KVII-TV agrees to cable deal

An agreement signed at mid-afternoon Tuesday kept the KVII-TV signal moving to subscribers of Hereford Cablevision.

While the Amarillo broadcaster had leveled a highly visible campaign to force Hereford Cablevision to pay a fee for retransmission of the KVII-TV signal, the station had the same situation in other Panhandle cities served by cable systems.

Lloyd Ames, Hereford Cablevision general manager, announced the signing of a "non-cash agreement" with the Channel 7 ownership.

"We signed a three-year agreement about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday," Ames said. The deadline for reaching an agreement to keep KVII-TV on the cable system was midnight Tuesday.

The cable systems serving several cities in the Panhandle as well as Amarillo have reached similar agreements with KVII-TV, the ABC affiliate in Amarillo.

Two other network affiliates, KAMR-TV and KFDA-TV, reached agreements several weeks ago. The Fox outlet, KCIT-TV, signed a six-month agreement with Hereford Cablevision earlier this week.

The Cable Act of 1992 created new regulations for cable systems, including one that calls for signed agreements with broadcast stations for retransmission of their signals.

KVII-TV had insisted that cable systems pay a fee for retransmission rights although the other network stations, including KACV-TV, the PBS affiliate, had signed agreements without charges.

Hereford Cablevision had refused to sign with KVII-TV as long as the fee was part of the deal. The broadcaster asked for a cent per subscriber per month, about $40, for retransmission rights.

If the cable system had agreed to those terms, the same fee would have been paid the other stations as provided by the Cable Act.

Leaning on United Way

Steve Wright, left, chairman of the United Way of Deaf Smith County's Commerce Division, relaxes on a cane as he visits with fellow United Way volunteer Daniel Villarreal after Tuesday's report luncheon. Wright was presented the cane -- which was found by 1993 United Way fund drive chairman Wes Klett on his Care Walk last month -- during Tuesday's meeting. The cane was described by board president Mike Hatley as "For getting off to a less than great start" in the campaign. As of Tuesday's Wright's division, which has a goal of $10,680, had reported no donations to the United Way. Wright accepted the cane with a laugh.

Hector Sotelo shooting victim Officers investigating gunshot death of man

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

Hereford Police today are awaiting autopsy results on a local man who was found dead Tuesday night of a gunshot wound to the head.

Capt. Pat Michael said officials are not sure if Hector Sotelo, 20, was murdered or if the fatal wound was self-inflicted.

"It's just hard to tell at this point," Michael said.

Officers were called to 905 Cherokee at about 6:20 p.m. Tuesday, Michael said, where they found Sotelo's body lying in the front bedroom of the trailer.

Sotelo and his wife were planning to move into the trailer from their present home a block away on Sioux.

Michael said Sotelo's mother, Maria Sotelo, went to the house to check on her son and found him lying dead.

Police and EMS arrived at the same time, 6:23 p.m. Michael said EMS workers attempted to treat Sotelo at the scene, but "gave up resuscitation efforts at 6:43 p.m."

A .380-caliber automatic weapon was found at the scene, police said.

But, Michael said, there are complications he did not name to calling the death a suicide.

"We're open-minded as to the cause," he said. "I wouldn't say there's conflicting evidence that would rule out self-inflicted," but there are issues that complicate the investigation.

"Any good investigation of unattended death is to treat it as a homicide ... until you can prove differently," he said. "The physical evidence at the scene is a little more complicated than a cut-and-dried self-inflicted (wound)."

Sotelo was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine, who responded along with Municipal Judge Tawanna Hollowell.

In addition, Michael said, Woody Bell and Elizabeth Peabody, Potter County Medical Examiners, were on the scene to assist with the preliminary investigation.

The body was taken to Amarillo, where the two were scheduled to perform an autopsy today.

Michael said the scene of the death has been sealed by police, with an officer stationed on duty there to secure the area.

He said initial investigation of the death scene was hampered by darkness, because electricity in the trailer had not been on and officers had to search the building by flashlight and spotlight.

Michael said further investigation will be conducted at the trailer, but that in-depth probing would be contingent on a death ruling by Turrentine and autopsy findings.

If the death is ruled a homicide, it would be the third death in Deaf Smith County this year.

On Sept. 11, Bill Gudgell was shot to death at his home in rural Deaf Smith County. That case was investigated by the Sheriff's Department.

In January, Santos Rincon Jr. was killed at the Cowboy Carwash on U.S. 385. It was the first murder in the city limits in 2-1/2 years.

United Way inching toward campaign goal of $150,000

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The crowd at Tuesday's United Way of Deaf Smith County report luncheon was larger than the crowd that showed up last week.

The amount of money collected, however, was not that much more to report.

As of Tuesday, the United Way was just 17 percent of the way toward its goal of $150,000. Last week, the United Way reported it had collected 9 percent of its total goal.

The report meeting marked the half-way point in the six-week drive and was the second such session held.

Seventeen people were on hand for the meeting, which included the good-natured presentation of a cane to Commerce Division chairman Steve Wright "for getting off to a less than great start" in the campaign, said United Way board president Mike Hatley in making the presentation.

The cane was found along U.S. 60 between Hereford and Amarillo by fund drive chairman Wes Klett during his Care Walk last month.

Wright's division was one of three that reported no money as yet.

Wright reported that all 250 packets for businesses in his division have been passed out by his 51 volunteers, but that they have not been returned as yet.

The goal for the Commerce Division is $10,680.

Other divisions with nothing to report are: Agriculture, with a goal of $4,635, and Corporate Gifts, with a goal of $5,837.

On the other end of the spectrum was the F.I.R.E. division, which stands for Finance, Insurance, Real Estate and Energy.

That division has a goal of $16,894. As of Tuesday, it had reported $8,289 in donations, for 49 percent of goal. The strong showing came mainly through pledges of $8,189.20 by employees of First National Bank, which held its United Way campaign last week.

Despite the increase in attendance from the Sept. 27 report luncheon which was attended by 12 people, Hatley called for even greater attendance.

"The volunteers should be here. The division heads should be here."

The board members should be here," he said, calling for those present to encourage others to attend the next report luncheon, which will be held at noon Tuesday, Oct. 12, in Siroloin Stockade.

The following is a list of pledges through Tuesday by division. Listed is the division, its goal, total pledged and percent of goal reached.

- Senior Citizens, $11,233 goal, $2,320 collected, 21 percent of goal.
- Agriculture, $4,635, nothing collected.
- Business and Industry, $21,229, $200 collected, 1 percent.
- F.I.R.E., $16,894, $8,289 collected, 49 percent.
- Corporate Gifts, $5,837, nothing collected.
- Professionals, $23,409, $135 collected, 0.5 percent.
- Public/Federal/State, $20,345, $4,655 collected, 23 percent.
- Pacesetters, $8,216, $1,945 collected, 24 percent.
- Advanced Gifts, $27,522, $2,000 collected, 8 percent.
- Care Walk, $5,252.85 collected, no goal set.

