Celebrating chip project

Part of the crowd attending the Ramirez & Sons Christmas project Sunday included some family members of Hereford servicemen who are in Saudia Arabia. The local company sent about $10,000 worth of chips to troops in the Gulf, and local residents participated in the send-off ceremonies Sunday afternoon.

Residents join Ramirez in holiday chip project

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

"Christmas Project Hereford," sponsored by C. Ramirez & Sons, attracted approximately 250 persons here Sunday afternoon to hear a brief ceremony and watch a semi-truck of nacho chips pull out with Saudia Arabia as the destination.

"We wanted to send the soldiers something to let them know we are thinking of them, especially during the holiday season," said Joe Soliz Jr., public relations directors for Ramirez. About 20 Hereford residents are in Saudi, added Soliz.

In a brief ceremony prior to completing the loading of the truck, congratulatory remarks and other comments were made by County Judge Tom Simons, Mayor Wes Fisher, C of C Manager Mike Carr, and Edward Maldonado, Hereford Softball Association's "Citizen of the Year." Rene Ramirez and Soliz served as company spokesmen.

"Our prayers go with this shipment, and we hope these chips give our boys something to munch on while on their way home," said Mayor Wes Fisher.

Judge Simons praised the company for its project. "We hope they enjoy the taste of these Hereford chips, but most of all we hope they return home very soon."

Carr praised the cooperative effort demonstrated in the project and called on all Hereford citizens "to continue to work together to make this an even better place to live." The guest speakers help load the last boxes of chips by hand onto the truck.

Company officials decided to send the chips after local residents kept buying their products to send to the troops, said Soliz. "By sending this amount, about 20,000 soldiers will get a taste of Hereford, Texas, instead of just 20 or 30," Soliz added.

The company spent about three months putting the project together. Soliz said the original plan was to send the chips for Thanksgiving but it took a while to get government permission. Ramirez wanted to send salsa along with the chips but didn't get approval in time, Soliz said.

The chips were made Friday at the company's Tulia plant. Soliz said the company tried to make special chips shaped in the form of Texas but had breakage problems and gave up on that idea. The truck load amounted to about $10,000 worth of chips.

The project drew media coverage from around the area, as well as from Univision, the Spanish network station based in Miami, Fla. A film crew from Univision was here Friday, and Soliz said they were scheduled to have the report on their 5:30 or 10 p.m. news(local Channel 33) on Tuesday or Wednesday.

City to assume office for juvenile probation

By DANEE WILSON
Staff Writer

Hereford City Commissioners voted Monday to move the juvenile probation officer into the Hereford Police Department which is contingent on the approval of the Hereford Independent School District Board and the Deaf Smith County Commissioners.

Currently, the juvenile probation officer is working out of the county, but 92 percent of the cases handled through that office are city cases, said Commissioner Terry Langhenning.

In 1971, an act was passed prohibiting the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Probation Board from hiring a juvenile peace officer. The officer then was hired through the Sheriff's office.

Since the Juvenile Probation Board is made up by representatives from the city, county and school, all three entities shared the expenses for the officer even though the officer was hired through the Sheriff's office. The county provided office space equipment and car.

The city commissioners voted to take the county's responsibilities of providing office space, equipment and car and having the officer hired and work within the police department.

"This will help police officers when dealing with juveniles," said Lieutenant Mike Ahrens. "We handle a lot of juvenile cases, but we aren't trained in counseling and need someone readily available who we can call in."

"I think this is where the officer needs to be," said Mayor Wes Fisher.

The city will be responsible to hiring a new juvenile probation officer. Present officer, Lupe Chavez will resign his position to become a county commissioner in January, 1991.

While discussing the juvenile probation officer, the commissioners voted to reappoint Doug Josseland as the city representative to the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Probation Board. Josseland will serve a two year term.

Bonnie Duke was reappointed to the Fire Fighters' Relief and Retirement Fund. Duke has served on the fund in the past.

