Budget bill in court attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new federal budget-balancing law was attacked as "Byzantine" and an abdication of Congress' responsibilities in the first round of a court battle to determine the statute's constitutionality.

In passing the legislation by overwhelming majorities, Congress unconstitutionally surrendered its own power over the nation's purse strings, said Alan Morrison, a lawyer for 12 members of Congress challenging the so-called Gramm-Rudman law.

According to Morrison, Congress, in effect, had said, "We hereby abdicate our law-making function, turning it over to others with the fervent hope they will do the job we refuse to do."

A special three-judge federal court heard arguments in the case for more than three hours Friday, but reserved judgment. The judges gave no timetable for a ruling, but promised they would try to be speedy.

Whatever the decision, an appeal to the Supreme Court is inevitable.

Morrison said the month-old law, aimed at eliminating the federal deficit by 1991, puts Congress' budget-making power on "automatic pilot."

"Congress has refused to pass the very laws to do what it contends must be done — that is, balance the federal budget," he said.

But Gramm-Rudman defenders argued the measure was a lawful

Deaf Smith leads in rural crime program

By JERI CURTIS
Managing Editor

The director of the Panhandle Regional Crime Prevention program says Deaf Smith is No. 1 with its Country Crime Watch among the 26 counties included.

John Bradshaw, the director, says Deaf Smith leads in coverage area of organized rural neighborhood watches. Hemphill County did have first place. But, Bradshaw said that once Deaf Smith started, the county "took it hands down."

Only three areas remain to be organized and two of those neighborhoods have shown interest. The Country Crime Watch is similar to the Hereford Police Department's neighborhood watch program, only geared toward the rural resident.

He credits much of the success to county deputies who have worked locally on public awareness. Deputy Mary Johnson has spent many hours just talking it up in addition to setting up community meetings for organizing the watch areas. Country Crime Watch areas have been organized for Simms, Milo Center, South Hereford, Ford and Westway. Dawn area residents have had a meeting and interest has been shown in the Bootleg and Walcott areas. The southeastern corner of the county remains to have a meeting.

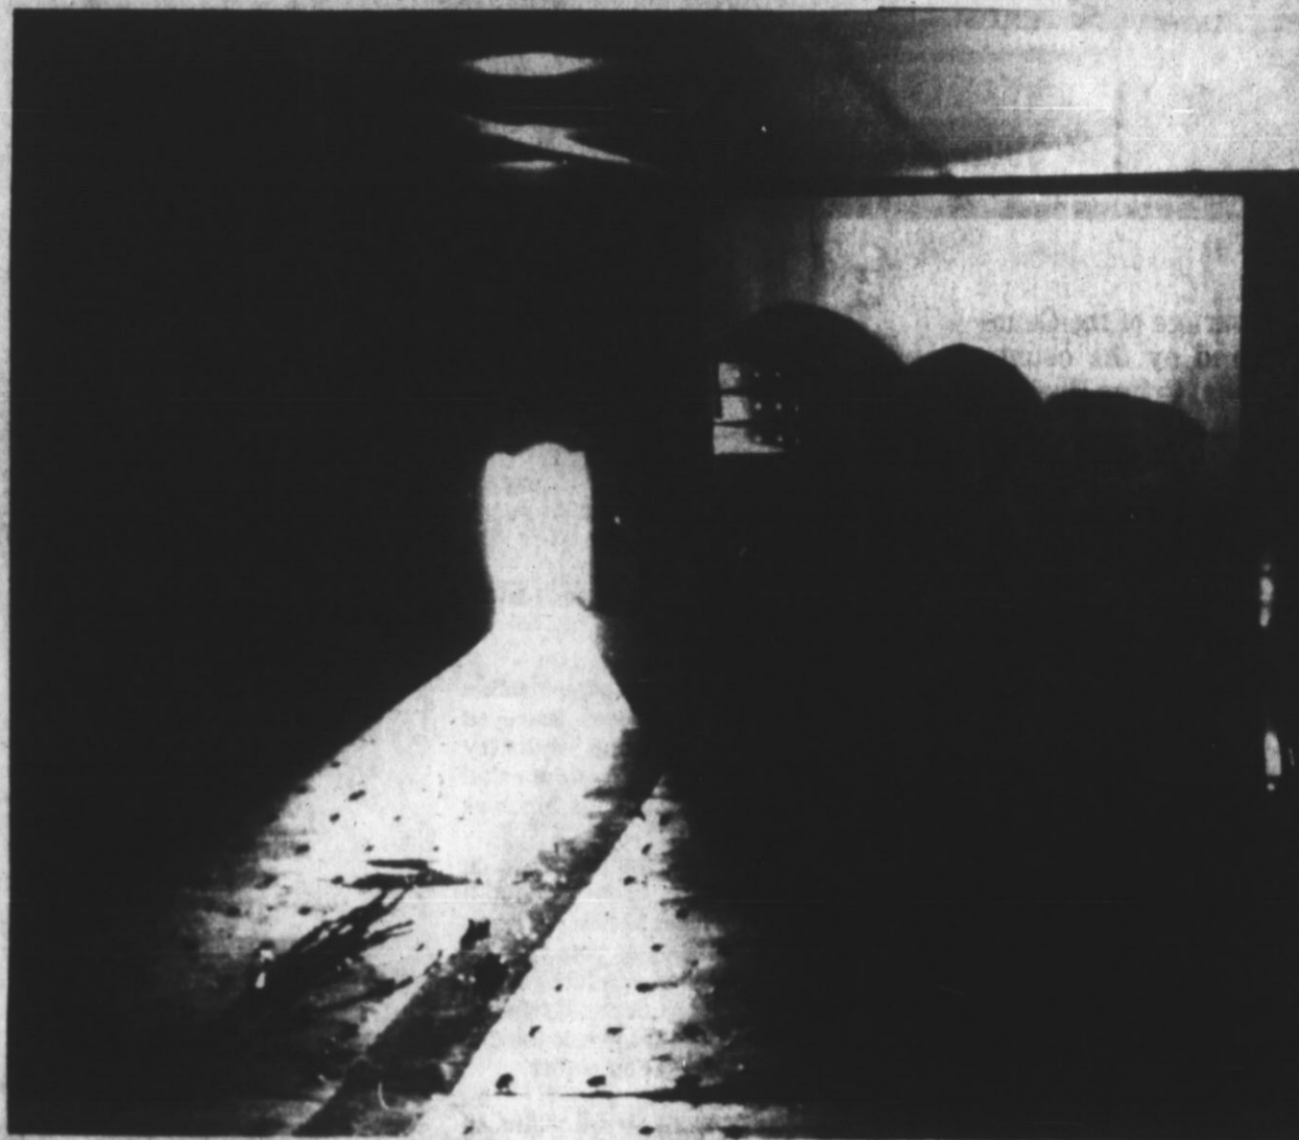

At the first organizational meeting last spring about 20 county residents showed. However, when the community meetings were held twice as many or more showed.

"I'm excited about the reception the program has had in the Panhandle," Bradshaw said.

He admits it's a little premature to tell statistically how the crime program is working. The only gauge available is the phone. The program encourages residents to report any suspicious activity and learn to start jotting vehicle tag numbers. In Hemphill County the sheriff's office used to get eight or 10 calls a day. Now about 100 a day is the usual.

"The call rate seems to be higher for those who have been through the program," Bradshaw said.

Due to Fall

Sunlight spies on the barren interior of the Star Theater, at the corner of Fourth and Main, which is scheduled to be leveled in order to make room for downtown parking. The demolition of the theater and two adjoining structures is due to start at the end of January. Oldtimers say that the theater has been in that location since about 1915 or earlier. The theater's heyday was in the 1950's when it was the "in" thing to hang out there then go and get a soda next door at McDowell's Drug. (Brand Photos by Shawn Cockrum)

Common Market will decline sanctions

By The Associated Press

Only Canada and Italy have joined the United States in imposing sanctions against Libya, and the president of the Common Market predicts the European trade bloc also will decline to penalize Libya for alleged terrorist ties.

Britain and West Germany, members of the 12-nation Common Market, already have ruled out economic sanctions. The foreign minister of Sweden said Friday his country would not take action.

Despite the rebuff, President Reagan was quoted Friday as telling reporters from five European newspapers that America's friendship with its allies is too strong to allow differences over Libya to "make us turn on them."

The London Times quoted Reagan

as saying he was not surprised at European reluctance to join in sanctions because of dependence on Libyan oil and trade. But Reagan said a moral issue was involved.

Italy and Canada announced steps against Libya on Friday. Canada said it was cutting off aid to firms seeking new business in Libya, banning new contracts to sell oil drilling equipment to Libya and asking Canadians not to take jobs vacated by Americans leaving Libya.

Italy suspended all weapons shipments to its former colony in view of "serious suspicions regarding Libya's tolerance and support" for terrorists who attacked passengers at Rome and Vienna airports last month.

Italy is Libya's largest trading partner in the Common Market, with Italy buying nearly $1.7 billion in Libyan oil in the first half of 1985.

The London Times said Reagan told the reporters that U.S. Deputy Secretary of State John Whitehead would present evidence of Libya's involvement in terrorism to European officials next week.

Reagan said Tuesday he had "irrefutable evidence" that Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy supported the Dec. 27 airport attacks, in which 19 people, including five Americans and four terrorists, were killed. Khadafy denies the charge.

Reagan has barred all U.S. trade with Libya, frozen Libyan assets in the United States and ordered Americans living in Libya to leave the North African country.

French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas said Friday his country had asked the United States for the evidence against Khadafy. "I don't say that we won't follow the American sanctions," he said, but noted France already had cut back on trade with Libya.

Walker to be feted for farewell

The Extension Homemakers Council and 4-H Parent Leaders are hosting a public farewell party honoring Louise Walker, Deaf Smith County Extension agent, from 5 until 7 p.m. Thursday in the Library Heritage Room.

Walker, who has been Extension agent in this county for six years, is moving to Magnolia, Ark.

Commission to study election

Compliance with new election laws will be discussed again at the Deaf Smith County Commissioners' regular meeting Monday at 10 a.m. at the courthouse.

Commissioner James Voyles will discuss the use of the Fullwood Building as a juvenile detention facility. A law effective last December prohibits juveniles from being housed overnight in a jail with prisoners. Currently, county detainees are being taken to Amarillo.

Also on the agenda:

- Juanita Phillips, museum director, will discuss attending a museum seminar.
- A presentation of general revenue sharing and the county audit.
- Appointment of a salary grievance committee for 1986.
- An order for precinct officers to be compensated on a salary instead of fee basis in 1986.
- Appointment of a County Judge Pro Tem.
- Discuss repair to the fourth floor of the courthouse.
- Discussion of need for purchase of new jail equipment.
- And discussion of a contract with the Panhandle Alcoholic Recovery Center.

UW drive misses goal

Final tabulations of the United Way Drive are expected to be near $100,000 when the annual United Way meeting is held Monday at 5 p.m. in the Chamber of Commerce office.

Down from the past two years, donations were shy of the $130,625 goal set for last fall's drive.

Pledges may still be made throughout the year and are received at P.O. Box 206 in Hereford.

Any service rendering organization interested in the objectives of the United Way and agreeing to operate with a contract for a one year term may be considered as a participating agency. The contract is prepared by the Budget and Admissions Committee is approved by the United Way board.

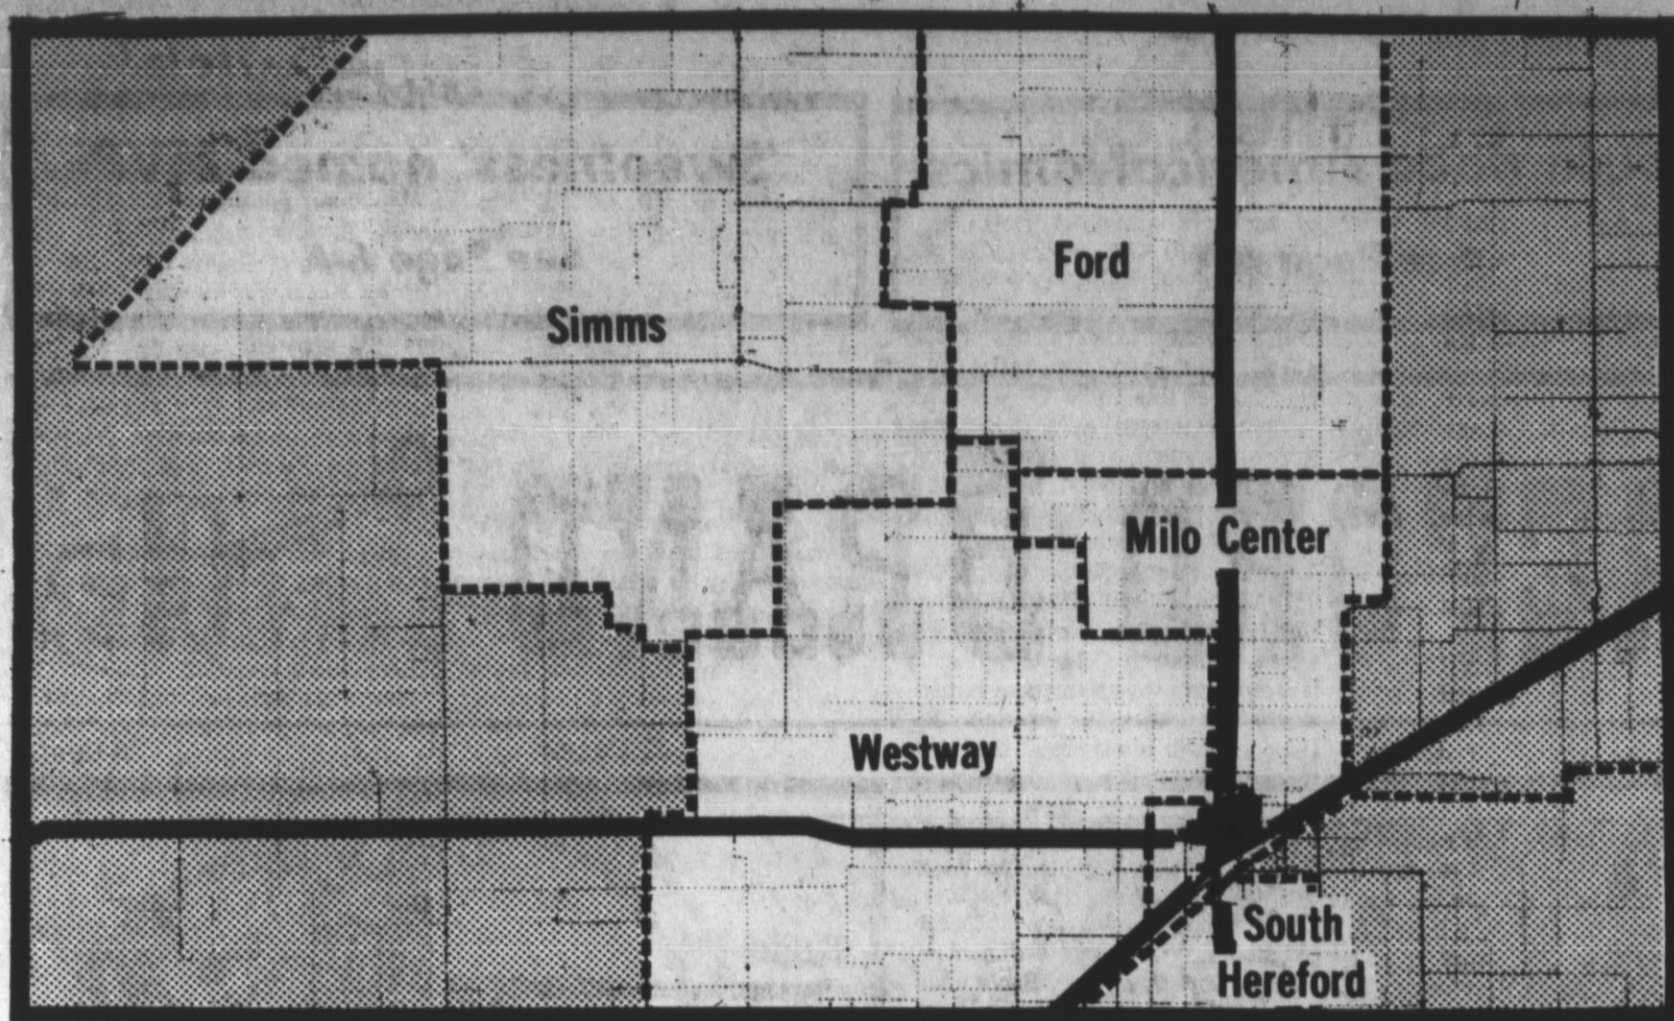

HISD agenda posted

Routine reports fill most of the agenda for the Hereford Schools trustee meeting Tuesday.

