Student-refugee brings tale of war in Bosnia

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

To most people, the war in Bosnia-Herzegovina is a somewhat fuzzy event, distorted by distance, allegations by passionately committed people and uncertain news reports.

Most people are not affected by the war and, therefore, don't really know what it's about.

Mirela Zimic sees her family home on CNN when the television cameras roll down the main street of Sarajevo.

Miss Zimic receives letters from her aunt telling about how her family suffers from the prolonged effects of war in the former Olympic city.

Today, Miss Zimic is not in Bosnia-Herzegovina. She is an exchange student at Hereford High School, studying to graduate and pursue a college degree somewhere in the United States.

On Wednesday, she took her story to the Hereford Noon Lions Club.

For someone who studied Russian in school for eight years and only got English from television movies before coming to the United States last August, Miss Zimic is very easy to understand.

She tells a story of war, of being a refugee, of leaving behind family and friends, and of her desire to stay here permanently.

Ever since its creation at the end of World War II, Yugoslavia was a country divided, Miss Zimic said, as Communist leaders strove to unite six separate republics into a unified nation.

With the death of Yugoslav president Josip Broz Tito in 1980, the fragile control holding Yugoslavia together began to crumble.

Miss Zimic said several of the former republics asked the Yugoslav government for independence, including Bosnia-Herzegovina.

On April 6, 1992, Yugoslav troops began fighting to keep the rebellious republic from leaving the rest of the embattled nation.

"People think that's a religious war" between Muslims and non-Muslims, Miss Zimic said. "It's a war for land, for power."

Ten days after the fighting in Sarajevo began, Miss Zimic fled the city, leaving behind her parents, family and boyfriend.

"I moved to Macedonia with my friend. At that time they didn't have a war. Three months I was by myself in Macedonia."

Later, Miss Zimic moved to Croatia, where she was reunited in Zagreb with her mother, who had finally been able to leave Sarajevo.

Last August, her mother arranged for Miss Zimic to become an exchange student to the United States, and she ended up in Hereford.

Here, she lives with Don and Adele Clements and attends classes at Hereford High School and church at the Church of the Nazarene.

Both religion and education are completely different from what Miss Zimic saw in Sarajevo.

There, she said, "My school was very strict," with students having to stand when the teachers entered the room.

"They always tell us what we have to take," while here, on her first day of school, officials stunned Miss Zimic by asking her what classes she wanted to enroll in.

At home, Miss Zimic said, she was told to enroll in Russian language classes. When she asked to switch to English, she was told the only way to get into a different language class was to change schools.

"I don't think I will have a chance to use Russian," Miss Zimic said with a laugh.

In the former Yugoslavia, "Our churches are real big and old and people only go to worship," Miss Zimic said, adding that "church was just for sometimes," such as Easter and other special occasions.

In addition, Yugoslav churches did not have special activities or youth groups.

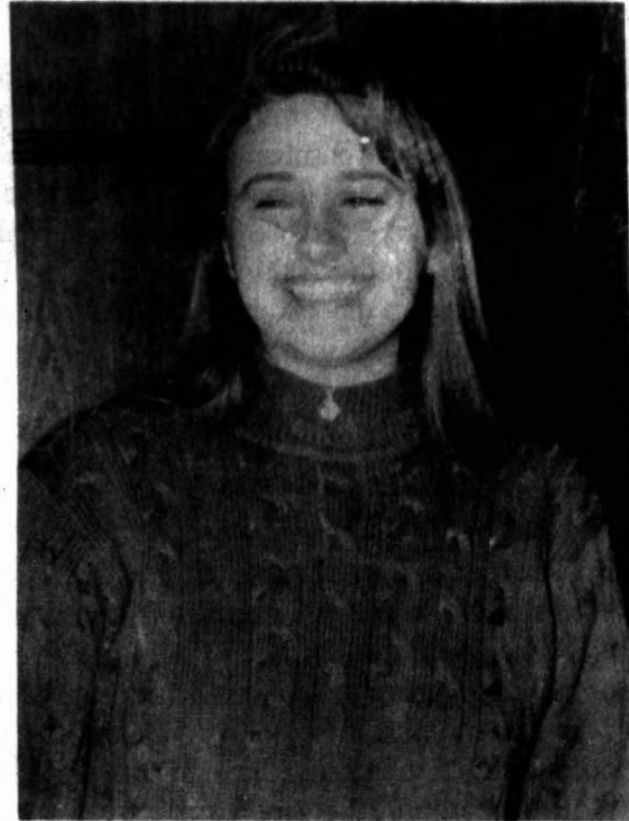

Because her generation had been brought up in the Communist system imposed by Tito, most young people denied the existence of God.

Here, she said, she arrived in Hereford on a Friday. "Sunday morning we went to church." After services, everyone stayed for lunch, then played basketball in the afternoon. "I was amazed."

Miss Zimic said she receives letters from her mother in Croatia and her aunt in Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Her aunt tells about food shortages that have caused prices for essential commodities to skyrocket, citing

Transfusion needed State given care for youth struck by car

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

Blood transfusions, previously denied by the family of a Hereford youth hurt in a fight late Sunday, may be administered as a result of an order issued by a state district judge Wednesday.

Courthouse observers said the court order may be the first of its kind issued in Deaf Smith County.

On a request from Mike Bell, representing the Texas Department of Protective and Regulatory Services, Judge Pat H. Boone Jr., of 154th Judicial District granted temporary conservatorship of Robert A. Salinas Jr., to the state.

In an affidavit, Bell reported that he went to Deaf Smith General Hospital about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, in response to a call about the refusal of the family to allow blood transfusions.

Bell "took custody" of the youth at 12:20 a.m. Wednesday, he said. His action would have permitted transfusions, if necessary.

A Hereford surgeon's report, presented to Judge Boone Wednesday, stated that the 16-year-old had lost approximately half of his body's blood from internal bleeding caused by multiple pelvic fractures.

Judge Boone, sitting in 222nd District Court in absence of Judge David Wesley Gully who was out-of-town, granted the state agency temporary "power to consent to medical and surgical treatment" for the youth. The order also appointed TDP&RS "temporary managing conservator" of Salinas.

By law, a hearing must be held within a specified time on the order. Judge Boone set 10 a.m. on March 18 for the hearing.

The attending physician, Dr. Robert E. Clark III, in his letter to the court, stated that the youth's grandparents and father had refused to permit blood transfusions "on religious grounds." He reported that it might be necessary at any time to administer blood to save the youth's life.

The Salinas family did not appear at the brief court session Wednesday afternoon.

Young Salinas suffered multiple injuries when he was run over by a car during a fight in the 100 block of Eighth Street. He was pinned beneath the car. Rescuers had to lift the vehicle to free him.

Area may get some snow

By The Associated Press

Snow is expected tonight in the Texas Panhandle in the wake of one cold front that has passed through much of the state and as a strong burst of Arctic air is expected to reach the state.

There is a chance of rain from the Permian Basin and Edwards Plateau tonight with the rain expected to change into snow early Friday.

The snow will continue on Friday from the South Plains northward through the Panhandle.

In North Texas tonight, rain is expected to be mixed with sleet or snow in northern portions. On Friday, the rain will be mixed with snow or sleet in western and northern portions. The rest of North Texas will get rain.

In South Texas, forecasts are calling for cloudy skies, colder temperatures and a chance of showers and thunderstorms.

Lows tonight will be in the 30s over most of West Texas, ranging from the 20s in the Panhandle to the 40s in the Big Bend area, in the 30s and 40s across North Texas and in the 50s and 60s in South Texas.

Highs Friday will be in the 30s in the Panhandle and in the 40s and 50s elsewhere in West Texas, in the 30s and 40s in North Texas and in the 50s in South Texas.

Aspin: More base closures may be ahead for nation

WASHINGTON (AP) - New defense spending cuts began to hit home with some early word on base closings and a warning from Defense Secretary Les Aspin that the next batch of closures won't be the last.

Aspin, set to announce the military's suggested base hit list, warned lawmakers in a memo Wednesday that their constituents will have more pain to swallow in the coming years.

"I am confident ... future changes will decrease force structure and will require more, not fewer, base closures than those I will recommend at this time," he said.

Senate sources said lawmakers should begin receiving word on closures today, but word already was leaking out on which bases will be affected, drawing swift protests.

Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., said the Pentagon was proposing to strip McGuire Air Force Base in his state of its active-duty personnel, turning it into a National Guard and reserve base.

"I'm prepared to fight this proposal every inch of the way," Lautenberg said. "New Jersey should not be the target of more cutbacks," he said, citing 1991 decisions to turn Fort Dix into a reserve base and close the Philadelphia Naval Shipyard.

California officials said they had learned that 46 percent of the economic losses from base closures would be sustained by their state, one of the big losers in two previous rounds of closings.

California state Assembly Speaker Willie Brown, in Washington to lobby the White House on the bases issue, reminded President Clinton that his decisions toward the state "could adversely affect California in such a way that Californians would not forget it short-term or long-term."

The Pentagon's suggestions for base closures and cutbacks will be delivered to an independent commission, which will have until June 30 to consider any changes. The panel then will present the list to the president and the Congress for approval or rejection.

The military services have recommended that at least 30 major bases be closed or reduced, and more than 100 smaller installations be cut or consolidated.

Pentagon and congressional sources have identified Fort McClellan in Alabama; the Long Beach, Calif., Naval Shipyard; K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base in Michigan; the Charleston, S.C., Naval Shipyard; the Newport Naval Station in Rhode Island and hurricane-damaged Homestead Air Force Base in Florida as among the facilities on the list.

Outlining his reasons for the closures, Aspin said the collapse of the Soviet Union and the end of the Cold War means the Defense Department "must get smaller."

Clinton has announced plans to pare the current level of 1.8 million troops to 1.4 million, and to slash $122 billion from the defense budget over the next few years.

Manchee files for hospital board

With the filing deadline for local governmental commissions and boards nearing, candidates have been slow to toss their hats in the ring for the May 1 elections.

Mal Manchee filed this week for reelection to the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board. The terms of Dr. Robert Bidwell and Dr. Stan Fry Jr. also expire on the hospital board.

Three candidates had previously filed for Hereford City Commission seats, and two have filed for school board places.

Bob Josseland is the lone mayoral candidate so far, while Sylvana Juarez plans to seek reelection for Place 1 on the commission. Dennis Hicks has filed for the Place 3 seat, where James McDowell chose not to seek reelection.

Incumbents Dennis Newton, at-large, and Raul Valdez, District 2, have filed for reelection to the school board. John Fuston, board president, will not seek reelection to an at-large post.

The deadline for filing is next Wednesday, March 17. Candidates can obtain information on filing procedures and qualifications at the local governmental offices.

Abortion foe arrested for death of doctor at demonstration

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - An abortion foe in his Sunday best fatally shot a doctor in the back behind a women's clinic, then turned himself in to police posted out front for an anti-abortion demonstration, authorities said.

The slaying Wednesday at the Pensacola Women's Medical Services clinic was the first ever reported at an anti-abortion protest. Abortion-rights activists called it an example of growing extremism in the anti-abortion movement.

While about a dozen demonstrators picketed the clinic entrance, Dr. David Gunn was shot three times after getting out of his car near the back door, police said.

"The guy just went up, chased Dr. Gunn and just shot him point blank," said a witness, Steve Powell.

Michael Frederick Griffin, 31, of Pensacola, was charged with murder after walking around the building and surrendering to police watching the protest, Sgt. Murray Holt said. He was held without bail for a court appearance today.

Griffin was dressed in a gray suit "like he was going to church," when he told the officers, "I've just shot Dr. Gunn," said John Burt, a lay preacher who led the protest.

On Sunday, Griffin had offered a prayer for the doctor at the Whitfield Assembly of God Church outside Pensacola, Burt said.

"He asked that the congregation pray, and asked that we would agree with him that Dr. Gunn would give his life to Jesus Christ," Burt said. "He wanted him to stop doing things the Bible says is wrong and start doing what the Bible says was right."

Gunn, a 47-year-old father of two, worked at women's clinics in three states. Friends said he was committed to ensuring women had access to abortions - even in conservative areas where no other doctors would perform them.

Gunn, who wore leg braces because of childhood polio, lived in Eufaula, Ala. He performed abortions at two Alabama clinics, one in Georgia and two in Florida.

"He did it because he believed in the cause," said K.B. Kohls, director of the Beacon Women's Center in Montgomery, Ala., where Gunn worked.

Last summer in Montgomery, Ala., a wanted poster of Gunn was distributed at a rally for Operation Rescue leader Randall Terry. It included a picture of Gunn, his home number and other identifying information. It was designed to encourage abortion foes to harass doctors working at clinics run by Gunn.

The slaying follows claims by clinics and abortion-rights activists that abortion foes are resorting to more extreme tactics. In San Diego this week, activists sprayed five clinics with a foul-smelling chemical, police said.

Treshman said his group is setting up a fund for Griffin's wife and two young daughters.

Chemical engineer second man arrested in bombing

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The second person arrested on charges of helping to carry out the World Trade Center bombing was identified as Palestinian-American chemical engineer believed to have the know-how to mix explosives.

Nidal Ayyad, 25, was arrested Wednesday by the FBI at his home in Maplewood. Like Mohammed Salameh, he was charged with aiding and abetting in the Feb. 26 bombing that killed at least five people and injured about 1,000.

The men had a joint bank account, authorities said. And investigators believe the bombing was financed with $8,000 wired from Europe to the account, The New York Times reported today, citing unidentified law enforcement sources.

Authorities would not specify what role Ayyad was alleged to have played in the bombing. But FBI agent James Esposito said: "By his educational background he has expertise that lends itself to this kind of crime. He certainly has some expert knowledge because of his training in the chemical engineering field."

Jeffrey L. Rankin, assistant dean of Rutgers University's engineering school, where Ayyad earned a degree, said that Ayyad was a student in a course he taught that covered some principles of bomb-making.

On Tuesday, James Fox, the head of the FBI's New York office, told a congressional panel in Washington that investigators believe the bombing was carried out by a large and highly professional terrorist group.

Salameh, 25, rented a van thought to have carried the bomb into the parking garage under the twin 110-story towers.

Ayyad and Salameh worshiped at the same mosque and are of Palestinian descent, investigators said. Salameh was born in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, grew up in Jordan and entered the United States on a now-expired tourist visa. Ayyad was born in Kuwait, came to the United States in 1985 and became a U.S. citizen in 1991.

Salameh withdrew money from their joint account at a National Westminster Bank branch in Jersey City, according to the Times.

And the day before the bombing, the FBI said, Salameh called Ayyad four times at his office at Allied-Signal Inc. in Morristown, where Ayyad is a research engineer. Allied-Signal makes aerospace and auto products.

Salameh was calling from a self-storage facility in Jersey City where agents found chemicals that could make an explosive, the FBI said in court papers.

On Feb. 15, Ayyad rented a red General Motors car and listed Salameh as an additional driver, the FBI said.

Like Salameh and another man charged with obstruction of justice in the case, Ayyad was ordered held without bail for another hearing, on Friday. If convicted, he could receive life in prison and a $250,000 fine.

Retail sales post modest increase

WASHINGTON (AP) - Retail sales rose a modest 0.3 percent in February after consumers paused to catch their breaths in January, the government said today.

Strong sales at building supply and hardware stores, supermarkets and gasoline stations pushed overall sales up to a seasonally adjusted $167.8 billion last month, the Commerce Department said.

In advance, economists were looking for February sales to hold steady. However, the department revised away a previously reported January increase and now shows sales for that month unchanged from December.

The first two months of this year, taken together, show sales eking out only small gains, but economists weren't unduly concerned. They said a slacker pace was almost inevitable after strong gains in the fall and during the holiday shopping season. Sales rose 1.1 percent in December.

Key figure in standoff dislikes leader of cult

WACO, Texas (AP) - He is volatile and fanatic, intelligent and moody, and the FBI says he is emerging as a key figure in the standoff between religious cultists and federal agents.

His name is Steve Schneider, 42, once a student at Newbold College in England and now a totally committed follower of cult leader David Koresh, also known as Vernon Howell.

But in a bizarre twist, Schneider reportedly hates Koresh personally.

"When he entered the compound, he willingly gave up his wife to David Koresh," FBI spokesman Bob Ricks of Oklahoma City told a news conference Wednesday.

"That takes a lot of dedication," Ricks also revealed that Judy Schneider, 41, now one of Koresh's many wives, was wounded in the Feb. 28 shootout between cultists and federal agents at the Mount Carmel compound near Waco.

