Dukakis says Bush is out of touch

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis accused rival George Bush of being hopelessly out of touch with American workers for saying wages have dropped because of "competitive change," while President Reagan used some of his harshest rhetoric to date to denounce the Democratic ticket for advocating "a Disneyland defense policy."

Bush and Dukakis went back on the road today for the post-Labor Day campaign blitz. Bush was appearing before the same American Legion audience that Reagan warmed up Tuesday, and Dukakis was preparing fresh assaults on Bush's claim to be the education president when the Democratic nominee appears at Kean College in Union, N.J.

Behind the scenes, Dukakis agreed to Bush's request that they meet face-to-face only twice and have running mate Lloyd Bentsen debate Republican Dan Quayle once. Negotiations continued today on scheduling and format.

Dukakis criticized Bush on Tuesday after the vice president told a shipyard worker in Portland, Ore., his wages have dropped from $13.36 an hour to $9.50 an hour under the Reagan administration because "you're going through a competitive change." The reference was to foreign competition.

After being met by a boozing and jeering union crowd at the Northwest Marine Iron Works in Portland, Bush said during lunch, "All I need is 51 percent of the vote."

"George Bush made it clear today that he really does not understand the hopes and dreams and aspirations of millions and millions of American workers across this country," Dukakis said in response to Bush's comments. "That's not an adequate answer to American workers."

Last week, Bush evoked an angry response when he called a small increase in the unemployment rate "statistically irrelevant."

Bush was planning to speak today to the 70th annual convention of the American Legion in Louisville, Ky., where Reagan on Tuesday lambasted the Democratic ticket on defense matters before the audience of 7,000 veterans and their families.

Reagan said that while Bush's opponents have praised him for reaching a treaty with the Soviets banning intermediate-range nuclear weapons in Europe, they also "opposed deploying the missiles that made that treaty possible."

"Yes, it comes down to this: After eight hard years of rebuilding America's strength, do we really want to return to a Disneyland defense policy — with Mickey Mouse treatment of our men and women in uniform, Goofy strategic plans and Donald Duck-like lectures telling us that whatever goes wrong is our own blankety-blank fault?" Reagan asked.

The battleground of the airwaves began seeing some action. In ads that began airing Tuesday in several states, the Democratic National Committee accused Reagan and Republicans of misleading Americans about the threat posed by the federal budget deficit.

Later this week, DNC plans include an ad stressing Dukakis' "bringing prosperity home" theme, which emphasizes economic policies.

A Dukakis campaign ad that began airing nationally Tuesday night shows a montage of shots from Dukakis' speech at the Democratic convention and lists his major accomplishments as governor.

The Dukakis campaign also began airing a third ad just in Texas, touting Dukakis and his running mate, Bentsen, for supporting legislation to give workers 60 days' notice before a plant closing.

Despite the air time, Dukakis had some trouble getting his campaign off the ground Tuesday.

His flight was grounded in Chicago by the Federal Aviation Administration after a surprise inspection turned up three minor safety violations, forcing the Massachusetts governor to cancel an appearance in Columbus, Ohio.

The flight he managed to take home to Boston landed safely, but a cone over the rear galley popped off and dropped to the tarmac.

Sorting out corn letters

Ike Stevens, left, of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce agriculture committee, and Mike Carr, chamber executive vice president, sort through some of the 135 letters the chamber has received from area corn farmers over the past two weeks. The farmers said they could devote 44,000 acres to food corn production in an effort to lure a major food corn processor to Hereford. The letters will be bound in folders and forwarded to the prospective company as part of the chamber's efforts.

Hispanic population up one-third since 1980

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Hispanics has grown by more than one-third since 1980 and now represents 8.1 percent of the nation's population, the Census Bureau says.

In a report issued Tuesday, the bureau also said the rate of Hispanic growth is nearly five times that for the rest of the population, and more than half of all Hispanics in this country live in just two states: California and Texas.

The bureau estimated there were 19.4 million Americans of Hispanic background as of last March. That is 34 percent more than the 14.5 million people who listed themselves as Hispanics in the 1980 census.

The nation's non-Hispanic population increased by about 7 percent in the same period.

About half the Hispanic increase was a result of immigration and half resulted from birth rates exceeding death rates.

While people of Spanish ancestry made up a growing share of the nation's residents, they are extremely concentrated geographically, the bureau found. About one-third, 33.9 percent, live in California, and 21.3 percent live in Texas, meaning those two states account for well over half of all Hispanics in the United States.

The study did not estimate the Hispanic population of every state, but it said that nearly 90 percent live in just nine states.

Those are California, 6.6 million; Texas, 4.1 million; New York, 2.1 million; Florida, 1.5 million; Illinois, 801,000; Arizona, 648,000; New Jersey, 646,000; New Mexico, 543,000, and Colorado, 368,000.

Other findings of the report include:

— The unemployment rate among

Hispanics was 8.5 percent, compared with 5.8 percent for non-Hispanics.

— People of Mexican heritage were the largest Hispanic group at 12.1 million. They were followed by Puerto Ricans living on the U.S. mainland, 2.5 million; Central and South Americans, 2.2 million; and Cubans, 1 million.

— The proportion of Hispanic families anchored by a married couple was 70 percent, down from 74 percent when it was last measured in 1982. At the same time, the share of families headed by a woman with no spouse present increased from 26 percent to 30 percent.

— More than half (51 percent) of Hispanics have completed high school, and 10 percent have completed four years of college. That still trails non-Hispanics, of whom 78 percent are high school graduates and 21 percent have finished college.

