In hurried ceremony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard S. Schweiker today resigned as secretary of health and human services, and President Reagan named former Rep. Margaret Heckler of Massachusetts to succeed him.

Reagan made his announcement in a hurriedly arranged ceremony in the East Room after news of Schweiker's resignation leaked out Tuesday.

Mrs. Heckler, who was defeated for re-election in November after eight terms in Congress, said, "All Americans are grateful to Dick Schweiker for his performance."

She called her new job "the greatest challenge of my life" and the "hardest assignment in Washington."

She is the second woman to be nominated to the Cabinet in the last week.

Reagan, Schweiker and Mrs. Heckler were applauded by government employees as they entered the East Room.

Reagan's announcement was delayed 10 minutes while workers hastily put together a podium for Reagan and an audience was assembled among secretaries and others in a nearby government office building.

Reagan said he accepted Schweiker's resignation "with deep regret" and called him "a trusted adviser, an able administrator and a man who's done an outstanding job as secretary."

He is the fourth member of Reagan's original Cabinet to resign.

Returning to private business as a lobbyist for life insurance companies, Schweiker gives up control of a $274-billion department that oversees Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid, welfare and public health programs, including those of the Food and Drug Administration.

Reagan said he has had a strong friendship with Schweiker ever since the former Pennsylvania senator became Reagan's running mate in his unsuccessful bid for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination.

"During these last two years, as head of the biggest and most costly department of the federal government, Dick Schweiker has proven himself in a job that has ground down many lesser individuals," said Reagan.

"Many of our efforts to control the spiraling cost of government depended on our

Mrs. Simmons named 'woman of the year'

Carrell Ann Simmons, a longtime worker in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations, was named Tuesday night as the Women's Division "Woman of the Year."

Leatrus Clark, recipient of the coveted award last year, made the presentation at the Women's Division annual installation banquet at Hereford Country Club.

Mrs. Simmons, who is associated with Hereford State Bank, was cited for participation in various organizations and civic activities. "Since moving to Hereford in 1971 from Plainview, she has been a busy person. She loves people and it really shows," said Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Simmons has served as president of La Madre Mia Study Club, treasurer for the United Way, and was on the steering committee for the Town & Country Jubilee. She has served on the Women's Division board and was chairman of the membership committee last year. The organization now has 229 members.

She played the role of Mrs. Santa Claus during the Christmas lighting ceremony, which is sponsored by the Women's Division of the chamber. Mrs. Simmons is also a member of the Hereford Hustlers, the chamber's goodwill and membership group. She and her husband, Stanley, are the parents of two college students. The couple is active in First Baptist Church. (For more on the Women's Division banquet and the installation of new officers, see story on Page 3.)

Defense budget pared back

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, insisting "we're not reversing our course," is nonetheless scaling back his record Pentagon spending buildup and seeking a government-wide pay freeze to help curb soaring federal deficits.

Reagan, under intense pressure to make cuts in his proposed fiscal 1984 spending plan, Tuesday abandoned his opposition to slowing increases in military spending.

He accepted Defense Secretary Caspar

Weinberger's recommendation to reduce the military's spending authority by $11.3 billion, or 4 percent. That would mean a reduction in the year's cash outlays by about $3 billion since spending authority spreads over more than one year.

Reagan said the reduction "does not interfere with the production of any weapons system at all ... We are not reversing course."

Pentagon officials said part of the reduction will result from a proposed freeze on pay for the 2.1 million members of the armed forces, an action other administration sources said would be extended as well to the nation's 2 million civilian federal workers.

The federal workforce received a 4 percent across-the-board wage increase last Oct. 1. Forgoing a similar increase in 1984 would save the government about $5 billion.

The administration has less than three weeks to settle on a course for reducing record deficits threatening to grow from $200 billion in 1984 to $300 billion by 1988.

Reagan must complete his spending plan for fiscal 1984, which begins Oct. 1, by Jan. 31.

appeared to be the last holdouts against cuts in the defense budget. In recent weeks, the president's chief economic advisers, congressional leaders and influential members of the business community had been lobbying extensively for a slowdown in the president's

Special Sidekick

The driver of this car may have heavenly guidance when he hits the roads, but it's doubtful that he would receive much mercy if stopped by a DPS officer or city policeman due to the illegal front plate he has displayed. Texas is one of the few states which require official license plates on both the front and rear bumpers of a vehicle.

Two license plates required

Sure, there are excuses. "It doesn't look good." "I didn't know the law required it."

"I want to show my flag." "Others get away with it, so why not me?"

But motorists must face it, Texas requires a back and a front vehicle license tag.

DPS officer Jim Ward, who gives driver's license tests in Hereford, says vehicles sporting only one tag is a growing problem. He said sometimes two or three persons a day will want to take a driving test in a car with only one tag. Ward is not permitted to give tests in a vehicle which is in violation for any reason, and said his office has been issuing warnings to those vehicle owners.

Ward said most people will voluntarily comply with the requirement once they know it is the law and violation is a misdemeanor carrying up to a $200 fine.

Perhaps the neighboring states that issue single plates influence the trend in Texas. Colorado is the only bordering state that also has a two-tag law. Ward said that nationwide about half the states require two tags.

He said car manufacturers build cars to go to certain states and build bumpers accordingly. A greater mobility of people moving and trading vehicles could account for many cars in Texas not having a place to mount a front tag — another often used excuse.

Shuttle test goes A-okay Tuesday

MIAMI (AP) — After passing its latest test — a mock countdown and simulated liftoff that "went very well" — the space shuttle Challenger is one step closer to making its tardy maiden flight in late February.

The simulated ignition of the spacecraft's three main engines came just four minutes behind schedule Tuesday in the practice run of the last 14 hours of a final countdown, officials said.

"The test went very well," said shuttle commander Paul Weitz, who took part in the dry run with the three other crew members. "We started out behind, picked up the slack, and had a good countdown."

The astronauts were delayed about 50 minutes getting into the flight cabin because "it took a little bit longer to prepare it for the first time than was expected," said NASA spokesman Hugh Harris.

A computer glitch threatened to delay or abort the countdown 30 seconds before the make-believe liftoff. The computer registered a helium pressure alarm in the cockpit and the count was halted briefly until the crew could override the computer signal.

"The computer program did not have the helium indicator masked out to prevent an alarm during a simulation," said Harris.

"The crew bypassed the computer and the count was picked up within a few seconds."

Harris said a number of "minor problems" occurred but that "on the whole, the countdown test went off successfully."

The astronauts and launch crew threw switches, communicated between the spacecraft and launch control center, ran all computers and duplicated all other operations of an actual launch as closely as possible.

Challenger's 500,000-gallon fuel tank was not loaded and its main engines were not fired. But both of those operations will be carried out late this month in a continuing search for the source of a hydrogen leak into the orbiter's engine compartment.

The tedious detective work by ground crews on the mysterious leak has delayed the shuttle launch about a month.

The failure of a power system component which converts direct current to alternating current aboard the craft delayed the countdown rehearsal one day. The countdown began at 9:40 p.m. Monday.

The foggy, overcast morning cleared up considerably by the 11 a.m. launch time and officials said a punctual liftoff would have been possible Tuesday.

Reagan praises food bank

DALLAS (AP) — Directors of a 4-month-old food bank hope President Reagan's visit to deliver them "some pats on the back" will generate new sources of donated groceries the agency can funnel to the city's poor and elderly.

Reagan toured the North Texas Food Bank's

20,000-square-foot warehouse Tuesday, and told the agency's staff and board that the privately run agency exemplifies what business can do to solve social problems.

