HOUSTON (AP) — President Reagan today mourned the loss of "our seven star voyagers," bidding them farewell while promising America will forge ahead with an "effective, safe and efficient but bold and committed" space program.

At a ceremony bringing together mourners from all over the nation to share their grief with the victims' families, Reagan said, "Our nation's loss is first a profound personal loss to the family, friends and loved ones of our shuttle astronauts. To those they have left behind — the mothers, the fathers, the husbands and wives, brothers and sisters and, yes, especially the children — all of Calling the seven crew members by their first names, Reagan said: "Dick, Mike, Judy, El, Ron, Greg and Christa, your families and your country mourn your passing. ## Large chunks of shuttle fuselage examined today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Specialists examined at least five large chunks of shattered Challenger's fuselage today, and studied the possibility that a blowtorch of flame from a solid-fuel booster rocket triggered the explosion that destroyed the shuttle and its crew.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were surprised that so many large pieces survived Tuesday's fireball.

Haitian government collapses

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Soldiers were deployed in Haiti's capital city "every few blocks" today after the government of President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier collapsed, according to the U.S. Embassy.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes, accompanying President Reagan aboard Air Force One to Houston, announced that Duvalier had fled the country. He said his information was based on a report from the U.S. Embassy in Haiti.

An embassy spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said he did not know whether stores had been closed, or whether a curfew had been called. He said there were fewer people in the streets and Port-au-Prince, the capital, seemed "relatively normal and quiet."

He said in an interview with AP Radio there were "soldiers posted pieces of the main body were plucked from the Atlantic Ocean on Thursday and ferried to Port Canaveral, where they were unloaded and taken to a hangar that is storing thousands of pieces of shuttle debris.

A NASA videotape of the unloading showed the Challenger's nose and part of the cabin, parts of a cargo bay door, and sections of wing. The largest piece of the latest find was about 20 by 8 feet.

Ironically, on the side of the cabin area was a yellow arrow, with the word "rescue" pointing to an emergency hatch.

Observing the unloading was astronaut Steve Nagle, who flew aboard Challenger last October.

The wreckage was spotted floating about 60 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral and it was hoisted aboard the Coast Guard cutter Dallas.

Doctors at Patrick Air Force Base, meanwhile, examined a fragment of bone and tissue that floated ashore 35 miles south of Cape Canaveral to determine if it belonged to one of the seven astronauts. It was attached to a blue sock, and police said it probably was a foot bone.

A source told The Associated Press that the board spent much time Thursday studying different films of the rising shuttle in the final seconds before it erupted 8.9 miles above and 8 miles southeast of the launch pad.

Television footage released by NASA showed a sudden flicker of flame along the side of the ship, between one of the two booster rockets and the huge external tank that contained more than 500,000 gallons of volatile liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen propellant.

In that film, taken from south of the launch area, the source of the fire could not be pinpointed.

Since then, NASA has impounded film from cameras photographing the shuttle from several angles and from tracking aircraft.

Revamping of welfare programs to be proposed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, in his State of the Union address next week, is expected to call for a sweeping overhaul of the programs designed to protect the nation's neediest citizens, administration sources say.

Reagan plans to propose a "pro-family" approach to welfare and support programs that would pressure more poor people to work and eliminate provisions that tend to encourage the breakup of families, the sources said Thursday, speaking only on condition of anonymity.

Reagan has contended for years that many people without jobs don't want to work. And he has charged that the welfare system tends to discourage them from looking for work.

the advent of former President Lyndon Johnson's Great Society program of social improvements in the mid-1960s.

Reagan's fifth State of the Union address, which was scheduled for last Tuesday but postponed a week in the wake of the space shuttle disaster that day, is scheduled for delivery to the joint session of Congress at 8 p.m. EST Tuesday. The sources said Reagan would announce three major new studies similar to the one which led to his proposal to overhaul the income tax system.

The welfare study, the sources said, will entail a year-long analysis of the full range of federal and state programs to help the poor. It will be conducted by Reagan's Domestic Policy Council.

American from the costs of catastrophic illness, and the third would lay the groundwork for reform of the international monetary system, the sources said.

Two of the officials who agreed to discuss the administration plans said the studies would be modeled after the Treasury Department analysis of the income tax system, which Reagan called for in his 1984 State of the Union address and which led a year later to his proposal to overhaul the tax system.

The House has passed its own version of the tax overhaul plan, and the Senate is giving the issue top priority this session.

'Nerd' crack attacked

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican Kent Hance has joined Gov. Mark White in labeling as poor taste the crack Democratic gubernatorial hopeful A. Don Crowder's made when calling White a "nerd."

"I've never got in a name-calling contest with anyone," said Hance, who hopes to challenge White in the 1986 general election. "That's not real dignified."

White said Crowder's comment on Wednesday was particularly out of place when Texans were feeling the loss of the seven crew members from the space shuttle Challenger.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says money multiplies the power of man either for better or worse.

A lot of folks refuse to recognize it, but church is the answer to many of life's worries.

We can see some plus factors in the announcements yesterday that Hereford will be moved to Class 4A in the UIL classifications, and that Don Cumpston will apparently return as athletic director and head football coach.

Transplant may cost $100,000

HOUSTON (AP) — Despite Medicaid and an indigent health care program, the family of 3-week-old Oscar Drew Cantu has run into some snags in paying for a bone marrow transplant that may cost $100,000.

Since the baby's father, Oscar Cantu, is unemployed and has no insurance, the family qualifies to receive Medicaid benefits.

The federal program, however, only pays for 30 days of hospital care and the baby is expected to be in the hospital at least three months. The infant also spent 20 days in hospitals before being admitted to Texas Children's Hospital where the bone marrow transplant was performed Wednesday.

The Corpus Christi family also qualifies for indigent care from Nueces County because the Legislature has mandated that counties pay for indigent residents.

But the county has said it is not responsible to pay medical costs until the law goes into effect Sept. 1.

Nevertheless, the family is relieved the 15-minute transplant performed by Dr. William T. Shearer is over.

"Dr. Shearer did his job," Oscar Cantu said at a news conference Thursday. "Now it's just a matter of waiting. Little Oscar needs to do his part."

