WTSU-A&M merger okayed

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board voted today to approve the merger of West Texas State University with the Texas A&M University system but asked the Legislature to take steps to avoid politically charged lobbying on future mergers.

The board also approved the expansion of the University of Texas-Dallas to a four-year school.

The board's 10-7 vote on the West Texas merger means the schools can begin to combine. But coordinating board members were critical of the pressure they were put under on the way to the vote.

Board members said the Legislature put the cart before the horse by passing legislation that allowed the merger, contingent on the board's approval. The board had to act by March 31 or new legislation would have been required.

A series of school mergers in South Texas did not require the coordinating board's review.

"It placed a burden on the board. The legislature should have taken action themselves: the South Texas mergers were handled without board approval, after all," said Eleanor Conrad, a board member who proposed the resolution.

Greg Mitchell said it was "obviously politics" that the coordinating board was even involved in approving the West Texas case. He said he voted for it because "I don't see how we could deny access to A&M to that part of the state."

The coordinating board passed a resolution today asking the Legislature to seek the coordinating board's recommendations before passing any more enabling legislation on school mergers, rather than making the mergers contingent on the board's action.

The coordinating board also appointed a special committee to study the effect of mergers on the Texas university system. Results of the study are expected in October, and the board asked that the Legislature not approve any new mergers or university system changes until that study is complete.

Board members said they were angered by the massive lobbying effort by the Texas A&M University system and West Texas State University because of the way the enabling legislation was worded.

About 120 people from the Panhandle paid $200 each to fly to Austin on a chartered jet to attend the first hearing, Thursday, on the plan.

Jennifer Scott drove her 240-pound Hampshire to the grand championship at Thursday's barrow show at the Hereford Young Farmers 25th annual Livestock Show at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

Scott, a member of the Hereford FFA, paced a field of 177 exhibitors to take the grand championship.

Earning reserve grand champion honors was Patricia Martinez, of the Deaf Smith County 4-H, with her 261-lb. Chester.

Others who won breed champion honors included Wesley Ralston, Castro County 4-H, cross (Brandy Messer won county honors); Don Metcalf, Spots; Zachary Vasek, Yorkshires; Don Metcalf, Berkshires; and Colby Christie, Durocs.

Angela Brumley of Hereford and Danna Ralston of Dimmitt won showmanship honors.

The show will conclude this afternoon with the lamb show at 4:30 p.m. The five-day event concludes with the annual premium sale at 12:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Deaf Smith 4-H will operate a concession stand with a wide range of food, drinks and snacks today and Saturday.

Here are the results from Thursday's Barrow show at the Hereford Young Farmers 25th annual Livestock Show at the Bull Barn in Hereford. When two numbers are listed, the first number is the competitor's finish in the five county competition and the second number is the placing in the county.

CDC: flu officially epidemic

ATLANTA (AP) - A flu epidemic has hit the United States with outbreaks reported this winter "just about everywhere," a Centers for Disease Control researcher said.

A key indicator - a deaths-from-flu index - is at its highest level in at least eight years, CDC researchers said Thursday.

Flu is reported "widespread" in 18 states and "regional" outbreaks are reported in 17 more states, the CDC said in its weekly report.

Last week, 7.6 percent of 15,090 deaths reported to the CDC from 121 major cities were blamed on flu or pneumonia.

That "significantly exceeds" expected levels for the second straight week, said Dr. Walter Gunn, a CDC viral disease specialist.

"This qualifies in our definition as an epidemic," Gunn said.

The CDC's epidemic level is 6.7 percent. The 7.6 percent figure is the worst since the winter of 1981-82, Gunn said.

Most of the flu samples reported to the CDC this winter have been the type which researchers call A-H3N2. That was the predominant type in the 1984-85 flu season, when an estimated 57,000 Americans died from flu - 37,000 more than in the typical winter, Gunn said.

"As far as how many people will die" this flu season, "that depends on how long this peak is sustained," Gunn said. "With any luck, it will come right back down."

Flu has been reported this winter "just about everywhere," Gunn said.

The serious flu season, he said, points to the importance of flu vaccinations for those at greatest risk of serious complications from flu, including older people and patients with heart or lung disease.

"There's still time," he said. "It only takes two weeks to build up your immunity."

Toll rises in crash

COVE NECK, N.Y. (AP) - A Colombian jetliner on approach for a landing crashed in heavy fog and rain, killing at least 67 people aboard and scattering bodies across a wooded hillside, authorities said today.

Helicopters lifted bloodied passengers to hospitals as a priest gave last rites on the ground early this morning.

"I gave them rosaries and said little prayers," said the Rev. Daniel Ahern of St. Pius V Roman Catholic Church in Oyster Bay. "They were crying and asking about their family members."

Avianca Flight 52, a Boeing 707, was carrying more than 140 people when it crashed Thursday night on its second approach to John F. Kennedy International Airport.

"There were bodies on top of bodies on top of bodies," said Jeff Race, 26, a New York City paramedic who lives a half-mile away. He said he was the first rescuer at the scene. "Some were alive, some were dead. Limbs were bent every way you can imagine."

"People were screaming... Most of them were still strapped in their seats," he said. "It was just mangled, twisted metal."

The 23-year-old jetliner, coming from Bogota after a stop in Medellin, Colombia, broke into at least three pieces. Witnesses saw no fire or explosion, and rescuers arrived to find passengers scrambling out of exits.

Non-pilots taste thrill of dogfight

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) - You've seen "Top Gun" more than once. You crave the thrill of streaking across the sky on the enemy's tail, targeting their fighter jet, making the kill. Savoring the victory.

But you've never flown a plane. Welcome to Air Combat USA where, for $495, anyone - would-be Red Barons or combat veterans nostalgic for the past - can take Italian-made propeller aircraft up for dogfights over peacetime Southern California.

"It takes nothing but a desire to get into the airplane," said Greg Sloan, one of eight pilots who fly with Air Combat customers in the dual-cockpit planes.

The 2-year-old enterprise, started by commercial airline pilot Mike Blackstone, has pitted friend against friend, son against father, spouse against spouse.

"We've had everything from high school students to 50th wedding anniversary husband-and-wife air combat," said Blackstone. In that encounter, he said, "The woman shot him down over and over again."

The one-day fighter fantasy includes an hour of ground school, an hour of flying and a debriefing. There's also a keepsake: A videotape of the adventure made by a cockpit camera.

Customers take the adventure as far as courage, and their instructor, will allow. They can perform a ballet of rolling scissors, high and low yo-yos, lag rolls and loops in pursuit of their opponent.

The so-called "kills," simulated by a trail of smoke emitted by the victim aircraft, are verified by a tracking system developed by Blackstone, an aeronautical engineer.

