District 4-H Food Show winners announced

4-H members from the top 20 counties of the Texas Panhandle competed recently in the District 4-H Food Show at Randall High School in Amarillo.

The food show is sponsored annually by Morrison Milling of Denton and the Texas Extension Homemakers Association. The Randall County Extension Homemakers Council hosted a brunch for the judges of the event.

"Texas Proud" was the theme for the food show that culminates the 4-H food and nutrition education projects. The food and nutrition project consists of a series of six or more lessons on food science, safety, nutrition, fitness and career opportunities. Contestants were interviewed on nutrition facts and food preparation principles. Leadership and community service was also emphasized.

The top ranking senior (ages 14-19) contestants will advance to state competition at 4-H Roundup in June on the Texas A&M campus. They include Tina Batenhorst of Randall County in main dish; Karon Harder of Deaf Smith County, fruit and vegetables; David Kludt of Gray County, bread and cereal; and Jennifer Brörman of Oldham County, nutritious snacks and desserts.

Alternates in the senior division are: Cady Auckerman, Deaf Smith County; April Cook, Carson County; Keri Jane McCasland, Randall County; and Kirk McDonald, Gray County.

Also, named in the top four of the senior age division are: Richard Williams of Gray County; Janell Pronger, Sherman County; Paula Ann Shawver and Salem Callahan, Potter County; Jason Coke and Allison Sheets, Dallam County; Sean Shores, Lipscomb County; and Amanda Sims, Deaf Smith County.

Achieving top four winners status in the intermediate (ages 12-13) categories was Jaimie Steiert, competing in nutritious snacks and desserts, and Betsy Weaver, junior contestant, placed in the top four winners circle in breads and cereals.

Others participating in the District Food Show from Deaf Smith County included juniors, Adam Klett, Bryan Vasek and Ivory Isaacson; intermediate contestant, Amber Vasek; and senior contestant, Kinann Campbell.

Education programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) - Pianist Tommy Flanagan became the fourth American to win the International Jazzpar Prize since its creation in 1989.

Flanagan, 63, of Detroit was cited Monday by the Danish Jazz Center as "one of the most convincing, comprehensive and authoritative piano players of jazz," specializing in "his own sort of timeless, charming and cool bebop."

He will receive a trophy and about $33,000 at a ceremony March 30.

Previous winners include musician and composer Muhal Richard Abrahms, band leader David Murray and saxophonist Lee Konitz.

Hornets sting Owls

Fifth-ranked Highland Park outshot and overpowered eighth-ranked Hale Center in a Class 2A boys' basketball playoff game Tuesday in Hereford. The Hornets, 26-4, advanced to the regional semi-finals for the first time in school history, and will face Marfa at 7 p.m. Friday in Snyder. Hale Center finished its season at 26-6.

Hale Center was overwhelmed by the outside shooting of HP's David Velasquez and the inside strength of 6-foot-4 Joe Thompson and 6-2 1/2 Luvirt Wells. Velasquez hit six three-point shots, scoring 19 points. Wells also had 19 points, and Thompson led the team with 20 points and 14 rebounds.

"It was one of our better games, (though) I wouldn't say it's our best game," Highland Park coach Bruce Carver said, adding that the team had poor performances in its last four outings, including losses in two practice games. "We had our minds made up we'd come after Hale Center."

Velasquez' set-shot three-pointer opened the scoring, and Highland Park never trailed. Velasquez hit two more treys in the final minute of the first quarter to give the Hornets a 16-10 lead. Highland Park opened the second quarter with treys by Velasquez and Wells to lead 22-12.

The lead stayed near 10 points well into the third quarter--it was 35-26 at halftime--but Wells ended a 6-0 run with a steal and a dunk to make it 43-29 early in the third quarter. Hale Center's press helped get the deficit back down to nine with two minutes left in the third, but that was as close as the Owls would get.

"Their press gave us some trouble," Highland Park coach Bruce Carver said. "Finally, we said: 'Whoever gets the ball has gotta beat that press.'" Velasquez had two more treys in the opening minutes of the fourth, just in case there was any doubt.

Hale Center's Marlin Thornton led all scorers with 28 points, and Wayne Smmith added 20 for the Owls.

Young golfers 5th in Panhandle

A team of Hereford sophomore and freshman boys finished fifth in a golf tournament Tuesday in Panhandle. The other nine teams in the field were varsity squads from 1A, 2A and 3A schools.

