More explosive traces

By PAT MILTON Associated Press Writer

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (AP) Though more traces of explosive residue have been found on wreckage from TWA Flight 800, investigators say they still don't have enough evidence to say it was a criminal act that downed the jet.

"Based upon all the scientific and forensic evidence analyzed to date, we still cannot conclude that TWA Flight 800 crashed as a result of an explosive device," said a joint statement issued Friday by the National Transportation Safety Board and the FBI.

Tests at the FBI's lab in Washington turned up traces of RDX, two sources told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity.

The findings came a week after traces of the explosive PETN were found on a piece of floor from the center of the plane.

RDX and PETN are key ingredients in Semtex, a plastic explosive used to down Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland in 1988.

A second source familiar with the investigation said the test result was enough to convince some investigators it was time to declare the explosion a criminal act.

Last week, when word of the first finding was made public, FBI Assistant Director James Kallstrom said physical evidence - like wreckage scarred in a pattern - was needed to back up the chemical findings.

Although more than 70 percent of the Paris-bound Boeing 747 has been recovered from the Atlantic Ocean, that kind of corroboration remains elusive for investigators.

Also Friday, French authorities, pressed by relatives of the 50 French nationals aboard Flight 800, decided to pursue their own investigation into the crash.

Local Roundup

City records more rain

Hereford recorded 0.31 of an inch of rain as of 7 a.m. Saturday, according to the city's official weather station, KPAN Radio. The high Friday was 80 degrees, while the overnight low Saturday was 61 degrees. For Sunday, the forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High will be 80-85 degrees with south winds of 10-15 mph. For Labor Day, look for partly cloudy skies with a chance of thunderstorms. Low will be in the upper 50s, with a high of 85-90 degrees.

Holiday closings announced

Monday is Labor Day and there will be no school for students in Hereford. In addition, many local, state and federal offices will be closed, as will some local businesses. The Hereford Brand will be closed Monday, but will reopen as usual on Tuesday.

Museum to be open Monday

If you are looking for something to do this Labor Day, why not take a gander at the history of this area. The Deaf Smith County Museum will be open on Monday, director Donna Brockman has announced. It will be open from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The museum is located at 400 Sampson.

Blood drive set this week

Coffee Memorial Blood Center will be in Hereford two days this week for its annual fall blood drive. The drive will be from noon to 7 p.m. on Tuesday and 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Community Center. Sponsors are the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, Stagner-Carr Motor Co., Hereford State Bank, Merrick PetFoods/Beef and More, K-Bob's Steakhouse and Hereford Regional Medical Center. Donors will receive a free T-shirt, hot dogs and ice cream and K-Bob's food coupons. Everyone is encouraged to come out for the biggest blood drive of the year and give the gift of life.

HEDC to meet Wednesday

The Hereford Economic Development, Corp. will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the Commission Chamber of City Hall. A request from Texas Sugar Beet Growers for promotional funds, as well as the Hereford Theater Project will be discussed. Public comment is invited.

The Basic Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) class is for students interested in emergency care. It provides students with the knowledge and skills to take the state certified exam for entry level certification in the Emergency Medical System.

Only seniors are eligible for this class.

Because there were not enough students signed up for the class, the EMT class is not being taught this fall.

Pactzold, who is a Registered Nurse, received her basic EMT certification this past summer.

Students receive "hands-on" experience in every class, she said. By "shadowing" health care professionals, students learn all the job requirements. "When you get out of here, you will know a lot. If nothing else, you organization of the Health Science Technology Education program. The purpose of HOSA is to teach leadership skills," she said.

Students hold meetings and fund-raisers, sponsor a blood drive and compete in area contests.

I think it's a good club," Cardenas said.

I encourage students to join HOSA. They can get together with kids interested in the medical field. I usually try to let the kids run the organization," Paetzold said.

Cardenas, who will study nuclear medicine at Amarillo College next fall, encourages students to sign up for the classes.

"If they are really interested in the medical field, they should think about taking this class.

"Mrs. Paetzold is really good at what she does. I've learned a lot from her," she said.

For Pactzold, the students make the class so successful.

"I'm so excited because I have really good students," she said. 'The hospital and medical community have been wonderful. It has worked out wonderful. I can't say enough about it," she said.

Edouard meanders near East Coast

By PAUL NOWELL

Associated Press Writer WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH, N.C. (AP) - After Hurricane Bertha scared tourists off East Coast beaches in early July, an even more powerful hurricane was churning to the north today, threatening to ruin the last long summer weekend of '96.

An unpredictable Hurricane Edouard was expected to give beachgoers a break Saturday. But forecasters said the storm might shift more to the west, possibly bringing tropical storm force winds and heavy rain from North Carolina to Delaware as early as Saturday night.

"The winds in this one should be slightly stronger than that of Bertha. The storm, if it did make that turn, would be moving as slow as Bertha and rainfall totals would be similar," Joel Cline of the National Weather continued to warn people along the

At 5 a.m. Saturday, Edouard was centered about 400 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras and moving high clouds that will keep you from northward at about 10 mph. The hurricane, packing 120-mph winds, was forecast to stay on this path for the next 24 hours.

The latest forecast from the National Hurricane Center in Miami puts the center of the hurricane at about 125 miles east of Cape Hatteras by Sunday morning.

But Cline said it was still too early to tell where and if the hurricane might hit land. The weather service Service said late Friday. "It's a wait mid-Atlantic and New England coasts to closely monitor the storm's path.

Meanwhile, Cline said, weather storm warning were in effect from conditions would remain stable along the coast for much of today.

"For the next 24 hours not much is going to change," Cline said. "It might be a pretty decent day at the beach, although there might be some getting sun."

Tourists kept watch on the storm, but few were scared enough to cancel reservations.

"We've been waiting all summer to come here," said Larry Lovrich of Monroe Township, N.J., who was with his wife and two of his children at New Jersey's Cape May County resort. "If it comes, we'll do things indoors. Shopping, movies, playing cards."

Red no-swimming flags and a pounding surf were the only bad news for swimmers up and down the East Coast Friday. But the weather service expected Edouard to generate high waves and dangerous rip tides throughout the weekend.

"All of the reports say it's coming later." said Mollie Milkes of Durham, who was enjoying a day on at Wrightsville Beach Friday with her family.

fighting for future

By DAVID ESPO AP Political Writer

CHICAGO (AP)--In the campaign to come, Bill Clinton will try to straddle America's increasingly conservative political center while uninspiring campaigner thus far, has Bob Dole aims to blunt the loss of reliable Republican issues to his younger, politically nimble rival.

"America is on the right track to the 21st century ... but our work is not finished," Clinton said Thursday night in a Democratic convention speech that neatly pocketed credit for welfare changes and anti-crime measures and looked ahead to a balanced budget.

Even Clinton's "bridge to the 21st century" seemed like an idea Ronald Reagan could love. "We are the future," the Gipper used to say. By contrast, at his own convention, Dole beckoned Americans back to "a time of tranquility, faith and confidence in action.'

Dole clearly recognizes the for the fall. He embraced sweeping difficulty he faces.

'Everything he says, you know, well, Bob Dole's for it, I'm for it. Then why shouldn't I be president?" the GOP challenger asked at a California rally after Clinton spoke. "I've got all the ideas."

More than a question, it is also Dole's challenge.

Four years ago, Clinton persuaded Americans to find the "courage to change" and trade in 12 years of Republican rule for a young, untested New Democrat.

This time, his message is to stay the Clinton course, character flaws, scandals and all. It's a course, he said in his prime time acceptance speech, that's coincided with 10 million new jobs, peace abroad and new attention to the "family values" that liberals of his own party once scorned.

Truancy, school uniforms and cracking down on television violence now draw Clinton's attention.

Political conventions are outdated

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP)--Those in the know, which means anyone with a credential to get in, believe political conventions are a relic of the past, a dying ritual not suited for the television age.

Judging by the air time they parcel out, the major television networks regard conventions as theatrical backdrops for interviews and analyses. Rarely training their cameras on the lectern, they choose instead to interview the people who were speaking live from that same spot 30 minutes before.

No one expects these gaudy, speech-fed rituals to produce news. Spectacle, yes. Surprises, no.

Yet, although the air has gone out of the convention balloon, there will be another round in 2000 and for the foreseeable future. In one glorious package, they give intense exposure to the candidates, money to the parties, and they enable the delegates to whoop it up.

If the truth be told, journalists like balanced budget that "preserves them, too.

Television, radio, newspapers and magazines spend small fortunes sending more people and equipment to these pep rallies every four years than they did to the Gulf War.

The press encampments could double as staging areas for a respectable invasion. But when Ted Koppel pulled out of the Republican convention because it promised no grist for "Nightline," the reaction among journalists was "what did he think would happen?"

The last time Republican delegates assembled not knowing the outcome was 20 years ago, when Ronald Reagan challenged Gerald Ford. For Democrats, it's been 36 years since John F. Kennedy fended off Lyndon Johnson at a convention.

Not since 1952 have the Demoto fill your needs. Shop at home with crats needed a second ballot; not the local folks who support your kids, since 1948 have the Republicans. By locked up enough delegates to put the nomination in his pocket by mid-March.