Other business items include a hearing on the discipline plan, purchase of playground equipment, purchase of a van, policy development update, two requests for use of the La Plata gym, a budget amendment and capital improvement recommendations from the Long Range Planning Committee.

Tax board meets Thursday

The Deaf Smith County Appraisal District board will meet at the tax office at 7 p.m. Thursday for a regular monthly meeting.

Almost Covered

Deaf Smith County leads in area coverage of the Country Crime Watch program sponsored by the county sheriff's office and Panhandle Regional Crime Prevention. The screened areas still need formal organization. Ford, Simms, Milo Center and South Hereford have organized.

CRIME

Country Crime Watch includes training in deterring crime, which also involves erecting reflective orange and black signs to warn prospective thieves that they are being watched.

But in February the FBI Uniform Crime Reports will be released to show what happened in 1985 across the Panhandle. Bradshaw is anxious to see if there is a drop from the 17,000 crimes committed in the area in 1984.

Another encouraging sign for Bradshaw is the interest in starting a Panhandle Crime Prevention Association which would give the Panhandle more representation on the state association.

Already there are offshoots of the program locally. Deputy Fidel Reyna has started developing a definitive grid map of the county for more accurate locations to be given by callers and for easier access by the deputies and other emergency crews.

Bars good for burglars, but not for fires

The deaths of seven Dallas residents this week has brought about the issue of burglar proof bars across windows to keep out would-be burglars. According to Hereford Fire Marshal Jay Spain, those bars "keep the bad guys out and the good guys in."

In the Dallas fire, bars intended to keep harm away from the house instead kept rescuers out. Four adults and three children died of smoke inhalation when fire ignited by an electrical space heater gutted their home.

Several local residences and businesses have burglar bars.

"They keep people from escaping," Spain said.

Spain also discussed the use of key locks that have to be unlocked with a key on the inside. "A guy can lock his door, stick the key in his pocket and go to sleep. If a flash fire were to occur, it would be tough for him to find that key and open the door in time to get out of the house."

Spain says it all comes down to a person's priorities. "You can either put a lot of effort into keeping your belongings safe, or burn in a fire because you are trapped in the house," he said. "I think I would rather live and lose a few items."

Wholesale prices keep inflation at a subdued rate

By BILL MENEZES AP Business Writer

Wholesale prices rose just 1.8 percent in 1985, keeping inflation off the last three years at its lowest rate in two decades, according to a Labor Department report.

A slowdown in increases of wholesale food and energy prices kept wholesale prices overall to a 0.4 percent rise, following a 0.8 percent rise in November, the government said Friday.

Analysts said the report indicated that inflation should remain subdued through 1986, and other factors could cause gasoline and other fuel costs to drop in the coming months.

Energy prices generally were unchanged in 1985. But crude oil prices have been falling since the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries decided last month to stop propping up the price of oil by limiting production.

The Labor Department said food prices rose only 0.3 percent in 1985, down from 3.5 percent in 1984.

But consumers can expect higher coffee prices in the coming months because of a drought in Brazil. An estimated 40 percent to 65 percent of the crop in the world's largest coffee-producing nation has been destroyed by the drought, and industry analysts say that could cause retail coffee prices to rise by as much as $1.50 a pound.

Since October, the major U.S. wholesalers have been making a series of price hikes for their coffee.

In addition, analysts note that the price of March coffee futures on the Coffee, Sugar and Cocoa Exchange in New York, nearly have doubled to just over $2.60 since September.

Meanwhile, Wall Street continued to feel the effects of its spectacular selloff earlier in the week, as stock prices declined slightly on Friday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 4.70 to 1,513.53 on Friday, bringing its loss for the week to 35.67 points—the biggest one-week drop in the highly followed index since mid-September 1984.

The selloff began earlier in the week when interest rates began rising on signs of renewed strength in the economy, which dampened hopes that the Federal Reserve would move to push interest rates lower.

The U.S. Supreme Court has given what some regard as long-overdue relief to teachers, principals, parents and youths fed up with the drugs and violence in many schools: the right to search students without a court-ordered warrant.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company's construction activities and long distance call total supports high building permit totals, retail sales, and record bank deposits as indicators that Hereford's economy has taken a definite upturn.

Southwestern Bell spent $300,000 in 1975 to expand and improve telephone service in the Hereford area.

Hereford residents have witnessed a wild fluctuation in the weather during the past week, with temperatures ranging all the way from near zero to a warm 65 degrees.

A record entry already has been assured for the 15th annual Junior Livestock Show in Hereford next weekend. For the first time, advance entries were required from youngsters in the four counties invited to attend. When entries closed Saturday, they totalled 398 animals, about 150 more than last year.

50 YEARS AGO

With this issue The Brand enters its 36th year of publication in Hereford. During the 35 years, starting with that small paper, the Hereford Reporter in 1901, its aim has been to serve this area, to assist in promoting worthwhile enterprise, to give to its readers accurate and interesting accounts of local happenings and other events that have had direct bearings upon the people of this section. Today it proudly boasts of the fact that the newspaper fraternity is recognized as one of the leading weeklies of the Panhandle.

Snow covered the Hereford area and the entire Plains wheat belt early Tuesday bringing with it the finest seasoning in four years and high hopes for ideal crop conditions. The fall here was estimated at between five and six inches, with virtually the same over the area.

75 YEARS AGO

Buy forty acres of irrigated land. Sow twenty acres to alfalfa. Raise ten acres of wheat-follow the wheat with milo mize-two crops a year. Plant five acres of fruit trees and you still have land enough for a good big truck and garden patch. Keep five or six good milk cows, pay attention to them, and look carefully after the poultry. Dairy products and poultry are a certain source of income. With plenty of green feed, grain and alfalfa-a sure crop, a big crop every year-guaranteed by thirty-six inches of pure irrigating water there's a fortune in forty acres. Conservative figures show a profit of $1,000 every year in addition to a good living. The investment in horse power and implements is small, operating expenses are small which all adds to profit.

Changing expectations about interest rates could mean it will be a while before the stock market recovers its upward momentum, analysts said. Falling interest rates have been credited with helping drive the stock market to record highs as recently as Tuesday.

In the credit markets, interest rates rose in late trading Friday as traders expressed uncertainty over whether legislation to eliminate the federal budget deficit by 1991 will be found constitutional.

On the foreign exchange markets, the dollar recovered its steep losses of Thursday.

delegation by Congress of its budget-making powers.

Michael Davidson, representing the Senate, said the measure was an "experiment" that could prove workable. It "should not be terminated so quickly," he said.

The case presents one of the most far-reaching constitutional separation-of-powers controversies in years, perhaps since the Supreme Court in 1974 ordered then-President Richard Nixon to surrender his Watergate tapes and documents.

At stake also may be massive federal spending cuts for defense and domestic programs and the future of the American economy.

Twin challenges to Gramm-Rudman were brought by Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okla., leading 11 other members of Congress, and the National Treasury Employees Union. The law was called "Byzantine" by Lois Williams, attorney for the treasury union, which is unhappy with personnel cuts and cost-of-living freezes that could be required under the law.

The union said the law already has frozen a scheduled 3.1 percent pension increase for about 9,000 members, which was to take effect in January.

The chief focus of their attack are provisions in the law giving new budget-cutting powers to the non-elected heads of three agencies: the Congressional Budget Office, the White House Office of Management and Budget and the congressional General Accounting Office.

Use heat tape wisely

Heat tape can keep exposed pipes from freezing this winter, but can also be a fire hazard, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist.

"While heat tape itself is a safe product, it's often used improperly, and is a frequent cause of home fires," says Dr. Susan Quiring.

Heat tape contains electrical wires and insulation and produces heat when plugged into an electrical outlet.

One study showed that 40 percent of home fires involving heat tape were caused by the tape being incorrectly installed so that it lapped over itself, Quiring says.

The specialist advises consumers to take the following precautions when using heat tape:

-Check all heat tape wrapped pipes for proper installation and cracks in the plastic insulation or bare wires. Replace any damaged heat tape immediately.

-If you're buying new heat tapes or cables, know the diameter and the length of the pipe to be protected. Manufacturers usually suggest specific lengths for various pipe sizes to avoid either the hazards of overlapping or excess tape. It's better to have a heat tape that's too short for the pipe rather than too long.

-Not all heat tapes can be used with plastic pipes. Check to make certain the heat tape you are using is specifically recommended for the plastic pipe in question.

-Never use heat tape over the thermal insulation on a pipe or near flammable objects.

DR. GOTT Superstitions that aren't so

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

Superstitions, like genes, tend to be handed down from generation to generation. With time, these myths become codified into folklore. Here's a list of common superstitions - all of which are false.

Blood pressure of 100 plus the individual's age is the normal value.

Gargles and mouthwashes kill a significant number of germs in the throat and mouth.

Bad breath always means disease.

Daily bowel movements are necessary for good health.

Laxatives are always good for abdominal pain and are never dangerous.

Pain in the back always indicates kidney disease.

Pain in the abdomen always means an overloaded stomach.

Pimples and boils indicate "bad blood" and are not due to infection.

Boric acid strengthens the eyes.

Physical activity ensures longevity.

Eye-muscle exercises can eliminate the need for glasses.

A cold can be "broken up" or cured. You should feed a cold and starve a fever.

Punctures from rusty nails are more dangerous than wounds from clean nails.

Night air is unhealthy.

The need to debunk rank misinformation and superstitions has led authors Paul Dickson and Joseph Goulden to publish a book called "There Are Alligators in Our Sewers and Other American Credo's" (Delacorte Press, New York, 1983; paperback: Dell Books, 1984).

Among other misperceptions, the book addresses the following myths - all of which are incorrect:

Oysters are good only in months that contain an "R."

Vodka has no taste.

Sleepwalkers are immune to harm.

Owls can see in the dark.

Mice prefer cheese.

Ostriches bury their heads in the sand.

The amoeba is considered the lowest form of animal life.

The Texas Legislature has issued a mandate that the free enterprise system is to be taught in public schools of this state, and surely most citizens will agree with this.

If you don't see the need, you haven't been reading the results of some surveys taken in high schools across the country. For instance, a recent survey of 9,500 high school students made by Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton, N.J. found that:

-53 percent believe government ownership of business is good.

-25 percent believe owners receive an unfair profit. The students estimated net profit to be 50 percent and that the average dividend was 25 percent!

-50 percent said the government should guarantee jobs for everyone willing to work.

-45 percent thought workers should be paid according to what they needed rather than what they produced.

-82 percent believe monopolies are the rule in most of American industry and that there is no competition in business.

-62 percent thought that a worker should not produce all he can.

-61 percent do not believe in the need for a profit.

-52 percent believe in government ownership of banks, railroads, and steel mills. 45 percent think the government is responsible for providing jobs.

Students in this area may not reflect these opinions by the same percentages, but it is obvious that free enterprise needs to be presented fairly and the Texas legislature is attempting to do just that.

Textbooks and lesson plans to teach such an important subject are left to the discretion of individual school districts. A man in San Angelo, Bru Harvey, has developed an outstanding program for teaching free enterprise for children up to the sixth grade. His system is called "AmericaNomics", which is surely an apt title for free enterprise.

Taxes and fees

The Kiplinger Texas Letter, an information sheet trying to get established in this state, came out with a predictable prediction in its most recent issue when it stated that any candidate for governor would have to be prepared for a major tax increase in this state.

This prediction was based on the knowledge that Texas is losing state income steadily as the price of oil and gas goes down, thus reducing the amount of tax income from this industry.

At the same time, Texans have not let up on their demand for things which cost state tax money. Salary hikes for teachers and state employees, demands for new roads and highway improvements, federally mandated demands for huge sums to be spent on upgrading the prison system, similar federal demands for more state spending for mental health care, all adds up to a lot of demand for money.

Governor Mark White went into office in 1982 after he promised that there would be no tax hike during his administration. This campaign promise was made to counter a similar one by then incumbent Bill Clements, but it didn't work out that way.

Technically, Governor White may have kept his promise. State taxes have not gone up. But fees have been increased on just about everything so that Texans are now paying millions of dollars more into state coffers than they did before Mark White took over.

With the demand for more state revenue, some observers are saying that a state income tax cannot be avoided, yet any politician advocating such a tax has incurred the kiss of death because Texans are opposed to a state income tax in no uncertain terms. That is, those with an income are opposed to it. Those who believe it will apply only to others are not so strong against it.

At any rate, the Kiplinger people may be right in predicting higher state taxes. Then, again, we may be able to stave off a tax increase by merely raising the fee system.

According to Chief Justice Warren Burger, Federal judges around the country are under-paid and are having a hard time making ends meet on salaries of $80,000 a year.

It doesn't go for office rent. The government pays that. It doesn't go for office utilities. The government pays that, including the telephone. It doesn't go for use of the court room. The government furnishes that.

I don't know whether a judge has to pay for his own robe, but I believe if he doesn't squirm too much on the bench a robe ought to last him several years. The style never changes, so keeping up with robe fashions doesn't play a part. They don't have to pay for their clerks and secretaries. And they get paid on time every month, even if it is with borrowed money.

I've seen pictures of some Federal judges and while some of them are over-weight, none looked like he had a grocery bill of $80,000 a year.

As you know, Federal judges are appointed for life, so they don't have to spend money running for reelection. Of course, there may have been some political expense supporting a Senator before the Senator recommended him for appointment, but once in, that's over.

Moreover, except for serious misconduct, a judge can't be fired, not even for mis-interpreting the Constitution.

Apparently, figuring out how to live on $80,000 a year requires a judgment beyond the judicial capacity of the judges.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,

Republicans and Independents have a very good chance to take over local offices (from District Judge to County Surveyor) this year. But after today, there are only 22 days until the Feb. 3 deadline for signing up as candidates. So those Republicans and Independents ought to get their act together NOW to win those coveted jobs without having to pretend to be Democrats.

Moreover, such persons will be doing the average voters of Deaf Smith County a great favor by alleviating their wrenching dismay at making a hard choice on May 3 (Primary Election Day) when they will want to vote Republican for Kent Hance (or Loeffler or Clements) and other statewide Republicans etc., and yet vote for their favorite for local office who might otherwise be unhelpable because he/she is over on a Democratic ticket (or is an independent).

In general elections the last few times, our county's voters have favored Republican statewide candidates over Democrats. So with a little bit of honest organizing and utilizing of media excitement for the Primary, Republicans should be able to take over the county quite readily. It's even legal to persuade persons who have already announced as Democrats to change over to being Republicans (if they do so by Feb. 3).

Of course, there's a very fine opportunity for an individual in our county to run as an independent for a local office ("a pox on both your parties," I hear a large constituency of serious voters saying) and all one need do is two things: 1) sign up with the County Judge by the Feb. 3 deadline, and 2) line up signatures by July 7 of 215 registered voters who refuse (or neglect) to vote in either May party primary.

There may be some facts that I am unaware of that would affect the validity of these courses of logic, but it behooves every one of us who wants to move our local politics from its primitive one-party hypocrisy to a more sophisticated two-party-plus honesty to get crackin'!

