Cold front sparks tornadoes

By The Associated Press

A blast of winter weather that spit tornadoes in Central Texas and glazed West Texas and Panhandle roads with ice and snow was blamed for at least one traffic fatality and knotted rush hour traffic in several cities this morning.

Tornadoes, thunderstorms, high winds, freezing rain, snow and flash flooding all were reported over Texas as an Arctic cold front raced across the state Tuesday.

Temperatures dropped as much as 30 degrees in an hour as the front moved southward, and skies had dumped up to six inches of snow in the Panhandle by this morning.

In Amarillo, a 50-year-old Lubbock woman died of injuries she suffered when an 18-wheel truck jack-knifed on an icy road. Elizabeth Coats Amarillo and Childress both reported light snow covering icy roads this morning. Lubbock had snow-packed streets, and cities from Fort Worth to Wichita Falls to Midland to Pecos reported freezing drizzle.

In East Texas, rural roads and underpasses flooded after heavy rains overnight.

"It's beginning to look like a used-car lot," said one officer of accidentstrewn Loop 820, which circles the city. One seven-car pileup was reported on the northeast side of the loop. And on the West Freeway, a police car was hit twice while investigating an accident, police said. No serious injuries were reported. On Tuesday afternoon, two tornadoes described by the National Weather Service as "extremely

Playground equipment okayed

With parent volunteers to construct, the city to keep up the mowing, and $30,000 from the capital improvement fund the three primary school in Hereford's school district will have new playground equipment next spring.

Each campus principal will be seeking six to eight volunteer parents to work with company representatives in building the play units. Each campus also will have parent volunteers to regularly check the safety of the equipment and see that it is maintained properly.

County Chamber of Commerce to begin an Adopt-A-School program. Coneway said larger cities have succeeded in getting community help for schools with the program. The board approved a recommendation to commit itself to the program and form a joint committee with the Chamber to begin work.

The project would entail a civic group or business "adopting" a school and becoming one of that school's benefactors. The campus principals would let the group or business know about extra needs of the school that the business could provide or more easily locate.

Mal Manchee, director of program development, presented a brief review of the Hereford results of the each section of the exam. Each objective had four questions of which three had to be answered correctly before a student would be considered to have "mastered" that area.

He also reviewed a sample (not an actual student's) individual report which also showed each objective and the number of correct answers.

About 20 students who either missed the testing or were not in school at the time of testing will be given the exam in January Manchee said.

Group characteristics charted on the overall school report showed that of the 292 total tested were seven black students, 137 Hispanic, and 148

Anglo. Seventeen percent of those who were tested were in a migrant program.

Nine of the students tested were in special education classes and may later be declared exempt from the test.

Manchee noted that students who were not in school presently, but who do plan to earn a diploma can take the test. Also, a student who has completed credits but not passed the test may continue trying after he is out of school.

Congress rushing to compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House and Senate, picking up the year-end pace on essential legislation, are rushing to approve a sweeping compromise plan aimed at wiping out federal budget deficits by fiscal 1991.

Legislators faced a midnight deadline tonight for action because the balanced budget proposal, ratified by congressional negotiators late Tuesday, was attached to urgently needed legislation raising the national debt limit - the government's borrowing authority - above $2 trillion.

Treasury Department officials have said failure to raise the debt limit would leave the government in default.

The Senate was set today to act first on the package and then send it to the House. Both houses appeared ready to approve the legislation and send it to the president for his expected signature.

The combined debt limit increase and budget plan is one of several "must bills" facing a Congress anxious to go home for the holidays. In other action:

Good, bad news in store for hunters

There's good news and bad news for local pheasant hunters this season.

The good news is that pheasant populations are approximately 20 percent higher than last year.

The bad news is that the birds have not fully recovered from two poor production years and still number about 30 percent below the 5-vear average.

The 1985 pheasant hunting season will officially open this Saturday one half hour before dawn in this area. In Southeast Texas the season opened Nov. 9 and last Sunday.

The daily bag limit is two cocks per day, with a possession limit of four. One foot must remain attached to the carcass of each pheasant until it reaches its final destination.

Area activities that hunters are welcome to take advantage of are: The annual pheasant hunters breakfast at the Friona High School cafeteria on the opening day of the hunt. The breakfast will begin at 5 a.m. and will cost $4 per plate and it's all you can eat. The meal will consist of sausage, bacon, eggs, gravy and coffee. Proceeds from the Friona breakfast will go to Girlstown. The breakfast is sponsored by the Friona Noon Lions Club.

The second annual Big Brother-Big Sister "Bounty Hunt" is scheduled for this Saturday and Sunday with $500 at stake.

Six pheasants will be marked and released just prior to the first weekend of pheasant season, all within a 25-mile radius of Hereford. Tickets must be purchased in order to participate, and can be bought at either the First National Bank of Hereford, Hereford State Bank or from the Big Brothers-Big Sisters office located in the Y.M.C.A.

The first hunter who presents a marked bird will win the $500. The Olton Chapter of the Young Homemakers will be sponsoring a pheasant hunters dinner on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Olton Agriculture Pavilion. Smoked brisket, beans, potato salad, hot rolls, and cobbler will be served and the cost is $5 for adults and $3.50 for children.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from any member of the Olton chapter of the Young Homemakers or by callng 285-3059.

The Ford Extension Club will be hosting its annual pheasant hunters luncheon from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday at the Ford school building.

Homemade pies will be served with the barbeque plates which are priced at $6 per person.

Porceeds from the event will go to various community projects such as maintaining the Ford school house and 4-H projects.

The Hereford Young farmers will be sponsoring a pheasant hunt for the weekend of Dec. 21 and 22. The event's proceeds will be going to 4-H or the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America scholarship fund. The cost for the hunt will be $75 a day per gun. Drop in oil prices analyzed

AUSTIN (AP) - Economists and oil industry analysts say next year's anticipated drop in oil prices likely won't have do as much damage to the Texas economy as did the 1982 price drop that sent the state into a recession.

This week's decision by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to drop production quotas and seek a greater market share has reinforced forecasts of lower oil prices.

