Accident scene

Police and paramedics treat accident victim Elizabeth Shook Holman, 34, following a three-car pile-up at the intersection of U.S. 385 and Park Avenue Thursday afternoon. Holman and another vehicle driver, Helen Hickman Watts, 73, both of Hereford, were treated and released at Deaf Smith General Hospital. According to reports, Mrs. Watts' vehicle was stopped in the inside southbound lane of U.S. 385, waiting to turn left. A second vehicle, driven by Janet Lookingbill Betzen, 40, of Hereford, was stopped behind Mrs. Watts. Holman's 1989 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme collided with the back end of Betzen's Chevrolet Suburban, causing it to strike Mrs. Watts' 1982 Buick. Betzen was uninjured. Holman was cited for following too closely.

City council arrested for Open Meetings violation

DALLAS (AP) - The Granite Shoals City Council learned about the Open Meetings Act this week the hard way: from jail.

Burnet County Attorney Robert Klaeger said he didn't want anyone to think he was taking sides, so he had the mayor and all five other City Council members in this Central Texas town of 2,000 arrested.

All were booked on criminal misdemeanor charges of violating the Texas Open Meetings Act Wednesday and Thursday. They have all been freed on personal recognizance bonds of $1,500. The Dallas Morning News reported today.

The City Council dispute stems from an Aug. 27 meeting when

City receives state check for $52,000

State Comptroller John Sharp this week sent a total of $117.4 million in September sales tax rebates to 937 Texas cities and 109 counties, a 4.7 percent increase over payments of a year ago.

The City of Hereford will receive a payment of $52,107, virtually unchanged from the same total as one year ago. The check includes the 1 percent sales tax collected on July sales and reported in August.

Hereford's payments for 1993 now total $508,593. This total is 3 percent ahead of payments one year ago.

Deaf Smith County's half-cent sales tax will reap a September check of $26,441. Payments for 1993 now total $261,288, an increase of 2.5 percent over this time last year.

Bond set at $200,000 for man accused in homicide

A $200,000 bond was set Thursday for the suspect in a weekend shooting death in northwest Deaf Smith County. Chris Barron, 23, was arraigned and remanded to jail, in lieu of posting bail.

Charged with murder in a warrant issued in the early hours Wednesday and arrested in Amarillo, Barron was brought to Hereford late Wednesday.

He is charged in connection with the death of Bill Gudgell, 50, who died several hours after suffering a gunshot wound in the head. He was sitting at the kitchen table in his home, located 20 miles south of Adrian, in Deaf Smith County, when he was shot.

The case against Barron must be presented to the Deaf Smith County citizen Doug Stroud stood to complain that the council was shortchanging the police force.

In mid-speech, the council approved Councilman Pieter Groot's motion to adjourn. Stroud left the meeting room and learned later that the council reconvened after he left and continued discussion of the budget.

Stroud could not be reached for comment. But stories in the Marble Falls weekly indicated Stroud complained the next day to Mayor Sherman Ihde that the council had violated the law by convening a meeting without giving proper notice. The city checked with the attorney general's office and learned he was right.

Ihde declined to be interviewed. But city meeting records indicate that he called a special meeting Sept. 7 to convene the council as a justice court to take action against Groot and Councilwoman Jeannie Hunnicutt for illegally acting to reopen the previous council meeting without giving proper notice.

Groot, who, like most others on the council, declined to be interviewed, countered during the Sept. 7 meeting by filing a complaint against the mayor and Councilmen Leonard Hobbs and George Hunt for misconduct.

Meanwhile, Stroud had taken his complaint, along with a videotape of the offending Aug. 27 council session, to the Burnet County attorney.

Klaeger said he didn't want anyone to think he was taking sides, so he filed charges against all of them.

"There was a very clear violation of the law and the statutes said it was in my prosecutorial discretion to file criminal misdemeanor charges," grand jury for action at a Sept. 30 meeting. If convicted of the first degree felony, the suspect faces a sentence of five to 99 years, or life, in prison and a fine up to $10,000.

Gudgell's wife, Donna, found her husband with a gunshot wound in his head, at about 11 p.m. last Saturday. He was airlifted to an Amarillo hospital where he died several hours later.

A rifle was recovered at the scene, investigators reported.

Deaf Smith County sheriff's deputies, members of the Potter-Randall special crimes team and a Texas Ranger joined in the investigation.

Klaeger said. "The folks in Granite Shoals have been fighting among themselves about something (for) ages.

"So I decided, the heck with it. I'll just charge all of them and let them be mad at me for a change."

It may be the only time elected officials have faced criminal charges for such alleged violations in Texas.

Most Open Meetings Act violations are handled as civil disputes, said Ron Dusek, press officer for the Texas attorney general's office.

"This is an unusual occurrence. It may have happened before, but in 22 years, I've never heard of it," Dusek said.

The attorney general's office receives two or three complaints of Open Meetings Act violations each month, he said, mostly from reporters.

Klaeger said he has no intention of sending city officials to jail.

"We'll talk to them and let them see where they went wrong," Klaeger said. "The main thing is, I wanted to get their attention, let them know what the law is and maybe get them to read all four pages of the Open Meetings Act."

Three appear in District Court

A defendant in 222nd District Court Thursday was ordered to serve a five-year prison sentence while probated sentences were assessed two defendants.

Judge David Wesley Gulley also modified probation of a defendant and sentenced another defendant to county jail for a year.

The term in Texas Department of Criminal Justice institutional division was assessed Jose Martinez Santana, 23, on his plea of guilty to theft over $750 but under $20,000.

Francisco Gallardo Nieto, 32, received a six-year probated sentence after pleading guilty to aggravated assault on a peace officer. He also must pay a $1,500 fine.

On a plea of guilty to felony driving while intoxicated, Romualdo Castro, 28, was ordered to jail for one year and fined $500.

A 10-year probated sentence was given Calistro Rodriguez, 60, who originally was charged with sexual assault of a child. He entered a guilty plea to a reduced charge of indecency with a child. He also was fined $1,500.

On a motion to revoke probation of Sandra Fuentes, convicted of tampering with government records, the judge ordered her confined to the Taylor County Restitution Center at Abilene for three to 12 months.

Activities planned here

Hispanics celebrate independence day

By The Associated Press Mexican music, parades and patriotic speeches have launched a Texas celebration of Diez y Seis de Septiembre, marking Mexico's fight for independence from Spain.

