Hospital district passes $9.8 M budget

Hospital revenues are projected to go up by $2.5 million during year

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor-Publisher

A budget of $9.8 million was formally approved by directors of Deaf Smith County Hospital District during a regular meeting Tuesday night. Revenues are projected to increase by approximately $2.5 million in the new fiscal year.

Last year's budget was $6.3 million but the actual expenditures totaled about $9 million. Revenues and expenses went over the projections, and the hospital wound up showing a net of $226,796.

In other business, directors: --Formally approved the lease of the Birdsong building on E. Park Avenue and the professional offices at the Reid building on N. 25 Mile Avenue.

--Approved physician credentials for Dr. Howard Haysom, physician assistant D. Ron Brock, and 11 emergency room doctors.

--Decided to use Brown Graham

& Co. again for the 1992-93 audit report, and to use Brandon Durbin Associates of Lubbock for the annual cost report.

--Heard the medical staff report from Dr. Jesse Perales, the monthly operation and financial reports, and the quality management report from Nancy Griego.

Directors also had a surprise visit from supermodel "JoLene," who thanked the board and Hereford Regional Medical Center for its support of the United Way campaign.

The new budget projected gross revenues of $13,227,844. Medicare and Medicaid contractals reduced the total by $4,635,034, and bonded debt requirements ($110,000) drop the operating revenue total to $8,482,810. Ad valorem tax revenue ($1,007,000) and state disproportionate share revenue ($381,931) bring the net revenue to $9,871,741.

The budget projects operational expenses of $9,049,089; capital expenditures of $644,565, and notes and leases of $113,735 for a total of $9,807,409. The budget reflects a cash reserve increase of $64,332.

Ron Rives, hospital CEO, reported that the Birdsong building has been leased at $1,200 a month to house the Rural Health Clinic. The clinic has been open 11 days and 206 patients were seen. Offices at the Reid building were leased for the use of visiting cardiology and orthopedic physicians. Lease price is $1,400 a month.

The board formally approved the two leases. However, the visiting orthopedic surgeon decided this week that he will not continue his practice here. Rives interviewed another surgeon this week who is interested in establishing a fulltime practice.

Board members present for the meeting were John Perrin, Merle Clark, Jo Beth Shackelford, Paul Abalos, Boyd Foster and Mal Manchec. Scott Turner was absent.

Testimony in murder trial starts

Testimony in a murder trial began Tuesday afternoon in 222nd District Court after a jury of eight women and four men was seated to hear the evidence against Esequiel Mendoza Jr., 21, charged with the gunshot death of 19-year-old Santos Rincon III.

The prosecution alleges that Mendoza shot Rincon in the early hours of Jan. 16 during a fight between two other men. The incident occurred at a car wash at South 25 Mile Avenue and Fuller Street.

A motion to suppress evidence, filed by the defense attorney, William C. Sowder of Lubbock, was denied Wednesday morning by District Judge David Wesley Gulley. The defense claimed the alleged murder weapon, a rifle, was obtained by officers illegally.

After Rincon was shot, he was taken by private automobile to Hereford Regional Medical Center where he was pronounced dead.

Mendoza was arrested by law enforcement officers the same night.

Testimony Tuesday afternoon centered on an exchange between Mendoza and another man, Kelly Christie, in a convenience store prior to the fight at the car wash. Christie left the store and was not involved later in a fight between Johnny Rincon and Moses Diaz at the car wash.

Patrick Rhodes testified about events in the convenience store and at the car wash. During examination by Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul, Rhodes reported two shots were fired, the second striking Santos Rincon III.

Testimony on the defense motion and the gun allegedly used in the shooting was given by a Hereford police officer, Israel Silva; Gene Geringer, investigator for the criminal district attorney, and Estrella Castillo Mendoza, wife of the defendant.

Jurors were not in the courtroom when the motion to suppress evidence was argued.

Clinton faces Senate over deployments

WASHINGTON (AP) - Having fought off a Republican attempt to prevent U.S. troops from serving under foreign command, President Clinton faces a sterner Senate challenge to his authority to send forces to Haiti and Bosnia.

The Senate turned aside a measure Tuesday night that would have barred the use of funds on any United Nations operations in which U.S. soldiers were under the operational command of a foreign officer.

The vote was 65-33, with 11 Republicans joining 54 Democrats in opposing the amendment to the fiscal 1994 defense spending bill.

Instead, the Senate resoundingly approved a non-binding resolution calling on the president to consult Congress before placing any troops under foreign command and asking for a report within 48 hours.

The measure expressed the sense of the Senate that U.S. troops "must be under the operational control of qualified commanders and must have clear, effective and robust command and control arrangements."

The vote was 96-2, with Sens. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, in opposition.

Congressional discontent and outright anger with the administration's foreign policy has erupted in a series of congressional challenges to Clinton's power as commander in chief.

"I think the administration has been given a warning light," Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said of the two days of debate and subsequent votes.

Frustration with Clinton and his foreign agenda crosses party lines. Democratic Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia objected to the White House's Somalia policy last week.

Supermodel hug

JoLene, the supermodel who is donating her time to the United Way of Deaf Smith County fund drive, hugs Hereford Regional Medical Center CEO Ron Rives during a surprise appearance Tuesday at the hospital's board meeting. JoLene thanked the hospital board and staff for their support of the United Way and its fundraising efforts.

Hereford's two banks say deposits up over last year

Deposits in Hereford's two banks totaled $136.3 million at the close of business Sept. 30, 1993, according to published statements this past week.

Both local banks showed increased deposits over this time last year. First National Bank reported deposits of $68.7 million, which was up about two million over a year ago. FNB's loans totaled $45.7 million, an increase of about $7 million, and assets were up about $4 million to $78.7 million.

Hereford State Bank recorded deposits of $67.6 million, up about $4 million over a year ago. Loans were $36 million, a hike of $500,000 over a year ago, while assets were up by $3.3 million to a total of $74.7 million.

In addition to the two banks, Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union also reported deposits of $22 million as of Sept. 30, which was $2.6 million less than the same time last year. Loans totaled $10.7 million. Deposits for the local branch of AmWest Savings were not reported.

Top students not responsible about sex, AIDS, alcohol

By CAROLE FELDMAN
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Even top high school students display a "startling lack of responsibility" about pregnancy, AIDS and drunken driving, according to a survey that also revealed rampant cheating in the nation's schools.

The survey of 1,957 juniors and seniors - all with at least a B average - by Who's Who Among American High School Students found that principals and teachers have a lot more to worry about than academic skills.