In sincere love,
Al Dzulik

The Penultimate Word

ALFRED

Serendipity is a great word. It refers to the experience of going out looking for one result and being surprised by a completely different experience.

Most of the good things that have happened in my life have been serendipity experiences. Most of these experiences had very little impact at the time. Later, after some reflection, the impact becomes clear and the changes caused by the experience become clear. Most of the profound changes happen without warning and without notice. That's the serendipity of growth.

When I was a kid there was a man in our town called Alfred. He must have been a victim of Cerebral Palsy or Multiple Sclerosis. He talked with a slur and walked with great difficulty. He looked pathetic. So pathetic that most people refused to look at him. We ignored him so we would not be confronted with anything that was not nice. I suppose if we looked at him, we would have been confronted with the responsibility of trying to help him in some way.

Since we chose not to help, our only choice was to ignore. The result is that Alfred must have spent his days in abstract loneliness. Looking back on the experience I feel a great deal of his pain while I wonder why I did not feel any need to do anything.

Albert made a little money by selling papers on the street. Every day he would shuffle down to the paper office, purchase a few papers and struggle around town selling the news for five cents a copy. His profit was two cents. If he had a good day he would sell 25 papers.

He learned early that he had to choose his customers. He never bothered the genteel folks in town. He hit the beer joints. Drunks can be more accepting than "nice" folks. They would always buy all of his papers.

One day I decided to sell papers. I went to the office to buy a supply. I heard a commotion in the back room. When I went to investigate I found Alfred cornered by a bunch of newsboys. They had taunted him into sheer agony. I saw absolute fear in his eyes. I saw the anger there that he was helpless to express. I wish I could say that I jumped to his defense. I froze.

Years later I was trying to reconstruct my life and my feelings. I wondered where the empathy for the hurts of people come from. Not that I have an abundance of such feelings, but I wondered where the ones I had come from. Suddenly I saw Alfred cowering in a corner in panic.

Alfred probably thought he lived his life without accomplishing very much. He sold a few papers and died alone. One thing I know, he made an impact on me that changed my life. Since that day he has had a large share in whatever I happen to do.

That is serendipity.

Seeking risk-free society?

By RICHARD L. LESHNER
President

WASHINGTON - "That community is already in the process of dissolution," the eminent jurist Learned Hand said, "where each man begins to eye his neighbor as a possible enemy."

He didn't know the half of it.

In 1940 - shortly after Judge Hand began presiding over the Second Circuit Court of Appeals - 35,000 civil cases were brought before federal courts. By 1982, that figure had leaped to 206,000. A staggering 12 million suits were filed in state courts between 1978 and 1983.

The sheer number of cases is really only half the problem. The other half is that plaintiffs are winning exorbitant judgments on increasingly outlandish legal grounds - and that even when they aren't winning, the courts are taking their claims seriously.

Consider the following cases cited by a group seeking product liability reform: A body-builder sued a harness manufacturer over injuries incurred when a strap slipped when he was racing - with a refrigerator on his back. A man with a heart condition sued because he suffered an attack after pulling on a lawnmower starter rope. A woman rescued nine days after she attempted suicide by closing herself in the trunk of a car sued the automaker for failing to provide an inside latch.

Only a few such cases are won. But defense costs add up, and the occasional big judgment - the body-builder got $1 million - leaves gunshy defenders eager to settle.

These cases survive in part because tort laws have been stretched beyond reason. In product liability, for example, damages are awarded not just for actual defects, but for failure to provide adequate warnings, for injuries incurred in misuse and for injuries incurred by products up to 30 years old - even though the dangers could not have been known at the time of manufacture.

But there is another factor, summed up nicely by Gilbert and Sullivan: "Down went the owners - greedy men whom hope of gain allured: Oh, dry the starting tear, for they were heavily insured."

All too often, suits are aimed at "greedy" big business and the "deep pockets" of their insurance companies. But those pockets are tapped out - the insurance industry lost $3.8 billion last year - and the costs must be passed on.

For example, the board of directors for two Virginia retirement facilities learned its liability premiums will jump from $7,000 to up to $70,000. Off-sued businesses such as those operating motor vehicles or handling hazardous substances may not be able to get insurance at all.

But the real price is yet to be paid. Companies are risking going without insurance, while others may close and put thousands out of work. Physicians in high-risk specialties are deserting their practices in droves. Drugs like the whooping cough vaccine are unavailable because of huge lawsuits over side effects. Businesses are wary of innovations - fearing liability for yet-to-be discovered dangers.

What can we do? I'll reflect on that further in my next column. But first we must recognize that by eyeing our neighbor once too often - by seeking a risk-free society through the courts - we risk losing the benefits of living in a civilized community.

Third close game in four outings

Whitefaces edge Tascosa 53-51

Close games are becoming commonplace for the Hereford High School varsity boys' basketball teams, and Friday night was no exception when Hereford edged Tascosa in a road game, 53-51.

The victory improves the Whitefaces' District 3-5A record to 3-4 and their season record to 8-11.

In junior varsity action, Hereford fell to Tascosa, 65-62. The Herd junior varsity is now 6-11 for the season.

Hereford High School has basketball games just one night this week, on Thursday at home against Lubbock High. The varsity game is set for 7:45 p.m. at the Hereford High School gym, and the junior varsity game starts at 6 p.m. at the Stanton Junior High School gym.

Bobby Baker poured in 24 points, including 13 in the second quarter, to help power the Whiteface varsity to its 53-51 win over Tascosa. Rodney McCracken scored six points in the first quarter and also finished the game in double figures with 10 points.

Rodney Torres, who had four assists in the game, added seven points to the Herd scoring attack.

Hereford made 17 of 45 field goal attempts and 19 of 26 free throws, compared to 21 of 27 field goal attempts and nine of 16 free throws by Tascosa. Baker made 10 of 12 free throws for Hereford.

Tascosa held a 32-30 halftime lead before Hereford moved into the lead in the third quarter, 42-38.

In a balanced rebounding effort for the Whitefaces, Jerry Brown grabbed eight rebounds, McCracken seven, Baker 6, and Doug Watts five. Baker had seven steals and McCracken had six steals.

The Herd played without starter Stefan Hacker, who was out of the lineup because of an illness.

The lead changed hands several times in the junior varsity contest. Tascosa held a 23-18 lead when the first quarter, and Hereford held a 37-32 halftime lead. Tascosa then moved ahead of Hereford, 52-48, in the third quarter enroute to the 65-62 win over Hereford.

Kyle Streun led Hereford with 21 points. Todd Weaver scored 11 points, Casey Daniel added nine points, and David Manchee had six points.

Other statistical leaders included Streun and Vincent Brown with six rebounds each, Kent Walterscheid with four steals, and Manchee with three assists.

win, lose & DREW

Bears are favored over L.A. Rams

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — What John Robinson can't understand is how his Los Angeles Rams can still be so underrated after all they've done.

"We're convinced that if we're able to play the way we can and expect to, we'll win the game," Robinson said Friday, two days before the National Football Conference championship game against the Chicago Bears, 11-point favorites at home.

"We were a 10-point underdog against the 49ers," when the Rams went to San Francisco and beat the defending Super Bowl champions to win the NFC West title. "A few years ago against Dallas in Dallas, we were a 10-point or 11-point underdog and won. I guess we're used to it."

Then he shrugged. "In a championship game, I'm a little surprised, I guess. ... We've won 12 games. We're the Western Division champions. We beat Dallas, shut Dallas out. When you get at this level, I don't think there's anybody that can just write off one team or another."

Asked whether the Bears, who came within one victory of a perfect record, are a great team, Robinson replied emphatically: "I think they have a chance to develop into a great football team, but they're not one now."

Robinson and Bears Coach Mike Ditka were asked what role the vocal Chicago fans, the so-called "12th man," might have on Sunday's game, the final step to the Super Bowl.

"The fans aren't playing," Ditka sniffed. "At least I haven't heard about any that are going to be suited up. Whatever they do, it doesn't matter."

Robinson said they'd have no impact, "unless we let 'em. I think the greatest thing in the world is to walk into a stadium where every single person except one or two is rooting against you. I think the excitement of that is dramatic, because the nicest thing in the world is to walk out with them all very quiet and have won on the road."

All the talk about brutal weather conditions has vanished, now that the game-time temperature is expected to be close to 40 degrees.

HHS varsity girls suffer

54-47 loss at Tascosa Friday

A cold fourth quarter hurt the Hereford High School varsity girls' basketball teams Friday night when the Whitefaces lost at Tascosa High School 54-47.

The game was close throughout the first three quarters, and Hereford trailed by one point, 44-43, at the end of the third quarter.

The loss drops Hereford below the 500 mark in District 3-5A at 4-5. Hereford's season record is 5-8.

In junior varsity action Friday, Hereford lost to Tascosa 48-34.

The Hereford varsity showed some good team efforts despite losing to Tascosa, Coach Larry Sowers reported. Hereford had 18 assists in the game, including five by Susie Kalka, four each by Emma Gonzales and Natalie Sims, and three by Shelly Edwards.

Sims was the leading scorer for Hereford with 20 points. Edwards scored 14 points and Sarah Fish totaled seven points. Edwards led in rebounds with 12, and Sims led in steals with five.

As a team, Hereford made 23 of 54 field goal attempts. The Whitefaces had just two free throw attempts in the whole game, making one of them.

This week, the HHS girls' teams play at home against Lubbock High on Thursday. The varsity game is set for 6 p.m. at the HHS gym, and the junior varsity game is scheduled for 7:45 p.m. at the Stanton Junior High School gym.

A boxscore for Friday's junior varsity game will appear in the Tuesday issue of the Brand.

HEREFORD VARSITY: Natalie Sims 10-19 0-0 20; Shelly Edwards 7-15 0-0 14; Sarah Fish 3-4 1-2 7; Kim Williams 1-1 0-0 2; Emma Gonzales 1-0 0-0 2; Susie Kalka 1-2 0-0 2. Totals: 23-54 1-2 47.

Rebounds: Edwards 12, Sims 5, Fish 4; steals: Sims 5, Gonzales and Kalka 3 each; assists: Kalka 5, Gonzales and Sims 4 each, Edwards 2.

Jim Thorpe Trophy

Top NFL player

Walter Payton is chosen as the MVP

By Murray Olderman

CHICAGO (NEA) — Walter Payton, who has set virtually every record possible for a running back in his 11-year pro career, has been chosen as the most valuable player this season in the National Football League.

The 31-year-old star of the Chicago Bears was named today by Newspaper Enterprise Association as the winner of the Jim Thorpe Memorial Trophy.

Two other running backs — Marcus Allen of the Los Angeles Raiders and Roger Craig of the San Francisco 49ers — trailed Payton in the voting conducted by NEA among the head coaches and offensive and defensive coordinators of the 28 teams in the NFL. Last year's winner, Dan Marino of the Miami Dolphins, also was named prominently.

Payton's selection breaks a four-year grip by quarterbacks (Ken Anderson, Dan Fouts, Joe Theismann and Marino) on the MVP prize.

He is also the second Chicago Bears player ever to receive it. When the Thorpe Trophy was inaugurated by NEA in 1955, wide receiver Harlon Hill of the Bears was the initial recipient.

Payton is receiving this honor for the second time. He first won the Thorpe award in 1977 during his third year in the league when he set a personal high of 1,852 yards rushing.

In 1985, Payton was the driving, inspirational force for a Bears team that dominated the NFL. In the course of the season, he set still another record by rushing for more than 100 yards in nine consecutive games. (The Raiders' Allen tied that feat in the last game of the season.)

Payton's 1,551 yards gained on the ground in 1985 raised his career total to 14,860. He still holds the all-time pro record of 275 yards rushing in a single game, set against Minnesota in 1977.

The man they call "Sweetness" has been a monument to durability and productivity. But beyond that, he has set a standard for motivation that can not be duplicated by any player in his time.

Coach Mike Ditka of the Bears calls Payton "the very best" because of his "will to play the game, the way he plays the game, the way he's played for 11 years with the enthusiasm he displays at running back."

It's a position in which the average tenure is four years, and the bumps and bruises begin to affect performance negatively even before that.

At 5-foot-11 and 200 pounds, Payton is not inordinately big for his job. But the soft-spoken man from Columbia, Miss. — a No. 1 pick of the Bears in 1975 from Jackson State — is a tremendous blocker as well as a great runner. He's also a valuable receiver coming out of the backfield and even a passer who has thrown for seven touchdowns in his career.

Billy Williams waits to go into hall of fame

By HAL BOCK
 AP Sports Writer

The appointed guardians of baseball's Hall of Fame have proudly ushered Willie McCovey into Cooperstown, while once again denying admission to Billy Williams, compounding a continuing misde-meanor.

They examined Williams' credentials — a .290 career batting average, 20 points higher than McCovey; 2,711 hits, 500 more than McCovey; 1,475 runs batted in, 80 less than McCovey; and 426 home runs, 95 less than McCovey — and advised him to apply again next year.

Williams fell four slim ballots short of election — nine-tenths of a percentage point shy of the "pure 75 percent" the baseball writers require. Last year, they shut the doors by just two votes on the late Nelson Fox in his final year of eligibility, turning away a man whose induction would have only added luster to the shrine.

Williams is luckier. He has 10 more swings and almost certainly will make up the narrow deficit in the 1987 election when no first-time heavyweights, like McCovey this year, move up for consideration.

That is not the point. Williams ought to be marching into Cooperstown right now. He shouldn't have been forced to wait around for another year. He shouldn't have had to wait the five years since he first became eligible.

It is sad to report that there are some otherwise responsible members of the Baseball Writers fraternity who absolutely refuse to vote for a candidate in his first year of Hall of Fame eligibility. Never mind that his credentials will not change, that he will not get one more hit or record one more victory. These voters just feel that election in the first year — an achievement denied even the legendary Joe DiMaggio, who later was chosen the greatest living player of the century — is too much of an honor to bestow on any mere mortal.

It's one thing to protect the integrity of the Hall of Fame and to take seriously the responsibility of choosing its members. But it's quite another to be fanatical about it.

The BBWAA electors are far from perfect. They proved that when Hank Aaron and Willie Mays were not unanimous choices for Cooperstown. If some voters could find a way to leave them off their ballots, then certainly Billy Williams' absence should not be a shock.

Not a shock, perhaps. Just wrong. McCovey's selection is completely justified. He hit more home runs (521) than any other left-handed hitter in National League history. And if his credentials are good enough for induction — as his and Williams' certainly are — then he ought to be elected as soon as he is eligible and not be made to cool his heels in the waiting room, undergoing the scrutiny of an annual review.

Thirty-three voters supported Don Larsen, a distinctly ordinary pitcher with an 81-91 career record who owns one of baseball's singularly spectacular accomplishments — a perfect game in the World Series. Hopefully, those 33 Larsen voters found room on their ballots, too, for Billy Williams, whose production spanned 18 seasons, not one day.

McCovey became the 16th first-year candidate to be inducted. "I didn't know so few players went in in their first year," he said. "I'm thrilled to get this in my first year and not have to go through the anticipation year after year."

Meanwhile, Billy Williams is still anticipating.

'Sherrill Monster' breaks free of chains

An AP Sports Analysis By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

A year ago there was a lot of behind-the-scenes smirking at Jackie Sherrill, his big bucks contract, and his .500 winning percentage.

All you hear now after the Cotton Bowl is "Break Up the Aggies!"

Texas A&M's 36-16 victory over Auburn and a 10-2 record propelled the Aggies into sixth place in the final Associated Press poll.

It's a frightening prospect to other Southwest Conference schools that the "Sherrill Monster" finally has broken free of its chains.

After 18 years of frustration, the Aggies are back on top of the SWC and there could be some hard times ahead for schools trying to catch up.

An A&M team that led the SWC in total defense and offense has plenty of ammunition left.

The Aggies lose only two players on defense (one being Cotton Bowl defensive MVP Domingo Bryant) but return an aggressive group anchored by All-American linebacker Johnny Holland.

