Plans include heating, air, and new ceilings, lights

$900,000 renovation proposed for HHS

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

The Hereford Independent School District board of trustees on Tuesday voted to accept bids for renovations at Hereford High School that will cost more than $900,000.

The action came during a special meeting with district architect Larry Harvey of Lubbock, who presented plans for the installation of a new heating and air conditioning system in the main portion of the high school.

Included in the package at the last minute was the installation of new drop ceilings throughout the area getting the new system.

Harvey, along with electrical engineer Troy Sweeney, mechanical engineer Scott Hensley and supervisor Dave Branson, reviewed plans for the job and explained what work would have to be done to bring the system on-line by the time school starts in the fall of 1993.

Harvey reminded trustees that a campus assessment tour was done in June 1992 to determine areas of improvement needed in the district.

The next month, specific projects were selected to consider doing, with the high school air conditioning and the roof at Stanton Special Programs Center taking top priority.

As board members looked at a preliminary set of blueprints for the climate control system, Hensley reviewed how the system would work.

He said it will be capable of heating and cooling at the same time during the months when the school's boilers are turned on, allowing teachers to heat a classroom in the cool morning, then cool it when temperatures rise in the afternoon.

A courtyard next to the boiler room will have to be closed to allow installation of two large chillers, which will provide cold water to circulate through the cooling system.

Pipes will be installed throughout most of the school. Excluded from the project will be the auditorium - which will be done at a later date - as well as the office and classrooms in the north wing, which were constructed more recently and have their own air conditioning system.

Each classroom, Hensley said, will have its own thermostat, which will operate an air handler installed over the ceiling in the hall outside the classroom.

To cover the air handlers and water pipes, a new drop ceiling and lighting will be installed in the hall.

After explaining how the new system would work, Harvey broke the news to the board about how much it would cost.

He said the heating/cooling system and new ceiling in the halls would cost $841,242.

Last year, when discussion of the project began, the district had estimated it would cost $550,000 of district money.

Trustees included $800,000 in this year's budget for capital improvements. Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt said there is about $700,000 of that money left.

Harvey said the bid package for the hallway ceilings and air conditioning package is ready to go to out this week.

Trustee Ron Weishaar said he had a problem with doing the hallway ceilings while putting the classroom ceilings on hold, leaving exposed ductwork from the new system.

When asked, Sweeney estimated it would cost an additional $35,000 to install new lights in the classroom. Another $37,000 was estimated for drop ceilings in the classrooms.

Altogether, Greenawalt said, the entire project would cost about $950,000, including contractor profits.

Weishaar made a motion to put out for bid the entire $950,000 project, including a heating/air conditioning system and ceilings in the halls and classrooms.

Greenawalt said the board would need to budget an additional $800,000 for construction next fiscal year, giving the district enough to finish paying for the high school work and begin work on several roofs in the district that need replacing.

The motion passed unanimously. Harvey said he will complete the bid package for re-roofing the Stanton facility and will bring that to the board at a later date.

School renovation plans

Hereford Independent School District Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt, left, and Don Cumpton, assistant superintendent for support services, review plans for renovations to Hereford High School. The district will begin accepting bids this week for work to install a heating and cooling system and new ceilings and lights at the high school.

Demos pass $16 billion job package over GOP protests

WASHINGTON (AP) - Buoyant Democrats are rallying behind President Clinton's economic plan and hope to whisk parts of it through the House and Senate next week, overwhelming resistance by outnumbered Republicans.

"Our president is a new president, and I want him to be a successful president," Rep. William Natcher, D-Ky., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, said Tuesday as his panel ignored GOP objections and rammed through a $16 billion emergency jobs package.

Democrats dominating the House and Senate Budget committees planned votes today on similar $1.5 trillion spending plans for next year largely reflecting Clinton's economic priorities. Both seemed destined for eventual approval.

Both congressional blueprints would increase the spending cuts Clinton initially proposed - the House package by $63 billion over five years, the Senate version by $90 billion. The president seemed to bless both on Tuesday.

"We need all the suggestions we can get about other places we can cut the budget ... so I strongly support that," Clinton said at a brief news conference.

But lawmakers said the president also told a visiting group of Democratic senators that there was a limit to the cuts he would accept. Sen.

James Sasser, D-Tenn., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said Clinton "did sound a cautionary note. He said that we could, if we're not careful, turn off the (economic) recovery."

Seeing their first chance to dominate economic policy since the Carter administration, Democrats seemed ready to try to complete work on the budget resolutions by April 2.

The full House and Senate each planned votes next week on their budgets.

Of the $63 billion in five-year budget cuts by which the House measure exceeds Clinton, $5.5 billion would occur next year.

Garrison honored by HSCA for 10 years on foundation board

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN

Homer Garrison was honored by Hereford Senior Citizens Association Friday for 10 years service on the HSCA's Permanent Foundation Fund board. Homer was presented with a plaque from the board by S.L. Garrison, his brother and current president. Homer is a past president of the foundation board, which was formed with a primary goal of establishing a Permanent Foundation Fund of $1 million for Hereford Senior Citizen Center. That goal is beginning to take shape, according to Margie Daniels, executive director of the center.

Homer Garrison honored

Homer Garrison, left, was presented a plaque from the Hereford Senior Citizens Association Friday for 10 years service on the HSCA Permanent Foundation Fund board. Shirley Garrison, HSCA president and Homer's brother, made the presentation. Homer is a past president of the foundation and helped initiate the "Living Legacy" program to help fund the foundation.

The Hereford Senior Citizens Association established the foundation in 1983 as an entity to provide financial security for the center. The foundation seeks contributions in the form of cash, bequests from wills, gifts of life insurance, charitable trusts, or other creative methods.

The foundation benefits from these gifts in being able to develop longrange plans for a stable future and in having the flexibility to fund current needs. Only the interest from the fund is used, however, and the principal continues to grow.

The foundation initiated a "Living Legacy" program, where individuals take out an insurance policy with the Senior Center's foundation as the owner and beneficiary. The individual can pay the premiums directly to the foundation as a tax deductible charitable gift, or arrangements might be made for friends to pay the premiums.

