Seized marijuana

Hereford police on Sunday arrested a 28-year-old male for possession of marijuana. The arrest followed a routine traffic stop, after officials received a tip from an informant that the man had marijuana in his possession. The man was arrested for Driving While Intoxicated, at which time some of the suspected marijuana was found in his car. A subsequent search of his motel room turned up approximately 50 pounds of suspected marijuana, which police estimate has a street value of about $50,000. The investigation into the incident is continuing by Hereford police.

Former Hereford woman accused by grand jury of 1984 murder of child here

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A two-count indictment, returned Monday by a Deaf Smith County grand jury, accuses a former Hereford resident whose eight-month-old daughter died in 1984, of murder and injury to a child.

The grand jury's action is the culmination of a lengthy investigation by the Deaf Smith County criminal district attorney's staff.

The woman, Tanya Thaxton Reid, is serving a 10-year sentence in the Iowa Institution of Corrections for Women, on her conviction for endangering a child, her son, Robert Reid.

The woman's daughter, Morgan Reid, reportedly stopped breathing on Feb. 7, 1984, and was admitted to Deaf Smith General Hospital. She was transferred to an Amarillo hospital and died the next day.

Sometime later, the defendant and her husband, Raymond Reid, moved from Hereford to Iowa.

In Iowa newspaper accounts of her trial for endangering a child, testimony from witnesses about both the Reid children alleged they suffered seizures and stopped breathing when with their mother.

The Des Moines Register reported that an expert witness in the trial testified that Reid suffered from a disorder, Munchausen Syndrome by Proxy, in which a person induces or fabricates illness in children for psychological gratification.

Reid elected to have her case heard by a judge, with no jury, in the 1989 trial. Found guilty, she was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

In the newspaper reports, prosecutors charged that on more than one occasion she cut off the air supply of her son, then claimed he had a seizure. A licensed vocational nurse, Reid could administer resuscitation until other medical help was available.

When the investigation in Iowa began, the son was removed from the home and placed in foster care. The newspaper reported that the boy suffered no further seizures.

Extradition procedures will be initiated to bring Reid to Deaf Smith County for trial. If she waives extradition, she could be arraigned here in the near future. If she fights extradition, though, the procedure could take up to a couple months, said Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul.

She can be tried on the Deaf Smith charges while serving her Iowa sentence. If convicted here, she would be returned to Iowa to complete her sentence, then brought back to Texas to serve her sentence.

GOP senators return after refusing roll call Monday

AUSTIN (AP) - A group of GOP senators returned to work today, allowing the chamber to resume business one day after the Republicans forced a Senate shutdown by refusing to answer roll call.

The Republicans who stayed away Monday were showing their anger over a proposed new way to elect judges.

"Emotions are running very high on both sides of the issue," Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, a Democrat, who presides over the Senate, said Monday.

The dispute is over a resolution for judges. Dividing counties into a proposed court settlement to change the method of electing most state district judges in nine urban counties from a countywide vote to smaller, individual district elections.

The proposal is a result of court rulings that say the current countywide system discriminates against blacks and Hispanics because white bloc voting prevents minority-backed candidates from winning election.

Blacks and Hispanics make up 37 percent of the population, but 13 percent of the number of state district

Severe weather crosses state, bringing hail, wind, tornadoes

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Severe weather threatened the state early today, especially the low rolling plains region, which was under an early-morning tornado watch.

Storms also ripped through the state Monday, with one knocking out power and windows at a junior high school. No children were hurt.

King County, located midway between Lubbock and Wichita Falls, was under a tornado watch that was extended from expiring at 9 p.m. Monday until 3 a.m. today.

Other warnings Monday night were called for Runnels, Wichita and Zavala counties. Officials in each county said no damage had been reported.

In Hale County north of Lubbock, sheriff's dispatchers reported a tornado east of Petersburg. The tornado touched down, went up and touched down again moving toward Floydada, where hail knocked out car windshields.

The storm system rolling through West Texas before 2 p.m. caused damage at MacKenzie Junior High School and damaged more than a dozen cars in the teachers' parking lot, said school counselor Charlotte Romero.

The high winds that developed around 2 p.m. sent a trash bin flying into some of the cars and blew an air-conditioning unit from the building, Ms. Romero said.

"The sky got dark very quickly," Ms. Romero said.

The youngsters were moved into hallways away from the glass windows on the building's facade.

"They handled themselves very well. They behaved excellently," she said of the students.

The storm also toppled at least one telephone pole near an apartment complex and residential neighborhood nearby, Ms. Romero said.

Red-faced senate leaders reverse vote for Clinton

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate reversed itself today and voted to kill a Republican amendment to President Clinton's $16.3 billion jobs bill that would have forbidden financing of tennis courts and other projects the nation's mayors want.

Undoing what had been an embarrassing blow to Clinton, lawmakers rejected the GOP proposal on a 52-48 vote. Just 14 hours earlier, the Senate had given preliminary approval to the amendment on a 48-44 vote.

Monday night, five Democrats had abandoned their president and voted for the Republican provision, which was sponsored by Sen. Hank Brown, R-Colo. But red-faced Senate leaders decided to try again because seven other Democratic senators had missed the mid-evening vote.

"This is a fictitious list of programs that never would have been funded in the first place," said Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the jobs measure's sponsor, before the Senate ignored his advice and gave preliminary assent to the GOP amendment.

The jobs measure is a key leg of Clinton's economic recovery strategy, aimed at quickly providing jobs and providing a lift to the country's business climate. It would provide extra money for small business loans, summer jobs for teens and other employment-heavy programs.

The House approved a similar bill on March 19. Congressional leaders want to send the measure and a companion deficit-reduction plan to Clinton for his signature by this weekend, when Congress begins its Easter recess.

But Republicans say the jobs legislation simply would spill more red ink on federal ledgers already bursting with the highest budget deficits ever: $290 billion a year and growing.

And it would do so by financing many unneeded projects, they say.

Hull seeks hospital post

Mary Sue Hull, longtime Hereford resident, filed Monday as the third candidate for an at-large position on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board.

Three places on the board will be up for election May 1 when the terms of Mal Manchee, Dr. Robert Bidwell and Dr. Stan Fry Jr. expire. Deadline for filing in this election is April 1.

Manchee has filed for reelection and Jo Beth Shackelford is the only other candidate at this time. Dr. Bidwell has indicated he will not seek reelection, and Dr. Fry has not announced his intentions.

Mrs. Hull is a businesswoman and the administrator for the Fellowship of Believers Church. She has two sons, Mike, an Austin attorney, and Kevin, a student at Clarendon Junior College. Her late husband, James Hull, was the longtime manager of Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative.

Deadline Thursday to vote in May 1 election

Prospective voters have until Thursday to register if they wish to cast ballots in the May 1 municipal, school board and hospital district elections and the special statewide election.

Persons who do not have the blue and white registration certificates should apply in the office of the Deaf Smith County clerk, David Ruland, for the cards. Anyone who has changed address since the voter card was issued also is required by law to notify the voter registrar, Ruland, and receive a new card.

Voters will choose members of the Hereford Independent School District board of trustees, board members for the Deaf Smith County Hospital District and city officials on May 1.

In addition to local voting that day in Texas, a state ballot lists approximately 20 candidates seeking to serve the unexpired U.S. Senate term vacated by Lloyd Bentsen when he was appointed U.S. Secretary of the Treasury.

And, a controversial constitutional amendment on funding public education will be put up for a decision by voters.

Ruland said voter registration will be accepted until 5 p.m. Thursday.

Grand jury hands down new charges

New indictments, for aggravated kidnapping and murder, were returned Monday by a Deaf Smith County grand jury against a man previously indicted for capital murder.

The indictments against Mario Flores Jr., 24, were handed down in connection with an incident in September 1990.

Flores is alleged to have kidnapped, then murdered, a 15-year-old, Johnny Martinez. The youth was reported missing on Sept. 2, 1990. His body was found in an abandoned house southwest of Hereford, six days later, on Sept. 8.