"The love of freedom and democratic government which inspired Mexico's bid for independence parallels our own devotion to such ideals," said state Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, who sponsored Thursday's Diez y Seis celebration at the Texas Capitol.

The Austin festivities featured traditional Mexican folk dances, Mexican cowboy rope tricks and an address by Jorge Lara-Braud, theologian, author and civil rights advocate.

In Hereford, the day will be celebrated on Saturday with a variety of activities in the Bull Barn sponsored by San Jose Catholic Church.

The celebration will be held from noon to 6 p.m., featuring folklorico dancers, mariachi music, food booths and more.

Proceeds will go toward the church's proposed religious education building, although individuals and non-church groups operating booths will keep their own profits.

There is no admission to attend the Bull Barn festivities.

At 8:30 p.m., the church will sponsor a dance at the Bull Barn featuring Algo Simple. Cost is $10 in advance and $12 at the door. The dance will continue until 12:30 a.m.

El Paso's Diez y Seis celebration kicked off Wednesday when Jose Oramas, acting Mexican consul, gave the traditional "grito de independencia," or cry of independence, at San Jacinto Plaza in downtown.

The mayor of neighboring Juarez, Mexico, Francisco Villarreal, appeared on the balcony of the Juarez City Hall that night to lead the "grito" there, joining mayors across Mexico in opening the independence celebration.

Hundreds of people lined downtown streets in Juarez on Thursday to watch the colorful Diez y Seis parade, featuring school children, police and marching army units.

Celebrations were expected to last all weekend in El Paso, where several festivals were planned.

San Antonio's Diez y Seis celebration got going last weekend with a parade on the city's west side that included boxing promoter Don King and Mexican fighter Julio Cesar Chavez.

At a San Antonio celebration Wednesday evening, the Guadalupe Dance Company performed dances from the Mexican states of Tabasco, Veracruz and Jalisco. It was accompanied by the Mariachi Campanas de America, Los Rivaless from Veracruz, the Mizoc dance group, Mariachi Charanda and the Quest Marimba Group.

"This is a very special night. It's almost like spending this evening back in Mexico," said Mexican Vice Consul Eduardo Cervera.

Klett's walk nears end as donations top $6,500 mark

Wes Klett, chairman of the 1993 United Way fundraising campaign was expected to end his 50-mile "Care Walk" in Amarillo today, bringing to a close a very successful campaign kickoff.

As of 11 a.m. Friday, the United Way office here had computed pledges and donations toward the walk totalled $6,585, with additional pledge cards pending.

In addition, West Central Intermediate School provided assistant principal Sarah Gallagher to walk five miles Thursday and challenged other schools to match their pledge.

On Thursday, the United Way raised about $2,000 during the breakfast, through the sale of "slaves" and through the donation by Ronald Fuhrman of the $150 he won from the chamber.

As a result, total donations through the first two days of the campaign, including the walk, slave sale and other gifts, totalled just over $13,000.

The two-day kick-off total, said executive director Sally Nolen, is "higher than we've every been for a kick-off."

Mrs. Nolen especially praised the Don Tardy Agency, which not only provided volunteer walkers to accompany Klett -- "They had so many people walk with him," she said -- but they also collected about $1,000 in pledges for the walk.

The fundraising campaign will continue for several weeks, with volunteers trying to raise some $150,000 to fund 12 agencies.

Klett's walk was to meet with every agency, including three based in Amarillo.

He was expected to arrive at the Girl Scout office in Amarillo at about 1:30 p.m., the first stop there.

Go Herd!

The Hereford High School varsity cheerleaders to their part to pump up the crowd at a Thursday afternoon send-off pep rally at the school. The rally was held just before the football team left for Lubbock, where they played the Monterey Plainsmen, falling by a score of 27-13. See story, Page 5.

Clinton expected to seek jobless benefits extension

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration plans to ask Congress next week to extend federal emergency jobless benefits that are due to expire at the end of the month for hundreds of thousands of unemployed workers.

Labor Secretary Robert Reich is scheduled to appear before the House Ways and Means Committee on Wednesday to talk about the administration proposal, his press secretary, Mary Meagher, said Thursday.

However, the length of the extension and how it would be financed were not disclosed.

Reich told a small group of reporters last week that administration officials were leaning toward an extension "because unemployment is still very high and there's still vast numbers of Americans who are exhausting their unemployment insurance."

But the secretary said then the emergency program was an extraordinarily expensive program and added, "I doubt very much that this next round of federal extension ... will go the full 26 weeks."

Congress enacted the federal emergency program in 1991 to provide up to 26 weeks of additional benefits to laid-off workers who had exhausted their regular unemployment insurance under state programs.

The regular program was created by Congress, but administered by the states and financed by taxes on employers. The amount of the weekly benefits varies from state to state, often depending on the amount of the tax, but has averaged $170 per week nationally. The state programs vary from 20 weeks to 26 weeks.

But because of the stubbornly high level of unemployment, Congress four times extended the federal program for another 26 weeks. The last extension, in March 1993, expires Oct. 1.

But Congress also ordered the department to cut by as much as half the number of weeks that laid-off workers could receive emergency benefits if the national unemployment rate fell below 7 percent for two consecutive months.

The rate fell from 6.8 percent in July to 6.7 percent in August and, as a result, the department has reduced the length of federal benefit payments from 26 weeks to 15 weeks in Alaska, California, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island and West Virginia.

In the other states and territories, the length of payments was cut to 10 weeks from 20. The eligibility period was determined by a state's unemployment situation.

Since the first extension in 1991, Reich said, the federal government has spent $25 billion on emergency benefits.

"This is on top of the state-federal unemployment insurance system which costs, depending on the unemployment rate in that particular year, about $25 to $30 billion a year," he said.

Astronauts tackle experiments after successful walk in space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - Discovery's astronauts, fresh off a rigorous tool-testing spacewalk, today returned to studies on cosmic radiation, crystal growth and gastrointestinal functions.

Mission Control, which traditionally wakes astronauts with theme music for the day's activities, got a surprise late Thursday night when astronauts beat them to it.

They beamed down composer Aaron Copeland's "Fanfare For The Common Man" five minutes before their scheduled wake up call from Earth.

"We didn't mean to preempt your music, just precede it," Discovery commander Frank Culbertson Jr. told Mission Control's Susan Helms.

On the five-man crew's agenda today were several experiments and maintenance on other ongoing studies.