Not a single hometown favorite was put up, even for the fun of it, against Bill Clinton on Wednesday. Gone or squelched in the name of unity are the causes that stir the blood. The nation's agony over Vietnam dominated the 1968 Democratic convention and spilled blood on the place. streets outside. In 1952, the international wing of the Republican party, supporting Dwight D. Eisenhower, fought to the finish with the isolationist wing led by Sen. Robert A. Taft. In 1948, the "Dixiecrats" from four southern states bolted from the Democrats' hall and ran their own candidate. Strom Thurmond.

Exciting stuff. Contrast that with Republicans finding no podium time for abortion rights speakers in San Diego. Or the mild rebuke to President Clinton - followed by endorsements - from Jesse Jackson and Mario Cuomo, for signing the welfare bill. In the old days, the rafters would still be shivering.

No wonder the television ratings were sickly and the pundits were writing convention obits. The battles of ideas that remain have been reduced to "undercurrents." The network bosses mutter.

But not everybody. "You put it on, we'll cover it," Ed Turner, CNN's executive vice president, told high school students in Chicago. It's a responsibility, he said, "when you have gathered the political leaders of our country to decide how to govern the next four years."

Each wing of the party-delegate-journalist trinity has its reasons for opting to continue them.

For the party faithful, it's a chance to be part of the process, to be loudly partisan, to mingle with those who share their political beliefs. They rub shoulders with mayors, senators and governors and, if they are victorious in the fall, with the next president.

S. Carro

For the journalists, the reasons are similar. Television reporters get to primary, which I'm not in favor of, pontificate, print journalists have we would still have a national special newspaper and magazine convention every four years to energize sections to fill.

Aug. 26 Houston Chronicle on deficit:

Thanks to low interest rates and efforts by the Republican-controlled Congress to curb federal spending, the annual federal deficit is expected to total no more than $116.8 billion by the end of this fiscal year on Sept. 30.

- That's a great improvement over past deficits and a figure President Clinton is sure to take credit for. But unfortunately, it's really nothing to brag about.

The federal government continues to spend more than it takes in, over the years borrowing money to pay for programs so that the accumulated national debt is now $5.1 trillion.

The amount of tax dollars spent just to pay the interest on that debt will total $344.5 billion this year, second only to what the government will spend in Social Security payments - $376.7 billion.

It is $20 billion more than will be spent on all the Department of Health and Human Services programs, including Medicare and Medicaid - $324.5 billion.

Interest on the national debt is almost $90 billion more than the nation will spend on its military defense - $254.8 billion.

The nation is being strangled by debt. Interest payments are approaching $1 billion a day. Taxpayers and voters need to demand a balanced budget and a plan to honestly reduce the national debt.

El Paso Herald-Post on the gorilla rescue:

The story of Binti Jua and the 3-year-old boy has ended happily, with the child being released from the hospital four days after he fell 18 feet into the ape exhibit at Brookfield (III.) Zoo. It was then that Binti, a female ape, gently cradled the injured boy in her arms, shooed away other gorillas and placed the toddler where human rescuers could reach him.

Other animals - dogs mostly - have by intent or accident saved people, but is it primarily the angle of overdue species equity that makes this tale so sweet? We think not.

It is a pleasant idea to contemplate that kindness is not limited to kind. In Binti we have a simian Samaritan. Born in captivity, she had to be taught by humans how to nurture her own baby.

Her wonderful act teaches us something.

en la basil de la constancia de la constanc

By MARK BABINECK Associated Press Writer.

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Some believe this agricultural city was one ill-fated plane trip away from evolving into a modern music epicenter, the Nashville of the rock music scene.

"That'll Be the Day," you say? No "Maybe Baby," about it, retorts Peggy Sue Gerron.

"There's been a great deal of talent here and no outlet for it," said the inspiration of "Peggy Sue," Buddy Holly's greatest hit. "Buddy saw talent and had an ear for music."

The musicians and fans who have carried their individual memories of Holly and his rock 'n' roll spirit will converge on his hometown this week to celebrate what would have been his 60th birthday on Sept. 7.

It might doubly serve as a sneak peek at what Lubbock could have been musically. The Feb. 3, 1959 plane crash that sent Holly, Richie Valens and J.P. "The Big Bopper" Richardson into rock eternity may have killed a local music industry before it was born.

Few knew that a vacant lot on the west side of town was set to become home to a spiffy new studio where a 22-year-old Holly could begin producing the work of others, which those close to him say was his true calling.

"It would have helped an unknown number of people," said older brother Larry Holley, who still owns the tile company he ran in the 1950s, when Buddy would serenade workers out on jobs. "I think when Buddy died, it left sort of a vacuum for awhile.'

Revelers this week will honor the man who brought his mix of country, gospel, R&B and pop from a studio in nearby Clovis, N.M., to the world. Most agree his fame was broader nationwide and in England than it was in his hometown.

Lubbock, a conservative city, was slow to warm to Holly's rhythms, though Ms. Gerron said that friction was overplayed in the film "The Buddy Holly Story.'

"I don't think there's any doubt that because of the Bible Belt influence that many people looked upon the music of the Devil's workshop," Ms. Gerron said.

"Lubbock never looked upon Buddy as a phenomenon."

A phenomenon he became, however. Paul McCartney has said there never would have been a Beatles without The Crickets, after whom he named the band. Another top British act, The Hollies, was more obvious in its tribute.

Could Lubbock have rivaled Memphis and Nashville on the American music scene with Holly back home? University of Texas rock history professor Ron Emoff doubts it, mainly because those cities had more pronounced musical roots well before the '50s.

"I don't know if it was thriving enough to attract people from other places," Emoff said. "But then, there's no telling. Holly was a well-known guy, and certainly people would have come. He would have been a reputable producer."

Lubbockites will get a taste of what might have been from Wednesday through Saturday. Dozens of performances, a 1950s classic car cruise and productions of the musical,

"Buddy: The Buddy Holly Story," will mark the first annual music festival named in his honor.

SO-190 (1/82)

Crickets drummer Jerry Allison, who was married to Ms. Gerron for nine years and remains in the music business near Nashville, wishes Lubbock embraced the band then like it does now.

In 1958, Holly left the Crickets and producer Norman Petty, who cultivated their talents in a Clovis, N.M. studio. Petty kept receiving Holly's checks for awhile, though, forcing Holly to join that fateful wintertime concert tour in 1959.

"He would have been a megastar in the recording business," said Ms. Gerron, who now lives in Slaton, just outside of Lubbock. "I don't think Buddy ever would have stopped producing."

His brother, bandmate and friend all believe this would be a different place with Buddy Holly around. He might have summed it up with another one of his hits:

"Oh Boy!"

Petty's advice to Holly noted by 'Holly-ophile'

By The Associated Press

Buddy Holly eventually moved to New York City, where he met his wife, Maria Elena. Buddy Holly-ophile Lisa Saunders Boffa, who maintains an Internet web page dedicated to her idol, includes a letter record producer Norman Petty wrote Holly and The Crickets prior to their summer 1957 first trip to the Big Apple:

Motorists discover oasis in Panhandle's Cadillac Ranch

By ERIC VAUGHAN Amarillo Globe-News

AMARILLO - Ten Cadillacs buried nose-down in the ground, which stands sentinel over a patch of dirt on the western edge of Amarillo, serve as a cultural icon for many travelers along the storied Route 66.

The collection of cars, dubbed Cadillac Ranch, are one of many attractions that still beckon motorists who travel the nation's highways. The ranch presents a surrealistic scene against a background of farmland and the roofs of retail giants, which glimmer a short distance to the east.

"I think what Stanley March 3 said is true: 'It's kind of an icon, it's a tribute to a time past," " said Peter L. Petersen, a history professor at West Texas A&M University, who led a group of Elderhostel students to the site on a recent afternoon. "We complain that people don't get off the interstate and look around. This is a magnet that pulls people off."

That magnetism attracted Stuart Sinclair and Sarah Mills, who pulled off the road on their way to Califor-

"I think it's pretty cool actually," said Sinclair, a student at the University of Texas. "I'm from England and there's nothing like this in England - driving cars into the ground?"

Mills, Sinclair's traveling companion, saw it differently.

'I think it's a bit odd," Mills said. "It looks a bit incongruous in the middle of the field." Marsh and a band of alternative architects - the Ant Farm - created Cadillac Ranch in June 1974. When asked on a summer afternoon about their perceptions of the car art, many sightseers peppered their speech with "crazy," "interesting," and "bizarre."

On this day, a yellow school bus, motorcycles, pickup trucks and minivans bring curjous onlookers to the scene in a slow, but steady stream. Some observers stand far away, click a picture or two and drive away. But which they often touch and examine closely.

Herd forgets about Guymon, focuses on opener at Tascosa

By JAY PEDEN Sports Editor

No Guymon? No problem. Hereford coach Craig Yenzer certainly wasn't happy that the coach of the Oklahoma school called and canceled Friday's scheduled scrimmage 48 hours before it was supposed to start.

And the Whitefaces players could have used the experience. With only three returning starters and three other returning lettermen, every snap in competition helps.

Yenzer and the Whitefaces are making the best of a bad situation, though. They're forgetting about Guymon and thinking about Tascosa.

"We're going to make a positive situation out of it," Yenzer said. "We'll look at it as having an extra day to get ready for Tascosa.'

Pampa and Tascosa scrimmaged Thursday, and Yenzer was watching the videotape Friday afternoon. In practice Friday evening, the Herd worked specifically on stopping Tascosa.

The Herd starts the season for real against the Rebels, kicking off at 7:30 Friday at Bivins Stadium in Amarillo.