Four agents of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms died in the firefight. An unknown number of cultists were killed or wounded.

Ricks disclosed Wednesday that Judy Schneider was wounded in the hand and shoulder and that agents now believe Koresh suffered bullet wounds in the wrist and side as earlier reported.

"We were skeptical initially but we now are fairly certain that he did sustain the injuries he outlined," Ricks said of Koresh's wounds.

"We cannot say - we can speculate - that perhaps he's (Schneider) taken over a leadership role because of the absence of Mr. Koresh's participation," Ricks said.

Ricks described Schneider as a graduate in comparative religion studies who is knowledgeable of the Bible but less focused on it than Koresh.

"He is also a very uneven tempered individual," Ricks said. When Schneider entered the negotiations earlier, Ricks described him as a "calm, cool, deliberate individual" who at times was "more aggressive than Mr. Koresh."

In a provocative profile this week, the Waco Tribune-Herald quoted former cult members as saying Schneider's beliefs overshadow his distaste for both Koresh and the Branch Davidian lifestyle.

"He has legitimate reasons to hate Vernon, Marc Breault, a dedicated Koresh detractor, told the newspaper.

"For what he's doing with Steve's wife, for one thing.

"She's part of the House of David. I know she doesn't want to do it, but she does it anyway.

"The other thing is that Steve doesn't like the lifestyle. But he believes that he can't refute Vernon's teachings."

Even though Koresh was the Davidian prophet, he learned much from Schneider, who had much to offer, Breault said.

"This guy could sell you smog. He's that good ... Steve is a good evangelist, and Vernon learned from him how to act and how to present himself."

In 1989, Koresh claimed the women of the world as his own, that his was the only "righteous seed," and that all other relationships between men and women were adultery.

"Steve went crazy," said Robyn Bunds, one of the first female cultists seduced by Koresh. "Vernon had been lusting after Judy for a long time. Judy's a very attractive lady, very witty, very personable.

"To me, the worst thing about all this is that Vernon and Judy are together and not Steve and Judy ... They love each other so much."

Schneider told former Australian cultist Bruce Gent, whose son reportedly died in the shootout, that he surrendered his wife to Koresh because of "what they were going to accomplish in the kingdom."

Budget package expected to get okay by Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Budget Committee approved the outlines of a giant deficit reduction largely reflecting President Clinton's priorities, and Senate budget writers are preparing to endorse a similar package.

Democrats controlling the House budget panel won approval of a blueprint of Clinton's plan Wednesday night on a party-line vote of 26-17.

The savings outlined in the House package, if enacted in future legislation, would reduce deficits over the next five years by $510 billion. That would make it the biggest deficit-reduction plan ever, exceeding the savings in the 1990 budget agreement by more than $10 billion.

"We think we have a good product," said committee Chairman Martin Olav Sabo, D-Minn. He predicted passage by the full House next week.

The deficit-reduction outline includes a far-reaching energy tax, higher income taxes on the well-to-do and deep defense cuts. The plan was approved after Democrats added $62 billion more in spending cuts over the next five years than the president initially proposed. He has since endorsed the extra cuts.

Meanwhile, outnumbered Republicans planned to try to substitute more spending cuts for tax increases today as the Senate Budget Committee worked on its version of the measure.

Like the House plan, it would lower the deficit by about $500 billion over the next five years. Written chiefly by Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., chairman of the panel, the proposal would delay some of Clinton's recommended spending increases and rely to a greater extent on taxing the well-off.

Republicans on the Senate committee put together at least three dozen amendments, most of which would shift the emphasis away from tax increases and impose even tighter spending restraints.

First on the list was a proposal by Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, that would freeze at current levels non-defense discretionary spending - a category that includes everything from education assistance to water projects, but not Social Security and Medicare.

Congressional leaders expect both the House and Senate to consider the deficit-reduction proposals next week as part of the $1.5 trillion budget outline for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

The House and Senate plans both would cut the projected deficit for that year by about $40 billion, to $254 billion.

Democrats praised their own proposals as real efforts to make lasting reductions in the deficit.

"This budget ... is primarily about getting our economic house in order and moving our nation forward," said Sabo, the House Budget Committee chairman.

While the House panel was working its way through about 30 Republican amendments - rejecting every one that offered a significant change from the Democratic plan - senators spent Wednesday arguing about procedures and exchanging partisan barbs.

Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico, senior Republican on the budget committee, bristled at Democratic suggestions that his party is trying to stall Clinton's plan. "We ought to have a full day" to debate amendments, he demanded.

Republicans "don't have any idea of moving anything," Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., shot back. "I know what they are doing. They are the guardians of gridlock."

The spending resolutions being approved by the two budget committees merely set targets for spending and taxing. It will be up to other committees to determine which taxes will be raised and which programs will be restrained.

Colorado artist exhibits work at Cowgirl Hall of Fame

The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center selects original art work quarterly for its "Feature Artist of the Season" recognition. Spring's art exhibit will present the art of Colorado artist, Brenda "Ben" Daniher.

Daniher's art is a happy marriage of the peace of farm life and the excitement of the Old West. She has won numerous awards including Best of Show at the La Junta Fine Arts League Christmas Show for her bronze sculpture, "Charging Buffalo." She is versed in acrylics, watercolor, pastel and oils but prefers graphic pen and ink or pencils when composing on a flat surface. Drawing, however, takes a back seat to sculpting. "Bronze is my favorite medium," Daniher said.

The artist and her husband, David, and daughters, Christy and Teresa, live on a farm in the Higbee Valley near Kim, Colo. They are at home in a 1880s adobe house with 18-inch thick walls, heated by an old wood burning stove which Ben uses for cooking. Her family loves the peaceful beauty of their surroundings and prefers a quiet life without the intrusion of modern conveniences.

Daniher has an associate's degree in architectural technology and has put that knowledge to work designing a solar heating system and green house now under construction on the farm.

The artist has just completed art shows in Taos, California and Colorado Springs. The artist's work will be on display until the end of March. The National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center is open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Tennis, track provide full weekend

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

This weekend will be a busy one for sports in Hereford—weather permitting.

Hereford will host a tennis tournament Friday and Saturday and a track meet Saturday. Both are jeopardized by a forecast of 50 percent chance of snow for tonight and Friday.

Elsewhere, the boys' golf team will go to Sweetwater to escape the projected weather. The Sweetwater tournament will be played Friday and Saturday. The girls' team is off this weekend. Both teams will play in the Hereford Tournament March 19 and 20.

The Herd baseball team will play in the Dumas Tournament, starting with River Road at 6:30 tonight. The starting time was moved from this afternoon to accommodate TAAS testing. Also, the junior varsity team will play in a tournament in Plainview.

On Monday, the baseball team will host Canyon at 4 p.m. at Whiteface Field, while the JV plays a double-header in Dumas, starting at 2 p.m. Next week is Spring Break for Hereford schools.

If there's not too much snow Friday, the Hereford tennis tournament will start at 9 a.m. Hereford coach Natalie Sims said she hopes to get the entire tournament finished in one day; if it spills over onto Saturday, it'll start at 9 a.m. that day, too.

The field will be made up of six schools, as both Hereford and Borger will provide two teams. The other teams are Perryton, Spearman, Friona and Caprock.

Hereford is the defending champion.

"I think Borger will be our main competition," Sims said. "They're not bringing their No. 1 girl, Dawna Denny, but they'll be our main competition. Perryton and Spearman will be good."

Hereford's—and presumably Borger's—two teams will not be divided evenly; the top players all will be on one team. A third Hereford team will go to Levelland for a Friday and Saturday tournament.

The official name of the track meet is—take a deep breath, now—the Hereford Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Invitational Track Meet, according to the schedule sheets. It will include both boys and girls, varsity and junior varsity, all in one day.

If the track's not covered with snow, the first race—girls' 400-meter relay prelims—will start at 10 a.m. Saturday. Field events start at 9.

The girls' field will include eight teams: Hereford, Pampa, Randall, Plainview, Estacado, Palo Duro, Amarillo High and Clovis, N.M.

"We hope we can get a few medals," Hereford girls' coach Martha Emerson said.

The boys' field will include five teams: Hereford, Pampa, Plainview, Tascosa and Clovis.

