Nieman outlines prison proposal

Plans for submitting an application for a state prison facility in Deaf Smith County were reviewed at the Hereford Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Thursday by O.G. Nieman, task force chairman.

Nieman gave an overview of the project, from its inception at a public meeting here Nov. 27, to the formation of the task force and committee work being accomplished to assemble data and information for the proposal, which must be sent to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice by Jan. 15.

During the club meeting Thursday, Kiwanis president recognized David Workman and Paul Hamilton as Kiwanians of the Month for December. Dr. David Purdy served as program chairman and introduced Nieman.

"While the time element is a problem, we are excited about the teamwork which has surfaced and the community support being expressed in our efforts to put together a competitive proposal," Nieman told the civic club members.

The task force held its first meeting Dec. 3, made committee appointments and elected members of the executive committee. The selection of a proposed land site is still to be announced, said Nieman, and this will lead to decisions that must be made in other areas of the project.

The task force chairman outlined the economic impact that a 1,000-bed facility could have—including more than 300 jobs and an annual payroll of $6 million.

"We feel much better about our chances now than when we first started," Nieman added. He said contacts with TDCJ officials, along with discussions with community leaders in towns that have been selected for prisons, have made the task force feel more optimistic.

But even if Deaf Smith County is not selected, Nieman said the project has brought about "a revived interest" in working together for economic development in the community.

More rains hike threat in S. Texas

WHARTON, Texas (AP) - Southeast Texas residents braced for more flooding today as rain-swollen rivers overflowed their banks, and President Bush announced plans to inspect the damage before beginning a 3-day quail hunting vacation in the state.

On Thursday, Bush approved federal aid for five Texas counties hit hard by flooding. Gov. Ann Richards said White House officials told her Bush signed the necessary orders to declare Dallas, Travis, Bastrop, Bosque and Brown counties disaster areas.

President Bush was expected to fly today over some of the hardest hit areas near Wharton, a town of about 10,000 people that was bracing for more flooding as burgeoning waters flow toward the Gulf of Mexico. Wharton is about 55 miles southwest of Houston.

Bush already was scheduled to go quail hunting this weekend on a ranch near Beeville owned by his longtime friend, millionaire businessman Will Farish. Wharton is about 60 miles from the ranch.

Weather officials said flood damage is likely throughout Southeast Texas during the next several days as swollen rivers carry water to the Gulf of Mexico. Thursday's rain, including more than an inch at Houston, added to the problem because the ground is already saturated.

Skip Ely, a National Weather Service meteorologist, said additional rain was expected today across much of Texas.

"Fortunately for most places, the precipitation totals will be light," Ely said. "It'll be Friday night before it (the rain) dribbles off. We should get a break Saturday, and the first part of next week looks dry," he said.

Flooding caused by days of heavy rain over the past week has killed at least 15 people across Texas, swamped farmland, drowned scores of livestock and caused millions of dollars in damage.

A week ago today, Central Texas capped four days of light to moderate rain with a 4.21-inch downpour. The steady rains over a wide area contributed to the floods and made this the state's wettest December on record (14.12 inches in Austin) and 1991 the wettest year (52.17 inches), weather officials said.

Heavy rain continued Thursday over soggy Southeast Texas. Officials in Wharton, a city of 10,000, urged 1,800 people to leave their homes as water from the Colorado River moved into their neighborhood, but many appeared to be waiting until the last minute.

The Colorado river was expected to crest this morning at 48 feet, about 9 feet above flood stage. It was almost 6 feet above flood stage Thursday night, officials said.

The river's flooding damaged more than 200 homes in Travis and Bastrop counties, officials said. Estimates of total damage in those two counties exceed $40 million.

The Brazos River was about four miles wide northwest of Houston, and the Trinity River isolated low-lying communities between Dallas and Houston.

In Liberty County, John Bunch was able to rescue his truck from the rising Trinity River.

"When I parked it yesterday, it was high and dry," he said. Rick Warren said he had no intention of leaving his flood-threatened home because of bad experiences during the 1990 floods.

"They came in air boats and broke in to our places," he said. "We had a lot of thefts."

Two shelters were set up in the Trinity River area, one at an abandoned hardware store in Liberty and another in a church north of Livingston.

Along the Brazos River, voluntary evacuations were called for because much of the overflow affected farm and ranch land.

The Lower Colorado River Authority has closed Lake Travis to recreational boaters, saying the wakes caused by the boats "are causing needless additional damage to homes and property already suffering from record flooding."

Some of the worst flooding is in Wharton County along the Colorado River (in red).