There are usually a few rule changes before every football season, but rarely are there two as dramatic as ones made this year.

In Class 4A, three teams from each district will now advance to the playoffs. And in all classes, there will be an overtime tie-breaker system used in the playoffs and in many district games.

The UIL left the decision about using it in district games up to each district, and the coaches of District 1-4A met Wednesday and voted for it. Yenzer said.

"The logic behind it is if we have to face it in the playoffs, we'll have did take defense first. You wanted to some idea how it works," Yenzer said.

The Hereford coach needed no arm-twisting to vote "Yes."

"I'm excited about it," he said. "When I coached in Oklahoma, we had a tiebreaker (although a different system). I think it's a fair way to determine who wins if a game ends in a tie."

The system isn't sudden death, like in the NFL. It's like the system that's been used by college football on every level except NCAA Division which will start it this year.

Here's how it works, according to the UIL and the NCAA:

"After the fourth quarter, officials will gather at midfield and review the tiebreaker procedure. The captains will then join the officials for a coin toss, the winner of which will choose either a) whether to begin on offense or defense, or b) which end of the field shall be used by both teams.

"Each team will then get one series with the ball beginning on the designated 25-yard line. Possession is retained until a team scores or fails to make a first down. Any score by the defense makes that team an automatic winner.

"If the teams remain tied, another series is played. The loser of the first coin toss gets to choose from the two options before the second overtime period.

"Each team shall be allowed one timeout for each extra period. Timeouts not used during the regulation will not carry over; timeouts not used in one overtime cannot be carried into any subsequent overtimes."

Yenzer said he'd probably choose to go on defense first. "I know in Oklahoma, most teams put pressure on the other team to see if they could score. If they can't then you're sitting pretty good."

The three-playoff-team system will work just like it has for the last four years in Class 5A. In football, the Class 4A playoffs will be divided into Division I and Division II, giving Texas a grand total of eight state champions.

'We're excited," Yenzer said. "I think it gives the kids a little added incentive as the season goes on."

At the end of the regular season, each district sends three teams to the playoffs. The school with the highest attendance (called ADM) goes into Division I and the other two schools go into Divison II.

"I like having three teams in the playoffs," Yenzer said. "The only thing I don't like about the way the system is set up, you get no reward for winning district. It's all based on attendance.

The district champion in football gets no bye in the playoffs and doesn't even necessarily get to face the next district's runner-up in bi-district. This system only is used in football; in volleyball, basketball and baseball, each district champion gets a bye in the first round.

In District 1-4A, Caprock has the highest ADM, followed in order by Randall, Hereford, Pampa, Borger, Dumas and Canyon, according to Yenzer.

Yankees' Pettitte beats Angels for 19th

By TOM WITHERS

AP Sports Writer The New York Yankees didn't need any late-inning heroics from Scattle to maintain their lead in the AL East. All they needed was Andy Pettitte Tino Martinez hit a two-run home run and Mariano Duncan, Darryl Strawberry and Jim Leyritz hit solo hom ars for the Yankees, who'll spend the rest of the weekend in Anaheim before heading to Oakland for three games.

Fortunately, the Yankees will get David Cone back against the A's and Pettitte will make another start before the road trip ends.

"There's a certain sense of security when Andy pitches," New York manager Joe Torre said. "In spite of his limited experience, he's really done a heck of a job in very tough situations for us."

Excessive Tearing

EYES

Tears are a natural and vital fluid to bathe our eyes, but too much tearing - a not uncommon complaint of the elderly - can be annoying. It also may indicate more serious problems.

Put simply, watery eyes may come from excessive tear production or poor drainage of tears in the comer of the eye, but the basic causes may vary widely. A foreign body in the eye, an infection, even nasal or dental problems may result in excessive tearing. There may be abjocked tear gland or a vision problem - not yet corrected - that causes continual eye strain.

Because the possibilities are so varied, it takes professional know-how to zero in on the actual cause of the excessive tearing and treat it. Your optometrist, with careful examination and information you provide about your general health, can offer some comfort. And if the problem is eye or health related, examination and treatment should be covered by Medicare.

Cowboys aren't through winning

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - From the Pacific to the Atlantic, talk shows babble about the imminent demise of the Dallas Cowboys.

Perhaps in the history of the NFL there has never been such joy over the preseason pratfalls of a reigning Super Bowl champion.

This lion king has mega-sized warts, suspensions, injuries and lack of depth thanks to the salary cap.

"The Cowboys are dead," said an East Coast talk host. "They might get a wild card in their division. Then they'll play on the road and they'll be dead because they'll be frozen in Green Bay."

Things could be better, for sure. Coach Barry Switzer has to deal with suspensions, bad backs, pulled hamstrings, stretched knee ligaments and backup depth that a member of the Dallas staff "called the worst in the NFL."

There's no doubt about it. The Cowboys probably don't have a dozen regular season wins in them this year. The last three regular seasons have been a broken record, 12-4, 12-4, 12-4.

In 1992 the club was 13-3 and 11-5 in 1991.

It's an amazing mark when you consider every team had the Cowboys circled on the calendar.

However, without Michael Irvin for the first five games the Cowboys will be lucky to go 3-2 with tough games at Chicago, Buffalo and Philadelphia. In fact, 2-3 is more likely.

But lost in all the doom and gloom about the Valley Ranch vaqueros is an attitude that at last count had logged three Super Bowl championships in the last four years.

High-priced players like Emmitt Smith, Troy Aikman, Deion Sanders, Darren Woodson, Kevin Smith and Nate Newton care about winning. They just don't show up, take their money and run.

Winning is what they've always cared about. The money is nice, too.

The Cowboys should be able to hang in there long enough to get things in gear in mid October.

Home games against Arizona and Atlanta should be W's to set the stage for the long-awaited showdown in Miami on Oct. 27. For the Cowboys, an 8-3 mark once Irvin returns shouldn't be out of the question.

A fifth NFC East division title at 10-6 shouldn't be out of the question, either.

The playoffs are another matter. In was the feeling from this corner, that the Cowboys couldn't have defeated the San Francisco 49ers in the playoffs last year. The best thing that happened to Dallas was Green Bay's upset of the 49ers. Dallas has the Packers' number until Green Bay proves otherwise. The Cowboys still have as good a chance as anyone in the NFL to win a Super Bowl.

Not as good a chance as in the past. The odds are much greater for the Cowboys to be knocked off this year than any since Jimmy Johnson created the monster.

The salary cap has taken its toll. And the Cowboys, for the most part, have been very, very lucky with injuries over the last four years.

But are they dead?

Look for the Cowboys to put up a determined resistance to those trying to steal away their diamond-encrusted crown.

A Green Bay or a San Francisco might do it to the Cowboys this year. But Troy and Emmitt won't go down without a struggle.

Somehow this is the point the talk show hosts keep missing...

Deion prepares for two-way start

By MIKE NADEL

AP Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) - Full-time football is back. And the man known as "Prime Time" is the practitioner.

"Deion Sanders will play defense. He'll play offense," Dallas Cowboys coach Barry Switzer said. "I anticipate him starting both ways."

Cornerback is Sanders' natural pot; some say he's the best ever. Wide receiver is his position-intraining.

If he does start at both Monday night, when the Cowboys begin defense of their NFL title against the Chicago Bears, Sanders will become the first full-time, two-way performer since Chuck Bednarik played linebacker and center for Philadelphia from 1949-62.

"One of my goals has been to play receiver," Sanders said. "I love the challenge.

After playing sparingly at receiver last season, when Dallas won its third championship in four years, Sanders was expected to catch more passes in 1996. The plan became a necessity when All-Pro wideout Michael Irvin was suspended five games for violating the league's substance abuse policy.

Sanders' dual role and Irvin's absence are but two of the many story tines in the season opener for the Cowboys - as well as for a Chicago team that has its own postseason aspirations.

The Cowboys have been decimated by injuries. Tight end Jay Novacek, who combined with Irvin for 2,308 receiving yards last year, is out. Several others, including star back Emmitt Smith, will be playing at less than peak efficiency.

Injuries also have burned the Bears. Rashaan Salaam, a 1,000-yard rusher as a rookie last year, will miss the game. Cornerback Donnell Woolford, once almost in Sanders' class as a cover guy, is still bothered by a hip injury that sidelined him the last seven games of 1995.

After going 9-7 and missing the playoffs last season, the Bears have plenty to prove. And there would be no better starting point than a victory over the defending champs before a Monday night TV audience.

The Cowboys, of course, want to prove they're still No. 1. And they might need Prime Time at his best to do it

"Deion has done well for a guy who really has not played any wide receiver," Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman said. "He's not going to make anyone forget about Michael Irvin, but he gives us the ability to make some big plays downfield."

The Bears say they will be doubly prepared for the flashy Sanders, who is known almost as much for the amount of gold he drapes around his neck as he is for his incredible talent.

"We've watched him on film and it seems he's going to be a good receiver," said Woolford, who likely will line up against Sanders often. "It takes time to learn how to run routes and to have timing with the quarterback. But whenever a person runs that fast, you have to respect him." Defensively, Sanders is no rookie.

His cornerback play helped San Francisco and Dallas win the last two Super Bowls. And despite missing the start of each of the last four seasons because he was playing major-league baseball, Sanders has 32 career interceptions.