Fires belt Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Visitors were ordered out of the Old Faithful complex today as a wind-blown wildfire roared less than a mile away, and firefighters at Yellowstone's northern border battled to save two towns.

The 500 to 600 visitors and non-essential employees at the hotel and campground complex near the park's most popular attraction were told to leave for safety reasons and to allow firefighters the access they need to protect structures, says spokeswoman Joan Anzelmo.

"This is not a panic at all," she said.

Winds gusting to 30 mph pushed the 147,000-acre North Fork blaze to within three-quarters of a mile of the complex early today. Embers carried by the wind started spot fires even nearer to the famed geyser.

Although officials had earlier said they did not believe an evacuation would be needed, Anzelmo said the fire did not calm down during the night as it usually has.

"We just feel that for the public's safety, we will never take any chances," she said.

Officials are confident they can protect structures from the advancing flames. These include the historic, wooden Old Faithful Inn, two other lodges, hundreds of cabins, a general store, a service station and a clinic.

On Tuesday, soldiers laid a 4,000-foot irrigation line to wet down the area to divert the flames.

The blaze is among 13 major fires that have burned roughly 1 million acres this summer in Yellowstone and the surrounding national forests in Wyoming, Montana and Idaho. Inside the 2.2 million-acre park, 634,000 acres are charred.

At Yellowstone's northern border, firefighters wetted down buildings in the tiny Montana tourist towns of Cooke City and Silver Gate as the 63,000-acre Storm Creek fire surged out of the park. Both towns, with a combined year-round population of 150, were ordered evacuated earlier Tuesday as the fire threatened from 12 miles away.

Flames from a spot fire skirted Silver Gate from just 600 yards away Tuesday night and moved toward Cooke City, three miles to the east.

Wind-blown embers landed on buildings but were quickly doused by firefighters, who waged a night-long effort to save the community.

Cool night air reduced the spot fire's intensity, said fire information officer Pat Kaunert, but the Storm Creek fire raged out of control.

Firefighters cut Silver Gate's power Tuesday night to prevent the downing of live power lines. The town was lit only by spotlights, and the orange glow of the spot fire 200 yards away was bright enough to read by, The Associated Press' David Foster reported from the town.

Elsewhere, a fire in parched grass and pine in central Washington exploded from 160 acres Monday to more than 25,000 acres Tuesday, sending firefighters fleeing, destroying at least one house and forcing the evacuation of a dozen others. State officials closed 40 miles of nearby U.S. 97 due to smoke.

In Idaho, wind whipped a fire in the Nez Perce National Forest from 25,900 acres Monday to 36,780 by Tuesday night.

Campgrounds were evacuated about 225 miles north of San Francisco in the King Mountain Range, where a 1,150-acre fire was burning. Forests and grassland also burned in Oregon and Utah.

The Boise Interagency Fire Center, the coordinating office for firefighting in the West, said fires this year have charred 3.65 million acres, an area larger than Connecticut. Slightly more than 2 million of the acres are in Alaska. During the last big fire season, 1985, 2.8 million acres burned. The fire center has called this the worst fire season in 30 years.

A penny saved is a penny spurned by Almanac

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — The Farmers' Almanac expects to see a little less snow and a lot less drought next year, but what the 172-year-old digest of Americana really wants to see less of is pennies.

The penny, inspiration for homely expressions that have been a staple of almanacs since Benjamin Franklin set up shop — "A penny saved is a penny earned" is one — has outlived its usefulness, concludes the 1989 edition of the Farmer's Almanac.

"Only tradition explains our stubborn attachment to the penny. But sometimes traditions get ridiculous," the almanac says, living down its reputation as a defender of long-held values.

Instead, editor Ray Geiger has proposed a new coin worth 12½ cents, or one "bit."

"I can't think of anything you can buy with a penny. The penny candy is all a nickel," said Geiger, who with varying degrees of success has led the publication's previous campaigns to restore city names to postmarks, eliminate the nine-digit ZIP code and print currency in colors other than green.

"You see a penny on the street and you no longer bother to pick it up," and young children often find it's no longer worth their time and effort to empty jars of pennies and package them in 50-cent rolls, Geiger said in a recent interview.

Also in the newly released edition is a prediction for another "cold and mean" winter, but not as rough as the last one, with a little less snow in the Midwest and the Rockies.

The summer of 1989 should be more pleasant, with drier than average weather but no repeat of this year's drought, according to Geiger. "We didn't predict the drought, but neither did anybody else," he said.

But what really gets Geiger heated up is the persistence of the penny, whose purchasing power has diminished to the point where its only uses are making change and collecting sales taxes, according to the almanac.

The almanac's plan for the bit — a name derived from "two bits," the colloquial expression for a quarter — takes into account the change in monetary values.

"This perceives the dollar as being cut into eight equal pieces, half a dollar is four bits, 75 cents is six bits," the almanac said. It points out that while U.S. money is based on the decimal system, stock markets routinely list prices in increments of one-eighth of a dollar.

The almanac says the introduction of the bit would bridge the gap between the dime and the quarter, for greater flexibility in coin combinations that would produce 22½ cents, 27½ cents and so forth, all the way up to 97½ cents.

To promote the idea, the almanac suggests a gold-toned coin that would be about as thick as a dime, midway in size between the nickel and the quarter.

The Treasury Department declined to embrace the recommendation, saying there has been no groundswell of support for a change.

"We've periodically examined the penny, and right now the department has no plans to eliminate it. It's still an integral part of the coinage system," said spokeswoman Felice Pelosi.

Geiger's almanac, which is sold to banks, insurance companies and other businesses for distribution to customers as a promotion, claims a circulation of more than 5 million.

