapsing of all remaining U.N. resolutions when withdrawal is complete. The resolutions specify that Kuwait's pre-invasion government be restored and that Iraq should pay reparations.

The plan specifies that prisoners of war be immediately released with a cease-fire and calls for the Iraqi withdrawal to be monitored by countries not directly involved in the conflict and designated by the United Nations.

The U.N. Security Council - which passed a dozen resolutions aimed at forcing Iraq out of Kuwait - was to hold private consultations on the plan in New York today, diplomats said.

Soviet officials indicated some changes in the plan had been made, but they would not provide details. They said the plan would be presented to the United Nations, where diplomats said the United States and Britain were likely to press for further Iraqi concessions.

In Moscow, Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh and his Iraqi counterpart, Tariq Aziz, met this morning to discuss the plan, officials said.

"Tariq Aziz is still in Moscow," he said. "This present contact with the Iraqi side is not over yet."

House group approves 'Robin Hood' school bill

AUSTIN (AP) - A "Robin Hood" school finance reform bill that would shift local property tax revenue from rich to poor school districts may be considered next week by the House, after winning committee approval.

The House Public Education Committee passed the bill with an 8-1 vote Thursday, one day after the Senate approved a similar measure.

The school finance reform legislation is in response to a Texas Supreme Court order requiring the state to equitably fund poor school districts.

The bill drafted by House committee Chairwoman Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, would handle the redistribution of funds differently than the Senate bill.

Committee members agreed that the bill is likely to be changed. A conference committee is expected to work out differences between House and Senate measures.

"I don't agree with everything in here," Rep. Alan Schoolcraft, R-Universal City, said of Ms. Glossbrenner's bill. But he added, "Right now, it's the only thing working."

Only Rep. Fred Blair, D-Dallas, voted against the legislation.

Ms. Glossbrenner's bill could be considered Wednesday by the full House, said Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi. He heads the House Calendars Committee, which schedules bills for debate.

The House measure would create about 200 education taxing regions, drawn largely along county lines. Local tax money would be redistributed among school districts within those regions, to get around a constitutional ban on such shifting of funds.

The Senate bill would create 20 taxing regions.

Sharing local property tax revenue would address funding disparities caused by differences in local property wealth. The richest school district in Texas draws funds from a local property tax base that is about 450 times greater than the poorest district.

Credit tight for farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Rep. Glenn English says his investigation of the nation's farm credit system may wind up "making some people very uncomfortable."

"Yet in light of the priorities outlined by the administration and reflected in the budget cuts imposed on agriculture last year, disastrous consequences loom on the horizon of American agriculture," English, D-Okla., said Thursday as he opened a series of hearings on farm credit.

Farmers told English, chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee on conservation, credit and rural development, that credit appears to be drying up around the country.

"We now face the most critical situation in credit availability for agriculture in our area that I have seen," said Don Kimbrell, a Panhandle farmer from Happy and the president of the American Agriculture Movement of Texas Inc.

Rep. Tim Johnson, D-S.D., said his office has received several phone calls regarding producers' ability to get credit as they plan for this spring's planting.

"There are some frantic pleas for help that I hope won't go unheeded by my colleagues or the lenders that we will hear from next week," Johnson said.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Mission, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, said in an interview that farmers may be having trouble getting credit.

"I know it's tight. Private sector banks are not as ready to make farm loans nationwide," de la Garza said.

At the same time, "there are very few farmers who have the resources (to operate without loans). They have to borrow."

Private sector banks, however, want assurances that their loans are backed with crop insurance or disaster payments, de la Garza said - tougher requirements now than when they only required that a farmer mortgage the crop.

"This is business, but somehow it seems unfair," de la Garza said.

The problem is not only with commercial lenders, said William Hodgson Arens of Sundown, president of the Texas Farm Foundation.

Arens said the Farmers Home Administration, lender of last resort, has already obligated 40 percent of its loan money for 1991 in Texas. And the FmHA has considerably less money this year than last to lend. It had $91 million available for direct loans in Texas last year; this year it has just $53 million, Arens said.

At the same time, FmHA is moving away from direct loans to guaranteeing bank loans, "but the banks in West Texas will not take these guaranteed loans," Arens said in an interview before he was scheduled to testify.

"The safety net we have ... is not working," Arens said. "This isn't a farm problem, it's whether our government invests in next year's crop for us to have food."

Farmers who were able to repay last year's loans can probably get credit this year, he said, while for farmers who did not, "there is no hope. Tight is not the word. Unavailable is the word."

Georgia farmer Lucious Abrams of Burke County agreed.

"We are at the crossroad. We cannot pay our debt due to last year's drought and we cannot borrow any money due to our outstanding debt," Abrams said.

Abrams said rural communities in Georgia were in a crisis rooted in a lethal combination of low crop and livestock prices, high interest rates, declining land values, ever-mounting debt loads, and unfavorable weather.

"The desperation of our situation is compounded in every way," added another Georgia producer, Cleve Mobley of Waynesboro.

News Digest

World, National

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration says the Soviet-brokered proposal for peace in the Persian Gulf falls short of an unconditional Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and is "unacceptable to the United States." A mighty allied army pulled back from the brink of an all-out ground war with Iraq while Baghdad's acceptance of a Soviet peace plan was scrutinized in world capitals.

ACROSS THE USA - Though sometimes lost amid the billions spent arming and outfitting U.S. troops abroad, a daily price is also being paid much closer to home. Many Americans have made sacrifices and adjustments to keep things going smoothly on the home front. Profit margins are narrower, security tighter, budgets somewhat looser and shifts often long.

VIENNA, Austria - Albanians dance atop tanks and burn books of the founder of the 46-year-old Communist regime, rejoicing after huge protests forced the government to make concessions.

WASHINGTON - Senate Democrats welcome the Bush administration's new efforts to reduce lead poisoning but say the plan falls short of protecting millions of children from mental and physical problems.

SAN FRANCISCO - A new treatment in which drugs are injected into the brain while a stroke is occurring has prevented serious disability in 70 percent of patients tested, researchers say.

ATLANTA - The risk of getting AIDS from a doctor does not warrant mandatory testing of health workers, medical and civil liberties groups told the federal Centers for Disease Control. Such testing would be unfair, impractical, expensive and give patients a false sense of security, they said.

Texas

FORT HOOD - Tucked away among the drab buildings of Fort Hood is a pastel room where the Army shows its gentle side: a center dedicated to helping families cope if their loved ones become casualties of the Persian Gulf War. The Casualty Assistance Center at the central Texas post is one of four in the state and 34 nationwide created to deal with the families left behind.

DALLAS - Sue Nordberg counts herself among those who have given the most to Operation Desert Storm. "I was a single parent and I couldn't afford to send four kids to college," she said, caressing military and childhood photos of her children. "So I told them to go into the service." She never thought that her children might serve together on the same battlefield should war ever erupt. "I thought there was a law against that," she said. "There isn't."

AUSTIN - A "Robin Hood" school finance reform bill that would shift local property tax revenue from rich to poor school districts may be considered next week by the House, after winning committee approval.