Industry observers surveyed by the Austin American-Statesman said most Texas oil exploration and production companies can endure oil prices as low as $20 a barrel. The spot price Monday for West Texas intermediate weight oil was $27.50 per barrel, down $1.25 from Friday.

The Texas economy also is somewhat less vulnerable today to an oil industry downturn than four years ago, experts said.

Federal jurisdiction urged for Indians

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas Indians, feeling snubbed by the state, want to return to federal jurisdiction, and two longtime political leaders say the Indians are right.

"As a last resort for the protection of their tribal lands, federal trust jurisdiction must be returned," former Gov. Price Daniel and former U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough said in a Tuesday telegram to Texasa congressmen.

The Alabama-Coushatta Reservation in East Texas was transferred from federal to state jurisdiction in 1954. The Tiguas in El Paso have been under federal authority since they were recognized as a tribe by Congress.

The current battle was sparked by a 1983 opinion by Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox saying state aid to the Indians violates the ban on special treatment based on race or nationality.

Teacher accused of selling grades resigns

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The Fort Worth school board has accepted the resignation of a high school teacher accused of selling grades for up to $100.

Fort Worth school board president Richard O'Neal said board members were told by Superintendent Carl Candoli at a weekend retreat that a teacher at Eastern Hills High School had sold A's for $100 and B's for $75.

The teacher, identified as Harold Dennis Shannon, 29, has been with the district since February 1979. He taught math and coached the girls basketball team, according to the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The board Tuesday night voted unanimously to accept the resignation, offered last week after an administrative investigation.

"He (Candoli) told us that in his 35 years in public education, he thought he had seen everything, but he said he had never seen anything like this," O'Neal said. "I prayed to God this was all a joke."

A construction worker was injured when a storage trailer where he sought refuge was blown down an embankment.

Two children suffered minor injuries from flying glass when a second tornado damaged the Rabbit Hill School northeast of Round Rock. About 40 students and teachers at the day-care center escaped injuries by scurrying under a stage in a gymnasium.

"God was watching over us," said David Williamson, assistant director of the school. "All the children are fine. Two of them suffered cuts, but they were treated right at the school."

Temperatures Tuesday afternoon dropped from the 70s into the 40s in one hour at Houston and Austin as the front moved across the state. Amarillo fell to 16 degrees, Lubbock to 21, El Paso to 28 and San Angelo to 30 by early today.

The nasty weather was expected to linger as a winter storm centered over California produces more stormy weather.

Some of the heaviest overnight snowfall reported was six inches in Tulia, located about 50 miles south of Amarillo.

"It's beginning to snow again and it's very cold - about 17 degrees," said police dispatcher Jeanette Hinkle about 10 a.m.

Flash flood warnings were issued across several areas of north and northeast Texas during the night and early today.

Water was reported on Interstate 45, the main route between Houston and Dallas, and high water forced the closing of frontage roads along I-45 between Dallas and Ennis.

Street flooding was reported at Waxahachie where police said some streets had been closed because of high water.

High water also was reported along roads and highways in Franklin, Hopkins and Van Zandt counties early today.

About three feet of water covered Farm Road 1529 in Delta County in Northeast Texas, Delta County office:s reported early today.

Capitol architect Roy Graham said Tuesday that the replanting project will be held up because of a new report indicating sycamores may be subject to a potentially devastating disease.

Although unrelated, Graham's announcement followed protests over removal of 12 young live oaks from along the sidewalk. Other kinds of trees will be considered for the walk that leads to the Capitol's main entrance, Graham said.

Last month, Graham announced plans to put a matched set of three dozen 14-foot sycamore trees along the Capitol's lengthy south walkway. The restoration would return the walk to the sycamoreshaded promenade the building's designers intended, Graham said then.

Publishers criticize AMA's proposed ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - The American Medical Association is quickly facing complaints that its new call for laws banning advertising and promotion of cigarettes and other tobacco products would violate rights of free speech.

Unfazed, AMA general counsel Kirk Johnson is declaring, "We expect a challenge; we're willing to fight it."

Soon after AMA policy-makers passed their anti-advertising proposal on Tuesday, citing tobacco-cancer links as grounds for drastic action, major publishing trade groups dispatched a letter of complaint.

"We take no position here with respect to health risks; our concern is that any such risks not be misused in an unconstitutional attempt to restrict free speech in a free society," said the letter signed by Jerry W. Friedheim, executive vice president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and William Gorog, president of the Magazine Publishers Association.

Pollutants threaten Great Lakes area

WASHINGTON (AP) - People living around the Great Lakes are more threatened by toxic chemicals than other North Americans because their drinking water and foods may be contaminated with lake pollutants, a new U.S.-Canadian study says.

"There is an urgency to achieve a reduction of toxic pollutants in the Great Lakes and thereby to reduce the risks to the human population," a committee convened by the U.S. National Research Council and the Royal Society of Canada said in a report released today.

There is growing evidence that Great Lakes-area residents are exposed to, and accumulate "appreciably more," toxic chemicals than other people, the researchers said.

Marcos nominated for another term

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - President Ferdinand E. Marcos, nominated by his party for another term in office today, chose an outspoken critic as his running mate for an election he called to blunt criticism of his 20-year-old government.

Meanwhile, Corazon Aquino, the widow of assassinated opposition leader Benigno Aquino, formally filed her candidacy to oppose Marcos in the Feb. 7 election. As hundreds of supporters cheered and showered confetti from office windows, Mrs. Aquino arrived at the Commission on Elections and told its chairman, "All I can hope for is that we all get justice."

A second opposition candidate, former Sen. Salvador H. Laurel, filed his candidacy Monday.

Marcos' nomination by a conference of his New Society Movement was guaranteed, but 74-year-old Assemblyman Arturo Tolentino only recently had surfaced as a frontrunner for the vice presidential nomination.

Smalts honored at bridal shower

Carol Smalts, Dec. 21 bride-elect of John Summers, was honored at a bridal shower Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. Otis Lee, 10 Yucca Hills.

The couple plan to exchange nuptials in First Baptist Church.

