

Emergency Session Called

Wartes Appointed Acting Superintendent

BY BOBBY TEMPLETON
Brand News Editor

Larry Wartes, assistant superintendent, was named the acting superintendent of the Hereford Independent School District during an emergency session of the School Board of Trustees early this morning.

The trustees, who had been meeting in called executive session to interview a prospect for the permanent superintendent's job, opened the meeting to the public at 9:50 a.m. to approve the selection of Wartes. He has been an administrator in the central school office for the past five years. He was a head coach and athletic administrator from 1967-70.

HIS PRIME DUTIES as assistant superintendent have been with transportation, the school district cafeteria system, maintenance, construction and other business functions of the district.

Meeting in the school administration building, the trustees unanimously approved a motion by Clark Andrews, trustee, that Wartes be appointed as acting superintendent. It was seconded by Jim Arney, trustee.

Jim Conkwright, president of the school board, said that the trustees appreciated the Wartes' acceptance of the job. "We know that the staff and personnel in the district will cooperate with Wartes in his job," he said. "The school system has been running smoothly and should continue so."

The board acted on the motion following wide spread concern among the district officials for leadership, the board president said. "Numerous questions have been asked," he said about the board's previous intention to operate without a temporary superintendent until a new one was picked.

ORIGINALLY, THE BOARD felt like the school administration could operate without appointing anyone temporarily, but such was not the case. Coordination was needed within the system.

"We feel like an acting superintendent is needed to expedite some matters such as the starting of school," Conkwright said.

The board called the emergency open session at 7 a.m. today, when the board convened in a closed meeting to discuss superintendent applications and interview a prospect. Others have been interviewed.

Thursday, Conkwright reported that the selection had been narrowed down to five persons based on the number of applications submitted so far. About 30 applications have been filed with the

Supreme Court Delays 3-State Death Order

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Supreme Court justice is delaying an order that would have allowed three states to begin executing death row convicts, a move that could also delay executions of more than 600 persons across the country.

Justice Lewis F. Powell issued an order Thursday staying the imposition of death sentences in Georgia, Florida and Texas until the Supreme Court, which is now in recess, can consider a rehearing of the cases of three men who sought the delay.

The high court does not meet again until Oct. 4.

While Powell's stay deals only with the cases of three men in the three states, court spokesmen said it is expected that all states will delay any planned executions until the cases are decided. Davie E. Kendall of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund said it was expected that state courts would block executions in their states, at least through September, because of the Powell stay.

A survey earlier this month by The Associated Press showed 630 persons on death rows across the nation.

Powell's order stays the effect of a Supreme Court decision July 2 in which all three states were told that their capital punishment laws are constitutional. In the same decision, the court struck down mandatory death penalties in North Carolina and Louisiana.

The justice acted on requests from the NAACP fund and lawyers for the defendants in the three states.

Powell had voted with the 7 to 2 majority in upholding the Georgia, Florida and Texas capital punishment laws.

Lady, the Hereford Fire Department's Dalmatian, is shown as she appeared in The Brand about a year ago, when she was dwarfed by the fire axe in the background. The pup has done a lot of growing up in a year's time though, and is now equal in stature to the pieces of firefighting equipment she perches next to. Something else has grown during that year's time too, the affection shared between Hereford's volunteer firemen and their own spotted Lady friend. (Photos By Jim Steiert)

City Firemen Will Attend School

Eleven Hereford firemen will depart the city tomorrow (Saturday) to attend the annual Firemen's Training School at Texas A&M University.

FIREFIGHTERS from 25 states and nine countries attended last year's school, and the representation of firemen is expected to be just as widespread again this year.

The school will be conducted July 26-30. During the week of special sessions, firemen will receive instruction in various phases of firefighting, heavy rescue, pump operation and maintenance and numerous other areas.

Those attending the school will only receive credit for their courses if they pass a test to be administered at the completion of the 30 hours of training.

J.W. DICKERSON of Hereford will serve as one of the instructors for the school, and will teach handling of ladders.

In addition to Dickerson, others from Hereford who will be attending the school include City Fire Marshal Jay Spain and firemen Ruben McGilvary, Chap Eades, Paul Hamilton, Tim Homer, John Gilliland, Jerry Walls, Mike Major, Ronnie Bell and Dale Morgan.

'Selfrestraint' In Planting Needed

Low Prices, Controls Face Wheat Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - A buildup in U.S. wheat reserves because of this year's near-record harvest will threaten producers with tumbling prices and future government controls if they fail to show more self-restraint when they plant the 1977 crop, says the National Association of Wheat Growers.

Total production of all kinds of wheat this year is estimated at 2.04 billion bushels, second only to the 1975 harvest of more than 2.1 billion, according to the Agriculture Department.

Added to what was leftover from previous crops, that means there will be far more wheat than experts say will be used domestically and exported in the 1976-77 season which began June 6.

By next June 1, when another harvest will be ready, the wheat leftover is expected to total about 922 million bushels, the most since 985 million were in the U.S. stockpile on the same date in 1972 just before a string of record export years developed.