"Food banks alone are not going to solve the problem, I know, but they make more efficient use of the existing resources," Reagan said.

Kathryn Cain, president of the food bank's board of directors and a regional official with Safeway Stores Inc., led the president past cartons of fresh produce and pallets stacked high with canned goods, all donated to the food bank by area grocery store chains and manufacturers.

"I just wanted to stop by here today and shake a few hands and deliver some pats on the back because this North Texas bank is such a wonderful story," Reagan said.

The food bank distributes 30 tons of food and household items a week to 108 community programs and charities in metropolitan Dallas and Fort Worth.

Mrs. Cain said the agency only learned Friday that Reagan had picked the food bank out for a visit after his address here to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention.

But she and General Manager Dub Nelson said after the president's visit that they were elated at the publicity the visit brought the fledgling agency. Calls already had come in from businessmen interested in making donations, Mrs. Cain said.

SS reformers making progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security reform panel is edging toward tentative agreement on a rescue package that would include higher payroll taxes and a delay of up to six months in cost-of-living increases, sources say.

Despite few public expressions of optimism that a compromise can be fashioned before a Saturday deadline, members of the panel and administration officials met privately Tuesday night for more than two hours and agreed to gather again this afternoon.

"We haven't given up," said Robert M. Ball, former Social Security commissioner

Going into the Tuesday meeting, Sen. William L. Armstrong, R-Colo., said, "I hope that there will be a breakthrough and we will get a package put together ... but I have no reason to think that is the case."

Tuesday's talks convened after White House Chief of Staff James A. Baker III briefed President Reagan on the outlook for a compromise. Baker talked with Reagan aboard Air Force One as the president returned from a speaking engagement in Dallas earlier in the day, sources said.

SIPCO adds shift

The second shift of slaughter began Monday and the second shift of the boxed beef operation started Tuesday at the Swift Independent Packing Co. plant near here, according to Bill Dillman, manager of Public Relations in the company's Chicago office.

Dillman said when the shift "gets going full tilt" it will mean 200 to 220 additional employees. He could not give an approximate date on when the plant will be at full capacity and only said it would be "as soon as possible."

Prime rate still falling

By ROBERT BURNS AP Business Writer

Interest rates on consumer loans have fallen little in recent months although the prime rate continues to drop, but a government report indicates Americans are becoming more willing to borrow money.

The Federal Reserve Board said Tuesday that Americans took on $2.52 billion more in new installment debt in November than they paid off. That was a switch from October, when the amount of outstanding debt dropped $324 million.

Ted Gibson, an economist at Crocker National Bank in San Francisco, said the report shows "a very gradual restoration of confidence by the consumer."

Consumers generally had been less willing to take on new debt as the recession deepened this past summer, depressing retail sales.

Any pickup in consumer spending in 1983 is expected to help revive the economy. The November increase in the amount of outstanding installment debt was due mainly to a big increase in auto loans. Car sales jumped in November as the domestic auto companies offered a variety of financial incentives.

While consumer loan rates have fallen only gradually, the prime lending rate that applies to commercial loans has dropped 5½ percentage points since July.

Banks across the country reduced their prime rate Tuesday by one-half point, to 11 percent, the lowest prime since August 1980.

The prime rate is a base from which banks figure interest on loans to corporations. It has no direct bearing on consumer loan rates. Rates on consumer loans now average between 18 percent and 19 percent.

"The plant is up to the speed we had anticipated when we opened it," he said.

The plant, purchased from Armour Food Co. last summer, has been operating with one shift since its reopening in November. Officials then said the plant would employ 439 people with an annual payroll of $8 million when operating at full capacity.

A spokesman at the local office could not give a number of how many people were currently employed because hiring is not completed.

Neither Dillman nor the local office could confirm reports that 3,000 persons had applied for jobs at Swift.

Clark may be near release

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Artificial heart recipient Barney Clark has "clearly improved" since the new year began, can take steps with an aluminum walker and appears to have overcome his periods of mental confusion, doctors say.

Dr. Chase Peterson, University of Utah vice president for health sciences, said Tuesday that the 61-year-old retired dentist from the Seattle area could be released by month's end if his recovery continues.

"He has clearly improved during the last two weeks," Peterson said, adding that Clark's condition may be upgraded soon from serious to good.

"The heart is working well. He's responding to the ravages of his congestive heart failure before surgery, and the multiple surgeries since Dec. 2," Peterson said at the first formal briefing on Clark's condition since Dec. 27.

"We are optimistic, very optimistic at this time," he said.

Jones elected assistant officer

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Grant Jones, who says Texas lawmakers have a difficult task ahead in trying to balance the state budget, has been elected assistant presiding officer of the Senate.

As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, the Abilene Democrat is in a crucial position in making sure that state expenses do not exceed income.

"Finance is probably going to be one of the most critical committees in the history of Texas this session," said Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena.

Jones' election as president pro tempore, which is largely a ceremonial job, means he should get to serve as governor for a day.

Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, said Jones "has the unpleasant job of saying 'no.' As chairman of finance, he has to say 'no' but he does it as a gentleman and with logic and reason."

"Grant Jones is one of those fellows to waste the river with. His word is his bond," said Traeger.

The Legislature "gets really tough when you have to say 'no' more than 'yes.' That's what separates the statesman from the politician," said Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

Jones, joked Sen. Tati Santiesteban, D-El Paso, "is extremely unreasonable in that he does not vote to spend money we don't have."

Jones himself said, "We've got less money than we'd like to have and probably less than we should have. It's going to take real statesmanship to arrive at an appropriation bill" to finance state government.

Reporters and lobbyists pack session

AUSTIN (AP) — About 150 news people have been issued credentials to cover at least portions of the 68th Legislature, according to Dick Merkel, press secretary to Speaker Gib Lewis.

The reporters, photographers and cameramen found out Tuesday that 150 won't go into 37, the number of Capitol parking spots assigned to the press. The better spots went early, hours before the opening gavel at noon Tuesday.

Merkel, a former capitol reporter, said the press contingent outnumbered that of recent sessions.

Although some of the reporters will be gone after the opening days, a full-time press corps of about 60 will work out of a two-story press room near the House chamber.

As of Tuesday, about 63 of the full-time session reporters had been given stickers entitling them to jockey for the 37 assigned spaces, guarded this session by a special attendant paid for by the Senate.

The crowd of session-watchers also includes lobbyists who will push bills supported by their organizations.

City can't handle two party conventions

DALLAS (AP) — This city's administrators say Dallas isn't big enough for both the Republicans and Democrats in 1984.

The Democratic National Committee has sent letters to every U.S. city with a population of at least 500,000, inviting city officials to bid for the party's 1984 national convention.

But Dallas city administrators, who went all out to get the GOP to hold its convention here, say the city does not have the hotel rooms or convention center time needed for the Democrats' gathering July 16-20 in 1984.

Other groups planning to meet here already have moved their meetings to accommodate the GOP, which is coming Aug. 20-24, Assistant City Manager Levi Davis said Monday.

"There is no movement at all in our schedule," said Charles Bass, vice president and director of the Dallas Convention and Visitors Bureau.

Davis said he is recommending the council members "respectfully decline" the invitation.

Mayor Jack Evans, who invited the Democrats to Dallas last April, said he was disappointed the city could not accommodate both conventions.

Paul Harvey News Incredible affair of the heart

That memorable early December within hours of the historic implant of the Jarvik heart my son, Paul, eagerly announced that he was on the trail of a fascinating Rest of The Story.

In our family that means he has a lead on some factual event with such an ironic twist that he would like to include in the Rest of The Story stories which he writes for the media.