A&M loses six players on offense including All-American lineman Doug Williams, running back Anthony Toney and wide receiver Jeff Nelson. However, the Aggies return quarterback Kevin Murray and a horde of talent.

"We're all excited about '86," said Sherrill, who said all along this was the year the Aggies should really flex their muscles.

Arkansas, Baylor, Southern Methodist, and Texas stand the best chances of keeping the Aggie invasion off-balance.

Arkansas finished the season ranked No. 12 in the AP poll after a heartening 18-17 victory over Arizona State of the Pac-10 in the Holiday Bowl.

Coach Ken Hatfield's Razorbacks will catch both Texas and Baylor on the road this year. A poor kicking game kept the Hogs out of the Cotton Bowl in 1985.

Baylor, the only SWC team to defeat the Aggies, showed what a dynamite team it had by blasting Louisiana State 21-7 in the Liberty Bowl and leaving big hopes for this year. The Bears finished 17th in the AP poll.

The Bears will return quarterback Cody Carlson, who passed the Bengal Tigers dizzy at Memphis. They are also deep in running backs and have tough defense. Baylor does have to play at A&M this year.

SMU could be down some because of probation but don't underestimate Coach Bobby Collins. He's a cunning competitor and don't forget the Mustangs redshirted every member of their freshman class except for one player. It would be a mistake for the Aggies to overlook the Mustangs, particularly since they have to come to Texas Stadium to play them.

Then there's Texas and the circus revolving around Coach Fred Akers, who fired four of his assistants. Ronnie Thompson, one of the assistants, said Akers told him he had to do it to save his job.

This is not a pretty picture but

Texas definitely has the talent to contend for the SWC title in the fall. Apparently Akers' new offensive coordinator will call the plays and that can't be all bad.

If the Longhorns can just get some consistent production from quarterback Brett Stafford and a scoring punch inside the 20 they could be salty.

Changing assistants might be the answer. Recall that Sherrill brought aboard a new offensive coordinator and an offensive line coach and they were keys to igniting the Aggies' offense.

Texas Tech and Rice have new coaches and they shouldn't be expected to produce instant winners. David McWilliams left Texas as defensive coordinator to replace the fired Jerry Moore at Tech. There is some excellent talent to work with including strong-armed quarterback Billy Tolliver.

Rice was shocked when Watson

Brown left for Vanderbilt and new Coach Jerry Berndt of the University of Pennsylvania faces the challenge of his life in bringing respectability back to the Owls. Berndt won four straight Ivy League titles but the ivy has cactus on it in these parts.

The Houston Cougars were a mystery team in the country can solve the puzzle it's Bill Yeoman, who had the Cougars in the Cotton Bowl just two years ago.

Texas Christian could bounce back strong but Coach Jim Wacker must sweat NCAA action because of the slush-fund scandal Wacker unearthed last September.

Of course, the Aggies, Texas Tech, and Texas also have their football programs under the NCAA microscope.

That doesn't stop football life from going on in the SWC.

And right now everyone is running Sherrill scared.

1985 NFL

All-Pro team

By Murray Olderman

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — The Chicago Bears and the Los Angeles Raiders, both notorious for their aggressiveness, dominate the National Football League All-Pro team announced today by Newspaper Enterprise Association.

The NFL All-Pro team was selected through an NEA poll of the 28 head coaches along with their offensive and defensive coordinators.

The Bears (15-1) placed running back Walter Payton and tackle Jim Covert on the offensive unit; along with middle linebacker Mike Singletary on the defensive unit. Chicago defensive tackle Dan Hampton and placekicker Kevin Butler gained spots on the second-team All-Pro squad in close voting.

The Raiders (12-4) placed running back Marcus Allen and tight end Todd Christensen on offense; and end Howie Long and cornerback Mike Haynes on defense. Long was the top vote-getter of all, named on every ballot.

Here is the 1985 NEA All-Pro NFL team:

OFFENSE:

Quarterback — DAN FOUTS, San Diego (34 years old, 6-foot-3, 205 pounds); Running Back — WALTER PAYTON, Chicago (31, 5-11, 202); Running Back — MARCUS ALLEN, L.A. Raiders (25, 6-2, 205); Wide Receiver — LOUIS LIPPS, Pittsburgh (23, 5-10, 190); Wide Receiver — MIKE QUICK, Philadelphia (26, 6-2, 190); Tight End — TODD CHRISTENSEN, Raiders (29, 6-3, 230); Tackle — ANTHONY MUNOZ, Cincinnati (27, 6-6, 278); Tackle — JIM COVERT, Chicago (25, 6-4, 271); Guard — RUSS GRIMM, Washington (25, 6-3, 275); Guard — RANDY CROSS, San Francisco (31, 6-3, 265); Center — DWIGHT STEPHENSON, Miami (28, 6-2, 255); Placekicker — NICK LOWERY, Kansas City, 28, 6-4, 189.

DEFENSE:

End — MARK GASTINEAU, N.Y. Jets (29, 6-5, 265); End — HOWIE LONG, Raiders (26, 6-5, 270); Tackle — RANDY WHITE, Dallas (33, 6-4, 268); Nose Guard — JOE KLECKO, Jets (32, 6-3, 263); Inside Linebacker — MIKE SINGLETARY, Chicago (27, 6-0, 228); Inside Linebacker — KARL MECKLENBURG, Denver (25, 6-3, 250); Outside Linebacker — LAWRENCE TAYLOR, N.Y. Giants (25, 6-3, 237); Outside Linebacker — ANDRE TIPPETT, New England (26, 6-3, 241); Cornerback — MIKE HAYNES, Raiders (32, 6-2, 190); Cornerback — ERIC WRIGHT, San Francisco (25, 6-1, 180); Safety — KENNY EASLEY, Seattle (27, 6-3, 206); Safety — WES HOPKINS, Philadelphia (24, 6-1, 210); Punter — ROHN STARK, Indianapolis (25, 6-3, 195).

The American Football Conference corralled 15 choices to 10 by the National Football Conference (four down lineman and four linebackers were chosen on defense; and a punter and placekicker were also named).

The virtually unanimous choices were Payton, Munoz and Stephenson on offense; Long, Singletary, Taylor, Tippet, Haynes and Easley on defense.

Lipps at 23 and in his second year with the Steelers is the youngest All-Pro. The Cowboys' White, a decade older, is the veteran of the group.

Making the NEA All-Pro roster for the first time were Lipps, Covert, Tippet, Hopkins, Mecklenburg and both kickers, Lowery and Stark.

Mecklenburg is a fascinating addition because just a year ago he was a reserve lineman making the transition to linebacker after the Broncos picked him in the 12th and last round of the 1983 draft.

Closest races for positions were: at quarterback, where the veteran Fouts barely edged Dan Marino of the Dolphins; at wide receiver, James Lofton and Steve Largent challenging Quick and Lipps; at guard, longtime Patriot great John Hannah giving way to Grimm and Cross; at cornerback, the 49ers' Wright nosing out Everson Walls of Dallas; and at safety, hard-hitting Hopkins getting the nod over Deron Cherry of Kansas City.

The NEA second-team All-Pro NFL squad:

Offense: QB — Dan Marino, Miami; RB — Freeman McNeill, Jets, and Roger Craig, San Francisco; TE — Mickey Shuler, Jets; WR — James Lofton, Green Bay, and Steve Largent, Seattle; T — Chuck Hinton, Indianapolis, and Keith Fahnhorst, San Francisco; G — Mike Munchak, Houston, and John Hannah, New England; C — Bill Bryan, Denver; PK — Kevin Butler, Chicago.

Defense: E — Leonard Marshall, Giants, and Rulon Jones, Denver; T — Dan Hampton, Chicago; NG — Joe Nash, Seattle; ILB — Lance Mehl, Jets, and Harry Carson, Giants; OLB — Mike Merriweather, Pittsburgh, and Keena Turner, San Francisco; CB — Everson Walls, Dallas, and Raymond Clayborn, New England; S — Deron Cherry, Kansas City, and Bo Eason, Houston; P — Reggie Roby, Miami.

Play Sunday for Super Bowl berth

Miami, Patriots are contrasting teams

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Football Writer

MIAMI (AP) — The American Football Conference championship game on Sunday presents the havenot New England Patriots against the have-plenty Miami Dolphins in a decided study in contrasts.

The Dolphins, 5-0 in conference title matchups, are shooting for a record sixth appearance in the Super Bowl. It would be their second consecutive trip to the National Football League title game and third in four seasons.

Grocer advertises, 'Eat the Dolphins'

GREENFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Grocer Bud Foster is offering dolphin steaks to customers who are backing the New England Patriots fans in Sunday's American Football Conference championship game against the Miami Dolphins.

Foster said he bought 100 pounds of mahimahi, which is a fish, not a mammal, Thursday and has been promoting the steaks in newspaper and radio advertisements.

Foster said he thinks the Patriots will eat up the Dolphins on Sunday and he wants his customers to have a chance to do the same. "They can chew on the dolphins while they're watching the game."

The Patriots went 22 years without a playoff victory until a 26-14 victory over the New York Jets in the AFC wild-card game. New England, trying for its first trip to the Super Bowl, would be the first team ever to get there by winning three playoff games on the road.

Might the Patriots, 9-7 in 1984 and little more than a dark-horse playoff bet this season, be satisfied with just getting this far? After an 11-5 regular-season and playoff victories over the Jets and the Los Angeles Raiders, might the Patriots be ready for a letdown?

"It's possible," Coach Raymond Berry conceded Friday. "I don't think it will happen to our football team but it would be natural."

If it happens, it might be the biggest edge Miami has in what shapes up as an even game.

The Dolphins and Patriots split their two regular season contests with the Patriots scoring one point more — 44-43.

New England, which has lost just two of its last 13 games, is also playing more consistently than the Dolphins. Miami has won eight straight but had to struggle to beat Cleveland 24-21 last week. New England has displayed the more balanced offense, has played better defense and its special teams have excelled, scoring three touchdowns in the last four weeks by recovering fumbles on kickoffs.

Miami's edge stems from its playoff experience and that of Coach Don Shula, the ability of quarterback Dan Marino to play at his best in critical situations, and the home field.

The home field is the Orange Bowl, where the Patriots haven't won in 18 tries. Some Patriots cite the losing streak as a motivating factor.

Shula said he thinks the game may turn on whether Miami can stop New England's running game and force the Patriots to pass. Miami limited New England to 122 yards in a 30-27 win over the Pats at the Orange Bowl a month ago, but surrendered 251 yards to Cleveland last week.

"We just came apart," Shula said of that performance.

Berry provided the simplest formula possible.

"The key on defense will be to stop them," he said. "The key on offense will be to score points."

Various pieces of wood and metal artwork are on display this month at Deaf Smith County Library. The works, which were created by Bob Baum, were made from scrap metal and wood. Materials such as welding rods, nails, paint buckets and pieces of barrels were used to make rocking cowboys, a skier, a balancing fisherman, buggy and horse and other sculptures.

Drunk driving issue discussed by chapter

Members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Sorority, chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, met Tuesday evening for their first meeting of the new year in the home of Margie Waddell.

The cultural program was presented by Connie Matthews on the issue of drunk driving. Matthews read from a statistical report compiled by the MADD Organization, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, and compared members answers with those expressed in a nation-wide poll on drunk driving and where the responsibilities lie taken by Glamour Magazine. Serving as hostesses for the evening were Margie Waddell and Sharon Bodner.

During the general meeting a thank you was read from chapter adopted sister Billie Brown for her Christmas present and Sharon Bodner thanked her secret sister for her birthday present.

The next chapter meeting will be held Jan. 21 with Oleta Tisdale presenting the program on "Women's Concerns." Mary Brinkman and Charla Edwards will serve as hostesses.

Jody Blackwell, social chairman, announced the next social to be a couples crazy T-shirt party to be held on Jan. 24 at her home.

The February Valentine Dance held in honor of the chapter sweethearts will be held this year at the V.F.W. Hall on Feb. 15. The band, "Free Whiskey" will play for the occasion.

Also, announced was the annual ways and means volleyball tournament. Its date has been set for March 15 at the La Plata gymnasium.

Present for the meeting were Brenda Thomas, Peggy Hyer, Ronna Howell, Cindy Forrest, Matthews, Blackwell, Susan Shaw, Waddell and Bodner.

Abundant Life

NO ABSOLUTE FREEDOM

By Bob Wear

WE HEAR and read many things about rights and freedom and doing as we please; about permissiveness, and free love, and free thought. Regardless of the rightness or wrongness of some of these viewpoints, it is a fact that there is 'no absolute freedom.' All of us are submitting to something, because everybody obeys something or somebody. We surely understand that if we rebel or throw off one controlling influence, we, in the process of doing so, submit to another. Of course, this action may be a wise move or it may not be.

WHEN WE RESIST some inherent power or necessary control, we are obeying some false power or harmful control. When we are deliberately refusing to obey some rightful authority, we are obeying some wrongful authority. When we are openly defying some just law, we are obeying some unjust law. If we take an honest look at many human problems and difficulties, we will find that they are traceable to the fact that there has been submission to the wrong controls.

IT HAS BEEN observed that some folk, in their head long plunge into what they mistakenly considered freedom have found themselves under the worst known form of slavery. This is sad. The greatest freedom known to mankind will be found in obedience to the best known standards of conduct.

"HAVE WE SO LONG ridiculed authority in the family, discipline in education, rules in art, decency in conduct, and law in the state that our liberation has brought us close to chaos in the family, and the school, in morals, arts, ideas, and government?" -Will Durant. This is something for us to consider.

WE APPRECIATE 'our freedom', but let us, all of us, resolve not to abuse it and misuse it so that it works to destroy itself.

Turkey

The dark meat of the turkey is dark because it has been supplied with blood vessels. The white meat of the breasts — the muscles that power the wings — indicates the bred-for-eating turkeys are weak fliers at best. Wild turkeys, on the other hand, may be able to fly a mile, hitting 45 mph.

Windbreaks need to be planned

"Planning a windbreak that will fit your needs is the first and most important step in growing a windbreak," states Jaime Neeper, Soil Conservationist with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service in Hereford.

Now is an excellent time to start planning because the Tierra Blanca

Soil and Water Conservation District is again sponsoring its Windbreak Seeding program. Through the SCS, a landowner can order from the Colorado State Forest Service and the Texas State Forest Service trees that are adapted to this area for use in a windbreak at a reasonable cost. Also, the SCS provides technical assistance in planning and maintaining a windbreak to meet an individual's needs.

How do you go about in deciding what type of windbreak to grow?

Neeper suggests asking yourself these four questions:

- (1) What do I need the windbreak to do?
- (2) How big of a windbreak do I want to grow?
- (3) What kind of trees and shrubs do I put in my windbreak?
- (4) How do I take care of the windbreak once I get it planted?

Answering these questions will guide you in planning a windbreak to suit you.

A windbreak can serve just one need, but provide several benefits at the same time. It can be used to provide wind and snow protection for a house, farmstead, recreational area or cattle, and add beauty and attractiveness to a farmstead, and even attract birds. Last year, Deaf Smith County asked the District to assist with the construction of its Walcott Recreational Park. The cost of buying a windscreen around its two tennis courts was extremely prohibitive, so a plan was drawn up to plant a windbreak to do the same job. It will take longer for the windbreak to begin to provide adequate wind protection, but the trees in the windbreak will also add beauty and shade to the park at just a fraction of the cost of a windscreen.

How big of a windbreak depends on the size of the area protected, space available to plant a windbreak, spacing requirements of different types of trees, purpose of the windbreak, how simple or elaborate of windbreak design is required, and the cost of the trees and other items to maintain a windbreak.

In Deaf Smith County, a windbreak should be grown on the north and west sides of the protected area. The most damaging and cold winds come from the north and west during winter and spring. The windbreak also needs to be at least 100 feet from a house or other building so that blowing snow slowed down by the windbreak will fall in the area between the windbreak and the structure, preventing deep drifts around the house. Also, the length of the windbreak depends on how far the windbreak needs to be planted on the north and west sides to provide protection.