McCown stepping in on school finance lawsuit

AUSTIN (AP) - State District Judge F. Scott McCown is taking an active role in the trial over the school finance law, which is being challenged by property-rich and poor school districts.

On Tuesday, he showed little sympathy for arguments that the law levels the education system by limiting rich school districts' wealth.

McCown gave lawyers an analogy to chew on: Say a person requires six pieces of bread a day, he said, but four people have only 20 pieces among them.

Two of the people each have two pieces; one gets six; and one gets 10. The two who don't have enough bread can't get the others to vote for obtaining more. Then a court steps in and says everyone gets five pieces.

You might say there's no "nutritional justification" for leveling down, McCown said. But on the other hand, "Now we've got four votes for more bread."

His argument is like that made by poor school district officials, who for years have said that putting all school districts in the same financial boat will give all of them reason to lobby lawmakers for more education funding.

It was one of several times that McCown took a vocal role in the two-day old trial.

He questioned Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno about potential waste in the education system, advised some lawyers to stick to the subject, and reminded them that he has previously ruled in another trial in the long-running case that the state can fund education "100 percent through ad valorem property taxes as long as it's equitable."

The new law is the third to try to meet a 1989 Texas Supreme Court order to even out funding available to school districts. Schools rely on state aid and local property taxes.

The law gives the state's richest school districts several options for sharing some wealth. It is meant to ensure that no school district has more than $280,000 in property wealth per student.

Poor school districts say they are shortchanged by the way state education funding is distributed under the new law, and that it would leave an important gap in the amount they can raise compared with property-rich school districts.

Wealthy school districts say the law relies too heavily on local property taxes, and they object to the structure of the new law. One lawyer asked Meno, who took the stand Tuesday, whether the measure could be characterized as a "leveling down approach." Meno said it could.

Meno also testified that the Legislature provided at least $1.8 billion less education funding for the two-year budget period than he and the State Board of Education recommended was needed to produce students who could succeed in the "real world."

Lawyers for poor school districts say the law leaves at least a $600 gap per student in funding available to rich and poor school districts. Meno said, "When you get to $600 ... then I think it could have a significant impact."

Clinton 'clearly disturbed' by Somalia deaths; eyes options

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton, described as "clearly disturbed" by the heavy toll of American dead and wounded in Somalia, is weighing a range of options for winding down U.S. involvement there.

With congressional opposition to the U.S. presence mounting, Clinton planned to hold a second meeting today with his top national security aides, including Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Defense Secretary Les Aspin and Marine Gen. Joseph P. Hoar, the commander for the region.

The group met Tuesday night after Clinton returned from a three-day trip to California. Clinton made no decisions and said he wanted to meet with the same group again today to discuss next steps, presidential adviser David Gergen said.

"The president said he was going to continue his policy review regarding Somalia," said a senior administration official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The official suggested that Clinton was not about to order an abrupt withdrawal of troops and that the basic goal remained "to draw down American troops as the security situation allows."

Meanwhile, more than 600 U.S. troops armed with specialized weapons and tanks were beginning to move toward Somalia. Twelve Americans were killed, 78 were wounded and others were missing in fighting in the Somali capital of Mogadishu late Sunday and early Monday.

The Pentagon declined to comment on reports that as many as eight Americans were being held hostage by supporters of Somali warlord Mohamed Farrah Aidid. One U.S. pilot was shown on a videotape being interrogated by his captors.

That videotape and pictures of dead U.S. soldiers being dragged through the streets of Mogadishu have set off intense reaction in Congress and across the country.

One senior administration official said Clinton was "clearly disturbed by the state of developments in Mogadishu."

Yeltsin's government in control as Russian resistance collapses

MOSCOW (AP) - Soldiers disarmed and arrested several groups of gunmen today as violent resistance to President Boris Yeltsin collapsed and the government took full control of the capital.

Isolated attacks by snipers were reported overnight, but there were no casualties.

Yeltsin's government continued to crack down on the opposition. Several mainstream Moscow newspapers appeared today with blank spots on their pages where articles had been censored and removed. But the government later today ended censorship, saying it was a temporary emergency step.

Government troops and tanks stormed the parliament building Monday and crushed armed resistance by some 1,500 lawmakers and their supporters. Hard-liners were held up in the building for almost two weeks after refusing Yeltsin's order to disband and hold new elections.

Fighting began after hard-liners rioted Sunday in central Moscow. The battles left more than 100 dead and hundreds more wounded.

Yeltsin had been locked in a power struggle with an informal alliance of Communists, fascists and ultra-nationalists opposed to the scale and pace of his political and economic reforms. Both sides had tried to oust each other during an 18-month power struggle that crippled the government.

Life was returning to normal in Moscow today with heavy commuter traffic headed to the city center. Tanks were pulled back from around the blackened parliament building and fewer troops were seen on the streets.

Officials were considering what charges would be filed against the parliament leaders, former vice president Alexander Rutskoi and parliament speaker Ruslan Khasbulatov. The two men and other top leaders were being held in high-security prisons.

Yeltsin continued to tighten his grip on the government.

He dismissed Russia's chief prosecutor Valentin Stepankov, apparently hoping to avoid a repeat of Stepankov's botched prosecution of the plotters of the 1991 coup attempt. He also fired two provincial leaders who opposed him during the crisis.

The government says the crackdown on opposition is necessary to end the threat of violence. But some Russians are concerned what it could mean for the future of democracy in Russia, fearing Yeltsin may be tempted to impose his will rather than seek consensus.

Buttafuoco admits to having sex with 16-year-old Fisher

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) - Not that anyone ever believed him. But Joey Buttafuoco, who for 1 1/2 years denied to anyone who would listen that he ever had sex with Amy Fisher, has finally admitted it.

"On July 2, 1991, I had sexual relations with Amy Fisher at the Freeport Motel," Buttafuoco declared Tuesday in a packed courtroom. Fisher at the time was 16; the age of consent in New York is 17.

The Long Island body-shop man, wearing a dark blue suit and black-and-white snakeskin boots, pleaded guilty to statutory rape, setting himself up for a six-month jail term.

His wife, Mary Jo, did not appear in court.

"That does not matter now," said Buttafuoco's lawyer, Dominic Barbara. "She loves him very much, and will continue to stand by him."

Buttafuoco, who will be sentenced Nov. 15, had nothing to say after the 20-minute hearing. Under the plea bargain, he will get no more than six months in jail, five years' probation and a $5,000 fine. If he gets the maximum, he could be out in four months.

Proposal to ban tax on income misleads

AUSTIN (AP) - A proposed constitutional ban of a personal state income tax is bad public policy and misleading to voters, several groups have charged.