Honored guests included the brideelect's mother, Lola Smalts; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Gloria Maples of Plainview; her grandmother, Girtha Vaughan of Silverton; and her aunts, Norma Ragland of Lockney and Norma Vaughan of Silverton.

Members of the receiving line were given poinsettia corsages by the hostesses and guests were asked to sign the registry book by Tammy Scarbough.

Depicting a holiday theme, the refreshment table was laid with a green lace cloth appliqued with red sequined candles. The centerpiece consisted of an arrangement of Christmas poinsettias and red tapers.

Debbie Parsley served refreshments of an assortment of cookies, finger sandwiches, spiced tea and coffee.

Serving as hostesses were Ella Oglesby, Leatrus Clark, Pat Scott, Mary Lou Shore, Opal Walterscheid, Elvis Shields, Judy Mitts, Pat Montgomery, Dean Bradley, Margot Sims, Velta King, Karen Crenshaw, Madeline Rosson, Theda Seiver, Marilyn Culpepper, Betty Taylor and Contaline Lee.

To avoid confusion this holiday season, Bullock has issued guidelines on taxing such items as Christmas trees, gift wrapping services, whole smoked hams or turkeys and gift certificates.

Christmas tree sales by non-profit organizations like Optimist Clubs are subject to sales tax. While such organizations may be exempt from paying sales tax on certain items purchased for their use, they are still responsible for collecting tax on sales of taxable items, Bullock said.

Retailers can buy wrapping material tax-free, but the fee that retailers charge customers to wrap gifts is taxable. When gift wrap is done by someone other than the retailer, the service charge is not taxable. However, the gift wrapping service must pay sales tax when buying gift wrap material.

Family therapy different approach

A lot of "traditional" problems for which individuals have sought professional help may have roots in family interactions that need to be addressed as well.

People with problems, whether from their own personal habits or relationships with others, may benefit from therapy that involves their entire family, said Dr. Monte Bobele, director of clinical training in the Family Therapy Clinic at Texas Tech University.

The clinic, a service of the Marriage and Family Development Center in the College of Home Economics, works with families on a sliding scale fee basis. The clinic is staffed by graduate students and faculty in the Department of Human Development and Family Studies.

Family therapy is a different approach to what have been thought of as standard problems in areas such a discipline, sex, finances and communication.

"Family therapy was started more than 40 years ago as a way of dealing with a wide variety of psychological problems," Bobele said. "It's a way of approaching problems rather than identifying them.

"We don't use the problem as being the result of mental incapabilities but the social context the person is in," Bobele said. "We treat a nagging spouse by getting the partner to change what is happening before or after the nagging starts, if we can."

Getting all the family members to come in for therapy sometimes is difficult, Bobele said.

The reluctant family member usually has the attitude that "it's all your problem," he said. Therapists can still work with only the client, but therapy may be difficult and works slower in those cases.

The problems seen are often the same ones psychologists deal with, but treating the entire family provides a lot more resources for remedy.

"We identify the patient as the person who comes in for help, but we visualize the problem as being connected to the whole family, each of whom may have individual difficulties as a result," Bobele said.

Bobele cited as an example a truant child who is causing a parent to miss work, creating a new set of hardships for the parent.

"There is hardly a problem one person has that doesn't inconvenience someone else, and how they are dealing with it may not be helpful and can best be treated by involving everyone," Bobele said.

Judge David Wesley Gulley of The Texas State District Court, Hereford, was recently awarded a Diploma of Judicial Skills by the American Academy of Judicial Education.

This special diploma is based on the completion of three fundamental courses of judicial instruction.

Douglas Lanford, Executive Director of the American Academy of Judicial Education, states, "The attitude exemplified by Judge Gulley in his continuing effort to maintain high standards of judicial performance is commendable." Lanford noted that the Diploma is awarded only to judges who have completed three courses of study designed to enhance judicial skills: Trial Judges Academy, a two-week program in substantive and procedural law; Fact Finding: Communication, Decision-Making, Time Manage-ment, Stress and Judicial Performance, a program directed to the many skills exercised by judges; and Jurisprudence, the Humanities and Judging, focusing on the fundamen-tal concepts of our system of justice.

Oilers general manager states

Hiring of Campball a mistake

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzeg has admitted he made a mistake in hiring Hugh Campbell as head coach two years ago.

But he won't explain why. "I'm ready to admit that hiring Hugh Campbell was the worst mistake of my professional career," Herzeg said Tuesday in his first public appearance since firing Campbell on Monday.

Going into details of Campbell's dismissal, however, would be insensitive, the Oiler general manager said.

"They (Campbell's family) are all affected by this," Herzeg said. "For me to say negative things to support my position regarding his dismissal is not in the best interest of his family."

Herzeg said that defensive coordinator Jerry Glanville, the interim head coach, would be the Oilers' head coach next season if he wins the final two games of the season on the road.

Herzeg declined, however, to say what qualifications he is seeking in the next head coach.

"I won't discuss qualifications as long as Jerry Glanville is the head coach," Herzeg said.

Campbell signed a three-year contract with the Oilers on Jan. 3, 1984 and a short time later the Oilers signed quarterback Warren Moon to a five-year, $5.5 million contract.

Moon and Campbell had teamed to win five Grey Cups with the Canadian Football League Edmonton Eskimoes before signing with the Oilers.

Asked if signing Campbell was a ploy to attract Moon, Herzeg replied 'Obviously.'

Cleveland and Indianapolis. "Considering what our road record has been in recent years, if he wins the last two games, he deserves to be the head coach," Herzeg said.

Herzeg will be searching for his fourth head coach in five years as general manager and has been criticized as not giving Campbell enough time to turn the Oiler franchise around.

The Oilers finished 3-13 last season in Campbell's first year at the helm. Sunday's 35-14 loss to the New York Giants assured the Oilers of their fifth consecutive losing season.

"I don't think we should have been 3-13 last year and we should have had a better record this year," Herzeg said.

"Most of the people I've talked to in the National Football League feel there is a tremendous amount of talent on this football team."