"In the time that I've played in the league, he's the best," Chicago quarterback Erik Kramer said. "He's going to take a lot of things away, but there are some things that you have to try to get on him. You can't go into a game shying away from his side of the field."

Switzer won't let Sanders' new duties detract from his old ones because "he's worth seven points a game to our defense." And the coach isn't concerned that Sanders will get too tired.

Sanders, he said, will manage his own number of snaps.

The Bears hope Sanders has been concentrating so much on his offense that he might be a little lackadaisical on defense.

"It's human nature that as soon as you start taking things for granted, that's when you start slipping up a little bit," Kramer said. "But maybe he's got that ability to step right in and go. We'll see."

The Oilers hope Bono's funk continues in their season opener on Sunday, but coach Jeff Fisher expects a strong performance from the veteran quarterback.

The Oilers had a 7-9 record last season after a 2-14 finish in 1994, and could contend for a playoff spot this season. Heisman Trophy winner Eddie George, running back Ronnie Harmon and former Kansas City wide receiver Willie Davis are newcomers who could make the offense better. Chris Chandler will start against a Chiefs defense that ranked No. 2 in the NFL last season.

Chargers' Beathard hopes to work more magic

By BARRY WILNER AP Football Writer

Bobby Beathard has been called an innovator and even a genius for the way he builds teams. He was a mastermind in Washington and his San Diego clubs, although inconsistent, have been a tribute to his ability to recognize talent.

Bobby Ross won a national championship at Georgia Tech and has gotten the Chargers into the playoffs in three of his four seasons as coach. They made the Super Bowl in 1994 and just might get back this season if a few things break right. Such as:

-- Aaron Hayden replaces Natrone Means as the workhorse in the backfield.

-- Marco Coleman is as effective rushing the passer as the departed Leslie O'Neal.

--Bryan Still or Charlie Jones are typical Beathard draft steals. They might need to be, with only Tony Martin a proven receiver.

--Stan Humphries stays healthy. --Kevin Ross provides stability for the secondary.

The Chargers are no powerhouse. But they weren't in any of their successful seasons under Ross. They simply make the plays at critical times.

"It's just another challenge," Beathard says. "We have a young team, a lot of question marks. We haven't pulled together and played offensively and some areas defensively the way we're going to have to if we're going to be able to get to the playoffs."

Humphrey and Junior Seau are the acknowledged leaders, and you can't surgery.

do much better than that.

The hard- nosed quarterback throws some wobblers, doesn't run very well and makes some bad decisions. He also never stops trying, is remarkably creative under pressure and has an unwavering belief in himself and his teammates.

What he might not have is the supporting cast in the backfield and at receiver. The departures of Means, Ronnie Harmon, Mark Seay and Shawn Jefferson, while hardly devastating, will be harmful if runners Hayden and Terrell Fletcher, and receivers Andre Coleman and Jimmy Oliver aren't ready to step in. Another, deeper hurt is the death of Rodney Culver in an airplane crash.

Despite these questions, the Chargers appear to be the class of the good division, with the Chiefs and Raiders capable of pushing them for the title. Even Seattle and Denver should be around .500.

San Diego has the best offensive line in the AFC - although preseason injuries have caused some alarm - and the best kicking game and special teams in the league. The defensive line, particularly if end Chris Mims recovers from a mediocre year, should be outstanding, too. Coleman, who helped Ross win that national championship at Georgia Tech, can do most of what O'Neal did against the pass, more against the run. Tackles Shawn Lee and Reuben Davis are first-rate.

Kevin Ross steps in at free safety in a revamped backfield that gets back its best player, cornerback Darrien Gordon, from rotator cuff

Then there is Seau, whose drive and skill make him one of the NFL's most special players. The Chiefs have their share of special players, too, in Marcus Allen, Neil Smith, Derrick Thomas, John Alt and Dan Saleaumua. They were 13-3 in 1995, the best record in the league. Their offensive line is almost as good as San Diego's, as is their defensive front. Their secondary is better.

Kansas City also has holes, beginning with an inexperienced receiving corps that counts on Tamarick Vanover and Lake Dawson to become stars. The linebackers are too up-and-down and the special teams are uncertain.

KC's success better not ride on the roduction of guarterback Steve Bono. He had a fine season in '95, his first as a starter, and established himself as a winner. His postseason performance in a 10-7 home loss to Indianapolis (after an 8-0 record at Arrowhead Stadium during the season) was abysmal and his top two receivers, Willie Davis and Webster Slaughter, are elsewhere.

So they must rely heavily on their running game, which is fine, because the Chiefs led the league in rushing.

Oakland was leading the entire league with an 8-2 record when it lost quarterback Jeff Hostetler. Then it lost its final six games amid turmoil in the locker room and on the coaching staff.

Hoss has to stay healthy for the Raiders to contend. If he does, many of the offensive weapons are in place, including running backs Harvey Williams' and Napoleon Kaufman, receiver Tim Brown and rookie tight end Rickey Dudley. Williams should rush for 1,000 yards and Brown go saying something.

over that in reception yardage, provided a questionable offensive line jells.

Defensively, the Raiders used free agency to fill chasms at tackle, cornerback and safety. Russell Maryland will team with All-Pro Chester McGlockton on the line, flanked by pass-rushing demons Pat Swilling (13 sacks) and Anthony Smith. Larry Brown, last year's Super Bowl MVP, and strong safety Lorenzo Lynch join Albert Lewis and Terry McDaniel in what should be a top-level secondary.

Seattle made a nice move to 8-8. last season, going 6-2 in the second half of the schedule. The Seahawks could make a quick impact in this year's schedule, which has them playing San Diego, Denver and Kansas City right

The Seahawks have solid receivers with Joey Galloway and veteran Brian Blades, whose manslaughter conviction was reversed by a judge. They also have Chris Warren, the AFC's most prolific running back.

Defensive tackle Cortez Kennedy is a star. Linebacker Terry Wooden had 114 solo tackles in '95 and safety Robert Blackmon is a standout.

Quarterback Rick Mirer is developing too slowly, the offensive and defensive lines are too uncertain and Wooden has little help at linebacker.

Seattle scored 218 points in its strong second half a year ago. A repeat of that output could lift it into the playoffs.

For Denver to get into the playoffs, John Elway will have to be more of a magician than usual. And that's

The Broncos lost more through free agency than they gained and will miss RB-KR Glyn Milburn and defensive ends Shane Dronett and Simon Fletcher the most. While Bill Romanowski was a good addition at linebacker, Denver is so thin there it's relying on top pick John Mobley - of Kutztown, no less - to start.

Steve Atwater is a terrific safety, but that's about all Denver has in the secondary. Most of the defensive linemen are past their prime. The same might be said of the offensive line.

All of which means Elway, supported by running back Terrell Davis - a 1,000-yard rusher as a rookie - and receivers Shannon Sharpe and Anthony Miller, has a tough chore ahead of him in a tough division.

LAST YEAR'S FINISH: 1, Kansas City (13-3); 2, San Diego (9-7); 3, Seattle (8-8); 4, Denver (8-8); 5, Oakland, (8-8).

PREDICTIONS: 1, San Diego (10-6); 2, Kansas City (9-7); 3, Oakland (9-7); 4, Seattle (8-8); 5, Denver (7-9).

Bills aim for another Super Bow

By BARRY WILNER AP Football Writer

Here's a scary thought for AFC fans hoping that 12-year Super Bowl drought might end next January: the Buffalo Bills are the best team in the conference.

The Bills, who contributed so mightily to that losing streak with four straight super flops, are likely to be back for another try. Just as likely, it will be a final try with the present group

That group includes three players -Bruce Smith, Jim Kelly and Thurman Thomas - almost certainly headed to the Hall of Fame. It also includes veterans Andre Reed and Kent Hull, mainstays of the 1990-93 AFC division by Indianapolis, which fell inches short of the Super Bowl last January. The other three teams are rebuilding.

The Colts might suffer from management's moves in the offseason. Ted Marchibroda's reward. for the astounding playoff run was being set free when his contract ran out. He's now head coach in Baltimore.

Lindy Infante moves up and still will control the offensive strings, but defensive coordinator Vince Tobin got the head job in Arizona. A strong, innovative staff was torn apart, and several Colts players were disturbed by the changes.

The defense didn't lose much and and he's annoyed the team insisted on drafting Terry Glenn with the seventh overall pick, when he wanted a defender.

So Parcells renegotiated his contract to eliminate the fifth year, ending the pact after this season. He created a lame-duck situation that can't help.

The guys who need the most help in New England are the ball-handlers and the secondary. Parcells figures to turn to second-year CB Ty Law and free-agent safety Willie Clay in the backfield and expects more from pass-rushers Willie McGinest and Chris Slade.

If Drew Bledsoe can return to his 994 form and Curtis Martin, the 95 to have tired of the grind once again, particularly on offense, with $25 million QB Neil O'Donnell; wideouts Jeff Graham and Webster Slaughter through free agency, Keyshawn Johnson and Alex Van Dyke in the draft; and tackles David Williams and Jumbo Elliott. They certainly should score more than 22 touchdowns, and Adrian Murrell, the top runner, could get 1,000 yards. The defense is decent, sparked by linebackers Mo Lewis, Marvin Jones and Bobby Houston, and cornerback Aaron Glenn. So why will the Jets finish last again, albeit with twice as many

What sets these Bills apart from the rest of a jumbled conference are recent additions. Bryce Paup brought pop to the pass rush, getting $17 \frac{1}{2}$ sacks to earn Defensive Player of the Year honors in 1995. Phil Hansen has developed into a terrific complement to Smith at defensive end. Henry Jones is one of the league's best safeties, and partner Karl Schulz is getting there. The cornerbacks are young but aggressive and talented.

