Tornadoes, hail batter sections of Texas

By The Associated Press
Twelve people suffered apparently minor injuries when a tornado destroyed four homes in the Gustine area of Comanche County.

The Gustine tornado was one of several that touched down across a vast area of Texas Tuesday night and strong thunderstorms triggered tornadoes, damaging straight winds, large hail and flash flood-producing rainfall.

Another tornado touched down in northeast Throckmorton County, destroying a mobile home, three vehicles and several smaller buildings and killing at least four steers.

Hail, ranging from dime-size to softball-size, pelted a vast area of North Texas. An interstate highway was closed for a time because it was covered by hail stones about two feet deep, the National Weather Service reported.

Damage from the Throckmorton County tornado was estimated at $100,000, said Don Balthrop, a sheriff's department dispatcher. No injuries were reported.

Golfball-sized hail was reported during the night in Eliasville, Sidney, Padgett, Eastland, Bangs and Brownwood, among other locations.

Donna Dubberke, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Fort Worth, said severe weather extended about 60 miles east and west from the line of storms between Altus, Okla., and Victoria.

Flash flooding was reported in Fort Worth, where almost 2 1/2 inches of rain fell in a two-hour period. Some flash flooding was also reported in Dallas.

Water was over the hoods of some cars along U.S. 80 at Benbrook in the Fort Worth area, police said.

Interstate 20 was closed for a time during the night in northeastern Eastland County because hail, including some up to two inches in diameter, was piled almost two feet deep across a section of the highway.

Softball-size hail struck a portion of Young County, where there were two reports that tornadoes touched down. There were no reports of injuries.

A late night tornado watch involved 48 counties, mostly in and south-central Texas.

The tornado watch area was along a line from 55 miles northwest of Austin to 10 miles south southeast of Corpus Christi.

Rainfall totals of 1 to 4 inches were reported over parts of Southeast Texas Tuesday night.

Ms. Dubberke said the dry air from West Texas mixing with moist Gulf air, plus other factors, combined for a volatile mix.

"We have this a lot," Ms. Dubberke said.

Rick Melcer, assistant coordinator for emergency management for the McCulloch County Sheriff's Department and city of Brady, said winds up to 50 mph and marble-sized hail knocked out power across two-thirds of the city.

Most of the electricity was restored by about 8:15 p.m.

Jail prisoners to pay for physician visits, medicines

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Prisoners in Deaf Smith County jail will be required to help pay for medical attention and prescriptions after action by Commissioners' Court Tuesday.

A policy providing that prisoners either pay $10 for each visit with a physician, or apply for indigency through a county process was passed unanimously by the commission.

In other business, the commission:

- Approved the ballot for directors of the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District.
- Agreed to join the City of Hereford in a study of a proposal to create a parks and recreation district for the entire community.
- Heard a request from County Auditor Alex Schroeter for clarification of the juvenile probation department budget.
- Granted permission for a sewer line across a county road.

In considering the medical policy for the jail, attention was called to the expense incurred by the county in the fiscal year that ended Sept. 30. A total of $36,200 was spent for health care for jail inmates.

The county will continue to pay $10 per inmate examination by a physician, according to the policy but medication costs will be the responsibility of the prisoner.

Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul explained to commissioners that inmates who have money in their commissary account may pay the $10 for a doctor's visit from that account or other resources.

"If they don't have any money, they can apply to a committee for indigency," Saul said. "If the committee turns down the request, the inmate may appeal to the sheriff."

Representing taxing entities on the appraisal district ballot are Roger Eades, City of Hereford; Jim McGowan, Walcott Independent School District; Commissioner Troy Don Moore, Deaf Smith County; John Perrin, Deaf Smith Hospital District, and Raymond Schlabs, Hereford ISD.

City Commissioner Dennis Hicks and City Manager Chester Nolen appeared before Commissioners' Court to ask for approval in concept of a parks-recreation district for the entire community.

The city spokesmen said an outline will be prepared by a committee of representatives of participating entities.

Commissioners approved in principle the district and named Moore to serve on the planning committee.

The county auditor asked for clarification of budget items for the juvenile probation department, noting that some items were not clearly defined. County Judge Tom Simons said he would work with the department and Schroeter on the budget.

A request for a sewer line to be cut across Domingo Street in the San Jose area was approved.

Flu clinic at senior center
Workers from Hereford Regional Medical Center and Hereford EMS worked on Tuesday to administer flu shots to hundreds of Hereford and area senior citizens, through a program sponsored by the Healthcare Alliance. The shots were given to 232 people on the first day of the two-day clinic, which was directed and supervised by Dr. Kent Walker. The clinic was set to continue today from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Most shots were given at no cost, as they are 100 percent covered by Medicare.

United Way kicks into high gear with employee fund drives all over town

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

United Way employee campaigns around the Hereford area are beginning in earnest this week and next, giving local officials hope for the 1993 fundraising campaign.

At Tuesday's weekly report luncheon of the campaign, United Way of Deaf Smith County board president Mike Hatley received reports from division chairs who are looking forward to finishing their work in the next week or two, which in turn will help the United Way reach its $150,000 goal.

