Board members of the Hereford Satellite Center were optimistic, but they were also realistic business people when they signed a 15-year mortgage note on a building 101/2 months

Tuesday at a special luncheon board meeting, directors burned that mortgage note to signify the satellite center building is debt free. Fortythree directors, clients and special guests attended the luncheon meeting at the Caison House.

"We've come a long way in a short time, thanks to volunteer board members and the support of this community," President Stan Rose told the group. "The $50,000 for this building was raised at a time when two other very worthwhile programs were soliciting almost $1.5 million for new facilities and citizens were trying to meet their United Way com-

Schalan Atkinson, who is being sued by former chief deputy Dean Butcher, included sworn statements from Deaf Smith County Judge Glen Nelson and Precinct 3 Commissioner Bruce Coleman in her response to the lawsuit filed by Butcher Aug. 24. Atkinson filed her answer Tuesday in 222nd District Court.

Butcher, who was edged out by Sheriff Joe Brown in the June primary runoff, first complained publicly about Atkinson during a campaign rally shortly before the elections.

His campaign manager, Mary Parker, read a statement from County Commissioner James Voyles which revealed that Atkinson had met with the commissioners in closed session during the time they were interviewing applicants for sheriff.

The commissioners named Brown to the post after the resignation of longtime sheriff Travis McPherson.

Backed by two county officials public. "I have given this statement because Schalan Atkinson has been

Butcher, who was McPherson's personal choice as his successor, was one of several applicants for the job. He later resigned his position as chief deputy to run in the May primaries. In his suit, Butcher maintained that Atkinson prejudiced the commissioners by suggesting the sheriff's office was involved in a scandal surrounding Hereford farmer Robert Strain. Butcher claimed Atkinson told the court it "would be embarrassed if it appointed any person currently associated with the sheriff's department."

Coleman, in an affadavit dated Sept. 5, acknowledged that Atkinson did appear before the commissioners but disputed the fact that she had an influence on their decision to hire Brown over Butcher or anyone else connected with the sheriff's office.

"I asked Schalan if she had facts or evidence with regard to anyone in the sheriff's office linking them to the Robert Strain operation," the af-fadavit quotes Coleman. "She said that she did not.

"I informed her that we could not consider her fears without evidence, though I appreciated her concern. I could not and did not allow her appearance to influence my decision.'

Nelson, in his statement, also disagreed that Atkinson's remarks affected the decision of the commissioners court.

"Ms. Atkinson, in her appearance on Aug. 24, 1983, never made reference to the applicant Dean Butcher or any other applicant by name or implication. She did not make any coment or statement that could be considered slanderous or implicated with regard to the applicant, Dean Butcher.

"Ms. Atkinson's appearance, as outlined above, did not influence my decision in selecting a new sheriff. It is my opinion that it did not influence any other commissioner's vote in the

Nelson and Coleman both expressed regret that the proceedings of a closed meeting had been made sued by Dean Butcher for influencing the court's decision for allegedly slanderous remarks made by her,' Nelson's affadavit stated. "That did not occur."

Atkinson in her answer denies the allegations brought against her by Butcher and "demands strict proof by clear and convincing and credible evidence."

She especially takes exception to a paragraph in Butcher's suit which he claims to be a direct quote of her statement to the commissioners. The last sentence of the paragraph says, "These facts show that the sheriff's department is involved with the district attorney's office for Deaf Smith County, Texas, together with Robert Strain and the multi-county theft and fencing operations that Robert Strain has been indicted for."

Atkinson points out that she could not have made that statement, since Strain was not indicted for theft until

Townsend wants citizens' help

By REED PARSELL Staff Writer

Local citizens are to have a say in determining what capital improvements are to be made in the Hereford Independent School District, according to a plan developed by Bill Townsend.

The school board president said Tuesday night advice should be sought on how to spend much of the $1.3 million allocated this year for HISD renovation work.

It was agreed by Townsend and other board members three elementary school media centers would have to be established at an estimated cost of $195,000. Such action is mandated by a section of the state's curriculum law guide, Townsend and Superintendent Harrell Holder explained.

Townsend's plan for soliciting public comment calls for board members to, in pairs, speak to as many social clubs as they can next month. "So if you're planning on going anywhere in October," he told the four other board members present during Tuesday's special meeting, "please don't."

Questionnaires would be used as one way to obtain feedback, Townsend proposed. "I think we need to get the information," he said. "We need to give some direction to the proposals we make, but it needs to be an open-ended direction."