The linebacking is fine. Mark Maddox is healthy, and Chris Spielman was a terror with the Lions and a better all-around player than the departed Cornelius Bennett. Unlike in their Super Bowl seasons, the Bills have a reliable defense that can turn around games.

"This is a strong, winning defense," Smith said. "We can win games the same way our offense can, and that's the combination you want."

The offense might be too reliant on Thomas, who goes for a record eighth straight 1,000-yard rushing season and is capable of 1,000 as a receiver. Darick Holmes is a good backup, and the blockers, led by tackle John Fina and guard Ruben Brown on the left, plus the superb Hull at center, are just fine.

Kelly says his arm is stronger after shoulder surgery, but his 36-year-old body is battered. He must stay healthy for Buffalo to go anywhere.

Operating without key weapons for much of last year, Kelly threw for 22 TDs and 13 interceptions and had an 81.1 rating. And the Bills won the AFC East again.

Now, he has free agent Quinn Early, promising rookie Eric Moulds, a healthy Reed and the versatile Steve Tasker as targets.

The Bills will be pushed in the has perhaps the AFC's best group of linebackers.

The departure of tackle Will Wolford, the team's best blocker, as a free agent will hurt. The three linemen signed - Doug Widell, Troy Auzenne and Jay Leeuwenburg - are serviceable, but not in Wolford's class.

The Colts finally have the weapons in the skill positions to be a winner. Jim Harbaugh's breakout year saw him lead the league in passing, and he was nicknamed "Captain Comeback" for continually leading Indy from behind. His reward: a fouryear, $13 million deal.

Aiding him are Marshall Faulk, the star runner of a deep backfield, emerging tight end Ken Dilger and receivers Sean Dawkins and rookie Marvin Harrison, a steal with the 19th overall pick.

Jimmy Johnson is used to having such players. He simply doesn't have enough of them this time around.

So JJ's return to the NFL, while it will draw headlines no matter what the Dolphins do, won't be a triumphant one. If Miami matches its 9-7 mark of 1995, it will be doing well. Championships are down the road, and Johnson understands that, even if he isn't quite letting on.

"Everyone's job is up for grabs," he said. "They've got to prove they want to be a starter."

One guy who definitely will start is Dan Marino, who holds all those spiffy passing records, but no titles. Now, he has the coach of the '90s on his side.

Defensively, Miami's chances might end quickly. Gone are the best lineman (Marco Coleman), linebacker (Bryan Cox) and back (Troy Vincent), all to free agency.

The coaching situation in New England is tenuous. Bill Parcells seems Offensive Rookie of the Year, comes close to gaining 1,487 yards and scores 15 times again, the offense will be OK. Glenn could turn into a godsend for Bledsoe.

The Jets were, for the first time in their 25 NFL seasons, at the very about 2.2 percent fat, roughly a third of that found in the average beef ribeye, sold in stores, said Marty Marchello, whose study was requested and partially funded by the bison industry.

Marchello analyzed 90 grain-fed bison from nine states and three Canadian provinces for 1 { years. His findings back up previous studies, which, although sketchy, touted bison as a lean alternative to beef.

in New Rockford, N.D.

Wade Moser, executive vice president of the North Dakota Stockmen's Association, said Marchello's study does not worry the beef industry.

"We don't look at the bison industry as being head-to-head competition. We think that there's room for them," he said.

Both bison and beef are low in sodium and high in iron, and their cholesterol levels are about the same, Marchello said.

"I think lean beef is just as good for you as bison meat," he said, but added, "We don't have all the answers yet."

Dolls have become 'way of life' from simple beginning as hobby

By BECKY CAMP Lifestyles Editor

A trip to the post office five years ago resulted in a hobby that has become a way of life for Rosalee McGowen.

As Mrs. McGowen waited in the car for her husband, Jelly, to check the mail, she noticed some beautifully dressed porcelain dolls in the window of a craft shop. When she expressed an interest in learning how to make such dolls, her husband encouraged the idea.

"I signed up to make four dolls and was hooked," Mrs. McGowen said. Thus, a nearly all-consuming hobby was born.

In addition to making her own dolls, Mrs. McGowen teaches twiceweekly classes at the Senior Center for three years.

Bobbie Edwards was Mrs. McGowen's teacher and soon became her friend.

Bobbie has a lot of talent. If it hadn't been for her, I would not have enjoyed it as much or learned as much, and I'm still learning. You learn more with each doll," Mrs. McGowen said.

The heads, arms and legs of the dolls are porcelain, but the bodies are cloth.

When Mrs. Edwards developed health problems, Mrs. McGowen began making the cloth bodies for her.

Eventually Mrs. Edwards' husband sold the business and Mrs. McGowen was instrumental in its purchase by Hereford Senior Citizens Association.

"I warn anyone who is interested in making a doll that they can't make

The size of the class varies, but averages from four - to eight, according to Mrs. McGowen.

Jelly McGowen pours the liquid porcelain, then the dolls are fired twice in a soft-fire process that results in less breakage.

"The dolls begin to take on a personality as you work with them. They are sanded and painted before they are refired. This is the point where you begin to see a personality," Jelly McGowen said.

"Molds for some of the dolls are used repeatedly, even though we have about 50 to choose from, but no two are alike. They are like children -they're all different," his wife added.

Different wigs and eyes contribute to making each doll different and help the dollmaker decide what style of dress would be appropriate. "Most of the dresses I make I don't have a pattern for. I just cut and sew whatever seems appropriate for that doll," Mrs. McGowen said.

The dolls have movable arms and legs thanks to the use of "bear joints" to attach the porcelain extremities to the cloth bodies.

In addition to making dolls for her own collection and making dolls for other individuals, Mrs. McGowen is helping make dolls for a special Christmas tree for the Festival of Trees at the Senior Center in November.

"There will be a total of seven porcelain dolls on the tree," she said.

All but one of the dolls are completed and they are "waiting in the wings" in the McGowen's extra bedroom, which Mrs. McGowen refers to as a disaster area.

But from this disaster area has emerged an impressive array of porcelain "babies."

"The dolls have given me purpose. I enjoy every minute of it," Mrs. McGowen said.

MRS. DAVID K. WILL ... nee Kristin Walterscheid

Walterscheid, Will repeat wedding vows

Kristin Suzanne Walterscheid and David K. Will were united in marriage in an evening ceremony Aug. 24 in St. Thomas Apostle Catholic Church in Amarillo.

The bride is the daughter of Lani Long of Hereford and Larry Walterscheid of Canyon.

The bridegroom is the son of Marjorie Will of Santa Fe, N.M. and Richard Will of Port St. Lucie, Fla. Monsignor Tash of the church officiated at the ceremony.

The church altar was decorated with two brass arch candelabra flanked by arrangements of exotic green and accented with two arrangements of mixed white flowers. Pews were marked with white satin bows, star gazer lilies, blue iris and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Susan Nichols of Amarillo and best man was George Kassis of Lighthouse Point, Fla.

Serving as bridesmaids were Christi Will, sister of the groom of Sandia Peak, N.M.; Kasi Reinart of Canyon; Deborah Walterscheid, sister-in-law of the bride of Amarillo; and Jody Jordan of Amarillo.

Groomsmen were David Nichols Amarillo, Steve Young of of Panhandle, Anthony De Molina of Los Angeles, Calif., and Rick Russell of Waterbury, Conn. Eric Walterscheid and Jason Walterscheid of Amarillo, Kent ceremony. Walterscheid of Allen, all brothers of the bride, and Mike Lang of Panhandle, served as ushers.

Flower girl was Madison Walterscheid, niece of the bride and daughter of Eric and Deborah Walterscheid.

Jim Gardner of Amarillo was organist and Jessica McConnell of Tulsa, Okla., was vocalist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a designer gown of white regal satin with a scalloped V neckline and Edwardian style sleeves. The bodice was encrusted with pearls and jewels.

The gown was fashioned with a princess waistline and sheath styled slim skirt. The back of the gown plunged to a low back, centered with a designer bow. The chapel length train was regal satin with European lace cutouts, studded with pearls and jewels.

The bridal bouquet consisted of white casa blanca lilies and star gazer lilies hand tied with French chiffon ribbon. A 200-year-old gold locket, which belonged to the bride's maternal grandmother, was entwined in the bouquet.

Bridal attendants wore palazzo evening pants with tailored jackets in raspberry silk-linen, accented with rhinestone buttons. They carried hand tied bouquets of liatris, star gazer lilies, blue iris, purple anthuziums and baby's breath tied with French chiffon ribbon.

The flower girl's dress was made by Elizabeth Walterscheid, grandmother of the bride. It was princess style in white satin with an overlay of white net patterned with hearts. She carried a basket with star gazer lilies accented with raspberry ribbons. The couple was honored with a

There are lots of ways to use fruits and vegetables. To add variety, nutrition and taste to foods you already enjoy, try some of the following suggestions:

*Liven up whole-grain waffles and pancakes by topping with fruit slices like oranges, peaches, kiwi, mango, berries, papaya, or the fruit of your choice.

*Top whole-grain toast with thinly-sliced fruit and a hit of honey, peanut butter of lowfat cream cheese.