Flores was arrested in Idaho on July 1, 1992, by Deaf Smith Sheriff Joe Brown and David Wagner, then investigator for the criminal district attorney, Roland Saul.

After waiving extradition, Flores was returned to Deaf Smith County and confined in county jail. Bond of $1 million was set after the capital murder indictment was returned in August.

For school financing plan

Teacher group says income tax is better

AUSTIN (AP) - One of the state's largest teacher groups says an income tax dedicated to education is a better answer than the proposed school finance constitutional amendment.

The 58,000-member Association of Texas Professional Educators said Monday it opposes Amendment 1 on the May 1 ballot.

"It is not the best we can do for now, and our children deserve much better," said ATPE President Cathy Fletcher, a computer teacher from the Frenship ISD near Lubbock.

Ms. Fletcher said more than 90 percent of the ATPE's 900-member House of Delegates voted over the weekend to oppose all three school-related amendments on the ballot.

"ATPE delegates also voted to support a progressive state income tax, but only if it is dedicated completely to public education with the understanding that property taxes and sales taxes must be reduced," she said.

"They are willing to bite the bullet, for whatever it takes, to dedicate funds for public education," added Doug Rogers, the group's executive director.

Amendment 1 would create a system for shifting some local property tax money from property rich school districts to poorer ones. It was designed to meet a June 1 deadline set by the Texas Supreme Court after its latest ruling that Texas discriminated against property poor districts.

Although Gov. Ann Richards and other state leaders say they believe the court will close schools June 1 if the amendment fails, Ms. Fletcher said the Legislature still will be in session and other action can be taken.

"The session is not over on May 1. It's time for our leadership to get in there and get the job done," she said.

Margaret Justus, spokeswoman for the pro-amendment Save Our Schools committee, said other teacher groups have backed the proposal. By favoring an income tax, she said, ATPE has chosen a politically impossible option.

"What's on the ballot is an opportunity to put this issue behind us. It's an issue that's been battled in the Legislature and the courts for the past 25 years," Ms. Justus said.

"There is no support that we know of in the Legislature for an income tax," she said, adding that the most likely option should be the amendment fail is "massive consolidation of all school districts in Texas."

Amendment 2 would exempt schools from complying with unfunded state requirements. The ATPE officials said they oppose that because legislation to spell out that amendment hasn't been passed.

Amendment 3 would authorize $750 million in state bonds to assist school districts build facilities. Ms. Fletcher said that amount is too small.

Local Roundup

Chance of rain tonight

Hereford recorded a high of 73 degrees at 4 p.m. Monday and this morning's low was 37, according to KPAN weather. Tonight, cloudy with a 20 percent chance of rain. Low in the mid 30s. North wind 10-20 mph. Wednesday, becoming partly cloudy during the afternoon. High in the upper 50s. North wind 15-25 mph and gusty.

School board sets meeting

The Hereford Independent School District Board of Trustees will meet in regular session at 6 p.m. today in the board room, 136 Avenue F. Among items up for consideration will be a request from the Nazarene Church to use the football stadium, a request from St. Anthony's School in regard to the band program and a report on the Partnership Schools Initiative program at Shirley Intermediate School. The district personnel report will cover teacher contract renewals. The meeting is open to the public and the building is wheelchair accessible.

Veterans shine at awards ceremony

By JOHN HORN
AP Entertainment Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) - On a night that was supposed to honor women in movies, the names to remember were Clint and Al.

Clint Eastwood and Al Pacino, overlooked by Oscar voters despite more than 50 years of acting between them, finally broke through Monday night. Eastwood's moody Western, "Unforgiven," brought him awards for best picture and best director. Pacino, the bitter, blind Army veteran of "Scent of a Woman," was named best actor.

Neither became famous by smiling a lot, but they each had something funny to say as they picked up their long-awaited Oscars and received well-earned standing ovations.

"This is pretty good," muttered Eastwood, drawing laughs as he picked up his first Oscar of the night, for best director. "This is all right."

"I've been around for nearly 39 years; I've enjoyed it and I've been lucky," said Eastwood, who had never been nominated until "Unforgiven." "Everyone feels they are lucky when they can make a living in a profession they enjoy."

Pacino, nominated six times before this year, obviously arrived with high hopes. He actually wrote an acceptance speech. The actor quipped "You broke my streak," and then rambled on, offering plenty of thanks and memories.

Midway, he paused and apologized: "Indulge me for a minute, because I'm not used to this."

While films such as "Dances With Wolves" and "The Silence of the Lambs" have dominated recent Oscar ceremonies, this year's awards were more evenly divided.

"Unforgiven" led with four, also taking honors for best supporting actor (Gene Hackman) and film editing. Following with three were "Howards End," which tied with "Unforgiven" by receiving nine nominations, and "Bram Stoker's Dracula."

The best actress award went to Emma Thompson, a heavy favorite as the free-thinking intellectual who marries into money in the stately "Howards End."

"It's overwhelming to see so many faces who have entertained and thrilled me for all my life," said Miss Thompson, a British actress, in her acceptance speech.

Marisa Tomei, Joe Pesci's feisty girlfriend in "My Cousin Vinny," offered the night's biggest surprise. She won for best supporting actress, her role in a film that received mixed reviews beating out such highbrow contenders as Judy Davis, Vanessa Redgrave and Joan Plowright.

The theme Monday night was "Oscar Salutes Women and the Movies," but the women receiving the most applause weren't being honored for their acting.

Two of the screen's most beautiful stars, Elizabeth Taylor and the late Audrey Hepburn, were given Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Awards for their off-screen work. Another favorite was Eastwood's mother,

Ruth, who beamed from her seat in the audience as her son called her "the greatest woman on the planet."

A man even attracted the most attention for fashion. There had been special interest whether Jaye Davidson, the cross-dressing hairdresser of "The Crying Game," would wear a tux or gown for the occasion. Davidson, a loser for best supporting actor, chose an androgynous outfit of a long black frock coat over tight pants and boots, his hair in a bun.

It was a disappointing night overall for "The Crying Game," the underground hit written and directed by Neil Jordan. With a plot twist that seems to get less secret every day, the sexually provocative story about love and terrorism received six nominations, but only won for original screenplay.

"Howards End," a stately family saga, also won for art direction and Ruth Praver Jhabvala's screenplay adaptation of E.M. Forster's classic novel. "Bram Stoker's Dracula," directed by Francis Ford Coppola, picked up awards for costume design, makeup and sound effects editing.

"Aladdin" Disney's latest smash animated film, again brought the Oscar for best original score to Alan Menken, while he and Tim Rice won the best song award for "A Whole New World." Menken and his late partner, Howard Ashman, had won Oscars two out of the previous three years for Disney's "The Little Mermaid" and "Beauty and the Beast."

"A River Runs Through It" picked up the Oscar for cinematography, while the award for best sound went to "The Last of the Mohicans." The prize for visual effects went to the black comedy "Death Becomes Her."

"Indochine," at $20 million the most expensive French film ever made, was honored as best foreign picture.

Task force conducts marathon hearing

WASHINGTON (AP) - Michael Bromberg got his free-market message across at the first and only public hearing by President Clinton's task force on health care reform. But he left feeling the 13-hour event mattered very little.

"I don't think it's going to have any impact on the final result" of Clinton's proposals to improve health care, said Bromberg, executive director of the Federation of American Health Systems, representing investor-owned hospitals.

"They knew our views, they gave us a hearing," he said. He and some of the roughly 65 others who testified at Monday's talkfest said that while they were grateful for the chance to be heard, they had no illusions of great influence.

The task force, headed by Hillary Rodham Clinton, has been working behind the scenes for weeks to fulfill the president's promise of a reform package that would control health costs and guarantee coverage for all Americans. Clinton has said he intends to submit legislation to Congress on May 3.

Monday's hearing was a landmark for the task force, which has been under pressure from Congress and the courts to be less secretive. Until last Friday the health team had refused to identify its 511 staff members and advisers.

