Call to beautification

24 people meet deadline to seek Bentsen's Senate seat

AUSTIN (AP) - Two dozen people, including the guy who's got the job right now, will be on the ballot for the May 1 special U.S. Senate election.

The 24 candidates met the 5 p.m. Wednesday deadline to file for the seat vacated by U.S. Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen.

They include interim Sen. Bob Krueger, a Democrat placed in the post by Gov. Ann Richards.

Two Republican congressmen, Joe Barton and Jack Fields, and Republican state Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison are among other officeholders seeking to complete the Senate term that runs through 1994.

The field includes 10 Republicans, five Democrats, one Libertarian and eight minor party or independent candidates, according to the secretary of state's office.

The last such special election, held in 1961 to fill the vacancy created by Lyndon Johnson's election as vice president, drew 71 candidates. That seat ultimately was won by John Tower, Texas' first Republican senator since Reconstruction.

Balloting actually begins in less than two weeks, on April 12, under the state's no-excuses absentee voting law, said Mark Bell, spokesman for

Secretary of State John Hannah. Candidates wasted no time in opening fire on one another.

Fields called on Mrs. Hutchison to withdraw, saying her support is lagging.

"Clearly, her campaign has stalled. Voting begins in two weeks, and she has yet to get out of the gates," Fields said.

"For the sake of party unity and using her own standard that only the leading Republican should remain in the race, I hereby call on her to abandon her campaign and support the one candidate who can successfully appeal to Republicans and Democrats alike," Fields said.

A spokesman for the treasurer, David Beckwith, scoffed.

"What proof does he have that he's that person? Kay is the only Republican with proven appeal statewide to Republicans and Democrats," Beckwith said. "Any other claim is merely talk."

Barton, meanwhile, said all Republicans should focus their attacks on Krueger. Republican voters are looking for a candidate who can beat Bob Krueger.

Krueger's campaign manager, Greg Hartman, said the Democrat is prepared to keep the seat, particularly with Democratic leaders unified behind him.

The Senate election will be held the same day as voting on the proposed school finance amendment to the Texas Constitution. That controversial amendment would allow the shifting of property tax money from some property-rich school districts to poorer districts.

Because of the dual voting, some observers said turnout might be unusually high for a special election.

If none of the two dozen Senate candidates receives more than 50 percent of the May 1 vote, a runoff will be held between the top two vote-getters.

Senate OKs trucking bill

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Senate has approved partial intrastate trucking deregulation to end a deadlock that has lasted for years between businesses and large trucking companies.

Businesses long have complained that a few trucking companies were driving rates artificially high. But trucking interests said deregulation would cut services to small communities and result in unsafe trucks on the road.

Sen. Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, said Wednesday his bill "vastly improves the regulations we have in the trucking industry in the state while protecting the safety of our citizens on the roadway."

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, who is credited with bringing opposing sides together on the issue, said after the Senate passed it, "Another issue by the side. As it should be."

The bill, approved in a voice vote and sent to the House, would make it easier to enter the trucking business, especially for companies owned by women or minorities, Bivins said.

Trucking license applicants must now prove there is a public need for their service. Under Bivins' measure, applicants would have to prove that they are "fit, willing and able" to haul goods in Texas.

He said this is needed because only a fraction of the trucking businesses in Texas are minority owned.

The measure would also streamline rate-setting by the Texas Railroad Commission and allow deviations of 40 percent above or below the set rates. Currently, deviations in that category are 25 percent above or below the benchmark rate.

Certain truckers also would be able to "back haul" goods within a 150-mile corridor after making a delivery.

SPS gives PUC new rate lists for service

As part of a rate review ordered by the Public Utility Commission of Texas in October 1992, Southwestern Public Service Company has completed a current cost-of-service study and filed a response to the PUC order.

The documents, filed Tuesday, show the need for an overall price increase, which would include a 5.1 percent residential rate hike.

The PUC ordered SPS to demonstrate that its earnings level is appropriate and its rates are "just and reasonable."

Company officials said they were not seeking a rate increase, but were ordered to do the study by the PUC.

Based on the findings of the cost-of-service study, the Amarillo-based electric filed with the PUC its proposed new rates.

According to a company news release, the cost-of-service study revealed the need for an overall increase in rates of 1.25 percent, or $5.6 million.

Jury convicts man in sex assault trial

A trial of a defendant charged with aggravated sexual assault of a child ended Wednesday when the man was found guilty by a jury in 222nd District Court.

Punishment for the defendant, John Puente, 20, will be five years in prison, probated for 10 years, and a $5,000 fine.

The nine-woman, three-man jury heard testimony in the trial Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning. The guilty verdict was returned Wednesday at 3:15 p.m. The jury began deliberations at 11 a.m.

After hearing testimony in the punishment phase of the trial, the jury spent about an hour in deliberations and reported the decision at 5:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Puente was charged with aggravated sexual assault of a child, a six-year-old at the time of the incident last June.

Judge David Wesley Gulley of 222nd District Court set formal sentencing of Puente for 4 p.m. on April 13.

Another defendant, Troy Simons, appeared in 222nd District Court Wednesday, for a hearing on the state's motion to revoke his probation. Judge Gulley modified the 10-year sentence, assigning the defendant to a San Angelo restitution center. Simons was convicted of theft over $750 in June 1991.

However, said Gerald Diller, SPS group manager of rates and regulation, adjustments would vary among classes.

Under the new tariff sheets filed Tuesday with the PUC, some customers - including many small businesses, cotton gins and grain elevators - would receive a small decrease, Diller said. For residential customers, the average bill would increase 5.1 percent.

The overall rate includes the base rate and the fuel cost. The new tariff sheets show that the base rate portion of a residential customer's bill would increase 8 percent, while fuel costs would decrease slightly, creating the 5.1 percent overall increase.

The company said an SPS residential customer on the "lighting rate" who uses 700 kilowatt hours each month would see a monthly increase of $2.05, from $46.71 to $48.76.

SPS President Coyt Webb said the filing of the cost-of-service study demonstrates that company efficiencies have saved customers $84 million a year, compared with the average operating expenses of all other electric utilities in Texas. That has helped keep SPS rates among the lowest in the state.

SPS's operating costs and production expenses per kilowatt-hour generated are among the lowest in the nation, Webb said.

"That's one reason - along with lower fuel costs - why our customers' overall price for electricity has declined almost every year for the past 10 years," he said.

"Just and reasonable rates are designed to allow a utility to recover its investment and operating costs, and to provide to investors a return that is related to its efficiency," Webb said. "And we believe SPS has demonstrated in this filing that overall, it is the one of the most efficient utilities in Texas."

However, even with these efficiencies, some costs have increased, said Diller.

"Higher property taxes, expected higher federal corporate income taxes, new accounting rules and gradually increased employee expenses have been identified as primary factors contributing to increased company costs," Diller said. "These known and expected

Tornado alarm test reveals malfunctions in network

The City of Hereford tested its tornado alarm warning system this morning, sounding both the "warning" and "take cover" sirens. Fire and police department representatives manned each of the nine siren towers and reported in as to whether or not the alarms were working.

"There are a few that were not operative, but they are being worked on as we speak," said Police Chief David Wagner.

A retest of the system will be conducted next week.

Wagner said one alarm, a steady blast of sound, is the "warning" siren and alerts residents to a tornado in the area. The "take cover" siren is a pulsating tone and warns of imminent danger.

