Man shot in his kitchen

County records first homicide since 1990

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Sheriff's department officials are continuing their investigation into the first homicide in Deaf Smith County in nearly three years today.

Bill Gudgell, 50, died early Sunday morning from a gunshot wound to the head suffered late Saturday night in his home about 20 miles south of Adrian in rural Deaf Smith County.

Department spokeswoman Sharon Pennington said deputies were called to the home of Gudgell at 11:18 p.m. in reference to a shooting.

Hereford EMS director Ed McGinley said his office got the call at 11:16 p.m. and immediately responded to the scene, which was 38 miles away.

"We were out there in 37 minutes," he said.

McGinley said he contacted the Amarillo helicopter after the ambulance left the city limits, putting the crew on standby at the chopper.

After he contacted the Gudgell home and determined the man was the victim of a head injury, McGinley said, he ordered the helicopter to respond as well.

"They were there within a reasonable time after we got there," McGinley said.

By the time the helicopter had arrived, Gudgell had been stabilized and prepared for the journey to Northwest Texas Hospital, where he was pronounced dead a few hours later.

Potter County Justice of the Peace Haven Dysart ordered an autopsy and as of Monday had issued a preliminary ruling of homicide in the death, based on the initial investigation.

Pennington said Gudgell was shot in the head with an unknown weapon.

"It was not a suicide nor an accident," she said.

Sheriff Joe Brown on Tuesday said the gunshot was fired through the kitchen window.

He said a high-powered rifle was found outside the home, but he was not sure if that was the murder weapon.

Brown said Gudgell's wife, Donna, told deputies she had gone to take a shower, and that she heard a gunshot while she was in the shower, but said it was not unusual for her husband to shoot at coyotes.

Mrs. Gudgell returned to the kitchen from her shower to find her husband at the kitchen table.

Gudgell was a farmer and a truck driver for Adrian Wheat Growers Inc. He was a former member of the Adrian Independent School District board of trustees.

The last recorded murder in the county, Brown and Pennington said, was around Halloween 1990.

Commissioners looking at full-time recreation director

Focusing on City of Hereford parks and recreation, the City Commission will enter into talks with Hereford schools on the possibility of employing a full-time parks and recreation director.

The proposed joint effort of the city and Hereford Independent School District, as well as other parks projects, drew considerable discussion by the commission during a workshop Saturday.

Commissioners were advised by City Manager Chester Nolen that bids had been received for construction of a pavilion in Dameron Park and will be submitted to the commission at the next meeting, Sept. 20.

Nolen said he expects to recommend that the pavilion project be scrapped, because of expense, and money be spent for other improvements. Originally, the city planned to pay for the pavilion with money from the voluntary park fund.

Projects suggested by commissioners included a walking path, vandal-proof restrooms in two parks and a portable stage.

Commissioner Dennis Hicks reported that he had contacted officials in two cities, Plano and Abilene, about their parks and recreation programs, operated cooperatively with schools in the two cities.

A visitor to the meeting, Joe Flood, a member of the HISD board of trustees, questioned the proposed location of a swimming pool for the city. He suggested the city consider a site adjacent to the Smith Building which the school district is considering for purchase.

Nolen said traffic in that area and on U.S. 385 could be dangerous for youngsters walking to the pool.

Commissioner Hicks asked that a site near Hereford High School be considered instead of the city park at E. 15th and Avenue C.

Nolen reported a contract with an architect for the pool has been negotiated. Commissioner Roger Eades said representatives of the firm should be in Hereford in early October with drawings.

Expense of operating a year-around facility, Assistant City Manager Mike Hatley told the commission may be approximately $70,000 per year.

During the workshop, the commission also:

-- Heard a report on estimated cost of a water development project and plans for selling bonds for funding. Formal action on the proposal to sell $3 million in bonds will be taken at the commission's regular meeting next Monday.

-- Discussed sale of property purchased several years ago for water development. Authorization for the sale will be on the next meeting's agenda, also.

