McMorries quits septic inspector job; county may reconsider order

By CINDY POTTORFF
Staff Writer

Due to a conflict of interest, Jim McMorries resigned Monday as Deaf Smith County's septic tank inspector. Collecting fees for septic tank inspections would conflict with McMorries' work as an appraiser according to the attorney general's office, McMorries said Monday afternoon. McMorries resigned after the Deaf Smith County Commissioner's Court discussed whether to rescind their recent order for county inspection of septic tanks.

"I won't go out there and say a system is adequate unless I know that. I don't want the liability in my hip pocket," McMorries told the court Monday morning, before he resigned.

According to representatives from the Texas Department of Health, if the county implements its order the health department will no longer respond to complaints about septic tanks. The commissioners court intended to assist the health department when it issued the order.

The state charges a fee of $110 for inspection of septic tanks, although the charge may be more under special circumstances, the county plans to charge $60 for most inspections.

Slow response time could be a problem if the state inspects septic tanks because of a three-person health department staff that must cover most of the Texas Panhandle.

Commissioners were disappointed to find that the order could create more problems than it might solve.

"I think it's going to level off but looks like initially it's going to open a can of worms. We've got neighbors turning in neighbors. We've got people calling," said McMorries, referring to a rash of complaints after he took the job in December. McMorries also mentioned a number of substandard septic tanks in Deaf Smith County which he believed the county would be responsible for correcting.

If the Commissioner's Court rescinds its order, the health department will continue to handle complaints.

The Commissioner's Court decided to table the order until their next meeting. The Texas Department of Health will provide more detailed information then.

Farm-to-Market Highway 809's right-of-way will need to be widened at Palo Duro Creek and North Palo Duro Creek, according to Don Day of the Texas Department of Highways, if the highway is going to be improved.

The highway goes from Dawn to Wildorado. Traffic has increased on the highway over the last two years since Panhandle Milling began operations north of Dawn.

The right-of-way needs to be widened to at least 100 feet in those areas. The right-of-way is now 80 feet.

If the road is reconstructed, commissioners will have to obtain the extra right-of-way and move utilities, Day said.

Day suggested using political pressure to get a faster response from the highway department headquarters in Austin.

When asked if there is any money for new roads, Day said that maintenance is top priority. Urban areas are getting funding for new roads.

Troy Don Moore was re-elected as representative to the appraisal district. Bids were discussed for copiers, and six members of the salary grievance committee were renewed, with three from the list of 1989 grand jurors to be selected. Bill Allen of Gearhardt & Puckett presented the audit for last year, showing a positive balance of $29,060.

Ag Man of the Year

George Warner, right, is congratulated by Hereford Brand Publisher Speedy Nieman following Saturday's Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association Banquet at the Bull Barn in Hereford. Warner was named the Brand's Ag Man of the Year for his contributions to agriculture and the community.

Warner earns honor

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

George Warner was honored for his innovations and leadership in agriculture as the Hereford Brand Ag Man of the Year at the annual Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association Banquet at the Bull Barn in Hereford.

The award was presented by Brand publisher Speedy Nieman before a crowd of over 500 persons at the banquet, which celebrated the 25th anniversary of Holly Sugar's operations in Hereford.

Warner, who has lived in the Hereford area since 1952, began producing native grass seed with irrigation. With the introduction of hybrid sorghum, he started producing field seeds and set up a one-man seed cleaning operation which is now George Warner Seed Company, a multi-national company that provides employment for over 309 families.

Warner also helped organize Arrowhead Mills, which now produces a wide range of food products sold across the country.

Warner was born in Mississippi and was raised in Abilene. He holds a master's degree in plant breeding and spent two years as an agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at College Station.

He joined the U.S. Army in 1941, served in the field artillery during World War II and became a lieutenant colonel at the age of 27.

After rejoining the experiment station Warner developed a keen interest in native Southwestern grasses. He was told native grasses could not be cultivated; Warner set out to prove otherwise.

Warner received the 1988 Grasslander Award from the Texas Forage and Grassland Council, the group's highest award, for his research and development of native grasses that virtually created a new industry.

Warner was also honored for his contributions to the youth of Hereford and Deaf Smith County. He has contributed time and money to local 4-H clubs, the FFA and Hereford Young Farmers. He and his first wife, Ruth, were very active in the Community Concert Association, Chamber Singers and Hereford Day Care. He was on the day care center board for eight years, serving two years as chairman. During his time on the board, he helped secure another building for the center, doubling the amount of children for whom care could be provided. That facility, in north Hereford, is known as the Ruth Warner Memorial Center.

He and his present wife, Dorothy, are members of the First Presbyterian Church, where he is an elder.

"We are strong believers in the community," Warner said after receiving the award. He pointed out that many of the seed company's employees own stock in the company.

"I'm able to do what I do because of the strong role of our employees in the company," Warner said.

He also praised the efforts of Holly Sugar and the TSBGA.

"We should hear more about them. We cannot hear too much about them," Warner said. "The relationship between the beet growers and Holly Sugar is a team effort we rarely see in our world today."

"A sugar beet company can't really get to first base without a good group of sugar beet growers. I have seen this play going on for 25 years and it's my hope and belief we will see at least another 25 years between these two."

Bill Cleavinger, president of TSBGA and the American Sugarbeet Growers Association, praised "the pioneers who put blood, sweat and tears into this, back when there was not even a fence between here and the North Pole." Cleavinger recognized the past directors and presidents of the TSBGA.

Cleavinger also presented a special silver pin to Jim Witherspoon, who helped direct the effort that brought Holly to Hereford.

Sugar beets had been grown in the Hereford area since the 1950s, but had to be transported to Colorado for processing.

Witherspoon, and others, had to not only attract a company to Hereford but also manipulate changes in the Sugar Act to free up enough acreage here to make the program workable.

"They said back in the beginning it couldn't happen," Cleavinger said. "He went out and made it happen. He's the man who helped it get started. We want to recognize him as one of the leaders here and one of the national leaders in the sugar industry."

"These 25 years have gone by pretty fast," Witherspoon said. "We have gone from not a chance in the world to get into the business to where we are today."

"Back then we had several more states in the sugar beet business and we had one of the smallest organizations in the business. Today we are the leader of the whole field."

Dave Thompson, vice president of the TSBGA, praised Cleavinger's efforts.

"If you go to Washington with him, you'd better be ready to go until 2 to 3 a.m. and then be ready to go again at 6:30 a.m.," Thompson said. "You'll go up and down Capitol Hill all day until your tongue is hanging out. This man is busy on a global basis."

