OF ALL the "howl" football games scheduled for New Year's day, the Marquette-TCU go in Dallas is expected to be the best. It will bring together the country's finest football pitchers — Sammy Baugh of the Christians and Buzz Bivard of the Golden Avalanche.

THE HORNED Frogs won their first conference football championship in 1929 and repeated in 1932. In 1930 they finished in third place. In 1931 in second place, in 1932 in the tie for second, in 1933 in fourth, in 1934 in second, and in 1935 in second. Also, for the 1935 season, TCU defeated the Louisiana State Tigers in the annual Sugar Bowl game in New Orleans, giving the Horned Frogs first place in the Williamson football ratings.

THE MODERN Horned Frogs have never lost an inter-sectional football game. They haven't played so many—only ten—and these date back only to 1931. In that year the LSU Tigers came to Fort Worth and were sent home on the short end of a 3-to-0 score when Ben Boswell, giant tackle, booted a field goal. The records on the ten inter-sectional games played by the Frogs read:

- T. C. U. 3, L. S. U. 0, Fort Worth, 1931.
- T. C. U. 3, L. S. U. 3, Baton Rouge, 1932.
- T. C. U. 19, North Dakota 7, Fort Worth, 1933.
- T. C. U. 7, Loyola 0, New Orleans, 1934.
- T. C. U. 9, Santa Clara 7, Fort Worth, 1934.
- T. C. U. 10, Santa Clara 6, San Francisco, 1935.
- T. C. U. 14, Loyola 0, New Orleans, 1935.
- T. C. U. 3, L. S. U. 2, New Orleans, Jan. 1, 1936.
- T. C. U. 9, Santa Clara 0, San Francisco, 1936.
- T. C. U. 0, Mississippi State 0, Dallas, 1936.

BEN DANIELS took his Devils to the Irgan basketball tournament Saturday and won both divisions but failed to place a man on the all-tourney team, probably because the coaches turned in their selections early in the day.

Ben said he had two players, Bigony and Poe, worthy of all-tournament honors, especially Poe. Wilson and Burrus are two of Daniels' best boys but neither looked very good at Irgan.

The Devils may not be so hot for the next few weeks, however, because a number of the boys who have been playing with the Devils will report for the Steer squad. Ben said he would attempt to keep his boys playing all during the holidays.

Cantatas Are Heard by Many

High School Chorus and Methodist Choir Give Christmas Offerings

Two cantatas given by local singers yesterday drew large crowds to the municipal auditorium in the afternoon and to the First Methodist church in the evening when first Christmas musical offerings were presented.

Fifty-three high school students under the direction of Mrs. Bruce Frazier gave "The Christ Child," by Hawley, in the auditorium which was heard by several hundred people. This was the sixth yuletide program of the high school chorus and was by far the most pretentious work ever attempted. Combining some of the most beautiful young voices in the city, this group gave a finished performance.

Miss Wanda McQuinn took up the solo honors of the eight pieces. Her pleasing soprano voice was definitely outstanding. Other soloists included Miss Clarinda Sanders, Miss Jane Lee Hannah, Miss Emily Stalcup, J. C. Milburn who took the tenor parts in substitution for Nelson Henninger, W. L. Grant, Ray McCullough, Raymond Lee Williams and Wayne Nance. Numbers by the Angel Choir were particularly beautiful and included the voices of Miss Lillian Hurt, Miss Maurine Rowe, Miss De Alva Mc-

Clister and Miss Emily Stalcup. Miss Lurienne Paxton was accompanist.

First Methodist
The First Methodist choir gave a rendition of "Star of Bethlehem" at the evening hour which was well received by large audiences that included members of other churches who joined the host church for the cantata.

The program was given under the direction of George Crosthwaite with piano and violin accompaniment by Miss Roberta Gay and Mrs. Dallas Childers.

Soloists were Mrs. Victor Fiewellen, Miss Edith Gay, Miss Virginia Lois Ogden, Mrs. O. D. Cordill, Herbert Keaton, H. F. Williamson, J. C. Keaton, H. F. Williamson, J. C. Milburn and W. M. Lewis.

Special music was also offered by the First Presbyterian and First Christian churches who held vesper services and the First Baptist and East Fourth Street Baptist churches who offered special arrangements of Christmas carols and hymns at the evening service.

Stanton Schools To Present Series Of Yuletide Programs

STANTON, Dec. 21 (Sp)—Three programs will be presented by the Stanton schools before their dismissal Tuesday afternoon for the Christmas holidays.

First of these will be a Christmas opera to be presented by pupils of the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grades Monday night at the school auditorium. Costumed players will take part in the four-act production entitled "Christmas Tide." Miss Beryl Tidwell will be pianist. Miss Tidwell, Mrs. Flora Morris, and Miss Lila Fae Everett are the teachers directing the play.

A nominal fee will be charged for admission and the proceeds will go toward equipping a reading room for the grammar school. Tuesday morning at the assembly period, the sophomore class will present a one-act play, "Station X-M-A-S," under direction of Mrs. W. C. Glazener. About one-third of the class membership of 36 will take part in the program.

Concluding the series, the seventh grades of the grammar school will have a Christmas tree and a Christmas program Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the auditorium.

The program will include seven numbers, approximately one from each grade, according to Miss Ellen Ryan, but details of the presentation are not yet announced.

Children in each grade have drawn names to exchange gifts and Santa Claus will be present.

CHILDREN'S PARTY
Children of the beginners and primary departments of the First Methodist church will hold their Christmas party at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon in the basement of the church.

Mothers are specially invited to attend with the children who are asked to take a gift for needy children. Presents of toys, food or clothing are preferred.

SUB-DEB DANCE
Christmas presentation dance of the Sub-Deb Club will begin this evening at 9 o'clock at the Country Club. Music will be furnished by Thomas Brooks and his orchestra for fifty couples to which bids were sent during the past week.

Christmas Holiday For Prisoners Pardons And Paroles Extended To Many; Texas Not Playing 'Santa Claus'

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (AP)—Some 700 of "the numbers" will not answer Christmas Day roll call in the nation's prisons.

They'll be gone, released because they've been given the finest Christmas presents within the power of a dozen states—pardons or paroles.