"We hope the weather's going to be good so we can improve our times," Herd boys' coach Ron Young said. "We're going into it thinking we can win it."

The preliminary races will be run in the morning. The 3,200-meter prelims (and JV finals) will start at 11:50. After a break for lunch, the 3,200 finals will start at 1:30 p.m. The final event, the 1,600-meter relays, will start at 4:45.

For most running events, the order of races will be: JV girls, varsity girls, JV boys, varsity boys.

Most field events will finish in the morning. JV boys' triple jump and JV girls' long jump will start at 1 p.m., and the pole vault will start at 2 p.m. Hereford doesn't have any pole vaulters.

Arroyos wins first GG bout JV golfers 3rd in Friona

Ismael Arroyos of the Hereford Boxing Club won his first fight Wednesday at the state Golden Gloves boxing championships in Forth Worth.

Arroyos, a light welterweight, beat Bryon Carias of San Antonio, according to a report by The Associated Press.

Rudy Salinas, another member of the Hereford club, will fight Kevin Jackson of the East Texas region tonight in the welterweight division.

A team of freshmen and sophomore girls from Hereford took third place in a golf tournament in Friona Wednesday.

Hereford won a playoff with Floydada after both teams finished 18 holes with a total of 422. Friona shot 381 to win, while Tulia was 10 shots behind in second. The rest of the 10-team field wasn't close; Bovina was fifth at 466.

Individually, Kristin Calkins led Hereford by shooting a 94—good for fourth in medalist play. Hereford's other golfers were: Karen Manchee, 102; Jami Bell, 104; Erin Spies, 122; and Krista Beville, 129.

Tickets are scarce for boys' state basketball tournament

AUSTIN (AP) — The Brock Eagles are one of the reasons the boys state high school basketball tournament that begins today is one of the hottest tickets around.

Coach Jim Vaszauskas, whose team is averaging 95 points a game, makes sure the game is fun for his players, and that makes it fun for fans to watch.

"If you don't have a ticket, don't show up, that's the advice I have," said Peter Contreras, a spokesman for the University Interscholastic League. "With all respect to the Dallas Cowboys, it's the hardest sell in all of Texas. The tournament is a sellout for the third straight year."

Someone could probably walk up and buy a ticket for a tournament game in Class A, 2A or 3A, Contreras said, "but I wouldn't even try for 4A or 5A."

Brock (33-4) is one of the four Class A teams. The Eagles are playing Petersburg (29-8), who beat Brock in the first round of last year's state tournament.

Vaszauskas had to replace five of his eight top players from last year's team, including three starters and the first player off the bench. But his strategy is the same.

"Our game plan is pretty simple: If you're open for the three, take it; if not, pass it to someone who is open for the three," Vaszauskas said. "If we can't get the three, I want to get the first shot we can. Then we hit the boards and set our press."

The Eagles scored 121 points in one game this season.

"This (the state tournament) is not a one-shot deal for us. We have good players in the lower classification teams, in the junior high and even down to fourth grade. I expect we will be back to state four or five times in the next 10 years. We are building a tradition here, and winning does breed success," Vaszauskas said.

Brock and Petersburg tip off at 8:30 a.m. today in the opening game of the state tournament. Defending champion Laneville (34-3) and Calvert (28-7) follow at 10 a.m.

Classes 3A and 4A also have their semifinal games today, with Classes 2A and 5A getting in their first-round games on Friday. The five championship games are Saturday.

In Class 3A, Southlake-Carroll (24-9) is making its first appearance in the basketball state tournament and will be after a rare double state title. Carroll won the state football championship in December. Carroll and Woodville (30-4) play at 2 p.m., followed by Ferris (26-8) vs. Gonzales (23-11) at 3:30 p.m.

Later on, in Class 4A, Dallas Lincoln (31-3) will play Waco University (29-7) at 7 p.m., and Port Arthur Lincoln (29-5) will take on Plainview (29-5) at 8:30 p.m. PA Lincoln, making its eighth trip to the state tournament in 12 years, has won the championship six of the previous seven tries, including three titles since 1988.

On Friday, Class 2A semifinals pit Amarillo Highland Park (28-4) against Randolph (22-5) at 9:30 a.m. and defending champion Troup (30-5) vs. Itasca (24-9) at 11 a.m. It's the fifth straight tournament appearance for Troup, which is led by 6-5 junior forward-center Greg Austin, whose brother, Allen, now plays at Texas Tech.

In Class 5A, Fort Worth Dunbar (33-4) will be trying to end a nine-year record of futility. Dunbar lost its first-round game six times and was beaten in the championship game the other three trips to the state tournament. Dunbar will play Houston Milby (31-5) at 3 p.m., followed by Converse Judson (33-3) vs. Killeen Ellison (32-5) at 7 p.m.

Converse Judson, like Southlake-Carroll, will be trying to put a state basketball championship trophy alongside the football trophy the Rockets won three months ago.

There was no overtime in the NFL when the Giants and the Lions played to a scoreless tie in 1943.

PUBLIC NOTICE BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 1, 1993

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Section 1 of Senate Joint Resolution 7 proposes a constitutional amendment that would allow the legislature to redistribute among other school districts ad valorem taxes levied and collected by a school district. The amendment would also allow the legislature to create county education districts with the taxable property of existing school districts in one or more counties combined. County education districts may levy, collect, and distribute ad valorem taxes as authorized by general law. The legislature would be allowed to set the rate of the ad valorem tax to be imposed in a school district or county education district or it may authorize the board of trustees of each school district or county education district to set the rate, provided that the rate of county education district ad valorem taxes may not exceed $1.00 per $100 valuation of taxable property, unless a higher rate is approved by the voters of the district. The amendment also provides that the amount of ad valorem taxes redistributed among school districts by the legislature and effectively redistributed within a county through county education districts may not exceed 2.75 percent of the sum of the state revenue appropriated for public schools and the revenue from local ad valorem taxes levied and collected for public schools. The term "state revenue" does not include revenue from ad valorem taxes, revenue for the provision of free textbooks, or contributions to a retirement system. Finally, the amendment provides that it does not affect the distribution of the available school fund under article VII, section 5, of the Texas Constitution.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment allowing limited redistribution of ad valorem taxes for schools, authorizing the legislature or local districts to set a minimum tax rate in county education districts, and placing a cap on the ad valorem tax levied by county education districts."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Section 2 of Senate Joint Resolution 7 proposes a constitutional amendment that would provide that, except for state educational mandates imposed in compliance with the Texas Constitution or federal law, or unless enacted by a vote of at least two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the legislature, a school district may not be required to comply with an obligation requiring expenditure of school district funds unless the obligation is fully funded. The amendment also requires the legislature to provide by law a procedure for determining whether an obligation is fully funded. In the absence of such a procedure, and at the request of a school district's board of trustees, the comptroller of public accounts shall determine whether or not an obligation is fully funded. This amendment applies only to state educational mandates enacted after December 31, 1993.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment exempting a school district from the obligation to comply with unfunded state educational mandates."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes an amendment to article VII, section 5(b), of the constitution, which currently authorizes the legislature to provide for using the permanent school fund to guarantee bonds issued by school districts and certain education-related revenue bonds issued by the state. The amendment would repeal the provision authorizing the use of the permanent school fund to guarantee state revenue bonds, but would permit the legislature to provide by law for the issuance of general obligation bonds or revenue bonds of the state, for the purpose of making loans to, or purchasing bonds of, school districts for the purpose of acquisition, construction, or improvement of instructional facilities, including all furnishings. The amendment also provides that the state, pursuant to general law, may forgive the payment of principal and interest on all or part of a loan made to a school district under the amendment to partially finance an instructional facility. The cap of $750 million on the amount of bonds that could be issued under article VII, section 5(b), as amended, would be retained. The amendment would repeal the current provision of the constitution permitting the legislature to authorize bonds in excess of $750 million by two-thirds record vote of both houses of the legislature. While any of the general obligation bonds issued under the amendment or any of the interest on those bonds is outstanding and unpaid, there would be appropriated out of the first money coming into the state treasury in each fiscal year, not otherwise appropriated by the constitution, the amount sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds that matured or became due that fiscal year.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of $750 million in state general obligation or revenue bonds to assist school districts in partially financing facilities, authorizing the state to forgive payments of loans made to a school district for partially financing facilities, and repealing the authorization for $750 million in state revenue bonds guaranteed by the permanent school fund."