"Bill Cleavinger gives leadership to the nation," Witherspoon said. "Under Bill Cleavinger's leadership you have gone farther than I ever thought you would. You have marched out there and now you are leading our government in forming policy for all of agriculture. Sugar is now the leading commodity organization, and that didn't happen until Bill became the head of the American association."

Census Bureau hiring workers

The U.S. Census Bureau needs a few good workers for the 1990 Census.

The Census Bureau is taking applications at the Census District Office at 3501-H W. 45th in Amarillo for temporary jobs that will last from two to eight weeks for most workers. Workers will receive $5 an hour plus mileage for any official use of a private vehicle.

Applicants for the positions must be 18 years old or older, a U.S. citizen, have a valid driver's license, a Social Security card and must take a written test.

The work will include driving or walking in designated areas of the county to follow up on addresses that do not respond to the census questionnaire. Office jobs that will be filled include data transcription and clerks.

The census not only is used to count the population in the United States but reapportionment of the U.S. House of Representatives and the Texas House and Senate, redrawing of congressional and state district boundaries are based on census figures. Federal, state and local government funds for housing and health and human services programs are also based on census figures.

HYF stock show begins 5-day run

The annual Hereford Young Farmers Junior Livestock Show begins its week-long run today with steer weigh-in at the Bull Barn in Hereford.

There are 368 animals entered in the show from Deaf Smith, Castro, Parmer, Oldham and Randall counties.

The showing begins at 6 p.m. Wednesday with the steer show. Barrows will be shown at 4 p.m. Thursday, with the lamb show at 4:30 p.m. Friday.

Barrows will be weighed in Wednesday at 2 p.m., and lambs will be weighed in beginning at 4 p.m. Thursday.

There will be county and/or five-county winners named in each classification, breed, and grand and reserve champion.

The annual sale will be held at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at the Bull Barn.

with the top 35 county steers and 65 top county lambs and hogs (or 85 percent of entries) in the premium sale.

A complete concession stand with a wide variety of food and drink will be operated by the Deaf Smith County 4-H beginning today.

The Brand will provide complete coverage of each show beginning Thursday.

Burning ties

Hereford volunteer firefighters douse burning old railroad ties at a house in south Hereford on Monday afternoon. The creosote-soaked ties smoldered for some time, and also set fire to a fence and a building in a neighboring yard.

PUC delays action on SW Bell

AUSTIN (AP) - Consumer advocates say they were improperly left out of settlement discussions between Southwestern Bell and the Public Utility Commission's general counsel concerning the telephone company's rate case.

"It appears a whole lot like the company is pulling the chain of the general counsel's office when people are deliberately excluded from settlement negotiations," said Don Butler, attorney for a number of cities served by Southwestern Bell. The cities are recommending about a $700 million rate decrease for the telephone company.

PUC General Counsel Robert Rima, whose office has recommended a $392 million annual rate reduction for the company, said the goal of its recent negotiations with Southwestern Bell was to develop a "framework" for settlement that would allow all parties to agree. He noted that previous talks among all parties hadn't worked.

"I believe the end result of this will, in fact, include a significant rate reduction" and elements of a proposal by Southwestern Bell to upgrade service, Rima said. Southwestern Bell denies it is earning excessive profits and has asked the PUC to approve its "Texas First" plan to freeze rates for five years, upgrade service and obtain more regulatory flexibility.

Southwestern Bell contends a $400 million rate decrease would require the elimination of 3,000 jobs and cancellation of $300 million in construction projects.

The company's original proposal calls for it to invest $344 million in a program to install digital switching equipment in 195 communities; to eliminate four-party service and mileage charges in rural Texas; and offer toll-free calling to suburbs in such urban areas as Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth and San Antonio.

Local rates would be frozen for five years. Charges to long-distance companies for using the local network would be reduced, theoretically allowing the savings to be passed on to consumers.

In return, the company, wants more regulation flexible to allow it to earn a return on investment of 11 percent to 13 percent, rather than the current 12 percent.

"BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, A MAN OF MANY IDEAS"
By Todd Dudley

Any visitor to Philadelphia would know in a minute that Benjamin Franklin was someone very special. Throughout this historical city are buildings and a parkway named after Benjamin Franklin. One of the most interesting places to visit in Philadelphia is Franklin Court which contains an outline of Franklin's house, the Benjamin Franklin Post Office, and an underground museum about him.

Benjamin Franklin was a very special man for many reasons, but each of his achievements was a result of his ideas, ideas that allowed him to make his life and the lives of all Americans more comfortable.

Franklin had less than two years of formal schooling and yet as early as the age of ten, he was using his ideas to invent a way to make swimming easier and faster. To do this he made paddles with holes in them so he could put his thumbs in the holes and have hands kind of like a duck's feet. He also invented something to turn pages of books when his hands were greasy.

As time passed Benjamin Franklin's ideas were used more and more to improve life. Some inventions that made life easier and more pleasant in Franklin's own home included such things as bifocals, which allowed Franklin to see both far and near, an artificial arm for reaching books on high shelves, a chair that became a stepladder when he lifted the seat, a rolling press for making copies of letters, and a mangle or ironing machine. Franklin invented his own personal armchair that had a fan attached to it. He could move the fan by pushing a pedal with his foot so he could fan himself and keep flies off at the same time. He even had a method of bolting the bedroom door while staying in bed and a method of reviving a dying fire without bending over the fireplace. He also invented the armonica, which was a musical instrument made of glasses that made different sounds as he touched them with wet fingers.

Franklin also used his ideas to improve life in his city. He helped start the first library, the first fire department, the first hospital and the first college in Philadelphia.

He also shared his ideas with the whole country when he worked on the committees which wrote the Declaration of Independence and the United States Constitution.

Franklin received worldwide recognition for some of his ideas and inventions. His book, Poor Richard's Almanac, published from 1733 through 1758, sold over ten thousand copies annually. He invented the Franklin stove, a kind of moveable oven used to improve home heating, and his experiments with electricity resulted in the invention of the lightning rod used to prevent fires. To help sailors, Franklin invented an anchor that kept ships from being torn apart in storms, charted the Gulf Stream, and showed them how oil could slow down stormy waves.

Whether it involved his home, his city, his country or the world, Benjamin Franklin's ideas improved life. He did not patent any of his inventions. Ben Franklin's ideas and inventions were his gifts to the world to make it a better place.