Jobless claims at highest level since November 1992

WASHINGTON (AP) - The number of Americans filing first-time claims for jobless benefits shot up 33,000 in late March to the highest level in more than four months, the government said today.

The Labor Department said new applications for unemployment insurance during the week ended March 27 totaled 380,000, the most since 382,000 claims were filed during the week ended Nov. 7.

Many analysts had expected claims to fall about 2,000. But in advance of the report, economists at Mitsubishi Bank in New York noted that storms in mid-March caused parts shortages in some areas, which in turn triggered plant closings later in the month.

Before the latest reporting week, the number of claims had fallen for three consecutive weeks, to 347,000 during the week ended March 20.

The four-week moving average of new jobless claims also moved up during the week ended March 27, to 360,500 from 359,500 a week earlier.

Many analysts consider the average a more reliable measure of employment trends because it smooths out the volatility of the weekly numbers.

Hundreds heading to town to play in bridge tourney

Several hundred bridge players are expected to take part in the Hereford Duplicate Bridge Club's annual tournament.

Billed by the sponsor as the "best little sectional" tournament in Texas, the event will attract bridge players from a wide area of Texas and New Mexico.

More than 200 tables of players are expected during the course of the weekend which begins at 7:30 p.m. Friday with a charity game. Proceeds are earmarked for the Multiple Sclerosis Association.

Sponsored by the Hereford Duplicate Bridge Club, the weekend of bridge will continue Saturday with two sessions, at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., of the open tournament. Players will be flighted according to their master point totals.

Concluding the event will be a Swiss teams competition Sunday, beginning at 12 noon.

Director of the tournament will be Mary Stone of Fort Worth. The American Contract Bridge League sanctions the Hereford event.

Seleta Gholson, a member of the Hereford club, said players are expected from cities throughout Eastern New Mexico and Texas.

The Hereford club has sponsored the tournament continuously for seven years.

Tournament chairmen are Ray and Shirley Barber. Players needing partners are invited to contact Sue Thornton, 364-1934, or Brenda Kemp, 364-3423, if they wish to participate in the tournament.

Building permit issued for Little Caesar's construction

The City of Hereford has issued a $45,000 building permit for the construction of a new pizza restaurant here.

The permit to Little Caesar's of San Antonio was issued on March 10.

The restaurant will be built at 829 S. 25 Mile Avenue.

Representatives of Little Caesar's could not be reached this morning about the project and when it might open.

What's up, Mayor?

Mayor Tom LeGate made a surprise announcement Wednesday afternoon and a large crowd turned out for the event. Did you miss the celebration? Did the mayor announce as a candidate for the special U.S. Senate race? Did he proclaim today as Mayoral Appreciation Day, or did he have a "leaving-office party" since he is not seeking reelection? Or, is he simply wishing everyone a Happy April Fool's Day? If you picked the last choice, you were closer to the truth of the photo. Actually, it's The Brand's annual April Fool's prank. We liked the photo, which was on file from the Great American Car Race which came through Hereford last year.

State challenges alibi with records

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN ANTONIO (AP) - Rebuffed by a flashy blonde witness, state attorneys moved deeper today into their attempted murder case against former Dallas minister Walker Railey.

Prosecutors hammered tape-recorded messages and mobile phone records into evidence Wednesday and intend to use them to challenge Railey's alibi the night his wife was attacked.

They waded through a flurry of defense objections to introduce testimony about a suicide attempt by Railey 10 days after the April 21, 1987, assault.

And they summoned Dallas psychologist Lucy Papillon for questioning about her long-running romance with Railey before and after the near-strangulation of Peggy Railey.

Mrs. Railey, then 38, suffered irreversible brain damage and was unable to identify her assailant.

The state alleges that Railey, 45, wanted to dispose of his wife so he could continue his love affair with

Ms. Papillon, 51, the twice-divorced daughter of a Methodist bishop.

Ms. Papillon was also a member of Railey's First United Methodist Church in Dallas.

With flashes of defiance, she told a spellbound courtroom Wednesday she and Railey carried on a secret global love affair but she insisted that he was not capable of criminal violence.

"I know he's not," she said on cross-examination by lead defense lawyer Doug Mulder.

And in a bizarre conclusion, prosecutor Howard Wilson challenged that contention, suggesting that "even the best psychologists" make mistakes.

"Sometimes, Howard," she purred, "but I believe in this case I know I'm correct."

"You know that you're correct that he is not the type to do something ...?" Wilson persisted.

"He is incapable," she interrupted.

"He is psychologically incapable?" Wilson asked.

"That's what I believe," she said, her dark eyes blazing. "I know."

In the most volatile day of the trial, state District Judge Pat McDowell disregarded defense arguments that testimony about Railey's suicide attempt was legally irrelevant and decidedly prejudicial.

"My demon has finally gotten the upper hand," Railey wrote in a suicide note found in his hospital suite May 1, 1987. "I am the baddest of the bad ... I am the lowest of the low."

Still, Railey insists he was researching a book at Southern Methodist University the night his wife was attacked.

The state summoned a series of witnesses Wednesday to show the jury that Railey was in and out of SMU libraries that night but no one saw him there during a critical time gap: between 9:30 and 10:45 p.m.

Investigators believe the attack occurred during that time span.

Ms. Papillon told the jury she spoke with Railey by phone several times that night and that shortly after 7:30 p.m. he visited at her home for 45 minutes.

"We just talked ...," she said.

Under direct questioning by Wilson, Ms. Papillon said she met

Railey in the mid-1980s on a church-related television show, and that they became intimate in June 1986.

"From June of 1986 until April 1987, did you have sexual relations on a regular basis?" Wilson asked.

"Fairly regularly," she said she frequently accompanied Railey on church trips and that they had sexual liaisons in Kansas, California, Georgia, Texas, Arkansas and elsewhere, including Europe.

"Did he ever tell you he was in love with you?" Wilson inquired.

"I don't recall that," she responded.

Did they discuss marriage? "We never discussed it specifically at all," she said. "We discussed it hypothetically one night."

Papillon's long-awaited testimony was the emotional highlight of the trial but jurors also heard for the first time Wednesday the taped telephone calls that could send Railey to prison for up to 20 years.

Southwestern Bell employees testified the pivotal phone call that Railey said he made from the SMU campus at about 10:30 p.m. was in fact placed from his car phone at 12:04 a.m.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently, I attended a funeral. It made me realize how short life can be. I discovered while chatting with friends and relatives that many of them were divorcing, feuding or not speaking to one another. Usually these rifts were caused by a cross word or action that wasn't meant to hurt anyone.

We've all been wronged at one time or another. Even if we can't say, "I'm sorry," we can say, "It doesn't matter whose fault it was. Let's forget it."

I read about Reconciliation Day in your column last year when you helped so many people put aside their differences. Please do it again—Rhode Island

DEAR RHODE ISLAND: Today is the second anniversary of Reconciliation Day. Here is the letter that started it all. Thanks for asking.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've suddenly become aware that the years are flying by. Time somehow seems more precious. My parents suddenly seem old. My aunts and uncles are sick. I haven't seen some of my cousins for several years. I love my family, Ann, but we've grown apart.

Then my thoughts turn to the dark side. I remember the feelings I've hurt, and I recall my own hurt feelings—the misunderstandings and unended fences that separated us and set up barriers.