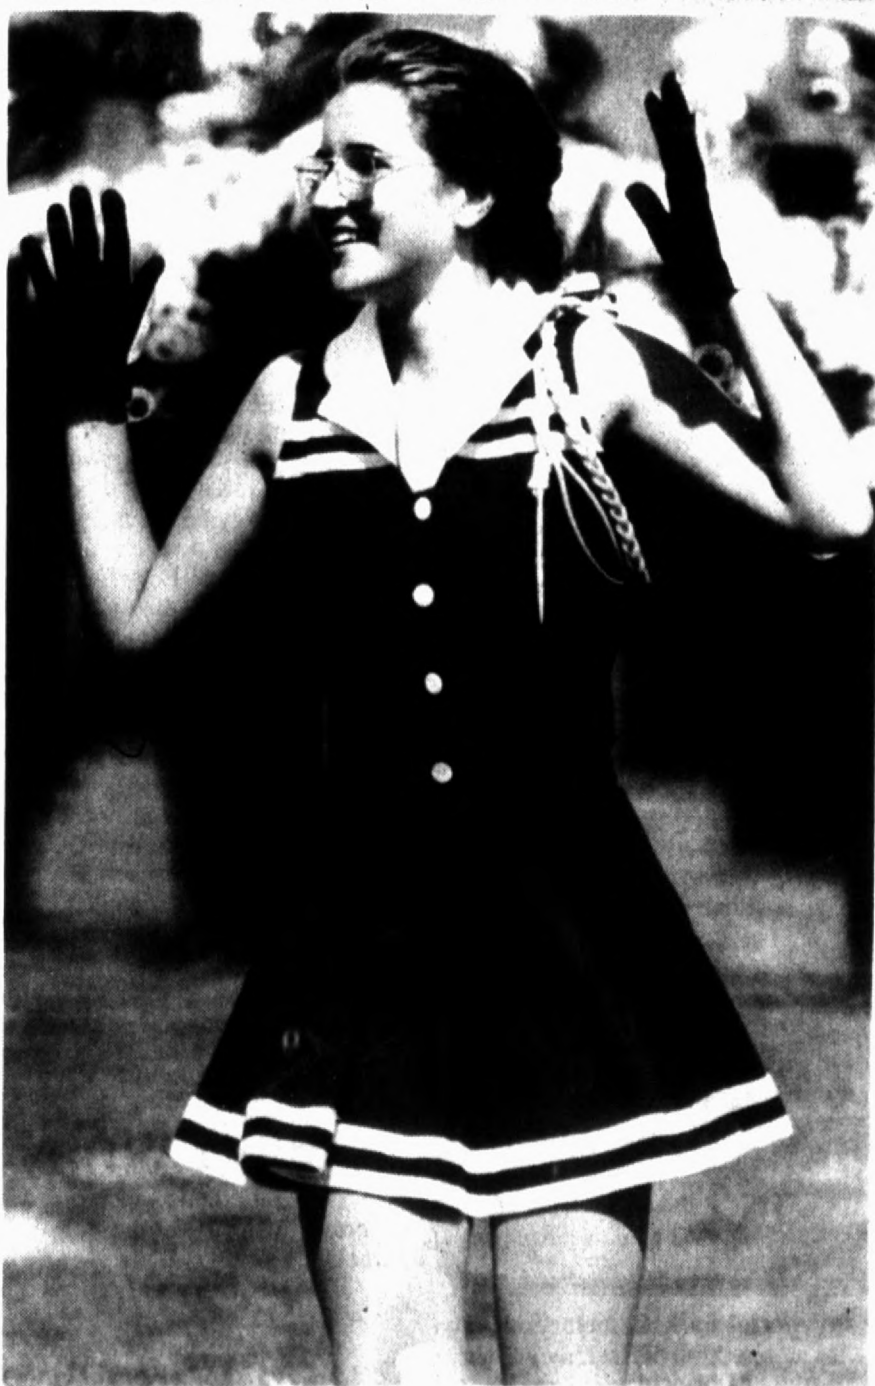

-- Received a report on the budget for the next fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1. A three percent pay increase for employees is included, Nolen said. Mayor Bob Josseland said salaries should be in line better with other cities in the area with the raise.

The mayor also said an increase in car allowance for the city manager also is included in the budget. He reported the cost to the city manager is closer to $600 per month than the $300 per month he receives. Commissioners agreed to a $500 monthly allowance.

Nolen reported that some capital expenditures originally proposed in the budget have been cut in the face of a 37 percent increase in health care rates for the next year. He said workers' compensation insurance will be lower, however.

-- Heard a proposal from Josseland to bring together representatives of the Hispanic community to form a liaison between the commission that segment of citizens of Hereford.

Adult learning center to be placed in library here

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A cooperative effort of several agencies and Deaf Smith County to provide educational opportunities for adults was given the go-ahead Monday by Commissioners' Court.

The Deaf Smith County Learning Center will be housed in the county's library where a computer lab will be installed.

Purpose of the learning center is to offer adult basic education and training for high school equivalency certificates. By combining resources, the agencies involved will reduce duplication of effort and improve access to the program.

Commissioners' Court approved the proposal during a regular meeting. In other business, commissioners:

-- Awarded a contract for an audit of the county's financial affairs to McGinty and Associates.

-- Accepted a bid from Conway Oil for fuel for the county.

-- Voted to accept the bid of Hereford Auto Center for purchase of a new van for the sheriff's department.

-- Renewed health insurance contract with S&R Benefits of Lubbock.

-- Voted for a resolution in support of the City of Hereford's project to build a new swimming pool.

-- Received information about a WorkSmart safety program provided by Deaf Smith General Hospital.

-- Conducted a public hearing on proposed traffic control signs on county roads and approved signs recommendations from the four precincts.

Tom Dressler, coordinator of the Job Training Partnership Act program with Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, reported that his agency will provide funds for necessary alterations to the basement room that will house the computer lab.

Rebecca Walls, Deaf Smith County librarian, said the estimate of expense for electrical work and partitions is approximately $6,000 which will be contributed by PRPC.

On a continuing basis, she said, the county's expense will be utilities for the facility and some literacy materials.

The community supervision and corrections department will assist with certain testing and provide some furniture. Personnel during off-hours also will be available.

Regional XIV Education Service Center in Amarillo will be responsible for instructional personnel as well as instructional supplies and materials.

In addition to the 16-computer lab, PRPC will provide software, training for instructional personnel, computer maintenance, some supportive services and some furniture.

Hereford schools in the past provided space for the adult education program. Because of the school district's need for rooms used in Stanton Learning Center, the new location in the library was suggested.

Three proposals for conducting an audit of the county's financial affairs were received by the commission. McGinty and Associates proposed to do the audit for the year ending Sept. 30 for a fee $7,500 to $8,000. The firm also agreed to perform the service at the same price per year for two succeeding years.

Also offering proposals were William E. Allen, at $7,800 to $8,500 per year, and Brown, Graham and Company, $9,000 to $9,750 for the first year, and up to $10,000 for each succeeding year.

On motion by Commissioner Moore of Precinct 3 and second by Commissioner Lupe Chavez of Precinct 2, the vote was unanimous to award the job to McGinty and Associates. Commissioner Tony Castillo of Precinct 1 joined in the vote. Commissioner Johnny Latham of Precinct 4 was not present.

The vote was unanimous, also, to accept the bid of Conway Oil to

Proposals also were received from Texas Association of Counties, Dodson

Officials anticipate fire hazard in dry area

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Federal and state officials are considering moving more firefighters and firefighting equipment into Central Texas because of dry weather that has increased the fire threat to parched grasslands.

During the weekend, President Clinton approved Gov. Ann Richards' request to declare 149 of Texas's 254 counties in a state of emergency so that federal Forest Service fire teams can be pre-positioned if the dry weather continues.

Plans to move in the fire teams are on hold while state and national forestry officials determine whether recent rains have lessened the threat since the request for emergency status was made Aug. 30, officials said.