"AN AMERICAN INVENTOR, JOHN DEERE"
By Brent M. Marnell

John Deere was born in Rutland, Vermont on February 7, 1804. He was the son of William Ryland Deere, a merchant tailor who had come from England to the United States. His mother's name was Sarah Yates Deere. Deere became a blacksmith when he was 17 years old.

In 1836, Deere opened up a blacksmith shop in Grand Detour, Ill. While working at the shop he heard the farmers complaining about their plows. The ground was very hard to plow with a wooden plow. He built a smooth hard mold-board out of an old circular steel saw in 1837. The plow worked very well compared to the older plows.

John Deere and a partner, named Leonard Andrus, began making more and more steel plows. He sold them for $10 each. Within 10 years, they were producing 1,000 plows yearly. In 1847, John Deere and Andrus started a company in Moline, Illinois.

Deere wanted to improve his plows so he ordered a special type of hard steel from England. He later found that a similar type of steel was made in Pittsburgh. By 1857, Deere was making over 10,000 plows a year. The company grew and grew.

In 1868, this business was incorporated as Deere and Company. Later in 1875 John Deere invented a plow that was called the sulky plow. It had a seat and wheels so the farmer could ride as he plowed.

On May 18, 1886 the town paper, The Moline Daily Republican, stated on its front page that John Deere had "died at his home in the town the night before." John Deere's funeral was held at 10:00 a.m. on the 20th of May at the Congregational Church.

During John Deere's life, he accomplished two great things. He made the first successful steel plow and the sulky plow. Even though he didn't invent very many things he is still well known because of the company he founded. This company ranks as one of the largest industrial corporations in the United States of America. The company he founded today sells such things as tractors, combines, and a variety of agriculture implements.

Bay View Study Club elects new officers

Officers for the 1990-91 club year were elected recently when members of Bay View Study Club met in the home of Mrs. Juston McBride.

Mrs. J.A. Burran Jr. will serve as president; Mrs. A.D. Morrow Jr., vice president; Mrs. Wes Fisher, secretary; Mrs. Ernest Langley, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Dudley Bayne, treasurer.

A thought provoking program was presented by Clint Formby. He began by saying, "In these critical times, we must become more concerned with foreign affairs." He emphasized this point by giving some of his impressions of world affairs. He continued with a discussion of his recent trip to China where he met with other representatives of the Associated Press. The group had been invited by the Chinese Official News Agency, Xenhau. In conclusion, Formby showed pictures of the Chinese people and the countryside.

Members present included Mmes. J.R. Allison, Bayne, Burran, R.W. Eades, Fisher, D.N. Garner, Charlie Hays, Charlie Holt, Robert Josseland, Langley, Morrow, Austin Rose, Paul Scott, C.F. Newsom, Howard Gault and W.J. Gilliland.

WTSU faculty member to make presentations

Dr. Karon L. Cunningham, associate professor of business administration, has had five papers accepted for presentation and will be taking her show on the road this spring and summer.

Four of the five presentations will be made Feb. 28-March 2 in Dallas. She will present "The Effect of Business Writing Style Training on Basic Language Skill Competency" at a meeting of the Association for Business Communication Southwest. The paper has also been accepted for publication in the proceedings.

Two papers, co-written by Cunningham and Sue Taylor, Instructor of computer information systems, will be delivered at the Southwest Administrative Services Conference. Presentation titles are "A Comparison of Computer integration into Administrative Services Curricula at AACSB and Non-AACSB Accredited Institutions" and "Administrative Services Curriculum for the 1990s."

The paper, "The Role of the First Line Supervisor in Corporate Image, Productivity, and Communication Triangle," was authored by Cunningham, Daniel E. Hallock and David Wyld and has been accepted for presentation and publication by The International Academy of Management and Marketing. Hallock is an assistant professor of management at WTSU, and Wyld is an assistant professor of management at Midwestern State University.

Cunningham collaborated on the paper "Reaching Both Malay and American Students: Equity in Teaching Business Writing" with Frank Landram, associate professor of computer information systems, and Gerald Craven, professor of English. The Tax Assessor Collector's Office in Deaf Smith County processes over 4,000 motor vehicle titles a year. Ninety-nine percent (99%) of those titles go through without a problem. This percentage is excellent, especially when compared to averages statewide. My staff and I have worked hard to make this possible.

At the present time it takes four to six weeks for a title to be issued out of Austin. In 1991 we will have a state-wide computer system installed that will process information overnight and issue titles within two days. Input into the computer will originate at the county level. It is very important that the tax assessor collector be trained and experienced to insure that our county will go through this transition smoothly.

With my training and experience I feel I can lead our county into this new era and keep on top of this new system. I am asking for your vote and support to make this possible.

HJH boys take five of six, girls teams swept on road

For the Hereford Junior High and freshman basketball teams, there was no place like home Monday as they took on Borger in 11 games.

The boys squads wrapped up the home portion of their schedules against the Bulldogs with five wins in six tries. The freshman boys moved into Whiteface Gymnasium for their final home games on the junior high circuit with the Maroon dominating the visitors, 84-57, and the White pulling out a 56-51 decision in overtime.

In games played at the HJH Gymnasium, the eighth grade Maroon boys suffered the only home loss of the night, 63-33, while the eighth grade White won, 43-33, and the seventh grade teams swept, 45-42 for the Maroon and 56-53 for the White.

The Hereford girls teams had a tougher time on the road, dropping all five games at Borger.

The frosh girls lost, 42-29, while the eighth grade dropped a pair, 43-23 in the Maroon game and 33-31 in the White. The seventh grade girls also fell in both games with the Maroon bowing 29-18 and the White falling 34-30.

Frosh boys Maroon 84, Borger 57
Hereford scored the first eight points of the game and never allowed the Bulldogs any closer the rest of the way.

Forcing the tempo early, the Herd turned six Borger turnovers into fast-break points. Hereford built a 23-12 lead by the end of the first quarter as Michael Melendrez put in 11 points.

The Herd kept the pressure on in the second period behind Greg Coplen's eight points to take a 47-22 lead into halftime.

About the only suspense left was whether the Herd could extend the lead to 30 points and keep it there. Jason Tatarevich made it a 31-point margin when he converted a three-point play late in the third quarter and the Maroon went up by as much as 33 at the close of the period.

The Bulldogs came out bombing in the final period, closing the gap to 74-54 with three three-pointers before Hereford went on a 10-3 run to end the game.