Geiger, who turns 78 this month, is marking his 55th year as almanac editor, a tenure he says ties the record established by the original editor of the Old Farmers Almanac, a New Hampshire-based publication founded in 1792.

Boulter says gap will close

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter says he believes he can close the sizable margin a recent poll says exists between him and U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen before Nov. 8.

A poll conducted by the Houston Chronicle and the Dallas Morning News showed 58 percent of voters preferring Bentsen, while 28 percent supported Boulter, R-Amarillo, for Senate.

Boulter said Tuesday during a campaign stop here that the poll was good news and showed him gaining ground in the past six weeks.

"If I gain another 20 points over the next month and a half, let me tell you, we'll be in great shape," he said.

Continuing his campaign theme that attempts to paint Bentsen as two-faced for running dual races for the Senate and the vice presidency, Boulter said Bentsen's alliance with Dukakis proves he's no friend to the energy industry.

"Now, one of the Lloyd Bentsens is trying to convince you and I and Texans all over as a part of his vice presidential campaign that Govern-nor Michael Dukakis is going to be the savior of the oil and gas industry," he told supporters at a GOP gathering.

"I find it incredible, absolutely incredible, that Lloyd Bentsen could pander Mike Dukakis off as someone who is going to help the domestic petroleum industry, especially when you compare Mike Dukakis with George Bush."

Boulter said Dukakis has opposed deregulation of natural gas and oil prices and repeal of the windfall profits tax.

"Michael Dukakis has made a political career out of energy bating," he said.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

As anyone who has lived around these parts through at least one December should know, this is The Pheasant Hotbed come the second Saturday of December.

We can conservatively estimate that the 16 or so days of December when it's legal to hunt pheasant brings a few million into our area. That's a conservative estimate. It may actually bring in several million dollars as friends from other parts of Texas, other states and even a few Canadian provinces flock into the Panhandle, and the Magic Triangle in particular, for a shot at the colorful birds.

There are only so many places to hunt, and most of the good places are booked for several generations. Even the bad places are, for the most part, reserved.

The competition to get into the field, especially on that magical first weekend, is becoming fierce.

Now there are dogs getting into the act.

That's right, Dogs.

Now I've never hunted pheasant with a dog. Usually, we have several of us in the back passing around a hot water bottle or something else to keep us warm while some poor soul is up ahead on the side of the field, "blocking."

I s'pose that since it's the thing to do, the "blocker" is our "designated driver," just in case the hot water bottle breaks or something.

Anyway, there's a letter making the rounds. F. Michael Carr, the local chamber chief, has received the same letter from two different dogs. I guess it's a dog chain letter.

This is now it goes:

Hello,

I have a problem. Ever since we moved to (insert name of town: one's from Houston, the other from Midland) six years ago, I haven't had the opportunity to hunt any pheasants. Back in Dakota my hunting partners and I shot a few of those beautiful birds on public lands. I have lost one of my hunting partners this past year. We have hunted quail, dove and a lot of rabbits, but there is nothing to compare to the magnificent pheasant. Recently I have acquired an aggravating youngster.

"You see, my name is C.B. and I am an 11 year old female Weimeraner who loves to hunt. My hunting partner is Gretal, a 3 1/2 year old female who has never seen an open field, to say anything about flushing a magnificent cock pheasant. The excitement of hearing those thundering wings, the roar or her master's old single-shot 12 gauge, the extreme pleasure of retrieving the downed bird (providing the four-eyed old cuss hits it) and basking in the praise of a job well done.

"While I am still able I would like to teach this youngster some of the tricks of the field. She has taken a shine to our master and he to her so I would like the chance to make her into a fine specimen such as I am, if possible.

As I said, I am 11 years old and would sure love at least one more good hunt while the old eyeballs and bones will allow such activity. We live in a rich state and a richer town but we are not of the fortunate ones to share in this wealth; however, we are willing to make a contribution for the great privilege of at least one more hunt.

"If anyone can help me with this problem we would love to hear from you. Thank you."

If you have an open spot, you can call the chamber at 364-3333. Seriously, the chamber can find you some hunters if you are in need for either weekend of the season, or during the week.

Legalizing marijuana probed

Drug helps cancer patients

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Drug Enforcement Administration's chief administrative law judge says marijuana should be legalized as a prescription drug because smoking it helps cancer patients control nausea after chemotherapy.

Francis L. Young recommended reclassifying marijuana as a Schedule II drug so that it could be prescribed by physicians to treat the often severe nausea accompanying chemotherapy as well as muscle spasms caused by multiple sclerosis.

Young, whose findings are not binding on DEA's head, John Lawn, acknowledged that "strong emotions are aroused on both sides of any discussion concerning the use of marijuana."

"Nonetheless it is essential for this agency, and its administrator, calmly and dispassionately to review the evidence of record, correctly to apply the law, and act accordingly," he wrote in an opinion released Tuesday.

Young rejected as "specious" the argument that prescribing marijuana cigarettes as a medicine "will 'send a signal' that marijuana is OK generally for recreational use."

"The fear of sending such a signal cannot be permitted to override the legitimate need, amply demonstrated in this record, of countless sufferers for the relief marijuana can provide when prescribed by a physician in a legitimate case."

Young cited testimony by doctors and patients during 11 days of hearings that marijuana was an accepted and effective treatment for nausea among cancer patients and for multiple sclerosis, a debilitating and crippling neurological disease.

The hearings were ordered in 1960 by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here, which chastised DEA for ignoring its statutory obligation to consider evidence that marijuana might have some medical benefit.

The appellate court had twice previously overruled DEA's rejection of petitions, first filed in 1972, by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML).

