Iraq calls air embargo 'act of war'

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - Iraq's ambassador has called "an act of war" the U.N. vote extending to the air the embargo on trade with his country...

Both Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze suggested that the United Nations could take military action if all other efforts to force Iraq into relinquishing Kuwait fail.

international community to compel Iraq to quit Kuwait, which Iraq's General Assembly, which began its general debate on Monday.

have demanded an immediate Iraqi pullout in speeches to the 45th General Assembly, which began its general debate on Monday.

an air embargo is an act of aggression, an act of war. "But up to now we have been practicing self-restraint because we know that if war were to break out, it would destroy everything in the region," he said.

embargo may themselves face secondary sanctions. U.N. spokesman Francois Giuliani said it was the first time in the 45-year history of the United Nations that so many foreign ministers had attended a meeting to vote on a substantive issue.

Lumbrera claims she 'blacks out'

GARDEN CITY, Kan. (AP) - A woman accused of smothering her 4-year-old son told police she could have killed her son during a mental blackout, a police detective testified Tuesday.

Garden City police Detective Kendall Elliott testified that another detective, Michael Utz, suggested to Diana Lumbrera that she might have smothered her son during a mental blackout and could not remember killing him.

"She said that could have happened," Elliott said. Mrs. Lumbrera, 31, is charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of her son, Jose Antonio Lumbrera, May 1 at their Garden City home.

Mrs. Lumbrera, who moved to Garden City from Texas in 1985, also faces murder charges in Texas for the earlier deaths of three of her daughters. Grand juries in Texas are looking into the deaths of two other sons and a niece.

Elliott also testified Mrs. Lumbrera told police, "I didn't do it with a pillow." But he said during cross-examination she just as likely might have said, "I didn't kill my baby with a pillow."

Earlier Tuesday, doctors testified they believed the boy was smothered. "I believe the child died from non-accidental means and that he died from asphyxiation and from being smothered," said Dr. Michael Shull, a pediatrician who treated the boy in the emergency room at St. Catherine Hospital.

The boy was lifeless and not breathing when Mrs. Lumbrera brought him to the hospital, Shull said.

Earlier, Dr. Lauren Welch, a Garden City surgeon, testified in Finney County District Court that the child had no vital signs when he was brought to the hospital's emergency room and immediately hooked to a monitor.

There were broken blood vessels on the child's face caused by the buildup of blood pressure against the walls of vessels and capillaries, he said.

The presence of the broken blood vessels and two other factors - evidence of food in the victim's stomach and no obstruction or signs of vomiting in the airway - led him to a diagnosis, Welch said.

"I was certain of his cause of death before he ever left the room. He had been suffocated," Welch testified.

Dr. Albert H. Gaines testified Tuesday he treated the child one day before his death for a slight respiratory infection that he said was not life-threatening. Hospitalization was not considered, he said.

In opening arguments Monday, the defense claimed the child died of natural causes.

Volunteers can share many special skills

State appeals fund ruling

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements says the state will appeal a judge's ruling that the Texas school finance system is unconstitutional.

State District Judge Scott McCown ruled Tuesday that the system doesn't give all schools "substantially equal" access to funds for a similar tax effort.

That's despite this year's effort by lawmakers and the governor to reform the $14 billion-a-year school finance system, he said.

McCown gave lawmakers another year to change the system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money. The current system will remain in place this school year.

Clements - a Republican who agreed with Democratic legislative leaders on a school finance plan after four special sessions this year - said the state would appeal.

"I don't agree with his (McCown's) judgment at all. He's a young judge. Perhaps the Supreme Court in its review will reconsider that opinion," he said.

McCown said, "In short, what the rich districts spend creates educational opportunities for their children that are denied the children of poor districts."

"Under Senate Bill 1 (the reform plan), the rich districts are left rich, the poor districts poor," he said.

Attorney General Jim Mattox said he hasn't decided whether to appeal, but he said the court's 52-page ruling "offers us no real guidelines" on making the system comply with the Texas Constitution.

Mattox said he would talk to other lawyers in the case and the Texas Education Agency before deciding on an appeal. State Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby said he would ask Mattox to appeal the ruling.

"It's a big decision for us, because if we're not careful, we can be put back in the same kind of posture that we have been in the past, where the Legislature can use the excuse of not having a final order before they start really trying to adopt a new plan," said Mattox, a Democrat who leaves office in January.

Rick Gray, a lawyer for poor school districts that challenged the school funding system, applauded McCown's ruling. He said the judge did "a very exhaustive, thorough analysis."

"We think it's a great day for all school children and we hope the Legislature will set about the task of fixing the system in the future," Gray said.

The school finance plan was adopted by the Legislature in June. Lawmakers raised taxes to add $528 million for public schools in 1990-91, calling it the first step to achieving equity. The Legislature also made other reforms, which backers said would improve education, that were not addressed by McCown's ruling.

But poor school districts challenged the plan. They argued that it is no different from the old system scrapped last year by the Texas Supreme Court on a 9-0 vote.

A House Public Education Committee member blamed Clements for blocking an alternative finance plan which the lawmaker said poor school districts would have accepted. Clements killed that proposal by vetoing taxes needed to pay for it.

"It's entirely because of Gov. Clements' foot-dragging and the Republican legislators who upheld his veto that we're back in the court again. And we're literally about to turn over the keys of the schoolroom to the courts," said Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston.

Clements said he wasn't surprised at Colbert's remarks, but declined further comment. Aides said Clements, who leaves office in January, isn't considering calling another special session on school finance.

McCown said he has "more hope for the leadership and ability" of the next Legislature and governor, to be elected in November.

The judge said if the Legislature fails to devise a constitutional school finance plan by Sept. 1, 1991, he would consider stopping the spending of state and local tax money, or ordering how the state should spend school funds.

Education Commissioner Kirby noted lawmakers will be looking at budget shortages for state services when they convene in regular session in January. That means a new school finance plan could put in less money than the current one, he said.

He said that after McCown's decision, leaders must again examine options including school district consolidation, caps on local spending, or plans to take money.

Budget battle may hurt force

WASHINGTON (AP) - How long can a nation embroiled in a costly military standoff endure harsh economic sanctions? Not Iraq - the United States.

Americans may get a chance to find out as early as Monday if Congress and the White House fail to reach a budget agreement.

No one calls them sanctions, but the automatic spending cuts that would be triggered under the Gramm-Rudman law could have some of the same consequences: possible food shortages, massive transportation disruptions and a heavy drain on economic growth.

These are self-inflicted sanctions that are written into the law intended to lead to a balanced federal budget by 1993.

The impact of the cuts - from $85 billion to $100 billion - combined with higher energy prices resulting from the Middle East crisis could easily topple the U.S. economy into a recession, many economists suggest.

And that's even before the $1-billion-a-month cost of the Persian Gulf military operation is factored in.

With the budget talks deadlocked, President Bush is giving no signs of blinking first in what Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., says "is a game of chicken, that's all it is."

Bush was quick on Tuesday to show he won't go along with a Democratic-led effort to delay the spending targets at least until Oct. 20 to give budget negotiators more breathing room.

Shortly after the House Appropriations Committee approved stopgap legislation calling for such a delay, Bush told reporters, "I will veto" any spending measure that "suspends Gramm-Rudman and budget discipline." White House officials say they are bracing for the spending cuts to take effect Monday.

At the same time, officials say Bush has no plans to curtail his plans to travel extensively around the country in October campaigning for Republican candidates - even if the spending cuts take place.

Bush, who is off today for two days of campaigning in the Midwest, has scheduled campaign trips for Oct. 4-5, 10, 15-16 and 25-28.

However, he may have to do it without part of his staff and he may find it difficult to travel at night.

Most of the nation's 2.2 million federal employees already have been warned they may be furloughed to a shorter work week beginning next week - including most White House employees.

The National Weather Service has said it will close 250 weather stations from 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. beginning Monday in the absence of a budget agreement, including those that provide local weather information to pilots.

That, combined with plans by the Federal Aviation Administration to sharply cut back on the number of air traffic controllers, could keep most flights grounded at night.

