PAA works for good of entire area

Projects of the Panhandle Area Alliance and the relationship to Hereford and other cities of the area were reviewed Monday by the executive director of the organization.

Dave McReynolds of Amarillo poke at the noon function of the Hereford Rotary Club, describing the PAA as a "clearinghouse of information with the goal always to work for common good of the entire region.'

The speaker described the various projects undertaken in the last three years, since PAA was organized, and called special attention to two ongoing programs.

A quality work force planning committee works under the auspices of PAA, McReynolds said, to analyze regional job opportunities and related education and training needs; to identify regional priorities for vocational education and training and to develop regional service delivery plans that address these programs and priorities

Another major thrust is the Panhandle Tech Prep Project, also related to needs of employers for technically-trained personnel.

·McReynolds said that in recent months, PAA also has worked closely with cities seeking prison sites.

We can pull together information that may not be available readily in the community," he said, noting that in Hereford's pursuit of a prison, his

Economist says credit unions in Texas are 'healthy and sound'

DALLAS (AP) - The growth of unions experienced 6.3 percent the first half of 1991, up 7 percent to money-making loan portfolios in growth in ioan portfolios. Texas credit unions slowed to a crawl

But they didn't shrink as much those at banks and thrifts have for several years.

"We're having a recession nationwide, but at least Texas credit unions are healthy and sound," Charles Idol, chief economist for Texas Credit Union League and Affiliates, said Monday,

Loans by the state's 933 credit unions grew by only four-tenths of a percent during the first six months of 1991, the latest period for which the first six months of 1991, Idol said.

Federal Reserve data shows the loan portfolios of Texas' approximately 1,150 banks declined 5 percent in 1990 and about 3 percent last year, for which statistics are only preliminary.

The banking community has improved materially over the last year or so," Idol said. "Their earnings are better, capitalization is better and asset quality has improved.'

Loan portfolios shrank one-half percent at the 108 Texas thrifts during $16.4 billion. Bank assets fell 2 percent to $170 billion and thrift assets were down 13 percent to $64 billion.

Nevertheless, the typical Texas relieve the city of the necessity of bank is eight times the size and typical thrift 33 times the size of a typical credit union in the state.

That smaller size has helped credit unions stay healthy through the state's economic woes since the 15 years. The city bears no liability mid-80s, Idol said. A reliance on in the bond repayment. consumer loans has also helped.

"Consumer loans generally Assets at credit unions also grew perform much better than real estate During all of 1990, Texas credit faster than at banks and thrifts during and commercial loans," Idol said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My older than I could. sister bore a son out of wedlock, left instructions that he be put up for adoption and then jumped off a bridge.

I followed her instructions and gave "Barry" to a childless family I knew would love him and raise him well. The understanding was that our family would cut all ties with the child and never let him know of his history. This was my sister's last wish.

My worst fears were realized when I received a letter from Barry, now age 18. It seems that he dug around and found out his birth mother's hometown. He then went there, began asking questions and located some and even introduced him to one of his hounded me with phone calls, insisting for at least an hour. that I must know who his father is.

Finally I told Barry to leave me wishes of his mother's family by digging into the past.

Ann, please keep telling adopted persons to be grateful for what they have and not poke around looking for their "real family." They of course are hoping that the family they dig up will be rich and beautiful, eager to open their hearts and their homes to them. This is what happens when you watch too much TV .-- No Name, No State and Mailed While on Vacation

DEAR NO NAME, NO STATE: Your letter underscores the message I've been trying to get across for years--such family reunions are often very painful. Thanks for saying it far better

The Mardi Gras celebration goes back to an ancient Roman custom of merrymaking before a period of fast. In Germany, it's called Fastnacht and in England it's Pancake Day.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am in my early 40s. My husband and I have been married 23 years. We live within a mile of his mother.

The woman is a widow in her early 70s. She has no other children. As far as I know, she has never held a job nor does she have any interests or hobbies. She spends all her time at home or goes to visit her only friend.

Here's my problem: For the last 23 years, my husband has gone to his mother's house twice a day. Every Monday through Friday after breakfast, he stops at her place for a cup of tea distant cousins. They took him all over before going to work. In the evening, he stops again on his way home. mother's old high school teachers. He Saturdays and Sundays, he visits her

For 23 years, I've kept quiet about this although it has always bothered alone and that he had gone against the me and I have a hard time understanding it. I recently told him it's time he cut the apron strings and grew up. He became very defensive and announced that he was going to tell his mother how I felt.

Now both my husband and my mother-in-law are mad at me and I don't think I've done anything wrong. Actually, I should get a medal for putting up with this all these years.

What are your thoughts, Ann? I wonder how many other wives would tolerate this sort of thing .-- Frustrated in San Bernardino, Calif.

DEAR SAN BERNARDINO: After 23 years, it's a bit late to register a complaint about your husband's extraordinary attachment to his mother. Actually it's rather sweet that he is such an attentive son and since you have not been neglected or ignored, I see no reason to make an issue of it. You are justified, however, in being darned annoyed with your husband for telling his mother that you complained. It was an act of gross disloyalty for which he owes you an apology.

Pistons use experience to overcome

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) -The Detroit Pistons are hoping their experience will replace the skills they may have lost over the last couple seasons.

The Washington Bullets came into the Palace on Monday night with a five-game losing streak, but they used their youthful quickness to lead by as many as 15 points en route to a 54-45 halftime lead.