The group's attorney, Kevin B. Zeese, vowed to take the case back to the court if Lawn or his successor rejects Young's recommendation.

DEA has historically opposed moving marijuana from the list of Schedule I drugs, which includes heroin, PCP and LSD, to Schedule II.

DEA spokesman Cornelius Dougherty said Lawn "won't have any comment until he has had a chance to look at" Young's 68-page opinion.

Dougherty said Lawn could opt to hold further hearings before making a final decision.

Zeese hailed Young's decision, saying it marks "the first time there has ever been an unbiased hearing on whether or not marijuana is safe for use under medical supervision."

"It's a very important step in the process," Zeese said.

Even if DEA upholds Young's findings, the Food and Drug Administration and state regulatory agencies would have to pass judgment before marijuana were made available as a drug.

Young determined that smoking marijuana was more effective at controlling nausea from chemotherapy than capsules that contain the synthetic THC, the chemically active ingredient of cannabis.

When smoked, "natural marijuana is inhaled and generally takes effect more quickly than the synthetic capsule which is ingested and must be processed through the digestive system before it takes effect," Young said.

In the case of multiple sclerosis, there are few drugs to treat muscle spasms and they often cause serious side effects, Young said.

Texas billionaire tries new field with thrift purchase

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The acquisition by the Robert M. Bass Group of American Savings and Loan Association is a venture into a new field by the Fort Worth billionaire whose family fortune stems from Texas oil money.

But analysts say the financier's move was not unexpected. "We know they've looked before at other S&Ls in the Texas area," said Bruce Benteman, a research analyst for Wealth Monitors, a Kansas City investment advice firm.

"This is obviously one of the biggest deals that they've done," Benteman said. "It shows the pockets of Bob Bass and his affiliates — it shows how deep they are."

Bass, 40, has agreed to put up $550 million in cash to acquire the Stockton, Calif.-based thrift, the nation's largest insolvent savings and loan.

Bass' personal wealth is estimated at more than $1 billion. The wealth of the Bass family, including Robert's brothers Sid, R., Lee M. and Edward P., is estimated at $5 billion to $6 billion.

The brothers have a history of buying troubled businesses and then waiting for a turnaround and the profit that follows.

Their fortune dates back to Texas wildcatter Sid Richardson and his series of successful oil strikes. Richardson never married and left some of his millions to his partner and nephew, Perry Bass.

Perry's four sons each inherited $2.8 million, and they combined assets to form Bass Brothers Enterprises. In 1968, Perry, a competitive sailor, handed over the business to son Sid.

All educated at Yale University, the Bass brothers have been described as atypical Texas tycoons with a conservative style and quiet manner. Robert M. Bass started his business career after Yale at Wells Fargo Bank and returned to Texas in 1974 to a spot at Bass Brothers Enterprises.

Tales of rivalries among the four brothers have surfaced in recent years, and in 1963 Robert M. Bass broke away to form Robert M. Bass Group to pursue deals on his own.

The savings and loan deal announced Monday is one in a series Robert M. Bass has been involved in recently.

He bought the Westin Hotel chain from Allegis Corp. for $1.53 billion. In March, Bass sold the Plaza Hotel in Manhattan for $410 million to fellow billionaire Donald Trump.

Bass reached an agreement on May 17 to buy Bell & Howell Co., a publishing and information services company in Skokie, Ill.

Also in that field, Bass has been making offers for Macmillan Inc., another publishing and information company. The Robert M. Bass Group already owns 9.2 percent of Macmillan. Now London-based Maxwell Communication Corp. has announced its intention to buy the firm.

Negotiations are still pending in the Macmillan sale.

Update on the mammoth

Archeologists have determined that a mammoth skull and tusks unearthed southwest of Hereford in mid-May are from an Imperial mammoth, and the remains are from 50,000 to 100,000 years old. The mammoth remains were taken from the south bank of the Frio Draw, about seven miles southwest of Hereford, to the Llano Estacado Museum in Plainview where the artifacts were cleaned and "sand boxed" to prevent deterioration. At last report, the mammoth remains are in good condition.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Construction and occupancy costs are two major things a company planning to relocate should consider, according to A.J. Wood of Richmond's Metropolitan Economic Development Council.
Wood says a firm planning to move should determine if it requires a more or less expensive site. Other factors that should be considered, he says, are the cost of transportation, the costs of taxes and utilities and opportunities for spousal employment.

DIGGING FOR HEAT
MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Scientists are always looking for safe, practical, efficient, cheap forms of energy. One such form of energy may lie just a few miles below the earth's surface, and it's not oil, says Discover magazine.
The source of energy is the earth's mantle, which is as close as six miles to the earth's surface. The mantle still retains residual heat from the creation of the planet.

Volleyball teams take two matches

The Hereford Whitefaces junior varsity and varsity volleyball teams played two of their best matches of the season to come from behind and defeat Lubbock High in matches Tuesday in Lubbock.

"The junior varsity and the varsity played better than they have all season long," coach Brenda Reeh said. "The JV showed lots of poise."

The junior varsity dropped the first game of its match, 9-15, and won the second game, 15-10, before coming back to win the third game, 17-15.

"The JV showed lots of poise," Reeh said. "We lost the first game, and we were down 15-14 in the third game and came back and won."

"Jayme Moore had a super match offensively and defensively. Kelli Thames and Daphne Roddy played well at the net."

The Hereford varsity dropped the first game of its match, 8-15, before storming back to sweep the next two games, 15-8 and 15-4.

"We got into a groove and kept moving on in our second and third games of the match," Reeh said. "We served well and played solid defense. It was the most consistent we have played all year."