Recommendations for the capital improvement funds had earlier Tuesday night been presented to the board by Dr. Holder. Establishment of media centers at Aikman Primary, Bluebonnet Intermediate and Northwest Primary schools was prioritized first.

Rated second in the Holder's "immediate action" (next 15 days) section was remodeling of Shirley Intermediate School. It was followed by redesigning Hereford High With prioritizing renovation

School's offices, constructing an allweather athletic building near Whiteface Stadium and putting new or extended black tops at some of the elementary schools.

The athletic practice facility, proposed last school year by HISD Athletic Director Jerry Taylor, has a projected price tag of $55,000. It could be used by the HHS sports teams and physical education classes at nearby La Plata Junior High School and Northwest, Holder claimed.

"All I'm saying is build a shed out there," the superintendent said, "and the booster club and community (can take it from there)."

Holder's "high priority" section (next 75 days) led off with air conditioning of Aikman and Northwest. Second was a decision concerning the two junior high schools and their possible consolidation.

According to Holder, at least $143,000 could be annually saved by having one facility for seventh and eighth graders and making HHS a four-grade school.

Declining enrollment is a primary reason the change should be considered, he said. Holder guessed there is a 95 percent chance HHS will be classified as 4A rather than 5A in 1986 and 1987, as the two-year enrollment average is likely to be under 1,300 students. Meanwhile, La Plata instructor Patricia Lemons asked the board to look at the HISD's policy on transfers. Her 6-year-old daughter was ruled ineligible by Holder to attend Northwest instead of Aikman, a move which would have allowed her to ride with her mother from their country home to school.

"I do not think I was dealt with fairly," the older Lemons told board

Students may transfer in closed session about another matunder this section to a school having ter, Holder said the two policies are an equal (defined as within 2 percent) or lower percentage of their ethnic group than the school zone where they reside."

Lemons pointed out another, seemingly contradictory, statement in the district's policy handbook. Board decisions on school assignments, it reads, are not to be based on "any matter relating to the national origin of the student or the student's

Sales tax payments mailed

Hereford was mailed $45,335.75 last week from the state comptroller's office as its share of local sales tax payments for the latest monthly period.

The check brings the year's total payments to more than $404,000, nearly a 7.9 percent increase over last year at this time. For the period ending in July, Hereford received $26,500-plus.

Approximately $52.4 million was sent last week to the 990 Texas cities which levy the one-percent sales tax, according to Bob Bullock, comptroller.

Houston received the largest check, $8.6 million, raising its 1984 total to $107 million. Dallas' check for $6.6 million was 27 percent over its September payment last year. San Antonio got $3 million and Austin's $2.6 million was 64 percent more than the city received last

Seventy-six people successfully applied for library borrowing cards, 45 of them adults. Eighty-six groups viewed films while four organizations held meetings in the library.

Buffalo Lake board awaits study results

BY KIMBERLY THOGMARTIN

Staff Writer The Buffalo Lake Water District Board is still waiting on the results of a feasibility study due out this month by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. In the meantime, however, the nine-member board has endorsed one of the alternatives for restoring the lake suggested by the BOR in August. The bureau, based on results of an extensive study, is to make its recommendation about the future of the lake bed to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which now has control of the area as a wildlife refuge. Board members voted at Tuesday night's meeting to lend its support to the "glory-hole spillway" alternative, which calls for adding another 27 feet of fill to the existing dam and installing a spillway system similar to the one used at Lake

Meredith located north of Amarillo. Gene Bass, head of the environmental section of the BOR's planning division in Amarillo, described that and several other alternatives at last month's Buffalo Lake Board meeting and again at a public hearing in Canyon. The gloryhole solution, he said, would cost about $7.8 million.

The board voted unanimously to support that alternative after a motion was made by Potter County representative Enoch Henderson. The three-county board, created as a permanent body following the November elections, also discussed budgeting and the possibility of funding through taxation at the Tuesday meeting held at the Wildlife Refuge

The board has several things in mind that it could use a budget for, including the expense of opening an office and hiring a secretary. They would also like money to promote the use of the lake as a recreation area.

Fred Fox, chairman of the Deaf Smith County Tax Appraisal District, told the board that the three-county area of Deaf Smith, Potter and Randall would provide about a $5 billion base to tax on. "For the amount of money you would need, the tax rate would be so low that small property owners would pay virtually no tax," Fox told the burden the citizens with another tax rate, perhaps they should consider going before the commissions of the three counties and ask them to provide funds on a per capita basis. Twenty thousand dollars is one figure the board is tossing around as an annual budget.