The measure is No. 4 on the Nov. 2 ballot. Early voting runs from Oct. 13 through Oct. 29.

Under the amendment, an income tax, and any subsequent increase, could only be imposed if approved by voters.

If the levy ever is established, the amendment says that the income tax revenue would be used to reduce school property taxes and help fund education.

But the League of Women Voters, Common Cause Texas, and the Texas Alliance for Human Needs, says the measure could be a subterfuge for an income tax that benefits business and does nothing to protect education funding.

"The wording of the amendment is so convoluted that it is not clear how a person should vote," said Mary Nell Mathis, chairwoman of Common Cause Texas. "We think people should be able to determine the consequences of their actions, and we cannot figure out if this amendment makes a (income) tax more likely or less likely. So we vote 'No' on general principles."

Jude Filler, executive director of the Texas Alliance for Human Needs, says her organization supports an income tax if it would reduce the burden of taxes paid by the poor. But this proposal wouldn't, she said.

"The beneficiaries of this will not be the schools, but the largest property taxpayers, businesses. Whether originally intended or not, this reality is tantamount to voter fraud," she said.

The groups also questioned whether the measure would increase education funding. Although a portion of the income tax revenue would go toward education, the amendment doesn't prevent other tax sources for education from being spent elsewhere.

The groups have found an unlikely ally in Rep. Warren Chisum, D-Pampa, and chief of the Legislature's Conservative Coalition. Chisum has said the proposal could lead to imposition of an income tax.

Ms. Mathis agreed, saying, "The irony of this amendment is that a lot of people who are real anti-income tax may vote for the amendment thinking it will kill the tax, when indeed what this is going to do is enable an income tax to be passed. Unfortunately that income tax isn't the right one that we need."

Rich districts vote to share

By The Associated Press
Voters in three more rich school districts have approved measures to reduce property wealth.

Tuesday's elections were part of a state mandate to equalize public school finance. Texas' richest districts must cut their per-pupil wealth to $280,000.

Forty-five miles west of Lubbock, the Whiteface school district stands to lose $4.8 million - or 61 percent of taxes collected - to share-the-wealth laws.

Whiteface voters opted 154-2 to send their money to Austin under Option 3. They voted 153-2 for Option 4.

Also in West Texas, Andrews voters approved a proposal sending $13 million to the state by a vote of 923-17, said Mickey Green, the district's tax assessor-collector.

In Texas City, nine miles northwest of Galveston, two ballot options were offered.

Option 1 will enable the school district to send property tax revenue to the state. It passed 743-56.

Option 2 will allow Texas City Independent School District to transfer money directly to another school district. It passed 738-51.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Chevy Chase is suing Warner Bros., demanding about $4 million in compensation for movies he said were never made because of unacceptable scripts.

The lawsuit filed Monday alleges the studio didn't send Chase as many acceptable scripts as his contract called for. He is demanding the $4 million plus interest for damage to his career.

Warner Bros. officials did not return messages left after business hours.

Create unique book covers

Are your kids' textbooks, readers and notebooks still without book covers to protect them?

Here's a fun activity to create original book covers that will stand out from all the rest and make your kids' books easy to identify.

You will need plain brown butcher paper or wrapping paper. Or, use the plain side of brown grocery bags, cut open and lying flat. The paper should be four inches larger than the outer dimensions of your open book.

Decorate the paper with colorful stickers and clip a few favorite comic strips like "Garfield" or "Peanuts" from your daily or Sunday newspaper and glue them onto the paper for an unusual book cover that you can read over and over.

If you like to paint, dip nature finds in poster paint and print them on the paper. Leaves make lovely prints, and if you cut an apple width-wise around the circumference, the seeds will form a perfect star shape.

NEW YORK (AP) - Angry about being scratched from David Letterman's show, a former mobster who knows his way around a kitchen says he might show up in Letterman's living room one day.

"Joe Dogs" Iannuzzi, author of "The Mafia Cookbook," was to give a "Late Show" cooking demonstration Friday but was canceled because the producers felt his going before a live audience in the nation's wiseguy capital was too dangerous.

In a telephone interview Monday from an undisclosed location, Iannuzzi said he exploded when told the show would go on without him. He said he called Letterman "every name in the book," though the two never actually came face to face.

Sources at the program and at Iannuzzi's publisher, Simon & Schuster - both of whom spoke on the condition of anonymity - largely confirmed Iannuzzi's account.

Borger bows out meekly to Herd

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Borger, thought to be a challenger to Hereford's and Dumas's domination of District 1-4A, stumbled through a match with Hereford in Whiteface Gym, finally losing 15-3, 15-2.

The Herd started the game out with a nine-point streak served by Michelle Brock. Most of the points came on Borger mistakes. The Lady Bulldogs got a little better later in the match, but not much better.

It was not the tough match Herd coach Brenda Reeh expected.

"I expected then to hit the ball a lot harder than they did, and I expected their defense to be a lot scrappier than they showed tonight," Reeh said. "I have seen Borger play much better. That's what we prepared for yesterday (Monday) in workouts."

Borger made plenty of mistakes, and Hereford gave them very few opportunities to get over it.

"I was pleased with how smoothly our transition worked," Reeh said. "I was pleased with how we dug anything they tried to hit at us. I can only recall three or four times that Borger pounded the ball and hit the floor with it. That's a credit to our blockers as well as our diggers. Something else I was pleased with was everything we worked on to specifically pick on Borger's weak spots, we executed tonight. Our spots to hit and tip—our kids put the ball there."

Borger scored three points on a stuff block and two Hereford miscues to make it 9-3 in the first game. Hereford scored 10, 11 and 12 while both teams got several sideouts.

Heather Hodges got a kill for a sideout, then one for the 13th point. A Danielle Cornelius kill made it 14-3, and a Borger player whiffed on a hit attempt for an appropriate end to the game.

It was more of the same in the second game, as Hereford took an 11-0 lead as five different players had kills for points and three others served aces. Borger got two points on two straight kills and a rare Hereford error to make it 11-2.

Katie Young aced Borger for the 13th point, and after two sideouts Heather Kleuskens got a kill for game-point. Borger hit weakly into the net to end the game and match on another error.

Cornelius and Hodges each recorded six kills to lead the Herd.

The win lifts Hereford's record to 3-1 in district and 18-5 overall. The Lady Whitefaces go to Pampa for a 2 p.m. match Saturday. The Harvesters were knocked off Tuesday by Dumas, 15-1, 15-2, giving them their first district loss. They're now 3-1, tied with Hereford, and 10-8 overall. Dumas stays unbeaten at 4-0, 17-6 overall.

In the other district match, Randall edged Caprock in three games, 16-14, 6-15, 15-11. Randall is now 1-3 and 11-8; Caprock is now 0-4 and 6-16. Borger is 1-3 and 12-7.

