

Urges 'steady course' in speech

Reagan rues 'big spending'

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, insisting he is forging a lasting economic recovery, cautioned voters not to be tempted by those advocating a return to "big spending and big taxing."

In a speech broadcast over Democrats' protests 20 days before the election, Reagan said the country's problems were years in the making and were the fault of big spenders and people playing politics with the economy.

Democrats, however, pointed out that unemployment has soared to its highest level in four decades during Reagan's presidency and said his recovery program must be changed.

"I was disappointed that the president failed to propose a single new measure to create jobs and put America back to work," said House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass.

"If he thinks we should stay the course, he should ask those millions of American families who have already reached the end of the line," O'Neill said in a statement. "If he thinks Reaganomics is working, he should ask the fellow who isn't."

Speaking from the Oval Office Wednesday night, Reagan said, "Now I do not pretend for a moment that in 21 months, we have been able to undo all the damage to our economy that has built up over more than 20 years."

He said the current recession "is part of a long series — a series that hasn't stopped because, in the past, when the crunch came, too many in government resorted to quick fixes instead of getting to the root cause."

Sen. Donald M. Riegle of Michigan, giving the Democrats' formal response to Reagan, said the economy "is on a downhill slide."

"More people are out of work now than at any time since the Great Depression," said Riegle. "And it's getting worse."

"What kind of course is it that creates more business failures than at any time since the Depression?" Riegle asked.

The senator called for cuts in Reagan's massive Pentagon buildup, and said Democrats would seek legislation to protect American industries from unfair foreign competition, changes in the credit system to reduce interest rates and restoration of cuts in Social Security benefits.

White House officials insisted Reagan's speech was nonpartisan but it was packed with self-praise for the administration's program and scorn for previous remedies for inflation and unemployment.

Tonight, Reagan is expected to repeat his message in a televised speech broadcast by satellite to Republican fund-raisers in 11 communities around the country. The Republican National Committee is picking up $15,000 of the broadcast's cost, and each local campaign will pay $1,500 for equipment to receive the signal, said Tom Hickey, a GOP spokesman.

White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said there was "a good possibility" Reagan would make another television address to the nation in the closing days of the campaign. He said it probably would be a political speech.

Spirit growing as 'shootout' approaches

Brand Sports Editor Les Giles refers to it as the "second shootout" between two District 3-5A powers, but whatever you call the Hereford-Plainview football contest Friday night, the game is drawing the attention of fans in the two cities as well as across the area and state.

The Whiteface Booster Club has made special plans to get Herd fans involved. The club is urging businesses and residents along Hwy. 385 to decorate and put up signs about the big game.

Also, the boosters are asking people to make signs (any size) to be displayed at the stadium Friday night. Boosters will be on hand to take the signs and place them in appropriate places.

The club is also making some 3,500 signs, 8½ by 11 which will be distributed to fans as they enter the stadium. The signs will serve as part of the spirit promotion planned for the big game.

Temporary bleachers are being moved into the North end zone, as all tickets for the East and West stands quickly were sold out. The end-zone tickets, as well as standing-room-only duets will go on sale at 6 p.m. Friday at the North end of Whiteface Stadium.

For more details on the game itself, read Giles' advance article on Page 4 of today's issue.

Bulldog Welcome

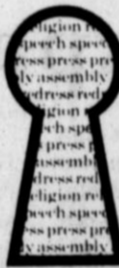

Cousin Joe and Kevin Hamby wanted to make sure that the Plainview Bulldogs know just whose territory it is they're entering when they come to town Friday night to take on the Whitefaces and they hung this hard-to-miss sign along south

Probe into refinery explosion continues

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Federal safety investigators today planned to survey the site of a six-story tower where a pipeline ruptured, burning five workmen to death in a shower of hot powder and injuring eight others.

A fluid catalytic cracking unit ruptured about 11 a.m. Wednesday, producing a large crack in an attached pipeline, officials said.

"It looks like somebody took a knife and sliced it right through sideways," said Ed Morse, a member of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers safety committee.

The powder, a fluid catalyst heated to high temperature and used to trigger a chemical reaction in the refinery process, was ankle-deep in some places and covered the ground around the cracking unit for many feet, Morse said.

"There was a loud roar, the line exploded and the catalyst escaped," spraying the fine, powdery substance over the workyard near the unit, said James A. Werner, one of those injured in the accident.

The workmen were burned by the powder as they tried to start the plant's No. 1 fluid catalytic cracking unit, which had been shut down for repairs, said Texaco spokesman Charles Rentz.

A safety specialist of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in Houston was to join an industrial hygienist at the refinery today, Rentz said.

A 40-year employee of Texaco said that catalyst was lost on the same line last week.

"I don't know how much stress it put on it," Morris Glover said.

But most workers at the plant described the incident as a freak accident.

Danny Dement, brother of one of the injured, said a break in such a line was unusual.

"I've been out there 15 years and I never heard of anything like that happening," he said.

Dead at the scene were Frederick T. Rhine, 39, Jessie Dennis Jr., 34, and Herman C. Hope, 35, all of Port Arthur; Vernon J. Cole, 56, of Groves; and Charles L. Choate, 33, of Nederland, said Rentz.

Edwards aims at profits tax

DALLAS (AP) — U.S. Energy Secretary James Edwards says he will urge President Reagan to work to abolish the windfall profits tax on crude oil "as soon as possible."

"We've got to get the oil patch back to work again," he said. "We have got to do away with the windfall profits tax as soon as we can, so that domestic producers can be competitive."

The remark drew applause

Wednesday from delegates at the Independent Petroleum Association of America here.

Edwards also said the White House probably would send a bill calling for accelerated decontrol of natural gas prices to Congress early next year.

"I think the president will come out early in the next session and push through the natural gas deregulation bill," he said.

Reagan declined to push for decontrol of natural gas prices last March after Edwards predicted that he would do so in 1981.

"It was one of our big disappointments," Edwards said. "I was a little afraid to recommend the deregulation of natural gas. Coming from the political side, I could see the dangers of it."

Reagan was right to delay his push for lifting natural gas price controls until the new Congress convenes next year, Edwards said.

Congressmen from both parties had pleaded with Reagan to delay the move, arguing that consumers had just paid high home heating bills the previous winter.