WASHINGTON - Rep. Glenn English says his investigation of the nation's farm credit system may wind up "making some people very uncomfortable." "Yet in light of the priorities outlined by the administration and reflected in the budget cuts imposed on agriculture last year, disastrous consequences loom on the horizon of American agriculture," English, D-Okla., said Thursday as he opened a series of hearings on farm credit.

AUSTIN - Consumer organizations hailed legislation that Gov. Ann Richards says will reform the insurance business in Texas. Industry officials said they were still reviewing the massive bill, but that insurers support at least some of its objectives.

AUSTIN - A senator who claims Jack Rains treated his former position of secretary of state as a toy says he thinks he can collect enough votes to block Rains' appointment to the Texas Department of Commerce Board of Directors.

Judge vows to reject extensions

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Supreme Court justice warned lawyers in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi that he will not give death row inmates extra time to file appeals just because they cannot find other attorneys to help them.

Justice Antonin Scalia said Thursday he will deny such deadline-extension requests sparked by a lawyer's request for outside legal help or the attorney's own withdrawal from the case - unless, he stipulated, a withdrawal was "a reasonably unforeseeable occurrence."

Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi together have over 400 men and women on death row. Nationally, there are about 2,400 death row inmates.

Scalia, who handles emergency matters from the three southern states for the high court, granted filing deadline extensions to three of four Texas death row inmates who requested them but warned, in a five-page written opinion covering all four requests, "I shall not grant extensions in similar circumstances again."

Similar requests from death row inmates in other states routinely go to other justices, and are not necessarily affected by Scalia's views.

Supreme Court rules require appeals in all cases to be filed within 90 days of the lower court decision being challenged. But a justice may grant an extension of up to 60 days "for good cause shown."

Lawyers affiliated with the Texas Resource Center sought 60-day extensions for death row inmates Robert Madden, David LeBlanc, Alvin Goodwin and Karl Hammond.

An extension for Madden was sought because his lawyer "has never before prepared (an appeal) on a capital case" and required assistance from the Resource Center. Madden is scheduled to be executed next Thursday.

Richards backs insurance bill

AUSTIN (AP) - Consumer organizations hailed legislation that Gov. Ann Richards says will reform the insurance business in Texas.

Industry officials said they were still reviewing the massive bill, but that insurers support at least some of its objectives.

Seeking to make good on a major campaign promise, Richards on Thursday joined Democratic lawmakers in unveiling the bill they said would make pro-consumer changes.

"When it comes to insurance, Texans do not believe that they are in good hands," Richards said.

The legislation, if adopted, would stabilize rates, prevent fraud, reduce insolvencies in the industry and protect consumers, Richards said.

"If there is one message that comes through loud and clear wherever I go in Texas, it is the concern that Texans feel about insurance," she said.

John Hildreth, director of the Consumers' Union regional office, said the bill was "the best opportunity in decades for consumers to get equal treatment in the insurance regulatory process."

Rick Gentry, regional vice president of the Insurance Information Institute, said, "If it reduces policyholder and industry expenses, makes it tough on fraudulent operators while restoring public confidence, then it's a giant step in the right direction."

"On the other hand, if it's punitive in nature to the vast majority of companies - the ones who obey the law and pay their taxes and have invested heavily in the future of this state - then consumers and companies will both suffer," Gentry said.

Richards contended that some Texans spend as much as 20 percent of their incomes on insurance. "They spend more on insurance than anything but food and housing," she said.

Gentry disputed that estimate, saying, "A recent nationwide study ... found that the combined premiums for all types of insurance - life, health, auto, disability, renters and homeowners - account for 5.2 percent of a household's budget."

"Households spend less on insurance in general than they do for transportation, clothing, retirement, housing or food," he said.

Included among the legislation's many provisions were proposals to:

- Require prompt payment of claims, with insurance companies required to add on interest if they aren't timely.
- Give policyholders 45 days notice of intentions to cancel or raise premiums.
- Require policies to be written in plain language.
- Provide a rating system for insurers and a toll-free hotline where consumers could obtain rate comparisons.
- Repeal insurers' limited exemptions from antitrust laws.
- Provide for independent collection of the information used to determine rates, rather than relying on industry data.
- Prohibit state insurance regulators and top State Board of Insurance employees from quitting and immediately taking jobs with insurance companies by requiring a one- to two-year waiting period.
- Requiring a company to offer all insurance lines in Texas that they sell in other states. "Insurance companies no longer will be able to take their line and go home to Hartford, or wherever it is, if they don't like the rules, rates or regulations of a particular line of insurance," Richards said.

- Provide felony criminal penalties for fraud.

- Require independent audits of all insurers, and raise the capital and surplus requirements for all companies.

- Give insurance companies more flexibility in setting their rates above or below a state benchmark level.

"The old days of the insurance business are over," said Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, chairman of the House Insurance Committee.

Richards and the lawmakers said they hoped the bill would correct problems that led to a special Travis County grand jury last year to conclude that fraud was widespread in Texas insurance and that some companies could be on the verge of a savings and loan-type collapse.

"This bill will help end off insolvencies in the insurance industry," the governor said. She said the state auditor concluded that 283 companies doing business in Texas, with a premium value of $3.1 billion, were "at risk."

The bill doesn't tackle health insurance issues. Richards said that coverage would be the subject of future legislation.

Bush introduces lead poison plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Democrats welcome the Bush administration's new efforts to reduce lead poisoning but say the plan falls short of protecting millions of children from mental and physical problems.

The private Alliance to End Childhood Lead Poisoning says the strategy offers promise but is "doomed to collect dust on a shelf" unless the government puts more money into the effort.

Administration officials outlined the $974 million, five-year plan Thursday before the Senate Environment and Public Works subcommittee on toxic substances.

"Childhood lead poisoning is entirely preventable," Dr. James Mason, assistant secretary for health at the Department of Health and Human Services, told the panel. "We believe that a concerted, society-wide effort could eliminate this disease in the U.S. in the next 20 years."

The cost of the plan would be shared by government and the private sector, "and the overall benefit to society, in terms of human productivity, will be incontrovertible," Mason said.

But Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., the subcommittee's chairman, and Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., said the plan left them disappointed. The administration's fiscal 1992 budget proposes about $50 million as the federal share next year.

"Where will the remaining $924 million in the next four years come from?" Lieberman asked.

Mason declined to estimate what the federal share in future years would be. "Collectively, society will have to ante into that," he said.

But unless the problem is confronted, he said, "society is going to pay a horrendous cost" for criminal justice, welfare and remedial education that will be necessary for those harmed by lead exposure. "That cost can be measured in dollars and cents, and that is more than abatement."

An estimated 3 million to 4 million children under age 6 - 17 percent of the total age group - may have enough lead in their blood to cause mental and behavioral problems as well as physical effects, Mason said.

Young children are most harmed by exposure to lead, and the major source is lead-based paint. High levels of the toxic metal produce long-lasting and irreversible effects, including delayed mental development, reduced IQ scores, school failure, slowed growth and impaired hearing, experts say.

Over the last 20 years, the government has made strides to reduce lead exposure by banning use of lead in house paint and in drinking water pipes and has removed nearly all lead from gasoline. William Reilly, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, testified.