Herzeg criticized Campbell's offensive game plans and thought the head coach should have done more with the team he had assembled.

"I personally have paid a helluva price the past four and one-half years for a good, young talented football team," Herzeg said.

Herzeg said he was tired of going home Sunday nights after another loss.

"Winning is the bottom line," Herzeg said. "I'm sick and tired of being with this organization and having to tell people that I work for the Houston Oilers and that we are losers. I'm tired of that."

Glanville, who turned the young Oiler defense into an aggressive, gambling unit this season, was in the right position for moving up to the head coaching job.

Four of the last five Oiler head coaches have advanced from the defensive coordinator position.

Glanville said the Oilers would have an aggressive game plan in mind for the Browns that would include the entire team.

"I talked to (quarterback) Warren Moon and told him that we couldn't win any game because of him but we could win with him," Glanville said.

"No one man can line up and beat the Cleveland Browns. It's going to take all of us."

Olajuwon dominates in Rockets' win over Jazz

HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Rocket Akeem Olajuwon's biggest fan could be Utah Jazz center Mark Eaton.

"He's by far the best rebounder in the league right now," Eaton said Tuesday night after Olajuwon scored 27 points and pulled down 14 rebounds to lead the Rockets to a 134-105 win over the Jazz.

"He jumps so well that I have to concentrate on keeping my body the whole game. Every shot I try to find him and keep him off the boards, but he still gets the rebounds," Eaton said. "On fast breaks, he follows so well that if they miss the shot, Akeem always seems to be there for the dunk."

a 71-56 halftime lead.

Houston continued to dominate the third-quarter play, building an 82-62 lead with 8:36 left in the quarter. The Rockets went on to lead by as much as 23 in the third quarter and held a 101-84 lead going in to the fourth period.

Houston scored 16 points in the fourth period before the Jazz managed their first basket at 4:19 into the quarter. Houston's biggest lead in the final quarter was 31.

Roller-coaster Cowboys go against Giants Sunday

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Tom Landry jokes that he doesn't have a big enough couch to hire a psychiatrist for his roller-coaster Dallas Cowboys.

He says you can't fire 'em after they lose 44-0 to Chicago and 50-24 to Cincinnati. All you can do is try to correct their numerous mental mistakes, hopefully in time to slay the New York Giants on Sunday.

Former A&M coach hired by high school

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) -Former Texas A&M University head football coach Tom Wilson has been hired by the Palestine School Board as the district's high school football coach.

Wilson was named in recent allegations concerning recruiting violations at Texas A&M in a series of investigative stories by the Dallas Times Herald. The reports told of thousands of dollars paid to top Aggie players in car deals, weekly allowances, performance payments both during Wilson's tenure and during the time that Jackie Sherrill has been head coach at Texas A&M.

"That was cleared in 1980," Wilson told the Palestine Herald-Press after the school board hired him late Tuesday night. "That implication comes from a player I dismissed from the squad for discipline problems. The case was closed and cleared five years ago," Wilson said.

The unanimous board decision followed a four-hour closed session. Wilson, head coach at Texas A&M from 1978-1981, said he was looking forward to changing his career to coaching at the college level to the high school level.

A native of Corsicana, Wilson said, home."

"You don't judge a player after a game like that (Cincinnati)," Landry said on Tuesday. "You'd get rid of all of 'em if you did."

Cowboys to rebound against the Giants in their National Conference Eastern Division showdown in Texas Stadium.

'We were really not concentrating against Cincinnati," said Landry. "

Landry said he expects the think we will play well against New York."

Although he has never taught in a classroom situation, Wilson said, "I've been coaching teams for 20 years. That is teaching."

The Dallas newspaper reported that Wilson gave hundreds of dollars to players during his three-year stint at A&M.

One former starting linebacker, Cal Peveto, said Wilson gave him $200 "at least five times" and that the cash was available from Wilson on demand.

Also quoted in the article was a former tutor for running back Ernest Jackson, now with the Philadelphia Eagles, who said Wilson once gave Jackson $600.

Since leaving the A&M post in 1981, Wilson was employed as vice president of the Reata Oil and Gas Corp. of Bryan until 1983.

In 1984, he was hired as offensive coordinator for Texas Tech.

Wilson was one of only two applicants to be interviewed by the full school board. School officials report that more than 100 applications were received for the opening.

Wilson replaces Larry Frost, who was head coach here for four years. Frost resigned.

Wilson was given a two-year contract and will be paid about $37,000 per year. He will become an employee of the school district Jan. 21.

Landry said the team's youth is showing.

"We are not a mature team and so you have those cycles," said Landry. "If you are a solid team you win on your bad days.

"It's hard to explain our up-anddown situation but this team wasn't really counted very high at the start of the year. Anybody who thought we'd be playing this late for the division championship would probably have been thought to be crazy."

Landry added "We have to play at the top of our game to win. We are just not as strong a football team as we have been in years past."

Landry said his defense needs to get its act together.

"We hit one of the lows we sometimes hit because of our style of (coordinated) defense," said Landry. "We just came mentally unglued but our defense is one that can bounc back once we get some discipline. We could come back on Sunday."

The Cowboys can clinch the NFC East title if they win. A victory by the Giants would all but seal the NFC East for them.

"We have two chances to get into the playoffs and that's all you can ask," said Landry. "If we lose to the Giants we can still get in by beating San Francisco. That's all you can ask.

"If we don't win we don't deserve to go."

Dallas was a field goal favorite over the Giants, who lost to the Cowboys 30-29 on Oct. 6. Both teams are 9-5. Dallas leads the all-time series 31-13-2.

Johnson hits game-winning shot

Spurs edge Bulls, 109-107

CHICAGO (AP) - When Steve Johnson got to call his own play with just 35 seconds remaining, the 6-10 San Antonio power forward knew that San Antonio Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons was a believer.

"We only had three team fouls, so I knew if I drew a foul off a missed shot after crashing the boards, it would not be disastrous," Johnson said Tuesday night after his gamewinning tip-in had given the Spurs a 109-107 triumph over the Chicago Bulls.