I have a close friend in New York I haven't spoken to in three years. Another 28-year relationship in Seattle is on the rocks. We're both 41 now, and time is marching on.

I think of my mother and her sister, who haven't spoken to each other in five years. As a result of that argument, my cousin and I haven't spoken either. I don't know if she has children. Neither of us has met the other's husband. What a waste of precious time! I'm sure there are millions of people in your reading audience who could tell similar stories.

Wouldn't it be terrific if a special day could be set aside to reach out and make amends? We could call it "Reconciliation Day." Everyone would vow to write a letter or make a phone call and mend a strained or broken relationship. It could also be the day on which we would all agree to accept the olive branch extended by a former friend. This day could be the starting place. We could go on from here to heal the wounds in our hearts and rejoice in a brand new beginning.—Van Nuys

DEAR READERS: Perhaps many of you will remember that last year I suggested this special day be set aside to forgive old wounds and reach out to those with whom we may have lost touch.

Last year's column resulted in so many heartwarming letters from people eager to tell me how much it meant to them to have heard from someone whom they thought they had lost from their lives. So here I am again, suggesting that perhaps today is the day you ought to pick up the phone or write a letter that will bring so much joy to someone who might be in pain.

Life is too short to hold grudges. To be able to forgive can be enormously healing and life-enhancing. It's the best example of casting your bread upon the waters and getting back caviar sandwiches. Do it today.

Gem of the Day: If you keep doing what you've always done, you will keep getting what you've always gotten.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: If you have trouble keeping a bandage clean and secure on your finger, try what I do.

Cut a finger section off of a plastic glove. Then put the bandage on and slip the glove finger over the bandage and secure with a small rubber band. — Mary Ann Toner, Humboldt, Iowa

A piece of tape would also work well to hold the "finger" on. This will also keep the bandage from getting wet. — Heloise

SOUND OFF

Dear Heloise: I have a complaint about ladies' public-restroom doors.

Why can't all doors swing outward, rather than inward? Most cubicles are too small for this maneuver! Is it because men are installing these doors?

Let's hear it from the ladies and get this corrected! — Artie McKinsey, Tyler Texas

I fight them with my luggage in almost every airport! If there is a valid reason, I would love to hear it. — Heloise

Protect skin from sun

There's more than a glimmer of good news about the bright idea of protecting yourself from the sun's ultraviolet rays.

Fashion seems to have taken the health warnings to heart. Slathering on baby oil and sunning for hours with a reflecting visor is out. Tanning lotions of SPF 15 and higher are in.

Now, here are more hints to help you survive the harsh, drying effects summer with its sun, swimming and frequent showering can have on your skin.

—Limit sun exposure to early morning and late afternoon when the sun's damaging ultraviolet rays are not as strong. Gradually build your tan, starting with no more than ten to 20 minutes per day.

—Apply a suntan lotion with an SPF of at least 15; reapply after swimming. Watch out for indirect exposure to the sun, reflected off sand and water. Ultraviolet rays also penetrate clouds, so cover up even on overcast days.

—Drink plenty of water to restore moisture during and after sunbathing or exercising.

—Maintain a balanced diet that supplies essential vitamins. Eat high fiber foods and lots of fresh fruits and vegetables daily to ensure that your skin gets vital fluids and nutrients it needs to stay smooth and supple. Vitamin A, found in dairy products and carrots is particularly important to the skin.

Tech's success got start at Wayland

By WHIT CANNING
Fort Worth Star-Telegram
LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - At the dawn of organized women's basketball in the Southwest, long before there were Lady Longhorns or official notice from the National Collegiate Athletic Association, there was one shining mecca for those wishing to compete:

Plainview, Texas ... home of the legendary Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist College.

Each year, there were precisely 12 of them. It was always 12, because that was the number seats on Claude Hutcherson's charter airplane. So each year, Wayland Baptist's best 12 piled into Claude's plane and went zooming around the country, knocking off giants.

The Flying Queens played teams from large universities, pick-up teams, club teams, whoever wanted a game. By season's end, they had usually won whatever championship was available. Generally, it was not attended by great fanfare.

This week, one of the Flying Queens herded her troops onto a plane larger than Claude's pointed toward Atlanta and the Final Four ... championship of the known universe. There was a big send-off at the airport, preceded by a frenzied scramble for available tickets, preceded by lengthy chats with the Washington Post, the Los Angeles Times, ABC, ESPN, Sports Illustrated and maybe 40 others.

But to Texas Tech's Marsha Sharp, it's still just basketball, Flying Queens style.

It is played, mostly, by kids from small West Texas towns like Tulia, where Sharp's father was a banker and part-time farmer. Growing up, she worked on the farm and played three-on-three basketball in high school.

It is played by kids with intense desire - like the 28 who arrived in Plainview in Sharp's freshman year to compete for two available slots on the Flying Queens' roster. By the time Sharp took her degree in 1974, she had been replaced on that roster by more talented players.

But she had found a calling. During her final two years she coached the freshman team (the Queen Bees), which frequently drubbed varsity aggregations from other schools. By that time, she had picked up "an incredible amount of basketball knowledge" from the Flying Queens' coach, Dean Weese, whose brother Linden is now her trusted longtime assistant.

"That was a very special part of my experience in life," she says. "I have gotten a lot of calls this week from old Wayland Baptist folks, and they're all excited and wishing us well. To a large extent, the program here at Tech is a reflection of those years."

"My memories are still very strong of Claude Hutcherson, a local fan who contributed a lot to the program, including his plane; and Dean Weese, who passed on a tremendous amount of fundamental knowledge about the game."

After several years as a high school coach in Lockney, Sharp came to Tech as an assistant in 1981 and became the head coach the next year. In 11 seasons, her Lady Raiders have fashioned a 241-97 mark, with two Southwest Conference titles and eight post-season appearances.

It is a program built on the small-town values of hard work, cooperation and a desire to succeed. Most of her current players are from places like Spearman, Idalou, Nazareth, Lorraine, Sweetwater or are locals from Lubbock. One of them, Sheryl Swoopes from nearby Brownfield, may be the best player in America.

Regardless of skills, however, there is a remarkable sameness to the Lady Raiders. They are all what Sharp calls "overachievers." They work hard, they cooperate, they graduate.

"I've really been lucky to have players like that," Sharp says, "but they are the type of player we try to recruit. Typically, this is a type of player who may not be the greatest talent in the world ... but whatever she has, that's what you get. They are all role players."

"One of the things I have been proudest of with this group is the way they reacted to Sheryl (who came in last year as a much-publicized junior college All-American). This was a team that had been winning on their own, and suddenly someone comes in and draws off most of the acclaim."

"Nobody complained. They all accepted her and were glad to have her because she could raise us to a higher level. And she has handled it all with such grace. I have been amazed (relentlessly, Swoopes has credited her success to her teammates)."

When Sharp arrived in Lubbock, there was a distinct feeling that Texas' Lady Longhorns would suffer their first SWC defeat about the time the next Ice Age arrived. A daunting thought, so Sharp dismissed it.

"After the first couple of times we played them, I realized it was going to be a while before we reached their level," she says, "so we stopped thinking about beating Texas. Thinking about it, in those circumstances, can drive you nuts."

"We concentrated on winning 20 games a season, making the playoffs, and filling the gym for home games. We kinda laughed at ourselves on that last one, since we were drawing crowds of about 200 back then."

