

CROWDED CORNER SHOOTING SCENE

Enginemen Killed In Explosion Of Locomotive Boiler

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

Springtime is graduation time.

There's nothing like it — like springtime or graduation.

Kids remind you of a spirited colt's dashing headlong for a patch of greener grass but suddenly confronted with a barbed wire fence. They want it until they come near it. Then they're not so sure but that things are not going to be so great over there.

In a few thousand churches these next few Sundays ministers will face perspiring youngsters encased in those excruciating caps and gowns. They'll deliver advice, admonition, congratulations. The kids will listen to them. Yes! You'd be surprised how kids listen some times.

Stacked in the pews back of the class will be parents and kid sisters and brothers. The whole town will be there. Mama will flick a tear now and then. Dad will rear back and smile to shut out the stinky feeling he has when he realizes son or daughter is about to become grown.

Yes, the graduates, weary of mind from those final examinations, numb of limb and droopy-eyed from those class play rehearsals and parties and just plain dazed will decide as have thousands before them that the most envying thing in the world is graduating from high school.

There'll be sleek-haired sons of the well-to-do and ruddy-faced sons of the soil. Lilies fresh from a silk-and-satin boudoir and buxom lassies who can sew and cook and milk the cows.

That's America; it's Texas; it's West Texas.

If you want to get a two-fisted lesson in Americanism spend a few hours around a high school. You'll find Young America ignoring community scisms. They are not bound by the worn, ugly unpleasanties that have, perchance, arisen within the ranks of the grown folks of the community.

They live the principle that all men are created free and equal. They make it practical. Some of the finest examples of the Golden Rule in actual use may be found in our high schools.

Contrary too often to the practices of their elders these youngsters reach out with hands of fellowship toward mates who have fallen momentarily from the straight and narrow path. They gather them back into "the crowd" more often than not. Ostracism must indeed be desisted.

Graduation time, we are old-fashioned enough still to believe, is a momentous occasion. We still believe ministers say things worth remembering when they deliver bacalaureate sermons and that you'll be surprised how much of those sermons the youngster remembers.

Make sure you attend bacalaureate and commencement services at high school this month. You'll find no finer boys and girls that the Big Spring high school class of 1930. If I do you good to go.

Mrs. Nelson, 30, Is Interred Here

Mrs. Essie Wheat Nelson, 30, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Benson, 700 Goliad street, was buried in New Mt. Olive cemetery here Saturday afternoon following funeral services at the Benson home at 3 o'clock with Rev. R. L. Owen of the Presbyterian church officiating.

Mrs. Nelson died in La Junta, Colorado, Monday. The body arrived at 9:15 o'clock Friday evening from there. She is survived by her husband, two children, Jennie Louise Gensert and Johnnie Ralph Gensert, and three sisters, Mesdames Earl Craig of Colorado, G. W. Morris of Big Spring and Charles Wood of Long Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Robert Quincey Lee is a candidate for representative from the seventeenth Texas district in congress to fill the unexpired term of her late husband.

Lamesa Perfectly Safe; Shower Here Track Is Damaged

Although unusually persistent rumors that "Lamesa has been blown away and all the Big Spring doctors are up there" were circulated here Saturday morning, inquiries to that city proved them false and no reports of unusual wind damage were received from any part of West Texas. Big Spring, however, enjoyed a beneficial early morning shower.

Train No. 7, westbound, of the Texas & Pacific, was delayed two hours by a minor washout just west of Sweetwater.

Two inches of rain were reported from Merkel to Roscoe, with a heavy rain in Mitchell county.

COLORADO, Tex., May 3 (AP)—

Streams in this county were on rises as the result of a rain and hail storm last night. The fall ranged from a fraction of an inch to four inches in some parts.

One Wolf Creek at the county club here was on a rampage, running several feet over the dam and spreading water nearly to the club building. It ran over a highway bridge on Second street.

Highway No. 1 was submerged and a bridge washed out seven miles east of here. It was immediately repaired and traffic was not delayed.

Many terraces were broken and damaged in part or washed away entirely.

TEXARKANA, Tex., May 3 (AP)—

One youth was probably fatally injured and considerable property damage was caused by a wind and electrical storm in the vicinity of Fouke, Ark., 20 miles southeast of here, late yesterday.

Don Jones, 17, high school student, was in a hospital here suffering internal injuries received when struck by a large limb while hunting with Dr. C. M. Junell of Fouke.

Dr. Junell reported trees were uprooted and much damage was done to crops and small buildings.

SWEETWATER, Tex., May 3 (AP)—

Some livestock and poultry were reported killed in a rain, hail and wind storm that swept this area last night. Hail was reported to have drifted to a depth of from four to fifteen feet west of here.

More than two inches of rain fell here, and the fall in other sections was said to have ranged from one-half inch to four inches. The fall will be of great help to farmers and ranchers as all lakes were full.

Lightning struck several homes, but no large amount of damage was done. Fields in certain sections were badly washed.

GLIDER CRASHES

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 3 (AP)—

Jack Barstow crashed on Point Loma at about 7 o'clock tonight, after having been up 8 hours and one minute in an effort to officially break the world's glider record.

He was found among the ruins of his machine in a canyon, bleeding from the head and mouth and injured in the back, but able to talk.

BODIES OF TWO FOUND ON HIGHWAY

T. & P. No. 374, On Local Freight, Destroyed

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 3 (AP)—Claude Gremm, 50, engineer and J. W. Wade, fireman, were killed when the boiler of locomotive No. 324, pulling the southbound Texas & Pacific local freight train, exploded two miles north of Keller this afternoon. Gremm lived in Fort Worth. Wade's home is in Bonham.

The bodies, scalded, were picked up on the highway, about 50 or 75 feet away.

Blown 300 Feet

Two brakemen, G. G. Weidman, Fort Worth and H. L. Turner, Bonham, riding on the second car back from the locomotive were knocked to the ground but were unharmed. The 50-ton boiler was hurled 300 feet away. It tore a hole in the ground about four feet deep when it struck, then bounced 100 feet further before it stopped.

The time of the explosion was fixed at 1:10 p. m. because Wade's watch had stopped at that hour. Gremm's watch still was running when his body was picked up. Physicians from Keller, called to the scene, remarked that practically every bone in Wade's body was broken.

The train was moving slowly down a slight grade when the explosion occurred. When the train left Roanoke, three miles from the blast scene, Turner had been in the engine cab. He said he saw Weidman on the second back and a few minutes before the explosion, crawled to join him. Weidman said that he heard a dull thud. "The next thing I knew I was picking myself off the ground," he said. "For the next few minutes I was kept busy dodging the hail of missiles. There was so much steam I couldn't see what was happening."

Torn Apart

J. S. Waller, Fort Worth, conductor and F. W. Laird, Bonham, a brakeman, were in the cabooses. Waller said he heard the explosion which was not loud, braced himself for a shock and looking ahead, saw the cloud of steam. He said he knew instantly what had happened and ran up ahead. He was the first to reach the bodies of the dead men, five minutes after the blast.

Forgeries Or Not, Whalen Will Keep Soviet Documents

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—

Documents purporting to show that soviet agents have been sent here from Russia to foment strikes and riots may or may not be forgeries, but Police Commissioner Grover Whalen regards them as evidence and he is going to keep them.

The commissioner made some of the documents public yesterday and they were immediately declared spurious by Peter A. Bogdanov, chairman of Amtorg, soviet trading corporation. One of the papers was a letter on Amtorg stationery signed with the name of an Amtorg official and listing more than a score of alleged secret soviet agents in this country. Bogdanov's name was on the list.

After denying that Amtorg, the official purchasing agent of the U. S. S. R. in America, was anything but a trade organization and that the papers forgeries, Bogdanov wrote the commissioner asking for permission to determine their authenticity. Only photostatic copies of the papers had been made public, the originals being kept in the possession of the police.

Whalen replied to "Bogdanov's" request today in a letter in which he gave his reasons for declining the soviet trade official's offer. The request cannot be complied with," he wrote, because a criminal investigation now being conducted by the police department into the criminal activities of certain communistic groups in this city has not been completed.

"The disorder and violence which has occurred in many trades and industries in which certain communistic groups have been involved, makes it the duty of the police department to safeguard the evidence already gathered until such time as its investigation is closed.

Brick Work Progresses At Terminal Of Texas & Pacific; 125-Ft. Stack For Shops To Be Started; Pits Completed

With brick work on the machine shop and round house wash and locker room buildings well under way, and pouring of foundations for all the numerous structures of the Texas & Pacific divisional terminal finished one of the most interesting jobs in the entire lay-out will be started in a few days, according to C. F. Duvall, division engineer of the Texas & Pacific.

The 125-foot concrete smoke stack, which will be 12 feet in diameter at the bottom and seven feet at the summit will be started soon. It will be built in sections of eight feet, one section to be poured each day, necessitating 14 5-8 days' labor.

Splendid progress is being made by R. E. McKee, the general contractor. The terminal includes a 23-stall round house, with more than a dozen auxiliary structures. All except two of the 23 engine pits in the round house had been finished last night.