The reserve or carryover this June 1 was 665 million bushels, up from 430 million June 1, 1975, and 339 million on June 1, 1974. Thus, the wheat stockpile is rapidly rebuilding to the levels which alarmed growers just a few years ago.

Since the big export market developed in 1972, government acreage curbs were relaxed and then abandoned to produce as much grain as they could. The open-end acreage program will remain in effect for the 1977 wheat crop, which will begin early this fall with the planting of winter wheat.

The National Association of Wheat Growers is telling its members they "must take the increased carryover projection into consideration when planning fall seedings" of winter wheat.

"Producers who like today's 'freedoms' in agriculture must be aware that these freedoms, also carry the responsibility of individual decision-making," the association said in its current newsletter. "A succession of two-billion-bushel crops and ever-increasing carryovers are a grave threat to this freedom."

One of the reasons for a prospective large buildup in wheat stockpiles a year from now is that this season's exports to decline somewhat, from nearly 1.2 billion bushels in 1975-76 to around 1.05 billion.

Beef Cattle Price Slump Deepest Yet

WASHINGTON (AP) - The current slump in beef cattle prices is the deepest since last winter when choice steers on the Omaha, Neb., market averaged $32 to $35 per 100 pounds.

A report Thursday by the Agriculture Department showed that last week, for example, the average Omahas steer price was $37.25 per hundredweight. In April, after prices had recovered from an earlier decline, they were around $44 per hundredweight.

Just a year ago, after slipping from a 1975 peak of about $55, Omaha cattle prices were still averaging nearly $52 per hundredweight, about $14 more than producers have been getting lately

Sniffer To Search Drugs In School

GREENVILLE, Tex. (AP) - The shepherd Schnaps should start sniffing in September.

Schnaps is a drug-sniffing German Shepherd that will be roaming the halls of Greenville's junior and senior high schools this fall in search of illicit drugs.

And if Hunt County commissioners give their approval, the unusual drug-detection program, initiated by a group of 80 Greenville parents, may be extended to any of the county's school districts.

The three-year-old dog was given to the Hunt County Sheriff's Department by the Dallas Police Department. Schnaps, along with Capt. W.T. Wallen of the sheriff's department, is undergoing a 17-week training course in Dallas.

"Our main goal is to remove drugs from and around our schools," said Ina Herlocker, organizer of the parent group calling itself Control of Drug Elements CODE.

"Our dog can already sniff out marijuana," she added, "and we're training it now for the rest of the drugs."

Mrs. Herlocker said Schnaps will be checking the lockers, the grounds and parking lot, where most of the drug traffic occurs.

"What we really think will happen is just the presence of the dog team will discourage students from bringing drugs to school," she said.

At a recent meeting, the Hunt County commissioners delayed endorsing the concept until more information on legal, financial and procedural problems can be obtained.

The organization, generated during a Parent-Teacher Association meeting, already has built a dog run and a dog house equipped with "very sophisticated" protection devices, she explained.

Although there is "little" money, she said when the need for food and veterinary services arises, someone "passes the hat" at a corporation meeting.

school board, two thirds of which are from the Panhandle and West Texas and the others from other parts of Texas.

HOWEVER, HE NOTED that at least three or four other applications of qualified individuals are expected after school administrators recess from a meeting in Austin.

The board has been meeting in executive sessions late each night this week. Conkwright said no other meetings are scheduled at this point although the next one is expected next week when more interviews will be held.

He prefers to have all board members present for any interviews so that all will be equally informed. All were present for this morning's meeting.

The board began searching for a new superintendent shortly after Roy Hartman, superintendent, resigned in June to accept the same job with the Grapewine School District, north of Dallas. He begins that job on Aug. 1.

Wartes will hold the acting superintendent's job from that point until a new is selected. He had no comment on the selection except to say thank you for the board's consideration.

The last date to submit applications for superintendent is Aug. 6.

Connally's Ready For VP Nomination

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) - Former Texas Gov. John B. Connally says he still isn't running for anything but indicates he might be available for the Republican vice presidential nomination under the right terms.

"I am a reluctant prospect for anything and will not be a prospect unless I can be convinced that my presence on the ticket would contribute substantially to the chances of success in the election," Connally said Thursday.

Connally also said he would have to feel that "I could make a substantial contribution after the election."

The former Democrat who became a Republican during the Nixon administration is vacationing at his ranch near Floresville southeast of San Antonio. He commented in a telephone interview.

He said he is not impressed by a survey which showed him the top choice for Vice President among Republican national convention delegates who named a candidate.

Connally noted that more than 60 per cent of the delegates surveyed by The Associated Press expressed no choice for vice president.

Connally has expressed no preference in the battle between President Ford and Ronald Reagan for the GOP ballot's top spot. And he said again Thursday he won't make any endorsement before next month's convention in Kansas City.

Reagan won all of Texas' GOP delegates in a May 1 primary.

Connally's presence on a Republican ticket is viewed favorably by some GOP observers who contend he could help the party in the South, where Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter is considered very strong.

Other GOP watchers, however, are unsure what effect Connally would have on the ticket because of his past connections with the scandal-ridden Nixon administration.