In 11 years, the Lady Raiders have missed 20 wins only three times. They have become a perennial in the playoffs. They have beaten Texas. They have filled an 8,000-seat arena. They have made the Final Four.

More than all that, in 11 years they have graduated every senior but one.

"I figure," Sharp says, "that if you have a young person under your wing for four or five years and that person leaves here without a degree, you have failed."

"I don't care how many games we win. The point of what we're doing here is to make sure that person ends up doing something productive for the next 60 years or so."

In the future, some of them may be employed answering Sharp's phone. On-court pressure she handles well. Media blitzes are something else again.

"When we got home from the regionals, my phone just kept ringing," she says, "and every time I picked it up it was someone calling from the East Coast."

9th, 10th golfers win at Farwell

A team of Hereford freshmen and sophomore girls won a golf tournament in Farwell Tuesday.

Hereford's total of 418 beat the 436 of Bovina's varsity. There were 10 teams in the field, and all except Hereford were small-school varsity squads.

Individually, Jami Bell and Kristin Calkins, both of Hereford, shot a 98 to tie for third with Wilhelm of Hart. Wilhelm won a playoff.

The other Hereford players were Karen Manchec (107), Jana Baird (115) and Krista Beville (122).

Herd goes for 2-0 district start

The Hereford baseball team will try to take another District 1-4A win when Pampa comes to Whiteface Field at 1 p.m. Saturday. Hereford (6-10) won its district opener 3-1 over Dumas on Tuesday.

The game will be the first part of a doubleheader, as Hereford's and Pampa's junior varsity teams will clash in the second game.

Hereford's other varsity sports teams will be in action out of town this weekend. Both boys' and girls' golf teams will take a break from district play to compete in the Amarillo Relays Friday and Saturday.

The tennis team will play in a tournament in Abilene Friday and Saturday, and both track teams will compete in a meet in Levelland Saturday.

The Hereford sports scene will start jumping in the next two weeks as district competition heats up. Hereford will host a district round for the golfers on April 8, then will host the district tennis tournament (April 15-16) and the district track meet (April 16-17).

Don't Remember

PONTE VEDRA, Fla. (AP) - It seems to be a fact of life that after you become a senior citizen, your memory appears to get a little less sharp.

A member of the Senior PGA Tour, Bobby Brue, says it's true. But also claims there's a bright side.

"One of the nice things about the Senior Tour," Brue said, "is the fact that most times you can't remember your bad shots."

Road gets rougher for Celtics

By The Associated Press
 Boston beat Golden State, Denver, Dallas, Washington, Sacramento and Philadelphia - with a combined record of 126-289 - during its nine-game winning streak. Now comes the tough part.

The Celtics play division leaders Phoenix and Chicago at home and New York on the road in their next three games, on Friday, Sunday and next Thursday.

Boston's latest victim in its longest winning streak since the 1985-86 championship season was Philadelphia, which lost 109-103 on Wednesday night for its 11th defeat in 12 games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Detroit 120, Portland 111; Indiana 114, Washington 95; Seattle 103, Dallas 96; Atlanta 103, Denver 94; Utah 93, San Antonio 85; and Minnesota 126, the Los Angeles Lakers 113.

Boston trailed for most of the game until Reggie Lewis and Kevin Gamble got hot in the fourth quarter against the 76ers. Gamble had 11 of his 26 points in the period, and Lewis 10 of his 33.

Philadelphia scored the last 10 points of the first half for a 60-56 lead and held that margin at 82-78 after three quarters.

Then Lewis, who made 14 of 21 shots, gave Boston the lead for good, 93-90 with 6:56 remaining, on a three-point play.

A 3-pointer by Hersey Hawkins, who led Philadelphia with 30 points, closed the Sixers to 104-101 with 1:24 left. The score was 106-103 when Lewis missed an open shot from the left corner with 32 seconds to go.

But Gamble got the rebound and the Celtics pulled away at the free-throw line.

SuperSonics 103, Mavericks 96
 Seattle survived a scare at Dallas as Ricky Pierce scored eight of his 23 points in the final 6:04.

Doug Smith scored 26 points and Jim Jackson 20 for the Mavericks.

The game was tied 86-86 on Smith's two free throws before the Sonics scored nine of the next 13 points, including six by Pierce, for a 95-90 advantage with 2:21 remaining.

Jazz 93, Spurs 85
 Karl Malone had 31 points and 14 rebounds, and Utah used a 16-2 run in the fourth quarter to beat visiting San Antonio.

Jeff Malone scored 20 points for the Jazz.

Pistons 120, Trail Blazers 111
 At Auburn Hills, Mich., Joe Dumars scored 38 points, including five of Detroit's team record-tying 12 3-pointers against Portland.

Dumars had four 3-pointers and 28 points in the second half for the Pistons, who led just 111-109 with two minutes left before he hit his final 3-pointer, then added six free throws in the final 63 seconds.

Minnesota takes NIT title

NEW YORK (AP) - Madison Square Garden was half-full and most basketball fans were half-interested.

That didn't matter to Georgetown and Minnesota on Wednesday night as the two teams played a championship-caliber game that went down to the buzzer in the NIT final.

The Gophers came away with a 62-61 victory.

Arriel McDonald led the Gophers (22-10) with 20 points, 14 in the second half. Lenard added 17 points on 6-for-9 shooting. Harrington led Georgetown (20-13) with 17 points and Joey Brown had 14.

Ryan probably won't get back to World Series

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

OK, let's say this from the start: Are there any baseball fans out there that wouldn't mind seeing Nolan Ryan pitch in the World Series in his final season?

Probably not many, which is why the Texas Rangers are the sentimental favorite to win the American League West this year.

But do the Rangers have enough to win?

Sure, their pitching isn't too deep and a couple of positions are unproven. Still, that makes them no worse than most teams in the division.

Besides, more than in any recent year, more teams have a legitimate chance at finishing first in the AL West. Even Seattle, which lost 98 games last season, may have a chance after making a few moves. Well, maybe not the Mariners.

Like the rest of baseball, the AL West has a new look this year. Jose Canseco, David Cone, Dave Winfield and Tom Henke are among the big names beginning their first full seasons with new teams.

Predicted Order: 1) Chicago, 2) Minnesota, 3) Kansas City, 4) Oakland, 5) Texas, 6) Seattle, 7) California.

Chicago White Sox

Even without Bo Jackson and Ozzie Guillen, the White Sox stayed in contention last year. Now, with those guys back, Chicago might win its first title since 1983.

Jack McDowell (20-10) has become one of the most consistent starters in the majors. He leads a staff that needs Kirk McCaskill, Alex Fernandez and Wilson Alvarez to pitch to their potential. Charlie Hough is gone, but Dave Stieb, seemingly healthy, can fill that void.

How well Bobby Thigpen pitches could be the major key. He does not need to save a record 57 games, as he did a few years ago, but needs to do better than last season's 4.55 ERA. Hard-throwing Roberto Hernandez may need to take over the closer's job.

Monster Frank Thomas (.323, 115 RBIs, 122 walks) and Robin Ventura (.293, 93 RBIs, 93 walks) are at the corners in the infield and Steve Sax (.236) should bounce back. Guillen, flashy in the field and improving at the plate, played only 12 games at shortstop before being injured.

George Bell (112 RBIs) and Tim Lincecum (102 runs, 45 stolen bases) add offense. So might Ellis Burks, signed as a free agent.

