MUST SECURE 2 OFFICERS FOR C. OF C.

HARRISON AND JONES CANNOT ACCEPT, THEY SAY
A GOOD CROWD

Heard Judge Lawrence of Lamar Co. Routine Attended To

An overflow crowd attended the weekly luncheon of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, held at the City Cafe Monday. There was lots of interest in the matter of new officers for another year, and in the outline of work for the next twelve months.

E. W. Harrison, newly elected president, presided but in a brief address declined the honor conferred upon him, stating that for private reasons it was impossible. He expressed his deep appreciation of the honor conferred, but requested that he be undisturbed in his work of handling the highway problems for the organization. Ralph Barnett, chairman of the committee on officers, stated that Mr. Parker and Gano Hastings had accepted as vice president and treasurer, respectively, but that J. S. Jones, new secretary, could not serve, and that his committee asked to be discharged.

After a detailed discussion Dr. Overton moved that an Executive Committee be created, to consist of the new officers and Geo. L. Muse and A. Herbst, and this committee be empowered to draft a suitable president and secretary, reporting back next Monday. This motion carried.

Dr. W. F. Gabbert and Captain B. B. Farmer spoke briefly concerning the Defense Test Day, September 12, as outlined in The Brand last week, and asked cooperation of the business men in making the program for that occasion a success. A motion was carried that Dr. Gabbert and Captain Farmer choose a committee who they felt would work with them on this occasion.

Phil Arthur, who was elected Public Weigher at the first primary, asked cooperation in organizing a cotton yard here. The matter was referred to the regular cotton committee.

The secretary brought up the question of early arrangements for cotton pickers, but was told that there would be plenty of pickers available at the proper time, who would work their way up from the south Plains cotton fields.

Judge Dewey Lawrence, County Judge of Lamar county, Texas, son-in-law of F. H. Oberthier, who arrived Saturday for his vacation, delivered a thoughtful address on the possibilities and future of this county, and expressed his appreciation of the people here.

Next Monday the luncheon will be held at the Stockman's Cafe, and it is hoped that the new officers will have been selected and will consent to conduct the meeting. Those present Monday were: E. W. Harrison, Gano Hastings, D. F. Ashbrook, Geo. L. Muse, A. M. Jones, George Overton, Otho Reene, C. A. Skelton, W. E. Dunlap, C. C. Rockwell, A. Herbst, Rev. Paul J. Merrill, Ralph Barnett, Dr. W. F. Gabbert, N. C. Vogelie, Captain B. B. Farmer, N. E. Gass, G. A. F. Parker, Dr. Jno. W. Overton, Judge Dewey Lawrence, F. H. Oberthier, Phil Arthur, E. S. Ireland, L. Baskin, A. H. Streu, Homer Wilkinson, H. D. Reed, W. R. Steckman, Judge W. E. Dameron, Charlie Paddock, J. E. Hill, Herman Grey and J. C. Alford.

DENTON MEN MAY LOCATE IN HEREFORD COMMUNITY

M. A. McSpaden and W. M. Braboe of Denton, Texas, who have been here prospecting, returned to their homes on Saturday morning. They reported that they were very much pleased with this country and that they would probably move here in the future.

REV. GARVIN AND WIFE WILL BE HOME FOR SERVICE SUNDAY

The Brand is in receipt of a card from Rev. W. P. Garvin, dated at Colorado Springs, Colo., Aug. 22. Rev. Garvin says that he and Mrs. Garvin have been enjoying their vacation very much, but will be glad to get back and take up the work again. He asks us to announce that he will be home in time to fill the Methodist pulpit on next Sunday, August 31.

Daniel Bell New Cadet Officer at A. & M. College

The Sunday daily papers carried the official announcement from College Station of the naming of Cadet officers at the A. & M. College for the coming year. It required a half page to list these boys, as the student body reaches about 2,000 in number.

An item of unusual interest to Hereford folks was the fact that Daniel Bell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Bell of Hereford, is one of the seven Majors in the Cadet corps the coming year.

Appointments were made on consideration of scholarship, conduct, military bearing and leadership qualities, greatest responsibility being placed upon those most dependable for the duties of enforcing the rules and regulations of the college. The highest purpose of the military course at the college is to develop leadership and the course reaches its culmination when the cadets have the responsibility and exercise the duties of cadet officers.

Commissions are bestowed only upon those having sufficient credits to warrant the assumption that they can graduate in June, 1925.

It takes a student of unusual ability and record to annex the rank of Major at the A. & M. College of Texas. Daniel Bell has been a distinguished student from his Freshman year, and this splendid recognition of his scholarship and military leadership is highly gratifying to his family and friends in this community.