Commissioners adopted an ordinance establishing a records management program to be administered by the records management officer as required by the Texas Local Government Records Act. City secretary Bonnie Duke has been named records management officer.

The city staff was given authorization to proceed with bids on Texas Street adjacent to Amistad project. Authorization needed to be given for the city to accept bids. No bid will be awarded before a contract is signed with the Amistad Board. Amistad will be financially responsible for the paving of Texas Street. The city will enter into a contract with Amistad which sets up a payment plan.

In executive session, the commissioners discussed litigation.

Amistad Housing has formal opening here

The Amistad Housing Corp. held a formal opening ceremony and open house here Saturday to celebrate the completion of the 30-unit project for low income agricultural workers.

After six years in the planning, development and construction process, the $1.2 million project is expected to start renting the two, three and four bedroom units this week. As a recipient of Farmer Home Administration grants and loan, the housing project will comply with federal regulations governing admissions, occupancy and evictions.

A local board will manage the housing addition, which is located on a one-block site north of Hwy. 60 on South Texas Street. Herb DeLa Rosa, board president, is currently on military duty. Other board members include Patsy Gonzales, Javier Galvan, Ron Barrett, Cornelio Castaneda, Maria Garcia, Joe Garcia, Maria Luisa Mercado and Rev. Bixenman.

About 50 to 60 attended the ceremonies and more were present for the open house activities. Mercado, attorney for the local board, served as mistress of ceremonies for the formal opening Saturday at 2 p.m. She introduced the local members of the Amistad Housing board and other guests of honor.

Mercado also introduced Mike and Angie Alonzo, resident managers of the project. She pointed out that the success of the project lies in administration by a local board and the resident managers.

Bishop L.T. Matthiesen of Amarillo led a special blessing of the housing units, assisted by the Rev. Joe Bixenman, pastor of San Jose Catholic Church.

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce conducted the ribbon-cutting ceremony for the event. Mayor Wes Fisher and C of C executive manager Mike Carr made brief comments.

Fisher congratulated the board on the opening of the project. "This culminates a lot of hard work by many people and I know you are proud of it. I wish you all the best in this new venture and I sincerely hope that it will be as successful as you intend it to be," said the mayor.

Burned-out family will get CSF help

A local family who lost all of their possessions in a weekend fire have reason enough not to feel merry this holiday season.

The fire consumed all of their clothing and household items, and left the father and mother and their three children--ages 3, 18 months and 8 months--in dire straits.

The Christmas Stocking Fund exists to address just such needs, and thanks to the generosity of donors to the Yule charity, this family has been designated to receive emergency assistance in the form of vouchers for clothing.

CSF assists the less fortunate of Hereford and Deaf Smith County during this special season of caring and sharing. The program is not affiliated with any other organization, and is administered by an anonymous committee of volunteers. These volunteers screen applications and approve assistance, which may include food baskets or vouchers for clothing, utilities or medical treatment.

While the project is in the home stretch of its 1990 effort, there's still time to donate to CSF. Contributions may be left at the Hereford Brand, 313 Lee, or mailed to CSF at Box 673, Hereford. The contribution total was at $12,501 today.

Assistance packages from CSF will be delivered Friday afternoon, Dec. 21, in a "first round" of CSF activity. If sufficient donations are received late in the drive, a second round of assistance, primarily for medical needs and utility help, will likely be provided after Christmas.

Connally tangled in S&L mess

DALLAS (AP) - John Connally's ability to complete a $600,000 deal for a plush Houston condominium raises questions for Congress and the federal agencies supervising the cleanup of the savings and loan industry, a report says.

Although the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday in a copyright story that the former Texas governor has done nothing illegal, Connally's ability to secure the mortgage two years after seeking protection in bankruptcy court was challenged.

The 1989 savings and loan bailout law blocks individuals directly involved in the thrift industry's collapse from benefiting from the $500 billion bailout.