Mrs. Clinton missed the hearing because she remained in Little Rock, Ark., at the bedside of her ailing father. Vice President Al Gore substituted and ran the session at George Washington University for all but about two of its 13 hours.

No further public hearings were scheduled.

"It was a good public relations program for the task force," said William Shaker, head of the American Council for Health Care Reform, which favors free-market solutions to the health care system. But it accomplished little else, he said.

Dr. Jane Orient, executive director of the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons, said she saw little hope of changing minds on the task force.

"Given the short deadline that they're working under, it's highly likely that decisions already have been made" on the key health reform issues, she told reporters.

The hearing was divided into a dozen separate sessions with five- or six-member panels representing groups with a stake in the health care system, such as hospitals, physicians, insurers, the drug industry and consumers. Each panel member had three minutes for opening remarks and then participated in about 30 minutes of unscripted give-and-take with members of the task force.

Monday's session provided at least a glimpse at the way the health team is approaching the main issues.

Survey shows feeling about medical costs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Most Americans believe medical specialists make way too much money - without knowing that they pocket even more, according to a survey released today by a health advocacy group.

The Families USA Foundation said the survey bolsters arguments for price controls to immediately rein in medical costs, as the Clinton administration tries to craft a sweeping health care reform package.

"Americans are being overcharged for the health care they get," said Ron Pollack, executive director of the group. "They're angry, and they'd be even angrier if they knew how much money the health profiteers are pocketing."

He added that "with nearly one-sixth of our entire national health expenditures winding up as doctors' income, we can't hope to make health care affordable for our families until we get medical overcharges under control."

The survey, conducted by Democratic pollster Celinda Lake, asked Americans how much they think medical specialists and health industry executives earn, and what they think would be fair compensation.

Among the findings:
-Radiologists' average compensa-

Gore, for example, said Clinton's proposal will emphasize preventive care, include "good mental health coverage," and promote home and community-based care. He said it also would stop "excessive profiteering" by drug makers.

"We're moving in the direction of a very comprehensive benefits package," Gore said.

Total 1991 compensation was $12.79 million for the head of Bristol-Myers Squibb, $4.23 million for the head of Abbott Laboratories and $2.8 million for the head of Eli Lilly. Americans thought the heads of big drug companies earn $600,000 a year and felt that fair compensation would be $150,000.

Total income for chief executive officers of large hospitals averaged $235,000 in 1992. Americans thought their annual income averaged $150,000 and felt $100,000 would be fair.

Total compensation for chief executive officers at Aetna, CIGNA and Travelers insurance companies exceeded $1 million each in 1991. Americans thought income for these executives averaged $400,000 and felt $115,000 would be fairer.

The telephone survey included interviews with 1,000 registered voters contacted Feb. 28-March 1 and had a margin of error of plus or minus 3.1 percentage points. The figures for actual compensation were taken from various public sources of information.

Auxiliary meets at post home

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars Roy Wederbrook Post 4818 met recently with Linda Dutton presiding.

During the business meeting, minutes were read and approved, the treasurer's report given and bills presented and paid. Correspondence was read and filed for future reference. Several bequests were made.

The meeting was preceded by a chili supper. Those present were Betty Boggs, Martha Bridges, Doris Coffin, Linda Dutton and her two daughters, Marie Goheen, Dora Lea Howell, Essie Martin, Erma Murphy and Terrye Rhyne.

The next meeting is planned at 8 p.m. April 5. Supper will be served at 7 p.m. All members are encouraged to attend the meeting which will include the election of new officers.

Military Muster

FORT RICHARDSON, Anchorage, Alaska—Staff Sgt. Joe G. Fuentes Jr. has been decorated with the Army Commendation Medal.

The medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Fuentes, an infantryman, is the son of Joe G. and Amelia G. Fuentes of Hereford.

He is a 1979 graduate of Hereford High School.

FOR RILEY, Junction City, Kan.—Sgt. Julian Lucero has re-enlisted in the U.S. Army for four years.

Lucero, a tank turret mechanic, is the son of James and Sally Lucero of 509 Ave. H.

The sergeant is a 1982 graduate of Hereford High School.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - One of country music's most famous fans, George Bush, is lending his name to a charity auction.

A guitar autographed by the former president in 1991, when he and his wife attended the Country Music Association awards show, is being auctioned by Fender Music Instruments and Opryland USA. Twenty country music stars also signed the guitar, including Garth Brooks, Vince Gill, Reba McEntire and Dolly Parton.

The money will go to the Opry Trust Fund.

Work Smart Program given to Pilot Club

L. V. Watts recently discussed the Work Smart Program available through Deaf Smith General Hospital when members of the Hereford Pilot Club met in the Lamar Room of King's Manor Retirement Home.

Watts explained that the program is designed to help people tailor their individual medical needs.

Also, during the meeting, Marilyn

Bell was presented a plaque for her service in chairing the organization's annual pecan sales.

Peggie Fox installed four new members: Renee Hammock, Claudia Smith, Elvira Enriquez and Sharon Baxter.

A delegate was elected to attend the district convention planned April 30-May 2 in Houston.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: I made a cookie recipe, and one of the ingredients was lemon peel. This was the first time that I used the peel in a recipe and the cookies were bitter! What did I do wrong? — Prissy Jo, Fresno, Calif.

You may have gotten some of the white spongy part of the lemon, which can be bitter.

When the recipe calls for lemon peel or zest, this means only the very top yellow part. Carefully use a grater to get the amount you need.

Try the recipe again and let us know how it comes out. — Heloise

La Madre Mia members hear musical program

Jan Walser and several members of the Hereford High School choir presented a musical program Thursday for members of La Madre Mia Study Club when they met at the Fellowship of Believers.

The group sang six selections. Several of the choir members will be competing in the U.I.L. state solo contest.

Following the program, a brief business meeting was held. President Nicky Walser appointed a nominating committee who will nominate officers for the coming year and plan the election party in April.

Roll call was answered with members sharing their favorite song.

Refreshments were served by Francyne Bromlow to Carolyn Baxter, Ruth Black, Merle Clark, Linda Cumpton, Betty Lady, Glenda Marcum, Gladys Merritt, Bettye Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Lucy Rogers, Mysedia Smith, Georgia Sparks, Betty Taylor, Marline Watson, Nicky Walser and Mary Beth White.

Hat's off to our Home Town Doctors!

The professionalism, integrity and hard work of physicians provide the cornerstone for medical services in our community. Our physicians have the expertise to help us maintain our health and cure our illnesses.

Our home town doctors are a part of the family at Deaf Smith General Hospital, and part of a major industry in Hereford. Without them, we wouldn't have a hospital, pharmacies, medical supply stores, or home health agencies.

On Doctor's Day, March 30, we encourage the community to join us in honoring our physicians.

Our thanks to our home town doctors...

...for kind words and a gentle touch
...for sharing our fears, our joys, our sorrows
...for your knowledge and skill

Thanks for your work to make Hereford a better place to live.

Golfers stand 2nd in 1-4A

Both of Hereford's golf teams stand second after the opening weekend of District 1-4A play.

The boys team led the district by three strokes after totalling 317 at Comanche Trails in Amarillo on Friday. Borger took the lead by shooting a 307 to Hereford's 327 in Saturday's second district round, which was played at Palo Duro Creek in Canyon.

Pampa was in third after both rounds, totalling 659. Borger leads with a 627, followed by Hereford at 644.

The girls played Friday at Comanche Trails, but Saturday's round at Dumas' Pheasant Trails was cancelled because of rain and lightning.

Friday's round saw Borger firing a 357 and Hereford shooting a 367. Pampa is in fourth with a 398, trailing Hereford's B team by two strokes. Individually, Hereford's Dusty Saul is fourth with an 89, close behind two Borger girls: Kasandra Nesbitt Nesbitt (86) and Rebecca Holcomb (87). Dumas' Jamie McInturff made herself an early medalist favorite with round of 71.