FARLEY "SICK" AGAIN—HAS POSTPONED JENSEN MATCH

About the most disgusted man in Hereford Tuesday was Omer Baker, manager for Thor Jensen, wrestler, whose announced match with Cal Farley in Amarillo next Monday night has been causing a lot of interest among the fans here. For Tuesday's morning the Amarillo Daily News carried the story that Farley is "sick" again and has postponed the match.

"I've got him in a contract hard and fast and he will have to wrestle Jensen sooner or later," said Mr. Baker Tuesday, "but it looks like it is going to be later instead of sooner, as he seems to be afraid of Jensen. I spent a lot of time and patience coaxing Farley into the agreement to fight it out next week, and this postponement is aggravating to me, and all of Jensen's friends, as well as to me."

"But we intend to stick to the agreement and get Brother Farley inside the ropes some of these cloudy days in the near future, I hope. When we do corner him we intend to show him a trick or two he hasn't had the privilege of seeing before."

MRS. STEGALL, ILL. AT SON'S RANCH. LITTLE IMPROVEMENT

Last accounts from the bedside of Mrs. J. A. Stegall, stricken with paralysis last week, state that she still survives but shows little improvement. She is still at the ranch of her son, Rex, near Muleshoe, her condition prohibiting her removal to a hospital.

MRS. PARKER AND DAUGHTER VISITS FRIEND IN PLAINVIEW

Mrs. G. A. F. Parker made a short visit to Plainview last Saturday to visit Mrs. Roy Stocking. Mrs. Parker and her little daughter, Mary Muggins, went overland in the car with Mrs. D. C. Laird, who returned to her home after a visit here.

WOMBLES HOME FROM A TEN DAYS VACATION IN NEW MEX.

Messrs. W. T. and M. D. Womble and families arrived home late Saturday evening from parts in New Mexico, where they have been on a ten days vacation. Mack states that after you are away from the Panhandle a few days she looks good to you when you return.

JUNIORS STAGE PLAY AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH AUG. 24

A play by the Juniors entitled "The Gold Tree" was the feature of last Sunday night's services at the Christian church. It was a missionary lesson and following its presentation each dollar subscribed by the audience was represented on the tree by a gold leaf. The work of those in the play was clever and showed a lot of hard work and preparation.

Following this feature Mr. Marcus of the Near East Relief showed several reels of motion pictures depicting the work of the organization in the Near East. There was a splendid audience on hand and a generous response was made to his appeal, but the pictures themselves were poor, due to a defective projecting machine.

SMALL INTEREST IS SHOWN IN ELECTION

ALTHOUGH STATE VOTING WAS HEAVY EVERYWHERE

ROBERTSON LOST

Mrs. Ferguson Leads Him by Nearly 100,000 at Last Counting

The second Democratic primary held in Texas last Saturday established new high levels for the size of the vote cast in the state as a whole, although there was comparatively little interest in Deaf Smith county. This was undoubtedly due to the perplexity of so many of the citizens here and their disinclination to vote for either candidate for governor. Another contributing cause of the indifference was probably the lack of local rivalry. The largest vote for any one candidate in this county was 538 for the two candidates for governor.

The state returns to date indicate a total vote of 850,000, which is astonishing in view of the fact that only 735,000 were cast in the first primary. Mrs. Miriam Ferguson was over 90,000 in the lead of Judge Felix D. Robertson at last reports, and the final outcome is only a question of how many Mrs. Ferguson will poll. Barry Miller has defeated Will C. Edwards for lieutenant governor. Dan Moody swamped Edward B. Ward for attorney general. S. H. Terrell has been elected comptroller. Clarence Gilmore won from Ed E. Weaver for railroad commissioner, six year term; Lon A. Smith beat W. A. Nabors for railroad commissioner, four year term, and C. M. Cureton was an easy winner over Wm. C. Wear for the office of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.

Results in the county for these officers were as follows: Robertson 346; Ferguson 202; Edwards 347; Miller 162; Moody 359; Ward 127; Terrell 291; Baker 188; Gilmore 300; Weaver 158; Smith 306; Nabors 106; Cureton 277; Wear 197.

BRUCE GUTHRIE DIRECTOR OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Bruce Guthrie, who has been spending his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Guthrie, of this place, left Wednesday morning for Haven, Kansas, at which place he begins his school work next Monday, as Director of Physical Education, and assistant teacher in mathematics in the consolidated high school at that place.

Fate Bestowed on Tucumcari Couple Monday Morning

Herman C. Darsey and Miss Ellen Leysling, both of Tucumcari, N. M., drove into Hereford from the west on Monday morning intent upon securing a license to wed and a minister to tie the knot. They passed the big Christian church, with its imposing dome, and mistook it for the courthouse, applying within for their license. The Rev. Paul J. Merrill secured the job of knot-tying, after the couple had been properly directed to the office of Berry Orr, county clerk.