One experiment involves monitoring how computers are affected by cosmic radiation. Another includes equipment growing large, structurally perfect protein crystals possible only in the low gravity of space.

Astronauts Daniel Bursch and James Newman got to work on an investigation of spaceflight's effects on gastrointestinal functions, "which they lovingly call 'Spit, Pee and Burp,'" Culbertson said.

"I just wanted you to know they're hard at it," he told ground controllers.

The crew also was to repressurize Discovery's cabin, which was partially depressed for several days to help spacewalkers avoid the scuba-diving malady known as "the bends" when they stepped into the space vacuum.

Newman and crewmate Carl Walz spent seven hours Thursday working outside, mostly along the edge of Discovery's payload bay but at times floating over a wing at more than 17,000 miles per hour.

They tested a power ratchet and five other tools NASA is planning to send on the Hubble Space Telescope repair mission. It was the astronauts' third and final spacewalk to prepare for that important 11-day mission in December.

Milt Heflin, flight director for the Hubble mission, said the spacewalk was "a confidence builder, a day that I consider adding to our margins for success."

Discovery's crew has only one major remaining task: to pick up an orbiting ultraviolet telescope that was dropped off Monday. They'll pick it back up Sunday before returning to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida early Tuesday.

Houston area Lotto players win half of $10 million pot

By The Associated Press
Six tickets, three of them purchased in the Houston area, correctly matched all six numbers drawn Wednesday night for the twice-weekly Lotto Texas game, state lottery officials said. The ticket is worth $10 million.

The other three tickets were purchased in central, southeast and northeast Texas.

The numbers drawn Wednesday night from a field of 50 were: 2, 14, 21, 30, 37 and 45.

In addition to the jackpot winners, there were 285 tickets sold with five of the six numbers, with each ticket worth $1,033. There were 10,822 tickets with four of six numbers, with each winning $98. And there were 184,714 tickets sold with three of six numbers, with each worth an automatic $3.

Lotto officials estimate the jackpot for Saturday night's game will be $3 million.

Sales from Saturday to Wednesday's draw were $11.9 million.

GOP, Democrats start election year rhetoric

AUSTIN (AP) - State Republicans are accusing Texas Democratic leaders of waste, fraud and failure. The GOP also announced hiring a campaign veteran to keep the heat turned up.

Democrats defended their records, and turned the criticism back on Republicans.

Welcome to the 1994 campaign. Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, State Comptroller John Sharp and Attorney General Dan Morales "have used their taxpayer-funded offices to churn out reams of self-promoting propaganda," State GOP Chairman Fred Meyer said Thursday.

Meyer blamed the Democrats for a 46 percent budget increase, local property tax hikes, a business income tax and the addition of 22,000 state employees.

He also announced the hiring of Ray Sullivan, who recently worked for U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas, to lead a statewide campaign to "focus on Richards' policy failures and the failures of other leading Democrats to live up to their promises."

Richards' spokesman Bill Cryer defended the governor, saying that the current state budget has a lower increase from a previous budget than previous budgets going back as far as the 1950s, the crime rate is down, students are scoring higher on school tests and the number of Texas jobs has increased more than any other state.

"We're getting into the silly season of Fred Meyer churning out a press release a day and the press getting response," Cryer said.

Morales' spokesman Ron Dusek said, "The attorney general said he is too busy with his official duties of running the attorney general's office to respond to political rhetoric."

Bullock said through spokeswoman Mary Jane Wardlow, "I'm not surprised that Fred Meyer has hired a political consultant."

Andy Welch, a spokesman for Sharp, called Meyer's charges "baseless."

Welch said increases in the budget and state work force were mostly the result of federal requirements and public demands for more prisons and law enforcement.

He said that the Legislature was able to avoid a tax increase last session because of money-saving changes proposed by Sharp, which were endorsed by Meyer. Welch noted that one Republican group was so impressed with Sharp's cost-cutting recommendations that they asked him to switch parties.

"Now that the election is approaching, it's Republicans whose feet are shaking in the sand because the Democrats brought about all these good things," Welch said.

Collider foes hear Gramm criticism

By MICHELLE MITTELSTADT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. Phil Gramm says it's clear that foes of the space station and super collider are seeking to kill the big-ticket programs only so they can funnel the money to their own pet projects.

The proof, the Texas Republican said Thursday, is that the legislation to terminate the massive science projects doesn't earmark any savings for deficit reduction.

"What they are asking us to do is not kill the space station to reduce the deficit, but kill the space station so they can invest in more programs that buy votes," Gramm said. "It's a question of investing in the next generation through science and technology or in the next election by killing off science programs."

The projects' leading Senate critic, Arkansas Democrat Dale Bumpers, will introduce legislation to terminate space station funding when the Senate votes Monday on its appropriation. He'll do the same the following week when senators debate collider funding.

"It's very instructive to me that the Bumpers amendments do not lower the spending caps by the amount he would cut the space station and super collider," said Gramm, who is lobbying actively to save both programs.

The projects mean billions of dollars and thousands of jobs to Texas. The super collider, now estimated at $11 billion to build, is under construction south of Dallas, in Waxahachie. The Johnson Space Center near Houston is the lead center for development of the space station, now pegged at $22 billion.

To date, $9 billion has been spent on the space station and $1.6 billion on the giant atom smasher. The White House is seeking $2.1 billion for the space station next year and $640 million for the super collider.

At a Capitol news conference Thursday, Bumpers and another critic, Senate Budget Committee Chairman Jim Sasser, said they would like to see any savings dedicated to deficit reduction. But Bumpers acknowledged that his amendments don't specify where the money would go.

Bumpers and Sasser, D-Tenn., challenged their colleagues to live up to the deficit-cutting rhetoric that flowed from Capitol Hill during the recent budget debate.

"Sen. Bumpers and I are giving our colleagues the opportunity to vote for spending cuts ... to put their votes where their histrionics were a few weeks ago," said Sasser, D-Tenn.

Opponents may have their best chance yet for victory - in part because the House has voted to pull the plug on the super collider and gave the barest vote of confidence to the space station.

But Bumpers isn't predicting success.

"If we'd have voted on the space station and the collider 60 days ago they'd have both been gone by now," he said. "Unhappily, the chronology was such that we couldn't do that. Obviously some of the euphoria for spending cuts back then has waned."

Gramm also was reluctant to predict the outcome.

