Getting a fill-up

Hereford volunteer firefighters Danny Leal, left, and Carlos Ruiz watch as Booster 1 is filled with water from the department's Tanker 1 during a break in fighting a CRP fire in far Southeast Deaf Smith County Thursday afternoon. The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department was called out at 3:21 p.m. to the fire, which was sparked by lightning in a field west of County Road BB south of FM 1259. Booster 1, which holds 200 gallons of water, responded first to the blaze. Five units, including one from the Dawn Volunteer Fire Department, extinguished the fire, which burned about 30-35 acres of grass. See related photo, Page 2.

Chemical residue found on TWA plane wreckage

By PAT MILTON
Associated Press Writer
SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (AP) - Traces of a chemical residue that may have come from a bomb or missile were found on wreckage fragments of TWA Flight 800, a source close to the investigation told The Associated Press.

The traces were "certainly consistent with a bomb or missile," according to the source, who spoke on the condition of anonymity Thursday night.

The source cautioned, "but whether or not a bomb or missile brought down that plane at this point we don't know for sure."

A senior law enforcement source in Washington told the AP that investigators still haven't ruled out other scenarios, including the possibility that a mechanical failure caused the explosion that downed the plane.

The sources were reacting to a report in today's New York Times that said investigators found critical chemical evidence that an explosive device detonated inside the passenger cabin. The newspaper said chemists at the FBI lab in Washington found traces of PETN, a component of some plastic explosives. The Times said the investigators were not yet ready to declare the TWA disaster a crime because they were not certain whether the explosive was a bomb or a missile.

The senior law enforcement official in Washington who spoke with the AP on condition of anonymity, however, said the Times account was "kind of exaggerated in saying we're down to two options, either a bomb or a missile."

"All three of the theories, including a mechanical accident, are still being considered. None have been ruled out. No great corner has been turned in the investigation," the official said.

Asked about the report this morning on the NBC "Today" show, National Transportation Safety Board Vice Chairman Robert Francis said "I don't know anything about PETN."

"I'm not going to comment on speculation" by unidentified sources, he said. "We're going to continue this investigation. ... We need more evidence. ... If it is a criminal act, there are people who are expert in this area." He also reiterated that it is not realistic to expect recovery of all the missing bodies. Another body was found Thursday, bringing the total to 209.

The TWA Boeing 747 blew up 11-1/2 minutes after takeoff from John F. Kennedy International Airport to Paris on July 17, killing all 230 people aboard. If it is declared a crime it would be the most deadly criminal act in U.S. history, surpassing the April 1995 bombing of the federal building in Oklahoma City that killed 168.

The source in New York told the AP that the chemical was found two weeks ago. He could not confirm it was PETN. The residue was found on a seat from rows 17 to 28, which "could have rubbed against some nitrate or other explosive chemical on the deck of one of the ships or even a firearm or a bag that was on one of the ships," he said.

The seat had been on the right side of the passenger cabin, the New York Post reported today. A forensics computer was used.

Drought eased by rain, but ag losses still high

By MICHAEL HOLMES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - Scattered rains have helped to slightly ease damage projected from the drought. But Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry says Texas farmers and ranchers still will suffer more than $2 billion in losses this year.

Perry described that hit as a "major blow" to the state's second-largest industry. "Scattered rain across the state has helped a little, as this latest figure indicates, but many of our producers will still face major income losses," he said Thursday.

In late May, Texas agricultural officials had projected the drought's agricultural damage at $2.4 billion and the statewide total at about $6.5 billion.

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service now estimates $2.1 billion in agricultural losses and an overall, statewide economic loss of $5 billion, Perry said.

"Summer rains have given us a reprieve but certainly not a pardon," he said of the improvement.

Half of the state's 254 counties have received disaster declarations because of the prolonged drought. Texas Department of Agriculture spokesman Gene Acuna said the agency is working with more than 20 additional counties that still seek disaster declarations.

"We've continued to urge the USDA to expedite these things," Acuna said. "It's still taking an average of about 80 days from the time they get the paperwork until we get word."

Agricultural officials said the revised economic figures indicate some general improvement in projected crop losses.

However, the figures also show the serious economic hardships being suffered by livestock producers who continue to face poor pasture conditions and higher feed costs.

Added feed costs for beef producers have increased 46 percent from earlier projections, to a total of $546 million.

The agriculture department has been operating a number of assistance programs, including telephone hotlines for buying hay and selling cattle.

Acuna said the TDA continues to receive about 60 calls a day to its hay hotline, with half the callers looking for hay to buy and half with hay to sell.

He noted that many farmers are holding off on making fall planting decisions. "They're wondering are we going to get some rain?" he said.

Declaration acceptance of FDA determination

President designates tobacco as addictive

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Clinton declared nicotine an addictive drug and imposed strict limits on tobacco use by minors, the White House said today, in a dramatic election-year assault on the tobacco industry.

The action, which Clinton planned to announce this afternoon, hands the president a potentially potent political weapon against Republican rival Bob Dole, who has expressed reservation about regulating tobacco.

"With this action, the president in essence has accepted the FDA's determination that cigarettes and smokeless tobacco are delivery devices for the drug nicotine," press secretary Mike McCurry said.

The Food and Drug Administration regulations closely resemble Clinton's 1995 proposal to regulate tobacco advertising, sales and access aimed at minors, McCurry said. Clinton gave his final blessing Thursday, he said.

In its proposed regulations, the FDA had identified nicotine as an addictive drug, thus giving the agency the authority to control its sale and distribution. Clinton's action endorsed the proposed regulations, including the drug determination for nicotine.

Clinton's proposals would: -Require the tobacco industry to fund a $150 million education campaign to stop kids from smoking, with a major emphasis on television public service spots. Aides did not say whether the provision was amended by the FDA.

-Forbid brand-name sponsorship of sporting events and brand-name advertising on products like hats and T-shirts that are not related to tobacco use.

Clinton's initial proposal also included a ban on all cigarette vending machines and self-serve displays, allowing cigarettes to be sold only by clerks over the counter.

A senior White House official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the vending machine ban has been amended to bar vending machines only from places where minors have access. For example, bars would be able to keep the vending machines; grocery stores would not.

And his proposal to forbid tobacco sales by mail was dropped, according to the official. The FDA determined teens were not ordering their cigarettes through the Postal Service.

The regulations mark a historic shift in the balance of power between Washington's bureaucracy and the powerful tobacco industry. It is bound to hurt Clinton politically in Southern tobacco-producing states, though internal polls show enormous appeal elsewhere.

The development, leaked to the media in an orchestrated fashion by the White House earlier this week, overshadowed Dole's withering attacks on Clinton for skyrocketing use of drugs by teens.

The White House expects stiff courtroom challenges from tobacco interests, McCurry said. Some 14 states are suing tobacco companies demanding the industry repay billions of dollars spent on smoking-related illnesses.

Dole, stung by his recent questioning of whether nicotine is addictive, wouldn't go near the issue while campaigning Thursday. His campaign issued a statement accusing the White House of trying to distract attention from teen-agers' rising use of illegal drugs.