Hereford had four players finish in double figures, led by Melendrez with 21 points. Coplen added 13 while Kyle Hansen and Ruben Gutierrez had 12 each. Eric Sims posted eight points for the Herd with Chad Sandoval getting seven, Tatarevich six, Jason Paetzold three and Shawn Fogo two.

Borger's Tommy Miller led all scorers with 22 points, 13 of which came in the fourth quarter. Miller canned four three-pointers in the contest. Adam Broad added 13 points for the Bulldogs.

Frosh boys White 56, Borger 51 OT
Corey Scott nailed both ends of a one-and-one with 21 seconds left in overtime to put Hereford in front to stay. The free throws were Scott's only points of the game.

The Herd added three more free throws in the final seconds, two by Richard Wilbanks and one by Brad Lemons, to seal the victory.

The charity stripe proved to be the deciding factor in the contest as Hereford converted 13 of 16 attempts while the Bulldogs were one-of-five from the line.

Hereford opened an 8-5 first-quarter lead, but watched it disappear quickly when Borger's Johnny Molinan scored six straight points in the second to put the Bulldogs ahead.

The Herd managed to tie the score at 17-17 before halftime, but Borger opened a 29-21 lead mid-way through the third period. Hereford came back with a 9-2 run to close out the quarter and trail 31-30. Chris Woodard got the rally started when he completed a three-point play and then added two more free throws before Borger could get a shot off.

The fourth period saw the lead change hands seven times with neither team gaining more than a two-point advantage. Tim Burkhalter scored nine points in the quarter to keep Hereford close and Danny Eberly hit a pair of free throws with 47 seconds left to tie the game.

Hereford took a 49-47 lead in the first minute of overtime before Andrew Williams put Borger back on top with two field goals. A fast-break layup by Burkhalter tied the score to set up Scott's free throws.

Burkhalter finished with 13 points, all in the fourth quarter and overtime, to lead the Herd while Wilbanks hit double figures with 10. Kirk Self, Drew Radford, Eberly and Lemons added six point each with Woodard getting five and Cameron Bell and Scott two apiece.

Molinan finished with 20 points for Borger with Williams adding 13.

Borger 42, Frosh girls 29
Hereford took a 14-10 lead through the first period, but could manage only four second-quarter points as Borger took a 21-18 halftime edge.

The Herd kept pace with the Bulldogs in the third period, trailing 29-25, but Borger closed the game with a 13-4 advantage over the final eight minutes.

Hereford was led by Jill Robinson with nine points while Kathy Hernandez added six. Claudia Ramirez and Brandie Webb had four points each with Taylor Brooks, Misty Peabody and Brandy Dunn getting two apiece.

Borger's Brandi Davis led all scorers with 12 points.

Borger 63, 8th boys Maroon 33
Hereford held a 9-3 lead after the first quarter before being outscored 60-24 over the last three periods.

Borger closed to within 21-20 at halftime and allowed the Herd only 12 points in the second half.

Hereford was led by Andrew Tjerina with nine points while Chad Carlile, Chris Vallejo and Jay Kendall had six each. Robin Simons added four points and Omar Atchley two for the Herd.

Borger was paced by Michael McMahan with 22 points and Jared Kemp with 13.

8th boys White 43, Borger 33
Hereford jumped out to 14-9 lead after the first quarter and outscored the Bulldogs in every period for the win.

The Herd ground out a steady, workman-like win, upping the advantage to 23-17 at halftime and leading 32-24 after three periods.

Joey Ballejo led all scorers with 11 points for Hereford while Stacey Sanders had eight. Ben Celaya added six points with Josh Trice scoring five, Justin Wright four, Justin Lueb three and Brandon Geam, Michael Carlson, and Eddie Riddle two each.

Borger was led by Ben Laughery with eight points.

Borger 43, 8th girls Maroon 23
Borger outscored Hereford by at least four points in each quarter in gaining the win.

The Bulldogs led 8-2 after the first period and 23-12 at halftime.

The Herd was held to only one basket in both the first and third periods.

Hereford was led by Jamie Simpson with seven points while Kara Sandoval had six, Misty Dudley five, Shambryn Wilson four and Jill Walser one.

Borger's Marra Brown led all scorers with 13 points.

Borger 33, 8th girls White 31
Hereford kept the game close the entire way, but never found a way to take control of the contest.

Borger led 14-13 at the end of the first period before taking its biggest lead of the game, 23-17, into the half.

Hereford came out in the third quarter with a 7-2 run to move within a point, but never could get over the hump in the final period as the Bulldogs held on for the win.

Heather Kleuskens posted 10 points to lead the Herd scoring while Tania Bossett added nine, Jennifer Holmes seven, Lori Coronado two and Michelle Brock one.

Borger was led by Diane Proctor with 16 points and Renee Ingram with 10.

7th boys Maroon 45, Borger 42
Hereford jumped out to a 17-6 first-quarter lead before Borger used a 15-6 advantage in the second to close the gap to 23-21 at halftime.

The Bulldogs took the lead in the third quarter, finishing the period up 31-29.

The Herd came back in the final period with a 15-11 edge on the strength of four-of-eight free-throw shooting.

Ashley Noland led all scorers with 15 points for the Herd while Coey Laing was right behind with 14. Richard Hicks added eight points with Joe Delacruz, Raymond Alaniz and Michael Marquez had two apiece.

Borger was led by Jay Belcher with 10 points and Kwame Burnely and Darin Brown with nine each.

7th boys White 58, Borger 54
Hereford picked up another win at the free-throw line, hitting 18 of 27 attempts, including eight of 12 in the fourth quarter.

The teams played even through the opening period at 4-4 before the Bulldogs managed a one-point lead, 24-23, at halftime.

Hereford used a 19-9 edge in the third quarter to take the lead and held on through the final period.

Michael Brown led all scorers with 24 points for the Herd and was joined in double figures by Benton Buckley with 13. Scott Burkhalter, Cody Curtis, Jeremy Brock and O.J. Rodriguez all scored four points each while Marc Haney had three and Jacob Lopez two.

Borger placed three scorers in double figures, led by Jeff Burney with 16 while Greg Sprencel had 15 and Tim Mullenix 12.

Borger 29, 7th girls Maroon 18
Borger allowed only a free throw by Kasi Reinart in the first half, building an 18-1 lead at the intermission.

Hereford outscored the Bulldogs 17-11 in the second half, but the deficit was too much to overcome.