Indications now are that the contractor will finish by August 1. The heavy task of installing the equipment then will be started.

LIBRARY IS DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Judge H. R. Debenport and the county commissioners promised Saturday to consider the county library proposition if a petition signed by a representative number of voters in Howard county is filed with them.

At the informal meeting of the commissioners and a body of some seventy-five women interested in the library campaign yesterday at the county courthouse Judge Debenport spoke at length on the proposition as it faced the commission.

"The general tax fund," said Judge Debenport, "covers everything from the daily meals of the county prisoners to the salaries of the county officials.

"By law the levy cannot exceed twentyfive cents. Therefore the way left open to us to establish a county library would be in revaluation of property to such an extent as to raise the $4,000 needed yearly in the general fund.

The judge said that other corners might be clipped whereby the funds could be procured if necessary. He made the point that it would not do for Howard county to have a half way library. "A good one or none at all," said the judge.

Mrs. Verberna Barnes, chairman of the library committee of the City Federation, spoke of the library now in operation and stated that if, and only if, a county library were established the federation library would be used as a nucleus for it.

Mrs. E. Reagan

Mrs. E. Reagan then gave a short and pointed talk explaining the needs of the county people for a library of the sort proposed.

"A city library we have," she said, "as Mrs. Barnes explained, but what we are asking for is a county library; one from which books will be sent to the rural people as they want them.

"They cannot always come into the city and draw the books they want. These books would be sent to them free of charge and be at their disposal until they had finished them.

"I lived on a farm for many years myself," said Mrs. Reagan, "and I know the need they feel."

Cost of Prisoners

Judge Debenport stated that it took $6,000 a year to feed the prisoners in the county jail. It is because of the lack of proper home training and interest that these men fill our jails and are dependent on the tax payer's money for food.

"A county library would provide interest for our young people, give them something to pattern after and keep them out of mischief and jail."

Other talks were made by Miss Ann Martin, one of the rural school teachers; Mrs. R. M. Ruffner, one of the P. T. A. leaders; Mrs. C. K.

RAY JONES IS FATALLY WOUNDED; C C CHAMBERS SURRENDERS TO SHERIFF

Wife And Daughter Accompany Him To Sheriff's Office; Murder Charge Filed

With two lead slugs lodged in his body Ray Jones, Howard county farmer, died at seven o'clock Saturday evening, one hour and a half after he fell to the sidewalk beside the West Texas National Bank building at Second and Main streets following a volley of three pistol shots. C. C. Chambers, local dirt contractor, accompanied by his wife and 16-year-old daughter, walked two blocks from the scene to the courthouse, and surrendered to officers.

Chambers was charged with murder in a complaint filed late last night by James Little, county attorney. A charge of assault to murder previously had been filed.

Knowing that his wounds were serious, Jones made a dying declaration to James Little, county attorney; Cecil C. Collins, justice of the peace, and a newspaperman who grouped themselves around an emergency bed in the Big Spring Hospital.

Neither of two bullets that entered Jones' body on the right side between the arm pit and waistline passed through.

Between gasps, Jones asked that a Salvation Army worker pray for him.

Chambers, who freely admitted his part in the shooting which paralyzed traffic at the busy corner of Second and Main streets, has been staying in Big Spring seven or eight months and prior to coming here resided in Mitchell county for more than four years. He is married and is the father of five children.

Jones was also married. He had been residing in Howard county eight years and was married in 1923.

Motive for the shooting had not been established. Several conflicting versions were being circulated last night.

Chambers' Calm

While sitting in the sheriff's office awaiting removal to jail, Chambers appeared the most calm of a hundred or more curious persons who tramped to and fro before the open door.

Chambers waited in the corridor of the courthouse several minutes before Deputy Sheriff A. J. Merrick, who was in an adjacent office, could be located. When Merrick appeared, Mrs. Chambers, standing beside her husband, slumped against the wall in a faint. She was carried to a drinking fountain in the hallway by her husband who attempted to comfort her by such phrases as, "There, there, mother," "Hold your nerve, mother," and "The worst is over now, mother." As Mrs. Chambers slowly regained consciousness, her 16-year-old daughter stood nearby with quivering lips and tear-laden eyes.

Eye witnesses to the tragedy were numerous as the shooting occurred during one of the busiest hours of a Saturday afternoon rush. Among those within a few feet of the principals when the firing started were Dave Anderson, Willard

Local Population May Pass 12,000 Mark, Report

Final check of census returns for the city of Big Spring, made Saturday by regular enumerators, following more than a week of active assistance by the Chamber of Commerce, revealed that the city's 1930 population will very likely exceed 12,000.

It was learned that 100 or 200 duplications could be discovered, and still leave the total above the 12,000 mark.

Count 2,500

The Chamber of Commerce, joining in the drive to assure a fair and complete census, was able to list 2,200 persons during the past eight days. This is considered one of the most thorough census jobs done in West Texas thus far.

This estimate is not the final and official one, which must come from P. C. Beard, district supervisor.

Two Power Lines, New Transmission Headquarters Building Announced For Big Spring Electric Company

Addition of two new power lines to the transmission system of the Texas Electric Service Company in the Big Spring area and the erection of a new transmission division headquarters building in Big Spring are the major construction jobs now being done by the power company, C. S. Blomshield, district manager announced today. Plans for a new headquarters building for the transmission division of the company already have been approved and work will be started within a few days. This building will be located on the power plant grounds and will fill the need for larger quarters created by the growing importance of Big Spring as an electrical center.

Big Spring is the western terminus of the 132,000-volt transmission line of the Texas Electric Service Company which supplies electric power for this area. In addition to this line, there are four 60,000-volt lines radiating out of the Big Spring switching station of the company, a short distance from town. These lines carry electric power to oil fields and to other cities and towns in this territory served by the Texas Electric Serv-

Sparenberg Man Posts Reward For Arrest Of Robber

LAMESA, May 3 (AP)—

J. C. Billingsley, brother of W. R. Billingsley of Sparenberg, who was wounded fatally Thursday night when he attempted to prevent the escape of a robber who had held up a filling station in front of his grocery store, today offered a reward of $200 for the arrest and conviction of his brother's slayer.

The store proprietor died in a hospital here yesterday of three bullet wounds.

A description of the robber: led Lamesa officers to believe that he is the same person credited with robberies in Breckenridge, Abilene and Anson.

Funeral services for Billingsley were planned for tomorrow.

PENN POOL ADDS FIVE PRODUCERS

Several Wells Reach Lime After Week Of Drilling

Addition of five producers, one new location and four wells that were drilled into either brown or gray lime were features of development in the Penn pool of southwestern Ector county during the past week. Humble led other companies in the field, so far as developing production is concerned, with three producers, but Cosden had two new wells in a semi-completed stage as the week ended. Shell Petroleum Corporation's No. 1 Jones the most northern producer in the field, came in for its share of attention when the well which has been producing approximately 523 barrels daily from pay at 3,657 to 3,705 feet, increased to 955 barrels daily following a 120-quart shot in pay. The well is located in section 6, block 44, township 3 south.

Large Producer

Humble's No. 5 York became one of the largest initial producers in the field flowing 105 barrels during the first hour after a shot in pay from 3,634-3,642 feet. Prior to the shot, the well produced 230 barrels in 20 hours.

Humble's No. 4 York, one of the Penn pool's latest producers, flowed every three hours and had drilled to a total depth of 3,710 feet, according to latest reports. Pay was topped in the well at 3,605 feet. Location is 325 feet south and 440 feet east of the northwest corner of section 16, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

Cosden Oil Company's No. 1 Kloh, Rumsey and Abrams, 990 feet south and 330 feet east of the northwest corner of section 17, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, topped pay at 3,652 feet and drilled to a total depth of 3,722 feet. After a 100 quart shot in pay the well is producing at an average of 1,000 barrels daily. Prior to the shot, the well produced 137 barrels in ten hours.

Lime Topped

Cosden's A-2 University, in the northeast corner of the south half of the northeast quarter of section 1, block 35, university land, topped pay at 3,620 feet and was last reported drilling at a total depth of 3,660 feet. The well made

Gibson and Johnson's No. 1 Scharbauer, 990 feet from the north and east lines of section 45, block B-15, public school lands, and which is nine miles north of production in the field, had drilled to a total depth of 3,795 feet without having reported a lime top.

Watson Issues Call For Meet Of Secretaries

Secretaries in the sixth district of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce organization will meet in Midland, according to an announcement broadcast from Big Spring Saturday by C. T. Watson, chairman of the secretarial organization.

Chamber of Commerce secretaries from Howard, Glasscock Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Martin, Winkler, Ector, Midland and Andrews counties will be expected to attend the meeting, said Mr. Watson.

Important matters pertaining to harmonious activity will be discussed as will plans for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention to be held in Abilene during the latter part of this month.

Cox Well Dry And Abandoned

Northern Glasscock county had another failure to blotch its record in oil circles Saturday after F.
H. E. Oil Company had declared its No. 1 Cox dry and abandoned at a total depth of 3,400 feet.
Drilling halted Friday at midnight.