The invention was spurred by a friendly rivalry with pilot Bill Bancroft, who helped him get the business going. Now arguments over whether a kill was good are settled electronically - followed by triumphant shouts of "Yeesh-hawww!"

Air Combat's three planes, decked out in Navy stripings or the markings of a gray Russian MIG, fly out of Fullerton Airport 25 miles south of downtown Los Angeles.

The missions take place over unpopulated areas, outside of federal airways and above 1,500 feet, as required by Federal Aviation Administration regulations, Blackstone said. The planes remain 500 feet apart.

He doesn't dismiss questions about safety.

"There's always danger - it's flying," Blackstone said.

Air Combat has had no accidents, he said.

Sloan, a 20-year Marine veteran who flew nearly 300 missions in Vietnam, said he isn't nervous about his novice charges: "I've been instructing air combat maneuvers since 1973. There's nothing they can do that I haven't seen. I'm having as much fun now as I did then."

The Marchetti SF-260 aircraft have a top cruising speed of 250 mph.

Business has boomed in the six months since Blackstone installed his kill tracking system in Air Combat's three planes. Sloan said the company has more than 700 bookings.

"There are former fighter pilots from Vietnam to World War II coming out to relive their experiences," Sloan said. "We've had people fly in from Scandinavia to Tokyo."

The Air Combat pilots downplay the connection to the Tom Cruise movie "Top Gun," which focused on the Miramar Naval Air Station's Fighter Weapons School, popularly known as Top Gun, in San Diego.

"The draw we get is from the actual fact they can fly the airplane," Sloan said. "Safety is the prime directive - and fun next."

Bush drug plan controversial

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congressional Democrats and big-city mayors are setting the stage for fresh feuding over the war against drugs, saying President Bush's plan to raise spending by $1.1 billion next year is inadequate.

"We're going to have to have a lot more resources and that's not in this document," House Narcotics Committee Chairman Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., told a news conference Thursday after Bush presented his plan.

The $10.6 billion package includes more money for a Pentagon attack on cocaine traffickers and would allow the death penalty for drug kingpins. It would boost the cost next year by 11.6 percent over the current $9.5 billion.

Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., on Wednesday proposed a different version, and debate over the rival strategies could easily carry over into the fall congressional campaigns.

Biden's version calls for spending $14.6 billion next year, including 400,000 new beds in treatment centers and immediate treatment for pregnant addicts as well as more FBI and drug enforcement agents and prison expansion.

Bush presented his plan in a White House speech to newspaper editors, calling drugs "this nation's No. 1 concern."

He said the Senate most likely will shoot for a higher budget than what he is requesting but that "we do sense a desire on the part of the Congress to cooperate."

Biden, in a breakfast speech to the National Conference of Mayors, said he hoped to work with the administration "to implement the proposals on which we agree and to narrow our differences on the rest."

Biden said his strategy did not carry the endorsement of any Democratic Party group or even that of Democrats on the Judiciary Committee.

A number of Democratic mayors were quick to condemn the strategy. "We can't win the war on drugs with $10.6 billion," Philadelphia's W. Wilson Goode told reporters.

"It is woefully inadequate," said New York Mayor David Dinkins. Several of the mayors expressed support for Biden's alternative.

On Capitol Hill, Republican lawmakers and Democrats whose states stand to gain increased federal funds under the Bush strategy expressed support.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, called it "a logical extension of phase I of the program" and scoffed at a Biden complaint that it targets punishing casual users instead of hard-core addicts who commit most of the crimes.

"They're all criminals," Gramm said. He said casual use has "put a drug thug at the door of every junior high school in the country."

Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., complained that "one thing is especially lacking and that is any emphasis whatsoever on rural America and what the drug problem is out there."

He said the nation "cannot fight the war on drugs if we just limit it to urban America" and the so-called high intensity areas.

The strategy designates New York, Los Angeles, Miami, Houston and the Southwest border as high-intensity areas and allocates additional funds.

Some Democratic senators praised Bush's plan, saying the additional funds were needed in their states. Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla., called it "a positive sign" and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said he was "encouraged by the president's new anti-drug initiative."

The Pentagon would receive the largest spending increase, from $878 million this year to $1.2 billion. About $638 million would be earmarked for detection and monitoring of traffickers attempting to enter the country with illicit drugs.

The next largest increase would go to the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration in the Department of Health and Human Services, from $1.2 billion to $1.4 billion. That includes a raise of $100 million to $577 million in block grant money for drug treatment programs.

Gorbachev warned against Baku assault

MOSCOW (AP) - Two senior Soviet officers in Baku warned President Mikhail S. Gorbachev hours before he sent troops into the Azerbaijani capital that an assault would turn the people against the army and ethnic Russians, a newspaper said today.

The two officers, top officials at a Baku military academy, said in a telegram Jan. 19 that bringing in troops would lead "to a total break in relations and put (the soldiers') families in danger," as well as "create a growth in the anti-Russian mood."

The telegram was reported in the Communist youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

Hours after the officers reportedly sent their telegram, Soviet troops stormed into the Azerbaijani capital to put down the nationalist uprising there and stop anti-Armenian rioting.

By latest count, 101 people have died since then, and more than 171 overall in the unrest that began with anti-Armenian riots two weeks ago.

Komsomolskaya Pravda said the dangers predicted by Cols. A. Savelyev and A. Rusakov have come about. It added that more than 30,000 family members of Soviet soldiers have had to be evacuated.

The paper also ventured some of the first criticism printed in the official Soviet press of the troops in Baku, noting that dozens of people had been hospitalized with accidental shooting wounds blamed on the soldiers.

"We don't presume to advise the military, but after all, there are other means of 'imposing order,'" it said. "Professionals are needed, who know how to fulfill their tasks, but not at any price."

Also today, Azerbaijani activists said police had staged two raids on the Azerbaijani government's building in Moscow overnight and arrested a leader of the nationalist Azerbaijani People's Front, Ekhtibar Mamedov.

Activist Shain Gajiyev said commandos charged into the government mission at 3 a.m., searched it and herded some 40 Azerbaijani men into buses. But he said all were released except Mamedov, who gained attention recently by claiming there were far more people killed in the assault on Baku than officials have said.

Police spokesmen said they had not been informed of any such raid, but a visit by an Associated Press reporter revealed several broken-down doors and a chaos of scattered documents in the offices.

In Baku, military commandant Lt. Gen. Vladimir Dubynak said this morning the situation was "relatively calm," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Moscow's telephone connections to Armenia and Azerbaijan were down this morning, and operators said no calls could go through until at least evening. The areas are closed to foreign reporters.

Tass said that in the last 24 hours, 147 people had been detained in Baku either for breaking curfew or other violations, and two newspapers were banned by the military authorities.

It said troops had not used weapons on Thursday, but Komsomolskaya Pravda said two people were killed in Baku when an armored personnel carrier ran over a car.