Meanwhile, Connally is preparing for a "social party" at his ranch Saturday evening. He said over 300 guests have been invited to the affair, which he described as non-political.

"It's just a bunch of friends and Texans and we are not going to have any political implications to it at all," Connally said.

House Will Call For Sikes Reprimand

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House ethics committee will release next week a report that reportedly calls for the reprimand of Rep. Robert L.F. Sikes on conflict of interest charges.

The panel voted 10 to 2 Wednesday to release its findings on the Florida Democrat, who was investigated after Common Cause, the self-styled citizens' lobby, lodged a formal complaint.

Sikes, 60, who has served in Congress since 1941, was accused of using his position as chairman of a House military construction appropriations subcommittee for personal gain.

Sources said two weeks ago when the ethics committee first considered its draft report that it recommended Sikes be reprimanded.

Reprimand is the mildest punishment the committee can recommend when it finds wrongdoing by a House member. The severest penalty is expulsion from the House.

The committee voted to release the report after voting 7 to 5 against a proposal by Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., to reconsider the report for last-minute revisions. The only delay now in releasing the report is to leave time to print it.

Common Cause charged Sikes with abusing his position on three occasions. Sikes testified before the committee that in all three instances he acted only on behalf of constituents and his district, not for personal gain.

Common Cause said Sikes helped establish a bank at the Pensacola Naval Air Station in which he later obtained stock.

It also accused him of voting on a bill that benefited Fairchild Industries, Inc., in which he held stock, and of sponsoring legislation to improve Florida land in which he had a financial interest.

Africa is the second largest of the continents. Asia is larger. Africa is about two-thirds as big as Asia.

Interest On Government Funds Urged

AUSTIN--Comptroller Bob Bullock has urged the U.S. Senate Banking Committee to approve a change in the Federal Reserve Act to permit banks to pay interest on state and local government checking accounts.

"Today and every other day there is one billion tax dollars sitting idly in state and local government checking accounts in Texas banks," Bullock said.

"That money is not working--not for the taxpayers who paid it and not for the governments that collected it."

The Comptroller estimated conservatively that the state could earn $15 million a year and Texas local governments $35 million annually if the measure is enacted.

Bullock's testimony, in favor of U.S. Senator William Proxmire's Senate Bill 3163, was presented Tuesday morning in Washington, D.C.

Small governments would benefit the most from the bill, he said.

"Texas has 217 counties and more than 1,000 towns with populations under 50,000," the Comptroller said. "In these towns and counties, finance is a one-man operation. They don't usually have the expertise to run an investment program or the extra cash to hire a professional money manager."

The result, Bullock said, is that most local government cash stays in demand accounts earning no interest.

"The Proxmire bill would squeeze out a few extra dollars and help keep another tax increase from knocking on the door," he said.

Rains Extend From Alpine to Levelland

By The Associated Press

Patches of light rain and occasionally heavy thunderstorms brought more moisture today over a wide expanse of West Texas, including some areas hit by deluges measuring up to 4 inches only the year before.

Showers moved ashore, meanwhile, along the coast from between Brownsville and Corpus Christi to Palacios. Skies were clear to partly cloudy across the rest of the state.

Thursday's downpours led to a flash flood watch for hours in South and Southwest Texas through a 100-mile-wide sector between Eagles Pass and Fort Stockton. They were heaviest south of San Angelo, with the village of Panale measuring 4 inches and Crystal City 2.57 inches.

By this morning the biggest rain belt extended east of a line from near Alpine in the far West Texas mountains to near Lubbock and Levelland on the South Plains, also running as far south as Del Rio on the Mexican border.

Forecasts promised additional moisture in the same areas, plus a few showers dotting East Texas and the coastal plains.

Thursday's top temperatures climbed as high as 96 degrees in Dallas. The range early this morning was from 80 at Galveston on the coast down to 62 at Dalhart in the Panhandle.

Explanations Wanted By Olympic Officials

By JOHN VINOUCR
Associated Press Writer

MONTREAL (AP)—The Soviet Union has pirouetted around possible disciplinary action for what appeared to be a pull-out from Olympic water polo. And international officials say "further explanations must be made" for them to investigate an accusation of an attempted Soviet fix in diving.

The world water sports governing body let the Soviet water polo team off the disciplinary hook Thursday night after it forfeited a game against Cuba. The Russians promised they would continue in a tournament they already consider lost.

The Federation Internationale de Natation Amateur FINA also discussed the report of a statement made by Tom Gompf, the U.S. diving team manager, that Soviet officials tried and failed to enlist him into a scheme to fix the Olympic springboard diving events.

The group said its members "feel that further explanations must be made by the individual who made the statement because the information is insufficient at this time."

It added: "The bureau has set up procedures to check on their judges to safeguard against prejudicial judging."

Thursday night, Gompf said he was "slightly misquoted" by The Associated Press when it reported him saying that the Russians proposed a deal to him last March in Minsk through which the Soviets would have gotten voting support from their women's springboard diver, Irina Kalinina, in exchange for a promise to have Russian judges back Phil Boggs of the United States in the men's event.