But the senators and administration officials agreed that more needs to be done.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I ran across this column of yours while looking for some papers. I read it to a group of friends my age (70) and they encouraged me to send it to you and ask you to run it again. Will you? --R.R., Tulsa

DEAR R.R.: With pleasure. Here it is:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: So much is being said and written these days about senior citizens, but a lot of it is slanted toward what can be done to help them. Too little is written about what they can do to help themselves. Since I am a member of that age group and realize that we need to be reminded about certain things from time to time, I am asking you to print the enclosed prayer.

It contains a great deal of wisdom. I ran across it several weeks ago and am sorry that I do not know the name of the author.

A Prayer for Later Years

Lord, Thou knowest that I am growing older.

Keep me from becoming too talkative, and particularly keep me from falling into the tiresome habit of expressing an opinion on every subject.

Release me from the craving to straighten out everybody's affairs. Keep my mind free from the recital of endless details. Give me wings to get to the point.

Give me grace, dear Lord, to listen to others describe their aches and pains. Help me endure the boredom with patience and to keep my lips sealed, for my own aches and pains are increasing in number and intensity and the pleasure of discussing them is becoming sweeter as the years go by.

Teach me the glorious lesson that, occasionally, I might be mistaken. Keep me reasonably sweet. I do not wish to be a saint (saints are so hard to live with) but a sour old person is the work of the devil.

Make me thoughtful, but not moody; helpful, but not pushy; independent, yet able to accept with graciousness favors that others wish to bestow on me.

Free me of the notion that simply because I have lived a long time I am wiser than those who have not lived so long.

If I do not approve of some of the changes that have taken place in recent years, give me the wisdom to keep my mouth shut.

Lord knows that when the end comes I would like to have a friend or two left. -- Senior C.

DEAR SENIOR: Thanks for a beautiful prayer. There is a great deal of wisdom in it for people of any age.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been dating the same guy for a year and four months. Neither of us goes out with anyone else. He has yet to introduce me to any of his family or friends. I'm not fat or unattractive. I dress in good taste and can carry on an intelligent conversation.

I would like to meet his family and friends and have told him so but he keeps putting me off. To go with a man for a year and four months without being introduced to a single friend or a member of his family seems a bit strange to me.

Please tell me if I am overly sensitive, as he says. Sign me -- Isolated in Raleigh, N.C.

DEAR RALEIGH: There are three possibilities, take your pick. The man (a) is married, (b) is ashamed of you, or (c) has something in his past he doesn't want you to know about.

Feeling pressured to have sex? How well-informed are you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teen-ager." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teens, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

Water saving tips

Drip! Drip! Drip! If you have a leaky toilet, the cost to you is much more than just a drop in the bucket. Did you know that:

-A single leaky toilet can waste as much as 78,000 gallons a year.

-That amount of wasted water is literally a lot of money down the drain. In one east coast city, it would mean that this leak costs $191.10.

-Researches from the University of Illinois have found that 45 percent of all residential water is flushed down the drain. In fact, the average toilet uses five to seven gallons of water per flush.

Mystery of Easter Island

Easter Island, a volcanic island in the South Pacific, is the site of a great mystery. More than 600 enormous stone heads, 2,000 years old, each carved from a solid piece of rock and with identical faces, stand on the island.

They rise from ten to 40 feet above the surface and weigh up to 70 tons each. None of the heads has eyes and none is complete. Ancient people who lived on the island left tools scattered around the partly finished figures, but archaeologists have no explanation why work was stopped suddenly and why it was never continued.

Nobody knows how the island's inhabitants moved the heavy stones from the stone quarry ten miles away, or what the figures represented.

Island legends tell of wars in 400 A.D. between the original inhabitants who came from Peru and invaders from other South Sea islands. The natives who built the statues were called long ears, and the invaders were called short ears.

Boxers earn medals in Odessa

The Hereford Boxing Club travelled to Odessa to compete in the Odessa Golden Gloves Tournament, and they brought back one gold medal, five silver medals and a trophy.

Thomas Suarez won the gold medal, and the silver medalists were Jamie Suarez, Bobby Suarez, Jamie Ruiz, Fabian Ruiz and David O'Brien. The latter two live and train in Amarillo, but box with the Hereford club.

Jamie Ruiz won a trophy for good sportsmanship.

The club is coached by Robert Suarez and Lou Serrano, and they work out in a closed-down body shop on the southwest corner of Sampson and Second Streets.

The club is in need of more boxers, Jamie Ruiz said.

"We didn't have enough fighters to compete for the team trophy (at the Odessa tournament)," Ruiz said.

"Anybody interested in boxing can come down anytime," he said. They work out from approximately 5:45-7 p.m. "We try to make it every day--Monday through Friday," Ruiz said.

The club members will next compete March 8 and 9, when half of the team goes to Wichita Falls and the other half travels to Big Spring.

Hereford wrestlers compete in Amarillo

Seven wrestlers from Hereford took to the mats last Saturday for the Texas Amateur Wrestling Association State Wrestling Tournament at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Harry Ford, Trenton Shepard, Jeremiah Beltran, Brad Nidey, Arturo Elizondo, Nathan Henderson and Jarrit Edwards represented Hereford. They are coached by John Shumate, with Dan O'Dell assisting.

The wrestlers were divided into age groups, then sub-divided into weight classes.

Elizondo, a sophomore, finished highest among the Hereford contingent, placing third in the heavyweight class of his age division.

Henderson, also a sophomore, took sixth in the 148-pound weight class. Edwards, a junior, placed fourth in a weight class that included 235-255-pounders.

The season records of the wrestlers stand like this: Jarrit Edwards, 4-4; Arturo Elizondo, 7-4; Brad Nidey, 6-7; Nathan Henderson, 14-7; Jeremiah Beltran, 13-5; Trenton Shepard, 8-9; and Harry Ford, 7-10.

Mavs' Aduabato calls Lakers best in NBA

By The Associated Press

Portland's 3 1/2-game lead in the race for the NBA's best record doesn't faze Dallas coach Richie Aduabato. He's convinced the Los Angeles Lakers are now the best team in the NBA.

The Lakers held Aduabato's Mavericks to a club record-low 29 points in the first half on Thursday night and went on to win 106-92 at Reunion Arena, their 18th victory in 20 games. The loss was the third straight for Dallas, leg weary after seven games in 10 days.

"We got beat by the best team in the NBA in my opinion," Aduabato said. "They were very sharp, on top of their game. And too many games in too many days caught up with us."

Magic Johnson had 21 points, 12 assists and 10 rebounds for Los Angeles, which focused on the Mavericks' two victories over the Lakers this season.

"We shut them down with our defense in the first half," Johnson said. "They were the only team we hadn't beaten this year. They had our number and we wanted to stop that." "We wanted to play tough, nose-to-nose defense," the Lakers' Byron Scott said. "We were very focused. Previous losses were on our minds."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Seattle 120, New York 101; Miami 104, Washington 90; Houston 92, Milwaukee 90; and Portland 122, Denver 111.

