Future Farmers of America, Standlee is the son of Ed and Rena Standlee.

Taking reserve honors in the 4-county was Aaron Weatherley of Friona 4-H with a champion of breed Cross. He is the son of Randy and Wessie Weatherley.

The top county trophy went to Robbie Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Phillips. His champion heavy weight Poland was exhibited through the Hereford FFA.

County reserve championship went to Matt Schilling, also in FFA, with a 4-county reserve breed champ and county breed champ Cross. He is the son of Edward and Junell Schilling.

Four-county and county placings in the hog show are as follows.

Economy showing signs of recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a new sign of recovery, the government said today its main economic forecasting gauge jumped 1.5 percent in December, the eighth gain in the last nine months and the biggest increase in more than two years.

The Commerce Department reported the increase in its Index of Leading Economic Indicators, a compilation of 10 separate statistics, including forward-pointing information concerning unemployment, production, prices and business conditions in general.

Meanwhile, the report said an accompanying Index of Coincident Indicators — designed to measure current conditions — dipped 0.1 percent in December, indicating that the long recession may well have been continuing, though at a slow pace.

In the past, gains in the leading indicators have foreshadowed recovery for the economy as a whole, though recovery usually arrived sooner than nine months after the indicators turned up. Index gains prior to past recoveries also were bigger than most recent increases, indicating to many analysts that the economy's 1983 rebound will be only moderate.

The December gain was the biggest since the 2.8 percent in September 1980 as the economy was pulling out of that year's steep but short recession. Such gains of 2 percent or more have been common at the start of previous recoveries.

In contrast, the index rose just 0.2 percent in November of last year — revised December gain was the biggest since the 2.8 percent in September 1980 as the economy was pulling out of that year's steep but short recession. Such gains of 2 percent or more have been common at the start of previous recoveries.

Since the performance of several index components was announced earlier this month, it had been widely assumed the leading indicators would be up for December. President Reagan reinforced that assumption when he told reporters Thursday night they could expect "some good news" when the report was released today.

In December, the report said, six of the 10 available leading indicators showed improvement, led by a gain in new orders for plants and equipment and a drop in initial claims for unemployment benefits — an indication that layoffs were slowing.

Also showing improvement in December were the nation's money supply, building permits for future house construction, stock prices and orders for new consumer goods and materials.

Three indicators gave negative economic signals in December: total business liquid assets, prices of sensitive raw materials and speed of deliveries. There was no change in the average workweek.

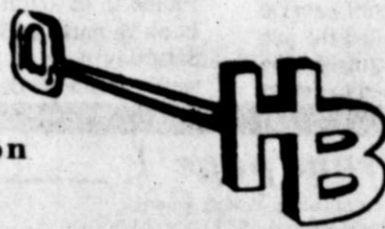

More and more in recent days, private economists and administration officials have been saying that at least modest recovery is probably

In state of state speech

White calls for teacher pay hike, PUC election

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White, in his first speech to the Legislature, urged passage of a hefty pay raise for schoolteachers and changes in the agency that sets utility rates — two of his campaign promises.

"I believe last November's election echoed the voice of the people quite clearly in the area of utility regulation," White told a joint session in his "state of the state" speech Thursday.

He asked the 181 members of the House and Senate to give schoolteachers a 24 percent "catch-up" pay raise over the next two years and to allow election, rather than appointment, of the members of the Public Utility Commission.

"I endorse the Texas Education Agency proposal for a 24 percent increase as a starting point for our consideration," White said. "How can we ever become the state of the future when Texas ranks 28th out of 50 states on the national teacher salary scale?"

His legislative package also called for tax credits to businesses that hire the unemployed, low-interest loans up to $20,000 for military veterans to use as house down payments, re-financing the state's depleted crime victims' compensation fund, adding more narcotics detectives, and increasing penalties for drunken driving.

White said his goals should not require any new taxes.

"Our task is not to decide where to cut. Our task is to decide wisely where to spend," the new Democratic governor said.

White also took a swipe at President Reagan's "disastrous economic policies" in announcing a Texas task force on unemployment.

The Democratic-dominated Legislature interrupted his 27-minute speech 12 times with hand-clapping, including a burst of applause when he listed as his first recommendation "a catch-up pay raise for our schoolteachers."

"I will set teacher salaries as an emergency item," White said. "How can we entrust the education and training of our children and grandchildren to people we treat like second-class citizens?"

At present, schoolteachers earn $11,110 to $19,260 in Texas, depending on length of service. Those figures do not include extra money paid by some districts, especially wealthy ones.

Lawmakers also applauded when White called for abolishment of the present system that gives the governor power to appoint members of the PUC, the three-member panel that sets electric, water and phone rates.

"A regulatory body's primary function is to serve as a watchdog over monopolies, not to serve as a captive handmaiden of those same monopolies," White said. He said Texans have lost faith that the utility bills they pay "are fairly set and impartially considered."

Under his proposal, the commission's three members would be elected to six-year terms. Three separate bills calling for an elected utility commission already have been introduced in the Texas Senate.

White also recommended hiring an independent lawyer to oversee the utility commission and serve as a consumer advocate, and said the Legislature should abolish the fuel adjustment pass-through charge on utility bills.

Turning to the plight of the jobless, he said there was a "crisis" in the state's unemployment compensation trust fund, which is more than $200 million in debt to the federal government and sinking deeper at the rate of $100 million a month.

"We see a national administration continuing to insist on disastrous economic

Network for monitoring earthquakes slated here

COLUMBUS, Ohio — An earthquake monitoring network will be installed during the next two months in the Palo Duro Basin by the U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) as part of continuing studies of the Texas Panhandle for a possible site for a high-level nuclear waste repository.

DOE is studying bedded salt in the Texas Panhandle and southeastern Utah, salt domes in Louisiana and Mississippi, basalt at the DOE Hanford Site near Richland, WA, and tuff at the Nevada Test site as possible sites for the nation's first repository, which is expected to be in operation by 1998. Similar earthquake networks have been in operation in Utah, Washington, and Nevada for several years, and are planned for both Louisiana and Mississippi. Seismicity is one of the factors considered in evaluating the suitability of potential repository sites.