"I know a lot of work is going on," he said. "I think we are doing a good job of getting our facts out to the members of the Senate, but it's going to be a very close vote."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read a story in the Contra Costa Times that made such an impression I can't get it out of my mind. Will you track down the hero of that article and find out if he had to pay a big price for doing the right thing?

A North Hollywood man named John Leslie, 28, was taking the California State Bar exam along with 600 others, when the man next to him suffered a violent epileptic seizure. There were no phones in the area, so 911 was not called. Leslie, a musician and former lifeguard, knew exactly what to do in this emergency and proceeded to do it, giving no thought to the possibility that the diversion might affect the results of his bar exam.

I was disturbed to read that the State Bar officials denied the good Samaritan extra time to complete his exam. I am haunted by the thought that John Leslie may have flunked his exam because he took time out to do this good deed. Please find out what happened, and let me know.—Oakland, Calif.

DEAR OAKLAND: You will be happy to know, as I was, that John Leslie passed the bar. The exam was a three-day affair, and the incident occurred during the first day. State Bar officials graciously offered to eliminate the section of the test that Mr. Leslie had missed.

When I spoke with Mr. Leslie, he strongly recommended that everyone take a class in CPR offered by the Red Cross. In his words, "You never know when you might need it, and it can save a life." The next letter makes the point better than anything I might say:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: While on our honeymoon cruise this past June, my husband and I went snorkeling in the Virgin Islands. We were somehow separated while we were in the water, and a short time later, I heard a siren that sounded like an ambulance.

I came out of the water and discovered a commotion going on near the boat. My husband was drowning. He managed to signal for help, but when his rescuers got to him, he went into cardiac arrest. By the time I reached him, he was blue. Thinking quickly, several people nearby took turns administering CPR. They saved my husband's life.

Ann, it's a terrible feeling to stand by and watch helplessly because you don't know what to do. I can't stress enough the importance of learning CPR. I have just completed a CPR course with the Red Cross, and now I know how to help save a life.—Blessed and Grateful in New York

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A lovely couple in our social circle have had some cruel blows these past months. Their young daughter dropped out of high school, left home, came back pregnant and will deliver in about a month. Their son, who is 26, has AIDS and is living and working in a hospice.

What is the best thing to do under these sad circumstances? Should we pretend we don't know and remain silent? If you feel we should say something, what is the best approach? Please give us some help. We are—Without a Clue in New Jersey

DEAR NO CLUE IN N.J.: When friends have trouble, they need to know they are not alone. Silence is equivalent to abandonment.

A few kind words can be enormously helpful. A phone call or a short note saying, "We are so sorry to hear about your trouble," would mean a great deal to those struggling parents. Do it today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two weeks ago my mother-in-law telephoned my husband and asked him to come right over because she wanted to tell him that she had been diagnosed with breast cancer. She wanted only her three sons present. My husband made it clear that I was not welcome.

When I asked him what he thought of his mother leaving me out as if I were a stranger, he said, "It's her right."

Since my husband and his mother are treating me this way, I don't feel like part of this family, so why should I bother to ask him how she is or even go visit her?

Ann, I was really hurt by this. Now my husband is depressed and hostile. He says to just leave him alone. I think he should call his mother's doctor and find out just how serious her condition is.

I need your advice.—Mississauga, Ontario

DEAR ONTARIO: Breast cancer, when detected and treated early, does not have to be fatal. Let's hope your mother-in-law's cancer is in this category.

I do not recommend phoning the doctor to inquire about the seriousness of her illness. No first-rate physician will discuss a patient's condition with a third party.

Meanwhile, don't let this ruin your marriage. The fact that your mother-in-law didn't want you present when she broke the news may have hurt your feelings, but it was HER decision, and she had the right to handle it in her own way.

Monterey defense smothers Herd's running game

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Monterey's aggressive defense spent much of Thursday's game in Hereford's offensive backfield, and it teamed with an effective offense for a 27-13 win over the Herd at Lubbock's Lowrey Field.

The Plainsmen defense dominated Hereford for much of the game, allowing only two drives on which Hereford got more than one first down.

Here's the killer statistic: minus-5 yards rushing. Hereford ran 25 running plays for gains of 55 yards, but quarterback Elias Reyna was sacked eight times for 61 yards in losses (he escaped once for a one-yard gain). One of the sacks resulted in a lost fumble in Monterey territory, killing one chance for Hereford to score and starting Monterey's first scoring drive.

"We had some breakdowns offensively and defensively, and we weren't able to cover up for them," Herd coach Danny Haney said. "We got outplayed tonight. I'm not going to make a lot of excuses because Monterey's got a good team."

Hereford's defense performed well early, stopping Monterey's first two possessions, both of which started in Hereford territory because Hereford was punting against the wind. The defense seemed to tire, though, after the Hereford offense gained only one first down on its first three possessions.

Monterey's defensive ends put on a strong rush against Reyna, and Herd tailback Marquise Brown was hit in the backfield on many plays. Brown, who totaled 320 yards in Hereford's first two games, ran for only 36 yards Thursday.

"The (Monterey) defensive ends were pretty good," said offensive guard Ben Celaya. "We were getting whipped by them. We were breaking down. We had a lot of mental mistakes. The team as a whole—we weren't clicking. It wasn't just one person, it was the whole team that just didn't play. We had a lot of breakdowns."

The third time Hereford's defense went on the field, following Reyna's fumble, Monterey mounted a scoring drive of 62 yards on six plays. Tailback Levone Maden scored on a 15-yard run on the first play of the second quarter. The kick was wide, but the Plainsmen led 6-0.

Hereford used a little trickery for a touchdown in the next possession. Brown broke loose for a 14-yard gain into Monterey territory, but the drive stalled. Hereford lined up to punt on fourth-and-four at the 43, but punter Cameron Betzen threw to a leaping Stacey Sanders over the middle for a 17-yard catch and a first down.

Five plays and one 10-yard facemask penalty later, fullback Justin Wright plowed two yards for the score. Terance High's kick hit the left upright and bounced straight back, leaving the score tied at 6-6 with 6:00 left in the half.

"I just felt like it would give us a spark...and it did," Haney said of the decision to go for the fake punt. He added that since the ball was at the Monterey 43-yard line, Hereford wouldn't be too bad off if it failed, and a punt wouldn't help all that much.

"I thought it was a good gamble, and it turned out it was," he said.