He said the bill the White House probably will send to Congress will ask for accelerated decontrol of natural gas prices, the removal of restrictions on the use of natural gas, deregulation of "old gas," and allowances for gas prices to rise or fall in the marketplace.

In a convention sidelight, an Amarillo independent gas producer blamed major interstate pipeline companies for driving up natural gas prices.

Danny Conklin, the association's chairman, said the need for total decontrol of natural gas prices is more obvious than ever.

Soviet grain imports may be greatly down

WASHINGTON (AP) — New projections show that the Soviet Union may import far less grain in 1982-83 than Western experts had believed earlier.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday that Soviet imports from all foreign sources now are expected to total 40 million metric tons in the international marketing year which began on July 1, down 13 percent from the record 46 million tons imported in 1981-82.

Initially, the department forecast that Soviet imports would match last year's record level, but last month the projection was lowered to 44 million tons because of sharp reductions in July and August shipments.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The Soviet Union is harvesting another poor grain crop, estimated by USDA at 170 million metric tons. It is the fourth year in a row that grain harvests have fallen short of Moscow's expectations.

But officials said that imports will be down because Soviet production of forage and oilseed crops are improved this year, which will enable farmers "to make more efficient use of grains in livestock feeding." The report said that Soviet livestock slaughter weights "also suggest that feeding activity, in general, is down from earlier levels." It added, however, that these reasons alone do not seem to explain the drop in grain imports.

It is also possible that the Soviets took extraordinary measures to maximize early-season use of domestically produced grains to reduce dependence on imported grain until later in the 1982-83 season," the report said.

"Such an approach could have been motivated by expectations of either lower world grain prices or higher gold and energy prices, or both as the season progresses."

The department's latest analysis followed an announcement in Ottawa that Canada has sold the Soviet Union 7.6 million metric tons of wheat and barley for delivery in 1982-83, just short of the 7.8 million that Moscow bought in the last crop year.

Under an agreement with Canada, the Soviet Union is committed to buy a minimum of 4.5 million tons annually.

Meanwhile, the USDA report said Soviet grain purchasing overall has lagged "well behind" the pace of a year ago, although purchasing has picked up recently.

Attack on drugs to be unveiled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, making good on his promise for a bold attack on drug trafficking, is ready to unveil a major new plan that will involve hiring up to 1,000 more federal agents and investigators, sources say.

The Justice Department said Reagan will announce the plan in an address today in the department's Great Hall.

Fighting heavy in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels who commandeered four towns, dynamited utilities and blocked highways in vicious fighting vowed today to intensify their bid to topple the U.S.-backed rightist government.

Guerrilla and government reports gave conflicting casualty figures in the latest fighting in the 3-year-old civil war, but observers called it the heaviest in six months.

Military reports said 74 people were killed this week, including 33 soldiers and 34 guerrillas. They said more than 100 were wounded, including 27 soldiers.

Rebel underground radio broadcasts claimed guerrillas killed or wounded 83 soldiers and captured 116 in two days of fighting. The rebels claimed they seized 182 weapons, including a 90mm cannon and 30,000 rounds of automatic rifle ammunition. The broadcasts gave no rebel casualties.

On Wednesday, two clandestine broadcasting stations, Radio Venceremos and Radio Farabundo Marti,

"The president's theme is 'whatever it takes, in manpower or money,'" said a government source, who asked not to be identified by name. He said the cost of the program might be around $200 million.

The plan calls for establishing task forces in up to a dozen major cities with each task force responsible for fighting drug trafficking in a given region, the source said.

And the administration will propose beefing up the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration and adding federal prosecutors, the source said. Congress would have to approve any increased funding for the agencies.

Illegal drug traffic in the United States has been estimated to exceed $80 billion, with much of it run by organized crime.

Reagan was criticized in Congress last year for cutting back the war on illicit drugs as part of the administration's budget reductions.

There were bipartisan calls then for increased spending and the administration responded by establishing a task force headed by Vice President George Bush to combat the drug trade in South Florida.

With the help of military technology, the administration has claimed success in reducing drug smuggling entering Florida by sea and private aircraft.

The government used planes equipped with sophisticated radar devices to detect illegal entries along the South Florida coast.

Officials said that the task force caused a drop in the wholesale prices of marijuana and cocaine in Colombia, the main source of the drugs, while street prices for the drugs rose sharply in the Miami area.

But the campaign in South

Constable surrenders to face charges

HOUSTON (AP) — A deputy constable has voluntarily surrendered to face federal civil rights charges in the beating death of a 17-year-old burglary suspect.

Billy Hampton McCreight, 44, appeared Wednesday before U.S. District Judge Calvin Botley, who set arraignment for Monday and released him on $10,000 bond.

McCreight is charged with violating the civil rights of Steven Barnette, who was beaten to death after his arrest on March 20.

McCreight was to go on trial this week on a state charge of civil rights violation, but a state judge postponed the trial because of the federal charge.

Authorities contend Barnette died from beating injuries while in the custody of McCreight and two former Harris County sheriff's deputies, William F. Whigham, 40, and William T. Gordon, 39.

Mesquite man indicted on kidnapping charge

GREENVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Mesquite man has been indicted on kidnapping and robbery charges in connection with the abduction of the 8-week-old son of a Greenville bank president.

Travis Alvie McCann, 41, was indicted by a Hunt County grand jury Wednesday on one count each of aggravated kidnapping and aggravated robbery.

McCann was arrested Sept. 28, 11 days after young Clay Lewis was recovered unharmed in exchange for a $50,000 ransom.

Officers recovered $19,711 in cash from McCann's residence when he was taken into custody, said Hunt County Sheriff's Capt. Rickie Click.

The child's mother, Carole Lewis, said the kidnapper told her he had been turned down for a loan at her husband's bank. Gordon R. Lewis is president of InterFirst Bank of Greenville.

The boy was recovered in Mesquite two hours after he was taken from his house by gunman.

The indictment said McCann stole a car to aid in the kidnapping.

Coach charged with murder of child

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A 27-year-old high school football coach has been charged with murder in the beating death of the 2-year-old daughter of his girlfriend, a county official says.

Arturo Mata, a coach at Calallen High School since last year, was freed on $20,000 bond after Nueces County District Judge David Diaz signed the murder complaint.