Hereford totaled 366, trailing Claude at 317; Panhandle at 353; Sanford-Fritch at 354; and Perryton at 358.

Scott Burkhalter, Hereford's one sophomore, shot an 80 to finish third in the medalist competition. Hereford's other players with all freshmen: David Farr shot 89; Nathan Diller had a 95; and David Sims and Tom Munoz both hit 102.

Hereford's sophomore and freshmen girls were to play in a tournament Monday, but it was cancelled. They'll play next week Friona; the boys on Tuesday and the girls on Wednesday.

Bob Horner went directly to the Atlanta Braves from Arizona State and hit a homer in his first big league game.

Seward-bound

Henderson reports to A's camp

By The Associated Press

Oakland manager Tony La Russa would like to see Rickey Henderson become baseball's first $10 million-per-year player. So would Rickey.

For the third straight year, Henderson was the last player to report to the Oakland Athletics' camp on Tuesday in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Minutes before Henderson arrived, La Russa talked about how he would like his left fielder to become baseball's highest-paid.

"My goal for Rickey is to be the first $10 million man," La Russa said. "If he has the kind of season he's capable of having ... This is his opportunity to catch up for slipping down that list."

Henderson signed baseball's biggest per-year contract in December 1989, a four-year deal for $12 million. But by opening day he was down to 12th highest-paid and within a year was No. 40.

Coming off his only MVP award, Henderson reported to camp late in 1991 and was openly upset about his pay. He protested by sitting out the first week of spring training games, citing sore legs.

He finished the season batting .268, his lowest average since 1986. He stole 58 bases, his third lowest total since his first full season in 1980.

"If I'm a free agent, everybody's going to look for me," Henderson said. "Ten million has nothing to do with me. It's not the money, it's pride. I can play this game as well as anybody."

Henderson, who missed 45 games because of ailing legs last season, added that he felt more relaxed than in previous years.

"If I stay healthy, people will see the real Rickey Henderson," he said. "I had nagging injuries last year. I'm more relaxed now. I can play the game as long as anybody if I stay healthy."

The Pittsburgh Pirates are already concerned about reliever Alejandro Pena's health - really concerned.

The Pirates said Tuesday in Bradenton, Fla., that Pena, a 33-year-old right-hander, has stopped throwing because of persistent pain in his pitching elbow that may require surgery. He apparently has not recovered from problems that sidelined him most of the final two months last season with Atlanta.

"When we signed Pena, I was assured that he was sound," Pirates general manager Ted Simmons said. "To say that I am disappointed in this situation would be a gross understatement."

Pena signed a one-year, $1.35 million contract with Pittsburgh, and Simmons said Pena's doctors misrepresented his condition. Simmons recommended the Pirates sign Pena without a physical examination.

"The last seven or eight years, he's had on and off tendinitis in his elbow. When a guy has that sort of thing, it's not something that just goes away," Simmons said.

Meanwhile, Kevin Mitchell arrived in the Reds' training camp at Plant City, Fla., too late Tuesday to make Cincinnati's workout.

Mitchell arrived in Tampa on an overnight flight and checked into the team hotel in Plant City. He showed up at the training facility during an afternoon intrasquad game, but didn't participate.

Mitchell is expected to work out with the club today, baseball's mandatory reporting date. The outfielder customarily waits until shortly before the deadline to show up.

The Reds were eager to find out how much Mitchell weighs. He was overweight last year, when injuries limited him to nine homers in 99 games for the Mariners. Mitchell had promised to report to the Reds' camp in good shape.

Watts picks Seward CCC

Hereford High School senior Robyn Watts has signed to play volleyball at Seward County Community College in Liberal, Kan.

Watts was quick to mention her main reason for choosing Seward--a full scholarship. She also admitted, "I like the school, and the coach (Rick Squires) is real nice."

The 5-foot-8 middle blocker led the Herd with 203 kills last year in helping the team to the state volleyball tournament.

Watts will join Angie Jowell, another Hereford senior, at Seward. Jowell signed to play at Seward last month.

Keith Hernandez, the longtime star at first base, was not drafted until the 42nd round by the Cardinals in 1971.

SuperSonics outlast Cavaliers in overtime

By The Associated Press

Good teams produce good games, so it's really no surprise that the Seattle SuperSonics and Cleveland Cavaliers put on a good show.