Wharton is about 55 miles southwest of Houston, near the Gulf Coast.

"This is not the time to make matters worse for residents along the lake," LCRA general manager Mark Rose said.

The Guadalupe River was flooding near Victoria, about 65 miles southwest of Wharton. In Victoria, dozens of homes and automobiles were under water.

Officials had no estimate on the number of people who fled their homes because of flooding, but Victoria Fire Department safety officer Doug Erdy said 15 people were staying at a Salvation Army shelter.

Red Cross spokesman Greg Hill said nearly 200 homes in Dallas were flooded by the Trinity River. More than 500 homes have been flooded in a 14-county region of North Texas.

In other weather-related news, Ely said the extreme western portions of North Texas and the Panhandle could get light snow and sleet sometime today.

Rescue planned for more banks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal regulators are reaching back to the Great Depression for ways to curb ballooning costs and cushion the blow to an already fragile economy as they face hundreds of bank and savings institution collapses in 1992.

The government's strategy next year, at least in some cases, will be to pump government assistance into troubled institutions before they fail.

The revival of the rescue strategy, used widely by the Depression-era Reconstruction Finance Corp., is generating charges that the deals will protect bank investors in addition to depositors.

But regulators say the tactic may be the only way to break a self-sustaining cycle in which bank failures lead to massive government sales of loans and repossessed commercial properties, further depressing real estate values, turning more loans sour and toppling more banks.

"If things get tough ... it's certainly a way to go. In fact, there may be no other way to go," said L.

William Seidman, former chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The FDIC and the Office of Thrift Supervision have been working on strategies that, while somewhat different, share common goals.

Both emphasize minimizing the government's costs by moving into ailing institutions early, before the bank's value as a business has disappeared and before customers and employees have deserted in large numbers.

The objective is to stretch the $95 billion provided by Congress last month - a $25 billion taxpayer appropriation for S&Ls and a $70 billion federal line of credit for handling sick banks.

Even more importantly, the strategies emphasize keeping intact the loan and real estate portfolios of the failed institutions, avoiding forced sales that depress real estate markets and reduce the value of collateral held by remaining banks.

Timothy Ryan, director of the Office of Thrift Supervision, is fleshing out a program he calls "early resolution-assisted mergers."

Over the past four years, thrift regulators have seized roughly 900 S&Ls. With only about 60 near-certain failures remaining, Ryan's agency is turning to another group of nearly 400 S&Ls it categorizes as troubled by poor earnings and low capital, but not necessarily doomed.

The agency is particularly worried about the prospect of liquidating several large institutions in the group. As a cheaper and less disruptive alternative, it hopes to entice the institutions' shareholders into agreeing early to a government-assisted merger by promising not to wipe out their investment.

Meanwhile, the FDIC is working on what William Taylor, its new chairman, calls a hospital program for sick banks that still have a value as a business but for which the agency can't find an immediate buyer.

"We might be better off cost-wise and public disruption-wise if we take the bank ... take out the bad assets and operate it a couple of quarters so people would understand it's not toxic anymore," he said.

In effect, the government would become both owner and operator of some of the 200 banks expected to fail next year.

Some members of Congress, including Senate Banking Committee Chairman Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., and Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., are contemplating going further and reviving the Reconstruction Finance Corp., which bought stock in hundreds of banks during the Depression.

Treasury Undersecretary Robert Glauber said such a drastic step is unnecessary. Regulators have sufficient leeway to use RFC-like methods in the relatively few cases where it was needed, he said.

"No decision has been made to pursue this," he said. "In certain circumstances, this really could save money ... but it has some real pitfalls."

Ruby's gun gets $220K

NEW YORK (AP) - A New Jersey gun collector has bid $220,000 to become the new owner of the revolver Jack Ruby used to kill presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

The 5-inch-long gun still had the police evidence tag attached when it was auctioned off Thursday at the Omni Park Central Hotel in Manhattan. Bidding started at $100,000 and quickly escalated.

It peaked at $200,000, plus a 10 percent commission retained by the auctioneer.

The buyer, a gun collector who wished to remain anonymous, did not attend the auction. He sent another man, Frank Roman, to place his bids.

"I'm purchasing it for a gun collector," Roman said as he hurried away from a crush of reporters. Asked what the man would do with the gun, he said: "I guess he's going to put it away."

Ruby's brother Earl, a Detroit businessman who retired to Boca Raton, Fla., recently got control of Ruby's estate after a long court fight. He said he intends to use $86,000 of the proceeds to pay Ruby's income tax bill and $50,000 for legal bills. His brother's criminal trial cost him $60,000 and legal battles over his estate cost about $30,000, he said.