*To make a low calorie homemade fruit spread, slice your fruit of choice and cook in a small amount of water of fruit juice over a medium heat until tender. Process in a blender or food processor. Add sugar to taste and, if or nutmeg. Spoon spread over whole- fruit blends. grain waffles, pancakes or ice cream.

*Don't stop with lettuce and apples, blueberries, cranberries, apricots or raisins. *Don't let leftover fruit go to waste -- make your own sorbet. Simply cut the fruit into chunks and freeze. When you're ready to make the sorbet, let the frozen fruit thaw at room temperature for about 30 minutes. Puree in a blender or food processor and, if desired, flavor with a few drops of vanilla or almond extract. Spoon the purce into a freezer container (or directly into dessert dishes) and refreeze until firm.

*Cook up a big pot of soup or stew. Hot vegetable and bean soups are full of comfort and nutrition, and the leftovers last for many meals. In warmer months, whip up cold soups for delightful appetizers or light desired, a dash of cinnamon, ginger meals. Try tangy gazpacho or chilled tomato on your sandwich. Try adding slices of cucumber, summer squash, zucchini, grated carrots, cranberry mushrooms, green and yellow squash sauce or crushed pineapple (great or corn. Pre-cook denser types like with turkey or ham), pepper strips or fresh spinach leaves.

*Stir fresh chunks of fruit into chicken or turkey salads. Tasty choices include peaches, nectarines, apricots, apples, mango, papaya or pears.

*Top homemade pizza with zucchini or yellow squash slices, broccoli florets, fresh tomato slices, golden. chopped spinach or even fresh fruit out, ask for double the vegetables and half the cheese.

*Try veggies instead of meat in your favorite pasta sauce.

*Extend lean ground meats by carrots, onion, celery and mushrooms.

*Add fruits or vegetables to your favorite muffin, bread or cookie mix vegetables for every two cups of dry ingredients. Try cooked pumpkin, best for barbecues -- try eggplant, leeks, green and red peppers; carrots, potatoes, artichokes and sweet potatoes before grilling. To prevent sticking, lightly baste veggies with vegetable oil or non-stick spray. If desired, season with herbs (dill; thyme, rosemary, oregano) or other flavorings (reduced-sodium soy sauce, low-oil marinades, vinegars). Grill until hot, tender and slightly

*Look at your favorite recipes for like pineapple. When you order pizza ways to use less meat and gradually increase the proportion of vegetables, grains and legumes. For instance, turn a chicken and shrimp stir-fry with lasagna. Chop fresh vegetables into vegetables into a vegetable stir-fry with chicken and shrimp.

*Stir-fried veggies are fast, adding finely chopped vegetables like flavorful and nutritious on a bed of hot brown rice, whole-grain bulgur or couscous for a delicious change of Her satisfaction is based on service performance.

Lynn Schroeter hearslots of promises in her travels as a free-lance wedding photographer. Maybe that's why, as a consumer, she seems to be constantly evaluating the promises of service, quality and value rendered by those she does business with.

Although we will be closed Monday for the Labor Day holiday, all kinds of exciting events are coming to your library. September will be the beginning of the children's fall programming. In addition to the public story time, story times for kindergartens, and day cares are planned.

Not only will story times resume for pre-schoolers, weekly activities are planned for elementary age children. Terrific Tuesdays, starting Sept. 3 at 4 p.m.-5 p.m., will be the special time for first through third graders to take part in a variety of fun activities.

Magnificent Mondays, starting Sept. 9 from 4 p.m.-5 p.m., is the time set aside for fourth through sixth graders. Activities will include stories, arts and crafts, games, videos, drama and much more. Encourage your children to come and enjoy.

This week has been designated Christmas in September on the nonfiction shelf. Several new Christmas craft and decorating books are available this week for those of you who are more inclined than I am to start early. Bless you and more power to you.

If counted cross-stitch is your thing, Santa's Great Book from Leisure Arts is for you. It is crammed, jammed full of cross-stitch Santas for all kinds of things from framed art to mini pillows and afghans.

For those who prefer other media to create Santas, there is The Crafter's Book of Santas by Leslic Dierks. Dierks includes pictures and instructions for using polymer clay, papier mache, wood carving, knitting, pine cones, and even gourds.

Many of these books also have some wonderful looking recipes for gift giving and holiday meals. Christmas With Southern Living 1996 has many festive goodies to look at (and drool over) along with decorations to dress up your meals and gifts of edibles.

American Country Christmas 1996 and Christmas is Coming 1996: Holiday Projects for Children and Parents both have a variety of gift and decorating projects which families can do together. Your children will love it.

Too early for thinking about Christmas, you say? Then maybe you need to read Christmas in America: A History by Penne L. Rested to get you in the mood. Rested chronicles the rise and transformation of the holiday throughout our country's history. In this book you may find the origin of some of your treasured family traditions or possibly new traditions you would like to start.

At any rate, we have an abundance of Christmas ideas on hand for your most exciting and memorable holiday season yet. Chatham School, in a tiny Cape Cod village, is an elite boys' academy dedicated to turning boisterous or insolent boys from good families into dutiful, moral young men. The school's new art teacher, Elizabeth Channing, who has come to live in a small cottage beside Black Pond, has embarked on an odyssey she cannot foresee.

Her background is very different from that of the townspeople. She has spent her life traveling the world with her father who taught her that life must be seized, the artist's passions must be served, and that morals are restraint to the spirit. But these lessons learned from her father will bring catastrophe, not only to Elizabeth, but to the Chatham School headmaster's young son, and to Chatham itself in the form of scandal, suicide, murder and the ensuing trial.

Seventy years later, the bodies are buried, Chatham School is no more, the headlines are dust, but only one living soul knows what really happened on Black Pond that day. The Chatham School Affair is written by Thomas H. Cook.

Also new on the fiction shelf is The Mummer's Curse by Gillian Roberts (actually novelist Judith Greber).

In the midst of the famous Mummer's Parade full of fancy brigades of clowns and string bands, a reveler suddenly hits the ground, shot dead. Schoolteacher Amanda Pepper is at first only a horrified bystander. But when the prime suspect, her friend and fellow teacher, falsely claims to have been with her at the time of the murder, Amanda can no longer remain on the sidelines.

Is the murder connected with the disappearance, the week before Christmas, of another Mummer, the heir of a meatpacking family? Does someone disapprove of the Mummers' feathers, sequins and string bands? And why is no one in the tight world Amanda is investigating willing to tell the truth?

Executive Orders by Tom Clancy takes up where Debt of Honor left off. President Jack Ryan has been thrust into the Presidency by catastrophic events which essentially wiped out the United States government, killing almost ever other elected federal official.

Now he must calm a stunned and anxious nation, conduct a swift investigation of the tragedy, and arrange a massive state funeral, while trying to rebuild a Cabinet and Congress.

In the midst of this, all eyes watch, some to take advantage of a nation brought to its knees, others to satisfy past grievances against the President himself. Soon they will move on their opportunities creating a crisis so great even Jack Ryan himself cannot imagine o you read this column every week? Do you read it for entertainment or information? What other columns do you read regularly? What types of columns have helped you the most in your business, career or personal life? How might I improve this column? Are you 50 years of age or older?

Asking your customers questions is a great way to learn more about them, and how you can better serve their needs. Most small-business owners-myself included - are guilty of not asking enough questions. At least we're guilty of not asking the right questions.

What are the right question? How can you ask them without offending anyone? Of whom do you ask these questions? Well, those are good questions.

Actually, the first question you should ask yourself is: What do we want to know? You see, the beginning of good research is to first determine what information is valuable to you in making good decisions in your business.

After you determine what you need to know, you can begin to zero-in on possible sources for your answers. Then you should consider ways of getting information without irritating anyone. Most people enjoy talking about themselves. Therefore, as long as you don't get too personal they will answer most of your questions.

Types of questions

There are three major types of questions you can use to gather information: Open-ended, closed-ended and thinking questions. Each type of question has specific advantages in trying to solicit answers.

You can use the closed-ended question to obtain specific information. Yes or no answers are common, as are specific details, "Were you born in Texas?" and "Where were you born?" are both closedended questions. The first is structured to generate a yes or no answer, the second to reveal a specific location.

You can use closed-ended questions to qualify prospects or potential customers. "Do you plan to buy a car in the next six months?" and "Do you own you own home?" or examples.

You can use the open-ended question to involve the person being questioned in the conversation. The purpose is to allow the questioner to get additional feedback, opinions and information.

If you want your customer to participate in the creation of ideas, defining problems or analyzing your service, open-ended questions will help. Listen carefully when you ask this type of question, because you may get valuable information to help you grow your business. The third type of question is the thinking question. Thinking questions require the person you're questioning to consider options, analyze different issues or exposer underlying motivations.

You should not ask thinking questions unless you have built a solid relationship and established trust with your customers. Thinking questions are usually more personal and intimate. You must earn the right to ask them.

Good starter que

At this point I'm going to assume that you have already built a good working relationship with your better customers. You have qualified them as being valuable to your future growth and profit, and you have earned their trust. Here are some good questions for building your business.

- What do you enjoy most about doing business with us?
- What could we do to serve you more effectively? If you could change anything about our business, what - would it be?
- If we were to extend or change our hours, when would you like us to be open?
- Are there products or services you wish you could buy from us that we currently don't carry?
- Is there anything you would like me to know about you, that might help us serve you better?