The big question is what Jackson can do after missing almost two full seasons. A lot of people were certain he would never be able to come back with an artificial hip and now that's he done that, there's no telling how much more he can accomplish.

Minnesota Twins

The Twins made two major moves during the winter that kept their fans happy - they kept Kirby Puckett in Minnesota, then signed hometown hero Dave Winfield.

Bert Blyleven also is back for his third stint with the Twins. He needs 13 more victories for 300; if he reaches the milestone, it might be a long, long time until anyone else gets there.

Minnesota always has done well because of its defense. Manager Tom Kelly is gambling this year that third baseman Scott Leius can make the move to shortstop to replace the departed Greg Gagne.

Without John Smiley, the Twins need young Pat Mahomes or Willie Banks, journeyman Jim Deshaies or Blyleven to fill out a rotation that includes Kevin Tapani and Scott Erickson. Rick Aguilera (41 saves) gives Minnesota a proven stopper.

Kansas City Royals

A year ago, the Royals started the season with a lot of new players and new hope. A month later, however, Kansas City was 1-16 and on the way to its worst finish (72-90) since 1970.

So the Royals went into this winter and did more rebuilding. They signed hometown favorite David Cone to anchor a staff that includes Kevin Appier and recovering Mark Gubicza. They filled gaps up the middle by getting Gold Glove second baseman Jose Lind and sure-handed shortstop Greg Gagne. They added power by trading Gregg Jefferies to St. Louis for Felix Jose.

By May 1, the big chase for the Royals last season was to see if George Brett could get his 3,000th hit. He did, and now with a new baby and about to turn 40, he'll see if he can duplicate his .285 batting average, or do better.

Athletics

Free agency hit hard and the defending AL West champions start the season without familiar faces Dave Stewart, Mike Moore, Harold Baines and Willie Wilson. Also, Walt Weiss was traded away and, for the first time in seven years, Oakland begins a season without Jose Canseco.

Even so, the Athletics have a lot left as they seek their fifth title in six years. Rickey Henderson may be unhappy with his contract, but he can get on base. Mark McGwire (42 HR, 104 RBIs) and Ruben Sierra (87 RBIs) are solid, and Dave Henderson is ready to return from year-long injuries.

Storm Davis was signed to bolster a rotation that includes Bob Welch (11-7, 3.27 ERA) and Ron Darling (15-10). If pitching coach Dave Duncan can control Bobby Witt (114 walks in 193 innings), it will be a big benefit. Cy Young winner Dennis Eckersley again was overpowering, except against Roberto Alomar in the playoffs.

Texas Rangers

What a thrill it would be to see Nolan Ryan, at age 46, close his career by getting back to the World Series for only the second time. It's possible, but not probable as the Rangers head into their final season at Arlington Stadium.

Ryan (5-9, 3.72 ERA) is coming off a series of injuries. Baseball's all-time leader in strikeouts (5,668) and no-hitters (seven) has been so-so in spring training.

The Rangers should score a lot of runs. Juan Gonzalez, 22, led the majors with 43 home runs and Jose Canseco (26 HR, 87 RBIs) might be the most potent outfield tandem in baseball. Former AL batting champion Julio Franco is feeling better after being limited to 35 games by knee problems, and Texas hopes moving him to designated hitter will help him stay healthy.

Dean Palmer (26 HR) and Rafael Palmeiro (85 RBIs) provide more sock. Ivan Rodriguez, 21, led major league catchers by throwing out 49 percent of opposing basestealers. He also led AL catchers with 15 errors in an All-Star season.

Ryan and Kevin Brown (21-11) get support from newly acquired Charlie Leibrandt (30 wins in two years with Atlanta) and Craig Lefferts. The Rangers lost Jose Guzman, but filled a bigger need by signing closer Tom Henke.

Seattle Mariners

Lou Piniella was hired to fire up the Mariners on the field, and reliever Norm Charlton also went from Cincinnati to Seattle. Plus, the team paid out big bucks to sign Chris Bosio.

The Mariners, who have had only one winning season in their history, are used to disappointment. Kevin Mitchell did not provide what he promised last season and was traded for Charlton. Randy Johnson (12-14) and Erik Hanson (8-17) struggled.

Bright spots included AL batting champion Edgar Martinez (.343) and, as usual, Ken Griffey Jr. (.308, 27 HR, 103 RBIs). Rookie Dave Fleming (17-10) was a pleasant surprise.

California Angels

Not much went right for the Angels on the field last season, and it didn't go well off the field, as evidenced by the crash of the team bus on the New Jersey Turnpike. So far, it's not looking like a real bright 1993, either.

Kelly Gruber, acquired from Toronto, has shoulder trouble and is out for at least a few months. Jim Abbott, one of the most popular players in team history, was traded away.

The Angels have solid starters in Mark Langston, Chuck Finley and free agent Scott Sanderson. They, however, will not be enough to overcome a young lineup that features right fielder Tim Salmon (.347, 29 HR, 109 RBIs at Triple-A Edmonton).

AL East

After all those years of trying to break out of their choke collar, the Toronto Blue Jays finally did it last season.

So what happens in the winter? They lose Dave Winfield, David Cone, Jimmy Key, Tom Henke, Kelly Gruber, Manuel Lee, Dave Stieb and a few others.

Not all of those losses will hurt Toronto. Plus, the additions of Paul Molitor, Dave Stewart and Dick Schofield will help.

Even so, the Blue Jays are not the force they were last season. Meanwhile, several teams have gotten better, including New York and Baltimore.

In the last eight years, with only one exception (Detroit 1987), either Toronto or Boston has won the AL East. This season, however, could be the time when a lot of teams start making their moves.

Predicted Order: 1) Baltimore, 2) New York, 3) Toronto, 4) Cleveland, 5) Detroit, 6) Milwaukee, 7) Boston.

Baltimore Orioles

Camden Yards was a big hit last season and so were the Orioles, who went 89-73 and stayed close to Toronto until the final weeks.

The Orioles felt they were close to having a championship team and made only a couple of moves to fill gaps, signing designated hitter Harold Baines and second baseman Harold Reynolds. Then, along came Fernando Valenzuela.

Baltimore still needs a few things to win this year. Most of all, the Orioles need Cal Ripken to bounce back from a season-long offensive slump (.251, 14 HR, 76 RBIs). He remains fine in the field and is on pace to break Lou Gehrig's consecutive game streak in mid-1995. Meanwhile, Glenn Davis (13 HR) needs to stay healthy.

Mike Devereaux (107 RBIs) and Brady Anderson (80 RBIs, 53 SB) are two of the best outfielders in baseball. Young catcher Chris Hoiles (20 HR) was on the rise until he was hit by Tim Leary's fastball.

Mike Mussina (18-5, 2.54 ERA) emerged as one of the best young pitchers in the majors. At 24, he's a Cy Young candidate. Ben McDonald (13-13) and Arthur Rhodes (7-5) could become big winners. Rick Sutcliffe (16-15) slowed down, but Gregg Olson (36 saves) did not. We'll see how much Valenzuela has left.

New York Yankees

George Steinbrenner's return to the Bronx got all of the attention, although it will be newcomers Wade Boggs, Jim Abbott, Jimmy Key, Spike Owen and Paul O'Neill who determine whether the Yankees win their first division title since 1981.