"I told Steve to throw the ball into Mike Mitchell and then go to the boards," said Fitzsimmons, "and just as Johnson had anticipated, Mitchell missed the shot, but Johnson was in the right place to go up for the game winner.'

Johnson, who had 24 points, said, "We tightened up our defense in the last five minutes, but we know that if you are going to be a good National Basketball Association team, you've got to win the games down the stretch. We did this after falling behind 100-94 and then 105-101 with just over two minutes left in the

Rookie Benoit Benjaminleads Clippers to win over Mavericks

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Rookie center Benoit Benjamin has begun to live up to the expectations that prompted the Los Angeles Clippers to trade center James Donaldson to the Dallas Mavericks.

Benjamin scored seven of his nine points in the final 3:30 to help the Clippers to a 120-118 win over the Mavericks Tuesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

"I think the team has been very patient with me and now I've got to live up to my expectations," he said. "My consistency has not been there and I hope after tonight I can keep this up."

when he sank a three-point field goal. The teams traded baskets before Johnson made one of two free throws to give Los Angeles a 120-118 lead.

Dallas had a final opportunity to tie the game with seven seconds to play, but Jay Vincent's inbound pass slipped through the fingers of Rolando Blackman and into Johnson's hands and the Clippers ran out the clock.

"It worked the way it was supposed to work, but the ball went through my hands and Marques wound up with it," said Blackman, who led Dallas with 30 points. Aguirre added 20 and Vincent scored 14.

game."

But Johnson, with four consecutive free throws, tied the score at 105-105, and a fast-break layup by Johnny Moore gave the Spurs a 107-105 advantage with 52 seconds remaining.

Chicago's Quintin Dailey, who along with Orlando Woolridge had 25 points, then tied the score with a 15-footer.

"I didn't believe how the Spurs were ganging up on me," said Dailey, "and even after Johnson's tip-in, I had a chance at a tying basket, but misfired."

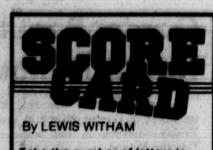

The Spurs, now 13-10, had trailed by 11 points at halftime and by six at 100-4 with 5:22 left in the game after Dave Corzine contributed a basket and two free throws for the Bulls.

"It was a typical Chicago-San Antonio shoving match with Artis Gilmore of the Spurs doing his best to push me around," said Corzine, "but after three years I guess I'm used to it.'

The Bulls, now 8-17 and losers of 8 of their last 10 contests, were described by Coach Stan Albeck as "a team that is snake bitten, because whenever we get a lead, especially at home, we don't seem to be able to come up with the big play down the stretch.'

Ad for benching Woolridge, the team's leading scorer for all but two minutes of the final quarter, Albeck said: "Gene Banks was doing a good job and I did not want to weaken what I perceived to be a good com-score 29 points."

FLORIDA ACES

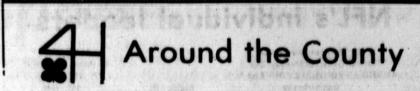

CINCINNATI (AP) - Cris Coll-ngsworth and Eddie Brown, the two flying wide receivers of the Cincinnati Bengals, have remarkably similar backgrounds. Both are Florida products. Collinsworth attended the University of Florida and Brown per-formed for the Miami Hurricanes.

Both also were high school quarter-backs. Brown played for Miami Senior High and Collinsworth at Titusville Astronaut High. They never opposed each other, either in high school or col-lege, however. The 1965 season was the fifth for Collinsworth, but it was Brown's rooking was Brown's rookie year.

County Extension Agent The 4-H Showmanship Club held a clinic Saturday at the Bull Barn and 4-H Arena. The clinic was held to increase the skills of 4-H'ers in their performance in the show ring.

The hog clinic began at 8:30 a.m. with Tommy Perkins, county agent from Randall County conducting the activities. Forty-eight hogs were weighed in with around 60 people participating.

The lamb clinic began at 10 a.m. with Jigger Rowland teaching showmanship techniques. Forty-six lambs were weighed in and 55 4-H'ers and parents observed the activities.

The steer clinic followed at 11 a.m. with Randy Vogel of Lubbock assisting 4-H'ers with their showmanship abilities. Twenty steers were weighed in and 25 4-H'ers and parents took part in the activities.

The clinic was designed to help 4-H'ers work with their projects and prepare them for the coming Hereford Young Farmers Stock Show as well as with major shows of Texas.

Approximately 200 people attended the clinic including 75 4-H'ers, 80 parents and around 50 spectators and leaders.

Poinsettia not poisonous

- The Christmas poinsettia is believed by many people to be poisonous, a belief a Texas Tech University professor says is totally false.

Marihelen Kamp, of the Plant and Soil Sciences Department, said the poinsettia earned its unjust reputation in 1919 when unsubstantiated stories spread about a two-year-old child dying after eating a poinsettia teaf.

"Those stories were totally without substantiated medical or scientific fact," Kamp said. "It's really too bad because those stories scared many people into believing the plants were poisonous to humans and pets, a fear that still exists today."

Kamp said the Society of American Florists, a national trade association, collaborated with researchers at Ohio State University to determine the toxicity of poinsettias.

"That study found that rats, when given unusually high doses of various portions of the poinsettia, showed no mortality, no symptoms of toxicity and no changes in dietary intake or general behavior patterns," she said.

Kamp said she believes that Ohio State study done in 1971 effectively disputes the old wives tale that poinsettias are harmful to humans and animals.

As further proof, Kamp cites figures from the Poison Control Center of the Food and Drug Administration that show that in 1974, the most recent figures available, not a single human being was hospitalized and no one died as a result of ingesting parts of any plant sold by commercial florists in the nation, including poinsettias.

and golden-yellow flowers. To increase the life span of the plant Kamp suggests:

-Placing the plant in a room with sufficient natural light to read fine print.

-Avoiding any drafts or excess heat from appliances, radiators and ventilating ducts.

-Selecting a place to put the plant which is up and out of the traffic and away from unmonitored children and pets.

-Putting the plant in a water-proof container to protect furnishings.