Shawn Kemp's two free throws with 11 seconds left in overtime gave the Sonics the lead for good as they came away with a 108-105 victory, their eighth straight. Cleveland had its seven-game winning streak snapped.

"Cleveland's obviously a contender (in the Eastern Conference), so beating them is important," Derrick McKey of the Sonics said.

Both teams came into Tuesday night's contest striving to reach the top echelon of their respective conferences. Cleveland is 2 1/2 games behind Chicago and 1 game behind New York, while Seattle is 3 games behind Portland.

"This was an opportunity to put pressure on Phoenix," Seattle's Eddie Johnson said after scoring 24 points and pulling down 11 rebounds. "Every team in the league has had a negative phase except Phoenix. If they have theirs now, this is the time for us to make a move."

The Cavaliers tried to set up their final shot for Mark Price, but the Sonics defended him perfectly.

"I didn't think we took enough time reading Seattle's defense," Cleveland coach Lenny Wilkens said.

John Battle ended up with the ball, and his 10-footer was blocked by McKey.

McKey came down with the ball and passed to Kemp, who fed a streaking Gary Payton for a layup with 0.1 seconds left.

Ricky Pierce scored 22 points, Kemp had 20 points and 11 rebounds, and McKey 18 points and five steals. Price paced the Cavs with 25 points.

Rockets 99, Clippers 83
Since Cleveland lost, Houston now has the second-longest winning streak in the NBA - eight games.

The visiting Rockets took control of the game by outscoring the Clippers 16-4 in the final four minutes of the opening quarter for a 33-22 lead.

Hakeem Olajuwon confronted Clippers rookie Randy Woods on the way to the locker room, then took a swing at Ken Norman.

"He grazed me," Norman said. "I've got to look out for our rookie. I didn't swing. Stanley (Roberts) really locked him up tonight. He was frustrated, I guess."

Olajuwon played just 30 minutes because of foul trouble, and scored only 16 points, well below his average of 24.8.

Trail Blazers 102, Suns 97

At Portland, the Trail Blazers put February and their 4-7 record during that month behind them.

Terry Porter scored 26 points and Cliff Robinson added 22 for the Blazers, who erased a five-point deficit in the final period with a 13-2 run.

Bulls 87, Nets 80

At East Rutherford, N.J., the Nets put on their worst offensive performance of the season with point guard Kenny Anderson sidelined with a broken wrist.

New Jersey shot 35.7 percent from the field, making just 19 of 63 over the final three quarters.

Michael Jordan led the Bulls with 24 points, but Chris Morris provided the most excitement, shattering a backboard on a dunk with 4:21 left.

Pacers 109, Spurs 95

At Indianapolis, the Pacers won their third straight and made San Antonio 1-3 on its seven-game road trip. Detlef Schrempf had team-highs of 26 points, seven rebounds and nine assists for Indiana.

Knicks 107, Hawks 98

At New York, the Knicks broke out of a two-game malaise in which they had lost by 26 and 28 points.

New York took advantage of the absence of the NBA's fifth-leading rebounder, Kevin Willis, and offset a 42-point performance by Dominique Wilkins. Patrick Ewing scored 30 to lead the Knicks.

Nuggets 127, Lakers 115

Marcus Liberty tied a career-high with 25 points and Chris Jackson added

22 as Denver posted its 12th victory in its last 13 home games. Denver scored the first eight points of the game and eventually led by as much as 25.

Bucks 120, Mavericks 86

At Milwaukee, the Bucks turned a 10-point halftime lead into a 90-62 lead after three quarters, thanks in part to a 24-5 run.

Magic 108, Timberwolves 89

At Orlando, backup forward Jeff Turner scored 10 of his 22 points in the first 4:00 of the final period as the Magic turned a five-point lead into an 88-71 advantage.

Vandy clinches share of SEC title

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Seventh-ranked Vanderbilt has refused to look beyond any game to the future, a trait that now has the Commodores about ready for the next level - the postseason.

"We're happy where we are obviously, but we're not finished," senior co-captain Kevin Anglin said after Vanderbilt clinched at least a piece of the Southeastern Conference title with a 90-82 overtime victory over Tennessee Tuesday night.

"We want to try and win it outright. This was a big one, but Saturday is a bigger one. Each one from this point on is a big one," he said.

Vanderbilt (24-4, 13-2) can win the SEC championship and the No. 1 seed in the league tournament with a victory over South Carolina

Saturday in the final regular season game.