He'd heard from a reporter for a respected journal that Dr. Jarvik was confounded by a construction problem on the artificial heart until he dropped in on a Tupperware Party in his own home, witnessed the snap-together lids on Tupperware refrigerator containers, and adapted that principle.

Paul uses no stories which are not confirmed by two independent sources and, in sensitive subjects, three. He assigned a researcher to try to corroborate the story.

He assigned me knowing I'd had daily contacts with the doctors in Salt Lake City, he asked me to seek confirmation.

I got a very weary doctor out of bed only to learn — "Nothing to it."

Once, in a public lecture, Dr. Jarvik had described the attachment to the separate lobes of the polyurethane heart by likening it to "a snap-on plastic lid" — and an imaginative reported had invented the "Tupperware Party" story.

The detachable ventricle concept proved significant three separate times during the first weeks of Dr. Clark's second life.

Three times, a malfunctioning ventricle had to be removed and replaced with another.

If the "Tupperware" story proved false, other ironies in the history of this development did not.

It is true, for example, that Jarvik is a doctor "by accident." Was watching his own physician father almost die while undergoing surgery because of the awkwardness of suturing, a very young Bab Jarvik decided there had to be a more efficient method.

He'd been an architecture student at Syracuse U. — switched careers — decided to become a doctor.

He was rejected by every medical school to which he applied, finally had to go to the University of Bologna, Italy. After two years there, he was accepted in biomedics by New York University. He completed his medical studies at the University of Utah.

And it was then that he invented "the simplest of suturing procedures" with "surgical staples."

That same year his father died of aneurysm.

Now Bob Jarvik was forever committed to the perfection of replacement parts for human plumbing.

It had been an incredible affair of the heart. He would want me to say that he built on a foundation laid by many dedicated men.

In 1952, Dr. George Hufnagel of Georgetown University with his first-ever plastic aortic valve.

In 1967 South Africa's Dr. Christian Barnard implanted a human heart in a human.

In 1967 Dr. Rene Favaloro of Cleveland Clinic grafted a patient's leg vein to his heart, thus to complete the first "coronary bypass." One hundred twenty thousand Americans have now had that operation.

In 1967 came beta blockers to treat irregular heartbeat.

In 1969 Houston's Dr. Denton Cooley implanted a "temporary" mechanical heart.

In 1980, Dr. Norman Shumway of Stanford taught us that substitute hearts suffer less rejection if the patient is administered cyclosporine. (The drug suppresses white cell growth which tends to reject foreign tissue.)

In 1981 we learned how calcium blockers could prevent coronary spasms.

Each of all these accomplishments and myriad more were essential to the success of the milestone miracle of the first Thursday in last December.

Narrowly over football

'60 Minutes' remains on top

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The CBS magazine show "60 Minutes" topped the television ratings for the week of Jan. 9, scoring a narrow victory over professional football.

Close behind in second place was the CBS National Football League playoff games, Tampa Bay vs. Dallas and Atlanta vs. Minnesota. The afternoon games spilled over into prime time. Portions of the country saw the game won by Dallas, and other portions saw the game won by Minnesota, and the network frequently switched between the two games.

The CBS NFL Playoff Post show, which followed the games, placed third.

The ABC NFL Monday Night Football game between

Dallas and Minnesota finished in seventh place for the week. It was the final season game in the series and its rating of 24.2 was the highest since the season premiere.

ABC telecast nine NFL games with an average rating of 20.6. They included eight regularly scheduled games, plus one game added at the end of the season because of the NFL players strike. Eight scheduled games were not telecast because of the strike.

CBS handily won the week in the ratings compiled by the A.C. Nielsen Co. It had a rating of 19.2. The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute 19.2 percent of the nation's homes with television were tuned to CBS. ABC was second with 17.4, and NBC was third with 15.6.

Here the Top 10: "60 Minutes," a rating of 32.6 or 27.1 million households, CBS; CBS NFL Playoff Games, Tampa Bay vs. Dallas and Atlanta vs. Minnesota, 32.4 or 26.9 million, CBS; CBS NFL Playoff Post show, 30.2 or 25.1 million, CBS; "Dallas," 25.7 or 21.4 million, CBS; "The Jeffersons," 25.6 or 21.3 million, CBS; "Alice," 25.3 or 21.0 million, CBS; ABC Monday Night Football, Dallas vs. Minnesota, 24.2 or 20.1 million, ABC; "Gloria," 23.4 or 19.4 million, CBS; "Trapper John, M.D.," 23.3 or 19.9 million, CBS; "Magnum, P.I.," and "Falcon Crest," tied, 23.2 or 19.3 million, both CBS.

Hotels forced to turn on heat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tattered winos huddle against the doors of the Tenderloin in the fog-dimmed glow of white streetlights and yellow sex-show signs. The January night air is 42 degrees — a dank, bone-chilling 42 degrees.

It was just as cold inside many of the cheap hotels in the neighborhood, home to thousands of the poor and elderly, before a Dec. 6 newspaper story touched off a crackdown on unheated hotels.

"Since the article in the (San Francisco) Chronicle, the heat is on in the Tenderloin," said Don Feeser, 57, who says he's lived at the Fairfax Hotel on Eddy Street for 17 years.

"It would actually be warmer outside," Feeser said of the times before the revelations. "I would come in and sit down. It would be so cold you'd have to go to bed."

Following the story, building inspectors launched an emergency inspection program in the rundown Tenderloin and South of Market areas to find hotels violating a city ordinance requiring 11 hours of 70-degree heat a day.

Politicians tramped through the streets looking for guilty hotels. On Jan. 5, District Attorney Arlo Smith filed charges against two hotels and a Board of Supervisors committee recommended stiffer criminal penalties and an increase in the mandatory heat to 15 hours a day — still short of the state's 24-hour requirement.

Building inspectors discovered a dozen hotels that didn't even have a working boiler or a working connection to steam. One was a building the city paid to house transients. Violations of heat laws were found in about 100 of the 300 residential hotels inspected, said Donald Chan of the Bureau of Building Inspections.

But Randy Shaw of the Tenderloin Housing Clinic, which offers legal assistance to tenants, said much of the problem had already been solved by alarmed hotel owners who turned on the heat before inspectors arrived.

"The point is, how long will it be on?" Feeser noted.

"It's not a problem of technology; it's a problem of human neglect," Shaw said. "None of us has ever said that people have broken boilers," he added. "The problem is that they don't turn them on... I think it's a conscious decision not to turn on heat."

"The story is that there has been a constant battle each year against landlords who wilfully withhold heat," said Jane Benedict, chairwoman of the Metropolitan Council on Housing, a tenants union.

San Francisco's Tenderloin, sprawled between the towering luxury hotels of Union Square and San Francisco's majestic City Hall, is one of the last, seedy centers of low-income housing near downtown San Francisco — a role the city has tried to protect by restricting the spread of high-rent tourist hotels.

"We consider it the heart of the city," said Feeser, who said he pays $105 a month for his room because of rent control. The average for a new room would be about $220 to $240 a month, Shaw said, despite the rats, filth and other problems found in some of the hotels.

"The most serious widespread housing problem is simply lack of decent housing for poor people, not only the lack of heating but all the other myriad defects," said Tom Pulliam, director of litigation for the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation.

He said his agency had been representing individual tenants complaining of no heat "probably ever since we've been in existence," starting in 1967.

Chan said the city had started falling behind on inspections in the late 1970s. Tax-slashing Proposition 13 forced the city to cut its inspection force from 13 to seven for a time. At the same time, the city ordered new tasks for inspectors — checking smoke detectors, security measures and condo conversions.