Dole's wife, Elizabeth, was questioned by reporters in North Carolina about the FDA rules and said, "I can only look at it as an election-year gimmick. ... Bob Dole has always said children should not smoke."

McCurry said the rule takes effect immediately, though the specific crackdowns take effect at different times.

The action means: -No more three-dimensional Joe Camel ads offering free concert tickets in magazines like Rolling Stone that are read by thousands of teen-agers. The only cigarette ads that could appear in such magazines would be black-and-white, text-only.

-No more cigarette billboards within 1,000 feet of schools - or pictures on any billboards, like the Marlboro Man who rides beside the nation's interstate.

Federal law says the FDA must oversee any drug "intended to affect the structure or function" of the body.

Police on Patrol

By WILLIAM SEELEY
Staff Writer

Effective police work is more than making arrests. It's getting out and letting the public know you are there and that you care, says Officer Manuel Ramirez.

It is an approach to law enforcement that Ramirez, boss, Hereford Police Chief David Wagner, says he believes in strongly.

"What we'll do is, we'll walk the hospital, the schools, the parks," Wagner said.

"We can't always do that on every shift," Wagner said of the program he reintroduced to Hereford three years ago. However, the effort gives police and residents a chance to meet and talk, Wagner said. It removes the intimidation factor, he said.

Police Lt. Bennie Barrick, who briefs officers daily, said the foot patrols also allow the police department to keep in touch with the needs of the Hereford Police Patrolmen R.V. Tackitt and Manuel Ramirez walk Main Street near Third Street Thursday. They normally make rounds in squad cars, but walk a beat several times weekly as part of Hereford's Community Police Detail.

community it serves. "Main Street," Barrick said, "does not traditionally get a lot of crime. But through the community policing detail, he said, his department learned, among other things, that there are some problems with parking downtown.

Big-ticket durable goods orders show jump of 1.6 percent in July

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Orders to U.S. factories for big-ticket durable goods rose 1.6 percent in July, the second advance in three months. Demand increased for all major categories except transportation, which was unchanged.

The Commerce Department said today orders totaled a seasonally adjusted $172.7 billion, up from $170.0 billion in June.

Many analysts had expected a 0.5 percent gain after a 0.2 percent drop a month earlier. Orders had shot up 4.2 percent in May.

Orders are considered a key gauge of the nation's manufacturing sector, which had been in a sluggish state for most of the year. Other than July and May, only March posted a gain in 1996, a 1.5 percent increase.

Continued gains could mean increased production and more jobs. Many analysts believe the overall economy will slow during the second half of the year from a torrid second quarter, when it grew at a 4.2 percent annual rate.

Although they did not act earlier this week, Federal Reserve policy makers are committed to raising interest rates to keep inflation at bay if the economy continues to grow rapidly. Their next meeting is Sept. 24.

Although there was an increase in orders for motor vehicles, it was offset by a large decline in shipbuilding and tanks. Transportation orders have fallen in three of the last four months.

Excluding the transportation category, orders jumped 2.1 percent, the fourth consecutive advance.

Orders for electronic and other electrical equipment posted the largest gain, up 4.7 percent after a strong 3.9 percent advance in June. The increase was led by communications equipment.

Orders for industrial machinery and equipment and for primary metals both rose 2.1 percent. And orders for nonmilitary capital goods excluding aircraft jumped 3.6 percent, the second straight gain.

These orders often are a barometer of business plans to expand and modernize and have been a major source of economic strength during the current expansion.

Reflecting the weakness in shipbuilding and tanks, orders for military equipment plunged 36.5 percent. This volatile category posted a 26.4 percent increase in June.

The backlog of unfilled orders increased 1 percent after advancing 0.7 percent in June. It was the 10th increase in the last 11 months.

A growing backlog suggests businesses may have to increase production facilities and manpower to meet demand.

Shipments also advanced, a 0.7 percent gain that erased a 0.4 percent drop in June. It was the third increase in the last four months.

Handgun permits given to more than 90,000 people

By JUAN B. ELIZONDO Jr.
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) - More than 90,000 Texans are licensed to carry concealed handguns, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The DPS says it issued 91,501 concealed-carry licenses as of Wednesday. Another 617 people were denied licenses.

The department on Thursday released its monthly report covering 85,818 licenses issued as of Aug. 1.

The report showed:
- 80,807, or just more than 94 percent of those permits went to white men and women. That could include Hispanics, who are not counted separately.

- White men, including some Hispanics, held 65,607, or 76.5 percent, of the permits.

- Black men and women had 2,566, or nearly 3 percent.

- Black men held 2,239, or 2.6 percent.

Texas lawmakers approved the concealed-carry law last year. Permits began going out last fall and permit holders were allowed to carry concealed weapons starting Jan. 1.

State officials had estimated 75,000 permits would be issued in the first fiscal year, which ends Aug. 31. That estimate was passed last month. The department said 273,539 people had requested applications and 99,652 had returned completed forms so far.

"We're glad that people are taking advantage of the opportunity," said Mark Seale, a spokesman for Sen. Jerry Patterson, R-Pasadena. Patterson sponsored the law.

"We think that the numbers will continue once people realize they can achieve their safety legally. The blood in the street that opponents predicted hasn't happened and it won't happen."

The DPS report also shows age descriptions of the 85,818 permit holders and the ZIP codes in which they live. Information about the other permit holders will be released next month.

By age:
- Two 92-year-old Texans were the oldest licensed to carry concealed weapons. The law does not allow the DPS to report individuals' names or addresses.

- The youngest people allowed to carry concealed handguns are 21. There were 142 of them.

- The median age of permit holders was 50. There were 2,387 50-year-olds licensed.

By postal ZIP code, nine areas were home to more than 300 permit holders each, including seven in the Dallas-Fort Worth areas.

The big boys

All three of the trucks were converted to fire vehicles by volunteers and are specifically designed for fighting grass and brush fires. The three vehicles are, from left, Dawn VFD's Unit 426, "The Bad Boys," capacity 1,400 gallons; Hereford's Booster 5, named "Fire Walker" in Navajo, 1,200 gallons; and Hereford's Booster 4, "Sasquatch," 1,000 gallons.

Two military planes crash in one day Pilots missing after incidents in Maryland

By THERESA HUMPHREY
Associated Press Writer
OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) - Rescue crews used amphibious vehicles to search a remote marsh on Maryland's Eastern Shore to look for one of two military pilots whose planes crashed within hours of each other.

An Air National Guard A-10 warplane went down about 1:25 p.m. Thursday, submerging in the marshes between Fishing Bay and the Wicomico River, said Maj. Laura Feldman, an Air Force spokeswoman.

"We had to use all-terrain vehicles to get the military people to the scene," said Wylie Abbott, assistant fire chief of the Elliott Fire Department. "It's all marshy bog out there."

The search for the unidentified pilot of the A-10 warplane stretched into Thursday night and was to resume this morning.

The search for the second pilot, Patrick Gregoire of Portland, Ore., was abandoned Thursday night after the Coast Guard searched 1,100 square miles of the Atlantic Ocean near Ocean City, only to find the pilot's life vest, personal effects and a four-foot piece of wing.

"The signs of things we've found would indicate there's a good chance he didn't make it," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Harry Craft.