No. 1 Cox is located 230 feet from the south and east lines of section 8, block 33, township 2 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.
Hopes for the well had been practically discarded more than 10 days ago when water was encountered, but operators continued 200 feet below their contract depth of 3,200 feet to test out another possible producing horizon.

Kirby-Atlantic and others had two wells drilling and one shut down for engine repairs in the heart of the Coffee-Phillips pool.
Kirby et al's No. 2 Phillips, 960 feet south east of the northwest corner of section 22, block 33, township 2
south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, was reported drilling at 810 feet.

Kirby-Atlantic and others' No. 3
Phillips, 1,650 feet south and 2,310 feet east of the northwest corner of section 23, block 35, township 2
south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, was drilling below 1,785 feet.

Kirby-Atlantic and others' No. 6
Baker, a well recently spudded
900 feet from the west line and 330 feet from the south line of section
23, block 33, township 2 south, T. &
P. Ry. Co. survey, and a north offset to California Oil Company's No.
1 Baker, a producer completed recently, was shut down at a total depth of 285 feet where 15 1-2 inch casing was set. Drilling will be resumed when motor repairs are completed.

Work Started On Old Test

Work of cleaning out and running casing to bottom started during the past week on Cox's O'Neal and others' No. 1 Flowers, an old oil test located on the outskirts of Big Spring east of the Cosden refinery.

No. 1 Flowers is located in section 42, block 31, township 1 north, and was originally drilled to a total depth of 2,517 feet. Saturday, operators had succeeded in running eight and one-quarter inch casing to a total depth of 257 feet and started underreaming. It is believed rapid progress can be made from 257 feet to the old hole bottom and then drilling will start.
It is planned to drill to a new depth of 3,500 feet.

Commodore Heard Nearly Shoots Age Jimmy Kitts Almost Missed Final Battle Over Tricky Brook Hollow Ground

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, May 3 (AP)—In the history of golf, it is not recorded that any player ever "shot his age." That is: no man attaining 70 years on life's score has managed to tour an 18-hole course in 70 strokes. It is a tough assignment, any way you look at it.

Commodore Bryan Heard, veteran Texas tournament player and now a member of the Brook Hollow Country Club here, probably has come as close to accomplishing the feat as any player. The commodore who at best accounts was 72 on his last natal day, recently chalked up a 73 over the difficult Brook Hollow layout, and in the same week had scores of 78 and 79.

It is altogether possible that the picturesque old commodore will turn the trick before he is through. Although past the age of strenuous tournament competition, he plays a round almost every day, and is as steady as a clock. It would not be surprising to see him rip off a 75 three years from now, particularly if he would be willing to pick out an easier course than Brook Hollow on which to make the effort.

Commodore Heard easily has been playing tournament golf longer than any man in Texas—possibly longer than any man in the country. He was a charter member of the first club organized at Houston, where he lived until about a year ago. He had the distinction of defeating Bobby Jones in the Southern Amateur away back when the Atlanta star was just beginning to feel his oats.

It is told on the commodore that he once resigned from the Houston club in a huff because the rules committee denied him the privilege of following his ball around in an automobile. Up to that time he had spent most of his life on a ship and didn't like the idea of walking long distances.

Jimmy Kitts, it has been revealed, almost didn't see his Athens Hornets trim Jena, La., in the final game of the recent national high school basketball tournament at Chicago.

A few minutes before the game was due to start, Jimmy hurried out of the Chicago University gymnasium, where the tournament was being played, to get some supplies for his team. Possibly it was chewing gum, as several of the Hornets refuse to play a step unless they are equipped with their favorite brand.

While he was out Frank Murchison, one of Athens' most enthusiastic supporters approached the gate. The gym long since had been packed to capacity and no more spectators were being admitted. He had a bright idea. He had to see the game.

"I'm the Athens coach," he advised the gatekeeper, and was admitted instantly.

All of which was very good until Kitts came scurrying up. The game was due to start and he was in a rush.

"Let me in," quoth he. "I'm the Athens coach."

"Don't hand me that," was the indignant reply. "The Athens coach is in there. Now run along sonny and peddle your peanuts."

In vain did Kitts expostulate. In the end he was forced to go find Coach Alonzo Stagg, "father of the tournament," and ask him to get him in. Even then the gatekeeper did not look convinced, and it was the next day before Jimmy learned the cause of his discomfiture.

Clyde Littlefield, track and football coach at Texas University, has been watching the boys shoot at one of his old marks for thirteen years. Back in 1917, when Texas was a member of the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association and Littlefield was one of the Southwest's outstanding athletes, he did the 120-yard high hurdles in 15.2 seconds. It still stands as a T.I.A.A. record.

T. P. A. Convention To Open In Dallas

DALLAS, Tex., May 3 (AP)—The 41st annual state convention of the Texas division, Travelers' Protective Association, will be held here May 9 and 10.

After a meeting of the state board, the convention will open with M. F. Farmer, president of Post E. Dallas, delivering the welcome address. The Dallas post has a membership of 2,000. A. C. Hipp, of Brownsville, state president, will respond.

Coincident with the convention, the Benevolent League of Texas Travelers will hold its meeting.

Services Held For Plane Victim

Bartlesville, Okla., May 3 (AP)—Funeral services for Mrs. J. A. Wasson, 28, of Marshall, Mo., fatally injured in a plane crash at Fort Scott, Kas., yesterday, will be held tomorrow afternoon at Caney, Kas. Burial will be at Caney.

Mrs. Wasson was on her way to Bartlesville to visit a friend, Mrs. Jim Ware, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bonham in Copan. She was employed by the Empire Company here about ten years ago.

In addition to her parents, she is survived by her husband, Joseph Wasson of Marshall; a sister, Mrs. C. C. Nelson of Kansas City, and a brother, George Bonham of Copan.

A. & M. 6; S. M. U. 1
DALLAS, Tex., May 3 (AP)—Making it two in a row, the Texas Aggie baseball nine today downed the Southern Methodist University team 6 to 1 in an uneventful game. Veltman of the Aggies accounted for two of the runs.

Major Loops' Leading Sluggers

American League
CHICAGO, May 3.—Hitting at a 442 pace, Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics, and Bill "Spider" Cissell, leadoff man for the White Sox, have taken a joint lead in the race for batting honors in the American League.

Unofficial averages, including the games of Wednesday, reveal that the two sluggers have been at bat officially 44 times and each has tapped out 19 safe blows. Simmons' performance excels that of the White Sox second baseman, however, as he has hit for a total of 35 bases, scored ten runs and batted in 18. Cissell has accounted for 29 bases with hits but drove in only 5 runs.

Simmons batted at a 500 clip during the second week of the campaign to boost his average 82 points while Cissell slumped a trifle dropping 26 points from the previous week.

Charlie Jamieson, Cleveland outfielder, who led the race at the end of last week, dropped from a .533 average to .355, good for second place, the unofficial averages disclosed. Generally, the batting marks dropped perceptibly during the second week.

Most of the other ten leaders were veterans. After Simmons, Cissell and Jamieson they were: Mc-Manus, Detroit, .389; Myer, Washington, .380; Rice, Washington, .380; Seppa, Cleveland, .375; Cochran, Philadelphia, .364; Pansosa, Cleveland, .355; and Oliver, Boston, .356.

The Cleveland Indians took the team batting lead away from the Athletics during the second week. They raised their average from .265 to .301. Washington and the White Sox were tied for second with .280 while the Athletics slumped to .276 and were next.

St. Louis supplanted Washington in first place, in team fielding with a .981 percentage while the Senators were second with .968.

Clinton Brown, 27 year old re-entrant obtained by Cleveland from New Orleans of the Southern League, took the technical lead in the pitching race by winning another game and running his total to "three victories and no defeats. Five others had records of two won and nine lost: Hadley, Washington; Hoggatt, Detroit; Thomas, Chicago; Russell, Boston, and Marberry, Washington. "Lefty" Grove of the Athletics was having difficulty getting started, although he has been credited with one victory and no defeats. He has been hit four games.

Other leaders: Team runs, Washington, 72; team hits, Detroit, 135; double plays, Detroit, 18; individual hits, Oliver, Washington, 21; doubles, Kress, St. Louis, and Regan, Boston, 7; triples, Goslin, Washington, 3; home runs, Reynolds, Chicago, 4; stolen bases, McManus, Detroit, and Guille, St. Louis, 3 each; runs batted in, Simmons, Philadelphia, 18.

place. He also holds the lead in hitting two baggers, with seven.

Other batters following the three leaders among the top ranking regulars are P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .465; Frederick, Brooklyn, .436; Comorosky, Pittsburgh, .435; Herman, Brooklyn, .429; Suh, Pittsburgh, .417; Engle, Pittsburgh, .396; and Terry, New York, .390.

In addition to holding second place in batting, Flaher is tied for two honors. He has made 24 hits to share the lead with John Frederick of Brooklyn and has batted in 17 runs, the same number driven home by Babe Herman. He has made six doubles.