As for Hereford's boys, Cory Newton shot 77 Friday and 79 Saturday and stands fourth with a 156 total. Jayson Mines is fifth at 158 after a 75 Friday and an 83 Saturday. Pampa's Cory Stone leads the boys with a 148.

Hereford Individuals at Comanche:
Girls A: Dusty Saul, 89; Jennifer Prater, 92; Kelly Kelso, 92; Stephanie Walls, 94; and JoJo Lytal, 95.
Girls B: Cecelia Albracht, 94; Brook Weatherly, 95; Kristin Calkins, 98; and Karen Manchec, 109.

Boys A: Jayson Mines, 75; Cory Newton, 77; Clay Cantrell, 78; Sabino Grijalva, 87; and Tim Burkhalter, 96.

Boys B: Scott Burkhalter, 80; David Sims, 86; Justin Griffith, 89; Drew Radford, 90; and David Farr, 98.

Hereford boys at Palo Duro Creek:
A: Newton, 79; Mines, 83; Cantrell, 83; Grijalva, 82; and Scott Burkhalter, 100.

B: Tim Burkhalter, 82; Sims, 95; Griffith, 95; Radford, 97; and Farr, 100.

Team totals:

Boys: 1, Borger A, 627; 2, Hereford A, 644; 3, Pampa A, 659; 4, Borger B, 678; 5, Pampa B, 700; 6, Randall A, 702; 7, Hereford B, 714; 8, Dumas B, 796; 9, Caprock A, 806; 10, Dumas A, 824; 11, Caprock B, 892.

Girls: 1, Borger, 357; 2, Hereford A, 367; 3, Hereford B, 396; 4, Pampa, 398; 5, Dumas A, 436; 6, Dumas B, 496; 7(tie), Randall and Caprock, 570.

Hammerin' Holguin

Netters' finals get rained out

The Borger Tennis Tournament, in which the Hereford team competed, completed three rounds on Friday, but the fourth round (including finals) got cancelled when rain showed no signs of letting up on Saturday.

Hereford had players in three of the four finals: Bri Reinauer and Greg Coplen were in the singles finals, and Sherry Fuston and Emily Fuston made the girls' doubles finals.

"Everyone played well in Borger," Herd coach Natalie Sims said. "We had the most in the finals, or playing for third, so we probably would have won the tournament had we finished."

Sims added that the finals would be played, but nothing has been scheduled yet.

Reinauer got to the finals by beating, in order, Lori Brandon of Borger, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0; Marci Hanson of Amarillo High, 6-1, 6-2; and Meredith Horton of Pampa, 6-4, 6-2. Reinauer was to face Borger's Dawna Denny in the finals.

Coplen's path to the finals included wins over Brett Gordon of Amarillo High, 6-0, 6-1; Kevin Morgan of Randall, 7-5, 6-3; and Stephen Moore of Borger, 6-2, 6-1. He was to meet Plainview's Zach Gibson in the finals.

The Fustons took wins over Huffaker and Hyde of Amarillo High, 6-2, 6-2; Martin and Fulton of Pampa, 6-2, 6-3; and McNeese and Jordan of Borger, 6-3, 7-6. The Fustons were to go up against the Barkers of Pampa in the finals.

Hereford would have played for third place in both singles and in girls' doubles.

Michelle Berend won her first two matches, then lost to Denny in the semi-finals, 6-1, 6-1. Before that, she beat Traci Cerka of Randall, 6-4, 6-4, and Kim Hargrove of Perryton, 6-4, 6-3.

In boys' singles, Jamie Kapka fell in the semis to Gibson, 6-1, 6-3. On the way, he beat Larry Stephenson of Randall, 6-3, 6-3, and Ben Clarke of Borger, 6-2, 6-2.

In girls' doubles, the Hereford duo of Kara Sandoval and Brooke Weishaar fell in the semis to Pampa's Barker and Barker, 6-4, 6-4. To get there, Sandoval and Weishaar defeated Jeffers and Rothwell of Plainview, 6-1, 6-3, and beat Fraley and Holt of Borger, 6-1, 6-4.

The Hereford boys' doubles teams weren't quite as successful. Donny Perales and Chris Lyles were to play for fifth place after losing in the second round to Butler and Wittenberg of Perryton, then beating Kimble and Grodd of Borger in the third round, 6-2, 6-2.

Richard Drager and Tom Jarecki lost in the first round to Ward and Pitts of Plainview, 6-2, 6-1, but they had a chance to play for consolation after beating Wilkins and Adams of Borger, 6-1, 6-0, and defeating Browder and Walker of Amarillo High, 6-1, 6-2.

The Herd tennis team will play in the Abilene Tournament Friday and Saturday, giving the Hereford players a chance to compete against players from the southern half of Region 1-4A.

Hereford was to play two dual matches this week, but they were cancelled so the team could play in the Abilene tournament.

Girls' track squad is 3rd in Lubbock

Hereford's girls' track team placed third in Saturday's Lubbock Invitational. Hereford's 90 points trailed only winner Tascosa (153) and Clovis, N.M. (102).

"The girls competed really well," coach Martha Emerson said. "We're showing improvement and I'm pleased with our progress in most areas. We still have some events that are weak."

Only one Hereford girl won an event, as Krista West had a personal best 25.5 seconds in the 200-meter dash.

Three Hereford individuals picked up second-place medals: Brandy Dunn (15-7 1/2) in the long jump; April Roddy (106-7) in the discus; and Jeannie Barrientez (47.87) in the 300 hurdles.

In addition, Hereford finished second in two relays, as the 800 and the 1,600 teams ran their best races of the year. The 800 team of West, Dunn, Robin Chandler and Deanna McCracken ran in 1:51.4, and the 1,600 team of Dunn, West, Barrientez and Angie Jowell ran in 4:18.5.

Boys' track team gets experience

The Hereford boys' track team ran in the big San Angelo Relays Friday and Saturday and came away with some valuable experience, if not many points.

Hereford got 24 points to finish 10th in the 14-team 4A division, coach Ron Young said.

"It was a very tough track meet," Young said. "In every race that was run, there was someone in the top five in the state."

Young added that most of the teams in Region 1-4A were there.

Hereford got more than half its points in the shot put event, thanks to Steven Blea's win and James Hamer's fourth-place finish. Blea tossed the shot 53 feet and 1/2 inch, while Hamer's effort was 48-3/4.

Brandon Gearn finished third in the 200-meter dash with a time of 22.7 seconds. Gearn also made the finals of the 100--finishing seventh in 11.65--and he joined with Shawn Fogo, Michael Ramirez and Quincy

PD outslugs Herd, 21-13

By JAY PEDEN
 Sports Editor

With a strong wind gusting out to left field, it would have been wrong to expect a 2-1 baseball game, but 21-13 is a score that is usually seen only in the fall.

But that was the score Saturday at Whiteface (Baseball) Field, as Palo Duro outslugged Hereford and came from behind to win a wild one.

The Herd, now 5-10, opens

District 1-4A play by hosting Dumas (11-4) at 4:30 today.

There is a phrase that can be used both in football and in baseball: "going deep." It certainly applied in Saturday's baseball game. Hereford second baseman Ralph Holguin pulled a ball down the left field line and onto LaPlata Drive in the third inning. It was the Herd's first home

Golf associations start new season

The men's and ladies' golf associations teamed up for the first tournament of the year Saturday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

The winning fivesome, with a score of 62, consisted of Blair Rogers, Mel Charest, Dorothy Charest, Rhea Scott and Meredith Ireland.

The quintet of Jerry Stevens, Scott Taylor, Sinky Scott, Mary Shelton and Teresa Albracht took second place with a score of 65.

The Spring Match-Play Tournament starts April 10 at Pitman, said club pro Dave Kaesheimer.

The tournament is open to all players and flighted by handicap. Entry fee is $40. To enter or to get more information, call the pro shop at 364-2782.