However, in at least 30 other states the prisoners will eat the prison chicken or roast beef as usual because these commonwealths frown on the holiday parole custom.

The most spectacular instance of Christmas leniency disclosed by an Associated Press survey was in Alabama. Gov. Bibb Graves on December 17 released 494 convicts, including 23 women, for two weeks on their "man to man" agreement to return January 1. It's an annual practice.

"No Christmas paroles" was the word from these states: South Dakota, Connecticut, Colorado, Arizona, Wisconsin, South Carolina, Texas, Georgia, Tennessee, New York, Washington, Oklahoma, California, Nevada, Oregon, Michigan, Indiana, Montana, Missouri and Iowa.

Court Reforms Are Proposed

Retirement Of Supreme Court Justices One Of Plans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Chairman Hatton Sumners (D-Tex.) of the house judiciary committee proposed three judicial reform bills today, one of which would permit supreme court justices who have reached the retirement age to leave the bench to pursue higher judicial duties.

He said he would introduce in congress a bill to make a 1919 act affecting retiring district and circuit federal court judges applicable to the supreme court justices "so they, too, may be allowed to retire and be privileged to perform lighter duties in exchange for what the federal government is bound, anyway, to pay under the constitution during their life."

Under another proposal, Sumners would provide mandatory, 30-day notice to the attorney general, with the privilege of intervening in a case, before a federal court judge could hold a federal law unconstitutional, thereby giving the government a chance to defend it.

He said he probably would introduce a bill to create a special tribunal composed of three judges of the circuit court of appeals designated by the chief justice of the United States to try the issue of a breach of the "good behavior" tenure clause with reference to federal judges.

TO LEAVE HOSPITAL
BOSTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Massachusetts general hospital announced today that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the president, who has been under treatment for a sinus and throat infection, would leave the institution Thursday.

LITTLE CHANGE IN WHITE HOUSE STAFF

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Aside from a new personal bodyguard, President Roosevelt's second term will see little immediate change in the White House staff.

Thomas F. Quitters, 32-year-old Massachusetts state trooper, succeeds the late Gus Gernerich as Mr. Roosevelt's own attendant.

In some posts, veterans who have helped make the wheels go round since McKinley's administration will be at their accustomed White House desks.

Two former Washington newspapermen, Stephen F. Early and Marvin H. McIntyre, who knew the chief executive when he was assistant secretary of the navy, will continue as presidential secretaries.

There has been some talk, lacking confirmation, about James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, serving in a dual capacity as secretary and aide, as he did on the recent South American tour.

Col. Edmund W. Starling, tall and lanky Kentuckian who joined the White House secret service staff at the beginning of Woodrow Wilson's first term, will continue as chief of the presidential protective force.

Howard Eurlison, sophomore at the University of Texas, arrived Sunday to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Eurlison.

Ten Best News Pictures Of Year, Picked By AP Cameramen

MRS. SIMPSON & KING'S CHAUFFEUR— Because it epitomized the "woman's angle" in the British royal crisis... Because it was the first noteworthy informal action picture of Mrs. Simpson near the beginning of the revelations of her relationship with Edward VIII.

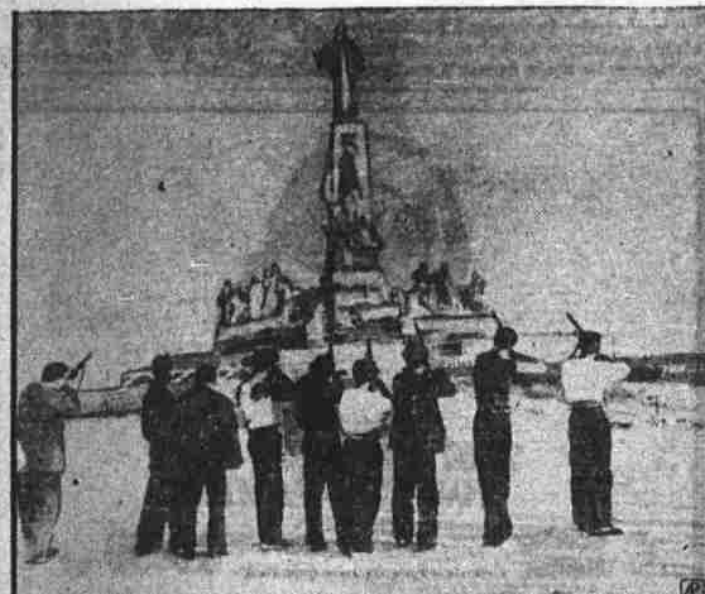

CANDIDATES MEET— Because of the rarity of the occasion it records—rival candidates for the Presidency meeting in good fellowship during a campaign... One of the big picture moments in one of American history's most interesting vote contests.

'WILD BILL' CASSIDY— Because here an unscheduled news story no photographer could have planned to cover was caught while it was occurring... A freak accident picture, one in a million. By Associated Press Staff Photographer Wallace W. Lowry, Pittsburgh.

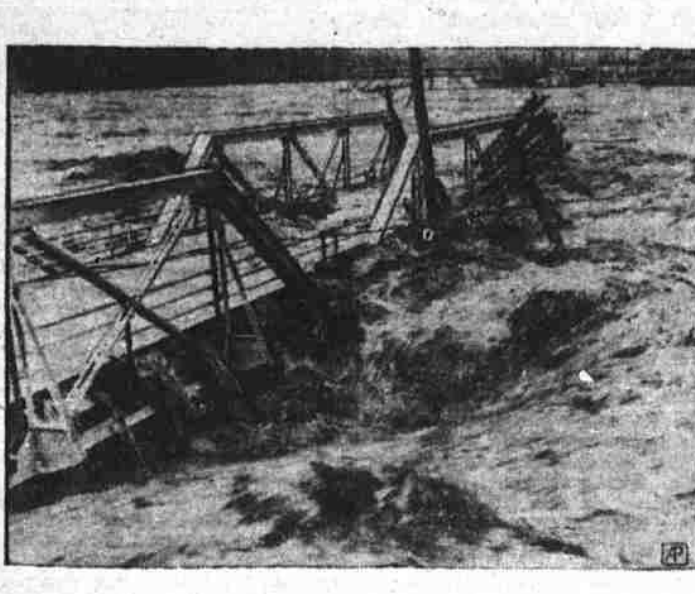

ZIONCHECK OUSTS LANDLADY— Because it isn't often a lawgiver has such an informal moment, and still less frequently that a cameraman is present when he does. Rep. Zioncheck did, and Charles P. Gorey of The Associated Press staff, Washington, D. C., was there.