Frederick and Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh each have scored 13 runs, one ahead of Chick Hafey of St. Louis. Gus Suh, another Pittsburgher is tied with Kiki Cuyler of Chicago in hitting triples with a total of three. Travis Jackson of the Giants still holds the home run leadership with five. Cuyler and Paul Waner each have stolen four bases.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
NEW YORK, May 3.—Rivalry between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Brooklyn Robins is a feature of the National League batting campaign, according to official averages including last Wednesday's games. Flowers has rapped out 23 hits in 49 times at bat, giving him an average of .469 and a seven point lead over his nearest rival, George Fisher of the St. Louis Cardinals and Riggs Stephenson of the Chicago Cubs, who are tied for second

If it wasn't for the well known fact that the American professional golfer, no matter how often they may have taken it on the chin from him, have never yet ducked a chance to try conclusions with Bobby Jones, suspicion might be argued by their almost unanimous withdrawal from a journey abroad with the Atlanta amateur this spring for the British Open Championship.

Horton Smith and Leo Diegel will join Jones at Hoylake for the climax of the British campaign but Walter Hagen, Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, among others, have decided that further sea voyages will not agree with them this year. Hagen, it seems, will be quite satisfied with making the trip back from Australia with Joe Kirkwood. Farrell and Sarazen are going into vaudeville for a few short turns and encores.

Hagen, Farrell and Sarazen have dominated the field in the British Open for the past two years, with Hagen leading the field each time. Farrell was runner-up last year and Sarazen in 1928. Leo Diegel had a great chance to crash through last year, leading at the halfway mark with 140, but Lar-ruping Leo blew up on the third round.

"Jones is playing greater golf than ever," Johnny Farrell told me on his return from a winter in the south, where the great Georgian broke even in two tussels with the professional stars. "Bobby is hitting his masher niblick shots surer than I have ever seen him. If there has even been a weakness in his game, it was with this club, but he seems to have it under perfect control now."

Farrell regrets his inability to go abroad again as well as that of Hagen, because, he said, "The Haig always seems to be at his best abroad and would give Jones a great contest."

"In England now, I think Hagen is even more popular than he is at home," added Johnny. "He draws the crowds and has always given a good show. And he seems to play better golf over there than at home."

The switch of Burligh Grimes from Pittsburgh to Boston, almost on the eve of the National League opening, may force considerable revision of the pennant prospects. Up until he was hurt, Grimes was the most potent individual factor in the Pirates' battle for 1929 leadership and the most effective right hander in either league. By no stretch of the imagination can Percy Lee Jones be considered an adequate replacement for Grimes, granting the latter to be in good health and condition.

Grimes, Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner were the Big Three so far as the Pirates were concerned last year. With the big right hander gone and the other two on the casualty list for the time being, Pittsburgh's prospects reflect no rosy hues.

It will take more than Grimes to make a pennant contender out of Smith, Col. Smitley, J. W. Draper, J. B. Bolin, superintendent of Fort-ean schools, Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett and Harvey Porch, who was talking with Jones when Chambers opened fire.

Jones Unarmed After the volley of three shots had been fired, Jones was said to have slumped to the sidewalk and pleaded with Chambers to cease firing. "Don't shoot me, I haven't done anything to you," Jones is purported to have said. No gun was found on Jones following the shooting, officers said. Mr. Bolin assisted others in carrying Jones to his car, parked just east of the intersection of Second street. He said he did not notice or did not hear remarks indicating trouble until report of the first shot rang out. He then told how Jones begged Chambers not to shoot more.

Harvey Porch, one of a small group talking to Jones when the shooting occurred, confirmed Mr. Bolin's version of the affair. He said he did not anticipate trouble and noticed nothing unusual until the shot sounded. He said the two principals were standing within a few feet of each other. Mr. Porch accompanied Jones to the hospital in a Charles Eberley ambulance and remained with him until he died.

Members of the Howard county grand jury have been summoned to convene Monday morning for the regular May term of district court. County officers indicated the case may be among the first considered, but definite decision on the matter will be left to judgment of George Mahon, district attorney. No attempt was made Saturday evening to gain Chamber's release on bond. Charles Sullivan, partner in the law firm of Sullivan & Sullivan, was called to the courthouse soon after the shooting and conferred with Chambers.

Construction work is now under way on a 21-mile extension of the 60,000-volt line from the Big Spring station serving Chalk oil fields, to connect with the transmission system of the West Texas Utilities Company near Sterling City. When this line is completed, added protection will be given to electric power service supplied by the Texas Electric Service Company to oil companies in the Chalk oil field and to other users of electric power in the Big Spring area.

Work on the 60,000-volt transmission line from Big Spring to Lamesa is nearing completion. This line, 42 miles long, was started several months ago to supply more electric power for Lamesa and O'Donnell and to provide these cities with an additional source of electricity.

However, he asked many questions about the local airport, expressed surprise at the completeness of the plant. "I hadn't been across this country for several years. I was surprised and thankful when we sighted this hangar last evening, as the wind was pretty strong and we didn't want to leave the ship tethered on a field," said Kingsley. Mr. Kingsley advised that enlargement and improvements being sought for the airport are badly needed and that with them it would be one of the finest air terminal plants in the southwest.

Those in the party with Mr. Kingsley included Jack and R. G. Frye, Harlan Hull, Earl J. Noe, Paul L. Carpenter, Don W. Cornell.

POTENTIAL HIKED IN FIELDS

PIPE LINE OUTLET GIVEN SLIGHT BOOST BY MA- JOR CONCERNS

Slight relief for congested crude oil marketing and producing conditions in Howard and Glasscock counties' pools is indicated in the May proration sheet issued recently by E. E. Andrews, proration umpire for this section.

As a partial counterbalance for 10,000 barrels daily increased potential, major pipe line companies accepting Howard and Glasscock crude oil boosted their purchase agreement from 25,150 barrels daily to 26,000 barrels daily during the present month. However, it is plain to see that increased potential easily outstripped the increased purchase agreement.

In effect, the recent legislation concerning pipe lines in Texas has been in progress in Howard and Glasscock counties' fields for nearly three months brought about through an agreement between purchasers and producers. Producers agreed to permit pipe line companies to set a limit on runs from the entire field, if a fair ratio of "takes" from individual leases be practiced. This agreement was adopted and has been working satisfactorily, according to operators and pipe line officials.

Total potential from prorated fields in Howard and Glasscock counties jumped from 58,302 barrels daily in April to 65,341 barrels daily during May. The increase is slightly under 10,000 barrels. Figures released by Mr. Andrews indicate that production is still showing a downward curve from the 2,000 feet horizon, but that the upward trend of oil from the 2,300 feet pay more than offsets other losses.

Potential production from the 2,000 feet pay for May is 15,585 barrels as compared with 16,716 barrels in April. However, the 2,300 feet pay gauged a total potential of 49,756 barrels for May as compared with 41,586 barrels daily during the past month. There were 163 wells included in gauges taken for May estimates.

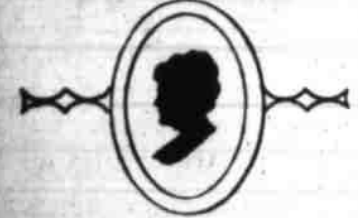

All wells producing more than 200 barrels daily are permitted to produce only 20 per cent of their potentials unless that percentage will bring the allowance below 200 barrels, in which cases 200 is set as the maximum.

Total allowance figured on 20 per cent indicates that pools in the two counties will produce only 24,885 barrels daily, but new wells bound to be added during the 30-day period will more than consume the difference between 24,885 and 26,000, which is the amount pipe line companies agree to purchase daily.

right angles, not larger than the identity disc that everyone at the front wore next to his skin. The purpose of it was to prevent the tube slipping into the gullet; and to prevent it falling out, there was a white tape passing through two eyeholes in the shield and secured behind round the neck by a double slip knot.

"In itself, however, the pipe was of two parts, closely fitted together, the innermost of which was held in its place by a tiny winged screw. Three times a day it was pulled out by two small handles to be cleaned for since they could not breathe through the nostrils, the tubes had become, as it were, the whistlers' noses. And when they were not actually bedridden they gladly cleaned them for themselves.

"After it was cleaned the entrance of the tube had at once to be protected against dust and flies by a clean curtain. This was about the size of the hand and rectangular in form. It was cut from a thick roll of white muslin and attached to the tape with pins. It recalled the clerical hand that forms part of the official garb of evangelical clergymen. Thus it was that the whistlers, with their spotted white between chin and chest had always a ceremonial air. They were something of this in their whole bearing and gladly they changed their bibs and tuckers several times a day for cleaner and whiter ones.

"When they breathed quickly or laughed, a soft piping note, like the squeaking of mice, came from the silver mouth. Hence they were called the.....whistlers."

The story is as informative as it is appealing. It is not depressing and bitter as so many war stories are; it is simply a story of the courage of soldiers who found themselves in need of their best faculties after their part in the war was over.

A small book, with no more than 125 pages, one can read it at a sitting. And it is immensely worth while.

Defense In Brady Case Considers Seeking Delay

DALLAS, May 3. (AP)—Defense attorneys today asserted they were uncertain whether they would ask for a continuance in the second murder trial of former Judge John W. Brady of Austin when it is called in Judge C. A. Pingen's district court here Monday.

