Hope Is Held For Settling Ship Strike

Break Indicated In Long Deadlock On The Pacific Coast

By The Associated Press
Signs of progress in negotiations to settle the Pacific coast maritime work stoppage held the center of attention along the nation's strike front today.

Coastwise ship operators and union spokesmen at San Francisco agreed to debate the strike issues publicly tonight. Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, said a break was indicated in the 40-day blockade of coast ports.

The strategy committee of a "rank and file" seamen's strike on the Atlantic coast, disagreeing with the non-strike policy of eastern and gulf sailors association executives, said sailors at 14 cities voted simultaneously last night to declare the officers vacant.

In Wisconsin

A demand by Judge C. M. Davison for Gov. Philip F. LaFollette to call out the militia marked the deadlock of strike of J. I. Case company employes at Racine, Wis. Judge Davison asserted strikers failed to heed his injunction limiting the number of pickets at the plants.

At Pleasantville, N. J., 88 PWA seamstresses who camped in the city hall because they were laid off were promised their sewing project would be resumed.

Rail Strike Vote

Big Four Railroad brotherhoods started a strike vote among 3,000 Santa Fe railroad employes west of Albuquerque, N. M., wage increases for engineers were at issue.

Gov. Henry H. Blood asked principals in a strike of 2,100 Utah metal miners to renew negotiations. In two districts 900 men had returned to work, accepting a 25-cent daily increase. The others, out eight weeks, stood by a demand for a 50-cent increase.

LARGER CROP YIELD IS SEEN

Cotton Production Estimated At 12,407,000 Bales, Gain Of 7,000 In Month

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8 (AP)—A 7,000-bale increase in the estimated cotton crop for the past month was noted today by the crop reporting board as it placed the total yield at 12,407,000 bales, based on December 1 conditions, compared with 12,400,000 bales a month earlier.

It said indicated yield per acre this season was 107.6 pounds, well above the average last season of 106.3 and the ten-year average of 105.3.

Harvested acreage estimated at 30,954,000 acres was said to be ten percent larger than in 1935. The board said two separate droughts affected the 1936 crop. The first in May and June retarded the crop in Georgia and the Carolinas but "favorable summer and fall weather was said to have increased output in the eastern end of the cotton belt by 600,000 bales between August 1 and December 1.

The western end of the belt, particularly Texas and Oklahoma, was damaged by late drought late in the season.

Weather Is Moderating

Mercury Rising In Midwest; Cold Wave Takes Nine Lives

(By The Associated Press)
Moderating weather today marked the apparent end of winter's first sub zero thrust into the Middle West. At least nine deaths were attributed to the cold.

Temperatures 10 to 20 above zero were the outlook in the Dakotas and Minnesota, where the frigid wave was held accountable for six deaths. A light snow covered most of the Northwest. Low for area last night was 11 below at Dickinson, N. D.

In Illinois the mercury rose gradually from yesterday's low, ranging down to 15 below at Freeport. Three cold-included deaths were counted in the Chicago area.

A break in the sub zero temperatures reached Nebraska and readings ranged up to 48 in Sidney. Roads were slick with snow and ice.

The weather bureau predicted temperatures down to 25 at Philadelphia, 20 at Washington, 8 in Ohio and 15 in New Jersey, explaining the cold wave had spread westward but in moderate degree.

PRISON AGENT WILL GET FOUR MEN HERE

Bud Russell, veteran agent for the Texas prison system, passed through here this morning enroute to Stanton. He had a load of license plates aboard and had been distributing them at points along his route.

Later today he was expected to return here and take four prisoners, convicted by the November 70th district court, to prison. They were F. D. Hanson, charged with theft, Crescencio Gomez, convicted of murder, Walter Loftus, felony theft, and Lewis Griffin, burglary.

Testimony In 1918 Slaying Is Presented

Jealousy Motive Indicated By State In Death Of School Teacher

MULESHOE, Dec. 8 (AP)—Events attendant to the slaying of a 22-year-old woman school teacher in southern Bailey county more than 18 years ago, were related this morning in the 64th district court trial of John Teal for murder.

After the twelfth juror, E. E. Hughes, a West Camp farmer, was accepted, the state opened its case against the 50-year-old Teal who for nearly 17 years was a fugitive.

Two witnesses had testified at 11 o'clock this morning before Judge C. D. Russell recessed court for five minutes, said Mrs. Elizabeth Herden, district deputy clerk.

The first testimony for the prosecution was presented by Joe Mumford, Wichita Falls.

Sunday Reunion

It was at the Mumford home on Sunday, April 7, 1918, that a group of early-day Bailey county ranch families met for dinner.

In the group were Miss Evelyn Monts, the community's school teacher, and Teal. Joe Mumford at that time was 18 years old. Today he related details of that Sunday gathering, following which Miss Monts was shot to death at the home of M. McCarty, a neighbor.

M. A. Tilson, Hale county farmer, a brother-in-law of the slain woman, was the second witness offered by the state.

The state is attempting to probe through testimony of persons present at that meeting at the Mumford home that Teal evidenced jealousy when other young men of the community attended Miss Monts.

The Mumford home was two and one-half miles north of the old Bar-N-Bar ranch house and about 31 miles southeast of Muleshoe.

Baldwin With Monarch For A New Parley

Throne Or Love? Answer To Question Solely Up To King

LONDON, Dec. 8 (AP)—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin reached Fort Belvedere this evening—summoned by his king—presumably to receive the final decision of Edward VIII on renunciation of either his throne or Wallis Warfield Simpson.

The premier hastened over the icy roads from London in an hour and 15 minutes to enter the gates of the royal lodge in the gathering darkness, while suspense hung heavy over London, England and the empire.

It generally was believed the decision, even if given tonight at Fort Belvedere, would be withheld from the public until Baldwin has an opportunity to communicate it to commons.

Duke Of Kent On Hand

If the answer is abdication, the king might give the tipoff by quick flight from the country. Edward's youngest brother, the Duke of Kent, was believed to have participated in tonight's crucial meeting. He drove alone to Fort Belvedere this morning. There also were reports that the motor car of the Duke of York, Edward's heir-presumptive, had been seen entering a side entrance of the estate.

Generally in view of Mrs. Simpson's statement of her willingness to sacrifice the king rather than hurt the sovereign or the throne, the British public was hopeful his monarch had decided the crown comes first.

But there was no certainty; only breathless waiting.

Delays Costly

Those who expected the king to give the first minister his final word tonight pointed out that every day's delay was costing the empire's industry thousands of pounds.

The vast amount of business pointed toward a coronation next May was at a standstill.

Edward, these persons said would be as anxious as any of his subjects to return Great Britain to normal. Unless he has made up his mind, they asserted, there could be but little reason for another conference with Baldwin.