The groom is connected with the Sands-Dorsey Drug Co., of Tucumcari, and the young people will make their home in Tucumcari.

BAND HOLDS SNAPPY WORK-OUT—HONORING BILL SMITH

The Hereford Band held a happy workout in the National Guard armory last Friday night. The departure of Bill Smith, veteran member of the organization, who left for his new home in Dallas Sunday, was the special reason for the gathering.

The band boys enjoyed the affair so much after their long layoff that they did not want to quit, and the practice was prolonged until a late hour. L. F. Borden directed the rehearsal and an agreement was entered into to resume regular practice every Monday night hereafter, weather permitting.

Hereford has the nucleus for the best amateur band in the country, and only one or two rehearsals are ever necessary before a real concert can be put on. The re-assumption of practice will be good news to everybody, as the band is a very popular organization locally.

SURPRISE PARTY GIVEN AT HOME OF W. A. DAUGHERTY

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Daugherty were pleasantly surprised by members of the two Sunday school classes of which they are members, and other members of the Christian church congregation, last Friday night when about forty surprise guests visited their home, ten miles northwest, and spent a splendid social hour in feasting and merry making. Punch, cake and other refreshments were served and the occasion was pronounced most pleasant by all those who attended.

PARTY GIVEN—HONORING MISS JOHNSON AND JACK MOUNTS

About forty friends and acquaintances gathered at the Mounts home Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Alice Johnson, who is moving to Lubbock, and Jack Mounts, who is here from Dallas on a visit with his family. The entire party drove out to the T. C. Ivey Tierra Blanco Club grounds and spread a bountiful supper.

Miss Johnson departed for Lubbock Thursday morning and Jack Mounts will return to Dallas next Sunday.

Splendid Rains Insurance For Bumper Crops

For weeks preceding last Sunday it looked as though it simply could not rain within a small circle immediately surrounding Hereford. The rest of the territory had been getting rains at intervals but this small strip around town was badly in need of moisture.

The local drought was broken Sunday when a slow, gentle rain began falling and continued nearly all night. The official gauge showed seven tenths of an inch, but it appeared as though the real figures were more, probably an inch and a half.

Monday afternoon and night a regular gully-washer fell, considerably heavier than the preceding fall, and Wednesday night two tenths of an inch was recorded. Thursday it was drizzling all day, with indications of continued wetness.

The rains simply insure a bumper crop and a whole of a cotton crop. The cotton was not suffering to any extent for rain but will be greatly benefited. But the row stuff was just at the stage when rain was necessary.

The tension has relaxed and everybody is smiling.

BAPTIST DISTRICT SECRETARY TO PREACH HERE SUNDAY

The Rev. R. A. Scramton, District Secretary of the Baptist denomination for West Texas, will preach at both hours at the Baptist church Sunday. The morning preaching service begins at 10:45, and evening at 8:30.

Rev. Scramton is considered a very able preacher, and the Baptists are pleased to have him here for this day. Visitors are cordially invited to worship with the Baptist people on this occasion.

MISS JOHNSON PROMOTED—GOES TO LUBBOCK SEPT. 1

Miss Alice Johnson, who has been stenographer with the First State Bank & Trust Co. for the past two or three years has resigned her position to accept a promotion with the Temple Trust Company of Lubbock, where she reports September 1. She has been succeeded at the Hereford bank by Mrs. Edgar Webb.

Miss Alice will leave a host of friends here who rejoice with her in her good luck but who regret to lose her as a resident of Hereford.

AMARILLO CITIZENS GUESTS AT A. HERBST HOME SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Newbold and little son, Glen Alan, and Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Stewart and little daughter, Jaqueline, of Amarillo, spent last Sunday in Hereford as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Herbst. After luncheon friends and acquaintances dropped in for an informal afternoon on the lawn. The visitors returned to Amarillo after dinner Sunday night.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN HERE ON SEPT. 8TH

BRIGHT PROSPECTS IN SIGHT FOR ANOTHER GOOD YEAR

FEW NEW FACES

In Faculty Means a Closer Understanding and Better Work

The Hereford schools will open on Monday, September 8, with bright prospects for a very successful term. There will be fewer new teachers this year than is usually the case and this fact alone will enable the schools to profit by last year's experiences. The whole-hearted co-operation of parents, children and teachers together with other favorable conditions should make possible the best year in the history of the local schools.

Registration will begin at the high school for juniors and seniors on Saturday, September 13. A more definite announcement of registration at both schools will be given in The Brand next week.