Along with all the new players, the Yankees will be helped by the return of Steve Howe. The bullpen blew 17 save chances last season, most of them after Howe got his seventh suspension of substance abuse.

Abbott (7-15, 2.77 ERA) got no run support in California; he'll get more at Yankee Stadium and might become New York's next hero. Key (13-13) is consistent and will join Melido Perez (13-16, 2.87 ERA) for a solid three-deep rotation. The rest will come from off-injured Mike Witt and young Sam Miltello, Bob Wickman and Scott Kamieniecki.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I completely lost my sense of taste and smell over four months ago. I am very frustrated and have lost 10 pounds. I have no appetite, but I force myself to eat. I used to live to eat and now I eat to live.

My first doctor thought I had a sinus infection. He gave me a shot of penicillin and a pill which did nothing. He sent me to an ear, nose and throat specialist who said my nose was fine and put me on cortisone for six days, which did nothing. Then he gave me Vicon-C, a vitamin with zinc. Still nothing. Now my first doctor wants me to see a neurologist.

I would appreciate it if you could send me any information you have on this problem. By the way, I am a smoker, a 49-year-old female.

DEAR READER: I doubt that smoking is the only reason you have lost your sense of taste and smell, but smoking does significantly decrease the function of these senses. Why not quit and see how much that helps you. Oral hygiene is also important, and that means brushing your tongue and the roof of your mouth as well when you brush your teeth. Many people who quit smoking and have good oral hygiene are surprised how much better their food tastes.

The sense of smell and taste diminish with increasing age, but you are far too young to have a permanent severe loss of smell. Diabetes can be a factor in loss of smell and taste by damaging the nerve fibers that transmit the signals to your brain. A vitamin deficiency can be a factor. Pernicious anemia from a B-12 deficiency can decrease or cause a loss of taste.

To give you a complete review of what is known about such problems, I am sending you a free copy of Special Report 135, Your Sense of Taste and Smell. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/135, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

You do need to have a neurological evaluation. Brain damage and even a brain tumor can rarely be a cause for loss of smell and taste. It is important to have an adequate amount of saliva to be able to taste. Individuals with the dry-mouth syndrome often have difficulties with taste. Food must be dissolved before it is really tasted.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I've recently discovered my 15-year-old son likes to cross-dress. I've found hidden lingerie and other things. What, if any, are the psychological problems he might suffer, and should I take him for professional counseling? Is this an addiction, and does it interfere with normal behavior and mental functions?

DEAR READER: Your conclusion may not be correct. But since you know about the lingerie and he knows about the lingerie, the two of you should discuss it. He may have a fetish. In these instances, a person may be sexually aroused by an inanimate object which may be used in conjunction with masturbation. He doesn't need to wear the lingerie to satisfy his fetish.

Cross-dressing does not mean a person is gay. Women wear men's clothing frequently, and nothing is thought of it. About 90 percent of men who practice cross-dressing, which arouses them sexually, do so in private, to have sex with a female partner, usually their wives. Cross-dressers are usually married and have children.

But with either situation, your son may have psychological reactions to his habit. Professional counseling will help him to resolve the issue or feel more comfortable about it.

Dr. Lamb welcomes letters from readers with health questions. You can write to him at P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Although Dr. Lamb cannot reply to all letters personally, he will respond to selected questions in future columns.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I was diagnosed as having diabetes at age 62. I've taken two shots of insulin each day since then. My shots bring my glucose down and then I need a sugar booster of some sort to bring it back up. It seems frustrating to me to constantly have to do both. Could I have some other glandular problem instead of my pancreas?

DEAR READER: There are many things that will change a diabetic's insulin requirement, including changes in the diet, exercise level or stress. An acute infection will also have this effect.

But for a persistent problem of blood glucose levels that are too high and too low, it usually means a person's insulin requirements need adjustment. That is often easier said than done. To be successful, you will need to be quite consistent about your diet, your exercise and habits such as the use of coffee or alcohol. Alcohol should not be used by diabetics.

The richest known source of vitamin C is the acerola, also known as the Puerto Rican cherry, West Indian cherry or Barbados cherry. The green ones contain more C than the ripe ones.

If you stay on a consistent pattern, then you will have to rely on your doctor to help you adjust your insulin requirements, the type of insulin and when it is given for the best results. You do need to get out of the phase where you need to take something sweet because of insulin reactions.

You will want to read Special Report 89, Diabetes: The Sweet Sickness, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/89, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

DEAR DR. LAMB: About two months ago, I developed a pain behind my left hip. After X-rays and a bone scan my doctor told me I have Paget's disease in the upper right thigh and right pelvic region. I never have any pains or discomfort in that region. I asked him what the symptoms are. He said pain in that region. He was reluctant to talk about the disease. What can I expect in the future? Is the disease crippling and painful? What can I do to ward it off?

I am a 73-year-old male, 6 feet 3 inches and weigh 240 pounds. I have a large bone structure. I'm fairly active and have a part-time job that requires a fair amount of walking. I take care of a large lawn and garden and love to bowl during the winter. Should I curtail these activities?

DEAR READER: Paget's disease of the bone is the second most common cause of bone loss. Often it starts as localized areas in the thigh bone or pelvis. It can involve other bones, including the skull. The exact cause is not known, but a genetic factor may be involved. Often lesions in the thigh bone occur without symptoms. It can involve one or more vertebrae, which can cause pain.

There are so many causes of hip pain and since Paget's disease may cause no symptoms, I cannot confirm that Paget's disease is the basis of your pain, even though you do have the disease.

As long as you are comfortable being active, there is no reason why you should not continue to engage in your present activity schedule.

Patients without symptoms usually do not require treatment. Those with pain may benefit from analgesics, including aspirin, simply to control pain. There are medicines such as Calcitonin and disodium etidronate for those with more severe disease or to prevent progression. Surgery is sometimes indicated if bone lesions cause compression, and sometimes hip-joint replacement is indicated.

Reduce your risk of heart attack

Originally developed as therapy for people with arthritis, aspirin is now recognized for its role in reducing the risk of cardiovascular disease. Citing a number of studies that have shown aspirin to be beneficial both immediately following a heart attack and as a long-term treatment thereafter, the recently published American Heart Association guidelines give strong support for the use of aspirin in the treatment of heart disease.

While the daily dosage of aspirin used to prevent cardiovascular problems is small compared to the large daily doses used to ease the pain and inflammation of arthritis, physicians are concerned that even this can damage the stomach lining and cause bleeding. In fact, several studies have shown a link between low doses of aspirin and adverse gastrointestinal conditions.

Ecotrin, the most thoroughly clinically-tested enteric-coated aspirin, has an unsurpassed safety profile due to its protective coating, "SensiCoat." This stomach-safe coating prevents the aspirin tablet from dissolving until it reaches the small intestine where it can be absorbed safely.

Most heart attacks are caused by a blood clot that blocks an oxygen-transporting artery. Aspirin is effective in preventing heart attacks because it inhibits the clumping together of platelets, specialized blood cells that play a role in clotting.

In 1985, doctors began to recommend one aspirin tablet (325 mg) daily as a "therapeutic agent" in the prevention of second heart attacks. But patients should not begin an aspirin regimen without consulting a physician.

C.R. Walser celebrates 105th birthday recently

C. R. Walser celebrated his 105th birthday at reception held recently at the American Legion Hall.

There were 113 friends and relatives present including 47 of the honoree's descendants. A special guest was Mr. Walser's sister, Mae Baker, 95, of Sudan.