The single-seat Marine Corps F/A-18 Hornet crashed Thursday just after 9:30 a.m. about 40 miles east of Ocean City while on a training mission, the Coast Guard said.

The attack jet was based at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland as part of a Marine Corps Reserve unit, said Gunnery Sgt. Don Hooper, a Marine Corps spokesman. Gregoire was living in Springfield, Va. His age wasn't available.

Frank Crispin, a 49-year-old insurance agent Derry, Pa., was on a charter boat when he heard a "boom" and saw "a big plume of water."

"It looked like a cloud coming out of the water. I said, 'I think a bomb went off over there,'" he said.

Thursday's crashes followed an announcement that about a quarter of the Air Force's planes would halt routine training flights and exercises today to go over safety. They also came in the wake of four military crashes in the last month, including the C-130 cargo plane that crashed Saturday in Wyoming.

There have been no confirmed deaths, but there were reports of two fishermen missing in the Yucatan state of Quintana Roo. Officials said the storm destroyed 16 houses and damaged 26 others.

Drought-breaker or not, Dolly's rain was a welcome sight for farmers in Texas' Rio Grande valley.

"It's a good start," said Wayne Labar, a cotton and grain producer. "It's going to be beneficial for the whole valley."

Dolly takes aim at Mexico once more

By NICK ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) - Heavy rain and high winds tossed boats in harbors up and down the Gulf Coast today as Hurricane Dolly swirled in for a second strike on Mexico.

The storm began to be felt in the oil and fishing port of Tampico late Thursday and continued into this morning, causing brief and sporadic power outages in some neighborhoods. High gusts bent palm trees.

Dolly's sustained wind of 80 mph was expected to strengthen as the hurricane approached landfall near Tampico, 210 miles northeast of Mexico City, according to the U.S. National Hurricane Center.

At 8 a.m. EDT, the storm was 40 miles southeast of Tampico.

Hurricane warnings were posted along Mexico's northeastern coast from La Pesca, 155 miles from the Texas border, south to Veracruz. The storm was not expected to reach as far north as Texas.

Up to a foot of rain was expected along coastal areas in the Mexican states of Veracruz and Tamaulipas, where flash flooding and mudslides were possible.

On Thursday, authorities evacuated 6,500 people in low-lying areas of Tampico as a precaution, a Red Cross official said. The port, boxed in by the Gulf to the east and lagoons to the west, is prone to flooding.

Tampico's port was one of 37 along the Gulf closed because of high wind and waves. More than 450,000 people live in Tampico and neighboring Ciudad Madero.

Dolly briefly reached hurricane force of 74 mph when it first hit Mexico on Tuesday. Its journey across the Yucatan Peninsula knocked the wind back to about 35 mph a day later.

It regained strength in the Gulf for a second strike at Mexico - Hurricanes tend to disintegrate when they reach land and strengthen when over warm water.

There have been no confirmed deaths, but there were reports of two fishermen missing in the Yucatan state of Quintana Roo. Officials said the storm destroyed 16 houses and damaged 26 others.

Drought-breaker or not, Dolly's rain was a welcome sight for farmers in Texas' Rio Grande valley.

"It's a good start," said Wayne Labar, a cotton and grain producer. "It's going to be beneficial for the whole valley."

Youth participated in a workshop in late July that taught the principles of muffin making and practiced making muffins.

Erin Auckerman will represent Deaf Smith County at the 1996 Better Bake Show held in conjunction with the Tri State Fair. Sponsors of the bake show are the Texas Wheat Producers Association and Arrowhead Mills, Inc. of Hereford.

Following are the winning recipes.

Snackin' Good Muffins
1 cup enriched white flour
1/2 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup grated carrots
1/4 cup chopped pecans
1 egg
1/2 cup crushed undrained, unsweetened pineapple
1/3 cup oil

1 teaspoon vanilla
Preheat oven to 375 degrees.
Sift white flour, whole wheat flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together in medium size bowl. Stir into the dry ingredients the grated carrots and chopped pecans until flour coats the carrots and pecans well.

In small bowl, beat the egg until frothy. Add the pineapple, oil and vanilla and stir together well.

Make a well in the dry ingredients and add the liquid ingredients all at once. Stir lightly with a fork just until the dry ingredients are moistened. The batter will be lumpy.

Fill greased muffin cups 1/2 to 2/3 full.

Bake 20 to 25 minutes at 375 degrees.

Note: To lower fat content, 2 stiffly beaten egg whites may be used in place of the egg (or egg substitute may be used); pecans may be omitted.

To lower sodium content, use low-sodium baking powder and cut salt to 1/4 teaspoon.

Special Peach Muffins
1-1/4 cups all purpose flour
3/4 cup whole wheat flour
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
dash of ground mace

1 egg, beaten
1/3 cup vegetable oil
1/3 cup milk
1-8 ounce carton peach yogurt
1/2 cup finely chopped dried peaches

2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons all purpose flour
2 tablespoons chopped pecans
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, softened

Combine first nine ingredients in a large bowl; make a well in center of mixture. Combine egg, oil, milk yogurt and dried peaches, add to dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Spoon into greased muffin pans, filling 2/3 full.

Combine 2 tablespoons flour, brown sugar, pecans, and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon in a small mixing bowl. Cut butter into flour mixture with a pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse meal; sprinkle one heaping teaspoon over each muffin. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes or until golden. Serve warm of at room temperature. Yield: 1-1/2 dozen.

Ann Landers

Dear Readers: I am on vacation, but I have left behind some of my favorite columns that you may have missed the first time around. I hope you enjoy them. -- Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Here are some excellent commandments for in-laws. And, please, Ann, feel free to add to this list.

As one who has been through the mill, I can tell you there are many young married couples who need all the help they can get. Bylaws for In-Laws

1. Don't feel that you are entitled to know everything about your married children's lives (who they entertain, what they do every night, how much money they make, what their friends are up to, etc.).

2. Don't complain that visits with your children and grandchildren are too infrequent. If your son takes you to lunch, don't tell him it should be every month and then call him to make sure that it is. Be content with whatever time he can give you.

3. Don't try to force your married children to spend time with their married siblings. We are old enough to arrange our time together. (My mother-in-law is constantly suggesting that we should entertain my brother and his wife every week. We love them, but neither of us has the time, money or desire to do so.)

4. Don't correct your grandchildren constantly, nor should you expect perfection. Enjoy them. Rearing them is not your job.

5. Don't ask to be included when your married children tell you of some special plans. If they want to include you, they will.

6. Don't criticize your child in front of his or her spouse and don't criticize the spouse. Neither one appreciates this.

7. Don't phone every day unless you are asked to do so.

8. Don't drop in unexpectedly -- ever.

9. Do develop your own friendships and your own hobbies. Your children should not be made to feel responsible for entertaining you.

10. Do compliment your child's spouse and say thank you when thanks are due instead of behaving as if a thoughtful gesture took little time and no effort.