But problem borrowers such as Connally have not been addressed as to whether they should be restricted in future relationships with federally insured or assisted financial institutions.

"I don't know of any specific regulation on the government's part that can deny the sale of a particular asset or financing to an individual because of recent losses due to other financial institutions," said David Barr, a spokesman for the FDIC.

"Can you discriminate against an individual legally ... because he filed for bankruptcy and that bankruptcy has a potential of causing losses to institutions that have failed? We may be getting down to a moral question."

The Times Herald reported Connally's real estate ventures left taxpayers with at least $65 million in bad loans from now-failed savings and loans.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:

I will no longer be the Juvenile Officer for Deaf Smith County as of Dec. 31, 1990. When I came to Hereford on April 1, 1983, I never imagined that my tenure would be as long as it has been; furthermore, that it would come to a conclusion as a result of my being elected county commissioner.

I just want everyone to know that, in looking back now, I cherish and will treasure the years in juvenile work. I thank God for giving me the opportunity of working and dealing with the youth of our community. Because of His guidance, strength, patience and fortitude, I have been able to play a part in the lives of our youth. Those who at one time or another lost hope, desire, respect, and/or got in trouble with the law, but who as a result of my minor influence were able to reform their lives.

The thought of a kid coming back and telling me: "Mr. Chavez, thanks for caring about me and helping me;" or kids saying--after having gone to college, the armed service, or getting a decent job: "Mr. Chavez, I'm glad and I appreciate you for not letting me drop out of school." These sort of comments have been enlightening for me, have made me appreciate my work, and have served also to strengthen my continuing concern for our youth.

It hasn't been an easy task, but I didn't expect it to be. And, because of the understanding, support and cooperation of the Hereford Police Department, the Hereford ISD, the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's department, the District Attorney's office, and the Deaf Smith County Juvenile Board, I prevailed. My deep and sincere gratitude to the aforementioned entities and/or agencies, to our community, and last but not least, to the parents.

Thank you and God bless you!
Lupe Chavez

Christmas Chip Project

Approximately 250 local residents turned out for the event.

Insurance stiff heart patient

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Ronald Gilmore got a shock when he returned home after his heart transplant operation.

Like thousands of other victims of a $21 million fraud scheme, Gilmore learned his health insurance policy was worthless and couldn't cover the cost of the $200,000 procedure.

"The hospital has been pretty good through it all. They haven't pushed me for the money. But this whole thing's been pretty bad," said the 49-year-old retired brewery worker from Robbins.

A federal grand jury last week charged six officers of a Charlotte company with bilking Gilmore and more than 1,350 other families and individuals out of their insurance benefits and pocketing $21 million.

CAP Programs Inc. and several associated businesses never paid millions in medical claims for workers at 120 small businesses, the indictment charged.

To Gilmore, the first hints of trouble came when he was recovering at Duke University Medical Center after receiving his new heart in October 1989. His coverage was provided by his wife's employer, a small textile company.

"The bills started coming in right away. I called them (CAP) and they kept giving me the runaround," he said. "Finally, it came out that they just weren't going to pay."

All the while, prosecutors say, the defendants were living the high life, using the premiums to buy lavish homes, beachfront condominiums and luxury cars.

"I'd like to see them serve a long hard time in prison," said Gilmore, who retired from Stroh's Brewery in Winston-Salem after a heart attack in 1981. "I'd like to see them spend their time making little rocks out of big rocks."

Gilmore has been unable to get health insurance now because of his medical condition.

"They took advantage of people who had no reason to suspect a thing," he said, explaining that CAP had paid $14,000 in bills when he had an earlier hernia operation.

Federal officials said that was typical of a "Ponzi" scheme, a fraud in which money taken in initially by swindlers is used to make early payouts and lure in more money.