COMIC ARTISTS

(5 points for each correct answer)

1) Harold Foster began his career drawing the comic strip "Tarzan." But he is best remembered for his epic strip .. ?.., set in the days of King Arthur.

2) One of the greatest of all comic strip artists was Winsor McCay, whose masterwork is the fanciful strip (CHOOSE ONE: "Little Nemo In Slumberland," "Flash Gordon").

3) Cartoonist Garry Trudeau used his experiences at Yale to create a strip called "Bull Tales," which later became the basis for his popular political strip ..?...

4) One of the most talented new comic strip artists is Bill Watterson, whose comic strip ... - about a boy and his stuffed tiger - has become hugely popular.

5) Artist Robert Crumb was a ploneer of the so-called "underground comics" movement. His strip (CHOOSE ONE: "Fellx the Cat," "Fritz the Cat") used decidedly adult humor.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Fantastic! Your column about AirLifeLine has brought wonderful results; to say the least. We've received several hundred calls from health care agencies, patients, pilots and the general public. Many individuals just wanted to know more about us and thank us for helping others.

We are overwhelmed by the caring and compassion of people all over the country who read your column. Our simple goal has always been to have more people aware of AirLifeLine so they can reach out to us for assistance. Your column did more to further our goal than anything else we could have done.

In a matter of a few days, we scheduled 94 missions and sent out information to 241 people. We heard from 119 interested pilots to whom we have sent applications to join AirLifeLine. We have also been mailing information to many agencies and health care personnel who called as a result of your column. We referred callers we could not assist to other appropriate organizations. Hopefully, their call to AirLifeLine will still get them the information and help they need.

The donations have also been incredible. We've received over $75,000 so far. Americans really do care about their fellow citizens, and it's absolutely wonderful to see. We will respond to each and every donor, regardless of the amount. No donation is too small. All are given from the heart, and we appreciate every one.

"Thank you from the bottom of our hearts" doesn't seem adequate, but please believe we are sincerely grateful for what you have done for AirLifeLine and the people who use our services. -- Jon Wurtzburger, acting president, AirLifeLine

Dear Jon Wurtzburger: Thank you for letting me know. Here's a letter that illustrates how important your work is:

Dear Ann Landers: I am suffering from severe anorexia, which is life-threatening. I am 5 foot 8 and weigh 85 pounds. I am too weak to work and don't have medical insurance.

I was praying for God's help when the first of two miracles happened. I was accepted into an in-patient eating-disorder program in New York. All of my medical expenses will be paid because the program is funded to do research on various methods of treatment for people with eating disorders. I was thrilled but still had to find the money to pay for airline transportation from San Diego to New York. I am a faithful reader of your column, which produced the second miracle. You wrote about AirLife-Line. I called the number, and although AirLifeLine could not help me, the concerned woman gave me a list of airline programs that might provide assistance. I finally connected with the Delta Sky Wish Program. Through Delta, people donate their unused frequent-flyer miles so those in dire need can travel at no expense.

Within six days, Delta had arranged for my flight to New York with an open-ended return ticket, since my hospital stay could last anywhere from four to six months. By the time you receive this letter, I will be in New York.

I am so grateful for all the blessings that have come my way. Thanks, Ann, for another miracle produced by your column. -- Chula ista, Calif.

Dear Chula: I'm thrilled with the happy chain of events. And now, dear readers, once again the address is: AirLifeLine, 6133 Freeport Blvd., Sacramento, Calif. 95822. Or call 1-800-446-1231. If the people there cannot help you, they will refer you to someone who can.

As technology changes, our curriculum must change. The new TEKS, (Texas Essential Knowledge and Skills), are to go into effect in the fall of 1997 and will mandate a great deal of basic computer knowledge and competence in communications and use of internet. The cabling of our buildings is the first step in this direction and will probably be done this year. Students and teachers alike are excited about learning how to use the internet and its resources to expand our knowledge. We are looking forward to a great year! Thanks to Nelda Rogers for this update from the computer lit department!

Pink Team science students kicked off the school year by talking about lab safety and conducting experiments. They will be studying the scientific method and graphing during the next two weeks.

The eighth grade English classes are administering a TAAS simulation test to help identify the students' strengths and weaknesses. This will help direct teaching to those objectives that the test indicates the students' weaknesses to be.

1996-1997 cheerleaders for HJH are Anna Cano, Valerie Pesina, Crystal Reece, Essie Thomas, Riva Crox, Dorina Guerrero, Elizabeth Bastardo and Salina Hastings. Sponsors Beth Killebrew and Janna Rudd report that these young ladies are working hard on routines and will be an asset to the athletic program. We look forward to seeing the group "in action."

Although some of our seventh graders are still as confused as goats on astroturf, we have actually had a good two weeks of school. Many students, both seventh and eighth graders have been introduced to Noon Study Hall, but most have decided that one visit will be enough, thank you!

Today, really look around your world -- your family, your home, your pets, co-workers and strangers you meet. Smile at everyone because you can see them. To see takes time, Let's take the time!!

Program starts at library Tue.

First through third graders can have fun at the Deaf Smith County Library on Terrific Tuesdays.

This special after-school-program begins from 4 p.m.-5 p.m. Tuesday. Be there or be square!

To each and everyone who had a part in making our 65th Wedding Anniversary so great. There are no words to express the great joy of celebrating with our friends & family. We love you all.

COMFORTABLE INFORMAL LOOK Broad Vistas Add A Sense Of Spaciousness

O BY W.D. FARMER, F.A.I.B.D. Multiple roof lines on the front of this home are particularly impressive. A covered porch with steps provide a classic air of quality.

Big dramatic spaces greet you upon entrance to the home. The great room and dining area are open to one another in a room that is both expansive and impressive.

The adjacent U-shaped kitchen is designed with a snack bar counter for quick service of meals on the run. Adjacent and convenient are furnace and pantry closets.

A full size laundry room is centrally located to serve all areas of the home.

The master bed room and bath are directly to the rear of the home, with the compartmented master bath positioned so as to accommodate daytime use.

border the great room, while outside access and a coat are strategically closet placed.

The upstairs houses two Stairs to the second floor bed rooms and a central family bath. Breathtaking sloped ceilings add excitement to the rooms.

The exterior of the home is a combination of vertical siding, stone and cedar shakes. A covered stoop provides sheltered entrance on plan number 488, write style as the home.

The home contains 1,416 square feet of heated space and is available with either a crawl space or slab foundation.

Willie Tell (voice of B.J. Ward) and his father, legendary archer William Tell, put their courage to the test in the famous story about shooting an apple off the boy's head. It is among the tales animated in Adventures From the Book of Virtues, a new series airing Monday through Wednesday on PBS (check local listings).

By Suzanne Gill oTVData Features Syndicate

There's hardly an author who doesn't have a movie or TV deal. From R.L. Stine to-Larry McMurtry, more and more books hit the stores as if they were treatments for scripts, not literature to engage the imagination.

Lately, even that bookshelf wallflower Jane Austen seems to have sold out. Only the fact that she has been dead for 169 years appears to be preventing her from selling her next book directly to Hollywood.

So what about "the virtue guy," as William J. Bennett ironically calls himself? The former academic, former Bush administration "drug czar," former Reagan administration secretary of education and eternal political conservative is currently stumping for a cartoon series based on the best seller The Book of Virtues, which he conceived, collected and edited.

"I have been a critic of a lot of television," says the man who publicly challenged talk shows to clean up their acts. "Sometimes you curse the darkness; sometimes you light a candle. I hope this is the candle."

Bennett hopes Adventures From the Book of Virtues will improve viewers' "moral literacy." The first three hourlong programs air in prime time Mon-day through Wednesday, Sept. 2-4, on PBS (check local listings). Seven more become a better person, but it might half-hour episodes are set to debut in January

The Book organizes familiar stories and sound bites from literature accord- already. If it has, it's to reinforce it." ing to the moral precepts illustrated. Address stand on its own, Bennett directs the reader's appreciation by including it as an example of "Perseverance.

Each episode of Adventures includes "Work" to "Compassion." These are presented in the context of a simple plot involving two youngsters, Annie and Zack, and their wise friends: Plato, a buffalo storyteller; Socrates, a wily bobcat; Aristotle, a bespectacled prairie dog; and Aurora, a female hawk with a nurturing nature.

As with most animation since the advent of The Simpsons, there is a starstudded voice cast. Wednesday's "Courage" episode features Tim Curry, Mark Hamill and Ed Begley Jr.

With great stories to tell and fine actors reading them, Adventures producer Bruce D. Johnson, a Hanna-Barbera veteran, has cut corners on animation. Some scenes have too few frames per second, causing a jumpy look. Overall, the drawings are flat and lack detail.

Attention has been paid, Johnson says, to cultural portrayals. Yet the Princess of Crete in "Theseus and the Minotaur" is, incredibly, a blonde.

But since aesthetic considerations rarely deter young viewers, Bennett can still look forward to achieving his primary goal of inculcating moral values in tomorrow's adults. The father of two preteens, he believes good people. are a combination of nature and nur-

"If they are not taught, whatever is in the souls of human beings at birth will not come to the fore," Bennett says.

"You don't watch these stories and affect your sensibility a little bit. (The point is) to put another idea in a child's head if it hasn't been put there

Whether or not pragmatism is a vir-Rather than letting, say, the Gettysburg tue, Bennett has found a medium to achieve his end, and he's not afraid to embrace it.