Please print this. You could save a lot of marriages. -- Love 'Em, but

They're Driving Me Crazy in Kansas
Dear Crazy in Kansas: Great list. I can think of nothing to add. I do feel, however, that these bylaws should not be targeted exclusively for in-laws. Parents could profit from following them as well.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter, who is a junior in college, is interested in "Sid," a young graduate student. Last week, Sid was a guest in our house. He shared a bedroom with our 13-year-old son.

This morning after our daughter and Sid left for school, our son told us he'd had an opportunity to learn a few things. Sid's suitcase had someone else's initials on it. His driver's license indicated that he is 23, not 24. He owes someone $1,200, according to a note in his wallet. There was a mushy letter in his suitcase from a girl who lives in Buffalo. Also, he carries a picture in his wallet of two girls -- our daughter and another girl. What do you make of this? -- Concerned Parents

Dear Parents: You have a right to be deeply concerned -- about that little punk you're raising. Teach the kid to mind his own business.

Emerson to coach CC; Baca takes over track

Brockman returns to coach at HHS

By JAY PEDEEN
Sports Editor

Martha Emerson, a coach in Hereford for 23 years, will no longer serve as girls' track coach at Hereford High School.

Emerson will remain as head coach of the cross country team, but Ray Baca will take over the girls' track team. Baca starting coaching in Hereford last year as an assistant in both cross country and girls' track.

"Because that's what's best for our program," Athletic Director Brenda Reeh said when asked why the change was made. "It was essentially Martha's decision to take cross country. She had an opportunity to leave her duties in one area and she took advantage of that opportunity."

Emerson declined to comment. Emerson came to Hereford in 1973 as a junior high coach. She became head coach of the girls' cross country team in 1977, then added boys' cross country and girls' track in 1979.

She has taken four cross country teams to the state meet, including last season's girls' team, which finished 10th. In girls' track, Emerson coached Teresa Castillo to a state championship in the 3,200-meter run in 1991.

Baca is one of three new head coaches of Hereford High School teams. Craig Yenzler will lead the football team this fall after replacing Danny Haney, and Joe Cabezuca takes over for Ron Young in boys' track.

Carmen Brockman, a star basketball player at HHS in the late 1980s, has returned to take the job of assistant coach for the girls' program.

"I'm really excited about coming back," Brockman said. "I'm excited about the program - especially knowing some of the girls and knowing coach (Eddie) Fortenberry."

Brockman replaces Loy Triana, who took the head coaching job of the Sunray girls' program. Triana was the Lady Whitefaces' emergency interim head coach in 1992-93, then served as assistant under Fortenberry for three years.

Brockman graduated from HHS in 1989 after the basketball career in which she scored more than 1,000 points for the Lady Whitefaces.

She went on to play basketball for three years at the University of Texas at San Antonio. She moved on and continued her education at Texas Tech, earning a degree in Exercise and Sports Science this summer.

Brockman has kept in touch with the Hereford program by helping with summer camps and by coaching an AAU team in 1993 which included Herd senior guard Kari Barrett. She's also worked at basketball camps at Tech, West Texas A&M and UTSA.

"Her experience in basketball - both at the college level and in high school - is going to help us," Fortenberry said. "I think it's very important that we hired someone the kids knew already. The transition's going to be more comfortable."

Brockman is one of four coaches who are new to the Hereford program this year. The others are:

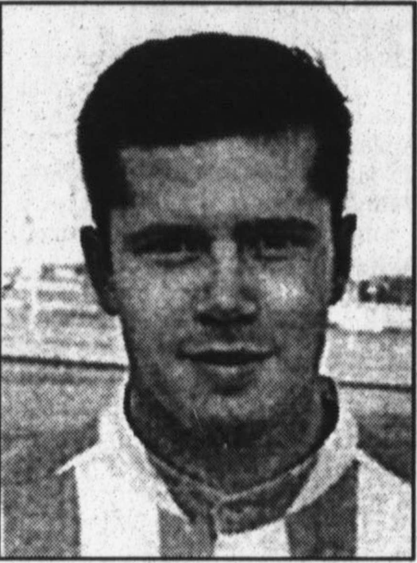

--Travis Schulte, a tennis assistant. He graduated from Nazareth High School in 1992 and from West Texas A&M on Aug. 15.

--Clint Coley, a freshman football and basketball coach. He worked at Westover Park - the Randall High School feeder - last year as a seventh-grade football and basketball coach, and he coached the Randall junior varsity baseball team. He is a 1991 graduate of Childress High and a 1995 grad of WTAMU.

--Jim Conger, coach of the football team's offensive line. The Arlington Sam Houston product played football at Eastern New Mexico University, graduating in 1985. After college, he coached offensive lines for one year at Floydada, for five years at West Texas State University, and for five years at Texarkana's Liberty-Eylau High School.

Cowboys seek tight end

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Barry Switzer has put out an all-points bulletin for a healthy tight end. It has become a jinxed position for the Super Bowl champions.

It all started down Mexico way in a preseason game at Monterrey when Kendall Watkins, a tremendous blocker, caught a short pass and turned upfield. The second year player out of Mississippi State suffered a season-ending knee injury when he was tackled by several Kansas City Chiefs.

"Kendall did a tremendous job as a blocker his rookie season," said Switzer. "He helped Emmitt Smith get some tough yards."

So much for a blocker. How about one of the league's best receivers, Jay Novacek?

Not only has Novacek failed to play in the preseason, but there are deep concerns he may miss the first two or three games of the regular season - or possibly the entire season

- because of a degenerative back condition.

Switzer said "we're resigned to not having Jay for the opener and there's no guarantee he can play this year."

The 33-year-old Novacek, who has made the Pro Bowl five times, caught 62 passes for a career-high 705 yards last year. He's the Cowboys' career leader in receptions by a tight end with 339.

Novacek is one of Troy Aikman's favorite targets, particularly on third down.

Enter Eric Bjornson, a well-regarded prospect out of Washington who was hampered by injuries last year.

Bjornson caught Aikman's eye last year.

"He runs great routes and has great hands," Aikman said.

Only one problem. Bjornson has been hampered by hamstring problems. He hasn't played in a preseason game in three weeks.

"It's very frustrating," Bjornson said. "Right now I'm hoping to be ready for the opener (Sept. 2 in Chicago). I think I will be."

Bjornson won't play Saturday in Orlando, Fla., when the Cowboys meet the Houston Oilers in the exhibition season finale.

The Cowboys, who have about $275,000 remaining under the salary cap - the NFL minimum salary for a veteran - have been making inquiries about free agent Johnny Mitchell, a former New York Jet who signed with Miami as a free agent, then quit the Miami Dolphins training camp after one practice.

Dallas has only one healthy tight end on the roster, Derek Ware, a five-year NFL veteran known more for his blocking than his catching.

The Cowboys could put fullback Daryl Johnston at tight end in a pinch. He has played that position in several preseason games. But his replacement at fullback, Herschel Walker, can't block like Johnston, a Pro Bowl fullback.

"It's a tough situation," Switzer said. "Luckily we still have time to work through the problem."

Quarterbacks will try to prove worth

By The Associated Press

Jim Miller replaced Neil O'Donnell, who replaced Boomer Esiason.

All three quarterbacks have something to prove tonight in their final exhibition games.