Entertainment was provided by the honoree's grandson, Ken Walser, who read an overview of the C.R. Walser family history. Also, the Billy Lytal Band performed and Jo Jo Lytal and Natalie Sims sang.

Tables were covered with spring pastel colors and centered with wood-crafted baskets of spring colored tulips handmade by Don Walser, the honoree's grandson.

C.R. Walser was born March 26, 1888, in Montague County in the community of Sunset. In 1903, the Walser family moved to Hardeman County where they were engaged in farming.

On Dec. 20, 1908, C.R. Walser and Della Lance were married and had four children: Guy Walser, born in 1909; Leatrus Walser Clark, 1911; Hollis Walser, 1915; and D.C. Walser, 1913. D.C. Walser died in 1990.

In 1917, Mr. Walser and his brother, Fate Walser, bought farm land in Deaf Smith County and on the county lines of Parmer and Castro Counties.

C.R. Walser and his wife Della lived on the farm until 1954 and then moved to 425 Star where Mr. Walser continues to reside. His wife died in 1974. Leatrus Clark cares for her father. He enjoys daily visits with his friends at the coffee shop and is involved with the ball games on television.

Walser's living descendants include three children; 18 grandchildren; 44 great-grandchildren; 44 great-great-grandchildren; and one great-great-great grandchild.

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) - "Good Morning America" co-host Joan Lunden and estranged husband Michael Krauss reached a settlement in their bitter divorce just as the case was to go to trial.

The settlement reached Tuesday bars terms from being disclosed, said Norman Sheresky, Krauss' attorney. Stan Rosenfield, a spokesman for Lunden, said Lunden would not comment on the settlement.

Lunden, 42, and Krauss, 53, had been married 14 years when they split in January 1992. They have three daughters, ages 12, 8 and 5.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) - A federal judge authorized police and security guards to confiscate bootleg Travis Tritt T-shirts at every concert on the country music star's current U.S. tour.

Winterland Concessions Co. of San Francisco paid more than $100,000 for the exclusive rights to sell goods with Tritt's name or image on them, according to a civil lawsuit filed Shreveport in earlier this month.

"Travis is somewhat upset by being ripped off," said attorney M. Kelly Tillery, who said he has prepared hundreds of similar lawsuits for stars ranging from Madonna and Bruce Spingsteen to New Kids on the Block.

Health bill would give all children vaccines

WASHINGTON (AP) - Every child in America would be able to get free vaccine under legislation President Clinton is proposing, administration and congressional officials say.
Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala today was unveiling the bill at a news conference with key Democratic lawmakers and a leading lobbyist for children.
The sources, speaking only on condition of anonymity, said the bill would provide government-purchased vaccine for public clinics and private physicians' offices alike starting in the 1995 fiscal year.
Parents still would have to pay their doctors a fee to administer the standard series of shots in private offices, but they would be spared the actual cost of the vaccines, which now run roughly $240 total.
It takes a dozen shots and three doses of oral polio vaccine to fully immunize a child by age 2 against the major childhood diseases.
The shots are already free at most public clinics, although the vaccines cost the governments that purchase them about $120.
The bill, called the Comprehensive Childhood Immunization Act of 1993, also would launch a state-based national tracking program to try to improve flagging immunization rates.
Opposition to the bill is likely to come from the pharmaceutical industry. It contends that a universal purchase system, with the government as the only buyer, would discourage private innovation and investment in new vaccines.

Clinton lashed out at the drug industry Feb. 12 over what he called its "shocking" prices for drugs and vaccines. He asked Congress for $300 million more to spend on immunizations and directed Shalala to negotiate with the companies on "reasonable" prices.
But he stopped short then of endorsing a universal purchase program, which the Children's Defense Fund, an advocacy group once chaired by Hillary Rodham Clinton, has been seeking.
The fund's president, Marian Wright Edelman, was invited to join Shalala and the lawmakers at today's announcement.
School attendance laws ensure that 98 percent of American children get their shots by the time they start school. But compliance is far more spotty among infants and toddlers.
The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates only half of children get all the recommended shots by their second birthday, and in some cities only 10 percent of the toddlers are fully immunized.
The Children's Defense Fund has estimated that a universal immunization program would cost $900 million a year.
Avis Lavelle, a spokeswoman for Shalala, declined to discuss details of the initiative Wednesday, but said, "It's a great step for the children of America and a great step for preventive health care."

National jury to convene in case of revamped 'LA Law'

By FRAZIER MOORE
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Creatively arrested for months, "L.A. Law" finally arraigns itself tonight for all to see.

"I've sat by and watched as this place has changed," law firm patriarch Leland McKenzie (Richard Dysart) scolds his partners in a scene clearly meant to say as much about the series as about McKenzie, Brackman. "You have all, in varying degrees, pursued other enterprises and neglected the one that this place was built on: the law."
Of course, it wasn't really the fault of those characters, or even the actors who played them, that "L.A. Law" ran amok.

"We learned how little control we have if the writing is no good," says Michael Tucker. "We found that out, big time, in the last two years."
Tucker and his wife, Jill Eikenberry (who plays husband-and-wife lawyers Stuart Markowitz and Ann Kelsey) recall more than one night when they climbed into bed with the latest script, only to conclude, "This is terrible. What are we gonna do?"
Now, after putting the series in dry dock for a month-and-a-half back former "L.A. Law"-yer Bill Finkelstein as co-executive producer, NBC is re-launching the series tonight in its customary 10p.m. EST time period.

This week's episode and the seven to follow are a last-ditch effort to restore "L.A. Law" to its past glory and, perhaps, win renewal for an eighth season.
Finkelstein, himself a lawyer and creator of ABC's defunct courtroom drama "Civil Wars," has written tonight's script, in which the attorneys rededicate themselves to the firm, to jurisprudence - and, by implication, to the series as it used to be.

"We've all got such energy," says Eikenberry, describing how a spirited cast and crew has been juiced up by Finkelstein's return.

You can't help feeling happiness, and even hope, for them. It hasn't been pleasant to look on as what was once a smart, saucy drama that championed the law (particularly the law that says "never let them see you sweat") slogged through flop sweat week after week - and sank in the ratings to 61st place on its most recent airing.
But can good writing alone roll back the hands of time?

"People have been saying, 'Ahh, the show's too old, we're bored with it,'" concs Tucker. "But they were saying that when they were seeing some pretty wretched writing."

Granted, tonight's episode is a giant step up from past scripts that Tucker scornfully likens to "a really first-rate, gold-plated 'Matlock.'"
In one of the hour's three intertwined stories, guest star Griffin Dunne portrays an "FOB" - Friend of Bill Clinton - who enlists the firm to help him with a controversial lawsuit. Meanwhile, a father stands trial for killing his daughter's rapist, and Randy Arnold Becker represents the oversexed, estranged wife of a prize fighter.
The evidence suggests that, under Finkelstein, the program may well be back on the right path. But after seven seasons, the path is awfully beaten and the landscape a bit predictable.

And over on CBS? Well, tonight "Picket Fences" moves into the same time slot. Formerly seen on Friday nights, this is the freshman series of David Kelley, another "L.A. Law" alumnus who during that show's height was its co-writer with Finkelstein.