CRUCIFIXION, 1936— Because this picture from Spain—one of the first on the civil strife—speaks dramatically of the passions unleashed by war. Taken by a Paramount News photographer, it shows the "execution" of a statue of Christ.

PRESIDENT AND GRANDDAUGHTER— Because a baby picture, always good, is doubly so when the baby is the President's granddaughter... Because informality in high places is news. Made at Hyde Park by W. E. O'Haire, Associated Press staff photographer from Washington, D. C.

FLOOD AT HARPER'S FERRY— Because, though it isn't unusual for a bridge to go out, it is unusual for the camera to catch that moment... Because here is recorded all the fury of the usually peaceful Potomac gone mad. By Alex Malashuk of the Baltimore Evening Sun.

SCHMELING KAYOES LOUIS— Because it tells a story of victor and vanquished in an unusual composition of this familiar theme... Because it gains unusual effect by stressing the third man. By John Lindsay, Associated Press staff photographer, New York.

HAUPTMANN DEATH WATCH— Because, by implication, the story of Hauptmann's execution is told in a picture whose dramatic effectiveness really suggests more than the scene outside the death chamber. By John Lindsay, Associated Press staff photographer, New York.

Photos Chosen Those Which Best Tell The Real Story Of An Occurrence

By WILSON HICKS
Associated Press Executive Assistant In Charge Of News Photo Service

The news camera's function is to tell a news story. The more dramatic the picture and the better it is liked by newspaper readers. The best news picture is a human drama in one static scene.

Picking the best news pictures of 1936 does not mean, therefore selecting the pictures which best illustrate the most important stories. It means, rather, selecting the pictures which stand on their own feet as the best narrators of incidents in life: pictures which make those who look at them feel as if they were present when the incidents occurred.

The function of The Associated Press news photo service is to provide an impartial camera record of world-wide events. It remains, however, that pictures, probably more than words, produce emotions in readers.

Pictures Stir Emotions
This factor has been taken into account in selecting the year's best news pictures, because pictures are "best" when they stir the imagination vividly and forcefully. But unless a news picture is meaningful to those who see it certainly it is not a "best" picture.

The second yardstick used in this selection is spontaneity. Many times a spontaneous news event reaches its climax before the photographer arrives. He then must do what he can to recapture the scene by recording its remaining tangible evidence.

Chance Plays Its Part
Once in a while, brilliantly, a cameraman is on the scene when a "spot" event is in actual process of happening. The photographer knows well in advance that the President is to leave from Charleston for South America and is there to record a "spontaneous" event.

But when something occurs which no one could have predicted, and the cameraman is there, the picture becomes a "best" on its own intrinsic merit.

Lake Vessels Seek Haven
TOLEDO (UP)—Applications for mooring space have been received from more than 60 vessels as Great Lakes freighters are made ready to go into winter quarters. City officials are supervising every mooring as a protection against ice jams.

Biology Taught By Mail
EUGENE, Ore. (UP)—A correspondence school in biology is operated by the University of Oregon extension service. Preserving worms and frogs, microscopes and other instruments are sent to students by mail to facilitate study.

J. R. Stroud, alias Joe Cain, 59-year-old Freeport, Kas., nancy-man, is shown in jail at Wichita, Kas., as he was questioned by officers who arrested him in the garage of his home for the slaying of Mrs. Arthur C. Utterback, wife of an official of the Federal Land Bank in Wichita. Sidney L. Foulston, county attorney, said Stroud signed a statement admitting the slaying, which netted him approximately $4. He was ordered held for trial early in January on a first degree murder charge. He is in jail for failure to make $40,000 bond. Standing, left to right, are Joe Anderson, state highway patrolman; Don Nobles, deputy sheriff of Sedgewick county, who helmed direct search; Paul Mansfield of state highway patrol; Frank Booms, sheriff of Sedgewick county. Seated, left to right: Stroud; Tom Chitwood, court reporter, taking confession; Col. Wint Smith, head of state highway patrol and Sidney L. Foulston, county attorney. Highway patrolmen made the capture. (Associated Press Photo)

This is a new and exclusive photograph of T. J. Pendergast, head of the Kansas City Democratic organization, taken at his political headquarters after Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves had ordered an investigation of alleged frauds in the November 3 election at Kansas City. Pendergast pointed out he had been ill throughout the primary, registration and general election periods and added: "Of course, if Judge Reeves, Mr. Milligan (district attorney) or any other official sees fit to investigate it is all right with me." (Associated Press Photo)

Indicted As Head Of Mail Fraud Ring

Seventy-year-old William Morrow Cameron Smith (above), registered surprise when this picture was taken at Washington after his indictment by a federal grand jury in Pittsburgh as one of the leaders connected with the "Jacob Baker Heirs" association, described by post-office inspectors as a huge mail fraud through which more than 3,000 persons were mulcted of millions. (Associated Press Photo)

Glenn Morris, Olympic decathlon champion, and Charlotte Edwards, Colorado school teacher, are shown at Sterling, Colo., after they were married. Morris made a quick trip to Colorado from New York where he said he was lonesome. Miss Edwards was Morris' dietician when he was training for the Olympics and they were sweethearts when both attended Colorado State College. They will live in New York.

Reviewing APRIL 1936

Jobless Camp in New Jersey Legislature Chambers

By VOLTA TORREY
(AP Feature Service Writer)
(Fourth in a Series)

Navy blue with vivid accessories predominated in the 1936 Easter parade.

Twelve thousand souls waited outside St. Peter's for the blessing "Urbi et Orbi" (upon the city and the world), but uncertain health kept Pope Pius XI indoors.

Three men in Canada, exploring an unused gold mine, found no exit. For six days their friends above dug, but with scant hope. By blind reckoning, then, a diamond drill hole was dropped 141 feet.