"Forty minutes separates from the title," Bruce Elder said. "That's going to be a 40-minute war just like this one was."

In other games involving ranked teams Tuesday night, it was No. 4 Michigan 82, No. 15 Iowa 73 and No. 18 Xavier, Ohio 73, La Salle 58.

The Commodores almost let Tennessee play spoiler for a second straight week. The Volunteers (12-15, 4-11) upset then-No. 2 Kentucky last week, giving Vanderbilt a one-game lead in the SEC's Eastern Division, and managed to lead the Commodores most of the game.

Billy McCaffrey scored six of his 24 points in overtime as Vanderbilt scored the first eight points in the extra period before hitting 10-of-12 free throws to seal the victory and a share of the SEC championship.

NC coach Smith gets no respect

By JIM LITKE

AP Sports Writer

If nothing else, Dean Smith is owed an explanation. And since members of the media are sworn to expose wrongdoing whenever and wherever they stumble across it, this is the name of the group who did him wrong:

The media.

Here is the proof. Get a copy of Monday's newspaper, turn to the sports section and put these two items side by side. The first is the story announcing that North Carolina climbed into the top spot in the latest Associated Press poll. The second, most likely back in the agate section, is the list of 10 nominees for The AP's coach of the year award.

(Hint: In the blame-assigning business, it's called a sin of omission.)

If you haven't found the mistake by now, this is it: The same nationwide panel of writers and broadcasters who just anointed North Carolina the best team in the country couldn't scrape together enough votes to put Smith, who guided the Tar Heels to that lofty spot, on the ballot for coach of the year.

"To be honest," Smith said Tuesday, "that's the farthest thing from my mind right about now."

Although Smith can be wickedly subtle when he wants to, this appeared to be a sincere reaction and not a dig he'd rehearsed for just such an occasion. What followed next confirmed it.

"Maybe it's like the guy who is voted geography teacher of the year one year, and the next year it goes to somebody else. It's not like people forget that the first guy can teach a little bit, too."

"Really," he added, "I wouldn't make too much out of it."

Nice try. Unfortunately the people who have voted on the poll since Smith took the job at Chapel Hill, N.C., in 1961 never got around to squaring the first part of that equation.

Despite winning a national title in 1982, despite winning more games than any active coach and more than any Division I coach except Adolph Rupp, despite winning 13 Atlantic Coast Conference titles outright and sharing seven others, despite making the NCAA tournament 18 straight times and the Sweet 16 for 12 straight seasons, and despite making North Carolina a Top 10 team in the final AP poll for 10 straight years, those same voters have never elected Smith the coach of the year.

And this time, despite Dean's advice, a few of his peers are making something out of it.

They've heard the standard knocks

- that Smith recruits so many McDonald's high school All-Americans he should open a franchise on the bench; that Smith forces his players to sublimate their talents to fit a rigid system ("The only guy to hold Michael Jordan under 25 points," the joke goes); that he's manipulating and standoffish - and they don't buy any of it.

"He's taken so much for granted that it's unbelievable," said Kansas coach Roy Williams, a longtime Smith assistant and last year's coach of the year.

"I was there for 10 years, so I saw it firsthand. We went 14-0 in the league two straight years, the first time when we had Michael Jordan and a few others and were picked to win, the next time after we lost those guys and we were picked third, and still won. Anybody who knows basketball knows you don't do that by playing the same way all the time...."

"I know he doesn't play up to the media," Williams said. "But after 31 years, he shouldn't have to."

Williams, whose Jayhawks are ranked No. 8 in this week's poll, did not make the Top 10 list this time around, either. For the record, Cincinnati's Bob Huggins led all nominees with 49 total points; Smith finished 12th with 19.

Woman's health issues seminar set Saturday

The Women's Division of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce and Deaf Smith General Hospital are hosting "The Lifestyle Advantage", a woman's health issues seminar, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Hereford Country Club.

Registration for the Women's Forum is $15. Seating is limited and pre-registration and payment are required in advance. The fee includes lunch, said Elizabeth Fowler, coordinator of the project.

Those wishing to register for the seminar may do so at the Chamber of Commerce office from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. during the week.

Two speakers will present topics designed to help those attending learn methods of solving problems shared by most women.

Linda Haynes of McLean, a freelance writer and health care consultant, will speak on "The Heart of the Matter--A Personal Experience" and "The Good, the Bad and the Ugly--Managing Stress."