"And if you think that sounds draconian, you ain't seen nothing yet," said White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater.

Administration budget officials have said that imposition of the spending cuts also may delay Medicare and Social Security checks and could result in food shortages because of reductions in government inspections.

HATAB tables plan

BY DANEE' WILSON Staff Writer The Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board was presented with two requests Monday.

The board, made up of two representatives from each of the taxing entities in the Hereford area, entertained a request by John N. Underwood of the Newlife Retirement Communities, Inc. for tax abatement on his $7 million retirement center to start construction in October.

A seven floor tower will eventually house about 120 people. The Newlife Retirement Community is not a nursing home, but a liaison for people who need care but are not in need of a nursing home.

The upper floors are apartments and the lower floors house the rehabilitation section of the complex. Thirty new jobs for Hereford are expected with the retirement community.

The value considered for tax abatement is around $5.5 million. Representatives for Holly Sugar Corporation requested tax abatement on the $13.5 million addition to Holly Sugar.

The addition will allow Holly to extract additional sugar from molasses following the traditional processing of sugar beets.

This addition will bring in approximately 20 new jobs and extend working hours for present employees.

Holly requested the maximum abatement of property taxes. Members of the board broke for executive session to discuss the matters further.

When the meeting was called back to order, a motion was made to table the matters for further investigation.

Members of the board present were, Raymond Schlabs, Steve Coneway, Emory Brownlow, Judge Tom Simons, Mayor Wes Fisher and Johnny Latham.

NEW YORK - New Jersey, in the midst of a heated taxpayer battle over school finance, spent the most per pupil on average of any state last school year - $8,439, according to an annual teacher union survey. But Texas ranked 37th among the states per pupil and 32nd for teacher salaries.

Lobbyists want S&L burden shifted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer activists, politicians and labor representatives say they will lobby Congress to remove the burden of the savings and loan bailout from average taxpayers.

"Today we say that enough is enough," Rep. Joseph P. Kennedy II said Tuesday at a news conference organized by the Financial Democracy Campaign.

"The Bush (S&L) bailout has already cost working families close to $150 billion," he said. "Now the administration is telling us that hundreds of billions more are needed to pay off the depositors of failed thrifts."

A coalition of consumer, labor and religious groups comprises the Financial Democracy Campaign.

At the news conference, other speakers included Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn; Ed Garvey, a former president of the National Football League Players Union; Michael Waldman, director of Public Citizen; and Maude Hurd, president of the Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now.

Consumer activist Ralph Nader and Jesse Jackson had been scheduled

Hispanics want political voice in '92 elections

WASHINGTON (AP) - Hispanics are planning ways to present a united political voice in the 1992 presidential election.

About 100 Hispanic leaders met Tuesday and resolved not to let division within the community sap their political strength, as some say occurred two years ago.

Led by former San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros, Bronx Borough President Fernando Ferrer and Denver Mayor Federico Pena, the leaders adopted a blueprint for 1992 and took stands on five pressing Hispanic issues.

The leaders plan to establish the National Hispanic Agenda as a point organization that can speak on political issues all Hispanics share.

"It represents an attempt to speak with one voice across the differences that divide the Hispanic community - Cubans, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, Republicans, Democrats, New Yorkers, Floridians, Texans, Californians," Cisneros said.

As a first step, the leaders urged an adjustment of the 1990 census that appears to have miscounted minorities. They also pressed for passage of the civil rights bill and repeal of the employer sanctions provision in the 1986 immigration law.

"The Hispanic subgroups are now agreeing and supporting issues in a real call for unity," said Robert Calderin, director of a conference of New York legislators called Somos Uno.

"It's the first time we have had a cohesive group of people working together," said David Pena, a Miami attorney who attended the meeting on behalf of the Hispanic National Bar Association.

"Our hope is to develop a shared agenda and be united," said Cecilia Munoz of the National Council of La Raza, a Washington-based research and advocacy group.

Hispanic leaders want to make sure their political potential is not squandered in 1992, Cisneros said.

Training program offered

The Texas Department of Public Safety hopes to reduce the number of people killed in accidents involving all-terrain vehicles (ATVs) through a training program now administered by the department.

"In the seven-year period from 1982 to 1989, 75 persons died in ATV accidents in Texas," said Linda Cox, DPS coordinator of the ATV Safety Program. "Over the years, the department's efforts to reduce other forms of traffic deaths in Texas have paid off, and we believe this new program will have similar successful results."

The Texas Legislature enacted a law in 1988 requiring that all operators who ride ATVs on public land complete a safety training class. The Department of Public Safety was assigned the program in 1989.

The state program has adopted the national ATV RiderCourse, developed by the ATV Safety Institute, a non-profit corporation funded by four leading distributors of ATVs in the United States. The one-day course is available free to anyone who has purchased an ATV since Dec. 30, 1986. Some purchasers are also eligible for cash incentives by the manufacturers.

Students completing the course will receive a DPS certificate which must be carried by operators when riding on public lands. The law also requires that all operators on public land annually register ATVs and pay a safety fee.

Ideas given on saving for college education

Next to buying a house, a college education is the most expensive big-ticket item facing the average family.

Nancy Granovsky, a family economics specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggests that if you have a 10-year-old child, plan on saving roughly $29,000 by 1998 to cover the costs as tuition, books and room and board.

This estimate assumes that you'll be paying half the costs, and that your child will go to a state university in Texas. But you'll need to save much more if your child doesn't receive any scholarships, doesn't pay part of the college bill, or goes to a private school where tuition usually runs higher.

"That amounts to an annual savings goal of about $2,200 per year, assuming you can get six percent on your money after taxes," Granovsky said.

If your child is one-year-old, you have 17 years to save, but college costs are expected to be even higher—roughly totaling $54,000 for parents planning to pay half the expenses, she said.

"These figures, based on an estimated inflation rate of seven percent for college costs, illustrate how important it is to start saving now," she said. "College costs of $7,400 per year in 1990 will be $16,700 per year by the year 2000."

Today, people use a combination of loans, savings and work-study to pay for college, Granovsky said. Many parents pay educational costs out of their current income—some taking additional jobs.

Government bonds are one type of investment that guarantee complete safety. The United States Series EE Savings Bonds for College are good choices for financing education, she said. They can be tax-free and purchased at market-based rates. Interest rates for the bonds vary with the market rate, but go no lower than the market rate set at the time of purchase.

* When you use EE bonds to pay for higher education and your taxable income is below $60,000, bond income is tax free, but the federal tax break phases out at a joint income of $90,000.

* They must be redeemed in a year the owner pays qualified education expenses (tuition fees, but not room and board).

* Interest is fully exempted only if the qualifying tuition and fees paid during the year are equal to, or more than, the redemption proceeds. Otherwise, exemption is proportional to the percentage value used for tuition and fees.

* Certain records must be kept for income tax purposes.

Other options for financing college education include zero-coupon securities, mutual funds, children's custodial accounts and insurance policies. However, there are risks and limitations involved, and a prudent investor should check with a professional who specializes in financial planning for college.

"Becoming better informed is part of the financial planning process for college education," Granovsky said. "Parents and students, especially those who think they can't afford college, need to know what financial aid is available and how to qualify for such options as loans, work-study programs and grants."

High school guidance counselors have a wealth of reference material on college programs and costs. Most public libraries keep current references on U.S. colleges and universities.

The saying that "education pays" is still true, Granovsky said. Figures from the U.S. Census Bureau show that what people earn is a direct reflection of their level of education.

In 1987, census figures indicated that high school graduates earned an average income of $12,000, while college graduates earned $22,400 and those with master's degrees earned $30,600.

Abundant Life

Isolation Is Not Ideal
 BY BOB WEAR

Personal isolationism is not an ideal suitable for us to seek. There may be a temptation to seek a detached situation in relationship to life, and some good people do so, but it is an untenable position. It is the cause of much personal unhappiness, and is a grave threat to individual well-being. Of course, it is possible to become involved with too much of life. Somewhere between personal isolation and too much involvement we find the time-tested life posture that is most useful and satisfactory.