Dallas shot 26 percent from the field and missed its last 12 shots of the first quarter, falling behind 33-13. The Lakers forced Dallas into 11 turnovers in the first-half runaway. Los Angeles extended the margin to 66-41 midway through the third quarter before Dallas closed to 75-63 at the end of the period.

Derek Harper, who led Dallas with 24 points, hit consecutive 3-pointers to help close the gap to 95-86 down the stretch, but they could get no closer.

Trail Blazers 122, Nuggets 111

Portland snapped a three-game road losing streak and handed Denver its seventh consecutive loss behind Kevin Duckworth's 25 points and 14 rebounds.

Orlando Woolridge led the Nuggets with 20 points and 13 rebounds. Denver trailed just 27-26 early in the second quarter, but a 29-18 spurt put Portland ahead 56-44 at halftime.

The Trail Blazers started the second half with a 10-4 run for a 66-48 advantage, their largest of the game.

Rockets 92, Bucks 90

Houston was the only home team to win in five NBA games as Otis Thorpe had 28 points and 19 rebounds and Vernon Maxwell scored the game-winning basket with 40 seconds to play.

The Bucks, who were led by Frank Brickowski with 18 points, scored seven consecutive points, aided by three Rockets turnovers, for a 90-89 lead with 1:29 remaining.

Maxwell's layup off a fast break gave Houston a 91-90 lead. Jack Sikma missed the Bucks' final shot with one second remaining.

SuperSonics 120, Knicks 101

Seattle dropped New York's record at Madison Square Garden to 11-17 - the worst home mark in the NBA - behind Shawn Kemp 24 points, including seven dunks.

The Sonics never trailed. Seattle's Ricky Pierce led all scorers with 26 points, 14 in the fourth quarter.

Heat 104, Bullets 90

Miami improved its road record to 5-21 as Glen Rice scored 27 points, Rony Seikaly 24 and Sherman Douglas 20.

Rice scored 12 points in the third quarter to give the Heat the lead, then scored seven in the final 5:08 to help Miami hold off a Bullets' comeback.

Wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland was the MVP of the 1977 Super Bowl Game without scoring a touchdown.

UNLV struggles past Pacific

By The Associated Press

Even when UNLV doesn't play well, there's no keeping up with the Runnin' Rebels.

UNLV struggled at times Thursday night before beating Pacific 80-59 to win for the 35th straight time over two years. It was the second-lowest point total of the season for the Runnin' Rebels, who came into the game averaging 104.2 points per contest.

But coach Jerry Tarkanian felt an off-night might not be the worst thing in the world for his team.

"It's nice to have a lull and still win by 20 points," Tarkanian said.

UNLV (24-0, 15-0), now three games away from an undefeated regular season, was never really pushed by the visiting Tigers, who briefly got within 10 points early in the second half before the Runnin' Rebels pulled away.

But the margin of victory was well below UNLV's 31-point average.

In other Top 25 games, it was Iowa 80, No. 4 Indiana 79 in overtime; No. 9 Arizona 100, California 63; No. 10 Utah 67, Colorado State 56; No. 15 New Mexico State 83, Utah State 75, and No. 17 UCLA 100, Oregon 83.

Larry Johnson had 26 points and 11 rebounds for UNLV, including 14 of 15 free throws, and the Rebels shot 56 percent from the field despite having their fast-break shut down by Pacific.

"Holding Vegas to 80 points is as good as we can do," Pacific coach Bob Thomason said. "We took away their fast break really well and carried out our game plan to perfection."

Dell Demps had 17 points for Pacific (12-12, 8-7).

Iowa 80, No. 4 Indiana 79

Visiting Iowa rallied from a 16-point deficit in the second half and won on James Moses' tip-in at the buzzer.

Indiana which missed six straight free throws that could have won the game in regulation, took a 77-74 lead in overtime on two free throws by Matt Nover and three straight by Calbert Cheaney.

But Iowa's Troy Skinner hit four foul shots to give the Hawkeys the lead with under a minute to go, and Cheaney, who finished with 26 points, hit two free throws for the last Indiana lead with 30 seconds left.

After a timeout with 8 seconds to go, Acie Earl missed one shot and Chris Street missed another on the rebound before Moses' winning tip.

No. 9 Arizona 100, California 63

Khalid Reeves hit five of Arizona's nine 3-pointers.

Reeves, a reserve freshman guard, and Brian Williams each had 19 points.

Arizona shut down Cal's Billy Dreher, who scored 23 against Arizona last month. Dreher was 1-for-6 and managed only four points before fouling out with 9:43 to go.

No. 10 Utah 67, Colorado St. 56

Josh Grant made five of six free throws in the closing minutes and led Utah with 19 points.

Chuckie White led Colorado State with 15 points and seven rebounds.

No. 15 New Mexico St. 83, Utah St. 75

Reggie Jordan scored 20 points and pulled down 10 rebounds in the Big West Conference game as New Mexico State made Neil McCarthy a 20-game winner for the 10th time in 16 years as a college coach.

Utah State was led by reserve Bryon Ruffner's career-high 19 points.

No. 17 UCLA 100, Oregon 83

Tracy Murray scored 27 points and Don MacLean added 17.

Darrick Martin led a 13-2 spurt with a pair of 3-pointers and Murray hit his fourth and final 3-pointer to give the Bruins a 76-59 cushion with less than 11 minutes left.

No. 1 seeds not set yet

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Anybody who thinks unbeaten, top-ranked UNLV has already wrapped up a No. 1 seed in the NCAA Basketball Tournament had better think again, says the selection committee chairman.

Nobody, says Jim Delany - not even the high-flying Runnin' Rebels - is guaranteed anything, even at this late point in the season.

"They really are a super, super team," Delany said of the defending champions from Las Vegas. "They're obviously going to be a strong candidate for a No. 1 seed. But there are not a lot of teams around the country that could stand to lose all their remaining games and still be considered."

It would also be a mistake to concede the title to the Rebels, Delany told a nationwide telephone hookup of sports writers.

"I think all the games will be contested," he said. "If they continue their performance over the remainder of the year, they're obviously going to be a strong candidate for a No. 1 seed. But anyone who's watched this tournament the past 15 years recognizes it is sudden death. There are always opportunities for people throughout the bracket to compete for the championship. They're a fine team. But I venture to say the championship will be contested."

Putting teams like No. 1 UNLV and No. 2 Arkansas at the top of the 64-team bracket will be the easy part. The hard part comes at the end, said Delany, when the nine-man committee picks the final few teams. Every year, say committee members, that's the prickliest problem they face.

Armed with reams of information on the 293 Division I teams, Delany's committee will meet in a Kansas City hotel March 8-10 to set up the tournament. Teams in each of the four regions will be seeded No. 1 through No. 16, and many teams will be shipped out of their natural geographic areas in order to balance the bracket.

Thirty selections are automatic, the winners of conference regular season or postseason championships. That leaves the committee with 34 at-large bids, and the most time will be spent on the final selections.

"If you make a mistake in seeding or in bracketing, well, that team is still in the tournament anyway and has the opportunity to play its way all the way to the championship,"

Delany said.