The foundation recently collected on its first "Living Legacy" policy, pushing the fund total to approximately $280,000, according to foundation board president S.L. Garrison.

The donor in this program can realize a number of advantages, according to Daniels. These include: the gift is tax deductible; a substantial gift to the foundation is worth many times what it costs the donor; it provides an opportunity to establish a living legacy without depriving heirs of any of their inheritance; and the satisfaction of helping to provide a strong and promising future for participants at Hereford Senior Center.

Teacher association plans to lobby for pay increase

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas State Teachers Association plans a "massive grassroots campaign" to secure higher pay, the group's president says.

"The teachers of Texas need and deserve a pay increase," association president Olivia "Ollie" Besteiro said Tuesday.

"The only way they will get it is for the Legislature to provide the funds, then stipulate that districts pass through raises to every single teacher," she said. "We can't rely on school boards to provide fair salaries for employees."

The group also will work against a proposal on the May 1 ballot to exempt school districts from a number of future education mandates that aren't funded by the state, she said.

Ms. Besteiro contended that state salary requirements for teachers, educators' duty-free lunches and class size limits would be threatened by the ballot proposal. Overall, she said, it would exacerbate problems that her association sees with the way school districts spend money.

For example, the teachers group said that while administrators' salaries have gone up 18 percent since 1987, teacher salaries have increased 13.6 percent.

The Texas State Teachers Association wants lawmakers to mandate that 60 percent of all new education spending go to teacher pay and help reduce a $5,000 gap between annual Texas teacher salaries and the national average, Ms. Besteiro said.

But the Texas Association of School Boards supports the ballot proposal and defends school district expenditures.

School board group spokeswoman Margaret La Montagne noted that the ballot proposal would apply only to unfunded state educational mandates enacted after Dec. 31, 1993. There also would be exceptions for mandates passed by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature, or imposed to comply with the state constitution or federal law.

"There's no unraveling of anything that's currently in the law," such as class-size limits and duty-free lunch, Ms. La Montagne said. Ms. Besteiro said there's a concern that such requirements could be changed in the future by lawmakers.

School funding backers deny tax hike will follow measure

AUSTIN (AP) - Supporters of a May 1 ballot proposal on school funding have denounced contentions by a leading opponent of the measure that it would allow a $1 property tax increase by the Legislature.

The proposed constitutional amendment would authorize the shifting of some local property tax money from wealthier to poorer school districts.

It is meant to meet a June 1 Texas Supreme Court deadline for lawmakers to develop a constitutional plan to equalize access to school funds, or face a court-ordered cutoff of state education spending.

Rep. John Culberson, R-Houston, said the share-the-wealth proposal would constitutionally authorize the Legislature to set an additional $1 tax in county education districts, on top of a current $1.50 school property tax cap in state law.

"Many members of the Legislature will tell you they'd never do it, but this authorizes it," Culberson said.

Rep. Libby Lineberger, sponsor of the proposed amendment, said, "I don't know how to combat blatant lies other than with the facts ... There's not a member of this Legislature who ever intended to raise the cap to $2.50. That's ludicrous."

Business meeting discussions

Aspin hints delay in announcement DOD accounting centers may be on hold

WASHINGTON (AP) - Twenty cities in Texas and 13 other states are eagerly awaiting word whether they will land a coveted Defense Department regional accounting center that could mean thousands of high-paying jobs.

But there could be a snag. Defense Secretary Les Aspin has indicated to some members of the Texas, Indiana and Colorado congressional delegations that he may want to halt the process begun under the previous administration and rethink it. Aspin was expected to name the winners Friday.

Delay or review of the process wouldn't be well received in Lubbock, which has spent months pulling together an $88 million package to lure one of the Defense Finance and Accounting Service centers to the windswept plains.

"It's kind of like everyone getting in the stadium waiting for kickoff and canceling the Super Bowl," said Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock.

"Lubbock did everything they were asked to do."

Combest and Sen. Bob Krueger, D-Texas, met separately Tuesday with Aspin.

"He indicated to me that the recommended DFAS process he inherited from the preceding administration was unsatisfactory and that he intended to review the 20 contenders once again," Krueger said.

"This almost certainly means that the announcement of the DFAS choices will be delayed beyond March 15."

The Pentagon wouldn't confirm any delays or changes in its plans. "We're not going to address anything till Friday," Pentagon spokesman Glenn Flood said Tuesday. "Right now nothing is final."

Combest, one of several House Intelligence Committee members who met Tuesday with Aspin, said he had many unanswered questions about how a review of the DFAS process would affect Lubbock and other cities.

"Obviously, it's in his hands," Combest said.

Krueger said he had "no reason to believe that Lubbock is anything less than the very strong contender that it is and I believe it will receive very serious consideration from Secretary Aspin."

The bidding has evolved into an economic development contest, with states including Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Indiana proposing packages worth tens of millions of dollars in tax breaks and incentives.

The Pentagon has not announced how many centers it wants to establish, but is considering two to five facilities that would employ from 4,000 to 7,000 people. Texas officials have estimated that 4,000 jobs would translate into a projected payroll of $140 million a year.

"We don't really know too many details ... at this particular time," said Rod Ellis, Lubbock's director of business development. A delay, he said, "would be disappointing."

Lubbock voters overwhelmingly endorsed a half-cent sales tax increase to finance the city's effort. Gov. Ann Richards last month met with Aspin to urge him to think "Lubbock, Lubbock, Lubbock."

The 20 cities were chosen from 112 sites in 33 states, including nine in Texas. Joining Lubbock as semifinalists were: Bangor, Maine; Cleveland, Columbus and Youngstown, Ohio; Denver, Colo.; Indianapolis and Evansville, Ind.; Huntsville, Ala.; Jackson, Miss.; Macon, Ga.; New Orleans and Shreveport, La.; Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Lawton, Okla.; Pensacola, Fla.; Saginaw, Mich.; San Bernardino, Calif., and Southbridge, Mass.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Beauty is in the eyes of the beholder!