"With all the things that have been added, it's almost impossible to get back to what we're supposed to be doing," Chan said. His agency had just now regained full strength of 14 staffers.

"The city has to bear some of the blame for this," said Erik Jorgensen, an attorney who represents three major hotel associations in San Francisco. "They issued certificates of occupancy to hotels which had no heat at all."

He said the extent of the cold hotel problem had been exaggerated.

"I think there might be people in this depression squeezed between various expenses, they might be tempted to cut corners. ... But I don't think any of them are really wilfully violating the law," he said.

He noted that the hotel operators, many of whom share heat with tenants, often have only a short lease and can't afford to make a large investment. "Some hotels are exposed to fantastic attacks of vandalism," he said. "What usually happens is someone is being evicted and he pulls the thing (radiator) out of the wall."

Shaw said he's happy with the city's response, but added, "you don't want to jump for joy.... These people have a lot of problems in their lives. ... The fact you had to worry about heat, that's really a shame."

Over 400 bills filed

AUSTIN (AP) — When lawmakers opened the 1983 session of the Texas Legislature, 443 proposed laws already were filed for their consideration.

The pre-filing process was begun in 1976 to allow Texas lawmakers to file bills after the November elections but before the session actually begins in January, thus avoiding an opening-day flood.

"In the past there had been such a glut of paperwork on the opening day of the session," said Betty Murray, clerk of the Texas House. Legislators still can file as many bills as they like during the session.

Pre-filed bills ranged from regulating professional hair removers to declaring milk the state drink.

Energas expanding aid

AMARILLO — Responding to a request by the chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, Energas Company announced today that the company will expand its efforts to aid low-income people in paying their energy bills this winter.

Last month, TRC chairman Mack Wallace wrote to all natural gas utility companies in Texas, urging them to create winter energy assistance programs for the disadvantaged in Texas, similar to some pilot programs instigated by utility companies in other states. The Railroad Commission is the state agency that regulates the oil and gas industry in Texas.

Energas is establishing a program to supplement existing programs of financial aid to people in its service territory who would otherwise not be able to pay their heating bills this winter.

Energas representatives have been involved on national industry committees studying the results of the pilot energy assistance programs.

"The new program is an extension of procedures Energas already has for help-

Police filed three reports Tuesday and issued five citations.

In the 200 block of Northwest Drive, a resident reported that a trailer tire and a canvas cover on a boat had been slashed.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
The board of directors of the Hereford Satellite Workshop Center would like to express sincere appreciation to the following persons who so generously supplied our personnel with gasoline in 1982: Dan and Mary McWhorter; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Higginbotham;

ing or customers pay their gas bills," Charles K. Vaughan, Energas president, said. "For years, Energas has offered an individualized deferred payment plan to customers who need help. Now, on Commissioner Wallace's recommendation, we are adding a program of financial assistance for this heating season."

The program that Energas is devising will rely on seven charitable organizations throughout the company's service territory to receive and distribute money for heating assistance. Energas will contribute money itself to those organizations for use in the program and will encourage its employees, its customers and the general public to make contributions.

Energas officials are working with representatives of those organizations to establish agreements for the program. When those agreements have been made, Energas will give a donation to each non-profit organization, based on the number of customers the company has in the region served by the organization. The company will then publicize the details of the program, so that those needing help will know how the program operates and others will know how to make contributions.

Allred Oil Co.; Wayne Jones, Tip Top Oil; and Benny Womble, Conoco Products.

We wanted the citizens of Hereford to know who they are and their unselfish service to their community. Thank you, Kay Tindell, Publicity Chairman enterprise," Reagan added. "I can say without hesitation that we're proud of the job he has done."

Resigns

The president credited Schweiker with giving the country "many years of outstanding public service."

Turning to Mrs. Heckler, Reagan said she "brings to the job extensive experience in the workings of government."

He said she has "proven herself a practical and compassionate public servant. I am confident she will prove an invaluable member of our team, and I am looking forward to working with her in the days and months ahead."

Schweiker thanked Reagan for letting him serve in the administration and said that, of his 22 years in Congress and the Cabinet, "the most exciting, most rewarding period of service was working with you as president."

Tuesday night, Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, chairman of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, gave his reaction on hearing reports Schweiker was resigning.

"I was very, very surprised and very disappointed."

"It was a tremendous loss to all of us. I think he's been one of the best members of the Cabinet. I don't think anyone has exceeded him. I think he has been a marvelous, compassionate and effective secretary."

Asked if Schweiker might have had problems with the White House staff, Hatch replied: "I can't conceive of any. He's very close to the president, having run with him in 1976."

"Knowing Dick as I do, he probably just feels it's time to get out and get into the private sector," Hatch speculated. "He's given most of his adult life to public service."

Schweiker's son Malcolm, 25, said in a radio interview his father had "a desire to return to the private sector, and with this new position he feels... that he can still serve his fellow man in some manner."

Schweiker, 56, served in the House for four terms and in the Senate for two terms before accepting Reagan's invitation to join the Cabinet in 1980. The two men had gotten to know each other well in 1976, when Reagan picked the Pennsylvania native as his running mate in an unsuccessful bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The resignation precedes by only a few weeks the announcement of the administration's proposed budget for fiscal year 1984.

An administration source, who asked to remain anonymous, said Schweiker had no policy gripes with the administration and that he even was satisfied with preliminary plans for the new budget.

Although the Office of Management and Budget proposed severe spending cuts for agencies like FDA and the Centers for Disease Control, Schweiker was able to have some money restored in the budget appeals process.

Schweiker's department absorbed a significant share of the cuts in domestic spending last year and he claimed success at slowing the growth of the giant programs under its jurisdiction.

Reagan, however, said that if Congress tried to cut deeper, "Then Congress would be, I think, endangering the security of this country."

New officers installed for Women's Division

New Officers were installed Tuesday evening when the Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce held its first meeting of the new year at the Hereford Country Club. Irene McKinster performed the installation ceremony.

Olivia Denning was installed as president; Arvella

Lauderback as vice-president; Pat Walsh as secretary; and Donna Jones, Jane White and Janice Faulkner as directors. Two directors retiring from the board are Shirley Wilson and Betty Gilbert.

Carrell Ann Simmons was named "Woman of the Year" in a presentation made by last year's honoree, Leatrus Clark. Ms. Simmons was given an engraved silver cup.

The meeting followed a hors d'oeuvres buffet enjoyed by 65 people. The invocation was given by Jane White; and Carolyn Canon, retiring president, presided at the meeting, thanking all members who gave selflessly of their time and talents this past year.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by the Trebleairs. They sang several selections. The well-known group of 12 high school girls from Friona was organized in 1966 by Eva Miller. The members change as they graduate from high school.

Special guests at the meeting were Bill Johnson, 1982 president of the Chamber of Commerce; Bob Sims, incoming president; and Mike Carr, executive vice-president.

Recognition was given to Carolyn Killough and Toni Shakocius, secretaries at the Chamber of Commerce office. Each received a gift of "Hereford bucks."

As the new president, Ms. Denning said she "would give it her best shot." She would like members of the Womens Division to let her know what committee they would like to serve on and said that she is very optimistic about the coming year.

Speaker discusses color consulting

Sue Hair, personal color consultant with Color Charisma in Canyon, gave a program on the importance of color in cosmetics and wardrobe planning at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Hereford Newcomers Club held at the Caison House Restaurant.