Julian De La Rosa, inspector general of the U.S. Labor Department, said the health insurance scheme was one of about three dozen now under investigation. He estimated the victims of such frauds numbered in the tens of thousands.

"What is especially frightening is that we all can be victimized by this type of criminal enterprise because each of us has a very fundamental need for a health insurance policy that will assure us and our families that we can afford the health care we may need," he said.

The indictment said CAP told customers their medical bills would be covered by the Travelers Insurance Co. But Travelers was responsible only for processing claims.

In an agreement with North Carolina officials, Travelers has paid some medical claims. The company also is suing CAP.

The 120 companies that used CAP are in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

The issue of such health insurance scams was the subject of hearings last spring in the Senate. Lawmakers heard numerous tales like that of Gilmore.

This holiday season

Emphasize family, tradition

There is something in the air during Christmastime that changes people's attitudes: Angry becomes joyous, negative becomes positive, depressed becomes hopeful, selfish becomes giving and even contented becomes elated.

Holidays bring us closer to the answer to the question, "Why are we here?" Hasn't everyone at some time been caught in a rut, the daily grind, and wondered what their purpose was in life?

On Christmas day, there are no important meetings to go to, no deadlines to meet, and no presentations to give; so even busy executives can sit back and enjoy their holidays, guilt-free.

The holiday season takes us away from our day-to-day routines and lets us focus on what is really important: The simple things in life, the things we take for granted.

Also, Christmas gives us a chance to reminisce with family members by looking through old photo albums, watching home movies and talking about old times and catching up on new ones, too.

Christmas dinner is a favorite part of the day and is also somewhat of a novelty. In today's fast-paced society, family sitdown dinners are few and far between. So, a formal holiday dinner turns out to be an enjoyable social event, as well as a scrumptious feast!

Some may argue that the weeks leading up to Christmas are more enjoyable than the actual day itself. Festive lights and decorations go up weeks in advance, spreading the holiday spirit to all. Even the simplest looking structure is transformed into a visual carnival, emitting feelings of warmth and unity to its own.

Invariably, the cheer is then carried to offices and homes where co-workers and loved ones catch the holiday spirit, and eventually it is spread into epidemic proportions!

Many drab-looking offices become festive delights during Christmas. Cheerful decorations provide a friendly working environment. Christmas parties bring co-workers closer together by giving them an opportunity to socialize on a personal level, with no "shop talk" involved.

Hearing from old friends is another aspect of the holidays that many look forward to. It's a fact of life that friends move away and people get busy. It's virtually impossible to keep all the relationships in our lives as strong as they once were.

CHRISTMAS IS FAMILY TIME

Christmas lends an excuse to spend time with family-quality time. Instead of sitting in front of the TV and talking only during commercials, families tend to engage in more group-oriented activities, those that all can participate in.

Besides the traditional exchanging of gifts, families participate in games such as "charades" and "rummy." If they are lucky, they may find one of the more trendy games under the tree, like "Pictionary" or "Trivial Pursuit."

SHOPPING CAN BE FUN

Although it is sometimes hectic, Christmas shopping can be both satisfying and enjoyable, even last minute shopping. Shopping malls are filled with sights and sounds that get us into the spirit of Christmas. Has a year gone by when we haven't heard the familiar Salvation Army bell ringing along as we cross the names off our gift-giving list? And, isn't it more enjoyable to hear "Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire," than the usual canned music we hear 11 months of the year at shopping malls?

A NEW ATTITUDE

Rather than letting the crowds and the lines get to you this holiday season, why not join the optimists of the world?

These optimists are the people you see greeting everyone that passes them by with a wish of good cheer. This optimistic attitude is contagious, and gets transmitted to every person within smiling dis-

KEEPING IN TOUCH

The holiday season offers a reason to make time to reach out to people who were once very important in our lives. A holiday greeting with a personal note inside is the perfect way to brighten the day of an old friend. It lets the recipient know you still care.