Before the first minister went to Fort Belvedere with advisers to both the king and his heir-presumptive, a privately chartered airplane flew the channel in treacherous weather from Croaydon and finally wound up near Marseilles, France, for an overnight stop en route to Cannes.

Mrs. Simpson is at a Cannes villa.

Divorce Final April 27

It was believed tonight that those in the plane were Theodore Goddard, of the firm which handled the granting of Mrs. Simpson's divorce nisi from Ernest Aldrich Simpson; Sidney Barron, his clerk.

'Gag Man' For Cantor Dies

David Freedman Had Filed Contract Suit Against Entertainer

NEW YORK, Dec. 8 (AP)—David Freedman, whose $250,000 breach of contract suit against Eddie Cantor, stage, screen and radio comedian, opened yesterday in supreme court, died during the night in his sleep at his home on the upper west side.

Freedman was 38 years old. A mistress was declared in suit against Cantor when the case was resumed.

"This is a decree of a court from which there is no appeal," said Justice Ferdinand Pecora when the motion was made by Samuel Leibowitz, Freedman's attorney. "A mistress is ordered."

Outside the court Cantor expressed his sorrow at the news.

"This is the most distressing thing that could have happened," the big-eyed, sober-faced comedian said. "Dave Freedman had great talent—terrific talent. I am sure that in his heart he must have known I was his friend and that soon we'd be back together again. This is a cock-eyed business we're in. Today we're fighting each other; tomorrow we're working together. I am deeply sympathetic with his family."

Freedman, gag and script writer for Cantor and collaborator with the comedian on several magazine articles and books, charged the comedian with abrogation of an oral contract for 10 per cent of Cantor's earnings.

THOUSANDS FEARED DEAD IN PHILIPPINE ISLAND FLOODS; SCORES OF TOWNS INUNDATED

MANILA, Dec. 8 (AP)—The peaceful farming valley of Cagayan was a devastated graveyard of untold dead today.

Swirling flood waters of the mighty Cagayan river, largest in the Philippines, swept thousands to their death, official Philippine army advisers said, and left other thousands missing.

Officials marshalling the commonwealth's relief agencies expressed fear the full extent of what they termed "the greatest disaster the Philippines has experienced," would never be known.

Populations of entire barrios, suburban clusters of native huts, were wiped out when the river, its waters swelled by the northern Luzon Island's heaviest rainfall, swept down the fertile and populous valley at 4 a. m. last Friday, rapping most of the victims as they slept.

Entire families were caught by the unexpected torrents, aftermath of a typhoon, and carried, screaming, toward the sea.

The unprecedented flood covered more than 100 miles of rich tobacco and rice farming lands north-east of Manila.

Fifty four villages were known to be inundated and a large part of the area, most populous rural section of Luzon Island, had not been heard from.

The government typhoon relief board met in emergency session in Manila as soon as reports of the disaster reached here today. Major General Basilio J. Valdes and Dr. Eugenio Hernandez, chief of the bureau of health, were dispatched to make an aerial survey of the devastated region.

Fifty four towns were known to be inundated by the largest section of the valley, which stretches 50 miles across between two ranges of mountain, was yet to be heard from.

Houses full of people, animals, trees were swept better skitter to toward the sea by the seething waters.

Twenty bodies were recovered in the village of Cagayan.

Officials of Hagan reported it was impossible to get into Cagayan Valley, north of that city. They reported hundreds of houses swept away and thousands missing.

They urgently requested emergency supplies of rice, and vaccines against cholera and dysentery.

Wants Such A Union Despite Offer To Give Up King Edward

CANNES, France, Dec. 8 (AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson, friends close to the American beauty said today, is determined to fight for a morganatic marriage with King Edward VIII despite her offer to give him up.

Mrs. Simpson's friends said she still hoped the king would triumph in his determination to marry her and still keep his throne.

They expressed the "strong belief" that Mrs. Simpson's statement was dictated from quarters close to the king in London and said they both revealed a determination in the telephone talks that preceded the signing of the statement to "fight to the bitter end" for a morganatic marriage.

A spokesman at the villa where Mrs. Simpson is staying said, however, there is no foundation for such "belief." He added the statement was "purely spontaneous."

May Leave Cannes

The possibility was expressed that Mrs. Simpson would soon leave Cannes, perhaps for Italy, where strict fascist police would assure her greater privacy.

French sure national detectives on guard outside the Villa Lou Viei also said she would possibly leave Cannes.

Lord Brownlow, gentleman-in-waiting to the king, who is here with Mrs. Simpson, said however: "Mrs. Simpson will remain at Villa Lou Viei until after the Christmas holidays."

He added that "she has no present intention of going any other place."

With Mrs. Simpson's permission, Lord Brownlow will hold a daily press conference hereafter at the gates of the villa.

It was at these gatherings that he said today: "Mrs. Simpson is in excellent health and it has not been necessary for her to see a physician."

Board Makes Decision Here On New 4-County Quarantine Area

Recommendation that a four-county area in West Texas be included in a regulated zone as a quarantine against spread of the pink bollworm was decided upon by the state pink bollworm commission in a session in Big Spring Tuesday morning.

The decision followed discussion of best means of quarantine of the area by the state, action by which was necessary as a result of a recent order extending the federal bollworm quarantine to the four counties—Howard, Dawson, Martin and Glascock.

To Designate Mills

The board's recommendation followed suggestions offered by J. M. DeCurto, state entomologist, to which there was no opposition.

Under the board's recommendations, shipment of seed from the area would be restricted to designated mills. That provision has been in effect under the federal quarantine.

Meeting of the board followed the federal quarantine extension, ordered after the finding of bollworm in gin trash in Big Spring and in Dawson county.

DeCurto told the board he believed the infestation was not heavy enough to require regulation on lint, and that shipment of seed to designated mills where it could be crushed immediately probably would be sufficient. He said sterilization of seed probably would not be necessary until next year, and then only if infestation were heavier.

The bollworm commission makes recommendations to the governor and the state department of agriculture on quarantine policies.

From Mexican Border

DeCurto expressed the opinion bollworm infestation in this area results from flight or windblasts from the Mexican border, where the pest has caused considerable damage. He presented affidavits of U. S. department of agriculture field men describing the finding of two live bollworm specimens in trash of a Big Spring gin in October, and one specimen at Patricia, Dawson county.

DeCurto told members of the board that if more rigid restrictions could permanently eradicate the dread pest, he would favor them, but that he believed there was no permanent method at the time.

Pointing out the necessity of quarantine measures to prevent spread of the bollworm, DeCurto

KBST Officials Present Program At Rotary Luncheon

Rotarians heard J. F. Willson, manager of Radio Station KBST, Miss Dorothy Demaree, program director of the station, Douglas Doan, news commentator, of the station and Mrs. E. C. Moser, local artist, on a program consisting of an address on radio, two piano solos and two vocal solos at its noon-day luncheon at the Settles Hotel.