The network will consist of 16 seismometers (devices that sense earth movements), which will be installed at locations throughout the Palo Duro Basin from northeast of Amarillo to southwest of Tulia. Earthquake movements registering 1.5 or above on the Richter scale will be recorded by the seismometers (only magnitudes above 4 are commonly felt by people). The seismometer will be installed below the surface and will occupy an area of about 24 square feet. The network of seismometers will be linked by telemetry to a central station located at Amarillo, where data will be recorded. The system will be in full operation by mid-July.

The purpose of installing an earthquake monitoring network is to obtain additional information about seismicity (earth movements) in the basin and to aid in predicting the maximum credible earthquake that might occur. Currently, data from the Panhandle are sparse and are known principally from personal accounts, although the area is considered to be one of low earthquake activity.

The 16 seismic stations are being installed on land to which previous access has been obtained or on federal or state land. The network will remain in operation and continue to provide information as long as the Panhandle study areas remain under consideration as potential repository sites.

E. T. 'goes home;' actor dies Thursday

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Michael Patrick Bilon, a leader of the Little People of America and the actor who played the outer-space character "E.T." during most of the hit film, has died at the age of 35.

"Anybody who was ever around Pat Bilon for 10 minutes was a friend. He was one of our favorite people around here," said Fred Skidmore, a spokesman for Universal Studios in Los Angeles.

A midget who was 2 feet 10 inches tall and weighed 45 pounds, Bilon was admitted to St. Elizabeth Hospital Medical Center in Youngstown on Wednesday afternoon. He died shortly after 1 a.m. Thursday of complications from pneumonia, hospital officials said.

Bilon's father and agent, Michael C. Bilon, said his son had been negotiating to act in a sequel to the box office smash, "E.T. The Extraterrestrial," whose earnings last week hit $194 million, making it the biggest money-making movie of all time, surpassing "Star Wars," the previous record-holder.

After the film's release, there was some confusion about who played the role. Skidmore said Bilon was assisted by a young boy for some scenes and by a female midget for others.

"Pat did do the majority of the movie," Skidmore said. "He was also E.T. when E.T. appeared at the Hollywood Bowl last summer."

Bilon had acted in several films, including "Under the Rainbow" starring Chevy Chase and Carrie Fisher. Bilon's role in the film was created for him and he was the smallest member of the cast, which included many midgets.

He also served as District 5 director of the Little People of America and got his break in "Under the Rainbow" through Billy Barty, a well-known midget actor and head of Little People, a group opposed to discrimination based on height.

Besides acting, Bilon had worked in Mahoning County Sheriff's department as a dispatcher and had performed undercover assignments. "I will not be noticed hiding behind a bush," he once said.

LTV reports $98 million loss

DALLAS (AP) — LTV Corp. officials blame a continuing decline in steel and energy product sales for a $98 million loss in the fourth quarter of 1982, a showing that increased LTV's 1982 loss to $154 million.

"LTV's results for the quarter and full year are directly attributable to the weak economy that depressed traditional steel markets through the year, and the year-long decline in oil and gas drilling," said chairman and chief executive officer Raymond A. Hay.

The company's steel facilities operated at only 41 percent of capacity during the quarter, and shipments of steel products dropped by 31 percent, Hay added.

"The number of drilling rigs operating during the fourth quarter was 1,900 fewer than a year ago," Hay said. "As a result of this 43 percent decline, the company's sales of drilling equipment, tubular products, and other oil field supplies declined substantially from a year over."

The loss last quarter compares with a net income of $116 million in the fourth quarter of 1981 and net income for all of 1981 of $386 million.

Sales declined to $907 million for the past quarter, down 48 percent from the previous year. For a 12-month period, sales were $4.8 billion, almost $2.3 billion less than 1981 sales.

However, operating income from LTV's aerospace-defense business rose to $12.1 million in the fourth quarter, compared with $5.4 million a year earlier.

Jury selection completed

HOUSTON (AP) — Attorneys have finished selecting the federal jury that will try a former CIA agent on charges he conspired to smuggle explosives to Libya, a defense lawyer says.

Herald Fahringer, chief counsel for Edwin Wilson, said two alternate panelists were added Thursday evening to the five men and seven women jurors already chosen.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling told jurors to return at 9:30 a.m. today.

Fahringer said he expected attorneys would present opening statements, but said they had "other things to take care of" first. He said he could not elaborate.

Wilson, 54, faces charges that he conspired to illegally ship 42,470 pounds of the plastic explosive C-4 from Houston to Libya in unmarked cans in October 1977.

Selection of jurors from the pool of 60 was held behind closed doors.

Twelve people were seated on the jury Thursday morning, but Sterling said he wanted to have two alternates. A second jury pool was summoned and the alternates selected.

Two other men, Edward Bloom, 74, of Pomona, Calif., and Donald Thresher, 41, of Houston, also are charged in the shipment of explosives from Houston. Sterling has granted them trials separate from Wilson.

If convicted, Wilson and Bloom could be sentenced to 17 years in prison and fines of $145,000. Thresher could receive a prison sentence of 22 years and a $155,000 fine.

President's bar stop disrupts FBI stakeout

BOSTON (AP) — When President Reagan swung off his planned course in Boston to have a quick beer at a local pub, he unwittingly broke up an FBI stakeout, the Boston Globe reported Friday.

Six undercover FBI agents, all armed, were waiting Wednesday inside the pub for a suspect to arrive and were unaware of the president's pending visit, the newspaper said, quoting federal sources who asked not to be named.

The FBI agents had spent several weeks on the case and visited the pub regularly in various disguises, the newspaper said. They hoped to arrest the suspect Wednesday, according to the Globe.

Minutes before the president's arrival, the FBI agents watched in astonishment as a carload of Secret Service agents from the Boston office came through the doors.

The FBI agent asked them what they were doing there, and a Secret Service agent returned the question.

Seconds later, the heavily armed FBI contingent abandoned the stakeout and hurried out the door as the presidential motorcade approached.

Home found for lion

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — The Central Texas Zoo in Waco, Texas, will provide a new home for a female mountain lion captured after it wandered into Carlsbad Jan. 2.

Jesse Williams, chief of public affairs for the state Game and Fish Department, said Thursday the young lion was leaving for Texas today.

The department has been trying to find a home for the big cat since she was discovered in a backyard storage shed at the home of Robert Menasco in Carlsbad. The lion has been temporarily housed at the Living Desert State Park since her capture.

The 2-year-old lion weighs about 95 pounds and apparently is healthy, Williams said.