Lady Raiders to face Vandy in Final Four

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas Tech has more to worry about in Saturday's women's semifinal than Vanderbilt's 6-10 post Heidi Gillingham, says Lady Raiders coach Marsha Sharp.

Gillingham averages 14.3 points and 7.2 rebounds per game. But four other Vanderbilt players also are averaging doubles-figure scoring this season.

"If you make the mistake of concentrating everything around her (Gillingham), you can find yourself in a bind real quick," Sharp said Monday. "They have some quality basketball players who do a lot of great things around her."

Texas Tech (29-3) advanced to Saturday's Final Four game against No. 1 Vanderbilt in Atlanta by routing Colorado 79-54 and Southern California 87-67 last weekend.

But obstacles still in Texas Tech's path include Vanderbilt hot shooters Julie Powell (12.7), Shelley Jarrard (11.6) and Misty Lamb (10.3).

Vanderbilt and Iowa and Ohio State, who will play in Saturday's second game, also are making first-ever Final Four appearances.

"I think the fact that no one has been there before really helps us," Sharp said. "If you have a lot of experience on this level it really helps you. You understand what is going to happen to you next."

"There are four great teams in Atlanta, but our players say we're not finished yet."

Texas Tech, which has won 17 consecutive games, was led by 99 points in three NCAA tournament games by Sheryl Swoopes. Swoopes, the West Region MVP, leads Tech with 27.4 points per game.

Krista Kirkland's 12.8 points per game and Cynthia Clinger's 11 helped earn them spots on the all-West Region team.

"Last weekend was the most incredible experience that I've ever had in coaching," Sharp said. "They (the Lady Raiders) did such a great job and performed above expectations. I've said forever that they're overachievers."

Tech's success this season opens a new chapter in the school's basketball history. The previous best performance by a Tech squad - men's or women's - came last season when the Lady Raiders advanced to the Sweet 16 before losing to eventual national champion Stanford.

Their rise also puts the Southwest Conference back in the national spotlight. An SWC team had not been in the women's Final Four since Texas in 1987.

BASEBALL

run in several years at its home field.

Several other players on both teams came close to hitting homers Saturday; there were three ground rule doubles which bounced over the fence after the first hop. In addition, three triples were hit.

The Herd got most of its slugging done in the early innings. Hereford scored two runs in the first inning, four in the second and four in the third, but Palo Duro stayed up with one in the first, two in the second and three in the third. The lead changed hands in every half-inning.

Palo Duro took the lead for good with six runs in the fourth. The Dons got the help of four hits, two walks, one Hereford error and the shiny side of a controversial call.

With one out and PD runners on first and second, Mari Rivas hit a sharp grounder to shortstop Stacey Sanders, who threw to third baseman Tab Hathaway. Hathaway appeared to be straddling the base, and may or may not have touched it, but he appeared to tag the runner on the thigh well before the runner touched the bag. The umpire ruled the runner safe.

The next batter hit a high pop-up which pitcher Ruben Ramos caught for the second out. After that, he had to face six more batters before getting an out.

First, a soft pop fell behind the mound just out of Ramos' reach, and one run scored. (To be fair, Ramos had to run across the mound while looking up, had to deal with the wind, and had to try an over-the-shoulder catch. Try it sometime.)

Next, Terrance Davis cleared the loaded bases with a triple to left. After a walk, Davis scored on an error by Sanders. The sixth run scored on Isaac Maes' bloop double, giving the Dons a 12-10 lead.

Hereford coach T.R. Sartor declined to comment on the call or on its effect on the game.

Hereford could only answer the PD outburst with one run in the bottom of the fourth, when Russ Watts doubled and Chris Brummett singled him in. Hereford didn't score again until the seventh, when a two-run rally fell much too short.

BOYS' TRACK

Curtis to finish sixth in the 400-meter relay in 43.81.

The boys' junior varsity team went to Muleshoe for a meet Saturday and ended up finishing fourth with 76 points.

"The kids competed well and got after it," coach Joe Cabezucla said. "We asked Josh Pena to something tough: to run the mile relay after he just got through running the mile, and he did a good job."

He finished third in the 1,600 run (1,600 meters is roughly equal to a mile) then helped Jacob Moreno, Freddie Valdez and Todd Radford finish fourth in the 1,600 relay. Pena also finished third in the 800 run.

GIRLS' TRACK

Hereford picked up third-place finishes in the long jump (Jowell, 15-1) and in the 3,200 run (Ricka Williams, 14:02). Jowell also finished fourth in the 300 hurdles in 51.9.

Cady Auckerman finished fifth in both the 1,600 run (6:29) and the 3,200 run (14:13).

Tonya Castillo placed sixth in the discus with a toss of 97-5. The 400-meter team finished sixth in 54.4. Those runners were Jowell, Dunn, McCracken and Crystal Kelley.

The junior varsity team finished fifth with 69 points and Hereford dominated the JV shot put event: Tarabeth Holmes won, Clarissa Ramirez was second, and Jenny

"Our bats kept us in it early, then they slowed our bats down and we didn't do the rest of it," Sartor said. "It seemed like the ones that were falling in early quit falling. That center fielder (Davis) caught some that were hit hard. He was playing with his back to the telephone pole."

Palo Duro scored a single run in the fifth to make its lead 13-11, then came up with seven in the sixth innings. They got six hits--including two ground-rule doubles--off three Hereford pitchers. Andrew Tijerina relieved Ramos, the starter, and Jake Head relieved Tijerina. Two of Hereford's top pitchers were unavailable because Ray Hastings was out of town and Sammy Casarez had pitched seven innings in beating Levelland on Friday, the day before.

Hereford compiled some big offensive numbers, totalling 16 hits in 35 at bats (an average of .457). Holguin went 3-for-5, scored three runs and drove in two. Andrew Tijerina went 3-for-4 with a run and an RBI. Richard Sanderson, Jerry Rincon and Chris Brummett each had two hits and drove in a run. Sanderson also scored three runs, while Ruben Ramos drove in three runs.

Some of Palo Duro's numbers were even bigger. Leadoff hitter Isaac Maes went 5-for-6, and Chris Fisher went 4-for-5. Larry Hood went 2-for-2 with three walks, three runs and three RBI. Terrance Davis drove home four runs on two hits. Fisher, Davis and Hood were the Nos. six, seven and eight men in the Don batting order, respectively.

Palo Duro had 19 hits in 43 at bats, a .442 average.

"We just didn't play very well," Sartor said. "That happens sometimes in baseball."

Hereford's junior varsity split a doubleheader Saturday in Friona, dropping the first one 5-3 but coming back to take the second game 12-9.

Hereford's Wade McPherson knocked home runs in both games: a two-run shot in the opener and a three-run job in the nightcap.

The JV's doubleheader in Canyon Monday was cancelled because of rain.

Hereford won one event when Marquise Brown took the 100-meter dash finals in 11.44 (he ran an 11.13 in the pre-lims). Brown also finished second in the 200 and third in the triple jump, and he helped Valdez, Radford and Moreno finish fourth in the 400 relay.

Hereford got several fourth-place finishes: T.J. Robbins in the 110 hurdles; Lee Mungia in the 1,600 and the 3,200; Tracy Montano in the high jump; and Robert Jimenez in the shot.

Hereford got a couple of fifth-place finishes: Moreno in the 400 dash and Bobby Suarez in the 800 run. Michael High finished sixth in the 800, and Radford finished sixth in the 300 hurdles.

Parker was third.

Hereford also got third-place finishes from Melissa Shipp in the high jump and from the 1,600 relay team of Shipp, Beverly Celaya, Vanessa Garcia and Mindy A. Salazar.

There were several fourth-place finishes: Nora Herrera in the 3,200 run; Linda Martinez in the 800; Shipp in the 400; and Mindy A. Salazar in the 100 and the 200.

Vanessa Garcia fifth in the 100 and the 200, right behind Salazar, while Celaya was sixth in the 100.