Fox said a one-half-cent tax, which was voted down in the November elections, would generate $500,000.

The lake has been dry since 1978, when it was determined that the existing spillway is structurally deficient. The only water in the lake is that retained behind the Stuart dam, which was completed this summer. That water is provided for waterfowl which migrate to the area.

The area was recently re-opened for picnicing and camping, with facilities now being installed by the

AT&T chairman admits bad times

"It is very difficult for us to ask for any kind of a price increase when our prices are already too high," Tanenbaum said Tuesday.

"We have a revenue deficiency. There's no doubt about that. At the same time we're in a Catch-22 situation - our prices are already too high," he said.

AT&T's proposed solution is a 14 percent cut in Texas intrastate long distance rates, coupled with an increase in charges for WATS and other services. The cut is dependent on PUC approval of an AT&T proposal that would allow the company to pay less in access charges to Southwestern Bell.

Parents' attorney to appeal case

HOUSTON (AP) - The attorney for two parents who have refused to testify in their son's murder case said the case will probably go to the federal court system sometime next week.

Randy Schaffer, attorney for Bernad and Odette Port, said he has several options for appealing the contempt charges filed against his clients after they refused to testify before a grand jury.

A request for habeas corpus could be filed with a federal district court in Houston, Schaffer said, or a petition of certiorari filed, asking a justice of the U.S. Supreme Court to look at the record of the

"We may do both," Schaffer said, adding that his decision will be based on which court "is the most expeditious place to get bond."

The Ports, who refused to testify against their son because of their Jewish beliefs, had their bond rescinded Monday after the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals declined to hear arguments why they should not be held in contempt.

Their son David, 17, has been charged with the June 7 murder of postal worker Debora Sue Schatz, who disappeared while delivering mail near the Ports' house. He is free on a $20,000 bond.

'Amerasian' kids to be admitted

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States is prepared to admit over the next three years an estimated 8,000 Vietnamese children who were fathered by American servicemen during the Vietnam war, Secretary of State George P. Shultz said.

But a New York-based private group, Human Rights Advocates International, criticized Shultz's proposal, claiming the Reagan administration should take Vietnam up on what it says in Hanoi's offer to resettle the children in the United States immediately.

In a telephone interview, two spokesmen for the group, Sanford Mevorah and Charles Printz, said the administration is targeting the so-called Amerasian children as refugees, whereas U.S. law clearly states they are American citizens.

Union accepts job security offer

DETROIT (AP) - United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber said he won't even ask the union's General Motors Corp. workers to vote on GM's job security offer, but that the union has accepted it as a starting point for negotiation.

"I think it can result in a positive document," Bieber said Tuesday of GM's offer, which addresses the union's primary demand that jobs not be shipped overseas or to non-union plants.

"However, I have to say, that there's still a great deal of work to do," Bieber said. "I wouldn't take this one to ratification."

The union has demanded wage increases for its 35,000 workers at GM, but its leaders have said they could call a strike over job securi-

No official strike deadline has been set, but the union has told the company to assume its workers won't work without a contract once the old one expires midnight Friday.

The UAW's contract with Ford, where it has 111,000 workers, also expires at midnight Friday, but there will be no strike there. The union last week singled out GM as the strike target, and hopes to sign Ford to a contract similar to that reached with GM.

Pope knocks drugs, drink

By MARY ANNE RHYNE

Associated Press Writer WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) - Hurricane Diana loitered just off the coast today, keeping thousands of refugees in emergency shelters, and forecasters warned that the storm was intensifying and could still move toward land with its 115 mph winds and threat of giant storm tides.

"The problem this morning is we have a hurricane with no sense of direction," said Neil Frank, director of the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla.

Power outages, downed tree limbs and heavy rain were reported, but there were no serious injuries and some coastal communities nearest the storm's center reported no substantial damage.

The National Weather Service said the storm was expected to resume a north to northeast drift today, posing a threat to the coastline from Morehead City to Cape Hatteras, but Witten said a high pressure system to the north was keeping it from moving forward.

At 10 a.m. the storm's estimated position was latitude 34.0 degrees north and longitude 77.1 degrees west, said Don Witten, National Weather Service spokesman in Washington, at mid-morning.

A hurricane warning was in effect from Myrtle Beach, S.C., to Oregon Inlet at the north end of North Carolina's Hatteras Island. A tornado watch was in effect for 40 counties of North Carolina and in the extreme southeast of Virginia.