The Hereford junior varsity won in the first match of Tuesday's doubleheader, beating the Borger JV 15-8, 15-10.

Hereford cruised in the first game but struggled a bit in the second game. Hereford trailed 10-6 when Julie Cole went to the service line and served the match out.

Big dig

Hereford's Michelle Brock digs one of Borger's hits, while Aimee Alley stands by ready to help. Hereford beat up on Borger 15-3, 15-2 Tuesday in Whiteface Gym in a surprisingly uncompetitive District 1-4A match.

Bulls' Jordan shocks NBA by announcing immediate retirement

By JIM LITKE
AP Sports Writer

DEERFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Michael Jordan, basketball's greatest player, announced today that he was retiring after nine seasons in the NBA, saying he "had reached the pinnacle of my career" and had nothing else to prove. In a news conference at the Chicago Bulls' training center, Jordan said the murder of his father, James, in July made him realize that "it can be taken away from you at any time."

"I guess the biggest gratification - I am a very positive person - I can get out of my father not being here today is, that he saw my last baseball game. It is something that we have talked about a lot," Jordan said.

The startling announcement by basketball's greatest player leaves the Chicago Bulls without their seven-time scoring champion, the NBA without its glitziest attraction, and millions of fans without the hero who redefined standards of excellence.

Jordan's departure at the top of his game occurred during a year of unprecedented success - and personal tragedy. He led his Chicago Bulls to a third-straight NBA championship, but also suffered the loss of his father, who was shot and killed. The 30-year-old superstar, whose salary and endorsements bring him more than $50 million a year, also was dogged by reports of excessive gambling.

But Jordan left open the possibility of returning to the game. "Would I ever unretire? I don't know. I think the word 'retire' means you can do whatever you want, and maybe someday down the road, that's what I'll desire to do," he said.

Jordan had three years left on his $4 million-a-year contract. Jordan's fame extended far beyond Chicago and the NBA. At last year's Barcelona Olympics, he was treated more as a potentate or rock star. In China, he is the most celebrated figure apart from Mao Tse-tung - in a country where basketball is not even the most popular sport.

His departure follows the retirement last year of Larry Bird and Magic Johnson, dealing the NBA an incalculable loss.

With his slithering drives through the lane, airborne slams and radar 3-point shots - always with his tongue hanging out of his mouth - Jordan played the game like no other.

"In my mind, he's the greatest player who ever played the game, and the most special athlete I've had the pleasure of watching," said Tom

Spurs fans don't agree with trade of Elliott for Rodman

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - David Robinson figures if he can get over losing Sean Elliott to the Detroit Pistons, so can Spurs fans.

"Everyone here in San Antonio knows that Sean and I are real tight," Robinson said. "It's a real emotional time for me."

But Robinson said Tuesday he's looking forward to "controlling the boards" with forward Dennis Rodman, whom the Spurs acquired Friday by trading All-Star forward Elliott to the Pistons.

The NBA's leading rebounder last season with an average of 18.3, Rodman came to San Antonio along with forward Isaiah Morris in the trade. The Spurs also sent forward David Wood to Detroit.

Fan-favorite Elliott, whose departure is generating criticism from some Spurs followers, said he is sorry to leave the city but believes he'll be more involved in the Pistons' offense than he was in the Spurs.

"I'm handling it pretty easy, but I know there will be a lot of times when I miss San Antonio," Elliott said, returning from a vacation in Mexico.

Robinson and Elliott began their NBA careers with the Spurs the 1989-90 season, a year in which San Antonio set a league record for best single-season turnaround and that saw the young Spurs advancing to the Western Conference semifinals.

"I'm closer to Sean than any of the fans, and if I can accept it (the trade), I know they can," Robinson said, predicting that the public will stop being upset over Elliott's leaving if the Spurs are successful with Rodman aboard.

"If we win the first 10 games, they will right away," he said. "I guarantee you."

Elliott urged his local fans to continue supporting the Spurs.

"I think people should try to embrace Dennis Rodman, and no matter what happens, San Antonio's still got to be your team," Elliott said.

Meanwhile, Robinson, Spurs coach John Lucas and team president Bob Coleman joined Rodman at a news conference Tuesday to herald his arrival.

"There's no denying this is a man who can help us move to another level," Robinson said. "We have a lot of guys in there who are big, strong guys, but we just don't get the rebounds."

Coleman read a list of the defensive honors and statistics Robinson and Rodman have accumulated, adding, "We're all excited to think about having Dennis and David Robinson on the floor at the same time."

Rodman said he is glad to join the Spurs.

"I feel like they need a person who can come in and get the job done no matter what it takes," Rodman said.

Rodman, an All-Star in 1990 and 1992, helped the Pistons to their consecutive NBA titles in 1988 and 1989. Two seasons ago, Rodman averaged 18.7 rebounds per game, the highest in the league since 1971-72.

Blue Jays' win overshadowed by Jordan shocker

CHICAGO (AP) - A cloud of disbelief hung over Comiskey Park, and it wasn't just because the Chicago White Sox lost.

Word got around that Michael Jordan was retiring from the Chicago Bulls, and the fact that the White Sox lost 7-3 to the Toronto Blue Jays in their AL playoff opener Tuesday night became secondary.

Jordan, who electrified the city for nearly a decade and led the Chicago Bulls to three straight NBA championships, is calling it quits in the prime of his career.

The fans lustily cheered Jordan, who threw out the ceremonial first pitch of the series, unaware at the time of his decision.

"I watched him almost every night and if it's true, it's a sad day for sports," White Sox slugger Frank Thomas said.

"I heard it from someone on the bench who was told by a cameraman in the dugout," said John Olerud, one of the Blue Jays' hitting stars.

Jerry Reinsdorf, who owns both the Bulls and the White Sox, said, "I have nothing to say tonight. We'll have something to say" when the Bulls have a major press conference today.

Then he watched the Blue Jays, led by Ed Sprague, Paul Molitor and Olerud, wallop White Sox ace Jack McDowell, finishing with 17 hits.

Sprague and Molitor had four hits each and Olerud three. They combined to drive in all seven runs with two-out hits off McDowell, who led the majors with 22 victories.

But McDowell hasn't been able to solve the Blue Jays, who beat him twice in the regular season. And the White Sox couldn't take advantage of Toronto starter Juan Guzman's wildness.

Guzman was the winner despite walking eight, throwing three wild pitches and hitting one batter. He allowed five hits in six innings, with the White Sox stranding 11 runners in that span.

Thomas, Chicago's No. 1 run producer, didn't get many opportunities. He walked four times and singled.

"We couldn't get the big hit," manager Gene Lamont said. "Guzman has pitched like that against us before. If you don't take advantage of his wildness, you're going to be in trouble."

Ventura was 0-for-3 and struck out twice with runners in scoring position.