The baby, born Jan. 5, suffers from severe combined immune deficiency syndrome, a rare genetic disorder that prevents the body from fighting infections. An older brother of the child died of the disease, however, a sister, 14 months, is not affected by the syndrome.

Nelson's body contained cocaine

DALLAS (AP) — Toxicology tests on singer Rick Nelson's body confirm he had a small amount of cocaine in his system when he died in a New Year's Eve plane crash, the Dallas Times Herald reported today.

But the tests showed no evidence that "freebasing," a method of cocaine use that involves heating the drug with an open flame, caused the crash, the newspaper quoted an unidentified Federal Aviation Administration laboratory spokesman as saying.

A unidentified spokesman at the Civil Aeromedical Institute in Oklahoma City said traces of both metabolized and unmetabolized cocaine — as well as a compound of the painkiller Darvon — were found in Nelson's blood and urine samples, the Times Herald reported.

Ira Furman, a National Transportation Safety Board spokesman, told The Associated Press late Thursday: "I can't confirm that, because it is not public information. We have not released any data, and we are not prepared to comment on reports that are not ours."

The NTSB, he said, "sent blood samples and urine samples from the victims and the flight crew to two different laboratories for analysis. We now have, but have not released, the toxicological results from those two labs."

Nelson, his fiancée and five members of his band were killed on their way to a performance in Dallas when their smoke-filled DC-3 crashed near DeKalb, Texas.

The official cause of death for the victims is listed by the Dallas County medical examiner's office as thermal burns and smoke inhalation.

Black sailor guilty of murder

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A black sailor who fatally stabbed a white officer while at sea has been convicted of premeditated murder, and a jury will now try to decide if he should be the first person executed by the Navy in 137 years.

A prosecutor said after Thursday's verdict that he would begin presenting evidence today to show there were aggravating circumstances in Petty Officer Mitchell T. Garraway Jr.'s attack on Lt. James K. Sterner.

The Navy must prove such circumstances existed before capital punishment could be imposed.

The eight-member military jury deliberated nearly four hours before finding Garraway guilty of plotting the attack on Sterner aboard the frigate USS Miller on June 16, 1985, while it was off the Bermuda coast.

Garraway, 21, of Suitland, Md., showed no reaction when the verdict was announced in the Newport Naval Base courtroom.

The Navy last carried out the death penalty in 1849, when two men were hanged for attacking an officer and throwing him overboard so they could join the California gold rush.

The officer survived, and the men were charged with mutiny and desertion with intent to kill, among other charges.

Navy courts-martial have sentenced others to die since that case, most recently in 1960, but those sentences were ultimately reduced, military authorities say.

Museum robbery still mystery

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Christmas robbery of the National Museum of Anthropology and History apparently remains far from solution.

"The work is going on without let up," Attorney General Sergio Garcia Ramirez told reporters Wednesday. "All the leads have been investigations and thousands of clues followed, but I can't say how long it might be before we have positive results."

He also said, "There still is no certain hypothesis."

Investigators have said the robbers probably broke into the sprawling, two-story museum in Chapultepec Park about 2 a.m. Christmas morning and went directly to three exhibition rooms containing artifacts from the Mayan, Aztec, Mixtec and Zapotec Indian civilizations.

A total of 173 priceless, pre-Colobian artifacts were taken.

South Korean diplomat kidnapped

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Heavily armed gunmen kidnapped a South Korean diplomat today after shooting out the tires of his car as he drove to work in Moslem west Beirut, a Lebanese army official said.

The official and the South Korean Foreign Ministry in Seoul identified the diplomat as Do Chae-sung, 43, the South Korean Embassy's second secretary and consul. Lebanese authorities had initially said the victim was cultural attaché Ji Chang Du.

Col. Munir Malouli, chief of a special Lebanese army force in charge of protecting foreign embassies in Beirut, said Do's abduction occurred this morning when five gunmen in a green Mercedes intercepted his car about 50 yards from the embassy in Beirut's southeast Hamlet al-Baida district.

The assailants, armed with pistols and Soviet-made AK-47 assault rifles, shot out the front tires of Do's car. Malouli said the kidnappers forced the diplomat out of the vehicle at gunpoint, bundled him into their car and sped off.

There was an immediate claim of responsibility for the abduction, and neither Lebanese authorities nor officials from the South Korean Foreign Ministry cited a motive.

every few blocks" in the capital.

Speakers said there were reports that a military-civilian government has taken control of the impoverished Caribbean island. No further details were available immediately.

The reports followed a 30-day nationwide state of siege declaration signed by Duvalier and read over national television and radio today at 7 a.m. The declaration came after the most sustained anti-government protest in Haiti since the Duvalier dynasty was established in 1957.

Jean-Claude, also known as "Baby Doc," assumed the presidency upon the death of his father, Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier, in 1971.

Six people have been reported killed and at least 30 injured since anti-Duvalier demonstrations began Sunday in Cap Haitien, Haiti's second-largest city of 60,000 people on the north coast.

Maggie Steber, a freelance photograph in Cap Haitien, said the army called a curfew this morning and used clubs and tear gas to get people off the streets.

"I saw several incidents of the army hitting people with clubs to get them inside," she said in a telephone call to The Associated Press in New York.

Duvalier's communique also ordered three radio stations to go off the air including Radio Soleil, a Roman Catholic Church station that broadcasts in Creole and is one of the few stations that can be heard in most parts of the Maryland-sized nation.

It has been closed several times before for reporting on anti-government demonstrations. The two other stations closed were identified as Radio Lumiere, a Protestant-run station that has also reported on the demonstrations, and Radio Cacique, an independent station.

On Thursday, witnesses reported looting in four towns as anti-government unrest increased, and diplomatic sources said three people that individual to get involved in such a political statement was very unfortunate. And I think it's unfortunate he would not be more respectful of the mood of the people of this state and this nation on that day," White told his weekly news conference Thursday.

Crowder, 43, a former law partner of Attorney General Jim Mattox, on Wednesday criticized White's refusal to ease the no pass, no play student activities rule.

He brandished a copy of White's high school yearbook entry. He said an absence of extracurricular activities listed for White led him to believe that White "was one of the first nerds in Texas."