"I got up and looked over the area and the damage looks minor,"

Wrightsville Beach Mayor Gene Floyd said today. "Everything's OK over here.'

Wrightsville Beach is east of Wilmington and several miles west of the spot where the eye of the storm was nearly stationary this morning.

In Southport, near the tip of Cape Fear, a police dispatcher who wouldn't give her name said power was restored about 9 a.m. this morning and that there appeared to be no substantial damage other than tree limbs in the streets.

Diana's sustained winds around its center settled from 135 mph late Tuesday to 115 mph this morning, then rose to 120 mph. "Right now it's starting to intensify," Witten said.

The hurricane's eye was 45 miles east-southeast of Wilmington at 10 a.m., but in the city the wind blew at 29 mph this morning with gusts to 41

Utility lines were down in places and a few roofs had been blown off, said state official Russ Edmonston, but "nothing substantial" was reported overnight other than the collapse of two condominiums under construction at Carolina Beach.

More than 14,000 evacuees went to 65 shelters during the night in a 12-county area of coastal North Carolina, Gov. Jim Hunt said. About 9,000 people had moved into shelters in South Carolina but were allowed to return home Tuesday.

Nearly 500,000 people live in the coastal counties targeted by Diana, and gubernatorial aideR. Brent Hackney said it was impossible to tell exactly how many others were staying with relatives or in motels.

Sen. Parker surprised at prostitution charge

Sen. Carl Parker was shocked to learn he was named in a grand jury indictment charging he headed and financed a "prostitution enterprise" and promoted obscene material.

"They did what?" the veteran lawmaker told the Beaumont Enterprise when reached at his law office in Port Arthur Tuesday. "Oh my God. I don't understand."

Parker, the chairman of the Senate Education Committee, refused further comment, saying he would release a statement today.

The three-count indictment was returned by a Jefferson County grand jury that had been investigating Happy Times Video Co., where authorities on April 19 confiscated 409 videotapes described as pornographic.

Parker, 50, a Port Arthur Democrat unopposed on the fall ballot, was part-owner of the house where the videotapes were found, authorities said. He has said he sold his interest in the house to Daniel Lee, who was indicted earlier.

The indictments allege Parker aided Lee in the wholesale promotion of six obscene videotapes, titled "Waterpower," "Peepholes," "Temptation," "Class Reunion," "Sweet Secrets" and "Talk Dirty to Me 2," before the house was raided in April.

"I'm very surprised. I've known him a number of years ... and I've never known him to be dishonest," Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, told the Dallas Morning News. "You have to be sorry for a person's family. When you're in public life, they make so many sacrifices anyway."

Stiles has been rumored a future challenger for Parker's Senate seat and was called as a grand jury witness in the case. But he refused to say whether he testified.

District Attorney James McGrath, whose investigation led to the grand jury action, said, "Any time anyone's indicted, I'm very sad."

"We were investigating a Happy for different things. The first policy represent intradistrict transfers and the other is for placement of students new to HISD.

Lemons, also during the secret session, maintained she knew of at least two instances when Mexican-American students were allowed to tranfer to schools with substantially higher Hispanic enrollment percentages than their previous schools. Yet, she said, Holder told her "three times there are no exceptions. Period."

Holder said Lemons has never presented him with evidence of the cases to which she was referring.

The board's policy committee, chaired by Cal Jones, was instructed by Townsend to examine the matter. "I want to review the policies, review the transfers that have been made (and see that) they have been fair," Townsend said.

In other board business, three policy changes were unanimously approved by the board. One dealt with advanced classes, for which 10 points are not to be added to test scores for establishing grades something allowed by state law.

However, 10 points will be added to advanced courses and 10 points subtracted from redimial classes solely for determining class rankings.

It was agreed to pay $21,300 to plaintiff's attorneys (from Texas Rural Legal Aid) in the school board election discrimination suit brought against HISD last school year. Board member Marilyn Culpepper stated, "In principal, I think this is wrong," saying taxpayers sponsor TRLA and therefore must share a double burden in this case.

Voting on the payment was 5-0. Payments to HISD attorney Kelly Frels, Townsend estimated, have added up to about $26,000. It was the Houston lawyer's recommendation to recompensate TRLA the $21,300.

Western Fence Company of Amarillo is to construct a fence around HHS' southeast parking lot, board members decided. Its bid for $5,951 was the lowest of the three received.