Sprague tripled in a pair of runs with two outs in the fourth after Olerud walked and Molitor singled.

The White Sox came back with three to take a 3-2 lead on a two-run single by Ozzie Guillen, who stole second and scored on a single by Tim Lincecum.

But Olerud doubled in a pair in the fifth and scored on a single by Sprague. Molitor homered in the seventh after Olerud singled.

"It started off pretty much the way you would imagine," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "Two pretty good pitchers out there. It stayed that way for a few innings and then things kind of broke loose."

McDowell didn't think he pitched that poorly, although he allowed 13 hits in 6 2-3 innings.

"I think I threw better than seven runs," McDowell said. "They didn't exactly crunch the ball. They got some jam shots before they got the big hits. But I didn't get the big outs."

Dave Stewart, 6-0 in playoff games, was scheduled to face Alex Fernandez in today's game. Fernandez had a 3-1 record against the Blue Jays this season.

Braves must win it all this year

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - In this, their third attempt at a World Series title, the Atlanta Braves are expected to win. Nothing else will do.

The Braves had to win 104 games before edging the San Francisco Giants on the last day of the season for the AL West title. They lost in the Series last year to Toronto and are even better this year with the additions of Greg Maddux and Fred McGriff.

Philadelphia, which finished last in 1992, led all but one day in winning the East with 97 wins.

The first two games are in Veterans Stadium beginning at 7:12 tonight. After a Friday open date, the series moves to Atlanta for the next three, and back to Philadelphia for the final two, if necessary.

Both managers made surprising pitching choices for the opener. Bobby Cox of the Braves is going with Steve Avery over John Smoltz, and Phillies manager Jim Fregosi selected Curt Schilling instead of Tommy Geenece.

Avery, 18-6 with a 2.94 ERA, was 1-1 in the regular season against the Phillies. Schilling (16-7, 4.02 ERA) was 0-2 with two no-decisions in four starts against the Braves, allowing 24 hits and 16 runs in 21 1-3 innings.

"I was a little bit surprised to get the start and I feel a little bad for Smoltz who pitched as well as anyone this year," Avery said. "But I'm ready and I'm confident."

Schilling said that he wasn't surprised to get the nod over Greene, adding, "let's just say we're not going to lose anything with me being out there."

The Braves are big favorites to give the West its sixth straight NL pennant despite splitting the 12-game season series against the Phillies.

Almost everyone concedes that the Braves have a strong edge in pitching with Avery, followed by Maddux, Tom Glavine (22-6) and Smoltz (15-11).

"They have the best staff in the NL," Fregosi said Tuesday. "We don't look at them as a group, however. We take them pitcher by pitcher. Avery is one of the top young pitchers in the league. What makes it especially harder for us is the fact that he has so much postseason experience."

The Phillies counter with Schilling, Greene (16-4), Terry Mulholland (12-9) and Danny Jackson (12-11), the only one with playoff experience.

The Braves also have a big edge in power with David Justice's 40 homers and 120 RBIs, McGriff's 37 HRs and 101 RBIs and Ron Gant's 36 homers and 117 RBIs. The Phillies' best home run hitters are Darren Daulton and Pete Incaviglia, each with 24. Daulton drove in 105 runs.

McLane picks Watson as Astros' GM

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - As a player, Bob Watson scored baseball's 1 millionth run. Now he's moved into the managerial ranks.

Watson was named as general manager several hours after Houston Astros owner Drayton McLane fired general manager Bill Wood and manager Art Howe on Tuesday.

McLane, completing his first season as owner, said he wanted more aggressive leadership that would move forward in unconventional ways. Watson, assistant general manager the past five years, convinced him he could move the team.

"We'll be looking at a lot of different ways to do things," Watson said.

"I'll look at all the avenues. It could be trades, we may infuse one of those young guys into the lineup or we could go for free agents on a limited basis."

Watson has a pair of spikes in the Hall of Fame for scoring the game's 1 millionth run in 1975. He follows former Atlanta general manager Bill Lucas as the second black general manager in major league baseball.

"It's a very important step for baseball, the Houston Astros and for Bob Watson," Watson said. "All of those steps are positive. Drayton wouldn't have offered me the job if he didn't think I could do it."

McLane jumped in to explain his reasons for hiring Watson: "Bob was selected because I am convinced that he is the best man for the job."

Watson, played for 15 years with Houston, Oakland, the New York Yankees, Boston and Atlanta and more recently has been mentioned as a possible successor to National League President Bill White.

"In my years as a business executive, I've always focused on the leadership," McLane said. "And I think that's what Bob brings to the organization."

"He's highly-qualified. He has two World Series rings that I see every time that I see him. That represents success and that's what we're looking for."

McLane was unhappy with the Astros record against the upper echelon teams.

He pointed to the club's 18-32 record against Atlanta, San Francisco, Philadelphia and Montreal.

"We had more potential than what we achieved," McLane said. "The leadership didn't make the progress that we should have made."

McLane called Howe a fine man and capable baseball person but said the club needed "more imagination and more aggressiveness."

"We want to be unconventional in our approach," McLane said. "I judged this season not by wins and losses but by the mood of how I felt."

JORDAN

Wilson, president of the Detroit Pistons.

Charles Barkley, the Phoenix Suns MVP who played with Jordan on the Dream Team at Barcelona and against him in last season's NBA finals, said: "Michael Jordan is the only person in this entire world that I've ever met who is as competitive as I am. That's why I'll miss playing against him."

Jordan's announcement comes one day after a North Carolina prosecutor said he will seek the death penalty for the two 18-year-olds accused of killing James Jordan, who was shot during a robbery July 23 as he napped in his luxury car along a highway.

In recent years, Jordan admitted losing large sums of money in wagers to a convicted North Carolina drug dealer in 1991. He was also the subject of a book in which he was accused of losing more than $1 million in golf bets.

The same week the book was released, Jordan gambled with his father at an Atlantic City, N.J., casino the night before a playoff game with the New York Knicks.

Silsbee player runs for near-record 424 yards

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Silsbee's Jay McGuire has spent the last week imitating Dallas Cowboys superstar Emmitt Smith.

McGuire ran for 424 yards and five touchdowns in a 48-44 victory over Nederland, and also returned two kicks for 105 yards.

The rushing yardage was the second-best single-game total in Class 4A history, behind the 476 gained by San Antonio Edgewood's Ronny Ashmore in 1985 against San Antonio Memorial.

When McGuire went to school Monday, he was constantly stopped in the halls by friends and fans wanting to pat him on the back or shake his hand to congratulate him - just like Smith gets mobbed everywhere he goes.

Unlike Smith, a high school legend in Florida, McGuire is unable to properly thank his offensive line, the players he gives the most credit for his success.

"I can't afford Rolaxes, so I'll just have to take them out to eat," McGuire said Tuesday after receiving top honors on The Associated Press honor roll.