Earlier this week, Pittsburgh Steelers coach Bill Cowher announced that Miller, a three-year pro who has never started an NFL game, had won the starting job over Kordell Stewart and Mike Tomczak.

"I don't know if there was any real clean-cut winner," Cowher said. "I don't think it serves any purpose to be specific because really it was a decision where all three had justification to say that they could have been the guy."

Miller has tonight's game against the Eagles in Philadelphia to prepare for the Steelers' season opener Sept. 1 at Jacksonville.

O'Donnell, Miller's predecessor in Pittsburgh, signed with the Jets in the offseason and has put up good numbers in the first three exhibition games. He has completed 23 of 31 passes for 201 yards, but he has yet to lead New York to a touchdown.

The Jets play at Oakland against the Raiders.

Esiason, whose departure from New York led to O'Donnell's arrival, has struggled in Arizona. He has yet to lead the Cardinals into the end zone, and they are averaging less than nine points in three exhibition games.

Arizona visits the Atlanta Falcons.

"Boomer is a guy that's been very productive in the league," coach Vince Tobin said. "He's won games, he's been to the Super Bowl. I think the demeanor that he brings to the huddle is very good for a football team in the position we're in, that

BYU should provide good test for Aggies

By BOB MIMS
AP Sports Writer

PROVO, Utah (AP) - R.C. Slocum says Saturday's Pigskin Classic against Brigham Young might be the toughest test yet for his 7-0 record in openers as coach of 13th-ranked Texas A&M.

"There is a risk, especially going to play at our opponent's home stadium. BYU is a quality team and we have our work cut out for us," Slocum said Thursday.

The Aggies, 9-3 last year, including an Alamo Bowl victory over Michigan, are favored by a touchdown over the unranked Cougars. Still, Slocum rates the contest as a tossup.

"Playing in Provo will be a heck of a challenge," he said. "I've said time and time again, Texas A&M will play anybody, anytime, anywhere."

LaVell Edwards, marking his 25th year as the Cougars' head coach, insists he doesn't mind the early opener - the first game of the 1996 college football season - nor facing such a tough opponent.

"Playing these kinds of teams has been the source of some of our greatest victories," he said, recalling a 21-14 win over Notre Dame two years ago and 1990's 28-21 upset of Miami. "But then again, they've been the source of some poundings, too."

Among those setbacks were a 44-28 defeat by Florida State in BYU's first Pigskin Classic five years ago, and a 65-14 blowout in 1990's Holiday Bowl - by the Aggies.

Edwards counts on quarterback Steve Sarkisian, ranked third in NCAA total offense (297.97 yards per game) in 1995, to prove the oddsmakers wrong.

The senior passer from Torrance, Calif., respects, but is not awed by the Aggies. Sarkisian sees them as only the first hurdle to reviving a BYU program that missed bowl play for the first time in 18 years after finishing 7-4 last season.

"Granted, they are a very good football team, but they can't just come up here and step on the field and expect to beat us," he said. "It's going to be a battle. We're not overmatched by any stretch of the imagination."

"This is our year," Sarkisian declared. "I think it will show on Saturday."

His targets are all veterans, wide receivers K.O. Kealaluhi and Kaipo McGuire and tight end Itula Mili. Kealaluhi pulled down 28 passes for 483 yards and three TDs last year, while McGuire caught 24 for 359 yards and two TDs.

James Dye, whose 21.9-yard punt return average led the nation in 1995, also will get a shot at tight end. That excites Edwards.

As a punt returner, Dye "is the best in the country, perhaps the best I've seen," Edwards boasted. "He is exciting when he gets his hands on the ball. He can really make things happen."

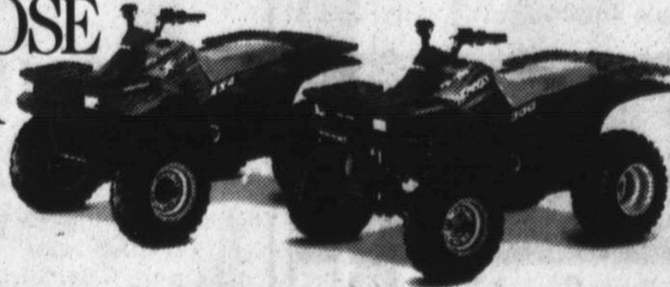

An experienced secondary and linebacker corps also returns for BYU, but the Cougars have only one defensive and two offensive starting linemen back.

Edwards also lacks seasoned running backs, which could mean added pressure on a BYU passing attack, ranked fifth nationally last year. Only senior fullback Mark Atuaia has any appreciable backfield time, rushing for 374 yards and five touchdowns in 1995.

Atuaia will be pitted against an Aggies defense that ranked in the top 10 nationally seven times in the past decade. Nine starters return this year.

Clemens leads Red Sox into wildcard race

By BEN WALKER
AP Baseball Writer

A couple of days before the All-Star break, most of the talk around the Boston Red Sox concerned which contending team might trade for Roger Clemens.

After all, the Red Sox were 14 games under .500, showing no signs of making a move and figured to get a lot of offers for their ace.

Now, it's late August and Clemens is pitching for a contender. The team? Those very same Red Sox.

Clemens came within one strike of another shutout, and the surging Red Sox beat Oakland 2-1 Thursday night, their 17th win in 22 games. Troy O'Leary hit a solo home run off the right-field foul pole with one out in the ninth inning at Fenway Park for the victory.

Boston won its fourth in a row and closed within 4 1/2 games of Chicago in the AL wild-card race. At 64-64, the Red Sox reached the .500 mark for the first time this season, and postseason play is now definitely a possibility.

"We're happy to be where we're at now," Clemens said. "But it's a constant grind. Now, it's going to be tough to creep above. We'll find out what kind of guys we have here."

In other AL games, Toronto edged Chicago 1-0, California defeated New York 12-3, Seattle beat Baltimore 10-3, Texas topped Minnesota 11-2 and Detroit downed Kansas City 10-3.

Clemens (7-11) extended his scoreless streak to 27 1-3 innings before the A's scored in the ninth. Pinch-hitter Matt Stairs tripled with two outs, and pinch-hitter Terry Steinbach followed with a single.

Clemens, who struck out 11, came close to his 38th career shutout, which would've tied Cy Young for the team record. Instead, he's won three straight starts for the first time this year.

Mark Acre (0-1) relieved Ariel Prieto to start the ninth. After retiring the first batter, O'Leary homered off the foul pole, only 302 feet away.

"Any other park other than Fenway and that ball stays in and is caught for an out," Acre said.

Rangers 11, Twins 2

Texas, which leads the majors in hitting, didn't need to swing the bat too much at the Metrodome. Instead, the Rangers won by drawing a season-high 11 walks from Minnesota pitchers.

Ivan Rodriguez hit his 43rd double, setting a major league record for most doubles by a catcher. He broke the mark shared by Mickey Cochran, Terry Kennedy and Brian Harper.

Ken Hill (14-7) pitched his sixth complete game of the season. Paul Molitor of the Twins celebrated his 40th birthday by getting his 2,965th career hit.

Mariners 10, Orioles 3

Jamie Moyer, released by

Baltimore after the 1995 season, improved to 3-0 against the Orioles this season with a win at Camden Yards.