Consideration of two bids on a 15-passenger van, meanwhile, was tabled until more specific information about the two offers could be gathered.

Board members met in closed session to consider naming a replacement for Paul Mason, who resigned from the HISD governing body in June. No action followed.

A regular gathering of the school board has been set for 5 p.m. next Tuesday in the HISD administration building, 700 Union Ave.

Mondale chides meeting

Reagan's ad shown

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer

President Reagan has begun his television a campaign by monopolizing the networks with a 30-minute commercial, while challenger Walter F. Mondale is dismissing as "pretty pathetic" the president's announced first meeting with a Soviet official just five weeks before the election.

Mondale, still hammering away at Reagan on federal budget deficits, scoffed at the president's announcement Tuesday that he would meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on Sept. 28.

"If they would come out with a significant arms control agreement. I'd be very thrilled," the Democratic presidential candidate said. "I hope they make progress."

But he added: "It's pretty pathetic that an administration in the middle of its campaign for re-election has its first meeting, not with the Soviet counterpart of the president, but with the foreign minister ... it's pathetic we're just now having this meeting.'

Added his running mate, Geraldine Ferraro: "We should not lose sight of the fact that it took three and a half years to do this.'

Reagan is heading today to Buffalo, N.Y., for a series of political events. Mondale was in Davenport, Iowa, today before heading to Peoria, Ill., and Tupelo, Miss., campaigning through the Midwest and venturing into the South for what has become a weekly visit to the region.

Reagan held a brief, nationally televised session with reporters at the White House Tuesday to announce his meeting with Gromyko in Washington, and to dismiss Mondale's deficit-cutting tax increase plan unveiled this week.

something that will rid the world of this threat" of nuclear weapons, Reagan said.

Reagan campaigned at home as his first, 30-minute television commercial was broadcast over the four major television networks, plus the ESPN sports network. The advertisement was an expanded version of the film that was aired at the Republican National Convention, updated to include a segment from the president's speech to the delegates.

It featured glimpses of Reagan including his trips to Korea, China, and Normandy, France. Along with it were comments from supporters and thematic, happy scenes such as children dancing and a couple being

"We think the way to start off the campaign is by laying out the whole case and to come out on a high, upbeat, forward looking message, and this does it," said campaign spokesman James Lake, who added that the Reagan campaign was also beginning a series of 30- and 60-second ads.

Mondale also began his television ads this week. But one Democrat, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., cited the GOP ads in accusing Reagan of using "preachy speeches and slick films" to duck the issues of war and peace and the economy.

Reagan also responded to questions about Mondale's $177 billion blueprint for cutting projected deficits by two-thirds by 1989. "What specifically has he proposed other than some additional spending and his tax cuts, and hacking away at the defense budget?" Reagan said, evidently meaning to say tax increases. Mondale, in Chicago, declared his tax increases "are fair to middleincome Americans" and renewed his challenge for Reagan to put forward how he would control deficits. Reagan fended off the challenge, saying his past budget blueprints sent to Congress answer the call for specifics. But Mondale rejoined "That's not gonna wash. America knows that it is a problem." The vice presidential candidates. meanwhile, both faced more questioning on the sensitive abortion

Vice President George Bush sought to play down his differences with Reagan on the issue, at one point fending off questions by saying, "I'm exercising my rights as an American ... to remain silent." At two news conferences Bush acknowledged that his views on abortion are more liberal than Reagan's. Bush said he opposes abortions except in cases of rape, incest or where the life of the mother is endangered.

rative of the meeting as disclosed by Parker at the rally was innacurate, "and if the plaintiff has been slandered it has been by his own agent. Mary Parker, independent of any action by the defendant, characterized the activity of her own candidate, Dean Butcher, as being subject to criminal implication."

Also included in Atkinson's answer are copies of sheriff's reports which show that both District Attorney Roland Saul and the sheriff's department had been told of stolen property being stored in Strain's barn. Atkinson claims those records substantiate any remarks she made to the commissioners.

Atkinson's attorney is Robin Green of Amarillo. Butcher, who said he would announce his attorney after Atkinson's answer was filed, was not available for comment this morning.

Something fishy about letter

A relatively young widower lives alone. His married daughter comes to her former home (her dad's now) to cook him a hot supper, tidy up the house and sit and watch TV for a while. They have sexual intercourse once a week "because," she says, "I know his needs."

This type of activity is probably going on all over the North American continent. By no means could it be considered child molestation. It could better be described as an adult treatment program. No one is being harmed, in fact, there are some positive and helpful aspects.

