Plans to improve TAAS scores revealed

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor
Principals of two Hereford schools where TAAS tests scores are below standards on Tuesday told district trustees what they plan to do to improve performance by next spring's testing.

The reports were one of two public hearings held during the meeting. The second was a review of the Academic Excellence Indicator System 1992-93 report, which is a report card of the district's overall performance.

In introducing the TAAS discussion, Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt explained to the board at its regular monthly meeting that the Texas Education Agency last month sent the district a letter expressing concern that some student population groups had fewer than 20 percent of students passing the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills test.

The letter warned that if that performance did not improve, then Bluebonnet Intermediate School and Hereford Junior High School might be labeled "low-performing," which would then trigger a series of TEA sanctions to force improvements.

As part of the district's requirements outlined in the letter, the school principals were required to formulate a plan to address test scores and present that plan to the board in a public hearing.

Howard Birdwell of Bluebonnet and Marilyn Leasure of the junior high presented similar plans, which call for 90 percent of students to be passing the TAAS test by the 1997-98 school year.

At the junior high, 11 percent of economically disadvantaged students passed TAAS last year, 16 percent of Hispanics and 17 percent of African-Americans.

At Bluebonnet, 18 percent of economically disadvantaged students passed TAAS.

The state requires this year that at least 20 percent of students successfully complete the annual test.

Among the plans of action submitted by both principals was to instruct teachers in reading raw TAAS scores, working specifically with below-standard students and setting goals to meet state requirements.

Mrs. Leasure said she expects test scores to rise anyway through the use of academic teaming, which groups students with a team of mathematics, English and social studies teachers, who work together to correlate materials to all subjects and work together to meet the needs of individual students.

In addition, she said, the school will give TAAS preparation tests every six weeks; will give tests in all classes using the TAAS format, to acquaint students with the test instrument; and will align and update curriculum to meet essential elements and TAAS objectives.

Birdwell said his staff has begun getting instruction from the Region XVI Educational Service Center in Amarillo on analyzing some TAAS data.

In December, staffers will begin visiting other school districts and campuses to observe how they work. In addition, classes will be shuffled to free teachers to attend workshops. Those teachers will then return to share what they learned with their colleagues.

Birdwell also said the Bluebonnet staff has decided to undergo learning styles training, which matches teachers and students according to how students best learn.

For students who need extra TAAS work, he said, the building opens at 7:40 a.m. so they can meet with teachers before class starts.

Other Bluebonnet improvement plans include offering "student self-responsibility" training for 30 minutes a week, which gives grade-level teachers a common conference period to discuss specific needs and concerns; and installing message boxes outside the classrooms to avoid interrupting class sessions.

Following the presentations, Trustee Steve Wright suggested that the two principals report to the board monthly on the progress at their campuses.

During a presentation on the AEIS report, Greenawalt summarized portions of the district's assessment.

The report notes TAAS scores at the third and seventh grade levels and in the exit test, looks at retention rates and dropout rates, financial information and revenue sources, staff breakdowns and attendance figures. Greenawalt focused his attention

'Breakfast with Mayor' set for Friday with Jossierand

Residents of Hereford will have an opportunity to share their concerns about their city at a dutch-treat "Breakfast with the Mayor" Friday at 7 a.m. Friday at the Ranch House Restaurant.

Mayor Bob Jossierand has issued a general invitation to residents to meet with him in what he hopes will become a regular feature of his term as Hereford mayor.

"I really encourage you to come visit if you have any questions about the direction the city is going, or what our projects happen to be," said Jossierand.

Elected last May, Jossierand immediately initiated a program of work sessions for the City Commission to determine needs of the city. Five workshops have been held. A major result of the commission's efforts is a water program designed to carry the city into the 21st century. To finance the water project, the city recently sold $3 million in bonds.

Jossierand said he hopes citizens will take advantage of the breakfast meetings to voice their suggestions for the city.

Mutual admiration?

Marylin Leasure, center, principal of Hereford Junior High School, grimaces in anticipation of kissing a pig held by Bill Binder, high school ag teacher, during a pep rally Tuesday at the junior high. Mrs. Leasure -- along with six teachers and administrators and DARE Officer Terry Brown -- kissed the porker as part of a United Way rally at the school. Brown got the first kiss, because he was loser of a contest where students supported seven staffers to raise money for United Way. Brown raised $69.40 to come behind the assistant principals and coaches. Overall, the students raised $1,381.14 for United Way. During the rally, the students were told if they would raise another $100 right then, Mrs. Leasure would kiss the pig. When the collection amounted to $210 instead, all contest participants pecked the porker.

Smith Building purchase passes hurdle with district resolution

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees met in regular session on Tuesday to consider a 28-item agenda that included the approval of a resolution to complete the purchase of the Smith Building.

That resolution was debated for 90 minutes in a closed session with district legal counsel Paul Lyles before trustees emerged to vote 4-3 to allow Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt to sign contracts and close the sale of the building at 15th Street and U.S. 385.

The vote was the same as that taken last month to purchase the building, with trustees, Joe Flood, Raymond Schlabs and Mike Veazey voting in favor and Steve Wright, Raul Valdez and Jim Marsh voting against. The tie was broken by President Ron Weishaar, who voted for the resolution.

Before the vote on the resolution, the Hereford chapter of United We Stand America asked Weishaar to change the agenda and hold the Public Comments portion of the meeting before the vote, to allow that group a chance to argue against the purchase.

Weishaar declined to make the change and Veazey made the motion to "adopt the resolution that the Hereford Independent School District give Charles Greenawalt the authority to sign the contract," provided changes made in the document during the executive session be approved first.

During the public comments portion of the meeting -- which was reached at 10 p.m., four hours after the start of the marathon meeting -- UWSA representative Davis Ford read a statement requesting the board reverse the purchase of the building, plus raising objections about parliamentary procedure, special programs, administrative staff, possible student vouchers and alleged public opposition to the purchase.

Ford also requested the board place reconsideration of the purchase on its November agenda.

However, no motion for reconsideration was made and the matter was ignored by Weishaar.

In other board action Tuesday, trustees approved a bid of $18,043.70 to purchase a portable language lab for the high school.

The lab will be used in four foreign language classrooms and will be paid for using state technology allotment funds.

An agenda item to discuss a possible transfer fee for Walcott ISD students attending Hereford schools was tabled before a presentation by Walcott Superintendent Bill McLaughlin.

Weishaar told McLaughlin that he had spoken with Walcott trustee Jim Perrin on Tuesday and agreed to the formation of a joint HISD/WISD committee to discuss the issue before action is taken.

He appointed himself, Marsh and Schlabs to represent the district.