Doan conducted the program in typical radio fashion, introducing the number as he would before a microphone. Willson, a former resident of Big Spring, but recently of Fort Smith, Arkansas, where he has been manager of Station KFPW, outlined the policies of KBST, explained the value of a radio station to a community, and expressed delight at being able to return here to make his home.

Visiting Rotarians were C. L. Calvey, Del Rio, Texas; Oran E. Thomas, Midland. Other visitors were J. F. Willson, Miss Demaree, Mrs. Moser and Douglas Doan of Big Spring.

Around And About

The Sports Circuit

By Tom Beasley DON LEGGE, San Angelo sports announcer, and "Big Foot" Lewis, who formerly played basketball with the Christiani Bats, official of the Big Spring Duke-Water Valley cage game last Saturday night. The two have been doing a good job officiating games in this section.

AMARILLO IS almost a cinch to win the Abilene Eagles this week-end. Abilene is weak at ends, weak in the kicking department, and below par on pass defense. We are told the story of a San Angelo man who took Abilene over Amarillo, gave three points, and was given one hundred smackers. The Abilene backer should be under close observation.

THIS BUSINESS of staging New Year's Day "bowl games" will reach down among the schoolboys, according to reports from "up-country." Gene Howe of Amarillo has threatened several times to sponsor a national championship high school game with the Sandies meeting top-ranking Eastern or Far Western squad. There's no doubt about the Sandies being the logical team to select from this part of the country.

FAXTON DENT, El Paso Times sports scribe, has criticized the College of Mines for inviting Hardin-Simmons Cowboys of Abilene to play in the Sun Bowl. Dent said he did not consider the Cowboys too weak, but pointed out by inviting Alonzo Stagg's College of Pacific eleven the Sun Bowl could have received much wider recognition.

ACCORDING TO information received by school officials here, no definite rearrangement of the high school football set-up will be made until 1938. Intercollegiate league moguls are planning a Class AA loop, consisting of teams in the larger cities.

MAJOR LEAGUE MOGULS OPEN MEETING

NY GIANTS EXPECT TO MAKE DEAL

By PAUL MICKELSON NEW YORK, Dec. 8. (AP)—Several important deals, including the much publicized transportation of the great Dizzy Dean to New York, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, were expected to pop today as the major league moguls opened their winter meeting.

The nabors of baseball were reported ready to fire on all fronts with trades and purchases involving a score or more of major league players. The Giants even went so far as to send out word there would be an announcement of a deal, but wouldn't give a hint as to what it would be.

This was the setup of supply and demand: National League St. Louis—Vice-president Branch Rickey is using all his salesmanship to peddle Dizzy Dean, but wants plenty of cash and a whole ball club in return.

NEW YORK—The Giants have made a deal, possibly with the Phillies for Lou Chiozza and Dolph Camilli for cash and Hank Leiber. They need a third sacker badly and another pitcher.

Chicago—Must have more punch. Want Leiber and would give up Third Baseman Stanley Hack and maybe a pitcher.

Cincinnati—Need a pitcher and an outfielder who can hit. Pittsburgh—Need a catcher badly and hot after Dean. Willing to trade almost anyone on the club to get new faces.

Boston—Everyone is a bit afraid of dealing with shrewd Bob Quinn, who has Wally Berger on the block. If he can get what he wants, That's plenty.

American League New York—Manager Joe McCarthy would like a pitcher but would like to buy him with cash.

Detroit—The Tigers need a good pitcher and have been offered Wesley Ferrell by the Red Sox, Buck Newsome by the Senators and John Whitehead by the White Sox.

Washington—After a good pitcher like Auker and a catcher like Rolfe Hemsley of the Browns or Frankie Pytlak of Cleveland. Ready to trade Buck Newsome.

Boston—Hot after Pinky Higgins of Philadelphia for third base in exchange for Bill Werber and cash. Would trade Pitcher Wesley Ferrell for what have you.

Cleveland—The Indians are eager to do some house cleaning with Joe Younk leading the moving day procession. Trying to swing a deal with the Browns with Younk and Bill Knickerbocker as bait.

St. Louis—For some reason Rogers Hornsby is anxious to get rid of Hemsley, and Harlan Cliff. Wants infielders.

Philadelphia—For the first time in memory of man, Connie Mack isn't interested in money. He's ready to trade but says he must have players, not cash, but the club owners can't believe him.

Police Officers Howard Moore and James Messer of Lawrence, Kas., bagged a wild coyote recently that had strayed into the city from the countryside.

Romances Betwix Kings, Commoners Seldom Have Had Happy Endings

By ROGER D. GREENE
 NEW YORK, Dec. 3. (AP)—Romance-minded kings, down the ages, have set Edward VIII myriad examples in the clash between human passion and the stern dictates of sovereignty.
 Few have been starved by happy endings.
 None has developed such world-stirring repercussions or involved so many fantastic O. Henry "twists" as Edward's battle with his parliament for the love of dark-eyed Wallis Warfield Simpson.
 Whatever his ultimate decision—whether to fight or fly—Edward will find little to cheer him in the past great romances of "prince and commoner" in history.
 Henry VIII tried it four times. Four of his six wives were commoners—Anne Boleyn, Jane Seymour, Catherine Howard and Catherine Parr. Two of them went to the block. Henry had a hard time with all his wives. His third, the homely Anne of Cleves, Henry described as looking "no better than a Flanders mare." It was a marriage of state.
 Carol and Iupescu, now king of Rumania, tried it twice. Each episode caused a storm that drove

64 Days' Digging Gets Pen Inmate Exactly Nowhere

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Dec. 3. (AP)—Missouri state prison's human mole was in a punishment cell today after 64 days of futile tunneling beneath the walls.
 Prison guard's ended 22-year-old Fred Turner's strange subterranean existence late yesterday when the youth broke through the surface outside the prison after burrowing 140 feet. Tipped off to the escape attempt by a source Warden J. M. Sanders refused to disclose, guards were waiting at the tunnel mouth.
 Since Oct. 4 when he vanished from his cell, Turner had lived underground. The tunnel started in a plumbing arway between two cells. Dirt was scattered in the arway as it was brought from the tunnel. He used a screwdriver, hammer and two cold chisels.
 Turner was supplied with food and clothing by two cellmates, Everett Stewart, 29, and Mike Knussman, 22, who also helped dig at night but returned to their cells during the day time.

him from the country. In 1920, he renounced his rights to the throne after amorganatic marriage with a commoner, Zizi Lambrino.
 Carol divorced Zizi, married Princess Helen of Greece, and was restored to grace. Then he became enamored of the titian-haired Magda Lupescu, another commoner, again renounced his rights to the throne and fled with her on Dec. 31, 1923.