Monica DonJuan got fifth place in the 100 hurdles, and Michelle Garza finished sixth in the 3,200 run.

Williams scoffs at coaching matchup

By DOUG TUCKER

AP Sports Writer
LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) - Roy Williams made a mighty effort to nip it in the bud, and failed completely.

The youthful protege coming back to confront his revered old mentor in basketball's showcase event is simply too compelling to ignore. Who cares if it happened before?

"I'm going to try to put to rest as much as I can this 'Roy Williams-against-Dean Smith' junk," the Kansas coach told a media gathering Monday. "I hope all you guys are intelligent enough to think of something else to write about. You wrote about it so much two years ago, surely you can think of something else to write about now."

For the second time in three years, however, it's Kansas vs. North Carolina in the first NCAA semifinal, the young lion who studied at the feet of the master vs. the wily old master himself.

It proved a fascinating sideshow to the 1991 semifinal in Indianapolis, where Williams' Jayhawks beat the Tar Heels by six points in a game that, in the minds of both coaches, got unfairly obscured by an unnecessary event.

Smith drew a second technical foul in the final minute after the outcome had been decided in Kansas' favor and was forced to make an undignified exit from the game. As he left, however, he walked down the Kansas bench and shook every player's hand.

"I remember how disappointed I was at what happened to coach Smith, the feeling it was going to take away from what our kids had accomplished, that's what I remember most," said Williams, who spent 10 years as a North Carolina assistant before Kansas took Smith's advice and made him Jayhawks boss in 1988.

Smith, who played for the Jayhawks under Phog Allen and maintains many ties to the school, also had a hand in getting Larry Brown, a former North Carolina player, the Kansas job in 1983.

"He was so pleased for me and Kansas. I know that if North Carolina had to lose a game, he would rather it be to Roy Williams or (former North Carolina assistant and now Vanderbilt coach) Eddie Fogler."

Williams disliked all the hoopla around that 1991 reunion with his old boss, and seems to dislike it now even more.

"I suppose the only time in 1991 when I let my emotions sort of get away from me was when coach Smith drew that second technical," he said. "The man didn't deserve that."

"But I guarantee you, it won't be Roy Williams against Dean Smith in New Orleans, just like it wasn't Roy Williams against Dean Smith two years ago. It will be the Kansas players against the North Carolina players, which is fortunate for us, because I was never a very good player."

The Jayhawks and Tar Heels have not met since 1991, although Williams works hard to stay close to his old boss.

"I wouldn't be sitting in this chair without Dean Smith," Williams said.

WHEN YOU HAVE SOMETHING TO SELL, NEWSPAPER SELLS IT BEST.

No matter what it is you're selling, newspaper can sell it best. You can show it. Describe it. Explain it. Compare it. Offer a coupon for it. And cover your entire marketplace with it. All in one day. And for a lot less than radio and TV.

And the unique thing about newspaper is that it adds credibility to your message. People believe it when they read it in the paper. Maybe that's why retailers use newspaper more than any other medium?

Newspaper. It delivers.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 21-year-old professional working woman and the mother of a 2-month-old baby boy. The father of my child is a 20-year-old unemployed college student.

"Roy" and I are living together, and I pay all the bills because he is having trouble finding a job. He has a 5-year-old son from a previous relationship and says as soon as he finds work he would like his son to move in with us.

Ann, I'm not in favor of this plan. The problem is that I don't know how to tell Roy that I'm not ready to be a mother to someone else's child. His little boy is poorly behaved, does not speak to me when he comes here to spend the day and ignores any suggestions I make for us to have fun.

How can I tell my boyfriend that I don't want his son to move in without creating a serious rift between us?--Sara in Texas

DEAR SARA: If my arithmetic is correct, this 20-year-old unemployed college student had a son when he was 15. Now he wants to move that child into your home where there is a second son born out of wedlock. I also notice that he can't find a job and you are paying all the bills. This does not look like a stable relationship to me, but you didn't ask for my opinion, so I won't pursue the issue.

If you are determined to build a permanent relationship with Roy, you are going to have to get along with his other son and agree to let the child live with you. This is going to demand a lot of patience and maturity. Good luck, dear woman, you are going to need a ton of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a checker at a grocery store who is plenty fed up with people who misuse food stamps.

A woman came in today and bought a big bag of shrimp for $32.12. She paid for this luxury item with food stamps. Another woman purchased a fancy birthday cake for $17. A man bought a 10-cent lemon (again with food stamps) and put the remaining 90 cents in his pocket.

Most of these people are able to work, but they would rather get a free handout from the government. Ann, our cities could use a lot of cleaning up, and there's trash on the roads and highways. Why can't these able-bodied loafers do this work and at the end of the day get paid in food stamps?

I know there are some disabled people who cannot work. I am not talking about them. Can't something be done about the freeloaders who are costing us taxpayers millions? I am--Upset in Texas

DEAR TEXAS: I've received many letters such as yours, but usually they come not from the checkout people but from customers in the checkout line who become upset when they see people buying luxury items with food stamps.

Of course there are abuses, but I can tell you that the vast majority of food stamp recipients would be in dire straits without this assistance.

I also agree that all able-bodied people should be put to work cleaning up the streets, parks, alleys and wherever trash is found. They should, however, be paid in money, projects like this are already in place. We have the Job Corps about which you have read in this space, as well as President Clinton's proposals for government service.

Gem of the Day: Nothing makes it easier to resist temptation than a proper upbringing, a sound set of values and witnesses.

Is life passing you by? Want to improve your social skills? Write for Ann Landers' new booklet "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Students of the Six Weeks

St. Anthony's School has announced its Students of the Six Weeks for the fourth six weeks. Honored are, from left, Savannah Wright, Timothy Schlabs, Laura Ontiveras and Daniel Carnahan.

NEW YORK (AP) - Patti Lupone, Carol Channing and other bright lights of Broadway kicked off a yearlong celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Great White Way. "Celebrate Broadway: 100 Years in Times Square" will include free public concerts and performances, exhibitions of Broadway memorabilia, a film festival, education programs and TV specials. The centennial will also be the theme of the 1993 Tony Awards.

Lupone, the star of "Evita," and Channing, who made "Hello, Dolly!" famous, joined other legendary performers on stage at the Shubert Theatre to announce the celebration Wednesday.

"Broadway has given us our favorite songs, our greatest dance and drama, and our biggest stars," said Harvey Sabinson, executive director of the League of American Theatres and Producers. Theaters operated in lower Manhattan in the early 18th century, moving uptown to Union Square and the Bowery by the mid-19th century, and then, in 1893, to Times Square.

Comprehensive coverage of local news, social events, sports and happenings in Deaf Smith County is yours ONLY in The Hereford Brand. Good news and good advertising go together. Large ads or small ads pay off in The Brand!

Driving excuses discussed

Edith Higgins read an article on driving excuses when members of the North Hereford Extension Club met recently at the Hereford Senior Citizens Center.

Edna Schulte gave a report on her trip to the Bahamas and members discussed the district meeting in Canyon.

Roll call was answered with "what do I do to help senior citizens?"

Schulte served as hostess to Edith Higgins, Evelyn Crawford, Marcella Hoffman and Martha Lueb.

The first Boy Scout rally was held in England in 1909.

State Capital HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas Comptroller John Sharp startled a Congressional committee last week with this assertion: If Texas can write a plan in four months to streamline its government, Uncle Sam can do the same in six.

Sharp, testifying before the House Committee on Government Operations, said the Texas Performance Review identified 1,500 ways to cut $8.7 billion from the state budget.

"When we were told to do ours in four months, we thought they were crazy," Sharp said. "At the end of four months, we came to the conclusion that we couldn't have done any better if we had two years."

The committee chairman, Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., said six months puts us on a very fast track. "Is Gov. Richards willing to loan you to the federal government for the next five to six months?" Conyers asked.

School Finance Plan Hit

Five GOP House members advised voters to reject a school finance amendment on the May 1 ballot because it would trigger a $1 billion property tax increase statewide.