What do you say about this type of therapy, Ann Landers?-Specialist In Human Sexuality

Dear Specialst: I say something is fishy about your letter. If everyone is happy, what is a sex therapist doing in the act? People don't seek help unless there is a problem.

On the outside chance that your letter is on the level, I would say the relationship you describe is immoral, indecent and extremely damaging to the daughter. Also, the woman's husband must be a beaut. I wonder with whom he is sleeping when his wife is busy with her father.

Dear Invisible: According to my figures you have shelled out $520 since your grandson moved away. If you send another letter with money in it, you should have your heads examined.

Write once more. This time enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelopenothing else. Tell the boy you expect to hear from him. If you receive no answer, don't write again. COMBEST

By Larry Combest

WELCOME TO OUR CAMP

In my first column I talked about my trip August a year ago to start my campaign for my party's nomination for Congress. Last week I made the same trip to visit all counties and county seats and to talk to Democrats and Independents in our District.

I want to make certain that all Democrats and Independents throughout the 19th District know they are welcome in our camp. They are not only welcome, we openly solicit their support now, and their advice and counsel after we get to Washington.

I hope all conservative Democrats will always remember the rousing cheer that went up from the Democratic delegates in San Francisco when Jesse Jackson said that they must rid the party of the "boll weevils," or conservative Southern Democrats. The sentiments of the Democratic delegates were made very clear by that cheer, and by the fact that Mr. Mondale did not take issue with what the Rev. Jackson said.

Indeed, Mr. Mondale evidently agreed whole heartedly with Jesse Jackson, because he turned to a liberal from the Northeast as his running mate.

It is plain that the only thing the liberal leadership of the Democratic Party wants from conservative Democrats is their money anytime they can get it, and their votes in November. After that they are expected to go back to work, pay their new axes, and keep quiet.

In short, there is no place now in the liberal Democratic leadership for a conservative and should one get elected to represent his district he can expect to go sit quietly in the corner or suffer the outrages of Tip O'Neill and his fellows. He must "go along to get along" with his party's liberal national leadership or he, and his district along with him, will be punished.

This is why I ask for, and value so highly, the support of all conservative Democrats and Independents in our District: So that we may have a Representative who can stay in touch with the people of West Texas and, at the same time, in tune with his party's leadership; a Representative in Washington who can vote with us 100 percent of the time; a Congressman who owes nothing to Tip O'Neill and everything to the people of West Texas.

I welcome all conservative Democrats and Independents to my campaign. My door will always be open to you.

Larry Combest is a fourth generation West Texan. He worked as a farmer, teacher, for the A.S.C.S. and for Senator John Tower for seven years. He is a candidate for U.S. House of Representatives 19th District.

Herd-Central game review

After reviewing game films two or three times of Friday night's Hereford-San Angelo Central High School football game, Herd coach Jerry Taylor said the final outcome remained the same every showing: San Angelo Central 21, Hereford 0.

"You know the score didn't change one bit," he joked. On the seroius side, however,

Taylor said, "We were just completely ineffective with our running

The Whitefaces amassed a total of only 32 yards on the ground against Central. And that was on 31 carries. Taylor attributed the Herd's rushing ineffectiveness, in part, to the size of the Central defense. The Bobcats turned in a probablestarters roster that listed the weights of the 11 defenders at an average of 176 pounds per player.

"That's not all of it, though," Taylor said. "We didn't block well. They were in a difficult setup to block with three linebackers."

Central played much of the game in a 4-3 defensive alignment.

"It became quite evident early we weren't going to be able to block them," Taylor said.

Hereford quarterback Mike Scott, a 5-9, 155-pound senior, still is suffering from a lower back injury he received in the contest. Taylor said Scott received a deep back bruise when the Herd signal-caller scrambled right in the fourth quarter for 12

"I think it probably was a helment that hit me," Scott said. "I'm walking fine now, but I'm pretty sore."

Taylor said a decision on whether Scott would play in Friday's game against Palo Duro probably would be made today.

Scott has been going through a hotand-cold contrast treatment, as well as taking whirlpool baths. He did not workout Monday.

Before the injury, Scott had completed 10 of 22 passes for 89 yards, as the Herd relied heavily on the pass-

"We called 44 passing plays in the game," Taylor said, "and only 22 able to implement the pass about 50 percent of the time.

"We know that we can't win by the pass alone."

Although the coach found little good to say about the offense, he pointed to several defensive palyers who performed well in the ball game. Taylor singled out noseguard David yards.