Changes are very swift for Soviet, er, Russian Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) - It didn't take the embassy long to catch on.

Barely 24 hours after Russia inherited the Soviet Union, most signs of the old had been obliterated.

A Russian flag - white, blue and red - flapped over the 16th Street embassy building; new cover pages topped all the embassy's fax communications; and the answering machine was playing a new message.

The humans had a harder time adjusting.

"Soviet Embassy, good afternoon," said an official answering the phone Thursday afternoon. "Sorry, slip of the tongue. Russian Embassy, good afternoon."

One of the first calls to the Russian Embassy was from a well-meaning American who proposed the embassy sell its stock of the hammer-and-sickle red flags - to please collectors and help out the embassy's strained coffers.

"We cannot sell a part of our past as a souvenir," said one young diplomat. "It's not the mood, now."

Nonetheless, the mood was an improvement over the uncertainty that clouded the lives of the more than 300 embassy staffers when it became clear the Soviet Union was dying but hadn't left a will.

Russia's assumption of the Soviet mantle makes life easier for most of the embassy.

"It's like someone who has found his parents and hopes they'll now take care of him," said the diplomat, speaking only on condition of anonymity.

"There were nervous times here," he said. "No one knew who is in charge of what."

For example, a special envoy dispatched by Russian President Boris Yeltsin in October - Andre Kolosovsky - was ensconced at the embassy alongside Soviet Ambassador Viktor Kompletov.

Those at the embassy who saw the writing on the wall realized that Kolosovsky's star was rising - especially when he unceremoniously transferred several of the ambassador's staff to his own.

Kompletov, under criticism for failing to condemn immediately the right-wing August coup that began the Soviet Union's gallop to extinction, is unlikely to survive the transition, embassy insiders say.

Yeltsin will probably appoint a loyalist of his own to the important post. The fate of the other embassy staffers is also unclear, although the lower their echelon, the safer they appear to feel.

"We're not expecting any massive recalls to Moscow," said another junior diplomat. Nonetheless, embassy staffers of non-Russian nationality might want to try and switch to the embassies of other former Soviet republics - once and if they are established.

Yeltsin and his team already know some of the embassy staff.

When he came to visit several months ago, much of the embassy switched to working for him.

But when Ukrainian President Leonid Kravchuk came to Washington recently, the embassy organized the visit - even though he was seeking U.S. recognition of his republic's independence from the Soviet Union.

For Soviet officials, the proliferation of authority was more of a nuisance than anything else.

"There was no psychological or ideological hesitation about that," the diplomat said. "But it was confusing."

The confusion could linger awhile. The 12 republics born of the defunct union are all entitled to the services and facilities of the Russian Embassy during an unspecified period of transition, said an embassy official. Afterward, any republic wanting diplomatic ties with the United States will have to fend for itself.

New Year's Eve Party Favors

For many adults, the New Year's Eve celebration has traditionally meant singing "Auld Lang Syne" at a company party or trendy nightclub. But it seems more and more baby boomers are "putting on the glitz" at home, with the kids.

My family is no exception. Once my kids learned to tell time and wanted to count down to midnight on December 31, we joined up with several other neighbors to plan what has become an annual event — a New Year's Eve party chock full of family fare including moonlight ice skating, playing games and, of course, eating.

If your family will be partying together this New Year's Eve, your kids can get involved in the preparation and help create these easy-to-make party favors. This simple rendition of British crackers will add an element of surprise to your New Year's Eve festivities.

Here's how: Gather cardboard tubes from paper toweling and gift wrap. Cut them into 6-inch lengths. Fill the tubes with whimsical items, novel gifts and sweets such as a folded paper party hats, whistles, key chains, perfume, hair accessories, golf tees, garden seeds, wrapped chocolates, gum and hard candy. Lastly, tuck in a strip of paper with a fortune for 1992 written on it. If you designate the crackers for individuals, personalize the fortune. For example: "Uncle John will get married this year," or "Kirsten will travel to an exciting country."

Wrap each cracker in festive paper. Pinch the paper together at each end of the tube and tie a piece of ribbon to hold the paper in place. Clip the ends of the cracker to make frills. Add ribbon, stickers and name tags, if you wish.

Invite your guests to open their crackers at the same time and read their forecasts aloud for 1992. If your party becomes an annual event, compare predictions from year to year to see which ones are on target.