77 yards in 13 plays and scoring with 39 seconds left in the half. Plainsman quarterback Dee Buchanan had his only two completions of the night on that drive, hitting Corey Jones for seven yards to set up the score, then finding tight end Theo Unbehagen in the back of the end zone for a six-yard strike. The pass for a two-point conversion failed—Hayden Andrews knocked the ball down—and Monterey led 12-6.

Hereford threatened to score with the little time left on the clock after Brown's 19-yard to the Monterey 42, but Reyna was sacked twice to end that.

Hereford received to start the second half but had to go against the wind. All three of its possessions in the third quarter went 1-2-3-punt, and that, Haney said, was the game.

The key "was our inability to move the ball in the third quarter," he said. "We were punting into the wind, which gave them great field position. We couldn't give our defense a break."

The first possession included a third-down sack of Reyna for a 13-yard loss to the 15. Betzen's punt into the wind went only 18 yards, and three plays later Maden was in the end zone again after running nine yards. He ran for the two points, too, giving Monterey a 20-6 lead with 9:02 left in the third.

Betzen, punting in his first varsity game, made an adjustment and nailed a 36-yarder and a 39-yarder into the wind after Hereford's next two

Herd gets win after Tascosa forfeits games

Despite losing the first three games of the season, Hereford's football team is 1-2 after a decision by the District 3-5A executive committee.

It was found that Tascosa used an ineligible player in its first two games, including season-opening win over Hereford. The district committee ruled that Tascosa would have to forfeit that win and a win over Borger in the second week of the season.

Hereford coach Danny Haney said Friday morning that he hadn't been notified of the decision, but that if the ruling was made by the district's executive committee, then it was official.

Haney wasn't interested in getting a win through a forfeit.

"We'll never count wins and losses this way," he said. "What occurred, as far as we're concerned, occurred on the field. We're not going to concern ourselves with wins of this nature."

The unnamed player was a reserve who participated on kickoff teams and had one tackle in one of the games, according to a report in Friday's Amarillo Daily News.

A Tascosa High School counselor discovered that the player did not have enough classroom credits to be eligible for football this year. The counselor reported the discovery to Tascosa coach Duane Huey, who reported it to Amarillo ISD athletic director Sonny Lang on Monday.

The committee, made up of the principals of the six schools in the district, met in special session Thursday in Plainview. No other action would be taken against Tascosa, committee chairman David Cargill said.

Mojo magic to perform in Amarillo

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)—Odessa Permian leaped into a share of No. 1 in Class 5A this week by defeating a defending champion. To stay there, they'll have to beat the team that kept them from a chance at that 1992 title.

The Panthers, who share the top spot with Dallas Carter, take their Mojo magic to Amarillo on Saturday hoping to avenge a 10-7 state quarterfinal loss to the Sandies last December.

Amarillo reached the 5A Division II semifinals last year and were sent home by eventual champ Temple, which was thrashed 35-7 last weekend by Permian.

"I'm sure the kids will be very keyed up and ready to play because of that, but it's not something we're going to harp on," Permian coach Tam Hollingshead said. "It's our last non-district game and we've got to show some progress."

With no head-to-head games between Top 10 teams this weekend and most district openers still a week away, that Region I rematch is easily the game of the week.

Other interesting 5A games include Carter at Fort Worth Dunbar on Saturday and No. 3 Converse Judson playing Round Rock in what likely will be the Rockets' third straight game without all-state running back Jerod Douglas.

Douglas missed the first two games with a bruised rear and now back spasms make him questionable. Without him, the defending Division I champs tied San Antonio Marshall 14-14 last week to fall from No. 1.

Also worth watching is to see whether Arlington Sam Houston can become the first team this season to score against No. 9 DeSoto and how Temple rebounds against San Angelo Central.

"It's an important week for us after the way we got thumped last week," Wildcats coach Bob McCann said. "We've sort of been living in a dream world and that loss to Permian sort of brought us back to earth."

The best 4A matchup pits defending champion and newly crowned No. 1 Waxahachie against Corsicana.

Seventh-ranked West Orange-Stark hoped to have coach Dan Hooks back this week after he served a two-game suspension for trying to get a grade changed, but on Tuesday the UIL slapped him with six more games on the sidelines for other charges.

Even without him, the Mustangs still should be able to defeat Vidor at home.

Several other teams may have to struggle to remain in the 4A poll, with No. 8 A&M Consolidated at Huntsville and No. 10 Bay City at Brenham.

Omaha Paul Pruitt will get its first test as Class 2A's No. 1 squad by playing Hooks.

Emmitt inks 4-year deal with Cowboys

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Emmitt Smith proved to be as hard a negotiator as he is difficult to tackle.

"My mother always told me 'don't let anyone run over you,'" Smith said after signing a four-year deal for $13.6 million that made him the highest paid running back in the NFL.

"I felt I wasn't wanted by the Dallas Cowboys organization. The deal should have been done a long time ago."

Owner Jerry Jones called it win-win. But it was more like lose-lose.

Jones had said he would never pay Smith more than Buffalo's Thurman Thomas. Jones admitted he "miscalculated."

Smith hung tough and got much more than Jones wanted to pay, including a reported $4 million signing bonus and 1993 salary of $3 million. Smith will make $2.2 million in 1994, $2.4 million in 1995 and $2.2 million in 1996.

"I got what I wanted. I wanted to be the highest-paid running back in the NFL," Smith said.

"But it was the hardest thing for me to do, to sit in the living room and watch my teammates play on television. It was wearing on me and it was wearing on the team."

"It hurt me when I saw coach Johnson interviewed on television after the Buffalo loss. It was like he was fighting a war with a cap gun."

Smith admitted that "if the team had been 2-0, it's possible that I wouldn't be here."

Smith said he hoped to be ready to play on Sunday against Phoenix but added, "Derrick Lassic deserves to start. I'm not sure how far I can go. It's possible I could hurt the team more than help it."

Coach Jimmy Johnson said Smith may be used sparingly against the Cardinals.

"If Emmitt is available it will be only on a very limited basis," Johnson said. "He has missed a tremendous amount of work but should be ready for the Green Bay game on Oct. 3."

Asked if there was a miscue against Smith, Jones said, "I may have miscalculated but I've never miscalculated his importance. Emmitt will always be a Cowboy."

Jones said he would get to work on signing quarterback Troy Aikman next. Aikman has two years left on his contract, but Jones would like to sign the player so he could front-load the pact with money this year that won't count against the salary cap.