"Libby Kosub played great defense for us. Krystal Sims and Shantel Cornelius came into the match and scored several times for us."

Hereford will play in the Borger Tournament this weekend and will open District 1-4A play next week.

Dominguez is top fan

John Dominguez was named "Fan of the Week" at Tuesday's meeting of the Hereford Whiteface Booster Club at the Hereford High School cafeteria.

As the "Fan of the Week," Dominguez will be on the sidelines with the Herd on Friday when they host Amarillo Palo Duro at Whiteface Stadium.

Also honored Tuesday were sophomore team members Steven Banner and Brian Bentley; junior varsity players Jared White and Larry Brown; and varsity players Darren Nikkel, Billy Burnam and Pat Mercer.

Banner, a running back for the first time this season, scored the sophomores' first touchdown in their 14-12 come-from-behind win last Thursday against Palo Duro, while Bentley led the team's defense from his linebacker spot.

White, a cornerback, keyed the JV shutout last week, while Brown, a running back, almost broke the first play of the second half for a touchdown in the JV's 7-0 win over Tascosa.

Burnam and Nikkel, defensive tackles, led the Hereford defense with 11 tackles apiece. Mercer had six catches for 89 yards and a touchdown in Hereford's 12-7 win over Tascosa on Saturday.

Hereford head football coach and athletic director Don Cumpston gave a review of the volleyball team's games this fall, and pointed out that team tennis began Tuesday and the cross-country squad begins its season on Saturday at Borger.

NEW YORK (AP) — Hall of Fame infielder Frank Frisch was nicknamed the "Fordham Flash," something he earned in college when he was a swift and elusive halfback for the Fordham football team.

Frisch went straight from college to the New York Giants where he starred at second base and also played shortstop and third base.

Setting up return

Nikki Self of the Hereford Whitefaces volleyball team sets up the ball during a recent game as Poppy Richardson (44) looks on. The Herd improved its record to 4-3 on Tuesday with an 8-15, 15-8, 15-4 win at Lubbock High. The team is entered in this Saturday's Borger Tournament before beginning District 1-4A play next week.

HHS Rodeo Team opens 88-89 season

The Hereford High School Rodeo Team competed in its first rodeo of the 1988-89 school year last weekend at Canadian.

Local competitors placing in the rodeo included:

—Toby Hill, first in calf roping with a time of 11.29 and fourth in ribbon roping, 8.10;

—Kirby Kaul, third in steer wrestling, 13.41;

—Regina Lewis, first in goat tying, 10.81 seconds;

—Marcie Smith, third in goat tying, 13.62 seconds.

The team will compete this weekend at Leedy, Okla.

Hough dumps A's, 3-1

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Charlie Hough's mastery over the Oakland A's is alive and well.

The Texas Rangers knuckleball pitcher scattered seven hits over 8 2-3 innings Tuesday night as Texas broke a six-game losing streak with a 3-1 victory over Oakland.

Hough, like the Rangers, had been struggling. He had a 3-8 record since July 4. Tuesday night's victory gave Hough a 15-5 lifetime record over the A's.

"I really can't explain it," Hough said of his mastery over the American League West-leading A's. "I usually have some good luck against the middle of their lineup. This is a crazy game. Sometimes you're just lucky."

Hough, 12-15, had command of his knuckler, which has been erratic over the last two months. Since July 4 Hough had a 4.59 ERA and had allowed 16 runs in his previous 17 2-3 innings before Tuesday night.

"We've been struggling, I've been struggling, the bullpen's been struggling," Hough said.

"They hit some balls hard but we played good defense. A few times I was lucky they didn't hit it out."

Hough left in the ninth with runners on first and third and two out in favor of Ceciliano Guante, acquired from the New York Yankees last week.

Hough aggravated a slightly pulled muscle in his left hip while covering first in the eighth and told manager Bobby Valentine to go to the bullpen.

"I couldn't plant my left foot the way I wanted," Hough said. "He (Valentine) came out and asked me and I wasn't going to lie."

After pinch runner Luis Polonia stole second (a controversial call after which second base umpire Larry McCoy ejected third baseman Steve Buechele for arguing), Guante went 3-0 before getting the final out on a Dave Henderson ground-out for his 12th save. It was Guante's first save as a Ranger and first since July 15.

"Our bullpen's been going bad so that was real nice to see," Hough said. "You've got to continue to believe in 'em. I know how tough it is."

I used to work out of the bullpen."

Pete O'Brien had two RBIs and Cecil Espy added a pair of doubles to pace the Texas attack.

The Rangers took a 3-1 lead with single runs in each of the first three innings off A's starter and loser Todd Burns, 6-2.

Mike Greenwell, who figures in more rallies than most players in baseball, also figures the Boston Red Sox are in the driver's seat in the American League East.

"I think we're the team to beat because we're in first place," Greenwell said Tuesday night after driving in three runs to lead Boston to a 6-1 victory over Baltimore, giving the Red Sox a two-game lead over slumping Detroit.

"It's nice to put as much distance between us and the others as we can," said Greenwell, who had three hits, including his 20th homer. "I think we're going to play well down the stretch. We've had a little bad streak and they've had a worse one."

"They" are the Tigers, who led the division from July 28 until Monday, when Boston claimed the top spot. Detroit's 7-3 loss Tuesday night to Toronto was its sixth straight.

Blue Jays 7, Tigers 3

George Bell doubled to trigger a four-run Toronto second inning as the streaking Blue Jays won their sixth straight game to remain 6½ games behind Boston.