Haynes, a former teacher, is an award-winning journalist and public relations professional who has spoken to church and civic groups throughout the area. She received training in stress management from Partners in Health of Oklahoma City, Ok. and Health Strategies of Wichita, Kan.

Phyllis Johnson Jones, a professional speaker and corporate trainer based in Lubbock, will deliver the keynote address, "If I Could Then, Why Can't I Now?"--a look at how programming can and does effect success level.

In the afternoon session, Jones will discuss "The Brighter Side of 9 to 5." In this session, participants will discover steps towards developing a sense of humor and methods to learn how to use humor effectively in the workplace.

"Attitude and humor go hand in hand, in this session we will discuss strategies that work for positive attitudes and for lightening up," Jones said.

Jones is a member of the National Speakers Association and a certified associate of Carlson Learning. She has owned and operated her own business since 1985 and works with a variety of companies and associations including J.C. Penney, Texas Hospital Association, Southwestern Bell Telephone and Methodist Hospital.

For additional information, call Fowler at the hospital, 364-2141.

Public invited to attend special meeting March 9

The public is invited to hear Dr. Carole Durrett speak from 7-8 p.m. Tuesday, March 9, in the Lamar Room of King's Manor Methodist Home.

Dr. Durrett, a native of Amarillo, will speak on a variety of subjects including:

- An overview of the mind/body connection;
- Successful living with chronic illness;
- To treat or not to treat: balancing the options;
- The inward assault: a personal account with MS;
- Harnessing the healing power within;
- The path of suffering: the road to spiritual enlightenment;
- Learning to love;
- Patterns of illness;
- Perception: the whole story;
- The missing chapter in medical textbooks;
- Accepting health responsibility.

The speaker was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis in the fall of 1982 during her sophomore year at Texas A&M University when she began drifting in and out of consciousness after an acute episode with fever. Once the fever broke, her ability to walk and talk was severely impaired. She slipped into an apathetic existence for several months.

Dr. Durrett recovered almost 100 percent from the initial attack of MS and went on to graduate Cum Laude from West Texas State University with a degree in general studies in 1985. The following fall, she entered Texas Tech School of Medicine. Her health was stable and good at that time.

By graduation in 1989, Dr. Durrett's illness had progressed to the point she was having to use a walker. That summer, in lieu of beginning a residency, she underwent a course of chemotherapy after which she was able to walk without assistance. In January 1990, she began a residency program in Family Medicine at Texas Tech. She found the family medicine residency physically difficult and chose to change to psychiatry. She completed a year in the program at Texas Tech in Lubbock before returning to Amarillo in June of 1991.

Most of Dr. Durrett's former mentors chose to practice medicine ignoring a truth that Dr. Durrett had begun to live by: mind and body are necessarily intertwined and that drugs can only mask certain symptoms of that disease, not heal the disease itself. She realized that healing encompassed more than physical remedies.

In September of 1992, Dr. Durrett opened her own health counseling service where she works in conjunction with other doctors in the community to treat both the mind and the body. She is a licensed general practitioner who realizes in her own life the power effect that mind and body have on one another.

Not all spiders make webs. The bolas spider spins a single line of silk with a drop of sticky silk at the end. When an insect flies near, this spider swings the line at it and traps the insect in the sticky ball.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is for the woman whose 15-year-old stepdaughter is hostile. I never spit at or hit my parents, but I was totally obnoxious--the queen of passive-aggressive behavior. I knew how to drive everyone in my family nuts. By the time I was 15, I was an emotional and physical wreck.

I bottled up every emotion and had migraine headaches, stomach cramps and fainting spells. I also had bouts of depression and carved on my arms with razor blades in preparation for the day I would kill myself.

My parents believed I was "a rebellious teen" and would grow out of it. They insisted I was faking illness to get attention and refused to take me to a doctor. I was given iron pills which they believed were a cure-all and forced to attend social functions that I hated.

When I was 19, I landed in a college counselor's office, and that was the beginning of my recovery. It took 12 years before I accepted the fact that I had a severe mood disorder which was causing the misery in my life.

I still live as far away from my family as possible, but we write letters and occasionally visit. With all the signs I put out, I can't understand why no one ever bothered to take me to a doctor. If the girl described in the letter is anything like I was, she is being as mean to herself as she is to her family. That sad young lady has a long, difficult road ahead, and I pray her family doesn't make her walk that road alone.--Columbus, Ga.