But by the time the nine-man committee gets down to the final at-large selections, teams begin to look the same. Who's to say for sure which team is 64th-best in the country and which is 65th? As one former committee member once said, "Every year somebody goes out and wins the NIT and says they've just proved the committee didn't know what it was talking about."

"Some people complain about where they're selected or seeded," Delany said. "But at least they're in the tournament. We know that in selecting those last couple of teams, that although we do our best to make the decision as rational it can be, if another nine men and women were in that room with the same data we had, they could come up with someone else."

"In other words, there are teams excluded that can make a reasonable case for why they should be in. That's where your comfort level is not so good, and it's heightened even further if there's a heavy cluster where a lot of teams look alike. Some years you have three slots for five teams, some years you have three slots and eight teams."

Owners gain harsh victory

NEW YORK (AP) - Baseball owners have clinched "victory" in this year's salary arbitration battle. But what did they win?

The owners have a 9-6 lead with only two arbitration cases left unsettled. But they consider salary arbitration an overall loss because almost all players get big raises even if decisions go against them.

In Thursday's decision, arbitrator Stephen Goldberg awarded left-hander Paul Gibson $565,000 instead of the Detroit Tigers' offer of $350,000. Gibson made $150,000 last season, when he was 5-4 with a 3.05 ERA in 61 relief appearances.

At the same time, San Diego outfielder Tony Gwynn agreed to a three-year, $12.25 million contract extension that makes him the 40th $3 million-a-year player and the third-best paid in the game. And the New York Mets and Dwight Gooden took their high-money battle right up until the pitcher's deadline of today for a contract extension.

Two cases had been scheduled for hearings Thursday, but right-hander Frank Wilks and the Toronto Blue Jays settled on a one-year contract for $435,000, a raise of $192,500. Third baseman Jack Howell and California had a hearing before arbitrator Anthony Sinicropi.

In the final hearing, second baseman Jose Lind and Pittsburgh are scheduled to go before arbitrator Raymond Goetz today in New York. Meanwhile, free agent Denny Walling agreed with Boston on a minor league contract, leaving 27 of the 96 free agents still unsigned. And pitcher Matt Keough, out of the majors since 1986, agreed to a minor league contract with California. Keough was 45-44 for Hanshin of the Japanese Central League from 1987-90.

In a front-office deal on Thursday, Boston extended general manager Lou Gorman's contract two years through 1994.

Gwynn, only seventh on the Padres' payroll last season, will have an average salary of $4,083,333 under the extension, which begins in 1993. He is the 40th player with a $3 million-a-year contract and trails only Roger Clemens ($5,380,250) and Jose Canseco ($4.7 million) on the salary chart. Darryl Strawberry is fourth at $4.05 million.

"I feel like $4 million is probably above what I think I'm worth," Gwynn said. "Four million is a nice round figure that two years from now I honestly feel like I can live with. I'm very content. ... For awhile it's nice to see other guys trying to get where you are."

San Diego has committed $33.9 million over the past three weeks in multi-year contracts with Gwynn, pitcher Bruce Hurst and first baseman Fred McGriff.

"If that's not a commitment to the ballclub, I don't know what is," McIlvaine said.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

After talking to eager anglers from Pampa to Plainview, it is obvious that the fishermen are ready to go fishing and the serious bassers have spent this winter searching for "secret baits."

Now, I have spent more money on secret baits and magic fishing potions than Jimmy Johnson has spent on hairspray, and one lesson finally hit home: that great secret bait in February will probably be just a memory in May and June. Never-the-less, here goes with the hottest secret bait.

First, blood oaths have been broken to discover how to buy Zoom Lizards, the secret color of this secret bait is pumpkin—with or without a chartreuse tail. Pumpkin firetail is preferred by the experts like Tommy Biffle, who puts it on the end of his Carolina rig.

One of the few places in Texas to buy Zoom Lizards will be at Outdoor World '91. The biggest RV, boat and sportsman exposition between Dallas and Denver will be held at the Tri-State Fairgrounds in Amarillo March 1-3. Visit Snow's Bait Shop and look over his selection of floating flippail lizards and Zoom Lizards. You too can catch big bass with some of the great secret baits of 1991.

Speaking of good reasons to attend Outdoor World '91: some lucky individual will win a 16-foot aluminum fishing boat courtesy of Lake Tanglewood Marine and KNGC-radio. Registration to win this boat is free and I will draw the winner's name at 4 p.m. Sunday. If you visit Amarillo for this sportsman's show, try staying at the Fifth Season East on I-40 near the Quarter Horse headquarters. You just might have breakfast with one of the superstars before he gives his fishing seminar. Look out for Jimmy Houston, Ted Miller, Dreabon Joiner, John Hope, Dale Waggy, Lendell Martin or Butch Colantonio.

If trout fishing in New Mexico is one of your favorite vacations, be sure to visit one of the two casting tanks when Ti Piper is giving his "Fishing New Mexico" seminar. He has a book on this topic and will conduct special fly-tying seminars for the really dedicated trout fishermen. The good folks at Moreno Ranch East can answer any questions about trout fishing in the Eagle Nest area.

It's not too late to pay your $60 and enter the Big Bass Tournament on Baylor Lake. Fishing starts this Saturday at 7 a.m., and if 100 anglers enter, the lucky angler who catches the biggest fish of the day will win $2,500. Call me at (806) 353-3654 for details.

I'll see you at either Baylor Lake this Saturday or at Outdoor World '91 next weekend. Stop by our Southwest Outdoors booth. We'll look forward to meeting you.

Bad blood between Harlingen, San Benito

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) - A basketball game that police say nearly turned into a riot is but the latest incident between two adjoining South Texas cities that have watched their rivalry turn uglier and uglier.

No one seems to know why the hostility has grown between the high schools in Harlingen and San Benito during the past few years. But the incident after last Friday night's final district basketball game of the season has some wondering whether the two adjoining cities should stop competing against each other.

They worry that both sides take their sports too personally.

"It's getting to the point where it's not fun at all anymore," said Harlingen Superintendent James Smith.

He wants the cities to join separate athletic-competition districts, if distance doesn't prohibit the change.

Harlingen coach Carl Owens was arrested Wednesday on a charge he incited a riot after Harlingen won Friday's game 77-63 at San Benito. All it took, apparently, to set the crowd into a shouting and shoving match was for Owens to suggest his players follow the traditional practice of cutting down the nets after a championship season.

"People were throwing punches and stuff," 16-year-old San Benito student Mario Silva said. "Some went home bleeding."

Police say they worried about inflaming the enmity between the competing sides in the stands, and that they warned Owens not to allow any net-cutting. Net-cutting has been prohibited since last year.

"If you see that the fire has already started, don't add gas to it," said Maj. Ovidio Gonzalez, assistant police chief in San Benito.

"As far as I'm concerned, the actions of that particular coach endangered the lives and property not only of the players, but also of the people in attendance," Gonzalez said.

Harlingen, with about 54,000 residents, is just north of San Benito, with a population of about 22,000.

Police in San Benito say Owens incited a riot. Four San Benito police officers drove to Harlingen on Wednesday with a warrant on the Class B misdemeanor charge, handcuffed Owens and took him to municipal court.