If you'd like to share your comments or ideas for family projects, write to Donna Erickson, P.O. Box 16188, Minneapolis, Minn. 55416.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Entertainment Tonight" host Mary Hart plans to take about a month to get acquainted with her newborn son before returning to the air.

Miss Hart and husband Burt Sugarman didn't immediately name their son, who was born Christmas Eve at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center.

"This is the greatest Christmas present in the entire world, our own little Christmas elf," Miss Hart said.

Miss Hart and her baby, who weighed in at 6 pounds, 3 ounces, were shown on the syndicated TV show Thursday night.

Herd gets win in Canyon tourney

The Herd boys' basketball team shook off the cobwebs left from Christmas just enough to beat Panhandle, 62-49 in the first round of the Canyon Invitational Tournament Thursday. Hereford's record is now 4-9, while the 2A Panthers drop to 6-4.

"We played kind of flat, but we played good enough to win," Herd coach Jimmy Thomas said. "We looked like we needed to work out a little. We play Tulia (today at 6 p.m.) and they're one of the top-ranked 2A teams. I feel like we have a chance to win." The games are played in the Canyon High School gym.

Against Panhandle, the Herd got all its scoring from six players: Sean Smith with 14, Leo Brown with 13, Kelso with 10, Chad Sandoval with 9 and Richard Sanderson and Derek Mason each with 8. Sandoval and Kelso each hit two three-pointers, Thomas added.

Hereford led the game early, Thomas said, though Panhandle came back to cut the lead to only 17-15 after the first quarter. Hereford gradually stretched its lead by outscoring the Panthers 19-15 in the second quarter and 13-10 in the third. Panhandle surged to within "four or five points," Thomas said, with three minutes left in the fourth quarter, but then the Herd pulled away.

Hereford's girls' team, 5-11, gets back into action Saturday with a 3 p.m. game at Denver City. Then both teams go to Fritch on New Year's Eve to play Sanford-Fritch: the girls at 2 and the boys at 3:30.

NFL teams get 1st taste of playoffs

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

This is the week that a lot of NFL players - and their fans - get their first exposure of playoff football.

The first round that takes place Saturday and Sunday will include the Atlanta Falcons, who haven't had a postseason game since 1982; the Dallas Cowboys, who haven't made it since 1985 after two decades of success; and the New York Jets, who haven't been there since 1986 and have just eight players left from that team.

Waiting in the wings are the Detroit Lions, whose 12-4 record earned them the NFC Central title and a week off. They haven't been in the playoffs since 1983 and haven't hosted a playoff game in 34 years.

And even those players who have been there before see this as a new experience, particularly the Jets, who in 1986 lost their last five regular season games after starting 10-1 and backed their way in.

The Jets beat Miami 23-20 in overtime last Sunday and get the final AFC wild-card berth at 8-8.

The Los Angeles Raiders go into Kansas City in the weekend's first game because they lost 27-21 to the Chiefs at home last Sunday. Atlanta, which lost in Dallas and dropped from NFC West winner to wild-card team, will face New Orleans, which won that title, in the second game.

Dallas will be at Chicago to open the Sunday schedule because the Bears were blown out 52-14 Monday night by San Francisco, blowing a first-round bye. Then the Jets play at Houston, another team coming off a loss that cost it a bye.

Los Angeles Raiders (9-7)
at Kansas City (10-6)

The Chiefs have won the last four games in this series, none by more than last week's six-point margin, a 27-21 win that put this game in Kansas City. Last week's game created one of the uncertain factors - Todd Marinovich, making his first start for the Raiders, threw for all three Los Angeles touchdowns while Jay Schroeder rested a sore ankle.

So who's at quarterback this week?

Probably Schroeder, whose five previous playoff games represent four more games than Marinovich, the first-round draft choice this season, has played in the NFL. Art Shell may not announce his decision until just before game time.

The winner will go to Buffalo unless the Jets upset Houston.

Atlanta (10-6) at
New Orleans (11-5)

The Saints, who won their first NFC West title, were 9-1 in games in which Bobby Hebert started at quarterback; 2-4 in games started by Steve Walsh. But it was the defense, not the offense that let down, allowing an average of 21 points when Walsh played; an average of eight points with Hebert.

Hebert was at quarterback when the Saints won 27-6 in Atlanta; Walsh played in the Falcons' 23-20 overtime win in the Superdome, one loss in a four-game streak that nearly wiped out what started like the best year ever for the Saints.

Atlanta, meanwhile, lost 31-27 in Dallas, breaking a five-game winning streak, costing the Falcons the division title and a chance to play the Saints at home.