Tom Millwee, coordinator for the state's Division of Emergency Management, said if the reevaluation finds that dangerous conditions are still present, firefighting planes, bulldozers and other equipment will be moved in from around the country.

"You're not going to want to wait four to eight hours to get anything in here," he told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. With high winds, fires can spread out of control in that amount of time, he said.

The declaration of emergency differs from a declaration of disaster in that the Federal Emergency Management Administration agrees to pay 75 percent of the cost to avert a disaster before it happens, rather than clean it up afterward. The state pays the rest.

It would cost about $30,000 a day to maintain a standby operation, with heavy firefighting possibly tripling that cost, the state Division of Emergency Management said.

The request was made after state and national forestry officials, in an assessment of recent grass fire activity, concluded that the 149 Texas counties were at high risk.

"At the time of the request, drought conditions had started to move into urban areas. We had the potential for another Oakland fire," said Carl Richie, the governor's deputy chief of staff.

He referred to a fire in Oakland last year in which more than 1,800 acres and 2,900 homes were burned, causing $5 billion in damage.

Perfume topic of sorority program

"The Story of Perfume" was featured as Deann Harris spoke to fellow members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Sept. 7 at West Texas Rural Telephone.

She noted that fragrances are classified as either Oriental, sweet floral, musky or chypres, which is a woody, musky scent. She distributed samples of each, noting that best results occur when scents are applied to pulse points.

Harris also said that layering fragrances, such as using a moisturizer of that scent, then adding perfume, would make the scent last longer. Since fragrances rise, she suggested applying them lower on the body, such as the back of the knees. She explained that each fragrance has its own special blend and balance and is composed of three notes: top, middle and bottom. The top note is the initial scent, a first impression while the middle note is the main body or principal essence. The bottom note is the element that lasts, the lingering aura. She had members complete a fragrance quiz to determine the fragrance best suited to each individual, noting that a number of people have a favorite, or "signature" fragrance.

Harris and co-hostess Peggy Hyer served German chocolate cake, tea and coffee to members in attendance: Linda Arellano, Melinda Henson, Ruby Lee, Connie Matthews, Brenda Ramey, Gaye Reily, Susan Shaw and Kay Williams. Diane Beavers was welcomed as a guest.

Among the announcements,

President Arellano reminded members that the regional convention will be held Nov. 6-7 in Pampa; deadline to register is Oct. 15. She announced that two cookbooks are being offered to members by International and can be ordered now.

Thank yous were extended to secret sisters for Beginning Day gifts by Susan Shaw, Brenda Ramey, Arellano and Reily.

Harris distributed chocolates as her way of announcing her pregnancy as she and husband, Mike, anticipate the arrival of their third child.

President Arellano read a thank you note from a church in Missouri for the chapter's donations of goods following the Midwest flood.

In routine committee reports, Treasurer Ruby Lee began collecting chapter dues. Service committee chairman Susan Shaw said the October date for refurbishing Christmas toys for the American Red Cross may be rescheduled. Program and yearbook committee chairman Henson distributed an information page on Melinda Whitfill and said the next meeting would be held at 6:50 p.m. Sept. 21 as members gather at the Arellano home, 222 Fir, for a field trip. The topic will be "Don't Bury Your Head in the Sand."

Vice President Connie Matthews noted that October Rush may be rescheduled and asked for names and addresses of potential rushees by the next meeting.

Following adjournment of the business meeting, closing ritual and Mizpah were repeated.

She has two children with her first husband, Capt. Mark Phillip. She married her second husband, Cmdr. Tim Laurence, last December.

Plan ahead before undertaking tasks

Have you ever started to sew something and you didn't have a needle? Or, have you been out in the middle of a lake in a fishing boat and there weren't any hooks in your tackle box?

Looking at the steps involved in getting something done--what educators call "task analysis" or as the oldies song goes, "The way you do the things you do"--isn't just for kids! Thinking ahead and planning what direction to take in accomplishing a task are skills we continue to develop throughout our lives.

Teachers in lower elementary grades begin the process of helping students learn how to map out steps to complete a task. As they grow older, students benefit from these skills when they begin to write term papers, do research reports and study for exams.

Breaking large tasks down into smaller, more manageable parts takes practice and patience. This skill can be taught and reinforced at home, too, whether it's raking the leaves or baking a batch of chocolate chip cookies.

Before your children begin a craft project or chore, encourage them to ask, "What will it take to get this done?" Here are several additional questions to guide them through the process:

-How much time will the project take? Discuss the time required to complete the task (including cleanup) and the time available. Will it be done before your piano lesson?

-What equipment is needed? If you work in the yard, do you have garbage bags and brooms so you don't have to run back and forth to the hardware store? For a craft project or recipe, check for ingredients and utensils on hand such as the right-size pan, bowl and measuring cups. It's hard to make two quarts of lemonade in a one-quart container!

-Is an adult needed and will that person be available? Many activities require extra strength or supervision, for safety reasons, when using sharp objects, a hot iron or a stove.

School days mean time for safety

This short primer on back to school safety from the Shell Motorist Club (SMC) may mean a lot to you and your family.

-Reduce Speed. You'll be better able to respond to school-related hazards, such as children darting into the street between parked cars. Remember: driving speeds are usually restricted in school zones during hours when children's traffic is greatest.

-Observe School Zone Signs: especially crosswalks. Many are staffed with law enforcement officers or crossing guards to assist with student and motorist traffic.

-Share the Road with School Buses. At least 22 million school children ride the bus to and from school each day.

There is nothing so nice as having a great deal one ought to do and then firmly taking a holiday.--E.F. Benson

Palo Duro holds off Herd's comeback attempt

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

For the second straight game, the Hereford Whitefaces spotted a Class 5A opponent two touchdowns, then came up short on a comeback attempt. Last week they lost to Tascosa by one; this week they lost to Palo Duro 22-0, Saturday afternoon in Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

The repeat results left Hereford coach Danny Haney and his players convinced that they could win a game if they could just play all four quarters.