Weishaar told McLaughlin that the issue came up because "it looks like the taxpayers of our district are subsidizing the taxpayers of your district" and that a transfer fee was considered to offset the costs of educating Walcott students in Hereford.

Also on Tuesday:

-- Weishaar appointed Flood and Schlabs to serve on a city/district Parks and Recreation board.

-- Trustees heard from assistant superintendent for support services Don Cumpton that the district's cafeterias have earned $19,845 profit so far this school year.

Cumpton also reported that the maintenance department -- in response to concerns aired last month by Marsh -- has implemented a program to address correction of "little things" that need fixing around the district.

Cumpton said he toured the schools with maintenance department head Freddie DeLeon and looked at some of these problems.

He said one maintenance person will work all day at a particular school on a rotation basis between now and Christmas to fix these problems.

The principals will have a list of deficiencies ready when the person arrives.

The plan will place a maintenance person on campus five times before Christmas.

Division of the United Way of Deaf Smith County, during the United Way report luncheon on Tuesday. The "prize" was collected by Klett on his Care Walk last month and honored Nicklaus for his division's attaining 85 percent of its $16,894 goal as of Tuesday. The division has collected the greatest percentage of goal of any division in the United Way. Overall, the United Way is halfway to its goal of $150,000. See story, Page 2.

Attempted murder trial begins Tuesday in 222nd District Court

Five witnesses gave testimony Tuesday for the prosecution in the opening day of the attempted murder trial of Edward Martinez, 23, and Joe Martinez, 27, in 222nd District Court.

The Martinez brothers are accused of shooting three persons on Jan. 18, after their vehicle and another vehicle were involved in a near collision.

Edward Martinez is being tried on one of the two charges against him. He is under two indictments for attempted murder in the shootings of Consuelo Avila, 49, and Ruben Avila, 29.

Joe Martinez allegedly shot Alfredo Avila, 27, during the same incident outside the Avila home.

During the Tuesday afternoon court session, Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul called Joseph Rene Cadena, Alvaro Avila, Ricardo Alvarez and two victims of the shootings, Alfredo Avila and Ruben Avila.

The witnesses related their versions of a fight at the Avila home in the 700 block of South Texas and the shootings.

After the Martinez vehicle and another vehicle were involved in a near collision, witnesses said the Martinez brothers followed the second car to the Avila residence.

At least one fight broke out and Alfredo Avila allegedly sustained two gunshot wounds. The Avilas returned to the house where, witnesses said, Edward Martinez tried to break down a door.

A window was broken out and gunshots were fired into the house.

The prosecution was continuing to present evidence and testimony in the case Wednesday morning.

Early voting to end Friday on constitutional election

Early voting in next Tuesday's Texas Constitutional Amendment election will end at 5 p.m. Friday.

By 5 p.m. Tuesday, 136 voters had cast ballots in the office of Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland.

Texas voters will decide the fate of 16 amendments to the Constitution. Several amendments are specifically aimed at local issues while the remainder are statewide.

High on the list of interests in the election is an amendment that would prohibit a statewide tax on personal income without a vote of the citizens of the state.

Another statewide issue is a proposal that would allow for issuance of general obligation bonds up to $1 billion for projects related to corrections and mental health and mental retardation institutions.

Votes in the election may be marked during regular hours of the county clerk's office, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., through Friday.

on the attendance, retention and dropout section, noting that there are concerns in the community that too many children are retained in one grade for a second year.

However, he noted, the higher retention rate early on translates to a lower retention rate in later years.

The report notes that in 1991-92, 14.9 percent of first grade students were retained, compared with 7.6 percent statewide, 6.0 percent in districts around Region XVI and 7.6 percent among districts similar to Hereford.

That rate stays high in second grade, where 4.5 percent are held back here, compared with 2.5 percent statewide, 1.9 percent in the region and 2.6 percent among similar districts.

But, from fourth grade through eighth grade, only fifth and sixth grades show any students were retained, and that was 0.3 percent of the students in each grade.

The zero percent retention rates in fourth, seventh and eighth grades are well below the rates noted in the state, region and among similar districts.

Greenawalt said 100 copies of the 1-inch-thick document will be prepared and distributed to locations throughout the community for review.

In addition, anyone who requests a copy will receive one.

Aristide supporters afraid to appear

Parliament fails in effort to return elected leader to post

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) - Parliament failed once again to bring Haiti closer to the return of its elected leader, as fear kept most supporters of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide away from the Legislative Palace.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter, meanwhile, began returning Haitian boat people today to a country reeling from shortages wrought by an embargo and from heightened tension in anticipation of Aristide's scheduled return on Saturday.

The 15 Haitians were intercepted on a 20-foot sailboat off northwest Haiti, the first to be picked up since the United Nations imposed an oil and weapons embargo on Oct. 18.

Thousands sailed for the United States after Aristide was overthrown in a September 1991 coup. A decision to immediately return them led to charges that the United States was shunning refugees fleeing political oppression.

Under a plan brokered by the United Nations in July, Lt. Gen. Raoul Cedras, the army commander, was to have resigned before the return of Aristide, the country's first freely elected leader.

The plan, to which both Aristide and Cedras agreed, also stipulated that Parliament was to pass a key law separating the army from its police division. All sides agreed as well to consider an amnesty for soldiers who have ruled since Aristide's ouster.

But many legislators are in hiding at home or abroad, afraid they will be killed if they appear in public. A State Department spokesman said eight lawmakers are in the United States.

"We were ready to work today," said Antoine Joseph, president of Haiti's lower house, after waiting five hours to gather a quorum. Forty deputies of the 83-member Chamber of Deputies showed up. But only 10 of the 27 members of Aristide's political coalition were there.

U.N. envoy Dante Caputo has asked international statesmen to fly here to help protect the lawmakers. The army, in a statement Tuesday, said it was "astonished" at the proposal and accused Caputo of bias against it.

The United Nations imposed the embargo after Cedras showed unwillingness to step down and military-backed workers turned back an American ship carrying U.N. advisers who were to help implement the agreement.

A draft resolution to expand the sanctions into a full trade embargo was circulated Tuesday at the United Nations, sources said.

The resolution would ban all trade with Haiti except for humanitarian goods, including food, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The measure was apparently designed to step up the pressure on the recalcitrant military. A U.S. Embassy spokesman, Stanley Schragar, on Tuesday characterized as "stymied" the political efforts to return Aristide, who is popular with Haiti's poor majority but despised by the military.

Drug week rally

Hereford High School cheerleaders lead the West Central Intermediate School student body in a rousing song Tuesday at a Red Ribbon Week rally. The rally was held in conjunction with the drug, alcohol and tobacco awareness week. Similar rallies were held at all local schools on Monday and Tuesday to remind children to stay away from drugs, alcohol and tobacco. They involved cheerleaders, athletes, the student council, PAL Club and other high school organizations.