Tarpley set to return from latest suspension

DALLAS (AP) — Forward Roy Tarpley, reinstated to the Dallas Mavericks but still bearing two strikes in the NBA's anti-drug program, concedes that many fans have heard his story before.

"A lot of people ... were trying to help me and I think it's important for me to take responsibility for myself. And that's what I have done," said Tarpley, who resumes practice today. "I really don't expect you to believe me because you're probably hearing the same thing you heard before."

"I'll just have to make my actions speak louder than words," he said. "That's what I'm all about today is actions."

In addition to his latest suspension, which cost him more than $240,000 and forced him to miss 34 games, Tarpley has been treated twice for drug and alcohol abuse.

Dr. Dave Lewis of the ASAP Family Treatment Center in Van Nuys, Calif., told a news conference at Dallas' Reunion Arena that Tarpley was removed from the NBA's suspended list on Monday.

Tarpley was suspended Nov. 16 for violating his substance-abuse aftercare program. Lewis said that if Tarpley Dania Lee scored 11 points to lead Borger.

Borger 34, 7th girls White 30
In another nip-and-tuck game, Borger made a 10-5 third-quarter edge stand up through the final six minutes.

After the teams tied through the first quarter at 10-10, Borger claimed a 12-11 lead at the half.

Hereford's Leslie Tatarevich led all scorers with 16 points. Lori Hammock added seven for the Herd with Kyla Betzen getting four, Jenee Baros two and Bridget Beltran one.

Dawna Denny scored 15 points to pace Borger.

The freshman girls will play their district tournament Friday and Saturday at Pampa before all 11 teams return to action next week against Dumas. The girls teams will close out the regular season with two dates at home while the boys will finish up on the road.

A&M releases Metcalf

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Shelby Metcalf gave Texas A&M 27 years of the winningest basketball in the Southwest Conference. Then the school took his team away from him in the middle of a season.

"I gave half my life to this place," Metcalf said on Monday after being fired. "I'm shocked."

A simmering feud with athletic director John David Crow spelled the end for Metcalf, despite a career record of 438 victories, including 239 in the SWC. His teams won six conference championships.

Metcalf's assistant, John Thornton, will take over on an interim basis.

"It's the most awkward position I've ever been in in my life," Thornton said. "There is no one in the coaching profession in which I have more respect than Shelby Metcalf. I regret it happened this way."

So, too, did Metcalf. He said he was told by Crow that he was being sacked for calling Crow "a liar."

"I couldn't believe what I was hearing," Metcalf said. "We're killed. It was a way of life for us (his family). It wasn't a job."

Metcalf, 59, met with his lawyer, Head Davis, then had a closed-door session with Crow.

"John David said I called him a liar in the newspaper, and I never did that," Metcalf said. "That was the only reason he gave. He didn't say anything about graduation rates or anything. My graduation rates have been good."

Metcalf has also been criticized for depending too heavily on junior college players but said, "John David never brought up junior college players. I've had some pretty good junior college players."

Metcalf had one year remaining on a four-year contract he received after winning the 1987 SWC's postseason tournament. The school didn't say what he would do under the "reassignment."

"The least they could do would be to pay me off," Metcalf said. "It doesn't show a lot of class to let me hang in the wind."

Crow said Metcalf "left me no alternative."

"He has chosen to take his ill feelings concerning his program directly to the media, bypassing everyone in a position of authority at Texas A&M," Crow said.

"It was my intention to meet with Coach Metcalf following the season. Any public comments I have ever made to the media concerning the A&M basketball program were the result of direct questions and no time did I discuss any member of the coaching staff that I recall."

Metcalf said he was told to check with school president William Mobley about his new job.

"I guess I'm supposed to call him in the morning," said Metcalf, who makes a base salary of $77,000 a season plus about $5,000 in fringe benefits.

"It hit Shelby like a ton of bricks," an athletic department source said. "I saw him when he walked out of John David's office. He had a stunned look in his eyes. He looked up and said, 'They released me. They released me.' You could tell he didn't believe they would do it."

"All I can say is Shelby Metcalf doesn't deserve what came to him," guard Lynn Suber said. "I'm very surprised. We just have to pull together as a unit. We're 100 percent behind Coach Thornton."

Metcalf is a fighter, guard Freddie Ricks said.

"I love Coach Metcalf. He's been like a father to me," Ricks said. "I'm just stunned right now. I'm glad to see Coach Thornton take his place, if anyone had to do it. I really can't say that I'm happy that he's gone."

"We're just all shocked right now. I don't think any of us was ready for this. I know we weren't."

Metcalf said escalating public criticism of his program, allegedly by Crow, was "very disruptive" to his team, which was 9-10 overall and 2-3 in the SWC.

He accused Crow of "cussing me" during the recent NCAA Convention at Dallas.

"He (Crow) cussed me everywhere he goes," Metcalf said of Crow, who won the Heisman Trophy in 1957 when Bear Bryant was the football coach at A&M.

The situation reached a head Saturday when Arkansas defeated the Aggies 100-84, A&M's third straight SWC loss. After the game, Metcalf expressed his doubts about his future with the Aggies.

"I could have kept quiet," he said, "but I talked to my family before the game and we decided not to."

Crow has been the athletic director since December 1988. Before that, Crow was an assistant athletic director under Jackie Sherrill.

"Jackie Sherrill was good to me when he was athletic director," Metcalf told The Associated Press. "He gave me a four-year contract. Things were fine. Then John David came along."

Metcalf's teams were 239-158 in the SWC and 438-306 overall.

"Let me make it very clear that I, along with countless others, appreciate the dedicated work that Shelby has done throughout his 27 seasons at Texas A&M," Crow said.

Metcalf had a doctor's degree in philosophy which he earned at A&M in 1974. His dissertation was "Crowd Behavior at Southwest Conference Basketball Games."

Metcalf was popular with fans and players alike. Under his photo in the current SWC media guide are the words: "His very first squad won the Southwest Conference championship in 1964, the first basketball title for A&M in 41 years. The basketball fortunes at A&M have been in capable hands ever since."

Metcalf, who had 23 winning seasons in 26 years, said he would never go to another game in G. Rollic White Coliseum.

"I'll go there to clean out my desk and that's it," Metcalf said. "It wouldn't be fair to my kids to go there."

Metcalf said goodbye to his players Monday night.

"I love A&M," Metcalf said. "This is not what A&M stands for. They needed to do this thing with class and didn't do it. I don't want to sit around like a stump if they don't want me. It's a sad way to end a career."