Friday's unhappy ending followed a string of tire-slashings, window-breakings, fights, insults, obscenities and vandalism exchanged between the two schools, including at swim meets.

Confrontations occur "even at the shopping mall," said Mandy Noriega, 16, a cheerleader at San Benito.

She said she found Friday's incident frightening, but also said the intense rivalry fuels school spirit.

Fans spend the night waiting in line for their annual football bout, billed as the "Battle of the Arroyo." Its name comes from the Arroyo Colorado, a stream that runs through southern Harlingen.

Harlingen football coach and athletic director Jesse Longhofer made an obscene gesture against San Benito during last fall's game. The state University Interscholastic League executive committee publicly reprimanded him and suspended him for one game next season. The UIL regulates public school competition in Texas.

San Benito School Superintendent Miguel de los Santos said people from his city felt Harlingen was taunting them last Friday and "trying to rub it in."

"It could have been something where people could have been hurt," he said.

De los Santos said he hopes to meet with Harlingen officials "to try to develop a long-range plan to become better neighbors."

Owens was released Wednesday on a $1,000 personal recognizance bond after appearing before Municipal Judge Frances Flores.

The coach, back at school Thursday, said he doubts the charge will hold up because the nets were never cut and no riot broke out.

"It's a personal grudge against our athletic department," Owens said. "People need to learn to keep the proper perspective."

He questioned why four San Benito officers were needed to arrest him as he was awaiting word on whether the district UIL executive committee would reprimand him. The committee gave him a private reprimand.

"I think maybe we shouldn't play each other anymore," said Rey Jacquez, 17, a junior at Harlingen High. "All it does is make people mad and stuff."

Palmer, Howe back for another try

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Only pitchers and catchers were supposed to show up, and then just to check in. But after last year's 32-day lockout, everyone was ready to break out the bats and balls.

Spring training started right on schedule Thursday. Eric Davis, Barry Larkin and a bunch of the World Series champion Cincinnati Reds worked out in Florida, and fans were everywhere - even though real practices didn't begin until this morning.

Baseball is back. So is Steve Howe and so might Jim Palmer. Bo Jackson, however, is out for now.

Howe, suspended six times for drug and alcohol abuse, was invited to the New York Yankees' camp. Palmer, trying to extend his Hall of Fame career at age 45, will be at Baltimore's camp today.

"I know that no Hall of Fame pitcher has ever tried a comeback, but that's not the reason," Palmer said. "I've been throwing since Dec. 17 and my arm feels terrific. I've spent two months doing something and it would be real difficult not to do it."

Jackson, injured in an NFL playoff game, will be on crutches for four weeks with a hip problem.

Jackson will report to the Kansas City's camp in Haines City, Fla., with the other position players. He will undergo therapy and do exercises, but is likely to miss the first part of the exhibition schedule.

"He was pretty upbeat, not real down," Royals manager John Wathan said after a telephone conversation with Jackson. "I guess disappointed is the right word."

There were a few other glitches, too, although no one seemed too upset as 15 camps opened for business.

The Minnesota Twins, who moved their training site from Orlando to Fort Myers, Fla., this year, aren't quite ready to move in yet. The major league clubhouse and batting cages at the Lee County Sports Complex are not finished, so all players will be crammed into the minor league headquarters for about 10 days.

Newly acquired Jack Morris and Steve Bedrosian, plus Kirby Puckett and Kent Hrbek, were among the Twins at the new location on Thursday. Though Minnesota plays its home games during the regular season on artificial turf at the Metrodome, the Twins' spring stadium has grass.

"AstroTurf is a bad idea for spring training," Twins general manager Andy MacPhail said. "It's too hot and it's bad on your legs. You don't want to wear your players down."

In Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Yankees pitchers and catchers were supposed to report. But Pascual Perez was absent, and again the reason was that catch-all trouble - visa problems.

Howe, though, was present. He's getting a second chance, although for him it amounts to a seventh chance.

Howe, the National League rookie of the year in 1980, has been suspended six times because of drug and alcohol use. He has not pitched in the majors since 1987 with Texas, but after a two-day tryout got invited to the Yankees' camp.

"I feel there have been a lot worse things in baseball than bringing Steve Howe back," Yankees general manager Gene Michael said. "If he was my son or your son, you'd want somebody to bring him back. It's a good business deal and a nice opportunity for this young man."

It also made sense for the Yankees - they've needed a left-handed, short reliever ever since Dave Righetti signed a free-agent contract with San Francisco.

"Drugs taking away my whole career has been hard to deal with. It probably cost me $8-10 million in salary alone," said Howe, 33 next month. "I feel real thankful I got this opportunity. I've been walking around praying that this wasn't a cruel trick nature played."

Grady leads LA Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Wayne Grady is no longer "the other Australian" on the PGA tour.

Grady assured himself of notice both in the United States and back home when he won the PGA Championship last year.

"The response in Australia has been great," said Grady, who shot a first-round 65 Thursday, 6-under-par at Riviera Country Club, to share the lead with Larry Nelson in the Los Angeles Open.

"Since the PGA, I've been able to make some money outside of golf," Greg Norman has been "the Australian" on the men's tour in recent years, but Grady noted that his fellow countryman hasn't been as dominant so far this year.

"Although Greg led the money list (with $1.1 million in 1990), he's not 100 percent on his game now," Grady said. "I think people are realizing we have some good players in Australia. There are good things going on now in Australian golf."

One thing was going very good for Grady Thursday - his putter.

Carding six birdies, Grady sank three putts from about 30 feet, made another from 15 feet away, and holed his shot from off the green on No. 18.

"I played very, very well; the only green I missed was the last one, by a foot, and I holed it from there," said the 33-year-old Grady, who began playing on the American tour in 1985 and is looking for his third victory.

Co-leader Nelson, himself a two-time winner of the PGA, didn't have to putt so well Thursday - he scored with outstanding approach shots. He sank one birdie putt of 25 feet, but his other five birdies came on considerably shorter putts.

Nelson and Grady were one shot ahead of a group that included Craig Stadler and Andrew Magee, who shot a course-record 28 on the front nine, then struggled to a 2-over-par 38 on the back.

"I'm slightly disappointed," Magee said of his so-so play after the turn. "I wanted to be loosey-goosey. My goal was to be unconscious."

Another shot off the lead was a group that included former LA Open champions Gil Morgan, a two-time winner; Hale Irwin, Chip Beck and Fred Couples, last year's winner.

Woman's Health

Every year in the United States, more than 127,000 women are the victims of rape. One of the four major violent crimes ranking with robbery, assault, and homicide, rape can affect women of any age, race, and socioeconomic group.

Despite the prevalence and seriousness of this violent crime, many people don't face the reality of rape until a friend or family member has been attacked. It is important, however, to recognize that rape can happen to anyone, including you. To prevent rape, you should take steps to protect yourself at home and when alone.

Here are some things you can do to reduce your risk of rape:

Out-of-doors: Whenever possible, avoid walking or jogging alone, especially in unfamiliar places and after dark. Plan your route ahead of time, being careful to stay on well-lit and well-travelled walkways. Walk at a steady pace and act as if you know where you are going. If you are followed, head for open stores or restaurants or busy roads.