"Hello," came a voice. "We're all right. Are you going to get us out of here?"

Two men did come back alive, after 10 days' entombment.

Hauptmann Dies

Hauptmann had been spared while Paul H. Wendel's purported story was studied.

April 3, reporters gathered again, not really expecting an execution.

Through the last door came a white-faced man, the bones of his shaved head standing out, his gray shirt open, his lips silent.

At 8:47 1-2 p. m., Hauptmann died for the death of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., four years previous.

Nature In Angry Mood

April tornadoes swept Dixie. In five states, first reports listed 37 dead scores injured. Soon thereafter Tupelo, Miss., felt a storm roaring in "like a fast freight train." A movie theater became a hospital. Anxious crowds waited outside improvised morgues.

"400 Die as Fires Trail Tornadoes in 6 States," America read. But before the month ended, the scars were healing, swiftly, like those from the floods of March.

Herbert Hoover likened the New Deal to the rabbit ("it multiplies readily"). Iowa's Senator Dickinson charged the poor were receiving food unfit for dogs. Jobless demonstrators camped in New Jersey legislators' chairs. Major George L. Berry formed a Roosevelt labor league. Passamunquaddy and the Florida ship canal were debated.

In the well of the United States senate chamber, Federal Judge Ritter sat, pale, tired, inconspicuous, and heard himself removed from office.

"What's This?"

The circus season opened, with a clown depicting Al Smith taking a walk, and the band playing "I'm Putting All My Eggs in One Basket."

At 7 a. m., a line of thousands began to form outside New York's Carnegie hall to hear Arturo Toscanini's farewell that night.

Little Patience, John and Richard Abbe's "Around the World in 11 Years" went around.

"What's this?" people asked, making funny motions with their hands.

Arabs Revolt

A Pennsylvania air crash, fatal to 12, was a major mishap. The murder of Mrs. Nancy Evans Tilton was the month's mystery. Vera Stretz was acquitted of slaying Dr. Fritz Gebhardt.

Arabs no longer folded their tents and stole away. They struck. Why? Jews were settling in Palestine. British had a League of Nations mandate over the country. Arabs, objecting to Jews' plans, sought to sway British plans.

The Stars and Stripes, Lincoln Ellsworth told the National Geographic society, had been raised over earth's last unclaimed land—350,000 square miles of Antarctic plateau.

Governor Marland called out Oklahoma's troops to protect the state's oil. Japanese fought their way into Mongolia. To halt Ethiopia's war, oil sanctions were being weighed.

FOUR ARRESTED IN CONVICT'S ESCAPE

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 20 (AP)—Attorney General Charles J. Maggott ordered the arrest today of four persons in connection with the escape yesterday of Joseph Bruno, life-term convict.

The four are: Warden Herbert Gossin, of the Schuylkill county jail, where Bruno was confined.

Deputy Warden Robert Walker. Guard Guy Irving from whom Bruno escaped while being taken to downtown Pottsville to a dentist's office.

Mrs. Anoinette Billig, Joseph Bruno's daughter.

Previously today Schuylkill county commissioners had discharged Gossin, Walker and Irving.

NOT ENOUGH BABIES

Supply Not Large Enough For Adoption Demands

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 21 (AP)—The old woman in the shoe would cackle at this: Santa Claus has so many orders for babies he doesn't know what to do.

From many hospitals, foundling homes and "cradles" of the nation came word today the supply of adoptable infants on hand couldn't begin to satisfy the demands of thousands of couples.

Typical of Santa's predicament was a report from Mrs. Sam Gladney, superintendent of the Texas Children's Home Aid Society at Fort Worth. She has received 2,000 applications from would-be parents without being able to fill a single one.

Returning prosperity, and the decline of the jazz age are among the explanations given for the upswing in adoptions.

Woman Held For Shooting Her Co-Pilot

Motive In Strange Plane Attack Remains Unexplained

SELSBY, Eng., Dec. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Marie Schmeder, sought by French police for shooting her co-pilot during a flight over Villacoublay yesterday, was ordered held on a technical charge today after crashing her plane in a Sussex field.

British authorities detained the woman flier, wife of a wealthy French machine manufacturer, after French police reported a warrant for her arrest had been issued at Versailles.

Mrs. Schmeder fled from France in the same plane in which she was alleged to have shot Pierre L'Allemant, her co-pilot during a flight Sunday morning.

Several hours later, after the trans-channel trip, she brought her ship down in a Sussex field, damaging the plane in the landing.

POLAR EXPEDITION SURVIVOR TO BE HONORED TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—

This is a Christmas story of the far north some 50 years ago—when a little group of men huddled before miserable fires, ate stews of sealskin, and hoped.

Because he lived through it and the days that followed—while all but six of his comrades died—Brigadier General David L. Brainard will celebrate his eightieth birthday tonight by receiving the honorary membership scroll of the American Polar Society.

Brainard is the last survivor of the tragic Greely expedition which in the 30's set a new record for farthest-north explorations. The men starved and froze in the wilds while relief parties for two years sought unsuccessfully to reach them.

The Colosseum at Rome probably seated between 40,000 and 50,000 people.

Soft-pedal seen on supreme court criticism. Power interests alone assailed in Duke case. Sentiment seen against constitutional changes. Washington minimum wage law may cause flare-up.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 — The high command here seems to have dropped the soft-pedal upon criticism against the supreme court. Interior Secretary Ickes, for example, gave out a peculiarly worded statement after the court sent the Duke power case back to the lower courts without a decision. He denounced the power companies for thus delaying the decision, but said nary a word about the court. He asserted the powerites were holding up $50,000,000 of PWA employment projects by their technical legal tactics, although the court had taken the action causing the delay. It sounded significant. What happened on the inside was even more significant.
It seems that Ickes' young liberal lawyers in PWA were hot against the court action. They wrote a confidential memo to Mr. Ickes outlining an attack upon the court and pointing out the harm wrought by the delay. They suggested Ickes issue it in his own name. He refused it to apply to the power companies instead of the court and then gave it out.