In 1931, when Carol staged his aerial coup d'etat to gain the throne, Magda received $50,000 and a French chateau to renounce any claims against Carol.
 Edward's own ancestor, George IV, whose tutor declared he would become "either the most polished gentleman or the most accomplished blackguard in Europe—possibly both," defied parliament and the constitutional act of settlement by marrying a Catholic commoner, Mary Anne Fitzherbert, in 1785—but George did it secretly, and it was not until 1905 that final proof of the marriage was brought to light.

 In recent years, two royal princes have renounced their rights to sovereignty, and married commoners.
 The Count of Covadonga, eldest son of ex-King Alfonso of Spain, married the Cuban beauty, Senorita Edelmira Ignacio Adriana Sampedro, in June, 1933—and they separated in November, 1934.
 In 1932, Prince Lennart of Sweden, grandson of King Gustav, married the pretty strawberry-blond Karin Nilsson, daughter of a wealthy Stockholm business man, announcing fervidly:
 "I would rather marry Karin than be king!"
 They're still together, just plain "Mr. and Mrs. Bernadotte"—just as Edward VIII and Wallis Warfield may become plain "Mr. and Mrs. David Windsor."

LIQUOR CANNOT STAND THE LIGHT OF TRUTH

DRY LEADERS DIDN'T QUIT

A writer in the readers' column of the Dallas News the other day deplored the fact that the leaders of the fight against the liquor traffic had quit fighting. I wonder if the brother is seeing things straight. Who has laid down, the leaders or the folks whom the leaders were trying to lead?
 For forty-five years we believed in the suppression of the liquor traffic fought night and day with all the powers we possessed of body, mind and soul. We saw our labors crowned with the success that put the eighteenth amendment in the constitution. We saw the open, legalized saloon put out of the way. We had to contend with bootleggers and the wildcat distillers with no real help from the government in enforcing the law of the land, but with all its defects, the prohibition law did more for the country than any other law in my memory.
 Then what happened? Some of the "economic royalists" and the liquor interests filled the land with anti-prohibition propaganda. The democratic party put repeal in its Chicago platform and the spellbinders, including the candidate for the presidency, urged repeal on the promise that we should have no saloons and that dry territory would be protected by strong laws, backed by the powers of the government.
 The men and women whom the pro leaders had been leading listened to the propaganda and the spellbinding speeches and when the time came and the constitution was submitted to constitutional (?) conventions our prohibition folks fell over themselves to repeal the eighteenth amendment and later the Dean law that we might balance the budget (the only budget balanced so far is the liquor dealers), and now some one of these same good folks want to know why the leaders have quit. A man with one eye and it half out can see why we have quit. The people deserted us and there was nothing for us to do but sit down and see the procession go by, and is it going by? What people saw they are sure to reap the fruits thereof. They have sown liquor stores and sales and now they are reaping the effects. Don't blame the leaders; blame the church folks who voted with liquor dealers and such.

Camera Views Of Events And People In The World's News

Crowds of Britons, hoping for a glimpse of King Edward, are shown in this radiophoto as they milled outside Buckingham palace in London, as speculation spread throughout the Empire on possible consequences of the King's friendship with Mrs. Wallis Simpson. The average Briton, long unaware of the acquaintanceship, received his first news when British newspapers lifted their self-imposed censorship. (Associated Press Photo)

For 17 seasons these two men who were business pals many years ago have been separated and made names for themselves on Broadway, independent of each other. Now they're a two-man team again, producing the play, "Fulton of Oak Falls," in which George M. Cohan (right), will star. Cohan is shown with Sam H. Harris as he burst into an old tune familiar to both. (Associated Press Photo)

While all Britain seethed over reports that King Edward had decided to keep both his throne and friendship for Mrs. Wallis Simpson, a court to consider claims of service to be performed at the scheduled coronation of King Edward was established in the Privy Council office at London. Left to right: The Earl of Cromer, Lord Chamberlain; the Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal; Lord Thankerton, a Lord of Appeal in Ordinary; Lord Chief Justice Hewart; Lord Wright, Master of the Rolls; the Earl of Onslow; and Lord Normand, Lord Justice-General of Scotland. These houses, a far cry from the queenship of England for which she is now bidding, figured prominently in the early life of Mrs. Wallis Simpson for whose love King Edward was reported ready to abdicate his throne. By refusing to grant a final decree of divorce to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, Sir Thomas Barnes (above), King's proctor, could write "finis" to the Simpson case which has provoked an unprecedented crisis in Great Britain. Stanton Buffaloes Are Honored At Banquet Given By the Parent-Teacher Association

STANTON (Spl.)—Chief social affair of the Stanton High School calendar was held recently when the football banquet was held at the First Methodist Church honoring the members of the Buffalo football team that continued a tradition of several years.

Girls of the high school pep squad and high school teachers were special guests of the evening at the affair sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association.

School colors of purple and gold dominated in decorations for the tables which were placed about three sides of an open rectangle. Each was laid in white with streamers of paper of the two colors down the center upon which were placed tiny gold posts, wrapped in the chosen colors and colored candies. A huge football centered the speaker's table. Nutcrackers of purple cellophane and gilded nuts that carried out the motif in shape, wave place favors and white napkins bore the purple

initials, "S.H.S."

Program
 Superintendent of Schools W. C. Glazener was toastmaster and introduced the following program numbers:
 Invocation—W. C. Glazener.
 Welcome to guests—Mrs. Sam Wilkinson.
 Response—Team Captain J. D. Poe and Miss Margaret Straub, pep squad captain.
 Yells and songs—Led by Pauline Cox, Anna Marie Bullock and Amel Glaser.
 Reading, "Our Team"—Mrs. Bryan Henderson.
 Remarks of a fan—C. B. Jones.
 Announcement of lettermen for 1936 and co-captains for 1937-38—Coach Bryan Henderson.

Date of St. Cecilia Club's Silver Tea Is Set For Sunday

One of the outstanding social events of next week will be the silver tea sponsored by the St. Cecilia Club to be held Sunday afternoon at the J. Gordon Bristow home in Edwards Heights.

The calling hours have been set from 4 until 6 o'clock and guests will be received by Mrs. Bristow, Mrs. V. Van Gieson, Mrs. Wilburn Barcus, Mrs. Ray Shumons and Mrs. William Tate. The house party will include Mrs. J. B. Young and Mrs. E. V. Spence who will pour, and Miss Canille Koberg, Miss Nancy Phillips and Miss Don Hutto.

This St. Mary's Episcopal organization was primarily organized for the purpose of raising funds to be used in the purchase of a pipe organ for the church, hence they selected the name of the music patroness as club cognomen.

An invitation to the public to attend this affair is cordially extended by the club.

1st Christian Council Continues Study On Progress Of Negroes

Mrs. J. R. Parks led the missionary program at the meeting of the Women's Council of the First Christian church Monday when interesting talks and musical numbers were given.