The tendency to withdraw is strong, and often ends in hopeless personal isolation. It can even become a sickness. We know people who are trying to live in this state of being. They are not living, but just existing. There is no sound philosophy that recommends personal exclusion from the realities of life. It is readily admitted that periods of respite are justified, a time when we can rest and be re-created or renewed. It is important to return to life, because prolonged times of withdrawal from the usual experiences of gregarious living is unwholesome and can produce despondency and depression.

"Solitude, seeming a sanctuary, proves a grave; a sepulchre in which the living lie, where all good qualities grow sick and die." —Cowper.

We understand about individual differences, and it is obvious that some folk can become more involved than others, and be happy doing so; however, there are others who do best and are the most effective when their involvement with life is not overdone. When it becomes necessary for us to rest, let us seek the isolation of solitude, but let it be temporary. It is important to us, and for our personal well-being, and for our God-given purpose for being that we return to life.

A life is too precious to be permitted to deteriorate in prolonged isolation.

Coca-Cola scholarships offered

The Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation, Inc. is now accepting applications for its third annual scholarship competition, the largest business-supported college scholarship program in the country.

Southwest Coca-Cola Bottling Company, the sponsoring local Coca-Cola bottler, encourages graduating seniors to apply and compete for the 150 four-year scholarships to be awarded in the spring. Fifty National scholarships worth $5,000 annually and 100 Regional scholarships worth $1,000 annually are awarded and are renewable for up to four years of undergraduate study at any accredited U.S. college or university.

The Coca-Cola Scholars Foundation rewards individuals on the basis of personal as well as scholastic merit. Consideration is given to a student's leadership potential, character, and intellectual ability in addition to their academic record.

Interested students should see their guidance counselors for scholarship applications and eligibility information. The postmark deadline for applications is Oct. 31, 1990.

Questions to ask yourself about business insurance:

"What does an insurance company really know about your business?"

To tailor your coverage properly, a good company has to have a thorough understanding of your business, your people, equipment and inventory. Independent agents know that the CNA Insurance Companies protect tens of thousands of businesses, large and small. And that we began nearly 100 years ago. They often recommend CNA because our knowledge and experience can help their clients.

Netters leave PD in the dark

The Hereford Whiteface tennis team's match Tuesday at Amarillo Palo Duro was cut short because of darkness, but not before the Herd had wrapped up 15 matches to clinch the win.

In boys singles, Randy Robbins held off Damon Wilson for a 5-7, 6-1, 7-5 win while Greg Coplen beat Nayan Patel 6-4, 6-2. Torey Sellers beat Matt Pham 6-3, 2-6, 6-2 and Jamie Kapka beat Tay Kongdara 7-6, 6-4. Donny Perales lost 8-5 to Alpeh Patel in a pro set and Eric Cortez was leading Sim Kongdara 3-0 in the third set before the match was called. Cortez won his first set 6-3 before dropping the second 4-6.

Hereford made a clean sweep of the girls singles with five straight set wins. Brenna Reinauer beat Keomany Champa 6-1, 6-0, and Gina Alley won over Marisa Sivixay by the same score. Robyn Sublett topped Konkeo Inpeng 6-2, 6-3. Bri Reinauer blanked Vanya Karouna 6-0, 6-0 and Emily Fuston beat Marie Dinh 6-0, 6-4. In the only three-set match, Trisha Teel came back to beat Paloy Isra 4-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Hereford also swept all doubles matches that were completed. Robbins-Coplen beat Wilson-Kongdara 6-1, 6-2 while Sellers-Cortez topped Patel-Patel 6-3, 6-3 and Kapka-Perales beat Pham-Ly 6-4, 6-3 in boys play.

For the girls, Brenna Reinauer-Alley beat Champa-Inpeng 6-1, 6-2 and Emily and Sherry Fuston beat Sivixay-Dinh 8-1 in a pro set. Sublett and Bri Reinauer were leading Isra-Karouna 6-2 in a pro set when the match was called.

In the only alternate match started, Brandon Flood led Coung Ly 7-6 in a pro set before play was ended.

The netters will host Canyon Randall in a District 1-4A match at 1 p.m. Saturday at Whiteface Courts.

HJH grididders win six

The Hereford Junior High football teams had a day to remember Tuesday, picking up six wins in eight games.

The four eighth-grade teams played at home with Maroon A beating Canyon 8-6 while the Maroon B topped the Eagles 12-0. The White teams traded shutouts with Dumas as the White A won 18-0 while the Demons picked up a 14-0 decision over the White B.

In seventh-grade games on the road, the Maroon A beat Canyon 22-6 while the Maroon B whipped the Eagles 30-0. The White teams split at Dumas with the White A winning 22-0 while the White B lost 20-14.

8th Maroon A 8, Canyon 6
Hereford scored the game's first touchdown in the final minute of play on a 7-yard run by Cody Curtis. Curtis added the two-point conversion to provide what proved to be the winning margin.

Canyon needed only four plays after the kickoff to score, getting into the endzone with seven seconds left in the game. The Herd defense preserved the victory by stopping the Eagles' two-point run short of the goal line.

Going for six

Dagan Owen of the Hereford Junior High 8th White A team breaks through the line on his way to the endzone during Tuesday's 18-0 win over Dumas at the HJH Field.

8th Maroon B 12, Canyon 0
Quarterback Michael gave Hereford the lead with a 1-yard sneak on the final play of the first half. Jimmy Henderson added an insurance touchdown in the third quarter with a 9-yard run.

8th White A 18, Dumas 0
Dagan Owen put the Herd in front midway through the first quarter with a 68-yard punt return.

Hereford took a 12-0 lead at the half when Owen reached the endzone from four yards out with four seconds remaining in the second quarter.

Quarterback Ashley Noland added the final points on a 3-yard run in the third quarter.

The Herd defense used four turnovers, including an interception by Raymond Alaniz and three fumble recoveries, to keep Dumas off the scoreboard.

Dumas 14, 8th White B 0
After taking a 6-0 halftime lead, Dumas used its defense to set up the final eight points of the game.

Hereford put up a goal-line stand in the fourth quarter to force the ball over on downs, but Gilbert Hernandez was tackled in the endzone for a safety on the next play. Dumas took the ensuing free kick and drove for the final touchdown, scoring in the last minute of the game.

7th Maroon A 22, Canyon 6
Armando Zambrano scored on runs of 50 and 30 yards as Hereford took a 14-0 halftime lead and Joe Ricanbaw added a 10-yard touchdown for the Herd.

Wade McPherson passed to Raymond Gonzales for a two-point conversion with Zambrano running for two extra points.

7th Maroon B 30, Canyon 0
Quarterback Brent Horton threw for two touchdowns and a two-point conversion and added another touchdown rushing to lead the Herd.

Justin Scott got Hereford on the board with a 4-yard run before Horton hit Albino Garcia on a 45-yard scoring play. The pair also hooked up for the two extra points as Hereford led 14-0 at the half.

Hereford went up 20-0 when Horton connected with Jeb Skiles from 50 yards away. Horton scored the final touchdown with a 5-yard run. Scott ran for the extra points on the last two touchdowns.

7th White A 22, Dumas 0
Marquise Brown scored three touchdowns on runs of 73, 53 and 72 yards. Brown and Tanner Murphey each ran for a two-point conversion to complete the scoring.

The Hereford defense came up with three interceptions in blanking the Demons. Coby Christie, John Emerson and J.J. Ellis each picked off a pass.

Dumas 20, 7th White B 14
Jason Escamillo put the Herd on the board with a kickoff return of 91 yards.

Tony Madrid added the other Hereford points with a 51-yard run and the two-point conversion.

Spikers come back to beat Borger in 3

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces on Tuesday showed the effects of Saturday's loss to Dumas in the District 1-4A opener, dropping the first game of their match at Borger before coming back for a 7-15, 15-6, 15-6 win.

Lady Whiteface coach Brenda Reeh said the best thing about the match was the Herd (10-4 overall, 1-1 in district) did get the win.

"It was definitely not a thing of beauty," Reeh said. "We lacked aggression, mental toughness and simply didn't seem to want to compete. We competed against ourselves more than we did against Borger."