McGuire, 5-foot-9 and 185 pounds, said he knew he was capable of such a game, but even he was shocked at the numbers. He had a total of 520 yards on 55 carries in his first four games.

"I wasn't even paying attention because the score was kind of even," he said. "It was even sweeter because we won."

McGuire had 251 yards by halftime, so he knew he was having a great night.

"I felt like I was in a zone, but at the same time the linemen were giving me so many holes. I think it was probably the best blocking they ever did for me," he said. "It just all came together."

Those were almost the exact words Silsbee coach Charlie Woodard used to describe McGuire's performance.

"He was able to put it all together - quickness, speed, power and vision," Woodard said. "He was able to break some tackles and also able to run between two defenders. That's the mark of a good back to me."

"One kid had him by the jersey at the 5 and he literally drug him into the end zone. Another guy hit him on the 2 and he ran right through him."

In other outstanding Week 5 performances:

-Texarkana Liberty-Eylau's Tony Thomas deserves special recognition for a great effort in a 36-12 victory over previously unbeaten Jefferson played following an unusual turn of events.

Coaches said Thomas could suit up only hours before kickoff against Jefferson when attempted murder charges against him were dropped following a confession by a Texas High senior.

Two weeks before, Thomas had been arrested and charged with the crime. He denied it and passed a polygraph test last Tuesday. He was allowed to return to class and practice, but he wouldn't have played unless the charges were dropped.

With that matter resolved, Thomas rushed for 78 yards on 11 carries (including 26 on his first attempt), caught three passes for 42 yards (including a 26-yard TD), returned three kickoffs for 71 yards and had a game-high 13 tackles (including three on Jefferson's opening drive).

-Broderic Johnson also had a record-setting running game, crushing his week-old Fort Worth Carter-Riverside mark of 267 yards with a 363-yard effort in a 40-38 victory over Joshua.

"People don't like to tackle him as much as they used to," Carter-Riverside coach Gary Ponder said of his 6-foot-2, 210-pound senior.

-Donny King helped Amarillo River Road improve to 5-0 for the first time in school history by catching nine passes for 230 yards including TDs of 52 and 64 yards, and intercepting three passes in a 34-23 victory over Tulia.

-Dallas Skyline's Mark Levine rushed for 288 yards and four TDs in three quarters of a 53-0 victory over Dallas Sunset.

-Palestine Westwood earned its second victory of the year by defeating West 22-13 thanks to three interceptions by Clifton Davis, the biggest coming on a two-point conversion. He returned it 101 yards to give Palestine a 16-13 advantage.

-Steve Garza needed only seven carries to get 189 yards and three TDs in Falfurrias' 60-0 victory over Brownsville St. Joseph's.

Versatile 'Horn gets SWC honor

AUSTIN (AP) - Running backs in Texas coach John Mackovic's high-flying offense typically do more catching than running.

After all, fullback Phil Brown was the leading receiver for the Longhorns last year.

But Brown rescued a struggling offense Saturday with his feet, not his hands, running for 184 yards and a touchdown as Texas clobbered Rice 55-38 for its first victory of the season.

Brown's effort was the first 100-yard game for a Texas running back this year and helped him earn Southwest Conference offensive player of the week honors from The Associated Press.

Texas A&M defensive back Aaron

Glenn won the AP's SWC defensive player of the week award for his ability to shut down Texas Tech's star receiver Lloyd Hill in the Aggies' 31-6 victory over the Red Raiders.

Glenn had an interception, four tackles and helped break up three passes while helping limit Hill, who led the nation in receiving yards per game last year, to just two receptions.

Brown, a 5-11, 210-pound senior from Commerce, barely gave Rice a chance to warm up. He darted for 101 yards in the first quarter, including a 48-yard sprint.

His 8-yard touchdown run midway through the second quarter put Texas up 28-10 and helped the Longhorns pull away.

"Sometimes, once you get something started it's easy to keep it going," Brown said Wednesday.

Mackovic, whose pass offense has averaged just 198 yards a game through the air this season, praised Brown.

"Phil was ready to run," Mackovic said. "We felt we had to keep the pressure off of our passing game."

"He is as fine an all-purpose back as anybody," Mackovic added.

Brown gives the credit to his offensive line, saying, "Without the offensive line, I don't go anywhere."

Brown's performance gives Mackovic another needed positive to build on as the Longhorns (1-2-1) prepare for dreaded rival Oklahoma (4-0) in Dallas on Saturday.

News of nutrition

The word from the U.S. Department of Agriculture is that copper is essential to health. Copper, among other functions, helps the body use iron. If copper is not adequate, iron accumulates in the liver and becomes toxic.

In study after study, young male rats developed severe anemia, enlarged hearts and died prematurely from a copper deficient diet, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture study. Research also indicates that a deficiency in copper is one factor leading to an increased risk of developing high cholesterol levels and coronary heart disease in humans.

In other studies, low intake of this nutrient has been tied to aches and pains not related to injury, infection or chronic illness. In five of eight studies, men and mature women requested pain medication more often when intake of copper was low.

Do We Get Enough?

As the body cannot synthesize copper, the human diet must supply regular amounts to compensate for the amount lost by normal bodily functions.

In an analysis of typical meals for their metals content, it appears we do not get enough copper. According to recent surveys, only 25 percent of the U.S. population consume the amount of copper every day estimated by the U.S. Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences to be adequate.

Fortunately, copper is present in a wide variety of vegetables, fruits, grains, meats, seafood and chocolate, as well as drinking water. A normal balanced diet is generally sufficient to meet the minimum mineral requirements vital to our health.

Copper is even important in plant nutrition. Symptoms of copper deficiency in wheat include twisted and withered leaf tips. Roses with a copper deficiency have imperfect outer petals.

Scientists report that copper is absolutely essential for the normal healthy growth and reproduction of all higher plants and animals. In fact, crop and animal losses caused by copper shortages can be quite serious. Animals can die and crops can fail. Minerals such as copper control bodily fluids, heat response and brain and nerve activity; they even determine how we digest food and store fat.

BROADWAY EXPRESS

Broadway Express to appear in concert

The "Broadway Express" will be performing at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Hereford High School auditorium for the opening concert of the 1993-94 season of the Hereford Community Concert Association. Admission is restricted to members of the association.

The Austin based "Broadway Express" is a seven-member troupe whose distinctive, stylish musical comedy revue has won them audience acclaim statewide and critical comments like these: "An impressive group...with style, class and wit. Definitely a class act."

Showcasing tunes from past and present, the group, celebrating its 11th year together, entertains for association meetings, conventions, private clubs and dinner-theater shows in Dallas, San Antonio, Austin and Houston.