Detroit, 23-30 since the All-Star break, has lost 13 of its last 15 games. The Tigers had not endured a six-game losing streak since 1985 and hadn't dropped six consecutive games at home since 1984.

Jimmy Key, 10-4, struck out five and walked one in seven innings plus.

Detroit's Doyle Alexander, 11-11, was tagged for five runs on six hits in two-plus innings.

Indians 1, Yankees 0

Greg Swindell pitched a three-hitter and Ron Kittle hit his 18th home run to lead Cleveland over New York.

Al Leiter, 4-4, making his first appearance since June 21, gave up three hits in five innings, throwing 80 pitches. He struck out five and walked two, allowing a leadoff homer to Kittle in the fourth inning that hooked inside the left-field foul pole.

Swindell, 15-13, struck out eight and walked three.

Mariners 8, Twins 3

Harold Reynolds drove in three runs as the Seattle whipped Minnesota.

Royals 3, Angels 2

Frank White's single up the middle drove in two runs to give the Kansas City the victory over California.

After the Angels had scored twice in the top of the ninth to go ahead, the Royals loaded the bases on a single by George Brett, a double by Willie Wilson and an intentional walk to Bill Buckner.

YMCA sets new hours

The Hereford and Vicinity YMCA will begin its winter hours this weekend.

The YMCA will be open on Saturdays from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. and Sundays from 1-5 p.m.

During the summer, the YMCA is closed on weekends.

Bright seeks sale help

DALLAS (AP) — Majority owner H.R. "Bum" Bright has retained a Wall Street-based investment banking firm to help him sell the Dallas Cowboys, according to Cowboys president Tex Schramm.

The Dallas Morning News reported in a copyright story today that Bright has hired Salomon Bros. Inc. to help him find a new owner and the Dallas office of the firm has taken over Bright's efforts to sell the National Football League team.

"The firm is acting as an agent to find a purchaser or put together a group of investors," Schramm told the newspaper Tuesday.

The hiring of the firm, normally employed in the sale of corporate entities instead of professional sports franchises, indicates Bright's increased desire to dispose of the franchise.

During the four years Bright has owned the team, his personal net worth has been halved and the team has been having a difficult time on the field and with filling Texas Stadium with spectators.

Bright lost $26 million during the past year because of the collapse of First Republic Bank Corp. and Bright Banc Savings Association needs fresh capital to survive, analysts say.

John J. Veatch, managing director of Salomon Bros.' Dallas office did not return a telephone call from the newspaper Tuesday. Bright could not be reached for comment, the newspaper reported.

Sources familiar with Bright's attempt to sell the team told the newspaper that the asking price has been $100 million for the franchise, $50 million for Texas Stadium operations, $20 million for the team's Valley Ranch headquarters and the assumption of $34 million in team-related debt.

The debt includes standard NFL operating costs that include deferred player contracts and pension liabilities, the newspaper reported.

Bright and other members of a limited partnership purchased the team in 1984 for $60 million from original owner Clint Murchison. They also paid an additional $25 million for stadium operations.

Forbes magazine has reported that Bright's personal worth fell from $600 million to $300 million because of the diminishing value of his holdings in energy, real estate and banking.

Earlier this year, it appeared that Denver billionaire Marvin Davis might buy the team, but he backed out, reportedly because he was unwilling to assume the $34 million in debt, sources said.

Browning beats old college chum, again, 10-3

By The Associated Press

Don't blame Jim Deshaies if he doesn't show up for his next college reunion with Tom Browning.

Browning and Deshaies, college teammates while attending LeMoyne in New York, have met three times this season and Browning has won each time.

Kal Daniels hit two home runs to drive in four runs and Browning won his seventh game in his last eight decisions as Cincinnati beat Houston 10-3 at the Astrodome on Tuesday night.

"I'm sorry Jimmy had to take the loss," Browning said. "Jimmy had a rough early going, and it was a situation where you can't get down by much."

Browning, 15-5, has a 13-2 record since June 1, and the Reds have won six of their last seven games to move within 6½ games of first-place Los Angeles in the National League West.

Browning, who allowed eight hits, lost his shutout when Glenn Davis hit his 27th home run with one out in the bottom of the ninth.

The Reds went up 3-0 when Daniels hit his 15th homer in the third inning. Daniels also hit a three-run homer in the ninth to make it 10-0.

Braves 2, Dodgers 1
Jeff Blauser hit his first home run of the season with two outs in the eighth inning off reliever Jesse Orosco as Atlanta beat visiting Los Angeles.

Paul Assenmacher, 7-6, got the victory in relief of starter Pete Smith. Bruce Sutter got the last three outs for his 13th save and 299th lifetime.

Smith, who entered the game with two shutouts in his previous three starts, allowed three hits and one run in 7 2-3 innings.

Padres 4, Giants 3
Tim Flannery's two-out, pinch double in the ninth inning scored Roberto Alomar from first base to lift visiting San Diego over the San Francisco and extend its winning streak to five games.

San Diego starter Dennis Rasmussen, 13-8, is 11-2 since being acquired from Cincinnati. Mark Davis got his 26th save by pitching the ninth, giving him a streak of 27 consecutive scoreless innings in relief.

Pirates 3, Mets 2
John Smiley allowed five hits in 8 2-3 innings and Glenn Wilson hit a two-run double in the first inning as Pittsburgh defeated New York at Three Rivers Stadium.

Gregg Jefferies led off the ninth inning with his third home run to make it 3-2, and two outs later, Jim Gott relieved and earned his 26th save.

Cardinals 1, Expos 0
Jose DeLeon pitched a three-hitter and struck out a season-high 12 batters to lead St. Louis past Montreal at Busch Stadium.