As of Tuesday, 21.1 percent of the goal had been reached, led by 57 percent of the Pacesetters Division and 49 percent of the F.I.R.E. division goals having been reached.

In Pacesetters, $4,685.40 has been reported, while F.I.R.E. -- which stands for Finance, Insurance, Real Estate and Energy -- has raised $8,289.20.

United Way acting executive director Sally Nolen said Hereford

Regional Medical Center is holding its campaign this week; the Hereford Independent School District, Hereford State Bank and the city and county are scheduled for next week; and Frito Lay will hold its employee campaign the first week of November.

Pete Holcombe, chairman of the Professional Division, said he hopes to have his work wrapped up next week, while Mark Nicklaus, chairman of the F.I.R.E. Division said his big project is the Hereford State Bank drive.

telephone hookup, but his flight changed at the last minute.

However, Hatley said, Klett will be at next week's meeting, which is set for noon Monday in Abalos' Restaurant.

"We genuinely are concerned with the campaign," Hatley said. "We'd like to get a big crowd out next week for him."

The overall United Way campaign goal is $150,000. As of Tuesday, $31,709.45 had been raised, for 21.1 percent of goal.

Hats off to the Hereford City Commission for taking a large part of their work session last Saturday to plan for improvements in city parks. Among items being studied are picnic tables, restroom facilities, a shelter in Dameron Park, and overall beautification of parks.

Citizens have shown their interest in the parks by chipping in almost $100,000 in the voluntary park assessment program, giving $1 on each water bill since 1991. Mayor Bob Josserrand says it's time to show people that their $1 donations will be used.

Some of the most entertaining reading can be found in those little ads found near the back of most crowd: Rummage Sale--The Ladies Auxiliary, having cast off clothes, now invite your inspection.

Some ads tell it like it is. In the Duluth News-Tribune a woman placed this terse item: As far as my husband reporting that he is not responsible for my bills, he never was. I have always paid the bills.

The following appeared in the Abilene Reporter-News: $10 reward for southside apartment--large enough to keep young wife from going home to mother; small enough to keep mother from coming here.

There was a waiting list after this for sale ad appeared in the Sarasota, Fla., Journal: For sale--Two bedroom home; blonds and drapes go with the price.

The Decatur Review had this one..about a desk we assume; newspapers. Somebody has collected some of the better ones.

Pakistan nukes built with money freed by U.S., allied loans since 1980, CIA says

WASHINGTON (AP) - Loans from the United States and its allies have freed up money for Pakistan to build atomic bombs, the CIA says.

The agency also says that "it is unclear" whether China continues to provide Pakistan with technology and training for its nuclear weapons development - despite China's commitment to desist.

Since 1980, according to the agency, Pakistan has received about $19 billion in assistance from other countries and from lending institutions like the International Monetary Fund.

"Loans and grants from both bilateral and multilateral aid agencies free money for Pakistan to spend on its nuclear program," the CIA said in a written response to questions from the Senate's Committee on Governmental Affairs.

The response was one of some 100 answers submitted in writing by the CIA in August to questions by the panel about the spread of nuclear and chemical weapons and missiles around the world.

On Pakistan, the committee specifically wanted to know how such a poor country could afford a nuclear weapons program.

The CIA said that of the $19 billion in aid, about $2.7 billion was given in loans and grants that were not earmarked for any specific purpose. This money came from the United States, the European Community, Japan, the IMF, Arab countries and others, said the agency.

Two-pool concept eyed by committee

A two-pool concept for Hereford's new swim facility was reviewed Tuesday by representatives of the design contractor.

Meeting with a committee appointed to work on the project, Hershel Lindly and Delbert Hirst of the Arlington firm of Schrickel, Rollins and Associates, Inc., also collected information related to the project.

The two-pool idea from the design firm would meet the need for a facility that could be covered for wintertime use and a recreational pool for summer swimming only.

After the work session with the Hereford committee, Lindly and Hirst studied the proposed site for the pool project, adjacent to the YMCA in a city park at between E. 14th and E. 15th on Avenue C.

Committee members meeting with the designers were City Commissioners Roger Eades and Carey Black; Deaf Smith County Commissioners Troy Don Moore and Tony Castillo; Hereford school board president Ron Weishaar; hospital administrator Ron Rives; chamber executive Mike Carr; Red Cross executive director Betty Henson, and City Manager Chester Nolen.

Unable to attend the meeting were Margie Daniels, senior citizens executive director, and Joe Flood, school trustee.

After their visit to Hereford, Lindly and Hirst will begin design work and prepare preliminary plans for the pool and park improvement project.

The City of Hereford applied for and received a grant of $500,000 from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for the pool. An equal amount in money and in kind must be provided from other sources before the grant is paid.

Participation in the project has been approved by Deaf Smith County Commissioners' Court. The county's contribution will be in providing certain grounds work and dirt-moving.

Although formal action has not been taken by Hereford Independent School District, trustees have made an informal commitment of $150,000 to the project.

The covered pool idea is an outgrowth of a need for year-around pool use, especially for schools, adults and therapy. A "bubble" top, similar to the kind covering some sports stadiums, is being considered.