Ms. Hair stressed the symbolic and psychological connotations of colors and how various colors can influence the emotions. She then outlined four categories of skin and hair coloring, noting that each must be treated differently right regards to cosmetic choice and color of clothing to achieve the best effects.

A short business session was conducted by Kim

Brackett, president. Three persons were elected to fill unexpired terms. JoAnn Bone took the office of treasurer; Mitzi Bulger, first vice-president; and Linda Caudie, reporter. It was announced that the annual progressive dinner to which husbands are invited will be held next month.

Anyone who is a newcomer to the Hereford area is welcome to join Newcomers Club. For more information, contact Tracey Duncan at 364-8010 or Kim Brackett at 364-0921.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

We have one child who is misunderstood ... literally. From the day he uttered his first word, "Bweaba" (meaning there's a rainbow around my diaper), to present day, no one seems to know what he's talking about.

I don't know why, but I'm the only one in the family who can translate. When he was a toddler, he stood for hours at his father's elbow shouting, "Me no, na, noo noo" and his father would shrug and say, "What's he want?"

"Well, what do you think he wants?" I'd say irritably. "He's either telling us the dog hates cold spaghetti, he hates the encyclopedia we bought for him, or he just swallowed his pacifier."

"He is trying to tell you he dropped his cookie down his drawers. I mean, how dense can a father be?"

As he got older, things got worse.

"That kid has to have his mouth fixed," said my husband.

"What now?"

"He just told me he has to know all of his bowels because the teacher is having an English elimination."

"He's always had trouble with his V's," I said.

"That isn't all he has trouble with. If he goes around talking like that, they're going to put him in a class where he makes recipe holders out of wooden blocks and clothespins all day."

"All he's ever tried to do," I sighed, "is imitate the rest of the family and he doesn't know how to pronounce the words yet."

"I'll say," said his brother. "He told the whole bus the other morning that you were a syndicated Communist."

"And he told everyone his teacher had hubcaps put on her teeth so they would look better," said his sister.

"And he told a client of mine on the phone the other night that I couldn't come to the phone because I was unapproachable. Really, something has to be done. At a football game the other night he yelled out, 'All we need now is one perversion and we win the game.'"

"What's the matter with that?" I snapped. "I told him myself one player has a mucilage separation in his shoulder and another was having trouble with his nymph gland and with the quarterback having a sensuous shoulder, we needed all the perversions we could get!"

You should have seen my family sit up and look at me. I guess it's because I don't lose my temper too often.

Watson ready to go

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tom Watson is champing at the bit to get started on his 1983 season.

"I'm anxious. — probably more anxious than I have been for a couple of years — to get started," the 1982 Player of the Year said after his first practice round over the 6,655-yard, par-71 Rancho Park Municipal course, site of the $300,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

The tournament begins Thursday with Watson the defending champion. He took the title last year at Riviera Country Club, which will be the host of the PGA national championship this summer.

And that tournament serves as Watson's No. 1 target for the season.

"As always, I want to improve," said the man who has won Player of the Year honors five of the last six years.

"I want to improve my consistency. I think I've taken a big step forward in that direction in the last month. I didn't hit the ball really well the last couple of years.

"My game around the green has been very good the last couple of years, but my ball-striking has not been good."

"I look forward to hitting the ball better than I have in two years, hitting it like I did from '77 to '80," Watson said.

Watson, who won both the U.S. and British opens last season, now has a major-title accumulation that includes four British Opens, two Masters and the U.S. Open. He needs only the PGA championship to join Gene Sarazen, Ben Hogan, Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus as the only men to score a career sweep of golf's four most prestigious titles.

On a more immediate basis, he's concerned with his first start of the season.

"I'm very eager to play. I'm in a good frame of mind," he said. "A lot of that is attributable to the fact that I know I'll hit a lot more precise shots than I've been hitting. I'll hit some bad ones, too, but that will be more than offset by good shots."

Watson said he got in more practice than usual during the off-season due to a relatively mild winter and spent three days working on his game with his long-time mentor Byron Nelson in Dallas immediately before coming to Los Angeles.

"I am playing very well right now, very well indeed."

Hereford squads lose at Coronado

Monterey girls now 8-0

Monterey's girls remained atop the District 3-5A standings, while Amarillo High and Plainview moved into a two-way tie in the boys' race following Tuesday night's action.

The Plainsmen girls completed the first go-round, edging Amarillo High, 57-54, to push their league record to 8-0, a full game ahead of Plainview, a 48-42 winner over Palo Duro and two games in front of the Sandie girls who dropped to 6-2.

In the boys' race, AHS and Plainview are 5-1 following victories Tuesday. The Sandies tripped Monterey, 65-56, while Plainview outlasted Palo Duro, 74-63, handing the Dons their second straight loop setback. PD dropped into third place with a 4-2 mark.

Hereford's teams, meanwhile, continued having their troubles. The girls dropped a 71-70 heartbreaker to Coronado, while the boys suffered their worst setback of the season, 74-45.

The girls' game was close all the way. Hereford led by two (16-14) points after one period, before settling for a 39-39 halftime deadlock.

Coronado took control in the third period, moving out to a 56-51 lead, and held on the rest of the way.

Vonda Williams and Terroni Pace combined for 43 points for the winners. Williams led the way with 22, while Pace added 21. Stephanie Foster led Hereford with 21 points and Sherri Ellis added 19.

The boys' game was never in doubt after the Mustangs opened a 21-8 first period lead. The hosts increased the margin to 16 (37-21) by halftime, and after three quarters enjoyed a 63-37 advantage.

Pat Norris tossed in 20 points to lead Coronado. Martin Higgins added 15. Steve Welch was the only Hereford player in double figures with 12.

The victories left Coronado's boys 3-3 in district play and 7-12 overall. The Mustang girls moved into a fifth-place district tie with Hereford at 3-5. Hereford dropped to 5-7 overall, while Coronado improved to 8-9. Hereford's boys saw their season record drop to 5-13.

For Hereford's girls, it was their fourth loss in the last five games. The boys lost their third in a row, following the Borger Tournament over the holidays.

Gil Wright, the district's leading scorer, paced Plainview's win over Palo Duro with 34 points. It was the ninth time this season Wright has scored 30 or more points. Palo Duro played without its leading scorer Doug Butler.

Caprock's boys moved to 3-4 in district with their win over Lubbock, which dropped to 3-3. Monterey fell to 2-5 in league play.

The boys' standings look this way: AHS and Plainview atop the heap with 5-1 marks; Palo Duro next at 4-2, followed by Lubbock, Tascosa and Coronado at 3-3. Then comes Caprock (3-4), Monterey (2-5) and Hereford (0-6).

The girls' race looks this way: Monterey (8-0), Plainview (7-1), AHS (6-2), Palo Duro (5-3), Hereford and Coronado (3-5), Tascosa and Caprock (2-6) and Lubbock (0-8).

Friday's games find Hereford hosting Palo Duro, Lubbock at Plainview, Coronado at Amarillo and Monterey at Tascosa.

Jimmy Connors 2nd

Gretzky athlete of the year

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

Wayne Gretzky, who made 1982 his personal showcase by shattering nearly every individual scoring record in the National Hockey League, today was named The Associated Press Male Athlete of the Year.

The 21-year-old center for the Edmonton Oilers dominated the balloting of 74 sports writers and sportscasters from across the nation, the same way he dominated the scoring race during the year. Gretzky received 39 first-place votes, easily outdistancing tennis player Jimmy Connors, who had eight.

Third place went to World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Larry Holmes with five votes, followed by marathoner Alberto Salazar and Milwaukee Brewers shortstop Robin Yount with four each, and Georgia running back Herschel Walker and sprinter-long jumper Carl Lewis with three apiece.