Beauty to some people is the fact that they finally could afford to buy their own property, so that they could keep their belongings on it without the expense of renting something somewhere else.

Beauty to one may be that old wonderful car that has given them a lot of fond memories. When I see a camper or boat or other possessions on people's property, I feel proud for them that they have a place to keep them.

The city, county and state-elected officials are not our rulers. This is not a dictatorship yet! They are elected to govern us and the majority of the people should be for a law or a change before it is passed—whether it be the seat belt law, the helmet law, the garage sale law or whatever they come up with. We voted on the wet-dry liquor law and the majority ruled.

This includes extra taxes that are added to our school, our gas and lights, etc. Where does it stop? The elected officials in Portales, N.M., voted themselves a pay raise and not a one was reelected at the next election!

We should pay attention as to who makes these laws and not react to them. Keeping the weeds down and neat is good and I think most everyone will when they can. Everyone is guilty of not getting that done as soon as they should, so let's work on the vacant lots, bar ditches and cow lots and quit being so critical!

Thank you.

Loretta Ellerd

$900,000

Harvey said bidding for the high school project will begin this week, with an addenda added later to include the classroom ceilings.

State law, he said, requires they be published three weeks before closing bids.

The original package, which did not include ceilings for the classrooms, would have required the contractor to be finished by Aug. 16, two days before school starts, without incurring a $500 a day penalty.

With the addition of the classroom ceilings, Harvey said, that deadline is impractical, and that the project would take an additional 30-45 days.

However, the ducts and water pipes would be completed by then, leaving ceiling work alone to be done after school starts.

Greenawalt said that would be no problem, that classes could be shifted to make room for the workers to finish up.

Following the discussion on the high school project, trustees voted to authorize Branson to put together two applications for federal Institutional Conservation Program grants to do energy surveys at Tierra Blanca and Shirley schools.

The two schools, Greenawalt said, are desperately in need of work, with the energy cost at Tierra Blanca running 99 cents per square foot, and the roof at Shirley leaking so badly that desks have to be moved when it rains to avoid the leaks.

The grants, Branson said, would provide half the cost for him to put together the surveys, which would then be used to apply for federal funding to make energy-related improvements at the schools.

A motion for Branson to make the survey at Tierra Blanca was made by Weishaar.

Trustee Mike Veazey then made a motion that Weishaar's motion be amended to include doing the survey at Shirley.

Trustees voted 5-1, with Weishaar voting against, to amend the motion.

They then voted unanimously to authorize the application, which will cost the district an estimated $2,000.

The district also is applying for loan money through the Governor's Energy Office to help pay for work at the high school, Stanton and Tierra Blanca.

Ryan looks strong in 1st spring start

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — Nolan Ryan has another last time behind him.

He made his first spring start for the last time Tuesday with five innings for the Texas Rangers against the Minnesota Twins, allowing four hits that included a home run by Scott Leius.

"It's also the last time I'll give up a home run in my first spring start," Ryan said. "But I don't think about anything being the last time I do something."

He's leaving nostalgia to the fans and media.

"I have to concentrate on what I do, day to day," Ryan said. "I haven't given much thought to this last spring, I'm too preoccupied with getting ready for the season."

Ryan's primary concern is being healthy for his 27th major league season.

It's been difficult for Hall of Famers in recent decades to finish strong.

Hank Aaron hit .229 in 1976, his final year and Willie Stargell hit .233 in 73 games in his final season in 1982.

"I hope it works that I don't have physical problems and I look back on my last year in the game and say I wished things had been different if I'd have been healthy," he said. "My No. 1 goal is to stay healthy all year."

Rangers pitching coach Claude Osteen watched former Philadelphia great Steve Carlton struggle through his final season, trying to come back from injury.

"That was frustrating for Lefty," Osteen said. "You can imagine the pride and drive and the adrenaline of a star pitcher and then getting out there and being unable to perform," Osteen said.

"But in Nolan's case, this is probably going to be one of the most remarkable things that ever happened to pitching where he's going to go out as a power pitcher."

Ryan struck out three and walked two in his five innings. He threw 79 pitches in absorbing the loss against the Twins.

Ryan expects better. "What I had today was all I had," he said. "I hope that's not all I have all year. My objective today was to throw strikes and get my pitches over the plate."

Deja vu: Gibson homers

By The Associated Press

It was just like the 1988 World Series, or perhaps 1984. Kirk Gibson was circling the bases after a home run.

The drama wasn't quite there Tuesday when Gibson hit his first home run of spring training. Still, he was back in a Detroit Tigers uniform and it was his first home run in a year, since before the Pittsburgh Pirates released him last May.

Gibson, who will turn 36 on May 28, played only 16 games before the Pirates gave up on him. Gibson said he would retire, but the Tigers lured him back just before the start of spring training. He signed a $500,000, one-year contract that could earn him an additional $600,000 if he meets several performance bonus levels. He has

Herd's defensive lapses let Sandies take 13-3 win

Amarillo High took advantage of some Hereford defensive lapses and took a 13-3 decision Tuesday in Amarillo.

"We didn't play very well on defense," Herd coach T.R. Sartor said. "We helped them a bunch. Ray (Hastings) threw pretty well off the mound, but you've got to field those balls."

Amarillo High scored four runs in the first inning and held a 7-3 lead after three innings. While the Herd stopped scoring, the Sandies didn't. They scored three runs in the fifth, then scored three more in the sixth to end the game by the 10-run rule.

Hastings, Hereford's starter, ran out of gas in the third, Sartor said, so Jerry Rincon relieved. Sartor said he wanted to save top pitchers Sammy Casarez and Ruben Ramos for this weekend's tournament in Dumas.

Hereford's only runs came in the first two innings: one in the first and two in the second. In the first, Richard Sanderson singled, stole second, went to third on a stray pickoff throw and scored on Russ Watts' groundout.

In the second, Vince Castillo reached on an error, and Shama Hernandez courtesy ran for Castillo, the catcher. Hernandez went to third on Rene Cano's single and scored on Chris Brummett's single. Cano came home on Sanderson's single.