But in the second half, the Pistons point. used their experience, defense and Orlando Woolridge's hot hand to take a 99-89 victory.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Your column touched home. My husband collapsed in the garden, a mile away, and somehow made it home. I got the ambulance, and he went to the local hospital. They guessed it was a ruptured aorta and could do nothing for him.

He was transported by air ambulance to the university medical center. They did everything they could to save him. Later that night they took him to surgery. The aneurysm was much worse than they expected. All they could do was make him comfortable and he passed away in the early morning.

His rupture was so bad, his bowels and all his vital organs had shut down before they had taken him from the first hospital.

He was 68 years old and my beautiful husband for 45 years. I was devastated. He was a World War II hero, a wonderful husband, father and grandfather. He had a history of high blood pressure for many years. The doctors gave him medicine, but not once did they suggest an ultrasound test. I didn't know anything about this type of test until I read about it in an article in a magazine.

I keep thinking an ultrasound test could have saved his life. He was never sick and just enjoyed life. Please send me your Special Issue 36-08. Obstructed Leg Arteries and Aortic Aneurysms. It's too late for him, but maybe it will help someone I know, like my brothers and sons-in-law.

DEAR READER: It is always a shock when an apparently healthy loved one has a sudden fatal illness, and I know how you feel. Aneurysms are usually silent and may be discovered with a medical examination or they may not. There are two kinds of aneurysms of the aorta. One is caused by a weakened wall of the aorta that balloons out and finally ruptures. The other involves a sudden tear in the wall of the aorta that allows blood to get inside the wall itself and splits its layers apart, called a dissecting aneurysm.

The ballooning aneurysm of the abdomen may be felt on physical examination if it is large enough, and the abdomen is not too large. Otherwise it may be seen with an ultrasound test or a CAT scan or any test that visualizes the aorta. When there is calcium in the wall of the aneurysm, it may be seen with a plain X-

But you cannot see the possibility of a future tear that causes a dissecting aneurysm with any of these techniques. I suspect from your story that your husband had a dissecting aneurysm that obstructed the origin of the arteries to his abdominal organs as the dissection progressed. All the arteries to the trunk, including the heart, and even to the head, originate from the large aorta that receives blood from the heart.

I am sending you a free copy of the special issue on this subject as you requested. Others who want this special issue can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/36-08, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. I do think a routine examination of the abdomen to visualize the aorta in older individuals is important.

Also, measures to prevent heart attacks, such as controlling blood pressure and cholesterol levels and not smoking, help prevent fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries that lead to aneurysms and obstructed leg arteries as well. Your husband's weakness was most likely his high blood pressure. Controlling blood pressure is important in preventing fatty-cholesterol deposits in all arteries and in preventing aneurysms, strokes and heart attacks.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

the differ-What is ence in sending a Valentine's Card or simply saying, "I love you"? The spoken word has little staying power. With Valentine's Day only coming once a year, a few words is not enough to last. The card, however, is something you can hold on to, refer back to, carry with you, read again and again, save in your scrapbook forever.

The card is a lasting record and a part of your personal history. The same can be said when comparing radio to newspaper. Notice which one can be held, referred back to, carried on shopping trips, and found in libraries for generation after generation.

Newspaper vs. Radio · Radio copy depends on word imagery and it is limited to 30 or 60 seconds, not enough time for complex issues. • Average recall for a 1/2 page newspaper ad is 32%; for a 1/4 page ad, it's 31%. Radio ad recall is only 4%.

· Once a commercial is aired, it is gone. There is absolutely no tangible evidence it existed. For those listeners not tuned in at that specific time, the commercial is lost.

· Radio is an entertainment medium. People listen for musical enjoyment (passive experience). · Newspapers are an information medium. People read to seek data and learn (active experience). Newspapers are the only medium that allow shoppers to compare values offered by competitive advertisers. • 77% of all newspaper readers look at every page. No audience can actively listen to the radio 77% of the time (Audits and Survey, Inc.).

 44% of newspaper readers look forward to ads, compared to 10% for radio (Audits and Survey, Inc.).

Is your child gifted?

Every child has unique strengths, talents and potential. By knowing how to nurture them, parents can help their children by happier and more successful in school an din life.

There are a number of things parents can do to help their children fulfill their potential:

*Create opportunities for your child to pursue special interests outside of school. Design a den or a shop area in the garage or basement; help with finding materials; search for places to go, projects to do or other people or groups interested in the same topics.

*Observe your child. See if she or he learns best in brighter or dimmer light; with or without music, snacks, company, etc. and then proved the proper atmosphere for your child's individual learning

*Don't coerce a child into working in something he or she doesn't want to do. There's no quicker way to turn a child away for learning for life.

Keeping these ideas in mend, as well as the other good advice in he book, can help you help your youngsters to reach their full potential in whatever sphere their giftedness

Make tax time less taxing

Millions of Americans may be able to save time and money on their taxes-and get peace of mind-with the help of special computer software that can make tax preparation much less

Some 61 percent of all taxpayers are concerned about not getting the deduction they're entitled to and 54 percent of those who do their own taxes report making mistakes o their returns, according to a national survey sponsored by ChipSoft, maker of Turbo Tax, the nation's leading tax preparation software.

That software was used to file over six million tax returns last year. It guides you through the tax preparation process, helps you get every possible deduction, and makes sure you don't miss questions or overlook items, thanks to a special checking