If New Orleans wins, it goes to Detroit next week; if it's Atlanta, it goes to Washington.

Dallas (11-5) at Chicago (11-5)

The Bears come in angry following the blowout Monday night, in which Mike Ditka and his players thought the 49ers ran up the score.

Ditka will use the loss for motivation.

This is the only game that isn't a rematch.

In fact, the last time the teams met was 1988, when Tom Landry, not Jimmy Johnson, coached the Cowboys and Dallas finished 3-13.

The winner of this game plays at Washington next week unless Atlanta beats New Orleans. Then Dallas or Chicago goes to Detroit.

New York Jets (8-8)
at Houston (11-5)

On the surface, this looks like a mismatch.

The Oilers are anything but delighted to be in this game. They went into the Jets' adopted home in the Meadowlands last Saturday, lost to the New York Giants 24-20 and lost a first-round bye.

What happened there could be significant. The Giants rushed for 193 yards against Houston, keeping the ball from Warren Moon.

These two met in October in New Jersey with Houston winning 23-20. If the Jets don't control the ball, that could happen again.

If the Jets win, they go to Buffalo; if the Oilers win, they go to Denver.

Roster Rules

NEW YORK (AP) - NFL regulations permit the teams to have 80 players under contract during the season but only 45 are on the active list with two more on the inactive.

The players under contract include the active and inactive, injured reserve, those physically unable to perform, sidelined by non-football illness or injury and suspended performers.

Wacker leaves TCU for Minnesota job

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Jim Wacker, football coach at Texas Christian for the past nine years, will become Minnesota's 23rd football coach, according to reports published today.

Wacker was to be introduced during a special meeting of the university Board of Regents at 10:30 a.m. CST today, both the Star Tribune of Minneapolis and the Saint Paul Pioneer Press reported.

The regents will be asked to confirm Wacker's appointment as coach, the papers reported, quoting sources close to the situation.

Neither newspaper was able to contact Wacker for comment. McKinley Boston, named Minnesota men's athletic director just a week ago, also was unavailable for comment. Regents chairman Elton Kuderer refused to confirm that Wacker was the Gophers' next coach.

Wacker would replace John Gutekunst, who resigned under fire near the end of a 2-9 season. Gutekunst was 29-37-2 during his six-year tenure at Minnesota.

Wacker would make more than $200,000 a year in salary and an additional $100,000 for appearing on radio and television, according to the Star Tribune. That would be about triple Gutekunst's annual salary of about $100,000.

The university also has assured Wacker that it would pay his TCU staff what it would take to bring the entire group to Minnesota, the Star Tribune reported.

Wacker, 54, has a 144-91-3 record in his 21 years as a college coach, which has included stints at Texas Lutheran, North Dakota State, Southwest Texas State and TCU. He has a 40-58-2 record and only two winning seasons - 8-4 in 1984 and 7-4 this season - as coach of the Horned Frogs.

The TCU program suffered after September 1985, when Wacker learned of illegal inducements provided by boosters to seven players. He dismissed the players from the team and turned the matter over to the NCAA. The Horned Frogs were just 11-22 during the next three seasons as a result of NCAA sanctions that severely hurt recruiting.

It was believed that Wacker and Glen Mason of Kansas were two of the top candidates for the Gophers job. But Kansas athletic director Bob Frederick said Thursday that Mason had withdrawn his name from consideration.

Mason couldn't be reached immediately for comment. He went quail hunting with friends after informing Frederick and Minnesota officials of his decision.

Boise State's Skip Hall and Denver Broncos assistant Mo Forte also were interviewed by Boston and the search committee during the past week.

Johnson: tough schedule evens experience factor

CHICAGO (AP) - Jimmy Johnson gives the Chicago Bears the edge in postseason experience but he thinks the opposition his Dallas Cowboys have faced could even things out.

On this NFL wild-card weekend, the Bears enter the playoffs for the seventh time in eight years, playing host to the Cowboys on Sunday. Both teams finished the season 11-5.

"I think playoff experience can be an advantage. Just the experience of playing in big ball games helps," said Johnson. "But the quality of opposition should help us."

Dallas won the last five games of the regular season, beating Washington, Pittsburgh, New Orleans, Philadelphia and Atlanta. The Redskins, Saints and Falcons are in the 1991 playoffs.

On the other hand, the Bears beat only three playoff-bound teams all year: Detroit, the New York Jets and New Orleans.

Johnson said his team is excited about the Bears game.

"We've got a very young team. Even the veterans we have haven't been in the playoffs for the last few years," he said.