The investigation into the death of young Cynthia Maria Moody is continuing and the case probably will go to a grand jury within a week, said Linda Bazaco, Nueces County District Court coordinator.

The child, who lived in San Benito with her mother, died Sunday as an ambulance carried her to Driscoll Foundation Children's Hospital from Riverside Hospital in Calallen.

Authorities said she had suffered a severe beating.

"Cause of death was traumatic injuries to the abdomen," said Nueces County medical examiner Dr. Joseph Rupp.

Sex offender on diet, exercise

MAURICE RIVER TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Convicted sex offender Joseph "Jo Jo" Giorgianni, who claimed life behind bars would be fatal because he weighed more than 500 pounds, now walks 600 feet a day and gets a special diet at a state prison.

Giorgianni is "just another prisoner" at Leesburg State Prison, said James Stabile, a Department of Corrections spokesman.

Before he went to prison, Giorgianni, 33, said he could walk only a few steps without becoming exhausted because of his weight and asthma.

"For someone who was reported to be in such bad shape, he appears to be doing pretty well with a program of diet and exercise," Stabile said Wednesday.

Prison doctors have placed Giorgianni on a 2,500-calorie-a-day diet and ordered him to walk around a 300-foot square recreation yard twice a day, Stabile said.

"A typical day's menu would be two eggs, two slices of bread and milk for breakfast, lunch of a hamburger and milk, and maybe meatloaf, a vegetable and milk for dinner," he said.

Giorgianni seems to be losing weight, Stabile said. "But we haven't re-weighed him since he got here, so he's still officially 470 to 480 pounds."

Is war on poverty winnable?

"The poor," the Bible says, "we will always have with us."

What is "poor" today might have been rich in Bible times, but poorness has been brought into sharper focus by a worldwide recession.

Some of us are likely to pontificate about the "work ethic" and point derisively to "help wanted" signs and ads ... forgetting that for three generations of Americans "living off the government" has become an accepted "way of life," indeed the only way of life they know.

Under President Johnson's Great Society programs he skyrocketed from 188 billion dollars in 1960 to 430 billion dollars.

Yet, we have more poor, partly because any family with earnings of less than $4,000 a year was considered "poor" in 1960 and today the government's accepted "poverty line" is $9,287.

Federal outlays for food stamps, Medicaid, welfare and housing subsidies have escalated from $3.3 billion in 1965 to $53.1 billion this year.

Princeton University economist Alan Binder says, "The war (on poverty) has dragged on longer than most people had expected and has cost far more than had been imagined. Now there is a feeling that we have sacrificed too much economic efficiency at the altar of fighting poverty."

Is war on poverty unwinnable?

No nation has ever won it. Rome and Spain and Greece and China bankrupted themselves trying.

Recently the Wall Street Journal retraced the poverty cycle backward, then forward through three generations of a North Carolina family.

Juanita was pregnant at 16. At 22 had five children. At 28 she began to collect welfare.

Two gave birth before they were 18. The third, now 16, is pregnant. All are unmarried. All are on welfare.

And dropping out of school when they had children has robbed each of her best chance of ever escaping unemployment.

And the most recent census shows the number of unwed teen-age mothers has increased 44 percent in the past 10 years.

Ford Foundation researcher Susan Berresford says, "The likelihood of a welfare family begetting a welfare family is very strong."

Now, during industrial layoffs, we have another group of "new poor." These are traditional wage earners who cannot pay their bills.

For them to accept some of the low-pay jobs advertised in newspapers may cost them their tax-free unemployment pay. But in extending their coverage for additional weeks we create a situation wherein at least some "new poor" may get hooked on the habit.

Can private charities take up the slack — provide rescue for the poor without perpetuating dependency? Giving to United Way increased 10.3 percent last year. Business giving to charities increased 11 percent. Is that the way out?

In 'Solomon-like' decision

Vietnam monument expanded

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans who saw a "black gash of shame" in the monument that has been built to honor Americans who fought in Vietnam will get what they want — a flag and a traditional statue of three GIs in combat.

But the government's Fine Arts Commission decided to put the statue and flagpole off to the side of the block-long, V-shaped Vietnam memorial, and not in the center, where the critics said they belonged.

The commission made that decision Wednesday after hearing from both sides.

First came the veterans who disliked the original monument of black granite walls bearing the names of 57,709 dead and missing Americans. Then the commission took testimony from the architectural community, which called the design perfect and said it would stimulate reflection.

Maya Ying Lin, the 22-year-old Yale architecture graduate whose abstract plan won the design competition for the memorial — the biggest design contest in architectural history — expressed satisfaction with the compromise.

She said she would view the results as "two separate monuments."

She had pleaded with the commission "to protect the artistic integrity of the original design." Putting the flagpole and statue in the center would create "intrusions," she said.

And sculptor Frederick Hart, who designed the eight-foot statue, called the decision "Solomon-like" and satisfactory.

Construction of the memorial is almost complete. It is situated on the mall, between the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument.

Miss Lin's design, selected from 1,421 entries in the competition, provided for a monument of two polished black granite walls, each 200 feet long, descending 10 feet into the ground and meeting in a wide V.

Its selection stirred an uproar from a band of veterans and congressmen, who demanded the statue and flag as patriotic symbols of what they experienced and why they fought.

Five solicitors arrested

Five out of state persons were arrested Wednesday for violation of a city ordinance prohibiting door-to-door sales without a permit.

The five were all selling magazines through a company called United Publishers Service out of Florida. Police were told that the salespersons had answered a newspaper ad about the job.

After a night in jail, the five pleaded guilty and paid the fines. City Judge Joe Ed Cupell said the group intended to stay in town and would be contacting the city for a permit.

The supervisor of the group said he had sold in Hereford before, but was unaware of the ordinance because at that time his boss had taken care of securing a permit.

Wednesday morning police arrested Arnulfo Barrientes, 23, 827 Brevard, on a warrant for violation of felony probation.

Houston hosts 3 leaders, city security beefed up

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston played host today to three world leaders, a distinction usually reserved in this country for New York and Washington.

But even though the three heads of state brought aides and security agents with them, they had no plans for a high-powered summit meeting.