Este es el informe explicatorio sobre la enmienda propuesta a la constitución que aparecerá en la boleta el día 1 de mayo de 1993. Bonds connects for Giants

By The Associated Press

The $43.75 million man hit his first home run for the San Francisco Giants, the first of what the team hopes is many.

Barry Bonds hit a solo homer to right field in the third inning off right-hander Erik Hanson for a 2-1 lead Wednesday and the Giants went on to beat the winless Seattle Mariners 9-1.

"I'm not looking for home runs at this stage," Bonds said after lifting his spring training average to .364. "I'm just looking for a line drive a day."

A few miles away, Oakland general manager Sandy Alderson said he is looking into trade possibilities for Rickey Henderson, the perennially disgruntled outfielder.

Alderson said the Athletics have attempted to trade Henderson each of the last two years. Henderson will make $3 million in 1993, the final season of a $12 million, four-year deal.

Speaking of stars, Chicago White Sox general manager Ron Schueler said at Winter Haven, Fla., that the club and Bo Jackson may extend the deadline to decide whether the team will keep him.

Jackson's contract calls for the White Sox to make their decision by Monday. The team can either pick up the option on his contract, which would guarantee him $910,000 and offer another $1.5 million in incentives, or buy him out for $150,000.

"His agent is in the area, and we're talking about it," Schueler said during a game between the White Sox and Cleveland.

Lady Red Raiders blast Frogs in SWC Tournament

DALLAS (AP) - Guard Krista Kirkland scored 20 points to lead the No. 1-seed Texas Tech Lady Red Raiders to a record-breaking victory in the first round of the Southwest Conference Women's Basketball Tournament.

Tech's 107-50 victory over Texas Christian was the largest margin of victory ever in the SWC women's tournament, topping a 51-point victory that Texas scored over Rice in 1983.

All four games in the opening round went as expected as the top seeds took victories.

In the other games, No. 13 Texas defeated Rice 87-61, Southern Methodist whipped Houston 96-80 and Baylor slipped past Texas A&M 63-61.

Southern Methodist faces Texas in the first semifinal game at Reunion Arena tonight and Texas Tech will play Baylor in the second game.

The Lady Red Raiders shot 56.7 percent (43 of 76) for the night and rested most of their starters for at least half the game.

Amy Bumsted scored 28 points for TCU.

Tech placed seven players in double figures in amassing the third-highest single game scoring total in SWC tourney history. Sheryl Swoopes added 12 points and seven assists.

Cinietra Henderson scored 19 points to lead No. 13 Texas to an 87-61 victory over Rice. Teammate Nekeshia Henderson had 15 points.

Texas shot 61.5 percent in the second half and four starters finished with double digit scoring totals. The Longhorns also forced 21 turnovers.

Rice (13-14) got 18 points from reserve Tammy McCallum, who played much of the second half with a sore knee. Senior Yalonda Stiner added 14 points in her final appearance in an Owl's uniform.

Forward Shanell Thomas scored 17 points to help the Southern Methodist Lady Mustangs beat Houston 96-80.

Seven other Lady Mustangs were in double figures as SMU advanced to 18-8 for a school-record victory total. The Lady Cougars fell to 11-16 after the second game of the SWC's 11th annual tournament.

Michelle Harris had 30 points, including 19 in the first half, to lead Houston.

Houston center Margo Graham scored 15 points in the final contest of her collegiate career.

Freshman guard Mary Lowry capped a 35-point performance by hitting a short jumper with 12 seconds remaining to lift Baylor to a 63-61 win over Texas A&M.

The win was only the Lady Bears' second in SWC tournament history.

Before the game-winning shot, Baylor barely got the ball inbounds after a time out with 38 seconds left. With the 30-second shot clock winding down, Lowry drove inside and put up a shot over two A&M defenders.

The ball rattled around the rim and fell through to give the Lady Bears a 63-61 lead with 12 seconds remaining.

After Lowry's shot, the Lady Aggies got the ball to midcourt and called time out with six seconds remaining. Lisa Branch attempted a 10-footer in the final seconds, but the ball clanged off the backboard.

With Yolanda Brown scoring 22 points and grabbing 13 rebounds, the Lady Aggies outrebounded Baylor, 54-39. However, Texas A&M committed 18 turnovers to Baylor's 10.

Holy Cross, Delaware earn NCAA bids

By The Associated Press

Add Holy Cross and Delaware to the NCAA mix. Throw Bucknell and Drexel into the NIT hopefuls heap.

Two more automatic berths to the NCAA tournament were scooped up Wednesday night with Holy Cross beating Bucknell 98-73 in the Patriot League tournament championship game and Delaware edging Drexel 67-64 in the North Atlantic conference final.

Holy Cross will be making its first appearance since 1980; Delaware is going back for the second year in a row.

Seventeen teams have received automatic bids so far, and another will be decided tonight when No. 20 Massachusetts plays host to Temple for the Atlantic-10 title.

Another 13 automatic bids have yet to be decided. Six tournaments begin today, another six begin Friday, and one other - the Western Athletic Conference tournament - got underway Wednesday.

In Top 25 games Wednesday, No.

2 Indiana beat Michigan State 99-69, No. 3 Michigan edged Illinois 98-97 in overtime and No. 17 Iowa downed Wisconsin 91-65.

Of the two tournament finals Wednesday night, the Delaware-Drexel game was clearly the best. Both teams had several chances to take control, but Drexel committed four turnovers in the final 28 seconds and Delaware missed four foul shots in the same span.

The game-winning points were scored by Anthony Wright after Kevin Blackhurst stole the ball for Delaware (22-7).

"I was just trying to help out on defense. The Drexel player went up for the shot, got caught in the air and couldn't get a shot off," Blackhurst said. "Fortunately, I was able to get the ball and feed Wright."

After a quick turnover by Drexel (22-7), Brian Pearl missed a free throw with eight seconds left. Another turnover followed, but Blackhurst missed two foul shots with two seconds to go.

Drexel then called a timeout that it didn't have, and Pearl's foul shot with one second to go was the game's final point.

"If I was a fan I could never ask for a better basketball game. Both teams played great and we were very fortunate to win a real quality basketball game," Delaware coach Steve Steinwedel said.

Holy Cross 98, Bucknell 73

At Lewisburg, Pa., Holy Cross used a pair of 9-0 first-half runs to build a 50-33 halftime lead, and went ahead by as much as 20 in the second half.

The win was the 17th in the last 19 games for the Crusaders (23-6), who will attempt to post an NCAA tournament win for the first time since 1953. This is the eighth NCAA berth in school history.

No. 2 Indiana 99, Michigan State 68

At Bloomington, Ind., Greg Graham tied a career-high with 32 points in his final home game for the Hoosiers (27-3, 16-1 Big Ten).

The win assured Indiana the outright Big Ten title.

The Spartans (14-12, 6-11) dropped their fifth straight game and perhaps any chance of a postseason bid.

No. 3 Michigan 98, Illinois 97, OT

At Champaign, Ill., Jalen Rose scored 23 points and Jimmy King had seven in overtime as Michigan escaped a barrage of 3-point baskets.

Chris Webber scored 22 points for the Wolverines (27-4 overall, 14-3 in the Big Ten). Illinois (18-11, 11-6) got 27 points from Andy Kaufmann.

No. 17 Iowa 91, Wisconsin 65

At Ames, Iowa, Acie Earl scored a career-high 36 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

After Wisconsin (14-12, 7-10 Big Ten) closed to 58-50, Iowa (21-8, 10-7) outscored the Badgers 33-15 to close out the game.

Robinson comes alive for New Jersey

By The Associated Press

Rumeal Robinson, who always said he could be a good NBA player if he got enough minutes to prove it, is starting to prove it with the New Jersey Nets.

Robinson had 21 points, eight assists and five steals in 36 minutes as the Nets won their third straight game with him starting at point guard, beating the Los Angeles Clippers 109-98 Wednesday night.

"He's a good player if he gets strong minutes," Nets coach Chuck Daly said. "I know he's a better player than he was coming off the bench for us. He's got a great burst to the basket, he finds people open, he's playing with confidence and he's making the shots. And when his conditioning improves, his defense will improve."