Man About Manhattan
NEW YORK—Manhattan kaleidoscope: Martin Stern is a press-agent for frog legs . . . More than 500,000 Pekin ducks are produced on Long Island annually. . . It is practically an impossible achievement to locate a barber here on Sunday. So, if you must get shaved, go to a private club. . . Ginger Rogers' mother was once a press agent for the marine corps. . . Casey Jones, the famous aviator, is in town. . . He used to operate a flying academy in Central America.
Dayton Stoddard reports finding an unusual type of pan-handler. . . Stepping up to the writer, he inquired: "Could you tell me where I might get a good meal for 25 cents? . . . Certainly," replied Stoddard, "in that restaurant across the street. . . Ah, yes," murmured the bum, "and now could you tell me where I might find 25 cents?"
Deems Taylor believes New York will have 11,000,000 people by 1965. . . "This town is outgrowing itself," he says.

Collectors All
There is this factor in the situation whereby most celebrities escape from their professional lives. . . They are one and all collectors of one thing or another. . . For instance, Jack Pearl collects hotel keys; Jimmy Durante, hats; George Gershwin, his own paintings; Horace Heidt, sheet music; Judith Anderson, toy dogs.
Ralph Hitz approaches the collecting hobby on a grander scale—he collects hotels. . . Jim Tully owns two complete sets of Jack London first editions. . . It was London who inspired Tully to become a writer. . . Quite incidentally, Tully thinks a certain specie of hobo is the best read sect in the world. . . During the depression, he points out, they spent much time in the libraries, to keep warm, and to shield the fact that they were vagrants, began reading. . . In this way they devoured the world histories and text books.

Retiring Wife To Star Again
Gloria Swanson has small feet, and if you hurry and come to Broadway you may see how tiny they are for yourself. . . She is here seeing the sights and talking theater with several producers. . . It is generally forgotten that Florence Eldridge was a high ranking actress eight years ago. . . By deliberately obscuring herself behind her husband's (Fredric March) fame, most people know her now as just the wife of a great star. . . However, that's soon to be changed. . . While Fredric is in Hollywood she is on Broadway in a new drama.
Sheila Barrett and Eva Ortega will be among the entertainers in Florida night spots this winter. . . The Cotton club never did any better in Harlem than it is doing in its new Broadway location.

Understanding
The supreme court may be a frequent target for criticism from outside, but never from attorneys appearing before it. That is, almost never. Assistant Attorney General Toner of Washington state told the court the other day: "I must confess that sometimes I read what your honors say without being able to understand the meaning."
He was not fined for contempt, the justices presumably taking the view that the fault lay with Mr. Toner.

TREASURY GAIN
Govt. Receipts For Year Up 164 Million
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—As administration experts put finishing touches on next year's budget, the treasury recorded today a $164,000,000 gain on the income side of its ledger since July 1.
For the first five months of this fiscal year, its receipts totaled $1,385,767,000, compared with $1,221,786,000 in the corresponding period last year.
Gains were shown in 55 of the 73 categories of taxation. Leading the upswing were income taxes, which totaled $418,863,000 between July 1 and November 30, an increase of $68,535,000.
Of the income tax receipts $238,918,000 came from corporations and $174,994,000 from individuals.
The next largest gain was in liquor tax revenues, which, at $268,606,000, were $147,610,000 above the same period last year.

MAN SHOTS WIFE AND THEN HIMSELF
CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 21 (AP)—An argument about a dollar to buy Christmas gifts for two of their five children led to the death of Anthony McNear, 45, of nearby Terra Alta, and his wife, Mrs. Pearl McNear, 35.
Coroner Leroy C. Goff said McNear fired four shots into Mrs. McNear's body yesterday and sent another into his own temple. The tragedy occurred while the children were at Sunday school.
The McNeairs were estranged. McKinley Spoyll, 17-year old nephew of Mrs. McNear, said the husband came to the home and demanded the dollar for Christmas gifts. In the ensuing argument he said his aunt was knocked down.
The shots rang out as the youth ran to the street calling for help.

Wings For Sally

by BAILEY WOLFE

Chapter 11 Tip Learns To Fly

As the music paused for intermission, Philip Page turned to Sally. "Shall we go out for a while and cool off? There's my car and we can drive a bit if you like."

"I don't think we'd better," said Sally, as they stammered out on the terrace. She knew Mary Morris would be furious and that she was probably expecting Philip Page to come and find her at the moment. And then Terry wouldn't like it.

"I don't allow Tip to do it." "You take your responsibilities rather heavily, don't you?" said Philip Page.

"Perhaps I do." "As I remember you at the age of 10, you were even then 'facing things.' For instance, you jumped out of that hay mow I dared you to jump from, when I wouldn't have done it myself."

"I'm not very proud of that," smiled Sally. "I carried my arm in a sling for weeks."

"I hope you still take dares, Miss Warren." Philip Page looked at her searchingly. "I'm going into a fight where I'll need people who dare to stick by me."

"I'm not afraid of Mr. Morris," said Sally, "if that's what you mean."

"It's not so simple as that," said Philip. "This fight with Mr. Morris over his broken agreement with his workers has opened up a good many things. We're going to have to fight graft in this city government, maybe the state government as well."

"Father says you mustn't move too fast," said Sally. "He says you're a new comer, and you'll make mistakes if you don't go slowly."

"I'm depending on men like your father to help me not to make mistakes."

Sally coincided in Philip. "There was a sudden burst of music from inside the house. Philip Page straightened up, as if to throw off the thoughts that oppressed him."

"I've been boring you," he said. "After all, this is a party for you even if it is part of my fight to me."

"Don't be too hard on Mr. Morris. Tip, you know more about him," Sally urged, feeling somehow that she was betraying her host. "He's really kind-hearted. If only he could understand—"

"He understands well enough," said Philip Page grimly. "But look here, this sort of talk's out of place at a dance. I'm tiring you—and here's your husky aviator coming to take you away. I suppose he has the right?" He added the last mockingly, but Sally felt he was asking a question and she was too honest not to answer.

"Yes," she said quietly. "We're engaged, but we aren't telling about it yet. He goes to South America in—four months."

"Then I must be looking for another society editor," said Philip Page, frowning at Sally.