Several zoos in the Southwest wanted her, but did not have the facilities.

Department biologists said they did not know why a healthy lion came out of the wilds into the city. But it was decided she should not be returned to the wilds because of the possibility of her returning to town.

Stars, inmate crews work to clear storm's devastation

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — Actor Bruce Dern, his bearded head hanging after the year's fiercest Pacific storm, sloshed a broom at a pool of muddy seawater in a small back room of the seaside home he bought 12 years ago for $2.7 million.

"It was about 7 or so this morning," said Dern, clad in a red rubber suit and boots. "It was just one big wave that washed straight through the house."

The house belonging to Dern, whose film credits include "Coming Home" and "That Championship Season," was among 30 in the private, heavily guarded Malibu Colony that were engulfed Thursday by surging Pacific Ocean waves that tossed patio furniture, logs and front porches through the multimillion-dollar beachfront homes.

"I'd just walked out of the teahouse, when I heard a big crash," he said.

The giant wave, bred by a high tide and a brutal storm, collapsed the teahouse that juts toward the ocean, ripped through windows and walls at the front of the house and poured into the garage-lined street in back.

A home owned by actor Burgess Meredith, the coach in the "Rocky" movies, also was among the most heavily damaged at the exclusive development. Actress Dyan Cannon held up her arms and shrugged as she stared at the thick debris floating atop her swimming pool.

Television star Michael Landon made out better than many: there was little structural damage at his seafront home in Malibu Canyon, and a crew from "Little House on the Prairie" showed up with a truckload of plywood to cover ocean-facing windows.

Booming waves crashed over the front wall about 7 a.m. "and turned my swimming pool into a mud pie," Landon said.

The damage didn't stop at the beach.

policies which have kept unemployment levels high and yet have not pulled the nation out of a deep recession," White complained.

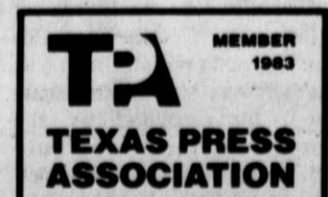

He announced a task force on unemployment and said he wanted it to propose a way to give tax advantages to businesses that hire the unemployed, bail out the state's unemployment trust fund, create new jobs in Texas and recommend changes in schools so they will produce "students with skills that are marketable."

Saying farmers need more than "lip service" from their government, White urged lawmakers to come up with a plan to ensure fresh water for the future. He also called for more agricultural research at state universities.

Without getting more specific, he called for lawmakers to "modernize and maintain" the state's highways, and said "we must find ways to deal with traffic congestion in our cities."

White asked for an unspecified increase in the number of narcotics agents, saying the entire state had only 169 at present.

Students revive Miss WTSU contest

After a five-year absence, Miss West Texas State University has returned.

Discontinued in 1979 because of the lack of funds and interest among women students, the Miss WTSU contest is being revived this year by the WTSU Student Senate.

This year's contest is affiliated with the Miss Texas and Miss USA pageants. Emphasis in judging will be placed upon poise, beauty and personality. The former Miss WTSU contest winner competed in the Miss America contest where talent also is included in the competition, said Tom Brown, Euless junior management major and is president of the student senate.

The student senate decided to revise the contest to provide the university with a "public relations figure," said Patty Scott, Fritch senior marketing major who serves as a student senator.

Women interested in entering the contest must have a sponsor. A $300 sponsorship fee is required to help pay for the contest. Student organizations wishing to sponsor a contestant but unable to afford the fee may sell pageant and barbecue tickets, receiving a $2 credit for each ticket sold. Credit will be applied to the sponsorship fee. The senate also will help women wishing to enter obtain sponsors.

Brown said he expects about 20 women to enter by the Friday, Feb. 4, deadline. The contestants will be introduced during the Miss WTSU barbecue on Thursday, Feb. 10. Tickets are $5 for an "all-you-can-eat" barbecue dinner catered by Sutphen's Barbecue of Amarillo at the WTSU Student Union Building.

Miss WTSU will be selected and crowned during the contest on Friday, Feb. 25, in Mary Moody Northern Hall.

Tickets are $2.

Miss WTSU will receive full tuition, room and board, a full book scholarship, a six-month membership at Olympix USA in Amarillo and $25 gift certificate to Kline's women's wear store in Amarillo and second runners-up will receive a $250 scholarship and $50 book scholarship.

Applications are available from the student government office in the Activities Center, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. each weekday.

Accepting Donations

Wilma Townsend, right, Heart Ball chairman, accepts two paintings which are being donated to the American Heart Association as door prizes for this year's Heart Ball. The annual event is scheduled at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Hereford Country Club. Jean Lyles shows the painting she is donating and Ms. Townsend holds the work donated by Gary Hammett.

Heart Ball scheduled tomorrow

The American Heart Association's annual "Heart Ball" will begin at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Country Club with music by Elston Clark and a five-piece band from Dalhart and Cal Garrett of Hereford.

Proceeds from the annual dinner-dance go toward research and local CPR instruction by the American Heart Association.

For more information, contact Wilma Townsend, chairman of the ball committee.

New Arrivals

Eric and Chris Alexander of Hereford are the parents of a son, David Jonathan, born Jan. 26 at Amarillo Mid-Wives Association Center. He weighed 9 lbs. 2 oz.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lyons and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alexander, all of Hereford.

When female elephants fight, it is said, they usually try to bite off each other's tail.

Military Muster

Air National Guard Airman Margo L. Davis, daughter of Bob D. Davis of 920 S. Bowie, Amarillo, and M. Naomi Warwick of 204 Centre, Hereford, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the administration field. She is a 1978 graduate of Hereford High School.

Army Pvt. Pedro S. Macias, son of Lucia S. and Juan L. Macias of 610 Union, Hereford, has completed basic training at Fort McClellan, Ala. He is a 1982 graduate of Hereford High School.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Navy Operations Specialist Seaman Curtis L. Butler, son of Charles F. and Joanne M. Butler of 7710 Shady Hollow, San Antonio, has returned from a deployment to the Western Pacific.

He is a crewmember aboard the frigate USS Davidson, homeported in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

During the six-month deployment, the ship participated in several 7th Fleet training exercises. Port visits were made to Hong Kong, the Philippines, Thailand and Japan.

Ann Landers

Woman wants to sue

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A man I have been going with for two years - someone I thought was totally faithful - has given me genital herpes.