Gompf, a diving judge at the Munich Olympics, said he clearly rejected the offer which was made to him. He indicated he was approached because he felt the Russians believed he would be a judge again at Montreal.

The Associated Press stood by its report and said it restrained, at Gompf's request, from naming one of the Russians involved in the offer, and from using characterizations of other judges at Montreal made by the American manager.

Gompf said rumors of a fix were so strong, possibly involving a Russian overture to either Swedes or Italians, that he believed FINA's International Diving Commission carefully those to keep American, Soviet, Italian and Swedish judges off the panel that scored the springboard event, won by Jennie Chandler of the United States.

Nadia Heading For Rest With Three Golds, Silver, Bronze

By BOB GREEN
All Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP)—Officials kept a wary watch on the Russians. The queen watched the princess. And most of the test of the world watched Nadia. It was the farewell performance in the XXI Olympic Games by the little girl who has won the hearts of the world, and 14-year-old Nadia Comaneci made it a beauty, so outstanding it even overshadowed a couple of major rows centering around the troubled Russians.

With perhaps one billion people watching on television, the lithe little 88-pounder, pony-tail in place, sacked up her sixth and seventh perfect scores—the perfect 10 that, before these Games, never had been awarded—and collected two more gold medals.

Out of the gymnasium, she remained as stoic as ever.

"I am not surprised. I knew if I persevered I would do well," the Romanian schoolgirl said before leaving for a Black Sea vacation with a haul of three gold medals—women's all-around, balance beam, uneven parallel bars—a silver for the team and a bronze in the floor exercise.

Nelli Kim of Russia, who collected golds in the floor exercise and vault, along with her second perfect score of the Games, was a little more outgoing and giggly.

"I haven't quite realized it yet," she said. "Maybe tomorrow or the next day it will come to me. I'm slow about these things sometimes."

They evenly divided the golds in last night's final events in women's gymnastics, but Kornelia Ender of East Germany and the American men swimmers continued to grab them all.

Miss Ender won the women's 100 meter butterfly in world record time of 1:00.13 then headed for the dressing room.

"I changed my suit and there I was," she said. She was back on the starting block again. And again she won in world record time, 1:59.26 in the 200 meter freestyle. The triumphs came only 25 minutes apart and gave her four golds and the amazing East Germans' victories in all

Romero Tries Stamp Once More Saturday

Ricky Romero returns against former All-American Dennis Stamp in Lions Club wrestling Saturday, beginning at 9 p.m. in the Bull Barn. Last Saturday Stamp's behaviour was anything but All-American as he took advantage of a previous injury suffered by Romero, and went to work on a splinted finger. The referee was obliged to stop the match to prevent a permanent injury.

Romero, 222-pound Mexican speedster, will seek to give this Saturday as good as he got last week. Stamp at 245 is not only a great wrestling stylist, but the Brass knucks champ as well.

Pistol Peetz Whatley, 225-pound human dynamo from Tennessee, teams with the youthful Silver Streak, also 225, to face the two Houston Hippias, Big Rick Davidson and John Johnson.

Davidson is a 270 pound street brawler. Johnson comes in at 245. Whatley is a distinguished black athlete who held the Tennessee State High School Championship at 191 and

Team Handball Squad Hidden In Anonymity

By JOHN VINOUCR
Associated Press Writer

MONTREAL (AP)—There's Rico and Harry the Wizard, the twins Randy and Robbie, Izra the Israeli, Sparky and Dennis. Under normal circumstances the closest they'd ever get to Olympic rings would be the water marks from their beer glasses on the neighborhood bar.

They're here, though, assembled with a dozen phone calls in about the same time it takes to get guys together for a pinocle game. And dressed in the U.S. team's red sweats; basking down the hall from Scott May and a flight up from Frank Shorter, they're living out the fantasy of millions of school-yard hackers. They're members of the U.S. Olympic Team.

The reason is they play the closet sport of the Games, team handball, an enterprise so anonymous in the United States that Manager Dennis Berkholz says, "The real truth is that if you locked our rooms up there wouldn't be another person in 220 million who knows anything about it. When I heard they were going to put it on television I thought that's great, but nobody but me can explain it."

The Americans played Romania, the world champions, and didn't look too embarrassed in losing 32-19, taking the second straight loss here. The sport turned out more or less to be soccer with a dispensation so that everyone could use his hands.

The obscurity level of team handball is such that when distance runner Frank Shorter saw Harry Winkler, an old friend he had lost touch with, in the Village, Shorter asked: "Harry, what in hell are you doing here?"

Harry explained, and Shorter, an intelligent man, looked vague. "Look," said Winkler, "There are about 500 of us in the States. You're more likely to run into somebody with leprosy in Ohio than a team handball player."

Berkholz said one of the problems in developing the sport, which has real popularity in Scandinavia, Germany and Eastern Europe, is that people confuse it with the YMCA game where you bang a little black ball off a wall with a couple of other overweight friends.