"The problem was we didn't step up in the first and second quarters to make the plays," said Herd linebacker Gabriel Medrano. "If we would have, I believe we would've won the game. It was too late though."

PD jumped out in front 15-0 on touchdown runs of 12 and 71 yards by PD quarterback Jermaine Gilbreath, the first of which completed a 70-yard, seven-play opening drive.

Hereford went backwards on its first possession, gaining a first down only on a face mask penalty.

After Gilbreath's second TD run put PD up 15-0, Herd tailback

Marquise Brown opened Hereford's second possession with a 70-yard scoring run. The touchdown turned the contest from a potential rout back to a close game, but when a pass failed on a two-point conversion attempt, Hereford still trailed by more than a touchdown. While Hereford had plenty more chances to threaten, Palo Duro never seemed to lose control.

The 15-point lead was too much to overcome.

"Marquise's long run got us back in the game—emotionally and on the scoreboard, but more importantly emotionally," Haney said. "It's almost like this team plays one quarter, then says, 'Hey, we can beat these guys.' We have got to play a full four quarters."

Hereford is 0-2. The young Herd has been able to play Tascosa and Palo Duro closely—much more closely than some observers thought. As consolation for heartbreaking losses, the Herd has gotten moral victories.

Haney isn't satisfied with moral victories.

"This team has got to understand that it can play with anybody," he said. "Moral victories are no good after a point. We've got to turn those things into plays and plays into wins. And that goes with playing the four quarters."

Hereford's passing game didn't get started until the fourth quarter, partially because a strong wind was whipping out of the south-southwest and blowing footballs out of their paths. Discounting PD's two-point conversion on a gadget pass play, the first pass completion by either team came when Herd quarterback Elias Reyna hit Brown for a short pass with less than seven minutes remaining in the game.

Palo Duro never completed an official pass, except to Hereford safety Brandon Gearn. PD's third drive of the game went 60 yards and included 15 plays, but it was stopped early in the second quarter by a nice grab by Gearn, whom Gilbreath must have never seen.

An even-more-spectacular interception by PD's Luvirt Wells stopped Hereford's chance to cash in on Gearn's play. The Herd offense drove 38 yards to the PD 21 before Wells' pick. Reyna lofted a pass to the left side of the field, where Marc Haney was streaking toward the end zone. Cornerback Chris Fisher stayed with Haney step-for-step, leaped and batted the ball away. Wells dove a yard deep in the end zone and pulled the ball in before he and it hit the ground.

At that point, the Dons had gained 210 yards of offense in little more than a quarter. They got only 106 the rest of the way as the Herd defense stiffened.

First PD then Hereford went three plays and punt. Hereford punter Justin Lueb, who had uncorked a 64-yarder earlier with the wind, dropped the snap and was tackled for an 11-yard loss at the Hereford 37. There were three minutes left in the half.

PD lost the chance to score when Herd end Mark Kuper sacked the slippery Gilbreath for a 12-yard loss. On the next play, Gilbreath and the fullback messed up a handoff, and Hereford tackle Ray Hastings pounced on the ball at midfield.

The Dons took their 15-6 lead into the lockerroom at halftime. They nearly sat on it too long.

Hereford forced PD into three plays and a punt to start the second half, then drove 55 yards in 11 plays. Brown, who finished the game with 178 yards on 23 carries, accounted for 49 of the yards in the drive, following dominating blocking all the way. He started it with a 12-yard run, added a three-yarder on fourth-down and two, and finished it off with a 17-yard score on a toss to the right. Terance High's extra point try was wide after a bad snap, and Hereford trailed only 15-12 with 6:23 left in the third quarter.

Hereford forced the Dons to punt again, but on the last play of the third quarter, PD recovered Brown's fumble at the Hereford 43-yard line. It was a miscue that coach Haney said was seen by only one of the officials on the field.

Four plays later, Gilbreath was in the end zone again this time on a 29-yard option run. Ot Sihanouraj kicked the extra point for a 22-12 PD lead with 10:27 left in the game.

Hereford went nowhere with its next possession, but another PD fumble gave them a chance. Gilbreath lost the handle on the ball in the open field, and Hereford's Michael Brown scooped it up at midfield. Brown's return went to the PD 11, but an illegal block brought it back to the Hereford 46.

Hereford's passing game got into gear, as Reyna hit Haney for 11 yards, Stacey Sanders for seven, and finally, on fourth down and ten, he found Hayden Andrews across the middle at the five for a 20-yard touchdown pass.

This would be a good example of a holding violation. A Palo Duro offensive lineman appears to want to dance with Hereford end Russ Watts (33), while Watts only wants to get to PD running back Rod Price. Palo Duro won the contest 22-20.

Flying block

Hereford fullback Justin Wright (3) clears a path for tailback Marquise Brown.

Elliot takes top prize in contest

Three entrants in the Hereford Brand Football Contest missed eight games, and Mike Elliot of Hereford won the top weekly prize of $25 in Hereford Bucks by nearly nailing the tiebreaker.

Elliot's pick for the tiebreaker was Palo Duro 28-14, and his total of 42 was exactly the total of the actual game (PD won 22-20).

Frank Maes of Hereford also missed eight games out of 25, but his tiebreaker had a total of 48 points, so he took second place and $15 in Hereford Bucks.

Antonio S. Duran of Friona was the third entrant with only eight misses, but he picked the wrong winner in the tiebreaker. He'll pick up $10 in Hereford Bucks.

There were 13 entries with nine misses.

The games for this week's contest can be found in the advertisements on pages 6 and 7. Fill out the form, get it to the Brand office by 5 p.m. Friday, and you'll have a chance to win, too.

Road block

Palo Duro running back Joel Tudman finds it difficult to run with a Mark Kuper (85) clamped to one thigh. In the background, Hereford defensive tackle Eric Ross closes in to help out on the play.