But supporters of the amendment said the lawmakers are trying to mislead the voters. And the legislators, under the banner of House Members for Good Government, conceded that many school districts would raise taxes anyway unless the Legislature approves massive state spending on public education.

In an analysis released last week, the House group indicated that Proposition 1 would cause 970 of Texas' 1,048 school districts to raise property taxes if they want to continue current spending levels.

Krueger Nixes Clinton Plan

Sen. Bob Krueger was one of only two Senate Democrats who broke ranks last week and voted against Clinton's economic plan.

Krueger, who faces a May 1 special election to hold onto the seat he was appointed to in January, said the vote was consistent with his opposition to new taxes without the elimination of wasteful spending.

"I'm being consistent with what I have said all along, which is I would not support any tax increase until the government was efficient in using the resources it has now," he said.

Krueger also said he voted against the economic package because it contains a broad-based energy tax that he said would hit Texas harder than other states.

GOP Candidates Critical

Texas Republicans immediately denounced Krueger's vote.

"Joe Barton breathing down his neck in the Senate race is what finally got him to vote this way," said Barton, a GOP congressman from Ennis, who is running against Krueger.

David Beckwith, a campaign spokesman for State Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison, said Krueger's vote was proof that he's trying to straddle the fence.

"Not only did Krueger oppose the White House plan, he's also against the GOP substitute, which would have stripped taxes out of it and froze spending," Beckwith said.

But one GOP candidate, U.S. Rep. Jack Fields, declined to criticize Krueger's vote.

"That's a correct vote. I can't fault him for that," Fields said. "I think that's a proper vote for Texas."

Perot-sponsored session brings Senate hopefuls to the public

AUSTIN (AP) - Ross Perot's vision of voters getting an unfiltered view of candidates has become a reality as 20 Senate hopefuls auditioned with five minute speeches for the May 1 special election.

Perot, who waged an independent campaign for president last year, told a crowd of about 1,000 at the Bass Concert Hall on the University of Texas-Austin campus Monday night, "Be sure to vote and vote your conscience."

Here's what the candidates said:

- Roger Henson, an engineer from Garland, promised to clean up government with "No perks, no PACs, no pork."
- Don Richardson, a retired fighter pilot from Houston, said he would cut the operating budgets of congressional offices.
- James Vallaster, clad in overalls, called himself a "blatant religious right wing candidate," and described an abortion, causing one person to stand up and yell, "Keep your religion in your own damn church."
- Maco Stewart, a former state legislator from Houston, said after he received a heart transplant his doctors told him he could expect to live eight years. "Automatic term limitation," Stewart quipped.
- Richard Fisher, a policy advisor to Perot, said he would work to stop political action committee contributions, and warned of politicians who have jumped on the bandwagon of "United We Stand America." Perot's government watchdog group.
- Jim Russell, an East Texas evangelist, said the country had been taken over by liberal, secular humanists.

- Charles Ben Howell, a judge from Dallas, said he was robbed at gunpoint last week, and said fighting crime would be one of his top priorities.
- Lou Zaeske of Bryan called for making English the official language of the nation, and said our border with Mexico was out of control.
- U.S. Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, said he has led the fight against allowing homosexuals in the military, and is opposed to the proposed share-the-wealth school finance plan also on the May 1 ballot.
- Herbert Spiro, a former ambassador, said his notation in "Who's Who of America" was 16 lines longer than the combined entries of interim U.S. Sen. Bob Krueger, U.S. Rep. Jack Fields, Texas Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison, and Barton.
- Jose Angel Gutierrez, founder of La Raza Unida party, said he wants to be a senator like former Sen. Ralph Yarborough.
- Tom Spink, an insurance man from Irving, called for lower attorney fees.
- Clymer Wright said he opposed the superconducting super collider project. "It's pork. Plain and simple," he said.
- Lottie Bolling Hancock, a 76-year-old retired teacher, said citizens need to take back control of the government and bring it in line with the Constitution.
- U.S. Rep. Jack Fields, R-Humble, said he has maintained his residence in Texas to keep close to his constituents, and would continue to do the same if elected to the Senate.

- Rick Draheim, a Libertarian, said he could balance the budget in one year by abolishing many government agencies. He also called for the legalization of currently illegal drugs.
- Kay Bailey Hutchison, state treasurer, said eliminating the deficit would be her top priority. She said she opposed increasing taxes, but would cut spending instead.
- Louis Davis said he supported gay rights and abortion rights, and opposed the death penalty.
- Gene Kelley, an attorney from Universal City, said he would win the campaign without spending more than $5,000.
- Stephen Hopkins of Burnet, told the audience to leave if they didn't want to hear "the real truth" about abortion. About half the crowd left.

NEW YORK (AP) - Dana Delany says she went sky diving to help her get over a breakup with her beau, but it didn't work out as planned.

Delany, who played a nurse on "China Beach," said she tried parachuting after her recent split with the series' creator, John Sacret Young.

She soon found herself strapped to an instructor who demanded a midair kiss.

"I thought, this is perfect. I've broken up with a guy and I'm taking this big symbolic leap and I've got a man strapped to my back who's sexually harassing me," she told Details magazine.

Summer camp applications available

Hereford Camp Fire Council is accepting applications for youths to attend Camp Makuiwa scheduled June 13-19 near Taos, N.M.

The camp is open to all school-age children, first through 12th grades. Cost is $200 for Camp Fire members and $210 for non-members.

Camp activities will include nature study, Indian lore, swimming, canoeing, rafting, handmade arts and crafts, sports and games, dance, archery, fishing, horseback riding, and ropesphere.

A council spokesperson said, "If people want to go to the camp, they must register by May 1 with a deposit of $185."

For additional information, call the council at 364-0395. Forms are available at the Camp Fire office or from any Camp Fire member.

Creating birthday traditions

March is a birthday month in our family. When the month blows in, it always catches me off guard as I typically scramble to make last-minute plans for my daughter's birthday, which arrives on the third. But thank goodness for traditions. Even if we're behind schedule on the party details, we have some predictable ways to celebrate, no matter what. Here are some fun ways to make the birthday person feel special from year to year:

-Serve the person breakfast in bed featuring a favorite cereal, muffin, fruit and juice. Sing a birthday song as you enter the bedroom and present a special gift to start the day.

-Hang a birthday pennant by your front door for friends and neighbors to see. To make the pennant, cut out a piece of brightly colored felt material (use a sports pennant for a pattern, if you wish). Write the name of the birthday person on the felt with fabric paint and decorate it with glitter and ribbons. With scissors, make four 3/4-inch slits on the wide side of the pennant, 1/2 inch from the edge. Weave a 1/2-inch wooden dowel (about 36 inches long) through the slits. Glue the felt to the dowel to hold it in place.

-At dinner time, burn a special birthday candle. To make the candle, glue lengths of metallic cording around the circumference of a purchased white pillar candle, leaving a 1/2-inch space between each length. At the top space on the candle, paint the age of the person with acrylic paints. For example, for a first birthday, you would paint a "1." Continue down the spaces and paint numbers in ascending order: 2, 3, 4, etc. Decorate the candle with glitter, shiny stars, etc.

Burn the candle 1/2 inch down each year, remove the cording as necessary. (Note: Never leave children unsupervised around burning candles.)

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Britain's Prince Philip says artists, performers and preachers all can help "convey a sense of anxiety" about the threatened planet.

"Every art form - painting, sculpture, poetry, drama, dance, music - and every form of religious expression - worship, prayer, ritual, preaching, monastic life or mysticism - can illustrate some aspect of the damage humanity is doing to nature," the husband of Queen Elizabeth II told the Society of the Four Arts during a visit to Florida on Wednesday.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am concerned about my husband's high blood pressure. He is 36 years old, 5 feet 5 inches, and weighs 150 pounds. He is a carpenter. About four months ago, he wasn't feeling well and the doctor found his blood pressure was 180/112. He started him on Prinivil. Even on a large dose, his pressure was still 179/94. Then the doctor put him on Adalat, but his pressure is still high and he feels terrible. He has a headache almost constantly. After eating he gets sick at his stomach, and when he comes home from work, he is a grayish-white color.