Firing stuns SWC coaches, players

By JAY JORDEN
Associated Press Writer

The dean of Southwest Conference coaches is gone, and players and colleagues alike say the league won't be the same minus its winningest tutor.

Some coaches said Metcalf didn't deserve the treatment he received when he was relieved of his duties Monday and reassigned within the athletic department.

"I'm very sad about the situation," said Baylor coach Gene Iba. "Shelby has been a great representative of the Southwest Conference for a long time. This truly is a great loss for our league."

John Thornton, Metcalf's assistant, will take over on an interim basis.

The 59-year-old Metcalf, who has coached the Aggies for 27 years, was shocked by the decision. He met with his attorney Head Davis, then had a closed-door session with athletic director John David Crow for the bad news.

Over the weekend, Metcalf announced that he believed he would be fired from his job and that he planned to retain a lawyer.

"It was really a shock to me. I saw the story in the paper today, and anytime a coach and his boss have problems that reach the media, something bad is going to happen," said Texas Tech coach Gerald Myers.

"That's not the way you settle problems. I didn't expect it to happen now or in this way. Shelby probably knew he wasn't going to be retained. He's been a great coach in this conference and a great coach at Texas A&M. It's unfortunate it happened after 27 years. It's a sad situation as far as I'm concerned. I'm sorry to see it happen."

Rice coach Scott Thompson said Metcalf's colleagues respected and emulated him.

"I guess my first reaction is I'm sorry to see it happen because I felt Shelby was one of the gentlemen of the coaching fraternity, and a very good coach we will miss in the conference," said Thompson. "After as long and as good a career he has had, to go out the way he did was too bad."

"I just ... a great coach like he is and a member of the coaching fraternity, it's difficult to see a guy like Shelby leave. Everybody has a lot of respect for Shelby and everybody admires him to be in the profession as long as he was and to do as well as he did. I think we all hope we can be like that."

Texas Christian coach Moe Iba, was out of town and unavailable for comment, said a spokesman.

"It's a big surprise to me," Houston coach Pat Foster said. "Usually, people can work out their differences without getting to a point it apparently got to."

Players at A&M were surprised as other coaches in the conference.

"All they told us is coach Thornton's taking over as the interim coach," Aggies guard Cody Blake said. "We've just got to concentrate on winning some games."

Jimmie Gilbert, a former Aggie player who is now a graduate assistant on the A&M staff, agreed but said Thornton was a good motivator. "Hopefully, we can go up from here. We need to go up from this and not get stagnated," he said.

Hogs replace Hatfield

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Jack Crowe is unlike other assistants who routinely trooped into the office of Arkansas athletic director Frank Broyles.

Every December, Broyles said Monday, assistants would ask for his help landing a job as a head coach. Crowe, he said, was the first who didn't.

"My time will come," Crowe told him.

It came Monday when Arkansas, on Broyles' recommendation, hired Crowe to replace Clemson-bound Ken Hatfield.

Crowe, 41, had never been a head coach on the major-college level, but he was the offensive coordinator for the Razorbacks' potent wishbone attack, and that was a strong selling point.

"Most of you know that I put a lot of confidence and a lot of faith in a coach who knows how to call signals," Broyles said. "I've always thought that Lou Holtz was the No. 1 signal caller in the college game today. I now tell you that in my opinion our new coach is his equal."

With Crowe pulling the strings, Arkansas set a school record with 4,926 yards, including 627 yards in a 45-39 victory over Houston that Broyles called the "finest offensive game that I have seen played in the 33 years that I've been at Arkansas."

Crowe figured he had no chance at the Arkansas job, and was preparing to follow Hatfield to Clemson. In fact, he had dug out his Clemson bag and was at the airport Sunday morning.

"There are 50 head coaches out there who would come here," he said.

Broyles said that when he learned of Hatfield's decision, he called Terry Don Phillips, president of the Razorback Foundation, from California and told him to find Crowe.

Broyles said the search committee interviewed Crowe for more than an hour on Sunday. The committee, Crowe said, "made it awful easy for me."

"I always knew I would be a head coach," Crowe said. "It was a big surprise how it happened, where it happened."

"It's been a quick 24 hours. Yesterday morning started off with a lot different direction. I would like to thank Ken Hatfield for bringing me to the University of Arkansas. I think watching him has taught me as much as anybody I have ever seen. I've been around some good football coaches ... but I really can say the time I've spent here has brought a lot of things together."

He said he entered the job knowing that the job is bigger than any one man. "The formula here works. It's worked with a lot of different faces and a lot of different personalities. It works because of the people of Arkansas. This is the people of Arkansas' program."

He promised integrity, academic excellence and winning.

"I will give the best people in this country, football players and coaches, an opportunity to see what Arkansas is and if they choose it, we'll open the door to them," he said.

Collecting coins helpful in restoration of capitol

As part of its 200th birthday celebration, the United States Congress has launched a program to restore and preserve its home in Washington, D.C., the U. S. Capitol Building.

Like any "home," the Capitol is suffering from "wear and tear" — except that this national treasure has served as Congress's home since 1800. After several additions, today's U.S. Capitol has 540 rooms, with 658 windows and 850 doorways. It takes 20 painters using 800 gallons of paint four to five months just to paint the Capitol Dome!

Much of the restoration project is being financed by the sale of commemorative "Congressional" coins. Young Americans, whether they're coin collectors or not, can have a role in preserving this living symbol of freedom and democracy for future generations, much as they did several years ago with the Statue of Liberty.

These coins are available from the United States Mint, which "mints" all of the coins used in this country. Part of every dollar spent on these coins will go to the United States Capitol Preservation Commission, which was organized by Congress to raise funds and oversee the restoration project.

Coin collecting is one of the most popular hobbies among young people. For example, close to 400,000 coin collecting merit badges have been issued by the Boy Scouts over the years. Not only will young people help preserve our history by collecting the Congressional coins, but coin collecting is also educational and fun.

Just how will this money be used? Perhaps the biggest single project funded by the sale of the Congressional coins will be the restoration of the Statue of Freedom, a cast bronze statue that sits atop the Capitol Dome. This unique statue, which symbolizes our pride as a free people, is corroding because of its age and increasing air pollution.

The Statue of Freedom, which is more than 19 feet high and weighs more than seven tons, will be removed from its perch, cleaned, restored and painted. A date for the actual removal has not been set.

"Freedom" was actually designed in Rome, Italy, and a model was brought to the U.S. by boat. The statue was erected in 1863, marking the completion of the Capitol dome. The cost to construct the statue was $23,792, a far cry from what it would cost today.