Year after year, as our society becomes more technologically advanced and less people-oriented, a holiday like Christmas will become more of a necessity than a tradition. Imagine a society without Christmas: No decorations, no Christmas trees, no children's faces lit up when they see Santa, no eggnog, no mistletoe, no holiday spirit, no peace on earth and good will toward man-no way!

America needs Christmas and will be celebrating it for many years to come-it's here to stay!

Abundant Life

BY BOB WEAR
The Old Paths

We live in a rapidly changing world, at least it seems so. Of course, in the absolute, "there is no new thing under the sun." Nevertheless, we call the happenings of life changes. There are resulting problems, complications, losses and burdensome experiences for many folk. What we call change may be bad or it may be good. Some things to which we are accustomed must not be changed and some things have to be changed.

Some folk say that they would like to go back to what they call "the good old days", but this is not a solution. Many of us have lived long enough to know that in the true sense, there was no such time. This does not, however, justify the rejection of the true and good things that existed in the past.

Some old things must be preserved. At least, they are called "old." These things are correctly identified as "eternal" or "timeless" in their origin, their perfection, their completeness, and in their established value. They were made for any time and all time. We are seeing the misery and the madness resulting from the rejection of and the departure from the timeless establishments and time-honored values.

Honesty is old, and look what the change to widespread dishonesty is costing us. It is costing us in increased taxes, and worst of all, it is weakening the structure of our social order. "Honesty is, after all, the basic starting point of character. Honesty is the indispensable essential of every worthwhile success."-Charles Gow.

Morality is, by many, considered to be passe. They say that it is outdated and old-fashioned. Immorality is the enemy of the home, the school, the individual and of the state. There is no satisfactory way to erase or overcome the consequences of the widespread immorality. Immorality has in it the potential to destroy individuals and nations.

The truth is we can never change that which, in its very nature, is changeless.

A&M only No. 1 to miss finals

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer
Of the teams ranked No. 1 in the final Associated Press high school football poll at the end of the regular season, only A&M Consolidated in Class 4A failed to make it to the state championship game.

In what many thought was the "real" Class 4A championship game, No. 1-ranked A&M Consolidated beat No. 2-ranked Bay City, 29-19, in the quarterfinals.

But A&M Consolidated's three best players were ailing for the semifinal game against Austin Westlake and bowed out of the playoffs, 24-14.

Westlake was ranked much of the season but fell out of the final rankings after losing the district championship to Austin Reagan. Westlake's opponent in the championship game will be Wilmer-Hutchins, which finished in the No. 9 spot in the 4A poll.

Class 5A was split into a big school and regular division for the playoffs this year, for the first time, and the No. 1 and No. 2 ranked teams in 5A ended up in the smaller division, where they met Saturday for the championship. Top-ranked Aldine beat second-ranked Arlington Lamar, 27-10.

Meeting in the title game of the big school division are Converse Judson (No. 6) and Marshall (No. 9).

In Class 3A, Vernon finished No. 1 and Southlake Carroll No. 2. They

7th White 55, Valleyview Blue 44
The Herd brought home the championship trophy with a 20-6 fourth-quarter run that overcame a three-point Valleyview lead.

Hereford opened with a 15-14 edge after the first quarter, but the Vikings came back with a 12-10 advantage in the second to lead 26-25 at the half.

Valleyview upped the lead to 38-35 with a 12-10 edge in the third before Hereford decided the issue in the final six minutes.

Hereford was led by Torres with 18 points and McPhearson with 15. Rickenbaw added eight points with Radford, Dudley and Armando Zambrano getting four apiece and Bullard two.

Thank You To The People of Hereford

We would like to express our sincere thanks to everyone who came out and made "PROJECT HEREFORD" a special event Sunday afternoon.

A special thanks to Stagner-Orsborn, Park Avenue Florist, Flowers West and St. Anthony's Church. Your concern and interest for the well-being of the American soldiers in the Persian Gulf has made this sendoff rally a huge success.