Shooting also continued around a barracks where, according to some reports, Azerbaijani troops are fighting Soviets. Military authorities have denied that the Azerbaijanis in the barracks turned against the army.

Strikes continued to paralyze much of Baku's transport and industry, but Soviet media reported that many stores had re-opened for the first time since the Jan. 20 assault. Azerbaijanis have pledged not to end their strikes until Soviet troops withdraw.

Business needs job retraining program

Over 23 million Americans are functionally illiterate—unable to read a street sign or a headline in a newspaper. Another 37 million people are marginally illiterate, unable to read instructions in a workplace manual.

The trends are among the major social forces discussed in a new United Way of America report, "What Lies Ahead: Countdown to the 21st Century." The report presents the implications of illiteracy and many other significant trends affecting our society.

Although all 50 states have adopted some type of education reform since 1983, much more needs to be done to insure Americans are prepared to become productive and competitive members of the workforce.

There is a continuing educational gap between white Americans and members of some ethnic groups. Among the population aged 25 years and over, 77 percent of white Americans are high school graduates and 20.5 percent are college graduates; among blacks, the corresponding figures are 63.4 percent and 10.7 percent; among Asians and members of other races, 78.4 and 33.4 percent; among Hispanics, 50.9 percent and 8.6 percent.

Between 1976 and 1986, total college enrollment grew by more than one million students, while enrollment by black males fell by 34,000. It is thought that the decline occurred, even though black students have been completing high school at an increasing rate, because a significant number of black males are entering career vocational schools rather than colleges.

The national high school dropout rate continues to hover around 30 percent. Dropping out of high school is strongly linked to social problems: 62 percent of all prison inmates are dropouts, and more than half of all welfare families are headed by high school dropouts.

Educators estimate that nearly a third of the nation's children entering school deal with a serious socio-economic problem: They live in a single-parents household, or have a poverty-level family income; have non-English-speaking parents; or are members of a minority group with a pattern of below-average academic achievement. For these students, school is likely to evolve into community social-service centers.

Clearly, the dimensions of the issues cut across every aspect of American society. Finding new ways for government and business to work together with health and human service organization to address the human impact of trends like these is a top priority for United Way.

To develop successful models to solve the illiteracy problem, United Way and local literacy programs are developing many innovative programs. One program supported by a $700,000 grant from United Parcel Service will develop models to teach adults to read using the latest technology.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a safety tip to share with all your readers.

We are frequently reminded not to leave small appliances, like hair dryers and toaster ovens, plugged in when we are finished using them. I had become careless about this and left the toaster oven plugged in after making toast for breakfast.

There must have been some problem with the electric power one day, and when I returned home from work I found that the roll of paper towels I had left on top of the oven (another careless error) was very warm. Any delay in coming home might have allowed a fire to begin in the kitchen. Since I live in a mobile home, you can readily see that, in a very brief time, I would have had no home to come home to.

I have been ever alert to the danger of fire in my home. — W.L.M., Arden, N.C.

A very good reminder to all of us! A few seconds to unplug appliances is well worth saving your home — and possibly your life. — Heloise

CUPCAKE BAKING

Dear Heloise: I bake cupcakes in flat-bottomed ice-cream cones. I place the cones in a muffin tin, fill them halfway with batter and then bake according to cupcake directions. After they have cooled, I add frosting and colored sprinkles. They are the hit of a party. — Marge Antonelli, Carmichael, Pa.

FDA approves coconut oil

The health effects of various fats have become a matter of intense interest and controversy as the nation has gone on an anti-cholesterol binge.

In fact the recently retired U.S. Surgeon General, Dr. C. Everett Koop, thinks the cholesterol issue is over emphasized. He says, "the cholesterol bubble is about to burst."

There is no doubt, though, that there is validity in urging Americans generally to reduce their caloric and fat intake. The problem comes when some nutritional advisers start to draw a line between fats without differentiating between those in animal products and those in vegetable fats such as coconut oil.

Generally unknown is that the Food and Drug Administration has given coconut oil a green light as used in the normal American diet.

Also, some pseudo nutritionists in blanketing saturated fats as bad fats would switch consumers away from all saturated fats without reference to long standing scientific reports, recently confirmed by researchers at Cambridge University in England that polyunsaturates pose a risk of colon cancer.

Similarly, consumers have been led to believe that when saturates are replaced by partially hydrogenated oils they are getting a more healthful product. The fact is that the hydrogenation process increases the normal saturates and adds saturate-like trans fatty acids to oils.

Book matches were invented in 1892 by a Philadelphian named Joshua Pusey.

Abundant Life

ON-GOING ADJUSTMENTS

By Bob Wear
Effective living is a process of on-going adjustments. This does not mean that we are vacillating, or devoid of convictions; but it does mean that there is a vast area of living in which we must be flexible and adaptable. Our justified convictions will not be altered by making the justified adjustments.

Convictions, wisely established, will serve as the frame of reference and the strength appropriate to the movement involved in making the essential adjustments. There will be no conflict between that which must be firmly fixed and that which must be changed, as wise adjustments are being made.

The maturation process must be a series of very necessary adjustments, and when these are made with wisdom and full acceptance living becomes increasingly meaningful. Adjustments must be made, as we move from infancy to childhood; from childhood to young adult; from single life to married life; then more adjustments, when children are born. In a happy husband-wife relationship, and a happy parent-child relationship, there are many continuing adjustments.

When children leave home, many adjustments must be made which involve both the parents and the children. Another adjustment becomes necessary, when loved ones die.

There are many lesser adjustments, but even these are very important to us. They will be found in our schooling and training experiences; in our work; in our social life; in our general life patterns, such as moving from one locality to another, when our financial condition fluctuates, when our state of health varies, and in other areas of the life structure.

Life is great, when we hold fast all justified convictions; and, with this foundation, to the best of our ability, we diligently continue making the essential adjustments with wisdom and understanding.

Social scheduled

Herd netters open spring season today with Canyon

While the official start of spring may still be nearly two months away, spring sports will get underway today when the Hereford Whiteface tennis team hosts Canyon in a dual meet at 3:30 p.m.

Coach Luis Zavala said the number one goal for the spring was to have more players qualify for the Region I-4A Tournament than in 1989.

"We had seven players go to regionals last year," Zavala said, "and I think we can have more this year."

The Herd netters will host four dual meets before participating in the Wichita Falls Invitational on Feb. 9-10. Hereford will also compete in tournaments in Odessa, Borger and Amarillo and host the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational on March 16-17. The District 1-4A Tournament is scheduled for April 13-14 in Levelland.

Of last year's seven post-season qualifiers, three return to defend district titles. Kristie Allison will attempt to repeat as 1-4A girls singles champion while Brenna Reinauer and Misty Reed will defend their girls doubles title.