At home: Always lock doors and windows and use peep-holes to identify callers. Don't let anyone in unless you are sure of his business and have checked for proper identification. Hang curtains or blinds on all windows. Use initials rather than your first name for mailbox tags and telephone listings. It is also a good idea to get to know a neighbor who is familiar with your routine and whom you can trust in an emergency. Also, don't overlook the possibility of date-rape. Only invite in friends whom you know you can trust.

In your car: Lock your car doors at all times, even if you are only driving a short distance or leaving the car briefly. At night, park in well-lit areas as close as possible to your destination. Have your keys ready as you approach your car and look inside of and around your car for strangers. If you have car trouble, put your hood up, then stay in your car with the doors locked until the police arrive. It is risky to accept help from strangers.

Many communities offer rape prevention classes or lectures to provide women with personal safety tips to help minimize the risk of rape. Check with women's centers or local service organizations to see if such classes are available in your area.

Don't wait until someone you know is involved in a rape to take the possibility of it happening to you seriously. Taking precautions to protect yourself against rape is something you won't regret.

History of cancer center given recently

Mary Jane Burrus reviewed the history of M.D. Anderson University of Texas Cancer Center when members of Pioneer Study Club met recently at the Caison House for a meeting and lunch.

Club women from Deaf Smith County, including members of Pioneer Study Club, were instrumental in helping establish the center after they began a letter writing campaign urging legislators to approve a bill to create a state cancer hospital and research institute in 1941. The first patients were admitted in 1944. The hospital currently has 518 beds and between 1944-89, there were 276,674 patients.

The club has scheduled a "benefit shower" to obtain needed items for the M.D. Anderson Hospital. The event is planned March 2 and March 16 at Sugarland Mall.

During the business meeting with President Rosemary Thomas presiding, the women finalized plans for the shower. Committee members were enlisted on a rotating basis to accept gifts and register donors during shower hours.

A memorial was given by Willie Wimberly to honor Mable Heard before the group adjourned for lunch by reciting The American Creed.

The decorations and favors for the luncheon table depicted a Valentine's theme.

Those present included Burrus, Jeanie Caison, Nell Culpepper, Lonidene Edmonson, Maria Escamilla, Catherine Gripp, Oleta Hoffman, Billee Johnson, Gladys Miller, Mary Panciera, Fern Sigle, Thomas and Wimberly.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

PARABLES - THE GREAT INSTRUMENT OF TEACHERS!

IN BIBLICAL TIMES, THE OLD STORY-TELLER, THE RECITER OF PARABLES WAS THE TEACHER, THE INSTRUCTOR OF THE PEOPLE—HIS CLASS-ROOM WAS ANY CONVENIENT STREET CORNER WHERE YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE LISTENED TO WHAT HE HAD TO SAY. THIS METHOD, AGES BEFORE THE PRINTED BOOK, WAS JUST ABOUT THE ONLY WAY TO INFORM. THOSE WHO COULD READ THE WRITTEN WORD WERE FEW AND FAR BETWEEN SO, BY WORD OF MOUTH, HISTORY WAS PASSED DOWN FROM ONE GENERATION TO ANOTHER—BUT THE PARABLE WAS MORE THAN JUST HISTORY—IT PRESENTED TO THE LISTENER MORAL ETHICS, IT MADE HIM PONDER ON WHAT WAS THE RIGHT THING TO DO AND WHAT WAS WRONG! WHEN JESUS BEGAN HIS MINISTRY, HE RECITED THE LAW, HE GAVE HIS "SERMON ON THE MOUNT" BUT THESE DIRECT TEACHINGS WERE MUCH TOO STERN AND DEMANDING—AND TURNED MANY PEOPLE AWAY....

...BUT WHEN JESUS BEGAN TO ILLUSTRATE HIS SERMONS WITH THE WELL-KNOWN FORM OF THE PARABLE, THE COMMON MAN COULD UNDERSTAND HIM, COULD PLACE HIMSELF IN THE STORIES—A FISHERMAN COULD GET THE POINT IN "THE NET CAST INTO THE SEA," A HERDER COULD WELL UNDERSTAND "THE LOST SHEEP," AND A FARMER "THE SEED CAST INTO THE GROUND" AND, THROUGH THIS TRADITIONAL METHOD, JESUS' TEACHINGS BEGAN TO SPREAD LIKE WILDFIRE!

NEXT WEEK: A CAMEL OR A ROPE—HOW CORRECT IS OUR BIBLE?!

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.15	3.00
2 days per word	.26	5.20
3 days per word	.37	7.40
4 days per word	.48	9.60
5 days per word	.59	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: All children love toys, but all toys are not safe for all children.

Most new toys are labeled by age groups for the children they are appropriate for and these labels should be followed at all times. They are there to protect younger children from removable parts, strings and other possible dangers.

Older toys you find at garage sales may not be such good buys. Some could have been made before safety standards were set and may be missing their boxes and the suggested age level. It's not worth taking a chance on "great buys" for young children. Is saving a few dollars worth a child's life?

For more information on toys and their safety, write for a free brochure called "Play It Safe!" Send your request and a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope to "Play It Safe!", Dept. A., P.O. Box 3717, Washington, DC 20007. — Heloise

REUSING ENVELOPES

Dear Heloise: A reader's suggestion to recycle unused mail-back envelopes by taping a new address over the pre-printed one sounds good in theory, but I found out the hard way that it can have some drawbacks.

I used to save and use envelopes that way until I received an envelope from a book club containing my monthly car-loan payment and a note explaining, "This was sent to us in error."

I had pasted and taped a gummed label with the loan-payment address over the printed address on the book-club envelope. Somehow, it had come off in the mail and the envelope was delivered to the printed envelope address.

The same mail delivery brought a late-payment notice from the car-loan holder with a request for a late penalty.

The cost of the penalty would have paid for a lot of brand-new envelopes.

— Virginia Silverstein, Lebanon, N.J.

Oh, you are so right! Many reply envelopes have bar codes printed on them that direct that piece of mail no matter what the written address says. Since some business-reply envelopes have this bar code, it's probably better not to use them just in case.

Also, never use a postage-paid envelope for anything other than its intended use. It is against the law and you sure don't want to make that mistake. — Heloise

SILVERWARE BASKET

Q. Every time I put silverware in the dishwasher, a few pieces with small handles end up falling through the bottom of the silverware basket. I am afraid one of these times this may interfere with the rotating sprayer in the bottom of the dishwasher. Any suggestions? — Lillie M., Roanoke, Va.

A. Cut pieces of nylon net to fit in the bottom of the silverware basket sections. This will keep those small handles from falling through. — Heloise

MILK STAINS

Q. My daughter is learning to drink milk from a cup. Even with a bib on, she spills some on her clothes. I never realized how badly milk stains clothing! Why is this, and more important, what can I do about it? — Jackie Quickly, Huntsville, Ala.

A. A protein in milk called albumin causes it to stain clothing. To remove fresh stains, soak the clothing for several hours in a water and detergent solution containing enzymes. Launder as usual.