"No, you mustn't!" Sally was in a panic. "I can't go with him. I need the job. It's—my family," she went on hurriedly. "They need me, and that's why I can't marry for a long time, not for years, maybe."

"I see." "I didn't mean to tell you. No one else knows. I—I have no idea why I did," said Sally hurriedly.

"I promise to forget that you ever told me you were engaged," said Philip. "I'd much rather forget."

"Hello," said Terry, coming up. "Where did you get to?"

The two men exchanged greetings and Philip left. Terry and Sally sauntered into the garden.

"I've been wanting to talk to you about Tip," said Terry. "But I couldn't somehow get up the nerve to confess to you—something I've got to."

"What on earth do you mean, Terry?" Sally was frankly astonished.

"It's only that, well, I may as well get it over with—I've been teaching Tip to fly."

"Terry!" "She's crazy about flying. She took to it like a duck to water. You and your mother haven't got any business standing in her way, either," Terry sounded almost resentful.

"But she's so young. She—" "She's nearly 19, and she knows what she wants to do. That's more than most girls do," said Terry stubbornly. "Think it over, Sally, and help us figure out a way to break it to the old folks."

Sally was too shocked to argue with Terry, or to reproach him. One thing she saw clearly enough. She herself had been responsible for encouraging Tip to fly. The blame for the whole thing must fall on her.

"That Boy Has Spunk" At breakfast the next morning

after the party, Sally looked at Tip with new interest. Tip was munching toast and jam and trying to read a magazine at the same time. She had not bothered to dress, but had on her favorite pink robe in which she often spent the morning. Sally, looking at her, could not possibly imagine that she would ever be able to learn to fly a plane. Yet Terry had said positively the night before that Tip had the makings of a good pilot, and that Tip herself was determined to fly. Terry had begged Sally to explain matters to the family and get permission for Tip to go on with her flying.

Tip herself had said nothing at all about the fact that Terry was teaching her. Sally knew that if she could only get Tip to talk to her about it they might work out some way of satisfying the family.

"Tip, have you really tried to get a job?" Sally questioned. "Uh-huh," Tip did not look up. "There aren't any jobs around here."

"I've got one," reminded Sally. "And so has Ray."

"That's only because Philip Page likes you. That's why he gave Ray a job," said Tip wisely.

"It isn't at all," said Sally, blushing in spite of herself. "Isn't there something you want to do—really want to do?"

"Yes, there is," said Tip suddenly, putting down the magazine. "But I never will be allowed to do it—unless I run away."

"Tell me about it," begged Sally. "No," Tip's mouth was stubborn. "You're just like mother. You'll only scold. The only person that understands is Terry."

Sally was determined to push the matter further, but before she could say anything further her father came in, waving the Courier excitedly.

"What do you think? The employees in old Joe Morris' mill have gone out on strike," he declared. "What of it?" demanded Tip. "There's always trouble over there in Milltown."

"I don't know when they're well off," said Mr. Warren, coming in from the kitchen. "As scarce as jobs are, they ought to be thankful they've got work, instead of quitting it."

"There's going to be more excitement than usual over this trouble," said Mr. Warren. "Philip Page is backing the mill employees. He's going to use this strike to back a whole program for better living conditions in Warrenton."

"Give me the society page," demanded Tip. "I want to see what it says about the party last night."

"That boy Philip Page has got spunk," said Mr. Warren, "but he's up against it. He's fighting money, now, and old Joe Morris' can ruin the Courier if he makes up his mind to."

"I've got to get to the office," said Sally. "Philip will be wanting me to take some letters this morning, I know."

"Since when did you start calling your boss Philip?" demanded Tip. "He asked me to," said Sally. "After all, it's not so shocking. We've known each other since we were 10."

Sally found the office lively with news. Lola had just come in with pictures of the delegation of workers that had gone to see Joe Morris and ask him to fix up their houses. The leader was a tall man with a look of strength about his face.

"That's McDonald," said Lola. "He's been talking to the boss. Boss likes him fine. McDonald's a weaver. He's wife sews to help make a living. Makes some of the fancy party dresses the well-dressed woman of Warrenton is wearing this season." She turned to Sally. "Want to go down to McDonald's house with me later?"

Sally nodded. "I'd like to." Just then the office boy broke into the group and called to Sally, "Boss wants you."

Sally got her pencil and tablet hastily. If Philip Page used her as secretary much more, he would have to give her a new society editor, Sally decided. Of the two jobs, she liked much better the idea of being Philip Page's secretary.

Sally found a strange man sitting by Philip Page's desk. He was introduced to her as the buildings inspector of Warrenton, Mr. Horton. Sally found that she had been called in to take a statement from Horton to the effect that many of the buildings, including workers' houses, which Mr. Morris owned, had been condemned as unsafe or unfit to live in. Mr. Horton made a direct, clear statement, and Sally took it down faithfully.

"This is going to cost me my job," said Mr. Horton, as he rose to go. "I wouldn't have given it, only I'm sick and tired of being told what to condemn and what not to condemn. I'm saying what I think and getting out. Friend of mine has promised to give me a job selling insurance."

"This is the best day's work you've done in some time," said Philip Page. "Goodbye—and good luck."

Records Show Pitt Record Fairly Good

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—The jabs who are belittling Washington's choice of Pittsburgh as a New Year's day Rose Bowl opponent on the grounds that the Huskies have chosen a setup might well check over the season just past and note in how many cases the so-called setups became upsets. The entire 1936 season was nothing more than a series of upsets. The strongest teams in the land—teams like Minnesota, Louisiana State, Washington, Alabama, Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania—all have one game at least on their 1936 record that they would like to replay, if such a thing were possible.

The present day scheme of football things would tend to indicate that teams can't schedule a card full of games against major opponents and go through the season without a lapse or two. When teams like the Washington Huskies and the Minnesota Gophers clash in the season's opener one of them has to start the season on the wrong side of the ledger.

Despite the loss to Duquesne and the scoreless tie with Fordham, Pitt showed enough to rate the top spot in the eastern football ratings. You can't laugh off the 26-0 thumping Notre Dame boys handed the Jock Dame eleven, their 10-6 victory over Nebraska, a truly strong eleven, indicated that they were strong enough at the close of the season to give any team in the land an interesting tussle.