Lady Whitefaces whip Westerners

Two spikers in good shape after car wreck

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team overcame the temporary loss of two players to an auto accident and beat Lubbock High 15-1, 15-6 Saturday in Lubbock.

It's fortunate that the loss of the players will be only temporary. Senior Michelle Brock and sophomore Deanna McCracken were returning from the Hereford junior varsity football game in Vega Thursday when Brock swerved to avoid a dog and rolled her Volkswagen Bug three times, according to Hereford coach Brenda Reeh.

Both girls were able to walk away from the accident. McCracken required five stitches to her forehead, but will apparently be fine. Brock suffered some muscle spasms in her neck, Brock said Monday, but has been cleared to return to play in a week.

The girls, regulars in the Hereford rotation as defensive specialists (Brock also is the secondary setter), were replaced Saturday by having senior front-line players Heather Kleuskens and Katie Young play all the way around the court.

The measure was more than adequate against the weak Lubbock High team.

"We really had control in the first game—I felt completely," Reeh said. "In the second game, we wavered a bit—we had a few sideouts that were results of our errors—but I felt we never lost the momentum or gave the momentum up to Lubbock High."

The Lady Westerners had trouble with service reception, which in turn will give a team trouble with every other aspect of the game. Jessica Evers served up seven aces for Hereford, and Young and Melissa Berend each added two aces.

Danielle Cornelius led Hereford with six kills.

In the first match of the double-header, Hereford's freshman A team took on the Lubbock High junior varsity and lost 15-13, 15-9.

Hereford's next match is with Tascosa, at 6 tonight in Amarillo. It's the first match of a Murderer's Row of four opponents for Hereford: Tascosa; Coronado on Saturday; at Amarillo High Sept. 21; and, in the District 1-4A opener, at Dumas Sept. 25.

Hereford's junior varsity team took third place in the Borger varsity tournament, beating Randall's varsity squad in three games in the third place match.

"The kids played really hard," coach Royce Spies said. "They had nothing to lose and everything to gain. They really stuck with it. "It's always fun to beat a varsity team."

Hereford's JV needed three games to down Randall's varsity, 12-15, 16-14, 15-6. Brittney Binder served for 14 points in the match, including four aces.

The JV lost only to Borger's varsity, 15-9, 15-6 in the second round. Before that, they beat Elkhart, Kan., 15-7, 15-11. The Herd JV beat Borger's JV in the third round, 15-6, 15-1.

Borger's varsity won the tournament, beating Dumas 17-15, 6-15, 13 in the finals.

Netters take 2 matches from Pecos, Monahans

Hereford High School's tennis team went to Levelland Saturday and won a pair of team matches: 13-5 over Pecos and 16-2 over Monahans. Coach Ed Coplen said the team showed improvement over its last outing. The team hadn't played since hosting Tascosa Aug. 31 and losing 10-8. "We performed a lot better this time," he said. "The boys did a whole lot better this time. We changed the doubles around, and they played better. Pecos was real tough—in boys and girls."

Coplen also said that today's match with Canyon, which features the Class 3A champions in boys' singles and doubles, will be "a really good test" for the Herd in preparation for Saturday's first district match with Borger. The Borger match will be important, because the district's two regional berths should go to either Hereford, Borger or Pampa.

The Herd netters host Canyon at 4 today at Whiteface Courts, then host Borger on Saturday, at a time to be announced later.

Following are the results of Saturday's matches with Monahans and Hereford. The school of the winner of each match is provided in parentheses.

Cross country girls 5th in Plainview

Hereford's girls' cross country team, led by Bethany Townsend's second-place finish, came in fifth at the Plainview Invitational Cross Country Meet.

Townsend, a freshman, ran the two-mile course in 12 minutes and 57 seconds. That time was second only to the 12:30.9 turned in by Randall's Abby Mudroch.

Hereford also trailed Randall in team points. Hereford had 129 points to Randall's 97. Both trailed a close three-way race at the top; Tascosa won with 64 points, beating out Amarillo High with 68 and Lubbock Coronado with 69.

The four teams in Division II—Classes 5A and 4A—behind Hereford were: Clovis N.M., 142; Frenship, 152; Dumas, 215; and Lamesa, 290.

Hereford's Marie Crox and Ricka Williams both made the top 30. Crox finished 26th with a time of 14:01, while Williams was one place behind her in 14:02.

The other Hereford girls were: Nora Herrera, 43rd in 14:31; Michelle Garza, 46th in 14:37; Karon Harder, 48th in 14:41; and Rita Soto, 57th in 15:16.

"The girls' teams are improving steadily," coach Martha Emerson said, "but what impresses me at this point is our competitiveness. All fourteen girls on both junior varsity and varsity teams are working well together and are enthusiastic about their progress."

"The five young men who competed also did a good job," Emerson said. "Lee Mungia especially competed well in getting ninth in the JV division."

Randy Sorenson was the only Hereford boy who competed in the varsity race, finishing 47th with a time of 18:53.

Mungia led four Hereford boys in the JV race, finishing ninth in 18:16. The others were: Miguel Carrillo, 20th in 18:41; Josh Pena, 42nd in 19:56; and Justin Criner, 52nd in 20:25.

Hereford's junior varsity girls won the JV Division II girls' title with 53 points, edging Amarillo High's JV by one point. Hereford's top finishers were Jamie Harrison in third (13:48) and Beth Weatherly in fourth (13:51). The others: Kris Daniel, 20th in 14:15; Becky Henderson, 29th in 14:58.4; Beverly Celaya, 30th in 14:58.6; Vanessa Garcia, 31st in 14:59; and Ana Torres, 43rd in 15:05.

The Hereford team will host a cross country meet Saturday morning in Veterans Park. The meet will include 12 teams in the 5A-4A division, including all six of the team's in District 1-4A, and 30 teams in the 3A-2A-A division.

Look for more information later this week in the Brand.

Frosh, HJH spikers sweep five matches

Hereford's ninth, eighth and seventh grade volleyball teams took victories in five matches Monday in Hereford.