For example, one in three of the students surveyed knows someone who brought a gun or knife to school. One in five of the girls was sexually assaulted; in one-third of the cases the assailant was another student.

More than half the students reported frequent fights among students, and nearly 17 percent of them said a teacher in their schools had been attacked. Gangs were reported in suburban, as well as urban schools.

Twenty percent of boys said they either owned or had access to a handgun.

"High school is a very dangerous place today," said Paul Krouse, publisher of the Who's Who Among American High School Students reference book.

Nevertheless, only 12 percent of the students said they felt unsafe at school - which Krouse said was "surprising considering the level of firepower and mayhem around them."

The 24th annual Survey of High Achievers, which was released Tuesday, indicated that top students were no different than other teens in being willing to take risks.

Nineteen percent of the boys surveyed and 27 percent of the girls reported that they had sex. Sixty percent said they were concerned about contracting AIDS when having sex, but 52 percent of the boys and 40 percent of the girls said they would engage in sex even if a condom were not available.

"They show a startling lack of responsibility about their physical welfare," the reference book publisher said in a statement. "AIDS doesn't scare them. Pregnancy does, but not enough to make them take precautions consistently."

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Prosecutors say criminal charges against U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison will go before a second grand jury if a legal error causes her case to be dismissed.

Mrs. Hutchison's indictment last month as well as over 500 other indictments, including that of convicted killer Kenneth McDuff, are in jeopardy due to an improperly empaneled grand jury.

Following a defense motion, Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle acknowledged that a grand juror who heard Mrs. Hutchison's case and others should have been excluded because of a 1988 theft charge that accuses him of writing a hot check for $20.04 to a grocery store.

"Senator Hutchison has raised a legal technicality which could result in the dismissal of her indictments and a delay in her trial," Earle said.

"In that event, the state will present its evidence against Mrs. Hutchison to another grand jury and fully prosecute this case."

Mrs. Hutchison's attorney Dick DeGuerin said the technical miscue was due to "sloppy work by the state."

Prosecutors said the mistake was because there is no established system for criminal history checks of a potential grand juror.

The senator's spokesman, David Beckwith, said Mrs. Hutchison would be found innocent of any charges if a second grand jury were to consider the case.

"I am confident that a fairly-selected grand jury, one with six Republicans and six Democrats, will not indict Sen. Hutchison," Beckwith said.

A final decision on whether the case against Mrs. Hutchison, a Republican, will have to be reinvestigated may come this week, said assistant district attorney Claire Dawson-Brown.

"We are going to be reviewing and studying the law about what we need to do with these indictments," Ms. Brown said. "We want to exhaust all the possibilities of saving them."

Mrs. Hutchison, 50, was indicted last month on charges of using her previous office as state treasurer for personal and political gain and then destroying records as part of coverup.

She resigned her 2-1/2-year tenure as treasurer after winning a landslide victory June 5 to Lloyd Bentsen's vacated Senate seat. She is the first woman senator from Texas and the 10th sitting senator ever to be indicted.

Motions were filed Monday by Mrs. Hutchison's attorneys, claiming the grand jury that indicted her was improperly empaneled.

The motions claim grand juror

Melvin Wrenn should have been excluded because the charge of theft by check is pending against him.

Texas law states that a grand juror "must not be under indictment or other legal accusation for theft or of any felony."

Wrenn's attorney Sam Buford said Tuesday that his client did not know there was a warrant for his arrest until the motions were filed Monday. Buford said he paid restitution for Wrenn "within the hour" of learning about the charge.

"Had he known (there was a pending theft charge), he would not have served on the grand jury," Buford said. "He's very sad about it. He respects the grand jury system."

Legal experts said because the theft charge was five years old, it would not have been found in a check of the National Crime Information Computer, which dumps misdemeanor charges after two years.

"This is the problem with the system," Ms. Brown said. "Checks can be run on the state and national computer, but it's not uncommon that theft by check of a small nature won't show up on computer. People don't know that they have a charge against them."

Every indictment handed up by that Travis County grand jury now can be challenged.

Saadi Ferris, foreman of the grand jury, said those indictments number as many as 600 and include a capital murder case against notorious Texas killer McDuff.

Last month in Harris County, about 525 indictments returned in Houston were dismissed because of a similar situation. The jury panel's foreman also had been indicted on a charge of theft by check.

Collider supporters still have hope

House rejection of funding called 'disappointing'

By JAY JORDEN
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Super collider administrators and municipal officials say they're disappointed with U.S. House rejection of funding for a second time this year but still hope the multibillion-dollar project can be saved.

Representatives on Tuesday effectively rejected the $22 billion energy and water appropriations conference report that includes funding for the project under construction just south of Dallas.

By a 264-159 vote, members turned down the Clinton administration's request for $640 million for the massive science project.

"It sure would have been nice to get the $640 million and get back to work," said Dr. Roy Schwitters, director of the SSC Laboratory. "We've been three months under the gun, and I think people just want it to end, one way or another. It's really very bad."

The vote caught Waxahachie City Manager Bob Sokoll off guard.

"This is very disappointing to me and probably everybody else here in Waxahachie," Sokoll said. "It goes against the grain of the way things happen in Washington."

"Normally, the Senate and House support what is done by a conference committee," said Sokoll.

After the latest vote, however, House and Senate negotiators now must decide whether to delete the collider money.

Russ Wylie, spokesman for the SSC Laboratory in Dallas designing and building the project and coordinating scientific efforts, said the giant atom smasher has support in the Senate and among conferees.

"The mood is one of deep disappointment," he said. "People have come here from across the country and the world in the belief that our government made a commitment. They are here for science. The decision today is very difficult to accept."

"It is a decision that does not bode well for the country's ability in a reliable and consistent way to invest for the future in projects that take more than a couple of years to complete," he said.

Charles R. Perry, chairman of the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission, also expressed disappointment but said the congressional process was not finished.

"We are hopeful that the joint conference committee will undertake action to retain some level of funding that will keep the SSC project moving forward," he said. "Now, more than ever, America cannot afford to forfeit its position as a world leader in scientific exploration and technological development."

"Perhaps more important, we cannot afford the immediate loss of thousands of jobs and business opportunities in emerging industries at a time when we should be investing in our economy," said Perry, who was in Midland when the vote was announced.

The commission oversees Texas' $1 billion commitment to the collider.

Since the conference report was hammered out last week by House and Senate negotiators, critics had urged lawmakers to restate their opposition to the collider.

"I didn't think that they would do that," said Sokoll. "It did not surprise me on the initial House vote and the Senate vote. But it does surprise me that they don't support the committee."