United Way reaches halfway point of fundraising campaign

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The 1993 United Way of Deaf Smith County fundraising drive has reached the midpoint, with just over 50 percent of the $150,000 goal pledged or in hand.

At a report luncheon on Tuesday, campaign chairman Wes Klett expressed his pleasure at the $75,216.82 that was reported, especially recognizing the students and faculty of Hereford Junior High School for raising more than $1,600 at a recent "Kiss-A-Pig" drive.

The amount raised is 50.14 percent of the goal.

Seven junior high faculty members raised $1,381.17 during 10 days in order to avoid having to kiss a pig during a Tuesday pep rally.

The loser -- and kisser -- was DARE Officer Terry Brown, who collected $69.40.

However, the other participants -- and principal Marylin Leasure -- ended up kissing the pig after all when students met a challenge to raise another $100 during the rally.

Mrs. Leasure was supposed to pucker up if they met that goal, but everyone else joined in when the collection netted $210.

Altogether, the junior high's contribution to United Way was $1,691.17.

"I was very proud of what they did," Klett said during the report luncheon, held at K-Bob's Restaurant.

During the luncheon, the "ceremonial award for the day" was presented to Mark Nicklaus, chairman of the F.I.R.E. Division.

Nicklaus was given a ribbon-decorated Minnesota license plate that Klett picked up during his September Care Walk fundraiser.

Nicklaus was recognized because his division had raised the highest percentage of its goal as of the luncheon.

The division has a goal of $16,894 and reported $14,327.20, for 85 percent of goal.

All divisions have now reported some money has been collected, with three -- F.I.R.E., Public/Federal/State and Pacesetters -- sitting at more than 50 percent of their goals. A fourth, Senior Citizens, has brought in 49 percent of its goal.

The United Way will hold its next dutch treat report luncheon at noon

Tuesday, Nov. 2, in Panchita's Restaurant.

Shown are division goals, amount reported Tuesday and percent of goal reached:

- Senior Citizens, $11,233 goal, $5,560 reported for 49 percent of goal.
- Agriculture, $4,635, $835, 18 percent.
- Business and Industry, $21,229, $622, 3 percent.
- Commerce, $10,680, $4,017, 37.6 percent.
- F.I.R.E., $16,894, $14,327.20, 85 percent.
- Corporate Gifts, $5,837, $100, 1.7 percent.
- Professionals, $23,409, $8,895, 38 percent.
- Public/Federal/State, $20,345, $14,367.97, 71 percent.
- Pacesetters, $8,216, $5,695.40, 69 percent.
- Advanced Gifts, $27,522, $12,750, 46 percent.
- Care Walk, $5,243.85.
- Servant sale, $1,890.
- Golf tournament, $913.40.
- Total, $150,000, $75,216.82, 50.14 percent.

Texas lottery players give state national records in three games

AUSTIN (AP) - National records have been set with all three types of Texas' lottery games, including the new "Pick 3," officials say.

"Once again, Texas Lottery players have astounded us with their enthusiastic welcome of a new game," Lottery Director Nora Linares said Tuesday.

Pick 3 players, who bet on three numbers from zero to nine, bought $1.2 million worth of tickets on the game's opening day Monday, she said.

There were 5,688 winning tickets, earning players a total of $662,090 on the winning numbers 3, 2 and 9.

The previous first-day record for Pick 3 sales was set by the Georgia Lottery Corp. earlier this year, with $676,636, officials said.

Pick 3's new record followed an announcement that Texas' pick-six lotto game has set a national record for first-year sales before it even hits its first anniversary.

Texas had $973.6 million worth of lotto sales by the close of business Saturday, when the jackpot was an estimated $40 million, according to lottery officials. Sales for the Lotto Texas game, which has Wednesday and Saturday drawings, began Nov. 7, 1992.

The previous lotto record-holder for 52 weeks of sales was Florida in 1989, with $960.3 million, officials said.

Texas' instant scratch-off lottery tickets also set a one-day sales record of $23.2 million when the game began May 29, 1992, and a one-week record of $102.5 million. Total sales of scratch-off tickets have reached $1.8 billion.

Pick 3 prizes range up to $500 for a 1 play, with winning numbers drawn Monday through Saturday. Players can try to match the winning numbers in the exact order they are drawn, or any order.

Results of Monday's drawing were exact order, 690 winners, $265,500; any order, 4,718 winners, $276,240; and exact-any order, 280 winners, $120,350.

Also Tuesday, lottery officials announced an extra $1 million drawing in the Lone Star Millionaire scratch-off game.

The Nov. 4 drawing in McAllen was to have been the last. But officials today announced another drawing will be Jan. 27, at an as-yet undetermined site.

"Lottery players' strong interest in these drawings requires that we extend them at least one more time," Ms. Linares said.

High price of diesel is puzzle

AUSTIN--Diesel fuel prices are as much as 23 cents per gallon higher in West Texas than in the rest of the state, and trucking industry representatives are baffled by the regional discrepancy.

"We're not sure why, but diesel fuel costs in West Texas have been much higher in recent weeks than in the rest of the state," said Hampton Rogers, vice president of public affairs for the Texas Motor Transportation Association (TMTA).

A survey by the Railroad Commission of Texas shows that the higher diesel prices are prevalent west of a line from Wichita Falls through Abilene and south to the Mexican border. Last week the wholesale rack price for diesel was 83.75 cents a gallon in Big Spring and 60.6 cents in San Antonio. State and federal fuel taxes of 44.4 cents a gallon are added to the rack price.

"We don't know the reason for the higher diesel fuel costs in West Texas, but we do know what the effect could be--higher transportation costs for shippers and receivers in the region and, ultimately, higher prices for West Texas consumers," Rogers said.

On Oct. 1, a federal environmental mandate which required significant reductions in the sulphur content of diesel fuel went into effect. The processing of diesel to remove the sulphur drove up the price nationwide by 5 to 7 cents per gallon. However, the prices at the pump in West Texas went up as much as 25 cents a gallon more than the rest of the state.

"The trucking industry supported the move to cleaner burning diesel, but the dramatic increase in price was not anticipated," Rogers said. "Since fuel costs make up as much as 15 percent of a trucking company's expenses, such an increase could mean higher transportation costs for businesses in West Texas."

Rogers said his association would request the Railroad Commission to investigate why there is a regional discrepancy in fuel costs.

Spaghetti art easy to make

Like millions of households, ours has become a house of pasta. We try all the shapes and sizes, like corkscrew-shaped rotelle or radiatore.

Sometimes when I'm shopping alone, I'll go for the unknown and buy one of those colorful, fancy boxes of pasta from Italy, tucked between the familiar brands. The kids can't tell the difference, so we generally rely on basic spaghetti in the long thin box as a standby.