At this time it will doubtless be well to state some of the requirements for graduation for the benefit of any who are not familiar with those requirements, which are essentially the same as they have been heretofore. Seventeen units are required for graduation, fifteen of which must be affiliated units in which we hope to get affiliation this year. Of this fifteen there must be four in English, three in mathematics, three in history including modern history and American history, two in science, including chemistry or physics. The only change in these requirements is to allow the student to offer first year science, home economics, biology or agriculture for one year of his science work. The additional two units to make the total of seventeen may be in Bible, two units, music, two units, glee club, two units, and possibly others, or any combination of these.

The subjects offered and the credits allowed in each are as follows: English 4, mathematics 4, history 3, civics 1/2, economics 1/2, home economics 2, agriculture 1 1/2, Spanish 2, Latin 2, physics 1, chemistry 1, biology 1, physiology 1/2, physical geography 1/2. Each of these allows a credit for a full year's work. Those giving a half credit are given in a half year. A credit and a half are given in agriculture for one year's work.

Eighth grade students are allowed to take only four regular subjects but may take Bible or music in addition. Of the four, one must be in English and one in algebra. They may take any two of the following: agriculture for boys, cooking for girls, first year science, history, Latin. Attention is called to the fact that though Latin or Spanish is not required, a majority of the colleges requires two units of some language other than English for entrance. The student who does not want to take a language and expects to attend college should be sure that the college of his choice does not require it. This information can be obtained at the office.

Other students will be allowed to take only four regular subjects except seniors who may take five subjects if they need that many to graduate. Students who made an average of "B" last year may take five subjects if they desire to do so.

C. H. DILLEHAY, Supt.

MISS LIVINGSTON, BIBLE TEACHER, GOES TO STUTTGART, ARK.

Miss Marion Livingston, who has been the Bible teacher in Hereford's public schools the past two years, went to Stuttgart, Arkansas, Wednesday, where she will teach the Bible in the schools the coming year. It is understood that there will be two Bible teachers in the Stuttgart schools and that Miss Livingston will be the senior teacher.

MRS. STOWERS OF LITTLE ROCK IS VISITING RELATIVES HERE

Lem Carlyle and family motored to Amarillo last Sunday, and met Mrs. Carlyle's sister, Mrs. J. B. Stowers, and children of Little Rock, Ark., who will visit here indefinitely. Mrs. Stowers is also a relative of the Messrs. Homer and Henry Wilkinson and Mrs. L. F. Borden of this place.

The results in the second primary and in the first primary this year have convinced us that the plan of direct vote by the people does not work out as designed and is not the ideal method of ascertaining the real desires of a majority of the voters.

In the first primary there were approximately 725,000 ballots cast. Of this number approximately 150,000 were Ferguson supporters and approximately 180,000 Klan ballots, leaving approximately 400,000 ballots, a majority, opposed to both Fergusonism and Klanism, but split so that they were ineffective. And although 400,000 Texans, a majority, did not want either Robertson or Ferguson, still we had to choose from them in the second primary.

It is true that there were a lot of abuses under the old convention plan of choosing state officials but our recollection is that as a general rule the will of the majority prevailed and also that a considerably higher type of man was chosen for public officer than is being elected nowadays by direct vote of the people.

We would like to see an organized movement started to repeal the present Terrell election law and replace it with a modern form of the old convention plan.

PATRIOTISM IN THE ROUGH

General Calles, president-elect of Mexico, will assume the reins of government in December, before sailing for Europe gave to New York something of a new vision of the North American republic, bringing home rather pointedly the difference between politicians and patriots. Seemingly the fundamental difference between the rebel and the patriot is the difference between success and failure if we may rely on world judgment from time immemorial, running the gamut from Leine and Trotsky through our own George Washington and back into the ages. Calles is essentially a patriot—for Mexico. He likes the United States and appreciates its marvelous accomplishments, but he is for Mexico, and he sounded his keynote when he stated as his conviction that "the Indian must not be exploited." The Indian in Mexico—and he is there by the hundred thousand—works for ten cents a day. Time was when he worked for three cents a day. Calles, who has much of the Indian blood in his veins, worked for three cents a day. He never wore a pair of shoes until he was sixteen years of age. He has passed through the mill of suffering and want. The net of his living—for Calles has lived a red-blooded life—is his election as the head of his nation—and the net for the people will probably be an administration solely for Mexico. Calles plainly means that he will not permit the Mexicans to work for ten cents a day to fill the coffers of Wall Street. If he were an American patriot and not a Mexican patriot, instead of saying the Mexican shall not work from sunrise to sundown and receive only ten cents for his labor, he would probably say the American working man shall not receive fourteen dollars a day and loaf half of his time. A real patriot can do much to make living costs bearable.