Prostate drug to undergo testing

WASHINGTON (AP) - Researchers today announced the first large-scale test of a drug that holds promise for preventing prostate cancer - a condition affecting one-third of American men over 50.

About 18,000 men 55 and older will take part in a seven-year study to find out whether the drug - finasteride - works, said the National Cancer Institute and Merck and Co. Inc., the maker of the drug. The tests will be carried out at 222 sites around the country.

The Food and Drug Administration approved finasteride, also known by the trade name Proscar, in 1992 for the treatment of benign prostatic hyperplasia, a noncancerous enlargement of the prostate, a gland that secretes fluid discharged with sperm.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 65-year-old female who came down with shingles seven weeks ago. My doctor gave me codeine for the pain. The pain was terrible for three weeks. The last three weeks the pain has been tolerable, but my nights are still mostly sleepless and I still have sores around my waist.

I had to stop the codeine because of constipation and now take Advil three times a day. I also rub Zostrix cream around the sores, which doesn't seem to help much.

The rash is slowly disappearing, however I have good and bad days. I don't understand the bad days after I think I'm getting better. Is there any medicine I can take to relieve the pain? I'm tired and frustrated.

DEAR READER: It sounds like you are on the mend. You may be one of the lucky ones who have shingles for less than two months. Some have irritation of the involved nerve after the viruses have been controlled that cause pain for months, or even years.

You can't expect every day to be a good day yet. But you may get better results from Zostrix if you use it more frequently. I suspect from my mail that it is not used often enough in some cases — which is why people don't get as good results as they might.

Dr. Joel Bernstein at Northwestern University in Chicago says the key to success is to apply the cream at least three or four times daily. The cream contains capsaicin which is found in hot peppers. It neutralizes "P substance" that stimulates the endings of pain nerve fibers. He notes that it may cause severe burning in some patients, which, if tolerated for 72 hours, will be gone. The cream is for persistent pain and is not a substitute for Zostrix (acyclovir) which is an antiviral that should be taken at the first sign of shingles.

For more information, read Special Report 118, Shingles: The Chickenpox Disease, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/118, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

As the report I'm sending you describes, if the postherpetic pain persists, a type of nerve block (epidural block), if given within the first six months, may relieve as many as 80 percent of such painful cases.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband had a pacemaker implanted recently because of a slow heart rate. For the last four years he has been taking Cardizem and prior to that beta-blockers for several years. Could a buildup of these medications over the years have caused his heart rate to decline? He is 70 years old, not overweight and in good health otherwise.

DEAR READER: No. It is true that medicines that are used to control blood pressure or for some heart problems will slow the heart rate, but the inherent ability to increase the rate is still there. Your husband has developed changes in the electrical mechanism of his heart from his basic medical problem, whether that is mostly high blood pressure or from changes in the arteries to his heart.

As a result, his heart can not be relied upon to beat fast enough to maintain his circulation, or it may stop entirely.

When electrical conduction problems are present and Cardizem is needed, it is important that a pacemaker be implanted. Otherwise, it may further depress the heart rate and cause problems. But clearly your husband needs both the medicine and the pacemaker.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Five months ago my cholesterol test came back at 258. The doctor gave me some literature on cholesterol, and I tried to watch my diet. I'm a 58-year-old female, 5 feet 8 inches and weigh 160 pounds. I work full-time in accounting and do not get a lot of exercise.

I switched from white to brown bread, used caffeine-free Pepsi and ate as much cholesterol-free food as I could find. I never ate more than one or two eggs a week. Now I use Eggbeaters and have eaten bacon only four times in the last five months. I quit eating out at lunch except for a sausage, pepperoni and extra cheese pizza once a week. I eat a sandwich with one slice of cheese one day and peanut butter the next and two "fun-size" candy bars with my sandwich. We trim all the fat we can from our meat and skin our chicken. The doctor put me on 1,500 mg of calcium and Provera and Premarin every day. Now I have been tested again and my cholesterol was 270 and LDL was 158. I could not believe it went up. What is wrong?

DEAR READER: Diet does not control all high levels of cholesterol. And laboratory tests are not always accurate. But you do need to have a regular sensible exercise program, and if you have any excess fat you can lose, it will help to lose it.

Your diet leaves a lot to be desired. Processed cheese is high in saturated fat and cholesterol. Peanut butter is a high-fat food. You would do better with a sandwich made with skinned chicken breast, which is low in fat. All fat intake should be limited to no more than 30 percent of your total caloric intake.

You need help on planning a proper low-fat, low-cholesterol diet, so I'm sending you Special Report 117, Control Cholesterol with Diet. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/117, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537.

TERRY COOK

Plainview native to appear in concert at Civic Center

Bass-baritone Terry Cook of the Metropolitan Opera, a native of Plainview, is scheduled to appear in concert Friday at the Amarillo Civic Center.

Amarillo's opera star Mary Jane Johnson is honorary chairperson for this gala Amarillo Opera Benefit concert which will also include the 1993 Metropolitan Opera Auditions winners, Emily Pulley, Burr Phillips, Monica Harris, Timothy Tucker and Lauran Fulton Corson, originally of Canyon, now residing in New York.