DeLeon, 10-8, walked only one as he outdueled Dennis Martinez, 15-11, who also allowed three hits.

The right-hander also had two of the Cardinals' three hits and he scored the only run of the game on Vince Coleman's RBI single in the third.

Phillies 3, Cubs 2
Marvin Freeman won for the first time in nearly two years and Juan Samuel had a bases-loaded single to drive in two runs in the fifth inning as Philadelphia beat Chicago in a night game at Wrigley Field.

Freeman, 1-2, allowed four hits in seven innings, including Andre Dawson's 22nd homer. He spent the entire 1987 season in the minors and was 2-0 the previous year after being recalled from Reading in September.

4-H Recruitment Night set

The new 4-H year starts soon, so now is an excellent time to make a commitment to join this action-oriented organization.

Youth will have the opportunity to join 4-H at the Deaf Smith County 4-H Recruitment Night on Thursday, at the Community Center. An early sign-up will be held from 5:30 p.m. with a 4-H promotion program from 5:30-6:15 p.m. and a sign up time continuing until 7 p.m. Families and prospective members are urged to attend the 5:30 p.m. program and then sign up for the club that best meets their interest. 4-H is a national program for all youth between the ages of nine and 19 regardless of race, color, ethnic background, economic status or cultural differences. In Texas, you can join 4-H when you enroll in the third grade, regardless of your age. The Texas 4-H program is administered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The purpose of 4-H is to develop leadership and character in young people. 4-H'ers learn by doing through actively working on projects and participating in club meetings and 4-H activities.

Youth can participate in a variety of projects in 4-H, such as foods, clothing, animal projects, electricity, photography, arts, and crafts, and many, many others, including self determined projects.

Most important, 4-H is a lot of fun! Boys and girls in 4-H are always on the move doing something and participating in various activities. For instance, the 4-H shooting sports project attracts numerous youngsters each year who are interested in learning to shoot and observe gun safety. Livestock projects give youngsters a chance to be responsible for an animal and enter stock shows where they learn competitiveness and sportsmanship. 4-H'ers can even learn to make their own clothes through clothing projects.

Other 4-H activities such as the Share-the-Fun give youngsters the chance to participate in organized recreation. County 4-H Fun Day, Day Camp or Rally Day is the time for playing games and making new friends. Members in 4-H can go on trips, take tours of interesting and educational places, and help finance their college education with scholarships awarded through 4-H.

To become a Deaf Smith County 4-H'er and get in on the action filled year, enroll for 4-H on Thursday evening or come by the Extension office at the Courthouse.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Accent on Health

Vaccines Are Boon to Modern Health Care

You may be old enough to have grandchildren if you can recall when vaccinations for youngsters were neither available nor required in Texas. Some parents of children entering school and day care this year were themselves born after the advent of modern vaccines.

They do not realize that only a few decades ago, such deadly and disabling diseases as polio and diphtheria threatened every child, and outbreaks and epidemics occurred more frequently every year.

But with the development of vaccines, large-scale outbreaks of some once-common diseases may have become items in our history books. Texas law requires children entering day care or school, public or private, to be immunized at certain ages against polio, tetanus, measles, rubella (German measles), mumps, and diphtheria. In addition, the law requires pertussis (whooping cough) vaccine for all children less than 5 years old in day care and public school. The Texas Department of Health (TDH) further recommends the pertussis vaccine for all children through age 6.

Not only have immunizations for these diseases averted misery and death for thousands, they have proved to be the nation's most cost-effective preventive health care practice. It is estimated that these vaccinations, begun early in childhood and kept up-to-date, save at least $1 billion in health costs each year in the U.S.

Robert D. Crider, director of the TDH Immunization Division, said, "The vaccine-preventable diseases are certainly not wiped out, but they could be, if everyone would be sure to keep their immunizations current."

In 1987, TDH recorded sporadic outbreaks of measles (452 cases), mumps (338), pertussis (111), rubella (5), and tetanus (5) in the state. No cases of either polio or diphtheria were reported.

COFFEE PARFAIT

2 egg whites

¼ cup chocolate syrup
¼ cup chopped walnuts

In a medium saucepan combine egg yolk with half of the coffee. Stir in tapioca, salt and remaining 4 tablespoons of sugar, with wire whisk. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Lower heat and cook until mixture thickens, about 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Add remaining half of the coffee. Return to heat until thickened. Allow mixture to cool slightly.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add 2 tablespoons sugar, beating until mixture forms soft peaks.

Pour a small amount of tapioca mixture onto egg white mixture and blend well. Quickly stir in remaining tapioca mixture. Add vanilla. Chill for 30 minutes, stirring once.

Spoon alternating layers of tapioca mixture, whipped cream and chocolate syrup into 6 parfait glasses. Top with whipped cream

Reports

AUSTIN — Critics often complain state government moves too slowly, that it doesn't adapt quickly enough to meet the needs of changing times. We understand the sentiment because we've been a frequent critic of the system ourselves. For instance, we've been saying for almost four years now that the state's juvenile justice system needs reworking if it is truly to rehabilitate our young offenders. We've been impatient in the past with the system for not making those changes.

But some type of change appears to be coming, and we must admit the wait seems to have been worth it.

The Select Committee on the Juvenile Justice System, which we co-chair, is scheduled to meet again next week to continue work on our report to the Legislature. More and more, it looks as though the committee intends to recommend substantive changes for the system.

Reasons for change are numerous, but the need for change is clearly illustrated by the mediocre results we get from our juvenile justice system. The existing system is staffed with many talented people yet the very framework of the system doesn't allow their talents to be utilized fully. In fact, it might not be an overstatement to say those talents sometimes are just plain wasted.