Zavala said the final decision on assigning players to No. 1 or No. 2 singles and doubles slots will not be made until about two weeks before the district tournament.

"We're going to let them choose where they want to play in the dual matches and use those performances to decide where everyone will play in the tournaments," he said.

Sixth-grade finalists

Hogs upend 'Horns

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) - At the west end of Barnhill arena, a 20-foot banner said, "'O' Knows Hawgball."

Right. "O" is Oliver Miller. Thursday night, working at the basket, squarely in front of the banner, he made six of his 19 points in the final three minutes as sixth-ranked Arkansas took sole possession of the Southwest Conference lead with a 109-100 victory over Texas.

Arkansas is now 8-0 in SWC play and 16-2 overall. Texas fell to 6-1 in conference play and 13-4 overall.

Texas' last lead was 7-6 and the Longhorns were even only twice - at 18 and at 76. That despite a knuckle bruise on the right hand of Travis Mays, who came in averaging 26 points per game, that kept his scoring to just one point. Mays only shot twice from the field and didn't play the second half.

The two teams meet again in Austin on Feb. 4.

Arkansas Coach Nolan Richardson said before the game that both teams could score a lot of points in a short period.

For instance, 62 seconds after the teams were tied at 76, with 10:43 left, Arkansas led by 11. Miller, who hit seven of 10 from the field, got inside to break the tie and then Arlyn Bowers hit a 3-pointer. Todd Day, who had a career-high 34 points, drove inside for a lefthander and then reeled off five straight free-throws for 88-77.

A 3-pointer by Benford Williams, who had a career-high 25, and two free-throws by Williams made it 94-92 with 6:06 remaining. Lenzie Howell made both ends of a 1-and-1 and Miller did the same.

Two more free-throws by Williams made it 100-96 but Miller took a nice pass from Ron Huery and stuffed one with 2:46 left. Less than a minute later, he made a short turnaround shot. Then with 59 seconds remaining, Miller made two free-throws for a 106-98 advantage.

"We're in the driver's seat now," Day said.

"In the second half, we played them dead even," Texas coach Tom Penders said. "We still had a shot at it with two minutes left."

"Day and (Lee) Mayberry did a good job in the clutch," said Lance Blanks of Texas. "It's a 'dirty-clean' battle. Fortunately, we play them again in nine days."

"They lost a great player in Travis Mays, but Benford Williams said 'We don't need him, let's play basketball,'" Richardson said. "There were two great teams out there. It was a fan's game, not a coach's game."

"I'm glad Tom Penders is in the league. He has helped show it's a better game when you play defense, run and make it fun for the fans."

NFL denies drug report

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - The NFL wants names. Joe Montana and John Elway say theirs aren't the ones.

Montana and Elway, the opposing quarterbacks in Sunday's Super Bowl, scrambled away from the shadow of suspicion Thursday after a Washington television station reported a league roundup of positive drug tests by three star quarterbacks.

San Francisco's Montana, who held a press conference just over four years ago to deny rumors of drug use, dismissed the WJLA report.

"I don't know anything about it," he said. "It doesn't concern me. I don't have a reaction. I know it's not me. In today's day and age, they're looking for a guy on top to take him down."

Denver's Elway said he wasn't worried about any drug list that might surface as a result of the report.

"I'm not going to be on it," he said.

The NFL angrily challenged the station to go further than the 14-minute segment it aired from consumer reporter Roberta Baskin.

"Name names," NFL spokesman Joe Browne said after the ABC affiliate claimed the NFL practiced "selective punishment," with some players disciplined while others are not.

"Where is the proof?" Browne asked. "If there are no names, there is no story."

The station claimed in its report that either the agents or the players involved confirmed that positive tests by the quarterbacks were ignored.

"One said the NFL simply ... forgot about it." The second said he wasn't told. And the third said he was given a pass ... that a black defensive lineman might not have had."

Commissioner Paul Tagliabue, preparing for his State of the Sport address on Friday, appeared on CBS' "This Morning" and said, "The reports of preferential treatment are absurd. It's a smear on every white quarterback in the league, including the two great ones in this game."

"I don't believe they have names," Browne said. "I challenge them to put them on the air. If they name names, they have a better libel attorney than I thought they did."

Frank Herzog, the station's sports director, said WJLA had decided not to release the names because of issues of confidentiality, a policy the league itself has followed in the past.

Browne said the station's material was supplied by a former employee of Dr. Forest Tennant, the league's drug counselor, who sold a similar story to Sports Illustrated last summer.

"It has the same misleading information and the same half truths and rumors that were sold by the same fired employee of Dr. Tennant," Browne said.

Baskin's report quoted Gordon Griffith, identifying him as "the right-hand of NFL drug czar Dr. Forest Tennant ... part of his inner circle ... until a payroll dispute led to his being fired in June 1988."

Griffith said, "The team trainer may say to the quarterback, 'Hey there is a test coming up next Tuesday. Watch yourself over the weekend.' The black defensive lineman is not told the same thing."

That raised the issue of racism. Harry Edwards, a black sociologist who works as a consultant for San Francisco, derided the report.

"What does that mean?" he asked. "Was it a coverup? Was there anybody else? A linebacker? A wide receiver? An advisor? It's kind of a quagmire to pull out a category and say on top of it, 'They're all white.'"

The report charged that the NFL had a hit list and made an effort to get players like defensive end Dexter

Manley and running back George Rogers, both blacks, out of the league, while other players were protected.

Browne denied those allegations.

"There is no random testing," he said. "To say players are targeted is absurd. The NFL has not covered up for anybody, whether the No. 1 player or the No. 45 player on the roster. There is no coverup and no preferred treatment. This is the lowest-rated TV news show in Washington, trying to make a name for itself."

"It took the station two months to report that of 30 suspended players, four are white," Browne said. "I could have told them that in two minutes."

"What's the news? Where's the evidence?"

Astros sign Davis

HOUSTON (AP) - First baseman Glenn Davis has agreed to terms with the Houston Astros on a one-year, $1,985,000 contract, a raise of $900,000.

Davis had been tentatively scheduled for a Feb. 19 arbitration hearing in Los Angeles.

He was seeking $2.2 million for one year, while the club countered with an offer of $1,850,000.

Davis, 28, hit .269 with 34 home runs and 89 RBIs in 1989. His home run total was a career high.

Davis is the first player in franchise history to hit 30 or more home runs in three seasons. He hit 31 homers in 1986, when he was chosen as the National League's All-Star first baseman, and 30 in 1988.

Denver's Treadwell living in a fantasy

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - It may have been the truest statement uttered by any of the Super Bowl competitors all week: "Football is great, but it's not reality."

Denver Broncos placekicker David Treadwell, originator of that quote, knows something about the real world. Treadwell was working in a chemical plant at this time last year, putting to use the electrical engineering degree he earned at Clemson in 1988.