Mary Hughes of Dallas, member of the defense staff, said that one of the material defense witnesses was ill in El Paso, and another was in New Orleans. He said he would not know until Monday whether they would be able to appear. Attorneys said the state had summoned about 200 witnesses and the defense approximately 175. Brady was charged in the stabbing at Austin of Miss Lehlis Highsmith, stenographer. His first trial at Austin three months ago resulted in a hung jury.

There are two ways of finding a suitable house, room or apartment... One is an aimless, tiring plodding here and there, hoping by some lucky chance to stumble onto a desirable vacancy... The other, albeit the easiest and quickest, is by far the most satisfactory... in that you make a list of the places that appeal that appeal to you and then go and make a personal inspection.

Today, and every day, the "Rental" columns of The Herald offer a select list of worthwhile rental values that will appeal to discriminating tenants. Turn now to the classified section and "check" the more suitable offerings.

Economical... YES!

Although the Pontiac Big Six gives you the performance advantages of a 60-horsepower engine and the comfort advantages of big, roomy, substantially built bodies by Fisher—it is one of the most economical cars you can possibly own!

Scores of leading business houses have standardized on Pontiac for this reason. And typical of their experience is this statement from one firm operating forty-four:

"From the standpoint of cost of operation, our experience with the Pontiac Six is that its cost per mile is less than that of any other make or type of car we have ever used. This includes all gasoline, oil, tires, insurance and depreciation."

Buying a Pontiac Big Six means the enjoyment of big car performance at small car cost. You save when you buy—while you are driving—and when you are ready to trade.

They Played a Game of Murder

SEVEN PERSONS, seated about the dinner table in the baronial home of Dan Parados, turned to a grim contest of make-believe—each attempting to "convict" the others of the hypothetical murder of their absent host.

Like a mountain avalanche, there burst out a torrent of hatreds and jealousies, hissing, stinging, biting. Parados was loathed and despised by his business associate, his secretary, servants, acquaintances and even by his wife.

Under his very roof, Parados' bitterest enemies "confessed" their innermost thoughts, laid bare a dozen motives for the imaginary crime, to which nearly every person in the house became a party-suspect.

A skillful "prosecutor," himself a mysterious visitor to Parados' sinister domain, had barely finished the grilling, when his little drama was interrupted.

The police were pounding on the door, demanding admittance. The game had become a reality. Dan Parados was dead in his library, a bullet through his heart.

WOMEN

In The World

In reply to a questionnaire circulated at the University of Kansas only seven girl students stated they intended to become home makers.

The return of hobble skirts is believed to be only a matter of time by several Paris dress-making establishments.

A New York woman refused to ask her husband his age for the census taker because they had not spoken for thirty-two years.

The Duchess of Bedford made her first solo flight recently at the age of sixty-five.

Fifty women were injured when the planks of a Lowell, Mass., church crashed.

A wedding was solemnized recently in England between Mr. Penny and Miss Shilling.

Senora Orta Rubio has requested a pardon for the man that would have her when he attempted to assassinate her husband at his inauguration as Mexico's president.

The Soviet Government has decided to train women as army officers.

Men in Liverpool, England, have organized a Henpecked Husband's Union.

Two Tennessee parents have named their son Xenophon Young Zimmerman, so that he could have the initials, X. Y. Z.

A great-grandmother won a breach of promise suit from a man 56 years old in Atlantic, La.

Dr. Charles F. Pabst of Brooklyn characterizes a shiny nose as "a badge of youth."

Male Japanese Customs House employees were ordered to shave their heads to prevent girls from falling in love with them.

A Nebraska farmer, when asked by the census taker to give the names of his nine daughters, was unable to remember two of them.

WOMEN LAWYERS ORGANIZED IN FRANCE

PARIS (INS)—The International Federation of Women Magistrates and Lawyers has recently been organized in France, having as its principal aim to obtain the same openings in the legal profession as men have. The women who have started this believe that they should have the right to become judges and to preside over juvenile tribunals. They intend to support movements for arbitration and the building up of international law.

WOMEN'S TACT HELPS KEEP FRENCH WORKERS CONTENT

PARIS (AP)—France is saving money and contributing to the happiness and prosperity of her working people by placing women supervisors in factories.

Some 40 important industries in France now have women superintendents who act as intermediaries between the owner or general manager and the men and women who do the actual work.

If a woman factory hand falls ill the woman supervisor steps in and sees that she has proper medical treatment. If she has difficulties with her husband she exercises her diplomacy in bringing about a friendly reconciliation.

If an employee, man or woman, has trouble with the "boss" the woman supervisor smooths it over.

WHAT'S IN MY COUNTRY

What's in my country; cotton fields
And nothing over them
But many reachings of not many hands.
And ache of heat and backs
On white and bulging rows.

Get all this cotton in
It is made now.

Smell drying line
And scorching limp green leaves.

What hope
The spring Poured on.

The sun and seed and rain;
And creaking of the plow
And man and woman
With the hoe.

Get all this cotton in
It is made now.

Pick.
Pick with stolid satisfaction.
Lift your head.
Beauty is locked
A thousand days
And yet you know it.

Pick.
Lift proud eyes
Stormy with looking down,
Stormy with stalling fields.
How did you ever learn
To deny yourself
The beauty of red sumac
At the end of the rows.

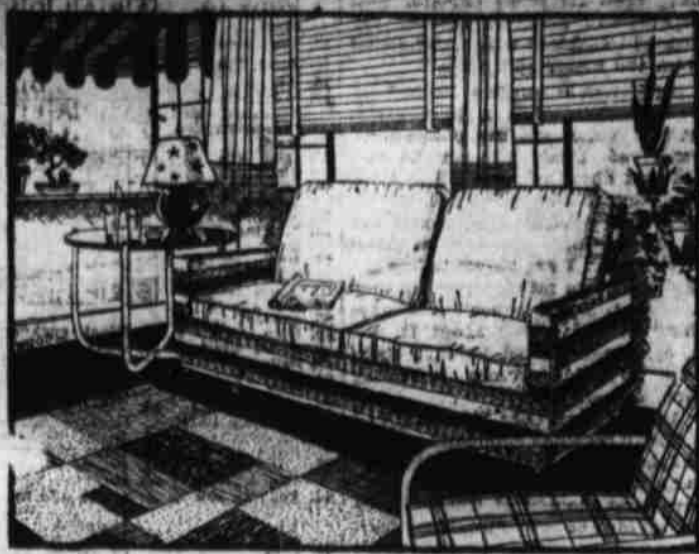

Down in a crab grass mat
There is a piece
Of an old orchard left
To come home by.

Old apples mellow there
Like words gone down behind
The sun.

Come on in home.
September stirring gold
On elm trees over head
Slits down a strange enthusiasm.

Come on in home.

MODERNISM IN SUN ROOM

By MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine, Written for The Herald

No longer is porch and sun room furniture either "comfortable" or rustic.

"Comfortable" formerly meant "homely" or "pensioned" after long service indoors. And porch furniture used to be made so that it "didn't matter if it was out in a storm," because it couldn't look any worse, anyway.

Now, comfort, gay colors and graceful lines are all created by those who know the demands of wear and weather.

The summer hotel style of the early Roosevelt period has given way to the "moderne," which seems to be particularly adapted to sun room and porch.

The new chromium-plated, tubular metal furniture seems to be built to last several life times. From a single endless tube, apparently, machine magic has bent a delightful little side chair, or those cross bases which curve gracefully into legs for the shiny black-topped tables. And wise was the one who designed the big lounge chairs with runners instead of legs.

Unaging, too, are the many-colored leather-like fabrics for upholstery sun room furniture.

The proper background for modern metal furniture is one of clear-cut lines and simple distinction.

Venetian blinds and straight-hanging curtains of some horizontal stripe casement cloth are in harmony. Lamps and other accessories should, of course, be modern, too.

Stick rod furniture has been modernized in a fascinating way. Gone are the curlicues and in their stead are vigorous straight lines, which in the hands of such well-known designers as Frank and Deskey, become modernist masterpieces.

Trim little sets make the small sun room comfortable and spacious looking.

The color and pattern harmony must come from the combination of upholstery and draperies. With plain casement cloth draw curtains and no overdraperies, some effective figured material for the chair covers is needed to give life to the room.

With figured burlapaperies, the upholstery might best be plain, although a very effective plan is to use the drapery material itself on a piece or two, thus drawing the pattern interest into the room.

But you needn't be modern if you would rather be antique. For the Colonial home there is the new hard maple sun room furniture with early American lines. Maple and chintz would go well with blue-green or red lacquered furniture, such as a ladder back or Windsor chair or gateleg table. And the floors would join in the harmony with hooked or braided rugs.

"Inside-Out" Hose Are Latest Fad "Scotch and Soda" Is New Stocking Shade To Simulate Unbecoming Bare Legs

"INSIDE-OUT" HOSE REPLACE BARE LIMBS

One of the newest fads (suggested but not hotly urged) is the wearing of hose inside-out to make them look sheer. Goodness knows this is to be preferred to wearing none at all, and the good ladies of Washington, D. C., have taken it up with much elation.