Last year's Male Athlete of the Year, tennis player John McEnroe, received one vote this year.

"To win an award with all the great athletes in the world, the great athletes in the United States and Canada, well, it's a real honor to be selected," said Gretzky.

For Gretzky, it seemed nothing was impossible, that no offensive record unattainable, in 1982.

He scored 92 goals, 26 more than anyone had ever managed in one season. His 120 assists broke his own record by 11 and his 212 points were 48 more than he collected the previous year. He won the scoring title by an astounding 65 points.

On his way to those records, Gretzky scored 50 goals in the first 39 games of the 1981-82 season, obliterating the record of 50-in-50 set by Maurice Richard and tied by Mike Bossy. He also had 10 games with at least three goals, averaged 1.5 goals and 1.5 assists per game, and scored a point in all but eight games.

For those achievements, Gretzky was the first unanimous selection as NHL most valuable player.

As if to accentuate his greatness, Gretzky was scoring on a pace equal to that of his record season when 1982 closed. He opened the 1982-83 campaign with a 30-game point-scoring streak for yet another NHL mark, and closed out the year holding 27 NHL records.

"I feel very fortunate to have accomplished so much so early in my career," said Gretzky. "I'm playing in an era that suits my style best. When I broke in at 18 or 19, I listened to the older guys who had been around. That's helped me."

The selection of Gretzky as Athlete of the Year marked the second time in the past three years that the award went to a hockey player — or players.

In 1980, the United States Olympic hockey team, which thrilled the nation by upsetting the powerful Soviet squad on its way to the gold medal, was the recipient of the honor.

Those are the only two occasions in the 51-year history of the award that it has gone to hockey.

Connors, the runner-up for the award, made a triumphant return to the top of the tennis world by winning Wimbledon and the U.S. Open.

Holmes defended his heavyweight title twice, beating Gerry Cooney and Randy Cobb.

Salazar won the Boston and New York City marathons, the latter for the third straight year, and set American records for the 5,000- and 10,000-meter races.

Yount was voted Most Valuable Player in the American league after leading the Brewers to the AL pennant.

Walker led Georgia to an unbeaten regular season and won the Heisman Trophy. Lewis soared 28 feet, 9 inches, the second longest jump in history, and twice ran 100 meters in 10.00, equalling the fastest time at sea level.

Reds draft lanky hurler

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, who posted the poorest record in the National League last year, have made Leroy Ted Langdon, a lanky right-handed pitcher from Brevard Community College (Fla.), the top choice in baseball's amateur free agent draft.

The Reds also owned the first selection in the secondary phase of the draft reserved for players previously selected but unsigned. They used that pick to select third baseman Troy Donald Jones from Loyola Marymount University.

Martin rejoins Yankees for 3rd time

George and Billy show back together again

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent
 George called Billy "Alfred." Billy called George "George."

The "Billy Ball and George Porgie Show" is back with bells on, and you could feel old Yankee Stadium quivering with excitement.

"I've always said," George Steinbrenner, the Yankees' rich shipbuilder owner spoke into a cluster of microphones, "that a sailboat with no wind goes nowhere."

Wind, storm clouds and swelling waves won't be missing around the House That Ruth Built now that Steinbrenner has hired Alred Manuel "Bad Billy" Martin for a third term as manager of the New York Yankees — a pact reported unofficially to be $500,000 a year for five years.

"A long term contract for big bucks — more bucks than I expected," said Billy with a smirk.

The folding chairs in Yankee Stadium's Lindsay Room,

'Ice Bowl' contest a distant memory

DALLAS (AP) — The infamous "Ice Bowl" of 1967 is but a distant memory to Tom Landry and Bart Starr.

"I really don't think about it much, but I imagine if we lose Sunday you will remind us," Landry told reporters Tuesday.

Landry was the Dallas coach and Starr was the quarterback for Vince Lombardi. Starr beat the Cowboys with a quarterback sneak in the final seconds of a 21-17 National Football League championship victory in 13-below-zero weather.

Green Bay then went on to win the first Super Bowl.

Starr, now the Packers' coach, brings Green Bay to Dallas Sunday for the first playoff meeting between the two teams since that frosty game 16 years ago.

"Times change and that game has nothing to do with 1967," Starr said in a telephone hookup Tuesday. "Dallas has proven itself over a long period and this group of Packers has not."

"I'm like Bart," Landry said. "I don't worry about the past. It was a great game in a different era. The people are different."

Although Starr beat him on the field, Landry since has befriended Starr.

Landry said he called Starr in 1980 to give him a pep talk because, "I just felt like doing something."

named for the former mayor, were crammed with the cream of the area's journalism. Howard Cosell, with a personal invitation from friend George, headed the TV battery, which included top network personnel. Columnists and beat men abounded.

No other combination — bombastic George and fiery Billy — would be combustible enough to draw so many people to the Stadium on such short notice. The dais was cluttered with microphones. Bulbs of still photographers' cameras turned the room into a fireworks display.

When George and Billy get together, sparks inevitably fly.

The session shortly after noon Tuesday in the Stadium catacombs was hardly 10 minutes old when Martin, explaining how happy he was to be back in pin-stripes and discussing the contract, said:

"I'll be handling all trades."

"What do you mean?" interrupted Steinbrenner.

"There will be no phone calls to the dugout," said Martin.

"That's not right," Steinbrenner shouted. "I'm handling the trades..."

"That's not what we said, George," Martin snapped.

"I have right to call you in the dugout anytime I want," the Yankees owner continued.

"That's not what it's going to be, George," Martin insisted.

"You're damn right it is..." said Steinbrenner as he leaped from his chair and stood nose to nose with his twice-fired, thrice-hired manager.

"... and if you don't like it, you're fired!" yelled Steinbrenner.

"You can't fire me, you haven't hired me yet," bellowed Martin.

Everybody laughed. It was an obvious rehearsed little piece of theatrics aimed at titillating the press. It succeeded. It looked like a live rendition of one of those beer commercials.

Somebody asked George why he had hired Billy again after twice giving him the boot.

"Because he's a winner," said the Yankee boss. "Just look at the list of managers in the back of the Baseball Register. Only two or three are winners. Billy is a winner. If you want to have a winning team, you've got to go with a winner."

You have to give George credit. The big ledger shows Billy to be the best man around for turning sow's ears into silk purses — and quickly. He did it at Minnesota, Detroit, Texas, Oakland and New York twice.

He has had the same faculty for getting fired, but that's the name of the game in this business — managerial musical chairs.

Billy, who with his rakish mustache and swaggering posture reminds you of one of those gun-slingers on TV, swears this will be his final stop. And, in that, Steinbrenner voices a strong "amen."

We hope it's true. For New York, the home of Broadway, this is a great act. Both personalities are thespians at heart. Steinbrenner is brash, bossy, impetuous, quick in tongue and action. Billy is a 5-11, 175-pound vial of hydroglycerine — volatile. Prick him with a pin and he'll explode.

Yet he's a fascinating individual. In a bar room, he may wind up in a brawl. Put him in a dugout and he's all business, intense, instinctive, with an insatiable urge to win.

"Pinstripes stick on you," said Billy. "This is where I started (as a fiery second base pet of Casey Stengel in the 1960s). 'I got a thrill just coming back to Yankee Stadium. I think it's great.'"

Both Steinbrenner and Martin said their past feuds were not waged head-to-head but through others.

"We never talked to each other. It was all done through other people. This time there will be no middle man. I will work directly with him."

"We won't need anything like that. Billy can stir up enough excitement on his own."