The Newspaper BIBLE

YOU CAN'T DENY THE EVIDENCE
When the Council saw the boldness of Peter and John, and could see that they were obviously uneducated nonprofessionals, they were amazed and realized what being with Jesus had done for them! And the Council could hardly discredit the healing when the man they had healed was standing right there beside them!
So they sent them out of the Council chamber and conferred among themselves. "What shall we do with these men?" they asked each other. "We can't deny that they have done a tremendous miracle, and everybody in Jerusalem knows about it. But perhaps we can stop them from spreading their propaganda. We'll tell them that if they do it again we'll really throw the book at them."

So they called them back in, and told them never again to speak about Jesus.
But Peter and John replied, "You decide whether God wants us to obey you instead of Him! We cannot stop telling about the wonderful things we saw Jesus do and heard Him say."
The Council then threatened them further, and finally let them go because they didn't know how to punish them without starting a riot. For everyone was praising God for this wonderful miracle-the healing of a man who had been lame for forty years!

Food For Thought

American agriculture is our nation's bedrock. It is the key to our continued strength. Without a strong agriculture, we cannot have a strong America.

FACT: America's food and agriculture system represents 16% of our nations gross national product.

FACT: On average, Americans spend only 10% of their income on food, much less than in other nations.

FACT: America's food and agriculture system generates about 21 million American jobs - 17% of the entire U.S. Work force.

American Agriculture Is Growing Better Every Day, and Hereford State Bank, in conjunction with Hereford's New Car and Implement Dealers, will honor all area farmers and ranchers with an Agriculture Day Celebration for Hereford, Saturday April 3rd, 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Hereford State Bank.

Join us for a delicious hamburger cookout.

In addition to the participating merchants listed below, K-Bob's Steakhouse, C. Ramirez & Sons and R&R Refrigeration have generously contributed hamburger patties, corn chips and ice for the festive occasion. If you are planning to attend, you must pick up your tickets at Hereford State Bank or at any of these participating merchants: Hereford Auto Center, Stevens Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, Oglesby Equipment Co., Inc., Ford-New Holland, Arrow Sales, White Implement, BJM Sales & Service, Inc., Easley Trailer Service and Oswalt Livestock Products.

Chamber gives away a car

VEHICLE RAFFLE

Did you ever want to win a new car or truck? Well Deaf Smith County Clerk David Ruland did just that last year during the chamber's first car raffle to raise money for chamber projects. The raffle was a rousing success, as $17,000 was raised. It is being held again this year, with tickets priced at $50 each for the chance to win a car or truck from a Hereford dealer. Just think, you could be the next winner and drive away with the deal of a lifetime!

BEAUTIFICATION

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is committed to making Hereford the most beautiful, cleanest place to live in Texas. Cleaning up trash, planting trees and generally sprucing up the city are all necessary to the effort. The chamber supports existing efforts and encourages all Hereford residents to do their parts as well.

Hereford ... my neighborhood.

HOLLY SUGAR CORP.

A great team: you and your chamber working together

Our Chamber of Commerce functions through working committees which are the backbone of the organization. Money, planning, inspiration and guidance are useless unless the members work vigorously on the committee of their choice.

Careful study is made of the community needs and an action blueprint, the program of work, is designed. The goal of the program is always to create more dollars for more people and to improve the economic welfare of all.

Every member has a voice in determining the policies and projects and every member is needed to work on an active committee to get the job done.

Our Chamber of Commerce is a service institution and an action organization. It provides a medium through which people can take effective action for the progress of the community.

It helps to create job opportunities through stimulation of industrial and commercial growth, for established and new firms.

It seeks the improvement of community facilities...streets, highways, parks, schools, and marketing facilities.

It brings conventions, sales meetings, and other gatherings to our cities, thus bringing more money into the area.

It works toward developing the agriculture and agricultural industry of the area.

WHAT IT DOES...

FOR THE RETAILER ...

-Works for industrial and business development which brings with it new residents with new money to spend in the stores.

-Maintains a continuous program for inviting conventions and meetings. National surveys reveal that 20 percent of the convention dollar is spent in retail stores.

-Cooperates with retail organizations and associations on retail promotions.

FOR THE MANUFACTURER AND WHOLESALER...

-Works for the best shipping services at the lowest possible cost.

-Compiles various statistical information on trade territory population, purchasing power and market strength.

FOR THE SERVICE ESTABLISHMENT...

-Works for an ever increasing population, assuring additional customers and income.

-Works toward the increasing development of highways, recreational areas, new industries and the expansion of existing industries, all of which increases demand for the service organization.

FOR THE FARMER, RANCHER..

-Encourages and promotes sound agricultural programs and practices with major attention to soil conservation and livestock programs.

-Frequently coordinates planning of agricultural agencies and sponsors joint efforts in the improvement of techniques for more income from farm and ranch.

FOR THE HOME AND PROPERTY OWNER...

-Conducts an intensive beautification program with cleanliness, street lighting and other projects aimed at making this a better place in which to live.

-Cooperates with church, cultural and entertainment groups to provide a more interesting and meaningful life for residents and visitors.

FOR THE CONSTRUCTION, REAL ESTATE, INSURANCE, AND INVESTMENT FIRM...

-Provides an ever expanding market for construction, real estate and insurance dealers through its program of attracting new industry, new residents, promoting business and working for new highways and streets.

-Encourages expansion programs and modernization for established firms.

ONE LAST REASON YOU SHOULD JOIN..

-The goal of our Chamber of Commerce is to promote the commercial, industrial, civic, cultural and general interest of our cities and region. To accomplish this, action committees explore every avenue and possibility. These committees usually include those working in the areas of industrial development, agriculture, aviation, athletics, conventions, memberships, citizenship, traffic and transportation, area development publicity, highways, urban development, civic affairs, retail promotion, and water resources.

-Every individual, firm and profession derives direct benefits in a growing, stable economy. Such an economy is the result of our Chamber's efforts.

At King's Manor we have a philosophy that includes maximizing the independence of the people we serve. We have the capability to offer a full range of lifestyles - adult day care, respite and short term care, independent living, homemaker services, health care, including hospice care, and an added feature...child day care for all to enjoy. These major choices allow residents the ability to remain independent beyond the usual.

As a non-profit, church related organization. King's Manor is more than a variety of living choices. It is a neighborhood where residents and staff impact one another's lives in very positive ways. We are in the business of providing "environments" for older people. We believe in giving every choice and every courtesy possible to our residents.

If we can assist you or a relative in selecting a lifestyle option, that respects independence, please give us that opportunity.

WOMEN'S DIVISION

The Women's Division is active throughout the year with many different projects. Among them are the annual Christmas Lighting contest, blood drives, Miss Hereford and Little Miss Hereford Pageants, plus much more.

1992 Woman of the Year

Kim Buckley, shown with husband, Greg, was named as the Women's Division "Woman of the Year" for 1992.

Women's Division leaders

Outgoing president of the Deaf Smith County Chamber Commerce Women's Division, Rita Bell, at left, accepts an appreciation plaque from Linda Daniel, incoming president, during the first quarterly meeting of the year. Daniel's theme for the new year focuses on the wagon wheel. She said, "If one spoke breaks or fails to work properly, the wheel will not turn. I will be the leader for the new year but this is your organization and it works because you do." Daniel's goals for 1993 include obtaining new Women's Division members and for the organization to promote Hereford and Deaf Smith County whenever possible. "We need to be proud of this community and talk positively of our hometown," she said.