Reeh said the letdown after Saturday's loss was somewhat expected.

"We were entirely too passive," she said. "Hopefully, this will shake us up a bit and we can get after it the next time we step on the court."

Lori Sanders led the Herd at the service line with 10 points while Jayme Moore added eight and Brek Binder had seven. Robin White led the team in kills with nine and Shantel Cornelius had six.

Cornelius led the defense with seven digs with Sanders and Jennifer Hicks adding five each. White passed 10 service receptions to setter with Moore getting nine and Teresa Baker seven.

In the junior varsity match, the Herd JV suffered its third straight loss as Borger took a 15-12, 15-10 win.

The Lady Whitefaces will host Pampa in a district match at 2 p.m. Saturday at the HHS Gym.

Waco's Fite puts tragedy aside to top AP honor roll

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
If Waco running back Louis Fite is anything, he's a survivor. In the past two weeks, he's survived two of the top Class 5A teams in the state, and on Sept. 9 he survived a brush with death that took the life of his friend, James Silmon. While Fite and Silmon were walking home, Fite heard a noise from behind and then a car smashed into Silmon, killing him and missing Fite by inches. Four days later, Fite rushed 250 yards against No. 2 ranked Converse Judson and last week he gained 220 more yards against No. 4 Marshall, knocking the Mustangs out of the AP Schoolboy Top 10. For his efforts, Fite earns The Associated Press Honor Roll spotlight along with Santa Anna running back Herbert Jackson, whose 456 rushing yards was the third best ever for a Class A runner. "James' sleeve was touching mine when he was hit by the car - that's how close it was," Fite said. "I don't know why James was taken. But I know it could have been both of us. I guess God left me in this world for a purpose." Fite said he didn't want to play in the first days following Silmon's death, but he then dedicated his efforts to his lost friend. "People kept telling me I had to pick up and go on," Fite said. So he did. Fite gouged 220 yards on 34 carries and had three leaping 1-yard touchdowns in a 38-7 victory over Marshall. "It was a big day's work," Waco coach Johnny Tusa said. "Marshall is a formidable foe and to put up numbers is quite an accomplishment."

Tusa said he considered holding Fite out of the Converse game.

"But he wanted to play," Tusa said. "He's got a big heart, a fighting spirit second to none."

Fite has rushed 707 yards on 89 carries this season.

Jackson rushed 456 yards - third best ever for a Class A runner - on 25 carries and had 561 all purpose yards and six touchdowns in a 66-12 victory over Robert Lee.

Jackson scored on runs of 80, 80, 5, 56 and 15 yards and returned a punt 72 yards for a touchdown.

Jackson has 738 rushing yards for the year on 66 carries, an average of 11.18 per carry.

Curtis Hartman gained 327 yards on 24 carries and scored on runs of 2, 4, 51 and 71 yards in a 33-0 victory over Gatesville.

Pirates, Reds still trying to end NL races

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

Just when the Pittsburgh Pirates get close to clinching the National League East, the New York Mets get in the way. Just when the Cincinnati Reds seem ready to win the West, they stop themselves.

The Pirates won Tuesday night, and so did the Mets, leaving Pittsburgh's magic number at six. Several times in September, the Mets have been on verge of falling out of the race, only to bounce back from a bad game with a good one.

This time, after a tough 4-3 loss in Chicago on Monday, they won at Montreal 3-1 on pinch-hitter Dave Magadan's two-out, two-run single in the ninth inning. The Mets remained three games behind the Pirates, who beat Chicago 5-3.

In Cincinnati, the Reds lost to last-place Atlanta 10-0. Their magic number for clinching stayed at five as second-place Los Angeles beat Houston 3-1 in 10 innings and pulled to 3 1/2 games back.

In other games, San Francisco beat San Diego 3-1 and St. Louis edged Philadelphia 1-0.

The Mets sent Chris Nabholz (6-1) to his first major league loss. He won in New York last week on a one-hit-ter.

The score was tied at 1 when Tommy Herr drew a one-out walk from Nabholz and Tim Lincecum singled in the seventh. Reliever Tim Burke struck out Kevin McReynolds, but threw a wild pitch with Magadan at the plate, making the count full.

Magadan fouled a slider and five straight fastballs before singling.

Magadan got the hit while batting for Pat Tabler. Mets manager Bud Harrelson said his original choice to pinch hit was Darryl Strawberry, who was on the bench because of a stiff back.

Alejandro Pena (3-3) pitched the final four innings, shutting out Montreal on two hits. He struck out five.

HONOR ROLL

Hereford's Matt Bromlow scored 20 of his team's 21 points in a 21-9 victory over Lubbock Coronado.

Bromlow gained 215 yards on 27 carries and scored on a 68-yard run, and had touchdown catches of 5 and 16 yards. He ran in a 2-point conversion.

Amarillo Highland Park is off to a 3-0 start for the first time in school history and quarterback Duane Harrell helped keep the unbeaten string in a 29-6 victory over Bovina.

Harrell completed 13 of 24 passes for 226 yards and touchdowns of 11 and 49 yards, rushed eight times for 80 yards and a 5-yard touchdown run. He also played linebacker and tackled the quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

Sinton's Eric Garza was an offensive and defensive threat for Sinton in a 28-14 victory over Class 4A Robstown.

Garza had touchdown runs of 6 and 3 yards and returned a kickoff 84 yards for another score. He kicked three extra points and as a cornerback, he had 9 tackles, including a touchdown saving stop in the third quarter.

Bay City's John Davidson has returned the opening kickoff for a

Pirates 5, Cubs 3

Doug Drabek became Pittsburgh's first 21-game winner in 34 seasons, pitching a four-hitter and helping himself with two hits.

Drabek (21-6) and the Pirates overcame an early 3-0 deficit. He struck out seven in becoming Pittsburgh's top winner since Bob Friend went 22-14 in 1958.

Braves 10, Reds 0

Dave Justice hit his first grand slam and Ron Gant homered to reach the 30-30 mark.

Justice, who leads major league rookies with 28 home runs, connected to highlight a six-run fifth inning off Norm Charlton (12-8). Gant became the 13th player to hit 30 home runs and steal 30 bases in the same season.

Tom Glavine (10-11) held the Reds to five hits for seven innings.

Dodgers 3, Astros 1

Hubie Brooks hit a two-run homer in the 10th inning.

Brooks hit his 20th home run after Eddie Murray drew a one-out walk from Juan Agosto (9-8). Jay Howell (5-5) pitched two innings for the victory.

The Dodgers tied it in the eighth when Kirk Gibson was hit by a pitch from Al Osuna, Kal Daniels singled and Murray had a sacrifice fly.

Giants 3, Padres 1

Rookies Steve Decker and Mike Benjamin each homered and rookie reliever Mark Dewey got his first major league victory.

Dewey shut out the Padres on two hits for four innings and Steve Bedrosian got his 15th save.

Cardinals 1, Phillies 0
Rookie Bernard Gilkey tripled, doubled, scored the game's only run and threw out a runner at the plate.

Gilkey scored in the first on Geronimo Pena's sacrifice fly. In the bottom of the first, Gilkey threw out Sil Campusano at the plate.

Joe Magrane (10-16) allowed eight hits in seven innings.

touchdown in each of the Blackcats' last two games.

He started last week's 41-0 victory over Nederland with 98-yard touchdown return and the week before he opened with a 97 yarder.

Davidson gained 106 yards on 19 carries against Nederland and had touchdown runs of 1 and 6 yards.

In other outstanding performances: Bishop's Frank Bueno had four carries for 178 yards, caught 5 passes for 111 yards and one touchdown in a 21-20 victory over Ingleside.

Corpus Christi Carroll's Jermaine McDowell gained 225 yards and touchdowns of 45 and 60 yards in a 31-15 victory over Victoria Stroman.

Spearman tailback Brian Beck gained 210 yards on 20 carries and scored on runs of 19 and 80 yards in a 51-8 victory over White Deer.