Back to nature seems to be the watchword of all hose manufacturers and so they are persuading the women of the country to cover their limbs with such colors as "nude tan" and other sun-tan shades.

Peck and Peck of New York has come forward with a "hoe" called the "straight and narrow." It consists of wide rib at least a half an inch apart and it is suitable especially for sports. They have it in an anti-prohibition shade called "Scotch and soda."

HERE'S THE NEWEST WRINKLE

Let 'em wrinkle (we're through talking about how now, please, and have taken up gloves) is the slogan of the well-dressed woman today concerning her handwear.

And you should know, if you don't, that no well-dressed woman is ever seen without gloves now-days even under the least formal conditions. Of course we would not advocate 12 or 16 button lengths in beige and rose while fixing Junior's evening bottle—but it almost comes to that.

The nicest new ones we have read about and seen ARE of rose-beige, have the texture of velvet and rose leaves combined and are tinted in a manner that is almost impossible to describe.

Other pretty wrinkles come in brown kid with three colors kid appliques in braid effect and tiny steel buttons. A smart long glove of light beige washable suede has openwork on pinky beige relieved with tiny pearls. Long gloves of putty-colored suede have blue stitching, scalloped edge and blue pearl buttons.

STILL RANTING ON SUBJECT OF COLORS

We ranted on colors the other day with our champagne and bananas, ripe and green, and now come some more to make us pull our hair and say resignedly "I always looked best in plain brown anyway!"—you know!

Here are some nice ones: Irish green, Pompeian red and brilliant Adriatic blue. Patou, we are told, is using moss-green, and Lanvin is using lily-red (whatever that might be).

Try bluish-slate for your new summer costume—what? You don't like bluish-slate? Well, try plum-blue or plum-bean, deep or pale yellow or—ah! here you are—young leaf-green.

SLIPPERS AS SIMPLE AS GLASS FOR SUMMER

The "moderne" has extended itself to shoes, gentle reader. Do not mistake the modern tendency as being a streak of lightning on a black field which many at present call modern art. The basis of modern art is simplicity and it has been carried so far within the past year or so that it is becoming reactionary. That is why we let our dresses down and took off the old funny things and put on new funny things, things being bows and capes and boleros—but I am rambling.

Shoes from the narrowest dance slipper to the clumsiest golf oxford, are simple and smart. They depend upon their cut and their material for their beauty.

Even for evening wear, slippers depend upon the cut and color for their trimming, jewelry being exceedingly rare. Often two materials are cleverly combined as in a plain crease satin and colorful brocade joined by a narrow strapping of gold kid. Bunting uses this for a sandal slipper which is cut low enough to reveal a large part of the foot.

Another lovely evening slipper comes in pink "sea-kid," a flexible and unusual skin, exactly matched in color by the suede which binds the edges and forms the strap over the instep. Still another comes in green crepe de chine with strappings of gold leather. Slippers to match the evening frock are probably the most popular.

Simplicity also marks the street Oxford. One model in black patent leather has a central strapping of beige crocodile leather extending right around to the front. A dark rich shade of brown antelope is exactly matched in its trimming of lizard or crocodile.

Boudoir wear, on the contrary is not to be put in this simple class. Most amazing decoration comes on mules and janna slippers. Heels are lacquered in an intricate pattern to match the vivid brocade of the front; others are trimmed with feathers or an enormous ruche kept in place by a plain buckle which half hides the instep. Hand-painted leather or plain ones dyed in two or three colors and enlivened one upon the other are among the materials being used this season.

DO BUSTLE DAYS STARE US IN THE FACE?

Heaven help us if the prevailing mode for the old-fashioned goes back any farther. We should have to start wearing bustles in earnest. And as for those who diet today—they are quite mentally unbalanced, it seems to me.

The New York Times has pictures of little hats perched high upon young heads, with the hair drawn smoothly up from BEHIND into a tight little knot. And the ribbon trimming is of black and white check! The old-fashioned sailor with a round crown, so smart in the time of riding skirts and side saddles, is back again with us. But let me tell you, lady, it takes a good-looking woman to wear 'em. They are so plain and simple that it hurts, and if you have a chubby round face, and a little bit of a nose don't try them. It takes a young mind, shining hair, and a rousseau nose to do them justice.

PINK COATS AND THE MASCULINE MIND

And let me tell you something funny. The same Washington that is turning out the inside-out hose (parda me, that is awful) is turning out the men who are now sporting pink, long-tailed coats for evening wear.

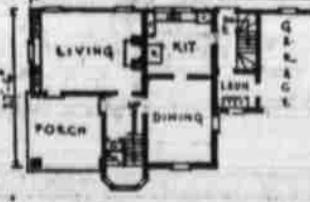

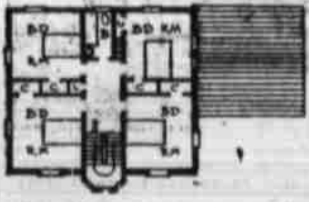

Former Colonel "Billy" Mitchell, who blazed a fiery trail of speeches across the country some time ago, introduced the first pink coat of the season at a ball given at his country home, "Boxwood," near Middleburg, Va.

Surrounded by women who ride side-saddle in the afternoon, now attired in lace evening gowns and "gentleman riders" in pink coats, the once fighting colonel played genial host to many Washington guests.

The pink coats, worn by members of the Middleburg Hunt and Racing association, both for sports and formal wear, are a reflection of the British custom. The short coats used for riding are of pink broadcloth. The lapels are ornamented with the wearer's hunt colors.

The long-tailed ones for evening wear are worn with white vests and regulation long black trousers.

SQUARE HOUSES PICTURESQUE

One of the features of this unusual design is that it is picturesque even though built on a square plan.

It is English in character and treatment of the half timber material, but the square plan is retained. The light timber, brick whitewashed for the first story, stucco on metal lath, and wood or slate shingles would go far toward accomplishing the desired effects with materials.

The chimney is painted white and adorned with orange pots.

Among the features is a bay window on the stairs giving a central motive to the front elevation, which should be to the east.

No space is wasted on the upper floor where there is a bedroom on each corner. In fact, still another room might be built over the garage without damage to the beauty of the house.

On the lower floor the laundry and kitchen are located so as to obtain the maximum of comfort for the living room. In this living room a fireplace and space for two book nooks are special attractions. Windows are numerous throughout the house, every room having at least two. The results in ventilation are obvious.

The house is 27 1/2x37 1/2 feet, and if built on a lot 50x75 would permit considerable space for lawn and shrubbery cultivation.

Considering labor and material costs, estimates as to the price of this house range from $10,000 to $12,000, the exact figure depending on the community where the house is built.

"The hospital has been adopted by the American women," he said, adding that the hospital's deficit has been reduced from $10,000 to $7,000 through the kindness of the American donors.

HANDS SHOW AGE AND NEGLECT UNLESS CLEANSED AND PROTECTED

Of all the things that you can do at home to preserve a good appearance, nothing is more important than the care of your hands. Most women, however, think of their faces first. If little lines and wrinkles begin to appear, and the skin on their faces darkens and careens, they immediately take steps to remedy this. Of course we all want to keep our faces fresh and youthful just as long as possible. That is as it should be. But did you ever realize that your hands can betray age

T. & P. Service

PRESIDENT Lancaster's statement of last year's operations of the Texas & Pacific Railway Company reveals that, although earnings were slightly less than those of 1928, $7,400,000 was spent in road improvements and an additional $4,780,000 for improvements to equipment.

The year was exceeded only by 1928, when an abnormal volume of business was handled in connection with the development of new oil fields in West Texas.

Improvements during the year included the automatic block signal system between Toyah and Sierra Blanca, 103.6 miles; a centralized dispatcher's control signal system between Fort Worth and Grand Prairie.

The T. & P. inaugurated motor coach service between its line at Mickap to Mineral Wells, as well as pickup and delivery service on freight between Fort Worth and Dallas and West Texas points.

That public, stimulated and enriched by development of natural resources in a vast section—West Texas—has, in turn, shown that it is anxious to support a railroad which strives to give efficient service.

The Texas & Pacific means much to all West Texas and to Big Spring in particular. Big Spring and West Texas mean much to the Texas & Pacific.

ENURESIS

Enuresis, or bed wetting, is a fault which has serious effects upon the physical and mental well-being of the child, and which may seriously handicap it in its later years.

Enuresis may be due to physical defects, or to faulty training. It is imperative that every child suffering from enuresis should be given careful physical examination, including the nervous system.

Where there is a physical fault only its correction should be undertaken. Under all circumstances, however, proper training of the child should be instituted.

In the uncomplicated cases such training will, if kept up long enough, prove effective, that there are a number of cases where the situation is complicated by emotional and other disturbances.

El Brendel, thus far, has escaped, but he too may fall before the grand trek to the wilds begins.

The question is, in his case, whether or not a pioneer Swede would carry a razor.

A Hollywood studio, putting aside all thoughts of "The Covered Wagon," has assembled a cast of 93 principals and who-knows-how-many extras to venture on the most ambitious outdoor talkie yet essayed.

The old character actor was borrowed for a featured role in "The Big Trail," and for the part of a Briders in another picture to be completed before the location trip began.