> "I'm a book kind of guy. But (TV is) where the kids are. This is their medium, for a lot of them."

Koslow taking it one step at a time on Days

By Candiace Havens oTVData Features Syndicate

When a favorite actor leaves a role on daytime, it is difficult for someone else to step into those shoes. Fans often have trouble seeing a different face in the role.

But that wasn't the case for Lauren Koslow, who took over the role of Kate on Days of Our Lives.

The role had been vacated more than a year ago by Deborah Adair, who left to pursue other interests. The producers of the show searched to find the perfect actress to fill Adair's shoes.

Enter Koslow. Not only is the actress a dead ringer for Adair, but she has the talent to back up those gorgeous looks. Fans took to Koslow immediately.

"I love this character," says Koslow, "and I think that comes across to the fans. I've really been surprised by the mail I get from them. Everything has been very positive so far."

When Kate left the show her plane had crashed and she was stranded on a desert island. When she finally came home she discovered her archenemy, Vivian (Louise Sorel) had created havoc with Kate's family.

Kate immediately set to work trying to undo the damage Vivian had done. "Kate's a good person, and she isn't going to let anyone harm her family." says Koslow.

"Her two sons, Lucas (Brian Dattilo) and Austin (Austin Peck) have been fighting over the same woman for years. But Kate has always known that Austin and Carrie (Christie Clark) belong together, so she did everything in her power to make it so."

"It is a totally different working environment," says Koslow. "The people here are incredible. They are nice, and we just don't have the ego that they do on other shows. It's a great place to work." As to what Koslow might like to see happen with her character, the actress says she likes to be surprised.

"I don't want to know. So far the writers have done such a wonderful job. I look forward to seeing what they come up with. I just hope the fans enjoy it as much as I do."

SUNDAY

ARIES - March 21/April 20 A disappointment early in the week will make you realize that you don't have control over everything. Instead of letting it get you down, focus on what you can control. It's a much better way to deal with letdowns. A Scorpio brings surprising news on Wednesday. Change is on the way.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21 You will be called on for advice by a younger work associate. Be fair and truthful and you will help this person a great deal. In matters of the heart, a look to the past helps you make a decision for today. A Cancer friend does something to surprise you. Travel plans need some attention.

GEMINI – May 22/June 21 A change in a friend's behavior could provide clues into his/her past. Be diplomatic when giving advice — especially if you're giving it to some-one in a situation much different from your own. At work, all eyes will be on you and you may be approached with a new opportunity. Be open. CANCER - June 22/July 22 Be supportive of a loved one who is going through changes. Being a good listener is key. An unexpected wind-fall will make an upcoming trip more enjoyable. You'll have something special to look forward to. Keep business and pleasure very separate this week. Be aware of your diet.

LEO – July 23/August 23 If it has seemed tely that the world has been caving in on you, you'll be happy to find that you can make your way through the rubble. Things will come a little easier now and you'll be able to reap the rewards of hard work. Now you can relax. A Libra brings extra fun to the upcoming weekend.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22 Someone who looks to you as a mentor will ask for advice. Be sure to present both sides of the story. If you have a lot on your mind this week, you'd be better off taking some time to yourself rather than trying to tackle big projects. Good news for Virgos saving towards a big purchase

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23 Avoid taking sides in a family fight unless you like playing with fire. Even the most diplomatic Libran could get burned. An old friend may resurface when you least expect it, adding some spice to the week. An Aries will come to you for advice later in the week. Use common sense when making financial decisions.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22 A weekend getaway may not be all that you hoped for. Several-unex-pected delays could put a damper on spirits. Try to make the best of it. On Friday, you'll see a different side of someone you thought you knew. Unforeseen expenses make finances become an issue later in the week.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21 An opportunity for career advance-ment comes midweek. Think twice before jumping at something you know nothing about. Find out all the facts first. News of a breakup will come out of nowhere. Even if you're disappointed, you won't be surprised. Be honest in a love relationship.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20 What seemed like a hopeless situa-tion weeks ago, now takes a positive turn. You'll have something more to look forward to. If a new romance is what you're looking for, this could be a promising week. Keep an eye out for a charming Leo. Health con-cerns prove unwarranted.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18 Learn how to say "no," Aquarius. There's nothing wrong with being nice, but being too nice is as good as inviting others to take advantage of you. Take charge and you'll gain respect. Anticipation of an upcoming event may give you some anxiety. Seek meditation as a way to relax. PISCES - Feb 19/March 20 Don't let self doubt get the better of you. Success is near. You just have to hold on to your confidence in Mark DeCarlo hosts Big Deal, a new hourlong game show featuring musical and celebrity guests, and audience members vying for big prizes. The show premieres Sunday on Fox.

Fox hopes new game show will become a Big Deal

Frustrated by its failure to find a suitable Sunday night "transition show" after NFL football games, Fox tries a whole new approach starting Sunday, Sept. 1

It's Big Deal, a lavish game/variety show hosted by Mark DeCarlo (Studs). Loosely inspired by Let's Make a Deal, the hourlong, weekly audience participation show will be taped before an arena-sized audience, with spectators vying for prizes by participating in wacky games and stunts.

"We think of ourselves as being in the entertainment business," explains executive producer Scott Stone, "so ... outrageously funny material and music and variety and audience participation all combine to make this show much bigger than just a game show."

The games themselves include "Total Your Car." in which an unsuspecting audience member is asked to total his own car with a sledgehammer to win a new auto, and "Pick Your Pet," in which an owner is asked to pick his own dog from among four look-alikes

- all of whom have been shaved. Players are asked if they want to keep their prizes or trade them for a better or worse mystery prize. The games escalate up to the Let's Make a Deal-style final round.

Like Stone, DeCarlo says he thinks calling Big Deal a game show is underselling it.

"It's like a big variety game show. where the 'mojo' is, anything can happen." the new host says. "A big star could come out from behind the curtain. We could have a giant band. It's very much a free-for-all circus kind of atmosphere."

Big Deal is getting a six-episode test run, but could hang on to its primetime entry position for an unconventional reason: Fox is moving The X-Files to Sunday nights and wants a "collapsible" program to follow football to ensure the paranormal hit starts on time even if the game runs long.

"(Big Deal) can be joined in progress without really missing much, because the segments are ... (short) cliffhangers that are constantly going on through the show," Stone says.

TV PIPELINE

By Taylor Michaels OTVData Features Syndicate

Q: I recently heard that Beverly Hills, 90210 will go off the air after next season is over. True? -Kathy Cross, Mooresville, N.C.

A: Not necessarily, says star and producer Jason Priestley. "It seems that our audience has really stuck with the show and has been really loyal to us."

"We certainly have some milestones this year, which will be graduation. Some of us could probably go on to medical school or something," he adds, laughing. Q: Peri Gilpin's father was Jim, not Jack, O'Brien. He was adored in the Philadelphia area - an awesome disc jockey and news anchor who had great warmth and energy. He was tragically killed while he was sky diving and his parachute did not open. I knew you would want to know. -Three readers on the Internet.

A: Thanks to all of you for calling this to my attention.

Q: Is the guy who played Ricky Caruso on The Commish the same actor who plays/played Agent Krycek on The X-Files? They sure do look alike. - Anonymous in Ohio.

A: That's Nicholas Lea in both roles. Q: Can you please clarify the relationship, if any, between Garry and Penny Marshall? -June P., Port Charlotte, Fla.

A: They are brother and sister. Q: I say that the woman who played Mrs. Roper on Three's Company is the same actress who was in the "It's not nice to fool Mother Nature" commercial. Also, what was the name of the daughter on Phyllis? -C.V.Taylor, Sebastian, Fla.

A: You're so close. Dena Dietrich, who played Ethel, Helen Roper's (Audra Lindley) sister in the Three's Company spin-off The Ropers. played

Jason Priestley

Mother Nature. Lisa Gerritsen played Phyllis Lindstrom's daughter, Bess.

Q: Will Sisters be returning in the fall? If not, who can I write to support reconsideration? -Wendy Peck, Spring Valley, Minn.

A: As reported earlier, the cast agreed to close up shop after star Sela Ward (Teddy) announced she was leaving to spend more time with her family. Swoosie Kurtz (Alex) already has signed on to co-star in the new Fox sitcom Party Girl.

O: How are Susan Sarandon and Chris Sarandon related? -J.L., Portland, Ore.

A: They used to be married.

Q: Please settle a bet. There was a character on Saturday Night Live called Tyrone Green who would recite a poem called "Kill My Land-lord." My friend insists he was played by Garrett Morris. I say it was Eddie Murphy. Who is right? -Don Parlee via Internet.

A: You are (and you knew it!).

Now newly revised and better than ever!

Shearer Publishing is pleased to announce its new edition of THE ROADS OF TEXAS. We have added dozens of country roads, lanes, cowtrails, and put new names or numbers on hundreds of others, names like Good Luck Road (Guadalupe County), Seven Sisters Drive (Kendall County), and Lone Star Alley (Menard County). Altogether, the new edition identifies more than 25,000 state and county highways and byways, and the bright new cover features current scenic photographs from around the state. THE ROADS OF TEXAS is different from any other road atlas, with more detail, more historical travel information, more heart. It has proven especially popular with the curious traveler inclined toward a little adventure, who doesn't mind getting to Aunt Martha's house just a bit late.