On those cooler fall nights when the pasta pot is bubbling on your stove, toss in an extra handful of spaghetti and you'll have the makings of an art project for your younger kids. Here's how to do spaghetti art:

Fill a big cooking pot with water and bring it to a boil. Place a handful of thin spaghetti in the water. For this project the spaghetti should be sticky, so don't add any salt or vegetable oil to the water. (Make sure there is adult supervision when children are using a stove.)

When the spaghetti is cooked, drain it in a strainer and let it cool. Meanwhile, cover a space on your kitchen counter with newspaper. Gather small containers such as empty margarine tubs, and pour several drops of food coloring in each one. Divide the spaghetti with your hands and drop it in the containers, stirring gently with a fork to coat the spaghetti with color. Run cold water in each container and drain each color separately in the strainer.

To make pictures, drape the colored spaghetti in a single layer onto a sheet of heavy construction paper. Your kids may enjoy making geometric shapes, a rainbow or wiggling some blue spaghetti for ocean waves.

Let the projects dry. The starch acts as a natural glue, so the art should stay in place on the paper.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I completely agreed with the woman in Maitland, Fla., whose husband might have avoided financial disaster if he had listened to her. I am a firm believer that women are better able to pick up subtle clues that we men often overlook.

I am an author. Five years ago, a fan of one of my books—a man totally functional in the business world a normal-appearing in every way—offered us a spectacular apartment at a wonderful price. After speaking with him for less than two minutes, my wife "knew" there was something terribly wrong with him. I chided her about her "intuition," and we took the apartment.

It wasn't long before this character hauled us into court and claimed that he was not renting a commercial property and because I was writing books while living there I was operating a business. This, he said, entitled him to a percentage of my royalties.

He lost the case, fortunately. But then the death threats and the stalking began, leading to the sort of violent life-and-death confrontation one usually finds in Stephen King novels.

I am just another husband who has learned the hard way never to underestimate a woman's intuition.—No Name, No City

DEAR N.N.N.C.: You say you are a writer and you certainly write like one. But why the cliffhanger? I'll bet millions of readers would like to know what happened. You mention violent life-and-death confrontation but give not the faintest clue, perhaps there was no stalking law when all this occurred, but there is now.

About women's intuition, I believe it's real. When a husband believes his wife has it, he should trust her gut.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am still reeling from "Blessed in Bakersfield," who saved her marriage after her husband's affair. How much of her pride did she have to swallow for this "happy ending"?

She advised other women, "Assume your husband still loves you, reevaluate your strengths and weaknesses and get on with a self-improvement program." Translation: He really couldn't control himself, and if he fooled around, his wife must have been deficient in some way.

You were right to advise counseling, but what's this baloney about "Don't issue any ultimatums" and "Make home a pleasant place to be?" What does THAT mean? Smile, and be a nice girl while hubby has his little fling?

I am sick of seeing fine, loyal women sacrifice their self-esteem and reinvent themselves in a last-ditch effort to save a marriage. Too often, a man sees no conflict between loving his wife and indulging his whims. So he fools around while his attractive, intelligent wife is told the affair occurred because something was wrong with HER. Suddenly, it is HER fault.

Too many men feel "entitled" to chase younger, firmer bodies when wives who stuck by them through thick and thin begin to show a little wear and tear. A pox on all of them.—Port Allen, La.

DEAR P.A.: Many females will applaud what you have written, and I will once again be accused of printing letters that favor women and clobber men. I might point out, however, that there are also women who look elsewhere when a man loses his hair or, worse yet, his money.

What can you give the person who has everything? Ann Landers' booklet, "Gems," is ideal for a nightstand or coffee table. "Gems" is a collection of Ann Landers' most requested poems and essays. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.85 (this includes postage and handling) to: Gems, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - When Rosie Perez plays a depressing role beware: She might be difficult to work with.

While filming "Fearless," in which she portrays a woman who survives the plane crash that kills her young son, she said she wasn't in the best of spirits.

"It was depressing and I probably alienated everybody who tried to be nice to me," she said of her character in an interview in Saturday's Los Angeles Daily News.

"I felt differently while I was playing Carla because it's such a heavy, heavy role," she said.

Herd spikers end regular season with win

The Lady Whitefaces volleyball team finished off the regular season with a 15-9, 15-5 win over Pampa Tuesday in Whiteface Gym. Hereford ends the regular season with a 23-6 record, 8-2 in District 1-

4A. The Lady Whitefaces start the playoff season with bi-district match against Lamesa at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Monterey High School in Lubbock.

Hereford's Brooke Bryant goes up to take a mighty swing at the volleyball. Hereford beat Pampa in the regular season finale Tuesday in Whiteface Gym.

Texas DB gets weekly SWC honor

AUSTIN (AP) - No one would mistake Joey Ellis for a defensive lineman.

At 5-9 and 186 pounds, he is the smallest starter on the Texas Longhorns' defense.

But Ellis, a junior cornerback who goes by the nickname Silk-E-Smooth, got a taste of being a lineman Saturday, recording two sacks, one of which caused a crucial fumble, in a 37-10 victory over Southern Methodist.

For his play, Ellis has been named The Associated Press Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week.

"Sacks are defensive line stats and interceptions are defensive back stats," Ellis said. "So when we get a sack, we let the defensive linemen know, and it makes them mad. Getting two sacks, well..."

Texas A&M's Leeland McElroy returned Rice's first two kickoffs 93 and 88 yards for touchdowns, tying an NCAA record, to set the tone for the No. 11 Aggies' 38-10 victory on Saturday. He is the AP's SWC Offensive Player of the Week.

Ellis, who had five solo tackles and a pass breakup to go with his sacks, said he had not been called on to blitz all season until the SMU game. He made the most of his opportunities.

His first sack was the most critical. With the Mustangs facing third-and-goal at the Texas 2 late in the first quarter, Ellis came flying in from the right side while SMU quarterback Mark Eldred was looking left into the end zone.

Ellis hit Eldred with such force, the ball was sent flying back upfield, where it went out of bounds at the 21.

"We had a double linebacker blitz on the snap of the ball," Ellis said. "I disguised my coverage and rushed in. He never saw me."

The deflated Mustangs settled for a 38-yard field goal and never threatened the rest of the first half. By intermission, Texas had put the game out of reach, 27-3.

Texas (2-3-1 overall, 2-0 in the SWC) had been giving up nearly 500 yards a game during its first five games, which marked the Longhorns' worst start since 1938.

But the Longhorns held SMU to just 271 yards, including a mere 53 yards on the ground.

"The defense was just pursuing the ball and having a good time out there," Ellis said. "We needed this win."

With Texas Tech and its high-octane offense looming this week, Ellis said, "We need all the confidence we can get."