ROMANCE CLEAN-SHAVEN Practically every man in the cast will be bearded except the "hero," indicating that in the movies at least the smooth chin prevails over stubble.

JACQUELINE ON HER OWN

by RICHARD STARR

SYNOPSIS: Life seems drap to both Jacqueline Grey and Teddy Montrose whom circumstances have parted until Teddy literally walks back into Jacqueline's life.

Jacqueline was troubled. "You gave me a card," she explained. "You told me to ring you up to ask how you were getting on, and I did so some days later. I spoke to Mr. Dexter and he was very rude to me."

"Of course, I forgive you," said Jacqueline, taking his offered hand and smiling one of her sweetest smiles.

"And now," Sir Franklin added, turning to his wife and son, "will you please introduce me?"

"Permit me," said Teddy, as he came forward gravely, and bowed to Jacqueline.

"Will you allow me to present my father, Sir Franklin Montrose, Miss Jacqueline Grey, sir, the lady I am going to marry."

"Sir Franklin turned red. "Ahem!" He coughed uncomfortably. "I am very pleased indeed to be presented to you, Miss Grey. I am very much in your debt for your kind and practical help. I shall always think of you as one who has saved my life. Will you allow me in turn to offer you my friendship, and the friendship of my house, together with its hospitality, now and at all times in the future."

Jacqueline's eyes were moist and her throat a little choky as she bowed. She was deeply touched by his stately courtesy.

"Sir Franklin cleared his throat. "As for what you have just told me, Edward, it has taken me rather by surprise, and you must forgive me, all of you, if I find it just a trifle sudden. I should like, if you don't mind, Edward, to have a few words with you in private."

Teddy and his father strolled the length of the long room, and stood against the window, where they were out of earshot. Before Sir Franklin could make up his mind how to open the conversation, Teddy produced the glass "diamonds."

"My dear child," said Sir Franklin, "I am afraid there is a mistake. You evidently don't recognize me."

"I recognize you quite well," returned Jacqueline distantly, "and I have not forgotten how you insulted me when you spoke to me over the telephone."

"My dear child," said Sir Franklin, "I have never spoken to you over the telephone. You are mistaken."

"I am not," replied Jacqueline. "You are Mr. Paul Dexter. I did my best to help you when you had a motor accident in Essex somewhere."

"This is a mystery," said Sir Franklin. "I am certainly the man you so kindly helped after the accident."

They lay in his big palms, wishing wickedly in the light, and Sir Franklin stared at them as if he saw a ghost.

"By the way, sir," said Teddy, "I have been fortunate enough, with Jacqueline's help, to recover the diamond necklace which was stolen from the mater at Circo's."

Sir Franklin gurgled something unintelligible. "It's a long story how it came into my possession," continued Teddy pleasantly. "I'll tell you about it some other time. I'm very pleased to be able to return it to you, sir. The stones are quite unjaded—haven't suffered in the least. I am assured they are worth just as much as when they were lost. But I haven't said anything to the mater about it yet, in case you wanted to have them done up a bit before returning them to her."

By this time Sir Franklin had partially regained command of himself, but there was still a vibration in his voice. "My dear boy, you have been most thoughtful. That's an excellent idea of yours. Don't say anything to your mother about it yet. I will keep these done up, and we will keep it as a little surprise for her."

Teddy gave him rather a straight look. "And about Jacqueline, sir?"

"My dear boy, I congratulate you. She is a fine girl, as well as a very beautiful one. I have reason to know that she has courage and grit. Yes, I congratulate you. You have my blessing, both of you."

The two men looked at each other for a moment, and a slow smile passed between them. Then they gripped hands.

"Old Top, sir," said Teddy, "you are a sport. Come and kiss Jacqueline."

It was one of the shortest engagements of the season. Within three weeks Jacqueline and Teddy were married—and of course, they were absurdly happy.

Lady Montrose had her diamonds back—real ones this time—and she was happy. Sir Franklin was happy also, being at peace with his conscience, although 10,000 pounds poorer.

The only people who were not happy were Mrs. Porter Mason and Mr. Carew, the former because she was in prison, and the latter because the executors of the late Colonel Malcolm Grey, of Torquay had discovered his long-lost daughter, Jocelyn.

She turned out to be a humble, homely little thing who had been working for some years as a governess. She also was happy when she came into 100,000 pounds—but not so happy as Jacqueline.

In the fulness of time, as they say, in the movies, Dorothy Dalton married Mr. Brown, and settled down to eat just whatever she liked and get as fat as she liked. Instead of which, surprisingly, she grew willowy again. You never can tell just what happiness will do to a girl.

Emily Gibbs married Mr. Keadick Dell, and was sorry for it, though she was not nearly so sorry as Mr. Keadick Dell. But, of course, Emily Gibbs was the sort of person who would never be happy whatever happened to her.

"No, No, Nanette," All-Technicolor Success, Opens Here

LATEST SMASH HIT COMES TO RITZ

The filming of motion pictures in color reaches its greatest effectiveness in "No, No, Nanette," First National's lavish screen musical comedy which the Ritz Theatre has booked to start today, according to newspaper and magazine critics wherever the picture has been shown.

Colors
The colors it is said are a delight to the eye and the scenes look as natural as they would outside the theatre. Players lose the "shadow" effect of black and white photography and look as real as people seen on the street. "No, No, Nanette," in fact seems to represent the perfection of the technicolor process.

Four of the biggest scenes ever made for the screen have been filmed in color for "No, No, Nanette." They are the Mars, New York, Holland and Japanese numbers. The audience reaction to these dazzling sequences, filmed on the largest sound stage in the world, built at the First National Studio especially for this picture, is described as startling and lasting. Each of these scenes cost more money than the entire original stage production, on which the screen version is based.

Clarence Badger, director of "Nanette," was in his youth an inventor of a color printing process. Multi-colored printing is fundamentally the same process used in multi-colored filming. Badger was not content merely to direct "No, No, Nanette"; he followed his picture through the laboratory and cutting rooms into its final release stage. He is known as the most advanced color director in Hollywood.

"No, No, Nanette" features Bernice Claire, Alexander Gray, Lucien Littlefield, Louise Fazenda and a tremendous cast and chorus.

Screen's Best Singing Love Team

Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray, who have the leading roles in the First National musical comedy, "No, No, Nanette," which opens a three-day run at the Ritz theatre this afternoon, have been designated the best singing team of lovers yet brought together on the audible screen. Gray recently appeared here with Marilyn Miller in "Sally." "No, No, Nanette" is shown entirely in technicolor.

WILLIAM POWELL APPEARS AS PHILO VANCE IN SCREENING OF MOST SUBTLE MYSTERY PLAY

Philo Vance is back in town, trailing the killer in "The Benson Murder Case." He will come to the Ritz theatre Friday in a mist of mystery and suspense that will keep audiences on the qui vive until he finally solved the greatest of the S. S. Van Dine detective thrillers and brings the guilty man to justice.
"The Benson Murder Case" is better, more exciting, more suspenseful, than even "The Canary Murder Case," or "The Greene Murder Case." William Powell is more convincing than ever as the suave, silk-hatted, amateur sleuth, Philo Vance, and Eugene Pallette as Sergeant Heath is a riot of homely humor. Van Dine's story is filled with gripping climaxes that twist and turn as the police fumble with the misleading clues. It is baffling to the end. It defies solution.
Five persons are involved in the investigation following the death of Anthony Benson. Two women and three men are put through the ruthless third degree. Police are led off on wrong trails which seem to involve each one of the suspects in turn. And, when everything seems hopelessly entangled, Philo Vance puts his finger on the guilty person, and proves him guilty.

The final climax and explanation of the crime is the strangest ever conceived by any detective fiction writer. Although the clues are presented to the audience as they occur throughout the picture, it is safe bet that very few, if any, uninitiated persons will grasp their significance and guess the solution of the story before Vance explains it. Many tried last night, but few boasted that they had out-guessed the author.
"The Benson Murder Case" is a really entertaining baffler, one that will test the detective powers of the best sleuth in the audience. And it's great entertainment.

Ace Of Royal Flying Corps Special Advisor In Filming Of Queen Feature, 'The Sky Hawk'

Flying fields throughout the country were searched for specimens of actual British wartime planes for use in the Fox Movietone all talking production, "The Sky Hawk," according to director John G. Blystone. It will open at the Queen Theatre next Friday. With the assistance of Captain

Sterling Campbell, an American flyer who became one of the ranking aces of the Royal Corps with a record of fourteen German planes and eight balloons, Director Blystone assembled an imposing fleet of Camels, Avros, S. E. 5s, and other types of genuine pursuit and training ships at the Fox studios. These planes were rebuilt and rendered airworthy for the exciting scenes of an anti-Zeppelin attack which is the climax of a tense story.

John Garrick, Helen Chandler and Gilbert Emery play the featured roles in this first all talking production of wartime aviation. Lennox Pawle, Lumsden Hare, Billy Bevan, Daphne Pollard and Joyce Compton enact the principal supporting parts.