Using different phases in the progress of the negro, talks were given by Mrs. R. W. Ogden, Mrs. H. E. Clay, and Mrs. H. Clay Reed. A trio composed of Miss Ruby Bell, Mrs. R. E. Blount, and Mrs. Willard Read sang two negro spirituals.

At the refreshment hour, Mrs. Harry Lee, Mrs. Ogden and Mrs. Jimmie Wilcox served Mrs. J. T. Allen, Mrs. I. D. Eddins, Mrs. Glass Glenn, Mrs. G. C. Schurman, Mrs. C. M. Shaw, Mrs. M. C. Lawrence, Mrs. J. J. Green, Mrs. W. M. Taylor, Mrs. Tom Rosson, Mrs. J. R. Parks, Mrs. T. E. Baker, Mrs. J. L. Milner, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. H. E. Clay, Mrs. J. R. Crenth, Mrs. Delmont Cook, Mrs. H. Clay Reed, Mrs. Willard Read, Mrs. Blount, and Miss Eell.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davis of New York City are the guests of Dr. and Mrs. G. S. True, Mrs. Davis' parents. Mr. Davis plans to visit here several days before returning home while Mrs. Davis will remain through the Christmas season.

Coronation Sets Coiffure Style For American Miss At Christmas

MODERN POMPADOUR
 A suave coronation coiffure is designed for holiday soirees by Dumas who coils some of the smartest heads in New York. The crown of the head is kept smooth and flat and the hair around the face curled into soft rolls which give a modern version of the pompadour.

By ADELAIDE KERR
 NEW YORK (SP)—Coronation coiffures—suave, smart and regal—have been launched here as the foremost news in hair fashions for the coming Christmas holidays.

A smooth shining crown unruffled by a single wave and soft curls rolled back from the face, are the distinguishing features of the new style. The top of the head is kept smooth and the front and sides set in ringlets which may be combed back into soft curls. The old marcel wave has been banished.

The vogue for a smooth shining crown has caused women to give more attention to the luster of their hair than they have in years. For the woman whose beauty budget is limited, here is a treatment which costs less than a quarter for restoring the sheen to dull locks:

Part the hair, dip a small pad of absorbent cotton into warm olive oil and massage it well into the scalp. Continue to part the hair and massage in the oil which is kept well warmed until the entire scalp is oiled. Bind the hair in a towel and allow the oil to remain over night.

Next morning shampoo the hair with a solution made of pure castile soap which has been shaved into boiling water and allowed to remain until it becomes a soft jelly. (Three latherings should entirely remove the oil.) Rinse until the hair "squeaks"; when pulled between the fingers.

The oil shampoo should be given every two weeks until the hair regains its luster and thereafter repeated every month or two.

A 500-pound Poland China sow owned by 14-year-old Dick Cornelius of Fairfax, Okla., farrowed 36 pigs. All but three lived.

Tips To Those Undecided On Gifts, Cards

When In Doubt About A Present Solve Worry By Sending A Card

By JOAN DURHAM
 "Shall I send Marion a Christmas present this year—or just a card?"

It's easy enough to make out a list of people who ought to be remembered at Christmas. But the problem of deciding whether to send gifts to the Marions on our lists is sometimes very baffling.

There's one good rule to follow in gift-sending:
 When in doubt, don't. Send a card instead.

A wide variety of suitable cards is on the market today. The point is to take time enough to select something to fit everybody on your list.

Here are a few good rules to follow in sending greetings:
 For Signing the Card—

Women use "Mrs." or "Miss" on engraved or printed cards. Those prefixes may be omitted from cards bought at the local store, and signed in ink, however. For example: "Miss Jane Evergreen" or "Mrs. Robert Evergreen"—for printed and engraved cards; "Jane Evergreen" or "Marion Evergreen"—for store cards.

Men ordinarily omit "Mr." from all signatures—printed, engraved or inscribed.

Husband-and-wife cards—engraved or printed—are signed, "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evergreen." Less formal greetings may bear both first names—"Robert and Marion Evergreen."

In Addressing Cards—Write the name and address of the person to whom the card is going on the lower-half of the envelope. For example: "Master Thomas Evergreen," "Miss Jane

Donations and Study Feature Sisterhood Meet At Brenner's

Donations to a hospital and an orphanage sponsored by those of the Jewish faith and the study circle featured the meeting of the Nettie Fisher Sisterhood at the home of Mrs. N. Branner Monday.

The group made the annual donation to the National Jewish Hospital for consumptives in Denver and also the Jewish orphanage in New Orleans. At the study hour Mrs. Joe Fisher led in the discussion of the Jewish conception of the Book of Genesis.

Attending were Mrs. David Merkin, Mrs. Victor Mellinger, Mrs. Joe Fisher, Mrs. Bernard Fisher, Mrs. J. Eichhaus and Miss Janice Mellinger, who was a guest.

Presbyterian Women Pack Orphanage Box

Mrs. D. A. Koons, secretary of spiritual life, Monday gave the meditation at the Presbyterian Auxiliary meeting when members packed a box for the orphanage.

Announcement was made that the box will be kept open until next Monday to accommodate those who have not yet turned in their donations. At this time the auxiliary will have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Hawkins of Itasca who are in charge of the orphanage there. The meetings will begin at 3 o'clock.

Joining in the packing were Mrs. D. A. Koons, Mrs. S. L. Baker, Mrs. R. L. Carpenter, Mrs. L. G. Talley, Mrs. James T. Brooks, Mrs. E. L. Barrick, Mrs. A. A. Porter, Mrs. Lee Porter, Mrs. N. J. Allison, Mrs. H. G. Foosee, Mrs. T. N. Rutherford, Mrs. T. S. Currie, Mrs. W. C.

Evergreen, "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Evergreen," "Mr. Robert Evergreen," or "Mrs. Robert Evergreen" (Never address a woman by her own first name.)

It is entirely proper to put return addresses in the upper left-hand corner or on the back flap of the envelope—especially if there's any doubt about the address of the person who's to get the card.

FIRST... A DAY AHEAD! WITH THE NEWS.

Foremost topic at the moment is that of the romance between King Edward and American-born Wallis Warfield Simpson, and the far-reaching effects that romance may have on the British empire. People want to know the latest developments in the affair.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, readers of The Herald were informed of one of the news-making developments in this case—that Mrs. Simpson had announced her willingness to give up King Edward so that he might retain his throne.

Readers of other newspapers circulating in Big Spring read of the same announcement TUESDAY MORNING. The Herald was A DAY AHEAD!

The Herald was FIRST, on the first day of its full leased-wire service of The Associated Press. That was just an example of what this newspaper will bring its readers in up-to-the minute news.

THE MENACE

Trade ranks with peace at Pan-American party.
Latin nations seeking more markets in U. S.
Washington unworried by British crisis.
Some see England's royalty on way out.