Thanks again Hereford from...

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN
1 day per word	15	3.00
2 days per word	28	5.20
3 days per word	37	7.40
4 days per word	46	9.80
5 days per word	55	11.80

If you run ads in five consecutive issues with NO changes, you get the same ad in the Reach 4 More free. The regular charge for that ad would be $4.00.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines, those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Complex scents best for men

Studies show that last year women spent 1.1 billion dollars on men's fragrance, compared with .5 billion spent by men for their own scents. That's the equivalent of the entire federal budget of a small country!

Are women spending these large sums wisely? Are men getting something they will really use and appreciate?

Here are some guidelines on how to buy fragrance for a man.

Think of 10 completely different things he absolutely loves: When you shop for a man's scent, avoid categorizing him and looking for a fragrance that fits his category. Remember that men are complex beings with a variety of interests. They are not single-minded animals that have a sole interest in cars, sports or women. A scent that says it's primarily for the rugged man or the sophisticated man or the sensitive man is missing the boat.

A man's scent should help him express and enjoy the incredible variety of moods and activities he will experience throughout the day. Look for a scent that acknowledges men for who they truly are. Part man, part boy, part father, part child, sometimes strong, sometimes vulnerable, wise and innocent. Thank of as many different interests as possible and look for a scent that speaks to each and every one of the them.

Choose something you like: If you're buying fragrance for a man, it is safe to assume you have a reasonably close relationship with him. That means you have some-what similar tastes and that something you like will probably be something he likes. While the primary reason men should wear fragrance is for their own enjoyment, men-like women-love it when you compliment them on their scent. What's more, men are great fragrance customers because they are willing to try everything and they don't have fierce brand loyalties. They're open to trying lots of different scents and scent forms, which makes selecting fragrances a simpler process.

Think of fragrance as a personal statement, not a public overture: The sheer fact that a man chooses to wear a scent does not mean that he wants everyone to notice and comment. To the contrary, the lion's share of men wear fragrances that make them feel good-that reflect how they feel about themselves. One of the most important elements a man looks for in his fragrance is a feeling of freshness and cleanliness, something that is not too intrusive.

Shop for the modern man: Whether he's 20, 50 or 80, today's man is a modern man and his fragrance should meet the demands of his lifestyle and tastes. A modern man's fragrance is one that is complex, consisting of many different notes and subtleties. This is in contrast with the single-note quality of old fashioned men's scents such as bay rum, leather or tobacco. Look for a man's scent that is as intricate as a woman's scent.

Buy him a form of fragrance he doesn't usually buy for himself: Aftershave may have been the first and only men's "cologne" available years ago, but today it takes its place alongside a bevy of fragrance and grooming products designed exclusively for men. Women can help men build a fragrance wardrobe that allows men to pamper themselves without reworking their entire grooming ritual.

Body chemistry: Did you know that the color of his skin and hair will affect how a fragrance will smell on him? Our natural pigment has a lot to do with how a scent will smell on us. Multi-florals and spices in cream and lotions forms work best with the body chemistry of blonds. Redheads tend to smell best in florals and fruity blends and oriental scents work best on brunettes. The less pigment you have in your skin, the drier your skin will be and the quicker a scent will evaporate.

Remember, aesthetics count! It is a well-known fact that men have a fascination with objects that satisfy their tactile interests. In short, if it doesn't look and feel good, it will end up on the back shelf whether it's a hammer or a fragrance bottle. Select something that looks like it will satisfy this need.

Knowledge is power!: Let your purchase of a fragrance for a man be the first step in educating him about how he can buy it for himself. Take him to the counter with you and show him how to apply it to his skin and wait a minute before sniffing it. Most men use the "sniffing straight from the bottle" technique, which does not tell them what the scent will smell like on skin.