Indonesia President Suharto arrived Wednesday for a whirlwind tour. Norway's

King Olav V already was here, visiting privately. And India's President Zail Singh continues as a patient in the Texas Heart Institute.

The trio required "a major security effort" in coordination with the Houston police, said Bill Livingood, chief of the Houston office of the U.S. Secret Service. The group provides security for the visiting dignitaries.

The visit of three foreign leaders is not considered unusual for Washington, the United States' capital, or for New York, headquarters of the United Nations, he said.

But a trio of leaders in Houston, the agent said, "is pretty unusual."

"We've had two in here at once before, but this is the first time for three at once," Livingood said.

The visits usually require agents to be brought in from other Secret Service offices.

King Olav V already was here, visiting privately. And India's President Zail Singh continues as a patient in the Texas Heart Institute.

Both Suharto and Olav are scheduled to leave today, with Suharto flying to Hawaii after only 22 hours in Houston. Olav is set to fly to New Orleans, and will later visit Miami and Washington before returning to Norway.

Singh came to Houston on Oct. 1, and underwent heart surgery at the Texas Heart Institute five days later.

His speech contained no surprise announcements or new programs.

In fact, much of it read like the stump speech he delivers for Republican candidates. Some phrases, such as his description of "the pounding economic hangover America is suffering," were borrowed nearly word-for-word from earlier speeches.

Without acknowledging that he has repeatedly blamed Democrats for the economy's condition, Reagan said, "In recent weeks, a lot of people have been playing what I call the 'blame game.'"

Christopher Columbus is program's topic

The Lone Star Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Ruth Womble with Juanita Boynton as co-hostess.

Mrs. Ruby Stevenson came to the meeting dressed as she thought Christopher Columbus would have, in knee pants, black vest and three-cornered pilgrim hat. She gave a program on his life, telling how he grew up in poverty and was fascinated with geography. He went to work as a seaman when he was so he could learn about the sea, charts and maps.

Her report revealed that he always dreamed of finding a new world and when Queen Isabella financed his trip his dream came true. He discovered the Bahamas and after about seven months returned to Europe to receive great fame, only to be stripped of the honor by the king, after Isabella died. Columbus died May 6, 1506.

Ann Landers

Surgery successful

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several times I have seen letters in your column about men who are impotent, but I never recall having read anything suggesting the surgical procedure known as the penile implant or penile prosthesis.

I am a urology nurse in a large hospital and we have done several such operations here - all successful. There are two types of penile implants: the rod prosthesis and the inflatable type. Eight out of 10 men prefer the inflatable.

The men we have here are between 29 and 69. Most were impotent because of diabetes, endocrinological or neurological problems, or injuries. A few were impotent because of severe psychological problems that could not be worked out with a therapist.

Please tell your readers not to be embarrassed about discussing this procedure with their physician. Urologists are the specialists in this field. He (or she) will explain the differences in the two types. In our hospital the patients must meet certain standards before they will be accepted as candidates: (1) strong sexual desire; (2) the presence of some penile sensation; (3) a willing and supportive sexual partner; (4) freedom from gerontourinary problems. Some psychological testing is also required.

I hope you will share this information with your readers. It could change their lives. - Urology Nurse In The Southwest

DEAR NURSE: Thank you for the opportunity to tell my readers about penile implants again. I have printed several columns on this subject, as well as letters from men expressing gratitude for a "new life."

This surgical procedure is a meticulous technique well tolerated by the patient since there is little loss of blood, no cutting into major organs and minimal tissue disturbance.

The paperback edition of the Ann Landers Encyclopedia has a splendid chapter on this subject by F. Brantley Scott of Houston. He implanted the first such device in 1973. There is also a list of 20 major hospitals where penile implanting is being done.

Because of the reasons listed, not every male is a suitable candidate, but it is certainly worth looking into.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A married female acquaintance of both me and my husband has been giving my husband the come-on for five years. He does not encourage her to my knowledge. Her aggressive behavior has been called to my attention by others, so it isn't just my imagination.

This woman works in a place of business where my husband is required to check in regularly, so he cannot avoid her entirely. Frankly, I am sick to death of it.

Who should tell her to knock it off, my husband or me? (We are equally close to her). In my opinion it would be more effective coming from him. - Keeping My Cool In Cleveland

DEAR COOL: A woman who goes to a third party and says, "I want you to stop flirting with my husband," comes off looking frightened and foolish. Asking your husband to tell her to lay off is an admission that you fell threatened. If nothing is broke, dear, don't try to fix it.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I am one of a dozen or so people in this country who does not own a camera.

I considered buying one once in 1971, the year our daughter graduated from high school. Between the 15 minutes I picked one out and brought my husband back to look at it, it had become obsolete. A camera has become obsolete every 15 minutes since then.

In all of those years, I have never heard one amateur photographer say to another, "Here, give me your camera and I'll take your picture. I know how it works. I've got one just like it." There is a reason for this.

NO OTHER PERSON IN THE WORLD HAS A CAMERA LIKE YOURS.

I have seen a professional photographer examine another person's camera, receive explicit instructions from the owner, and then take the picture with his finger over the lens cap. Embarrassed, he will say, "Oh, I see, you've got the one that came out three weeks after mine did and the viewfinder was repositioned."

It isn't too hard to find out whether the official family photographer is the husband or the wife.

We have 18 shoe boxes of slides, they could belong to a widow. There is not a single picture of my husband in them. There are only the kids and me waving to him from the top of the Grand Canyon, a buggy in New Orleans, and a whirling teacup in Disneyland.

Back in 1978, I volunteered to take his picture. He agreed and proceeded to tell me how to use his camera. There was the lens to change, the light meter to set, the time and distance to judge, and of course the final setting of the focus.

By the time I had accomplished all this to his satisfaction, we had not only lost our light, but our 29-year-old marriage was in deep trouble.

Our first and last family Christmas card picture was attempted three years ago. I got clean shirts on the boys and a comb through their hair, gave my daughter a blank check to stay at home, and got the dog hairs off the white sofa. It must have taken my husband nearly an hour and a half to set up his camera so that he could set it and join us in a group picture.

The picture shows four people with teeth clenched into fake grins with eight eyes looking at a blur on the lefthand side of the picture.

My mother said, "If that's Bill, he looked taller at the wedding."

Cards even Series

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Most pitchers shudder at the sight of the slugging Milwaukee Brewers.