Sartor said that the Sandies' catcher slowed Hereford's offense. "They've got a pretty good catcher," he said. "We were 20-for-20 (in stealing bases) until this game, but he threw a couple of runners out and took us out of our running game."

Hereford, now 2-5, will start the Dumas tournament by facing River Road at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Josh Tice threw a no-hitter to lead Hereford's junior varsity B team past Boys Ranch's varsity team 7-0 Tuesday at Whiteface Field.

Tice struck out 15 batters in seven innings work. Boys Ranch's only baserunners came on two walks and a Hereford throwing error.

Most of Hereford's offense was based on bases on balls, coach Charlie Garza said. Wade Backus scored two runs.

In an A JV game, Hereford lost 6-3 Monday at Randall, committing four errors in the fifth inning of a close game. Ronald Torres and Justin Wright each had two hits, and Torres had three stolen bases.

The A team will play in a tournament in Plainview this weekend. They'll take on Bovina's varsity at 1:30 p.m. Thursday.

Carl Yastrzemski scored 1,818 runs for the Red Sox, a record for the club.

There are 8,300 tons of reinforced steel in the Georgia Dome, more than the iron and steel in the Eiffel Tower.

JV netters sweep Randall

Hereford's junior varsity tennis team swept Randall's JV Tuesday in Hereford, winning 21 matches and losing none.

Boys' singles: Tyler Merrick def. Cory Miller, 6-1; Lupe Perez def. Tom Stephens, 8-2; Jason Cole def. Jared Nichols, 8-2; Jay Moore def. Barry Wilson, 6-0; Carlos Cintra def. Jeremy Woodruff, 6-1; and Scott Shaw def. Jeremy Kersey, 8-5.

Boys' doubles: B.J. Lockmiller/Pete Vargas def. Miller/Stephens, 8-1; Cole/Perez def. Nichols/Wilson, 8-1; and Merrick/Justin Girls' singles: Gabriela Gamez def. Terri Bator, 8-0; Melissa Berend def. Chastity Mills, 8-1; Aimee Alley def. Jennifer Browder, 6-0; Terri Reiter def. Tiffany Mashburn, 6-1; Julie Cole def. Jana Glasswell, 6-3; Leslee Taylor def. Megan Fields, 8-0; and Cole def. Katie Henderson, 8-0.

Girls' doubles: Natalie McWhorter/Paige Robbins def. Bator/Mills, 8-0; Alley/Jessica Evers def. Mashburn/Browder, 8-1; Taylor Sublett/Traci Reiter def. Glasswell/Fields, 8-0; and Terri Reiter/Leslee Taylor def. (unknown opponent), 8-0.

JV golfers take 6th in Friona

A team of freshmen and sophomore boys from Hereford took sixth place in a golf tournament in Friona Friday.

Hereford's team, one of two non-varsity squads in the 12-team field, totalled 367 in the one-day event. Muleshoe won the tourney with a 322, followed by Farwell, 332; Morton, 336; Olton, 344; Hart, 350; and Hereford.

Individually, Scott Burkhalter led Hereford by shooting an 87. Hereford's other golfers were: Justin Griffith, 89; David Sims, 93; David Farr, 98; and Nathan Diller, 105.

Hereford's freshmen and sophomore girls are to play in Friona today.

Lady golfers to meet Thursday

Women golfers are invited to attend a meeting of the Ladies Golf Association Thursday at 7 p.m. at Hereford Country Club.

Discussion about activities this spring, including a partnership tournament in May, will be on the agenda.

All women interested in playing with the LGA are encouraged to attend the Thursday evening meeting.

Ted Lyons won 260 games, the most for any White Sox pitcher, but he lost 230, also the most.

Whitey Ford pitched 45 shutouts for the Yankees, the top figure in the history of the team.

Suber's shot sends Rider to NCAA tourney

By The Associated Press

Talk about a night to remember. No one who watched Rider beat Wagner to win a berth in the NCAA tournament should ever forget what they saw Tuesday.

Darrick Suber certainly won't. But he had a better view than most.

"I've thought about this type of play every day since I was a kid," Suber said. "I've been dreaming this dream ever since I picked up a basketball.

"...People across the country got their money's worth tonight."

What ESPN's audience saw was a court-length drive end with Rider's career scoring leader making a 12-foot jumper at the buzzer for a 65-64 victory in the Northeast Conference championship game.

The victory in Lawrenceville, N.J., and that of Wright State, which beat Illinois-Chicago 94-88 in the Mid-Continent tournament at Dayton, Ohio, brought to 15 the number of teams now qualified for the 64-team NCAA tournament.

Two more will go in tonight when Delaware visits Drexel in the North Atlantic Athletic Conference and Bucknell plays host to Holy Cross in the Patriot League. The road begins for another when Hawaii plays Air Force and Wyoming meets San Diego State in the opening round of the Western Athletic Conference tournament at Salt Lake City.

Three ranked teams also are in action in the Big Ten, which has no tournament. No. 2 Indiana, already in the NCAA tournament as conference champion, plays host to Michigan State, No. 3 Michigan is at Illinois and No. 17 Iowa is home for Wisconsin.

The Rider-Wagner matchup was not a meeting between Magic Johnson and Larry Bird, but Suber and Wagner's Bobby Hopson staged a thrilling duel of their own. Suber had 33 points, one more than Hopson, who scored his career high.

That Suber won it at the buzzer was perhaps appropriate. Hopson had taken a one-point lead in their personal battle and given Wagner (18-12) a 64-63 advantage on a lean-in jumper with five seconds remaining.

"It was almost like if there were four more seconds, you have to wonder if Hopson would have done the same thing," said Rider coach Kevin Bannon, whose team is 19-10. Hopson, a junior guard, accepted defeat graciously.

"This is the first time this has happened to me," he said. "I've done it plenty of times in my career to other people and now it's done to me, and now I know how those teams feel."

Wright St. 94, Illinois-Chicago 88

In this game, the sound of the buzzer had a different result - very nearly a tragic one. Reserve guard Chris McGuire was trampled when Raiders fans stormed the court in celebration of their first invitation to the big show.