"I don't know what possessed him to think that," White replied Thursday, saying Crowder reached the conclusion "before he had any facts at hand."

White's father lost his job following an auto accident that occurred between the governor's sophomore and junior years of high school. White said he was forced to work two jobs that summer and to continue working in filling stations and mowing lawns until he finished school.

"That may account for the fact that I didn't have quite as illustrious (a record of) high school extracurricular activities as that gentleman (Crowder) did," White said.

However, White added, "I think maybe my experiences helped me more than his did."

White also rejected Crowder's suggestion that the governor's personal extracurricular record may account for harsh comments White has made about opponents of the no pass, no play rule and other school reforms he pushed through the Legislature in 1984.

The rule prohibits students from participating in extracurricular activities for six weeks if failing any course.

Most teachers appreciate the added emphasis on scholastic achievement the reforms have brought, White said, criticizing Crowder and Republican candidates who have called for a lesser penalty for failing students.

"It's very unfortunate we see other candidates for this office running around the state trying to, in a sense, sell the future of these young people for a handful of votes over an issue that's proven to be very productive of better educational quality," White said.

While Hance didn't approve of Crowder's name-calling, he did say he believes White's recent call for limited drug testing of public and private employees, including teachers, had cost White teacher votes.

"The governor mentioned the other day that teachers were behind him, and I think he's right. They've got blood in their eyes and if they ever catch him, he's in trouble," Hance said.

were trampled to death by a mob sacking a CARE food warehouse in Cap Haitien. On Monday, a tailor and two children died when security forces fired on demonstrators.

On Thursday, witnesses said demonstrators in Cap Haitien toppled a statue of "Papa Doc" as the crowd cheered. Witnesses also reported looting in the towns of Gonaives, Les Cayes and Jeremie, with mobs breaking into facilities stocked with food or medical supplies.

The deaths in Cap Haitien brought to at least 10 the number of deaths reported nationwide since sporadic disturbances began on Nov. 28, when security forces opened fire on demonstrators in Gonaives, killing three students.

A communique from Duvalier ordered Cap Haitien's airport closed Thursday until further notice, but gave no reason for the action.

On Tuesday, the State Department advised U.S. citizens in Haiti not to travel to Cap Haitien and urged checking with the embassy before journeying outside the capital.

Jeffrey Lite, a U.S. Information Service officer in Port-au-Prince, said he didn't know the exact number of Americans in Cap Haitien, but he said it was "only a handful," mostly tourists.

U.S. officials in Washington earlier likened the situation in Haiti to late 1970s in Nicaragua, when the authority of the Somoza government began to erode because of widespread discontent.

In Miami, 1,500 Haitians who thought Duvalier had been overthrown took to the streets Thursday to celebrate. The demonstration turned violent after a car drove into the crowd, and police reported a woman had been killed and a dozen people were injured.

— W.A. "Bill" MacNaughton, an Austin lawyer and businessman, filed as a Democratic candidate for the Texas Railroad Commission.

K. LINN BORCHARDT

Tulia woman nominated for award

Hereford Pilot Club members have nominated K. Linn Borchardt of Tulia as "Handicapped Professional Woman of the Year."

Borchardt is a substitute teacher in Tulia. She is a graduate of Tulia High School and McMurray College and holds a degree in sociology.

She was born with cerebral palsy and walked without crutches until age nine. She now uses a scooter for rough terrain and crutches most of the time.

Borchardt lives alone and is self-sufficient doing her own shopping and driving.

More than 600 U.S. Pilot Clubs participated in the 1985 fund-raising project for United Cerebral Palsy Associations during UCPA's weekend with the Stars Telethon Jan. 18-19 at Universal Studios in Los Angeles, Calif.

The Hereford Pilot Club raised $250 for this project with a "Wheel of fortune" booth at the annual Jubilee celebration held in August of 1985 in Dameron Park. Donna West was in charge of this event.

MANAGEMENT

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — "Participative management" is a business technique in which fewer employees share a greater workload. As a result, each employee is more responsible for performance and decision-making.

Phillips Petroleum says it is one firm using participative management to cut costs while encouraging workers to develop their full potential.

"Today there are 6.9 employees for every supervisor, compared with 5.8 in 1983," says C.J. Silas, chief executive officer.

Council represented by nine EH clubs

President Johnnie Messer presided over the Extension Homemakers Council meeting held Monday in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

Sherri Blackwell led the Pledge of Allegiance to the United States Flag and the Texas flag and gave the TEHA prayer as the opening exercise.

Nine clubs were represented with eight having 100 percent attendance.

Recognized as special guests were Jewell Hargrave, Mary Lou Spinhirne, Brenda Pagett and Clara Trowbridge.

Standing committee chairmen gave their reports of recommendations for the year. They included Maudette Smith, education chairman; Carl Odom, yearbook; Lottie Wertenberger, finance; and Blackwell, recreation.

The council voted to cater the Camp Fire Leaders Dinner Feb. 18. Plans were finalized for this project.

The following clubs presented their "Woman of the Year" candidates: Bippus, Mariellen Homfeld; Cultural, Mary Lou Spinhirne; Draper, Sherrie Blackwell; Westway, Martha Rickman; and Wyche, Clara Trowbridge. Other candidates will be reported at a later date.

The deadline to submit quilt blocks to Deaf Smith County Historical Museum has been extended to May 1. Each member is encouraged to prepare a block.

It was announced that on Feb. 3 Irene Keating, Potter County agent, will be giving a workshop on making fajitas. The workshop is scheduled to begin at 10:30 a.m. in the library Heritage Room. A charge of $2 has been set to pay for materials. A fajita luncheon will follow the demonstration. Everyone is invited to attend.

The TEHA report was given by chairman Mary Carter. She urged members to work on "Pennies for Friendship" project and also said that a goal of 126 members and one new club for 1986 has been set for Deaf Smith County.

Carter reminded members that 1986 is the 60th anniversary of the Texas Extension-Homemakers Association. A special pin is being designed and will be available at the district meeting April 3 in Amarillo.

She encouraged everyone to attend the district meeting to enable Deaf Smith to retain the attendance plaque.