This man knew darned well he had the disease and that he was in an infectious stage when we had sex. I am so furious my hands are shaking as I write this letter. Can I sue the scoundrel? Has anyone ever won such a suit? Please advise. - Betrayed In Missouri

DEAR B.: A precedent? Yes, but the only case I know of has not yet been resolved to my knowledge.

A 24-year-old woman in Fort Lauderdale sued a sex partner for $100,000 when he gave her herpes after declaring himself disease-free. The woman's attorney said she my have consented to sexual intercourse, but she did not consent to catching herpes. Stay tuned. If I hear more I'll let you know.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have been married 52 years, which is something of a miracle. She was my second choice. I was her third. We were never crazy-in-love with each other, but we got along well enough to raise six good kids and stay out of the divorce courts.

The problem is my wife. She has been complaining for the last two years that she hasn't slept at all. You know,

Ann Landers, a person can't live without sleep. Besides, she snores like a tranquilized elk the minute her head hits the pillow. I can hear her through the wall in the next room. Every morning she says, "I didn't sleep a wink last night." This really makes me mad. Please say something. - Argument In Miami

DEAR ARG.: Older people often experience patterns of disturbed sleep. They awaken several times during the night, which makes it seem as though they haven't slept at all. Stop arguing. You will only make your wife angrier and more defensive. We both know that people don't snore when they are awake.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I still can't get over the awful advice you gave to "Dog-Gone in Lexington." Why should a woman stay with a husband who chooses the dog over her? If my wife made a decision like that, I'd leave her so fast my heels would smoke.

I am baffled by American's attitude toward pets. Their dogs can injure children, bark all night, do their business on other people's lawns and they couldn't care less.

Our neighbor's dog does all of the above. When we ask that they remedy the situation, they look at us as if we are crazy and call us "lousy neighbors."

I realize none of this is the dog's fault, but my patience is wearing thin. Soon I may be forced to take matters into my own hands. So, here is fair warning. Somebody might lose a pet one of these days. - No Name, No Address And

No Foolin'

DEAR N.N.: I wish to remind you that what you are suggesting carries a severe penalty. A dog that barks all night is disturbing the peace. There is a law against it. Call the police.

Instead of a metal roasting rack, place meat or poultry on a base of criss-crossed carrots and celery sticks. Makes for flavorful pan drippings.

Super Bowl a 4-H convention?

ROSE BOWL · PASADENA, CALIFORNIA · JANUARY 30, 1983

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Killer Bees."

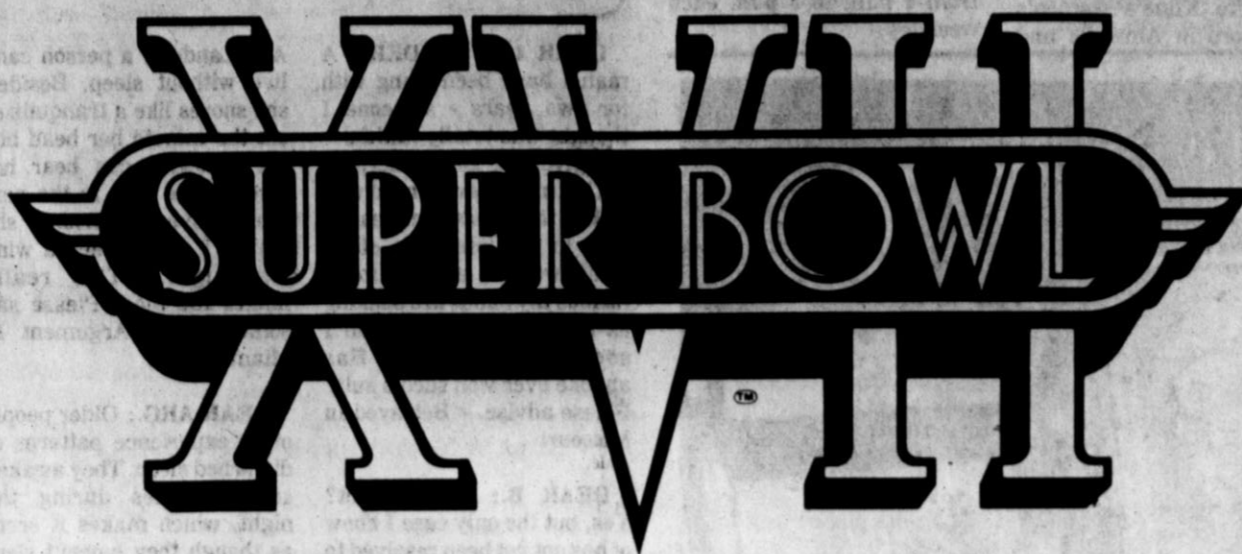

"Hogs."
"Smurfs."
"Mushrooms."
Super Bowl XVII on Sunday is beginning to sound more like a 4-H convention or a trip to Disneyland than the pro football championship of the entire world and environs. Nicknames have been a part of this madcap culture for years — let's not forget Minnesota's "Purple People Eaters," "Denver's "Orange Crush," Miami's "No Names Defense" and Pittsburgh's "Steel Curtain — but this bash between the Washington Redskins and Miami Dolphins is getting ridiculous.

Reading about the event in the newspapers makes you either hungry, scared, or both and it wants you to turn off the TV set until the children are home Saturday morning.

One of the main features of the forthcoming battle in the Rose Bowl is the faceoff between the Dolphins' "Killer Bees" and Washington's "Hogs."

The "Killer Bees" are Miami's defense, the best in the National Football League, so named because they've got a bunch of guys whose names begin with the letter "B" and they go around stinging people who try to get through their swarming barrier.

The New York Jets tried it last Sunday in Miami and came away smarting, their league-leading rusher, Freeman McNeil, and scrambling passer, Richard Todd, shut down cold.

The score: Miami 14, New York 0.

But the "Killer Bees" haven't run into anything as worrisome as the "Hogs," who happen to be Washington's offensive line, a very exclusive club proud of its blocking ability.

No matter how much they buzz — Kim Bokamper, Bob Brudzinski, Bob Baumhower and the hilarious Blackwood brothers from Texas, Lyle and Glenn —, the "Hogs" insist they're going to give their scrambling quarterback, Joe Theismann, and bulldozing runner, John Riggins, plenty of room to operate.