The Huskies themselves were most anxious to meet Pitt on New Year's day. For one thing, a team from the east would be more of a novelty than one of the southern representatives. Southern teams have had their share of invitations to the Rose Bowl, so a switch to the east is not likely to lessen interest in the annual classic.

Pitt Fades In Rose Bowl Pitt's Rose Bowl record is anything but impressive. Three previous jaunts to the coast show three defeats chalked up against the Panther. Stanford gained a single point victory over Pitt in 1928. On the other two occasions Pitt was swamped by Southern California. Pitt is likely to enter the Bowl the underdog this time, but don't bank on the odds being correct.

One thing seems certain. Pitt most likely will make it interesting for Washington. There will be no national championship at stake, but that does not mean that the contest will not measure up to past New Year's day thrillers. It is a safe guess to venture that it will. Somehow the occasion rarely fails to inspire the competing athletes to produce a brand of football that thrills the spectators.

Wally Not To See Edward

Host Announces She Will Remain At Cannes Several Months

CANNES, France, Dec. 21 (AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson cleared away the mystery surrounding her immediate future today with a plain indication she would not see the man who gave up the throne of England for her until her divorce is absolute.

The statement that Mrs. Simpson was remaining at her haven in Cannes for "several months," and "there is absolutely no possibility" she will see Edward of Windsor until spring was made by Herman Rogers, her Riviera host, as Mrs. Simpson held a formal press conference for the first time in her life.

In the end it turned out to be more of a social reception than an interview. Adroitly Mrs. Simpson discussed the beauty of the Riviera, the weather and the dangers of driving over mountain roads.

With a gracious, happy air she joined in the general conversation in the beautiful gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers' Villa Lou Vieux yesterday afternoon, but she left it to her host and spokesman to answer the two questions all the world was asking:

When would she see the Duke of Windsor? What would they wed? The answer to the first was not "for several months" and to the second only silence.

S. Dakota Politics Complicated By Senator Norbeck

REDFIELD, S. D., Dec. 21 (AP)—The death of United States Sen. Peter Norbeck, who rose from penniless youth to become the first native-born governor and senator of his state, intensified political complications in South Dakota today.

The republican senator, who was 66 years old, died at his home here yesterday of a heart disease complicated by a cancerous condition of the tongue and jaw.

Prominently mentioned as a possible successor was Gov. Thomas Berry, democrat, who will retire from office in two weeks.

Governor Berry, asked whether he planned to resign from office and have himself appointed to fill Senator Norbeck's unexpired term, declined to comment.

Leut.-Gov. Robert Peterson, democrat, who would become governor if Berry resigned, was himself ready to resign today. He was arrested Saturday on an embezzlement charge and federal deposit insurance officials said there was a $170,000 shortage in the First National bank of Centerville, of which he was president.

Crude Demand Is Estimated

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (AP)—Crude oil demands in January, the bureau of mines forecast today, will require an average daily production of 2,998,400 barrels.

The bureau reported this would be 68,000 barrels higher than the estimate for December, but 91,800 barrels below the actual average for October, 1935.

Daily average crude oil production during November, the bureau's report showed, was approximately 3,040,000 barrels, about 25,000 below the average for the previous month. Domestic crude oil stocks were reduced by about 90,000 barrels daily, setting total average demand during the month at 3,130,000.

The January domestic demand for motor fuel was placed at 34,900,000 barrels, 7.2 per cent higher than the actual January, 1936, output. January exports of motor fuel were set at 2,300,000 barrels.

Finished and unfinished gasoline stocks on hand October 31, amounted to 87,322,000 barrels, a decline of 138,000 during the month. An increase of 5,600,000 barrels for January was forecast by the bureau.

Gasoline production was estimated at 41,160,000 barrels, distributed among the districts of the country as follows: East Coast 6,300,000; Appalachian 1,500,000; Indiana-Illinois 6,970,000; Oklahoma 2,750,000; Kansas-Missouri, 2,720,000; Texas 3,290,000; Texas Gulf 8,750,000; Louisiana Gulf, 1,500,000; Arkansas-Louisiana Inland 910,000; Rocky Mountain, 850,000; California, 5,720,000.

The estimate of crude oil required at refineries was set at 89,350,000 barrels for January while runs of foreign crude have been estimated at 2,900,000 barrels, compared with an estimate of 2,800,000 for December.

Exports of crude oil were estimated at 3,800,000 barrels and the "fuel and losses" estimates were set at 2,700,000 barrels.

Daily average crude oil production during November, the bureau's report showed, was approximately 3,040,000 barrels, about 25,000 below the average for the previous month. Domestic crude oil stocks were reduced by about 90,000 barrels daily, setting total average demand during the month at 3,130,000.

The January domestic demand for motor fuel was placed at 34,900,000 barrels, 7.2 per cent higher than the actual January, 1936, output. January exports of motor fuel were set at 2,300,000 barrels.

Finished and unfinished gasoline stocks on hand October 31, amounted to 87,322,000 barrels, a decline of 138,000 during the month. An increase of 5,600,000 barrels for January was forecast by the bureau.

Gasoline production was estimated at 41,160,000 barrels, distributed among the districts of the country as follows: East Coast 6,300,000; Appalachian 1,500,000; Indiana-Illinois 6,970,000; Oklahoma 2,750,000; Kansas-Missouri, 2,720,000; Texas 3,290,000; Texas Gulf 8,750,000; Louisiana Gulf, 1,500,000; Arkansas-Louisiana Inland 910,000; Rocky Mountain, 850,000; California, 5,720,000.

The estimate of crude oil required at refineries was set at 89,350,000 barrels for January while runs of foreign crude have been estimated at 2,900,000 barrels, compared with an estimate of 2,800,000 for December.

Exports of crude oil were estimated at 3,800,000 barrels and the "fuel and losses" estimates were set at 2,700,000 barrels.

Records Show Pitt Record Fairly Good

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—The jabs who are belittling Washington's choice of Pittsburgh as a New Year's day Rose Bowl opponent on the grounds that the Huskies have chosen a setup might well check over the season just past and note in how many cases the so-called setups became upsets. The entire 1936 season was nothing more than a series of upsets. The strongest teams in the land—teams like Minnesota, Louisiana State, Washington, Alabama, Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania—all have one game at least on their 1936 record that they would like to replay, if such a thing were possible.