Cook, who switched to music from engineering at Texas Tech University, has a rich classical opera repertoire. His 1990 lead role as Porgy in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," brought raves from New York critics.

Amarillo Opera President Dr. Bill Byrd says, "This is a significant concert—a change to see and hear a Met-class singer who grew up in a neighboring community and earned his musical credentials at a university just down the road."

Nancy and Bob Josseland of Hereford, the community Outreach chairmen for Amarillo Opera and Bravo!, opera support organization, believe the Cook concert will be a sellout and urges area residents to purchase their tickets as soon as possible.

Tickets are $10 for the performance

(all seats) and may be purchased at the Amarillo Civic Center Box Office.

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Chills and a 102-degree fever that struck double transplant recipient Gov. Robert P. Casey subsided after doctors gave him antibiotics.

Casey was listed in good condition Sunday at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center and was able to walk the hospital corridors, according to the center's spokeswoman Jane Duffield.

The governor received a donor heart and liver in June because his liver was producing proteins that ravaged his heart. The condition is known as familial amyloidosis.

Extension agent presents Cultural E.H. Club program

Deaf Smith County Extension Agent Beverly Harder presented a program on Christmas cookies and homemade handwork when members of the Cultural Extension Homemakers Club met recently at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

During the business meeting with President Perry Keyes presiding, Fannie Townsend read the minutes of the previous meeting and Jewell Hargrave gave the council meeting. Also, the next meeting was scheduled for Oct. 22 which will include an auction.

Naomi Hare led the pledge to the flag and Virginia Sumner gave the opening prayer. Wilma Goetsch gave the opening exercise.

Members present were Byrdie Fellers, Wilma Goetsch, Naomi Hare, Jewell Hargrave, Vernis Parson, Neil Pope, Daisy Steele, Virginia Sumner, Fannie Townsend, Sarah Walton and Illa Inman.

Demonettes come back again to take district match from Herd

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Dumas volleyball team, known by Hereford fans for its amazing comebacks, watched as Hereford served the Demonettes some of their own medicine by turning a 10-3 Dumas lead in the first game into a 14-11 Hereford lead.

That only provided a stage for a Dumas' comeback, though, as the Demonettes ended up winning the game 16-14.

No comeback was necessary in the second game of Tuesday's District 1-4A showdown in Whiteface Gymnasium. Dumas pulled away from a 5-5 tie and finished the match with a 15-8 win.

The win virtually clinched the District 1-4A championship for Dumas, now 6-0 and 19-6 overall. Hereford, which drops to 4-2 and 19-6, must win it four remaining district matches to ensure a playoff berth.

Dumas' 6-foot-3 middle blocker, Jenny Robinson, dominated early on as the Demonettes took a 10-3 lead. Hereford made some adjustments that lessened her impact.

Dumas built the lead with Robinson on the front row, then maintained a 9-3 lead while she had rotated out. When she came back in, Hereford was still able to come back into the game.

"As for her hitting, if she kept hitting down on us, we'd (planned to) move to single block, and we never had to do that," Herd coach Brenda Reeh said. "As far as hitting against her block, we started setting to the left of circle. That was pretty effective."

After numerous sideouts, Hereford's Katie Young got a kill to tie it at 10-10. Kara Sandoval's dump set fell for another Hereford point, and the Herd lead went up to 13-10 with kills by Tarabeth Holmes and Young. After several rotations, Holmes got another kill for at 14-11 lead, but Hereford didn't score again.

A Robinson stuff block tied the score at 14-14, a Hereford service receive error gave Dumas its 15th, and after two sideouts, another Robinson stuff fell on the line on Hereford's side for the final point.

"It's the same thing that happened to us the first time we played," Reeh said. "Quick errors robbed us of the momentum--quick errors on our part. I felt like that was the difference in the match. Anytime we'd get a run of points, we'd shoot ourselves in the feet."

In the second game, Dumas pulled away from a 5-5 tie, and an Julie Do ace made it 8-5. Hereford had trouble returning serves in this game: Olga Carbajal had two aces early, and Laura Tatum served an ace to make the Dumas lead 10-6.

Points were rare the rest of the way, as the teams traded sideout after sideout. After four sideouts in a row with the score 12-8, Robinson had a stuff block for the 13th point, and Tatum served two more aces for the win.

Danielle Cornelius led Hereford with 11 kills, and Heather Kleuskens added four. Michelle Brock had eight good serves and two aces, and had 10 passes to target. Katie Young led Hereford with nine digs.

Hereford's junior varsity got the win in the first match of Tuesday's doubleheader. Hereford breezed in the first game, winning 15-5. In the second game, Dumas led 10-5, but Hereford stormed back with eight straight points, eventually winning 15-12.

Krista Beville led the JV with nine service points and Brittney Binder added seven.

Block party

Hereford's Kara Sandoval (6) blocks an attack by Dumas' Misty Holt (4). Hereford's Tarabeth Holmes also is up to block. Dumas beat Hereford 16-14, 15-8 Tuesday in Whiteface Gym.