-Watering the plant thoroughly when the soil is dry to the touch and always discarding excess water.

-Ideal temperatures should never exceed 72 degrees during the day or 60 degrees during the night to prolong bright colors.

-When the brightly colored leaves begin to fade, the plant should be cut back to about eight inches and allowed to grow as a foliage plant. The plant can be placed outdoors when the temperatures are warm, but night temperatures below 50 degrees should be avoided.

-After October 1, the poinsettia should be covered with a bag or kept in dark room at night. Kamp suggests covering the plant about 5 p.m. and leaving till morning. Any night time light should be avoided.

-The poinsettia should be allowed to receive six to eight hours of direct sunlight each day.
-After November 22 the leaves should start to regain their color and night covering can be discontinued.
Do not leave the plant in night temperatures below 60 degrees.
-Water and fertilize the poinsettia as any other foliage plant.

Mouse warns against many Christmas safety hazards

About 900 Americans a year require medical treatment from being careless with Christmas lights, according to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

In an effort to help prevent injuries in our area, Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) is conducting a Christmas-season safety campaign featuring its cartoon character, Sparky the safety mouse.

"Sparky's become real popular with kids," said Hermilo Martinez, SPS safety manager. "But the best thing is that adults pay attention to him, too." Many shocks and burns around Christmas can be avoided by following some simple safety rules, Martinez said.

He said those safety tips include: -Before hanging strings of lights, spread them on the floor and check for frayed or bare wires, cracked insulation, loose connections or damaged plugs or sockets.

-Check extension cords for wear or damage, and don't run them across walking areas. -If you buy an artificial green tree.

make sure it has been tested for flammability by Underwriters' Laboratory (UL). A small tag bearing the letters "UL" should be attached. Also, look for the UL tag that means Christmas lights and electric toys have been tested for safety.

-Never string lights on a metallic tree.

-Turn off Christmas lights before leaving home or going to bed. Along with being safer, you'll save energy. The Christmas safety messages are part of SPS' year-round efforts to advise the public about the dangers advise the public about the dangers of carelessness around electricity, Martinez said.

He said electric-safety posters, films, publications and presentations are available free to farm and industry groups, schools, youth groups, civic clubs and anyone else interested.

The poinsettia has gained a special place in the Christmas decorations of many homes and churches, Kamp said. In 1974, approximately 25 million poinsettia plants were bought by Americans.

The plant derives its name from Joel R. Poinsett, the American ambassador to Mexico in 1851, who introduced the flaming scarlet leafed plant to the U.S.

Kamp said the poinsettia plants offered for sale in the U.S. are cultivated and grown in greenhouses and, because of concentrated plant breeding and selections, are hardy plants.

"While most people think of poinsettias as having bright scarlet colored leaves, they are also available in white and pink," Kamp said.

Kamps said people should remember that poinsettias are green plants with long-lived colored leaves

The United States first committed itself to the metric system at an international convention in 1875. U.S. fundamental weights and measures have been metric since 1893. But this country is the only major industrial nation that still has not brought the metric system into its everyday life.

To: Dionicio Alegria, Respondent, GREETINGS: YOU ARE HEREBY COM-MANDED to appear and answer before the Honorable District Court, Deaf Smith County, Texas, at the courthouse of said county in Hereford, Texas, at or before 10 o'clock a.m. of the Monday next after the expiration of 20 days from the date of service of this citation, then and there to answer the petition of Manuel and Herminia Jimenez, Petitioners, filed in said Court on the 11th day of October, 1985, against Dionicio Alegria, Respondent, and said suit being number DR-85J-158 on the docket of said Court, and entitled "In the Interest of Oscar Jessie Jimenez, A Child," the nature of which suit is a request to terminate the parent-child relationship and adopt the child. Said child, was born the 11th day of December, 1976, in Kingsville, Kleberg County, Texas. The Court has authority in this suit to enter any judg-ment or decree in the child's interest which will be binding upon you, including, but not necessarily limited to, the termination of the parentchild relationship, the determination of paternity, and the brown-stained thumb. The end of the shell crunches into bits as he slices a pocketknife across it. The pecan grower smiles. A solid meat fills all the way to the end of the shell. He cuts a second time, uncovers the nutmeat and breaks it in half. It's a beauty.

Naturally he doesn't throw it away - he pops it in his mouth. He checks pecans constantly during the harvest, of thousands of pounds. "You eat a lot of pecans," he said. Adamek gets enthusiastic when he talks about growing the nuts. "A lot of people think a pecan is just a pecan," he said.

But not Adamek who is chairman of the Williamson County Pecan Growers Association. "We like to emphasize a high-quality pecan," he said.

He says growing big, pretty pecans is an art. This year he is bringing in his eighth crop. As he got into business and looked for advice, he said, "The biggest problem I have is finding who knows what they're talking about."

What works in one part of the state, doesn't apply here. He worked out his own methods, and his trees thrive. How does he grow a quality pecan in Williamson County? 'They ask me that in the coffee shops all the time," he said. "People with a yard have an advantage, they can water their trees with a hose.'

> Adamek said that nutrition and a spraying program are important. "The idea is to keep the leaves green and healthy, that's a first step," he said.

For the commerical grower, getting sound advice is critical. Once trees are selected and planted, "It's about six or seven years before you find out whether you made a mistake. 'A cotton farmer can change his program from year to year, but here if you make three or four mistakes you're an old man before you know it." the 38-year-old Adamek said. When the pecans are ready to harvest, the grower faces more risks. "You're under the weather more than any other farmer," he said. "You can't do anything after 6 o'clock. When something breaks you have to take it back to your shop and try to get it together at night." Adamek works out of a big shed on his Beaukiss property. He and his wife, Kay, and their 13-year-old son have a house in Pflugerville, but during the harvest they spend hours at the shed.

At this time of year, burlap bags of pecans cover the floor of the shed and a big dryer is inches deep in large pecans. More pecans are rolling through a sizer. An airleg grader bounces pecans on an airstream to float out light pecans from the good, solid pecans.