The head "Hog" is George Starke, a towering 250-pound tackle, 34 years old, who is the only Redskin who was around when Miami beat George Allen's Redskin team here 14-7 exactly 10 years ago.

A few bona fide members of the "Hogs" are Joe Jacoby, Russ Grimm and Jeff Bostic. They run from 6-2 to 6-7 and from 252 pounds to 290. Not just pork chops.

The Dolphin offensive line is called the "Mushrooms," a name borrowed from one of Miami's earlier and less successful eras.

"We call them mushrooms because they are low and always have their head in the dirt," said a Miami team member who declined to be identified lest it endanger his life.

Then there are the "Smurfs," so named because they look so much like the cute little elves in funny hats you see running around on TV screens on Saturday mornings.

They represent the Redskins' pass-catching corps, the targets of Theismann's darts. They have been sensational in the playoffs.

All the "Smurfs" are implausible looking football players. All they can do is run like the wind and catch anything that flies.

All this nickname tomfoolery has its assets. It proves that players on both sides are loose and putting a little fun in their work.

Sooners trip OSU, 81-80

Tar Heels edge Deacons

By The Associated Press

Matt Doherty is still trying to live down the haunting image of last year's NCAA Final Four, when North Carolina won college basketball's national championship despite his missed free throws.

He thinks he might have taken a step in that direction Thursday night.

Doherty sank two free throws with three seconds left to give the third-ranked Tar Heels an 80-78 victory over 19th-ranked Wake Forest in an Atlantic Coast Conference game.

The pressure shots came in stark contrast to the troubles he had last March in New Orleans when the Tar Heels escaped with a 63-62 victory over Georgetown in the championship final despite Doherty's missed chance on the front end of a one-and-one late in the game.

"I hit some big foul shots my first two years, but people probably remember me more for my miss against Georgetown," Doherty said. "It hit some more like these, maybe people will forget it."

With a minute remaining and the score tied 78-78, Wake Forest held the ball for a final shot. Guard Danny Young drove the lane and was rejected by North Carolina center Brad Daugherty with eight seconds left. Doherty wound up with the ball, drove the length of the court and was fouled by Alvis Rogers to set up the winning free throws. A three-pointer by Young at the buzzer bounced off the rim.

Two other ranked teams were upset. Ohio State defeated No. 14 Iowa 89-83 in double overtime, and Oklahoma edged 20th-ranked Oklahoma State 81-80. No. 17 Illinois State defeated Southern Illinois 69-63.

Sam Perkins paced the Tar Heels to their 13th straight victory and a 16-3 record with 24 points. Michael Jordan added 17 and Daugherty had 14. John Toms had 17 for the Deamon Deacons, 13-3, who led 74-69 late in the game. North Carolina is 5-0 in the ACC, while Wake dropped to 4-1.

Second Ten

Troy Taylor sank six free throws in the final minute of the second overtime to help Ohio State overcome an 83-80 Iowa lead and hand the Hawkeyes their third Big Ten Conference loss in six games. Iowa, 12-4 overall, committed three turnovers in that final minute.

Granville Waiters scored 21 points for Ohio State, 12-4 and 4-2 in the conference, while Greg Stokes led the Hawkeyes with 24. Regulation ended in a 68-68 tie, and the first overtime ended with a 76-76 tie.

Freshman Wayman Tisdale and senior David Little scored 22 points apiece, and Oklahoma short-circuited an Oklahoma State rally to win the 157th renewal of the cross-state "Bedlam Series" in the Big Eight Conference. Oklahoma led 81-76 with 15 seconds left before Bill Self hit two baskets. Oklahoma now is 15-4 and 2-1 in the conference.

Leroy Combs had 25 points for Oklahoma State, which fell to 13-3 and 1-2 in the league.

Rick Lamb scored 19 points for Illinois State, which led 59-43 with 9:42 left before surviving a 14-3 spurt by Southern Illinois in a Missouri Valley Conference game. Hank Cornley added 14 points for Illinois State, 15-1 and 7-0 in the MVC. Karl Morris scored 17 points for SIU.

Unranked In a pair of Big Ten games, Jim Bullock hit two baskets in the third overtime as Purdue defeated Michigan 80-77, and Derek Harper scored 17 of his 25 points in the second half to help Illinois beat Michigan State 78-71.

Ricky Ross had 29 points to lead Tulsa over West Texas State 95-57 in the MVC, and Texas-El Paso defeated Brigham Young 65-49 behind the 12 points of Dave Feitel in the Western Athletic Conference.

In a Pacific 10 Conference contest, Charlie Sitton scored 23 points and A.C. Green had 20 to lead Oregon State over Arizona State, 68-59.

Lemons to take OCU job?

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Abe Lemons, former University of Texas basketball coach, says he's ready to return to Oklahoma City University — provided that Texas buys out the remainder of his contract.

Lemons was fired at the end of last season by Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds, but the university chose to keep him on the payroll rather than buying out his contract, which pays him $56,639 a year.

The agreement, which runs through Aug. 31, is the major stumbling block to Lemons returning to OCU, where he coached before accepting a job at Pan American and then Texas, he said.

Should he accept another job before the contract runs out, the University of Texas checks would stop.

"All I want to do is get this year's salary to September," Lemons said in a public affairs program aired on KTBC-TV.

Lemons will qualify for state pension benefits from the state of Texas on March 1, when he will have put in 10 years of service as a state employee. That figured in his decision not to seek a coaching job elsewhere this past season, he said.

Lemons has been linked recently with coaching jobs at both OCU and at Oral Roberts University. He said he has talked with OCU president Dr. Jerald Walker, but has "not totally" agreed on any terms and is "working out a couple of things."

He will go somewhere next September, he said.

When Lemon leaves, he will wish all his friends good luck, he said.

"But all of those others, and they know who they are, all I can say is that I hope they notice the mistletoe tied to my coatails as I leave town," he said.

Elder one stroke back

4 share Phoenix lead

PHOENIX (AP) — The four players sharing the first round lead in the $350,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament pointed to four different reasons for their success.

Leonard Thompson credited a cocktail-party tip from old friend Arnold Palmer.

Ed Sneed benefited from a short game played from some "unbelievable" places.

Hal Sutton talked about a new set of irons.

And Jack Renner pointed to the calendar. All managed 6-under-par 65s Thursday on the 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club course and were one stroke in front of veteran Lee Elder.