George Arliss' 1,210th Performance Of Role In "The Green Goddess" Was That For Screen

"The Green Goddess," the first of a series of all-talking Vitaphone productions which the notable star, George Arliss, is making for Warner Bros., and which will be shown at the Ritz Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday was one of the most successful plays ever produced on the legitimate stage.

Critics agreed that it was a faultlessly constructed melodrama and it attracted large and enthusiastic audiences at every performance during its long run.

A FIRST NATIONAL & VITAPHONE PICTURE

'Bride Of Desert' Monday At Queen

When a young bride endures the loneliness of life on the desert with a husband who finds the lure of gold a stronger attraction than his wife, things are bound to happen, and in the case of the entrance of a fugitive to the little ranch in the barren wastes precipitates dramatic action that will thrill any motion picture audience.

We refer to "Bride of the Desert," the new Rayart picture that comes to the Queen Theatre Monday and Tuesday with Alice Calhoun and LeRoy Mason in the principal roles, portrayals that will win these popular stars a host of new followers, inasmuch as this is an all talking production.

The largest diamond ever found was the Cullinan, found in South Africa, near Pretoria, in 1905. It weighed one and one-third pounds.

MARION DAVIES' NEW PICTURE DUE HERE

Marion Davies' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "Not So Dumb," which will open Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre, is an all-talking picture without a theme song, but with seventeen piano numbers scrambled up into one hilarious scene.
The music is contributed by Donald Ogden Stewart, who plays "atmospheric" melodies at a piano while Franklin Pangborn gives a dramatic reading of a new scenario he has written for a "gigantic film epic."

As a musical background for this humorous oration, Stewart plays "Until," Chopin's "Prelude No. 4," Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in C Minor," "Selling, Salling," "Singin' in the Rain," "Yes, That's My Baby," "Morning Mood" by Grieg, "America," "Pop, Goes the Weasel," "East Side, West Side," "Boola, Boola," "Chicago," "Vision of Salome," "Stars and Stripes Forever," "Aloha," "Dixie and Wagner's "Wedding March."

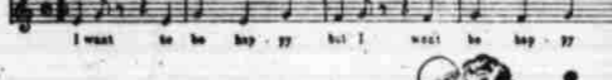

"I tried to work in 'Marianne' as a tribute to Miss Davies, but I couldn't find room," apologized Stewart when the scene was finished.

King Vidor directed the screen adaptation of the George F. Kaufman-Marc Connelly Broadway stage hit, "Dulcy." Elliott Nugent plays opposite the star and the supporting cast includes Raymond Hackett, William Holden, Julia Faye, Sally Starr and George Davis.

SHE'S PROUD OF HER AGE
NEW BERN, N. C. (AP)—Census enumerators found a woman here who was proud to tell her age. She is Eliza Mayo, negress, 121. The old woman owns a Bible which shows she was born in October, 1808, as a slave in Virginia.

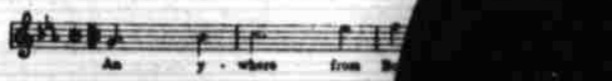

Bigger and Better than Broadway's Best!
Here's the famous hit that shattered all musical romance records and made "Tea for Two" and "I Want to Be Happy" national anthems! New Yorkers kept it crowded to capacity for one solid year... But they didn't see half as much comedy—half as many chorus beauties—or scenes one-half as lavish as you'll see and hear on the talking screen, in COLOR!

They Flew to Mars on Their Honeymoon!

Come on along on Nanette's Round-the-World Flight of Fancy, with stops for gorgeous color scenes and dances in New York, Holland and Japan... Then off among the stars to mysterious Mars for the most breathtakingly immense and novel spectacle you've ever seen, with a life-size 1940-model aeroplane soaring high above the stage!

No One Could Say "No" to Nanette.
You'll find her irresistible, too, when you see Bernice Claire, as Nanette, sing and dance "As Long As I'm with You" and "Were You Just Pretending" with handsome Alexander Gray, and with Louise Fazenda and Lucien Littlefield contributing convulsing comedy, under Clarence Badger's direction.
Adapted from the musical comedy by Frank Mandel, Otto Harbach, Vincent Youmans and Emil Nyberg.

HOWARD AND MITCHELL GET ONE COMPLETION EACH IN OTHERWISE DULL PERIOD

Showing In Semi-Wildcat Southeast Of Older Coffee-Phillips Pool Is Another Encouraging Feature Of Week

One completion each in Howard and Mitchell counties was the only encouraging feature of an otherwise dull week in this particular section. Another encouraging showing in a semi-wildcat well in northern Glasscock county is intensely interesting, but inability to pull drill pipe from the hole delayed operators in testing commercial value of the horizon.

Continental Oil Company's No. E-4 Clay, 530 feet from the north line and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 15A, block 29, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey, topped pay at 1,740-50 feet, drilled to a total depth of 1,751 feet and then the well flowed at the rate of 40 barrels daily through two-inch tubing.

California Oil Company's No. 1 H. C. Miller, Mitchell county test located in the field, and 1,320 feet from the north line and 2,650 feet from the west line of section 22, township 1 north, T&P Ry. Co. survey, was apparently a 200 to 300 barrels daily producer.

Pay was topped in California Oil Company's No. 1 Miller at 2,875 feet and the hole was drilled to a total depth of 3,077 feet. A 720-quart shot from 2,875-3,065 feet increased the amount of oil from a good showing to a fair sized pumper. During a six-hour swabbing test the well produced 60 barrels indicating more than 100 barrels hourly when pumping equipment is installed.

Regular Showing California Oil Company's No. 1 Jones, northern Glasscock county test, is the well with a showing of oil at 2,031 feet, which has not been tested because operators were unable to pull drill pipe until late in the week. The well is located 330 feet south from the north and east lines of section 22, block 33, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey, and is approximately one and one-half miles southeast of the Coffee-Phillips pool. Producers in the Coffee-Phillips pool have encountered similar showings at approximately the same level and have later developed valuable commercial production on deeper drilling. Whether the same conditions will exist in California's No. 1 Jones as in producers of the proven area is not determined, but the test is attracting considerable attention from all interested in the development of Glasscock county oil territories.

Two wells in northern Glasscock county which were spudded recently were drilling ahead at depth less than 500 feet. The wells are America's No. 5 Coffee, a test which, if commercial production is encountered, will extend the Coffee-Phillips pool to the southwest, was reported drilling around 350 feet. The well is located 2,310 feet from the north and west lines of section 22, block 33, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey.

FHE Oil Company's No. 1 Sprinkle, a well southwest of Coffee-Phillips pool production, was last reported drilling at a total depth of 1,152 feet. The well is more properly located south of the old Roberts field, but its exact location is 330 feet from the north line and 1,600 feet from the west line of section 263, W&N W Ry. Co. survey.

Another Pumper Mitchell county had another small pumper completed during the past week, it being Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 7 Foster. The well topped pay at 2,751-63 feet, drilled to a total depth of 2,810 feet and then swabbed 105 barrels of oil in 24-hours. The well is located 330 feet from the north and west lines of section 7, block 29, township 1 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey.

Byrd and Harmon's No. 1 Murphy, Scurry county test, located 330 feet from the north and east lines of section 114, block 97, H&T C Ry. Co. survey, was fishing for a bit at a total depth of 2,442 feet in line. A small showing of oil from 2,213-2,265 feet tested one barrel of oil per hour before operators started drilling deeper in search of more prolific production.

E. L. Smith and Magnolia's No. 1 Moore, Scurry county, was plugging back to a showing of oil at 2,230 feet and will shoot. The well is located 1,320 feet from the south and east lines of section 379, block 97, H&T C Ry. Co. survey.

TERRELL-Campbell Bros. Motor Co. taken over Mayfield Motor Co. The Campbell Bros. Co. now has Ford franchise for two-thirds of Kaufman county.

Ready To Drill World Oil Company's No. 1 Edwards, several miles directly west of the Coffee-Phillips pool and two miles north of the company's production on the McDowell ranch, had drilled to 350 feet in red rock. The well is located 330 feet from the south line and 2,310 feet from the west line of section 13, block 34, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey. Although numerous dry holes have been drilled in that general vicinity, some operators have not entirely condemned the region.

Pure Oil Company's No. A-2 Scribner, an offset to the same company's one producer on the lease has drilled to a total depth of 1,472 feet. Eight and one-quarter inch casing was set and cemented at 1,437 feet. The well is located 330 feet from the south and east lines of section 4, block 32, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey. Oil sand was cored from 1,437 to the ed recently at the Warner studio, his 1,210 performance of the play. This melodrama of the Far East is one of Mr. Arliss' best known stage vehicles. The illustrious actor appeared in it in the United States and England for several successive seasons, during which time it drew critical approbation and broke box office records.

Alfred E. Green directed this screen version of William Archer's play and Mr. Arliss is supported by a popular cast, including Alice Joyce, H. B. Warner and Ralph Forbes.

Nigel de Bruiler, well known for his gaucous character studies, also plays an important role in "The Green Goddess." As a wild-eyed fanatical temple priest, worshipping his strange idols and conducting strange religious rites Mr. de Bruiler gives another of his fascinating performances.