You can design a very simple, yet effective windbreak of Eastern Red Cedar that provides excellent wind and snow protection. A windbreak to provide beauty as well as wind and snow protection can consist of two to seven rows of different conifers (evergreens), hardwoods (deciduous trees), and shrubs.

The windbreak doesn't even have to be planted in a straight line on the north and west sides. The row or rows of trees can be planted in a graceful, curving design. The number of rows that you want to plant will be limited to area you have available to plant, since rows need to be spaced at least 20 feet apart.

(Editor's Note: Next week, The Brand will publish an article detailing the trees and shrubs which are adapted to and are available to this area, the cost of establishing a windbreak and how to design a windbreak. In two weeks will be an article on windbreak maintenance, insect pest control, and weed control.)

Farm

Test run set on ag questionnaire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau is getting ready for the 1987 census of agriculture, a nose count that will involve questionnaires to be filled out two years from now by more than 2 million farmers and ranchers.

A test run will begin this month and conclude in March to help determine if farm families have information available to answer new questions on the census forms, and how to improve the collection of information, wording and instructions.

The bureau, which is part of the Commerce Department, will visit a sampling of farmers in eight states to obtain comments on the proposed questionnaires. States are California, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Illinois, South Dakota, Texas, Florida and Washington.

Conducted at five-year intervals, the census of agriculture is the primary source of state and county information on farm numbers, acreage, crop and livestock production, sales and expenses, the agency said.

Questionnaires for the actual census will be mailed out at the end of 1987 and will seek information about 1987 farming operations.

INFRARED SCANNING MAY REPLACE THE "FARMER'S ALMANAC" as a guide for crop planning. No. This isn't a science fiction story but part of what is really happening in today's agricultural world. According to Charles Kruse, Missouri Department of Agriculture, today's farmers can already scan their crops for potential problems like inconsistencies in fertilizer application by flying over the fields and taking pictures using 35mm infrared film. Inconsistencies would show up as light pink blotches against an otherwise dark red background. Infrared images can also alert a farmer to plants beginning to show stress. Whenever a plant experiences stress, the internal leaf structure becomes altered and the plant loses biomass - something infrared images can point out. An alerted farmer can now closely inspect the plants, diagnose the problem and take corrective action that may prevent unnecessary crop loss.

Budgeting, record keeping, enterprise analysis and computer applications will be the topics of the January 13, Monday night session of the Farm Management Short Course scheduled from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the club room of the Hereford Community Center. Dr. Steve Amosson, Farm Management Specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will be the instructor for the evening.

Estate planning will be discussed at the Jan. 14, Tuesday night session of the short course. Dr. Wayne Hayenga, Management specialist and attorney with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service from College Station will discuss the various aspects of estate planning for both farmers and non-farmers. All persons are invited to participate in this final session. It will be adapted to all income groups and will deal with a variety of estate planning situations. The Tuesday night program also will be held in the Hereford Community Center.

Both of these sessions are free and open to all interested persons.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

340 youths for HYF Stock

The Hereford Young Farmers Youth Club registered to show 340 animals in the Jan. 23-25 in the Bull Barn, according to Charles Neeper, secretary.

Registration includes 181 Deaf Smith County entries, most coming from Farmer, Castro and Chisum Counties. Neeper said the number of animals was up 100 from last year. More hogs and lambs despite a slight drop in steer numbers. Hogs top the list with 95 entered. The show also includes 200 steers and 200 lambs will be shown. Twenty pigs of various breeds.

Weigh-ins will begin Tuesday, Jan. 22, with 40 steers and broilers at 6 p.m. Weighing continues with Deaf Smith hogs to step on the scales at 6 p.m. and 100 weight at 6-6 p.m. Lambs will be weighed at 6 p.m. for county entrants, and 6-7:30 p.m. for the four-county entrants.

Judging starts at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday with the beef and pig Steeple county agent from Borger, will judge the broilers.

Steers enter the ring at 6 p.m. Wednesday for judging by judge Larry Boleman, a beef cattle specialist from Texas A&M.

Thursday at 5 p.m. hogs will be judged by Dave McCarroll, vocational agriculture teacher from Clinton, Okla.

On Friday, Meivin Chisum, a banker at Earth, will start lamb judging at 5 p.m.

The stock sale is scheduled for Saturday morning.

SCS windbreak seminar set

A seminar on windbreaks will be sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service on Tuesday, Jan. 21, at the Hereford Community Center game room from 7 until 8:30 p.m.

Color slides will be presented to show the various species and weed control will be discussed. Assistance will be available for designing a windbreak.

The last day to order windbreak trees will be March 1. Delivery will be in late March.

Water isn't cheap. So naturally, you need corn hybrids with the genetic potential to come along with you and yield the highest level your management can reach. That's why 3377 and 3186 make the perfect combination on the Plains. Plant full-season 3186 on your best land where it can express its full potential. Then round out your irrigated corn program with earlier maturing 3377. As companions, they give you a powerful combination of high yield and performance characteristics you need.

3377 Superior yielder. Outstanding heat and drought tolerance. Excellent for delayed plantings. Tall wide-leaved hybrid with good ground shading. Large, girthy ears.

3186 What a yielder! Excellent heat and drought tolerance. Tall, semi-upright leaved hybrid. Superior standability. Excellent late season plant health plus MDMV and heat smut resistance.

Texas Crops Report

Farmers waiting on weather, farm bill specifics

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Cold weather, including some scattered snow and freezing rain at mid-week, hampered farming operations this week and put added pressure on livestock feeding, said Dr. Zerle L. Carpenter, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A little cotton remained to be harvested in western areas and in the plains but operations were winding down rapidly, Carpenter said in his weekly report on the state's agriculture. He noted that the 1985 cotton crop was a good one in most locations, with yields and quality generally above average.

The sugarcane harvest continued in the Rio Grande Valley and is past the halfway point. Vegetable harvesting also was active, with lettuce and carrots moving to market.

In the Winter Garden of Southwest Texas, farmers were busy harvesting carrots, spinach, broccoli and cabbage.

With the new crop year looming ahead, farmers were busy getting land in shape for spring planting, Carpenter said. Operations were delayed by fall rains in many locations, but now farmers are starting to catch up. However, many farmers are waiting on details of the government's 1986 farm program before making specific cropping plans.

In the Rio Grande Valley, farmers are getting ready to begin preplant irrigations on cotton land due to the lack of topsoil moisture.

Small grains in western areas are being hampered by lack of topsoil moisture, and in central areas greenbugs, grain mites and leaf rust are causing some problems, noted Carpenter. Most wheat in the plains is dormant due to recent cold weather. All this has combined to reduce grazing on small grains, so some stocker cattle operators are moving animals off these pastures and are feeding hay.

Reports from district Extension directors showed these conditions.

PANHANDLE: Cotton harvesting is winding down and should be complete with another week of open weather. Wheat is dormant due to the recent cold weather, and some operators are moving stocker cattle off these pastures. Farmers are preparing cropland for spring planting. Cattle feeding is active.

SOUTH PLAINS: Harvesting of cotton and sorghum is virtually complete, with generally good yields. Farmers are busy preparing land for spring crops. A lack of topsoil moisture along with the recent cold weather is hampering wheat growth. Livestock are in good condition, with feeding active.

ROLLING PLAINS: Harvesting of the 1985 cotton crop is virtually complete, with above average yields of one-third to one-half bale per acre. Lack of moisture and recent cold weather has slowed wheat growth, so some stockmen are moving stocker cattle off wheat pastures and feeding hay. Stocker health is good, with death losses below 1985 levels.

NORTH CENTRAL: Wheat and oats are making only limited growth, with greenbugs causing some problems. A few peanuts remain to be harvested; recent cold weather caused some losses. A few pecans also remain to be harvested; a lot of nuts are of low quality. Livestock feeding is in full swing.

NORTHEAST: Wheat, clovers and ryegrass are providing good grazing for livestock but there is some supplemental feeding. Some truck farmers are getting land ready for early spring crops. A few pecans remain to be harvested.

FAR WEST: Cotton harvesting continues where weather conditions permit. Some parts of the region got light snow. Harvesting of pecans and chili also remains active. Livestock are in good condition, with feeding active.

WEST CENTRAL: Topsoil moisture is short and hampering the growth of small grains. Some cattle are being moved off wheat due to the limited growth. A little cotton is still being harvested in northern counties, and some pecan harvesting continues. Livestock are in fair shape, with feeding active. Calving is in full swing.

CENTRAL: Wheat is making increased growth due to warmer weather, but grain mites, greenbugs and leaf rust are causing some problems. Also, topsoil moisture is getting short in some locations. Some pecan harvesting continues, with nut quality below normal. Lice are increasing in cattle; supplemental feeding is active.

EAST: Small grains and winter pastures are making good growth and providing grazing for livestock. Some producers are topdressing pastures with nitrogen to boost growth. Livestock are in fair to good shape, with feeding active. Some land is being prepared for early spring vegetables.

UPPER COAST: Farmers are busy getting cropland ready for spring planting following delays last fall due to wet conditions. Small grains are doing well but there are some problems with leaf rust. Harvesting of a good pecan crop is about complete. Most cattle are in good shape, with feeding active.

SOUTH CENTRAL: Small grain pastures are making good progress and are providing grazing for livestock. However, greenbugs and leaf rust are causing problems in some locations. Most livestock are in good shape, with supplemental feeding in full swing.

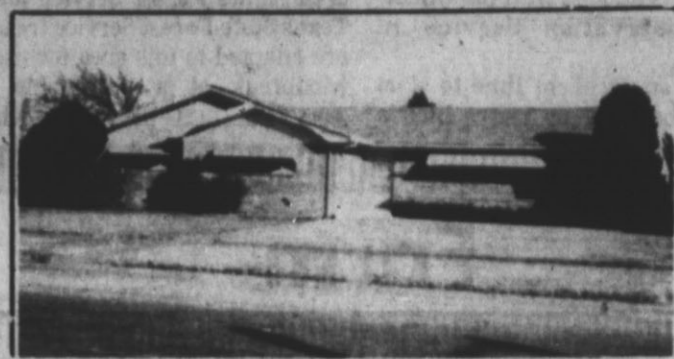

SOUTHWEST: Some snow and freezing rain over the area interrupted the harvesting of spinach, broccoli, cabbage and carrots. These crops are making good progress, with demand stable and prices slightly improved. Farmers are planting spring wheat and getting other land ready for spring crops. However, many are awaiting details of the government's farm program for more detailed planning.

COASTAL BEND: Farmers are busy with land preparation for spring planting. Wheat and oats are making good progress and are providing grazing for livestock. Livestock conditions are good, with some supplemental feeding.

SOUTH: Harvesting of sugarcane remains active and is past the halfway point. Lettuce and carrots also are moving to market. The 1985 citrus crop was short, and harvesting is complete. Farmers are getting ready for spring planting and are applying preplant irrigations to cotton land due to dry conditions. Livestock remain in good condition.

Annual beet growers convention is Friday

The annual membership business meeting and banquet of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association this year includes an agenda which includes Holly Sugar Corporation president John Bushnell and Congressmen Larry Combest and Beau Boulter.

The association's business meeting will be in the Hereford Community Center at 10 a.m. Friday.

Bushnell will speak at the meeting with the two congressmen.

Also, an election will be held for the expiring terms of directors Bill Cleavinger, Troy Christian and Dave Thompson. A nominating committee has prepared a ballot to be joined with nominations from the floor.

Presentation of the "Man of the Year in Agriculture" award will be made by the Hereford Brand at the banquet on Saturday. Guest speaker for the banquet is Dr. Byron Augustin, a humorist and author who has written several articles about Deaf Smith County and the Panhandle area. Augustin also is a professor at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

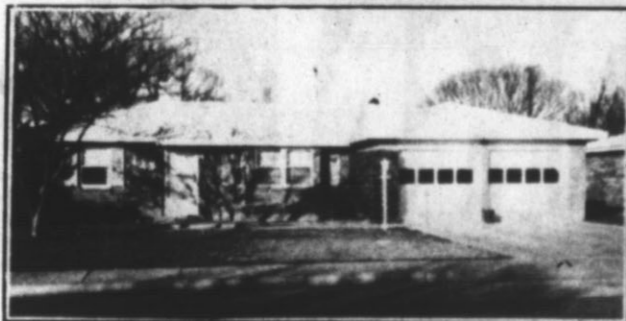

Roger Hill, Holly's vice president of agriculture, will represent the corporation at the banquet.

The banquet will be at 7 p.m. in the Bull Barn. Tickets are $7.50 each.

Bishop recants rule on beef

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP) — After some hard-up Kansas cattlemen were irked by a Roman Catholic bishop's advocacy of meatless Fridays, the bishop altered his advice.

In a pastoral letter, Dodge City's Bishop Stanley Schlarman had suggested the weekly abstinence as a penitential practice for peace.

But after rural folk, already facing hard times, reacted negatively about it hurting the cattle market, he put out a follow-up letter asking those concerned "to consider other forms of sacrifice."

"It was not my intention to add to the difficulties being experienced by our farmers and cattlemen," he said, adding that their situation "is particularly acute in these difficult economic times for rural America."

I Take Pride in My Work

I'm a little fed up with the constant criticism of American workmanship. How other people do their jobs is their business. But I do good work and I know it. I have perfected my skills. I make each minute count. When I make a mistake I correct it. I would gladly sign my name to every piece of work I do. I'm going to hang this message over my work area to let my employer, my customers, my co-workers know that I take pride in my work.

Bengal tiger
An Indian (or Bengal) tiger, measuring 11 feet, 1 inch and weighing 857 pounds, was shot in 1967. Believed to be the biggest tiger ever taken in India, it is now on exhibit in the National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

Relatives can help or hinder care

In spite of good intentions, relatives may sometimes interfere with the care of an elderly family member.

"About 80 percent of home care required by older people is provided by an informal network of family and friends," says gerontologist Dr. Judith Warren. "But the burden and stress of maintaining an elderly person at home leads many families to hire a part, or full-time caregiver."

"The relationship relatives develop with the paid caregiver will either help or hinder the care of the elder," observes the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

Warren explains that a recent survey study published in the journal "Social Work," reports that paid home care workers felt relatives living outside the household were likely to make their jobs easier, while family members actually living in the client's home often interfered with the plan of care.

The paid care givers believed relatives were most helpful with shopping, running errands, escorting the older person when outside the home, visiting, bringing special treats, and helping with emotional problems.

But the paid care givers also reported difficulties when relatives tried to specify the type of care to be given by the worker, unfairly voiced complaints about the quality of the care, or made the elder upset or depressed as a result of arguments.

The study concludes that paid care givers often seem best for handling housekeeping functions, specialized duties such as bathing and changing linen and providing consistency in care, says Warren.

"Open communication is the key

As of 1985, it is estimated about 100,000 cellular phones are in use in the United States. Industry reports indicate the number of cellular units in service by 1990 will reach at least 1 million. And by the end of the century, this is expected to rise to between 30 and 40 million units, meaning that 20 to 25 percent of the cars in the United States will have cellular telephones, according to AT&T.

for family members in working with paid care givers," advises the gerontologist. "It's important for the relative to sit down with the care giver and develop a written plan and instructions for the care to be provided."

Clear communication will help the relative insure that appropriate care is being provided, without making it difficult for the paid care giver to do his or her job, she points out.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service, and some other community groups, offer workshops on planning for the care of an aging family member, and training inc are giving skills both for family members and people who wish to become paid care givers, says Warren. For information on available programs in your area, contact your county Extension office.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been told that if you want a message to reach the heart of America, get it in Ann Landers' column. What I have to say is important and I pray that you will print it. It could save some wonderful young lives.

Fraternalities are supposed to forge lifelong friendships and promote brotherhood. Sometimes they do something else—haze the pledges in a manner so brutal that they are severely injured or killed. More than 24 young men have died in the last six years as a result of fraternity hazing.