Moyer is 3-1 since Seattle got him from Boston on July 30. He took a two-hit shutout into the ninth inning, and left after home runs by Mike Devereaux and Brady Anderson, his 38th.

Paul Sorrento hit his third grand slam of the year, highlighting a seven-run fifth inning. The Mariners lead the majors with nine slams.

Orioles manager Davey Johnson was hospitalized with an irregular heartbeat.

Angels 12, Yankees 3

Kenny Rogers became the latest Yankees pitcher to get roughed up in the first inning, and wound up matching a career-high by allowing 10 runs.

For the sixth straight game in its homestand, New York trailed by at least two runs before its first batter came to the plate. The Yankees have been outscored 21-1 in those opening innings.

Gary DiSarcine, 0-for-27 lifetime against Rogers, hit a two-run double during California's five-run first inning.

Blue Jays 1, White Sox 0

Toronto won its fifth in a row, tying its longest streak of the season, in a game stopped in the seventh inning because of rain.

The Blue Jays were batting when the game at Chicago was halted, and it was called after a wait of 1 hour, 59 minutes.

Erik Hanson (11-15) pitched a three-hitter. Jacob Brumfield hit a sacrifice fly in the sixth off Alex Fernandez (12-8).

Tigers 10, Royals 3

Justin Thompson, Detroit's No. 1 pick in the 1991 draft, earned his first major league victory. The Tigers ended their seven-game road losing streak.

Thompson (1-2), who missed the 1994 season because of shoulder problems and was sidelined for nearly 11 weeks this year because of shoulder trouble, pitched five innings.

Kansas City lost its fifth in a row.

Reds' Larkin beats Braves in 13th

By MIKE FLAM
Associated Press Writer

First, it was the rain. Then, it was the rookie. For the Cincinnati Reds, nothing ever comes easy against the Atlanta Braves.

And even after Barry Larkin's solo homer in the 13th inning Thursday night gave the Reds a 3-2 victory over the Braves, Cincinnati barely had time to celebrate.

After beating Atlanta for only the second time in 16 games and stopping the Braves' six-game winning streak, the Reds had an early-morning flight from Atlanta to Miami. They were scheduled to meet the Florida Marlins in a doubleheader this afternoon.

"We'll go down there and sleep as late as we can, take the bus to the ballpark as late as we can, then get dressed and play two more games," Cincinnati manager Ray Knight said. But scheduled starting times didn't mean much Thursday. The game, slated to start at 7:40 p.m. EDT, was pushed into Friday by a rain delay of 2 hours, 26 minutes at the beginning and four extra innings at the end. It finally ended at 1:47 a.m.

Leading off the 13th, Larkin hit a 2-1 pitch from Joe Borowski (1-1) over the center-field fence, his 24th homer.

"I was just trying to hit it hard and get on base," Larkin said. "I didn't think the ball would carry that well."

In other NL games, Colorado clubbed St. Louis 10-5, Pittsburgh beat Houston 8-6, Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 8-5 and Montreal rallied past San Francisco 5-4.

Cincinnati snapped a three-game losing streak. Hector Carrasco (4-3) earned the win and Jeff Brantley pitched the final inning for his NL-leading 34th save.

Nineteen-year-old outfielder Andrew Jones hit two solo home runs for the Braves off John Smiley. Jones, who began the season at Class A Durham, now has three homers in his brief major league stint and 37 for the season, which includes stops at Double-A Greenville and Triple-A Richmond.

"I was just trying to make contact on a good pitch," Jones said. "I had two good pitches."

Marquis Grissom's leadoff double in the first pushed his hitting streak to 26 games, second in baseball this season to 27 games by San Diego's John Flaherty.

Pirates 8, Astros 6

Houston tied a team record by hitting five home runs, but all of them were solo, so Jeff King's grand slam on Xavier Hernandez's first pitch with one out in the ninth at the Astrodome gave Pittsburgh just its third win in 13 games.

The Astros went ahead 5-4 in the seventh with solo home runs by Craig Biggio, Jeff Bagwell and Bill Spiers off Francisco Cordova.

Billy Wagner (2-1) and Alvin Morman combined to load the bases before King hit his fifth career grand slam and second this season. It was his 25th homer.

Marc Wilkins (3-0) pitched one inning.

Rockies 10, Cardinals 5

Andres Galarraga homered in his first two at-bats at Coors Field, giving him 38, and drove in five runs to take over the major league RBI lead with 120.

Colorado swept the three-game series and improved to 8-1 against St. Louis this year, including 6-0 in Denver.

Colorado starter Roger Bailey (2-2) walked three of the first five Cardinals hitters he faced, but settled down for his first win since July 15.

Mike Morgan (4-7) gave up eight runs in three innings.

Dodgers 8, Phillies 5

Los Angeles center fielder Wayne Kirby preserved the victory with one out in the ninth, the bases loaded and the Dodgers leading 8-4. He made a leaping catch against the wall to turn Scott Rolen's bid for extra bases into a sacrifice fly.

Pedro Astacio won his fourth straight decision with the help of two-run homers by Eric Karros and Raul Mondesi at Dodger Stadium.

Los Angeles staked Astacio (8-7) to an 8-0 lead by battering Mike Williams (4-12).

Todd Worrell got his 32nd save despite needing Kirby's help.

Expos 5, Giants 4

Sherman Obando replaced an ailing

Moises Alou and broke a 4-all tie in the eighth inning with a solo homer off Jose Bautista (3-2) as visiting Montreal rallied from a four-run deficit.

Alou was sidelined with a stomach virus in the fifth.

Jeff Fassero (13-7) scattered 10 hits to win his fifth straight decision.

Barry Bonds aggravated a hamstring injury in the third inning, and his consecutive games played streak, currently at an NL-high 355, is in jeopardy. He was scheduled to undergo an MRI exam today, and his playing status was to be determined after that.

Referee Red Cashion finally sent the teams to their locker rooms with 4:20 left in the third quarter, and then moments later was told by NFL officials that the game was called off for the safety of the players and fans.

SAT results show men outscore women

By DEB RIECHMANN
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Men still outscore women on the Scholastic Assessment Test, but women have nearly closed the gap on the verbal section of the college-entrance test and are gaining ground on the math.

Overall, 1996 college-bound students did better than last year's test-takers, according to test results released Thursday. Math scores improved to levels last seen in the early 1970s, while verbal scores remain well below those of 25 years ago.

But some critics question the results because of recent changes in format and scoring. Others claim it is not a fair indicator of how students, especially women and minorities, will do their first year in college.

More than 1 million members of the Class of 1996 took the test - a one-year increase of nearly 17,000.

The average math score was 508, up from 506 in 1995 and just one point behind the 1972 average math score of 509.

The average verbal score was 505, up from 504 last year but still 25 points below the 1972 average of 530.

While the women's average verbal score of 503 was only four points behind the men, their average math score of 492 trailed the male average by 35 points.

"The gap is narrowing slightly. While women are taking more science and more math courses, they haven't closed the gap yet," said Gretchen Rigol, director of admission and guidance services for the College Board, which administers the test.