"I mean, who would want to go to watch one of those things and how could you cram 14 guys and goals into one of those courts," says Berkholz. "But it's hard to change the name. We thought of superball or teamball, but that's been put aside. I admit we're a bit of a clique and that we have guys on the team who really haven't touched a ball competitively in a couple of years."

Among the handballers are a 39-year-old Hungarian-born goalie named Sandor Rivnyak, Ezra Jerry Glantz, a Californian who's a captain in the Israeli Army reserve, Randy Dean, the starting Northwestern quarterback, and his twin brother Robbie, Rico Abrahamson, Robert Sparks and a bunch of other guys who Berkholz admires "are pretty good athletes, really, who missed in other sports."

"It's difficult to break into the clique," says Berkholz. "It's a bit like rugby. We're close-knit and you have to be a partner and a beer drinker."

HHS Athletes At Conference

Hereford High School athletes Daniel Olson and Jim Fish are attending a Fellowship of Christian Athletes Conference at Colorado State University in Fort Collins, Colorado this week.

"inspiration and perspiration" is one of 27 FCA National Conferences scheduled this summer involving 10,000 high school, college and pro athletes, coaches and family members.

In addition to "Huddle" group discussions, the daily schedule consists of competition in a variety of sports, special events, workouts, coaches clinics, and evening assemblies where top sports figures share their Christian faith.

Among the 21-year-old organization's more prominent proponents and conference staff participants are Tom Osborne, Jim Kaat, Don Kessinger, Roger Staubach, Tim Foley, Tom Landry, Madeline Manning Jackson, Archie Griffin, Paul Anderson and Kyle Rote, Jr.

The stated purpose of the FCA is "to confront athletes and coaches, and through them the youth of the nation, with the challenge and adventure of accepting Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, participating in His Church and serving Him through our vocations."

The year-round program includes NCAA and NAIA coaches meetings, rallies, weekend conferences, bowl breakfasts, pro chapel services and Bible studies, national banquets, and athletes and coaches meeting in over 1,850 high school Huddles and college Fellowships from coast to coast.

"They got $6000. more for their home!"

FAITH CAN PROVIDE COMFORT WHEN SORROW STRIKES

ooner or later, sorrow must cast its dark shadow over all our lives, in many forms and in varying degrees; either directly or indirectly through someone we know. It may be occasioned by the death of a loved one or a dear friend; or possibly a major event such as a broken relationship, a career disappointment or a child in deep trouble. Whatever the source, God's love is ever present to provide comfort and a positive way out of the abyss of sadness; and once you have discovered this, you can help someone else to find it. If you acquire the habit of seeking God's guidance at the Church of your choice BEFORE sorrow strikes, you will automatically do so whenever it does.

For what human ill does not dawn seem to be an alleviation?
—Thornton Wilder

TV star meets a Broadway flop

Redd Foxx, is that you in the movies?

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "Norman, Is That You?" has had a curious history on the stage, and it may have an even more curious history on screen.
When it first opened on Broadway, it was a loud flop. But it has managed to catch on in various revivals around the country and has done well. Presumably, that's because it is slightly risqué — it deals with homosexuality in a comedic way — and because it has a small cast and one set and is therefore inexpensive to produce.
Currently, a screen version of "Norman" is now before the Hollywood cameras. It is being produced and directed by George Schlatter, the man who helped make Laugh-In the huge success it was. This is Schlatter's first film.
He says he saw the play seven years ago, liked it, felt it would make a good movie, and bought the property then. But, at the time, he was too busy with TV to do anything but sign the check and feel good about the transaction.
His thought, then, was to make it with George C. Scott in the leading role — a father who discovers his son is a homosexual — and Scott liked the idea. But they never could work out a schedule to do it, when Scott was free, Schlatter wasn't and vice versa.
Schlatter says he always knew he would make it someday, and, further, it would have to be made in the summer.

"I can make more money," he says, "doing television in the television season. So I'd have to make 'Norman' during the TV hiatus period. The only way doing this movie can earn me more money than I make on TV is if it goes through the roof, and I know what the odds are against that."
During this past TV season, he happened one Sunday evening to catch Redd Foxx when he was a guest with Cher on her CBS show, before she re-teamed with Sonny. Redd did a dramatic reading which impressed Schlatter. He had a bright idea — why not integrate "Norman"??
He showed his script to Foxx who liked it, and thought it would make an interesting film. Schlatter next showed it to Pearl Bailey, with the idea of her playing Foxx' wife in the film.
"She was retired," Schlatter said, "but she liked it and quickly unretired."
The play seemed to transfer easily from being an all-white affair, as it had always been done, to being part-black. Now, in Schlatter's version, Norman and his family are black but Norman's "roommate" is white.
"The fact that Norman and his folks are black really doesn't matter at all," Schlatter says. "What we have here isn't a racial story, it's a comedy about people