Carter also explained that registration, luncheon and insurance fee is $10. This should be paid at the February council meeting by everyone planning to attend the district meeting.

Following the council meeting, members were served refreshments by Draper Club members who served as hostesses.

FRANCESCO CLEMENTE SHOW

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The exhibition "Francesco Clemente," a selection of 65 works executed between 1979-83, is on view at the Walker Art Center through March 2.

The museum says, "Clemente is one of the most highly regarded of the younger generation of European and American painters working in an expressionist, figurative style."

It adds that, "Since the early 1970s, Clemente has developed a provocative, even mystical, expressionism inspired by the history and mythology of his native Italy as well as by the culture of other lands where he has lived and worked."

Sauna

The Finns developed the principle of the sauna in the first century B.C. for relaxation and hygiene. The sauna was originally a hole in the ground that was partially filled with stones. The stones were heated and water was thrown over them, forming steam. The hot steam causes the beneficial effects of the sauna.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

Pie filling isn't only pumpkin

DEAR POLLY — When a recipe calls for solid-pack canned pumpkin, can a product labeled "pumpkin pie filling" be used? — S.K.

DEAR S.K. — Cans labeled "pumpkin pie filling" usually contain spices, sweetening and other ingredients appropriate for pumpkin pie. It's a mixture that you can simply pour into a pie shell and bake. When a recipe calls for solid-pack pumpkin, you should use just that. Make sure the can states that it contains only pumpkin without added spices, flavorings, sugar, etc.

Homemade pumpkin puree may be substituted for canned pumpkin in most recipes. Just boil or bake pumpkin until tender, then mash it in a food processor, blender, electric mixer or food mill or by hand.

Homemade pumpkin puree tends to be moister and looser than canned solid-pack pumpkin. While this is not usually a problem, some recipes may depend on the rather dry texture of canned pumpkin. If the recipe seems to require pumpkin with a firmer texture, drain the homemade pureed pumpkin in a cheesecloth-lined sieve for an hour or two before using. Or, slightly decrease the quantity of other liquid ingredients in the recipe. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's a gift wrap idea to use year round. This year, instead of buying rolls of expensive gift wrap for Christmas, I bought a box of white freezer wrap. I wrapped my packages in white and trimmed them with bears and snowmen cut from brown paper grocery bags. I cut a length of red ribbon to fit around each box and put ribbon at the bears' feet and at the bottom of the snowmen. From the ribbon I also cut flat bow shapes for the bears' bow ties and hats for the snowmen.

From one roll of freezer wrap and one roll of ribbon, I wrapped 25 packages at a cost of $2.39. My family said the packages were too pretty to open. For other occasions, just change the ribbon colors and motifs. — DONNA

A slide presentation of the Holy Lands was narrated by Jim Conkwright when members of El Llano Study Club met Monday evening in the home of Donna Warrick.

Assisting with the presentation was Cameron Gault.

A brief business meeting was led by Kathy Johnson, president, and a social hour followed.

Assisting with hostess' duties was Billie Farr. Those present were Jean Dowell, Avis White, Sue Amstutz, Opal Bookout, Zula Arney, Kathy Johnson, Elizabeth Cesar, Leona Kimball, Jane Coplen, Deloris Foster, Ursalee Jacobsen, Helen Eades, Jean Ballard, Karen Abney, Alice Eades and Roberta Caviness.

The next meeting will be a Valentine's party with husbands at 7 p.m. Feb. 17 in the home of Mary Herring.

Annual retreat planned

"Who am I really?" is the theme for the annual retreat for college students offered at the Bishop DeFalco Retreat Center in Amarillo.

The retreat begins Friday, Feb. 21, at 7 p.m. and ends Sunday, Feb. 23, at 1 p.m. The fee for two nights' lodging and meals is $40 per student. For additional information and reservations contact the Bishop DeFalco Retreat Center, 2100 N. Spring, Amarillo, Tx. 79107, phone 806-383-1811.

"Young people's concern is what will I become for the rest of my life?" according to Fr. Greg Mayers, assistant director of the Retreat Center. "Everyone wants to know what they will be after college, what the future holds for them."

All college students, men and women, between the ages of 18-24 are encouraged to come to the retreat to discover themselves and to experience life and religion.

Groups from the Newman Clubs at Texas Tech, West Texas State and Eastern New Mexico University are expected to attend, in addition to the area junior colleges and technical schools. It is an opportunity for all students in the Tri-State Area to meet and enjoy a weekend of spiritual and personal growth. Last year 68 college students attended from five area schools.

DR. GOTT Proof of risk from X-rays

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a doctor of radiology and am skeptical about the conclusions you reached in a recent column about the dangers of low-level radiation. If you will send me the reference that documents a 50-percent risk of dying from leukemia following a pelvic X-ray, I will donate $1,000 to the charity of your choice.

DEAR DOCTOR — I didn't say "dying"; I said a 50-percent risk of infants developing leukemia if their mothers had pre-partum pelvic X-ray.

The reference is in "Radiation and Human Health," by John Goffman, M.D. (Sierra Club Books, San Francisco, 1981), pages 741-744. The primary references Dr. Goffman uses are Stewart, A., et al. Lancet 1956: 2:447, and Stewart, A., British Medical Journal, 1958: 1:1495-1508. He also cites nine additional studies that he believes confirm Dr. Stewart's conclusions.

I would be pleased if you would make your kind donation to the Children's Happiness Foundation, Box 694, Green Harbor, MA 02041.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Are microwave ovens in any way cancer-causing or detrimental to your health?

DEAR READER — The U.S. Government has established safety standards for microwave ovens. These standards set acceptable limits for microwave "leakage" from the appliances at the time they are new and after five years of use. The release of microwave radiation is theoretically prevented by radiation-absorbing seals and safety interlocks on the doors and metal screens in the door windows.

Ordinarily, microwave ovens pose few if any health hazards when they are new. The problem comes as they age and after servicing by technicians who may not be adequately trained. Radiation leakage can occur in these situations. The results can be harmful. Microwave radiation can cause potentially fatal interruptions in the electrical pulses of heart pacemakers; it has caused burns from dermal medicine patches containing metallic elements. It can result in cataracts.