Zone Offense

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - In golfing circles it's called "The Zone."

You're in the zone when your shot always goes exactly where you want it to go. Star golfer Nick Price explains it.

"The zone is the ability to give 110 percent of your attention and focus to the shot," Price said. "When I'm on the tee I'll see a divot in the fairway and try to run my ball over that divot. To me, that's the zone."

Stewart's effort sends Jays to World Series

CHICAGO (AP) - Dave Stewart, the best pitcher in playoff history, used his single-minded concentration to put the Toronto Blue Jays in position to win their second straight World Series.

Stewart's pitching and the hitting of Pat Borders and Devon White carried the Blue Jays to a pennant-clinching 6-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox on Tuesday night.

It was the fourth pennant clincher for Stewart, who upped his playoff record to 8-0, and he was named the series MVP.

The Blue Jays can become the first team since the 1977-78 New York Yankees to repeat as World Series champions.

Borders, last year's World Series MVP, drove in the first three runs, and White clinched it with a homer that triggered a three-run ninth inning as Chicago's defense collapsed.

White's homer was his third hit of the game and gave him 12 for the series, tying him with Tim Lincecum for the AL playoff record. Raines singled in the third inning for his 12th hit, but lamented that he made the final out of the series.

"Concentration is the key to how he pitches," Borders said of Stewart, who outdueled Alex Fernandez for the second time in the series.

"I knew it was important game to get off to a good start," Stewart said.

"I expected Alex Fernandez to pitch exactly the way he did, which was outstanding."

Stewart, whose other pennant clinchers came with the Oakland Athletics in 1988-89-90, called the Blue Jays "the best club I've played on. Offensively, we have a lineup that is packed with so much talent, and we have guys out there that care about what they're doing and take their job seriously."

He'll get no argument from the White Sox.

"We got beat by a better team," Robin Ventura said.

"They are veterans who know what they were doing," Frank Thomas said.

"You have to accept what happened," White Sox manager Gene Lamont said. "I'm sure their experience helped them. Experience certainly helped Stewart. He's not as dominant as he used to be, but he sure can rise to the occasion. They were better than we were in this series."

When he beat Fernandez 3-1 in Game 2, Stewart worked out of a bases-loaded and none-out situation in the sixth inning. In the clincher, he wiggled out of the third inning by allowing only two runs after the White Sox loaded the bases with one out.

One run scored when Thomas drew a bases-loaded walk and the other came in when Ventura bounced into a force play.

That tied the score and wiped out a 2-0 lead established by Borders' two-run single in the second inning after Fernandez loaded the bases on a pair of walks and a hit batsman.

Stewart was in control after that until he was lifted by Cito Gaston in the eighth when Thomas singled with one out and Ventura hit a wicked drive down the right-field line that was just foul. Duane Ward took over and fanned Ventura and Ellis Burks.

Ward gave up one hit - a ninth-inning homer to DH Warren Newson - but it was meaningless since the Blue Jays scored three in the top of the ninth.

White's homer off reliever Scott Radinsky started it. A single by Joe Carter and Radinsky's error when he dropped the ball covering first set the stage for Paul Molitor's two-run triple off Roberto Hernandez.

White was Toronto's leadoff man until the team acquired Rickey Henderson down the stretch.

The White Sox were unable to do the job.

Jack McDowell, their 22-game winner and top candidate for the Cy Young, was battered in both of his starts.

Until Newson homered in the ninth inning, they didn't get a single hit from the No. 6 spot occupied first by Dan Pasqua and later Bo Jackson. Neither did they get a hit from the eighth spot. Catcher Ron Karkovice, who hit 20 homers during the regular season, was hitless, and so was his replacement, Mike LaValliere, in the series finale.

Fernandez pitched well in both of his losses, but he had the misfortune of hooking up against Stewart each time.

Toronto will play Game 1 of the World Series Saturday night in the SkyDome against either Philadelphia or Atlanta.

Phillies can clinch NLCS tonight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - This is all so hard to believe. It doesn't make sense that the Phillies, who look like a bowling team, have a 3-2 lead in the NL playoffs.

Just look at the regular-season records; just look at the playoff statistics. Atlanta clearly has been the better team.

But with a victory tonight in Game 6, Philadelphia can win its first NL pennant since 1983 and send the two-time NL champs home shaking their heads.

"We've been perceived as underdogs all year," Phillies left fielder Pete Incaviglia said. "Everybody wants to look at the long hair and the bellies and the beer. Well, we thrive on that. We thrive on people saying we can't do this or we can't do that."

Atlanta has outscored Philadelphia 30-17, outhit the Phillies .290 to .227, outpitched them with a 2.72 ERA to a 5.09 for Philadelphia. But the Braves, who won 104 games during the season, can't win the one-run games in the postseason: Atlanta is 5-13 in them during the last three post-seasons and has lost seven straight, including three against the Phillies.

"All those runs we scored in the romps aren't going to help us now," Braves shortstop Jeff Blauser said.