The ninth grade team won 15-4, 15-1 over Borger which brought only one team. Hereford's Jennifer Jones served for eight points in the first game, when Hereford needed only five rotations to win. Jones added five points to Kari Barrett's six points in the second game, which Hereford needed only three rotations to win.

The junior high teams won four matches, all over Canyon.

The eighth grade A team won 9-15, 15-9, 15-3, as Holly Weishaar served the first 14 points of the third game.

The eighth B team won 15-13, 15-1, as Monica Castillo served for nine points in the first game and Meredith Tabor had eight in the second game, with five aces.

The seventh grade A team won 15-2, 15-10, as Tara Mays served six points with three aces and Angie Pena served five points with two aces.

The seventh B team won 15-8, 15-1. DeDe Elliott served the final 11 points of the first game, including six aces. Melissa Zambrano finished off the second game with seven points, the last three of which were on aces.

off a Don's hands, but Ballejo was flying over a pile, practically upside down at the time and couldn't get control. Palo Duro did get control.

They almost lost control. The Dons were forced to punt, and the snap bounced. PD punter Ty Weatherbee fielded it on a hop, and, with Hereford in a full-out punt-blocking rush, ran around the left side and up the sideline for a first down. Gilbreath dropped to a knee twice to end the game.

HERD

Hereford went for two, and a diving catch by tight end Josh Tice was nullified by a penalty. On the second try, Reyna found Haney on a curl for the two points. Reyna released the ball with two Dons on him. He was nailed hard, but he made a perfect throw. Hereford trailed only 22-20 with 2:29 left to play.

Hereford tried an onside kick and nearly got it. Joe Ballejo appeared to get a hand on the ball after it bounced

Spotlight on health

Imagine waking up one morning with eye twitches you initially attribute to strain from reading. The spasms gradually worsen until you can no longer open your eyelids voluntarily. You feel angry, depressed and out of control. Every member of the medical community you consult dismisses your symptoms as emotional and suggest you "just relax."

Such is the odyssey of pain, helplessness and frustration endured by many sufferers of blepharospasm - a common form of the neurological disorder, dystonia. Dystonia involves involuntary, uncontrollable muscular contractions that force certain muscles into abnormal, often painful, movements or positions. It is not life-threatening, but the road to proper diagnosis and treatment can be long and tortuous: as few as 5 percent of the estimated 200,000 people with dystonia have obtained accurate diagnosis and appropriate treatment.

"For more than 20 years, I didn't know what was wrong with me," recalls Helen McDanile, who suffers from blepharospasm - a form of dystonia that affects the muscles around the eye. "I was depressed, confused and embarrassed until a physician finally recognized my symptoms and prescribed treatment."

Blepharospasm affects the muscles of the eyelids, forcing the eyes to blink uncontrollably or clamp shut - sometimes for long periods of time. Many people with blepharospasm are functionally blind, though their vision is perfectly normal. Other muscles in the face may also be affected, causing grimaces and facial distortions.

Blepharospasm is not caused by emotional or physiological problems. However, the physical pain and limitations often associated with the disorder, coupled with embarrassment over disfigurement and confusion over the cause of the symptoms, force many sufferers to withdraw from social and community activities. Job loss is common, as is the inability to drive a car. Isolation, depression and low self-esteem often result.

Other forms of dystonia include cervical dystonia (or spasmodic torticollis)-which causes muscles of the neck and shoulders to contract, twisting the sufferer's head up, down or to the side; and spasmodic dysphonia - involving spasms of the vocal cords that disrupt speaking. Other forms of the disorder affect muscles controlling the arms and legs, hands and fingers, jaw, lips and tongue.

Diagnosis & Treatment
"Many physicians who aren't familiar with the disorder are quick to dismiss blepharospasm's symptoms as emotional or psychological," explains Mitchell Brin, M.D., assistant professor of neurology at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City. "It is important for physicians to recognize sufferers' symptoms as legitimate, and be prepared to offer appropriate treatment."

To date, researchers have not identified a cause or cure for blepharospasm. Physicians have tried a wide range of treatments to relieve symptoms, including drugs, surgery, biofeedback, acupuncture and physical therapy - with varying degrees of effectiveness.

In 1990, Botox (Botulinum Toxin Type A) purified neurotoxin complex was approved for the treatment of blepharospasm. Administered by subcutaneous injection at specific sites around the eye, Botox purified neurotoxin complex inhibits contractions of the affected face and eyelid muscles.

History of club reviewed

"History of Calliopian Club" was the program presented by Mary Fraser when the club opened its 1993-94 season recently with a dinner at the home of Louise Leasure.

As Fraser made the presentation, many of the members reminisced about their memories of the club.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Audine Dettman, Jan Furr, Kathlee Palmer and Kathryn Ruga. The meal was enhanced by the beautifully appointed table and centerpiece arranged from flowers from the gardens of Leasure and Furr.

Following the meal, President Dettman presided over the business meeting.

Those present were Dorothy Ott, Mary Sue Hull, Irene Conway, Kay McWhorter, Wilma Nobles, Virginia Holmes, Linda Gilbert, Jane Guley, Fraser, Palmer, Leasure, Dettman and Ruga.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago, our family was having dinner together when my father asked, quite seriously, "Why don't we all get married again and renew our vows in the summer of 1993?" We had never heard of a family doing this and agreed it was a fine idea.

My mother and father, Mary and Gene Dana, have been married for 43 years. They have four children. My older brother and his wife have been married 19 years. They have two children. My husband and I have been married 19 years. We have three children. My sister and her husband have been married 13 years and have two children. My youngest brother and his wife were married three years ago and have one child. We all renewed our wedding vows, with our children by our sides, in the garden of my parents' home where we all grew up.

I thought it was remarkable that my father should come up with this unique and sentimental idea. It turned out to be fabulous. The children sang appropriate songs for their parents. Old friends from our original weddings flew in from as far east as Massachusetts and Chicago.