Smith's agent, Richard Howell, had scooped Jones on releasing the news earlier Thursday. While Howell's office in Atlanta was confirming to The Associated Press an agreement had been reached, Jones' office in Dallas refused to confirm anything had happened until 90 minutes later.

Smith's teammates, including rookie Lassic, were jubilant.

"Hallelujah," Lassic shouted. "I think he's going to get some playing time" Sunday, quarterback Troy Aikman said. "I'd be willing to bet on that. I think everybody realizes Emmitt has not practiced with the team in quite some time but he can certainly help us."

"I hope both sides can put any ill feelings behind them."

Wide receiver Michael Irvin, a close friend of Smith, said, "It's great to have him back. What happened was business. If you were Emmitt, you would have done the same thing."

Defensive tackle Tony Casillas said "a big cloud has been lifted from this team. Maybe we can settle down and play football."

Added offensive lineman Nate Newton: "The offensive line couldn't be any happier, I'll tell you that."

Smith also was happy about another thing. He got his Super Bowl ring.

"The ring was sitting on a seat all by itself when Jerry arrived in Atlanta," Smith said. "I was wondering when I was going to get it."

Asked if he could get the team back in the winning column, Smith replied, "I'm not God almighty. It's going to take a lot of work and jelling together. It's a tough climb but we can do it."

Braves get another last-inning win

ATLANTA (AP) - Two dramatic last-ditch wins are not what Jeff Blauser had in mind for the torrid Atlanta Braves.

Blauser, given a second chance, came through with an infield single in the 12th inning Thursday night, knocking in the run that gave the Braves a 3-2 victory over Cincinnati and a three-game sweep of the Reds.

The Braves, who have won eight of nine and 29 of 35 games, moved four games ahead of idle San Francisco in the NL West race. Atlanta has 15 games remaining and the Giants, who are in an eight-game losing streak, have 17 left.

On Wednesday night, the Braves scored five runs in the ninth inning - capped by Ron Gant's three-run homer - to beat the Reds 7-6.

"It would be a nice feeling to have the game won earlier," Blauser said. "You just don't want to get in the habit of winning at the end. It takes a lot out of you and we sure could use a rest."

In the NL's other pennant race Thursday night, the Montreal Expos won for the 17th time in 19 games with a 4-3 victory over St. Louis. But it was a costly win as outfielder Moises Alou fractured his left fibula and dislocated the ankle rounding first base after he singled in the seventh inning.

The Expos are within five games of first-place Philadelphia and will play host to the Phillies for three games starting tonight.

In the other NL games it was Colorado 6, Houston 3; and Pittsburgh 10, Florida 0.

The Reds went ahead 2-1 when Jacob Brumfield led off the ninth with his sixth homer of the season and third in four games.

David Justice, however, hit his 37th of the year in the bottom of the inning to tie it.

Blauser wasn't complaining, which is what the Reds could have done after dropping their sixth straight.

Gant drove in Atlanta's first run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning.

Cincinnati first baseman Hal Morris made a diving stab over the line of Blauser's winning hit with two outs and the bases loaded, but pitcher Scott Service (2-2) was late in covering and Bill Pecota scored the winning run.

Blauser was appreciative of a second opportunity, having failed to come through in the eighth when the Braves had runners at first and third with one out. He grounded to third, and John Smoltz was thrown out at the plate. Gant then flied out to end the inning.

Smoltz pitched nine innings, giving up seven hits, walking none and striking out seven. Greg McMichael had two scoreless innings and Steve Bedrosian (4-2) got the win with a hitless 12th.

Expos 4, Cardinals 3
There was little talk of the big road win or the upcoming series with

Philadelphia after Alou's obviously painful injury, which occurred when he started toward second and then went to return to first after a single.

The Expos led 3-1, but the Cardinals tied it in the fifth on a two-run homer by Mark Whiten. Montreal scored the game-winner in the sixth on a sacrifice fly by Marquis Grissom.

Fassero (11-4) allowed three runs on nine hits in five innings and John Wetteland finished for his 38th save.

Expos 10, Marlins 0
John Hope and three relievers combined on a three-hitter as Florida was swept at home for the first time.

Hope went four hitless innings and had to leave the game with severe leg cramps after his bunt single in the fifth.

Rockorado 3, Astros 3
Colorado completed a four-game sweep of Houston and won its seventh straight at home when Jerald Clark's three-run homer completed a four-run eighth and broke the final tie.

Stanley leaves Yanks stranded

NEW YORK (AP) - What could've been a grand night for Mike Stanley and the New York Yankees instead became a discouraging loss.

Stanley, tied for the major league lead with three grand slams, came close to another one in the eighth inning Thursday night on a fly ball that was caught by right fielder Bob Deer.

Stanley got one more chance in the ninth, but struck out with the bases loaded to end the game, a 6-4 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

It was a good night for former Yankee Dave Winfield, who became the 19th player in major league history to get 3,000 hits as Minnesota beat Oakland 5-4 in 13 innings.

Randy Johnson, almost traded by Seattle to the Yankees in late July, tossed 7 1-3 no-hit innings against Kansas City in Seattle's 14-1 victory at the Kingdome.

The Yankees lost for the seventh time in 10 games and fell into a second-place tie in the AL East with Baltimore, three games behind Toronto. New York's deficit is its biggest since Aug. 3.

Stanley nearly tied it in the eighth. The Yankees, who fell behind Frank Viola (11-8) early, made it 6-2 in the seventh on Randy Velarde's single off Scott Bankhead.

A single and two walks loaded the bases with no outs in the eighth.

Stanley went the opposite way on a 3-2 pitch from Ken Ryan, lofting a long drive to right field that brought Yankees players rushing out of the dugout with their arms raised.

Twins 5, Athletics 4, 13 innings

Dave Winfield's 3,000th career hit sparked a game-tying, ninth-inning rally off Dennis Eckersley, and Minnesota went on to beat Oakland with three runs in the 13th inning at the Metrodome.

The Twins were held to four hits through eight innings - including Winfield's seventh-inning single, his 2,999th hit - by Miguel Jimenez and Kelly Downs before Eckersley came in to start the ninth with a 2-0 lead.

Kirby Puckett led off with a triple and Chip Hale struck out. After falling behind 1-2 in the count and fouling off a pitch to stay alive, Winfield hit a sharp grounder between shortstop and third base, driving in Puckett.