When the series resumes tonight in Veterans Stadium, the Braves will be facing the victim of their first romp, Tommy Greene. He was knocked out of Game 2 after seven runs and 2 1-3 innings, and Atlanta won that game 14-3.

"They can be beaten on any given night," said Greene, who had won 13 consecutive home decisions before the debacle.

Atlanta will start Greg Maddux, the Game 2 winner and the defending NL Cy Young Award winner.

"I just need to go out and pitch the way I did in Game 2," said Maddux, who allowed two runs in seven innings.

Neither team worked out Tuesday, a rainy day in Philadelphia, although some Phillies showed up at the ballpark. Manager Jim Fregosi had a relaxed dinner with friends at a hotel across the street from the stadium.

"We've got five games to win," he said, looking ahead to the World Series.

Tom Glavine, who would pitch Game 7, worked out at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium before the Braves took an afternoon flight to Philadelphia.

"We've done it before, so we can do it again," Glavine said.

Like his teammates, Glavine drew confidence from the 1991 playoffs, when Atlanta overcame a 3-2 deficit by winning two shutouts at Pittsburgh. There also was last year, when Francisco Cabrera's two-run, two-out single in the ninth gave Atlanta a 3-2 victory over the Pirates in Game 7.

"You can only get in these situations so many times," Blauser said. "We're used to having our backs against the wall, but you don't want to be doing this too often. But we've done it again."

Philadelphia, knowing the Braves are dangerous, downplays its lead. But the Phillies would like a little credit.

"A lot of people said we didn't belong on the same field as the Braves coming into this series," Fregosi said. "But now you're seeing how we got here."

Rice's QB shows value of practice

HOUSTON (AP) - So much for the value of practice.

Bert Emanuel, after sitting out most of the week with a sore shoulder, completed 13 of 18 passes for a career-high 221 yards and had one rushing and two passing touchdowns in Rice's 34-19 victory over Texas Christian Saturday.

Emanuel wasn't sure he would play until an early Saturday morning workout in a swimming pool convinced him he could go. And as a result he earned The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week honor.

Texas A&M defensive end Sam Adams had two sacks and broke up a pass, helping the Aggies defuse Houston's offense, earning Defensive Player of the Week honors.

"I knew when I woke up (Saturday) that I would play,"

Emanuel said. "I got up early and went to the pool at the hotel and worked it out. It (shoulder) didn't bother me once I got into the game."

"Once you start playing, you forget about the injuries. I took about three hard hits on it in the second half."

Emanuel threw 50 passes on Wednesday but cut back on Thursday when the shoulder became sore again.

He started slowly against the Horned Frogs. But by the second half, Emanuel was ready. He completed his first nine passes as the Owls rolled up 20 points on their first four possessions of the second half.

It's been a long road for Emanuel from high school star to starting college quarterback. He endured a transfer from UCLA and sat out a year before gaining a battlefield promotion last season when Josh LaRocca was injured.

He was nervous at first, but finished the season strong and earned All-SWC honors.

"I feel pretty relaxed about my position right now," Emanuel said. "I'm surrounded by some great athletes who can take the game in their hands. You've got Ed Howard (wide receiver) and Yonce (Edmonds) running for 100 yards."

"I don't think I'll be surprising anybody anymore so it's good they're helping out."

It was easy for TCU coach Pat Sullivan to determine the difference in the game.

"One side had Bert Emanuel and that really makes a huge difference," Sullivan said. "When Rice needed someone to stand up and take charge in the fourth quarter, he really did."

Cowboys sign Elvis (Patterson)

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys have acquired safeties Elvis Patterson and Joe Fishback.

Dallas on Tuesday sent a 1994 draft choice to the Los Angeles Raiders for Patterson, and signed Fishback, a free agent.

Patterson was a two-time Pro Bowl special teamer with the Raiders. Fishback was a six-time special teams player of the week with the Atlanta Falcons.

They join a special teams unit that has already made major contributions to the Super Bowl champion's three-game winning streak.

On Sunday, Jay Novacek scored a touchdown on a fake field goal in the Cowboys' 27-3 victory over the Indianapolis Colts. And last week, an unexpected Dallas on-side kick led to a score in a 36-14 romp over the Green Bay Packers.

Patterson was selected to Pro Bowls as a special teams alternate after the 1991 and 1992 seasons. Coach Jimmy Johnson called Patterson, 5-11, 195 pounds, "one of the finest special teams players in the league."

Patterson played for the New York Giants from 1984 to 1987. He led the 1986 Super Bowl champion Giants with six interceptions.

Patterson, who went to Houston Yates High School, also played with the San Diego Chargers. He played collegiately at Kansas.

Fishback was named special teams player of the week in Atlanta six times.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: With three small children at home, I came up with a great home-safety device.

Our fireplace hearth is made of 1-inch-thick slate slabs. The outer edge is straight and square. This creates a 10-foot edge that is sharp and could cause a nasty "boo-boo."

I used a piece of foam pipe insulation (which is already pre-split for wrapping around pipes) and worked it over this edge. It holds itself in place, looks neat and gives peace of mind. — George McAvinney, Henrietta, N.Y.