In the first House debate on collider funding in June, representatives voted 280-150 to pull the plug on the science project.

"It will be difficult to keep this project if they are that emphatic about sending the funding back," Sokoll said. "Everybody here thought we would get the same thing that happened last year."

"If funding came through this year, we would have been over the hump," he said.

Wylie said conferees could accept House members' instructions to terminate the project, compromise on a lesser appropriation or fail to agree.

Twenty-seven of the 29 Texas House members who voted favored saving the collider, and many of them were disappointed with the final count.

"The action we took today is unwise, because it will ultimately cost us tremendously in lost economic activity and productivity, and will also cost us thousands of jobs," Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Austin, said in a prepared statement.

"I don't believe this action was in the best interest of the nation, and we will of course continue to work to keep the funding alive in conference, even though that may be tough to do," Pickle said.

PUC agreement will expand rural service areas

AUSTIN (AP) - Rural Texans soon will be able to petition to expand their local telephone service under an agreement reached by the Public Utility Commission.

"In every part of the fabric of rural Texas this ought to help," Jim Boyle, an attorney representing Texas Communities for Expanded Local Calling Areas, said Tuesday.

Rural residents have long complained of being charged long-distance rates for calls to nearby towns. In many rural areas, calls to the local school, hospital, or employment center carries a long-distance charge.

Earlier this year, the Legislature passed a bill that would allow rural areas to expand their local calling areas. The PUC was told to implement the legislation.

An earlier proposal drawn up before the PUC was criticized by rural residents, who said it would make expansion of local telephone service too expensive, inefficient and difficult to obtain.

Commissioners made numerous changes to the proposal and were expected to sign off on the final agreement within the next few days. The measure could take effect in early November.

"We made a lot of progress in terms of the rule being put into form that could expand local calling service and do it in an expeditious way," said Boyle.

"Hopefully, early next year a lot of these areas will have expanded local calling and be able to get the kind of service that many people have in urban areas."

The PUC agreed to cap the charge for each telephone exchange that is added to the local calling area to $3.50 per month for residential lines, and $7 per month for business customers.

The PUC also made more flexible a 22-mile maximum between calling regions, saying the distance could be marked off at points that are more advantageous to the customers.

But commissioners also noted that by limiting the rural charge, additional costs may be charged to customers across the state.

Free guide explains mutual funds

Manage a portfolio of mutual funds? Most of us do well to balance our checkbooks. And isn't leaving investments to the professionals the whole point of investing in mutual funds?

Well, yes...and no. Yes, it's smart to leave the day-to-day details to the pros who have expertise and access to information. But according to "Guide to Managing Your Portfolio of Mutual Funds," recently published by American Capital, a Houston-based investment management and research firm, it's a good idea to stay involved in the process.

The best strategy, say the authors of this eight-page booklet, is to spread your investments over several mutual funds. With a mix of funds that will do well in different points over the economic and market cycles, you reduce your exposure to risk and gain assurance of meeting your investment goals.

This free, easy-to-read booklet - replete with simple explanations and definitions of basic concepts - makes managing a portfolio of funds sound easy, and even fun. It offers practical advice on how to:

- Select a diversified portfolio of funds.
- Reduce financial risk.
- Focus your personal objectives.
- Know when it's time to get out of a fund.

CHICAGO (AP) - First there was Air Jordan. Next ... Flu Jordan?

In case the three NBA championship rings and the two Olympic gold medals weren't enough, Michael Jordan has a new honor: a strain of salmonella that bears his name.

Dr. Stanford Shulman, chief of infectious diseases at Children's Memorial Hospital, discovered the strain last winter and named it "Salmonella mjordan."

Shulman insisted that it was appropriate to honor "the greatest basketball player in history" with an organism that causes diarrhea, severe headaches, abdominal pain and other discomfort.

Jordan's agent, David Falk, said his managers want to keep the use of Jordan's name to a minimum. But he accepted the honor, albeit reluctantly: "I think if he did it as a tribute, it is a nice tribute."

To Our Clients, Friends, and Referral Sources:

The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993 is now official. But, it wasn't easy! Up until the final moments of debate, there was great uncertainty that it would muster enough support. The bill was passed by both the House and the Senate by very slim margins on August 5 and August 6, respectively.

We would like to extend an invitation to you to attend a special seminar on the Tax Law Changes of 1993. For your convenience, we have scheduled two separate sessions. We will cover the new law and other interesting court cases and IRS Rulings in more depth and provide you with planning tips on how to make the most of the new law. The date, times, and place are listed below. Please give Vel or Kathy a call at 364-3740 if you would like to attend.

Hereford spikers hurt 'Horns

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

Hereford's volleyball team pounded Caprock 15-2, 15-2 Tuesday in Amarillo, bringing the Lady Whitefaces very close to clinching a playoff berth for the sixth straight year.

Hereford is 6-2 in District 1-4A (21-6 overall) with two matches left to play. Borger and Pampa, tied for third before Tuesday's matches, both lost, giving them 4-4 district records. Hereford plays at Borger Saturday and hosts Pampa Tuesday; a win in either match would clinch second place in the district.

Dumas (8-0, 21-6) beat Borger 15-

3, 15-5 Tuesday to clinch at least a share of the district championship. The Demonettes clinched the top playoff spot with two district wins over Hereford.

Randall got only its second district win by shocking Pampa 15-3, 18-16.

At the Caprock Activity Center, the first game went quickly and ended on a Melissa Berend ace. Hereford took a 9-2 lead in the second game before the match's only extended period of both teams trading sideouts. Tarabeth Holmes got a kill to start Hereford scoring again, and Caprock made errors to give Hereford its last four points.

Hereford's defense kept Caprock from scoring points throughout the match.

"Our defense was much more aggressive than in the past couple of matches. There was very little that we didn't make an attempt at," coach Brenda Reeh said. "(Caprock's) offense was out of sync, and we got a lot of free balls. And our hitters took good swings at the ball"

Danielle Cornelius registered nine kills and Katie Young added eight. Kara Sandoval had 19 assists on offense and seven digs on defense.

From the service line, Aimee Alley scored 15 points on 17 good serves and one ace.

"I think our kids are starting to realize the necessity of playing at the level they're capable of instead of the level of the team we're playing against," Reeh said.

Hereford's junior varsity beat the Caprock JV 15-6, 15-11, ensuring Hereford of the best record in the District 1-4A JV circuit.

The Herd JV has eight wins and no losses in district, including two wins over the Dumas JV. Hereford is 23-4 overall.

Against Caprock, Clarissa Ramirez had seven service points in the first game, and Tawana Drager had five in the second game.