Tied at 4-under 67s were Johnny Miller, Cal Peete, J.C. Snead and Scott Hoch.

Defending champion Lanny Wadkins topped a big group at 68. Masters champ Craig Stadler and Keith Fergus, a winner last week in the Bob Hope Classic, each shot 73 and must improve today if they are to qualify for the final 36 holes.

Thompson said Palmer, who is not playing here, took him aside at a cocktail party last week and pointed out a "couple of things I was doing wrong." He said he was lining up to the right and "not getting far enough behind the ball."

Thompson's round included four birdies on his last five holes.

"I'm hitting the ball more solid now, and, obviously a lot straighter," he said.

Although he dropped a couple of 20-foot birdie putts, Renner said he is "not comfortable with the putter. I have been lacking confidence, and the only way you can get confidence is to make some. This helps a lot."

Renner also noted he had off-years in 1980 and 1982 while enjoying success in 1979 and 1981. He said that should put on schedule for a good season this year.

Sutton, who took one title and set a money-winning record for a rookie last season, has brought a new set of irons into play this year.

"It's taken a week or two to get used to them," he said. "I'm starting to hit them pretty well now."

While Sutton and Renner had extremely solid efforts, Sneed flirted with disaster on numerous occasions "but I just holed it from places that were unbelievable," he said.

He chipped in twice, once from about 30 yards and once from about 15, turning a couple of potential bogeys into birdies. He made three putts of about 15 feet, one to save bogey and one by accident when, he said, "I was just trying to lag it up and it fell in."

In Millrose Games

World records in sight

NEW YORK (AP) — Eamonn Coghlan and Mary Decker Tabb, both having returned to track and field competition after being sidelined with injuries during 1982, have injected renewed excitement into the men's and women's miles.

And tonight, in the 76th Wanamaker Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden, both will be trying to break their world indoor bests.

Coghlan, out virtually all last year with a stress fracture of the right leg and Achilles' tendinitis, will face a field of six in the famed Wanamaker Mile, which he has won four times in four tries — in 1977, 1979, 1980 and 1981. His opposition will include Thomas Wessinghage of West Germany, John Gregorek, Todd Harbour, Marcus O'Sullivan, Chuck Aragon and Mark Fricker.

Tabb, chosen The Associated Press' Female Athlete of the Year for 1982, broke the women's world indoor best in the mile three times last year and set world outdoor records in the mile, 5,000 meters and 10,000 meters, before suffering Achilles' tendinitis in July.

In the Avon Mile in the Millrose Games, she will meet Francie Larriue Smith, Jan Merrill, Cindy Bremser, Wendy Smith Sly of Britain, Sue Addison, Darlene Beckford, Josephine White and Angelita Lind of Puerto Rico.

Coghlan, who set the world indoor best of 3 minutes, 50.6 seconds at San Diego in 1981, has run twice this year and won both races, including an impressive 3:55.4 mile last Friday night at Los Angeles.

"I just feel I'm getting stronger and stronger," he said, adding that he felt confident about breaking his meet record of 3:53.0 set in 1981, but had reservations about shattering his world indoor best. There has been some criticism of the strength of the field because of the absence of such milers as Steve Scott, John Walker, Sydney Maree and Tom Byers. But Coghlan defended it, saying, "The key, classy names might be left out, but for fastest times, it is the best field ever put together."

Harbour has run a 3:50.34 outdoors, Gregorek a 3:51.34 outdoors and Wessinghage a 3:37.54, the fourth fastest indoor 1,500 meters in history.

Tabb opened her season last Friday night at Los Angeles by breaking the world indoor best in the two-mile with a clocking of 9:31.7.

She has not been beaten on the track since the summer of 1980, when she lost an outdoor 1,500 to Tatyana Kazankina of the Soviet Union.

The meet will feature seven others with world indoor bests. They are pole vaulter Billy Olson, 18 feet, 10 3/4 inches; Carl Lewis, long jump, 28-1; Stanley Floyd, 60-yard dash, 6.04 seconds; Stephanie Hightower and Candy Young, woman's 60-yard high hurdles, 7.37; Suleiman Nyambui, 5,000 meters, 13:20.4, and Jim Heiring, mile walk, 5:47.39.

Washam leads Mazda Classic

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Home club pro Jo Ann Washam beat a record field of 135 players by two strokes Thursday, turning in a 6-under-par 66 as the LPGA began its $7 million 1983 tour with the $150,000 Mazda Classic at Deer Creek Country Club.

Former major leaguer Rice passes away
BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Former major league catcher Del Rice, who once managed the California Angels, died of cancer Wednesday night just before he was to have been introduced at a banquet in his honor. He was 60.
Before turning to coaching, Rice was a major league catcher for 17 seasons and caught in two World Series with the St. Louis Cardinals and the Milwaukee Braves. He came out of retirement in 1961 to become the first player to sign with the Angels, and managed the club in 1972.

About 300 years ago, some people believed that migratory birds spent their winters on the moon.

Wayland professors to lead revival services at Dawn Baptist Church

The annual revival at the Dawn Baptist Church will begin this Sunday morning under the leadership of Dr. Ronnie Littlejohn and Dr. Gary Manning. There will be services at 7:30 p.m. each night, Monday through Saturday. The Sunday evening service begins at 7:00 p.m.

The evangelist for the revival, Dr. Littlejohn, is director of the graduate program and professor of philosophy and theology at Wayland Baptist University.

Littlejohn, 32, is a native of Greenville, Texas, and a graduate of Baylor University. He has received three degrees from that institution, including the Ph.D. in 1978. From 1978 to 1979 he was an instructor in religion at McLennan Community College in Waco.

He is the author of several articles in biblical studies and pastoral ministry, and has a sermon in volume five of "Award Winning Sermons." Littlejohn is married and has two children.

Music for the revival will be led by Dr. Manning, chairman and professor of the Division of Christian Ministries at Wayland Baptist University. Manning has an undergraduate degree from Howard Payne College, and the Master of Religious Education and Doctor of Education degrees from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth.

From 1976 to 1982 he was the pastor of the First Baptist Church of Academy, Texas. He joined the Wayland faculty in August 1982. On Tuesday evening Manning will have a special presentation interweaving music and the spoken message. He will also preach on Sunday, Feb. 6. Manning is married and has two children.

Jim Hickman is the pastor of the Dawn Baptist Church which is located in Dawn, 13 miles east of Hereford. A nursery will be provided and the public is invited to attend.