McElroy, a redshirt freshman, has to make an impression wherever he can because he's the No. 3 tailback behind Rodney Thomas and Greg Hill. His feat on Saturday made him only the sixth player in NCAA Division I-A to return two kickoffs for touchdowns in one game.

Notre Dame's Rocket Ismail did it twice and the Owls were one of his victims in 1988.

"They were important to the game," McElroy said. "We were down when I returned the second one and the first one. It helped the team out a lot."

JV spikers claim perfect district record

Hereford's junior varsity volleyball team wrapped up a perfect district record with a 15-6, 15-6 win over the Pampa JV Tuesday in Whiteface Gym.

"It is great when you finish 25-4 and finish first in district," coach Royce Spies said. "This is a great bunch of kids who worked really hard. Our juniors provided great leadership, and the sophomores came on and played really well all year long."

A hustling Pampa defense kept Hereford from running away early, but Pampa's offense wasn't enough to hurt Hereford consistently. Hereford led all the way in the first game, but held only a 10-9 lead before pulling away.

Hereford led 6-0 in the second game but got stuck on that for several rotations before getting started again.

Hereford coach Brenda Reeh suggested the Herd may have been thinking about Lamesa during the Pampa game.

"It's so difficult once you clinch a playoff spot not to look beyond the end of district," Reeh said. "That's what happened to us tonight. We were just a step behind getting to our defensive positions, or a step late blocking. Our hitters didn't always retreat quick enough for a good approach."

"There's not a one of us--me included--that felt the same intensity before and during that match as we would otherwise. We were ready to look to a week from tonight."

Still, it was a win, and it gave Hereford a solid second-place finish at 8-2 behind Dumas' 10-0 (23-6 overall). Pampa (4-6, 11-13) finished fourth after Borger (5-5, 16-9) beat Caprock (1-9, 7-21) on Tuesday. Randall lost to Dumas Tuesday and finishes 2-8 and 12-13.

Rickman claims all-around title at River Road rodeo

Hereford's Chasity Rickman took all-around cowgirls honors as River Road hosted a Tri-State High School Rodeo Association rodeo Saturday.

Rickman won the goat tying event with a time of 8.435 seconds. She took second in poles (20.890 seconds) and fourth in barrels (17.1).

Justin Henderson, also of Hereford, won the bareback riding event with a score of 69.

Cloudy Kidd took fourth in ribbon roping with a time of 9.975 seconds.

Danielle Cornelius led the Herd with nine kills and Crystal Kelley added seven kills.

Michelle Brock had eight service points on 11 good serves, including two aces. Aimee Alley had 10 points on 13 good serves and ended the first game with an ace. Alley led the Herd with seven digs.

Monterey High School is at the intersection of 50th and Indiana streets in Lubbock. Hereford fans should sit on the visitors' side. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for children.

Carolina Panthers named as newest NFL team

ROSEMONT, Ill. (AP) - They're celebrating in Charlotte.

They're crossing their fingers in St. Louis and Baltimore.

And in Jacksonville and Memphis, they're wondering if their long quest for an NFL franchise has gone away. Charlotte won the big prize Tuesday when NFL owners unanimously awarded it the league's 29th franchise, to begin play in 1995 as the Carolina Panthers.

But the second franchise that was supposed to be awarded wasn't. The owners divided among the other four cities and decided to meet again in the Chicago area Nov. 30 to pick the winner.

In Charlotte, fireworks exploded and hundreds of people gathered for a celebration. Many North Carolina television stations carried the brief announcement live.

"I hope giving birth isn't as difficult and doesn't take 6 1/2 years," said Jerry Richardson, the former Baltimore Colts wide receiver and owner of a company that owns such restaurants as Hardee's and Denny's, who has been pursuing the franchise for Charlotte since 1986.

The five weeks until Nov. 30 may seem that long to the other applicants, most of whom have the impression that the franchise will go to St. Louis. Commissioner Paul Tagliabue is said to feel the expansion teams should go to an old NFL city and a new one. St. Louis, where the Cardinals played until they left for Phoenix in 1988, and Baltimore, abandoned by the Colts for Indianapolis in 1984, are the two old cities left.

St. Louis, with a new domed stadium and the largest television market outside the NFL, would seem to be the logical choice, particularly to Tuesday's losers. But at least one top league official said that isn't necessarily so.

"I know the other cities think it's a done deal for St. Louis, but it's not," he said. "Maybe it will happen, but it also may not. A lot of people have open minds."

Still, St. Louis might have gotten a franchise Tuesday but for two factors:

- Its ownership group led by Stan Kroenke was not named until Monday while the other owners have been known to the league for as long as Richardson. The five weeks will give the league time for a better background check.

- Fran Murray, a principal in the old St. Louis group, insists he still wants a franchise, and the league is wary of getting into legal entanglements with him.

"In a sense I feel good about it except for the torture of having to go through it again," said George "Buzz" Westfall, the St. Louis county executive.

The others seemed to think it wouldn't be torture.

"If you're a St. Louis fan, you have to be tickled pink by the decision," said Leonard "Boogie" Weinglass, the principal owner in one of the Baltimore groups. Earlier, Weinglass had argued that St. Louis was a baseball rather than a football town.

"The Colts have tradition," he said. "When I think of St. Louis, I think of Ozzie Smith."

Meanwhile, Charlotte was already getting ready for its team.

The general manager will be Mike McCormack, the former general manager of the Seattle Seahawks and a former player and coach with the Cleveland Browns. And speculation has already begun that the coach might be Joe Gibbs, a Carolina native who resigned last year after leading the Washington Redskins to three Super Bowl titles in 12 years.

The team will begin play at Clemson Stadium in South Carolina and is situated in what the NFL considers a vacuum between the Redskins and Atlanta Falcons. The area has a population of about 10 million within a 100-mile radius.

Its permanent home will be a stadium financed under a unique concept - permanent seating licenses purchased by prospective ticket buyers at prices from $600 to $5,600. Even without a franchise guarantee, 50,000 licenses were sold, raising about $60 million.

Cowboys usually have trouble in Vet

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The hype has started for Sunday's Dallas-Philadelphia NFC family feud.

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson says Veterans Stadium is the toughest place he's ever had to take a team.

Philadelphia coach Rich Kotite says the Cowboys are better than they were last year in a world championship season.

"This year, they're better than they were last year," said Kotite. "They are playing with a lot of confidence. They are as capable a team as there is in the NFL."

"We're going to a place that hasn't been real friendly to us through the years," Johnson counters. "I expect we'll see Philadelphia at its best. They've moved the game from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. I expect the fans will be worked into a frenzy by then."

Johnson knows about "frenzy" in Philly. He's had to dodge snowballs filled with batteries.