Parsons, back Curtis Cotten, linebacker Lee Brockman and end Augustine Castillo for their perfor-

"Hopefully, this week we can mental mistakes."

"Insight '84" is the theme to the 17th annual TCFA affair, which will be headquartered at the Amarillo Hilton Inn. Nearly 1,000 persons are expected to attend the convention which will focus on numerous issues important to the beef industry.

The annual meeting of the Texas CowBelles, one of the nation's leading beef promotion organizations, will coincide with the TCFA convention. The CowBelles will be headquartered at the Amarillo Villa

Charle Ball, TCFA executive vice president, said Block is expected to review key aspects of the upcoming farm bill, as well as other points which could have a bearing on the beef industry and cattle feeders in particular.

"We're honored to have Secretary Block on our program," said Ball. There are many important government issues which will have a direct br indirect affect on the beef invention is TCFA President Dick Waterfield of Canadian. He will update conventioneers on issues facing the industry and TCFA activities the past year.

Howard K. Smith, long-time network news correspondent and political analyst, will give his political insight on the upcoming presidential election. He will also review political issues facing the economy and agriculture.

In special break-out sessions, cattle feeders will have the opportunity to attend all of part of three separate discussions which should benefit them, their customers and employees.

One discussion session will be headed by David B. DuPont of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. He will discuss "futures options," which will be offered for trade on the CME starting in October.

Another session will address new federal tax provisions which affect cattle feeding. Clark Willingham, a Dallas tax attorney, will head this

Potential problems involving alcohol and drug abuse in the work place will be discussed in a third session presented by Jack Minter, a professional counselor from San an-

The convention will also hear Dr. William L. Rathje, University of Arizona anthropologist, describe his unique method of determining 'What Americans Really Eat."

Winners of the annual High Plains Fed Beef Carcass Show will be named during the convention as well.

Headlining entertainment will be Grand Ole Opry star Ed Bruce, who will perform during a reception dinner and dance.

Additional fun will come from golf and tennis tournaments, tours of the Amarillo IBP plant and the Amarillo Livestock Auction and a luncheon and designer fashion show for the ladies at Amarillo's elegant Maison Blanche restaurant.

Various TCFA associate members and representatives of other allied industries will host hotel hospitality suites and assist in the TCFA "Treasure Hunt," the winner of which will receive a commemorative bronze sculpted by Tulia artist, Kenneth Wyatt. Wyatt is also scheduled to speak during the traditional TCFA prayer breakfast.

TCFA, which is headquartered in Amarillo, represents most of the cattle feeders in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, an area that produces about 20 percent of all the grain fed beef consumed in the United States.

The number of family workers which include farm operators and unpaid family members - dropped from 8.3 million in 1940 to 2.4 million in 1980, the dpartment's Economic Research Service said in a report.

Foreign workers, many of them illegal aliens, also are important in U.S. agriculture. Barring tougher laws, they will continue to provide growing muscle for tending many of the nation's food crops.

"According to statistics from the Immigration and Naturalization Service, slightly over 100,000 undocumented aliens are apprehended each year in agriculture," the report

"Experienced observers of the farm labor market believe that the number of illegal aliens in agriculture is considerably larger, accounting for 10 to 15 percent of all hired farm workers."

Farmers spending record amounts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Farmers are spending a record amount for feed, seed, fuel, fertilizer and other items needed to produce this year's crops and livestock - but not quite as much as Agriculture Department economists had predicted. According to a revised report by the department's Economic Research Service, expenses for 1984 production are expected to be in the range of $116 billion to $120 billion. That is down $2 billion from a similar forecast issued by the agency in August.

Gary Lucier, one of the authors, said Monday that the $2 billion downward revision was primarily due to certain "input prices being lower than had been anticipated."

Fuel has been cheaper than earlier indicated, along with feed for from $31.2 billion in 1983. livestock, he said.

$116 billion to $120 billion will be up sharply from $109.5 billion, a 3 percent decline from the previous high of $113.4 billion in 1982.

1983 expenses was the government's massive program aimed at cutting crop acreages, including a $9.8 billion payment-in-kind program which provided free surplus commodities to farmers who reduced acreages of wheat, corn, sorghum, rice and cotton.

Except for wheat, no PIK program is in effect this year, although producers have to participate in basic acreage-reduction programs in 1984 to qualify for federal supports and related benefits.

With farmers putting much of their idled land back into crops this year. production costs are going up.