Johnson will start Steve Beuerlein at quarterback.

"Steve is healthy and he's been playing well. Troy Aikman is not 100 percent," said Johnson.

Aikman injured a knee Nov. 24 at Washington. Beuerlein was at the helm down the stretch, completing 65 of 132 passes for 883 yards and five touchdowns since Aikman went down.

"Fortunately for me, Troy did not get injured early in the season.

But Ditka doesn't think the Bears are thinking like whipped dogs.

"No, we're Bears, not dogs. But we play like dogs at times," he said. "But beware! We didn't get to 11-5 with mirrors. We're a good football team. We just weren't a good football team Monday."

Ditka had the good fortune of having Jim Harbaugh healthy all year. Harbaugh became the first Bear quarterback to start all 16 games since Vince Evans did it in 1981, before Ditka's reign.

Harbaugh respects Dallas' defense. "They've been playing well the past few weeks. They've got a good pass rush," he said. "They have a bend-but-don't-break type of defense. They'll be tough."

Two Bear starters - wide receiver Anthony Morgan (knee) and linebacker John Roper (leg) - will miss the Dallas game. Guard Mark Bortz, out since Nov. 11 (abdomen), was expected to return to the lineup, because I needed 12 or 13 weeks just to get used to the offensive system," said Beuerlein.

Chicago coach Mike Ditka, a former Dallas assistant under Tom Landry, said he thinks the Cowboys rate as one of the top playoff teams - wild card or not.

"We're at the bottom until we've proved ourselves," said Ditka. "We've got the biggest strike against us - our loss Monday night."

The Bears, needing a win to capture the NFC Central title, were trampled 52-14 by the 49ers, leaving the Lions as division champs and the Bears with the wild-card berth.

The United States won all five gold medals in the 1924 Olympics when tennis was still part of the Games.

The 1920 White Sox and the 1971 Orioles each had four 20-game winners.

Bowie steals limelight from three big centers as Nets nail Rockets

By The Associated Press

The top three centers in the NBA were in the New York metropolitan area on the same night, and the winner was ... Sam Bowie.

The center matchup when the New York Knicks played host to the San Antonio Spurs featured David Robinson and Patrick Ewing, while Hakeem Olajuwon figured to have an easier time with Bowie in New Jersey when the Houston Rockets met the Nets on Thursday night.

But the 7-foot-1 Bowie, drafted in between Olajuwon and Michael Jordan in 1984, had a season-high 34 points on 13-for-20 shooting and grabbed 15 rebounds as the Nets snapped Houston's four-game road winning streak, 99-93. Olajuwon was held to 17 points and seven rebounds.

Robinson had 31 points, 11 rebounds and eight blocked shots as the Spurs defeated New York 118-89 and ended the Knicks' streak of consecutive home victories at 11. Ewing managed 17 points, 13 rebounds and five blocked shots.

Spurs 118, Knicks 89

New York, the last undefeated team at home in the NBA, missed a chance to match the club record for consecutive wins at home to start the season.

Terry Cummings completed the Spurs' front-line domination with 18 points and 11 rebounds. Robinson and Cummings each scored six points during San Antonio's decisive 20-4 run, which turned a 35-35 tie into a 55-39 lead at halftime.

John Starks led the Knicks with 21 points.

Bulls 122, Hawks 111

Michael Jordan scored 34 points as Chicago won at Atlanta.

Horace Grant had 25 points and 18 rebounds, while Scottie Pippen finished with 23 points and 10 rebounds for the Bulls.

Dominique Wilkins scored 39 points for the Hawks.

Warriors 110, Nuggets 100

Golden State maintained a one-game lead over the Los Angeles Lakers, Portland and Phoenix in the Pacific Division by winning at Denver.

Chris Mullin scored 31 points and Tim Hardaway 27 for the Nuggets, who were outscored 56-35 but outshot the Nuggets 48.8 percent to 40.9 percent.

A hook shot by Dikembe Mutombo left Denver trailing 98-95 with 3:46 remaining, but Mullin scored six points as Golden State outscored the Nuggets 12-5 down the stretch.

Greg Anderson had 18 points and 12 rebounds for Denver.

Jazz 123, Clippers 115

John Stockton had 27 points and 17 assists as Utah won at home.

Los Angeles trailed 53-34 with 1:14 remaining in the first half, but they outscored Utah 21-0 for a 55-53 lead with 7:22 left in the third quarter.

The Jazz took the lead for good with a 10-0 run that made it 82-75 with 10:54 left in the game. They stayed in front as Karl Malone scored 13 of his 23 points in the final 4:31.