Athens remained unbeaten with a 14-7 victory over Highland Park that included six goal-line stands and the efforts of defensive tackle Toby Risko, who had 12 tackles and a fumble recovery at the 1-yard line.

Arlington's Todd Bloom had 248 total yards in a 35-27 victory over Denton. He rushed 211 yards on 35 carries and scored on runs of 38 and

A's clinch AL West title

By The Associated Press

Everything's up to date in Kansas City - but only because the Oakland Athletics played there Tuesday night and clinched another American League West championship, their third straight.

"Every time it gets better," manager Tony La Russa said. "You think of all the combinations, of all the ways it can go. The Twins always play hard. They did their part (Minnesota eliminated Chicago 4-3) and we did our part.

"At some point, you have to admit you've got yourself in position where it's going to happen. It's just like having a lead in a game with a great bullpen. You know you're going to win."

In the AL East, Toronto and Boston both lost and the Blue Jays' lead remained at 1 1/2 games. Toronto lost to Milwaukee 8-4 while Boston fell to Cleveland 5-2.

Elsewhere, it was New York 15, Baltimore 3; Detroit 4, Seattle 1; and California 8, Texas 2.

The A's began play with a magic number of 2. They clinched a tie when Chicago lost to Minnesota. Shortly thereafter, Dave Stewart clinched it with a five-hit 5-0 shutout over Kansas City, giving Oakland a nine-game lead with eight to play.

Rickey Henderson, who was 3-for-3, singled in the seventh inning, stole second and scored the A's third run on Harold Baines' single.

Royals rookie Kevin Appier (11-8) lost. He yielded four runs and 12 hits in eight innings.

Twins 4, White Sox 3

The White Sox didn't go down without a fight. They fell behind 3-0 in the first inning on Gary Gaetti's three-run homer, tied it in the third on Carlton Fisk's two-run single, and lost in the fifth on Shane Mack's tie-breaking single.

Minnesota's Mark Guthrie (7-8), Juan Berenguer and Rick Aguilera combined on a six-hitter, with Aguilera getting his 30th save. Jack McDowell (13-9) was the loser.

Brewers 8, Blue Jays 4

B.J. Surhoff drove in four runs, three with a triple, and Robin Yount had a homer and three RBIs.

Bud Black (12-11), making his first start for the Blue Jays since a trade eight days earlier with Cleveland, was the loser. Winner Bill Krueger (6-9) gave up three runs in six innings.

Indians 5, Red Sox 2

Greg Swindell scattered seven hits in eight innings, Sandy Alomar homered and Doug Jones noched his 42nd save.

Swindell (12-8) was in command except for Tony Pena's two-run homer that pulled the Red Sox within 3-2 in the fifth.

The Indians rapped Boston starter Greg Harris (13-9) and relievers Larry Andersen and Wes Gardner for 10 hits.

Yankees 15, Orioles 3

Randy Velarde capped New York's record-equaling eight-run first inning with a three-run homer as the first eight batters hit safely.

Roberto Kelly led off with his 15th homer and the next six Yankees all singled before Velarde homered, tying the major league record of eight consecutive first-inning hits before the first out.

Baltimore starter Anthony Telford (3-3) failed to retire any of the six batters he faced. New York's Dave Eiland (1-1) gave up four hits and three runs - two earned - in seven innings.

Tigers 4, Mariners 1

Pinch-hitter Larry Sheets hit a three-run homer in the ninth inning. Mike Jackson came on and served up Sheets' 10th homer.

Winner Mike Henneman (8-6) got the last two outs in the Seattle ninth after Walt Terrell pitched eight shutout innings.

Angels 8, Rangers 2
Scott Lewis won his major league debut and Jack Howell doubled home two runs in a five-run sixth inning.

Lewis went 7 1-3 innings, giving up both Texas runs and seven hits.

Loser Bobby Witt (17-10) gave up six runs and 12 hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Hall earns SWC honors

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Robert Hall turned down football scholarships to schools recruiting him as an option quarterback to take a risk as a walk-on at passing-minded Texas Tech.

The gamble paid off Saturday.

Hall, playing in relief of injured starter Jamie Gill, completed 15 of 31 passes for 316 yards and two touchdowns in Tech's 34-32 victory over New Mexico. The effort earned Hall The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week.

Baylor safety Mike Welch, who had 10 tackles (four unassisted) and two interceptions in the Bears 13-9 come-from-behind victory over Sam Houston State, earned AP's defensive honors.

Welch's first pickoff halted a third-quarter Sam Houston State drive at the Baylor 46 and resulted in a field goal, putting the Bears on top for good, 10-9.

His second interception halted Sam Houston State's final drive late in the fourth quarter to seal the victory.

Welch's performance was overshadowed by the death of redshirt freshman John Karkoska 10 minutes before the game. Karkoska, of Houston, died from complications of viral gastroenteritis, doctors said.

Team members attended a memorial service Tuesday.

Baylor (1-2) plays at Tech Saturday night.

Hall, a 6-0, 160-pound redshirt freshman, said he is eager to shed the image he gained as an option quarterback while leading Dallas Carter High School to the Class 5A state championship in 1988.

"Most of the schools that wanted me were interested primarily in running the option," Hall said. "I felt I could play at a passing school so that is why I decided to walk on at Texas Tech."

Facing fourth-and-18 with his team trailing and only seconds remaining in the game against New Mexico, Hall looked to San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana for inspiration.

With defeat one play away, Hall recalled Montana completing two late-in-the-game passes to set up a winning field goal in the 49ers season-opening victory against New Orleans.

"We were going backwards," Hall said of two consecutive sacks preceding the fourth-down play. "But I thought of Montana completing those two big passes to get (the 49ers) in field goal range, and then I got right back into the game."

Hall hit wide receiver Lloyd Hill with a 33-yard pass on fourth down and followed with a 31-yard strike to Hill that eventually set up a last-second 37-yard field goal by Lin Elliott. Tech (1-2) escaped with a 34-32 victory over the Lobos (1-3).

Tech coach Spike Dykes said he didn't want to expose Hall to such a pressure-packed situation at this stage of his career.

"That's the last thing we wanted to happen," Dykes said. "We were trying to guard against that because it puts such undue pressure on a young player and can really rattle them. But Robert handled it beautifully and everything worked out fine."

Hall will start in Tech's homecoming game against Baylor. But coaches say Gill, who suffered a knee injury in the second quarter against New Mexico, will be the starter when he returns.

Hall said he doesn't mind. But he's not going to waste an opportunity to show his talent.

"I just hope to improve from week to week," Hall said. "The coaches and players gave me a lot of confidence by backing me up in the New Mexico game. Playing in that game has definitely made me want to be playing more so I will do all I can to help out."

30 yards and he caught three passes for 37 yards.

-Granger's Michael Fisher gained 259 yards on 25 carries and had touchdown runs of 5, 30, 1 and 79 yards in a 39-7 victory over Thrall.

-Brandell Jackson scored on consecutive runs of 52 and 63 yards and finished with 221 yards on 22 carries, leading Brenham to a 23-15 victory over Navasota.

-Derrick Blakemore and Howard Richardson led unbeaten Alto to a 54-0 victory over San Augustin. Blakemore rushed 222 yards on 14 carries and scored on runs of 16, 41, 1 and 60 yards.

-Junior Gomez rushed 22 times for 210 yards and touchdowns of 17 and 65 yards, leading Stratford to a 40-0 victory over Gruver.

Foreman closer to title shot

LONDON (AP) - George Foreman is becoming a statistician's dream.

At age 42 he is chasing a world heavyweight boxing title he held 17 years ago. He has a fight record that shows 69 victories in 71 contests.

And, at anywhere between 259 and 265 pounds, he could wind up as the oldest, heaviest and busiest world champion there has ever been.

To add global warfare to his list of accomplishments, Foreman flew 3,000 miles from his Houston home to knock out another American, Terry Anderson, in three minutes Tuesday. Now he flies home to renew negotiations with the two fighters who will battle for the world title next month: James "Buster" Douglas, the champion, and Evander Holyfield.

reference in boxing history books.