The harvest could last a few weeks or "if bad weather sets in, this drags out," Adamek said. The season could last three and a half months.

"There've been some tough times," he said, when they got bad weather. "A lot of pecans are on the ground, if we caught a bad rain I'd just see them wash off. You can't overanticipate, you have to be satisfied with 80 percent of your expectations.

"You have to hustle. Everyone thinks you just rake them in," he said, but it's a nervous time for him. "The overhead in this business is high and in the off year, your machinery sits idle," he said.

Despite the risks, the independent nature of growing pecans suits him much better than the industrial job he got after college.

Adamek grew up in Taylor, then went to the University of Texa and earned a degree in productio. management for industry.

He went to work for Motorola, and developed high blood pressure. He was smoking two packs of cigarettes a day.

"It was just a pressure cooker for me," he said. "I thought I might as well get ulcers working for myself." Instead he quit smoking and his blood pressure went down.

Since he started, he has planted 900 pecan trees, which are drip-irrigated. He planted Wichita, Cheyenne, Choctaw, Desirable and Kiowa varieties. He's found Wichita does particularly well in the sandy soil on his property, and he likes the nutty flavor of Wichita pecans. He sprays his pecan trees every two weeks during the growing season. "June bugs eat them. Grasshoppers eat them. After the trees get older you can back off, but when they're juvenile they take a lot of TLC, a lot more than what I thought," he said. He also cleaned out 40 acres of big timber on his property. "We cut out all the brush, briars, poision ivy, vines," he said. Now it's a managed native pecan orchard, and he keeps it clean. Adamek also raises cattle but finds they don't mix well with pecans. His cattle have been out of the pecan area a month. "The cattle eat the pecans and step on them," he said. In addition to harvesting pecans from his property, Adamek also leases orchards from five owners. A couple of years ago, he handled even more pecans, over a quarter million pounds. "We took them off the ground and moved them five times," he said. "When you shake those big trees you have to pick up all the trash trailer, cracker, airleg grader and lots of shop equipment, because he's his own mechanic, and "all this stuff has to be painted."

Dealers for his specialized equipment are miles away, so he has to make his own adaptions and repairs. For example, his shaker comes from California and is made for bigger trees. He adapted the shaker arm for smaller trees. The shaker is a strangelooking machine, and moves awkwardly across the orchard, like a one-armed monster. Admek drives up to a tree and the end of the arm snaps around the tree trunk.

Then the shaker and tree turn into a fast-moving blur. Pecans, hulls, leaves and twigs rain down onto plastic tarps.

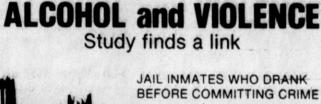

In the old days, growers beat the nuts out of a tree with a stick. "That's too slow, and if trees are big you can't work them like that," Adamek said. He has mechanized his operation as much as possible, to save on costly hand labor.