Severe paddling (one lad required surgery and hospitalization for several weeks), branding with hot irons, forced alcohol consumption and rigorous exercising have been part of the ritual on some campuses. Last year, one week after classes began in Texas, a student was dead. He had been pulled out of bed and subjected to 13 hours of rigorous calisthenics. The young man collapsed and later died of heat stroke.

A student from Oklahoma was paralyzed after being thrown into a pond. Another freshman was made to leap from a second-story window onto a haystack, he suffered a spinal cord injury and will be confined to a wheelchair for the remainder of his life.

"Accidental" and "isolated" are words often used to describe hazing incidents. They are neither. They are premeditated, planned occurrences. Serious attention must be paid to these dehumanizing and often dangerous activities.

The time is NOW for educational institutions to define their policies and procedures for dealing with hazing before state laws (such as Ohio's) do it for them. We are sending our only son to college next year to get an education. We pray that no fraternity shows an interest in him.—ANONYMOUS IN NEW YORK

DEAR ANONYMOUS: At this moment, anti-hazing legislative measures have been enacted in 18 states. Six additional states are taking the matter under consideration. My question: What's the matter with the other 26? How many more young men must be killed or crippled before something is done?

This cruel and senseless practice must be stopped at once. I urge every parent who has knowledge of such activities to contact your representative and senators and insist on action.

OLYMPIC COINS

OTTAWA (AP) — The first Olympic coin is believed to have been minted more than 2,000 years ago to commemorate a chariot victory.

But it was not until 1964 that issuing Olympic coins became firmly established, says James Corkery of the Royal Canadian Mint. That was the year the first modern Olympic coins were produced by the host countries of both the winter games in Innsbruck and the summer games in Tokyo.

For the 1988 winter games in Calgary, the Canadian mint is issuing a series of 10 commemorative sterling silver coins.

LOTS OF LAWYERS

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — Law is a growing business.

Since 1960, when there were 285,933 practicing lawyers in the United States, the number has increased to 653,680, American Bar Association figures show. The number of civil lawsuits has increased from 5 to 10 percent a year since the '70s.

And there is pressure for laws to limit some jury awards. The number of $1 million awards by juries has grown at a higher rate than the number of lawsuit, according to legal experts.

When you have plenty of peacocks, you've got a "muster".

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I enjoyed the letter from "Joe's Wife" in Arkansas. (She was annoyed by the way he mispronounced certain words — one in particular, "heard" for heard.)

Sounds as if Joe has some pioneer stock in him. "Heard" is a deteriorated derivative of the Scottish for heard and there used to be plenty of people around here who said "lectricity."

Dad was raised on a prairie frontier in Canada by Scottish parents. He called a mirror a "murror" and pronounced oil as "isle." When I was small my mother drilled into me that a chimney was not a "chimley," as Daddy called it.

How I'd love to hear my father curl his tongue around some of those words today. (He died in 1971). Joe's wife shouldn't sweat the small stuff.

Life is too short.—HEARD IT ALL IN SASKATOON

DEAR SASS: I know what you mean. My father didn't speak perfect English either, but he was one of the wisest, dearest and funniest men who ever lived.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting—What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois, 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

(See Story, Page 6-B)

. . . beginning Sunday, Jan. 19, at 7 p.m. at St. Anthony's Catholic Church. Continuing through the week, Week of Prayer for Christian Unity will feature a luncheon on Wednesday at First United Methodist Church. Everyone is invited to attend one or both of these events in this celebration of prayer and unity.

Former Hereford resident weds

Wedding vows were exchanged by former Hereford resident, Paula Esther Alexander of Waco, and Daniel Warren Olson of Omaha, Neb. Saturday afternoon in First Baptist Church of Nacogdoches.

Officiating at the wedding ceremony was the groom's father, the Rev. Oliver Olson of Omaha Bible School.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Earl Alexander of Antigua, Guatemala and the groom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Oliver Olson of Omaha, Neb.

The church altar was decorated by mixed sprays of burgundy and white flowers and English ivy and pews were marked by burgundy and white ribbons adorned with greenery.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Eric Alexander, was matron of honor, and best man was the groom's brother, Paul Olson of Parkers Prairie, Minn.

Bridesmaids included Leah Springer of Aurora, Colo., Julie Gallagher of Sugarland, Tx. and Nedra Fuhrmann of Hereford.

Serving as groomsmen were the bride's brother, Eric Alexander, Neal Nowacki of Omaha, Neb. and David Hazell of La Porte, Minn.

The bride's mother played her original compositions of the processional and recessional and the bride sang one of her songs entitled "To Daniel." The bride's father vocalized "Prayer of St. Francis" and "The Lord's Prayer." Accompaniment was provided by the bride's mother, and her brother, Eric Alexander who played the guitar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown designed with a fitted bodice which was covered with alencon lace, a high lace collar with a sheer yoke, basque waist with a bow at the back and long puffed sleeves tapering to fit.

The chapel-length train was enhanced with alencon motif accents.

The full-length unadorned illusion veil and blusher were attached to a wreath of satin roses.

She carried two long stemmed red roses and a single long stemmed white rose on top of a white Bible trimmed with greenery, baby's breath, and burgundy and white streamers.

She also carried an embroidered handkerchief which was carried by her maternal grandmother at her wedding.

Attendants were attired in burgundy taffeta gowns fashioned with ecru lace yokes and sleeves. Each carried a single long stemmed red rose entwined with greenery, baby's breath and burgundy and white streamers.

The groom's sister, Wendy Olson of Omaha, Neb., invited guests to register at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Cake was served by Mrs. Jim Pierce of Omaha, the groom's sister, and punch and coffee were poured by the groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Paul Olson of Parkers Prairie, Minn., and the groom's sister, Mrs. Benjamin Beard of Tarzana, Calif.

Other members of the houseparty included Louanna Werchan of Taylor, Tx. and the bride's cousin and aunt, Rachel Matlock and Mrs. Glenn Matlock of Doyline, La.

The tiered white wedding cake was decorated by burgundy flowers and the groom's carrot cake was made with cream cheese frosting. The main refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and adorned with English ivy.

Leaving for a wedding trip to points of interest in Mexico and Central America, the bride wore a burgundy dress fashioned with a fitted bodice and black accents.

The couple will make their home after March 1 in Omaha, Neb.

The bride, a graduate of Hereford High School, was a biology major at Baylor University where she recently graduated with a B.A. degree.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Marion College in Indiana where he majored in history and Spanish. He is employed by Omaha Bible School.

Messer installs new club officers Wednesday

Members of Draper Extension Homemakers Club met at noon Wednesday with Tonie Vaughn serving as hostess.

Following lunch, Sherrie Blackwell, president, called the meeting to order. Members filled in their yearbooks and revealed secret pals and drew new ones.

Johnnie Messer installed officers for the new club year. They included Sherrie Blackwell, president; Carmen Rickman, vice-president; Brenda Pagett, secretary; Johnnie Messer, treasurer; Tonie Vaughn, council delegate and reporter.

Members discussed the going away tea for Louise Walker planned from 5-7 p.m. Thursday in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room. The public is invited to attend.

Sherrie Blackwell was the Draper Club Woman of the Year nominee.

It was announced that there will be a leaders meeting at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the library Heritage Room. Those present were Blackwell, Messer, Rickman, Pagett and Vaughn.

Vickie Higgins was welcomed as a new member.

All newcomers are invited to join the extension club. Anyone interested may call 364-6156. The next meeting is planned Feb. 5 in the home of Brenda Pagett at noon.

CRAVING PARTICIPATION
BARTLIVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Today's employees crave participation.

They are better educated than employees of 30 or 40 years ago and are constantly questioning their role, says C.J. Silas, chief executive officer of Phillips Petroleum.

Silas says supervisory skills must change to adapt to the capabilities of these employees. But, he adds, many managers continue their old ways — dictating such as "Do this and don't ask why," instead of delegating and allowing people to make some decisions.

Study club meets at Cowgirl Hall of Fame

The Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center was the meeting place Thursday evening for members of La Madre Mia Study Club.

Georgia Sparks served as hostess assisted by Carolyn Baxter.

Roll call was answered by members relating a cowgirl experience.

Business was conducted by Vice-president Ruth Black in the absence of President Tricia Sims. Reports from standing committees were heard and a newsletter from the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Organization was read. There was no old or new business discussed.

The program, given by Sparks, concerned facts about the Hall of Fame including how it began and the different locations in which it was housed before it was moved to the present location on Ave. B.

Sparks said that the Pitman family gave their home and over 16 acres with mortgage to the Hall of Fame in 1962. It has just completed 10 years of existence. There have been 78 women inducted into the Hall of Fame including 45 cowgirls and 33 western heritage women.

The speaker also explained that the Sidesaddle magazine, an annual publication of the Hall of Fame, always features some outstanding past honoree.

Following the program, club members were invited to tour the facilities which feature various displays.

Members present included Joyce Allred, Carolyn Baxter, Frances Berry, Ruth Black, Francyne Bromlow, Mary Herring, Betty Martin, Gladys Merritt, Betty Owen, Lucy Rogers, Jenna Simons, Sparks, Debbie Tardy, Betty Taylor, Ruth Taylor, Pat Walsh, Marline Watson and Mary Beth White.

Vitamin C

Vitamin C (ascorbic acid) maintains collagen, a protein necessary for the formation of skin, ligaments and bones. It helps heal wounds, mends fractures, and aids in resisting some types of virus and bacterial infections. Best sources: citrus fruits, turnips, broccoli, Brussels sprouts, potatoes, tomatoes and cabbage.

Bridge tournament Thursday

Toujours Amis Study Club has planned its annual benefit bridge tournament for 7 p.m. Thursday at the Hereford Community Center.

Entry tickets, which are priced at $4 each, will be available from club members and at the door. The fee includes refreshments for the evening.

Door prizes, a high and low prize, and a card table and chairs will be given away during the tournament.

As in the past, proceeds from the event will be used to benefit a scholarship fund.

Hughes, Hazelwood exchange vows at candlelight service

Amid candles and flowers, Rebecca Kathleen Hughes and Greg Davis Hazelwood, both of Canyon, spoke their wedding vows Saturday evening at First Christian Church of Hereford.

The Rev. Mac McCarter, minister, officiated during the early evening ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hughes of 430 Ave. I and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hazelwood of Spearman.

Three 16-branch arched candelabra and two 16-branch spiral candelabra, draped with greenery and baby's breath, flanked the white unity candle which was placed in a bed of fresh greenery and baby's breath.

Also, decorating the church altar were bouquets of rubrum lilies, white lilies, mini-carnations, burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Marking family pews were brass candelabrum adorned by mauve and burgundy bows.

The bride's sisters served as honor attendants. Michelle Hughes was maid of honor and LeAnne Vogel of Stillwater, Ok. was matron of honor.

Brad Cochran of San Antonio stood by the groom as best man.

Bridesmaids included Becky House of Amarillo and Sheri Walterscheid of Perryton.

Acting as groomsmen were the groom's brother, Billy Paul Hazelwood of Amarillo, and Doug Acton and Paul Smith, both of Canyon.

Escorting guests were the bride's brothers-in-law, Gary Vogel of Stillwater, Ok., and Stanley Haley and Trey Hillbert, both of Amarillo; the bride's brother, Robert Hughes of Amarillo; and Kirk George of Amarillo.

Rice bags were distributed by the groom's niece, Danielle Needham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Needham of Amarillo, and Annie Liston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Liston of Amarillo.

The bride's niece, Charlotte Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Haley of Amarillo, was flower girl, and serving as ring bearer was the groom's nephew, Rory Needham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Needham.

Lighting candles were the bride's cousin, Tiffany Brown of Albuquerque, N.M., daughter of Bill Brown of Amarillo; the groom's nephew, Ryan Hazelwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. B.P. Hazelwood of Amarillo; and Barie and Lucas Liston, children of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Liston.

Mary Sue Ragsdale of Seagraves, the groom's sister, and Billy Paul Hazelwood sang a duet entitled "To Me." Ms. Ragsdale also performed a solo as did the bride who vocalized "Looking Through The Eyes of Love." Other wedding selections included "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You." Linda Gilbert accompanied the vocalists on the piano.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin formal gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline with satin bows adorning the shoulders of the large puff sleeves.

The drop waist bodice was adorned with seed pearls and lace appliques and the cathedral-length train was made of delicate embroidered schiffli lace.

The white fingertip-length veil and blusher were attached to a beaded wreath accented by satin flowers.

The bride carried a cascading arrangement of rubrum lilies, white roses, crystal poms, stephanotis and baby's breath with fresh greenery in a bed of white lace.

Her jewelry included a necklace with a diamond setting that was made from her mother's wedding ring given to her by her parents and diamond stud earrings.

For something borrowed and something blue, the bride wore a 65-year-old garter belonging to Mrs. Robert Simpson which was worn by several members of her family and the bride's sister.

Bridesmaids wore burgundy satin gowns fashioned with angel bows atop French pouf sleeves. The full ballroom-length skirts were designed with skirts underneath.

Each carried a nosegay of rubrum lilies, crystal poms, stephanotis, baby's breath and fresh greenery in beds of mauve ribbons and lace.

The flower girl wore a matching burgundy satin dress, with miniature angel bows on the sleeves. She carried a white lace basket filled with mauve and burgundy flower petals and tied with a mauve bow and streamers. She also wore a corsage of mauve mini-carnations trimmed with burgundy.

Girls passing out rice bags wore mauve mini-carnations enhanced with baby's breath in their hair.

The couple's mothers wore rubrum lilies, white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath corsages decorated by mauve colored bows. Grandmothers were presented corsages of burgundy sweetheart roses trimmed in mauve.

Others assisting with the wedding wore mauve mini-carnations trimmed in burgundy.

Denise Haley of Amarillo, sister of the bride, invited guests to register at the reception at First Christian Church where cake and punch were served. A dance followed at the VFW Hall featuring the Clyde Logg Band.

The registry table was draped with a white lace cloth and centered by a nosegay bouquet of rubrum lilies, white roses, baby's breath and fresh greenery. Mrs. Haley wore a corsage of rubrum lilies trimmed in mauve.

The bride's sister, Ginger Hilbert of Amarillo, and Dora Ramirez, also of Amarillo, served the bride's cake and coffee and punch were served by Carrie Jones of Waco.

Serving the groom's cake were the groom's sister, Debbie Needham of Amarillo, and the groom's sister-in-law, Kathy Hazelwood, also of Amarillo.

The bride's table was covered with a burgundy pleated taffeta cloth completely edged with white lace. The three-tiered white heart-shaped wedding cake was assembled over a burgundy fountain which was decorated with handmade mauve and burgundy flowers.

Leading off of the main layer were four small staircases each featuring a miniature bridesmaid and groomsmen that led to four two-tiered heart-shaped cakes surrounding the fountain.

Also, on the bride's table along with the bridal bouquet was a large arrangement of rubrum lilies, pixie carnations, white lilies, sweetheart roses, and baby's breath and five lit burgundy tapers.

The groom's cake was fashioned after his profession, a football helmet with chocolate footballs. His table was centered with a nosegay of rubrum lilies, white roses, baby's breath and fresh greenery.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a teal, lilac and white matching sweater and wool skirt ensemble with a corsage of rubrum lilies, white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath tied with a mauve bow.

The couple will make their home at 1310-A Second Ave. in Canyon.

The bride, a 1981 graduate of Hereford High School, attended Texas Christian University, Amarillo College and West Texas State University. She was a member of Kappa Delta Chi Sorority at Amarillo College. She is presently employed as the office manager and executive secretary of Liston-American Oil Corp. and is also assistant secretary-treasurer of Liston-American Oil Corp. Energy Research and Marketing, Inc. and Liston Data Systems, Inc. of Amarillo.

The bridegroom, a 1980 graduate of Spearman High School, will graduate from WTSU in May with a degree in physical education and biology and plans to coach football and teach biology. He is currently employed by Bradley-Lincoln Mercury at the Autoplex.