What an ingenious father you are! Thanks so much for taking the time to drop us a line. I'm sure other parents will benefit from this great safety hint! — Heloise

SHOWER-DOOR CLEANING

Dear Heloise: Here is a hint that I discovered by accident.

While taking a shower and washing my hair, by mistake I got some of my hair shampoo on my shower doors. I cleaned and rinsed it off — no more soap scum!

I cleaned all of the shower doors using the shampoo and they are beautiful. I found out the shampoo is cheaper than the cleaners that I was using. So you know I'll use it again. Hope this hint helps someone else.

— Faye McGhee, Perryville, Md.

SLOW DRAIN

Dear Heloise: I remember once reading in one of your columns how to clear a slow drain. Can you please reprint this information for me? — Katy B., Durham, N.C.

I'd be happy to reprint this information for you. It's as easy as 1, 2, 3.

Just pour 1/2 to 1 cup of baking soda into the drain and follow it with 1 cup of vinegar. It will boil up, so don't be alarmed when you see it "growing" in front of your eyes.

Wait a couple of minutes and then pour a quart of hot water down the drain, followed by running water for a good minute or two.

The drain should run normally, and an added plus is that it will be fresh-smelling too!

Isn't baking soda wonderful! I have compiled a pamphlet chock-full of the best baking soda hints. To receive a copy, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Baking Soda, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

OLD SOCKS

Dear Heloise: I find when white socks have holes in them, they make the greatest dust cloths.

They sit on your hand and are ever so soft and great. — Evelyn Beek Wakeman, LaPorte, Ind.

Dear Heloise: Small, hungry animals look for food around campsites and landfills.

Cans and plastic containers with a bit of food left in them cause the animals to push their heads into them, but the sad part is that they cannot get them out.

Please ask your readers to wash these cans and tops with a little soap and water. Put the top in the container and crush the container together at the top.

This will save the lives of many of God's little creatures. — W. Parker, Texas City, Texas

I'm delighted to ask my readers to take a second to do something that may save an animal or a small child from harm.

Thanks for your letter. It really is important to keep our wildlife, pets and children safe. — Heloise

INDIVIDUAL ICE CREAM

Dear Heloise: Sometimes at night my younger children want ice cream just as Mom sits down to relax.

Now, I use clean empty 8-ounce yogurt containers with lids and fill them with ice cream.

This way the children can help themselves from the freezer. It's just the right portion and they love it. We wash them later to reuse. — Doreen Sullivan, Central Valley, N.Y.

PET PALS

Dear Heloise: Back in the 1920s a cute little black and white puppy adopted my three younger sisters and followed them home from school. We already had Pal, a middle-aged dog, but the puppy was welcomed with open arms and lots of table scraps.

I had attached a bent strip of metal on the screen door and taught Pal to pull the door open whenever he wanted to come in.

One day the puppy wanted to enter and sat in the front of the door whining. Pal was sleeping nearby on the porch, but he opened his eyes a couple of times, then got up, opened the door and went back to his favorite spot and went back to sleep. — Don Heley, Cazenovia, N.Y.

What are friends for! Please share your pet pal stories with us. They make us all smile. — Heloise

Hospital auxiliary reports over 200 volunteer hours

Bonnie Sublett reported over 203 hours had been volunteered when members of the Hereford Regional Medical Center Auxiliary met Oct. 4 in the dining room of the hospital for a luncheon meeting.

Quintna Waits called the meeting to order and Mary Williamson called roll. Jo Lee led the auxiliary prayer.

Williamson read the minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report was presented.

Auxiliary members will be assisting with the hospital's annual jewelry sale scheduled Oct. 29. The public is invited to attend the fund raiser.

The name change of the hospital was noted by several members.

Attending the recent district meeting of the Texas Association of Hospital Auxiliaries in Lubbock were Elizabeth Fowler, Quintna Waits, Irene Reinart, Anna Stindt, Jo Lee and Mary Williamson. The theme of the meeting was "Slowly But Surely We Can Make A Difference."

Those members attending the regular meeting were Baxter London, Irene Reinart, Bonnie Sublett, Nell Culpepper, Anna Stindt, Quintna Waits, Jo Lee, Elizabeth Fowler, Mary Williamson, Theda Seiver, Lupe Cerda, Ruth Lueb and Mary Jane Burrus.

Treated wood preserves value of your home

Interest rates are down. Consumer confidence is up. And you're taking the ultimate plunge.

You're buying a new home. By all means, savor the moment. But not to the point of forgetting that prime concern: investment.

Of particular importance is the quality of the wood used inside and out. This goes beyond type of wood. You want all wood exposed to moisture or accessible to termites to be treated wood.

Carpenters recommend treated wood anywhere wood can be exposed to water. That includes areas with high moisture and conditions promoting fungus and decay.

Outside, this means exposed areas or places close to the ground where termites might attack. And don't forget wooden fencing. Inside, you want treated wood around that shower or bathroom where water might leak.

Form a structural perspective, you want treated wood up to and including the sub-flooring, like the plywood that goes under the finished floor. You also want it for patios and decks exposed to the weather.