And, actually, our cast is really a mixture — we have whites, blacks, Mexicans, Orientals, straights, gays, everything."
Despite the homosexual theme, it really isn't a picture about homosexuals at all. The result, Schlatter says, is that it "will be a PG-picture, because I wanted to make a movie I could take my daughter to see."
He feels strongly that there should be such films.
"You know," he says, "not everybody uses that four-letter word. I know the word — I know them all and I've used them all and even invented some new ones — but I don't always use them. There are times when I speak very nicely, and there should be movies when people speak nicely, too."
Besides Foxx and Miss Bailey, the cast also has Mike Warren, the ex-UCLA basketball star, as his son, and a young actor named Dennis Dugan as the roommate.
Dugan says to be careful and put only one "G" in his last name — "One G, about the same as the money I'm making."
For Redd Foxx, this is only his second movie and his first starring role. He had a cameo in "Cotton Comes To Harlem" which he describes as "a small thing — not much of a part and not much money, either."
On the set, he is sitting with his legs raised, delivering some off-camera lines. Schlatter and the others are solicitous of his legs, which have been bothering him, as a result of an old football injury.

In the past, Foxx says, he turned down a number of film offers because they were generally in black exploitation pictures. He says he didn't want any part of that; but he likes "Norman" and thinks it could become a classic, like "Sounder."
"I'm not playing Sanford again," he says. "I've clipped my moustache, shaved off my goatee, dyed my hair white. But it's hard, after playing Sanford for seven years, to be someone else."
He says he'll play Sanford for one more year, then switch to ABC. He believes what he'll do there, although it isn't yet absolutely certain, will be to front a variety show.
"I've got a lot of friends," he says. "And I want to do a variety show that will be different, using those friends to make it different."
He was drinking black coffee, container after container, while he did his work. Into each container, he poured a lot of cream and exactly four spoonfuls of sugar.
"I quit drinking cold turkey, two months ago," he said. "And that was after 30 some years of drinking. That's why I use so much sugar in my coffee — I have to get my dextrose some way."

Plan Agreed On To Settle Suits Against Lo-Vaca

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Major customers of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. reviewed a proposed settlement of Lo-Vaca's court problems today that a power company spokesman says seems to be the best way to handle $1.4 billion in damage suits.
H.K. Howard of Central, Power & Light Co. of Corpus Christi told a railroad commission hearing Thursday a "settlement is possible, and there are only minor difficulties yet to be resolved."
The proposal which would create a new company that would be totally independent of Lo-Vaca's parent firm, Coastal States Gas Corp., "is a great step forward as to the other alternatives that could possibly be considered," Howard said.

A lawyer for United Texas Transmission Co. of Houston, which filed the first suit against Lo-Vaca, said he will recommend that his client accept an out-of-court settlement. He indicated that the other Lo-Vaca customers should do the same. "We must all float together or we certainly shall all sink together," said Stan McLelland. Coastal States, Lo-Vaca and the major customers have worked on the plan for more than a year.
Howard said the proposed settlement "certainly could mean lower electric bills" for more than 100 CP&L customers in 44 counties. He said he was particularly interested in a proposal for Coastal States to carry on a $230 million gas search program over 15 years.
McLelland said if all claims for damages were filed against Coastal and Lo-Vaca, the suits would total perhaps "several times" $1.4 billion, and even if the suits were won, "not one would get but a small fraction."
McLelland said the proposed settlement "offers all Lo-Vaca customers and ratepayers the maximum total benefit which can be realized."
The plan should provide at least $200 million and maybe as much as $800 million in benefits to Lo-Vaca's customers, he said. He said representatives of customers who take 42 per cent of Lo-Vaca's gas deliveries have decided to recommend that the customers accept the settlement.

Spokesman for San Antonio, Austin and Corpus Christi said the cities are reviewing the plan.
M.D. Sampels of Texas Utilities Fuel Co., TUFPO of Dallas said, however, that TUFPO "cannot and does not" support a settlement as long as a United Texas suit against Lo-Vaca is pending in Houston. The 1973 suit was the first filed by Lo-Vaca customers, when United Texas was Pennzoil Pipeline Co.
The proposed settlement calls for Coastal States to assume existing debts of about $108 million and to insure unsecured promissory notes of an estimated $120 million during the next 15 years.
The new company would issue $115 million in preferred stock to be placed in trust for Lo-Vaca customers.

Men Of Wealthy Families Sought In Kidnap Of California Kids

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) - Three "armed and dangerous" men from wealthy California families are the target of a nationwide hunt today, sought for questioning in the mass kidnaping and imprisonment of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver.
Alameda and Madera county sheriffs said they would seek arrest warrants this morning for the three San Francisco Bay-area men.
An all-points bulletin named Frederick N. Woods, 24, James L. Schoenfeld, 24, and Richard A. Schoenfeld, 22. It described them as "armed and dangerous" and told officers to "arrest on probable cause."
Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins and Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates told a news conference Thursday night that ransom may have been the motive for snatching the youngsters and burying them alive inside a van in a Livermore vock quarry owned by Woods' father.
"I believe these three are involved in the kidnaping sufficiently enough so that we can arrest them," Bates said.
Houchins confirmed earlier reports that the younger Woods owned the moving van used to imprison the school children four feet underground. It took the youngsters and the driver 18 hours to tunnel out.
Sheriff's officers had searched the Woods' 100-acre suburban San Mateo County estate Thursday, discovering about 100 vehicles apparently accumulated by the younger Woods.
San Mateo County Sheriff John McDonald said officers had been looking for "vans, masks and guns." He said new searches were underway in Sonora County and San Jose where Woods "has some acreage, some warehouses and barns. They'll be looking for some more vehicles, more vans."
Two vans were used to transport the Chowchilla children after the kidnapers camouflaged the school bus from which the children and driver were taken.
Bates said one of the men being sought has not been seen since the incident and that official expect to know today "whether they are out of state and if they are we will ask the FBI to come in."
The Woods family is related to the wealthy California Newhall family, whose patriarch was Henry Mayo Newhall, an enterprising Sagus, Mass., businessman who arrived in San Francisco in 1850.