Foreman said after his quick victory at the London Arena stretched his three-year comeback streak to 24 victories. "I'm not going away. I'm not going to leave until I am the heavyweight champion of the world again."

Foreman refuses to be just a reference in boxing history books.

"There's a lot of credit that can be given to youth and enthusiasm. But with them comes foolishness," Foreman said. "Age and craftsmanship is not to be played down. I have got more tricks up my sleeve than an alligator has teeth."

Cowboys send Walsh to New Orleans for picks

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys may be near the bottom of the NFL, but they are leading the league in hoarding draft picks.

With the trade of Steve Walsh to New Orleans on Tuesday, the Cowboys put themselves in high cotton for drafts through the next two years.

In 1991, Dallas will have three first round picks, two second round selections, and two third round choices.

In 1992, Dallas will have two first round choices, three second round picks, and two third round choices.

If Walsh does well with the Saints, a second round pick in 1992 could become a first round selection.

"I hope Steve is fantastic in New Orleans in every game he plays except our game (Dec. 2)," Johnson said. "It would ensure a number one pick."

Dallas plays at New Orleans on Dec. 2.

"It should be fun," Walsh said with a grin.

It's the 25th trade Johnson has made since he became the coach of the Cowboys after Tom Landry was fired.

Walsh, obtained as a first round pick in the 1989 supplemental draft, couldn't beat out Troy Aikman as the Cowboys starting quarterback even though Walsh had played for Johnson at the University of Miami.

"The ties are broken now," Walsh said. "Things just didn't work out for me at Dallas. The first year I really wasn't prepared and Troy deserved to start. But after starting five games last year and all the experience I have, I feel I understand how to attack NFL defenses."

Walsh wasn't bitter and thanked Johnson for the experience.

"It was an advantage for me to go through what I did last year and this year," Walsh said. "It wasn't good to have two young guys after the number one job. There were always murmurs. At first the competition was good but then it started to deteriorate."

Walsh said he didn't expect to be an instant starter at New Orleans.

"I don't expect to go in and start. I'll have to prove myself," Walsh said.

He quickly cleaned out his locker and left Valley Ranch for the last time.

Cowboys owner Jerry Jones said his team will receive the Saints' No. 1 and No. 3 choices in 1991 and a No. 2 pick in 1992. Jones said the No. 2 pick could be upgraded to a No. 1 if Walsh performs well for the Saints.

Walsh, who started five games last season when Aikman was injured, will compete for the starting job in New Orleans with John Foureard, who has been erratic in the Saints' first three games.

Johnson said, Aikman "is the best quarterback in the NFL, as far as I'm concerned, and will be the best for the long haul."

"Steve has handled things in a class manner, but he deserved to be a starter on another team," Johnson said. "Steve is happy. He's been somewhat frustrated."

Walsh, who led Miami to the national championship in 1987, completed 110 of 219 passes for 1,371 yards last season. He threw five touchdown passes and nine interceptions. This season, Walsh was 4-for-9 for 40 yards.

"We drafted Steve to be a part of the Cowboys," Jones said. "But, we will have a good future because we will have a lot of flexibility in the draft, because of the trade."

He said he liked having Walsh and Aikman on his team.

"From a personal standpoint, it was a great feeling ... It made me lay my head down better at night."

Aikman said he was glad Walsh got traded.

Aikman said, "I still have to go out and perform regardless of who that guy is backing me up. I'm glad that Steve's able to go somewhere that he can play because he's an outstanding quarterback."

"I don't think in this particular situation it was a disruption to the team," Aikman said. "But it's nice to have that aside. Now we can really concentrate on football."

Aikman's backup will be Babe Laufenberg, a six-year veteran who previously played at Washington, San Diego and New Orleans.

"Babe has shown he can handle the job if Troy goes down," Johnson said. "We'll shop for a third stringer."

Food corn production becoming giant in industry

TCPB seeks premium, expanded market

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

The new kid on the block has become king.

Texas is now being hailed internationally as the Food Corn King of America—and right in the middle of this giant food basket is Hereford's Golden Triangle.

Comparatively speaking, specialized production of food corn in Texas is an agribusiness development which in the past 10 years has moved from a turnrow toddler to a golden giant in the food industry. From the quality-conscious consumers of Europe to the masses of the Pacific Rim, commodity marketmen are bidding on Texas food corn.

"No other state in America can consistently produce the high quality food corn that we grow in Texas," said Carl King, executive director of the Texas Corn Producers Board (TCPB). "A large portion of our state's corn production is already used in food processing, and our goal is to expand this production by expanding our potential market."

"All of this will help generate the premium we deserve for our premium product."

At the top of this new promotional program headed by the TCPB is a new corn tag called "Texas Supreme"—a new billing that will help identify Texas corn as the best food corn available anywhere in the world. The only production point any where in the world that even comes close to the quality of food corn grown here in the Hereford's Golden Triangle is South Africa, an area which must rely on natural rainfall, and this growing season in the Third World has suffered greatly from drought conditions.

King said Texas Supreme will include both white and yellow corn, with the specialized line having higher test weights. This new bag tag will also include No. 1 and No. 2 grades which basically reflect standards set by the Federal Grain Inspection Service.

"The selection of specific varieties and extra care require that farmers have a contract which assures prices prior to planting," King added, while noting that TCPB is working to obtain forward contracts for Texas Supreme production in 1991. "We have strong indications that forward contracting will be accepted even by foreign buyers."

In an added effort to make world markets fully aware of the qualities of Texas Supreme, the TCPB assigned Elbert Harp, executive assistant and independent agribusiness consultant, to work as a liaison officer between producers and buyers. Harp, a native of Abernathy, as spent much of his life career in developing new grain markets across much of the free world.

In a meeting of some seven men from Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties in 1969, King organized the Texas Corn Growers Association and by 1970 more than

HUSTLE HEREFORD

50 farmers had linked arms with the organizing board to mark the beginning of one of the most powerful corn producing groups of the nation. The membership now stands at 2800.

As president of the new-found ag move, King took on the toughest in building a new image for the Texas Panhandle—"Corn Country"—and opposition not only came from political bureaucrats in Washington, D.C., but also from many of the old diehards of the Midwest Corn Belt. From the very beginning, King fought for national legislation that would provide for a federal price floor market management geared to production costs.

"A price-floor at the cost of production along with a sound marketing management program would give the corn people what the sugar people has had for 50 years," said King. "This would guarantee an adequate supply of corn for the nation at a reasonable price for both, the producer and the consumer."

In the past 21 years, the Texas Corn Producers Association (TCPA) has never been able to convince ag leaders on Capitol Hill the full value of farm legislation aligned with grain commodity production costs at the turnrow level and market management at the marketplace. As result, farm foreclosures across the nation hit an all-time in the 1980s when commodity prices skidded far below the cost of production, setting the stage for glutted markets by a few and feast to famine for many.

Ten years ago, King headed up a group of corn producers from a seven-county area of the Texas Panhandle to form the Texas Corn Producers Board, an organization developed principally to promote the marketing of Texas food grade corn and create a self-help scientific support system to help solve production problems.

As the most recent example of the work of the TCPB, six corn research projects were approved for funding at its August meeting. The projects include aflatoxin control and remediation, insect control, crop production chemicals and the marketability of food grade corn. All of the projects were submitted by Extension and research specialists of the Texas A&M University System.

King pointed out that the biggest boost to the statewide organization was the self-imposed 1/2-cent per bushel checkoff program voted into being statewide by Texas corn producers. This check-off program is expected to bring in more than a half-million dollars during the first year, with the amount expected to increase as producers see the benefits returned to the turnrows in the form of greater stability at both, the production and marketing levels of the business.

The 15-member TCPB administrators the programs initiated under the checkoff funding, with all programs reviewed every three months, then ranked by priority based on value to Texas corn producers.

"The TCPB investment in corn research will leverage a substantial amount of public funding," said Dr. Dudley Smith, associate director of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. "Texas A&M already spends more than $2 million on corn research. The TCPB grants will involve corn producers more directly in the research process and help determine priority topics for expanded research in this new partnership."