Total 1984 production expenses include cash expenses plus depreciation, labor perquisites and farm dwelling expenses. Those are expected to range from $143 billion to $147 billion this year, also a record high and up 5 percent to 9 percent from $135.3 billion in 1983.

"Prices paid by farmers in 1984 will account for about half the increase in farm expenses," the report said. "The remaining half will be due to increased use of inputs such as fertilizers, fuels and seeds - up mostly because of greater acreage.'

Spending on production items that originate on farms - feed, feeder livestock and seed - is expected to rise 3 percent to 5 percent this year

Farmers, who spent $20.9 billion Despite the $2 billion reduction in last year on "manufactured input exthe agency's forecast, expenses at penses" are expected to boost outlays by more than 10 percent in 1984. Those items include fertilizer, fue, pesticides and electricity.

"Fertilizer expenses may jump as The main reason for the slump in much as a fifth from the $7.4 billion spent in 1983, because of increased acreage and higher prices," the report said.

A summary of the new outlook was issued last Tuesday. It showed that net farm income this year now is forecast at $29 billion to $33 billion, a $1 billion decline from the August forecast.

Don't be victim of misinformation

COLLEGE STATION-You could a false negative on some urine tests become a victim of misinformation if for diagnosis and management of the you don't know much about diet and health, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

With an increasing amount of nutrition material in the media and health claims in advertisements, distinguishing sound from unsound information is difficult, says Marilyn Haggard.

Learning something about nitrition is worthwhile, she says, since misinformation can aggravate or create health problems. Diseases like diabetes or cancer can worsen if you ignore medical diagnosis and treatment in favor of a "miracle vitamin

Taking large amounts of vitamins in the mistaken notion that this will improve your health can also affect medical tests, says the nutritionist. In the case of diabetes, too much vitamin C can give a false positive or diesease. Fad weight-loss diets can even lead to disease, notes Haggard. For example, it's possible to starve to death on a macrobrown rice diet.

Even if misinformation doesn't directly affect your health, it may cause you to waste money on unnecessary food, gadgets and vitamins. Or you may trade good food habits for poor ones and a balanced diet for an imbalanced one,

"Consumers can best protect themselves by recognizing that a single diet or food can not cure health problems or guarantee weight control," says Haggard.

No scientfic evidence show that arthritis, cancer, heart disease and other chronic diseases are cured by eating specific foods, she explains. Instead, a balanced diet of meat, poultry, legumes and fish; dairy products; fruits and vegetables; and enriched or whole grain breads and cereals will provide all the nutrients anyone normally needs.

Also beware of personal testamonies and stories, says Haggard, since they are not scientific

Death of friend

Hard to accept

AUSTIN (AP) - Nicholas H. Vanderbilt has been missing on a mountain in British Columbia since late August, but friends of the greatgrandson of industrialist Cornelius Vanderbilt say they find it difficult to accept that he is dead.

Vanderbilt's family held a private memorial service for him on Saturday at Bayville, N.Y., but friends in Austin say they will wait a bit longer. "It's very hard to accept that he won't give us a call or come walking through the door," said Susan Overbey. 'We were crazy about him." Vanderbilt, 24, had moved to Austin a year after graduating from Harvard in 1980. He and Francis Glenhill, 29.

of Berkeley, Calif., have been missing on Mount Robson since late August. Canadian authorities said aerial and ground searches were halted last week after storms covered the 12,000-foot mountain with more than a foot of fresh snew. Brinton Young, a close friend of Vanderbilt, led a search team over the route the missing men had planned to take to the summit. Young, of Boston, found no trace. But the Overbeys, who knew Vanderbilt for years and regarded him almost as an adopted son, said they wanted to wait just a little longer. "It's hard to give up before there's proof of some kind a body or something," said their daughter, Sally. Vanderbilt had climbed in the Swiss Alps and was president of the Harvard mountain climbing club. In Austin, he worked as a free-lance writer, hoping to said. Before he left for Canada, Vanderbilt had been working on a movie script with Young about a mountain climbing adventure in which

Friends said Vanderbilt, a cousin of Gloria Vanderbilt, had little interest in the jetset lifestyle. Darling said Vanderbilt was so unpretentious that they were acquainted for several years before Darling realized who Vanderbilt was.

"He just never brought it up. I met his family for the first time this summer when we did pieces on the races at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., for Ultra and Vogue magazines," Darling said.

Susan Overbey said Vanderbilt devoted two days each month to volunteer work as a food server at Angels House, an Austin mission for the poor.