Charles Smith led the Clippers with 30 points.

Pistons 112, Magic 100

Joe Dumars scored 31 points and Isiah Thomas had 22 as Detroit won on the road, handing Orlando its 12th consecutive loss.

Jerry Reynolds led Orlando with 29 points.

76ers 113, Pacers 110

Ron Anderson scored 12 of his 18 points in the final quarter, sparking Philadelphia to its seventh consecutive victory at Indianapolis.

Indiana coach Bob Hill was ejected for arguing a foul.

Reggie Miller scored 24 points and Chuck Person 21 for the Pacers. Barkley had 24 points and Hawkins 22 for Philadelphia.

Trail Blazers 113, Mavericks 88

Clyde Drexler had 20 points and 11 assists as Portland won at home against Dallas.

Rodney McCray led the Mavericks with 15 points.

Sonics 115, Kings 106

Seattle snapped an eight-game road losing streak and handed Sacramento its sixth consecutive defeat behind Ricky Pierce's 27 points.

Mitch Richmond scored 31 points for Sacramento.

Cavaliers 111, Bucks 94

John Williams had 16 points and 15 rebounds as Cleveland won at Milwaukee. Alvin Robertson led the Bucks with 20 points.

Suns 132, Heat 104

At Phoenix, Tim Perry scored 21 points and Jeff Hornacek 20 as the Suns beat the Heat.

Steve Smith led the Heat with 22 points.

Croel, Russell rookies of year

Mike Croel, a linebacker with the Denver Broncos, and Leonard Russell, a running back for the New England Patriots, were selected today as the NFL Rookies of the Year.

Croel, from the University of Nebraska, was the Broncos' second-leading sacker with 10, and Russell, who played one year at Arizona State, ran for 959 yards, fourth in the AFC.

Southwest Outdoors

with Mel Phillips

During this holiday season the hunters are in the fields savoring these last days of good hunting. The fishermen are loading up on Meredith walleye or heading south for Texoma strippers. Some dedicated anglers will drive for 24 nonstop hours searching for big Mexican bass. My tip this week is for the anglers who are tired of losing those big fish.

What knot to do—Every angler searches for the perfect knot that will not break under the pressure of a really big fish. The problem is that most knots cause the line to break before it should. Professional fishermen like Jimmy Houston and Roland Martin have told me that they use the palomar knot because it will tie a lure at close to 100 percent of the strength of their line.

It took talking to Tommy Biffle of Wagoner, Okla., to finally convince me to stop looking for the perfect knot and start building my confidence in the palomar. Biffle, who invented long distance pitching, explained this easy-to-tie knot in terms that I finally understood.

"As a pro, I fish in some miserable weather conditions that vary from freezing cold snow storms to extreme heat and pouring rain squalls. But it is the semi-dark, early morning blast-offs on cold days that really prove the value of the palomar," Biffle said. "The palomar is extremely easy to learn, reliable, but most importantly it can be tied with cold fingers in the dark."

If the men and women who make a living catching fish use a simple palomar knot, I believe that one of our fishing problems is solved.

1. Double about 4 inches of line and pass loop through eye.

2. Let hook hang loose and tie overhand knot in doubled line. Avoid twisting the lines and don't tighten.

3. Pull loop of line far enough to pass it over hook, swivel or lure. Make sure loop passes completely over this attachment.

4. Pull both tag end and standing line to tighten. Clip tag end.

Next week—This outdoor writer will be doing some serious big bass research down in old Mexico. After 83 weekly columns, Southwest Outdoors is going to take a week off. Our next column will reveal the secrets of Mexican bass and the "muy grande" white-tailed deer of south Texas. 1991 has been a great year and 1992 promises to be even better. Good luck, good fishing, good hunting and I'll see you next year.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Eleven years ago my marriage of 16 years ended in divorce. Our daughter, "Dee," was in high school. After her second year in college, Dee decided to live with me instead of her mother.

When Dee was 25, I married "Alice," whom I had known for six years. Before the wedding plans, Dee and Alice got along well, but after we announced our engagement, Dee became very cold to Alice.

The following year, when Dee married, I was in no position to pay for the wedding and was not consulted about any of the plans.

At her request, I escorted Dee down the aisle. Following the reception, the master of ceremonies called for the mother and father of the bride to dance together as well as the bride and groom. This was awkward for both me and Alice. Dee said it was an oversight that caught her by surprise. Alice said it was a deliberate ploy to make her feel uncomfortable.