DEAR GA.: Thank you for a letter that reflects a great deal of insight and empathy. Here's another response with a different spin from a mother:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the woman with the teenage stepdaughter who is a handful was a perfect description of my son at the same age.

"Johnny" had always been an easygoing, delightful child. Suddenly we noticed an alarming personality change. He became hostile and secretive and got into one mess after another. Finally, he was kicked out of school for using drugs. We were shocked.

Kids are incredibly clever at hiding their addictions. We learned that drugs had created a chemical imbalance in his brain and his poor eating habits added to the problem. In the morning, Johnny's blood sugar was so low his tantrums and violent behavior were frightening. If I could keep things calm until he'd eaten breakfast, he would behave in a civil manner, but nothing can work when a person is into drugs.

Johnny's addiction led to crime and he finally ended up in prison. Now, at age 33, he has been clean for five years and is leading a responsible life. A religious conversion in prison, along

Club meets for annual bean supper

Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club members met recently in the Deaf Smith County Library's Heritage Room for their annual bean supper.

President Dale Henson conducted the business meeting and introduced Gaye Sadler as a guest.

Members voted to make a donation to the Friends of the Library to help purchase a video projector for the library.

The Plainview Gem and Mineral Show was discussed and the door prize, which was furnished by Thama Pearson, was won by Jack Nunley.

All interested persons are invited to attend the next meeting at 7:30 p.m. March 22 at the library.

Those present were Hazel Botts, Bert Brown, Ruth King, Verba Sadler, Cecil Lady, Thama Pearson, L.D. Combs, and Messrs. and Meses. Ralph Packard, Jack Nunley, Dale Henson, Weldon Roberson, Bud Cawthon and Floyd Coker.

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - Texas lawmakers passed a controversial bill limiting businesses' liability for damage caused by various products including tobacco and alcohol and advanced another bill tightening paroles for convicted murderers.

Meanwhile, Ross Perot entered the U.S. Senate arena by calling all candidates to meet with his citizens watchdog group, United We Stand America, possibly to endorse a candidate, but certainly to influence the outcome.

Under the products liability bill, tobacco and alcohol companies could not be held liable for damages because consumers already should know their products are classified as unsafe.

Consumer groups oppose the bill, which supporters say would improve Texas' business climate. A spokesman for Gov. Ann Richards, said the governor is planning to sign the bill.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a measure that will require the entire 18-member state parole board to review the parole request of a prison inmate convicted of a capital felony.

The bill by Rep. Allen Place, D-Gatesville, requires two-thirds of the board members to approve a parole of a capital felon. The current policy requires a simple majority vote.

Perot Summons Candidates
Perot asked all candidates in the May 1 Texas U.S. Senate race to meet at his office last week; most which serve this state well," Bullock said.

The Senate passed nine bills totaling $1.4 billion in savings. Another 10 bills to save an additional $900 million are pending.

Inmates Should Work
Attorney General Dan Morales says criminals should work while in prison. He made the remarks while seeking support for a legislative package on criminal justice.

"I think it should be a requirement that they (inmates) work," Morales said. "Their salaries could go into a trust fund for restitution to crime victims or child support."

More College Money
The Senate Finance Committee has endorsed a $254 million package for higher education in the border area.

"This is a giant step forward," said Sen. Judith Zaffirini, D-Laredo.

She is among those who have led the fight to boost funding for Texas colleges and universities in the region of the state that borders Mexico.

Other Highlights

Sen. Teel Bivins, D-Amarillo, has introduced legislation that would suspend the driver's licenses of anyone convicted of a drug offense. Current state law requires licenses to be suspended only for felony drug offenses. If the law is not expanded by April 1, nearly $40 million in Texas' federal highway funds could be withheld, Bivins said.

Texas government's chief appraiser, Sam McAnally, received yet another honor recently, the CRE (Counselor of Real Estate) designation. Membership in the elite group, which counts 925 members worldwide, is by invitation only to recognized authorities on land and property matters.

The name of Texas A&I University in Kingsville would be changed to Texas A&M University at Kingsville under a proposal by Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi. Truan attached the proposal as a rider to an appropriations bill endorsed last week by the Senate Finance Committee.

sent representatives, while former Attorney General Jim Mattox was expected to attend himself.

Perot then started a statewide speaking tour to rally new members to his organization with appearances in Austin, San Antonio and Houston.