Interestingly, the Soviet Union has set safety standards for industrial exposure to microwaves that are 100 times more stringent than the U.S. limits.

Special message

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There have been times when you have allowed readers to get a special message across. I hope you will permit me this privilege. I feel there is a lesson to be learned.—SAD IN ATLANTA four years ago. He treats me well, except when he gets jealous which is quite often.

I have never given Sam any reason not to trust me. I don't see anyone but him. He frequently phones me when I am visiting with friends and relatives to make sure I am really there. I find this embarrassing. He followed me twice last week and I caught him checking the mileage on my car.

I am troubled by the fact that he says he can never love anyone but his deceased wife. Would I be playing second fiddle the rest of my life if I married him? Please advise.—UNSURE IN BATTLE CREEK

DEAR B.C.: You are worrying about the wrong thing. Many widowers feel a little guilty when they take out a woman. The serious clinkers in this relationship are the man's jealousy and his lack of trust. Do you want a husband who follows you around and checks the mileage on your car? If you marry Sam, that's exactly what you will get.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think about throwing objects to vent anger? I never try to hit anybody. It usually happens when I'm using a tool and the project is going poorly. It's my way of getting the rage out. I always feel better after I do it.

My wife thinks this behavior is immature and dangerous. I believe it is perfectly OK. Who is right?—D.W. IN OMAHA

DEAR D.W.: Your wife. Throwing things can be dangerous. You just might hit somebody. Also, you could ruin some good tools.

Buy a punching bag and use it when you feel frustrated. Or purchase some inexpensive cups and saucers and smash them against the wall. You'll feel better and nobody will get hurt.

What's prudish? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting—What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The oldest living trees in the United States are reputed to be bristlecone pines, the majority of which grow on the arid crags of California's White Mountains. Some of the trees are estimated to be more than 4,600 years old.

DEAR ATLANTA: The space is yours. Go ahead.

Dear South Cobb Students: It's 2 o'clock in the morning and I can't sleep. I learned of the cruel trick played on my granddaughter at the school recently. A boy tripped her in the hall. Her wig and glasses fell off. Everyone laughed. She was crushed. One lad came to her rescue and helped gather her books. What a fine young man he was to do that.

Let me tell you why my granddaughter wears a wig. When she was 10 she had a brain tumor and was operated on at Emory Hospital. The doctors told us she might be blind or paralyzed, but thank God she was lucky and now she is like any other 15-year-old. But the radiation treatments made her hair fall out and it has grown back in thin wisps.

I'm sure no one really meant to be cruel, but please, the next time you see someone you think is a little different, remember it could happen to you or to your sister or brother.

Now that I have written this letter I pray no other child will suffer such humiliation.—A GRANDMOTHER

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been going with "Sam" for three years and am very much in love with him. The problem: Sam's wife died

Top-ranked UNC falls to Virginia

By The Associated Press

"Lose one?" North Carolina Coach Dean Smith asked rhetorically, as though he expected to lose a few more.

And, maybe he did after seeing his team's 21-game winning streak snapped Thursday night at Virginia with an 86-73 loss, leaving No. 2 Memphis State as the only major unbeaten team in the country.

"I'm surprised we got this far without losing one, and I'm surprised at Memphis State going this far," the coach of the top-ranked Tar Heels said. "We had a chance to lose up at Maryland, against Duke and against Marquette. I thought Georgia Tech was a close game, and Notre Dame, too.

"They all seemed close. Maybe they will all be close from here on out."

The Cavaliers, 14-5 and 4-3 after the Atlantic Coast Conference victory, got 19 points from center Olden Polynice, built a lead of as many as 19 points late in the game and survived a late North Carolina rush. The Tar Heels fell to 5-1 in the conference.

Other Top Twenty results: No. 9 Michigan 82, Northwestern 45; No. 10 Nevada-Las Vegas 62, San Jose State 55; No. 13 Bradley 63, West Texas State 54; Iowa 79, No. 15 Indiana 69, and No. 16 Virginia Tech 71, No. 20 Richmond 67.

The Virginia victory broke a seven-game losing streak against North Carolina dating back to Ralph Sampson's junior season in 1982.

"It was a great team effort, and we're deliriously happy," Virginia Coach Terry Holland said.

No. 9 Michigan 82, Northwestern 45

Roy Tarpley ignited a 16-3 first-half run with a pair of free throws. And Antoine Joubert had 13 of his 19 points in the second half as Michigan pulled away from Northwestern in a Big Ten Conference game.

Michigan is 18-2; 6-2 in the conference.

No. 10 UNLV 62, San Jose St. 55

Nevada-Las Vegas recovered from a 37-30 halftime deficit, scoring the first seven points of the second half, and taking the lead for good, 52-51, with 4:48 to play in beating San Jose State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

Guard Freddie Banks scored 21 points to lead the Rebels, 9-0 in the PCAA and 20-2 overall. UNLV was ahead 56-51 with 2:43 left.

No. 13 Bradley 63, W. Texas St. 54

Bradley got 22 points from Hersey Hawkins and 20 from Jim Les to improve its record to 21-1 and 8-0 in the Missouri Valley Conference. That represents Bradley's best start since the 1959-60 season.

Bradley turned the ball over just nine times in the game and blocked six West Texas State shots. Les tied a school record with eight assists in the game.

Iowa 79, No. 15 Indiana 69

Sophomore guard Jeff Moe, in only his eighth start, scored a career-high 24 points, and Iowa built second-half leads of as many as 22 points to beat Indiana in the Big Ten. The loss dropped the Hoosiers to 5-3 in the conference, 13-4 overall.

Indiana turned the ball over 11 times in the first half, and Steve Alford, who averages 25 for the Hoosiers, had only 10 points.