One needs only to look at the state of our adult prisons to tell something is wrong with the system. The Texas Department of Corrections facilities are hopelessly overcrowded. We're having to build prison after prison just to keep from getting fined by the federal courts. It doesn't take a genius to realize most of those adult inmates began their lives of crime as juveniles.

Our job on the select committee is to create a juvenile justice system that has the tools to rehabilitate juveniles. We need to allow the system to reach the youngest offenders, the ones just beginning to experiment with criminal activity. It is so much easier to rehabilitate a 12-year-old who has shoplifted a couple of times than a 20-year-old who is being charged for the second or third time with felony theft.

We need to create a system where the staff can take their time to deal adequately with juvenile offenders. In our existing system, a juvenile sent to the Texas Youth Commission for committing a violent crime stays in TYC for only 11 months. Non-violent offenders stay in TYC for just seven months.

And, we need at the very least to have a long-term goal of regionalizing our detention facilities. Our existing facilities, generally located in Central Texas, are just too far away from many key parts of the state.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in the office of a prominent physician. Several days ago the man who has been dating my cousin for over a year came in for a complete physical.

His lab test showed up this morning, and I am shaking as I write this. He tested positive for the AIDS antibodies. I need to know right away what is the right thing to do, Ann. I love working in this office and I don't want to jeopardize my position my passing on privileged information. However, I feel that I owe it to my cousin to tell her that her sweetheart has been exposed to AIDS.

Please, Ann Landers, toss a little wisdom my way. I am — Between The Devil and the Deep Blue Sea (N.C.)

DEAR N.C.: Tell the doctor that this patient is going with your cousin and you are gravely concerned. Ask him to order a Western Blot (the definitive test for AIDS), and if it turns out positive the doctor should alert your cousin to the patient's condition. The American Medical Association has, for the first time, decided to break the precedent on confidentiality.

Meanwhile, at the risk of sounding like a Cassandra, I hope you realize that your cousin may already have been exposed to the virus.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My boyfriend is an unemployed truck driver who is not looking for a job. I make more than enough money to provide for our needs.

John and I have been living together for almost four months. We dated for six years before I asked him to move in with me. I am very comfortable with this arrangement and have never felt the need to hide it from anyone or apologize for it.

I work five days a week and come home to a wonderful meal, a clean house and a loving companion. John does the marketing and the laundry. He is cheerful, adoring and has a wonderful disposition. I refer to him as my househusband, and he is perfectly comfortable with that designation.

The problem is my grandmother. She raised me and is very involved in my life. Grandma says it doesn't look right for a woman to support a man and that no decent man would allow it. She says that in her day they called men who did this "gigolos," which is the male equivalent of kept women.

I love this man and believe it is worth a lot to have a faithful companion, especially these days when bed-hopping is absolutely out because of AIDS.

Please tell me hat to do, Ann. It seems that what is important to my grandmother is not important to me. Yet, I want her respect and acceptance.—A Split Personality in the Valley

DEAR SPLIT: When Grandma was courting, "the woman's place was in the home." All that has changed.

Househusbands are considered perfectly respectable. They carry their weight and contribute as much to the relationship as the companion who brings home the paycheck.

I hope my response will be the basis for a new kind of dialogue between you and Gram. She should not judge you by standards that are 40 years old.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Since you are so gracious about allowing readers to dump their pet peeves on you, may I tell you mine?

Our local radio station often tapes interviews that are heard on Saturday. The announcer frequently says, "Mr. (or Mrs.) will be here live." How else could they be there? Dead?—Chicago

Hints from Heloise

WORD PUZZLES

Dear Heloise: I love to work the search-and-find puzzles in our local newspaper, but don't always have the time each evening. Lately, I have been cutting them out and saving them in a clear plastic envelope in my purse.

When I must wait for an appointment or just have some time to fill, I get out the word puzzles. Waiting is much more pleasant when I'm doing something I enjoy. — Marie Hunchuck, Canton, Ohio

RETIRED PERSONS

Dear Heloise: We retired last year and have traveled extensively since then. Since we travel by air on most of our trips, my husband and I bought comfortable matching shirts to wear on the days of our air travel.

In case we are ever separated in an airport, all we have to do is look for the brightly colored matching shirt. I am able to easily recognize bright colors from a distance, more so than face or body features. — Mrs. H.E. Phelps

What a great idea to help keep up with each other since the larger airports can be very crowded. You sure won't get lost in the crowd. Happy trails to you! — Heloise

BAKING SODA

Dear Readers: Any of you who do not yet have a copy of my latest pamphlet, Heloise's Best Baking Soda Hints, will surely find it a big help. Send $1 and a stamped, self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to Heloise/Baking Soda, P.O. Box 19765, Irvine, Calif. 92713. — Heloise

Abundant Life
CONTINUE TO LEARN
By Bob Wear
Most people have a great capacity for learning, and for continuing to learn. As an end in itself, learning has some value; however, continuing to learn is the secret, if it be a secret, to continuing to live, to live life at its best. tal laziness and neglect can be overcome. It may be a slow and tiresome process, but the rewards for doing so more than compensate for the diligent efforts.

This may be true sometimes, in some areas; but it is more frequently an unjustified conclusion. More often than not, it is untrue.
"He who always seeks more light, the more he finds, and finds more, the more he seeks; is one of the few happy mortals who take and give in every point of time. The tide and ebb of giving and receiving is the sum of human happiness."-Lavater.
Continuing to learn the good and true things available to us is our way to continuing to live life at its very best.