Success has always been hard to come by for him at the Eagles home perch.

The Eagles blew out the defending world champions 31-7 last year in a Monday night game at Veterans Stadium. The Cowboys have won just one of their last six games in Philadelphia, a 23-15 victory in 1991.

Troy Aikman has never defeated the Eagles in the Vet, but this time the Cowboys are 11-point favorites to do so.

"I guess that's one more ghost I have to put to bed," said Aikman, who once suffered a separated shoulder at the Vet. "It's a hard place to play."

Johnson has played in some tough places, including as a college coach at Miami, but he rates Veterans

Stadium as the hardest place to win. "Going to Philadelphia is as difficult a task as we have," Johnson said. "They get up for us and there's no bones about it. They seem to play better against Dallas. The intensity level is up."

The Cowboys had no trouble last year with Philadelphia in Texas Stadium, winning 20-10 in a regular season game and knocking the Eagles out 34-10 in an NFC divisional playoff.

The Cowboys and Eagles are 4-2 but appeared headed in different directions. Dallas lost its first two games without holdout Emmitt Smith. The Eagles, who have lost two quarterbacks including Randall Cunningham to injury, have lost their last two games after winning their first four.

"The Eagles aren't as dominating a team without Randall Cunningham," Johnson said. "They had the most dangerous two-minute offense in the league with Cunningham in there."

The Cowboys are injury-free except for defensive end Charles Haley, who has back problems that were incurred in a 26-17 victory over the San Francisco 49ers. Haley was listed as questionable.

"I fully expect Haley to play," Johnson said. "He will get some tests on Wednesday, and we'll make a decision at that time. If Haley can't go, then Jim Jeffcoat will start."

The Cowboys are also expected to activate linebacker Godfrey Myles, who has missed all of the season so far because of an injury suffered in the Super Bowl. Myles will be a backup linebacker and play on the special teams.

White Sox' Thomas gets big contract

NEW YORK (AP) - Frank Thomas of the Chicago White Sox, who has played less than 3 1/2 seasons in the major leagues, has a contract extension believed to put him among the top five on the salary list.

Thomas, who made a $900,000 base salary last year, agreed Tuesday to a four-year contract extension through 1998 worth about $28 million. The team gets two option years that could make the deal worth about $42 million for six seasons. The first baseman already is signed for 1994 at $2.5 million.

"This was something that didn't have to be done this year, but I appreciate it," Thomas said in a statement issued by the team.

Seven players filed for free agency Tuesday, including second baseman Robby Thompson, who hit .312 with 19 homers and 65 RBIs for the San Francisco Giants.

Cincinnati Reds second baseman Big Roberts and New York Mets third baseman Howard Johnson also were among those filing, as were White Sox pitcher Tim Lincecum, Oakland second baseman Jerry Browne, Seattle catcher Dave Valle and Colorado pitcher Bruce Hurst.

Hurst filed after the Rockies decided to give him a $400,000 buyout rather than exercise a $3 million option.

The New York Yankees told Mike Witt they would give him a $500,000 buyout rather than exercise his $3 million option. Witt was 3-3 in 11 games during his three-year deal and was paid $8 million to pitch 46 1-3 innings.

The list of those potentially eligible dropped by two when the California Angels placed infielder Kurt Stillwell on unconditional release waivers and the White Sox exercised their 1994 option on catcher Mike LaValliere, worth the major league minimum, currently $109,000. The Pittsburgh Pirates released him from a guaranteed contract worth $1.9 million.

The Toronto Blue Jays said they wouldn't offer salary arbitration to three players covered by the restriction against repeat free agency within a five-year period: outfielder Rickey Henderson, reliever Mark Eichhorn and shortstop Dick Schofield.

The three may file for free agency starting Friday. In Henderson's case, the right to offer arbitration and prevent free agency was waived by the Blue Jays when they acquired him from Oakland on July 31.

Henderson will be represented this winter by Dennis Gilbert, who negotiated Barry Bonds' contract with San Francisco last winter and Bobby Bonilla's deal with the New York Mets after the 1991 season.

Twenty-eight players have filed for free agency and about 85 more are eligible to file by the Nov. 7 deadline. They can talk specific money terms only with their former club until Nov. 8, when they become free to sign with any team.

Garden City RB fools tacklers with unique style

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - When Garden City coach Dennis Bryant calls his new star running back Stuart Wilde a spider, he means it as a compliment. "When he runs, it's all arms and legs," Bryant said, explaining the moniker.

Wilde's unique style is needed to propel his 5-8, 128-pound frame into and through opposing defenses. He's blossomed the last two weeks, gaining 550 yards and scoring four touchdowns on 69 carries.

His 343-yard, two-TD effort in a 20-0 victory over Sanderson last weekend has earned Wilde top honors in this week's Associated Press high school honor roll.

"He's like a ping pong ball," Bryant said. "If he doesn't take a straight hit, he bounces off people and he keeps moving his legs. That's his biggest asset."

Bryant said Wilde also has an amazing ability to slip tacklers, a burst of acceleration that puts him at top speed within about two steps and excellent strength for someone his size.

Another trick is how an opponents' first glance at Wilde may lead them to think he's not much of a player.

"I guess if I was on the other side of the ball looking at him, I'd chuckle myself. His legs aren't even bigger than pencils," Bryant said.

Wilde is having the last laugh these days. He's overcome a slow start, battled through injuries and become the Class 1A Bearkats' featured ball carrier.

Wilde, who also plays cornerback, has been a late bloomer, waiting until midway through his senior year to really break out. He played wide receiver last season.

He began this season with 53 yards rushing in two games, missed the third with a broken left thumb, rushed for 116 yards in game 4 and had 98 the next week.

Early this season, Wilde and Bryan Harp split time at tailback. Wilde has since claimed the spot for himself and earned the full share of carries, getting 69 over the last two games.

He has 817 yards on 136 carries for the season. Garden City is 2-5, but 2-0 in District 8A. This weekend, the Bearkats face district foe Wink, which is coached by their former coach Sam Scott.

In other outstanding Week 8 performances:

- Coleman Bates rushed for 214 yards on 27 carries, leading Houston Davis to its first victory in eight years, a 19-18 triumph over Houston Wheatley. Bates' 78-yard TD run on the first play from scrimmage was the beginning of the end of the nation's longest-ever losing streak of 80 games.

- Chris Pierson ran for 271 yards, two TDs and a two-point conversion as Garland Lakeview, considered a playoff contender in the preseason, won its first game of the season 41-0 over North Garland. His 76-yard TD came two plays after a holding call wiped out a 62-yard scoring run.

- Converse Judson's Jerod Douglas is back on the honor roll after a long, mostly injury-delayed absence. The all-state senior had four TDs and 193 yards in the Rockets' important 35-14 victory over SA Churchill. He now has rushed for 970 yards and scored 14 times this season.