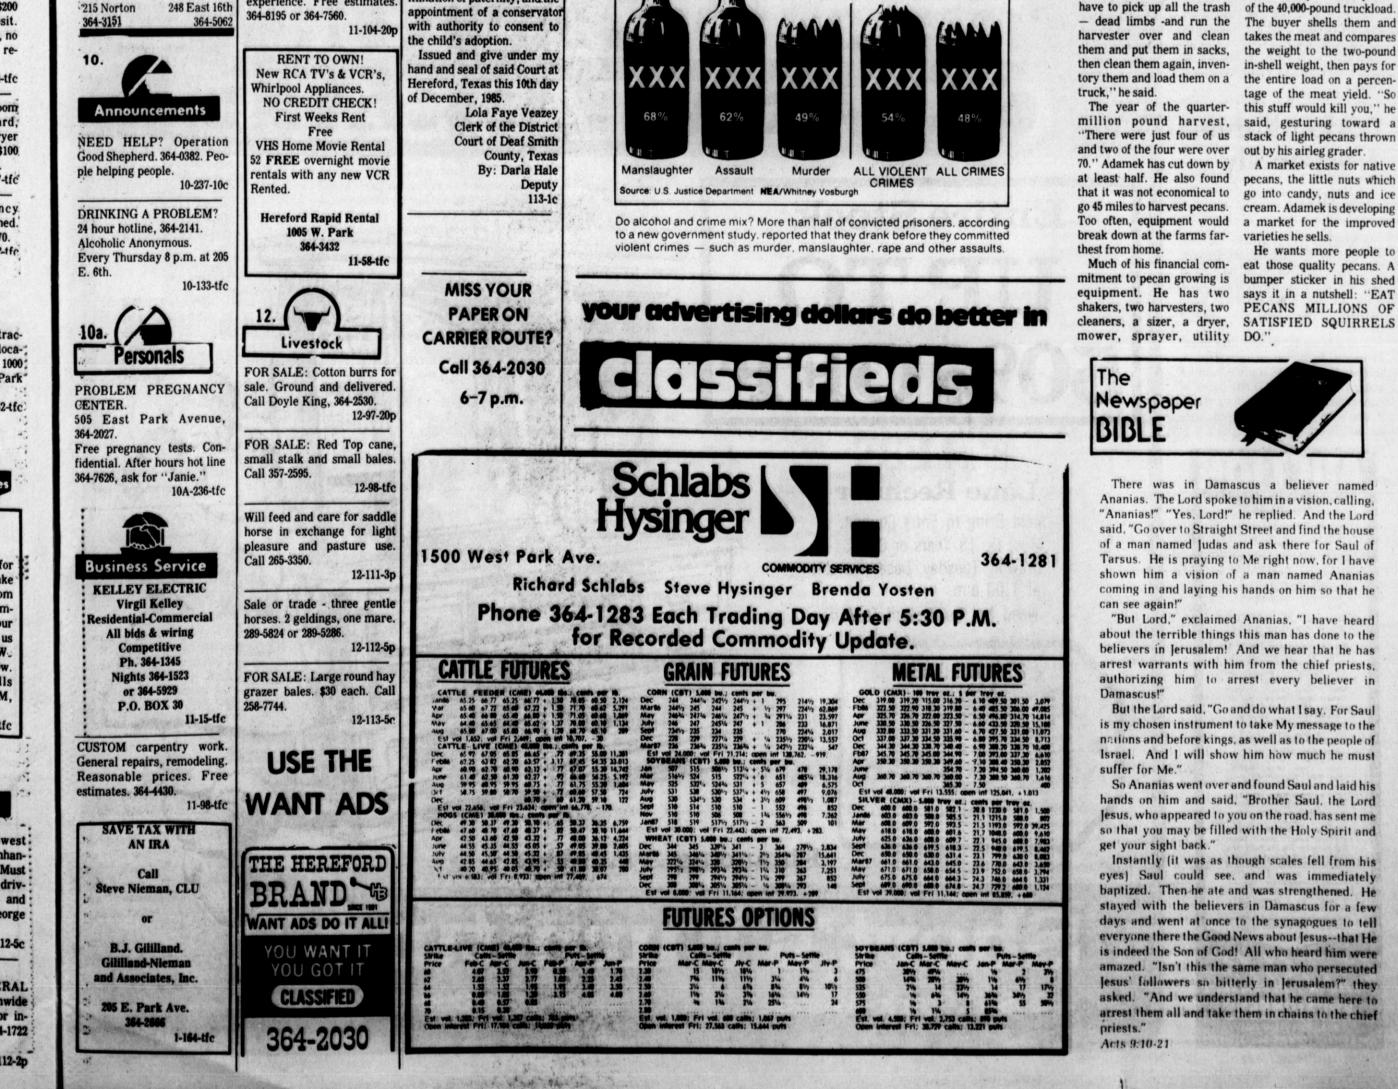

The pecans are rolled off the plastic tarps into buckets or bags, or a harvester sweeps them up with a brush. Then they are dropped into a cleaner.

Twigs and leaves shoot out of an overhead chute, and pecans roll onto a moving belt. Hulls and any bad pecans can be picked out before the nuts drip into a Back at the shed, the nuts are cleaned again, sized and graded. Adamek wants to be sure he keeps small or light pecans out of his premium pecans.

He explained that the buyer takes a two-pound sample out of the 40,000-pound truckload.

the entire load on a percentage of the meat yield. "So this stuff would kill you," he said, gesturing toward a stack of light pecans thrown out by his airleg grader. A market exists for native pecans, the little nuts which go into candy, nuts and ice cream. Adamek is developing a market for the improved varieties he sells. He wants more people to eat those quality pecans. A bumper sticker in his shed says it in a nutshell: "EAT PECANS MILLIONS OF SATISFIED SQUIRRELS

There was in Damascus a believer named Ananias. The Lord spoke to him in a vision, calling, "Ananias!" "Yes, Lord!" he replied. He is praying to Me right now, for I have shown him a vision of a man named Ananias coming in and laying his hands on him so that he

He stayed with the believers in Damascus for a few days and went at once to the synagogues to tell everyone there the Good News about Jesus--that He is indeed the Son of God! All who heard him were amazed. "Isn't this the same man who persecuted Jesus' followers so bitterly in Jerusalem?" they asked. Soviet ag plan could mean bad news here

WASHINGTON (AP) - If the Soviet Union is successful in meeting the goals of a new five-year agricultural plan that begins in 1986, it could be bad news for American grain farmers who rely heavily on the Soviet market.

But the Agriculture Department says Moscow's plan is too ambitious and is "not realistic in light of past performance."

Under the new plan, Soviet grain output would increase to an average of at least 250 million metric tons annually in 1986 through 1990. In the current five-year plan for 1981-85, grain production was estimated to average 178 million tons, only 74 percent of the target of about 240 million

Agricultural production overall would rise 14 percent to 16 percent during the next five years if the goals are met.

"The Soviets are unlikely to meet their twelfth five-year plan targets," the report said. "However, Soviet agricultural performance between 1986 and 1990 may be improved by the new leadership of (Mikhail) Gorbachev, the creation of an agricultural super-ministry and greater attention to agronomic practices."

Last month, Moscow announced the merger of six governmental agencies into one new organization, the State Agro-Industrial Committee, or Gosagroprom.

The new agency "is an attempt by Gorbachev to streamline the Soviet economy and address the problem of coordination within the agricultural sector," the report said. "The reorganization may improve the efficiency in the Soviet agricultural economy by better coordinating the activity of organizations in the agricultural complex."

But the report added, "It is unlike-Even so, it said, Gorbachev's creation of the new agency "represents a move towards centralization and

Mail with beetles being returned

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says "thousands of packages" mailed to the United States from some Middle Eastern and Asian countries are being returned to senders because they could contain the dreaded khapra beetle, a destroyer of grain and other stored food products.

"Packages are arriving at the international air mail facility at JFK International Airport in New York at the rate of about 3,000 per week," said Bert Hawkins, head of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

"Our inspections show that many of the packages from Iran, Saudi Arabia, India, Pakistan, Sudan and some other countries contain khapra beetle host material."

Hawkins said Monday that host materials include dried and salted seeds and nuts, rice, flour and dried animal hides. Such items recently have been prohibited from entering the United States from countries where the beetles are known to exist.

"U.S. citizens and foreign nationals living in the United States can save their friends and relatives in countries infested with khapra beetles trouble and expense by requesting that seeds, nuts and similar food items not be sent to this country," he said.

years, Moscow has had to import large amounts of grain, including wheat and corn from the United States.

However, this year's improved harvest will help the Soviets cut back on total grain imports, estimated at 35 million tons in the 1965-66 international trade year, which will run through June 30. In 1964-65, Soviet grain imports soared to a record of 55.5 million tons, about a third of it wheat and corn from the United States.

Cotton harvest fractionally down

WASHINGTON (AP) - A new forecast by the Agriculture Department puts the 1985 cotton harvest at 13.8 million bales, down fractionally from the November estimate but 6 percent more than last year's harvest.

Officials said Tuesday the latest estimate, based on surveys Dec. 1, included about 13.66 million bales of upland cotton and 147,500 bales of American-Pima or extra-long staple cotton grown in Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.