BONUS WITHOUT TAX

When the soldiers' bonus was threatened the country was repeatedly warned that the bill would saddle an impossible burden on the backs of the people, and immediately the political glands in the Washington body politic were agitated to action. There were as many votes for the bonus as there were bids for the soldiers' vote. The legislation was passed, vetoed and passed over the will of the President. Now facing the inevitable Washington advises us that the bonus burden will be carried without any extra tax upon the people, that the cost will be met by taking up further slack in government wasteful expenditures. Probably it will work out that way. General Lord, director of the budget, has shown in two years how much can be accomplished along these lines. Recently addressing a body of business men he said "we will spend this year $2,000,000,000 less than we took out of the Treasury in 1921, the last year free from budget control. In

Sectional Bitterness Marked 1824 Campaign

Written for Hereford Brand
By EDWARD PEBCY HOWARD
Thru Autocaster Service

The admission of Missouri as a slave state was one of the dominant issues of the campaign of 1824, which, falling before the people, was decided by the House of Representatives. The bitterness and sectionalism of the contest never has been equalled, the attacks on Crawford being measurably approached only by the intensity of malignity with which President Wilson was assailed in some quarters. The North was openly against the South, the East desperately against the West.

Arguments, powerful, logical, logical, true and untrue, intrigue, scurrilous attack and vituperative bickering marked the contest up to the very moment of the count. As to-day, the Western farmer interest was arrayed against the Eastern industrial forces.

Adams made a deliberate appeal to New England and the North, charging that the South was dominating the entire nation in that every President for twenty-four years had come from the South. This phase of the campaign inflamed both Northerners and Southerners to a point that was reached only in the Civil War.

Owing to the difficulties of travel the speechmaking was of a stationary character. The candidates had no opportunity to appear before the country. Likewise, the press had not reached three years we have cut the ordinary expenses of the government one-half.

This is a remarkable statement—a notable achievement. The saving of $2,000,000,000 means the saving of half the gold coin and bullion in the United States. It embraces the entire savings of 12,000,000 depositors in the nation's saving banks for a period of twenty months. It covers the value of all automobiles, motor trucks and motor cycles produced in the United States in the year 1922. It is in excess of all the dividends paid by all the railroads in the United States in five years. It figures up more than two and one-half times the value of the wheat crop for 1922.

Perhaps if the people come to consider savings in terms they understand, they will also see the wisdom of keeping partisanship out of the economic problem so effectively met by the budget system.

any widespread circulation, and while it played an important part in the contest locally, chief dependence was placed on the pamphlet. The pamphleteers were busy day in and day out. Before the fighting was ended these organs of publicity developed into a mass of literature of a disgraceful and, judged by present-day standards, highly dishonorable character.

Few of the pamphlets produced were of a positive character. Mostly they were negative, devoted to attack and vilification rather than to giving reasons why their favorite sons, they in whose interest they were written, should be elected. Jackson was openly attacked as a murderer, a military despot without regard for the Constitution or for law. The Jacksonites swung their acid at Crawford, charging him with being a Federalist. Mr. Crawford was clearly a favorite, but this charge hurt. North Carolina and New Jersey practically deserted him. According to custom the party was to caucus in Congress and make the nomination.

Crawford was confident. Adams, Jackson and Clay were nervous. They combined to attack the infamy of the caucus system, denouncing it as anti-republican, the agency for robbery of the people's rights. Martin Van Buren of New York, genius in politics and with a powerful organization back of him, tried his best to check the reform wave, but the combined scheming of the opposition could not be overcome. The caucus was called. The galleries were packed to suffocation, but the members were only scantily represented.

An effort was made to adjourn, but Van Buren, battling for Crawford, opposed it because no mutually convenient date could be set. The people, he said, expected a nomination. Then came the ballot: Crawford 64, Adams 2, Macon 1, Jackson 1. Crawford was declared the nominee, but 68 votes out of 261 did not satisfy the people—it meant nothing, and so the scramble for office went to the people.

Soon after that Crawford was stricken with paralysis, a doctor having administered lobelia to him. Every possible pressure was brought to bear to have him withdraw, but he steadfastly declined. "His pitiful condition" was alluded to by his supporters and denounced as hypocritical propaganda by his enemies. It was quite obvious that with four candidates there would be no election. Clay believed he could carry Louisiana, but he came out fourth. Jackson led with a majority over Adams greater than the entire vote of Crawford or Clay.

The bitterness of the fight grew in intensity. Public fights were a common occurrence. Even duels were fought.

Then came a dramatic episode. Henry Clay appeared at the Crawford home and entered. Crawford's hopes were blasted.