New Jersey is 3-1 since Kenny Anderson broke his left wrist and was lost for the season. Robinson, replacing Anderson as the starting point guard in the last three games, has 58 points and 29 assists and has averaged 33 minutes in the three victories.

New Jersey general manager Willis Reed acquired Robinson in exchange for Mookie Blaylock after Daly made Anderson the starter.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was New York 110, the Los Angeles Lakers 104; Boston 104, Philadelphia 100; Denver 126, Washington 112;

Orlando 119, Indiana 106; Portland 124, Dallas 96; and Phoenix 111, Golden State 100.

Derrick Coleman added 20 points and 12 rebounds for the Nets, who won despite 24 turnovers, nine by Coleman.

Loy Vaught started for injured center Stanley Roberts and had 23 points and 12 rebounds for the Clippers, who have lost four straight games and six in seven outings.

Danny Manning and Ron Harper each scored 22 points for the Clippers, who trailed 56-48 at halftime and got no closer until the final two minutes as they matched their longest losing streak of the season.

Trail Blazers 124, Mavericks 96

Portland won at Dallas, handing the Mavericks their club-record 16th consecutive defeat behind Terry Porter's 24 points.

Randy White led Dallas with a career-high 31 points.

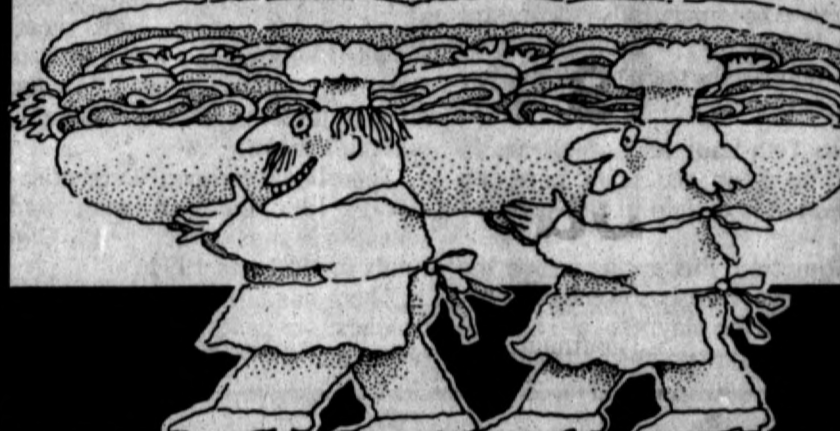

Suns 111, Warriors 100

Phoenix won its fifth consecutive game and improved its NBA-best home record to 25-2 as Charles Barkley scored 30 points and Dan Majerle 28 against Golden State.

The Suns led by 16 points after three quarters, but the Warriors started the final period with an 8-0 run. Majerle then scored nine points in the quarter, keeping Phoenix safely in front.

NHL's Minnesota North Stars to move to Dallas

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - Minnesota hockey is all Neal Broten has ever known.

He grew up in Roseau, went to three state tournaments, starred for the Minnesota Gophers and was one of a dozen Minnesotans on Herb Brooks' "Miracle on Ice" 1980 Olympic team.

While with the Gophers in 1981, Broten received the Hobey Baker Award as the nation's top college player. He then joined the North Stars just in time for their improbable charge to the 1981 Stanley Cup finals. In 1985-86, he became the first American to record a 100-point NHL season. Five years later, he shined during another Stanley Cup run for the Stars.

Broten tried to skate away from Minnesota once, threatening to take a better offer in Germany before the 1991-92 season. But he couldn't stay away.

"I wanted to finish my career here," he said.

He no longer has that option. Neither do his teammates.

Wednesday, North Stars owner Norm Green announced that he'll move the team to Dallas after this, their 26th season in Minnesota.

For some players, it means leaving a place they have come to love, a nice place to raise their families. For others, it means an opportunity to play in what they hope will be an exciting new environment.

For Broten, it means the end of a lifelong association with Minnesota hockey.

"To not have pro hockey in Minnesota is just overwhelming," said the team's all-time leader in scoring, assists and games. "To think they can put hockey in Dallas and Miami and Tampa and Anaheim and Los Angeles and not have it in a place that has so much hockey tradition, it's just overwhelming."

"It's a sad situation."

Blaming lack of community support, poor season-ticket sales, inadequate TV and radio contracts, low ticket prices and rising player salaries, Green says he has lost some $15 million since buying the North Stars in 1990.

But Broten thinks sexual harassment accusations brought against Green by some past and present female employees had a major impact on Green's decision to move.

"I see his points, but I think he can make it work here," Broten said. "The only thing he wants to do is move the team. I don't think the whole issue is losing money. I think it has a whole lot to do with personal things."

Dave Gagner, a Canadian whose NHL career began in New York, has been one of the North Stars' best players since 1987.

"I don't want to go," he said. "My career turned around here. All the best memories of my hockey career, which I dreamed about when I was a kid, have come in Minnesota. This has been a place where everything good has happened to me."

Why would anyone want to leave that situation?

"But it makes it easier when all of us are going together. And some guys who get traded say it's a breath of fresh air to get a new start somewhere else. Dallas is supposed to be a nice place. We'll see."

Gagner then spoke about the loud, supportive crowd that sold out Met Center for Saturday's game against Montreal.

"It didn't look like a franchise in turmoil, did it?" he said. "It's a shame. They definitely want a team here."

Modano, the team's best player, called that night "pretty emotional for me."

"I've grown to love and become part of the community. I've made a lot of friends. I'm happy here," the North Stars' No. 1 draft choice in 1988 said. "But I've heard Dallas is nice. I'm sure it'll become a lot like Minneapolis to us, we'll meet people and like it there."

Said captain Mark Tinordi: "This team is going to go together. We've been together and we're going to stay together."

Stewart Gavin, the club's player representative, said he's happy that the NHL is exploring new markets.

"They always talk about building a national base outside of Canada for television, but losing hockey here after 26 years is too bad," he said.

"All the kids who play hockey on outdoor rinks who like to watch the pros, all the people my age who grew up with this pro hockey team, they won't have a team anymore. It's just a shame."

Trouble follows North Stars

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - On Jan. 15, 1968, midway through the Minnesota North Stars' first NHL season, center Bill Masterton died from injuries sustained when his head struck the ice. His is the only game-related fatality in league history.

From this tragic start, the North Stars almost always have been a team in trouble.

Soon, they will be a team no more. Norm Green, who bought the North Stars in 1990, has decided that he can't be financially successful here. Wednesday, he announced that he will move the team to Dallas after this season.

No 11th-hour NHL deals are in sight to keep the team here, no millionaires to step in and save the day.

Sometime this spring, when the North Stars' postseason ends - if they even make the playoffs - pro hockey will cease to exist in Minnesota.

From Wren Blair to Bob Gainey, Cesare Maniago to Jon Casey, Bill Goldsworthy to Mike Modano, Willi Plett to Shane Churla, Ted Harris to Mark Tinordi, the North Stars have helped form Minnesota's storied hockey history. Soon, they will exist only as a part of that history.

Despite hockey's popularity here, the North Stars have been regular visitors to disaster's doorstep.

The original nine-man ownership group led by Walter Bush couldn't make it work. George and Gordon Gund couldn't make ends meet. Howard Baldwin and Morris Belzberg couldn't make it to the closing table. And now Green is making a move.

There have been great accomplishments, like the surprising and sensational runs to the Stanley Cup finals in 1981 and 1991.

There have been 18 captains, 16 coaches, six general managers, six presidents and hundreds of talented players over 26 seasons. There even was Herb Brooks, the Minnesota icon and Olympic hero who was brought in to coach. But even he couldn't work miracles with the North Stars; his season, 1987-88, was one of the club's worst ever and marked the start of the public apathy that helped doom the team.

Attendance has increased in the two seasons since the 1991 Stanley Cup run, but Green said the added revenue has not nearly kept up with the sudden jump in player salaries. Also citing low season-ticket sales, a poor television contract and lack of community support, Green said it was time to move on.

He has landed in Dallas. Though it is a land without hockey tradition, Green is banking on it being a land of hockey opportunity.

And the NHL will keep awarding the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy in memory of the first tragedy in the Minnesota North Stars' tragic history.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Readers: Although it's sad to say, carjacking is getting to be a common occurrence. It has happened to all types of people driving many different models of vehicles.

Here are some hints from our friends at the Insurance Information Institute that will help prevent a carjacking.