"I'm perfectly comfortable with him."

"And I'm happy," said Billy.

Aw, war and peace, both wonderful.

Ann Landers

Using as birth control

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have thought hard and long on the subject, and at the age of 31 I've decided I do NOT want children. If I were forced to carry to term, I would be a lousy mother. Although I am an affectionate and loving person, well-liked by my nieces and nephews, I don't think I have it in me to be a good mother.

Now for the real problem: For the second time in eight months I became pregnant. I felt sick and miserable both times and had abortions. I felt awful about the abortions, especially since my sister is dying to have a baby and can't seem to get pregnant.

Don't tell me I should have had those babies and given them to her. My fiancé was totally opposed to the idea and I agreed with him that it would have been a continuing problem for all concerned.

The real dilemma is I can't find a contraceptive that works. I became pregnant while using the diaphragm and the pill. (I tried the IUD, got a terrible infection, landed in the hospital and had to have it removed surgically.)

I have asked my gynecologist to sterilize me but he refused because I am only 31 years old. What now? — Newark Dilemma

DEAR NEWARK: Have you talked to your fiancé about a vasectomy? It can be done in such a way that if he changes his mind, a surgeon would be able to reverse it.

I have stated in this space that I am pro-choice, but I am not in favor of abortion as a method of birth control — and this is what you've been doing. If your fiancé refuses to have a vasectomy, I suggest that you have a tubal ligation. Since your present doctor won't do it, find one who will.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about a 72-year-old junkie. My mother. For at least 25 years she has taken Valium, Librium, phenobarbital or Tuinal every day and sleeping pills every night. All of these are legitimate drugs, prescribed by her physician. She claims they are for her heart, although she has no history of cardiac problems.

The woman is cranky, forgetful and a menace behind the wheel of a car. I worry about her constantly.

I've talked to my own doctor about my mother, and he says she can't be rehabilitated because she refuses to admit she has a problem. I am sure he is right. But perhaps if you print my letter, Ann, she will read it and something might soak in. Also, many older people in your reading audience who are deeply concerned about drug abuse by their grandchildren may suddenly realize that they are in the same bag.

Thank you, dear lady. I'll be — Watching And Waiting In Washington

DEAR W AND W IN W: Your physician is right. It's impossible to help an addict who refuses to acknowledge that she is hooked. I'm printing your letter on the outside chance that seeing the words on a printed page will somehow make a dent. YES, MOM ... I MEAN YOU. Go at once to another doctor and ask for help. Your friendly physician who has been keeping you zombie-zilled all these years has not exactly covered himself with glory.

Popular comedy begins tonight at Country Squire Dinner Theatre

Wintertime brings a Neil Simon comedy, "Last of the Red Hot Lovers," and two popular performers, Viki Boyle and Larry Randolph, to the stage of Amarillo's Country Squire Dinner Theatre, located at I-40 and Grand. The comedy opens tonight and continues until mid-February, on Wednesday through Sunday evenings. Buffet food service begins at 6:30 p.m., with showtime at 8 p.m.

Ms. Boyle returns to the Country Squire by popular request of area theatergoers after an absence of three years. Since her last Amarillo stage appearances, she has been working in New York doing movie, television, and film work.

She will soon be seen in a new Woody Allen film, as yet untitled, and in an NBC special, "Rage of Angels," with Jacklyn Smith and Ken Howard. Ms. Boyle is currently appearing on television in three national commercials for a New York bank, a candy manufacturer, and a vitamin company.

Country Squire audiences will remember Ms. Boyle for hit performances in such productions as "Boeing, Boeing," "Don't Drink the Water," and "I Do! I Do!" Randolph, also a top favorite with area audiences, has appeared with such stars as Patrick Wayne, Don Ameche, Virginia Mayo, Bob Denver, and Ron Ely. He most recently appeared with Charles Franklin, in "The Odd Couple."

Tour takes residents to Los Angeles area

Robert and Alice Thompson, escorts for Trailways Tours, recently returned from their annual Tournament of Roses tour. Accompanying them from Hereford were J.O. and Susie Robinson, Elizabeth Willis, and Nadine Hill. In all, there were 71 travelers on two buses.

Leaving Amarillo on Dec. 28, the group journeyed by way of El Paso and Phoenix to the Los Angeles area. From El Paso, they went across the river for a dinner show at the Plaza Juarez, which featured a native Mexican mariachi band.

While in the Los Angeles area, the tourists visited Hollywood, walked along the "Mile of Stars," and took a tour of Universal Studios. On New Year's Day, they viewed the Rose Parade from reserved seats and then attended the Rose Bowl game that afternoon.

After a day at Disneyland, the travelers journeyed to San Diego for a two-night stay at the Travelodge Tower Hotel on Harbor Island. They visited the San Diego Zoo, took a sightseeing cruise in San Diego Harbor, and had dinner aboard the Reuben E. Lee, a floating seafood restaurant.

From San Diego, the group traveled to Las Vegas for a dinner show at the MGM Grand Hotel. Later, several attended shows at other hotels on the Las Vegas Strip, including the Stardust, Circus, and Frontier. The group was housed at the Union Plaza Hotel in downtown Las Vegas.

The tourists returned to Amarillo Thursday, visiting Hoover Dam and Lake Meade on their way home.

respectively; Edna Reinart was named communications chairperson; Nell Culpepper was named finance chairperson; and Eloise McDougal will head the nominating committee, other members of which are Claudia McBrayer and Betty Koelzer.

Church representatives include Ruth Kerr and Sherrie Wilson, First Presbyterian; Patsy Gonzales and Janie Corona, San Jose Catholic; Francis Parker and Olivia Brown, First Christian; Clovis Seego and Helen Eades, First Baptist; Rosalia Gilbreath and Betty Koelzer, St. Anthony's Catholic.

Also, Clara Trowbridge, Wesley United Methodist; Leta Kaul and Shelley Burelsmith, Community Church; Claudie McBrayer, St. Thomas Episcopal; Jeanie Galley, Assembly of God; and Carole Armor and Wilma Goetsch, First United Methodist.

Church Women United will celebrate the Week of Prayer for Christian Unity Jan. 18-25. Other annual celebrations include the World Day of Prayer in March, May Fellowship Day, and World Community Day in November. Executive board meetings will precede each of these ecumenical celebrations and are scheduled for Feb. 11, April 22, and Oct. 14. The president, Mrs. Hanna, gave each member present a copy of the by-laws and a diagram of the structure of Church Women United on the local and national levels. A budget was approved.

Mrs. Hanna introduced the First United Methodist Church minister and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. J. Weldon Butler. He gave a short welcome and message to the 21 members present.

Today In History

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 12, the 12th day of 1983. There are 353 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On Jan. 12, 1945, German forces in Belgium retreated in the Battle of the Bulge during World War II.

On this date: In 1919, the U.S. House of Representatives rejected a proposal to give women the right to vote.

In 1944, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and French General Charles de Gaulle held a wartime conference in Marrakesh, Morocco.

In 1958, the Soviet Union proposed a zone free of nuclear weapons from the Arctic Circle to the Mediterranean.

In 1981, supporters of Puerto Rican independence claimed responsibility for a string of pre-dawn bombings that destroyed several warplanes at a U.S. National Guard base in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

One year ago: Polish authorities said they wanted to end martial law by Feb. 1, and that Solidarity leader Lech Walesa might be included in future talks on labor unions in Poland.

Today's birthdays: Baseball star Bill Madlock is 32.

Thought for today: "A man must not swallow more beliefs than he can digest." - Havelock Ellis, U.S. psychologist (1859-1939)

WHAT DOES GOD THINK OF ISRAEL?