Not Bruce Sutter. That's because most batters shudder at the sight of him.

Sutter marched out of the St. Louis bullpen Wednesday night and slammed the door on the Brewers as the Cardinals battled from behind for a vital 5-4 victory that tied the 1982 World Series at one win apiece.

The teams had a day off today as the Series moved to Milwaukee where Pete Vuckovich faces the Cardinals' Joaquin Andujar in Game Three Friday night. The relief ace had watched from the bullpen as the Brewers rattled 17 hits around Busch Stadium to capture the opening game of the Series, 10-0.

"I was impressed," the reliever said. "But I wasn't scared of them."

Very few teams frighten this master of the split-fingered fastball, whose scraggly beard makes him look like a mountain man when he comes lumbering out of the bullpen.

Manager Whitey Herzog never had a chance to go to his trump card in the opening game blowout. So he seized the opportunity when it presented itself in Game Two.

"I wanted to stay close and not get blown out," said Herzog. When middle-inning relievers Jim Kaat and Doug Bair accomplished that, Herzog called for his main man with two out in the seventh inning.

"I would hate to have a World Series and not have Sutter pitch," he said.

Sutter confounded Milwaukee's sluggers, allowing only two infield hits. And he got the boost he needed from batterymate Darrell Porter, the hitting star with a two-run double and a clutch single in the winning rally.

In the ninth, when pesky Paul Molitor opened with a bunt single, Porter gunned him down trying to steal second base. Then Sutter, whose 36 saves led the major leagues this season, mowed down the final two batters to complete the victory.

This game began like another Brewer breeze. Milwaukee built a 3-0 lead in the first three innings against rookie John Stuper.

In the second, a walk, wild pitch and Charlie Moore's RBI-double made it 1-0. An inning later, Milwaukee added two more. Molitor singled, stole second, reached third on a wild pitch and scored on a groundout. Then ex-Cardinal Ted Simmons slammed his second home run of the Series, this one a shot into the second deck in right field.

The Cardinals could do little with Brewer starter Don Sutton and Herzog went back to basics — the running game — to arouse his team.

With Willie McGee on first and one out in the third, the rookie swiped second. Running when you're three runs behind?

"Why not?" asked Herzog. "I'll run when I'm five runs ahead or five runs behind. If the other manager will promise not to get six runs, then I won't run."

The steal was followed by a run-scoring double by Tom Herr and an RBI single by Ken Oberkfell.

Buffs visit Florida

By LES GILES
Sports Editor

West Texas State, fresh from a week layoff, faces perhaps its sternest test of the season Saturday at Gainesville, Fla. when it takes on the University of Florida.

Buff QB Victor McGee has an opportunity to break no less than eight season or career records in his club's remaining six games.

Florida, which began the season with victories over nationally-ranked Miami (17-14) and USC (17-9), should be on the warpath for Saturday's Homecoming clash, expected to attract a crowd of around 70,000.

The Gators, after three wins in a row, suddenly have lost their last two games — to LSU (23-13) and Vanderbilt (31-29).

They could take their frustration out on the Buffs, who bring a 1-4 mark into the game.

McGee currently ranks third in WT history in career passing yardage and eighth in total offense. Should he continue to average 287 yards a game passing and 280 yards a game total offense, he would pass Hank Washington in those categories in four games.

He needs 734 yards to break Washington's record for most yards passing in a season and 1,039 to break the career mark. The Longview senior needs 57 completions over the next six games to break Washington's single season mark, and he needs 110 to break the career standard.

While McGee is eyeing single season and career yardage marks, a couple of other Buffs have their sights on the record book, too.

Wide receiver Curtis Bennett is fourth on the all-time pass reception list with 61. He needs six to move into third, but would need 42 in the next six games to surpass the mark set by Dave Szymakowski.

Tight end Mark Manley currently is averaging 5.6 catches a game. If he continues at the pace he'll surpass Szymakowski's single season mark of 58, set in 1966.

Hereford's Paul Bell goes into Saturday's game with 122 yards rushing, on 26 attempts. He is the club's third-leading pass receiver with 16 for 123 yards.

Hereford and Plainview heading towards Friday's showdown, continue to dominate the District 3-5A stats.

The Hereford leads in total offense (373.5) and total defense (155.7). Plainview ranks second in offense (328.4) and total defense (155.7). Plainview ranks second in offense (328.4) and fifth in defense (208).

Plainview ranks first in scoring, averaging 33.6 points a game, while Hereford is second (30.5).

Herd tailback Alfred Ball dropped to second in rushing after Caprock's Colin Dunavin gained 215 yards last week against Lubbock.

Ball continues to lead the district in scoring with 62 points. Herd quarterback Charles McDowell is second in the district in passing (480 yards) and first in total offense (762 yards).

Plainview has three ball carriers among the top 10 — Randy Williams, Tim Coleman and Randy Johnson. As a group, the three have gained 898 yards, and have averaged 7.4 yards per attempt.

Hereford's three leading rushers (Ball, Raymond Martinez and McDowell) have gained 1,342 yards and have averaged 7.1 yards per try.

Lubbock's Frank Campos is the top pass receiver with 21 catches. Caprock's Scott Brewer continues to lead the league in tackles with 92.

Seagraves, a real power over the past decade (under the guidance of Jim Eddins, who has won 106 games), was dealt an unkind blow last week when star running back Mike Nelson (the grandson of Judge and Mrs. Glen Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Crume of Hereford) suffered a broken arm.

Nelson, who wasn't even listed on the pre-season roster in the Top 0 Texas Football Magazine, had gained 940 yards in six games.

Seagraves was supposed to be down this season, but was given a shot at making the playoffs with the top two teams in each district going.

Shallowater was the heavy favorite to win the 6-2A title, while Seagraves and New Deal were expected to battle it out for the runner-up spot.

This week Seagraves (6-0 on the year) takes on New Deal. Then, next week the Eagles face Shallowater. The only consolation is both are home games.

Seahawks fire Patera

SEATTLE (AP) — The Jack Patera-John Thompson Era with the Seattle Seahawks is over and an old, familiar face has surfaced as the club's new head coach here — but only on a temporary basis.

It will be Mike McCormack, a self-admitted failure as a National Football League head coach after a brilliant career as a player, as Patera's interim successor.