The crowd of 9,247 went silent when the public address announcer called for paramedics to help an injured player. They worked on McGuire for 15 minutes, putting a brace on his neck and a protective board under his back, before taking him off on a stretcher.

McGuire was taken to a hospital to make sure there was no serious damage.

"It was all just precaution," trainer Tony Ortiz said. "He should be fine."

Bill Edwards scored 38 points and Mike Nahar 25 for Wright State (20-9).

Kenny Williams scored 30 and had a four-point play to pull the Flames (17-15) to 91-88 with 21 seconds left. But Wright State's Andy Holderman hit a free throw, stole the ball from Williams and made another free throw.

Jordan's bad foot, Rockets' streak, Wilkins' treys highlight NBA night

By The Associated Press

The NBA was as simple as 1-2-3.

One is the number of healthy feet Michael Jordan played on. Two is the number of games the Houston Rockets need to win to match their franchise record of 13 straight victories. Three is the number of points Dominique Wilkins scored nearly every time he shot the ball Tuesday night.

Jordan, despite limping noticeably on the infected left foot that caused him to miss two games, scored 11 of his 38 points in the final 5:08 of Chicago's 86-83 victory over Seattle.

Hakeem Olajuwon scored 18 of his 34 points in the final period in the 104-94 decision over Miami that gave the Rockets 11 consecutive wins.

Wilkins hit 8 of 12 3-point shots, scoring 37 points and falling one shy of the NBA record for 3-pointers in a game as Atlanta defeated Milwaukee 117-103.

Jordan rallied the Bulls from an 11-point deficit, accounting for 11 of their last 13 points and helping his teammates hold the SuperSonics to 14 points in the final period.

"I was in some pain but it was not excruciating," Jordan said. "And once I concentrated on the game, I was able to forget about my foot."

Shawn Kemp scored 19 points for Seattle, which has dropped two straight after a 10-game winning streak, the second-longest in franchise history.

Scottie Pippen scored 14 points for the Bulls.

Rockets 104, Heat 94

Houston also snapped Miami's franchise-record six-game winning streak as Olajuwon hit 8 of 11 shots in the fourth period and finished with 15 rebounds.

Grant Long had 22 points, Steve Smith 20 and Rony Seikaly 16 points and 12 rebounds for the Heat.

Hawks 117, Bucks 103

Wilkins became the eighth player in NBA history to hit eight or more 3-pointers.

He made four 3-pointers in the first period to help the Hawks build a 36-23 margin, then hit two more in the second period as Atlanta stayed ahead of Milwaukee 63-52 at halftime.

Eric Murdock led the Bucks with 20 points.

Suns 128, Kings 108

Cedric Ceballos scored a career-high 40 points and Phoenix used a 20-4 second-quarter run to win at Sacramento.

Charles Barkley had 23 points for the Suns, who trailed 36-35 before pulling into a 55-40 lead on Ceballos' two free throws with 3:05 left in the first half.

Wayman Tisdale had 32 points and 12 rebounds and Walt Williams scored 30 points for Sacramento.

Jazz 116, Timberwolves 107

Utah snapped a four-game home losing streak and won for just the second time in nine games as Karl Malone scored 27 points and Jeff Malone 24 against Minnesota.

The Jazz led 103-85 with 7:18 left, but had to withstand a 20-6 run that closed the Timberwolves to 109-105 with 1:21 remaining. A three-point play by Tyrone Corbin gave Utah a 114-107 advantage with 39 seconds left.

Doug West scored 23 points and Micheal Williams 22 for the Timberwolves.

Spurs 119, Mavericks 84

David Robinson scored 19 points and Sean Elliott 16 in his first game after recovering from a back injury as San Antonio extending Dallas' road losing streak to a franchise-record 27 games.

The Mavericks also matched a club record with their 15th consecutive loss, getting just four points from first-round draft pick Jim Jackson in his third pro game.

Hornets 124, Bullets 104

Charlotte won a franchise-record 32nd game, beating Washington behind Larry Johnson's 23 points and 13 rebounds.

Dell Curry had 22 points for Charlotte, which shot 57 percent for the game.

Lakers 123, Pistons 121

James Worthy scored 28 points and A.C. Green's free throw with 33 seconds left broke a tie for Los Angeles at Detroit.

Joe Dumars had 41 points for the Pistons.

SWC honors SMU's Shumate

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

AP Sports Writer
DALLAS (AP) - Nobody needed a championship season more than John Shumate.

With his five-year contract running out, Shumate brought a salty band of Southern Methodist seniors their first 20-victory season and Southwest Conference basketball title since 1988.

It earned him The Associated Press All-SWC Coach of the Year laurels in voting by his colleagues around the eight-team league.

Shumate changed going into the season. He installed a running game, let players make mistakes without benching them, and even grew a dashing mustache.

After four consecutive losing seasons, Shumate hit the magic formula.

"It was a great regular season," Shumate said. "It felt good to pay back all those people who had confidence in me."

"It was a sweet season," said Shumate, who takes a 20-6 overall record and a 12-2 conference mark into this weekend's tournament. "We do it the right way at SMU. We graduate players and we proved we can play at a championship level doing it."

Shumate was expected to get a brand new contract off his team's performance. The Mustangs play Texas Christian in the first round of the SWC tournament on Friday.

The champion Mustangs landed two players on The AP first team, including Mike Wilson, the SWC's most valuable player. Point guard Gerald Lewis, who ignited the SMU attack with over six assists per game and led the league in steals, also was on the first team.

Wilson averaged almost 19 points per game and help make Shumate's new running style effective. He was almost unstoppable in the Mustangs up-tempo game.

The other players on the coaches' first team included Charles "Bo" Outlaw of Houston, the SWC's top shot-blocker and leading field goal shooter, Texas Tech's Will Flemons, the league's leading rebounder and scorer, and Rice guard Marvin Moore, who averaged 18 points for the second-place Owls.

Flemons was voted the offensive player of the year and Outlaw was named the defensive player of the year.

In the final superlatives department, Houston point guard Anthony Goldwire was named the SWC newcomer of the year for the third-place Cougars.