• Pay attention to what's going on around you. If you notice someone lurking nearby or walking toward your car, drive away, safely but quickly.

• Keep windows rolled up and doors locked when driving and when leaving your car.

• Some carjackers bump into cars and when the driver pulls over, the thief takes the car. So, if you're bumped, don't stop; instead, go to the nearest police or fire station.

• If you need to stop to use the telephone, cash machine or restroom, avoid isolated areas.

• When parking, choose an area that is well-lit and as close to your destination as possible.

Please follow these precautions, as they might just save your car and yourself! — Heloise

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In looking through my mother's cookbooks (she died in 1971), I found this column of yours dated January of 1970. I thought it might be of interest to you.—Tucson, Ariz.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For me, there is no hope. I married the wrong girl, and I'm stuck. I was 25 and should have known better. It was all there, right before my eyes, but I thought I could change her after marriage.

I saw the whole bit, how her mother treated her father, the filthy house, the fact that no two members of the family ever sat down to a meal together. They walked around eating out of tin cans or paper cartons, dipping spoons and forks into pans, not even bothering with dishes.

There wasn't a newspaper, a magazine or a book in the house. They never heard of hanging a picture on the wall—only snapshots and photographs of the family stuck with adhesive tape or thumbtacks.

These people didn't have to live like this. They were far from wealthy, but they certainly had enough money to enjoy the ordinary comforts of life.

I'm writing this to warn other guys. For heaven's sake, before you ask a girl to marry you, take a good look at the house and family she came from, because yours will be just like it. Plain hell, that's what it is.—Just a Boob

DEAR TUCSON: That letter appeared 23 years ago. I guess it's true that the more things change, the more they stay the same.

I've heard it said if you want to know what your wife will be like in 25 years, look at her mother. I wonder why no one ever says, "If you want to know what your husband will be like in 25 years, look at his father."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been reading you for years, but I never dreamed that one column in particular would change my life completely.

Four years ago, a 41-year-old man wrote and told you how he wanted to start college but was afraid of what the 18 and 19 year old college students would say and how he would fit in. He also was concerned about not graduating until he was 45.

Your reply, which I will never forget, was this: "When you are 45 years old, you will be a 45-year-old WITH or WITHOUT a college degree."

A light bulb went off in my head, and I applied to Harper College in Palatine, Ill. In May, at the age of 41, I will be graduating with an associate of arts degree. I plan to go on for my full bachelor's degree. My concern about the young college students was nonsense. They are terrific and helped me fit right in.

My advice to anyone who is thinking about going to college at any age is this: GO. You'll enjoy it, and you'll feel great about yourself. Thanks, Ann, for that advice. I owe you a lot.—Linda Kaufman, Schaumburg, Ill.

DEAR LINDA: Thanks for that generous day brightener. Actually, the credit belongs to you, not me. You saw what looked like a good idea, and you glommed onto it. I'm printing your letter with the hope that others who are over 40 will see it and take a page out of your book.

Gem of the Day: Consider how difficult it is to change yourself and you will have a much better understanding of your chances of changing someone else.