Hereford boys win two rodeo events

Hereford boys won two events at Saturday's Tri-State High School Rodeo Association rodeo in Wellington.

Tennis match postponed

The team tennis match between Hereford and Canyon planned for Tuesday was rained out.

Hereford coach Ed Coplen said they'd try to play the match after school Thursday in Canyon.

Justin Henderson took first in the bareback riding event with 68 points, while Cloudy Kidd and Chancy Franks won team roping with a time of 7.572.

Chasity Rickman placed fifth in two events; she had a time of 17.989 seconds in barrel racing and a time of 14.519 in breakaway roping.

Shannon Wells placed sixth in bull riding with 66 points.

The next Tri-State rodeo will be Saturday at Range Riders Arena in Amarillo.

Red Raiders gain spoils of victory

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - The Red Raider victory that lifted team morale also garnered individual honors for quarterback Robert Hall and free safety Marcus Coleman.

Coleman was named Associated Press Southwest Conference Defensive Player of the Week. Hall shared offensive honors with Southern Methodist quarterback Mark Eldred.

Coleman recorded 11 tackles, including seven unassisted, in Texas Tech's 45-16 romp over Rice.

"I worked pretty hard," said Coleman, a sophomore. "I'd been pretty consistent, but I came to the game with a little more focus than usual."

Coleman also broke up two passes as the Red Raider defense shut down the Owls, who had averaged 27.6 points before Saturday. It was the first Tech victory since Labor Day weekend.

"I was happy for myself and my teammates," Coleman said. "We have our heads up now, going to the Texas game (Oct. 30) with confidence."

Like Hall, Eldred threw for three touchdowns and rushed for another score. But the Mustangs settled for a 28-all tie with Houston.

Hall blew away three school records in completing 21 of 28 passes for 336 yards. He set new marks for career passing (6,924 yards), career touchdown passes (41) and career touchdowns (56).

"Robert just continues to amaze me," Red Raiders coach Spike Dykes said. "He's played great the last two weeks, and he just does so many things so well."

"There was too much Robert Hall out there, period," Rice coach Fred Goldsmith acknowledged in the locker room.

Hall ignited the offense from the second play, when he hit Mitchell for a 51-yard touchdown. He also threw TD passes of 44 yards to Jayson Lavender and 16 yards to Roger Corn, and he ran six yards into the end zone.

In SMU's game, Eldred started in place of Ramon Flanigan, who was bothered by a bruised shoulder.

Eldred threw for 399 yards and completed 22 of 38 attempts - one of which, an 85-yard pass to Erwin Wilburn, was the third-longest in school history.

He threw TD passes of 69 yards to Brian Berry, 17 yards to Wilburn and 14 yards to Kevin Shepard. He also ran for a 1-yard score at the Astrodome.

"It couldn't have happened at a better place," said Mustangs coach Tom Rossley. "The Astrodome is near his hometown of Richmond, and he had a lot of friends and family at the game."

"I felt confident knowing that everyone was behind me," Eldred said. "I saw this as my chance to get the team a win. I made a few bad passes, but hit some big plays."

UIL mulls moving hoops tourney

AUSTIN (AP) - The University Interscholastic League legislative council has commissioned a study on whether the state basketball tournament should be moved from Austin.

The San Antonio Sports Foundation had proposed moving both girls and boys tournaments to the new Alamodome.

The council on Tuesday instructed the UIL staff to study moving the tournament to San Antonio, Dallas, Houston or other cities. Results will be presented at the meeting of the standing Committee on Athletics in June, UIL athletic director Bill Farney said.

"We want to emphasize that we have no unhappiness with UT-Austin. It's a great facility, it's limited as far as seats, but it's essentially a problem we'd have anywhere," he said.

Farney said most complaints about the tournament have been about seating.

"We've had very few sellouts. Most complaints have been from coaches who haven't been able to get seats close to the floor," he said.

The council also rejected a proposal that would have allowed Class 4A schools to expand their state playoff formats from two to four teams.

Currently, two 4A schools in each district qualify for the playoffs. The council rejected the proposal because it would water down the playoff system, and only about 60 of the state's 170 4A schools voted on it, Farney said.

The council instructed the UIL staff to study the use of a three-qualifier playoff format, which currently is used in 5A.

The study should be completed in June, and the council will make recommendations for the 1996-97 season at that time, Farney said.

A measure to allow coaches to participate more closely in non-school athletics also was approved Tuesday.

If the measure is approved by the State Board of Education, coaches will be allowed to help organize and select players and coaches starting June 1, 1994.

Current UIL rules allow coaches to participate in the overall organization of summer leagues, but not work directly with youths they may coach during the school season.

"It's just giving coaches a little more leeway to make sure if kids are doing summer non-league, they're doing it legally," Farney said. "They (the coaches) just can't do it on school time."

Molitor-move looks good as Jays rout Phils

By JIM DONAGHY
AP Baseball Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Paul Molitor turned Cito Gaston's difficult decision into an easy Toronto victory.

The Blue Jays were supposed to be at a big disadvantage in Game 3 of the World Series on Tuesday night without a designated hitter. Gaston, taking a defensive risk, announced before the game that Molitor would start at first base instead of AL batting champion John Olerud.

A questionable call, but one that worked out just fine.

Molitor hit a two-run triple in the first inning and a solo homer in the third as the Blue Jays routed the Philadelphia Phillies 10-3 to take a 2-1 lead in the Series.

"It looks like Cito made the right choice tonight," Phillies manager Jim Fregosi said.

Gaston still had a tough decision to make for Game 4. His plan was to use Olerud tonight against right-hander Tommy Greene and bench Molitor. "Olerud will have a hard time following what Paul did tonight," Gaston said.

Molitor also made Gaston look good in the field by starting a difficult 3-6-1 double play in the seventh inning when the Phillies had a rally starting. Gaston didn't even use Olerud as a defensive replacement.

"I caught one at the right time," Molitor said. "I was relaxed at first base, though I wasn't coordinated on a couple of plays. Whatever Cito decides, his players are going to make it work."

It seemed everything the Jays tried in this game worked to near perfection.

The Blue Jays scored three runs in the first inning after the start of the game was delayed one hour, 12 minutes by rain, taking an edge off the 62,689 fans at Veterans Stadium.

Rickey Henderson led off with a single against loser Danny Jackson and Devon White walked. Molitor followed with a triple to right-center and Joe Carter hit a sacrifice fly.

Gaston looked like a genius.

Molitor hit a home run to left leading off the third and there was a sense things were decided. Pat Hentgen took advantage of the early lead and left after six innings with a 5-1 advantage.