No. 16 Va. Tech 71, No. 20 Richmond 67

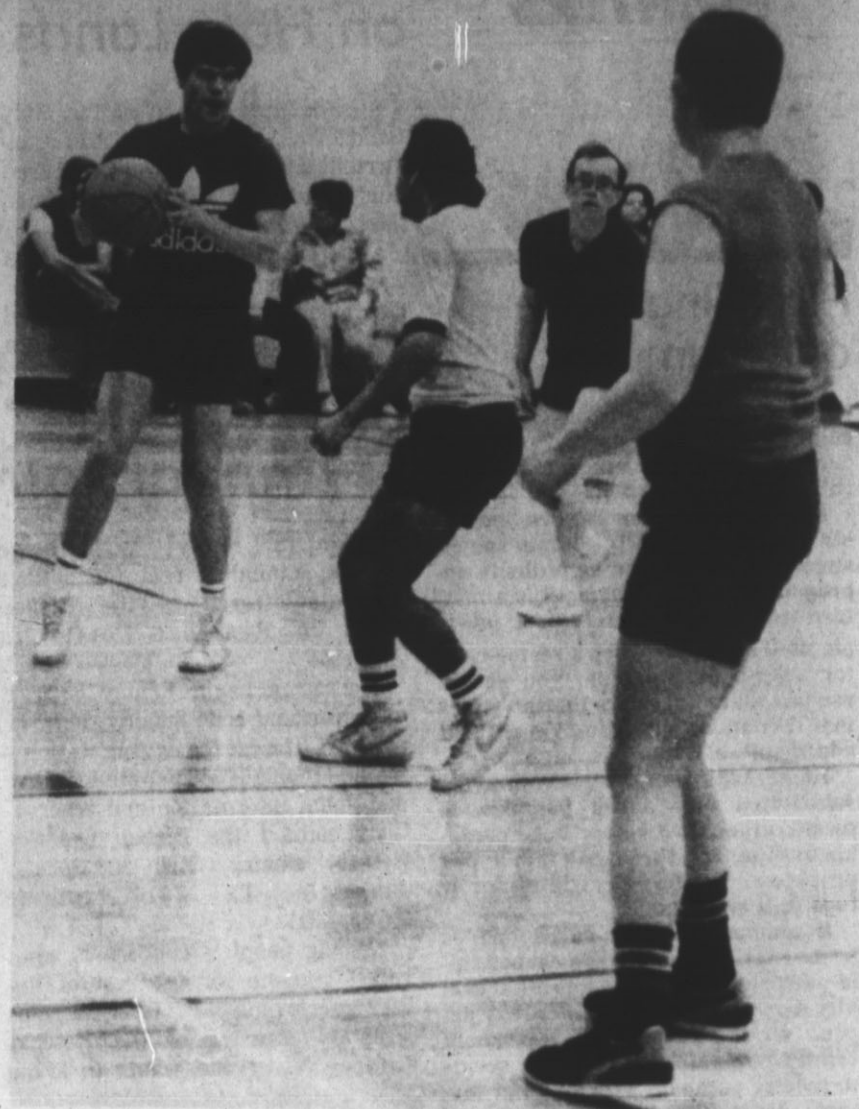

Dell Curry scored 28 points, including four in the final 27 seconds, to lead Virginia Tech over Richmond. With the points, Curry broke the Tech record with 2,138, two more than the career total of Dale Solomon.

The Spiders also saw their career scoring mark fall as John Newman had 18 for 2,148, breaking the mark of 2,145 of Mike Perry.

The Hokies are 17-4 while Richmond fell to 16-3.

The record for most consecutive winning seasons by a professional sports team is 39 years by the New York Yankees in baseball. Second best is 32 years by the Montreal Canadiens in hockey, and third best is 20 years by the Dallas Cowboys in football.

The World Series record for consecutive scoreless innings pitched is 29 by Babe Ruth.

HHS netters open 'spring' season

Tennis teams from Hereford High School and Tascosa High School took advantage of the unseasonably warm weather to play matches Thursday.

The matches were played at the Hereford High School tennis courts. Not all matches were completed because of darkness.

In the completed matches, Hereford won three matches and Tascosa won nine matches.

Last fall Hereford defeated Tascosa 12-6 in a dual match. "The loss of four key players, Lana Kosub, Natalie Sims, Markay White and Kevin Hansen was felt," Hereford Coach Ruben Vargas said, noting that basketball season is not over and that he did not have all his players for Thursday's matches.

The three Hereford wins Thursday were all in girls' singles. Kristen Cassels defeated Tascosa's Laurie

Hyman, Lori Reinauer of Hereford beat Kara Banks, and Tiffany Legate of Hereford won over Dawn Anthony of Tascosa.

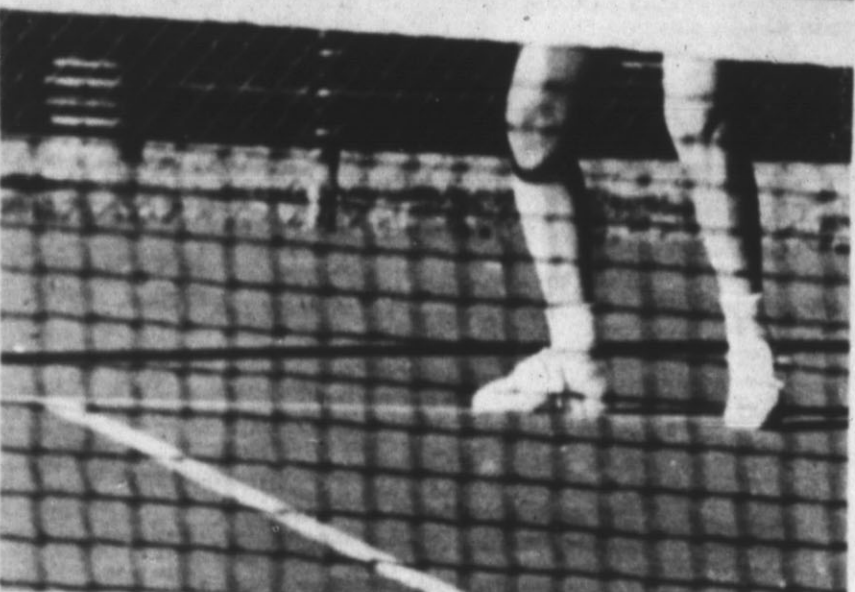

Results of the completed matches were as follows:

BOYS' SINGLES: Alex O'Brien, Tascosa, def. Chuck Garcia, Hereford, 6-4, 6-4; Steffan Dye, Tascosa, def. Nathan Flood, Hereford, 6-1, 6-4.