When I looked around me again, I saw a man carrying a yardstick in his hand. "Where are you going?" I asked. "To measure Jerusalem," he said. "I want to see whether it is big enough for all the people!" Then the angel who was talking to me went over to meet another angel coming toward him. "Go tell this young man," said the other angel, "that Jerusalem will some day be so full of people that she won't have room enough for all! Many will live outside the city walls, with all their many cattle - yet they will be safe. For the Lord Himself will be a wall of fire protecting them and all Jerusalem; he will be the glory of the city. The Lord of Glory has sent me against the nations that oppressed you, for he who harms you sticks his finger in Jehovah's eye! "I will smash them with my fist and their slaves will be their rulers! Then you will know it was the Lord of Hosts who sent me. Sing, Jerusalem, and rejoice! For I have come to live among you," says the Lord. At that time many nations will be converted to the Lord, and they too shall be my people; I will live among them all. Then you will know it was the Lord of Hosts who sent me to you. And Judah shall be the Lord's inheritance in the Holy Land, for God shall once more choose to bless Jerusalem." (Zechariah 2:1-5, 8-12)

AUSTIN (AP) — New Speaker Gib Lewis, a Fort Worth printer, today begins his efforts to put his label on the Texas House of Representatives.

The formality of being elected to the powerful leadership role was smoothly accomplished Tuesday. Today he will try to win approval for changes in House procedures.

Lewis, president of a gummed label printing business, coasted to victory in the speaker's election Tuesday, the opening day of the 68th Legislature. The Fort Worth Democrat wrapped up a long race for the speakership with a 144-2 victory among his House colleagues.

Carlyle Smith, D-Grand

Prairie, and Milton Fox, R-Houston, voted against Lewis, the only nominee. Smith wanted to be speaker. Fox is Smith's close friend.

Lewis replaced Bill Clayton, a four-term speaker who did not seek re-election to the House last year.

The election of Lewis is a reflection of Texas' shift to an urban state, according to his backers.

"Gib Lewis knows that Texas is an urban state, and that the needs of urban residents are at a crossroads," said Rep. Senfonia Thompson, D-Houston.

In her seconding speech on the House floor, Mrs. Thompson said Lewis would "assure us that the urban residents get a fair cut of the pie." Lewis showed his broad-based support by drawing seconding speeches from black, white, Mexican-American and Republican legislators.

Even a lawmaker from Dallas — Fort Worth's neighboring rival — stood to praise Lewis.

Lee Jackson, R-Dallas, noted that Lewis was the first speaker from Tarrant County.

"We in Dallas County join in saying it's time for Fort Worth to have its due. After all, Fort Worth runs our baseball team and we're confident that Gib Lewis can do a much better job directing the affairs of our Texas House of Representatives," Jackson said, referring to the Texas Rangers, an American League team owned by Eddie Chiles of Fort Worth that has had a lousy record in recent years.

Rep. Mike Milsap, D-Fort Worth, said Lewis was the first urban speaker since 1947, when Dallasite W.O. Reed was in charge.

In his acceptance speech, Lewis talked of rule changes "designed for the benefit of each of us individually and for all of us collectively."

"These rule changes are intended to vest more control and responsibility in the individual members and committees of this House," he said.

Lewis wants to scrap the seniority system of selecting appropriations committee members. Under the current system, half the seats on all major House committees are doled out on basis of seniority.

Committee assignments will be made by Lewis "within the next few days," he said.

He promised to make committee selections based on "particular talents and interests" of members. Lewis said the seniority system should not be the "sole, overriding consideration in the selection process."

Smith, said the Lewis plan was an effort to take over control of the appropriations committee — "the committee that spends the money."

"My worst fears are seeming to be recognized," he said of the proposed committee change.

Lewis favors keeping the constitutional rule that slows House action during the first 60 days. Under the Texas Constitution, the first 60 days of the session are limited to bill introduction, action on emergency appropriations, committee hearings and consideration of matters tagged "emergency" by the governor.

For 50 years, until the 1981 session, the House routinely came up with the four-fifths vote needed to suspend the rule and get the session rolling. In 1981, however, the rule stayed intact — giving Gov.

Bill Clements added power in the early days of that session. Lewis and others believe leaving the rule in effect would give Gov.-elect Mark White time to get his legislative program together. Rule foes, however, contend it gives too much power to the governor.

States struggling to make jobless benefit payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — High unemployment has forced officials in 21 states to borrow heavily from the federal government to assure nonstop payment of jobless benefits.

As a consequence, the U.S. Treasury is owed more than $10.7 billion by these states, and only about $2.8 billion of that must be repaid with interest. Prior to April 1, 1982, the loans were interest-free.

Alabama, for instance, had to borrow $82 million from the federal government this week when the state exhausted its unemployment fund reserve in the face of 15.3 percent joblessness.

Federal law allows states which have exhausted unemployment funds to borrow, virtually without question, from the Treasury.

Jack Hashian of the Employment and Training Administration said that for the most part, requests for loans are routinely honored because states cannot legally cease jobless benefit payments to eligible recipients.

"The state will approach us and say they're about to run out of money," Hashian said. "There's no big hassle about borrowing the money."

But Hashian added in an interview that these loans now must be paid back with 10 percent interest. Congress amended the law requiring the interest payments, effective last April 1, "thinking perhaps states would be a little more eager to repay these as soon as possible."

The overall, seasonally adjusted national unemployment rate stood at 10.8 percent of the labor force in December with more than 12 million people out of work. Less than half of those officially listed as unemployed are eligible to receive jobless benefit checks.

Rising unemployment has placed severe strains on the states' ability to meet legal requirements for payment of regular unemployment benefits, which average 26 weeks, but range as high as 34 weeks for jobless people with dependents in the District of Columbia and Wisconsin.

Nationally, a weekly unemployment check averages $115, compared to $87 during the previous deep recession in 1975-76, which was brought on by the Arab oil embargo. The payments range from $211 weekly in West Virginia to $84 in Indiana.

From October 1981 to October 1982, unemployment rose in every state. But joblessness has been very high in the industrial Northeast and Midwest, in some Southern and Sun Belt states and in Oregon.

The heaviest borrowers are Michigan, Pennsylvania, Illinois, and Ohio.

In Michigan, where a slump in the auto manufacturing industry has produced 17.6 percent unemployment, officials borrowed almost $2.2 billion from the federal government through Dec. 31, according to the figures.

Hearing considered key to heirs' claims

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — Some descendants of Spaniards and Mexicans who lost thousands of acres of prime Texas real estate a century ago hope to find out this week if Mexico can be ordered to compensate them for the land.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Hogan of Washington will hear arguments Thursday on a motion by the Mexican government to dismiss the heirs' $1 billion class-action suit.

Members of a Edinburg-based group, Asociacion de Reclamantes, contend Mexico has welched on its 1941 promise to compensate the more than 20,000 descendants.

One of them, 42-year-old Yolanda Zarate, says her great great-grandfather once held claim to more than 600,000 acres of Texas land, including part of what is now the King Ranch.

But she says money is not the only issue in the 1981 suit.

"The priority to us is to settle this historical matter that never was settled to the final point," she said Tuesday.

The suit is filed on behalf of the descendants of those who held original land grants to 12 million acres in frontier Texas.

Washington attorney Robert Salazar agrees Mexico has failed to live up to its promise to compensate the descendants, but says the American government also is at fault for not ensuring those land-grant rights were respected.

He said the Mexican government has promised to pay its debt "when the condition of its treasury permitted."