"I had plenty of time to get ready," Jackson said of the rain delay. "That wasn't the problem I had in the first inning. I was just too strong for some reason." Jackson had eight days off since beating Atlanta 2-1 in Game 4 of the playoffs.

The Blue Jays blew it open with three runs in the seventh and two more in the ninth when many of the fans had already left. In addition to Molitor's great effort, Roberto Alomar was 4-for-5 with two RBIs and two runs scored.

"These guys have been doing this all year," Gaston said. "It's hard to get through this lineup, even without the DH."

Despite Toronto's success in Game 3, the designated hitter situation has become the focus of the World Series.

Olerud is the third batting champ not to be in the starting lineup for the World Series, joining Willie McGee of the 1990 Oakland A's and Chick Hafey of the 1931 St. Louis Cardinals.

Molitor, who will not play third base in the Series for Ed Sprague because of a weak throwing arm, was second to Olerud in AL batting with a .332 average. He had 22 homers, 111 RBIs and 211 hits. Olerud hit .363 and flirted with 400 for several months.

"I think it's bad," Gaston said. "It's not good for the World Series."

The Phillies threatened in the bottom off the first against Hentgen. Mariano Duncan singled with one out and John Kruk singled to right. Carter bobbled the ball for an error, allowing Kruk to take second after Duncan had advanced to third.

Kruk's ball in the hole would have been an easier play for Olerud to handle since he wears his glove on his right hand while Molitor had to make a back-handed attempt.

Hentgen, 13-3 overall on the road this season, escaped the jam by striking out Dave Hollins and Darren Daulton.

"Whether it's Molitor, Olerud or Sprague, you can't lose," said Hentgen, who led the Blue Jays with 19 victories this season. "They're three players who are great offensively and defensively."

Maybe it wasn't such a tough decision for Gaston after all.

Storm of controversy swirls around birth of Oiler's baby

HOUSTON (AP) - Scot Cooper Williams did not enter this world quietly. Or cheaply.

Williams, the newborn son of Houston Oilers starting tackle David Williams, has caused a controversy in Houston that makes the brouhaha over the team's 2-4 start modest by comparison.

David Williams missed his team's game last Sunday at Foxboro, Mass. because he was with his wife following the birth of their son the previous evening. The Oilers said he should have caught a late flight to Boston, and on Tuesday they docked him a week's pay for missing the game.

That check is worth $125,000.

"Because he did not play in the game, he will not receive his game check," the Oilers said in an unsigned statement. "This however, should not be construed or reported as a fine."

Williams and attorney Leigh

Steinberg could not be reached for comment Tuesday night, but Steinberg said Monday he would file a grievance and possibly sue if Williams did not get paid.

Judging from radio call-in shows, a majority of fans support Williams.

That, however, didn't deter the Oilers from withholding his paycheck.

"David was with his wife Debi, to experience the joy of seeing Scot born," the Oiler statement said. "Once the birth had occurred and doctors had assured David that Debi and Scot were doing well, there were approximately 17 hours until the kickoff of Sunday's Oilers-Patriots game."

Scot was born at 6:25 p.m. CDT Saturday.

"At this time, the Oilers did expect David to join his teammates and coaches for the game. There were several connecting flights on Saturday night (after 9 p.m.) that would have gotten David to Boston in plenty of time for Sunday's game.

"In addition, chartering an aircraft to Boston was a possibility."

Steinberg said Williams tried to take a later flight to Boston but could not make the arrangements.

Offensive line coach Bob Young was one of the more vocal Oilers officials who criticized Williams.

"Shoot, I had a baby when I was playing. Ninety percent of the guys have babies when they're playing, but you never miss games. My wife told me she was having a baby and I said, 'Honey, I've got to go play a football game.'"

The Oiler statement emphasized the club was very sensitive to the Williams' plight. Debi Williams had a miscarriage in August 1992.

"This needs to be emphasized," the statement said. "The Oilers were not asking David to choose between witnessing the birth of his first born versus playing in a football game."

Carlson misses big chance

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Cody Carlson was the Houston Oilers starting quarterback for less than a half.

Then he suffered a groin injury in the second quarter of Sunday's 28-14 victory over New England and had to be replaced by Warren Moon, who threw two touchdown passes in the victory that snapped a three-game losing streak.

Now Carlson wonders if he's lost his chance to start again.

"When I got the starting position, it wasn't based on my play this year," Carlson said. "It was based on the fact that we were struggling. If we do what we are capable of and get out and put a winning streak together, we won't need to make changes."

Moon completed 16 of 21 passes for 102 yards and two touchdowns and likely will be the starter for Sunday's game in the Astrodome against winless Cincinnati.

"It's good that we got the win, we needed that more than anything," Carlson said. "Selfishly, it's disappointing because this is an opportunity I've been waiting for for quite a while."

Carlson completed 5 of 9 passes for 46 yards and scored on a 10-yard run before leaving the game. It was on the touchdown run that Carlson suffered his injury.

Neither player is certain what will happen when Carlson is healthy again.

"Nobody has told me anything," Moon said. "It looks as if his injury is pretty serious, but you'd have to ask the coaches."

Oilers trainer Brad Brown said Carlson probably won't be able to practice this week.

And that leads Carlson to wonder if he's missed his best chance to retain the starting job.

Moon and Carlson both benefited from better protection against the Patriots despite a patched up line that included two players with injuries, another with pneumonia and a fourth at a new position.

Mike Munchak returned at guard with a new brace to protect his injured knee. Kevin Donnalley, playing with a fractured thumb, moved to right tackle and replaced absent David Williams and rookie No. 1 pick Brad Hopkins made his first start at left tackle despite a case of pneumonia.

Klingler won't start for Bengals Sunday

CINCINNATI (AP) - David Klingler won't have a homecoming in Houston this year, and the Cincinnati Bengals quarterback says he understands.

Klingler, who is injured, won't start Sunday when the Bengals take on the Houston Oilers in the Astrodome, where he starred for the University of Houston.

Klingler said he accepts Bengals coach Dave Shula's decision to start backup quarterback Jay Schroeder in the Bengals' only trip to Houston this year. The teams could meet in the playoffs, but it's doubtful that Cincinnati, 0-6, will make it that far.

Klingler is ailing with a bruised lower back, an injury aggravated in Sunday's loss to Cleveland when Browns linebacker Clay Matthews sacked him. Schroeder took over the rest of the way, and Shula said Monday that Schroeder will start against the Oilers to give Klingler time to heal.

"Probably the best thing would be for me not to get hit for two weeks," said Klingler, who previously has resisted suggestions that he be redelined.