Niceties—
WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The beautiful peace phrases wafting up from the Pan-American conference should not be taken too literally as yet. So far it has been a tea-party. All conferences go through this preliminary stage. Everyone reeks goodwill until they get down to business.

Barter—
Hull really is not depending as heavily as he indicated upon those points submitted at the start of the conference. From a practical standpoint, they would not amount to much. They were intended only to lay academic groundwork. What Hull wants to get is:

(1) A revitalized interest in international agreements and (2) a unified neutrality understanding. If he can get Argentina, Brazil and Chile on this program, they will frighten the smaller powers into it. But what all the latins want is more American markets for their products. The dealing, therefore, is likely to be complicated.

Man About Manhattan
NEW YORK — The most spectacular surgical operations performed in New York hospitals in recent years have been the severance of the Godina Siamese Twins, the upside-down stomach case, the complete removal of a lung, and the removal of frontal lobes from a man's brain in order to ascertain the intellectual and emotional effects, if any, on the patient.

Consequences—
Masters of statecraft here have been looking forward to the abdication of Dave Windsor as a matter of little immediate international concern. Windsor is said to have been inspirational in developing only two British policies. He liked the Germans, and sought to swing London closer to Berlin. At his first public reception, he startled diplomats by shaking the hand of the German representative first.

Reading And Writing
By John Selby

For some of us trees have a dramatic quality beyond that of any other natural growth; one way to understand this feeling is to drive across Illinois where Illinois is very flat and very fertile. For miles there are fields. Then, a little in the distance there is suddenly a cathedral growth of trees, the trees are left to speak for themselves. Only once are human beings included: a couple of boys wandering along a lane. Once, too, the background is a city. A few photographs were taken in winter; Mr. Sheckell has used cloud backgrounds with remarkable taste. Only occasionally does he allow them to distract attention from the trees themselves, and then with reason.

The Wrong Murderer

By HUGH CLEVELY

Chapter 48
ANOTHER AMBUSH

He took from his pocket a white and blew a long, shrill blast. Mahony leaned back against the wall, still smoking, but his hand remained in his coat pocket and his eyes were very alert and watchful.

Ruth crossed the room and stood by him; her face was pale, but her eyes were brave and steady; she seemed to have no fear.

Elsa sat down wearily in one of the shabby chairs. She also had steeled her courage to present a brave front, but her eyes were agonized; she was tormented by the thought that it was she who had brought this misfortune on Mahony and Ruth.

Lawson crossed the room to the window and stood looking out. He was smiling, but there was a trace of uneasiness in his smile; he was still baffled by Mahony's calm, easy manner. He had the air of a man watching anxiously for something. It seemed that he saw what he wanted, for he turned from the window toward the three in the room.

"My men are coming," he said, in a tone of satisfaction. "If you have anything to say to one another, I advise you to make the most of the few seconds left to you. And let me warn you again, Mahony, that any attempt at resistance on your part will involve the most unpleasant consequences for Miss Fraser and Miss Little."

"Just like a film play," observed Mahony. "The villain has everybody in his power. Ha ha!" he chuckled fensively, and twirled the ends of his magnificent black mustache.

He was talking nonsense with the object of wasting a little more time. He did not want things to happen too soon.

Elsa rose from her chair and looked out of the window. It was dark outside, but in the darkness she could dimly distinguish a ring of shadowy figures advancing across the plot of waste ground toward the house.

On they came, closing in nearer and nearer, and Elsa felt the last dregs of hope drain from her as she watched their quiet, inexorable advance. And then suddenly she stiffened slightly with surprise.

and leaned forward, peering anxiously. A new hope sprang up suddenly in her breast.

"But some of them are dressed as policemen," she exclaimed.

Even as she spoke, her hope died away. Obviously Lawson had ordered some of them to dress as policemen for his own reasons.

"What's that?" said Lawson in a high, shrill, unnatural voice.

He stepped quickly to the window, thrust Elsa to one side and looked out. On his face was a look of utter stupefaction; and at the sight of his expression Elsa felt her hope revive again. Lawson stared out of the window, and as he stared all the color left his cheeks. Faced motionless, he stood there staring, and his expression was that of a trapped animal.

"They are policemen," remarked Mahony in a tone of one who gives out a casual piece of information. "That is, unless friend Inspector Kennedy has let me down. He said he'd meet me here this evening, soon after eleven. I imagine he'll want to have a word with you too, Lawson, about that book of evidence I took from your safe just before I came along here tonight."

"That book—the police have got that book!" gasped Lawson.

Deathly pale, with beads of perspiration standing out on his lip and forehead, and a wild, hunted expression in his eyes, he looked like a man who has received a death blow.

All the strength seemed to have gone out of him. He thrust out one hand blindly to the wall near the window, as if seeking support.

She stepped in the hall. Inspector Kennedy's clear, strong voice could be heard calling: "Are you there, Mahony?"

The sound of that voice seemed to reanimate Lawson. His drooping figure jerked suddenly erect; his muscles tensed; he turned slightly, facing the door in a half-crouching attitude, glowering like a tiger at bay.

The door began to open, and as Inspector Kennedy stepped into the room, Lawson's hand flashed swiftly to his pocket. And Mahony had been waiting for that. As Lawson's hand moved, Mahony hurled himself forward from the wall in a swift, long jump, and was on him.

The revolver came out of Lawson's pocket, but before he had time to aim it Mahony had grabbed the barrel in his left hand and twisted it sharply upwards. There sounded the sharp crack of a shot, and a flash of bright flame spurted upward; a lump of plaster fell down from the ceiling and shattered into broken fragments on the floor.

Tien Mahony's right came over in a smashing wallop that knocked Lawson clear across the room, to collapse in a heap in the corner. The revolver remained grasped in Mahony's hand.

"Good work," said Inspector Kennedy.

He turned to Lawson.

"Ambrose Lawson, I arrest you on a charge of being concerned in the illegal sale of narcotic drugs. It is my duty to warn you that anything you say may be taken down and used as evidence at your trial. I am also warn you that charges of a more serious nature will probably be preferred against you later."

The Inspector made a motion to a man who had entered the room just behind him.

"Take him away, Sergeant," he said.

During the Inspector's speech Lawson had risen to his feet. It was quite obvious to him that the game was up. What he had planned to be the hour of his triumph over Mahony was the hour of his doom. He knew what the further charges to be preferred against him later would consist of. He would be charged with murder.

He laughed. Now that his end was certain, he could meet it defiantly.

"I congratulate you, Mahony. You were too clever for me after all," he said. "You can put those handcuffs away, Sergeant; I shall come quietly—very quietly."

His hand flashed to his mouth. Inspector Kennedy and the sergeant both sprang forward quickly and grabbed him. But they were too late. Even as they seized him his body arched in a tense convulsion; his hands clawed wildly at the air; a hoarse, gasping rattle sounded in his throat.