Woods and James Schoenfeld graduated within a year of each other at Woodside High School on the San Francisco Peninsula and had formed a loose partnership repairing old cars.
The Schoenfelds are sons of a prominent peninsula podiatrist. The three young men being sought were involved in a previous scrape with the law on Oct. 6, 1974. They were arrested in Downville, Calif., about 150 miles northeast of San Francisco, on a charge of felony joyriding.
They pleaded guilty to petty theft, but withdrew the plea. Later they pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of auto tampering, paid a $125 fine each and successfully completed a year's probation.

Be A Friend, Have A Friend

Arm Jams After Attempt To Scoop Soil

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Viking officials believe they have diagnosed, and can easily solve, a malfunction on the Mars lander that caused its soil-scooping arm to jam.
If their theory of the failure is correct, Project Manager Jim Martin said Thursday night, the beginning of the Mars life search next Wednesday will not be affected.
Martin said the telescoping arm, which was designed to reach out for a handful of Martian soil and dump it in a small biology laboratory, jammed Thursday after being extended for a test.
It jammed while being retracted, he said, apparently because a locking pin that should have fallen free did not do so.
He said that was the "most probable cause" of the trouble. The cure, which will be tried Sunday, is to command the robot lander to extend the arm again until the pin falls to the ground.
If that was indeed the cause, said Martin, it is likely that there will be no effect on the mission "and we will be able to continue on our present time-line."
A special team of trouble shooters came up with the theory after duplicating the problem on an identical Viking lander that sits in a sandbox at jet. Propulsion Laboratory here.

Martin described the failure as a "human error." He said the lander's computer had been fed-long before Viking I arrived on Mars - with an erroneous command. As a result, the telescoping arm did not extend far enough to "let the pin" fall away.
Martin said there had been no progress on two other problems plaguing the Viking's investigation of the red, rocky surface on which it landed Tuesday.
One was the seismometer, designed to monitor mars-quakes, which never recovered from the dormant state it remained in during Viking's journey from Earth. But it was too soon to write it off, officials said.
Communications with the lander over 212 million miles of space were somewhat limited by a balky transmitter on the lander. As a result of the undiagnosed malfunction, data were being received for a shorter time each day than had appeared possible at first.
One result could be, said Martin, "that we won't be able to take as many pictures as we had planned."
Engineers were still working on those problems. They were also continuing to study the sampler arm failure, because if the locking pin theory turns out not to be the cause, there may be some other cause that would be harder to fix and could affect the life search.

In relating to kids, we must first consider a very important aspect of interaction labeled "Acceptance of the Person."
In accepting another person (in our case, a Little Brother or Little Sister), we must be uncritical and unjudgmental. With this attitude, we determine that a kid is a valuable, worthwhile, lovable and important individual—just because he or she is a human being.
This means we must separate the person from his behavior. Regardless of negative behavior (school failure, fighting, profanity), we still accept the person. This does not make all behavior acceptable by any means!!
Also, a kid should not be made to feel that he must earn acceptance. He should not have to meet any demands within the relationship.
Let's take a look at what we're talking about. "Johnny, you're a bad boy—you pulled the cat's tail." This tells Johnny he's a bad person. Johnny subsequently thinks, "All right, since I'm a terrible person, I'll act terrible." Then we have the proverbial vicious circle!
Separate for Johnny what he is from what he does. Let him know pulling the cat's tail, or hitting his brother with a hammer is not too swift, but he's still an okay person.
Watch out for relating a person's worth with positive behavior, too. This will backfire. "Nice little girls always sit still just like you." Janie thinks when she's not still, she's a bad girl.
Helping to develop an internal sense of value and worth must not depend on external factors.
Next week we will look at promoting self acceptance.

Consumer Prices Rise 6%

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer prices appear to be rising at about the pace predicted by the Ford Administration.
Consumer prices climbed five-tenths of one per cent in June, which is a 6 per cent annual rate, the Labor Department said Wednesday. Prices went up six-tenths of one per cent in May.
A White House spokesman said the increase was "about what was expected," and "falls right into the forecast" that inflation this year would rise between 5.5 and 6 per cent.
Prices rose 7 per cent in 1975.
President Ford is banking on a strong economic recovery and an easing of inflation to improve his election chances. The price report followed Tuesday's announcement that economic growth slowed sharply this spring, with the nation's total output rising at less than half the rapid pace of last winter.