Look for a scent that maintains its integrity over a long period of time. You don't want a scent that releases too quickly and leaves a man wearing a scent that is quite different than the one he intended to apply. A scent has notes that convey freshness and maintain the scent over time. Don't forget that for the best wear, scents should always be stored away from direct sunlight.

The value of value: Men tend to be far more thrifty than women, especially when it comes to luxury items such as fragrance. Look for a fragrance that is comfortable and appropriate for all occasions so he will wear it frequently and use it up. This is a fragrance that he will be likely to purchase again for himself. Investing in a fragrance that is worn only now and then means he won't get the most for your money. And at the rate of 1.6 billion dollars every year, that's a lot of value!

In 1966, the Beatles gave what was to be their last concert at Candlestick Park in San Francisco.

Cantaloupe, honeydew, casaba, Persian and Odessa are all varieties of the muskmelon. Their differences are the result of cultivation in different regions of the world.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a woman in my early 40s, divorced and seeing "Brian," a divorced man who is 47. He recently returned from a trip back East to his youngest daughter's wedding and is terribly upset.

Brian feels that his daughter's wedding was spoiled by his ex-wife's behavior. "Nina" carried on disgracefully with "Roger," the man she's going with. They danced in a sexually explicit, hip-grinding, butt-clutching way that embarrassed everyone.

Not wanting to make a scene, Brian said nothing to Nina but he feels that he should speak to her now, before their other daughter gets married, probably next year. He wants to issue an ultimatum forbidding Nina to bring a male guest, even if she is married to him -- and if she refuses he will not pay for the wedding.

I told Brian that I sympathized with him, but he should not try to control anyone else's behavior. The most he should say to Nina is that he was unhappy about the dancing and hope that she "gets the message."

Brian disagrees. He feels it is his responsibility to his older daughter to do whatever is necessary to protect her from the embarrassment suffered by her sister. He'd like to know what you think before he says anything to his ex. Please hurry. -- Trouble in San Jose, Calif.

DEAR SAN JOSE: You sound like a woman whose head is on straight. With a friend like you, Brian doesn't need any input from me. I hope he listens.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year when I was 20 years old, I was in a car accident and suffered some serious facial disfigurement.

In a matter of seconds I went from being a pretty girl to looking hideous. Needless to say, I learned in a hurry how society deals with physical imperfection. People suddenly treat you differently. They don't open doors for you. They don't want to wait on you in stores. They make you feel like a freak.

Thank God and some wonderful surgery, I now look pretty good and feel somewhat normal again.

I received a sizable financial settlement from the man who ran into my car and this is why I am writing. I would like to give some money to someone who cannot afford plastic surgery, but I have no idea how to go about it. I know you have good medical connections and would appreciate some guidance. -- XX in Pa.

DEAR XX: What a generous move. I'm acquainted with the fine work done at the National Foundation

CARDS REFLECT EVENTS
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - Some 2.2 billion Christmas cards will be exchanged this year, and because of the situation in the Middle East they will contain more messages of hope, unity and world peace, according to Hallmark Cards.

Some card designs feature the single word "Peace," while others show people holding hands, and some have dove symbols or show Santa with children of many nationalities.

for Facial Reconstruction, which supports the work of the Institute of Reconstructive Plastic Surgery. Its address is 317 E. 34th St., New York, N.Y. 10016, and I'm sure a letter to the executive director, Arlyn Gardner, would be most welcome. The surgeons there are superb and their patients can always use the kind of assistance you are offering. Thank you, thank you, thank you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a 52-year-old divorced man who has no desire to get married. I've gone with three attractive women in the last four years and had to break up with all of them because they pressured me. I always have been up front about my intentions. They agree to my terms, then fall madly in love with me and press for marriage.

The woman I've been seeing lately has three homes and a yacht. She buys me lavish gifts and phones me daily. She will not leave me alone. I am sick of being chased and I need some advice. Please help. -- Mexico City