The second team included Rice's Brent Scott, Goldwire, Terrence Rencher of Texas and Alex Holcombe of Baylor. Houston's David Diaz, Texas' Michael Richardson, SMU's Tim Mason, and Texas A&M's David Edwards tied for the fifth and final spot.

The AP's All-Newcomer team included three players from Texas Tech: Jason Sasser, Koy Smith and Lenny Holly. Goldwire was also on the team, while Eric Dailey of TCU and Lance Broderson of Texas A&M tied for the fifth position.

Fort Worth boxing club struggles with plumbing

By JOHN STURBIN
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - They could call the building where Ernest Canales Jr. and Jesse Gonzales have been training for this week's State Golden Gloves Tournament "Twin Leaks."

Seems neither the roof nor the plumbing at 2711 Clinton, home to J.C.'s Classics, is much good at holding water.

"We've already patched up six leaks in the roof," said Ernesto Canales Sr., one of seven fathers involved in transforming a former North Side "beer joint" into a boxing club. "We've got one more leak up there, over in the back corner."

Head coach Martin Reyes - a roofer by trade - has been volunteered to nail down that project.

And then there is the plumbing at 2711 Clinton.

"I tried turning the water on," Canales said, "and found out we've got a leak somewhere under the foundation. I've got some friends who are plumbers, and when it gets warmer they're going to help us start digging and find it."

"Hey, we're not giving up, because we've got kids we care about."

The team's first foray into the annual Regional Golden Gloves last month produced champions Canales Jr. at light flyweight (106 pounds) and Gonzales at light middleweight (156).

Canales, a 16-year-old sophomore at North Side High School, is unopposed.

"I've been training since the summer," he said, "and I'd like to fight my way into the states. I didn't feel that comfortable (sitting out)."

Gonzales, an 18-year-old senior at Paschal High School, said he was "shocked" after defeating 25th Street Boxing Club teammates David Medina and Robert Kibble for his state berth.

"I told everybody, 'Oh, my God, I won! In there with the big boys,'" said Gonzales, last year's high school division I light middle champ.

There also was a touch of irony in Gonzales' victories, because until last summer most of the 13 members of J.C.'s formerly belonged to the 25th Street team.

"They started getting too many pros in there," the elder Canales said, "and we've got kids like 8 years old. We don't want them getting hurt. We had a little disagreement over that, got our own club and took in our kids."

The team derived its name from sponsor Joe Castorena, a businessman who bought gloves and headgear for the club and helped pay expenses on some early trips.

The fathers, who rent the building, contribute from $20 to $35 a month to keep it open.

With the exception of a new heavy bag donated by the Castillo Boxing Club, all of the team's speed and double-ended bags are handmade.

A tiny 12-foot by 11-foot ring, marked by three strands of rope instead of shiny leather, stands in one corner. In place of an elevated and padded ring, two brown rugs taped together serve as a floor mat.

"We tried to build something for the kids so they feel like they're in a ring," said Reyes, whose 11-year-old son, Elias, reached the 60-pound National Junior Open final of the National Silver Gloves last month. "We don't have any money for anything else."

No fancy automatic bell system marks the sparring rounds here. Instead, coach Alex Arendono - whose son, Daniel, and nephew, John, are team members - barks out time.

Plans for THE in-gym luxury - a shower - are on hold until that leaky plumbing is fixed.

"Financially, we're struggling," said the elder Canales, whose 10-year-old son, Eric, also is a team member.

played in only two of the Tigers' five exhibition games, but has three hits, including a home run, in his first five at-bats.

"It obviously feels good, especially the homer," Gibson said after Detroit's 6-3 victory at Lakeland, Fla., over a Toronto split squad. "But the next at-bat was really the litmus test. I have a tendency to he-man it after one like that."

Gibson, who walked his first at-bat against the Blue Jays, followed his homer off rookie left-hander Huck Flener with a line single off Rick Steed, raising Gibson's batting average to .600. It brought back memories of his 1988 homer for Los Angeles off Oakland's Dennis Eckersley and his two homers in Game 5 of the '84 Series for Detroit.

"That last pitch, I went right down," Gibson said. "That's what I've got to do to get that pitch. My hardest thing is to keep the stroke. I'm not a mechanical guy. I'm a strong guy."

It generally was a good day for the old guys, with the notable exception of Milwaukee pitcher Ron Robinson. Hampered by injuries the past two seasons, he was placed on unconditional release waivers Tuesday.

Robinson, 31, is guaranteed $1.2 million in 1993, the final season of a three-year contract worth $3.3 million. He has pitched just nine games since signing the contract, going 1-5.

Nolan Ryan, who plans to retire after the season, threw 79 pitches against the Minnesota Twins in the first start of his final spring training, allowing two runs and four hits in five innings of a 3-0 Texas Rangers loss at Port Charlotte, Fla.

Ryan struck out three and walked two, giving up an RBI double to Brian Harper in the fourth and a home run to Scott Leius in the fifth.

Ryan, a 46-year-old right-hander, wasn't thinking about the final first start.

"It's also the last time I'll give up a home run in my first spring start," Ryan said. "But I don't think about anything being the last time I do something. I have to concentrate on what I do, day-to-day. I haven't given much thought to this last spring. I'm too preoccupied with getting ready for the season."

Charlie Hough, the 45-year-old knuckleballer, pitched four shutout innings in his first start of the spring for Florida and hit a run-scoring single off Mark Portugal as a Marlins' split squad beat a Houston split squad 4-3 at Cocoa, Fla.

Hough's last regular-season at-bat was in 1980 when he was a member of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Among slightly younger pitchers, Orel Hershiser allowed two hits in four shutout innings as the Dodgers routed the Marlins' other squad 10-0 at Vero Beach, Fla. Hershiser, 34, struck out six.

basketball power. It was returned last fall by a graduate who confessed he had kept the statue in his basement since 1950.

Head coach Charlie Spoonhour was delighted and said he hoped it was a good omen for his first year as Billiken coach.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Years ago, when my husband and I were first married, we discussed what would happen if one of us died.