Mariners 14, Royals 1

Randy Johnson (17-8) came within five outs of his second career no-hitter before Brian McRae doubled in the eighth inning as Seattle routed Kansas City at the Kingdome.

Johnson struck out 15 to extend his major league-leading strikeout total to 277. He walked six and hit a batter in his bid to duplicate his only career no-hitter, a 2-0 win June 2, 1990, against Detroit in the Kingdome. The 15 strikeouts matched his season high set against Kansas City on June 14.

Chris Bosio pitched a no-hitter for the Mariners April 22 against Boston in a 7-0 win in Seattle.

Greg Litton had four RBIs with a pair of doubles and Rich Amaral tripled with the bases loaded for Seattle.

Baylor, Tech, A&M hope to rebound from defeat

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

Baylor, Texas Tech and Texas A&M have redemption on their minds this week.

Each had a chance to bring new respect to the tarnished image of the Southwest Conference last week. They all failed and now we get to see just how resilient they are.

Baylor, mauled by Colorado, plays at Utah State; Texas Tech, beaten by Nebraska after playing well for three quarters, plays at Georgia and the Aggies, blindsided by Oklahoma, host Missouri.

Rice (1-1) hosts Sam Houston State (1-0) and Texas (0-1) returns from an open date to host the No. 6 Syracuse Orangemen (2-0). Houston (0-2), Texas Christian (1-1) and Southern Methodist (0-2) have open dates.

Texas Tech (1-1) coach Spike Dykes is all for more victories for the SWC family but he's not giving that much thought.

"I've got more than I can say grace over with this team," Dykes said. "We've got ourselves a wounded elephant here (Georgia is 0-2). "They are mad I'm sure. They've done everything but win."

The Bulldogs have lost to South Carolina and Tennessee and Dykes hopes the Raiders' pass-catch combo of Robert Hall to Lloyd Hill will work in Athens. Georgia can play the same game with quarterback Eric Zeier and receiver Brice Hunter.

The Aggies (1-1) had a hectic week in preparing for Oklahoma. They learned as they prepared on Friday to leave for Norman that five players had been suspended by the NCAA.

When they finally got into the game, quarterback Corey Pullig had an off day, nullifying the offense. The Aggies lost 44-14, saw their No. 5 national rank shrink to No. 16 and national championship hopes all but disappear.

"I asked my wife if you could get an ulcer in one day," Coach R.C. Slocum said. "Your stomach is burning before the game and then to go up there and get beat like that, it just kills you."

Baylor had a whiplash first two weeks with a victory over Fresno State that got them a No. 24 ranking in The Associated Press college poll in coach Chuck Reedy's first game as head coach.

Then came the fall off the cliff in a 45-12 loss to Colorado that sent them back to the drawing boards.

Now they must make a difficult trip to Utah State to play a night game on grass. The travel plans are inconvenient to say the least.

"There are a lot of distractions and it's going to be a hardship," Reedy said. "But I told the team that we have to go play and play better than we did last week."

The defense must improve drastically. Baylor has allowed 84 points in two games and yielded 1,146 yards, ranking the Bears 105th among 106 NCAA Division 1-A schools in total defense.

Rice had its moment of truth last week trying to recover from its loss to Ohio State and the Owls succeeded with a 34-0 shutout of Tulane. Now Coach Fred Goldsmith is pumping up Division 1-AA Sam Houston State, a team they beat 45-14 last season.

"We hit them with a couple of early big plays but we didn't get much after that," Goldsmith said. "Sam Houston is better than a lot of Division 1-A teams. They are the best 1-AA team in this part of the country."

Texas, rested with a week off after losing to No. 7 Colorado in its' opener, isn't flinching at its rugged non-conference schedule.

"We'd like to be thought of as a national team," Texas coach John Mackovic said. "We don't want to put ourselves in the role of underdogs all the time. But over the long haul, I think it helps your recruiting."

HERD

possessions. It just meant Monterey had to drive farther.

The Plainsmen's second drive went deep into Hereford territory, but Herd linebacker Robert Jimenez pounced on a Chad Grant fumble at the 19 to end the threat.

After two incomplete passes and an 11-yard sack, Betzen's 39-yard kick couldn't get out of Hereford territory. Monterey drove 47 yards in 11 plays, ending in a two-yard scoring run by reserve tailback J.R. Mize. Corey Jones' kick extended Monterey's lead to 27-6 with 10:20 left to play in the game.

Hereford didn't give up. With the wind at his back, Reyna hit on 4-of-4 passes for 34 yards, including a nine-yard TD pass to Brown. Monterey helped out with two 15-yard personal foul penalties as the drive covered 67 yards in seven plays.

The scoring play was notable. Reyna lofted the ball to Brown coming out of the backfield. As Brown was running full speed, looking up over his shoulder and waiting for the ball to drop, it appeared that Monterey's Andrick Adams had a chance for highlight-film hit. But Brown caught the ball in stride and nimbly sidestepped Adams, leaving Adams to watch as Brown jogged past the goal line.

High's kick cut the Monterey lead to 27-13 with 6:48 left.

A Monterey fumble in the offensive backfield appeared for a moment to be the miracle Hereford needed, but a lone Plainsman outwrestled several Whitefaces for the ball.

Monterey was forced to punt, and Hereford started at its own 48 with 4:32 left. Reyna completed a 23-yard pass to Andrews on fourth-and-11, but Reyna was sacked on the next play for a ten-yard loss. On fourth-and-9 at the 28, Reyna found Brown on a short pass, but linebacker Paul Stevens tackled Brown as soon as the ball arrived for a two-yard gain.

Monterey got the ball on downs and ran out the clock from there.

A Field of 25,000

NEW YORK (AP) - Anybody can play - well, almost anybody - in the New York City Marathon, scheduled this year for Sunday, Nov. 14.

The starting field is expected to number 25,000 runners. There will be 12,000 accepted on a first-come, first-served basis. There will be 8,000 more international entrants, on a quota system by country. And the final 5,000 will be chosen in a lottery.

The race meanders through all five boroughs of New York over the classic distance of 26 miles, 385 yards.

Seeing Double

OVERLAND PARK, Kan. (AP)

- The NCAA believes it was a first. When VMI and Duke faced off in a baseball game earlier this year, spectators were seeing double when the ninth inning rolled around.

Each team had a twin battery. VMI had Merlin Ikenberry pitching and his twin, Marlin, catching.

Duke sent Phil Harrell to the mound and twin Matt Harrell behind the plate.