Perot is holding out the possibility that the group may throw its weight behind an anointed candidate in the crowded U.S. Senate race.

Some supporters hope Perot will decide to become a candidate himself; some Texans are surprised he isn't a candidate already, based on his 21 percent Texas showing in the presidential election and his personal wealth to finance a campaign.

Common wisdom has it that Perot simply wants to shape the victor's approach to solving crucial problems, but the speculation that a grassroots Perot draft could develop at any time is too powerful to ignore.

Clinton Endorses Krueger
President Clinton, meanwhile, sent a letter to Texas Democratic Party movers and shakers endorsing interim Sen. Bob Krueger.

"To demonstrate our loyalty to the party, we must rally around Bob Krueger," Clinton wrote in the letter being widely circulated.

Krueger, however, failed to get the endorsement of the Mexican American Democrats convention delegates last week; Dallas attorney Jose Angel Gutierrez won enough delegate votes to keep Krueger from the two-thirds needed to endorse.

Senate OKs Savings Bill
The Texas Senate has approved $1.4 billion in savings and book-keeping tricks recommended by Comptroller John Sharp as part of a plan to balance the state budget and provide the current level of services without raising taxes.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock commended Sharp "for giving us a blueprint for action."

"Comptroller Sharp's recommendations are a combination of new efficiencies for state government and bookkeeping actions."

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I do a lot of leaded-glass work as a full-time hobby. When I give a piece away or mail one, I use unbuttered unsalted popcorn for packing with a note that says, "The popcorn is for the birds." The birds like it. — Mavis

Oh, how happy you make the birds! Yours is a practical, helping environmental hint that benefits all. Glad you wrote. — Heloise

FAST FACTS

- Other uses for clean waxed milk cartons:
 - Use as a small trash can in the car.
 - Cut and place them under plants to catch water.
 - Put water in them and freeze for camping trips.
 - When moving, use them to carry odd-shaped dishes or small plants.
 - Fill with sand and carry in the trunk of the car for emergencies.

ART
Dear Heloise: Your advice on buying art for the home was good but too limiting. You missed a huge source of artwork — students and emerging artists.

Where can student art work be found? Check your local college or university art department. Undergraduate and graduate student work is exhibited often, particularly in the spring. It usually costs nothing to attend an exhibition, and quality original art work in a whole range of media is available at very attractive prices. Also, ask the art department to put you on their mailing list.

Another source of reasonably priced art is emerging artists. Check with a local library or art organization to find a list of these artists. Visiting an artist's studio is often an interesting and exciting experience.

You don't have to spend $10,000, although if you have a good eye, you may get the painting of an artist whose work will someday sell for that price. — Charles Dunbar, Bush, La.

You are so right, and I'm sure glad you took the time to write. Thank you. — Heloise

SCISSOR CADDY
Dear Heloise: Those pretty ceramic toothbrush holders (with the four oblong holes at the top and a well at the bottom) make great holders for different-sized shears. I simply glue a ring of felt in the well for the scissor points to rest on. I'd be lost without mine. — Eleanor Anteck, Grand Rapids, Mich.

HELPING HAND
Dear Heloise: I'm hearing 80 and live alone. My bathroom faces my neighbor's kitchen and dining area. Each night I pull down the bathroom shade and if it's not up sometime the next morning, she checks up on me. Also, she has a key to get in if there is an emergency. — M.O., Calumet City, Ill.

New Arrivals

Barbara and Rowan Alexander of Katy, Texas are the parents of a daughter, Sarah Michelle, born Feb. 21, 1993. She weighed 8 lbs. 3 oz.

The infant is welcomed by two brothers, Matthew and Nathan.

Grandparents are Pete Jacks of Hereford, Bert Rickman of Amarillo and Dempsey and Thelma Alexander of Hereford. Great-grandparents are Howard Hershey of Hereford and Bobbie Roberts of Amarillo.

Romanian prime minister Ion Antonescu was overthrown in 1944, paving the way for the country to abandon the Axis in favor of the Allies.

Special prayer service set

The public is invited to a special service for World Day of Prayer at 9:30 a.m. Friday at Golden Plains Care Center. The local event is being sponsored by the Hereford Church Women United.

Fellowship and refreshments will follow the prayer service.

This year's World Day of Prayer theme is "People of God: Instruments of Healing."