SALLIE CHANGES HER PLANS

"You don't approve of flappers, do you?" I asked Mr. Wright, as we left the driveway and he turned my roadster into the elm-bordered road.

"As far as I know," he responded, whimsically, "I don't believe I've ever known one of the home-wrecking, heart-devastating creatures at close range enough to pass judgment." Once again I felt that he was ridiculing me, or either he preferred not to commit himself on the subject.

"Oh, you needn't think you can crawl out of it," I persisted. "I've heard all that you've said about us." I was determined to have his opinion so that I could quote him to the girls, who would be clamoring for news when they heard that I had been out with the celebrated architect, whose arrival had been heralded in the social columns.

"Heard what I said about you," he was replying to my accusation. "Why, I've only had the pleasure of knowing you a few hours, Fair-Lady, and," he hurried on, "as much as I dislike to reopen an unpleasant subject, it is almost necessary that I ask you which is the road that will bring us to the Davis'?"

"Honestly, Mr. Wright," I implored, "after hearing the family dissertation on that subject, did you really have any idea that we were going there when we were started?"

"But your father—I am his guest—recall his insisting and telling you—"

"Did you ever do everything your father told you to do, Mr. Goody-goody?" I interrupted. "And as for your being implicated, I guarantee to protect you. If father finds out that we ditched the Davis funeral, I won't let him scold you for leading his 'little bitay baby-girl astray. Really, I won't let him scold you." I teased, with madening solemnity.

"All right; you win," he announced with a sort of I-can't-stand-much-more-THAT-in-his-resignation. "Where's then, My Princess? I am at your service."

"To the right," I commanded, and moved over as I gave the direction. We're going to the party at Atlanta beach. The bunch knew I'd get there one way or other."

He faced me for a moment, and I noticed from the rays of an arc-light that there were little lines around his eyes, caused, not so much from laughter but from a keen, appreciating sense of life and its complicated situations, which, I judged, he had grown to handle philosophically.

I asked him to raise the wind shield, loved the breeze through my hair. It always gave me the thought of freedom and the wide, wide world.

"Wish you'd step on it," I moved over a bit closer. The road stretched ahead with beckoning fingers, and here swept over me the strange, no-adic emotion that comes when I follow a road that leads on and on with no turning.

"Yates' will be an oasis," I said enthusiastically. "Slowly but surely I am sinking. By the way," I continued, "how many did you and father have before dinner?"

"Little 'bitay girls, shouldn't ask so many questions," he mimicked me perfectly, but I noticed that the speed of the car increased slightly.

At last the light of the roadhouse! The subdued yellow glow reached out through the darkness—friendly and alluring.

"Come ahead, and I'll introduce you to some of those notorious flappers." I tried to look like a deacon and, taking his hand, we started toward the aurora cast by the wrought-iron lanterns.

"Hurrah, it's Sallie!" yelled one of a group standing on the verandah. I could see that the party was well under way, and that it needed no assistance on our part to keep up its hilarity. They crowded about us, and although I knew I was one of them I also realized that some of their enthusiasm was of the half-fellow-well-met variety that makes even an unpopular arrival at a party feel a riot.

"Hear ye all!" I announced, hopping onto a chair and drawing my words like a State Fair squaker, "its the famous Mr. Wright I'm introducing, the well-known architect, who builds the floors of his houses with women's hearts—tramp on," I ended. Mr. Wright laughingly threatened to pull the chair from under me and there was one thing I observed about him: while he was certainly not at ease in our crowd, he had evidently made up his mind to enter into things as wholeheartedly as possible. They way he took my foolishness was nothing short of splendid sportmanship.

"Drink anything, Sallie?" asked Ted Billings, who had been standing by my side since our approach was signalled.

"Yes, anything!" I responded, and we moved toward the well-known room at the far end of the Inn, overlooking the ocean. The pleasing sound of cracked ice against the metal cocktail shakers brought the rest of the crowd, and soon there prevailed a spirit of gay camaraderie.

"I'm famished," I sighed dejectedly, holding out my glass to the "bartender." "Refill the prescription. That was a pretty good sample."

I began to feel reckless. Then the unexpected happened.

THE PASSING DAY

By Will H. Mayes, Department of Journalism, University of Texas

At the recent meeting of the American Legion at Brownwood, Alvin Owsley, Past National Commander, called attention to the decrease in membership since the first year of the Texas organization, and asserted that if the Legion is to live it must have some constructive work in hand. In that statement Colonel Owsley struck the right chord. The Legion as an organization cannot survive long on the war records of its members, however glorious the achievements of the American forces may have been. It cannot be kept alive by conventions, even though all the membership could be induced to attend. Brass bands, patriotic speeches, cheering and hurrahs, handshakings, and war-time reminiscences furnish inspiration only when they are the spontaneous outcome of something more far-reaching and vital than these things themselves. They are merely the evidence of something deeper.