Community service is planned Sunday

The community-wide ecumenical worship service which was cancelled this past Sunday evening due to the weather has been rescheduled for 6 p.m. Sunday at the First United Methodist Church, according to the Rev. Jesse Hodge, president of the Hereford Ministerial Alliance.

The ministerial alliance is sponsoring the service in observance of the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity, celebrated last week with a luncheon hosted by Church Women United.

Leading in the order of worship will be the Rev. Mark Traenkle of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, the Rev. C.W. Allen of St. John's Baptist Church, the Rev. J. Weldon Butler of First United Methodist Church, the Rev. George Belford of First Presbyterian Church, and Hodge of Wesley United Methodist Church.

Singing groups from Mt. Sinai Baptist Church and San Jose Catholic Church will provide the music.

A fellowship social is planned in Ward Parlor of the church following the service. A nursery will be provided.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Friday, Jan. 28, the 28th day of 1983. There are 337 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 28, 1871, Paris surrendered to Germany in the Franco-Prussian War.

On this date:
In 1547, 9-year-old Edward VI succeeded as King of England on the death of Henry VIII.

In 1909, the United States ended its direct control of Cuba.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson signed legislation creating the U.S. Coast Guard.

In 1932, Japanese troops occupied the city of Shanghai in China.

Ten years ago: President Nixon disclosed plans for cuts in aid to hospitals, schools and urban areas as he appealed to the nation to pressure Congress to hold down federal spending.

Five years ago: It was announced that President Carter had invited Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to Washington for new discussions in the Middle East peace talks.

One year ago: Italian police stormed an apartment in Padua, and freed U.S. Gen. James Dozier, who was held captive by the Red Brigades for 42 days.

Today's birthday: Actor Alan Alda is 47.

Thought for today: "The luck of having talent isn't enough; you must also have a talent for luck." — Hector Berlioz, French composer (1803-1869).

Fuentes named to honor roll

Edward Fuentes, son of Hilario Fuentes of Hereford, was recently named to the fall semester President's Honor Roll at Texas State Technical Institute of Amarillo. He is majoring in diesel mechanics.

SHERMAN, Texas (AP)—Bonaparte, a sandhill crane whose legs apparently were sheared off in a trap, refused at first to try his new artificial limbs, but later regained his will and gave his prostheses designer a chance to modify the invention.

Steven Prock, a Sherman man who usually makes prostheses for people, planned to try again today to see if Bonaparte can walk with the artificial limbs, which were fashioned out of plastic, rubber and steel.

If the attempt is unsuccessful, the bird may have to be destroyed, Prock said Thursday.

As three television cameras whirred, Prock fitted the pale gray bird with the artificial legs about 8 p.m. Thursday, but Bonaparte "just lay there" at first, he said.

"Whether he's weak, scared, doesn't know what it is, or he's confused, no one knows. There's nothing I can do, or nothing I know of that anyone can do, to give the bird the desire to stand up," Prock said.

But later in the evening, Bonaparte's will returned.

"Finally, after all the commotion, he finally tried to get up himself, and when he started trying to get up, it gave us some ideas of some possible problems," Prock said.

"We've already made some changes. We're letting the glue set. We made them the legs shorter and his toes shorter to see if it would help him get up easier."

Bonaparte spent Thursday night "in a big old box with hay and food and water. He's got it better than you and I," Prock said.

If the legs don't work, Bonaparte might have to be destroyed, Prock said.

A farm woman found the crane about 15 miles from Corpus Christi, put him in her chicken coop and called Debbie McReless, 27, of Corpus Christi, a mother of three who treats sick and injured wild birds in her backyard aviary. That was about two weeks ago.

Mrs. McReless, who has

After 40 years, search continues for Nazis

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—For nearly 40 years Simon Wiesenthal has hunted former Nazis, but the survivor of Hitler's concentration camps insists he is working for the future and not avenging the past.

At 74, Wiesenthal is still busy perusing documents and prodding governments in hopes of tracking down what he says are an estimated 110,000 suspected Nazi war criminals not yet accounted for.

The renowned Nazi hunter rebuffs critics who say he is a man obsessed by the past. Wiesenthal maintains that his work is important for young people today.

"One half of the world's population was born after World War II," he said in an interview. "They have no personal relationship to the Nazi genocide of that time, and it is important that we continue to teach them about it."

Reflecting on the 50th anniversary of Adolf Hitler's election as German chancellor, on Jan. 30, 1933, Wiesenthal says the study of Nazism is still important because of widespread unemployment in Western Europe and the United States.

Hitler was "a man who promised to wipe out unemployment," Wiesenthal said. When millions are out of work, the appeal of political extremists from both the left and right is strengthened, he warned.

Surrounded by cluttered bookshelves and commemorative plaques from wartime resistance groups, the balding and portly Wiesenthal directs his Jewish Documentation Center from a tiny office near Vienna's old Jewish quarter.

Saying that "the Jews must honor the dead," Wiesenthal began tracking prominent Nazis after Germany's defeat in 1945, first with the United States Army and later on his own.

By his own count, he has helped bring some 1,100 Nazi fugitives to trial. Some of the famous cases include Adolf Eichmann, who organized Hitler's ordered extermination of Jews; Stefan Rofko, a warden in the Theresienstadt death camp, and Erich Rajkovic, Eichmann's chief deputy in Poland.

But the master Nazi hunter said he is not driven by the desire to punish, and acknowledged that the mass murder of six million Jews by Nazi Germany was a crime that can never be avenged.

"My work is a warning for the potential murderers of tomorrow," he said. "We are telling them that they will not die in peace, and in doing so we may be helping to prevent future genocide."

The Jewish Documentation Center now has open files on some 2,000 cases. But Wiesenthal estimates that about 150,000 Nazis were involved in war crimes, and says his office's extensive archives are only "the tip of the iceberg."

Since World War II, 40,000 former Nazis were tried for war crimes, according to the center's figures. Most were found guilty, although no exact tally is available.

Wiesenthal's best-known unsolved case is his decades-long pursuit of Dr. Josef Mengele, the infamous "Death Angel" at the Auschwitz concentration camp.

On at least five occasions, Wiesenthal said, he has come close to capturing Mengele, who is thought to be in Paraguay or Uruguay. Last year he raised the reward for information leading to Mengele's arrest from $50,000 to $100,000.