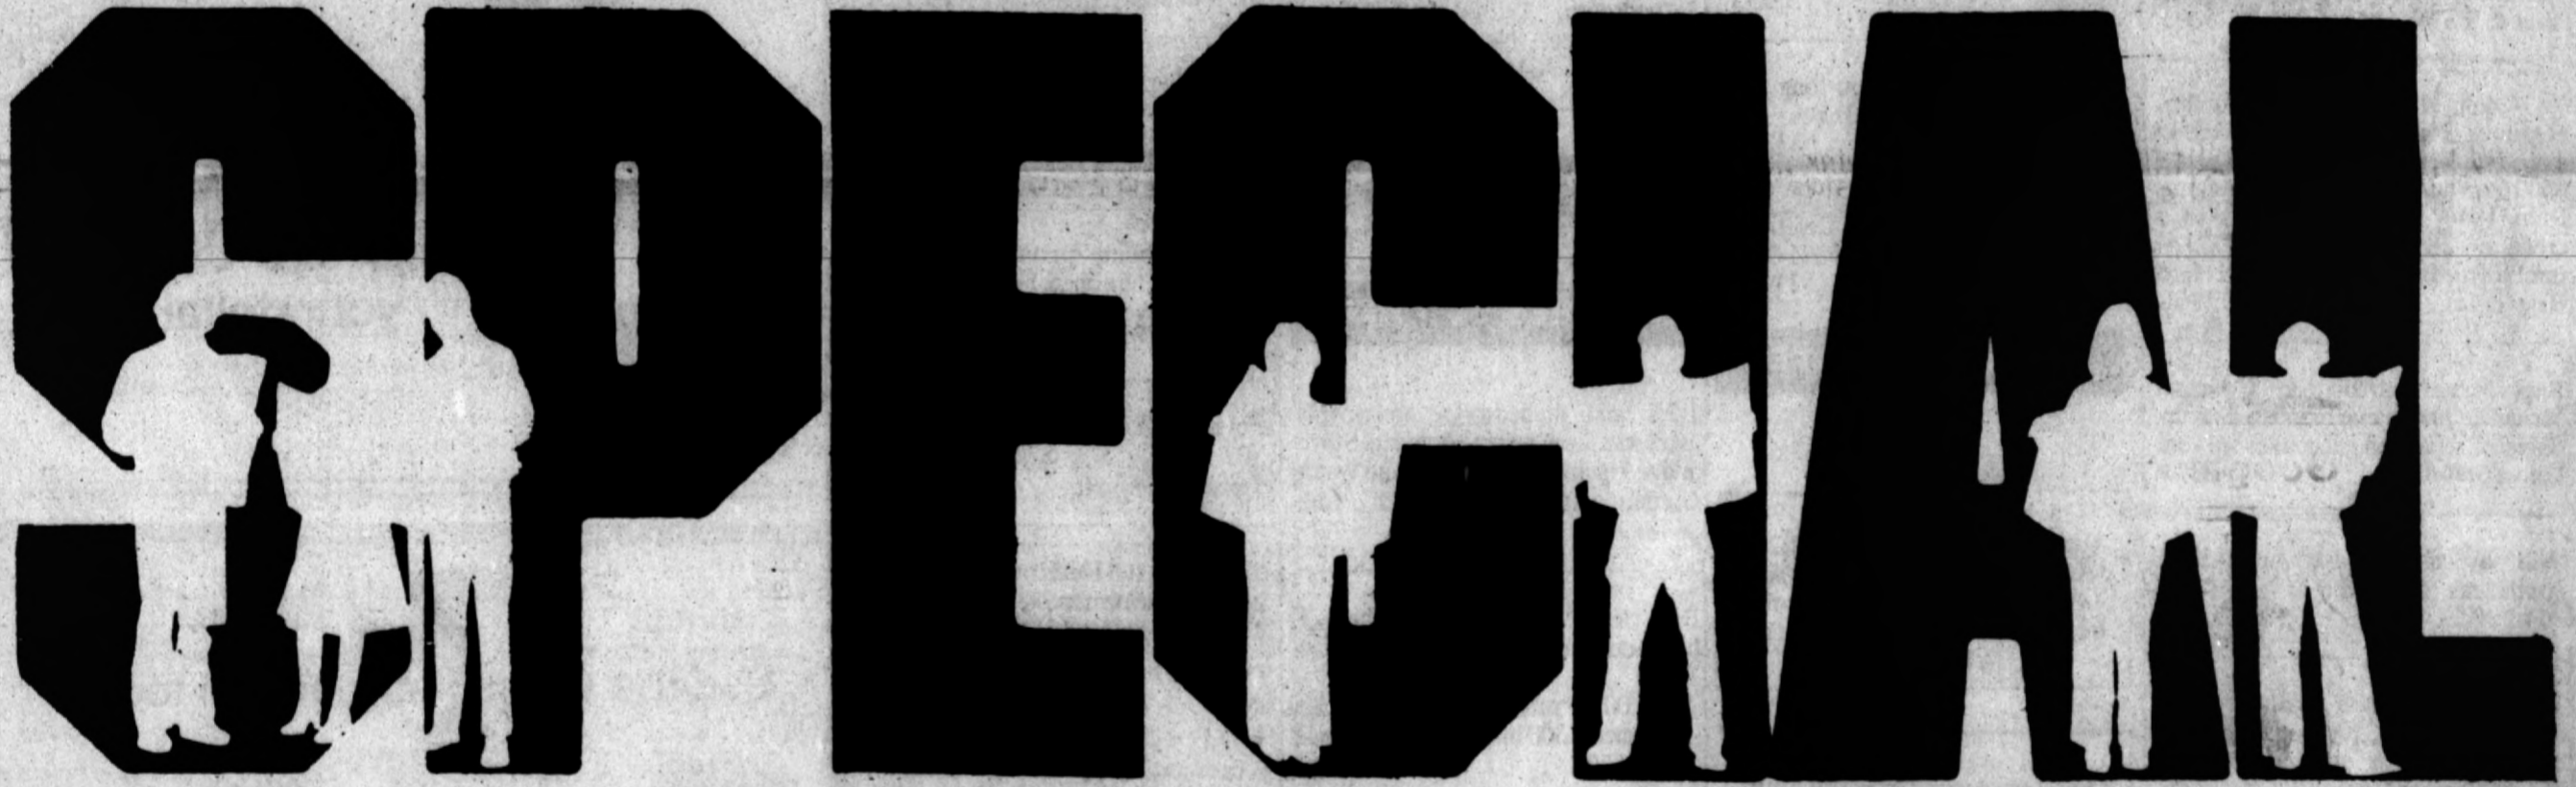

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Lowdown, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

America launched Skylab I, its first manned space station, in 1973.

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information. Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent. An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to. Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing. So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent. Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examine the latest market trends and housing opportunities. With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.

Protect your pets

When you consider all your cat or dog brings to your life, it can be good to know it can be easy for you to save your pet's life.

What you have to do is take the animal to a veterinarian for regular vaccinations.

Animals, like people, are most susceptible to infectious agents during the first months of life. Newborn animals usually receive protection from antibodies in their mother's milk. To be sure kittens and puppies get this protection, the mother should be immunized before breeding. To maintain and strengthen disease resistance after the antibodies in the mother's milk have been depleted, a series of vaccinations should be administered to young animals from approximately six weeks to six months. Lifetime protection is maintained by annual "booster" vaccinations. There are many effective vaccination schedules and your pet is never too old to start. Vaccines are administered under the skin, in the muscle or by nasal spray.

There are vaccines available against:

- Rabies, for all animals. This disease is always fatal, even in humans, but preventable by vaccine.

- For dogs:
- Canine Distemper
 - Infectious Canine Hepatitis
 - Canine Parvovirus
 - Canine Bordetellosis
 - Canine Parainfluenza
 - Canine Leptospirosis
- For cats:
- Feline Panleukopenia
 - Feline Viral Rhinotracheitis
 - Feline Calicivirus
 - Feline Pneumonitis
 - Feline Leukemia Virus

Your veterinarian is the person you should depend on for advice concerning vaccination schedules, boosters and any precautions to take when having your pet vaccinated.

For a free brochure, "What You Should Know About Vaccination," write: the American Veterinary Medical Association, 930 North Meacham Road, Schaumburg, IL 60196.

Growth disorder can often be helped

If you suspect your child is shorter than normal, you may be able to help instead of just worrying about it, say experts. Some short children are normal and healthy. Others may have growth disorders which, if diagnosed early enough, can now be treated successfully.

There are many reasons a child may not grow as fast as he or she should. Some are temporary and merely variations of normal growth patterns. Others are inherited or associated with other physical problems - for example, a bone disease called chondrodystrophy; Turner Syndrome, a genetic disorder in some girls; or nutritional deficiencies. Short stature could even be the first sign of a serious medical condition such as disease of the kidney, heart or lungs.

A rule of thumb for parents who suspect a growth problem in their child is that any child who grows less than two inches a year after his or her second birthday should be examined by a pediatric endocrinologist (or other growth specialist). Other questions to ask yourself include:

- Is your child still wearing last year's clothes?
- Is your child unable to keep up at play with other children the same age?

The passenger vessel Noronic was destroyed by fire at a dock in Toronto in 1949, killing 119 people. The fire broke out shortly after midnight when most of those aboard were asleep. The Noronic was the largest Canadian passenger ship ever placed in service in the Great Lakes.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I had a prostate operation and they found that nine of 83 chips removed contained cancer cells. The doctor told me I had three choices: surgical removal of the prostate, radiation or hormone injections. I had a bone scan, blood work and all were negative with no indication of spread to other parts of the body. I am 72 years old. Which is the best and are there other alternatives for cancer that has not spread beyond the capsule?

DEAR READER: Cancer of the prostate does not cause symptoms until it has already advanced to the point of being inoperable. That is why routine examinations to detect it before that point are so important. No small number are found when an operation for an enlarged prostate is performed as in your case. These nests of cells are usually the earliest stages of prostate cancer.

Prostate cancer at this stage is usually slow growing. Examination of the tissues helps to decide if it is very malignant or only mildly malignant, which can influence what the decision should be. If the tissue is a slowly developing cancer and the man is elderly, it is possible his cancer will not advance enough to be a threat during his lifetime.

But men live longer now than in the past and unless there are other medical problems, those in which there is any question probably should be treated. Surgery or radiation may be used. Each have their advantages and disadvantages. Complete surgical removal of the prostate will cure the cancer if it has not spread. This used to cause impotence, but with new techniques this happens in only about 25 percent of cases. Radiation may cause damage to the rectal area, but implanted seeds of radiation may be used to advantage. It should not cause impotence.

Hormone therapy will only hold the cancer in check and, depending on what is done, usually results in loss of sexual capacity. It is intended to neutralize or abolish the effects of testosterone.

I have discussed the diagnosis and options in prostate cancer in Special Report 130, Update on the Prostate, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/130, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. So the decision will depend on your overall health status and just how malignant those cells were.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a positive type blood. My husband has AB positive type blood. We have one child. His blood type is B positive. Can you please explain this to me? My son has asked me why and I cannot explain it to him.

DEAR READER: Judging from the letters I receive, blood types as related to parentage cause lots of confusion. Since both you and your husband are Rh positive, it is not surprising that your son is Rh positive as well.

You and your husband have two genes that determine your blood type. Your husband's two genes are A and B. Your two genes are A and O. The O gene has no influence on blood type. Your son inherited the B gene from his father and your O gene. His real blood type is BO, which types out as type B since the O gene is ineffective in this regard. If your son had inherited his father's A gene, he would have been type A. This is a rather straight-forward genetic situation.

No hanky-panky and no adoption or mixed up babies in the nursery need be considered as a cause for his type B blood. I hope this helps.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 50 years old and have been going through the change for 10 to 11 years. I had bad hot flashes until about two years ago, then they started up again four months ago. My last real period was a year ago. I am on Premarin and progesterone. I do not like the idea of taking hormones. Could I take vitamins and minerals instead? I have pretty good eating habits. The hormones have stopped the severe hot flashes I was having every five minutes.

DEAR READER: Unfortunately not. Hormones have rather specific actions directly related to cells. In the case of estrogen, cells in the vagina have estrogen receptors that allow estrogen to enter the cells and enable them to function normally. That action is how these cells are able to form lubrication.

Also, there are estrogen receptors in bone. Only estrogen can enter these receptors to increase bone rebuilding and prevent osteoporosis. There are other factors involved, of course, in bone loss. There are also receptors for progesterone. So it goes throughout the body. Think of it this way, diabetes is a hormone deficiency, an insulin deficiency. You can't replace insulin's effects with vitamins and minerals. The menopause causes estrogen and progesterone hormone deficiencies. You can't replace their function either with your diet or with vitamins or minerals. Hormone-replacement therapy is exactly that - replacement - needed because of a hormone deficiency.

To help you understand the hormone changes that occur, I am sending you Special Report 97, The Menopause and Beyond. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/97, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Of course, you can help prevent bone loss with an adequate calcium intake, but there is much more to hormone deficiencies than just bone loss, although that is bad enough. Hormone replacement is usually quite effective in relieving hot flashes. They cannot be prevented with vitamins and minerals either.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

First aid program presented

Betty Henson, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross, presented a first aid segment on infant rescue, breathing and choking to members of the Little Peppers 4-H Club when the group met recently at the Hereford Community Center.

During the next meeting April 12 at the Community Center, members will be discussing 4-H records for this year.