We were both in our 30s at the time, so I didn't consider this a frivolous chat. "Jimmy" and I both promised never to remarry if one of us should pass away. I felt greatly relieved, because I love him so much I couldn't bear the thought of another woman taking my place.

We are now both pushing 50, and I am seriously ill. Last night as we were sitting by the fireplace, Jimmy brought up the subject of our promise and assured me that it still stands. My question is this, Ann: Am I being unrealistic and selfish to find comfort in this promise? I don't think it would be too hard on him, because he's a workaholic and didn't marry me until he was in his mid-30s. We also have no children and are devoted to each other.

Are there other couples who have made this promise and been able to keep it? Are there couples who made this promise and later regretted it? I am torn between the guilt I feel that I may be depriving him of future years of happiness and yet wanting so much to know that I will have been his only true love. I can honestly say that if Jimmy died tomorrow, I could easily live a purposeful life without ever having another man.

What is your opinion, Ann? Since neither of our families knows of this promise, please sign me--Anonymous in the Midwest

DEAR ANONYMOUS: It seems to me that couples who truly love one another would want their mates to remarry when one or the other passes away. To extract a promise NOT to remarry would be the ultimate act of selfishness.

It is impossible to predict how one will feel several years down the road. People's ideas change. It would be extremely shortsighted to tie up a mate with such a promise, and I would definitely advise against it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: As a product liability lawyer, I can tell you that too many small children are injured and horribly disfigured by hot appliances because parents fail to place cords where they cannot be reached by little hands.

By pulling on carelessly placed cords, children have scalded themselves with hot grease from fry cookers and boiling coffee and had hot toasters fall on their heads.

Manufacturers have tried to help. Cords on today's electric coffee pots are often as short as two feet. However, not all appliance cords are getting shorter. In fact, some manufacturers advertise the fact that their cords are longer.

According to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, irons and clothes steamers alone sent over 53,000 people to hospital emergency rooms from 1988 to 1990. Most were burn injuries, and many of the victims were children. An Iron at 440 degrees requires only a fraction of a second of contact to burn through the flesh.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission recommends buying appliances with cords just long enough to reach a counter-top or floor-level outlet. Please tell your readers to position appliances as close as possible to a wall and to make sure the cords are out of the way. Remind parents that a little forethought can keep their children from being one tug away from tragedy.--Ed in Elmhurst, Ill.

DEAR ED: Thanks for a valuable letter. Parents also need to know that there are inexpensive devices available to wind up extra-long cords and get them safely out of the way.--Thanks for writing.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $41.5 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Gov. Lawton Chiles should probably keep his day job, though he says he only missed an easy 15-footer because he didn't want to show up NBA stars Shaquille O'Neal and Rony Seikaly.

The 6-foot Chiles appears in a new public service television commercial promoting fitness with O'Neal, the 7-foot star of the Orlando Magic, and Seikaly, the 6-foot-11 star of the Miami Heat.

O'Neal is shown dunking the ball and Seikaly makes a hook shot. When Chiles misses a set shot from near the foul line, he tells viewers, "I'm working on it. You can, too."

At a news conference Friday, Chiles said he missed on purpose.

4-H leaders to meet Thursday

The Deaf Smith County 4-H Parents and Leaders Association will meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the game room of the Hereford Community Center.

Reports on past projects and plans for upcoming projects will be discussed. All 4-H parents and leaders are urged to attend the meeting.

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) - Jon Lovitz will recreate his role as a baseball talent scout for the Rockford Peaches when last summer's hit movie "A League of Their Own" premieres as a TV series next month.

Penny Marshall, who directed the movie, will direct the first episode. Lovitz and Garry Marshall, who played the team owner (and the director's brother), will guest star.

The series will pick up the story of the Peaches - a World War II-era professional women's baseball team - where the movie left off, said a spokesman for TriStar Television, which is filming six shows as a summer replacement series for CBS.

Depending on how it does, it may be picked up for the fall season. Helen Waddell Wyatt of Rockford, who played second base for the Peaches, says she and her teammates are delighted that interest in the team continues.

"We're having a ball," she said.

Britain celebrated the golden jubilee of Queen Victoria in 1887.

Establishing credit

Establishing credit can be frustrating--especially if you've never had a loan, points out the United Food and Commercial Workers Union.

Lenders generally turn down people with no credit history, but borrowers can't build a credit history unless someone loans them money.

Credit cards offer a variety of services and costs. Department store cards sometimes are easier for first-timers to get because they generally offer lower credit limits than other cards. Oil company cards used to charge gas and other car-related items usually require full payment every month. Bank cards are issued by individual banks that set their own terms, rates, and application rules.

When seeking to establish credit, start with the local bank, savings and loan, or credit union where you have an account.

Northwest students of the month

Northwest Primary School principal Alice Lockmiller, center, stands with the school's students of the month for March. The students were recognized by their teachers for citizenship and good work. They ate lunch with Mrs. Lockmiller at a specially decorated stage, dining on McDonald's Happy Meals. They received a certificate, two pencils and a special treat. Principal's Awards winners are: Rebecca Ozuna and Jose Perez, kindergarten; Amanda Wall and Jason Klett, first grade; Desarae Guerrero and David Quiroz, second grade; and Stephanie Moya and Rafael Ramirez, third grade.

Hospital services discussed at meeting

Deaf Smith General Hospital Administrator Ron Rives spoke about the many services the hospital provides when members of L'Allegria Study Club met recently in the hospital dining room.

Rives explained that the Occupational Medicine Program is new and it is designed to give physical examinations at the work site. The program assists employers to reduce worker's compensation costs, lower health care costs, help employees maintain good health and provide a safer working environment.

The hospital has also established a Speakers' Bureau which can present timely, informative programs to area organizations. For additional information, call the hospital at 364-2141.

It was announced that the proceeds from the club's recent geranium sale will be used to build a Victorian-style gazebo on the hospital grounds. Construction will begin this summer months.

A key to healthy smiles

Your teeth: they really are what you eat. Making wise food choices, it seems, can give you something to smile about.