A number of other projects are planned, including restoration of paintings and other works of art in the Capitol and installation of fountains on the grounds of the Capitol. These fountains were actually built in 1960s when Lyndon B. Johnson was president but were never installed due to lack of funds.

Since 1982, the U.S. Mint has produced commemorative coins to celebrate five other historic events. They were: George Washington's 259th birthday, the Centennial of the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island, the Bicentennial of the Constitution, and U.S. participation in the 1984 and 1988 Olympic games.

More than $83 million was donated to restore the Statue of Liberty through the purchase of the special Liberty Coins, double the goal.

There are three Congressional coins that are available from the U.S. Mint: silver dollar, featuring the Statue of Freedom and the Mace of the House of Representatives, half dollar, which depicts the Statue and a full view of the Capitol, and a gold five dollar coin, which depicts the Capitol Dome and the American Eagle overlooking the canopy of the Old Senate Chamber.

Congressional coins from the U.S. Mint are a special way to participate in honoring and preserving our heritage. The coins symbolize our rich history and out tradition of a government "of the people, by the people and for the people." They not only honor our heritage, but they are handsome collectors' items that have lasting value.

For more information on the coins, write the Customer Service Center, United States Mint, 10001 Aerospace Drive, Lanham, MD., 20706; or call (800) 345-4700.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.50 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines - those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing; all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

LEGAL NOTICES

REQUEST FOR BIDS ON TEXAS HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION

Sealed proposals for 5.700 miles of landscape establishment on IH 40 from Grand Street to 0.1 mile W. of Bell Street, covered by CL 275-110 in Potter County, will be received at the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Austin, until 1:00 P.M., February 7, 1990, and then publicly opened and read. Plans and specifications including minimum wage rates as provided by Law are available for inspection at the office of Donald J. Shipman, Resident Engineer, Amarillo, Texas, and at the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, Austin, Texas. Bidding proposals are to be requested from the Construction Division, D. C. Greer State Highway Building, 11th and Brazos Streets, Austin, Texas 78701. Plans are available through commercial printers in Austin, Texas, at the expense of the bidder. Usual rights reserved.

I am no longer responsible for the debts of Becky Hughes Hazelwood. Divorce was filed for on September 15, 1988 and granted on May 24, 1989. Greg D. Hazelwood To & Sun

THE CLASSIFIEDS... always a great catch.

Arm yourself with knowledge for winter

With the blustery weather and the short, gray days, the last thing we want to deal with is the misery of a common cold. Unfortunately, though, the winter months are also cold season-but not for the reasons you may think.

Americans catch more than 100 million colds a year. However, they are not caused by cold, wet weather or drafts, as is commonly believed.

A cold is a virus that can be spread only by an infected person. Usually this is done through hand contact. For example, if you shake hands with someone who has a cold, or touch a surface that has been infected by a cold sufferer, and you then rub your eyes or nose, you will likely spread the virus onto yourself.

Colds prevail in winter because people spend most of their time indoors, in close quarters with stale air, thus increasing the chances of spreading infection.

Getting enough sleep, exercising regularly and eating balanced meals can help build up your resistance and may decrease your chances of getting a cold. But if you are stricken, knowing what to do can prevent you from getting sicker and can make you more comfortable until you recover.

Although aspirin will reduce a cold's fever, aches and pains, and over-the-counter decongestants and other medications will help stuffy noses and a host of other cold symptoms, there is no cure for the common cold. Antibiotics, which are used to fight bacterial infections, do not work against viruses.

Your doctor may give you antibiotic medication when you have a cold, only to prevent secondary bacterial infections such as pneumonia or a sinus infection. What your mother always told you is correct: Get plenty of rest and drink lots of fluids, especially fruit juices, when you have a cold. And what about chicken soup? It certainly won't hurt. Fluids and good for a cold, and so is steam. However, smoking can worsen cough and congestion, and drinking alcohol can increase the sedative effect of most cold medicines. Many over-the-counter medications can help relieve the discomfort of the common cold. When using over-the-counter medications, always ask your pharmacist and doctor how they work and what side effects to anticipate. For example:

-Nasal sprays shrink the blood vessels in the nose, thus reducing swelling of nasal passages to help you breathe easier. But nasal sprays should not be used for more than three consecutive days, as they can become addictive. The blood vessels in the nose rebound when the spray wears off, becoming even more swollen, and you begin to "need" the spray to breathe.

-Oral decongestants have the same action without rebound swelling. They can, however, cause insomnia and nervousness. In addition, because of the blood vessel-constricting action of decongestants, those taken orally can also cause problems for people with cardiovascular conditions.

-You will see a variety of other medications on your drugstore shelf. For coughs, antitussives work by reducing the brain's impulse to cough. These are available over-the-counter in non-narcotic formulas, as well as by prescription for narcotic formulas containing codeine. Antihistamines relieve sneezing and itchy, watery eyes, and expectorants help bring up phlegm by increasing fluid secretions in the respiratory tract.

Some people are particularly susceptible to adverse reactions from any one or combination of cold medications. These include persons over the age of 60 and those with high blood pressure, asthma and glaucoma. As always, women who are pregnant or nursing should use caution when taking any of these at-risk groups, always consult your doctor and pharmacist before taking any over-the-counter cold-relief preparation.

THE CLASSIFIEDS... always a great catch.

Arm yourself with knowledge for winter

With the blustery weather and the short, gray days, the last thing we want to deal with is the misery of a common cold. Unfortunately, though, the winter months are also cold season-but not for the reasons you may think.

Americans catch more than 100 million colds a year. However, they are not caused by cold, wet weather or drafts, as is commonly believed. A cold is a virus that can be spread only by an infected person. Usually this is done through hand contact. For example, if you shake hands with someone who has a cold, or touch a surface that has been infected by a cold sufferer, and you then rub your eyes or nose, you will likely spread the virus onto yourself.

Colds prevail in winter because people spend most of their time indoors, in close quarters with stale air, thus increasing the chances of spreading infection.

Getting enough sleep, exercising regularly and eating balanced meals can help build up your resistance and may decrease your chances of getting a cold. But if you are stricken, knowing what to do can prevent you from getting sicker and can make you more comfortable until you recover.

Although aspirin will reduce a cold's fever, aches and pains, and over-the-counter decongestants and other medications will help stuffy noses and a host of other cold symptoms, there is no cure for the common cold. Antibiotics, which are used to fight bacterial infections, do not work against viruses.