Out-of-town family guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Marler of Amarillo and Edith Corcoran of Fort Gibson, Ok.; the bride's uncle, Bill Brown of Amarillo; the groom's aunt, Lillie Palmer of Spearman; the groom's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D.W. Hazelwood of Lubbock; the groom's aunt, Iola Hazelwood of Amarillo, Mrs. Bill Meier, Mrs. John Rimes of Las Lunas, N.M., and Reba Minor of Fort Gibson.

Other guests represented Amarillo, Canyon, Dimmitt and Miami, Tx.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hazelwood and held at Casa Ramirez prior to the wedding.

Honor students named

Five Hereford residents were recently named to the Amarillo College Fall Scholastic Honor List. To be eligible for the honor list, students must be enrolled in 12 or more hours of academic subjects and make a grade point average of 3.4 or above.

The Hereford honorees include: Clayton M. Brown, business administration, Robert B. Murray, Jr. air conditioning, Susan J. Edwards, associate degree nursing, Mary Ann Alexander, vocational nursing, and Oscar Rodriguez, electrical engineering.

The scholastic honor list is published at the end of each semester. At the close of each school year, an honors convocation recognizes students who have achieved a 4.0 grade point average along with a minimum of 15 semester hour load, along with other scholastic award recipients.

FITNESS AND TASTE

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — A recent survey indicates the health and fitness boom has changed consumer tastes at fast-food restaurants.

The study for Wendy's International Inc. shows people in almost half of all U.S. households can be considered "nutrition conscious," and are either restrictive dieters or involved in fitness regimens. The study indicates this is a growing market segment.

"People who fit the description of this nutrition ethic have three concerns in common," according to William Welter of Wendy's. "They are careful to eat a balanced diet, and they count calories, eliminating foods that aren't considered healthy. Finally, they want assurances their food is prepared fresh from fresh ingredients."

WATER CONSERVATION
IN THE KITCHEN

Twenty-five percent of household water use is attributed to activities that take place in the kitchen and laundry room—cooking, drinking, washing dishes and clothes. There are several ways to cut down on the amount of water families use in these activities.

A kitchen faucet can deliver five gallons of water a minute, so if you wash dishes by hand, don't let the water run continuously when washing or rinsing. Plug the sink or use a dishpan for washing, and then either use a pan of rinse water or rinse all the dishes at once under running water. Hand washing dishes requires anywhere from eight to 20 gallons of water.

A dishwasher typically uses between 12 and 16 gallons of water. Since it uses the same amount of water whether it is completely full or only partially full, waiting to operate your dishwasher until it is loaded to capacity saves water and energy. And most of the newer models of dishwashers make pre-rinsing of dishes unnecessary.

When washing vegetables or fruits in the kitchen sink, plug the drain or use a pan of water. The water can later be poured over houseplants.

If you have a garbage disposal, use it sparingly. Accumulate waste so you can dispose of it all at once by flushing the disposal with cold water or better still, save the waste for composting.

If you let the water run so that you can get a cold drink of water, you are sending a lot of good water down the drain. Instead, keep a jar of drinking water in the refrigerator—this may even make the water taste better. Or, if you want to avoid opening the refrigerator all day long, you can keep a picnic jug of ice water on the kitchen counter instead.

As with dishwashers, many washing machines use the same amount of water for a half-full load as for a full load. Most machines use 40-60 gallons, and the regular cycle uses, on average, 12-18 gallons more water than the permanent press cycle. However, the amount of water used in the permanent press cycle depends on several factors, including washer capacity and the type of rinsing mechanism of the particular machine.

Some of the newer machines have water-saving features built into their design, but it's up to you to make sure that the proper water level is set for each load. Loading your machine to its rated capacity is one of the best ways to save not only water, but energy and time as well.

Leaking faucets waste more water than you might expect. A faucet that drips a drop a second can waste more than 2,000 gallons of water in a year's time. Fortunately, faucet leaks are easy to detect, and are typically easy to repair as well.

And at the time you're repairing the faucet, you might consider installing a flow-control aerator to the faucet if it does not already have one. Its built-in restrictor can reduce the flow of water coming out of a faucet from an average of five gallons a minute to about 2½ gallons.

Sesquicentennial Quilt Block Due

If you're quilting a block to enter in the Sesquicentennial Quilt Block contest, it's time to submit it. Deadline is Wednesday, Jan. 15 in the County Extension Office, Room 304, Courthouse, Hereford.

Judging will be later in the week by Genevieve Miller and Mary Frye. The winning block will be placed in a quilt at the Plains Panhandle Museum in Canyon.

The local quilt block committee are Lottie Wertenberger, Gene Holden, and Carol Whitlow. The committee reminds you if you cannot get your block entered by Jan. 15 for the Canyon Museum contest, turn it in so it can be put in the tapestry for the local museum.

EMPLOYEES NEED TLC

BERLIN, Conn. (AP) — Treat employees with the same care given machinery, and factories will be more human, more productive, and safer, according to a professor of stress technology.

"Think of workers as machines and understand how they can wear out on a job," Roger Crevier recently told an Emhart seminar. Repetitive motion injuries can be debilitating, "require lengthy rehabilitation, and often affect employees who work the hardest and produce the most," said Crevier.

"The consequences of failing to consider the human factors include higher injury rates, more stress, fatigue, additional absences, more on-the-job errors and lower productivity. These factors increase costs per unit produced and can restrict a company's competitiveness," he said.

Workshop planned at church Monday

"Celebrate and Grow" workshops are set for United Methodist churches in the Amarillo district. Open to laypersons and local church officials, the workshops will help participants to do their local church jobs more effectively.

"We will celebrate the ministry of the United Methodist Church and develop ways to spread Christ's Word through growth in the church. It is an exciting time for Amarillo District churches, and we hope that through these workshops our local churches will be enriched," said Francie Pittman, "Celebrate and Grow" Task Force.

Dates and places for the events include Monday at First United Methodist Church in Hereford, Tuesday at St. Paul United Methodist Church in Amarillo and Jan. 16 at Central United Methodist Church in Dalhart. All workshops will run from 5:30-8:30 p.m.

The workshops will be divided into small groups according to the following broad groupings and leadership: Board of Church and Society, led by Sandy Carter and Betty Anderson; Board of Discipleship, led by Ava Berry; and Board of Global Ministries led by the Rev. Bob Ford. Other church officers will be led by the Rev. Dr. Clifford Trotter and the Rev. Dr. Doug Wofford.

For more information contact Dr. Trotter, Amarillo District Superintendent, (806)376-7271.

United Methodist churches in the Amarillo District of the Northwest Texas Conference are in the following cities and towns: Adrian, Amarillo, Bovina, Canyon, Channing, Middlewell, Claude, Dalhart, Dumas, Friona, Happy, Hartley, Hereford, Lazbuddie, Panhandle, Stratford, Sunray, Texline, Vega, Wayside and Wildorado.

Setting Up

Members of Toujours Amis Study Club, Camille Williamson, left, and Leisa Lewis are setting up for a benefit bridge tournament that will be held Jan. 16, at 7 p.m. in the Community Center Banquet Room. Grand prize will be a card table and chairs and prizes will also be given for high and low scores. Proceeds of the tournament will go toward a Hereford High School scholarship. Tickets are $4 and can be purchased from any club member.

The chemical that gives the skunk its malodorous reputation is called ethanethiol, a substance so pungent less than one ten-trillionth of an ounce can be detected by the human nose.

Health Sciences Center to host organizational meeting

The Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center will host an organizational meeting for an Amarillo area Parkinson's Disease Support Group at the Amarillo Regional Academic Health Center at 1400 Wallace Boulevard, on Friday, at 2 p.m. in Room 100.

The program will feature a videocassette entitled, "Moment to Moment—Living with Parkinson's Disease," followed by a question-and-answer session conducted by Susan Imke, R.N., M.S., Associate Director of the Parkinson's Disease Information and Referral Center in Lubbock.

All Parkinson patients, family members and other individuals interested in a Parkinson education and support group in Amarillo are invited to attend. For more information, contact Mrs. Helen Ray Holcomb at 352-6097 or call the Information and Referral number, (806)743-2647.

Aspirin was invented by Felix Hoffmann as a way to relieve his father's pain. A basic constituent of the analgesic comes from the spirea plant, which lead to the trade name aspirin.

Draper gives program on Sesquicentennial

Argen Draper presented a program on the Texas Sesquicentennial Tuesday evening at the regular meeting of Toujours Amis Study Club.

Draper re-introduced members to many historical facts about Texas and taught new facts concerning the state.

The club's annual benefit bridge tournament was discussed. The event will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the banquet room of the Hereford Community Center.

Members were asked to bring card tables, cards and sign-up for refreshments. They were also reminded that tickets sell for $4 per person. All proceeds will go to a scholarship for a Hereford High School senior.

Also, during the business session with Nena Veazey, president, presiding, committee reports were made and special project reports were heard. Several thank you notes were also read.

Hostesses, Pam Perrin, Donna Tidmore and Marilyn Leasure, served Texas banana splits to those present. They included Kim Bingham, Cindy Black, Patti Brown, Kathy Carthel, Debbie Donaldson, Shannon Hagar, Lori Hall, Karen Keeling, Terri Laing, Ange Lauderback, Rhonda Long, Elaine McNutt, Leisa Lewis, Rhonda Nieman, Becky Reinart, Melissa Richardson, Veazey, Camille Williamson, Marsha Winget and Trisha Workman.

Ex student association schedules homecoming in Pep

Pep's Ex Student Association has scheduled Homecoming for the last Saturday in January, in the Pep Parish Hall, Pep Texas.

All former students, Teachers, Patrons and Friends of Pep are invited, Jan. 25, 1986. Registration is at 5:30 p.m. The banquet at 6:30 p.m.

The theme is "The Sesquicentennial" 1836-1986.

Observance to unite all Christians

The annual community-wide Ecumenical Service to commemorate the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity will be held at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, Sunday, Jan. 19, at 7 p.m. with the Rev. Patrick Walsh serving as host pastor.

In keeping with Christian unity, the Rev. J. Weldon Butler, pastor of First United Methodist Church will be officiating a noon covered dish luncheon to be held in the Methodist Church Fellowship Hall on Wednesday, Jan. 22. Nurseries will also be provided by the churches.

The theme for this year's observance is "You Shall Be My Witnesses" Acts 1:8.

Beginning the Sunday service, the spiritual mood will be set with scripture readings given by Priscilla Power, president of Church Women United and the Rev. Ruben Flores, pastor of Primera Iglesia Bautista.

A welcome prayer will be given by the Rev. Dorman Duggan, pastor of Community Church and president of Hereford Ministerial Alliance and opening prayer will be said by Father Patrick Walsh, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Being an interesting speaker, the Rev. Bob Huffaker, pastor of Church of the Nazarene, will give the opening sermon and intercessions will be given by the Rev. Mac McCarter, pastor of First Christian Church.

The Good Shepherd Program will be explained and will benefit by the Week of Prayer as the Rev. Ron Cook, pastor of First Baptist Church, will take up an offering for the organization.

Music will be provided by choirs from First Baptist Church, San Jose Catholic Church, and St. Anthony's Catholic Church. A reception will follow in the Antonian Room of St. Anthony's.

The highlight of Week of Prayer for Christian Unity will be Wednesday's luncheon at which the Rev. Weldon Butler will give the welcoming prayer.

After feasting, Glenda Keenan, mistress of ceremonies and vice-president of Church Women United will introduce Betty Koelzer, Judy Kriegshauser and Ruth McBride who will give testimony of their experiences with Christian Unity and how it has enriched and broadened their lives.

Testimonies will follow with table talk in which persons attending are invited to participate in a discussion of "What kind of Christian am I?"

Eloise McDougal, member of First United Methodist Church and the Division for Christian Unity of the Texas Conference of Churches is the chairperson of the local planning committee of the Week of Prayer for Christian. She urges everyone to attend one or both of these events in the celebration of prayer and unity.

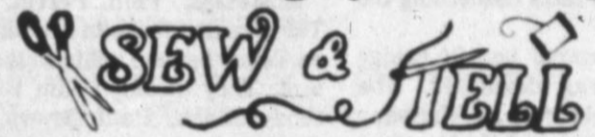

The Week of Prayer for Christian Unity is a world wide observance that began in 1908. It begins on Jan. 18, the Feast of St. Peter's, and ends with St. Paul's feast on Jan. 25. The Church Unity Octave, as it was first known, was inaugurated by Father Paul James Francis Watson, an Episcopalian then Catholic minister who had a vision of Christian Unity, the unity of all people through faith in Christ and the Church.

Red Cross Update

The uniformed volunteers met for their regular luncheon and workday Thursday at the Red Cross office.

Plans were made for the garage sale to raise funds for disaster relief. The garage sale will be held Friday, Jan. 24, and Saturday, Jan. 25, at the old Shook Tire building on Hiway 60. Donations to be used for the garage sale may be brought to the Red Cross office anytime or the Shook Tire building Thursday, Jan. 23-from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. or Friday, Jan. 24 anytime.

The uniformed volunteers also discussed the undisaster day scheduled for Jan. 22. The day is planned to held publicize Red Cross disaster relief programs and help make the public aware of safety measures to be taken in case of severe weather.

The uniformed volunteers next luncheon is scheduled for Feb. 13 at the Red Cross office. Those attending were Sylvia Flores, Paula Martin, Bertha Dettmann, Audine Dettman, Margaret Gamez, Alice Gilleland, Nell Culpepper, Hope Torres, Olivia Brown and Ruth King.

A CPR instructor class will be held Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. and Saturday 8 a.m. to noon Jan. 18 and 19 at the Community Center.

The Board of Directors will meet Tuesday, Jan. 21, noon, at the Red Cross office. Jan. 22 has been designated undisaster day and disaster relief activities will be spotlighted.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Developments cited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Because of recent actions by President Reagan and the United Nations, Iran "cannot continue their atrocities against Bahais except in the full light of public opinion," an official of the religious group says.

Los Angeles Judge James F. Nelson, chairman of the 100,000-member American Bahai community, cited these two developments, both in December:

The U.N. General Assembly voiced "deep concern" about alleged human rights violations in Iran, launching a year-long inquiry into the matter. Most Islamic nations opposed the step.

Reagan called for a "continued world outcry" against "rampant religious persecution" in Iran. He said that 198 Bahais have been executed, 10,000 made homeless and 25,000 forced to flee since Iran's revolutionary regime took power in 1979, with 767 now in Iranian prisons.

The oldest national anthem is the Kimigayo of Japan, in which the words date from the 9th century.

Q. Must I contribute the full amount every year?
A. You can contribute any amount your budget allows. In fact, if you choose, you need not make any contribution in any given year.

Q. My spouse is employed, can we both have separate IRA's?
A. Yes, and each of you may contribute up to $2000 or 100 percent of compensation (whichever is less). You can each take your respective deductions on a joint return or separate returns.

Q. What is the deadline for opening my IRA?
A. You can open or make deposits to your IRA anytime up to and including the due date of your tax year normally April 15th.

Girl Scout cookie sale begins

Cookies, cookies, and more cookies. The annual Girl Scout cookie sale is rolling in. Girls of Hereford Girl Scout Troop will be taking orders for cookies and deliveries will be made in February.

Baked by a new company this year, the Girl Scout cookies still taste as good as they always have but also offer more varieties this year.

Girl Scout cookie favorites, such as Thin Mints, Do-Si-Dos, Tagalongs, and Trefoils, will be offered the same as the years before.

New cookies making their debut this year include Pecan Shorties, Chocolate Chunks—cookies with chocolate drops—and Samoas made with vanilla cookies, caramel and rolled in toasted coconut.

The annual Girl Scout cookie sale benefits the girls in several ways. While meeting at the Community Center recently, Hereford Girl Scouts were shown a promotional film on how to be a good cookie salesman. The girls will learn how to market the cookies, how to promote their product, and learn to account for money made and spent during the annual event.