The World Day of Prayer, a day on which millions of Christian women all over the globe join in "informed prayer and prayerful action," traditionally takes place on the first Friday in March and is translated into hundreds of languages. 1993 marks its 106th anniversary.

Employers plan changes

What will happen to health care insurance, retirement plans, and other employee benefits in 1993? Skyrocketing health care costs and an increasingly diverse workforce will lead to many changes, according to the experts who spoke at Ben Trends '93, a recent Washington briefing on employee benefits.

Higher costs will force more than half of U.S. employers to make significant changes in their employee benefit plans, according to a survey released by the Employers Council on Flexible Compensation. The survey shows that fifty-six percent of those employers plan to change workers' health benefits, seventeen percent will change retirement plans and ten percent will alter flextime or leave policies. Nearly 60 percent of those surveyed cited the rising cost of benefits for employers and employees as the primary factor causing changes in their benefits packages.

"Employers are committed to assuring that the quality and value of benefits employees receive does not decrease despite cost increases," said Ken Felman, executive director of the Employers Council on Flexible Compensation (ECFC).

William Bennett, of Colonial Life & Accident Insurance Company, said "With employee benefits in the U.S. costing a trillion dollars annually, the future will bring us greater cost sharing between employer and employee. But along with that cost sharing will be a partnership with employees selecting benefits to meet their individual needs."

Most of the employers who responded to the ECFC survey - 77 percent - believe their employees are well informed about the benefits available to them; and 50 percent expect to increase expenditures for benefit communications next year.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: My dizzy spells have been diagnosed as benign positional vertigo. Six months ago, the spells were very brief, but two months ago, they began to last several minutes. I was not usually in motion when they occurred. I had one attack that lasted 24 hours and was hospitalized for five days. Now, a month later, I am still a bit unsteady, and my balance seems worse when I am tired.

Despite extensive hearing and balance testing before the attack, my neurologists concluded that it was an inner-ear abnormality, possibly caused by a virus. In case of another attack, I am to use Valium and scopolamine and call the doctor.

I am anxious to discover more about this condition.

DEAR READER: Extensive testing certainly should have determined whether your attacks were caused by the ear or something in the brain. Disorders in either can cause dizziness. There is a limited amount known about postural or positional vertigo. It is thought by many to be caused by shifting of tiny granules in the fluid in the inner ear that sends out false signals to the brain regarding position.

Usually, positional vertigo does not occur spontaneously, but in response to change in the position of the head that could shift the granules.

It is important to be certain that dizziness is from positional vertigo as opposed to some of the many other conditions that can cause vertigo or dizziness. Some disorders, including Meniere's disease, are associated with a buildup of fluid in the balance canals of the inner ear and these are treated by measures to reduce the fluid and, if necessary, surgery to help prevent such a buildup.

A virus may attack the balance canals and produce vertigo as well. This can be severe, but it is usually of a limited duration. Some think positional vertigo may be caused by such a previous attack on the balance system.

To help you understand the causes of vertigo, I am sending you Special Report 110, Dizziness, Balance, Vertigo, Motion Sickness. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/110, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

Such conditions are difficult to treat, and using medicines to control the attacks when they occur is about all that can be done, although there are recent reports of various maneuvers of the head that can be done to reposition the small granules which may be beneficial.

DEAR DR. LAMB: About a month ago, I developed tennis elbow of the left arm. I have never played tennis or pitched baseball. I'm a 70-year-old male in pretty good shape. I have no past injury in that area. I have no pain in the outer portion of the elbow or upper forearm from the swelling. For what other reasons would the elbow bursa become irritated and swell like a small egg at the end of the elbow?

DEAR READER: Why do you think you have tennis elbow? I doubt it. Tennis elbow is painful, causing pain over the elbow and the back of the upper forearm. It is an injury of the attachments to the elbow joint. It can be seen in plumbers and violin players and from many other activities unrelated to playing tennis.

Brashear named to Dean's List

Seneca Brashear, granddaughter of Erce and Anni Brashear of Hereford, has been named to the University of Houston Dean's List for the fall 1992 semester.

She also was recently elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, the national leadership society.

She has been a member of the Honors College at the university since her freshman year. A junior, she is president of the Governing Board of the Honors College and is a student representative on both the Honors Council and the Honors Advisory Board.

She was chosen as Outstanding Freshman in the Honors Program.

Miss Brashear is daughter of Jean and Erce Brashear of Georgetown.