The Bengals, the NFL's only winless team, have a bye after Sunday's game.

Happy Hill QB climbs onto list of top passers

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
 DALLAS (AP)—Bill Climer's fists got him in trouble in junior high school and landed him at Granbury's Happy Hill Farm, a residential treatment center for troubled youths.

Five years later, Climer's arm has made him one of the most prolific quarterbacks in national high school football history.

Climer continued his amazing totals last Friday by throwing for 735 yards and 11 touchdowns in a 92-64 victory over Abilene Christian High. He completed 41 of 61 passes with only one interception in the private league six-man game.

Climer's achievements have been against six-man defenses, he stacks up well against the top 11-man team passers listed in the 1993 edition of the high school record book compiled by the National Federation of State High School Associations.

The yardage mark is 636 set Nov. 4, 1966, by James L. Hogan Jr. of Newport News, Va. The TD mark of 10 was set in 1990 by Clifton Davis III of Sardis North Panola, Miss.

Climer's numbers aren't just a one-time phenomena. He has amazing totals of touchdowns in a season (60 with three games to play), career (139) and half (eight), which he set two games before.

For the season, he has 2,978 yards and more than 8,000 for his career.

"I was talking to my principal and I said, can you believe this: this low-life freak from a bad neighborhood in Fort Worth playing for a school that people make fun of its name is setting all these records?" Climer joked.

"I appreciate it very much. I don't take it at all for granted."

Climer, 19, once feared he'd never get any recognition because he lives on the school's 500-acre farm about 70 miles outside the Dallas-Fort Worth area and plays in a six-man league of private, mostly religious schools.

But his fame has spread over the last two seasons and any lingering doubts were put to rest Saturday when he attended Texas Christian University's game against Tulane as a guest of the Horned Frogs.

The first person Climer met at a pre-game reception was TCU coach Pat Sullivan, a former Heisman Trophy-winning quarterback.

Climer had barely finished saying his name when Sullivan interrupted him, excitedly saying: "You're the quarterback from Happy Hill Farm!"

"They asked if I was the quarterback with 3,000 yards and I said I don't think I have that many, unless I got it yesterday," Climer said. "So they wanted to know how many yards I had yesterday and I said 735."

"They couldn't believe it." Climer, a 6-1 and 185-pound former junior high school bully, isn't the type to brag about such accomplishments, said his coach and "second father" Gary Rickard.

"He's a very personable kid," Rickard said. "He gets along with other kids real well. He's very competitive, but you can see in his personal life he's missed a lot."

Climer has endured a lot, losing his stepfather and grandmother to cancer within two months last summer.

He also was forced onto the farm five years ago after being kicked out of junior high for fighting too often.

Life at the small school - there's only 75 students in kindergarten through 12th grade - helped him grow up, but also left him wondering how his football skills compared to other teens.

Last summer, he easily passed his first test against public school players by being named the second-best quarterback at a 400-player football camp run by Jay Novacek, the Dallas Cowboys' Pro Bowl tight end.

He would've had a shot at finishing first except for his poor understanding of blocking schemes because his team doesn't use any. The other five players usually go out for passes.

The camp was held at East Texas State University and coaches there have said they'd like Climer to return to play for them. Southwest Texas State also is interested, as are several other junior colleges, which Rickard said would be best for Climer. Climer said he wouldn't mind going back to TCU.

But all that will have to wait. There's three regular season games left and he wants to win them all.

Other outstanding performers from Week 7 of the high school football season:

-DeSoto's Byron Hanspard proved why he's considered among the state's elite running backs in a 40-14 victory over North Mesquite. He carried 22 times for 313 yards and two TDs one day after leaving school early with the flu.

"We would have had better luck trying to tackle the Amtrak out of Dallas," said North Mesquite coach Mark Elam.

-Galveston Ball's John Humphrey accounted for 303 yards of total offense in the first half of a 68-16 slamming of Clear Lake. He rushed for 197 yards on five carries, including TD bursts of 96 and 45 yards; threw a 63-yard TD pass; and returned the game's opening kickoff 43 yards.

-Clifton Hunt rushed for 335 yards and four TDs - including a 91-yarder

- in Rusk's 49-14 victory over Huntington. He also had five tackles and three assists on defense.

-Linden-Kildare's Lamont Zachery rushed for 322 yards and TDs of 74, 51 and 76 yards in a 42-26 loss to Gilmer.

-New Braunfels Canyon's Todd Mitchell continued his steamrolling of Class 4A defenses, rushing for 314 yards and three TDs in a 26-7 victory over Kerrville Tivy.

-Damien Nails rushed for a school-record 282 yards and scored a TD in No. 5 Plainview's 42-0 smacking of Levelland.

-Allen Blackmon of Corpus Christi Flour Bluff rushed for 279 yards and five TDs in a 42-0 victory over Corpus Christi Tuloso-Midway.

-Kingsville's Maurice Caraway rushed for 279 yards and TDs of 44 and 85 yards in a 34-14 victory over Beeville.

-Burkeville junior Jeffery Spikes had 267 yards on 16 carries, including TD runs of 35, 36, 33, 19 and 69 yards in a 45-12 victory over Evadale.

-Cameron's Nathaniel Wells gained 250 yards and scored four TDs on 10 carries in the first half of a 41-14 victory over Troy.

-Lewisville's Dwight Hunter grabbed four interceptions and returned a punt for a touchdown in a 41-7 victory over Denton.

-Rogers linebacker Chris Sisneros had 19 tackles (18 unassisted), returned an interception 46 yards for a TD and recovered a fumble in a 25-7 victory over Academy.

-Jeremy Burnell of Sinton had 21 tackles and two interceptions, including one he returned 99 yards for a touchdown, plus he caused a fumble at his team's 5-yard line in a 39-14 victory over Aransas Pass.

-Wideout Jarrold Hall threw a 43-yard touchdown pass and scored a two-point conversion and Miguel Haro returned a fumble 55 yards for a TD in Dallas Jefferson's 18-6 victory over Dallas Wilson, ending a 30-game winless skid.

-Carrollton Turner ended a 17-game winless streak with a 10-6 victory over Carrollton Smith. Pat Dukes helped end the skid with a key sack.

-D'Andre Hardeman and Byron Godfrey ran over Houston Smiley in North Shore's 35-27 victory. Hardeman had three second-half TDs and 181 yards. Godfrey scored twice and gained 149 yards.

-Juan Mason of West Sabine rushed 12 times for 225 yards and five TDs in a 72-0 victory over Cushing.