In that talk, which was a wonderful inspirational address Colonel Owsley told of what other achieving state Legions are doing, and rather plainly suggested that the Texas Legion can engage in no greater constructive work than in caring for the needy orphans of World-War veterans. A movement of that kind would be something that would enlist the hearty support of every legionaire and that would make them all feel that they have something more to do than merely keep alive the memories of war times or to strengthen the bonds of personal friendships formed around a common cause, however enabling that cause may have been. Youth, and members of the Legion are yet young, must have something to look forward to, for youth seldom busies itself long with the past. The Legion will thrive in proportion as it works toward some definite purpose.

What has been said of the Legion applies with equal force to every other organization in the land. Civic clubs like the Rotary, the Kiwanis and the Lions, soon learned that they could not hold their memberships together solely for social purposes or even to talk about their beloved and over-used word, "service." Those clubs that make "service" mean something more than talk, or even more than intermittent effort to render service, are the clubs with enthusiastic memberships. They have something to do all the while, some worth-while purpose to accomplish, and having done one thing well, they set about doing something else. Action is necessary to life in anything. Inaction results in death. The churches, the clubs, the organizations of every kind are learning this lesson better than ever before.

Some towns and communities appear not to have made this discovery. These have never seriously undertaken any work calling for a general and united effort on the part of their citizens. They are smaller, as a rule, than they were a quarter of a century ago, are just dying through inaction, and in time will dwindle into insignificance. Readers of this paper do not have to travel very far to find such places. Nor do they have to make a day's journey to find places that are prosperous, that are growing, that are really places of which to be proud, and all because they are keeping alive through active effort. It is doubtful if there is a town in all Texas that has ever hurt itself through too much effort to lift itself into better conditions. People naturally drift to where something worth while is going on, and those that are any good as citizens will stay where some constructive work is under way.

Some places push movements for a while, but having accomplished a thing in which pride may be taken, seem to think that they have nothing else to do but to rest and contemplate their achievements. They are like the war veterans who attend conventions for not other purpose than to talk of what they did during the war. About the most tiresome fellow one ever meets is the chap who lives so much in the past that he forgets there are duties to be done today and plans to be made for tomorrow. A good town to escape from is one that is satisfied that it once established a park, built a hotel, constructed some streets, organized a band, painted the town pump, or did something else equally notable, and now feels that, having accomplished these wonders, nothing is left to be done. Legions, towns, clubs, individuals, must keep doing something worth while if they would keep interested and interesting. How do you measure when the "do-something" standard is applied to you?

The added strength and wearing quality given by Latex-treated cords is something that the user of Royal Cords can tell you about from his own experience.

Royal Cords are the standard of value in cord tire equipment—even more certainly today than ever before.

And this holds good whether you are considering a High-Pressure Tire, a Balloon-Type Tire to fit your present wheels and rims, or a Balloon Tire for a 20 or 21 inch wheel.

Old Time Family Reunion at R. T. Nunn Home

On last Tuesday a large crowd of friends and relatives gathered at the home of R. T. Nunn for a reunion of his brothers and sisters. Seven of them were together for the first time since the breaking up of their home thirty years ago. The Nunn family were pioneers in Arkansas. However the present generation has scattered over the southwest. Recently all of them except one have found homes in the Panhandle. This one had not seen some members of the family for twenty five years.

After the crowd had gathered a beautiful picnic dinner was spread in a nearby canyon. Ere the meal was finished threatening showers drove the company to shelter, and the afternoon was spent by the older people in talk of old times while the younger ones were getting acquainted.

The seven were: S. M. Nunn, Glacier, Texas; F. E. Nunn and R. T. Nunn, Hereford; Mrs. W. S. Thomas, Jonesboro, Ark.; Mrs. W. A. Buchanan, Canyon; Mrs. J. F. W. Jennings, Muleshoe; and Mrs. W. A. Hunter, Hereford. These with their families and relatives made a company of sixty-eight. Others were A. B. Arnn, Blain Poff, G. F. Springer, Mrs. Ivy Kemp, Mrs. A. B. Simpson, P. A. Hogan, H. A. Taylor and their families.

A. B. Arnn and family of Batesville, Arkansas, consins of the seven and brother of Mrs. Poff has been visiting the Plains, for the past two weeks. They left for home Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas and three sons have been visiting relatives and looking over Texas for two weeks. They expect to start home next week.

Dr. J. P. McHugh and wife of Wheatland, Okla., also arrived here Wednesday and are visiting in the R. T. Nunn home.