Later, Dee had group photos taken with her mother's side of the family. Dee asked me and my sister to be in a picture with her. She invited my sister's husband to be in the picture also, but my wife was not included. Alice was very hurt.

When we arrived home, Alice said we should not allow Dee in our home unless she apologizes. I agree that Dee was inconsiderate, but I also believe the two of them could try a little harder to get along for my sake. Please comment.--Huntington, N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: At weddings, especially when the bride has two sets of parents, nerves are often frayed and people get prickly. Granted Dee was inconsiderate of Alice, but Alice should lighten up and not make any demands on you that will set up roadblocks between you and your daughter. Things are going to be rough enough as it is.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago, I saw a letter in your column in the Tampa Tribune from a medical student in California. He said his class had studied a single cadaver for 100 hours, and the woman who had donated her body provided the students with more education than any other person during their training. The student concluded by saying, "Please let your readers know that a body of any age is of great value to medical students."

As the widow of a wonderful man who donated his body to the medical school of Florida, I'd like to comment. The necessary arrangements had been completed with the help of a funeral director in 1979, and my husband passed away Dec. 24, 1987 at the age of 80. His body was transported to Gainesville to the medical school, where it was studied for 13 months.

The director of the medical school called me in January of 1989 to say the study had been completed and the students had learned a great deal. My husband's remains were then cremated and the ashes strewn over the Gulf of Mexico at Cedar Key.

I was amazed to learn that my husband's 80-year-old body had been such a valuable source of education for young men and women in the field of medicine. I am proud that that dear man, who did so much good during his lifetime, also performed a valuable service after life left his body. I plan to do the same.--Catherine Hart, Wisconsin

DEAR CATHERINE HART: I'm sure your letter will encourage others to donate their bodies. What a splendid contribution you two "Dear Harts" have made to humanity. Bless you.

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW

ST. MATTHEW, THE APOSTLE, WAS A PUBLICAN (TAX COLLECTOR) IN THE SERVICE OF HEROD ANTIPAS WHEN HE WAS CALLED UPON BY JESUS TO BECOME A DISCIPLE, WHILE SITTING IN THE CUSTOM HOUSE AT CAPERNAUM. ALTHOUGH LOOKED UPON WITH CONTEMPT BY HIS FELLOW GALILEANS, BECAUSE OF HIS PROFESSION, MATTHEW, NEVER THE LESS, BECAME AN IMPORTANT PURVEYOR OF JESUS' MESSAGE TO THE JEWS!

AFTER JESUS' CRUCIFIXION AND RESURRECTION, MATTHEW PREACHED IN JUDEA FOR SOME FIFTEEN YEARS. HIS SPECIFIC WORK WAS TO PERSUADE THE JEWS THAT JESUS WAS THE FULFILLMENT OF THE SCRIPTURAL PROPHECIES—THE COMING OF THE MESSIAH! HIS GOSPEL POINTEDLY QUOTES THE SCRIPTURES TO THIS EFFECT (65 TIMES, MORE THAN MARK, LUKE, AND JOHN, COMBINED). ALTHOUGH MODERN THEOLOGICIANS AND SCHOLARS MAINTAIN THIS GOSPEL WAS WRITTEN BY A GREEK JEW, UNFAMILIAR WITH HEBREW, ANCIENT AUTHORITIES SUCH AS IRENAEUS, ORIGEN, AND EUSEBIUS, ALL STATE IT WAS WRITTEN BY MATTHEW IN ARAMAIC AND LEFT AS A GUIDE FOR THE JEWS WHEN HE DEPARTED TO PREACH IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES... AND, LATER, EACH MAN INTERPRETED THEM AS BEST HE COULD... HOWEVE, MATTHEW'S MESSAGE WAS CLEAR—JESUS IS THE CHRIST!

We Reach Thousands Everyday!
The Hereford Brand

One play could run you clear of home buying interference.

Financing, Down Payments, Price negotiations. Inspections. All obstacles that could block you from buying a home. But one move could get you right through that red tape. A call to an experienced real estate agent.

An expert agent can coach you smoothly through the entire home buying process. From using the sophisticated multiple listing service to find the home that fits your needs and your budget. To tackling financing options. Setting up and monitoring inspections. Negotiating price. And even maneuvering you through closing. So when you need a skilled teammate, get someone who really knows the housing field—a real estate agent. Read The Hereford Brand for more information about qualified agents. Every day, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And on Sundays the housing section examines the latest market trends and home buying opportunities. Getting the right coaching now could mean the difference between confusion and closing.

THERE'S MORE Hereford IN THE BRAND.