Your doctor may give you antibiotic medication when you have a cold, only to prevent secondary bacterial infections such as pneumonia or a sinus infection.

What your mother always told you is correct: Get plenty of rest and drink lots of fluids, especially fruit juices, when you have a cold. And what about chicken soup? It certainly won't hurt. Fluids and good food for a cold, and so is steam. However, smoking can worsen cough and congestion, and drinking alcohol can increase the sedative effect of most cold medicines. Many over-the-counter medications can help relieve the discomfort of the common cold. When using over-the-counter medications, always ask your pharmacist and doctor how they work and what side effects to anticipate. For example:

-Nasal sprays shrink the blood vessels in the nose, thus reducing swelling of nasal passages to help you breathe easier. But nasal sprays should not be used for more than three consecutive days, as they can become addictive. The blood vessels in the nose rebound when the spray wears off, becoming even more swollen, and you begin to "need" the spray to breathe.

-Oral decongestants have the same action without rebound swelling. They can, however, cause insomnia and nervousness. In addition, because of the blood vessel-constricting action of decongestants, those taken orally can also cause problems for people with cardiovascular conditions.

-You will see a variety of other medications on your drugstore shelf. For coughs, antitussives work by reducing the brain's impulse to cough. These are available over-the-counter in non-narcotic formulas, as well as by prescription for narcotic formulas containing codeine. Antihistamines relieve sneezing and itchy, watery eyes, and expectorants help bring up phlegm by increasing fluid secretions in the respiratory tract.

Some people are particularly susceptible to adverse reactions from any one or combination of cold medications. These include persons over the age of 60 and those with high blood pressure, asthma and glaucoma. As always, women who are pregnant or nursing should use caution when taking any medicines. If you fall into any of these at-risk groups, always consult your doctor and pharmacist before taking any over-the-counter cold-relief preparation.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married for five years and had hoped my problem would solve itself by now. It hasn't.

I am unable to get a good night's sleep. I married when I was 32 and have slept alone in a double bed my entire life. Since I am quite tall I take up the whole bed. Now I can't get comfortable even in a queen-size bed with my husband. The times we've slept in a king-size bed in a hotel weren't any better.

My husband does not snore, thrash around, have icy feet, hog the covers or feel like a furnace. I can't complain to him since his only crime is that he's there. Sometimes he likes to cuddle in the middle of the night. I realize that most women would love it, but believe it or not, I can't sleep if he's breathing on me.

When I travel for business or if my husband is away on a job-related trip, I sleep like the proverbial log until the alarm goes off. Lately, my dreams all seem to be about getting trapped in a tight place and I wake up exhausted. I must be getting more rest than I think I do, or I would be dead by now.

I love my husband and we have a great marriage. I don't want separate beds. Drugs are out of the

AC to present drama

Amarillo College is presenting the drama "Ladyhouse Blues" Feb. 7-11 in the Concert Hall Theatre.

This drama focusses on two days in the lives of four sisters and their mother during the trying times of post-World War I in St. Louis. The audience will get to share in the family's hopes for a better life and their fears that the only brother and son will not come home from the war alive.

The show is directed by David D. McKnight, Jr. and stage managed by Holle Mason.

Ticket prices are $6 for adults and $3 for students, children, and senior citizens. Tickets can be reserved by calling 371-5359 between 1 and 5 p.m. or they can be bought at the door the night of the show.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

I recently bought a beautiful blouse that had attractive buttons on the front. The care label stated that it should be dry-cleaned.

After wearing the blouse I took it to my dry cleaner, but when I went to pick it up, I was devastated! There were small stains all around the buttons. I showed it to the dry cleaner and was told that the dye used on the buttons bled onto the garment. They tried removing the stains but they remained.

What should I do now? The dry cleaner insists he is not at fault. — A Reader, Baltimore, Md.

We checked with our friends at the International Fabricare Institute and they shared the following information.

The garment manufacturer is responsible because buttons that were not colorfast to dry-cleaning were selected. The care-label rule clearly states that all component trim, which includes buttons, must not be harmed by the care procedure designated for the garment to which the trim is attached.

Either return the garment to the place of purchase or contact the manufacturer for a refund or replacement. Stand up for your rights! — Heloise

HINT FROM HIM

Dear Heloise: If you are having trouble getting your kids to eat bran flakes, mix in a box or two of the small variety-type cereal, selecting their favorites. Some of the combinations are delicious.

I do this to fool myself too. — George W. Chance, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A favorite of mine is mix-and-match. I pour the last few ounces of lonely boxes all together and create a surprise. — Heloise

LIGHTING THE FIRE

Dear Heloise: I was looking for some long wooden matches to use when lighting my charcoal grill. Instead I found some of "puff-out proof" birthday candles.

I lit a candle and placed it among the coals and it worked great because it didn't go out. The candles would work for starting a fire in a fireplace too. — Mollie Hartman, Argyle, Ill.

question. Do you have any suggestions? — Weary in Washington

DEAR WEARY: There's an easy solution: You need another bed for your husband, either twin or double, smack up against your double bed. This set-up will provide easy access and at the same time you will have all the space your heart desires.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 77-year-old woman who has read your column for more than 30 years. Please help me make the right decision.

My sister, who is 79, is having both physical and emotional problems for the first time in her life. "Rita" lives in another state and has two grown daughters who have been caring for her since she came home from the hospital. They both work and say they are exhausted. Rita needs around-the-clock care and cannot be left alone.

My daughter heard about her aunt from Rita's exhausted daughters and has told me that it is my duty to take her into my small home and care for her. She said I should do it because she is my sister. Ann, I love my sister dearly and always have, but I'm afraid it would kill me to try to care for her at my age.

My life has not been easy. I've had plenty of grief for reasons I won't get into here. I have never been happier than in the past couple of years. Although I live on a limited income I manage to have lunch with the seniors at the center almost every day. I have a lovely social life which I've never had before.

My daughter says I am being selfish and thinking only of myself. I was so upset after our conversation that I left her house in tears.

Ann, please tell me if my daughter is right. I am feeling terribly sad and guilty right now and don't know what to do. — Miserable and Undecided in N.Y.

DEAR N.Y.: I would never tell a 77-year-old woman to try to give round-the-clock care to an invalid. Your daughter has no right to make you feel guilty for refusing. Since she is probably in her 40s or 50s and feels so strongly about it, why doesn't (ital) she (unital) take Aunt Rita in?