Overall, the slightly higher scores reflect more students taking honors courses and classes in calculus, chemistry and physics, according to the board.

College Board President Donald Stewart said he was puzzled about why verbal scores remained below 1970s levels. He speculated that students are watching more television, reading less and spending less time studying English.

Another possibility is that students are not asked to write enough in any of their classes, said Christopher Cross, president of the Council for Basic Education, a Washington-based organization that advocates rigorous liberal arts education.

"Even though the (verbal) score has come back a point, I suspect we will never regain the level we achieved at the high point in 1972," Cross said.

This year's scores are the first to be reported on the SAT's recentered score scale, designed to raise the average score back to 500 and make the scores more statistically sound. Comparison scores also were converted to the new scale.

Jeanne Allen, director of the Center for Education Reform, said the SAT has been rendered useless as a barometer of college freshmen performance because of the change in scoring and 1994 revisions that gave students more time on some parts, let them use calculators and dropped testing on antonyms.

"The changes make it almost impossible for the lay person to determine whether or not children are actually doing better," Ms. Allen said.

Seppy Basili, director of pre-college programs for Kaplan Educational Centers, a New York-based test coaching company, disagreed, saying the scoring changes were statistically valid.

Last year, it was not clear whether SAT scores rose because of changes in the test format, or if students prepared more for the test, he said. Rising scores again this year confirms that students are doing more preparation and getting better marks, he said.

However, Robert Cohen, president of the New York-based Princeton Review, which also coaches test-takers, dismissed the SAT results, saying they "don't tell us anything about American education."

Students from higher-income families often do better on the test because "the language of the SAT is upper-middle class," he said. Higher test scores might actually mean that fewer low-income students, who often are members of minorities, are taking the test because they cannot afford to go to college, he said.

Pamela Zappardino of the National Center for Fair and Open Testing in Cambridge, Mass., said research underscores a gender bias in the SAT. Despite earning better marks in high school and college, girls continue to receive lower SAT scores, she said.

College Board officials denied that the test was geared toward white students from upper-income families. They said nearly half the test-takers have parents who never earned a bachelor's degree.

Sixty-nine percent of college-bound students who took the 1996 SAT were white; 11 percent were black; 9 percent were Asian, Asian-American or Pacific Islander; 8 percent were Hispanic or Latino; and 1 percent were American Indian or Alaskan native.

Kemp reveals his philosophy on several economic issues

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
AP Economics Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - To his backers, the economic ideas of Jack Kemp - from supply-side tax cuts to re-establishing the gold standard - are visionary and dramatic. His detractors call them weird and kooky.

Neither the praise nor the put-downs have kept Kemp from championing his causes. Now, as Bob Dole's running mate, Kemp can certainly bring them renewed attention.

Indeed, the choice of Kemp is seen as an effort by Dole to bolster his support in the Reagan wing of the Republican Party, which has often castigated Dole for being too quick to raise taxes to fight the deficit.

Dole clearly wants to make taxes and the economy the battleground in the fall campaign. The Dole camp, however, has been careful not to define Dole's $548 billion package of tax cuts simply as a return to supply-side economics.

Dole's team also is projecting a big payoff in extra economic growth from the package - a key tenet of supply-side theory. The plan predicts that $147 billion of the money needed to offset the tax cuts will come from higher economic growth.

The Dole campaign has yet to say where it stands on Kemp's other economic ideas. But if his more than two decades in politics are any clue, the No. 2 man on the GOP ticket won't change his economic views no matter how severely some of them may be derided by mainstream economists.

"Kemp has always been creative and provocative," said Allen Sinai, chief global economist at Lehman Brothers in New York. "Some of his ideas are good. Some are not."

The basics of Kemp's economic philosophy:

SUPPLY SIDE

Kemp has been a leading disciple of boosting labor and capital - the "supply" side of the economy - with steep tax cuts. Theory holds that tax cuts can promote an economic boom sufficient to generate enough new tax receipts to offset the revenue lost by lower taxes. Demand-siders, more often called Keynesians, focus on government spending as a way to increase the demand for goods and services and thus boost the economy.

In 1978 Kemp proposed along with Sen. William Roth, R-Del., a bill to reduce tax rates by 33 percent. The idea became a key plank of Reagan's 1980 bid for the White House. Kemp and his allies contend the program triggered the longest peacetime expansion in history and would have balanced the budget if Congress had only gone along with needed spending cuts to offset the defense buildup.

But most private economists reject that notion, charging that supply-siders vastly overstate the benefit of cutting tax rates.

"Supply side was a disaster that we have been digging out of ever since," said Lawrence Chimerine of the Economic Strategy Institute, a Washington think tank supported by corporations and labor unions. "It didn't produce the increase in savings and investment that was predicted, and it gave us the largest deficits in history."

GOLD STANDARD

Kemp has long advocated returning the country to the gold standard, contending that the Nixon administration blundered by breaking the link between U.S. currency and gold in 1971. Kemp argues that inflation would be banished if the dollar's value was tied firmly to the value of gold because the Federal Reserve would be restricted in how much money it could put into circulation.

Mainstream economists call this Kemp proposal highly impractical, saying it would make economic downturns more severe by tying the Fed's hands.

"The gold standard makes no sense. Look what it did for us during the Great Depression," said David Wyss, chief financial economist at DRI-McGraw Hill Inc. "The world has been more stable since we abandoned the gold standard."

ENTERPRISE ZONES

For years Kemp has been a leading promoter of enterprise zones that offer tax breaks and inducements to lure companies back to the nation's inner cities. This Kemp idea has drawn fire from conservatives, who contend the tax breaks represent a government intrusion into the free market, and would be a waste of money on business efforts likely to fail.

However, President Clinton has his own version of this idea, called Empowerment Zones. Six cities earlier this year won the first $100 million in federal aid earmarked for the effort.

FREE TRADE

Kemp has been an unabashed free trader, arguing that American consumers benefit from cheaper goods when trade barriers are removed - and that U.S. companies and workers also reap greater overseas sales as other countries match America's reductions in tariffs.

This is one Kemp idea that enjoys near-universal support among economists and most Republicans, who also heavily favor free trade over protectionism.

But Kemp clashed earlier this year with conservative columnist Pat Buchanan, who during the GOP primaries denounced the free trade agreements negotiated by President Clinton as a bad deal costing millions of American jobs.

Clinton must soothe annoyed Democrats

By SONYA ROSS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - With a few pen strokes, President Clinton not only changed welfare "as we know it," he also altered his relationship, as he knew it, with some Democratic constituencies he'll need to get re-elected.

The president signed a new law Thursday that replaces the 60-year-old policy of guaranteed federal aid for the down-trodden with state-run programs that insist the poor go to work.

He did this while pledging to find ways to fix the law.

But a number of Democratic voting blocs - particularly women - labeled that odious. "This act will leave a moral blot on his presidency and on our nation that will never be forgotten," said Marian Wright Edelman, president of the Children's Defense Fund and a longtime friend of Clinton.

The challenge for Clinton is to soothe annoyed Democrats enough so they will turn out Election Day. Some, however, were too angry Thursday to consider the possibilities.