A clean diaper pail filled with this solution would be a great place to soak the clothes. Empty the diaper pail into the washer each evening, put on Spin to remove excess water and then begin the wash cycle. — Heloise

AXYDLBAAXR

One letter stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: LET US TREAT MEN AND WOMEN WELL; TREAT THEM AS IF THEY WERE REAL; PERHAPS THEY ARE. — R.W.EMERSON

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information.

Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent.

An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to.

Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing.

So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent.

Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examines the latest market trends and housing opportunities.

Church News

IMMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Sunday school for all ages begins at 10 a.m. at the church. The Adult Bible Class is continuing the study of "The End of Times." All adults are urged to attend this class on this very important study.

The theme for the 11 a.m. Sunday worship service is entitled "Standing On The Promises of God" and is based on the text from Genesis 28:10-22.

The mid-week Lenten service will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. The topic is "Jesus Cross Is My Power From God." The texts are John 18:36-37 and I Corinthians 1:18.

AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday morning will be a special day for Pastor Larry Cothrin. This is his second anniversary of service with Avenue Baptist Church. Also, Sunday morning will be the Ingathering for the building fund.

Sunday school begins at 9:45 a.m. and the Sunday morning worship service starts at 11. At 7 p.m. Sunday, the congregation will be showing Part IV of the New Age series entitled, "Unmask The Secrets of The Rainbow." The public is invited to attend.

FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

Leaving at 6 a.m. Friday, 32 youth and adult sponsors from First United Methodist Church will hold their annual ski trip to Red River, N.M. this weekend. Plans are to return around 4 p.m. Sunday.

Adult sponsors making the trip will be Jo and George Ochs, Elaine and Tony Calkins, and Julia and Randy Laing. A program of skiing, games and special meals together are planned for the group.

The First UMC Youth Council recently elected representatives to church groups. Jill Ruland was named secretary; Patrick Hayes, representative to the council on ministries; and Erin Spies, representative to the administrative board. Larissa Kleuskens will serve with Toni McElroy as co-convenor for the council.

Several young members of the church were selected in auditions as members of Spirit Wind '91, a youth tour choir which will give concerts over the Northwest Texas Conference this summer. They were Kristin Calkins, Patrick Hayes, Wendy Warrick, Jill and Heidi Ruland, Larissa Kleuskens, Christi Euler and Kathleen Cooper.

A series of weekly Bible studies to continue through Lent started in First UMC Wednesday. Dr. Steve McElroy, pastor, will conduct the study at 6:30 p.m. each Wednesday in Ward Parlor at the church. The subject is "The Will of God." The public is invited to attend.

ST. THOMAS EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Sunday morning services at St. Thomas Episcopal Church will be the celebration of an "instructed" Holy Eucharist. Included within the celebration will be explanations of the vestments worn by the priest and others who participate in the service, the reasons for the actions and format of the celebration of the Eucharist, and the spiritual meaning both of the drama of liturgy and the Communion itself.

This celebration is one of the two principal liturgical actions of the Episcopal Church. The "instructed" Eucharist is intended for the explanation of the service to those who are not familiar with the Episcopal Church. Visitors are cordially invited. This is an excellent chance to find out for oneself what it is that "those Episcopalians do behind those red doors."

Until the end of the war in the Persian Gulf, the Wednesday evening Eucharist, beginning at 7, will be a Votive Mass for peace and the safety of the members of the armed forces. Special prayers will be offered for the safety of those members of the armed forces from Deaf Smith County and for any others who are known.

Anyone may place names on the prayer list by coming to the church and writing them on the list in the vestibule of the church. A special invitation is extended to anyone who has loved ones in Operation Desert Storm and who do not have a church home to worship.

CENTRAL CHURCH OF CHRIST

The Sunday Bible classes for all age groups meet at 9:30 a.m.

The Sunday morning worship service, which begins at 10:25, includes The Lord's Supper, congregational singing, prayer and meditation. The 6 p.m. Sunday service is a time of encouragement and edification.

On Wednesday night at 7:30, the congregation meets for special study and devotion.

The Abundant Life radio program is aired at 11:55 a.m. Monday through Friday.

FIRST CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Sunday school for all ages begins at 9:30 a.m. and the Sunday worship services are held at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. Wednesday Bible study is scheduled at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to hear Dr. David A. Slamp talk on "Dealing With the Five Deadly D's." The third part of the five-part sermon series will be presented at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Among the topics Dr. Slamp will be discussing for the next several weeks include: "Why Christians Get Defeated" and "What To Do When You're Down and Discouraged."

The sermon series is being made available on audio tape and may be purchased when the series is completed.

FELLOWSHIP OF BELIEVERS

Sunday school for kindergarten through high school age youth is held each Sunday from 9:15-10 a.m.

The regular Sunday worship service, conducted by Doug Manning, is held from 10-11:30 a.m. at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center, 426 Ranger Drive.

The congregation offers a "taxi service" seven days a week for those needing transportation. For more information call 364-0359 or in an emergency call 364-3869.

SAN PABLO UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

The public is invited to attend all services at the Hispanic Methodist Church. Sunday school for all ages begins at 10 a.m. and the Sunday worship services are held at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. The Wednesday evening prayer service starts at 7.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday school for all ages begins at 9:45 a.m. The Sunday morning worship starts at 11. The public is invited to attend.

The Power Source Rally is scheduled for March 2 at Trinity Baptist Church in Amarillo from 6-7:30 p.m. The youth will leave at 1 p.m. to go to the mall to hand out tracts and spend free time shopping.

Community Passion Play will be presented Good Friday at 3 p.m. Anyone interested in being in the play or helping with costumes and etc., please, contact Carmon Flood at 289-5381. There will be 17 speaking parts plus extra non-speaking parts.

Youth Choir has been rehearsing for the musical "Let's Go To The Rock". Plans for the presentation will be sometime in May. Anyone interested in helping in any way may contact Steve.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. James W. Cory's sermon for the regular 10:30 a.m. Sunday worship service is titled "Stop It." The scripture lesson is Mark 8:31-38.

The Session has called a congregational meeting for 11:30 a.m. Sunday, after the worship service, to hear the final details on the proposed remodeling of the downstairs restrooms and the kitchen.

Sunday is the last day to place an order for a Centennial T-shirt. The Presbyterian women will be selling note paper with a picture of the church on the front. Notes will be packaged in groups of 10s and 20s and are priced at $2.50 and $5.

Sunday school for all ages begins at 9:30 a.m. This Sunday the One Great Hour of Sharing Banks will be distributed. These banks will be turned in on Easter Sunday.

FRIO BAPTIST CHURCH

The public is invited to attend revival services at Frio Baptist Church beginning Tuesday, Feb. 26, and continuing each evening through Sunday at the 11 a.m. morning worship service. The evening services will begin at 7:30. On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday there will be a noon meal at the church with preaching following the meal.

Rev. Robert Field, pastor of South Georgia Baptist Church in Amarillo will be doing the preaching and Geary Brodgen, music director at the First Baptist Church of Friona, will be leading the music and doing the special music. Frio Baptist Church is located seven miles south of Hereford on FM1055. For information, contact the church at 276-5380.