Speaking of decks, real estate agents say adding a treated wood deck to your home brings an average 78 percent payback. But that changes by region. For example, in back-lot-poor San Francisco, a 16-by-20-foot treated deck could boost a home's value by $10,000 - $2,900 more than the deck's cost.

In contrast to where you want treated wood, you don't need it in areas like the roof rafters because moisture there will not exceed 20 percent. However, if you live in an area where there are severe termite problems, treated wood rafters are important.

Treated wood is extremely durable. Even in outdoor applications, only minor maintenance is required to keep it looking clean and bright.

Because treated wood uses preservatives, the following common sense procedures are suggested: Clean up and discard all sawdust and construction debris; do not use it for cutting boards or countertops; and be sure it is visibly clean for patio, deck and walkway use.

Put treated wood in the trash or bury it, but never use it in open fires, including stoves, fireplaces or boilers.

Homes designed for change keep better pace with life

Homes, like families, should be able to grow and change with the times. Interior designers, experts on home style and decorating, advise home buyers to look for "adaptable housing."

"Families and households are changing," notes Kay Green, president of an interior design firm in Orlando, Fla. "Children are born, go off to college, get married, older parents move in, old friends visit, grandchildren visit, someone needs home care. That's the real life situation for families.

"Housing, like families, has to adapt to those changes. That's why homes should be designed for change," says Green.

Green cited ITT Community Homes in Palm Coast, Fla., as an example. Many of the company's plans provide for a third bedroom that can easily be converted into a den or office. The two-car garage also can be partitioned for an office or shop, and the laundry area could even become a photographer's dark room.

Flexible design need not be expensive, according to Green. For example, ITT Community Homes' Brookfield model has a two-car garage and a convertible third bedroom. It sells for about $80,000.

Here's a look at some circumstances and possible adjustments in home layouts:

-Empty Nesters and Seniors. Replace steps with sloping pathways to all entries. Add lever door handles, crank-operated windows and telephone jacks in bathroom.

-Handicapped. Reinforce walls to allow handgrip bars to be installed. Work with the builder on wheelchair-accessible hallways and doorways, and plan ahead for expansion and renovation.

-Grandparents Move In. Convert an extra room or a den area with a day bed and appropriate furniture. Save kitchen and storage space with pull-out shelves and pull-down appliances such as ironing boards.

-Grown Children Back Home. Add a separate entrance to extra rooms for privacy.

-High-Tech Hobbies. Change a traditional den into a media room with built-in televisions, stereo equipment, computers and other home entertainment. Allow flexibility for expanded shelving.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm so glad "Roanoke" brought the perfume sample problem to your attention. I am allergic to perfume and have had to cancel several magazine subscriptions. I've requested department stores to send unscented statements. (They will).

It's not only perfume. Most scented products are unbearable. Some are probably not purposely scented but are still offensive. The list goes on and on: carpet glue, rest room deodorants, diesel motor exhaust, airplane exhaust, soaps and cleaning products, copy machine chemicals, artificial flavoring, some printing inks, hair sprays, artificial nail applications, pesticides and bubble gum. (Did you know workers at a bubble gum factory were overcome by fumes and hospitalized? Your kids chew this stuff.)

My life has been greatly affected by my efforts to avoid scents and odors. For example, I've had to change seats at the symphony, the theater, lectures and other events and find the back entrance in a department store to avoid the perfume counter.

I must keep huggy friends at a distance so their scent won't rub off, and I cover my nose with a tissue when shopping the soap aisle. I must avoid the hardware store in the spring when it is stacked with pesticides and fertilizers. The list is endless.

My symptoms include instant, severe stomach cramps, pain shooting up the left side of my face and lodging in the temple, tightness in the chest, nausea and headache.

I often think we scent sufferers are like the canaries they send into the mines to detect deadly gas. Enough said. -- Spokane, Wash.

DEAR SPOKANE: Apparently, a great many people share your sentiment. I caught H-E-double toothpicks for saying I liked the perfume-scented inserts in magazines. My apologies to all the allergic people who get sick from them, and thank you for a letter that a great many readers will applaud.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm sick

Other members present were Terri Bennett, Gertrude Grotegut and Virginia Artho.

Also, during the business session, various fund raising projects for scholarships were discussed and the next meeting was set for 7 p.m. Oct. 26 at K-bob's.

and tired of reading articles about parents giving "tough love." It's just as hard to receive tough love as it is to give it. And I should know because I've done both.

Six months ago, I moved away from my family and friends to pursue a career in another state. My mother had a fit and forbade me to go. I am 22 and perfectly capable of making my own decisions. I went anyway. Now my mother has decided to marry a man she has known for only three months, and she doesn't understand why I'm not supportive. I'll tell you why.

Because I know that without me around Mom got lonely and just needed someone to fill the void. I realize my mother has been alone since she divorced my father 18 years ago. However, if she really loves this man, she'll wait a little longer to get to know him better. Mom told me if I couldn't be supportive and happy for her, I would be cut out of her life.

Well, I'm standing my ground. And if she doesn't like it, that's "tough." -Happy in Greensboro, N.C.