- Another highly touted back also lived up to his billing as Odessa Permian's John Williams ran for 171 yards on 29 and all three TDs in a 21-21 tie with Midland Lee that dropped the Panthers from first to fourth in 5A.

- Williams will get to watch another of Class 5A's most successful backs this weekend when Permian plays Abilene Cooper and Mike Rose. In a 35-0 victory over Austin High last weekend, Rose rushed 15 times for 240 yards.

- Ryan Lewis of Alief Elsik rushed for 312 yards and two TDs on 23 carries in a 31-17 victory over Houston Stratford.

- El Campo's Tyron Kimball gained 326 yards on 27 carries in a 55-34 loss to Bay City.

Textured hosiery a fall fashion must

Well-dressed legs are getting a kick out of textured, patterned and plush hosiery this fall.

Textures include ribbing, basketweave, mesh, crochet, lace and cable stitching. Patterns range from large florals and paisleys to romantic brocades and menswear-inspired herringbones and tweeds.

For a touch of the dandy, there are leggings in jewel-tone velvet. For a weekend in the woods, layer thick socks with rugged tights, thermal leggings or cozy leg warmers. Environmentalists might enjoy vivid foliage colors or earthy naturals with names such as dune, oat and bark.

So take your pick. Just make sure it's opaque.

"I think sheers are predominantly an evening look this season," says Jennifer George, a Seventh Avenue designer. "At night, when you want to be noticed in your short, sexy black dress, there's nothing more attractive than sheer black pantyhose."

Opaque legwear, on the other hand, becomes a legging.

"It makes a tunic into a dress," she says. "It does a lot of camouflaging, and it takes a short skirt or shorts into winter."

All of which means that opaques not only provide a finished look, they add a layer of warmth.

"Based on all the skirt lengths, from the very short to the very long, tights make sense," says Carol Hochman, president of Liz Claiborne accessories.

And Barbara Guzy, fashion merchandising director at Pennaco Hosiery, says women are making sense of tights.

"Women have short skirts in their wardrobes and long skirts in their wardrobes," she says, "and they must think about what they put between their shoes and their hemline."

Pennaco, which owns Round the Clock and makes hosiery under license from Givenchy and Anne Klein, says you can't go wrong with textures.

"Whether you wear your skirts short or long, we're finding texture has a place," she says. "As granny boots and hiking boots tend to be bottom-heavy, you need an added dimension to balance them. You need some interesting surface texture for your leg, or it'll disappear."

That's where Anne Klein's honeycomb crochet tights come in. In microfiber and Lycra, they're $12 in pearl, chocolate, charcoal, navy and black.

At Hue, "For the first time, we're doing heavier gage tights, nubby tights and beefy cable tights that are more rugged, more like a sweater," says Kathy Moskal, co-president.

At about $20, the sweater nub and cable styles come in a series of neutrals.

"The tights reflect all the interest in sweater dressing and layering," Moskal says. "Those are the two key elements."

One modern way to do the look,

Britain and France declared war on Germany Sept. 3, 1939, two days after the Nazi invasion of Poland.

she says, is to scrunch a bulky sock or leg warmers over tights with hiking boots, a bulky, wooly sweater, a mini skirt and a scarf.

Hue's leg warmers, a.k.a. footless sweater thighs, come in natural and black of 100 percent recycled cotton, about $15.

Study club meets to plan Project Christmas Card

Preparations for this year's Project Christmas Card were made when members of the L' Allegra Study Club met recently in the home of Shelly Moss with Mary Kay McQuigg serving as co-hostess.

Project posters were made and the members of the finance committee announced that they plan to meet with Ron Rives, administrator of the Hereford Regional Medical Center, to discuss what this year's project proceeds will be used for by the

What won't grow on a farm?

U.S. farmers grow much more than food on farms.

Of course, they grow raw material for clothing in the form of cotton, wool, leather and linen. In fact, cotton is the ninth-largest source of farm income.

But the fabric and leather made from farm products just scratches the surface of all the consumer needs met by farmers, and the non-food industries that use farm products.

Important medicines are made from farm products. Insulin, essential to millions of diabetics, and cortisone, a powerful medicine for controlling inflammation and pain, are derived from livestock production.

Look around at all the chemical and plastic products used by a U.S. household today and you'll find a large number of items based on farm products. Glues, waxes, pigments, detergents, solvents, lubricating oils, biodegradable plastics, road de-icer, inks and automobile fuel are just a few of the non-food products that can start with farm-raised raw material.

Unlike petroleum and minerals mined from the ground, farm-grown raw materials are renewable. Converting sunlight, air and rain into industrial raw materials on the farm lasts as long as the sun shines, the wind blows and the rain falls.

Why are renewable resource industries a success in the United States? Because everyone is helping. Creative scientists, capital from thousands of investors, an army of skilled workers and support for research from every taxpayer all contribute to our success.

Beef presentation given to Hereford Cattlewomen

Moriah Olson, 4-H ambassador for Texas, gave a presentation entitled "Beef Does A Body Good" when members of the Hereford Cattlewomen met Oct. 19 at the Hereford State Bank.

The speaker also prepared a dish, "Crescent Italiano."

Lori Hall gave the invocation and President Lisa Klett presided over the business meeting.

Charlene Sanders read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved and Karen Sherrod gave a final report on the fajita cookoff which made approximately $375.

Marty McElhaney, legislative representative, reported on legislation currently in progress concerning grazing and water rights on private lands. She asked each member to contact senators and show support for the filibuster on the Interior Appropriations Bill.

Klett reported that she will be attending the fall convention and asked if anyone would like to accompany her on the trip.

The nominating committee will gather nominations for the new officers for 1994.

Members were asked to be thinking of nominations for the Cattlewoman of the Year and the Honorary Cowbelle of the Year.

A "rocking cow" was given to the organization by McElhaney. It was decided to raffle it off at the December meeting after it has been displayed at several local business.

Members decided to donate $100 to Deaf Smith County United Way. The next meeting was planned at noon Nov. 16 at the Hereford Country Club.

Lori Hall won the fall centerpiece. Nancy Josseland introduced her guests, Ruth McBride and Betty Olson.

Those present were Lisa Klett, Charlene Sanders, Pam Wagner, Julia Laing, Linda Gilbert, Charmayne Klett, Sandy Josseland, Connie Banks, Zula Arney, Nancy Josseland, Erin Alley, Marty McElhaney, Karen Sherrod, Beverly Davis, Lori Hall and Leslie Easley.

In 1521, Spanish forces took control of Mexico after an eight-week siege of the Aztec capital.