Is there a specialist he should see? His father died of malignant high blood pressure at the age of 47. He has brothers and sisters with high blood pressure, but theirs seems to be more easily regulated.

DEAR READER: His doctor may wish to refer him to a cardiologist or, if available in your area, a hypertension clinic. He may need a more complete evaluation of his kidney function. High blood pressure often occurs in families. A history of malignant hypertension in a parent adds to the need to control his pressure. This is a form of rapidly increasing blood pressure that is particularly difficult to control and is more serious than the more common types of high blood pressure.

Most people with high blood pressure do not have symptoms from it until it causes a complication such as congestive heart failure, a heart attack or a stroke. That is why it is important for everyone to have his blood pressure checked from time to time, to detect if there is an increased pressure.

For more information, I am sending you Special Report 72, Controlling Your Blood Pressure. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/72, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077. Everyone should take measures to keep their blood pressure on the low side of normal. The higher your pressure, the greater your risk of heart attacks and strokes. High blood pressure is more likely to cause a stroke than a high cholesterol level.

There are many different medicines and combinations of medicines that can now be used. Sometimes it requires trying several different medicines to find the one that works best when needed. But don't overlook the importance of weight control, limiting salt intake and exercise when it is possible.

While a person should not engage in strenuous exercise if his blood pressure or medical condition contraindicates it, there is good evidence that for many people a regular, sensible exercise program will significantly lower blood pressure. Even if your usual pressure is 130/85, sensible exercise that lowers it to 110/75 is usually beneficial in preventing heart attacks and strokes.

Usually there are two factors that have the biggest effect on your blood pressure: the amount of blood your heart pumps into the arteries and whether the small arteries are constricted or opened. Exercise helps to open the small arteries. Constriction of these arteries is what usually causes a higher blood pressure level. However, exercise is not the answer to complicated cases, such as malignant hypertension.

Individuals with mild hypertension who exercise and control their weight can often get off medicines even for quite some time or may be able to significantly reduce the amount of medicine they may need to control their blood pressure.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 42-year-old woman, and when I was a teenager, if I got a sinus cold and got stuffed up, I used nose drops for relief. This went on for years, and it seemed the more I used them the worse the symptoms got. I would first get relief and then just the opposite effect — complete blockage of the sinuses.

Eventually the blockage got so bad I had to sit up in bed to sleep and still couldn't breathe. I ended up going to an allergist who took X-rays and tests and said I was not allergic to a thing. All I had to do was get off those nose drops. He told me to use sinus tablets instead.

The only time I get any blocking now is when I get a sinus cold. The allergist also told me I have narrow sinus passages which is part of my problem. He said nose drops damaged my sinuses or burned them. He also said I have a bone spur in there which makes things worse. Is there anything I can do to help my sinuses? Will the bone spur cause trouble?

I learned a very good lesson about nose drops, so pass it on to your readers.

DEAR READER: That is a good example of the danger of many nose drops. They contain substances that constrict the blood vessels in the lining of your nose and sinuses. That stops the secretions and opens the passages. But after the effect wears off, these same blood vessels dilate, being more open than before you used the nose drops. That causes fluid to seep out into the tissues resulting in swelling which blocks the openings.

This is a well-known rebound effect. People who use nose drops of this type often get hooked as you did. They get immediate relief, then a rebound reaction and have to take still more nose drops.

Often you can substitute a nasal steroid spray while getting off the effects of nose drops. These include Nasalide, Beconase, Vancenase and Nasonex, which can be prescribed if needed.

You will want to know more about sinus problems, so I'm sending you a free copy of Special Report 137, Sinusitis, Dry Nose, Postnasal Drip. Others who want this report can send $3 with a long, stamped (52 cents), self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/137, P.O. Box 5537, Riverton, NJ 08077.

If you do have bony blockage of the openings of the sinuses that is significant, an ear, nose and throat specialist may be able to remove it and improve your sinus drainage.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Is there any way of changing the way you sweat? I drink plenty of water, about a gallon a day. I get very red in the face and just do not sweat much. I am a fairly active 43-year-old female, weight 150 pounds and am 5 feet 6 inches. I can run an 11-minute mile, but I do not sweat much. I try to exercise about an hour a day. I am on Tenormin to control blood pressure.

DEAR READER: I would like to know what you mean by not sweating much. Some people do not sweat at all. This can be dangerous, because sweating is an important mechanism in preventing an excess rise in body temperature. These people are apt to have a heatstroke with exercise, since exercise generates heat.

In these cases, there is usually a problem in the nerve fibers that supply the sweat glands. You may need to be studied for this problem by a neurologist. The face does get very red in this condition, because there is an effort to increase circulation to eliminate body heat. But unless the sweat glands are active, that doesn't help.

DEAR DR. LAMB: What are the dangers of taking diuretics? How long is too long so you can't get off them? Mother takes Bumex, and I take triamterene.

DEAR READER: Diuretics are remarkably safe when used properly, and they are widely used without much trouble. The main concern is whether they cause you to lose too much potassium, as can occur with Bumex (bumetanide), or in the case of triamterene (Dyrenium), if they cause you to retain too much potassium. Caution is also advised when adding a second medication such as the ACE inhibitors to control blood pressure to avoid too much of a drop in blood pressure.

High potassium levels can be fatal, which is why one should not consume lots of potassium-rich foods while taking Dyrenium. And it is important to have your potassium level checked regularly. Also, it is not wise to stop it abruptly because there may be a sudden drop in potassium if you do. It is particularly tricky in people with diabetes and should not be used in the presence of renal disease. It may also increase blood glucose levels.

Potassium supplements or consuming foods high in potassium may be needed when taking Bumex. A low potassium level can trigger heart irregularities. Too much will also cause dehydration. Like most medications, both can have other less common effects. But neither are addicting and both can be discontinued if necessary, with the precaution of not stopping Dyrenium suddenly.

Young-at-heart seniors enjoy camping lifestyle

Think camping is just for the young? Think again. Recreation vehicle (RV) camping and touring is a favorite activity for anyone who's young at heart, says the Go Camping America Committee. In fact, nearly half of the nation's 8.5 million RVs are owned by mature Americans aged 55 and up. Many opt to go beyond vacationing and take up residence for the winter or longer in Sunbelt RV parks.

While not everyone can backpack or tent-camp due to age or physical restrictions, anyone can enjoy outdoor living with an RV. In an RV, seniors are surrounded by accessible home comforts, because units are equipped with living, dining, sleeping and bathroom facilities.

Modern kitchens complete with refrigerators and freezers enable senior RVers to keep foods on hand for special diets. On-board closets and storage space eliminate the need to pack, unpack and carry heavy suitcases in and out of hotels. In RVs, seniors can vacation or enjoy extended retirement living more economically by avoiding high priced hotels and restaurants. The average campground charges only one-fourth the price of most hotels.

Whether for frequent get-aways or a "snowbird's" annual migration to warmer winter climates, mature Americans often choose RV parks with expanded facilities that concentrate on the senior traveler. Resort-like campgrounds provide golf, tennis, shuffleboard and other group activities. Many have swimming pools, saunas and whirlpools for relaxation.

One reason for the popularity of the RV lifestyle among seniors is the sense of community it fosters. Senior RVers share common interests with a vast network of friends. Through camping clubs, seniors meet socially at conventions, rallies and campgrounds. Many offer group excursions to make travel more fun and secure. The Good Sam Club, National Campers and Hikers Association, Family Motor Coach Association and Loners on Wheels are among the national camping clubs popular with retirees.

Senior RVers often use their rig as a guest house when traveling to visit family and friends. Not only does it provide comfortable travel and lodging while enroute, it provides the privacy to which they are accustomed during their visit.

A wise man does not try to hurry history.