Back in fantasyland, he finds himself about to cap a season that for him has been, appropriately, "a kick."

Will Treadwell or his San Francisco counterpart, Mike Cofer, provide the key points in Sunday's Super Bowl? Both have shown that ability, ranking as the top scorers in their respective conferences this season.

Cofer scored 136 points, hitting on 29 of 36 field goals, 81 percent. He hit his first nine attempts of the season, setting a team record of 17 in a row dating back to the previous season. The 29 field goals broke his own club record.

Treadwell scored 120 points, converting 27 of 33, 82 percent. He was successful on his first 11 kicks before missing a 54-yarder, and his 27 field goals tied a club record.

Cofer was named to the All-Pro team, and Treadwell is headed to the Pro Bowl.

About the only way these former Atlantic Coast Conference rivals differ is in game-winning kicks.

Treadwell won two games for the Broncos in the closing seconds, both on the road. His 27-yarder in overtime gave the Broncos a 24-21 victory over Seattle and a 26-yarder with one second left beat Kansas City 16-13.

Cofer had no such opportunities in 1989.

"I haven't been in any late-game pressure situations," said Cofer, a North Carolina State product. "I think that's a credit to the team."

"But that can be deceiving. The fans think a pressure kick is always at the end of a game with the game on the line. Kickers know that every kick is a pressure kick."

Cofer conceded that a lack of experience in such situations could be detrimental. "You're never quite sure how you'll respond if you haven't been there," he said. "And I haven't been in that situation for a while."

Both kickers have taken what has become the customary course to employment in the NFL for anyone trying to earn a living with his foot.

Cofer signed a free-agent contract with the Cleveland Browns in 1987 but was cut during the exhibition season. Later that season, he appeared in two strike-replacement games for New Orleans.

Super Bowl XXIV San Francisco vs. Denver

Replacing the retired Ray Wersching in 1988, Cofer set 49er records for field goals attempted (38) and made (27).

Treadwell was in Denver's training camp in 1988. Despite converting all three of his field goal attempts, including a 51-yarder at Miami, he lost out to incumbent Rich Karlis and was cut.

He had tryouts with Green Bay and Miami midway through the season, and signed a free-agent contract with Phoenix at the end of the season. On May 30, the Broncos acquired him in a trade.

Karlis and the Broncos couldn't reach contract terms, and Treadwell beat out veteran Rafael Septien in training camp to win the job.

Rathman prefers blocking

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Tom Rathman still adheres to the old-fashioned philosophy that it's better to block than to receive. You wouldn't know it from his stats.

San Francisco's flat-topped fullback caught more passes this season than Henry Ellard, Anthony Carter, Lewis Lipps, Mark Clayton or Mark Duper. He had more receptions this year than 49ers teammate Jerry Rice did in 1987 or 1988.

"If somebody had told me last year that Tom Rathman was going to catch 73 passes, I'd have asked them what they were smoking," former teammate Randy Cross, who retired to broadcasting a year ago, said Thursday.

Rathman isn't much of a threat to go all the way, scoring just one touchdown on a pass and averaging just 8.4 yards per catch. But those 73 regular-season catches - plus nine in the playoffs, including six in the NFC Championship game - have given the Denver Broncos something else to think about in the Super Bowl on Sunday.

"He has excellent hands and adds another good receiver to their arsenal," Broncos linebacker Simon Fletcher said. "He has excellent strength and power, and now he can make more big plays for them."

A 1986 third-round draft pick who backed up Roger Craig for a year at Nebraska, Rathman caught five passes in four years with the Cornhuskers. He averaged just 28 in his first three seasons as a pro.

But this year, first-year offensive coordinator Mike Holmgren decided to spread the ball around more in Joe Montana's short passing game, and Rathman and tight end Brent Jones (40 receptions) were the prime beneficiaries.

A good time to watch for Rathman lurking just over the line is on third down when the 49ers line up four receivers.

The 6-foot-1, 232-pounder is modest about his new contributions, calling himself a "blue-collar worker" in the 49ers' flashy offense.

"If you're going to be able to play in this type of offense, you have to be able to catch the ball," he shrugged.

"My philosophy is catch everything that's thrown to you. I'm not the kind of guy that's going to go 60 or 70 yards with it. I just want to keep the chains moving."

In September, Rathman complained that he was being taken out of games in key situations as the 49ers shuttled backups Harry Sydney and Terrence Flagler in and out of the lineup. After carrying the ball 102 times in 1988, he had only seven rushes to go with 12 receptions in the first three games.

But all three were victories, and the team's season-long success has muted any further protests by Craig or Rathman about their decreased workload.

Lately it's been back to more of the old style, with Craig rushing for at least 94 yards in four of the last six games and Rathman getting his hands on the ball often. Rathman's season total of 79 carries for 305 yards, a 3.9 yards-per-carry average, gave him 152 runs and catches for the year, up from 144 a year ago.

But blocking is Rathman's pride and joy. There's nothing like a good hit on a linebacker to make him happy. "I would say I take the most pride in a great block, then a reception and then a good run," he said.

Xavier wins, Niagara falls

By The Associated Press

Xavier of Ohio almost choked on all that home cooking.

The 25th-ranked Musketeers pitched a 25-0 shutout at the foul line and had a 44-25 rebounding advantage over Detroit, yet had to hang on at the end to beat the Titans 88-83 Thursday night.

Coach Pete Gillen was relieved rather than satisfied after his team blew most of a 14-point lead in the final eight minutes.

"I'm tremendously disappointed," he said. "I'm disappointed by our mental framework and our aggressiveness. Our mental attitude was not good out there. Our individual defense was a disgrace. A lack of concentration is what it was."

There were some other close calls among the nation's Top 25 but the only ranked team to lose was co-No. 13 Georgia Tech, which crased a 21-point deficit before bowing to Clemson 91-90.

Elsewhere, it was No. 5 UNLV 69, Long Beach State 67; No. 6 Arkansas 109, Texas 100; No. 7 Michigan 86, Northwestern 79; No. 10 Illinois 66, Wisconsin 63; co-No. 13 Purdue 78, Ohio State 66; No. 17 Oregon State 92, Southern California 82; No. 18 La Salle 87, Niagara 69; No. 19 Arizona 68, Stanford 61; No. 21 Minnesota 84, Iowa 72; No. 22 Loyola Marymount 126, Portland 103 and No. 23 UCLA 79, Oregon 62.

Tyrone Hill scored 23 points and Jamie Gladden 20 for Xavier (14-2, 4-1 in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference), which made the most of a 3-inch-per-man advantage on the front line. Shawn Williams scored 19 of his 27 points in the second half to keep Detroit within range.