You have two basic ways to play. Fill out the Exact Order box on your Pick 3 playslip. You win if your num-

You can even ask for a Quick Pick, and the computer will pick your three numbers for you. If you need more information, just pick up a how-to-play brochure at any LOTTO Texas retailer, or call 1-800-37-LOTTO.

The Newspaper BIBLE "JERUSALEM, HERE WE COME!"

A man named Agabus, who also had the gift of prophecy, arrived from Judea and visited us. He took Paul's belt, bound his own feet and hands with it and said, "The Holy Spirit declares, 'So shall the owner of this belt be bound by the Jews in Jerusalem and turned over to the Romans.'" Hearing this, all of us -- the local believers and his traveling companions -- begged Paul not to go on to Jerusalem. But he said, "Why all this weeping? You are breaking my heart! For I am ready not only to be jailed at Jerusalem, but also to die for the sake of the Lord Jesus."

When it was clear that he wouldn't be dissuaded, we gave up and said, "The will of the Lord be done." So shortly afterwards, we packed our things and left for Jerusalem. Some disciples from Caesarea accompanied us, and on arrival we were guests at the home of Mnason, originally from Cyprus, one of the early believers; and all the believers at Jerusalem welcomed us cordially.

The second day Paul took us with him to meet with James and the elders of the Jerusalem church. After greetings were exchanged, Paul recounted the many things God had accomplished among the Gentiles through his work. They praised God but then said, "You know, dear brother, how many thousands of Jews have also believed, and they are all very insistent that Jewish traditions and customs." Acts 21:10-20

CLEVELAND (AP) - Rita Dove, the U.S. poet laureate, says as a young person she was a poet and just didn't know it.

"I didn't know that you could become a writer," Ms. Dove told fifth-through seventh-graders at a Cleveland Public Library branch Friday.

Ms. Dove, 41, became the first black and youngest poet laureate of the Library of Congress on Oct. 8. She said she entered college as a pre-law major and hid her poems in a notebook.

As poet laureate, the Akron native is responsible for preserving poetry in the United States. She said that's important because "books remind you of how people felt at a certain time, in a certain country."

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 29-year-old mother of two children, ages 4 months and 3 years. After my first child, I developed a deep venous thrombosis or blood clot in my left leg. I was hospitalized for three weeks and had severe pain. My vascular specialist says I have chronic venous insufficiency and recurrent thrombophlebitis in my left leg. Exactly what is chronic venous insufficiency?

I wear a custom-made compression stocking with 40 to 50 mm pressure every day. I have been on heparin and Coumadin, but that has been discontinued. I am at a high risk to get another clot as well. Is there any way or anything I can do to prevent a recurrence of a blood clot elsewhere in my body?

DEAR READER: Chronic venous insufficiency simply means your veins are not able to adequately drain the blood from your legs so it can be returned to the heart. Two terms are properly used: varicose veins, which are dilated incompetent superficial veins you can see under the skin over your legs, and venous insufficiency, which relates to large veins deep inside the muscles of your leg which you cannot see. The superficial veins drain into the deep vein in your upper thigh area.

You have had a clot form in the deep vein inside your muscles. That blockage of venous drainage causes swelling of the leg and, in the acute stage, may cause pain. A clot in such a large vein sometimes breaks loose and passes through the veins to the heart and out into the lungs. That causes a pulmonary embolism. If it is a large clot it can be life-threatening. Evidently your doctors feel that you have passed the stage where a clot might break loose.

The clot undergoes changes that partially dissolve it in time.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I would like to know when the best time is to stretch. I am not as limber as I once was. When I bend over to touch my toes, I can't do it. When I was in high school and college, I could bend over and put my palms on the floor without any trouble. I would do 10 of these rapidly every morning when I first got up.

Now, at age 54, I can't easily reach my ankles. I have to strain to even approach getting the tips of my fingers to the floor. That is why I want to start a stretching program. Will such a program be helpful or harmful at my age?

DEAR READER: I am a strong advocate of stretching. Many muscle aches and pains are caused by muscles that have shortened or are over-contracted. Muscle pain is often relieved by being able to stretch to relax those muscles. Often a major portion of the pain from osteoarthritis is from muscle spasm, particularly of the back muscles. Every movable joint deserves to be gently and properly stretched on a daily basis.

Stretching can be very beneficial if it is done right. It will not help, or may even be harmful, if done improperly. It also takes a long time to gradually regain lost flexibility. The quick bobbing movements some do with toe-touching exercises are not helpful and can be harmful.

Muscles contract because the fibrous sheaths around the strand of muscle fibers, which join to form ligaments and tendons, contract. They contain a gelatin-like substance and do not stretch easily unless your muscles are warm. That is why stretching is best done when the body has warmed up. Your body temperature is apt to be near its lowest level when you first wake up. A light exercise program for 10 minutes, such as walking or swinging your arms, that does not stress you helps to raise your body temperature and warm these fibrous tissues. If you can't do much exercise to warm up, then a hot shower or a soak in a hot tub before stretching will help.

Then the warm muscles and tendons are stretched slowly. Never stretch to the point of pain, but just short of being uncomfortable. Then hold that stretched position while you count to 60. That allows time for the gelatin-like fibrous tissue to stay in the stretched position. Rapid movements do not and will not result in the flexibility that you desire.

I have discussed proper stretching exercises in Special Report 76, You Need to Stretch, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/76, P.O.

Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. If you warm up, you can stretch any time you like.

DEAR DR. LAMB: About three weeks before my daughter turned 8 years old, we noticed a hard lump in her right breast. The nipple area was slightly swollen and just looked bigger than the other side. After an ultrasound, the report stated the radiologist believed my daughter was beginning to develop "budding."

Dr. Lamb, my daughter is just 8 years old. Is this a normal occurrence for one breast to start developing before the other breast does?

DEAR READER: The first changes of puberty begin between 8 and 10 years of age. And the first sign is usually changes in the breast. First, it may appear as a slight swelling, followed by a small, round area at the nipple. Rather firm "knots" may develop temporarily. These also may occur in boys. It is not uncommon to have such a lump in just one breast, and I would not consider it a cause for alarm.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Jewelry sale slated Friday at hospital

The Hereford Regional Medical Center's Auxiliary is hosting a jewelry sale from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday in the dining room lobby of the hospital.

The sale, which is a major fund raiser for the auxiliary, will feature fashionable jewelry for all occasions. For sale will be 14k gold and sterling silver earrings, bracelets, watches and rings at exceptional values. Other costume jewelry and gemstones will also be featured. Profits from the sale will be used for the hospital's adopt-a-room project and various auxiliary projects.

"This is a great time to do some early Christmas shopping," Quintna Waits, auxiliary president, said. "Customers will have a chance to make some excellent buys and help fund worthy projects at the same time."