By being a Girl Scout cookie salesman, each girl can help support her share of the cost to attend summer camp and other projects the group participates in.

Junior, Cadette, and Senior Girl Scouts also are eligible to earn a Marketing Badge by participating in the cookie sale drive. Also, cookies will sell at last year's prices.

Anyone wanting a box of their own can contact a local Girl Scout who will be happy to deliver the cookies.

Guillotine

Contrary to popular belief, the guillotine was invented by a member of the Paris Academy of Surgery and was built according to specifications of a German instrument maker in 1788. The World Almanac Book of Inventions reports it was adopted for executions in 1790 by Joseph Guillotine, deputy to the states general in France, for humane reasons.

Changes can affect health

HOUSTON — Marriage, a new home, a death in the family, a new job, retirement; such changes occur in everyone's life. Whether good or bad, changes can affect health.

To help people learn how to deal with the stress and anxiety of change, specialists at Baylor College of Medicine have developed a brochure called "Coping With Change."

Advice is offered for dealing with situations such as moving, cited as one of the most dramatic changes a family experiences. It often means the end of familiar surroundings and separation from friends and family members.

To keep stress at a minimum, Baylor specialists suggest:

- learn as much as possible about a new locale before moving.
- involve children in researching a new locale to lessen their anxiety.

After arriving at a new city or neighborhood, explore it; don't let the new area be strange for long.

Regarding divorce or separation, usually a most difficult change, Baylor specialists suggest:

- Newly divorced people should work to maintain their existing friends and social contacts.
- parents can help children cope by discussing the divorce openly and honestly.
- parents should reassure and support their children, have one set of rules for both parent's homes and never argue through the children.

Jobs are a daily source of stress since Americans spend most of their waking hours on the job. Many spend more time with coworkers than with family and friends. The brochure offers suggestions for coping with changes on the job.

After retirement, those who like to be active may find that volunteering is a valuable way of maintaining a feeling of usefulness. Baylor specialists say people who stay active are likely to live longer and healthier lives.

Girl Scout Cookie Month

Girl Scouts, from left, Mary Lou Ramirez, Sherry Vermillion, and Bonnie Dauster are discussing the varieties of Girl Scout cookies that will be offered this year. Girl Scouts will be selling cookies from Jan. 10 through Jan. 26, for $2 a box. The cookies will be delivered in February.

Homer Garrison to promote local Silver Haired Legislature

Homer Garrison was one of four people recently selected by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission to be a Silver Haired Legislature recruiter.

Garrison is in charge of promoting senior citizens from the 25-county area to be a Silver Haired Legislature representative.

Last April the 69th Legislature passed a bill which supported the creation of a biennial Silver Haired Legislature in Texas.

Governor Mark White signed the bill into law making Texas one of many states in the nation to adopt such a program.

The Texas Silver Haired Legislature is an elected, representative nonpartisan body of citizens over 60 years old, elected by their peers.

Seniors from the 25-county area are urged to begin filing petitions for candidacy through the Area Agency on Aging. Deadline to file is Feb. 28 and balloting will be held in May.

Any Texan who is over 60 years of age prior to Jan. 1, 1986, and is a registered voter living in the area from which he or she is applying for may run for the Silver Haired Legislature.

HOMER GARRISON... Promoting Silver Haired Legislature

The special legislature will be met in the fall in the state capitol for the purpose of considering and voting on legislation that concerns the needs of older Texans.

The mock legislative session will closely resemble that of the Texas legislature. At the close of the session, the Texas Silver Haired Legislature will select several issues which it feels are priority concerns for the elderly. These issues will be presented to Texas Legislature.

The concept of a senior legislature has been adopted by many states and has proven very successful.

Goals of the Silver Haired Legislature include providing seniors with a chance to gain understanding of the legislative process through direct involvement; developing a forum for older citizens to discuss issues that are meaningful to them, transform them into legislation, and present these bills to the regular state legislature; and providing advocacy training that will allow senior legislators to offer informed assistance to policy makers.

For more information about the Silver Haired Legislature and how to file for candidacy, contact Homer Garrison at 364-4505.

Scholarship program offered

IRVING — The University of Dallas announces the eleventh annual Texas Scholars Program, a scholarship program to reward high school leaders in Texas for their achievement in academic and extra-curricular areas.

Full tuition scholarships and numerous partial scholarships are offered to deserving high school seniors. The scholarships are renewable for four years and not subject to financial need.

Each year approximately 125 students from the state compete for the scholarships ranging from $4,000 to $19,000.

Eligible students rank in the top 15 percent of their graduating class, score in the top 15 percentile of college bound students taking the SAT or ACT and secure nomination of their high school principal or guidance counselor.

The application deadline is Feb. 15, 1986. The student must submit a completed University of Dallas application and statement of candidacy, an academic letter of recommendation, a current high school transcript (including class rank) and SAT or ACT scores.

For more information, please call the Office of Undergraduate Admissions, University of Dallas, Irving, Tx. 75062, (214)721-5271.

PLEATING THE CASE FOR SHADES

What can be done to cover difficult specialty windows that lend so much character to both traditional and modern homes? Circular, angled, cut-out, pivoted and inclined windows and skylights can be attractively covered with pleated shades that combine beauty, efficiency and ease of use. This window treatment comes permanently pleated in one-inch, heat-set accordion folds. Pleated shades can be custom made to fit the most oddly shaped or angled window, without bowing. They can be mounted either inside or outside the window frame, on the wall, or from the ceiling. Pleated shades make efficient use of space. When folded, they compress to one inch for every two feet of drop.

When you need help decorating those difficult windows come by and talk to our knowledgeable staff at FINISHING TOUCHES, 501 E. Park, 364-8870. Custom draperies, and shades are available here. We also handle custom bedspreads, upholstery work, wall coverings, floor plans and add on custom designs. Hours: Mon thru Fri 9am-5pm, and by appointment.

Pleated shades are especially well-suited to climates that feature extreme temperatures.

Model needs grit before he gets the glitz

By CINDY SMITH
Staff Writer

What does it take to make a model? A follow-up on Hereford's hometown model, Stacey Evans tells us that being a model isn't all fun and games.

"Modeling's not all that glamorous," said Evans. "There's a lot of hard work involved."

"Sometimes you're faced with a new photographer you've never worked with," said Evans. "You don't know their personality, and sometimes they can be very demanding and impatient."

"You've got to be ready for anything in this business," said Evans. "I've been very fortunate, I lucked into a lot of the work I'm doing."

To try to break into modeling Evans said one needs at least one good head shot and a basic composite of photographs featuring three different looks; sporty, casual, and formal.

In modeling the agencies usually have categories such as the Junior models, ranging in age from 15 to 21 and Senior models, 23 years of age and up. Other basic modeling categories include children's shots and editorial shots for career men.

To be a model one has to be a certain height or have a certain look about them. Average height for girls is 5'8" and for men it's 5'11 to 6'4".

Evans, who models for Kim Dawson Agency out of Dallas, explained how a prospective model breaks in.

Using his experience with the Dawson Agency, Evans said, "You call the agency and the first thing they'll ask is how tall you are and if you've had any experience modeling."

"The agency will ask you to come in and see George (president of Dawson's Agency) on Thursdays." Evans said Thursdays are reserved for interviewing new models and this is done on a first come, first serve basis.

"The agencies get hundreds of interviews of the week, they get hundreds of phone calls everyday from people that want to break into the business," said Evans.

Evans said George will tell them to go see other agencies and interview with them.

"George is very frank," said Evans, speaking of his own agency. "He'll be truthful about your potential..."

Evans explained that the agent will look at four or five on-location shots and he'll show them to the bookers.

He stressed that it's very important to do testing. Testing is a technique used by models and photographers to get a certain look.

The photographer will shoot about five rolls of film to test what look the model can promote. "Testing develops more looks, more up-to-date pictures, and it also helps to spread your work around," said Evans. "Basically, the test shots build your portfolio to show to other agencies and clients."

At Evans' interview with the Dawson Agency, he said, "George left with me with the attitude not to expect too much."

And this is good; Evans said "not everyone is right for every part."

The bookers from the agencies get the calls from the clients—the art directors, the typecasters.

"They get the information from them as to what look, what model they need and then give the information to the model; the time, location, and 'brings' (clothes, shoes, accessories)" said Evans.

As a professional model, Evans said he never goes anywhere without his clothes.

"I carry my clothes with me everywhere all the time to give the client more selection," he said. He warned, "to be prepared—you never know when the client will want more shots but hasn't brought anything else to model."

Evans stressed getting into a reputable agency. He explained why it is necessary to have an agency and described what part the agency plays in modeling professionally.

The agency will get you the clients and you, being the model will provide the look, promote yourself and the client's products as well.

"The agency has to be aware of hours worked, the client, and the billing address," said Evans. Proof of this is made through a voucher book.

"In the voucher book, you keep the hours worked, the rate at which you are being paid, and any other additions, such as a purchase, fitting, travel, etc.," said Evans.

The agency will sometimes pay for the travel. "Like $30 for traveling over 30 miles to get the shot," said Evans. "And sometimes the agency will ask you to bring a specific piece of clothing. Then I'll go purchase that and they'll reimburse me on my check."

The agency doesn't take out for taxes. "They take 20 percent of my total earnings and I get the rest," grinned Evans.

Keeping up with vouchers, Evans has since learned to keep a filing system and is starting to learn about accounting. "I'm taking accounting at college, but through experience I'm finding out a lot," he said.

Models encounter many varieties of accounts and the pay ranges accordingly. Bread and butter accounts pay an average of $75 an hour. Then there are the big accounts—big names, brochures, and other printed material which pay $175 an hour.

Recently, Evans made the covers of Cheerleader Fall-Winter Catalog, and the Ranger Athletic Uniform Catalog.

Other accounts for the hometown model include Sanger Harris, Alderman's of Dallas, J.C. Penney, Braniff Airways, Nieman-Marcus, Walmart, K-Mart, The County Seat, Foley's of Houston and San Antonio, Joske's, and Frito Lay.

"There's a lot of acting involved here; and getting the acting down doesn't come from school," said Evans. "You spend three or four hours giving off expressions and sometimes you get stiff. You can only act for so long."

Evans has also modeled for television. "There were no words, just expressions," said Evans. He explained how he was discovered to do a commercial for Joske's. "They liked my look for a Junior model commercial," said Evans.

"The producer mixed in a lot of other models from the agency and they called to tell the booker the few people they did like.

"The producer put the decision of who will be in the commercial on hold for a week prior to filming the commercial."

Three days before the commercial, they book the model they want. "And that's what happened to me," smiled Evans.

Evans has since made another television commercial for Joske's. He said if they like the look, they'll always call back.

Being a model requires time to spend interviewing, time to visit more agencies, and learning how to handle rejection.

"You've got to learn how to accept rejection and use it to your benefit instead of taking it personally," said Evans.

"A lot of times it's not that they don't like you, but you shouldn't take it personally," he said. "They just don't need your look for the part," he explained.

"You have to remember, you are right for some parts, somewhere."

Evans seems to accept constructive criticism quite well. He advised all models-to-be to keep going, "and just understand—it's not personal."

Stressing how important it is to be professional and remain professional when criticized, Evans said to always leave a thank-you note and composite at every interview.

As a word of advice to those interested in modeling, Evans said, "try to understand not everyone can do what they want to do but it's very good to with the natural talents."

"Try to accept yourself for who you are and what your capabilities are.

"Acquire your abilities to meet your opportunities, to know who you are and learn to accept rejection and constructive criticism," said Evans.

"Always give thanks to the people who helped you get where you are and be thankful to God, and the man upstairs' Son," added Evans.

Taking 17 hours in college, the hometown model will be in class from 5:45 to 10 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays. Tuesdays and Thursdays he attends class in the morning and from 5:45 to 8:30 p.m.

"Fridays, Saturdays, and Sundays are left up to either studying or just breaking the same ole' routine," grinned Evans.

"When I graduate, I'll look for New York and other places, wherever the opportunity is," said Evans.

"I don't know if I would want all the fame," admitted Evans.

"Modeling's not exactly what I want to do but it helps... a lot!"

Classified advertising rates are based on a minimum of 20 words. One day is 13 cents per word or $2.60 minimum. Rates below are for consecutive issues, no copy change, and apply to solid ad lines only.

TIMES	RATES	MIN.
1 day per word:	.13	2.60
2 days per word:	.22	4.40
3 days per word:	.31	6.20
4 days per word:	.40	8.00

5th day FREE

Add 3 cents per word for additional days: 10 days (2 free) is 13.20 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is 22.40; month 77.80.

Classified display rates apply for special captions, paragraphing, bold type or larger type, and ads not set with full lines. $2.00 per column inch, $2 a column inch for additional insertions, or $1.75 a column inch per month.

LEGALIS
Advertising rates for legal notices are $3.50 per column inch for the first insertion and $3 per column inch for consecutive issues.

Deadlines for classified ads are 3 p.m. daily for the next day's edition; 3 p.m. Friday for Sunday's edition. Cash is required on advertisements under $10.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in Classified Ads and legal notices. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. In case of errors not the fault of the advertiser, an additional insertion will be given.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON APPLICATION FOR WASTE DISPOSAL PERMIT AMENDMENT

EXCEL CORPORATION, P.O. Box 457, Friona, Texas 79035 has applied to the Texas Water Commission for an amendment to Permit No. 01350 to authorize an increase in the permitted daily average rate of process wastewater sent to the playa lake for irrigation/evaporation from 1,152,000 gallons per day average to 1,750,000 gallons per day average at its Slaughter House and Beef Packing Plant. Production increases and a planned plant expansion necessitate this volume increase.

The plant site is immediately south of U.S. Highway 60 and the Santa Fe Railroad approximately 3 1/2 miles southwest of the City of Friona in Parmer County, Texas. No discharge of pollutants to area streams is provided for in this permit. All effluent is discharged to the playa lake or to the evaporation pond adjacent to the plant site. The facilities are in the watershed of Frio Draw which flows into Tierra Blanca Creek, a tributary of the Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River, Segment 0207 of the Red River Basin.

A Hearings Examiner of the Texas Water Commission will conduct a public hearing at 9:00 a.m. - Wednesday, February 19, 1986 Friona Community Center off of 214 North-Friona, Texas 79035

Shakespeare Company to appear

"The Comedy of Errors", Shakespeare's classic farce, will be performed at the Amarillo Little Theatre by The National Shakespeare Company on Friday, February 14, 1986.

On tour out of New York, the Shakespeare Company will be returning to the Little Theatre less than a year after its performance of "Two Gentlemen of Verona" in early 1985.

"There will be only one performance, and ticket sales to the public begin on January 14, with limited seating, because Amarillo Little Theatre season members had first ticket purchase priority," said Dr. Daniel Schwartz, Theatre president.

Dr. Schwartz said that tickets not purchased and picked up before 6 p.m. February 13, which is the day before the performance, will be re-sold to the waiting list. He said this policy is necessary because last year's Shakespeare Festival production was an almost-immediate sell-out. He added that although the maximum number of temporary seats allowed by the fire codes were installed, there were many people who had to be turned away at the door.

"The Comedy of Errors" features Shakespeare's imaginative use of two sets of identical twins, an idea he borrowed from the Roman playwright Plautus. This is the basis largely through a grant from the Don and Sybil Harrington Foundation, Dr. Schwartz said.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m., February 14. All seats are reserved, at $15.00 each. A complimentary champagne and caviar reception, attended by the audience and the traveling Shakespearean troupe, will be held in the Theatre lobby following the performance.

Ticket information is available at the Amarillo Little Theatre box office, 355-9991.

for the comedic theme of mistaken identity. Brother is mistaken for brother, servant for servant, stranger for husband, lover for in-law and sanity for madness. Complication follows upon complication, error upon error, and calamity upon calamity until one brother lands in the clutches of an exorcist and the other in an abbey. Fortunately the final outcome is a happy one, in the unusual conclusion to the performance.

Presentation of "The Comedy of Errors" has been made possible