But the man the Seahawks owners may really want could be Don James, coach of University of Washington's top-ranked Huskies.

If the highly successful James, 50, is the man the Seahawks' owners have their sights set on, they weren't saying at a news conference Wednesday night.

The announcement of the firing of Patera, 49, and the 53-year-old Thompson, only head coach and general manager the seven-year-old Seahawks have ever known, came Wednesday night.

Hereford vs. Plainview

Shootout No. 2!

By LES GILES
Sports Editor

Angry Red ... 'nuf said.

Hostile Herd..... the final word!

While those slogans have become somewhat synonymous with Plainview and Hereford football, Friday night's game, set for 7:30 in Whiteface Stadium might also be referred to as "Shootout No. 2".

"Hey, this is almost like the Texas-Arkansas shootouts, back in the late 60s," Hereford boss Don Cumpton said earlier this week.

While the game doesn't take on the national significance those memorable Texas-Arkansas battles did, it nonetheless lends a somewhat mystical air to the two schools involved.

Most remember last year's 9-6 battle in Plainview, won by Hereford.

That victory proved to be the stepping stone as Hereford went through the regular season unbeaten, and eventually made its way to the Class 5A semifinals.

Plainview, no doubt, would like to return the favor this time around.

The Bulldogs come into the game unbeaten, and a victory would set up a showdown with Monterey (Oct. 28) for the 3-5A title.

For Hereford, (5-1 overall and 3-1 in district play) the game is somewhat a battle for survival.

A defeat would all but end the Herd's hope of reaching the playoffs for a second straight year. If Hereford were to lose this one, then Monterey would have to lose three times to finish behind the Whitefaces.

However, a Hereford win tomorrow night could set the stage for a possible three-way tie for the district title, although all three teams still have tough games remaining.

If the district were to end in a 3-way tie, a coin flip would be used to determine the playoff representatives.

But the Whitefaces aren't really thinking about ties and coin flips at this stage. The biggest obstacle in front of them is Plainview.

The game, based on season-long statistics, could be a high scoring affair.

Both teams are averaging over 30 points a game, and the two rank 1-2 in total offense.

But, last year, the situation was much the same and the game ended 9-6.

"It's really hard to figure what kind of game it'll turn out to be," Cumpton added.

"I really wouldn't be surprised at anything.

"Both teams are capable of moving the ball, but by the same token both teams' defenses are capable of coming up with the big plays, too.

"Last year, both teams moved the ball pretty well, but there was little scoring.

"Heck, this year it might be 28-27, or it might be 3-0... it's really hard to say.

"In know one thing, field position and breaks probably will decide the outcome.

"Plainview has been a quick-striking team all season. They've specialized in breaking the big play. I think if our defense can keep them from doing that they might get frustrated, and start trying things they don't normally try.

"From a defensive standpoint we'd like to force them into long yardage situations on second and third down — much the same thing Monterey did to us.

"Plainview's going to run the ball, at least based on their first five games. They've only thrown about 42 times in 245 plays.

"As far as running backs, they have six who can hurt you. They can substitute two deep at each position, and they don't miss a beat.

"I feel they have a size advantage in the line, but hopefully our quickness can offset that.

"I will be awfully surprised if we don't get after them pretty good. Our kids didn't like losing to Monterey, and they sure don't want to lose this one.

"It's the kind of game they can look back on years from now, after they're out of school. Kids don't get the chance to play in this kind of game too often, where there is so much attention, and so much riding on the outcome."

Over the years Plainview has dominated the series against Hereford, winning 14 of 21 previous meetings. And, the Bulldogs have won five of the last six meetings.

Bulldog head coach Greg Sherwood has seen his club lose only two district games since he came there in 1978. And one of those losses came at the hands of Hereford a year ago. The other was to Monterey in 1979.

During Sherwood's tenure at Plainview the Bulldogs have won both meetings in Hereford (49-15 in '78 and 21-0 in 1980).

"We're as healthy for this game as we've been all season," Cumpton said.

"It simply ought to be a heck of a game. Both teams are coming off impressive outings a week ago, and both know the importance of this one."

With as much interest as has been shown in this game, extra seats have been set up behind the North end zone. The temporary bleachers will accommodate approximately 600 people. Space along the track will be made available on a standing-room-only basis.

Tickets for the extra bleachers and standing room will go on sale at the North end of the stadium at 6 p.m. Friday.

Continuous strike talks beginning

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP) — The long grind of through-the-night bargaining orchestrated by private mediator Sam Kagel has begun with the possibility that negotiators for the National Football League owners and the striking players could be kept at the table continuously into the weekend.

Sources involved in the negotiations aimed at ending the 24-day strike said Wednesday that Kagel, a San Francisco lawyer approved by both sides as their intermediary, had recommended a series of round-the-clock sessions — as much as 96 hours in all. That would keep the bargaining going into Saturday.

"We have been told to be prepared to go that long," one of the sources said. Another said people on each side of the table had winced when the suggestion was made, but added: "Who's going to be the first to walk away from him?" It was a reference to the idea that whichever side left first could be accused by the other of sabotaging the talks.

Schoolboy poll

Top teams win

By The Associated Press
 Bryan in Class 5A, Fort Bend Willowridge in 4A, Post in 3A, Eastland in 2A and Bremond in A held onto their top billings in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football poll after a light week for upsets.

Only four teams rated in last week's poll suffered defeat and all four dropped from the rankings this week. Bryan and second-place Port Arthur Jefferson continued their battle for the No. 1 5A spot and the Vikings held on for another week by a 184-181 point total and a 10-5 margin in first-place votes.

Plano, ranked fifth last week, played to a scoreless tie with Lewisville and dropped from the top 10 along with No. 9 Dallas South Oak Cliff, a 10-9 loser to Dallas Samuell. They were replaced by two other North Texas teams, No. 9

Fort Worth Eastern Hills and No. 10 Euleus Trinity.

All 4A ranked teams won last week's games, but Brownwood, the defending state champion and preseason favorite, replaced Gainesville as the No. 2 ranked team after a 51-0 victory over Joshua. Gainesville defeated Azle 27-0 and dropped to third. Brownwood's only loss is to 5A San Angelo.