Got the Result

Mr. Charles Moore, 2415 Eakin St., Dallas, well-known Texas citizen, says Karnak, the sensational new medicine, has freed him of two years of acute suffering from stomach trouble.

"Indigestion and bloating had me so I couldn't draw a deep breath," says Mr. Moore, "and I was simply afraid to eat. I had to be always taking strong purgatives, too, and was so weak I could hardly get around. Karnak has fixed me up strong and well and for the first time in two years I eat anything I want. Karnak is a great medicine."

Those who attended the West Texas Farmers Congress at Amarillo last Thursday from this community were Ray Hershey, Geo. Lewis, J. G. Park, Felix Robinson, C. P. and Lester Galley. Those who failed to go missed one of the best intellectual and instructive treats we have ever attended in Texas.

In our opinion it is a mistake for one to fail to embrace the opportunity to hear men of the standing and caliber of Dr. Bizzell, president of the Texas A & M College; Dr. Hill, president of the West Texas State Normal; Walton Petteet, secretary National Cooperative Council, and also Hon C. A. McNabb of the Agricultural Department of New Mexico, each with a message of encouragement and uplift and comfort to all who have the good and welfare of our state at heart—because of what has been accomplished in their individual lines and efforts and what is now being accomplished and the effort being put forth for our future welfare. It makes one feel that there is yet something worth while to live for, even in the face of the chaos into which our state has fallen politically.

After roaming over hills and plunging for a swim, every one gathered around the camp fires, roasting weenies, helping themselves to bread and pickles and last, but not least, a generous dish of cream. The Brady ranch with its large trees proves ideal for such an outing.

Orien Sharp favored the Singing class with an excellent reading Sunday night. He has the power to move the audience to laughter and to tears at his will and his readings are always greatly enjoyed. Orien leaves for his school in Oklahoma, Thursday. His services among us will be sorely missed. As leader of Endeavor No. 1, he would have had charge of the next program, for Sunday night, Sept. 7, but Miss La Verne Robinson has consented to take his place, and will arrange for an interesting program.

Taylor-Layland

One of the most charming of the mid-summer weddings was that which took place at 8:30 o'clock on Thursday night at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Layland, 501 Kilpatrick Avenue, Cleburne, Texas, when their daughter, Miss Pearl Layland, became the bride of Mr. Irwin E. Taylor of this community.

The wedding ceremony was performed on the lawn of the home before an improvised altar of lattice work, interwoven with greenery. Mr. Lamont Thompson, president of Southwestern Junior College at Keene, read the impressive ceremony.

Baskets of ferns and gladioli and a soft glow from lights lent a beautiful setting for the affair. A wedding bell of white carnations was suspended above the altar. The lawn decorations were in charge of Mr. J. Joiner of the Cleburne Floral company.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Lamont Thompson of Keene sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied at the piano by Miss Midge Gould of Fort Worth, instructor of vocal at Junior College at Keene. Mr. Thomas Leatherberry of Cleburne played the wedding march.

The bride, attired in a gown of white silk canton crepe, and carrying a shower bouquet of bride's roses, was attended by her cousin, Miss Violet Mae Clark as maid of honor. Miss Clark's gown was of rose taffeta and she wore a corsage bouquet of roses. Acting as best man was Mr. Herbert Huguley of Dallas, the groom's cousin.

Preceding the bridal party Miss Lily Bell Darden and James Layland, in costumes of white, entered with baskets of rose petals which they scattered in the pathway of the bride.

The date of the wedding, August 7th, was the twenty-fourth anniversary of the bride's parents, so during the informal reception which followed the ceremony, Mrs. Jennie B. Cyrus gave a delightful reading, "The Silver Anniversary." Miss Viola Bayless of Keene also gave some readings and Mrs. Lamont Thompson furnished a vocal solo.

An ice course, carrying out a pink and white color scheme, was served to the three hundred guests present. On the lawn, iced-punched was served, with Miss Ruby Layland presiding at the punch bowl. Assisting in serving were Misses Annis Adkins, Ethel Sanders, Doris Long, Jewel Layland, of Cleburne and Misses Ruby Lee Porter, Viola Bayless, Hiloh Atwood and Elizabeth Luccock of Keene.

Following the reception, the couple left for Dallas on a short honeymoon trip. They returned to Cleburne Friday evening and left on Monday evening on a motor trip for San Francisco, where they will make their future home. They will visit relatives on their way to California. Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will attend a medical school in San Francisco the coming year.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of the Hereford High School and has attended college at Keene for the two past years.

Mrs. Taylor has many friends in Cleburne, having graduated from high school there, and attended college at Keene last year.

Their many friends wish them the best of life's success.