No. 5 UNLV 69, UC-Santa Barbara 67

Larry Johnson scored 21 of his 28 points in the first half and Anderson Hunt added 22 and brought the Rebels from behind on four occasions in the second half. Eric McArthur led the Gauchos with 14 points.

No. 7 Michigan 86, Northwestern 79
Terry Mills, Loy Vaught and Sean Higgins led a second-half charge that rallied Michigan from a seven-point deficit. Trailing 42-35, the Wolverines went on a 14-2 spurt to take a 49-44 lead and didn't look back.

Mills led Michigan with 26 points, Higgins had 24 and Vaught 23. Rex Walters topped Northwestern with 24.

No. 10 Illinois 66, Wisconsin 63
Stephen Bardo hit the go-ahead basket with 1:22 to go, then made two free throws with 18 seconds remaining. The Illini blew a 14-point second-half lead before recovering.

Marcus Liberty led Illinois with 21 points. Danny Jones had 19 for Wisconsin.

Clemson 91, No. 13 Georgia Tech 90

Dale Davis scored 12 of his 25 points during a key second-half stretch and Marion Cash hit six free throws in the final 32 seconds. Clemson stretched a 50-39 halftime lead to 67-46 with 15:08 left.

Georgia Tech was led by Dennis Scott with 32.

No. 13 Purdue 78, Ohio St. 66
Purdue remained unbeaten in the Big Ten as Woody Austin scored 18 points.

Perry Carter scored 21 points for Ohio State.

With the score tied, Purdue's Ryan Bering scored on a dunk, Steve Scheffler put in a short shot and Tony Jones hit a 10-footer for a 65-59 lead.

No. 17 Oregon St. 92, Southern Cal 82

Gary Payton had 28 points, 12 assists, six rebounds and three steals as Oregon State overcame a 37-point effort by USC freshman Harold Miner.

USC took a 38-35 lead on a layup by Robert Pack before Payton scored five straight points to give the Beavers a 40-38 lead late in the first half. Oregon State never trailed again.

No. 18 La Salle 87, Niagara 69

Lionel Simmons scored 25 points and Doug Overton 21 for La Salle, which led by 13 at halftime and cruised to its sixth straight victory.

No. 19 Arizona 68, Stanford 61

Sean Rooks scored 19 points and Matt Muehlebach 17 for Arizona. Stanford cut a 15-point halftime deficit to two before Arizona pulled away again. Keefe scored 24 points for Stanford.

No. 21 Minnesota 84, Iowa 72

Melvin Newbern's 17 points included two 3-pointers during an early 10-0 spurt that put Minnesota ahead for good.

James Moses scored 21 points for Iowa.

No. 22 Loyola Marymount 126, Portland 103

National scoring leader Bo Kimble had 39 points, 24 in the second half, Hank Gathers added 31 and Jeff Fryer 24. The Lions overcame a 61-57 halftime deficit. Will McDowell led Portland with 29 points.

No. 23 UCLA 79, Oregon 62

Don MacLean scored 15 of his 20 points in the first half and freshman Tracy Murray scored 13 of his 19 points in that stretch.

Terrell Brandon scored 19 points for Oregon.

Lendl, Edberg in Australian finals

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) - Stefan Edberg could only laugh when asked about the turning point in his Australian Open semifinals victory over fellow Swede Mats Wilander. "The first point," he said with a smile, adding that he had "one of those days where I almost played perfect tennis."

Ivan Lendl might have given the same answer about his match with Yannick Noah, a 6-4, 6-1, 6-2 victory today that was only slightly less impressive than Edberg's 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 rout.

Together, defending champion Lendl and two-time former champion

Edberg produced one of the most lopsided semifinals in Grand Slam history.

In the time it usually takes for one singles match, they disposed of their opponents and set up a date in the finals Sunday.

Lendl passed Noah left and right when the frustrated Frenchman charged the net, outdueling him from the baseline when Noah stayed back, and won in a tidy 1 hour, 47 minutes.

Lendl expects to use the same strategy in the finals, commanding the baseline most of the time and coming to the net on occasion to keep Edberg guessing.

"Always when Stefan and I play, he will serve and volley and I play defense," Lendl said. I will try to fend him off. It depends on how much impression I make on his serve. If he holds at love or 15, he can take chances on my serve."

Edberg, handing Wilander the worst defeat in his 155 Grand Slam matches, put him away with merciful quickness in 1 hour, 22 minutes.

"I think I played as well as I could," Edberg said. "The key was I hit a lot of first serves today. I had great timing on my serves."

"Against Lendl, I think the key will be my serve again. If I can serve well and put a lot of pressure on him, I am always going to be able to hang in and get a chance in his serve games."

Edberg, the third seed, hit 80 percent of first serves in and put away 39 volley winners to Wilander's one.

"After a while you feel helpless," said the eighth-seeded Wilander, who left all his fight in his quarterfinals victory over No. 2 Boris Becker.

"I don't think he ached me once," he said. "That's when you feel helpless, when you hit a good return and he hits a great volley."

"When the other guy is playing as good as Stefan, you wait for him to lay off because you don't expect him to play that good the whole match."

From the start, when Edberg broke Wilander's serve, to the finish, when Edberg served out the last game to love, it was the most one-sided Australian semifinals match since Wilander beat Johan Kriek in 1984 en route to his second Open title.

Certainly it was a reversal of their form two years ago on the same center court, when Wilander beat Edberg in the semis and went on to win his third Australian Open.

Wilander, who reached back to his old glory in beating Becker in straight sets in the quarters, could muster none of the same precision and energy against Edberg.

Wilander said he didn't experience a mental letdown or feel tired from the Becker match, but he clearly wasn't the same player.

Edberg won the Australian in 1985 and 1987, Wilander in 1983, 1984 and 1988.

Lendl, a Czech who lives in Greenwich, Conn., clicked on 67 percent of his first serves, drilled 36 winners past Noah and cut down on errors as the match progressed.

After making 20 errors in the first set, Lendl hit only eight in the second set and six in the third.

Lendl, never broken in the three sets, broke Noah in the first game of the match and the last, and four times in between.

"He was overpowering me from the baseline," said Noah, who made only 50 percent of his first serves.

Phoenix wins 10th straight

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer

It will take more than the NBA's longest winning streak this season or the longest in his team's history to impress Kevin Johnson of the Phoenix Suns.

"This streak is secondary to us right now," Johnson said Thursday night after scoring 25 points as the Suns won their 10th straight game. "It would be more important if we were in first place, but there are other things that are higher priority than the streak."

The Suns, 124-97 winners over the Charlotte Hornets, are a lofty 24-14. But that's good only for third place, 5 1/2 games behind the Los Angeles Lakers in the Pacific Division.

"The way we are playing right now, a lot of teams will have trouble beating us," Tom Chambers, who had 21 points, said.

Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons thinks much of the credit for his team's performance should go new addition Kurt Rambis, who brought with him the experience of five NBA championships with the Lakers.

"Rambis is a winner," Fitzsimmons said. "He's a leader on and off the court. That's infectious to my team.

It's not an accident that we're playing better since Kurt arrived."

Rambis, who came to the Suns last month in a trade with the Hornets, has started in all 10 games.

"I'd like to take all the credit for it," he joked. "We've got a nice talent level here, including the bench."

Elsewhere, it was Utah 115, New York 89; Washington 99, Boston 98; Orlando 117, New Jersey 112, and Houston 102, the Los Angeles Clippers 101.

Rambis, obtained in exchange for Armon Gilliam, scored 12 points on 6-for-7 shooting and grabbed nine rebounds.

The Suns, who had nine-game win streaks in 1972, 1979 and last season, got 24 points from Johnson's fellow guard, Jeff Hornacek.

Chambers added nine rebounds for the Suns, who have won 15 of their last 17 games.

The Hornets, led by Kelly Tripucka with 21 points and Gilliam with 17 points and 15 rebounds, have lost fourth straight and 10 of 11. Rookie J.R. Reid had 15 points 13 rebounds for Charlotte.

Jazz 115, Knicks 89
Karl Malone scored 26 points as Utah won its eighth straight game.

John Stockton had 10 points, 19 assists and six steals for the Jazz, which broke open the game by outscoring the Knicks 26-13 in the second period.

Rookie Blue Edwards added a career-high 22 points and Thurl Bailey 17 for Utah.

Patrick Ewing led the Knicks with 25 points.

Mark Alarie scored all five points to overcome a four-point deficit with 36 seconds left, and Washington had an NBA season-low four turnovers.

Alarie's final points came on a 14-foot jumper with 3.7 seconds left. Alarie had 14 points.

Jeff Malone led the Bullets with 27 points.

Kevin McHale led Boston with 25 points and a season-high 14 rebounds. Magic 117, Nets 112

Orlando snapped a 15-game road losing streak as Reggie Theus scored 12 of his season-high 36 points in the fourth period.

Charles Shackleford led New Jersey with a career-high 22 points.

New Jersey lost its third straight game and fifth in six starts despite an NBA season-high 17 blocked shots. Rockets 102, Clippers 101

Mitchell Wiggins had two key free throws among his 28 points, and Buck Johnson added 25 to lead Houston to its 10th straight home victory.

Wiggins hit the final free throws with nine seconds left, and the Rockets leading 100-98.

Benoit Benjamin led Los Angeles with 29.

BLONDIE by Dean Young and Stan Drake

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am not asking for advice. I want to give some.

All you people who travel by plane must surely have observed a child who was misbehaving in an airport or on a plane. When I say "misbehaving" I mean anything from being fussy, whining and crying to screaming and throwing a tantrum.

I beg of you: Please refrain from making self-righteous remarks. And those who take it upon themselves to intervene with instructions on how to "get that kid in line," don't you realize what a difficult time the mother is having? A word of criticism or condemnation will not teach her anything. It will only increase her embarrassment and sense of failure.

You say, "My children would never behave like that!" Were you ever a young, first-time parent learning how to deal with tantrums in public? I'll bet you never tried to make a child behave who has been cooped up for five hours in a tiny space, with no sleep, a change in air pressure that hurts little ears and the overstimulation of crowds.

I went through this recently with my own child and was amazed at the lack of compassion, the dirty looks, the stares and snide remarks. It hurt me to have to spank my child in public, something I rarely do at home. Unfortunately, the pressure got to me.

I want to thank the woman who showed compassion. She came up to me and asked, "May I help?" She then proceeded to distract my child with a set of keys and some cheerful words to change his mood. That stranger was a godsend.

Ann, you've often said there is more kindness than hatred in this world and more good people than bad. I'm sorry to say, you can't prove it by me. — Springfield

DEAR SPRINGFIELD: Thank you for sharing your feelings. I'm sure many mothers who read this will sympathize with you. Here's more on the subject.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A word, please, about young children who act up in public. Those little ones are a great deal smarter than we give them credit for.

Children are aware that they can get away with a lot more in public than at home because most parents will do anything to avoid making a scene. So the kids yell and scream if they want a toy or some candy or whatever they see. They know darned well they'll get it.

The smart parent refuses to hold still for this blackmail. No precedent. No problem. — Experienced in Kenosha

DEAR KENOSHA: Your point is well taken, but there's a big difference between a 5-year-old in a department store and a child in the airport. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll make this short. "Jane" and I are planning our wedding. We are working on the guest list and a serious problem has arisen. In a nutshell:

Jane's (formerly) favorite uncle

"Sam" attempted to have sex with her two years ago. She has not spoken to him since and has avoided being in his company. When Jane told her mother about it she simply raised an eyebrow.

Jane doesn't want him there but, his absence would cause a lot of talk. Uncle Sam's lovely wife would of course not be invited. Help!! —Thunder Bay, Ontario

DEAR THUNDER BAY: Did Uncle Sam hit Jane over the head with a lead pipe or did he proposition her?

I'm assuming there was no violence or you would have mentioned it. Therefore I suggest that you take the high road and invite the old goat, in the interest of family harmony. The alternative would inflict wounds that may never heal.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In response to "Bananas in Rochester," I'm in the same boat. I have been married to "Jim" for 20 years. He's hard-working, honest, loyal and a wonderful father to our three children. My friends say they would kill to have a husband like Jim. So why do I have affairs? (I've had three in the past 12 years.) Because I need romance and excitement in my life. My lovers make me feel desirable. Jim's love making is humdrum and matter-of-fact. He will not see a counselor, but I have seen two. They both tell me to leave Jim and start a new life, but I don't want to break up my home.

I also have a career and spend time with my children. But I do take time out for my lover twice a week. I am slim, attractive and look much younger than my years. By the way, I am certain there are no other women in Jim's life. Any solutions? I need some answers. — Split Personality in Canada

DEAR SPLIT P.: Your letter proves that not all counselors are terrific. As I have said before, sometimes you must shop around until you find the one who is right for you.

You need counseling to find out why your level of self-esteem is so low that it needs to be pumped up twice a week by a lover. The fact that you would risk your marriage and possibly your children for this extracurricular excitement suggest that you are not thinking straight.

A good counselor will help enhance your sense of personal worth and teach you how to open Jim up. He just might respond in a way that may surprise you. I hope it happens before one of those women who would "kill to have a husband like Jim" senses there is trouble in paradise and moves in on you.

Do you have questions about sex, but no one you can talk to? Ann Landers' booklet "Sex and the Teen-ager" is frank and to the point. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Teen, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562-0552. (In Canada send $4.45.)