In recent months Wiesenthal said he has provided information about dozens of suspected Nazi criminals to public prosecutors in West Germany and other European countries, and has repeatedly criticized Poland's martial law regime for reviving anti-Semitic propaganda.

"In Central and Eastern Europe anti-Semitism has survived the Jews," he said. While most were killed in Hitler's extermination programs, others emigrated to Israel after the war.

A strong-willed and opinionated man, Wiesenthal is quick to criticize and praise. He said the West German government has provided an admirable amount of money and manpower for the hunting of Nazi criminals, but added: "That is their ticket back into the community of civilized nations."

Bonaparte and Nueces County Commissioner J.R. Luby flew to Prock's factory Wednesday morning on a chartered plane that also is used to transport human accident victims to hospitals. Luby said he paid the $250 fuel cost out of his own pocket.

It's the first time Prock has worked on a bird, he said.

"The feet could be a problem," Prock said. "They'll be rigid, and won't flex up and down when he walks. He might tend to trip over them. Then we'd have to try something else."

Like most artificial limbs, Bonaparte's new legs will have to be removed occasionally for cleaning and maintenance. The bird probably will never be able to return to the wild, he said.

If the experiment is successful, Bonaparte will return to Corpus Christi for observation, and then flown to the International Crane Refuge in Baraboo, Wis., where he would be used for breeding.

"He wants to live so bad," Mrs. McReless said. "He's though, I don't know why he didn't die after his legs were cut off. But when I went out to get him, he was walking. I couldn't believe it. It was like he said to himself, 'All right, I'm going to walk on these.'"

Prock took casts of Bonaparte's stumps Wednesday night as an assistant held the large bird, which had a sock over its head to help keep it quiet.

Prock worked throughout the day Thursday, making plaster casts of the bird's stumps and knees, then using them to fashion the rubberized epoxy sockets to fit inside the artificial legs and hug Bonaparte's knees.

"The game plan was for us to adjust the prosthesis as he learns to walk, but we will have to get him to walk first," Prock said.

Two 6-inch lengths of plastic plumbing pipe, fitted over the bird's limbs, have raised him to the normal 36-inch height of a sandhill crane. The new feet were made of stainless steel welding rods. Bonaparte's new legs weigh about 8 ounces.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Oil or varnish?

DEAR POLLY—I'm planning to stain some unfinished wood furniture and I'm not sure what to use for a final finish. Which is better: an oil finish or varnish?—J.D.

DEAR J.D.—Both have merit, depending on what kind of use the finished surface is going to get. Varnish provides a hard, glossy surface that protects wood from water. For example, it's the preferred finish for floors, which get a lot of wear. A varnish finish also needs only dusting as regular maintenance; it doesn't require waxing or polishing. However, to my mind you can't beat an oil finish (either linseed or tung oil) for pure beauty. And while the furniture will need occasional polishing with a good furniture polish or wax to keep it clean and beautiful, it's also easier to remove many stains from an oil-finished surface. In attempting to clean spots and stains from a varnished surface, it's easy to dissolve the varnish along with the dirt, thus ruining the finish along with the spot. For indoor tables, chairs, cabinets, bookcases, etc., I prefer the oil finish for its soft, warm glow and rich good looks.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—Empty envelope boxes are perfect for organizing refund forms and coupons. I keep an attractive bread box on my kitchen counter. Whenever I empty a box or cut off a label to save for a refund, I put the usable parts into my bread box. About once a month, I empty the bread box and put these qualifiers into my files.

I have the telephone numbers of my neighbors, relatives, doctor, etc. typed on a pretty calendar picture, which I have framed and hung next to my telephone.

As an avid coupon clipper and refunder, I hope you still have one of your coupon clippers left, as I would dearly love to receive one.—PATRICIA

DEAR PATRICIA—And all the other readers who have specifically requested coupon clippers. I'm afraid we have no more Polly coupon clippers available. But don't forget, you'll still receive $1 if your question or Pointer is printed. So keep writing!—POLLY

HEALTH High cholesterol help

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—My doctor told me that I have hardening of the arteries around my heart. Is there a diet to slow down this process? I know it can't be cured, as it is part of advancing age, but figure diet could help.

DEAR READER—Fatty-cholesterol deposits in arteries is not just a matter of age. The Korean War casualties showed that more than 70 percent of the young men with an average age of 22 already had sufficient deposits to cause 10 percent blockage of at least one major artery to the heart and 10 percent of them had more than 70 percent occlusion of one major artery to the heart.

For a number of years many investigators and practicing physicians have thought that if you were up in years doing anything about fatty-cholesterol deposits was futile. That, of course, is not true and an individual with truly high cholesterol readings can be helped at any age. Vital statistics in recent years have shown a decrease in heart attacks at all ages, including those past 70. This is a direct result of improved lifestyle at all ages.

Worldwide observations have shown that diet is an important, but not the only, factor in fatty-cholesterol deposits. And there are some small studies that show that you can expect some reversal in fatty-cholesterol deposits with a good program that lowers your blood cholesterol and controls your blood pressure, if you don't smoke.

I'm glad you are interested in using a sensible diet. The main thrust of the diet is to limit cholesterol and saturated fats and keep your calorie intake low enough to avoid unnecessary body fat.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Could you please detail the chemical makeup of alum? Can you tell me if there would be any problems incurred if small amounts of alum were taken internally? I have heard that it has helped people with weight problems or diabetes problems. A very small amount is taken daily mixed with juice in the morning.

DEAR READER—Alum is a generic term that includes a number of different chemical compounds. Usually it is a salt (chemically speaking) of aluminum and sulfate as well as another salt such as potassium sulfate and water. The aluminum sulfate is responsible for its astringent quality. This accounts for its antiperspirant action. One chemical form of alum is used as a styptic. Its astringent action contracts small blood vessels and so stops bleeding.

Alum has a number of commercial uses including fixing dyes—it was initially used by the Romans for this purpose—and curing or tanning hides.

It is used in solutions for superficial dressings, for external use. I cannot recommend your using it in any form in any quantity for internal use. Both obesity and diabetes should be treated on the basis of accepted medical principles, which does not include alum in juices.

Faith in God can conquer fear.

Fear knocked at the door.
Faith answered.
There was no one there.
— Author unknown

"Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness: nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday; A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come near thee."

— Psalms 91:5-7