BOYS' DOUBLES: Alex O'Brien and Steffan Dye, Tascosa, def. Chuck Garcia and Brad Allred, Hereford, 7-5, 6-2; Travis Longenecker and Fraye, Tascosa, def. Jason Bodner and Brad Barrett, Hereford, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5; Rod Hill and Terry Schmid, Tascosa, def. Hope and Thomas, Hereford, 6-2, 3-6, 6-4.

GIRLS' SINGLES: Kristen Cassels, Hereford, def. Laurie Hyman, Tascosa, 6-0, 7-5; Ellen Ligon, Tascosa, def. Misty Stokes, Tascosa, 6-1, 6-1; Julia Neese, Tascosa, def. Vicki Veigel, Hereford, 6-1, 6-2; Lori Reinauer, Hereford, def. Kara Banks, Tascosa, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3; Allison Craig, Tascosa, def. Julie Allison, Hereford, 6-2, 6-3; Tiffany Legate, Hereford, def. Dawn Anthony, Tascosa, 6-2, 6-2.

GIRLS' DOUBLES: Laurie Hyman and Allison Craig, Tascosa, def. Kristel Cassels and Misty Stokes, Hereford, 6-2, 6-2.

UIL used October enrollment figures

AUSTIN (AP) — The University Interscholastic League this year used October enrollment figures as the first step in realigning high school football and basketball districts, which were announced Thursday.

In the past, the UIL has used a two-year average enrollment, which is not as up-to-date.

Next, the UIL athletic staff determined the number of schools needed for 32 districts in Class 5A. This figure is normally between 245 and 255.

This year the cutoff figure for 5A rose from 1,305 students to 1,440, and there are 251 schools in the upper division.

After tentatively adopting a 5A realignment, the UIL determined the number of schools for 16 districts in 4A, normally 140 to 150. This year the 4A figure is 148 schools, and the cutoff rose from 650 to 715.

Thirty-two districts also were drawn up for 3A, which had 215 schools, and 2A, which had 217.

Class A consists of the "schools with insufficient average daily membership to fill the other conferences," according to the UIL.

This year Class A had 313 schools.

"Schools must have an average two-year membership of less than 95 students to elect to play 6-man football," the UIL says.

In realigning districts, the UIL says it considers distance and travel conditions but makes no attempt to "perpetuate 'old rivalries.'"

Feb. 7 is the deadline for a school to file a written appeal of a district assignment. Hearings before the State Conference and District Assignment Review Board are set for Feb. 12, and schools will be informed in writing of the board's decision.

Feb. 17 is the last day to submit to the director of the UIL a written request to take an appeal to the State Executive Committee. The committee will consider the written appeals Feb. 18. There will be no oral presentations.

The UIL says no athletic contracts may be made until the executive committee approves the conferences and district assignments.

District meetings to set district schedules are set for Feb. 19.

Army pilot ends 42-year career

HOUSTON (AP) — If you were young, patriotic and black when World War II broke out, you could join the armed forces and serve your country — but not as a pilot.

However, as the war progressed, the U.S. government was faced with a serious shortage of pilots, so the option was opened to a few blacks. John Briggs, who had never been in an airplane, went for it. That was in 1943, and now Briggs is closing out his flight log after a 42-year career in the sky.

Briggs, then 22 and a college student in St. Louis, heard about a unit of airmen being trained at the all-black Tuskegee Institute in Alabama and wasted no time signing up. The unit was designated the 332nd Fighter Group, which went on to become the stuff of aviation lore.

"I couldn't believe it when I heard blacks were being accepted to fly," Briggs said recently. "The only thing blacks could do then was be in the Army and drive trucks. So I jumped at it."

"Prior to that, the War Department believed blacks could not fly and fight at the same time because blacks were supposed to be dumb and ignorant and backward. Mrs. (Eleanor) Roosevelt came down to Tuskegee and, against the wishes of her staff, took a flight with a civilian instructor there. She went back to Washington and told her husband, 'Yes, they can fly.'"

Unlike white cadets, who were sent to different bases for each phase of their training, black pilots took all of their instruction in Alabama. The other Army Air Corps bases did not have the facilities to segregate the black from the white cadets.

The 332nd, which became known as the Tuskegee Airmen, came under the command of Col. (later Gen.) Benjamin O. Davis. The group was shipped to North Africa and later to Italy to fight the Germans.

The Tuskegee fliers' planes were the P-39 and P-40 — less than top of the line. As the war progressed, the 332nd moved into state-of-the-art machines like the huge P-47 Thunderbolt and, later, the P-51 Mustang, still considered the finest propeller-driven fighter ever built.

It was in a P-47 that Briggs survived his most terrifying experience, a dead-stick belly landing one night at an Air Force base in Ohio. But that was in peacetime; Briggs came through combat flying without a scratch.

Briggs and his squadron flew harbor patrol missions, gave close air support to the beleaguered beachhead at Anzio and provided fighter escort for U.S. bombers striking at German targets. Briggs said he still is proud that no bomber under escort of his unit ever went down to enemy aircraft.

It was on one of these escort missions that Briggs got his one "kill" in combat.

"I was a flight leader," he said. "We had escorted some bombers to their target in northern Germany and were on the way home when my flight was jumped. I looked over my left shoulder and saw my wingman spinning down on fire. Then I saw the ME-109 (a small, agile German fighter) that had shot him down climbing to the right."

"I got on (the German's) tail and gave him three bursts of machine gun fire — two short ones and a long one. I saw his canopy come off, and I remember seeing his white scarf blowing in the breeze. He jumped out and his chute opened, so I didn't kill him."

In engagement after engagement with the "master race's" best fighter pilots, the black fliers from Tuskegee came out on top. But not all the 332nd's adversity came in combat.

The black pilots could not mingle with other fighter units, Briggs said. When visiting another base, they could not enter the officers' club, even though they were officers.

"When we got to Italy, some of the white soldiers had told the Italians not to mess with the blacks," Briggs said, "because they said black people had tails like monkeys." He laughs at the recollection now, but said it wasn't so funny then.