I thought that perhaps your readers might like to read about a happy family for a change and that you might enjoy a letter that was not depressing or sad. Sign me -- Donna Dana Ross in California

DEAR DONNA: Thank you for reaffirming the fact that there are still marriages that work and families that love each other. You give us all hope. The next letter, alas, reflects life as most folks live it:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How do I deal with a husband who is a nasty side-seat driver? For years, I've sat quietly beside him while he stepped on the gas when someone tried to pass him, exceeded the speed limit and changed lanes constantly if the car in Ford Motor Co. publicly unveiled its "V-8" engine in 1932.

President Lyndon Johnson stunned the country March 31, 1968, by announcing in a broadcast address that he would not run for another term of office.

front wasn't going fast enough to suit him.

When he rides as a passenger, he continually nags me and shouts because (1) I don't drive fast enough, (2) I will wait until oncoming traffic is completely clear before I make a left turn, and (3) I will not merge into heavy traffic until it is safe to do so, even if the driver behind me is leaning on his horn. I am more concerned about safety than "exercising my rights."

I have never tried to change my husband's driving habits although it is sometimes frightening to ride with him. I even kept my mouth shut last week when he made a reckless turn and rode over the curb. Unfortunately, he does not afford me the same courtesy. I must constantly listen to him say, "What are you waiting for? You could have turned before that car reached the intersection." "Someone behind you is honking--do you want to keep him waiting all day?" "If you hadn't let that idiot get in front of us, we could have made that light."

He is totally insensitive to my feelings and never apologizes after he blows his top. In my 40 years of driving, I have never been given a ticket for a traffic violation. What can be done to make him understand--Distressed Driver in Virginia

DEAR VIRGINIA: Nothing. It's a lost cause, a no-hoper. The man has a Type A personality--impatient, immature and needing to be in control.

Your best bet is to put in imaginary earplugs, turn on the car radio and ignore him. Incidentally, take the wheel whenever possible. You will both be a lot safer if you drive.

Defy age by correcting your cosmetic blunders

Americans have broadened the definition of beauty. In place of yesteryear's youth idolatry, the emphasis today is on health, self-esteem and the beauty that comes with age, experience and wisdom.

The Census Bureau estimates that in the year 2000, women age 35-54 will outnumber those 18-34 by 10 million, making these women the fastest-growing population segment today.

As this group matures, its cosmetic needs change. Too often, women don't update their beauty regimes, committing cosmetic blunders that can make them look older. Internationally renowned makeup artist have noted ways to correct the most common cosmetic mistakes:

-Too much color: The theory "less is more" stands true for makeup as women mature. Blush and eye shadow enhance appearance if applied properly. Blush should add just a hint of rose or tawny color to the cheek. Matte eye shadows softly highlight the eyes.

-Not enough moisturization: Light facial moisturize should be applied twice daily, once before makeup application and once after thoroughly cleansing the face. Dry skin often accentuates the signs of aging. Choosing a foundation that contains moisturizers, vitamins and sunscreen can enhance the skin's appearance. Don't forget to eat right and drink lots of water to keep skin looking and feeling young.

-Raccoon eyes: Foundations and concealers should blend with skin color to look natural. Many women create white circles around the eyes by using a concealer that is too light. Choosing a foundation that is too dark, in an attempt to look tan, is another common mistake.

-Emphasizing the wrong feature: Maturing women should change the focal point of their faces from the eyes to the lips, as the lips are less likely to show signs of aging. Eye makeup should be soft and subtle. Emphasize the lips with a bright shade of lipstick and strengthen their appearance by outlining them with a lip pencil.

-The wrong colors: Cosmetic colors should work with clothing, not against. Red-tone lipsticks should be worn with red clothing, as pink clothing requires a pink lip color and blush. Also, having blue eyes does not necessitate using blue cosmetic shades. Brown eyeliners add sparkle to all eye colors.

Now that women know it's okay to look their age, why should they?

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Ruben Blades will say adios to music for a while to pursue a possible bid for president in his homeland of Panama, where he leads opinion polls.

The singer, songwriter and actor said he will put his career on hold after a farewell concert at the Hollywood Bowl and a reunion album he plans with former partner Willie Colon.

Blades, 44, said he will run for president in 1994 if his party Papa Egoro, "Mother Earth," nominates him. "It's a duty," he said in an interview published in Sunday's Los Angeles Times.

He also is looking forward to the reunion with Colon, with whom he recorded three albums in the 1970s, including "Siembra," one of the most influential salsa albums ever.

Know facts before you make decisions

For infertile couples, understanding the many treatment options available can be a big challenge. Through Resolve, we work to reach out to couples with information that they can use to make informed decisions. Unfortunately, many myths about infertility treatment still exist. Here are some facts you should know:

-Infertility is a very common problem. Nearly 4.9 million people in the U.S. are infertile.

-It is a condition that results in the abnormal functioning of the reproductive systems of men and women. It is also often defined as being unable to conceive and carry a child to term after one year of unprotected sex.

-Female infertility is the problem on only 40 percent of all cases. It's a male factor in 40 percent, and a problem with both partners in another ten percent. Fully ten percent of all cases are unexplained.

-Treatment for infertility is not experimental. Drug therapies called clomiphene citrate or gonadotropin have been used successfully for almost 30 years. Procedures such as in vitro fertilization have been in use since 1978.

-Most infertile couples are treated successfully with drug therapies alone. The use of procedures such as in vitro fertilization is necessary in less than ten percent of all infertility cases.

The last big myth is that information on infertility treatment is too technical to understand. The best source of information is a fertility specialist. In addition, Resolve supplies information on many infertility topics, including treatment options, doctor and clinic referrals, adoption and the emotional impact of infertility on the family.

Are you shopping for a home?

Many people today are in an excellent position to buy a home--particularly families with down payments and no current homes to sell. Lower house prices and record lows in mortgage interest rates have opened a window of opportunity not available in over 10 years.