The research project getting top priority will be headed by Dr. Timothy Phillips at Texas A&M University, Phillips, known nationally and internationally for his work in food safety, has some new breakthroughs in mycotoxin removal. TCPB will also fund work to help gain additional information needed to obtain FDA approval for low-cost products that neutralize aflatoxin in corn to be fed to livestock.

Control programs for Mexican and Western corn rootworm and the interaction of these controls with herbicides will be studied by a team of researchers from throughout the state under one of the TCPB funded programs, along with studies on crop rotation in the control of rootworms.

But making Texas the Food Corn State of the nation is a primary goal of TCPB directed by King.

King said that by capitalizing on Texas' natural climatic conditions, the board feels significant profits can be added to corn production in the state. Projects to achieve this goal will be under the direction of Drs. Anton J. Bockholt, corn breeder; Lloyd Rooney, cereal chemist; J.D. Smith, soil and crop scientist; and R.A. Frederiksen, plant pathologist.

"We are fortunate to have an outstanding group of agricultural scientists in Texas," said Weldon Davis, TCPB chairman and a farmer near Hart. "The Texas Corn Producers Board has a good relationship with the research community of Texas A&M, Texas Tech and other public research institutions."

"The farmers' checkoff investment will assure that corn research is a top priority and our objective is to develop and maintain an effective corn research program to improve producer profits."

Jay Boston of Hereford, a retired Deaf Smith County farmer who for many years specialized in production of food corn, along with acreage in sugar beets, said the new Texas Corn checkoff program will open new marketing windows for farmers of the Lone Star State.

"For quite a while it has been an established fact this area here around Hereford produces the finest food corn in the nation and now we'll have the money to go out and tell the world," said Boston, who was also one of the key leaders of Hereford who helped change legislation on sugar beet production some 30 years ago.

"When I see the farmers and businessmen working like the devil to bring about a better price for corn reminds of the days when a handful of Hereford men fought like hell to get our sugar allotment and processing plant. You won't ever find the space to name them all, but there was ole Jim Witherspoon, Lee Benefield, Henry Sears, Shirley Garrison and others who pitched in their time and money to make something a little bit better for Hereford."

During conversation from his offices in Dimmitt, King also reflected on the work by individuals back in the early 1960s to bring a sugar processing plant to Hereford: "Those were the days when I was just beginning to move heavily in corn production. I knew that some day sugar and corn would be somewhat competitive here on the High Plains, but as it turned out, they sort of compliment each other."

King revealed a long track-record in promotion of agriculture in the Texas Panhandle while recalling how he worked simultaneously for sugar and corn legislation long before Texas corn producers were organized. He pointed out that a 1/2-cent checkoff program has been in effect in a seven-county area of the Texas Panhandle and South Plains for the past 10 years, but the recent okay of the statewide referendum will now reach to some 64,000 corn producers in the state.

With King as executive director, the 15-member board of the Texas Corn Producers Board, include John Baker, Bell County; Jimmy Barger, Wharton County; Neal Burnett, Hale County; Weldon Davis, Castro County; Gerald Donaldson, Wharton County; Carl King, Castro County; Jack Thompson, Moore County; Bert Williams, Parmer County; Robert Young, Dallam County; Raymond Schlabs, Deaf Smith County; Lois Wales, Castro County; Jerry Don Glover, Bailey County; Doug Higgins, Bailey County; Joe Reed, Castro County; and Ronnie Sherrod, Hale County.

King said corn production this year in Texas is about 5 percent under the 1989 crop which ran between 1.5 million and 1.75 million acres statewide, with about 1 million acres of this Texas production centered in the Panhandle. And about 750,000 acres of the Panhandle production flanks U.S. 385 from Deaf Smith County to Bailey County.

Corn production from this irrigation belt centered around the Golden Triangle of Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer counties frequently averages above 10,000 pounds per acre, with numerous reports running above the 11,000-pound mark.

Don Carpenter, a Castro County farmer near Dimmitt, said that despite the hottest summer on record—and a near record-low rainfall—his food corn crop this fall is still expected to run near average: "I think I've got some fields that will beat 10,000 pounds per acre...at least, I sure hope so." Carpenter farms around 1,000 acres of food corn near Dimmitt.

But what makes world food fanciers favor Texas corn?

King says it is a variety of things—excellent water, a rather dry high climate which allows the corn to dry in the fields rather than under artificial conditions, rich soils and an exceptional high level of farmer expertise at the production end of the business.

"There's just no question about it...we have one of the highest levels of educated farmers in the world," said King. "As just one example, they don't figure pounds at planting time...they count the seeds per acre when it comes to planting food corn."

Hereford's Golden Triangle is also the hub of a half dozen food processing plants which receive about 35 percent of the total corn production produced in the seven-county Corn Country of the Texas Panhandle. The balance goes to the vast livestock industry of the Texas Panhandle which includes beef, pork, poultry, sheep and the multi-faceted horse production.

Though the Texas corn production is a multimillion-dollar business, it produces only a fraction of the commercial corn consumed annually by Panhandle cattle feeders. Using the 1989 production level of around 5 million grained-fed cattle, the Panhandle region of the High Plains consumed around 260 million bushels of corn last year, with a similar amount to be consumed in 1990.

In addition to the Midwest, major corn producing states include Kansas, Colorado and Nebraska, with most of the corn fed in Panhandle feedyards coming from production points in Kansas and Nebraska.

But with commercial corn now selling below the cost of production here on the High Plains, food corn has become a cinderella crop of the row-crop farmers. With December, commercial corn now being bid at around $2.24 per bushel on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange Board, the delivery price on the North Plains was running at around $2.40 to $2.44 per bushel earlier this week. Thus, the going price of corn is around a half dollar below the cost of production, depending on the points of production in Texas. The cost of production is just over $3 per bushel on the South Plains but holding at where the turnrow is in Texas, the cost or corn production is running far below market price—a point of no return for the producer.

Annual corn production in the Greater Hereford region is still holding at around a $150 million crop despite the bearish market trends. However, a dollar bonus per hundredweight for the premium grade food corn takes some of the sting out of the low commercial commodity prices. In addition to the food manufacturing plants in Hereford and Dimmitt, the new food processing plant at Plainview is now in operation, specializing in various blends of corn chips and corn-related feedstuff.

"The new company out of Plainview is already out here buying and contracting food grade corn," said King, who pointed out that the fall harvest of local corn will be in full swing in a matter of days. "The moisture content is still a little above 20 percent, but we're not far off."

King added that the Plainview plant will hike the local consumption of food grade corn to around 40 percent of the total crop this year.

There are many variables when it comes to pricing a Texas corn crop. First of all, white corn out-sells the yellow corn in the food market, along with various grades within the specialized market. And when it comes to the commercial market much of the pricing depends on point of production, with freight being a major factor in the bottom-line of a feedyard ration. Some Panhandle feedyards contract delivered corn at planting time, in March and April, in an effort to ensure an orderly flow of feedstuff for winter finishing.

Though King is a rather mild-mannered person by nature, he is quite outspoken when it comes to turnrow talk.

"The farm program as it now stands is a rotten deal," said King, in relating to pending legislation in Washington. "The whole thing is hat if we had a loan level equivalent to the cost of production, then it wouldn't cost the taxpayers a dime. The higher loan level would also be the floor on the open market...price we would get our money out of the market. And in order to meet this we'll also need a higher acreage diversion.

"The sugar beet industry doesn't cost the taxpayers a dime...they (beet producers) get their money at the marketplace when production is managed at an intelligent level. And as you perhaps already know, corn producers have a vested interest in sweeteners. I raise both, sugar beets and corn...guess you'd say I'm in competition with myself."

"If all of the commodity production in the United States was based on production/marketing programs similar to those in the Sugar Act our whole country would be a lot better off."

Simply put, King contends that a production-cost price floor by sheer nature of demand would raise the open market price to profitable points for the producer. And under a nationally-oriented market-management program, it would also insure an adequate supply of foodstuff to the consumers at a reasonable price.

Two years ago, a Texas crop headed by King organized the American Corn Growers Association which is also headquartered in Dimmitt.