Luling, formerly ranked No. 1 in Class 3A, suffered its second loss of the season and dropped from the top 10 and was replaced by Newton, 6-0.

Holliday, 5-1, replaced Frisco as the No. 10 team in Class 2A and in A, Throckmorton dropped from the list after its second loss of the season. Wink, 5-0-0, moved in as the No. 10 team. Other teams receiving votes included: Class 5A, Hurst Bell 17, Plano 16, Plainview 14, Stafford Dulles 12, LaPorte 10; 4A, Huntsville 18, Wichita Falls Hirschi, 16, Tomball 13; 3A, Alvarado, 18, Karnes City 11; 2A, Shallowater 13 and A, Colmesneil and Caddo Mills, 10 each.

All star game set

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that the striking NFL players have apparently been given the go-ahead to play their all-star games, quarterback Gary Danielson of the Detroit Lions says the offense to be used by the NFC East all-stars in Sunday's initial NFL Players Association game will be sort of a mixture.

When asked for details on the offense Wednesday, Danielson said it would be a little of this and a little that. "Bob Avellini and I were watching the baseball game last night and we sort of wrote down the basic patterns," he said, referring to his co-quarterback on the all-star team, Avellini of the Chicago Bears. "We made up our own offense. We took a little from everybody we played for. We made up the routes and gave them names. "Our running plays are those used by the Washington Redskins," he said. "Or at least, they are the running plays used by the Redskins when the coaches were playing." For a while, it looked as if the players' all-star games would never get off the ground. But a U.S. Court of Appeals has scheduled oral arguments for Wednesday on whether NFL teams must bring suit in Washington to prevent striking players from participating in the all-star games.

"We see this as a green light for the games," said Frank Woschitz, public relations director for the NFLPA.

"They're not hearing oral arguments until Wednesday and we have a game on Sunday and Monday."

The league had asked the appellate court to nullify a federal judge's order that banned the teams from filing suit in state and local courts to prevent players from participating in the games.

Simon & Simon boosts CBS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Simon & Simon," with a bit of help from "Magnum, P.I.," finished first in the ratings and gave CBS a win over the other two networks in the prime-time ratings race, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

The combination of the two private detective shows, as well as five other programs in the Top 10, put the network on top for the week ending Oct. 10.

A championship baseball game on ABC, however, also was a hit with viewers, as well as the source of a rhubarb among the networks over the interpretation of the Nielsen ratings.

Both ABC and NBC said "Simon & Simon" was the No. 1 show. CBS, however, said ABC's American League Championship Game No. 5 won.

The game, which was delayed by rain, was included in the prime-time ratings by CBS, but not ABC and NBC, which do not count shows that begin before 6 p.m. EDT.

CBS gave American League Championship Game No. 5 a rating of 25.3, which meant it was seen in 21 million homes. The ratings here are those listed by ABC and NBC.

The weekly Nielsen ratings are jointly commissioned by each of the three networks. Nielsen supplies identical raw data to the networks every week, but each is free to interpret the data as it wants. Ratings results as released by the networks rarely differ, however.

Other baseball games figured prominently in the ratings for the week. Three of the National League and American League playoff games were in the Top 10 and two games and a pre-game show were in the next 10. But Game No. 1 of the National League playoffs, which was rained out, finished in the lowest-ranked five.

CBS won the week with a rating of 18.6. ABC was second with 18.1 and NBC had 15.2. The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute, 18.6 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to CBS.

CBS dominated the Top 10 with its regular series and with an episode of a two-part miniseries, "Bare Essence." The only other programs in the Top 10 were the baseball games.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated shows:

- 1. "Simon & Simon," a rating of 24.8 or 20.6 million households, CBS; "Dallas," 23.1 or 19.2 million, CBS; "Magnum, P.I.," 22.8 or 18.9 million, CBS; "Bare Essence," Part II of CBS miniseries, 22.4 or 18.6 million, CBS; National League Championship Game No. 4, St. Louis vs. Atlanta, 21.0 or 17.5 million, ABC; "One Day at a Time," 20.9 or 17.4 million, CBS; American League Championship Game No. 1, Milwaukee vs. California, 20.6 or 17.1 million, ABC; "The Jeffersons," 20.5 or 17.0 million, CBS; "Falcon Crest," 20.3 or 16.9 million, CBS; National League Championship Game No. 1, Milwaukee vs. California, 20.0 or 16.6 million, ABC.

TV Nostalgia

By Marie Iandiorio

"The Odd Couple" was the perfect example of comedy through contrast. Felix Unger (Tony Randall) was a fastidious photographer who specialized in compulsive cleaning; Oscar Madison (Jack Klugman) was a cigar-smoking, sloppy sportswriter for a fictitious New York newspaper. Both were divorced and only a mutual need for companionship and a place to stay brought them together to live in the same apartment.

Among their friends were Murray the cop (Al Molinaro) and Myrna (Penny Marshall), Oscar's dippy secretary. "The Odd Couple" was noted for its fine ensemble acting, and all the actors mentioned here are now enjoying TV success with network series of their own.

Question: Can you name the series starring Randall, Klugman, Molinaro and Miss Marshall?

- (Miss Marshall),
- (Klugman), "Happy Days" and "Janice Loves Me So"
- (Molinaro), "Quincy"
- (Randall), "Quincy"
- (Tony Randall), "Quincy"

Dougherty receives nursing scholarship

Holly Dougherty, of Hereford, a junior nursing major at West Texas State University, has received a $200 scholarship contributed by Lois Rice, owner of Furniture Galleries of Canyon. Ms. Rice started the scholarship because of a special interest in the WTSU School of Nursing and nursing in general, she said. Scholarship recipients are selected on the basis of outstanding nursing ability and scholarship by faculty members and in the WTSU School of Nursing.

Holly Dougherty, right, from Hereford, receives a $200 scholarship from Lois Rice, Canyon businesswoman. Ms. Dougherty is a junior nursing major at West Texas State University.

Women are now helping women have children

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Five years ago, Laura Brown adopted a girl and became a single parent. But when she wanted another, adoption wasn't possible. So she had her own through artificial insemination.

And now, shortly after giving birth to a healthy girl, Ms. Brown is helping other women conceive by providing that part of a man no mother can do without: his sperm.