"They were harder on (the black pilots), from our first instructors on," Briggs said. "There was no sliding by. But we were good. I guess we did have something to prove. Maybe we fought harder. And we lost fellows. We lost a lot of them."

Briggs said he hated the war but came to love combat flying. "I loved strafing, shooting up airplanes on the ground," he said. "Trains, yeah, I liked strafing trains."

His eyes brightened as he formed his hand into an imaginary plane and demonstrated his old technique for strafing trains. Like a lot of fighter pilots, Briggs uses his hands to do most of the talking.

At only 24, Briggs had completed more than 200 combat missions and was sent home. He spent the remainder of the war giving advanced pilot training to other young blacks at Tuskegee.

When the war ended, a glut of experienced pilots filled thousands of jobs in the booming commercial aviation field. Briggs could continue his love affair with the sky only by remaining in the Air Force.

He spent the Cold War years in the Strategic Air Command as a bomber pilot, eventually becoming commander of a B-47, a six-engine jet bomber that became a symbol of U.S. might in the 1950s. Briggs called his time in SAC "great," though he spent most of that time flying with a bomb bay loaded with nuclear warheads.

In 1948, President Truman decreed desegregation for the armed forces. "Things got a lot better for blacks in the military," Briggs said. "A lot better. No, I never had trouble getting one of my orders carried out by whites. As the years went by, there was just a big difference for black people."

Briggs put in his 20 years and retired from the Air Force as a major. But he immediately signed on as a flight instructor for the Federal Aviation Administration. He remained 22 years, dividing his time between Dallas, where he lives in the suburb of Bedford, and Houston Intercontinental Airport, where he gave check flights and tested airline pilots.

Now 64, Briggs recently retired from the FAA and from flying.

"Miss it?" Briggs appeared astounded that the question was even asked. "I've done a lot of flying," he said. "Of course, I'm going to miss it."

Russell Baker of The New York Times won the 1983 Pulitzer Prize for Biography or Autobiography for his "Growing Up."

The Newspaper BIBLE

One night the Lord spoke to Paul in a vision and told him, "Don't be afraid! Speak out! Don't quit! For I am with you and no one can harm you. Many people here in this city belong to me." So Paul stayed there the next year and a half, teaching the truths of God.

But when Gallio became governor of Achaia, the Jews rose in concerted action against Paul and brought him before the governor for judgment. They accused Paul of "persuading men to worship God in ways that are contrary to Roman law."

But just as Paul started to make his defense, Gallio turned to his accusers and said, "Listen, you Jews, if this were a case involving some crime, I would be obliged to listen to you, but since it is merely a bunch of questions of semantics and personalities and your silly Jewish laws, you take care of it. I'm not interested and I'm not touching it." And he drove them out of the courtroom.

Then the mob grabbed Sosthenes, the new leader of the synagogue, and beat him outside the courtroom! But Gallio couldn't have cared less. Paul stayed in the city several days after that and then said good-bye to the Christians and sailed for the coast of Syria, taking Priscilla and Aquila with him. At Cenchreae, Paul had his head shaved according to Jewish custom, for he had taken a vow. Acts 18:9-18

Class project grew into chain

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) - Andy Kocher and Kelly Blake hardly look old enough to own a laundry and dry cleaning plant, much less three of them, but the two 25-year-old business graduates are examples of Midwestern State University's emphasis on entrepreneurship.

"We hadn't planned on getting into this business. I guess you could say we goofed around in that class (entrepreneurship) and waited until the last minute to come up with a project," said Blake.

"Yeah, that's probably why we only got a B in the class," said Kocher.

"But we remind the instructor about it everytime he comes in now," said Blake.

The two were frantically seeking some kind of a class business project when they talked to a relative of Blake's who is in the dry cleaning business in Austin. That conversation put them in touch with the firm which sells Comet Cleaners franchises and led them to where they are today.

They are both quick to say how helpful the franchising firm was when they were getting started.

"We really didn't know a lot about this, and they were super nice to us," said Kocher.

They recently opened their third store.

Today, they have 20 people on their company's payroll. The two partners admit it's a lot of work with each putting in 12-14 hours a day, six days a week.

Both admit their social lives suffer from such hours. Blake says he doesn't get down to the Dallas-Fort Worth area to see his girl friend nearly as often as he'd like.

Kocher said most of his dates are confined to Saturday nights and Sundays. Neither partner seems to mind having to get up at 5 a.m., but both admit it's sometimes hard to get up at that hour on a Monday morning.

In the 2½ years they've operated the laundries and dry cleaners, the longest either has been able to take off at once has been four days last summer, but they hope this will change soon.

Asked about hobbies, the two replied almost in unison that "sleeping" occupied most of the time they weren't working.

Blake is perhaps more used to long hours than his partner. Until recently, he milked his family's dairy herd at Thornberry, Texas, before driving in to work each morning.

Their plants offer one-hour service on all dry cleaning and one-day service on laundry.

"If we can get it in by about 9 a.m., we can have it out the same afternoon," said Blake.

Their three outlets process about 1,400 pieces of dry cleaning a day with pleated articles and silk ones being the most difficult.

The business has its humorous side.

Blake said shortly after they had opened one store, a man came in with a load of laundry.

"He was a businessman who made a lot of out-of-town weekend trips, but he held up one real nice shirt that had lipstick all over it and told me that if we couldn't get the lipstick out, he never wanted to see the shirt again. Fortunately, we were able to get it clean, and he kept bringing his laundry in for us to do," said Blake.

Another of their early experiences involved a woman who brought in a white silk dress with a red silk flower on it. When it was cleaned, the area around the flower turned pink.

"The people with the franchise were still here and they told us to pay off, so we wrote her a check for about $135. After she had left, we got to thinking about taking the flower off and cleaning the dress again. We did and it turned out perfect so we sewed the flower back on and called the woman. She didn't believe us and went on and cashed that check," Blake said.

It hasn't been easy for the two to get their business started, but there are some advantages to owning your own laundry and dry cleaning plant.

"Yeah, it's pretty nice to get your laundry done free all the time," said Kocher.