Then he fell limply in their arms. Inspector Kennedy bent over him for a moment. But there was nothing to be done. Ambrose Lawson was dead.

The Inspector rose.

"You take charge here for the time being, Sergeant," he ordered. "I'm going to Lawson's house to finish the investigations there. You'd better take Miss Fraser home. Mahony, I shan't want her or you again tonight. It may interest you to know that we got all Lawson's stuff all right. They were never so surprised in their lives as when they suddenly found themselves surrounded by the police."

He smiled.

"So far as the warrants against you and Miss Fraser are concerned, I think we may consider them withdrawn. You'll probably write up and find yourselves the national hero and heroine in the morning."

He turned to Elsa, who was standing rather forlornly in a corner of the room.

"If you'd care for my escort, I could give you a lift home on my way," he said.

Elsa flushed slightly.

"Thank you," she said.

Mahony took Ruth home in a taxi. During the greater part of the drive both of them were rather silent. Now that all the excitement was over, both of them felt a little flat and washed out.

Ruth sighed.

"I wonder what will happen now?" she said.

"Oh, inquests and interviews and a whole lot of nuisances of that kind, I expect," answered Mahony unenthusiastically. "There will be a lot of fuss in the newspapers and Miss Little will probably be offered half a dozen new film contracts. You will be asked to write the story of your life, and to allow your photo to be put in advertisements of dozens of patent foods."

"Oh," said Ruth. "Anyway, Elsa knows now that you didn't kill her uncle," she added.

"Yes," said Mahony in a somewhat disagreeable tone. "I suppose she does."

"You don't seem very pleased about it," observed Ruth.

Mahony shrugged his shoulders.

"Frankly, I shouldn't care a hoot for it. I'd managed to get out of my uncle's hands, and that's what I wanted. What the devil did she want to come butting in for tonight? There was no need for her to be there at all. She'd arranged with Lawson to have me kidnaped, and instead of letting him get on with the job, as any sensible person would have done, she had to come barging in herself, turning the whole business into the last act of a film play complete with fair-haired heroine registering lots of emotion. That's the trouble with actresses; they must have scenes."

There was a pause. Then:

"I think you are an utter pig," said Ruth in a tone of deep conviction.

"Oh!" exclaimed Mahony.

He looked at her and saw, to his surprise, that she was on the point pose she does."

"What's the matter, Ruth?" he asked in a concerned voice.

"I think you're beastly," answered Ruth, a little indistinctly.

He found his meaning very difficult to explain.

"You are different. You didn't barge in—that is, not really barge in. I mean, we've been sort of partners..."

He found his meaning very difficult to explain.

"You are different," he went on. "You just barged in because you wanted to, so to speak; you weren't Ruth Fraser, the girl heroine avenging her uncle's death by vamping the deceitful villain, or Ruth Fraser righting a wrong by having the misunderstood but well-intentioned young man kidnaped for his own good and insisting on being present when the kidnaping took place because the heroine must be in the big scene. . . I hate all this drama. It gives me a pain in the neck."

"Nonsense," replied Ruth. "You've been behaving like the perfect little film hero ever since I met you. And you're annoyed with Elsa because you're in love with her and she made a fool of you."

"I'm not being all temperamental," answered Ruth angrily. "You said that Elsa came barging in, turning everything into a film play, and as I came barging in, too, I must have done the same thing. Do you think I couldn't see what you meant?"

"I didn't mean anything of the kind," Mahony stung by this momentary accusation.

"Don't talk so damned wet," he said irritably. "I'm not in love with her. You know perfectly well I'm not in love with her. You know I'm in love with you."

Ruth smiled slightly. Her expression was a little smug, like that of a kitten which has just put away a saucer of delicious cream.

"Well, you needn't shout," she said primly.

She looked sideways at him out of the corners of her eyes. He looked at her at the same moment. Suddenly they both burst out laughing.

Mahony took her hand and drew her towards him.

"Let's get married and clear out somewhere as soon as we can," he said.

She shook her head.

"No," she said. "I couldn't do that. If I married you now, after all that's happened, it would be too much like the ending of a film story."

"Stop it, you little hell-cat," said Mahony, and drew her closer, and kissed her. She kissed him too.

"Oh, well," she murmured. "If you insist..."

Herald's New Serial Deals With South

'Wings For Sally' New Novel Starting In Wednesday Issue

The struggle and the dreams which make up life in a southern town form the theme of Bailey Wolfe's fine true-to-life novel, "Wings for Sally," which The Herald has selected for its newest serial. It starts Wednesday.

Bailey Wolfe was born in a North Carolina town in 1908. Her family has lived in the south for five generations. So naturally she turns to that environment she knows best for most of her writing materials.

At the age of 14, she began her career on a newspaper. She left the newspaper to attend the University of North Carolina. Since then, she has been actress, play-writer and free lance writer.

Bailey Wolfe is the wife of a faculty member at the University of North Carolina and has one daughter. She lives in Chapel Hill and devotes most of her time to free lance writing. She has authored several plays and short stories, as well as the novel "Jean Finds the Prince."

When it comes to sports, Bailey Wolfe prefers riding, swimming and baseball. She says she is proud of her position on the local amateur nine.

She has a hobby, too. It's exploring out of the way places. She has devoted several summers to rambling about little known portions of the Blue Ridge mountains.

In "Wings for Sally," Miss Wolfe tells a touching story of a girl whose philosophy is: "You can't run away from responsibility and be happy." Sally finds happiness—and wings—in her own way.

Emotional? Yes. This story has the give and take, the joy and suffering, the excitement and the peace of life. It has the authentic tang of reality.

Family Owns 1719 Bible
JERRY CITY, Ohio, (UP)—A 217-year-old Bible has been handed down from oldest son to oldest son in the Simon family since 1735. It will go next to Forrest Simon of Cygnet, Ohio, weighing 11 pounds, the Bible has wood covers encased in embossed leather.

and Doctor Douglas Kirkwood. Goddard, it was reported conferred last night with the king's solicitors and several officials of the treasury.

Under present arrangements, the divorce will become final automatically on April 27. It could be made final earlier.

Other, and earlier, reports, said two home office officials and a physician occupied the plane. Apparently the passengers left the ship at Le Bourget, France. In London, Queen Mary cancelled a scheduled afternoon visit to an exhibition of replicas of British and European crown jewels and other royal regalia at the Leicester Square gallery. The opening then was postponed.

The king's repeated consultations with high officials of the duchy led to reports that some sort of financial arrangements are under consideration.