Give indoor air a workout

With outside air pollution getting worse, more people are turning their homes into indoor comfort zones with high efficiency air cleaners.

Indoor air quality problems caused by airborne irritants often become more noticeable when you exercise. That is because every time you take a breath, you breathe in millions of tiny airborne particles that can cause coughing, sneezing and difficult breathing.

Even changing your furnace filters regularly won't get rid of many of the irritants. They are so small they pass right through ordinary furnace filters and are recirculated through your home.

One of the worst offenders is the dust mite. These microscopic creatures live in your rugs, your bedding in other areas of your house. The mites themselves cause little problem, but their carcasses and droppings are considered a major source of indoor air pollution and irritation.

You can greatly reduce the problems caused by mites and other irritants by using a high efficiency air cleaner. A well-designed high efficiency media air cleaner can remove up to 99 percent of irritants such as pollen, dust and microscopic particles from household air.

Media air cleaners are available in both room and whole-house models. The room-size models can circulate the air in an average size room as much as four times per hour. Whole-house models attach directly to your furnace and work with the fan on your heating system to effectively trap the dust and dirt your furnace filter misses.

Unlike electronic air cleaners, which must be cleaned frequently, high efficiency media air cleaners are designed to actually become more efficient as they gather dust. That means the cleaning media usually needs to be changed only once a year.

Also, unlike electronic-type air cleaners, media air cleaners produce no ozone. Ozone can aggravate breathing problems for some people.

For information about how high efficiency air cleaners can help you get your indoor air in shape, write the Consumer Information Department, Research Products Corporation, P.O. Box 1467, Madison, Wis. 53701. Or call 800-356-9652.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I had a heart attack nine months ago and was only in the hospital two weeks. The doctor believed in getting you moving as fast as possible. But the doctor I'm seeing now, out in the country, believes the heart should have absolute rest and would have kept me in for six weeks. I have been much more active than I would have thought possible — even helped my husband with the gardening last fall. My doctor doesn't approve of this strenuous exercise.

A few weeks ago a test showed I have a bulge in my left ventricle so my doctor has put me warfarin (Coumadin) and tells me there may be bleeding. I also take Digoxin and every other day half of an aspirin. I'd like to understand my situation better and want to know if I could die at a moment's notice.

DEAR READER: Coronary artery disease is unpredictable in any one case. The outlook depends a lot on your risk factors such as your cholesterol level, blood pressure and how well you have recovered from your heart attack.

The bulge in your left ventricle suggests that the muscle damage in the main pumping chamber of your heart healed with a weak and perhaps left a large scar. When the heart chamber contracts, causing pressure inside the ventricle, that scar area cannot contract as it is not muscle any more and it bulges outward. It is called a ventricular aneurysm.

Although there is no sure way of preventing these, there are studies that suggest avoiding extra work of the heart immediately after a heart attack helps the damaged area to heal with a smaller scar. It does take about three weeks for small areas of heart muscle damage to heal and about five weeks for larger areas. As long as the activity is limited, so that the heart rate does not increase too much or the blood pressure rise during this interval, it should not be harmful.

I disagree with the idea of having patients exercise within days after an acute attack for the above reasons. But most patients can sit up and start going to the bathroom very soon. I also disagree with lying in bed for six weeks. That is how heart attacks were treated over 40 years ago, but not today. Most heart specialists would consider that unnecessary and actually harmful. I agree.

The amount of activity has to be judged on an individual basis, but usually lies between the two extremes of being active within days after an attack and staying in bed for six weeks. I have discussed these important facts related to how well you can recover after a heart attack in Special Report 79, About Heart Attacks. Read the copy I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH

LETTER/79, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

After the initial healing of three to five weeks, most heart patients can gradually increase their activity. Most do not need to be cardiac invalids thereafter. But you do have to gradually develop your tolerance. If you need Digoxin, that suggests a weakened heart muscle that could limit what you should do.

The warfarin (coumarin derivative or Coumadin) simply prevents blood clotting. So does aspirin, but after a heart attack the amount used is usually one aspirin a day. Too much warfarin can cause a hemorrhage and I would be cautious about combining it with aspirin.

I would suggest a consultation with a cardiologist to see what your actual status is, what your best medical program is and if you need any further treatment.

DEAR DR. LAMB: A year ago I had emergency surgery for a hole in my stomach. The doctors didn't think I was going to survive. After surgery they said I have peptic ulcer disease. They prescribed Tagamet and Pamelor for stress. I don't have the money to go back to the doctor or get my medicine.

I have gone from 92 pounds since surgery to 137 pounds. My stomach is always hurting and swells. Sometimes I look five months pregnant. I often have diarrhea and feel sick at my stomach, but don't vomit. Can you please shed some light on this disease and what I can do for it? I'm only 32 and worried to death something may happen. I also get little sleep.

DEAR READER: Obviously you need to be seeing a doctor and to take medicines to control acidity. Perhaps the hospital where you had surgery has a social services department that can help you.

Your letter doesn't tell me if you had lost weight from your peptic ulcer disease and have regained it, or if your present weight is something new. The Pamelor is an anti-depressant and these may cause you to gain weight, by excess stimulation of your appetite.

And I wonder if you are drinking lots of milk to relieve the acid stomach feeling. If so, and you are intolerant of milk (lactose intolerance), that can cause bloating.

There are lots of things you can do and should do for acid indigestion problems which I have discussed in Special Report 75, Ulcers and Acid Indigestion, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $2 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/75, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Stress can be a significant factor in persistent ulcer symptoms. Your diarrhea may be related to the type of surgery you have had. Also if you had nerves cut to your stomach or part of your stomach removed, that will cause a condition called the "dumping syndrome" which is associated with bloating and diarrhea. I would urge you to find a way to be seen regularly by a physician.

If you smoke, stop. Cigarettes are a frequent cause for persistent or recurrent ulcer problems. Coffee, regular and decaffeinated, can also cause symptoms.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Help me! Every time I am in even a remotely stressful situation I break out in a rash or flush, starting from my chest and working up to my face. If someone comments on it, it gets worse.

This happens in a doctor's office situation, when I meet friends I haven't seen in awhile or during any type of tense situation. Job interviews, too! I have to wear high-necked shirts whenever I think I may have an attack. Is this a physical problem or psychological? I'm a 26-year-old female. This may sound trivial, but it is ruining my life.

DEAR READER: That flush is a blush. It is a response to nervous tension. The blood vessels in the skin open from the influence of your autonomic (involuntary) nervous system. It is connected to your hypothalamus in the brain, which is the seat of your emotions.

Such reactions can be controlled in some people with beta-blocking medicines such as Inderal. In fact, these same medicines have reduced nervous tension in actors and other performers and enables them to perform better.

You might benefit from such help while you are getting professional counseling to help you get over your shyness.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.