While brushing and flossing is important, says the American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA), a well-balanced, nutritious diet also helps maintain a winning smile. In fact, many of the foods that reward your body by building strong muscles and bones also help build strong, health teeth and gums.

Smart oral healthcare shopping lists should include:

--Dairy Products -- Such as milk, ice cream, yogurt and cheeses. Dairy products, one of the most important food groups for healthy teeth, provide calcium and vitamin D for strengthening teeth and bones. For adults, lowfat or skim milk products are good options that have the same nutrients as whole milk, but provide less or not fat or cholesterol.

--Breads and cereals -- such as whole-grain and enriched breads, biscuits, muffins, non-sugary cookies, pasta, noodles and rice. This food group supplies B vitamins for growth and iron for healthy blood, which in turn contributes to healthy gum tissue.

--Fruits and vegetables -- from dark green vegetables to citrus fruit. Fruits and vegetables contain vitamin C (among other important vitamins) essential to maintaining healthy, pink gums.

--Lean Meat, fish, poultry and beans -- including beef, pork, chicken, fish and shell fish, beans and lentils. This food group provides iron and protein for your body's overall good health.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: You mentioned in your column that AIDS cannot be transmitted through kissing. If HIV is present in all the body fluids of persons who are HIV positive, kissing, especially passionate kissing, should be included as a way that the AIDS virus can be transmitted. Passionate kissing is another form of exchanging body fluids. Is there a conspiracy to not educate people on this? Why? Would you like someone who has AIDS to kiss you or give you CPR?

DEAR READER: To set the record straight, there is not one single reported case of AIDS which can be proved to have been caused by kissing — even passionate kissing. It is true that an occasional AIDS virus has been found in saliva. But it takes more than one virus to cause an infection because the body is pretty good at fighting off most infectious agents unless the number of bacteria or viruses is large enough to establish themselves. Saliva also contains a substance that tends to kill the AIDS virus. Finally, even if there were live viruses, they would have to be able to enter the body through an abrasion, so they could get into the circulation.

While I don't go around being kissed all the time, if I loved someone who had AIDS and was kissed by that person I would not be worried. And if I needed CPR, I would be grateful if someone with AIDS saved my life.

You need to have a better understanding of how AIDS is and is not transmitted. If you had included your name and address on your letter, I would have sent you a free copy of Special Report 115, Protect Yourself from AIDS. Those who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

You may wish to know that studies have shown that family members living in the same household with an AIDS victim and sharing household items and facilities do not develop AIDS unless they share sexual activity. The disease itself is frightening, but that is no reason to be an alarmist and think that all forms of human contact with an AIDS victim is dangerous.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My question is about the milk I drink. Since I began having a weight problem a few years ago, I changed from 4 percent milk to skim milk. I have read many times that skim milk is the same as whole milk except the fat is removed. The calcium stays the same. Is this true? In my paper today, I read that I am receiving less calcium and should "be careful, you are setting yourself up for osteoporosis (brittle bones) many years down the road." Is the difference this much, and who is right? I'm 60 years old.

DEAR READER: I note you are from Canada, so I can't be sure what

"Killer whale society is the most stable known of any social mammal, and both male and female killer whales stay with their mothers as long as the mothers live."

New York and Boston were linked by telegraph wires in 1847.

your milk products there are, but I would think they would be the same as in the United States. In that case, the statement as you quote it is completely false and a serious disservice to the public. The opposite is true.

A quart of ordinary skim milk, which is seldom in the stores, would just have the fat removed and contains 1,209 mg of calcium. Usually skim milk, 1 percent and 2 percent milk have non-fat milk solids added. A quart of such milk will contain 1,265 mg of calcium. A quart of whole milk (3.7 percent fat) contains only 1,161 mg of calcium. If it happened to be protein-fortified, a quart will contain 1,407 mg of calcium. These values are provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Enjoy your milk. It will help protect you from osteoporosis.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

Hawaiian party held for sorority chapter

Members of Alpha Iota Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently in the home of Pattie Urbanczyk for a Hawaiian luau, this year's spring rush party theme.

All present were given colorful Hawaiian leis and palm tree name tags.

The opening ritual was repeated and a short business meeting was conducted. Appreciation was extended to secret sisters for various Valentine gifts and a thank you note was read by Carmen Gonzales from this year's chapter sweetheart, Wanda Huseman.

Mary Bob Ward reported that Beta Nite will be held from 7-11 p.m. March 27 with members from the three local sorority chapters providing food.

The refreshment table was adorned with colorful umbrellas and yellow pineapples. Food included a variety of fresh fruit and dip, finger sandwiches, chips, vegetables and dip, punch and tea.

Those present were Janice Betzen, Jaime Brorman, Glenna Calaway, Danell Culp, Patty Frerich, Carmen Gonzales, Wand Huseman, Marrie Leverett, Jane Meiwes, Jill Savoini, Pattie Urbanczyk and Mary Bob Ward.

A good marriage is that in which each appoints the other guardian of his solitude.

CORNED BEEF & CABBAGE

4-5 Pounds corned beef, 3 quarts cold water, 3 quarts boiling water, 2 medium onions peeled and each stuck with 3 cloves, 7 medium carrots, 1 celery stalk white & green parts, 2 bay leaves, 3 big parsley stalks with leaves, 12 peppercorns slightly crushed, 6 medium onions peeled, 6 small turnips or 3 large turnips cut into halves, 1 2 to 3 pound head cabbage, boiled potatoes cooked separately.
Wash the meat, add cold water to a large kettle and bring to a boil, lower heat, and simmer, covered, for 1 hour. Pour off liquid (changing the water will make for a fresher dish) and add the 3 quarts boiling water, the onions stuck with cloves, 1 carrot, the celery, bay leaves, parsley, and peppercorns. Bring back to boiling, and skim. Lower heat and simmer, covered for 4 hours. The meat should be tender but firm. The last 1/2 hour of cooking, remove the vegetables and as many of the peppercorns as possible. Add the 6 onions, the remaining 6 carrots, and the turnips. Cut the cabbage into 6 wedges and add for the last 15 minutes of cooking.