The music comprises the great songs, classic or modern, whose origins range from Broadway stage shows to Hollywood films, from the American popular song tradition to the bistros of Paris. Set in a fast-paced revue, this music appeals to every audience. Fully-choreographed numbers and staged excerpts from musicals are balanced with straightforward solo and ensemble selections. Each show, though varied, is designed as a complete, cohesive performance.

The performers are four singers, a pianist, a bassist and a drummer, all of whom have extensive experience in musical and stage performance. Versatility is a hallmark of this troupe; musical and vocal quality is supplemented by the fine acting, bright comedy, elegant appearance and distinctive stage presence.

In 1975, India announced it had launched its first satellite, from the Soviet Union atop a Soviet rocket.

Scientists Pierre and Marie Curie succeeded in isolating the radioactive element radium on April 20, 1902.

Dealing successfully with life's changes

If you are close to turning 40, you're not alone.

In the next year, 4.1 million Americans will turn 40 and 40 million will reach that milestone in the next 10 years. For many, it's a time of reflection and anticipation—reflecting what they've accomplished, anticipating what's still ahead. Turning 40 is a big deal because there's so much left for you to do. So many years, so many exciting challenges, so much to see and do.

According to the respected business publisher, Kiplinger, it's also a time of changes. So much about the quality of the second half of your life depends on whether you take important steps now to safeguard your mental and physical health, your career, and your financial well-being. This is a time when careers are not at all what they used to be, when the wild investing days of the 1980s are over, and when health and the environment have taken their rightful place as key issues in our lives. And all of these changes are going on with you at center stage, part of the largest, best-educated generation of Americans in history.

Associate editor of "Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine" Dan Moreau thinks change is natural and positive. When he recently faced turning forty, Moreau found himself examining the many challenges encountered in middle life. Moreau used this very personal experience in his newly published book, Kiplinger's Facing Forty. An important read for anyone facing forty, this book presents a guide to positively experiencing the next few decades.

Finances: At forty many people are trying to save for long-term goals such as retirement and college tuition—while at the same time dealing with debt. Moreau shows how to get control of debt, get on track and stay there.

Career: Maybe you should stick with your present job, maybe you want to move on.

Health: Good health is and should be more important to you than ever before. You're aging, to be sure, but not so fast you can't control the pace with a good diet and exercise program. Relationships: Your relationship with your parents might also change as each of you shifts to new life phases, especially if you become physically or financially responsible for one or both of them.

King's Manor joins LTC Network

King's Manor Methodist Home has joined the Long Term Care Network (LTCN) of Westcott Communications in Dallas, it was announced this week by Joyce Lyons, administrator.

The network provides continuous, quality education training via satellite for nursing homes throughout the United States. Programs cover topics ranging from quality of care and resident rights to dietary and nursing services.

Lyons said King's Manor was one of the first long-term care facilities in the state to subscribe to LTCN. "The network brings industry experts right into our facility everyday, and we plan to be the leader in long-term care in Hereford."

King's Manor, a not-for-profit home, has been serving the community and its residents since 1962.

Iceland was proclaimed a republic in 1944.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: The doctor said I have Crohn's disease. I have diarrhea a lot and awful cramps. I can't eat much. My stomach makes a lot of noise. I have a lot of gas also.

I had surgery on my bowels seven months ago. There was something about a narrow part of the bowel. I have had that light put up inside me and a lot of X-rays. The doctor said I may need another operation in a year's time. I don't eat fat food and do drink skim milk. I love vegetables and fruit, but don't eat much fruit. How about fiber? The doctor said to take Imodium A-D for diarrhea, but it doesn't help me.

DEAR READER: Crohn's disease is an inflammatory disease. As originally described, it is a granular swelling from inflammation at the junction of the end of the small intestine (ileum) and the colon. That is why it was called "regional ileitis." The granular swelling can cause a localized obstruction. That is the reason for surgery. At that stage, the attacks resemble acute appendicitis with pain in the lower right side. Sometimes these patients get operated on for appendicitis and the diagnosis is made during surgery.

Later it was recognized that other areas of the colon could be involved and the disease may penetrate the colon wall to cause fissures of the anus and draining sinuses or even penetrate into the bladder.

Painful cramps and diarrhea are common symptoms. The stools may be frequent and mushy rather than frank diarrhea. And they are frequent.

As with ulcerative colitis, there may be other complications even involving the eyes, joints and liver.

Nutrition again is important, but you do not want to increase the fiber in your diet. That makes matters worse, not better — entirely different from the irritable bowel syndrome with constipation.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I read in one of your columns a letter from a reader praising a fat-free "cream" soup recipe you have.

Since I and many of my family and friends are watching our fat intake, this recipe would be invaluable. Please reprint it for us. Thanks so much. — Dorothy Morris, Dallas, Texas

I have received so many requests for the mock cream soup that I would be happy to reprint it.

1 cup non-fat dried milk powder
1 tablespoon dried onion flakes
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 tablespoons chicken bouillon powder

1/2 teaspoon dried basil
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Mix all ingredients and store in an airtight container. To make soup base, add 2 cups cold water to the mix in a large saucepan and stir constantly over medium heat until thick.

You can use this base to make any flavor "cream" soup. Just add your main ingredient to the mix — mushrooms, for example — and cook for a few minutes longer.

If the soup is too thick, add more water and stir thoroughly, still over medium heat.

You can add other seasonings if you like, too. This makes about 4 to 6 cups of soup depending on what you add. I love it with onion flakes and extra garlic salt.

For other great soup recipes, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Soup, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. — Heloise

PLASTIC WRAP

Dear Heloise: Here is another way to tear off plastic wrap. I tear off what I need, then I pull about one inch off and let the wrap hang over the box. This way I have no trouble with it. — L.B., New Haven, Conn.

LEMONADE PREPARATION

Dear Heloise: Here is a super hint for you. Whenever I make lemonade with bottled lemon juice, I always put a sliced real lemon in the pitcher as well. It makes the lemonade taste just like fresh-squeezed! This would also work with powdered lemon drink.

I also put a sliced orange in with the concentrated juice, or adding a sliced tangerine really changes the flavor. — Mrs. Larry Shreckengost, Huntsville, Ala.

CANDY THERMOMETER

Dear Heloise: Round glass candy thermometers don't always have cases to keep them from breaking when banged by other utensils in kitchen drawers.

My mother (Norma Bohn-Sawle) made a handy case for my candy thermometer by taking the rubber bulb off the baster and slipping the thermometer down inside the plastic baster.

Since neither tool is used frequently, this provided a very easy, inexpensive way to avoid broken glass in the kitchen drawer. — Kathleen Wilkowske, Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Heloise: Thought I'd tell you of a stupid mistake I made that could have been disastrous, but thankfully nothing serious happened.

My kitchen and den floors are covered with beautiful ceramic tiles. To keep the grout clean, I usually pour a little straight bleach on the grouting and let it soak for a couple of minutes, then rinse it and wipe it dry.