The king receives about 119,000 pounds ($395,000) annually from the Duchy of Cornwall and 90,000 pounds ($450,000) from the Duchy of Lancaster. The latter has been an appanage of the throne since the 14th century. The title lands of Cornwall, by royal charter, pass to the eldest son of the king, or lacking a son, revert to the sovereign.

season, the board said. Although late rains also aided this section, the board said prospects in Texas and Oklahoma declined about 1,080,000 bales after August 1. Favorable factors this season were the late arrival of frost and reduction of boll weevil damage to a minimum, it was said.

Cotton of this year's crop gained prior to December 1 was reported by the census bureau to have totaled 11,941,170 running bales, compared with 9,336,921 for 1935 and 9,019,834 for 1934.

The indicated production this year by states is:
Virginia 34,000 bales; North Carolina 612,000; South Carolina 820,000; Georgia 1,090,000; Florida 32,000; Missouri 310,000; Tennessee 431,000; Alabama 1,140,000; Mississippi 1,910,000; Louisiana 763,000; Texas 2,945,000; Oklahoma 290,000; Arkansas 1,295,000; New Mexico 110,000; Arizona 170,000; California 440,000; all other states, 15,000; and Lower California (Old Mexico) 58,000 (not included in California figures nor in United States total). Texas gainings to Dec. 1 totaled 2,712,528 bales.

"Routine"
AUSTIN, Dec. 8 (AP)—Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the railroad commission, said today that dismissal of four commission employees was "merely routine."

Commissioner Lon A. Smith had protested against the action of his colleagues in removing motor division employee Carr Murray of Abilene and John Donaldson of Waco and oil supervisors Homer Pierson of Dallas and Omar Burkett of Eastland.

The Danish historian Troels Frederik Troels-Lund was born in Copenhagen in 1840.

It cited the heavy crop damage resulting from infestation in the Big Bend country. Field clean-up and sterilization are the methods employed there in combatting the pest.

All Members Here
All members of the commission were here for the meeting, held at the courthouse. J. D. Baskin of Cameron, chairman of the board, presided. Other members are Peter Harton of Wharton county; G. Claude Bond, San Antonio; V. C. Jung, Travis county; Dixie Kilgore, Dawson county, and R. L. Cook of Big Spring.

Bond, also connected with the U. S. department of agriculture, told of field inspections made in an effort to find traces of the bollworm, and of laboratory examinations carried on at San Antonio.

Several farmers and ginners were present at the meeting. U. S. department of agriculture men in the territory also attended, including H. B. Prickett, Lubbock, in charge of a West Texas-New Mexico quarantine area of 16 counties; G. W. Chowns, Big Spring; W. C. Maxwell, Midland, and J. C. Powell.

POPE'S CONDITION REPORTED IMPROVED
VATICAN CITY, Dec. 8 (AP)—Sudden chill weather buried the hope of Pope Pius XI to leave his bed today and resume his full routine of active duty.

Vocation Convention In San Antonio

A replica of the room and equipment used in the Forsan school home economics department was used as the contribution of the Future Homemakers of America, Texas division, to the 1936 American Vocations association convention held last week in San Antonio. The exhibit was installed on the mezzanine of the Gunter hotel. Included was a combined living and dining room suite of solid maple with cherry finish, cabinet and a stove space for 16 girls, and a complete table service for an equal number. In the space were tables used for serving food, and which were also convertible into setting tables for sewing classes. There were mirrors and clothes closets, filing cabinets, book cases, and sewing machines. Last division of the replica was the bedroom, furnished in solid maple in colonial style. Beside twin beds, the room contained a nook for books, pictures, adjustable floor lamp, and furniture upholstered in flowered chintz. Hostesses to visitors were furnished from two different schools each day. The exhibit was one of the most popular of the convention.

East Fourth Baptist
WMU Discusses Plans For Re-Organization

Striving toward re-organization of the East Fourth Baptist Women's Missionary Union, Mrs. V. Phillips yesterday appointed a committee to contact a greater number of the church women and ask their co-operation in the plan. Appointed were Mrs. O. R. Phillips, Mrs. W. D. Thompson, Mrs. F. S. McCullough and Mrs. W. S. Garnett. It is their duty to visit with past members and prevail upon them to again aid the union in the work of the church.

Rev. Garnett taught the Bible lesson and outlined "Mrs. Townsend's Book." Mrs. Phillips also appointed leaders for the circle meetings next week, who, during the week will announce the place of the gathering for her respective circle. They are Mrs. W. R. Puckett, No. One; Mrs. W. D. Thompson, No. Two; Mrs. F. S. McCullough, No. Three, and Mrs. W. S. Garnett, No. Four.

Insurgent Assault On Capital Delayed By Cold Weather

MADRID, Dec. 8 (AP)—Government artillery batteries raked insurgent lines with heavy fire today as bitter cold wave delayed expected fascist infantry assaults around the capital's outskirts. The bombardment was concentrated against insurgent fortifications in the Mongola and Cuatro Caminos districts.

The emergency defense council disclosed 21 persons were killed during an insurgent aerial attack on Guadalajara, provincial capital northeast of Madrid. The air raid, which took place Sunday, was also declared to have destroyed a former royal palace, regarded as an important example of early Spanish architecture.

The defense junta reported a minor attack from the air on El Escorial, northwest of the capital, by insurgent bombers yesterday. Fascists continued their drive against Guadalajara, about 35 miles northeast of Madrid.

NORWEGIAN SHIP IS BOMBED BY REBELS

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 8 (AP)—The Norwegian foreign office was informed today the 1,196-ton Norwegian steamer Guines had been bombed by insurgent Spanish airplanes while entering Seville harbor, and that one seaman had been killed.

The ship owner said the vessel was empty and under way from Oporto to Seville to collect a cargo of ore. She never has carried contraband, he added.

The foreign office is conducting a vigorous investigation.

TWO COMPLETIONS IN HOWARD FIELDS

Two completions were reported here today, one on the eastern fringe of the Howard-Glasscock field and the other in the East Howard pool.

IN the garden of the old Page house, Sally found dreams and romance.

Closing her eyes, she drifted back to the days when she had pretended—on this very bench—that she was a captive princess shut in a walled garden.

Awaking, she saw a young man standing in the shadowy moonlight. "Are you a ghost?" he asked pleasantly...

Jest Plain Hoss Sense by "Silver Dollar" Brady

"SILVER DOLLAR'S LIKE A NEIGHBORHOOD SECRET"
EVERYBODY'S TALKIN' ABOUT IT!
NEXT to a scandal, good news is the fastest-travelin' thing there is. That's why there's such a heap o' talk about Silver Dollar—good news to folks who appreciate whiskey that's rich an' satisfyin'—but gentle-actin', too. "Silver Dollar's distilled from finest grain—same as the most expensive whiskey. An' it's aged for 18 months in charred oak kegs. There's 79 years' experience back o' that sunny taste—but its cost is surprisingly low. "Ask for it, folks, wherever good liquor is sold."