The Labor Department report showed that grocery prices, after climbing rapidly in April and May, rose only two-tenths of 1 per cent in June.
But this was offset by a 1.9 per cent jump in energy prices, which accounted for nearly a third of the over-all June increase. Prices rose sharply for coal, natural gas, fuel oil and electricity.
June's rise marked the first time since February that prices did not increase faster than the previous month.
Grocery prices leveled off in June, but sharply higher prices for gasoline and other energy products barred any major improvement in the nation's inflation rate.

Voting Act Survey Is Launched

AUSTIN (AP) - Rep. Luther Jones, D-El Paso, said Thursday he is asking the more than 4,000 local governments in Texas to say how they are affected by the federal Voting Rights Act.
Jones, chairman of the House Committee on Elections, said a questionnaire was being mailed to every city, school district, special district, county and local political party committee in the state.
"We hope that the questionnaire will give us the basic information required to determine just how much effect the Voting Rights Act has had in Texas," Jones said. "There has been a lot of speculation about this but no one, prior to our survey, has really attempted to gauge the impact of this controversial law."
He said that some fear that the many requirements the Voting Rights Act places on local governments might discourage them from making further changes in local election laws, procedures, regulations or systems and thus "freeze" those items that they presently are.

Administration Is Named In Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - In a further step toward partition of this war-torn Arab nation, a top leftist leader Thursday announced formation of a civil administration for Moslem-controlled areas.
Kamal Jumblatt, who heads a coalition of leftist groups fighting alongside Palestinian guerrillas in the civil war, announced the new "central political council."
Jumblatt described plans for the new government, Saudi Arabian peace troops in armored cars manned positions in a small buffer zone between the warring Moslem and Christian sectors of Beirut. Fighting continued on other fronts.
Jumblatt said the Christians set up a civil administration in their 800-square-mile enclave some time ago, "and we can't leave the people without food, water, electricity and security. We've got to organize our life."
The new governing council will administer the Palestinian and Moslem-controlled areas of west Beirut, the ports of Sidon and Tyre and much of southwest Lebanon.

Pampa Man Is Sentenced

A district court jury returned the guilty verdict late Wednesday. The jurors deliberated about seven hours Wednesday after hearing two days of testimony.
District Court Judge Paul Snead sentenced Vallejos, 20, to 7-15 years in prison.

A Little Zing Needed

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you will let me reply to "Bedroom Trouble Up North." He's the man who asked his wife to wear black nylon stockings and a garter belt to bed. The poor fellow needs to be told he's not nuts.

DEAR B.T.: I know how frustrated you must feel. Your request was reasonable, honest and healthy, not in the least sick. I admire the loyalty you demonstrated by seeking advice from Ann Landers. In your letter you said you didn't want to "run around," just wanted to know if your request was weird.

As a former call girl I've met hundreds of men who needed an outlet for frustration, without making a commitment. I also met men who were bothered by feelings of abnormality because they were turned on by simple things like black stockings and garter belts. I know the scene well. Their uptight, small-minded wives had laid guilt traps for these imaginative, normal males.

There is no harm in putting a little zing in the bedroom performance. Husbands should not need to go outside of marriage for excitement. How sad that so many wives have been warped by man-hating mothers who taught them sex is a "duty." Poor things. Sign me -- At Home With All Kinds.

DEAR AT HOME: As a former member of the oldest profession you are certainly qualified to speak on this subject in a way very few can. Thank you for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need to know if my girlfriend and I are related.

Her brother married my sister. Since I am an uncle of their son and my girl friend is the little boy's aunt, it does make us relatives, doesn't it? She says no.

I'm worried about marrying a relative because our children might not be right mentally. I hope you can figure out what I'm trying to say. With a high-school education this is as good as I can do.

--Andy

DEAR ANDY: You are not blood relatives, just kin by marriage. Go ahead and marry the girl, if this is the only thing about her that bothers you.

DEAR ANN: I'm 30 years old, the mother of several children. I have a severe case of varicose veins, only mine are splatteredlooking, close to the surface. My family doctor said nothing could be done so I went to another doctor. He injected medicine into one of the veins which he called a "feeder." It made a large scar and didn't help. Is there any way I can get rid of these ugly veins? I love swimming and I hate the way I look. -- D.N.

DEAR D.N.: I checked with several physicians and the consensus is as follows: The veins sound too small to be stripped. Injections will not help. Buy Covermark (usually found in drugstores) and if it's properly applied the veins will not show. Yes, you can go swimming. It's waterproof.

DEAR ANN: What can we do to dispel the myth that "nice girls don't get raped and bad girls shouldn't complain"? My aunt was raped last week and the way she was treated at the emergency room of the hospital was outrageous. She decided not to press charges. Thanks for your help. -- Stumped

DEAR S.: Your aunt should have pressed charges -- regardless. She should also have reported her hospital abuser to the head of the institution. Most emergency room personnel are wonderfully sympathetic. Your aunt ran into a bum.