Well, one day I was rushing around and saw that tomato sauce had stained a section of the grout in my kitchen. I went into the garage and grabbed the gallon and poured it directly on the stain.

I was stunned when it turned yellow and fizzled and the most foul odor came up in my face. I looked at the gallon and instead of bleach I had grabbed muriatic acid!

The first thing I did was open the windows, grab a glass of water to dilute it and an old towel to wipe it up. I was so afraid that it had damaged the tiles, but luckily it didn't.

Now, I never do a thing until I read the label and directions. — Kay Taylor, Seattle, Wash.

Thanks for the reminder! This happens more than you might think. — Heloise

HOMEMADE BOOKENDS

Dear Heloise: If you're at the shore, choose a good-size rock, one that looks like wood or is grainy, or has a peacock effect on you.

Varnish it and place a small fake bird, potpourri house or something similar on top. Glue a scrap of cloth under the rock to prevent scratches.

Use it as a bookend, doorstop or meditative piece. — Lorraine Allard, East Hartford, Conn.

Ask Mr. Oz

QUESTION: I found some long, round things in our barn that are covered with hair. They look like droppings, but don't smell like it. What are they?

ANSWER: This is easy. What you have found are oblong balls called owl pellets. They are found under nest areas and around places where owls perch.

Most owls do not bother to tear small prey apart but instead swallow it whole.

Of course, if the prey is too large to swallow, it must be torn apart. Even then, the owl will swallow parts with bones and hair or feathers.

After the prey is swallowed, it takes about eight to 16 hours to absorb the nutrients available in the prey.

What is left is formed into a pellet, with the bones and teeth in the middle and hair or feathers on the outside.

With some effort, the owl then coughs up the pellets. If the owl eats a lot of insects, the pellet may be very small because most of the insect can be digested.

People who study about owls take great pride in taking pellets apart to see what kind of food the owls have been eating.

The experts can tell from the bones, nails, teeth, hair and feathers exactly what animal became the prey.

Recently, Crystal Lemus, a student at West Central Intermediate School, brought me a pellet she had taken apart while visiting the Children's Museum in Santa Fe, N.M.

She also brought me a bone-sorting chart to use in identifying bones, teeth and nails of the prey found in pellets.

I have the address of where one can send for more information regarding owl pellets. If you want to pursue the owl pellet as a hobby or a form of recreation and need this information, please let me know through the address below.

Don't forget to let me know WHO-WHO you are!

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't have a problem Life is wonderful for me—but I sure would like to know if the same is true for some of the people who have written to you over the years. Why don't you do a "Whatever Happened to..." column?

Many of us have grown up feeling closer to you than to some of our friends and relatives. Relatives move to Florida. Friends change jobs and move to California. But you are here for us every day, come rain or shine.

At least 20 years ago, a reader wrote to ask whether she should marry an auto mechanic. She was a professional woman in her 30s. She said she loved "Harold" but was worried about what her friends would say if she married a man with grease under his fingernails.

It would be great to know that they DID get married (as you advised her to) and lived happily ever after. If she didn't marry Harold, I'd like to know what happened to her—and to him.

I'll bet a great many other readers would be fascinated to learn about the happy (or not so happy) endings to the life's stories that people have written to you. How about it, Ann?—Curious in Holland, Mich.

DEAR CURIOUS: Thanks for those kind words and for that intriguing suggestion. I'm putting out a call to all readers who have written to me over the years. It doesn't matter how long ago, please write again and let me know if you took my advice and how it turned out.

Address your letter to: Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562, and please write in large letters on the envelope: HOW IT TURNED OUT. I will print the most interesting responses.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I usually agree with your advice, but on this one, you were really out in left field.

My husband could have written the letter by the man who was ready to leave his wife of 43 years because of her nagging. Ann, show me a nagging wife, and I'll who you a husband who will not listen. I'll bet that poor woman

JERUSALEM (AP)—Make room, King David. Here comes Madonna.

The pop superstar refused to stay at Jerusalem's luxurious King David Hotel, saying the 15 rooms she booked were not enough to ensure her privacy. Instead, she took a whole floor in a Tel Aviv hotel.

The King David could never book a whole floor because this week is Sukkot, a Jewish holiday of pilgrimage to Jerusalem, hotel manager Yossi Heksch said Monday.

Madonna is to perform today in Tel Aviv but wanted to stay in Jerusalem and visit holy sites.

On Monday, Madonna visited the Church of the Nativity in Bethlehem, believed to be the site of Jesus' birth. But police blocked her from visiting Jerusalem's old walled city because of the holiday and fears she would offend Orthodox Jews.

Earlier Monday, Madonna eluded fans by dressing up as an old woman to jog along a Tel Aviv beach, according to radio reports.

Madonna angered some in the media because she didn't wave for the cameras when she stepped off her plane Sunday night.

has been trying her best to help her slob of a husband all these years, and she hasn't given up on him yet. If a wife didn't care about her husband, she wouldn't bother to nag.

It would be easier if we nagging wives saved our breath, but if we did, the stubborn, hard-headed jackasses we are married to would not be able to hold down a job or fit into decent society. If I didn't keep after my slob, he would never take a shower or change his socks.

I'll bet thousands of other women would like to see you retract your advice and tell that complaining husband to be thankful he has a wife who cares enough to nag him.—Charlotte, N.C.

DEAR CHARLOTTE: You are correct when you say, "If a wife didn't care about her husband..." but it's that word "nag" I have trouble with. The man who feels he is being nagged will tune his wife out. This means she has lost her audience. The wise woman "suggests," and if she's really clever, she makes him think it was his idea. Thanks for writing.

Gem of the Day: A father, seeing his son's report card, looked relieved as he said, "Son, with these grades, one thing is certain. You couldn't possibly be cheating."

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Progress being made against malaria

By Roger J. Bulger, M.D.

Each year, malaria infects approximately 300 million people and kills more than two million, mostly infants and children. Malaria is an ancient disease, named by the Romans. Its cause has been understood for many years. Nevertheless, it poses an increasing threat as strains resistant to existing drugs arise. Recently using monkeys as models, researchers have developed an innovative stratagem to fight this dreaded disease.

Malaria can cause recurring chills, fever, nausea, vomiting and headaches; infected children can die within hours. It is caused by a microscopic parasite, carried by mosquitoes, which is deposited in a victim's bloodstream upon being bitten. The parasite has a particular appetite for hemoglobin (the molecule that carries oxygen), found inside red blood cells. Infected red blood cells become sticky, and clump and cling to the tiny blood vessels of the heart, lung, liver or brain, causing a variety of symptoms.

Rather than try to kill the parasite directly, a team of researchers led by Dr. Irwin W. Sherman at the University of California, Riverside focused on how the infected cells become sticky.