"We now have members in 28 states and we're growing," said King. "I was surprised at the number of members we're getting out of the Midwest...I think they're also getting tired of the cheap corn prices."

Though corn was grown extensively for food in a pre-Columbian Society along the Canadian River some 600 to 800 years ago, commercial corn production as it exists today had a floundering beginning in the Texas Panhandle in the early 1950s. But it was not until the big cattle feeding boom of the 1960s that local farmers began planting the crop extensively for grain in commercial marketing. Up until the late 1960s, grain sorghum—yellow milo or maize by other names—was the primary source of feed-grain in the Texas Panhandle.

"Back then it was No. 1 Okies and milo...now it's Tiger Stripe crossbreds and corn."

"What really stimulated corn production was the coming of the cattle feeding boom," recalled King. "We started out gradually, first checking out the big difference in yields as compared to milo, then we got to checking on the prices...little by little we shifted to corn, as did many of our neighbors."

Then came the food industry—bushel by bushel, taste by taste, the food industry began picking Texas corn over that grown in the South or Midwest. Oldtimers said corn could not be grown commercially in the Panhandle because it had a "Texas sky. But that was before farmers found the abundance of the Ogallala...before hybrids and commercial fertilizers."

Looking at the 21st Century, King is concerned about the placid attitude of Congress on farm legislation—"The future looks bleak for the commodity producer unless we can get someone in Washington who understands agricultural production."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently I visited the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C. and was shocked to discover that John Murray Martin had been listed as MIA (missing in action) until 1979. His plane was shot down on Nov. 20, 1967. The pilot who was with him was my sweetheart, James Badley. He was lucky enough to bail out.

Square dance lessons scheduled

The Merry Mixers Square Dance Club will be conducting dance lessons for couples (married or single). Lessons begin tonight at the Hereford Community Center at 7:30 p.m. There will be no charge for the first two lessons.

Members of the club demonstrated square and round dancing Saturday during the Hereford Senior Citizens new opening celebration. America has named square dancing the national folk dance.

Local youths to perform at Canyon

Tyson Foerster and Landin Morris will be performing at Palo Duro Canyon Pioneer Amphitheater during the presentation of the Kwahadi Indian Dancers Indian Summer.

The event, a collection of song, dance and history, is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 29 and Oct. 6. with the Ballet Folklorico da Amarillo performance at 7 p.m. and the Indian Summer performance at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are priced at $5 for adults, $3 for students, and $3.75 for senior citizens.

A cookout is planned from 6-7 p.m. and the cost is $3.75 a plate. For meal reservations call the Amarillo Tourism and Visitors Bureau at 374-1497.

President Lyndon B. Johnson outlined the goals of his "Great Society" in 1965 in his State of the Union address.

Jim Badley wrote his brother that night and said, "Capt. Martin never came out. I am heartsick. I can't stop thinking about John and Tina and their five kids. I'm afraid to go to sleep. They will probably list him as missing, but there's not much doubt about what actually happened. Tina won't know for a while that her husband went down with the plane, but the Air Force seems to think that is best." (I should mention that when the Air Force list men "missing in action," their widows can continue to receive the servicemen's full pay.)

I know that Jim was planning on talking to Tina when he came home, but he was killed March 27, 1968, so that conversation never took place. It makes me sick to think that the Martin family has lived with doubts all these years. I would like to find them and give them Jim's letter. It also describes what a hero John Martin was in the last moments of his life.

Can you help me locate Tina, Patricia or Kathleen Martin? John Martin was born in Pittsburgh and I believe they later lived in Dover, Del. I have tried without success to find them through Friendfind Agency, Air Force Locator and Omega Task Force, an MIA/POW organization. I hope that you or your readers can help me in my mission, Ann. It would be wonderful if John's family had all the facts about the last hours of his life. Sincerely—Lynda Paffrath, San Mateo, Calif.

DEAR READERS: If anyone knows the whereabouts of John Martin's family members, please contact Lynda Paffrath. Her address is 215 Castilian Way, San Mateo, Calif., 94402.

I'm sure Lynda will let me know if this message bears fruit. Of course, if I hear anything, I'll pass the word to you, my readers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm taking this information directly from "50 Simple Things You Can Do to Save the Earth" by the EarthWorks group, the EarthWorks Press, Berkeley, Calif. Please print it.

1) Americans receive almost 4 million tons of junk mail every year.

2) About 44 percent of the junk mail is never opened. All those trees die in vain.

3) Every person in the United States receives junk mail that can use the equivalent of one and a half trees a year.

4) If only 100,000 people stopped their junk mail, we could save up to 150,000 trees annually. If a million people did this, we could save up to a million and a half trees.

Here is what each person can do. (Be sure to tell your friends and family.)

Write to: Mail Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, 6 East 43rd St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

They will see that your name will no longer be sold to the large mailing list companies. This will reduce your junk mail be nearly 75 percent. (Suggestion: To get people moving, one volunteer in your office could produce a form letter and distribute a copy to all the employees who would merely fill in the particulars and pop it in the mail.)—Turning Green in Long Island

An alcohol problem? How can you help yourself or someone you love? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $3.65 (this includes postage and handling) to: Alcohol, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. (In Canada, send $4.45.)

Toujours Amis study club begins new year

The Toujours Amis Study Club met recently to begin the new club year.

A hobo reunion was the theme of the picnic held at the park adjacent to the Santa Fe Depot.

The yearbook committee hosted the picnic and new year books were distributed.

Members met Sept. 18 in the home of Nena Veazey.

Judge Tom Simons presented a program entitled, Football Fun. He was assisted by Herd coaches Danny Haney and Mike Purcell.

Club members met at the Herd field house and had an explanation of the offense and defense was explained by the coordinators of the teams.

In the business meeting, notes were read from members who were submitting resignations and a thank you from the scholarship recipient, Nikki Huston.

A thank you was also received from the Rape Crisis Domestic Violence Organization for the club's donation.

The project committee was given correspondence from United Way, Crime Stoppers and Town and Country Jubilee for consideration as projects this year.

The finance committee reported a successful booth at the Town and Country Jubilee and the members are to be commended for their hard work and dedication to the club and our community.

The hostesses, Donna Kemp, Kim Buckley, Cindy Simons and Nena Veazey served refreshments to: Judy Barrett, Kim Bigham, Patti Brown, Melinda Bridge, Tami Charist, Debbie Donaldson, Lisa Formby, Shannon Hagar, Marilyn Leasure, Leisa Lewis, Kyla McDowell, Kim Porter who was welcomed as a new member, Becky Reinart and Marsha Winget.

Open house scheduled

Camp Fire has scheduled an open house at 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the Camp Fire Lodge located at 903 14th St. on Sept. 27.

This is an introduction to the Camp Fire program and new clubs will be organized.

Camp Fire helps children develop self-reliance and self-confidence. Meetings are usually held each week after school, in the evenings or on weekends.

Camp Fire is a United Way Agency.

Museum in motion

Deaf Smith County Museum is preparing to go into motion for the Centennial celebration scheduled for Oct. 6. The downstairs showcase is set up with clothing from the 1890s and demonstrations on quilting, spinning and weaving may be seen along with many other scheduled activities.

The oldest Olympic winner was Oscar G. Swahn of Sweden who won the gold in the 1912 Running Deer team shooting competition at 64 years, 258 days. He won a silver medal for shooting in the 1920 Olympics.

Serving families of West Texas since 1890. We consider it a privilege.

100 YEARS AGO...

Alexander III was Czar of Russia...Victoria was Queen of England...Sul Ross was Governor of Texas...

The Director of the U.S. Census Bureau declared the "end of the frontier".

Jim Cook, Deaf Smith County's first sheriff, declared "Since LaPlata does not have a Boot Hill, I will start one!"...and then he shot a cowboy!

Deaf Smith County turns 100 years old next month! A big part of the celebration will be the Hereford Brand's Centennial Edition on Sunday, September 30. This issue will be packed with fun, enlightening, and interesting items about the county's past, present, and future, as well as greetings from area businesses.

Watch the Brand for the schedule of Centennial events and make your plans to attend all the festivities.