Turn know how into success

In an unpretentious strip mall just beyond New York City's imposing skyline, a group of computer whizzes proposes the lofty goal of eliminating sweat shops.

They mean the so-called data sweat shops of the Philippines and other third world countries. There, like scribbling monks from the middle ages who laboriously recopied religious manuscripts, thousands of people spend long hours for little pay retyping information from the United States.

The information goes into computers. Ironically, much of it is already computerized, but some Fortune 2000 firms' computers cannot digest the electronically incompatible material.

In any event, it's all needles, says Mark Gross, founder of Data Conversion Laboratory in Queens, N.Y. The material was incompatible, he says, only because the firm used an incorrect conversion program.

Unfortunately, Gross says, firms ask the wrong computer "software" to do specific tasks, such as turn WordPerfect into Quark, switch MS-Word to troff, convert ATEX into PageMaker, and make Interleaf read Miles 33.

"Generic software solves generic problems," says Gross. "But no one has a generic problem. They have a specific problem that requires specific software."

Gross demonstrated this when General Motors, Sikorsky Aircraft, McGraw-Hill and Novell acquired new technology. The companies found their computers needed to "read" SGML -

Standardized Generalized Markup Language, an emerging standard for document handling.

Conversion was a major task, but Data Conversion succeeded through its unique system of "unwrapping" and then tagging data in a common electronic language.

Another opportunity arose when publisher Ziff-Davis created self-help software for office personal computers. It incorporated hundreds of computer manuals, newsletters and technical reports.

The only problem was, how could the complex multiple data formats of Microsoft, Borland, Lotus, Wordperfect and many more software programs be put into one CD-ROM database?

Again, Gross's firm managed to reconcile the diverse formats.

Data Conversion utilizes a unique "partner" arrangement with other computer firms, including mammoth IBM.

Such techniques combined with foresight have enabled DCL to convert more than one hundred billion characters since its 1981 founding. And analysts say Data Conversion is poised to become a major player in federal information systems.

The company helps many firms convert W-2 employee tax withholding information into the Internal Revenue Service computer's format.

Now, the Securities and Exchange Commission is requiring that all filings comply with its computer format. But most companies are unable to duplicate that format.

QUESTION: "What causes gravity?" asks Staci Paul, a student at West Central Intermediate School.

ANSWER: You asked a question about gravity that still remains a mystery. I can, however, tell you that gravity is the force of attraction between two objects. I can also tell you some effects of gravity.

The strength of gravitation depends on two things. First, it depends on the mass of the object.

Mass is the amount of matter something has. I have more mass than my students. The earth has more gravity than the moon because it has more mass.

The second strength of gravitation depends on the distance between bodies. If we walk on the earth, the pull of gravity is stronger than when we are in the air or in space. In space there is zero or near zero gravity; thus, we call this weightlessness.

The moon has about one-sixth the gravity found on earth. If I weigh 180 pounds on earth, I would weigh about 30 pounds on the moon, even though my mass is the same in both places. If you weigh 60 pounds on earth, you have a smaller mass than I do, so the pull of gravity (weight) is less.

A large rocket must have engines that produce a lot of thrust to overcome the force of gravity and lift it off the ground.

As the rocket soars into space, the force of gravity is less and less because it is going further and further away from the earth.

Without gravity, the universe could not exist. The earth orbits the sun because of the sun's gravity; the moon orbits the earth because of the earth's gravity; the gravity of the moon and sun cause oceans to have high and low tides.

Be grateful that we have gravity. If we didn't, you couldn't drink water from a glass or eat food like we do. Can you see yourself floating around the dining room trying to catch up with a slice of bread?

Working on taking fear out of dangerous waste

In a scenario akin to utopian science fiction, some of the nation's best scientists and technicians are working on turning dangerous waste into harmless gas and water.

To succeed, all they need is to develop some ultra-sophisticated equipment that presently does not exist.

Working out of Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California, the team is pursuing environmentally friendly ways to eliminate or at least significantly reduce backed up waste from weapons production and medical centers.

There are presently few publicly so-called low-level mixed waste, named for its combination of hazardous and radioactive contaminants produced by industry, government, universities and hospitals.

The scientists envision using a heated catalyst or electrochemical mediation to convert the organic components to carbon dioxide and water.

"It's not going to be easy and it's going to be slow going," said project manager Keith Gilbert, adding that such environmentally friendly technologies have never been used on a large scale. "But we think a combination of them may turn out to

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have pain in my hip while walking or when I make a quick lateral movement. A few weeks ago, I had a scan of my aorta and was found to have two aneurysms: one in my chest and one in my thigh near my hip joint. Each are about three inches in size. The surgeon wanted to operate on them, but I'm 83 years of age and do not want to take a chance on the operation.

I had been doing quite a bit of exercise — push-ups and exercise bicycling. The doctor said I should quit exercising but that I could walk, however not to the extent I would get out of breath. I would like your thoughts on this.

DEAR READER: Your doctor does not want you to do anything that would significantly increase your blood pressure. Exercise causes an increase in the amount of blood the heart pumps and will raise blood pressure while exercising. Normal walking should be all right. You can always check your pulse, and if it is going up significantly, your pressure is probably increasing too.

The danger is that one of your two aneurysms will rupture if your blood pressure rises. The common form of aneurysm is caused by a weakening of the wall of an artery so it bulges out, like a bulge on a tire. It may cause no symptoms at all until it ruptures. That is a very dangerous situation. It is important to know if your aneurysms are three inches in length or in diameter. The larger the diameter, the greater the risk that it will rupture.

I know your concern about your age, but 74 percent of elderly patients who have a rupture of an aortic aneurysm die. The risk of death even in the elderly from surgery is not that great, between 2 and 5 percent. The fact that you have two aneurysms that need repair, and one is in the chest, does make surgery a more difficult problem, but it is still a far greater risk to let it go if it is rather large.

I have discussed this point in Special Issue 36-08, Obstructed Leg Arteries and Aortic Aneurysms, which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send $3 with a stamped (52 cents), self-addressed, No. 10 envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/36-08, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077-5537. You might still have some leg pain after surgery if you also have obstruction of the arteries to the leg that cannot be corrected.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My daughter and I have had silicone breast implants for eight and 17 years respectively and are well pleased with the results. Is it likely we may have problems in the future? What kind of symptoms should we be aware of? When would you advise surgical removal of the implants?

DEAR READER: In my opinion, the problem has been blown way out of proportion. Silicone implants have been used for over 30 years without many problems. There is no evidence that silicone implants cause breast cancer. The question of autoimmune diseases is very iffy.