Luxury Seats

VERMILLION, S.D. (AP) - Everybody knows about the "couch potato," who lounges on a sofa at home with food and beverages handy while watching television. The University of South Dakota basketball team went that one better. For games at home in the Dakota Dome last season they placed two couches at courtside.

Jim Frye, one of the lucky fans, had this comment: "The view was great, the pop was cold and the pizza was hot."

Health tips for dogs who go on the road

Does Fido have his own seat in the family car? Is Boomer on a first-name basis with the airline flight attendants? Does Lady always insist on an evening constitutional?

Every dog owner knows that most dogs are prone to wanderlust. Maybe your dog is an escape artist, or maybe you're one of those people who likes to take your pet along as often as possible. Either way, you should be aware that dogs on the go are exposed to a variety of health risks for which you must be prepared.

The mobile dog doesn't have to travel far to come in contact with parasites, invisible to the eye, but common throughout the United States and a threat to every dog's health. When it comes to parasites, such as heartworms, hookworms and roundworms, a walk to the park can prove as risky to your dog as a trip out of town.

Heartworm disease is not an exotic ailment that owners must worry about only if they are taking their dogs out of state. Since it can potentially be transmitted anywhere mosquitoes exist, heartworm disease can affect any dog in the United States--indoors or outdoors.

Mature heartworms can grow up to 14 inches in length and can cause severe and potentially fatal damage to the heart, lungs and other vital organs. Fatigue, chronic cough and loss of appetite--the classic warning signs--do not typically appear until the disease is in the advanced state, which makes treatment risky, as well as costly.

Even if heartworm disease is less common in your area, your dog can become infected while visiting areas where heartworm disease is traditionally more prevalent. It is highly advisable to visit your veterinarian at least once a year for a heartworm test.

In addition to heartworm disease, intestinal parasites, called hookworms and roundworms can affect dogs of all ages, although puppies are more vulnerable. Puppies are born with parasites, which they can contract while still in their mother's womb or from nursing. Adult dogs can acquire parasites through contact with other dogs.

Only your veterinarian can diagnose these parasites in your dog and prescribe the treatment necessary to control them.

The American Veterinary Medical Association offers the following tips on traveling with your dog:

-If your dog is not accustomed to the car, take it for a few short rides before the trip.

-Stick to your regular feeding routine and give the main meal at the end of the day.

-Give small portions of both food and water and plan to stop every two hours for exercise. Remember to pack a leash.

-Dogs should not be allowed to ride with their heads outside the car window. Dirt particles can cause injury to the eyes, ears, nose and throat.

-When leaving your pet in a parked car, be sure to lock all the doors and open the windows enough to provide ventilation without allowing the animal to jump out or get its head caught.

-If you're camping out, be sure to keep your dog on a leash. Skunks, porcupines, snakes and other creatures can bite or injure your dog.

-If your dog is traveling by air, make sure the airline provides a strong, well-ventilated, leak-proof cage labeled with signs indicating that a live animal is contained within. The cage should be large enough to facilitate your dog's standing up and turning around.

-Take your dog to the veterinarian for a check-up before your trip, as well as a follow-up visit afterward.

Footwear takes shape for fall 1993 season

No more a mere accessory to fashion, shoes are a main attraction this season. Shape and structure are the buzzwords for fall's footwear collection.

Sculptural platforms soar: Granny boots and oxfords are grounded on chunky, "trapezoid" heels. Sturdy column heels lend a pedestal effect while creating intriguing angles between foot and floor.

"Industrial, technical, almost architectural in feeling, shoes are the foundation for this season's newest fashions," explains Bill Wyatt, vice president buying director for Kinney.

The look - determined and linear - will balance fall's softer ready-to-wear lines. Wyatt predicts the following styles to be this season's must-haves:

-Touch Enough - This group is the ultimate in "rebel chic." Aggressive shapes in smooth or matte black leather for day - and definitely for night. Platform boots on serious stacked heels to lace up, pull up, zip up and buckle up. They're tough. They're cool. They demand to be noticed. They're pure hard-edge design simplicity - with a complex attitude.

-Influenced by...The Immediate World - "Globalization" goes to our feet as well as our heads this season. A key influence is London - from Dickensian drab to Carnaby Street "mod." Then there are Russian soldiers, East Village bikers, American movie legends, MTV and Carmelite nuns.

Contradictions abound. Just when you think you get it...think again. Serious knee-high boots recall the "crossacks." Monumental black suede ankle-strap platforms suggest Betty Grable or the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Industrial-strength black leather lug sole oxfords and boots scream MTV, with a touch of "Clockwork Orange."

-Reality Check - For those who appreciate the "classics," Kinney offers beautifully styled options...with a twist. There are woven and smoothgrain leather flats to pair with pants or skirts of any length. The newest color: "politically correct" green. There are also clean-lined, utterly simple mantailored oxfords and loafers.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE KEEPERS OF THE TABERNACLE!

LEVITES, THE DESCENDANTS OF LEVI, ONE OF THE SONS OF JACOB, WERE TRADITIONALLY CHARGED WITH THE CARE OF THE SANCTUARY. IN THE TRIBE OF LEVI THERE WERE THREE TRIBAL FAMILIES, GERSHOM, KOHATH, AND MERARI. MOSES AND AARON WERE LEVITES OF THE HOUSE OF AMRAM AND FAMILY OF KOHATH (EX. 6:16-26). THE DERIVATION OF THE NAME LEVI MEANS A PERSON GIVEN IN PLEDGE TO A TEMPLE FOR A DEBT OR VOW. THUS SAMUEL WAS VOWED BY HIS MOTHER AT SHILO BEFORE HE WAS EVEN BORN! AARON AND HIS SONS WERE SET APART FOR THE PRIESTHOOD AND THE OFFICE WAS MADE HEREDITARY. IT MUST BE REMEMBERED THAT THE CARE OF THE TABERNACLE AND ITS SERVICE WAS GIVEN ON A NOBLE SCALE. THE CARE AND TRANSPORTATION OF THE COSTLY SANCTUARY AND THE PREPARATION OF MATERIALS FOR THE ELABORATE SERVICE, ENTAILED LABORS TO WHICH NO ONE MAN OR EVEN ONE FAMILY WAS EQUAL. THUS, THE ONLY WORK OF THE ENTIRE TRIBE OF LEVI WAS CARING FOR THE TABERNACLE AND GIVING SERVICES AS PRIESTS.