"We know he is, at best, our option this year, not our answer," said Patricia Ireland, president of National Organization for Women. She predicted that many in Clinton's Democratic base "will refuse to lift a finger or contribute a penny toward his re-election" because he signed the welfare bill.

At the signing ceremony, Clinton promised that "we can change what is wrong" with the new law. "Let's work together in good spirits and good faith to remedy what is wrong

"We are ending welfare as we know it. But I hope this day will be remembered not for what it ended, but for what it began - a new day that offers hope, honors responsibility, rewards work."

Thursday's signing, coupled with health insurance changes and a minimum wage increase, ended a weeklong frenzy of bill signings expected to swell Clinton's popularity in advance of the Democratic National Convention.

Clinton alluded to a package of proposals he will unveil next week to create jobs in high-poverty areas or reward companies that hire welfare recipients. And aides said he wants the Justice Department to determine whether he can grant a grace period for legal immigrants who will lose benefits.

White House spokesman Mike McCurry said Clinton will reach out to "everyone who has got commitments to those who are poor" as he looks to offset the impact of the changes, adding:

"If the president has to live without the support of the National Organization (for) Women in the coming election, he'll just have to pay that price."

Republicans, who pressed the welfare legislation and many of the health reforms, accused Clinton of signing the welfare plan only in the interest of getting re-elected.

Museum will display Pre-Columbian artifacts

By EDUARDO MONTES
Associated Press Writer
EL PASO, Texas (AP) - Pre-Columbian artifacts once destined for a New York art dealer and then, possibly, a private collection are now bound for a museum in the hands of grateful Mexican officials.

The Mexican Consulate on Thursday reclaimed the cache of historic pieces that were seized by U.S. federal agents in 1993.

Maria Dolores Limongi, the El Paso consulate's cultural affairs officer, said their loss would have been grievous.

"It's the destruction of our history and culture," said Limongi, who received the artifacts from U.S. Customs agents.

The artifacts will now be sent to the Mexican National Institute of Anthropology and History, which will place them in a museum, possibly in Ciudad Juarez, across the border from El Paso.

Among the artifacts were clay incense burners and clay and stone figurines, including an intricate representation of a priest in ceremonial garb, complete with a removable mask.

The artifacts were recovered by Drug Enforcement Administration agents searching what were referred to as suspicious packages at the El Paso International Airport.

They were turned over to Customs, which, with the assistance of art experts, determined that 14 of 25 pieces in the shipment intended for an art dealer were genuine artifacts from different cultures and eras in Mexican history.

The artifacts weren't returned until this year because of a lengthy verification process.

The oldest piece, a red clay tripod bowl, is nearly 2,000 years old. The newest, a small jadeite button, is nearly 500 years old, according to Customs.

Experts determined some had come from the Mayan culture that occupied Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula around 600-900 A.D. Others were from the cultures that occupied ancient Veracruz along the gulf coast crescent during roughly the same time.

More came from the cultures that occupied the area around what is now modern-day Jalisco from about 100 A.D.

The entire collection was appraised at a minimum of $15,500. But Limongi said the artifacts had value far beyond that. "This represents the return of our history. They are priceless," she said. Had they not been found in 1993, the artifacts could well have ended up in a private collection.

"They were going to a dealer in New York and he obviously would have put them up for sale," said Customs Special Agent John Peterson. "We're proud to be able to do this today and turn these pieces over to the Mexican government, where they belong."

Customs officials declined to discuss specifics of the investigation that led to the artifacts' discovery, or what happened afterward.

Peterson would say only that there hadn't been enough evidence to charge the shipper or the art dealer, who was not identified, with any crime.

Investigators were not able to determine the source of the artifacts, nor how they were brought into the country, Peterson said.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

A MESSAGE WITH GOOD-BAD TIDINGS!

AHIMAAZ WAS A SON OF ZADOK, THE HIGH PRIEST, IN KING DAVID'S REIGN. HE AND JONATHAN, THE SON OF THE OTHER HIGH PRIEST, ABIATHAR, HAD BEEN MAINTAINING COMMUNICATION BETWEEN KING DAVID'S LOYAL FORCES IN JERUSALEM AND PRINCE ABSALOM'S REBEL FORCES, ENSCONCED DEEP WITHIN THE FORESTS OF EPHRAIM (II SAM. 15:27, 36; 17:20). WHEN ABSALOM'S POORLY DISCIPLINED AND BADLY LED TROOPS WENT DOWN IN A ROUT BEFORE KING DAVID'S SKILLFUL VETERANS AND ABSALOM, HIMSELF, WAS KILLED, AHIMAAZ BEGGED JOAB, DAVID'S COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF, FOR THE HONOR OF RUNNING AHEAD OF THE RETURNING VICTORIOUS TROOPS TO TELL THE KING OF THE VICTORY. (II SAM. 18:19) BUT JOAB REFUSED AHIMAAZ BECAUSE KING DAVID'S SON WAS KILLED IN THE BATTLE! INSTEAD, JOAB TOLD AN ETHIOPIAN TO RUN AND "...TELL THE KING WHAT THOU HAST SEEN." PERHAPS JOAB, A WISE VETERAN, KNEW THAT BEARERS OF BAD TIDINGS WERE OFTEN KILLED ON THE SPOT—AND AHIMAAZ WAS THE SON OF THE HIGH PRIEST, WHEREAS THE ETHIOPIAN WAS A NOBODY, SO...! NEVERTHELESS, AHIMAAZ WAS THE FASTER OF THE TWO BECAUSE AFTER PESTERING JOAB UNTIL HE GOT HIS PERMISSION TO RUN, AHIMAAZ STILL GOT THERE FIRST! BUT HE ONLY TOLD KING DAVID OF THE VICTORY—LEAVING IT TO THE ETHIOPIAN TO TELL THE BAD NEWS! (II SAM. 18:32). LATER IN HIS CAREER, AHIMAAZ WAS THE TAX COLLECTOR FOR KING SOLOMON AND MARRIED ONE OF SOLOMON'S DAUGHTERS, BASMATH. (I KINGS 4:15).

WHAT HAPPENED TO THE ETHIOPIAN RUNNER—OR "THE CUSHI"—A SLANG EXPRESSION USED TO DENOTE AN ETHIOPIAN IN THOSE DAYS—THE BIBLE DOES NOT RECORD!!

It takes more than blind luck to pin down the right home.

Sure, you could go on stumbling through the housing market. Running into dead ends and getting cornered with too little information.

Or you could nail down that new home the easy way. By consulting an experienced real estate agent.

An agent can point out options you may have missed. Get you inside interesting homes that you may never have seen otherwise. Even do a lot of the groundwork, so you don't have to.

Like researching financing packages. Checking through the multiple-listing service for homes that fit your needs -- and your pocketbook. Negotiating with the seller. And arranging for inspections. He or she will even be there at closing.

So instead of forging ahead without knowing what's out there, get some help from an expert. A real estate agent.

Inside The Hereford Brand, you'll find both qualified agents and valuable information about home buying. Everyday, the real estate classifieds list many properties and agents. And The Brand's Sunday housing section examine the latest market trends and housing opportunities.

With the right guide, hitting your mark can be child's play.