Former President Bush saw his name placed on the biggest ballroom in Texas Monday.

The 31,500-square-foot George Bush Grand Ballroom is in the downtown convention center where Bush debated other Republican presidential hopefuls in 1987 and delivered his presidential acceptance speech in 1988.

Bush admitted that at least one person wondered about the appropriateness of the gesture.

"I mentioned this to my daughter and she said, 'Ballroom? You? You can't dance,'" Bush said.

Don't encourage grubs to overwinter in your lawn

Grubs are one of the most destructive lawn pests; they can destroy an entire lawn by feeding on turf roots.

These nasty little critters are the larvae of several kinds of beetles including May and June beetles; Asiatic, Japanese and masked chafer beetles. The adult beetles do not damage lawns directly, but they lay eggs in the soil. The eggs hatch and the grubs feed on grass roots one to three inches deep in the soil. In late fall, they move deep into the soil to overwinter, and resume feeding in the spring.

If your lawn turns brown in large, irregular patches, especially in the fall, and the brown areas of grass roll up easily like a carpet, look for grubs. You'll find them lying curled up in the soil, a milky white color, ranging in size from one eighth to one inch long with brown heads and three pairs of legs.

One of the most effective grub controls is diazinon, which should be LONDON (AP) - Sean Connery said he's fine after six weeks of radiotherapy on his throat.

"It has been a month, six weeks, since it finished and I am fine," Connery said told GMTV television on Monday. He did not say what had been wrong with his throat.

The Newspaper BIBLE PARTING...SORROWFUL BUT SWEET!

"Let me say plainly," said Paul, "that no man's blood can be laid at my door, for I didn't shrink from declaring all God's message to you. And now beware! Be sure that you feed and shepherd God's flock -- his church, purchased with His blood -- for the Holy Spirit is holding you responsible as overseers. I know full well that after I leave you, false teachers, like vicious wolves, will appear among you, not sparing the flock. Some of you yourselves will distort the truth in order to draw a following.

"Watch out! Remember the three years I was with you -- my constant watchcare over you night and day and my tears for you. And now I entrust you to God and His care and to His wonderful words which are able to build your faith and give you all the inheritance of those who are set apart for Himself.

"I have never been hungry for money or fine clothing -- you know that these hands of mine worked to pay my own way and even to supply the needs of those who were with me. And I was a constant example to you in helping the poor; for I remembered the words of the Lord Jesus, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"

When he had finished speaking, he knelt and prayed with them, and they wept aloud as they embraced him in farewell, sorrowing most of all because he said that he would never see them again. Then they accompanied him down to the ship. Acts 20:26-38

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: On a recent trip, a major airline not only damaged my expensive piece of luggage, but left it sitting outside in a driving rainstorm, leaving the contents soaking wet.

The airline arranged to have repairs made, but when doing so left the luggage closed, causing mildew spotting and odor. Their attempts at removing the spots and odor have failed.

Any suggestions? I hate to have to put the largest piece of my set out of commission. — Theresa Heron, New York Mills, N.Y.

I'm surprised that when attempting to clean the spots and remove the odor failed, they didn't replace the luggage or compensate you for it.

Did you complain and tell them you weren't satisfied with the results? If not, write the airline consumer department and tell them you are not going to accept the damaged luggage.

I called the American Society of Travel Agents and was told that you should make sure you have documentation in writing and if you don't get any results, write to them and send a copy of all written correspondence between you and the airline.

Their address is: American Society of Travel Agents, Attn.: Consumer Affairs Dept., 1101 King St., Alexandria VA 22314.

Also, send copies to the Better Business Bureau and the Department of Transportation. Good luck. — Heloise

SAFE PURSE

Dear Heloise: I am a senior citizen and have recently learned a new trick that can be a safety feature.

I place my purse on the car seat beside me, and as I fasten the seat belt I run that belt through my purse straps. If I stop suddenly, my purse does not fall off the seat. Also, it cannot be easily snatched from my car.

When a man sees me do this, he immediately says, "I'm going to tell my wife about that." So some people agree that it is a safety measure. — Donnie Ryan, Shreveport, La.

This is a good hint; however, experts now say you shouldn't put your purse on the seat because it is a temptation. It's better to put it on the floor behind the seat so it can't be seen. Also, please lock your doors at all times. — Heloise

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago, I read a letter in your column from a woman with a 15-year-old daughter who was out of control and impossible to handle. I saw myself and knew I had to write.

That mother is not alone. I am well acquainted with the screaming rages, spitting, hitting and foul language. My plea to that mother is this: Please don't reject the girl. Her outbursts are a cry for help.

Our daughter, "Roberta," called the police (she was 12 at the time) when I tried to control her during one of her rages. Psychological help was ordered, and the girl was in therapy for several years, but it didn't help. Finally, it was discovered she had a chemical imbalance.

The message is this: If your child does not respond to counseling, be aware that anti-psychotic medication, carefully monitored, could be the answer. Please, Ann, get the word out.—A Texas Reader

DEAR TEXAS READER: I've been putting that word out for several years, but I will do it again. Some people do well with counseling. A good counselor will recognize the signs when counseling is ineffective and send that person for "chemical help." Only a psychiatrist can prescribe medication (and it must be carefully monitored), but it has proven enormously effective when everything else has failed. I strongly recommend it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a college junior majoring in economics, and I think many of your readers are missing a few points about buying American.

First of all, many of the component parts of an American car are made in other countries. So when you want to "buy American," be careful what you look for.

Also, as your readers pointed out, they are inclined to buy the products they feel will serve them best—whether they are American-made or not. This is basic consumer theory—consumers buy the best products at the best price. If all American products were the best and the best value, we wouldn't have need of those illogical "Buy American" commercials.

Unfortunately, not all American products are the best in the world. And there is no reason why consumers should buy inferior products simply because they are made in the USA. This sends a message to our producers that they do not need to improve their products in order to be competitive on the world market because we will buy them anyway.

Contrary to popular belief, buying American has more adverse effects on our economy and world competitiveness than beneficial ones. Buying the best product ensures that all manufacturers stay competitive, and competition is one of America's greatest economic strengths—Bloomington, Minn.

DEAR BLOOMINGTON: I am no authority on economics, but your letter makes sense to me. If Lester Thurow or John Kenneth Galbraith is reading this, I'd like to know what kind of grade they would give this college junior in Minnesota.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Maybe you can turn this into a Gem of the Day. As a woman who has worn glasses since I was 10 years old, it had special meaning to me.

When someone says, "You look so much better without your glasses," a good response is, "So do you."—Burlington, Vt.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelop and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.