Laura Brown is the administrative director of what may well be the nation's first feminist sperm bank. It is run by the Feminist Women's Health Center, a decade-old organization with sliding-fee clinics in three San Francisco Bay area cities.

The idea of a feminist sperm bank might startle those who perceive feminists and artificial insemination as threats to the traditional family. Health center officials, however, say they favor all families, whether headed by one parent or two, and whether the mother is heterosexual or a lesbian.

"To take the position that there must be a male figure (in a family) is a slap in the face to every single woman raising a child in this country," said Pat Parker, another health center director.

The sperm bank also serves couples in which the male is infertile.

"We've had over 300 calls in the last two days, and they're breaking down about half-and-half between prospective donors and women and couples," said Ms. Parker. "We realized there was a need in this area, but we didn't know there was this much of a need."

When a woman comes to the feminist sperm bank, she chooses the father of her child from a catalogue that lists hundreds of details but omits his photo and his name. The donor's height, weight, education level, occupation, blood types, eye color, hair color and dozens of other characteristics are listed. The donor's IQ is not.

"We don't believe that intelligence is hereditary," said Ms. Parker, who maintains IQ is "environmentally determined." Most scientists say both heredity and environment play a role in intelligence.

Donors, who are asked to complete a 10-page medical history, are excluded for several medical reasons. And the clinic will not accept a man who they perceive is egotistical, although Ms. Parker admits egotism is not hereditary.

"I just had a call from the first official raising of the 50-star flag of the United States was at 12:01 a.m. on July 4, 1960, at Fort McHenry National Monument in Baltimore. The 50th star had been added for Hawaii. The previous year, the 49th star was added for Alaska. Before that, a star had not been added since 1912, when New Mexico and Arizona were admitted to the Union.

Polls show that newspaper advertising is considered more believable than that of any other medium.

some guy down at Stanford (University) who says, basically, 'I'm 6-foot-2, blond hair, blue eyes — pure Aryan, and I would make a good donor,'" she said. "Well, in our minds, no, he wouldn't make a good donor at all."

"We're not out here to perpetuate the Aryan race and we're not out here to help some guy ego-trip, either," she said. "Our whole point is to make sperm and choices available to women who want to have children."

Not all women like the idea of picking a father for their child from a catalogue. For example, Ms. Brown "wasn't interested in a lot of screening."

"You don't fall in love with somebody based on their genetic history and their ears and nose," she said. "You want to have their funny ears on your babies...all I really cared about was getting somebody who was reasonably healthy."

The prospective mother pays from $50 to $150 for an examination and other personal services, and $50 for each dose of donated sperm.

Donors sign away custody rights and are given a nominal fee. Although the center keeps records, the donor will never learn how many children he has fathered or who they are. The records are intended for use in case of a medical problem with the child and to guard against unintentional intermarriage in the next generation.

That contrasts with the policy of many other sperm banks, which destroy records after one year. Sperm Bank Inc., a Santa Ana, Calif., company owned by Linda Sullivan, is an example.

NBC's Thursday night lineup too good

NEW YORK (AP) — Is NBC's Thursday night lineup too good for TV? Are viewers so used to mediocrity that they don't recognize something special?

"Cheers," NBC's new comedy, is something special. It offers wit and warmth, yet two weeks ago was ranked 60th among 64 shows. If that wasn't bad enough, the No. 1 program was "Three's Company," a mindless blend of sexual prance and pratfalls.

Last Thursday, NBC offered three hours of the most involving TV series of any night in recent memory. It began with the talented kids in "Fame" learning about the real world, not television make-believe, from a retarded singer.

Then came "Cheers," the funniest program of the new season, and "Taxi," rescued by NBC from ABC's scrapheap. ABC canceled "Taxi" because of slipping ratings even though it had won the Emmy for best comedy.

Finally, there was "Hill Street Blues," the crown jewel in NBC's Thursday night lineup. In the past two years, "Hill Street" has won 14 Emmy awards — by far the most in television.

But only "Hill Street," among NBC's Thursday programs, did well in the ratings last week. "Cheers" and

"Taxi" both lost to CBS' "Simon & Simon," which was boosted by a crossover appearance by Tom Selleck of "Magnum, P.I."

Braniff gets reorganization extension

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Struggling Braniff International Corp. has won a 30-day extension to submit a reorganization plan, and one Braniff officer says the grounded airline is inching close to a joint operating agreement with another carrier.

During testimony Wednesday, M. Philip Guthrie, Braniff executive vice president and chief financial officer, said the airline is continuing to seek a joint operating agreement with two carriers. He declined to disclose the names.

Guthrie termed as "extraordinarily active" all-day talks that lasted through the weekend between Braniff and one of the carriers.

A public statement on whether the operating agreement would materialize "could be as early as the next 10 days, and hopefully the next 30 days at the outside," Guthrie said.

Braniff began discussions with the carrier in late August or early September, and the talks intensified through last week, he said.

Guthrie also said the unnamed airline has made revenue and income projections from the joint operating agreement, but has not shared the information with Braniff.

"We also have been approached by another airline as to the assumption of some of their charter operations," he said.

Braniff ceased operations May 12 and filed for protection from its creditors in Flowers' court the next day. The airline owes about 9,000 creditors approximately $1 billion.

Wednesday's was the second extension granted the beleaguered airline by Flowers. The airline last month received a 35-day grace period, after asking for a 60-day extension.

Creditors' representatives who Wednesday had opposed a request by Braniff attorneys for a 90-day extension of the airline's reorganization agreed to an amendment that would provide the 30-day grace period. Among creditors opposing the longer extension were the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and insurance company lenders.

Flowers also received a proposal during the 2½-hour hearing Wednesday to double the salaries of Braniff executives considered crucial to the airline's reorganization.

The "personnel incentive plan" would double the salaries of 61 employees beginning Oct. 1 and extending through June 30, 1983, and cost the airline more than $1.5 million.

Braniff chairman Howard Putnam said he and Guthrie would be excluded from the plan at the request of creditors.

Putnam said Braniff officials saw the need for the incentives in June but "held off because we didn't feel it was timely to do it then."

The incentive plan will be considered by Flowers in a November 1 hearing, along with the proposed termination of Braniff's pension plans.

The total number of newspaper groups declined last year. There were 155 compared to 160 in 1980.