In addition to these advantages, today's home buyers are also dealing with a new element in the transaction: the professional home inspection. In many parts of the country, this pre-purchase evaluation of a home's condition has become routine, providing buyers with the vital information they need to make a sound purchasing decision.

While there are no state or federal guidelines, home inspectors throughout the country are generally expected to follow the Standards of Practice established by the American Society of Home Inspectors (ASHI), widely recognized as the leading authority in the field.

This is a document which specifies all the components of a home that are to be included in an inspection, from the roof to the foundation. The ASHI Standards are considered by government and professional real estate groups to be the benchmark of performance for home inspectors.

To be sure that a home inspector is ethical and professional, consumers should ascertain before the inspection that he or she will not offer to do any repairs on the inspected property, and that the firm has no financial interest in the transaction, or in the real estate agent's commission. Any indication of such conflict of interest activities should send up the red flag to tell consumers to look for another inspector.

Home inspectors are generalists, much like medical general practitioners. They know how the home's many systems and components work, but independently and together, and they understand how and why they fail. Consumers should expect the written report to describe the actual condition of the home at the time of the inspection based upon visual observation and to provide an indication of the need for major repairs.

Home inspectors do not do any destructive testing, nor can they see through walls, and so consumers should not expect their reports to include the condition of every nail, wire or pipe in the home. In addition, inspectors are primarily concerned with pointing out large expenses and/or safety related concerns, rather than small or cosmetic items, which are considered readily apparent to buyers themselves.

Finally, home buyers should not expect the inspector's report to serve as a guarantee that the home's components won't ever fail or need repair at some point in the future. No house is perfect and they all need regular maintenance and repair.

In recent years, literally dozens of groups and organizations have been formed to capitalize on the marketing opportunities of this rapidly-growing profession. This can make the profession of a qualified professional extremely difficult.

Many new organizations, for example, request only an application fee. Some claim to offer certification, but don't require exams or proven credentials. Still others boast an engineering license as assurance of competence, though this does not indicate training as a home inspector.

If the selection of a home inspector is made carefully and ahead of time, home buyers will have one less detail to worry about during the chaos and excitement of finding a new home.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Ever since an accusation of child molestation surfaced, Michael Jackson has received a flood of letters from supportive fans.

"Hang in there," writes a Hillsboro, Ore., girl. "You'll be all right. We believe in you."

No problem, Jackson says. His reputation as a respected, urbane radio talk-show host for KABC-AM is secure, despite the highly publicized problems facing Southern California's other well-known Michael Jackson.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been diagnosed as having a low thyroid condition. My doctor prescribed Levothyroxin, which I take daily. I'm a 63-year-old female and I have no energy. I wonder how long it will take to see some improvement in my condition?

My cholesterol has been high so I try to watch my fat intake. I have switched to light margarine that is 50 percent less fat. We sparingly use olive oil or canola oil for salads. I try to do all the things necessary to control fat intake.

No matter what I do I cannot lose any weight. I stopped smoking eight months ago. I weighed 130 pounds. I gained 10 pounds and I'm only 5 feet 1 inch. I walk in the evenings, but I sit at a desk most of the day. Is there anything you could point out about that low thyroid and how it might be affecting me? Could you send me some literature on my thyroid condition?

DEAR READER: It may take a while for your doctor to adjust the amount of thyroid you need. It is done by observing a patient's response to the amount prescribed. If there are still signs of a low thyroid state, the amount is gradually increased until the desired level is achieved.

When a person has low thyroid function, the total cholesterol is commonly elevated. In fact, that is one of the most commonly overlooked reasons for a high cholesterol level in older people. A decrease in thyroid function is not uncommon as people get older. The cholesterol will decrease as thyroid hormone replacement is provided in these cases.

The same can be said about your weight. While a low thyroid state is not the cause for weight gain in most people, when you have a low thyroid function, that can cause a modest weight gain. And it is not uncommon for people to gain weight when they quit smoking. That is simply the result of stopping poisoning your body.

Read Special Issue 32-04, Your Thyroid Gland, which I am sending you. Then discuss with your doctor whether you need more medication or not. If you like, give your doctor a copy. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/32-04, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

You may benefit from some strength exercises to improve the size and strength of your muscles and decrease body fat. One reason people gain weight is they lose muscle as they develop body fat.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been concerned about an aneurysm for the last two months. I have a spot right below my lung on the left side of my body. It feels like a bubble which protrudes but goes right back. It is not painful. It occurs quite often during the day and sometimes at night.

My mother died of a ruptured aneurysm. My doctor can't tell me what it is, but he did suggest keeping my blood pressure and cholesterol level down.

DEAR READER: That location does not sound like an aneurysm. There should not be any major artery in that location. If an aneurysm of the abdomen were large enough to cause a mass in that location, it should be easily felt upon examination. It sounds more like a small hernia, which could be a protrusion of fatty tissue.

You could have an MRI examination of your abdomen to try to identify what it is. That would also relieve your mind about whether it is an aneurysm or not. It is true that one can inherit a tendency to have an abdominal aneurysm, so a regular examination is a good idea.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Keep pace with competitors

A unique system developed by an American company has resulted in a defense contract that will provide important armed forces training to help keep America strong.

The military contract worth $55 million with options has been awarded to Cubic Defense Systems, one of two wholly-owned subsidiaries of San Diego-based Cubic Corporation, an electronics firm founded in 1951.

The contract, awarded by the Naval Training Systems Center, will be the world's largest turnkey instrumented training system. The system is unique, according to J. Dave Cours, President of Cubic Defense Systems, because it protects American lives by providing combat training for both air and ground forces.

Known as the Joint Readiness Training Center Instrumentation System, the range will be built at Fort Polk, LA, for the U.S. Army's Simulation, Training and Instrumentation Command, headquartered in Orlando, FL.

Work on the program has already begun and will be completed over nearly three years. The exercise of priced options could extend the contract an additional two and a half years.