The present day scheme of football things would tend to indicate that teams can't schedule a card full of games against major opponents and go through the season without a lapse or two. When teams like the Washington Huskies and the Minnesota Gophers clash in the season's opener one of them has to start the season on the wrong side of the ledger.

Despite the loss to Duquesne and the scoreless tie with Fordham, Pitt showed enough to rate the top spot in the eastern football ratings. You can't laugh off the 26-0 thumping Notre Dame boys handed the Jock Dame eleven, their 10-6 victory over Nebraska, a truly strong eleven, indicated that they were strong enough at the close of the season to give any team in the land an interesting tussle.

Wally Not To See Edward

Host Announces She Will Remain At Cannes Several Months

CANNES, France, Dec. 21 (AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson cleared away the mystery surrounding her immediate future today with a plain indication she would not see the man who gave up the throne of England for her until her divorce is absolute.

The statement that Mrs. Simpson was remaining at her haven in Cannes for "several months," and "there is absolutely no possibility" she will see Edward of Windsor until spring was made by Herman Rogers, her Riviera host, as Mrs. Simpson held a formal press conference for the first time in her life.

In the end it turned out to be more of a social reception than an interview. Adroitly Mrs. Simpson discussed the beauty of the Riviera, the weather and the dangers of driving over mountain roads.

With a gracious, happy air she joined in the general conversation in the beautiful gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Rogers' Villa Lou Vieux yesterday afternoon, but she left it to her host and spokesman to answer the two questions all the world was asking amenjment "if necessary." Unless questions of wage and hour standards can be answered effectively otherwise, the democratic platform called for an amendment looking to joint federal and state jurisdiction.

Mr. Roosevelt already has sought to encourage more state legislation on wages and hours, unemployment insurance and old age protection. He promised only recently to supplement the state action when the problems assume an interstate character.

In the general opinion, he will recommend attempts at voluntary cooperation and further legislative exploration of constitutional boundaries before broaching an amendment. He is not believed by advisors to sympathize with proposals to curtail the power of the supreme court, or to enlarge its membership.

People Aid In WPA Projects

District Director Leads Co-Operation On Part Of Public Officials

Success of the WPA program in District No. 18 is due in a large measure to cooperation of the people through their public agencies, R. H. McNew, district director, declared today.

Since work projects must be sponsored by governmental agencies other than WPA, cooperation on the part of these agencies throughout the district has counted for much in the accomplishment of a worthwhile program, said the director.

He expressed gratitude to public officials for their appreciation of problems confronting the WPA in the administration of its work. McNew said that a fine spirit existed toward WPA in the 13 counties of this district.

The director recited some of the permanent benefits accruing to the area as a result of cooperation with WPA. Among them was 200 miles of lateral road work, including 11 miles surfaced road by WPA and 20 miles topped by the state highway department, five school campus beautification projects, a series of tax, water well and mineral surveys in many counties, and 100,000 garments processed by WPA sewing room projects and distributed by the surplus commodity unit of the program.

"Well," he said smiling, "if I'd known you were here I would have had some news for the boys."

When a photographer tugged at Landon's sleeve for one more picture, he took the arm of the woman reporter and said:

"Wait a minute, this is Maine, you know."

A flashlight bulb held by one of the photographers burst, causing the governor to remark:

"Now we don't want any accidents, boys; I got through the campaign all right."

Mr. Roosevelt invited his former republican opponent to call shortly after the latter's arrival from Baltimore where he was a guest last night at a dinner of renovated Maryland fare.

Both winner and loser will make "off the record" speeches at tonight's dinner of the Grid-Iron Club.

PEACE CONFERENCE CONCLUDES WORK

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 21 (AP)—The Inter-American peace conference ended its formal labors today with approval of 37 projects designed to strengthen bonds among the 21 American republics and liberalize trade policies.

A planetary session sanctioned a Central American declaration for complete American solidarity if war anywhere threatens the western world, resolutions urging lowered tariffs and equality of trade opportunities, and other plans to cement peace and improve commercial and cultural relations.

TEXAS BANK ROBBED

Two Men And Woman Take $3,000 In Cash

CORPUS CHRISTI, Dec. 21 (AP)—Two men and a woman robbed the Farmers State bank at Orange Grove of approximately $3,000 shortly after the bank opened at 2 o'clock this morning.

The men entered the bank, backed employes into the vault and gathered up $2,900 in cash. Max Osterloh, cashier, was struck over the head when he refused to assist the robbers and attempted to grab a shotgun held by one of the men. The woman waited outside in the car.

Texas highway patrolmen and officers of Jim Wells, Nueces and adjoining counties, spread a net over a wide area in an effort to overtake a 1936 black sedan used by the bandits. Officers believed the car is that of George Willoughby of Robstown which was stolen last night near Tula Lake. License number of the stolen car is 815-431.

So the questions run as legislators intent upon regulation of wages and hours and control of crop production re-study supreme court decisions bearing on those problems. In one respect the atmosphere is reminiscent of March, 1933, when congress and the country looked so unquestionably to the president for leadership. Today again the lead is for him to take. His close advisors say they don't know what he intends, but quickly add it will not be retreat.

Never before was there an election in which the candidates pledged to seek a constitutional

The 79-year-old holy father will be carried to his desk and placed in an armchair in front of the microphone.

The pope persisted in making arrangements for the Christmas broadcast despite the pleading of his doctor to remain absolutely quiet.

COLD SNAP IN EAST

Ships At Sea Handicapped By High Winds

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—Winter and the shortest day of the year ushered a cold snap into the northeastern states today.

The fringes of a gale which circled stalled ocean liners at sea whipped through Manhattan's canyons, but still there was no snow. Among the ships encountering adverse weather are the Manhattan, Europa, Aquitania, and Champlain. They were expected to reach New York Wednesday, a day late.

Charles McQuain and Wayne Burch, students at the University of Texas, have arrived in Big Spring to spend the holidays with friends and relatives.
